Lawsuit filed against county

SANFORD — A $5 million class-action lawsuit has been filed against Seminole County and several staffers, alleging they have conspired to blackmail landowners into giving up land in return for development approvals.
The lawsuit was filed by attorney Mike Jones last week in Seminole County Circuit Court by Ashton Inc., developers of a commercial project on Tuskawilla Road, known as "Tusca-Loma." The lawsuit alleged assistant county attorney Lonnie Groot, development review manager Glenn Semanistn and current planning manager John Dwyer conspired to "extort" land for future road right of way before granting Chevron Inc. rights to occupy a portion of the development.
The lawsuit was filed on behalf of property owners who Ashton alleges were also required to give up land without compensation in return for development rights. Ashton alleged such actions were taken without the approval of county commissioners and staff "intentionally and maliciously" conspired against property owners.
County Attorney Bob McMillan had no comment on the suit, which was served Thursday. County officials have said previously developers are asked to give them road land, but not forced to do so. Jones is seeking depositions from former county commissioners Fred Streetman, Sandra Glenn, Barbara Christensen and Bill Kirchhoff. Also, Jones is seeking a deposition from former county administrator Ken Hooper.

Galileo remains jammed
PASADENA, Calif. — NASA failed in its final attempt to open the jammed main antenna on the Galileo spacecraft and will have to settle for a trickle of data from Jupiter.
Engineers on Wednesday tripled the rate at which Galileo spins, saying there was a slim chance the centrifugal force might open the umbrella-shaped antenna. It didn't.
"We didn't think it would work, but we had to be sure," said Bill O'Neil, manager of the $1.4 billion project at NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory.
NASA had given up any real hope of freeing the 16-foot-wide antenna dish in January after thumping it 13,320 times by turning its motors on and off.

Razor found in burger
CLAY, N.Y. — A Burger King employee put a razor blade in a hamburger in the hope his bosses would get blamed and he'd get a shot at a promotion, police said.
Jason A. Loomis, 18, was charged Thursday with product tampering and reckless endangerment. A customer discovered the blade Feb. 25 when she opened a Whopper to remove the onions. She was not hurt.
Loomis said that he tossed the blade from a grill-cleaning scraper toward the garbage, but that it landed in a container of lettuce and ended up in a Whopper, and he decided not to remove it, police said.

Make room for courts

Expand south or double size here

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County consultants recommend more than doubling the size of the Seminole County Courthouse downtown to provide room for more judges and clerks into the next century, but commissioner Bob Sturm insists on the expansion being built in a south-county location.

"It's time to focus on accommodating the greatest number of people," said Sturm. "Why not explore other court spaces in other parts of the county? Why does it have to be built in Sanford?"

Consultants revealed initial details of their $200,000 space study to commissioners Thursday.

The demands of a growing population and attendant county staff point the way to a $30 million courthouse expansion, construction of a consolidated Sheriff's Office-Public Safety Department facility in Five Points and the potential to relocate the Public Works Department operations from Five Points to some more southerly location, consultants reported.

The review was not completed and more work sessions will be scheduled to enable commissioners to give consultants final directions. Tentative dates are March 30 and April 15 or 16.

Several commissioners said they found the

Recommended

Here's some of the recommendations of county office space consultants in a $200,000 study:
County Services Building: keeping indefinitely for county administrative functions; moving constitutional officers such as the tax collector to the county courthouse. Reconfiguring offices into more cohesive sections. Improving entrance lobby and signage. Costs: undetermined.

County Courthouse: adding a 170,000 square-foot, five-story expansion east of southern courthouse wing. The 31-year-old former jail and court facilities building would be razed and the city parking lot would be acquired for the project. A parking lot, possibly multi-story would be built on the site. Cost: $30 million, estimated.

Five Points: retained and reconfigured to accommodate a 90,000 square-foot Sheriff's Office-Public Safety administrative office building. The Sheriff's Office in the leased Building 310 at the city airport would be abandoned. The county historical museum would be moved to downtown Sanford, possibly near the school museum. Public Works offices would be removed and consolidated at an undetermined southern-county site. New land may be acquired to accommodate the changes. Cost: undetermined.

Thursday, County Commissioner Bob Sturm argued against expanding the current Seminole County Courthouse in downtown Sanford and instead, building a separate facility somewhere in the southern areas of the county.

Bank heists linked

LONGWOOD — A Longwood man, arrested for robbing two area banks, had been living in his car prior to being arrested, his mother said.

His mother, who did not want to give her name, said she had no comment other than to say that James L. Capozzi Jr. had been arrested and that he did not live at 104 Citrus Tree Lane in Longwood as he has told investigators.

Capozzi, who was arrested by Altamonte Springs Police in connection with the robbery of the Barnett Bank branch on State Road 434 between Altamonte Springs and Longwood, also allegedly robbed the First Union Bank on U.S. Highway 17-92 in Longwood.

According to Mark Anderson, public information officer for the Altamonte Springs Police, Capozzi was taken into custody shortly after he allegedly robbed the Barnett Bank.

Anderson said that Altamonte Springs officers spotted a vehicle that matched the description given by bank employees as that driven by the robber. He said the officer engaged his emergency

Political peek behind picking police chief

By NICK PFEIFAU

SANFORD — Two city commissioners who continue pressing to have Acting Police Chief Ralph Russell named permanently to the position say they lobbied a Civil Service Board member who denies it.

The mayor and members of the Civil Service Board are opposed to naming Russell police chief because he lacks a four year college degree.

"I don't recall discussing the matter with either commissioner."
-Dave Farr

The current requirement demands a candidate have the degree plus a minimum of five years experience. Russell has a two year degree but over 10 years of experience.

After the Civil Service Board voted to refuse to reduce the college requirements, the Sanford City Commission voted to consider transferring jurisdiction over the Police Chief position, along with those of the Fire Chief and City Clerk, from the board to the commission. The vote was four to one. Mayor Bettye Smith cast the lone negative vote.

Field work and staking begin at site of mall

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Initial engineering development and field work on the Seminole Towne Center Mall began this week with staking of the site, but the start of large scale work on the development is still awaiting completion of financial arrangements.

Although an interlocal agreement which allows for major work to begin was scheduled for Monday night's Sanford city commission meeting, the matter was postponed.

"We should hold this until the next commission meeting," City Manager Bill Simmons suggested, "until the TIF (Tax Increment Financing) financing arrangements have been completed."

In a letter sent to the commission dated March 1, Chuck Schneider, civil engineer with developer Melvin Simon and Associates, had indicated bids for the project were to have been opened on March 3, and awarded as soon as possible. "We intend to start work the week of March 8," he had said.

The interlocal agreement will require approval of the city, as well as Seminole County, and the city commission sitting as a separate entity known as the Seminole Towne Center Community Redevelopment Agency.

During Monday night's meeting however, the commission did approve recommendations that will allow initial work to get underway, basically dealing with field work

Florida, Russia mix oranges 'n apples

BRADENTON — Who says you can't mix apples and oranges?

A Florida businessman says that's just what he's doing. He is working on a deal to ship orange juice to Russia and get apple juice as payment.

"The whole market is new and the reception in Russia has been very enthusiastic," said Herbert Fiss, vice president of Florida's Choice Juice & Beverage Co.

Fiss said Thursday his barter system is in the start-up stage. The first shipment of 35,000 liters of orange juice left a Florida plant March 4 and is expected in Russia by the end of the month.

Fiss was an importer of juice concentrates from Latin America before co-founding the company last year with Charles Tate of Winter Haven, a former chief financial officer for Orange-co, a Polk County-based grower and processor, and a former Procter & Gamble executive.

Ambassador's sentence reduced

MIAMI — A Panamanian ambassador-turned-trafficker who testified against Manuel Noriega had his sentence reduced for his cooperation and will leave prison soon, his attorney said.

Ricardo Bilonick, 46, haggled at his June 1992 sentencing he had covered up prosecutors' mistakes in the Noriega case and helped the Republican Party with his negotiation.

He was serving a four-year sentence as part of a plea bargain, but last week U.S. District Judge William Hoewler, at the request of federal prosecutors, lopped off a year.

"I expect his parole will come through in July or August," his attorney, Daniel Forman, said Thursday.

He is currently held at the Metropolitan Correctional Center outside Miami, as is Noriega, who was convicted on eight counts and is serving a 40-year prison sentence.

11 escaped refugees returned

QUANTANAMO NAVAL BASE, Cuba — Eleven of the Haitian refugees being detained at a Naval Base here escaped from their compound but were returned shortly afterwards, military officials said.

There are now 252 Haitian men, women and children on the base in Cuba. The Haitians have qualified for political refugee status, but have been refused entry in the United States because many have tested positive for the AIDS virus.

A hunger strike in varying degrees began early last month by the detainees continues. The military says neither the dozen hardcore hunger strikers nor any of the other detainees are in a life-threatening situation.

Nine of the escaped detainees were located near the air terminal early Thursday and the other two were found over on the Naval Station side, said Cmdr. Gordon Hume, spokesman for the U.S. Atlantic Command in Norfolk, Va.

3 gunmen sought in teen-ager killing

PENSACOLA — Three gunmen were sought by police in the killing of a teen-ager and the shooting of another at an apartment complex.

Jerall McCants, 16, was killed when masked men burst into a unit at the Pensacola Village apartments, police said Thursday. Jamar Johnson, also 16, who was in the same apartment, was wounded.

"It has all the characteristics of a drug-related shooting," said police Sgt. B.J. Barton. "From what I understand, there were a great deal of shots."

Johnson was listed in critical condition at Sacred Heart Hospital. Police Sgt. Jerry Potts said it appeared the boy had been shot at least 10 times with a semiautomatic weapon.

Students released on rape charges

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — Two University of South Carolina students on spring break have been released on charges they raped a student from Virginia Polytechnic Institute & State University aboard a houseboat, authorities said.

Richard Cyphers, 23, and Daryl Norman, 22, were charged Wednesday with one count each of second-degree sexual battery of the 20-year-old woman, and Monroe County Judge Susan Vernon released them pending trial.

Under terms of their release, the pair must report twice a day to a pretrial program monitor, are prohibited from drinking alcohol and must have no contact with the victim.

The alleged victim and a friend met Cyphers and Norman in the early morning hours on Duval Street, this resort city's most popular strip of nightspots, according to police Detective Ken Hock.

All four students said they had been drinking. The women said they accepted a ride to their hotel from Norman and Cyphers, who suggested a stop first at the houseboat they were renting, Hock said.

According to police reports, Norman and the alleged victim went to the upper deck of the houseboat, where Norman allegedly forced her to have sex.

Study shows students learn more when mixed in groups

By Associated Press

GAINESVILLE — Higher test scores and improved social skills were found when students of all ability levels were mixed to learn math in groups, a study of sixth-graders showed.

University of Florida doctoral student Jennifer Harrison looked at 160 students of all ability levels who were taught as a single group.

The youngsters were given a challenging curriculum and encouraged to interact with each other and the teacher. Students also worked with computers once or twice a week.

When students were tested at the end of the school year, their mean score had increased by almost 20 points, comparable to increases seen in advanced classes.

"We need to appreciate the advantages that go along with mixed-ability grouping," Ms. Harrison said.

The standard way of teaching math by tracking or ability groups is coming under increasing attack from teachers and such groups as the National Education Association and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Ms. Harrison and others say separating students on the basis of perceived ability can stigmatize children and lead to low self-esteem and behavioral problems.

"It's scary, because this can happen in kindergarten," she said. "Somebody judges and says, 'I'm sorry, you're going to be placed in a low-level class.' Too often, kids stay there and don't get exposed to other kinds of things. This has limited a lot of students, particularly black students."

In the study, she found students in advanced classes were competitive and well-behaved but had relatively little interaction with students from different backgrounds.

Students in the lower-level classes were unmotivated, bored and got into trouble more often.

Results were different in the mixed-ability group, Ms. Harrison said.

Computer error kept 235,000 ineligible on Medicaid rolls

By CURT ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — An error in a much-maligned state computer kept 235,000 ineligible people on Medicaid rolls since July, costing taxpayers an estimated $28 million in unnecessary payments.

Ironically, the mistake's discovery could provide about $173 million in unexpected cash to help the House and Senate solve their disagreements over next year's budget.

"We had a good news, bad news day," said Senate Appropriations Committee Chairman Jim Scott, R-Fort Lauderdale.

The mistake that came to light Thursday involved a new $112 million Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services computer system that is already the target of a lawsuit and a criminal investigation. It's called the FLORIDA system.

Beginning seven months ago, the FLORIDA system began having trouble communicating with another Medicaid computer about which cases had become ineligible, said Jim LaCrosse, a senior analyst with the Legislature's Economic and Demographic Research Division.

Over that time, 235,000 people who should have been declared ineligible were not, and about 100,000 of them sought $28 million in health care that was paid by HRS. The error has now been corrected and the cases dropped from Medicaid rolls.

"This demonstrates we've got to do a better job of spending the money we've got," said Senate President Ander Crenshaw, R-Jacksonville. "It was an unfortunate mistake."

Deputy HRS Secretary Don Winstead said most of the $28 million was paid to health care providers after they had treated the Medicaid recipients and the agency would attempt to get back as much as possible.

But the error has a silver lining for lawmakers trying to close a $550 million gap between the House and Senate budgets for fiscal 1993-94.

"The FLORIDA system has bit us again but maybe this was a pleasant bite," said Gov. Lawton Chiles.

Lawmakers didn't know when they were developing those budgets that there were 235,000 too many Medicaid cases. Now that the Medicaid burden is lighter, lawmakers have $173 million to spend in other areas.

Texas man indicted in tax credit scheme

By Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — Two Texas men have been indicted in federal court on charges they tried to defraud the government by lying to obtain tax credits for a South Florida company.

The indictments Wednesday are the first in a continuing investigation of the state-run Targeted Jobs Tax Credit Program, a 15-year-old federal effort to grant tax breaks to companies that hire the disadvantaged.

"These allegations undercut the program and take a lot of the faith out of it," said Assistant U.S. Attorney Bruce Lowe.

The grand jury indicted Jerry Gonzaba, owner of Jerard Group Inc., a San Antonio, Texas, company employed by Burger King of Miami to process the tax credit applications, and Gonzaba's brother, Gary, who was employed as a manager.

The 10-count indictment, carrying a maximum penalty of 80 years in federal prison, charges the Gonzabas with conspiracy to defraud the government, mail fraud and making false statements on government forms.

Jerard Group had a $50,000 contract with Burger King to process more than 400 applications for tax credits, Lowe said. For each employee hired by Burger King who qualified for the program, the fast-food giant would receive a tax credit of up to $2,400 and pay Jerard Group $100 to $125, he said.

According to the indictment, the Gonzabas went to extraordinary lengths to make sure applicants who were not qualified for the program were approved by program administrators in Tallahassee — falsifying information, forging applicant signatures, and directing Jerard Group employees to impersonate applicants in telephone conversations with program administrators.

The indictment documents how the Jerard Group got tax credits for Burger King based on eight applicants who were not qualified.

Contacted in San Antonio on Wednesday night, Jerry Gonzaba declined comment. His brother could not be reached for comment.

Damaged vehicle brings arrest

Florida Highway Patrol troopers arrested Jeffrey Glen Williams, 38, of 4266 S. Sanford Avenue on Sunday. Troopers stopped his vehicle at Airport Boulevard and Highway 17-92, when they reported seeing the front end of his vehicle had been damaged and smoke was coming from the engine compartment.

After investigating, officers said they found Williams had been involved in an accident on Airport Boulevard and had collided with a concrete power pole. He was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, and driving with a suspended license.

Holes in beer can

Seminole County Sheriff's deputies arrested Emmanuel Cooper, 37, of 3004 Truman Blvd. Sanford, on Saturday. Officers said he was a passenger in a vehicle that had been stopped for a traffic check.

Deputies said he was in possession of a beer can with holes in it, similar to those used in connection with drugs. He was charged with possession of drug paraphernalia. A computer check on Cooper revealed he was also wanted on a warrant issued in Tallahassee for escape and robbery.

Women's clinic unsatisfied that shooter acted alone

By The Associated Press

PENSACOLA — Abortion rights advocates called for further investigation into the fatal shooting of a doctor, saying they are unsatisfied with the conclusion by police that the gunman acted alone.

Meanwhile, the owner of a clinic in Melbourne, Fla., said Thursday two doctors have quit because they fear for their safety. She said it appears the shooting is paying dividends for active anti-abortion groups.

"This is totally connected," said Patricia Baird Windle, president of Aware Women Centers For Choice. "They generated the hysteria deliberately. They are guilty as sin."

Her comments came after police said the alleged shooter — Michael Frederick Griffin, 31 — apparently acted alone. He is accused of shooting Dr. David Gunn three times in the back with a .38 caliber revolver in front of Pensacola Women's Medical Services Wednesday.

Slain doctor's son: Killer is not a martyr

By MARVIN HARRIS
Associated Press Writer

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — David Gunn Jr. said the man who killed his father at a Florida clinic is a criminal and anti-abortion activists are behaving like terrorists.

"I'm tired of hearing that man is a martyr," the doctor's son said in a telephone interview Thursday night. "He's a felon, a criminal who murdered my father in cold blood for doing something completely legal."

Dr. David Gunn, 47, was shot at the Pensacola (Fla.) Women's Medical Services clinic Wednesday and died in surgery. Michael Frederick Griffin, 31, of Pensacola, Fla., faces a murder charge in Gunn's death.

Gunn Jr., a junior majoring in English at the University of Alabama at Birmingham, said his family has cried a lot since his father's death left him and his sister, Wendy, a high-school senior, feeling "shocked and crushed."

"I want people to see these pro-life people for what they are, guinea for terrorist activity," he said, speaking from his Birmingham home. "If bombing clinics and shooting people in the back isn't terrorist, I don't know what is."

The doctor had divorced Gunn's mother, Reta Gunn of Birmingham, and was getting a divorce from a Eufaula doctor, Mary Sibert, when he was killed.

But Gunn Jr. said the divorces did not come between him and his father.

"If I needed to talk, he would do his best to listen to me and understand where I was coming from," he said. "We didn't have any problems at all in the past three years."

Gunn Jr. said few people would work six days a week, traveling to clinics in Alabama, Florida and Georgia, to help others needing abortions.

"Somebody supposedly from a religious organization crucified him for that," he said. "Somebody that was supposedly pro-life murdered my father. That is the biggest paradox, because they obviously aren't pro-life."

Just recently, Gunn Jr. asked his father about harassment at the clinics.

"At this time we have no evidence to indicate a conspiracy exists," Sgt. Jerry Potts said. "The case is not closed, but I can't say we anticipate additional arrests."

Gunn, who lived in Eufaula, Ala., also performed abortions at clinics in Alabama and Georgia. His slaying is believed to be the first in the United States during the long political struggle over abortion.

Police in Pensacola have stepped up security at locations where abortions were performed as a precaution, but Ms. Baird Windle and others demanded protection for other clinics in Florida.

Eleanor Smeal, president of The Feminist Majority Foundation, said from her headquarters in Arlington, Va., "The reign of terror and the violence that has already occurred must be taken very seriously. We want all the threats investigated. We want to make sure there is no interconnection."

Operation Rescue has been holding a boot camp in Melbourne to train new protesters and has promised to step up activity as Easter nears.

Ms. Smeal's group sent a letter Thursday to Florida Gov. Lawton Chiles requesting a series steps be taken to protect doctors and staff.

"We will not let Florida become a testing ground for extremist activities," Chiles responded in a statement. He directed the state's Department of Law Enforcement to join local law enforcement in the investigation into Gunn's death.

In Washington, several national groups urged an FBI investigation of "anti-choice violence," and President Clinton condemned the shooting.

On Thursday, Ms. Smeal said clinic owners throughout Florida had called her saying they were receiving death threats.

Mom jailed over home schooling

By DAVID GOODMAN
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT — Peggy Williams was at home with her husband and four youngsters when a sheriff's deputy knocked on the door and took her off to jail. The charge: violating truancy laws by teaching her children at home.

Mrs. Williams is not certified by the state to teach her children.

"Initially, I was scared," she said Thursday from her home in Hale, in northern Michigan. "Then I calmed myself down and realized what I was doing was the right thing to do."

Her husband, Bruce, called his church pastor, who passed the hat to raise the $200 needed to bail her out after her arrest 7 1/2 hours later.

A desire to give their children a Christian education led to the Williamses' decision last summer to withdraw Daniel, 13, and Clare, 11, from public school in Hale. Mrs. Williams also teaches Loreita, 5, Benjamin, 4, receives visits from a Head Start preschool teacher.

All states allow home education in some form, according to the U.S. Education Department. The number of students learning at home has at least doubled in the past decade, and the government puts the number at 248,000 to 353,000, most of them elementary school-age children whose parents disapprove of traditional schools for educational or religious reasons.

Michigan, however, is the only state that requires certified teachers in home schools, according to Dewitt Black, senior counsel for the Home School Legal Defense Association in Paeonian Springs, Va.

Concerned leaders will draw industry

Efforts to lure a major industry to Sanford are under way. The Central Florida Regional Airport is attempting to persuade Northrop Aviation to locate an aircraft manufacturing plant (PHOTO BY AP/WIDE WORLD)

If the drive proves successful, Sanford would become the home of a plant with a government contract for the building of 800 turbo-prop planes. The aircraft would be used in Air Force and Navy flight training.

The facility would employ at least 400 workers in a 200,000 square foot plant, with the average individual salary estimated at $30,000.

Aviation Director Steve Cooke has approached the city and Seminole County seeking to obtain their support through providing impact fee waivers.

Sanford however, is not the only city seeking the firm, and Northrop is not the only manufacturer in contention for the $7 billion government contract. In Florida, Fort Lauderdale and Lakeland are trying to attract Northrop.

Two other aircraft manufacturers, Lockheed and Grumman also want the contract. They are looking at airport locations in at least ten other cities around the nation.

While it appears that Sanford has only a slight chance of obtaining the facility, the efforts underway to attract it are commendable.

It would have been simple to wait until the contract is awarded before making any attempts at improving the incentive to locate in Sanford.

Cooke and the Authority however, have been moving forward and making plans. Whether or not Northrop is awarded the contract, and in turn selects Sanford, we believe that Cooke, the Authority, and everyone involved deserve appreciation for working diligently in an effort to help improve the local economy.

With concerned leadership like this, Sanford can look forward to a better tomorrow.

CHUCK STONE

Yes, Virginia, we have become sleaze

The forced, face-saving resignation of NBC News President Michael Gartner didn't unleash any paroxysms of sorrow or regret. Somebody had to be scapegoated for a news-division disaster that placed the producers and reporters of the newsmagazine "Dateline" somewhere on an ethical spectrum between Richard Nixon and Michael Milken.

But that's not the tragedy of Gartner's departure. The tragedy is the permanent tarnishing of the career of a man who had been one of our profession's most respected newspaper people. Television giveth and television taketh away.

But don't simply mourn for Gartner. Mourn for a profession that integrates sleaze into its news coverage as frequently as the sun rises. Mourn for a public that laps up sleaze as comfortably as a senior citizen rucksacks to the front porch on a summer evening. Mourn for a nation's loss of all ethical moorings. Gartner was only the messenger delivering the message to a salivating viewership who can't seem to get enough of the sleaze.

Where are the Francis Pharcellus Churches of 1937? Church was the New York Sun editorial writer who wrote that historic "Yes, Virginia, There is a Santa Claus" editorial in 1897. When young Virginia O'Hanlon asked her father if there was a Santa Claus, he told her, "Write the Sun. If it's in the Sun, it's true."

In 1993, to whom would Virginia's father suggest she write? NBC News? The National Enquirer? The Star? Larry King? Geraldo Rivera? Rush Limbaugh? It is that bad.

But things haven't disintegrated completely. A national poll by the Los Angeles Times Mirror found that one "odd couple" with the same "damning" B.G. (believability quotient) were Geraldo Rivera and George Will. There may be justice in heaven, after all.

The difference between the journalists of Church's era (and they, too, were guilty of ethical lapses) and those of today is the greater frequency with which today's print journalists and electronic minstrelists cross the line between fact and fantasy. Their tergiversations confuse the reading and viewing public, which doesn't know who or what to believe.

NBC News has been especially egregious. First, it used filmed footage of a rigged fiery pickup truck crash for a story on the safety of General Motors' side-saddle gas tanks, then it turned around and misidentified footage on fish supposedly endangered by overcutting of Idaho timber. After the second electronic misrepresentation, it was obvious Michael Gartner had stayed too long.

But all three networks are guilty of similar photographic manipulations. They just don't get caught.

If the media occasionally transgress ethical boundaries, so do some of our most respected authors. One of the most heartbreaking stories to be reported in the past few years is the recent revelation in Philip Novak's "The Village Voice" documentary "Roots" which demonstrates that Alex Haley's "Roots" is a hoax, concocted out of non-existent facts, plagiarized chapters, faked genealogy and fraudulent research.

But I think the media's current systematic pattern of unethical abuses goes back to the rubicon we crossed in 1988, when many print journalists and electronic minstrelists swarmed into a feeding frenzy on Gary Hart's sex life.

Gartner was only the messenger delivering the message to a salivating viewership who can't seem to get enough of the sleaze.

Trash may be the neighbors' problem

WASHINGTON — The latest round in America's escalating "garbage wars" is taking place in a sleepy little corner of Washington state, but it's attracting some of the biggest names in politics.

Trash disposal in America is quickly adopting a David vs. Goliath quality. Large cities with overflowing landfills are increasingly tapping small, rural communities as places to dump their trash. The cities and their contractors arrive on the scene promising jobs, and reassuring local residents that their landfills are environmentally safe. But many in these farming communities don't want a landfill in their backyard any more than a city does.

Such is the case in Adams County, Wash. At issue is a proposal by Waste Management Inc. to build a solid-waste landfill in this rural enclave that could satisfy Seattle's garbage disposal needs for the next 60 years. Coincidentally, the landfill lies in the congressional district of House Speaker Tom Foley.

The dispute ironically pits the city of Seattle — long considered one of the most environmentally friendly cities in America — against its poorer cousins to the east. "If you scratch beneath the surface of the proclaimed concern for the environment, what you'll find is just another big city which made a deal, signed a long-term contract with a company with little or no regard of the past performance of the firm they've hired, and absolutely no regard for the quality of life for the little town in a small wheat-field covered county in Eastern Washington," said one landfill opponent.

Though Foley has declined to get directly involved, the dispute over the Adams County landfill and Waste Management Inc. also carries the fingerprints of two other prominent Democrats: Newly elected Sen. Patty Murray and Secretary of State Warren Christopher.

Murray initially became involved as a state senator. When the city of Seattle, which for several years had been shipping most of its household garbage to a site in neighboring Oregon, first began to look at Adams County as a place to send its waste, Murray stood up in protest. Speaking up against Seattle's garbage maneuvers earned her a membership on the board of directors of the Organization to Preserve Agricultural Lands, the only organized group currently fighting the landfill.

As a U.S. Senate candidate, Murray left OPAL's board and has since been noncommittal on the landfill, saying only that she wants a "fair" review of the facts.

OPAL is fighting the landfill on two fronts. The group is trying to make use of a report by the district attorney of San Diego that was highly critical of Waste Management Inc. The report, commissioned during a 1992 dispute over a landfill permit, comes out string against Waste Management Inc.: "The history of the company presents a combination of environmental and anti-trust violations and public corruption cases which must be viewed with considerable concern." It recommended that San Diego County use "extreme caution" before contracting with WMI.

It didn't take long for WMI to fight back using the best hired guns in the business. Less than two months after the district attorney's report was released, WMI released a "critical analysis" of the report signed by no less a figure than Warren Christopher, who at the time was working as a partner in the prestigious Los Angeles law firm of O'Melveny and Myers.

Trash disposal in America is quickly adopting a David vs. Goliath quality.

Disarming America

Wake up America and learn from your mistakes! Open your eyes, America, before they become totally blinded by the smoke screen that the "peace dividend" will solve all our problems. Stand tall, America, and keep your muscles flexed, your purpose clear, and your capabilities alert to deter and subdue any threat to world peace and stability.

Former CMSOT of the Air Force and current AFA President James McCoy, cited a mood prevalent in 1986. Enroute from Bolling Field to the Pentagon "peacenik" demonstrators blocked the entrance way. Spearheaded by security guards, he and an admiral stepped gingerly over the prone bodies blocking the entrance. As they finally reached the doorway one yelled out, "Disarm or suffer the consequences."

He made a mistake; he should have said, "...and suffer the consequences." Historically everytime America has disarmed, drastic consequences has usually led to another war or international crisis.

The world has seen startling changes in recent years — the Iron Curtain dissolving, the Berlin wall tumbling down, the Soviet Union disintegrating into a union of separate states, the nuclear threat dissolved. The world seems to be a more peaceful place to live, except for the Balkans, the Middle East, South Africa and many more where hatreds fester, tempers flare, and blood flows.

Amputate the "military." Do a hatchet job on the defense budget! Use the money as a "peace dividend" which will solve our economic and social problems. We no longer need a strong military service or industry. Some in Congress are falling for this clamor. Some never learn the lessons from history.

Senator David Inouye, keynote speaker at a recent ROA convention, sounds a note of warning, giving the background and perspectives of a series of crises in American history. After the Revolutionary War was over it was "back to the farm." "We no longer need a strong militia." "We were ill-prepared as the War of 1812 erupted. Remember, even Washington burned."

Repeatedly the same thing happened. We don't need a strong military. Let's save money and cut the defense budget — drastically. Isolation and apathy ruled. And then came Pearl Harbor, afterwards Korea and Vietnam. Each time the same old story "we're not quite ready to do the job right and quickly."

Do we ever learn from our mistakes? There are many "loose cannons" out there inviting the possibility of world conflict. Nuclear capability and sophisticated weaponry is going to be a belligerent and revengeful "messiah" who would rule their neighbors and the world if given half a chance. The U.S. Special Operations Command is poised to answer the "911" of international emergencies. Hopefully they can forestall any nuclear Armageddon, unless we also decimate their capability as well.

Only a strong America will remain a "free" America, only a prepared American will be ready for the "unexpected" world crises eruptions. Wake up, America. Open your eyes. Stand tall for freedom, and survival!

On commissioner accused of stalking

Contrary to the "facts" reported in the complaint against my husband, Herbert "Whitey" Eckstein, (Sanford Herald, Eckstein denies Stalking, March 9) a shouting match never took place, nor did the other accusations that have been made. To put this whole situation in its proper perspective, a clarification of the facts is necessary.

On Monday, Feb. 15, 1993, my husband called Acting Chief Russell concerning the contents of a letter referring to him which were inaccurate. His intention was to clarify any misunderstanding between himself and the police department because he prides himself on maintaining open communication with the department as well as with all of his constituents. Acting Chief Russell explained to my husband that the letter writer was the husband of one of our police officers. It was during this conversation that he also mentioned that the "gentleman" worked for Leonard Shell. Acting Chief Russell suggested that my husband call the "gentleman" to discuss the matter and clear up any misunderstanding. He then gave my husband the "gentleman's" phone number. Acting in good faith my husband called. The "gentleman" was antagonistic right from the start calling my husband stupid and ignorant. However, my husband continued in his attempt to communicate with him. His irritation increased when my husband asked him where he had obtained his information since he was not in attendance at the meeting his letter had critiqued. He responded that he had gotten his information "from the newspaper and many people including my wife." While my husband tried to talk with him he became more and more irate ultimately calling my husband a "S.O.B."

At this point my husband stated, "Can't we talk about this like gentlemen?" The "gentleman" hung up.

My husband then called Acting Chief Russell back to relay this incident since it was at his suggestion that he had called in the first place. My husband felt that an apology was in order as he had called in good faith.

Having done business with the Leonard boys for years, and even knowing them as children (they were students of my husband for grades 5-8), my husband called Michael. He told Michael about the situation and how violated he felt by the rudeness of this "gentleman." He then stated that he could not patronize a business where he spent between $300-$400 a month when an employee was so disrespectful. He stated, "Michael, I love you boys, but you have to understand he owes me an apology." He was simply stating to a longtime friend and business operator why after 20 years we would no longer be patronizing his business. Stalking...no. Communicating the facts...yes.

My husband has never asked anyone to fire anybody. Nor has he encouraged anyone not to frequent Leonard Shell. If that is happening, then people are acting on their own in protest to this outrage against my husband.

Sheriff's rapport

As the Seminole County Sheriff seems to want to strive for better communication and rapport with local communities, I'd like to know which community he would like to establish rapport with. As a (now former) supporter of Don Ealinger, we had an incident occur in which we filed a report and were treated like perpetrators instead of victims. I was completely surprised at the unprofessional attitudes and treatment we experienced at all levels, ranging from unanswered phone calls, to an argumentative investigator who hung up on us. In my letter to Sheriff Ealinger (which was apparently referred to Paul James) I questioned whether this treatment was typical. Since Paul James' response to my recount on the report filed was "Oh well!", that answered my question. When we decided to call Sheriff Ealinger directly, he was very professional as we expected. However, the undertone was exactly what we'd experienced outright all along. (Oh well!) That confirmed it. Of course we've heard nothing since. Now tell me again, where is that community?

Fight to save state military bases

By Associated Press

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The "mother of all base-closing lists" will be released in Washington today following intense lobbying by Florida's congressional delegation to keep bases in Pensacola, Orlando, Jacksonville and Homestead off the list.

"I am not naive enough to believe that you are going to have downsizing of the military to the extent that we are about to go through, which is really an experience like nothing we've done since 1946, and not one like Florida, with its many military bases, be unaffected," Sen. Bob Graham, D-Fla., said Thursday in a telephone interview.

Graham, Sen. Connie Mack, R-Fla., and other members of Florida congressional delegation have been trying to erase Florida's facilities from the list to be released by Defense Secretary Les Aspin.

In hurricane-ravaged Homestead, officials say the city itself may be at stake if Homestead Air Force Base is not rebuilt.

The base accounted for 8,700 jobs and pumped $480 million a year into the local economy. Estimated hurricane damage to the base was $500 million.

Graham said he supported the rebuilding, especially as long as Fidel Castro remains in power in Cuba.

"Homestead Air Force Base is the closest combat military base to Cuba and the Caribbean — one of the remaining areas of the world in which there is a clear enemy with military capabilities close to our shore," he said.

The three members of Congress representing Northeast Florida have been fighting to keep Cecil Field Naval Air Station in Jacksonville off the list. The base is the East Coast home of FA-18 Hornets S-3 Viking aircraft.

Cecil Field has about 7,000 military workers and 1,500 civilians with an annual payroll of $229 million. Its closing could result in a $586 million local economic loss.

"We're confident in the merits of our case, but ultimately it is somebody else who is deciding it," said T.R. Hainline Jr., chairman of the Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce's Armed Services/Military Issues Committee.

Also reportedly on the list are the Orlando Naval Training Center, the only one of the Navy's three boot camps that trains women.

The center has an annual payroll of $240 million. More than 15,000 sailors, officers and civilians work at the base, where the Navy also has school for specialists in certain career fields.

In Pensacola, the battle is on to save the Navy Aviation Depot and the USS Forrestal, the Navy's only training aircraft carrier.

About 3,000 civilians and 500 military personnel repair helicopters at the depot.

The Forrestal, now undergoing a $157 million overhaul in Philadelphia, is rumored to be headed for mothballs.

The list will go to the eight-member Defense Base Closure and Realignment Commission. The panel has until July 1 to accept or change the recommendations and forward a list to President Clinton.

If Clinton approves, the plan goes to Congress, where members must vote on it as an entire package.

Mrs. Clinton hears health care complaints at forum

By CHRISTOPHER CONNELL
Associated Press Writer

TAMPA — Americans whose lives have been turned upside down by family illnesses have harrowing stories to tell Hillary Rodham Clinton at a forum designed to broaden the public debate over health care.

Dr. Steven A. Schroeder, president of the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, said today's session and three more over the next two weeks in Iowa, Michigan and Washington, D.C., were intended to shed light on both the "amazing strengths and glaring weaknesses" of the U.S. health system.

Mrs. Clinton, joined by Tipper Gore, wife of Vice President Al Gore, and Health and Human Services Secretary Donna E. Shalala, was also hearing from front-line doctors and nurses as well as Florida residents struggling with steep medical bills.

Helene Kramer, a 46-year-old social worker from Fort Myers, Fla., got bladder cancer in 1990 and lost her regular coverage when her insurer paid no more for her business in Florida.

She said she was offered a replacement policy with monthly premiums of $800 and a $2,000 deductible, but couldn't afford it. Now she has three other policies costing $500 a month — but none will cover a recurrence of her cancer.

"The Clintons have got to understand that we need control over the insurance companies and the hospitals," she said in an interview Thursday.

Others were telling today's forum of struggles to care for an aged parent with Alzheimer's disease or a son with muscular dystrophy.

Theresa Melli's story has a happy ending. Her daughter, Andrea, was born 10 weeks premature with severe intestinal troubles in October 1990 and ran up $125,000 in bills in the neonatal intensive care unit at Tampa General Hospital. She pulled through and is now a healthy 2½-year-old.

Her family paid just $250 — the hospital copayment required by the health maintenance organization that Theresa Melli belonged to.

"People say, 'Oh, in HMOs you're restricted what hospital you go to,'" Mrs. Melli told a reporter. But when Andrea nearly died, it was "real comforting" not to worry about the bills, she said.

Dr. Arturo Perez of Winter Haven, Fla., contends the United States needs a government-run national health program to bypass the private insurers and crack down on drug prices.

An elderly Medicare patient pays Perez only $8 out of pocket — Medicare pays $27 — but that same patient "leaves my office with four prescriptions that cost $300 or $400 a month. That is the problem," said Perez, a 62-year-old internist.

President Clinton's health reform task force, chaired by his wife, is nearing the halfway point of its 100-day mission to find ways to insure everyone.

Most of that work has been going on behind closed doors. A federal judge on Wednesday ordered the task force to hold any fact-finding meetings in public.

Mrs. Clinton on Thursday called the judge's ruling "a stamp of approval."

Miami Sr. charges past Oviedo

From Staff, Wire Reports

TALLAHASSEE — When the well runs dry, it's dry.

Allen Edwards scored half of his 12 points during a 18-0 fourth-quarter run that gave Miami Senior a 71-55 semifinal win over Oviedo Thursday in the Class 4A boy's high school basketball championship at the Tallahassee-Leon County Civic Center.

The Lions, who defeated the Stingerees in last year's Class 4A championship game 74-67, used a 10-0 run in the second quarter to take its first lead, 29-25. They used another 8-0 binge in the third quarter to lead 40-32 with 3:31 left in the period.

But with a 56-53 lead, Oviedo went ice-cold. Miami Senior took the lead for good with 3:40 remaining.

"Basically, they just wore us down," said Oviedo head coach Ed Bolton. "We weathered a couple of storms, but at the end we just couldn't get it done. Now is end of season for us but we are going to stay up here and watch the games and enjoy the experience."

The win puts the Stingerees (33-2) in Saturday's final against Jacksonville Beach-Fletcher (32-2), which beat Sarasota-Riverview 68-52. Senior, the top-ranked 4A team in the Florida Sports Writers Association poll, and Fletcher, ranked No. 2, have split two previous meetings this season. They also met in last year's semifinals, with Miami winning 68-65.

The Stingerees' Devin Davis led all scorers with 14 points and grabbed 10 rebounds. John Brown added 10 points and 11 rebounds.

The Lions, who finish the season with a 20-12 record, had a quartet of players finishing in double figures scoring. Randy Wright led the way with 13 points, while Ben Boss and Chris Braxton had 12 each and Devon Green 11. Todd Bellhorn had a good all-around game with six rebounds and four assists.

Prior to the game, Bolton was very confident.

"I can tell a lot by looking at kids' eyes, the eyes tell everything," said Bolton. "Before the game, I looked in their eyes and they were focused. It was a lot like last year's team. When I looked, I knew they had the look, even at halftime and the beginning of third quarter, they

Rams employ Seminole errors to beat up Tribe

By DEAN SMITH
Herald Sports Writer

SANFORD — It certainly wasn't pretty. The Lake Mary Rams exploited numerous scoring opportunities Thursday afternoon in a 13-1 romp over Seminole in an error-filled Seminole Athletic Conference softball contest stopped after five innings at the new Seminole High School softball field.

Pitcher Tiffany Deeb ran her record to 9-2 by scattering five hits. Her teammates only collected eight hits, but mixed those in with 12 Tribe errors and two walks to remain unbeaten in the conference at 3-0.

"We're still not playing with the intensity we would like to in games," said Lake Mary head coach Jeanie Fisher. "We're still going through some changes with Angle (Snow) coming out from soccer last week and Diane (Duher) coming out from basketball this week. We're still trying to work them in."

Singles by Jen Longstaff and Robyn Dazey and four errors accounted for four runs in the top of the first inning for the Rams.

Seminole's lone run came in the bottom of the first inning on an error, a fielder's choice by Laura RiCharde and back-to-back singles by Kelly Richards and Lisa RiCharde.

Lake Mary added two runs to its lead in the second inning without the benefit of a hit. Three errors and OVIEDO — Michelle Field went 3-for-3 with a double, two RBI, and a run scored to help lead the Oviedo Lions to a 10-3 win over the Lake Howell Silver Hawks in a Seminole Athletic Conference softball game Thursday at the Oviedo Sports Complex.

The win keeps Oviedo (8-4 overall, 3-0 in the SAC) tied for first in the conference standings with Lake Mary. Lake Howell drops to 7-4 and 1-2.

Andrea Sparrow added two singles, two runs, and two RBI to the Lions' 13-hit attack while Jenny Jakubcin contributed two singles, three runs, and an RBI. Beth Janson singled twice, scored a run, and drove in a run.

Shydonna Tossie chipped in with two RBI. Beth Pratt and Mandy Kraehl each had a single, a run scored, and an RBI. Winning pitcher Jamie Dugan (8-4) singled and scored a run. Carrie McAuliffe hit a double.

"We're finally starting to hit the ball," said Oviedo coach Greg Register. "We've had 31 hits in the last two "Lake Howell played well. They're young and tough. Coach (Jol Luctano) is doing a great job with them. They'll be tough by the end of the season."

Providing the offense for Lake Howell were Yira Segarra and Shannon McDowell (both 2-for-4 with a run scored), Caralee Dowling (double, RBI), Tina Leman and Laura Bowman (both with single and an RBI), Brittany Scott (single, run scored), and Ely and Reanna Mack (one single each).

Oviedo will play in the North Marion Classic this Saturday and travel to Lyman next Tuesday. Lake Howell is off until Tuesday, when it will host Seminole.

'Hounds hold off Pats at crossroads

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — While it's impossible to tell today, we could look back at the end of the high school softball season at the Lyman Greyhounds' 10-5 win over the Lake Brantley Patriots Thursday as a turning point for both teams.

For the Greyhounds (4-3 overall, 2-1 in the SAC), it was the first any of them had won a game at Lake Brantley, not to mention being contrary to a very difficult loss suffered earlier in the week to Lake Mary.

For the Patriots (6-6, 0-3 in the conference), the decision was a rare loss at home, all but mathematically eliminating them from the SAC race.

"This is a first for me and first for all the girls, even the seniors," said Lyman coach Chusity Tibbitts. "They held together real well tonight. That's one of the things we worked on."

One reason the Greyhounds have been working on it was a loss they suffered to Lake Mary on Tuesday. Lyman led early but several errors led to a seven-run Lake Mary inning and a Greyhound defeat.

Just the mention of it causes Tibbitts to grit her teeth involuntarily.

"It's very mental," said Tibbitts. "Tonight, they kept their heads in the game for the whole game. The bats came around tonight, which helped a lot."

"Hopefully, this will give us a little bit of a spark."

Lyman started quickly and finish strong Thursday, scoring five runs in the first two innings and, after Lake Brantley closed to 5-4, struck

Basketball

 all had it. But Miami was focused, too, and they were fighting for their lives.

"We missed our free throws, Devon (Green) and Chris (Braxton) fouled out, and it was enough to sink the ship. I'll start looking at what I did right and what I did wrong. Just like in any business you run, you have to evaluate what you did right and what you did wrong, so you can start preparing for next season."

In the other 4A semifinal, Andre Cooper scored 18 points and three other Jacksonville Beach-Fletcher players finished in double figures as the Senators beat Sarasota-Riverview.

Fletcher put the Rams away early, leading 35-20 at the half. Jermain Fowler, Jeremy Hyatt and Derrick Willis had 15, 14 and 10 points, respectively.

Riverview (27-8) was led by a game-high 25 from Jabari Pearcey and 15 from Chris Jackson.

Shopping for an appliance

It's a purchase deserving time and careful planning

The purchase of a major home appliance represents one of the most important investments you will make for a home or apartment. It's a purchase that deserves time and careful planning to get the one that is best for your needs and your budget.

Major appliances are designed to give many years of service and pleasure. You can help guarantee your continuing satisfaction when you take both present and future needs into consideration as you make your final buying decision.

Study and compare appliances and their various features. Collect and read retailers' and manufacturers' information sheets. Study descriptions of general merchandise catalogs. Take your time and ask questions. Don't forget that some features such as a refrigerator icemaker, can be added later in many cases.

Because home appliances currently consume approximately 5 percent of the nation's energy, the federal government has asked business to offer more energy efficient appliances to the public. Look for some of the latest energy saving devices and features in these appliances on the market now...

● Refrigerators — more and better insulation; specific models designed for more efficiency; magnetic door gaskets to seal cold air in more completely, reducing operating time and electricity use; power-saver switches to turn off refrigerator door heaters that prevent condensation from forming around the door during dry seasons.

CONSUMER FOCUS

● Dishwashers — a no-heat, air-drying cycle can save up to one third on energy; special cycle in which the heating element is off either partially or completely during the rinse and dry cycles.

● Air Conditioners — models designed for higher efficiency which can be checked by comparing the EER (Energy Efficiency Rating) of various machines. Look also for power-saver features.

● Washers — models designed to retain wash water for subsequent loads which saves energy used to heat wash water and also saves water.

● Dryers — Some dryers have solid state sensors which "feel" the moisture in clothes and shut dryers off at the exact level of dryness selected.

Buy only appliances that meet the following standards for safety:

● Underwriter's Laboratories

which is indicated by the UL symbol for electrical appliances. If the symbol is on the body of the appliance, then all components parts, cord, and plug meet the UL standards.

● American Gas Association which is indicated by a Blue Star certification seal on gas appliances. This means that the appliance meets exacting minimum standards of the American National Standards Institute for safety, performance and durability.

Check wattage rating stamped on each appliance and never connect more than 1600 watts on a 120 V circuit protected by a typical 15 ampere circuit breaker.

Always compare warranties of different brands the way you compare prices and features. It's a basic consumer responsibility! Many consumers are not aware of the importance of the warranty buymanship.

Warranty inspection is a consumer right. A Federal Law — the Magnuson-Moss Warranty/Federal Trade Commission Improvement Act of 1975 — requires warranty information to be available at point of purchase for products costing $15 or more. The law does not, however, require manufacturers to provide warranties on products.

The store must provide this information in one of the following ways:

● The warranty is displayed

near the appliance.

● The warranty text is on a package displayed with the appliance.

● An indexed and updated binder containing all the warranties for products sold in the department is prominently displayed or a sign will tell where to find it.

● A notice giving the warranty text, is posted near the appliance.

The FULL warranty offers more protection. Under a LIMITED warranty the protection is limited to what is outlined in the terms of the warranty.

Teacher haunted by failure to report suspected abuse

DEAR ABBY: I am a faithful reader, and I am in complete agreement with your philosophy that any suspected case of child abuse should be reported to the proper authorities. I only wish I had had the courage to act on it. But that was before legislation was passed to protect those reporting suspected child abuse — and I was a victim of the system.

As a young first-grade teacher, I noticed there was one child in my class who always came to school improperly dressed and with bruises on her body. I'll call her "Tracy." I tried numerous times to arrange a conference with her parents, but had no success.

One day Tracy was waiting for me at 7:30 a.m., even though school started at 8:05 a.m. The temperature was about 10 degrees, and she was wearing shorts, a T-shirt and sandals. Her body was, once again, bruised — but this time her face was also bruised.

I went immediately to the principal, but he wasn't in yet. I tried my best to make Tracy comfortable, and when the principal finally arrived, I told him my suspicions. He said if I reported child abuse, I would have to go to trial and testify against Tracy's parents — so I backed down. Abby, I have regretted that decision all my life.

I left teaching to raise a family,

ADVICE

but I have followed the progress of some of my former students — through honor roll achievements and also through police reports. Tracy became a runaway by age 11 — and she was later arrested at age 13 for prostitution. The year after I failed to report Tracy's abuse, legislation was passed to protect those who report problems.

If I could go back in time, I would have "bucked the system," and done what was right. But since I cannot go back, I can only urge people to report any case of suspected child abuse. You will not have to go to trial and you will not have to accuse anyone of anything. I pray this letter helps another child.

A CONNECTICUT MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: If your letter causes just one person to step forward on behalf of an abused child, your efforts will not have been in vain — and perhaps it will soothe your conscience. The national toll-free number, which is operated by Childhelp USA/Iowa Foresters, is (800) 422-4483.

DEAR ABBY: I read your column in the Albuquerque Journal, in Albuquerque, N.M. I am 12 years old and have always been taught not to judge people by their looks, and it really bugs me what has been making headlines in our newspapers about Hillary Clinton.

"Lose the hat" or, "She shouldn't wear her hair up — it only emphasizes her round face."

I mean, come on! We've got more important things to read about than what these nits think. I sure hope you print my letter, Abby, and I don't mind if you use my name.

AMBER JOHNS
DEAR AMBER: Thanks for writing; your wisdom surpasses that of many adults. Congratulations.

(Problems? Write to Dear Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dear Abby, P.O. Box 80440, Los Angeles, Calif. 90080. All correspondence is confidential.)

Mom, daughter need to talk, not scream

DEAR MARY: Our daughter just turned 14 and all of the worst jokes about mother-teenage daughter communication are coming to life in our home. Our basic conversation style seems to be yelling at each other. No matter how hard I try to stay calm, it seems like she just keeps pushing till I lose my cool. If something doesn't change we're going to end up hating each other before her teenage years are over. She says she'll try harder if I will and I really want to. The problem is, I don't know how to make our communication better. Please help.

SCREAMING MOM
DEAR MOM: Effective communication between parents and teens is often a real struggle but good for you both for being willing to try. Since it was you who asked for help, I'm going to make suggestions for you to try. Perhaps your daughter will agree to adopt some of them also.

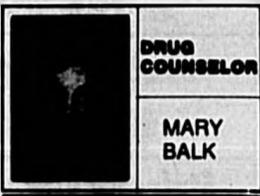

● Pay attention when she's talking and don't interrupt.

● Don't think about what you will say while your daughter is talking.

● Don't pass judgment on anything she says until she has finished talking and you're sure you understand what she said.

● However, if she says something that bothers you, don't ignore the statement.

● Be aware of her facial expression and body language. It's a very reliable clue to how she's feeling.

DRUG COUNSELOR

MARY BALK

● As your daughter is talking let her know you're paying attention to what she's saying; nod your head, maintain eye contact, etc.

When it's time for you to respond, phrases such as "I'm very concerned about..." or "I understand it's really difficult..." are better openers than "You should..." or "When I was your age..." Speak only for yourself, your feelings, experiences, etc. and "don't" lecture. It is better to listen carefully and try to understand the real feeling behind her words than to offer advice. Repeat things she has said for confirmation that you understand what she was saying. Remember, a wise philosopher once said, "We have two ears and only one mouth, so we can listen the more and speak the less."

(Mary Balk is a Certified Addiction Prevention Professional and counselor. Write her at the Sanford Herald, or call the Seminole County Schools' Drug Prevention office, 322-5556.)

"It's a Dog's Life!"

What self-respecting canine would stand still ... I mean sit still ... for this? My master had better get a move on before I leap out of this washtub and give him a shower! If this gets out, I'll be the laughing stock of the neighborhood. Oh well, patience is a virtue. He is good to me, but what did I do to deserve this? It's a dog's life!

There are those times that we endure through our faith in God. We may feel undeserving of our plight, yet accept it as necessary for our spiritual development. Trusting our Master to have a purpose for every situation, we know that He is always with us.

This Sabbath, may we thank God for His faithfulness to us, His children, and resolve to begin each day with a prayer of trust ... "Thy will be done."

Muscle spasms caused from several disorders

MEDICINE
PETER GOTT, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have a sleep disorder called nocturnal myoclonus that is almost controlling my life. I've been to doctors since I was 22 and haven't been able to find one who will take me seriously. Most refer to it as restless legs, yet mine actually jump. I've been prescribed sleeping pills, muscle relaxers, nerve pills and pills for poor circulation. Do you know what medicine would work for my condition?

DEAR DR. GOTT: Myoclonus is a brief muscle contraction; when such a contraction occurs at night, usually as a person is dropping off to sleep, it is called nocturnal myoclonus.

These muscle spasms can result from a variety of disorders that affect metabolic balance, including kidney failure, Alzheimer's disease and other neurological disorders. Many healthy persons experience nocturnal myoclonus; the reason is unknown. The affliction usually responds to drug therapy with medicines such as clonazepam and valproic acid. Anti-convulsants are often beneficial.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've been diagnosed with benign positional vertigo. My doctor indicated the inner ear plays a role in this disorder but also said the cause is unknown and there is nothing to be done about it. Is exercise beneficial or is there something else I can do?

DEAR DR. GOTT: Benign positional vertigo is a common condition marked by episodes of uncontrollable dizziness and nausea. It usually occurs in certain positions, when the balance mechanism in the inner ear is inappropriately stimulated. The cause is unknown, although some experts believe that poor circulation to the inner ears may play a role.

The condition does not ordinarily respond to exercise, diet or an alteration of lifestyle. Antivert, a prescription drug, often relieves symptoms, al-

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

Are you and your partner hoping to break into the big time? Are you happy to read text like "But the difference between 'blithe' and 'blithering,' especially as pronounced in partner's mouth, may be indiscernible"? If so, you'll want to buy "Bridge Toolkit" by Jim Jacoby and Allan Falk (Zookeeper, $13.95, 2010 Cimarron Drive, Okemos, MI 48864-3808). The book was being written when Jacoby died so unexpectedly in 1991. Falk has finished and published it.

All aspects of the game are covered. The level of the deals varies from the relatively simple to the rather complex. Today's deal from the book falls in the middle.

Personally, I dislike the authors' auction. I think North should make an immediate forcing heart raise. However, the slam is reasonable. West leads the diamond king. After winning the first trick with dummy's ace, you should draw trumps and run your four spade tricks, discarding a diamond from hand. Now lead the diamond jack.

If East unexpectedly produces the queen, ruff, cash the club ace and lead a trump to the dummy — you did keep an entry, didn't you? Finally, play a club to your queen. You will make the slam whenever East has the club king or West began with king doubleton.

However, when East plays a low diamond, calmly discard your low club. West wins with the queen but is ended. A diamond return concedes a ruff-and-discard. A club switch is into your A-Q tenace.

HONORS

By Bernice Bode Osoi
YOUR BIRTHDAY
March 13, 1993

In the year ahead, you could be extremely fortunate through partnership arrangements of a non-commercial nature, though they might still produce benefits in material ways.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Changes could take place today that you won't be able to control directly. However, when they play themselves out, you could come to the realization that you couldn't have designed them any better. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It's important today that you are aware of the fact that others have the right to express their opinions, even if they don't coincide with yours. Don't be a self-appointed censor.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If a firm or individual has stung you in the past when you've done business with them, don't set yourself up as a "patay" again today. Deal only with those whom you trust.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) There is a possibility that someone with whom you're involved has been rather lucky recently, and today, this luck could help you as well. Keep your fingers crossed.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Petty disagreements with co-workers could slow down the assembly line today if you allow them to surface. Treat everyone courteously.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Be an attentive listener today, because you might learn of something that you can expand upon and use to your advantage in your present plans.

VIROO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you've been working on something that could be meaningful to you financially, make a concerted effort to tie it down today. Try to do so before noon, if this is possible.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Endeavors which you personally initiate or conceive have better than average chances of being successful today. Work on your own projects, and don't go off on a tangent.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You are now in a cycle where you could derive benefits from situations that you participate in, but don't initiate. Your contribution to the endeavor will be meaningful.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Conditions are rather unique today, and you might find yourself in an arrangement where you become a benefactor when you help a friend.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) In career situations today, Lady Luck, like the cavalry, might suddenly make an appearance at the time you'll need her the most. However, to be on the safe side, also rely upon yourself.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Some knowledge you've recently acquired could prove to be of considerable worth to you today. This is despite the fact that when you filed it away, you may have thought it was merely trivia.

PLEASANT (Feb. 20-March 20) You are in a cycle where you could derive benefits from situations that you participate in, but don't initiate. Your contribution to the endeavor will be meaningful.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It's important today that you are aware of the fact that others have the right to express their opinions, even if they don't coincide with yours. Don't be a self-appointed censor.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If a firm or individual has stung you in the past when you've done business with them, don't set yourself up as a "patay" again today. Deal only with those whom you trust.

That's what Girl Scouting is all about.

For eighty years Girl Scouts of the USA has encouraged girls of all ages to achieve their personal best through a program that stresses self-discovery, exploration and community service. During Girl Scout Week, March 8-14, 1993, the local businesses featured on this page have joined together to thank the over 1,500 Seminole County Girl Scout Volunteers and to honor this outstanding organization.
