Death penalty decision delayed

By Lacy Loar RERALD EDITOR

SEMINOLE COUNTY - A shackled and tearful Michael Stoll, 36, must wait until June 9 to hear whether be will die in Florida's electric chair or spend the rest of his life in prison for the murder of his wife.

Judge Seymour Benson Tuesday listened to emotionally charged statements from Stoll, his pastor and his sister, as attorney Jack Edmund lobbied Benson to spare his client's life.

"I hope my mother-in-law can forgive me for my wrongful judgment on that day. I was wrong for lying and covering up for Chris Stewart, but I don't think capital punishment solves anything." Stoll said.

Assistant State Afformey Steve Plotnick had submitted his memorandum summarizing that the state had proven Stoll's actions had been heinous, afrocious and cruel and Accident with injuries

Go to school, skip finals

By Shari Brodie and Kim Butler OF THE HERALD STAFF

SEMINOLE COUNTY—It's time for high school finals, one last time, since a new county policy will eliminate the need for finals for students with good grades and good attendance records.

The Seminole County School Board voted 3-2 Tuesday night to approve a county-wide exame exemption policy for all 7 high schools. The new policy, which goes into effect next year, allows "A" students with no more than 3 absences. "B" students with no more than 2 absences or "C" students with no more than 1 absence to skip final exams.

County students have been allowed to skip exams, if they met certain criteria, since 1992. The state Department of Education wanted to do away with the exemptions but last month rescinded its earlier ruling, saying that exemptions could continue as long as they were based only on the altendance policy.

The county adopted the policy that had been in effect at Oviedo High School. Local high school administrators are in favor of the exemption policy, citing Seminole County's enviable attendance rate as proof the incentives work. Students who show up every day learn more, they contend.

Verna Jackson, assistant principal at Seminole High School, said. "We want the kids in school Hain and simple."

Barry Gamer, a parent of an Oviedo High School student thinks it's a great incentive. "Number 1, it's an incentive to keep kids in school, Number 2, it encourages them to keep up their grades."

Board chairman Barbara Kuhn voted for the policy, with board members Sandy Robinson and Jeanne Morris. Kuhn said. "As a teacher ...! have found that students who are absent are not the ones who do well in the course. Our students, I think, are tested to death. A test is not the only way to tell how the student is progressing."

One nother pointed out that the new policy could penalize atudents who are absent often due to legitimate medical conditions. Jayne Kornick, whose SEMINOLE COUNTY - The Board of County Commissioners on Tuesday dealt with everything from the euphoric to the erotic - traveling from easy street to sleazy street. A government analyst gladdened the commissioners when he said the county's road program was on its $450 million budget - characterized by a successful contracting process and on-schedule construction management.

ianagement. The commissioners, however, ran into a snari in the afternoon when confronted with an add-on item concerning U.S. Highway 17-92 and an adult entertainment business known as the Erotic Emportum.

A request from the Florida Department of Transportation may force the county to back off from the modifications required by Erotic Emportum if it is to be grandfathered at its present location. The FDOT is making changes on 17-92 that won't be complete until January 1999.

On Tuesday, the commissioners unanimously agreed to address the issue at a public meeting on June 9.

Should lakefront park be developed?

By Nich Pfelfauf HERALD STAFF WRITER

SANFORD - There are more steps toward commercial development of Fort Mellon Park than there are steps in Sanford's City Hall. Likewise, there are many steps to climb for citizens intent on preventing any changes to the park.

In favor of the development

In favor of the development and pushing hard for approval are Mayor Larry Dale, members of the city commission and City Manager Bill Simmons.

Opponents include cilizens Debbra Groscolose, her husband Doug, former Sanford group is scheduled to circulate a petition around the city demanding the development of the park be placed on a citizen referendum. During Monday's Sanford City Commission meeting. Raborn reiterated the position that the matter be placed on the ballot preventing the city from ever selling or leasing the property for development.

A copy of the proposed ordinance was officially recognized by the commission Monday night. City Attorney Bill Colbert assured the commission that he had gone over the ordinance, and following a few minor changes, it appeared to be properly written.

The Grosecloses have gone through a number of moves to obtain official petitions which will be circulated seeking a sufficient number of signatures, of which, 2,621 would have to be verified. Then the matter would be placed on the ballot.

Meanwhile, the city commission plans to send out a newsletter to citizens, advising them of the benefits of having the major hotel and conference center built on the park grounds. Mayor Dale revealed some of the information during Monday afternoon's commission work session.

Through a study prepared by Fishkind & Associates, it has been estimated that there will be 654 jobs directly attributable to the project as well as another 457 jobs indirectly supported by the project.

The jobs are expected to provide a payroll of over $11 million, while the total annual payroll supported by the projector for the projecto Consultant Project Manager John Graves informed the county.

"In order to avoid a great deal of re-work, effort and money, I suggest that you wait for our construction to be completed before requiring them to make improvements, Graves said.

Attorney Hugh Trees requested on April 28 that Erotic Emportum be allowed to put off work on curbing driveways, constructing a sidewalk and doing landscaping work. Trees said he received a reply from the Deputy County Attorney Lonnie Groot Tuesday but not in time to attend the commission meeting.

Trees said the letter from the FDOT obviously prompted the county to give Erotic Emporium a reasonable time to complete its work after the FDOT's work was completed.

The commissioners had two choices to make Tuesday - to enforce the original ordinance without variation or to direct staff to advertise an amendment to the ordinance.

Trees also said his client had agreed to drop the name 'erotic" to "exotic," as re-

Stand up and be counted for or against development

The question of developing a hotel and conference center on Fort Mellon Park grounds in Sanford is one of the hottest of its kind to be debated in a long time. Nothing has come close to this dilemma since the question arose whether or not to move part of the Seminole County Courthouse to Five Points.

It's difficult to get a "read" on the Fort Mellon Park situation. It is difficult to know if there is only a highly vocal few who are against it, or if there are thousands in opposition but who are hesitant to speak out.

We know the mayor and city commissioners favor the proposal. Many organizations also believe it would be beneficial for not only the downtown area but to help improve the tax base for the city and county.

While the Seminole Heroid has previously editorially endorsed the concept, it has remained open to letters written by opponents as well.

Opponents of the development say they have nothing against having a major hotel and conference center in Sanford, but they insist it should not be at the Fort Mellon Park property. Yet, in all of their public speaking before the commission, letters to the editor and other publicity, no one has should the commercial development be located.

Now, opponents are circulating a petition calling for a public referendum. The wording of what they propose, rather than asking yes or not to the development, would prevent the city from EVER developing the park land for commercial pur-

We suggest people who oppose use of the park for this pur-pose step forward and make a logical suggestion regarding a possible location. This however, is practically impossible. There is little land available along the lakefront which could be utilized. And losing that lake view would probably wipe out any idea of obtaining a developer. There would be little attraction for guests, conventioneers and others if the structures were located elsewhere. We would end up with nothing, and be faced with a continuation of a high level tax millage.

If the petition being circulated would question yes or no on the development of Fort Mellon Park, we would urge people to ligh it for inclusion in the next election. Then we, and all others concerned, would know, once and for all, whether it is truly a majority of the citizens who are for or against this

But calling for a complete ban on any development, in our opinion, would be similar to biting off our hand to punish a

An era ends as Seminole goes out with heads held high

By Jeff Bertinicke ASSISTANT SPORTS EDITOR

SANFORD _ The final out was recorded. but no one at Seminole High School was ready for the season to end.

The 'Noles' season came to an end last night with a 7-6 loss to Jacksonville Wolfson before a huge crowd at Seminole. The 'Noles were getting clobbered, the defense wasn't playing its normal game and Seminole found itself on the short end of a 7-1 defeit before rallying, eventually placing the tie run on second with two outs in the seventh.

One out later, the fans stayed and cheered team that may have been the best in Seminole history.

At least five Seminoles from the senior-At least five Seminoles from the senior-laden team have a chance at professional ball including Tim Raines, Ned Raines, C3 Williams, Don Taylor and Lance Odom. The problem facing coach Mike Powers is that the cupboard seems empty next year to anyone looking at a Seminole roster.

Only Paulo Silva and Chaz Lytle return from the everyday lineup and Lytle, along with Brent Templeton and Josh Blanton are the only returness from the pitching rotation.

Still. Powers has reason to be excited. especially after his junior varsity team went 22-4 this season.

The 1999 Seminoles will have a tough legacy to live up to. Seminole reached a raking of second in the state entering last night's loss and several of its players were members of the Sanford Post 53 team that won the national title last summer in South

With the addition of Odom, Taylor and Ryan Albejon, the 'Noles entered the season with high hopes but stumbled out of the gate before recovering and becoming the county's dominant team by the end of the season.

The success caught the attention of all of Sanford and over 1,500 people showed up for district tournament games at Historic Sanford Memorial Stadium to see the 'Noles Places see Jelf, Page 20

The Seminole High School baseball team gets together one final time (above) after having their season ended one victory short of going to the FHSAA State Championships at Legends Field in Tampa next week.

Senior righthander Lance Odom (left) pitched much better than the score would indicate as he struck out seven and walked only two (both intentionally) and pitched around several mistakes by his defense to give the Tribe a shot a winning the regional championship.

But a raily keyed by home runs from Andy Hall and Tim Raines and a two-run single by Chaz Lytle came up a run short as Wolfson High School from Jacksonville edged the Fighting Seminoles (24-9), 7-6, in the Class 5A Regional Championship Game at Alumni Field Tuesday ers proved pro-phetic....unfortunately. Following the district tournament Powers said that, "if we play good defense, we'll win, if we don't, we'll look like crap."

Such was the case Tuesday night as the Tribe's defense was shaky at best, especially early in the game, and Wolfson High School from Jacksonville took advantage, building a 7-1 lead before holding on for a 7-6 victory in the Finals of the Class 5A Baseball Regional at Alumns Field.

"It was a great season." said Powers, whose team finishes the season with a 24-9 record. "We got some tough breaks. If those two balls down the left field line (that balls down the left field line (that were just fair and went for doubles) go foul or they don't get that infield hit to open the fifth inning, it would have been a different game. "But give our kids credit, they came through when we needed it. Lance (Odom) pitched a good game despite the mistakes, Chaz (Lytle) came tup with a his two-run hit and came up with a big two-run hit and Tim (Raines) and Andy (Hall) hit home runs. Andy's was his first ever. I wish Wolfson a lot of luck in state next week."

While there was several mis and the Fighting Seminoles rally, the whole game was pro-decided on the second and ning.

After the lead off batter bounced back to the mound, Currier, the Wolfpack's No. 2 hitter, lifted a pop fly into foul territory down the left field line. The ball bounced out of the Seminole players' glove, however, and Currier was still alive.

Two pitches later, Odom appeared to have Currier struck out. but, after flinching, the pitch was called a ball. Currier then singled on the next pitch. Seminole appeared that it was going to get out of the inning unscathed, however, as Curtner hit a Piesse see Tribe, Page 28 the state) and Garretson, a left handed hitter, inside-outed a double just inside the left field Odom then struck out Myers, but the ball got away from Taylor. Veres made a mistake and broke for the plate and Taylor picked up the ball and dived to tag Veres out at the plate as Carretson stayed at second.

A passed ball moved the runners up a base, but Garretson was gunned down at the plate by Williams off a soft tapper to first by Wallace. The runners then stole second and third and Terry lined a grounder just inside the third base for a two-run double.

Currier then hit a pop up that the Tribe defense lost in Currier then hit a pop up that the Tribe defense lost in the twilight and Terry scored as Currier raced into second with a double and went on to third as the throw was wild. But he was picked off third to end the inning.

Wolfson then got what amounted to the winning run in the fifth inning. Curtner hit a slow grounder to short and Bill Johnson's throw appeared to beat the runner. But the umpire called Curtner safe.

Odom then hit Boyd again and the runners stole a base before Odom got a big strike out. Veres was walked intentionally to load the bases and Carretson hit a ball to medium deep left center field.

Tim Raines made a strong throw to make the score 7.1.

Seminole's offense finally woke up in the fifth inning.

British feast filled with jolly good flavor

One of the great advantages of making a living from cooking food is that everyone shares your interest, they eat. No matter where or when, people matter where or when, people love to talk about food.

Recently, I had the pleasure of having a long talk with another chef. We agreed that when people think of foods from other countries England is seldom, if ever, on the list. When people talk about ethnic cuisine it is generally limited to the famous food countries, France, Italy, China, and so on. The general opinion, in this country, of British food is tasteless, bland, over-cooked or completely disgusting.

The following four-course meal shatters all the myths of English food. Not only is it fullflavored, but it is a meal anyone would be pleased to be invited to. With my thanks to 'Chef Limey'. I hope you enjoy this meal as much as I do.

Tip Of The Week

When cooking a roast use a good quality meat thermometer to check for doneness. Place it in the center of the roast not touching any bone. Rare will equal 140 degrees, medium is 160 degrees and well is 170 degrees. Never cook a good quality roast to well done. The result will be a tough roast that lacks flavor. If you like your meat well done only cook to medium and slice off servings from the outside and they will be well done, yet still julcy.
When you cook a roast too well done, the outer slices turn done, the outer slices turn leathery and you cannot recook the leftovers without over cooking them. Always slice your roasts thinly across the grain of the meat to increase the tenderness.

Pair should return wedding gifts if trip to the altar is canceled

have read your column for many years, and we have learned a lot from you. Never did I think I would have to write to you for advice.

Abby, my 25-year-old son, a medical student and a very bright young man, met a young woman about a year ago. Both of our daughters like this young woman. this young woman, and so do we. I mention this because of the many women our son has brought home who failed to hit it off well with our daughters.

Our son and this girl decided to get married in late March. Invitations were mailed, plans were finalised, and everything seemed to be OK. Seventy-two hours before the ceremony was supposed to take place, we were notified by our son that the wedding was canceled. Despite this cancellation, we drove to see them in the city where the marriage was to take place. Our son was distraught, as was his bride.

He wanted to get married and then get counseling. (The counseling condition was made by her.) She insisted they get counseling first and then get married, if that was still feasible. She had her reasons he had his

Our problem is, the wedding gifts from her friends, and our friends, had arrived. We expected that those gifts would be returned promptly, but neither she nor our son has shown any urgency. Personally, we don't care what she does with the gifts from her side of the family. But we are from the old school and cannot condone this behavior. Both our daughters are telling us to stay out of it. As things stand, there is a possibility that they might marry later.

What do you suggest? How do we act toward our friends? Please help us clear up this mess and please den't print our name or location.

DEAR DR. GOTT: What are the dangers of regularly bathing with dangers of regularly bathing with antibacterial scape?

DEAR READER: None whatsoever. Antibacterial scaps and detergents simply contain an additional ingredient that prevents bacterial growth. When used in the normal manner, these products are completely safe.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I am under treatment for high serum cholesterol. Should I monitor my level with a home measurement device?

DEAR READER: In 1994, the Food and Drug Administration approved devices for home-monitoring of cho-lesterol levels. Although such kits are, for the most part, accurate, they have certain drawbacks.

The manufacturers' directions must be followed assiduously. Errors are common: too little blood on the test strips, prolonged waiting time and performance of the test in direct sunlight, to mention a few. In addition, the color change on the test strips is not always distinct. Moreover, drugs (such as Tylenol), vitamins (including vitamin C) and some diseases (notably multiple myeloma and liver disorders) may interfere with accurate mediant rate readings.

Finally, home devices measure only total cholesterol, they do not distinguish between HDL (the good cholesterol) and LDL (the bad).

Most authorities do not recommend such home monitoring. While you should follow your physician's advice about cholesterol determinations, I believe that he will urge you to have

DEAR DR. GOTT: You repeatedly tated that a moderate amount of cafstated that a moderate amount of caf-feine is not harmful. What is moder-ate? What are the effects of overcon-sumption? I drink 20 8-ounce cups of coffice a day.

DEAR READER: A moderate intake of caffeine would be about three cups of coffee (or the equivalent in caffeine containing soda) a day. You are clearly drinking too much. Excessive caffeine consumption will cause overstimulation. Common symptoms include insomnia, jitteri-ness, palpitations, rapid pulse, exces-sive urination, high blood pressure, and other consequences. I recom-mend that you limit your calleine, as I mentioned above, and substitute decaffeinated brew.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Every time my boyfriend wears leather, he develops pimples. For example, wearing leather sandals leads to a rash on his feet, and leather bracelets and neck-laces cause him to break out. Is this an allergy?

DEAR READER: Yes, it probably is. Don't let him wear a leather jacket.

Seriously, some people are highly sensitive to the compounds used to tan and color leather. Therefore, your boyfriend is not reacting to the leather per se, but to additives used in the processing of hides. He should avoid leather products that touch his skin. If he wishes, he can confirm my theory by seeing an allergist, who will test him for the various compounds that are causing the skin reaction.

As I mentioned yesterday, Mike Lawrence's new computer product, "Private Bridge Lessons, Volume 1," is excellent. Let's have a look at a deal from the section on safety plays. A warning, though: Almost everyone would fall to defeat given this layout of the cards.

Against your six diamond contract.

West leads the club 10: queen, king, ace. How would you continue?

North did incredibly well to remove three no-trump. If I had been Lawrence, I would have made the trump suit a major, which would have made a strong two opening by South virtually automatic.

You are faced with a loser in each minor suit. It looks so obvious to start with three rounds of spades, discard-ing dummy's club loser. Then you play a top trump. Here, though, disaster strikes. East wins with the diamond ace and returns his last spade, which

True, you were very unlucky. But good players make their own luck Here's a better plan. Cash the hear ace at trick two, cross to dummy ace at trick two, cross to dummy's spade queen, and take the heart king, discarding a spade from hand. Then play off your remaining two top spades, throwing dummy's low club. See the difference? When you play a trump honor to East's ace and he returns a spade, you can ruff high and draw West's final trump.

Look out for all possible traps, not just the conspicuous one.
