U.S. Will Go Along With Summit Meet At United Nations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House said today the United States will go along if other nations concerned want a summit meeting at the United Nations.

The White House announcement followed British acceptance of Nikita Khrushchev's proposal for a heads of state meeting on the Middle East provided the Soviet premier is willing to hold it within the U. N. Security Council.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said:

"If such a meeting were generally desired, the United States would join in following this order."

Secretary Hagerty made his statement in a statement to the press. He had appeared at the Western powers had been unable to agree on a reply to Khrushchev's summit proposal.

Britain Leads Way

This country, it was known, did not want an emergency big power meeting that might undermine U. N. authority and prestige.

Shortly before the British proposal Hagerty said there had been "no agreement" among the Western powers and no reply to Khrushchev.

Then British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd told the House of Commons that Prime Minister Harold Macmillan would be willing to attend a summit conference if it were held in the Security Council.

That apparently provided this country with something it could accept, Hagerty said:

"A United Nations Security Council meeting of the character suggested by Foreign Minister Lloyd is clearly within the contemplation of the U. N. Charter."

Hagerty also said that a draft of the U. N. reply to Khrushchev "has not been given to the NATO organization in Paris."

World De Altend?

Reporters asked Hagerty if his statement meant that President Eisenhower would attend such a meeting.

"It means just exactly what I said and nothing further," he replied.

Before reading the statement, Hagerty told newsmen he would have nothing further to say about it. But he said "of course" when

Wide Squall Area Headed For Cuba This Morning

MIAMI (UPI)—A wide area of tropical squalls howled through the Caribbean toward Cuba and Jamaica today.

But the Weather Bureau said the 400-mile long disturbance apparently had diminished a little during the night after lashing Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and the Dominican Republic with winds up to 45 miles per hour and torrential rains.

Forecasters estimated the highest winds today were about 30 miles per hour. The disturbance at 8 a. m. EST was stretched across the Caribbean between the Dominican Republic and Cuba. It was moving westward at about 15 to 18 miles per hour.

The Weather Bureau labeled the disturbance as an easterly wave, a long line of squalls. An easterly wave is sometimes the forerunner of a hurricane.

But the Weather Bureau emphasized there were no indications the disturbance would build up into a full-fledged tropical storm or hurricane. A Navy hurricane hunter plane flew through the squall area Monday and reported no signs of a circular motion tell-tale of a tropical storm.

The squalls raked the eastern islands of the Antilles Monday with 45 mile an hour gusts. Parts of southern Puerto Rico were drenched with eight inches of rain in two hours.

Small craft warnings flew during the night from Hispaniola, which includes Haiti and the Dominican Republic, eastward to the northern Leeward Islands.

VAH-3 Honors June Honor Boy Scouts

Heavy Attack Squadron Three at NAS Sanford, played host Sunday to the June Honor Patrol of the Lake Mary Scout Troop 242. The 12 scouts of the "Wolf" Patrol came aboard the Naval Air Station for a guided tour conducted by Lt. (jg) Henry Demers and Scoutmaster, Navy Chief Petty Officer Coleman.

Aboard the station, the Scouts observed parachute packing, a safety equipment demonstration, toured the control tower, and inspected the Jet A3D "Skywarrior" and the propeller-driven F2V "Nep-tune" patrol craft.

All hands were fascinated by the sweeping jet bomber with its nuclear capabilities, and clambered up around and over the aircraft. One of the scouts served as a "downed" aviator in a life vest demonstration to the delight of the other embers "Airdies."

County Planning Stopped By Citizens Group Today

Passive Approach By Commission Adopted

The Tax Study and Planning Commission appointed by the County Commission some weeks ago met last night at the Court House and adopted a letter of recommendation that will be signed by those members in agreement and presented to the Board of County Commissioners when they meet today.

Important Meeting On Civil Defense Scheduled July 24

A meeting termed "Important to every person in Seminole County" will be held Thursday morning at 10 o'clock in the Commissioners' Room of the Sanford City Hall, it was announced yesterday.

Annexation Moved Closer Last Night

Sanford moved a step closer to the annexation of 1.28 square miles to the south and southwest of the city last night when more than 400 people met at the Pinecrest School to discuss "creating a fire district," "annexation to the City of Sanford," or "do nothing at all."

A group of 100 citizens attended a hearing this morning before the Board of Seminole County Commissioners on the feasibility of providing plans for a Seminole County Court House and jail. Nearly all of the 100 voiced disapproval of the use of county funds for providing plans until county commissioners could find an available source of revenue to start construction.

At the outset of the meeting, John Krider, Chairman of the Board of Seminole County Commissioners, pointed out that "the problem is not a new one but was handed to the present commission."

He said "The jail must be replaced since we do not have juvenile or mental facilities to take care of present needs."

"I would not vote for one so vast an increase in taxes unless more people participate. I opposed increase in millage last year and will oppose an increase this year," he said.

"Do we need to plan or just sit here," asked Krider, and added "your county commission is here for one purpose—to serve you."

A Col. Jennings, whose residence, he told the audience in near Goldenrod, pointed out that the jail is deplorable, the Health Unit is more than deplorable.

However, he said, "We are interested in seeing an equal distribution of taxes." Col. Jennings remarked "All you have to do to evade taxes is to come to Seminole County—and they're infiltrating."

Others speaking on the proposed planning for future building included George A. Spear Jr., H. B. Pope and several unidentified speakers who asked to be allowed to make a statement.

The orderly meeting was interspersed by remarks between Chairman Krider and the speakers.

Spear told the meeting "One of the reasons this group is so stirred up is because I understand that at the last meeting there was an effort made to hire an architect to draw up plans and specifications. To advocate spending of such money is not good planning."

Krider told the audience that "We have been told that if plans are not made for a new jail, prisoners will be taken elsewhere to be confined and we will have to foot the bill."

Bralley Odham, one of the last speakers heard during the morning session, said "At this time, with all the other needs, I would be opposed to spending money for plans."

He commended Architect John A. Burton IV for his interest in the community and for work done for which he received no money. Odham said "There are a number of people in this meeting who are opposed to anything."

He pointed out that schools must come first, we must add to our jail, and we must do something about the old folks home.

"I want to commend you for your fortitude in facing up to the problems before us. With your leadership is the way we have progress," said Odham.

Citywide Swimming Meet Scheduled At Municipal Pool

A citywide swimming meet, sponsored by the Sanford Recreation Department, will be held Thursday at the Municipal Swimming Pool.

Ronald W. Perry, recreation director, said that five rules will govern the meet:

- (1) Entry blanks are available at the municipal pool desk.
- (2) All entry blanks must be returned to the municipal pool desk no later than 4 p. m. the day of the meet.
- (3) No individual may enter more than three events.
- (4) No diving contests will be held.
- (5) The three fastest swimmers will determine the winner.

Contestants, said Perry, will be divided into five age groups which are: 10 and under; 11 and 12; 13 and 14; 15 and 16; and 17 and over.

Free style, back stroke, breast stroke, butterfly and individual medley race will be the styles that will be permitted in the meet.

The synchronized swim club, under the direction of Mrs. E. H. Thompson, who will be assisted by Miss Inez Westgate, will also present a show at the pool Thursday night.

THE FIRST ANNUAL REUNION of former Navy and civilian personnel stationed at the Sanford Naval Air Station during the years 1943-44. Veterans came from as far away as California and New Hampshire to renew acquaintances and friendships made 14 years ago. More than 50 former Sanford Naval Air Station people enjoyed a cocktail party and a barbecue during the two-day gathering held at the Mayfair Inn Motel and at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bolly near Lake Monroe. Newspaperman "Preacher" Allen said next year "the crowd will be larger when we come back again for the annual event." (Staff Photos — Composite by Bergstrom)

Adrian's Gowns Are Hit Of Show

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The reviews of "At the Grand" were only so-so about the dramatic merits of this musical play. But there were no lukewarm comments about Adrian's costuming, his first professional venture after an eight-year hiatus.

The musical moves to San Francisco next and eventually to Broadway if all goes well. But while the Los Angeles fashion world is heralding his return, the famous designer is non-committal about his designing future. Eight years ago he shut down his elite Beverly Hills shop after he suffered a severe heart attack. He and his wife, actress Janet Gaynor, moved to Brazil, where he bought a plantation and spent much of his time painting.

Dinosaur National Monument Opens In Glass House

By DAVID DUGAN
United Press International
DINOSAUR NATIONAL MONUMENT, Utah—(UPI)—That bull in a China shop bit is old stuff. But a dinosaur in a glass house is something else again, and officials at this national monument hope the public takes to the idea.

The dinosaur, what is left of them, went on display with a flourish and ceremony with dedication of an ultra-modern visitors' center here. It is all glass walls and a soaring roof that vaguely resembles the lop-sided spread wings of a pre-historic bird. It is the first museum in the country to show the ancient reptiles in what is now their natural habitat—a clay quarry. Along one wall of the center visitors will be able to view bones of the dinosaur in the right where the archeologists found them.

Completed in 1958, the new center culminates a dream that began late in the last century. It was in 1891 that scientific studies proved that a pregnant woman who had never had German measles had been exposed to it. Gamma globulin, which carries the antibodies that bestow immunity to specific diseases.

Two Doctors Urge Exposure Of Young Girls To Measles

By DELOS SMITH
UPI Science Editor
NEW YORK (UPI)—In the 17 years since medical science first realized it is dangerous for expectant mothers to catch German measles, it has discovered no better way of avoiding the danger than exposing females to the disease when they are children.

On the vital question of what to do, they recommended large injections of gamma globulin where there was the slightest suspicion that a pregnant woman who had never had German measles had been exposed to it. Gamma globulin is the fraction of the blood which carries the antibodies that bestow immunity to specific diseases.

But "the best method" of prevention is the long-range one, they continued, and that is "the deliberate exposure of young girls" to the virus because "one attack of this benign disease in childhood is generally followed by immunity."

Smokes, Drinks, Cancer May Be a Tragic Trio

By NORMAN M. BUNNING, M.D.
YOU have read a lot, I know, about smoking and cancer. Now let's add another factor to this discussion—alcohol. It has been shown that there is a high correlation between heavy consumption of alcohol, when combined with heavy smoking, and development of cancer of the oral cavity and larynx.

Dr. Ernest L. Wynder recently told a meeting of the American Cancer Society that for the heavy smoker who consistently drinks seven or more "shots" of hard liquor each day, the risk of developing these cancers is 10 times as great for the person who smokes the same amount but drinks only moderately or not at all. Cancer of the oral cavity, incidentally, includes the tongue, gums, buccal mucosa, palate, tonsils and pharynx.

War Unlikely - Danger Now Russia's Demand For Retreat

It is risky to predict that the Soviet leadership will not resort to force in a crisis. But this caution in the reader's mind we should add the guess that the Kremlin will go all-out in retaliation for the landing of American Marines in Lebanon. War now in the Middle East does not seem to be an option which the Kremlin wants. The United States would stand to lose far more than it could gain by a big war.

However, we think, will scream and shout to make all of the propaganda it can. "Volunteers" may be dispatched to the Middle East, but most likely these will be American National technicians, perhaps American engineers, might be used to help the Arab Communists will try to get the Arab masses to action, even to violence. The Russians will do or try to get everything possible — but short of war — to engineer or pressure an American retreat.

The Kremlin is seeking to line up an Afro-Asian bloc, plus what European powers it can muster, to put pressure on the United States for withdrawal or for a compromise that will, in substance, be a victory for Khrushchev and Nasser. Russian Communists also will work diligently to split opinion in Western countries, including the United States.

We believe that most Americans will be on guard for this. We hope that the leaders of our government will be especially on guard. The great dangers are those outlined above.

The great present danger is not war. If the Russians want war, there will be war, regardless of whether we land Marines or remain passive in the face of threats to democratic countries. The Russians make their own excuses for war.

The Five Great U.S. Senators

When the United States Senate decided to honor its great members of the past, it charged a bipartisan committee with the task of selecting five men for this distinction. Last year the committee, after diligent research and the receipt of much scholarly advice, presented these names: Henry Clay, Daniel Webster, John C. Calhoun, Robert La Follette Sr., and Robert A. Taft.

Who is to say that these were the "great" senators? The committee made no such claim, but contented itself with calling them the "five outstanding senators of the past." Certainly they were that. And one of the most interesting questions about these five remarkable men concerns the qualities they had in common.

Holmes Alexander, a veteran Washington correspondent and author, takes up this question in his new book, "The Famous Five." All of them, he finds, were outstanding for their political courage, their great intellectual capacity, their skill as parliamentarians, their vigor in party leadership. All five enjoyed the admiration of fellow senators; all except Taft were orators of rare ability.

Every one of the five, Alexander notes, tried more or less diligently to become president of the United States. Not one achieved that highest office, though it could be well argued that in several instances lesser men than they did reach the White House. The characteristics that distinguished these five notable senators, and the possible reasons for their failure to become president—reasons which may not be entirely to the credit of the electorate—are worth mulling over in this era of ghost-written speeches and false fronts in politics.

Federal Deficit Danger

Members of Congress who believe that state and local governments should handle all possible problems—instead of running to a giant federal bureaucracy in Washington—are opposing pending legislation to authorize $2 billion of federal loans to finance local improvements.

It is heartwarming perhaps to many Americans to note that these Congressmen are alarmed over the prospective huge federal deficit—which would be substantially swollen by the proposed legislation—and by increasing federal domination of local affairs.

Perhaps they think that it is particularly unwise to propose such expenditures at a time when Federal finances are already deep in the red. They are regarding the legislation as the height of fiscal irresponsibility and porkbarrel boondoggling at its worst.

One of the leading critics of the bill puts it this way: "Panic button politics at its worst" and "the worst measure offered so far this year."

We notice that House debate on the measure known as the community facilities bill is expected soon. It was first proposed in the Senate early in the session as an anti-depression measure.

The arguments we can advance against the legislation include these: It offers boundless opportunities for taxing and taxing, spending and spending, and thus is a joy to the hearts of big government promoters of New Deal and Fair Deal vintage.

There's no use opening up the avenues of additional taxing when citizens now are strapped to the wall with the heavy load of levies. The hue and cry now is for "lightening the load" on the taxpayer.

And, too, such a bill gives those who want a heavier hand in local government an opportunity to legislate our community needs from a national and central office in Washington.

We hope that the opposition to such bills becomes stronger and stronger.

Fair Developing Into Cold War Battleground

By ROBERT S. MUSEL
 United Press International

BRUSSELS (UPI)—Beneath the glitter and the gaiety, the fairy-land pavilions and the rainbow lights, the Brussels World's Fair has developed into a major battleground of the cold war.

On both sides of the Iron Curtain experts are trying to assess who is ahead at this point of the three-month struggle, in which the United States and Russia are in direct and open competition for one of the few times since the end of the wartime partnership.

This is summing-up week, the half-way mark in the fair which opened April 17. Gross admissions have passed 17,000,000, with the holiday half of the fair yet to come. So the final total in October may be near 40,000,000.

Both nations have recognized in this multitude a unique chance to promote good will and public relations on a mammoth scale. The question they have been asking themselves this week is: How well have we suited it?

Can't Please Everyone

With characteristic lack of guile the United States is conducting its summing-up mostly in public. Congressmen have attacked the American exhibit as incomplete, misleading or inept. American tourists have complained so often there is a wry saying around the American pavilion: Scratch a taxpayer and you'll find a critic.

President Eisenhower aaked George V. Allen of the U.S. Information Agency to fly over for a look. He liked most of what he saw. Former President Hoover, who used to deal with fairs as a federal officer, came over and said the U.S. display was "magnificent."

Defenders and detractors made such a hullabaloo they missed the cries of anguish from the Soviet Pavilion where Russia, too, was conducting a midway clinic.

A few days ago a glib member of the Soviet staff complained privately, "You can't satisfy everybody." It might have been coincidence that a few hours earlier Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan had departed for the Kremlin after some reportedly harsh criticism of the Sputnik exhibit.

Architectures Differ

This proud centerpiece of the Soviet building—a real Sputnik which was to have gone up if the first failed to orbit, and a full scale model of Sputnik Two—is displayed completely without imagination.

Furthermore Russian tourists seem to be just as critical—though not aggressively so—as American tourists.

The Russian building is a glass and steel rectangle the size of an armory. American architect Edward A. Stone fashioned for the U.S. a beautiful circular building, and there is not the slightest doubt that architecturally the American Pavilion over-whelms the Russian building. Even Russian technicians have been heard admitting this many times.

But the exhibits are more important propaganda than the buildings. Russia has poured 30 million dollars into hammering home the following message instantly and bluntly to whoever crosses its threshold:

Forty-five years ago Russia was a land of wooden plows; today it plowens the space. All over the vast hall the theme of the great advance is repeated—1913 against 1958—in housing, in education, in industry and the arts.

Full The Crowd

But Brussels is the soft sell, and the one million visitors who come here more than once seem to find the American Pavilion more rewarding than the Russian. It has three of the biggest crowd pullers at the fair—an hourly display of inexpensive fashions by beautiful models, "Cinemas," a circular screen color film of a trip across the United States, and American voting machines.

The American Pavilion is the only one open after 7 p.m.—till 11 p.m. It is the only one with free washrooms—and don't think there isn't propaganda value in that. It has the most guides—200 young men and women from every state in the union, all linguists. Visitors enjoy talking with them—whereas it is difficult to find anyone to explain something in the Russian Pavilion.

Since the fair opened, United Press international correspondents have spoken to hundreds of tourists from many lands about the Russian-U.S. rivalry. From these talks it appears that women never always prefer the American Pavilion to the Russian. Farmers, laborers and technicians are more impressed with the Soviet display. White collar workers, students and professional men prefer the American layout.

It's Neck And Neck

It is difficult to find unbiased visitors since even many Swedes and Swiss have East or West sympathies. But one neutral, Andre Berger, press attache of the Swiss exhibit, said: "I don't understand the criticism of the American Pavilion. It's the most beautiful of them all and better than the Russian Pavilion, inside and out."

The American and the Russian pavilions are drawing two and three times as many people a day as any other popular exhibit—such as the British, Dutch, Swiss and Czech.

Political Underflow

By LYLE C. WELSON
 United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The political underflow:

Political developments in California and New York worry Nixon-for-president backers. The vice president is far in front of the pack for the 1960 Republican presidential nomination. He could be hurt, however, if Democrat Pat Brown beats Republican William F. Knowland for governor of California in November, which is likely to happen. The remarkable vigor and achievements so far of Nelson A. Rockefeller's campaign for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in New York also is bad news for Nixon. As governor of New York, Rockefeller would control the state's 1960 nominating convention delegation. It is assumed that he might oppose Nixon.

COMPLAINER'S CAR TAGGED

CHICAGO (UPI)—Alderman Charles H. Weber's face is slightly red.

After he had complained to police that private vehicles on Daley parkway were hampering the work of street cleaners, officers began ticketing all illegally parked autos in the area. Among the cars tagged was Weber's big white Cadillac.

TIRED OF SACK LOOK

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Eleanor Moses, Miss Alaska in the Miss Universe contest to be held at Long Beach, says she doesn't go for the sack look.

The 30-year-old Athabaskan Indian from Fairbanks, who paused here long enough to buy a kimono, explained: "My people have been wearing sack dresses for generations. The kimono is prettier."

GOOD BARGAINING POINT

TOKYO (UPI)—Ball boy Yoshio Hatadome has a real selling point to help his ambition to become a player with the Inatsumi Middle School baseball team in Fukuoka Prefecture.

Yoshio trained his two shepherd dogs to retrieve lost balls and now has accumulated 500. He says he will give all of them to the team the day he is taken on as a regular.

IT MEANS STOP

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)—It will be four days in the cooler for Manuel Fernandez, who was unable to pay a $30 fine levied on him for running through a red light on his bicycle.

United Press International correspondents, spot checking visitors to each pavilion, found a slightly larger number in favor of the American display. What it appears to add up to at this halfway mark is that at Brussels it's a neck and neck East-West race with the next three months telling the story.

Many Republicans worry out loud about the rising tide of labor influence and money in U.S. politics; wish they could get some help from the Justice Department and the White House to curb the union leaders. Their big, bad wolf, Walter P. Reuther.

Best current news for Republicans is the word from Pennsylvania. The well-informed believe now that they can elect Republican Arthur W. McGeorge to the governorship. His Democratic opponent is Pittsburgh's Mayor David L. Lawrence.

The liberal-conservative split in the Democratic party is bigger and angrier than the conser-

MRS. JOHN WALTER LATTNER

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Ellen Lyon, John W. Lattner

Miss Frances Ellen Lyon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Lyon, and John Walter Lattner, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Lattner of Fort Pierce, were married Saturday, July 19, at 4 p. m.

The Rev. A. G. McInnis officiated at the double-ring ceremony which was held at the bride's parents' home, 2018 Hibiscus Court, which was decorated with large white floral arrangements.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a breath-taking gown of lace and net over tulle. The charmingly lace-trimmed bodice, fashioned with cap sleeves and a Sabrina neckline outlined with iridescent sequins led to the voluminous, ballerina-length skirt of tulle. Her finger tip veil of silk illusion was held in place by a cap of seed-pearls and sequin trimmings.

Wearing matching mitts, the bride carried a bouquet of white carnations entwined with ropes of tiny seed pearls.

Mrs. E. C. Johnson, of Jacksonville, who was chosen as the matron-of-honor, wore a dress of delicate pink silk. The ballerina-length gown featured a cummerbund which was caught into a bow in the back. She wore a hat of matching silk with a nylon net veil and she carried a bouquet of deep pink carnations.

Richard David Lattner, of Fort Pierce, acted as his brother's best man.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the Lyon home. Those attending were relatives and out-of-town guests.

Mrs. John W. Lattner chose to wear as her going away outfit a

Cassini Calls Parisian Styles Ridiculous, Fads

By Gay Paulley UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Let's have American-designed clothes for the American woman and a laissez-faire policy toward any French man who conceals curves, says designer Oleg Cassini.

Cassini takes several digs at Parisian designers and those in the United States who copy their "ridiculous" fashions. He is opposed to any design which obliterates "feminine allure by camouflaging it under the guise of a 'balloon' or a reference to one popular silhouette from abroad.

"Anything that takes away from the contours of the body must be condemned as a short-lived fad," said the designer in a recorded talk for use with the opening of his fall collection. Cassini is one of 30 designer members of the couture group of the New York Dress Institute previewing new fashions for visiting reporters this week.

Taloni at Home "I feel there is as much talent here as abroad," said Cassini, whose own special knack is in clothes with both elegance and earthy appeal.

"Very few French designers can design for their own trade so they are trying to impress the American market, he added. "What I didn't like about the French designs was: The body of the woman was not in evidence, and styles were inspired by the past—like copying the design of an old car when a new car is being created."

Many of Cassini's daytime dresses follow the general trend to a high waistline, and gentry would the body to the hem. He introduced the "angelique" silhouette in daytime costumes—a jacket styled like a cutaway, topping a simple dress. The designer likes opulence of fabric for even—turquoise lace over jeweled satin, for instance. Or black chiffon over a flower-patterned black and white organza, and black chantilly lace over nude crepe.

Other Collections Jane Derby is another designer with a mind of her own. She produces conservative, highly wearable clothes and for daytime this season stresses the everything goes together look. Her suits come with coordinated, over-biouse or dress top. Typical is one in navy supported wool, with blue patterned of white overbiouse and the same chabilla lining for the soft jacket.

Highlights of other collections shown Thursday. George Carmel—Suit jackets are short, worn with slim skirts; many of the suits have belts, placed high to accent the empire waist.

Ben Reig—A whole bevy of sheath-like evening gowns, one of wool mesh and an overall scroll embroidery of gold and jewelling. Reig also featured plaid for formal wear—a long evening coat of plaid wool topped a white satin sheath.

Maurice Rentner—Plenty of back interest in suits and dresses. Suit jackets have panel backs, a fitted front and loose back, or the blouse cut.

The soiled upholstery of a car, if it's currently popular plastic, can be cleaned by sponging with a solution of three tablespoons of val soda concentrate per quart of water. Rinse and dry.

The Rainbow girls, under the supervision of their Mother Advisor, Kathleen Reynolds, served the dinner and furnished entertainment following the meal.

The Chapter opened its meeting at 8 p. m. with Mrs. Mae Sheppard, Worthy Matron, presiding. In addition to the Worthy Grand Matron, other distinguished guests included Mrs. Mae T. Donovan, Past Grand Matron and Past Grand Secretary; Robert Sanford, Past Grand Patron; Mrs. Virginia Biles, Grand Master; Mrs. Helen Moss, Grand Martha; Marvin Alton, Associate Grand Patron; Mrs. Martha Lyons, Mrs. Ruth Huber, and Mrs. Annie Sanford, Past Grand Chaplains.

Mrs. Murray Jarvis, Past Grand Electa; Mrs. Irene Friserson, Grand Instructor of District 24; Mrs. Mildred Tingle, Grand Representative to New Hampshire; Mrs. Grace Sanford, Grand Representative to Puerto Rico, and Mrs. Mabel Laub, chairman of the Masonic Home Fund.

The lights in the Chapter room dimmed and during the ceremony which followed Mrs. Freda McEwen was presented with a string of pearls and she became a Seminole sister. The courtesy was concluded by the singing of "Oh the Star Shines Tonight in All Its Glory."

After the Worthy Grand Matron was presented with gifts from Mrs. Mae Sheppard and Mrs. Mary Eula Holtselaw, president of the Past Matrons Club, she presented a fifty-year membership pin to Mrs. Helen Bruce of DeBary.

After an address by the honored guest, the degrees of the Order were conferred on Mrs. Betty Emmert and Miss Margaret Marie Ellison.

Delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Millie Schabel and her committee immediately following the meeting.

ALL DRESSED UP FOR THE BACKYARD BARBECUE! Everything tastes better when it's cooked outdoors, doesn't it? And now that ranch houses and patios are dotting the landscape in all the 48 states the "cook-out" is definitely part of the American way of life. Dad likes to dramatize his culinary skill—put on a real act when he's grilling those steaks. That means apron, chef's hat, protective mitt—the works! He's the center of the stage, of course (doesn't he always insist on it?) but supporting members of the cast are Mom and the kids. This year's backyard Barbecue is given real status by fabrics designed especially for it. See what we mean in the photograph above—aprons for everybody, mitts, pot holders, tablecloth, napkins—all done in gay red, white, and blue—navy sailcloth with striped panels and inserts. Not expensive!

Pepper, Holland Bid For Hillsborough Vote

TAMPA (UPI)—Democratic primary foe Claude E. Pepper and Sen. Howard H. Holland worked both sides of the street here today in a vigorous bid for Hillsborough County's heavy industrial vote.

Pepper cranked up his "hard sell" vote campaign at a sleepy 8 a. m. breakfast session, two hours before Holland arrived here from Boston for a similar meeting with campaign advisers.

Pepper's handshaking itinerary carried him to each of Tampa's famed cigar and tobacco factories for face to face meetings with workers.

He topped his morning stumping with a luncheon at Las Nevadas Restaurant in the heart of predominantly Latin Ybor City, then rushed to make a brief local television appearance.

Holland, in the hands of his Hillsborough County campaign managers, visited city officials and met with his supporters throughout the city before evening back to Bayshore today to put finishing touches on a Wednesday night television talk.

Holland will deliver his TV talk on a state-wide hookup (WFLA-TV) here at 8:30 p. m. The message will be telecast to nine major Florida cities and also will be beamed over a broad area by radio.

It will be the first of two major addresses by Holland this week.

By E.M. Barker

WHAT WAS HAPPENING? ... The girl behind the desk in the small hotel called to Miss Constance as she entered the lobby and started across the lobby. "Oh, Miss! There was a man in here a while ago asking for you. A Captain John Collins from Washington. He's in Florida again with his wife and two boys. He says you came in, and he said to go on up."

CHAPTER 5 ... "GLAD HE'S HERE," said the girl behind the desk. "You'd better keep your scrub longhorns home if you don't want them shot by his Uncle Nick."

CHAPTER 6 ... "One of them was certainly on his land," Martha insisted. "That's how I happened to fall in the creek. He was fighting a big ferret and I stopped to watch on a narrow trail. My horse got scared and threw me and I rolled down the hill into the creek."

CHAPTER 7 ... "You damn well better!" said the old lady shortly. "And don't swear me like that again!"

THE PROPOSED SEMINOLE COUNTY HEALTH CENTER sketch presented yesterday to the Board of Seminole County Commissioners. Cost of construction and furnishing the building was estimated at $100,000. It contains approximately 20 rooms. Sanford Architect Hal Harris made the presentation. Location of the center was proposed for an area directly to the rear of the present Seminole County Court House.

Commission Approves Further Investigation Of Proposed Seminole County Health Center

A Seminole County Health Center was proposed at yesterday's meeting of the Board of Seminole County Commissioners. Dr. Terry Bird told the commissioners, before preliminary plans and sketches were presented, that "I have been working on these plans for a long time."

Hal Harris, local architect, presented a sketch of a proposed Seminole County Health Center and a preliminary floor plan of the building and its offices. The 20-room center "could be built and equipped for $100,000," Harris told the commissioners. "If you need it you ought to put the tax on and get it," Dr. Bird told the commissioners as they considered the plans submitted by Harris.

Harris explained that the cost included construction and complete equipment including x-ray machines and office furniture. Commission Chairman John Krier stated "This is serious enough for the commission to take some action on."

Commissioner Lawrence Swoford proposed that Chairman Krier "proceed to see if money is available through the Hill-Burton Act and if Seminole County is eligible." The proposal was unanimously approved by the board of commissioners. Architect Harris provided forms through which additional information could be obtained on available money and other details concerning the federal share of the construction plus the fact that allowance would be made for property on which the center would be built.

Harris proposed that the building be placed on county property immediately to the rear of the Seminole County Court House and across from the municipal parking lot.

Holland-Pepper Step Up Campaign Tempo

TAMPA (UPI)—The Holland-Pepper campaign for the Democratic senatorial nomination built up its promised heat today as both candidates squared off in an all-out drive for votes. Sen. Spessard L. Holland, seeking his third six-year term in Washington, makes his first major statewide address of the campaign tonight on a television-radio hookup of nine large cities. He will spend the day at Bartow putting finishing touches on the speech, arriving here just before air time at 8:30 p. m. EST. Claude Pepper, conducting another in his series of seemingly tireless handshaking tours, embarked on a round of Pinellas County across Tampa Bay. He opened with a visit to Tarpon Springs, then planned to hit Palm Harbor, Dunedin, Clearwater, Largo, the Gulf Beaches and wind up at St. Petersburg. Receptions were planned at Clearwater and St. Petersburg.

Both candidates struck major blows against each other here Tuesday. Holland got in the first blast. He accused Pepper, during his 11 years in the Senate of allying himself with forces that would break down "Southern tradition." Pepper, Holland charged, voted for the Dixie hated Fair Employment practice Commission FEPC proposal and opposed Marshall Plan aid to save Greece and Turkey from Communism. He said Pepper proposed instead to spend "25 billion dollars through the United Nations in aid to all countries, including the Russian satellites."

Holland said he considered it "inconceivable" that Florida voters will return Pepper to Washington on the basis of Pepper's 14-year record in the Senate. Pepper said he particularly wants to install "a lasting and effective program of mutual assistance" for Latin America. If elected, he said he would tour Latin America to "meet the people."

Two automobiles, reported to be drag racing on West First St. two miles west of Sanford on State Road 46, ended up in a three-car collision shortly before 4:30 yesterday afternoon. Taken to Seminole Memorial Hospital were Henry Cecil Lee, 19, of Rt. 1, Box 169, Sanford, driver of one of the cars reported racing and Ralph W. Hartman, 32, operator of a Sanford Herald route.

Lee is said to have a bad head injury and lacerations of both shoulders. Hartman was not injured according to x-rays and examinations. A number of witnesses are reported to have seen the racing cars traveling west in both lanes of the highway. One witness said "They were traveling at a high rate of speed estimated to be over 75-miles-per hour. The accident occurred in a 40-mile-an-hour zone, said Florida Highway Patrolman J. L. Sikes who investigated the accident. Lee, driving a 1954 Buick sedan, went to the left of Hartman's panel truck which moments before had backed into the highway after delivering a paper, and struck the left front fender. Lee's car ricocheted to the left into a ditch, skidded and turned over possibly end over end and then rolled for a distance of 250 feet from the point of impact before stopping. Robert E. Burns, 24, a Navy man of 3516 Orlando Drive, operating a 1956 Chevrolet went to the right of Hartman's panel truck and into the ditch for a distance of 144 feet before smashing sideways into a telephone pole. Patrolman Sikes said that the Buick automobile was a total loss with damage estimated at $1,500. Damage to the Chevrolet was estimated at $700. Hartman's 1947 Ford panel truck was a total loss, he said.
