What About Healing?

Ministers are asked from time to time what one should expect in the way of healing of the body by their faith in God. We find that some people seem to think that anyone who expresses faith in God's power to heal is at worst a fraudulent imposter and at best an incompetent mystic. On the other extreme we find those who would judge any person's Christian faith by whether or not that person considered that God would always bring healing of the body at the simple wish of a human being.

As we turn to the Bible we find that Christ is shown to be a healer, in fact. One of His greatest ministries was given to the healing of the ill and the physically handicapped. The first thing that we need to recognize is that there is no healing at all that is not of God. This is not to say that no one is healed except those who see the hand of God in the healing, but we all know of many instances where good is done to a person where the benefactor is never recognized whether he be God or man. If we will stop and think long enough it is not too difficult to see that none other than God could create and sustain forces powerful and complex enough for healing.

We should also consider that God uses His children in the act of healing, at least, much of the time. We use our hands, minds, feet, eyes, ears, and numerous other parts of our bodies to make a living, play a game, and even worship God. God would not have given us such faculties if they were not to be used. If we follow such logic we can understand God working through medical doctors, dentists, nurses, scientists, technicians, administrators, pink ladies, and many other people as they use their talents for Him. There is a natural healing process and also a God directed process.

School Needs Stressed

Attorney Douglas Stenstrom, staggered members of the Sanford-Seminole Jaycees Thursday when he told them that "This country must build an entire new school system in the next five years."

"The impact of the Nova project on this county will mean that there will be 29,500 children in Seminole County Schools by 1967. This means 547 new classrooms, more than 500 more teachers and 16,400 more children."

"This is not IF we want it—we have no say about it—this is what we are going to get. We must build as many schools in the next five years as we have built in the last 49 years," Stenstrom emphasized.

"If we don't get these schools built, I can tell you positively that every school in this county will be on double sessions in a few years, and some on triple sessions. Educational standards will fall far below accreditation," Stenstrom pointed out.

"If you don't think such a thing can happen here, go over and ask them about it in Brevard County where the population has soared from 23,000 people in 1950 to 115,000 in 1960," he invited.

"Such growth as this area is seeing and will see has never been experienced anywhere else in the United States in the history of the country. We must—we must have long range planning. We must try to make it as orderly as possible."

The NOVA project means that one half as much money as it takes to run the whole United States government will be spent in this Nova impact Area in the next five years.

Stenstrom pointed out that the budget for running the entire state of Florida for a two year period is less than one billion dollars.

"Yet the U. S. government is going to spend in this area in the next five years, 20 times as much as it takes to run the entire state for two years," he added.

"We must have orderly growth," Stenstrom told the Jaycees, pointing out that "without it, educational standards will fall, roads will be so overloaded, traffic will be bumper to bumper, accidents will skyrocket, crime and delinquency will be excessive, medical, dental and hospital care will be at a premium, water, drainage and sanitation problems will be unbelievable and costs will go completely out of sight."

"However, if we work together and make plans now, at once, educational standards can be met and even improved, roads can be built, crime can be controlled, health needs met and the cost will be far less," he pointed out.

Stenstrom said that the East Florida Regional Planning Council of which Charles Lee of Oviedo and himself are members will soon release material to the county commission, city commission, zoning and planning boards, and school board, the results of aerial photographs, land use maps, economic surveys, population surveys and other necessary information to help them in their planning for all phases of the phenomenal growth which is coming.

Speaking of the problem of roads, Stenstrom emphasized that rights of way to every major highway in this county must be obtained right away. This is up to the counties. The state or Federal government will not buy the rights of way.

"I am not saying this is right or fair," Stenstrom said "but this is the law. We are building one road right now in the south end of the county where the rights of way cost more than the building of the road."

Stenstrom emphasized that the rights of way to SR 46 State Roads 436, 426 and 419, must be obtained to provide adequate east-west roads across the county to the east coast.

"If we don't get those rights of way on SR 46, do you know what will happen? They'll (the SRD) build that east-west four-lane access road to the coast from Orange City in Volusia County," he said.

Are we letting it fade away?

In America, a free press is a vital force for truth . . . and the mortal foe of those who seek to destroy freedom. Yet, unless America remains powerful enough to discourage all her enemies, freedom of the press could fade away!

Just as freedom of the press keeps us enlightened and informed, so freedom of the individual and of enterprise keeps us prosperous and progressive. Weaken or destroy those freedoms and you destroy America. Only a powerful America can safeguard our independence and freedom.

Today, tax-paying, investor-owned power companies have made us the greatest electric nation on earth. As one of the more than 300 such companies in America, Florida Power & Light Company is proud of its part in helping to keep America powerful.

Along with other Florida power companies, FP&L is working to expand, improve and strengthen an interconnecting network of transmission lines that will guarantee dependable, low-cost power for all Florida . . . today and tomorrow. And, in its own operating area, FP&L projects now under construction will virtually double system capability in the 5-year period, 1962-66. The additional 1,875,000 kilowatts of power will help to make Florida . . . and America . . . more powerful than ever!

It's A Privilege

It is the firm conviction of this paper that the right to vote is a privilege gained for the people through the sacrifice of countless lives and fortunes, and is not to be taken lightly.

Even if you feel the candidates haven't been particularly inspiring in their appearances before the public to further their own causes and damage those of their opponents, it is still the duty of each of us to express our opinions in a manner not available to a majority of the world's population.

Traditionally the primaries during the years between national elections have been lacking in public response. This is a tradition that needs deflating. When a vote is as close to home as the county elections, it is necessary that everyone turn out to express his will at the voting machine.

We earnestly urge every voter in Seminole County to assume this one responsibility of citizenship in a free country. It is the basis of our democratic form of government.

Political Notebook

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Next developments in President Kennedy's hold-the-line policy for prices and wages will be a couple of public, labor and management leaders' conferences in Washington.

First will be the regular May 1-3 meeting of the President's Advisory Committee on Labor-Management Policy.

This will be his third try to reach agreement on a broad statement of how to obtain free and responsible collective bargaining and industrial peace. Two previous drafts have been rejected. During the past month a third draft worked out by a subcommittee under David L. Cole has been circulated for consideration.

If it can be approved, it will be presented to the President's Policy Panel.

More than a year's effort, the full 21-member Advisory Committee has produced only one final paper for the President, on automation.

Others still in preparation are intended to recommend programs for dealing with economic growth and unemployment, insuring that American products are competitive in world markets, sound wage and price policies.

The second meeting to consider all these problems will be a much larger White House Conference on National Economic Issues, now scheduled for May 21-23. The idea for this gathering came from the President's Advisory Committee.

Invitations are going out to nearly 200 public, labor and management leaders suggested by Advisory Committee members. President Kennedy is scheduled to address the opening session.

Other speakers will be the following secretaries: Treasury, Dillon; Labor, Goldberg; Commerce, Hodges. If he is in the country at the time, Secretary of State Dean Rusk will review trade policy. Chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors Dr. Walter W. Heller will review the business outlook.

Speeches by government leaders will be interspersed with round table discussions in which any of the participants may get up and speak their mind.

This session is not expected to produce any resolutions or decide any policies. It will be strictly a communication meeting for free exchange of views by public, labor and management leaders. Government spokesmen will explain their programs and attempt to do a selling job on the President's policies to restrain price and wage increases, curb inflation and stabilize the economy.

These will be the first general meetings of labor and management leaders with government officials and representatives of the general public since the steel price increase was announced and withdrawn. This development has left labor leaders sore and aggressive, employers in something of a quandary, on the defensive.

The coming meetings may therefore produce more heat than light.

Labor leaders are back where they were last December. That was when President Kennedy made his direct appeal for voluntary restraint in collective bargaining at the AFL-CIO convention in Miami Beach. Delegates rejected the idea out of hand, calling for higher wages and shorter hours. This is the organized labor position now, in spite of restraint shown in the steel wage negotiations, under government pressure.

Dick West Says

Foundling 'Dads' On The Ball

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Almost everyone agrees that our founding fathers showed great prudence in guaranteeing the right of a citizen to petition the government.

But over the years the exercise of that right has sometimes taken forms that the founding fathers possibly did not envision.

I have at hand three recent communications from supplicating citizens which would have left the Constitution framers in the dark but which somehow seem to illuminate our times.

The first petition, received by Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., was drafted by Tom Bahli, an Indian trader who describes himself as "an patriotic American interested only in keeping America strong."

He adds, however, that he "wouldn't mind making a little money while pursuing these noble goals."

"It has come to my attention," Bahli wrote, "that Russia may begin a crash program to outproduce the United States in Hopi pottery and Navajo rugs, two important fields in which we have always maintained a consistent superiority."

"I am therefore asking that you draw up appropriation legislative bills which will produce vast sums of money to spur these long-neglected portions of our national economy."

"If we let those godless Russians close the Hopi pottery and Navajo rug gap, our national posture is bound to suffer."

The second petition was sent to Rep. Frank T. Bow, R-Ohio, by Dr. David E. Howell, an Alliance, Ohio, dentist who reported that he had produced more false teeth than he was able to sell.

"Would it be possible for you to have the government buy my surplus dentures and store them with the surplus crops?" Howell asked.

"Of course, I realize that storage might become a problem, so maybe you could send the surplus dentures overseas as foreign aid."

"This would motivate the people over there to buy our corn on the cob, thus solving the problem of surplus corn and dentures and help the payments balance, too."

"However, this plan might antagonize the dentists and corn growers overseas and cause them to become Communists if we did not subsidize them."

"A patient told me recently that he was getting paid for not growing corn, so perhaps it would be simpler if you would just send me the money and I could go into the non-making-dentures business."

The third petition was devised by George Q. Lewis, director of something called the "National Laugh Foundation."

He is sounding out Congress on the possibility of providing hospital care of "sick" comedians.

No matter how you try, it is not possible to hold your arm completely straight; and a woman can't even hold her arm as straight as a man. The forearm and upper arm do not form a straight line, because the forearm is deflected outward about 10 degrees to 15 degrees in men and 30 to 25 degrees in women. This is called the carrying angle.

It is estimated that some 34 million American women smoke cigars; that's 34 percent of the U. S. cigar smokers.

Public Forum

Dear Sir:

I would like to commend Judge Vernon Mize, on his stand regarding those who drive cars while under the influence of alcohol. I have always been of the opinion that this is the only way to control this problem. We are all inclined to think that a jail term is drastic, but it has been proven that a fine alone will never correct this situation. Before you criticize Judge Mize about his stand just think how you would feel if one of your loved ones was injured or killed by someone while under the influence of alcohol. I know you will say it won't happen, but it has happened many times. It is unfortunate that the first case had to be a woman, but remember, they as drivers, can kill as quick as a man driver.

I feel that a few days in jail the first time is fine, but they should be warned that for the second offense the term will be for a much longer period. If all the judges nation wide would start this type of punishment I feel we would have less deaths on the highways.

Sincerely,
R. A. Cobb

Fight Ship Subsidy
JACKSONVILLE (UPI) — The State Chamber of Commerce is throwing all of its efforts into getting a bill through the U. S. Senate which it says would eliminate an unfair subsidy for West Coast shipbuilders.

The bill, which has already passed the House, would eliminate a six per cent subsidy differential to West Coast builders. The chamber says the subsidy was unfair and discriminatory against East Coast, Gulf and Great Lakes shipbuilders.

Dr. Crane's Worry Clinic

CASE M-405: Freda W., aged 33, offers a typical wife's complaint.

"Dr. Crane, my husband sits around at night reading the paper," she began.

"Or he will watch TV till bed time without offering to help me with the dishes. I must also get the children into their pajamas and even put out the garbage."

"Then at bed time, he will be as sweet as can be. But by then, I'm too tired and disgusted, anyway."

"Don't you think husbands ought to be more considerate of their wives? If they want affection at 11 p.m., shouldn't they 'buy' it by helping their wives with the dishes and other evening chores?"

Freda has a good point, for she was a high salaried office secretary prior to her marriage.

Even now she gets up earlier than her husband in the morning to care for the baby and prepare her husband's breakfast.

She labors as hard all day as does her husband, for most men nowadays don't do work that women couldn't do in offices or factories or even on the farms.

The heavy, backbreaking labor is largely gone from America. So men can't argue about working "harder" than their wives. They usually don't!

Nowadays it isn't how hard you work but how many hours! And by that yardstick most wives put in a longer day than do their husbands.

So a busy wife and mother has a right to expect her husband to help her with some of the evening chores, for she has already put in more than her eight hours of labor before she even starts getting supper.

Most men are spoiled in childhood. They learn to expect women to do the dishes, make the beds and handle the other household chores.

If they have sisters, they usually loaf around and let the girls do more than their fair share of the household tasks.

In fact, many grown brothers and sisters, who aren't yet married but who live at home, will pay board and room to their elderly parents.

But when they get home at night from their jobs, the sons then think their sisters should head for the kitchen to help their aged mother with the evening chores, though they may not lift their hand in any household duties.

Yet the sister may pay just as much for board and room as does the indolent brother! So it is high time American men got wise to this new age of fair play.

"But I earn the pay check!" the average husband may boastfully exclaim.

That's not true. A wife earns as much of that pay check as her husband, by being his housekeeper, cook, laundress, baby sitter, etc.

If any husband doubts that, just see what he'd be forced to pay for a cook and laundress and baby sitter who puts in 12 hours per day at his home!

That will come to at least half his pay check. And in many factory jobs wives are more nimble-fingered, so they could actually bring home a bigger pay check than their husbands.

If you stingy husbands don't feel that your wife is a 50-50 partner, then you just stay home for a month and tend the house, while your wife goes to an office or factory job.

You'll be delighted thereafter to go back to your former position and cut her in for a 50-50 partnership.

Send for my "Rating Scales for Husbands and Wives," enclosing a four-cent stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents. They list 200 items. (Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long four-cent stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

"We've come a long way... but our greatest years lie ahead."

For 16 years I have been privileged to serve you in the United States Congress. During this time Florida has made its greatest strides forward in all areas. I am proud to have had a part in this development.

Never before have the opportunities for a better life been available to so many. Even though our progress has been great, we now know this has been only a prelude to even greater things to come.

We must, however, guard against two serious threats—inflation here at home and communism in Latin America and abroad. For my part, I pledge my continued vigilance against both these evils. I am confident we have the capabilities and the self-discipline to defeat them.

On May 8 you will nominate a United States Senator from Florida who will serve your needs. I deeply appreciate the continuing confidence you have placed in me. The knowledge and experience I have gained through your help have been valuable and will enable me to serve you even better in the future.

I respectfully ask that you vote for me in the Democratic Primary for United States Senator next Tuesday.

Tokyo Train Death Toll Climbs To 163

TOKYO (UPI) — The death toll in a collision involving three trains on a suburban Tokyo commuter line climbed to 163 today when rescue workers found more bodies in the twisted wreckage.

Officials said 385 persons were injured in the second worst railway accident in Japan's history Thursday night. The accident happened shortly before 10 p.m. after the engine of a freight train apparently ran through a red warning light, hitting an open switch and toppling onto a parallel track used by electric commuter trains of the Joban elevated line.

Before flares and warning lights could be put out, a speeding nine-car commuter train ploughed into the derailed engine.

Screaming, shouting and bleeding passengers began leaping through windows and doors. A few passersby had come to help remove the injured when the next train smashed into the first commuter train, sending bodies and wreckage flying through the air.

AUTOMOBILE DEALERS and related agencies enjoyed a dinner at the Capri Wednesday in celebration of the recent successful third annual auto show held in Sanford. Special guests were also invited. Standing are W. F. Hunt of Hunt Lincoln-Mercury; Jim Benton of Holler Motors; Ben Howland of Seminole County Motors, Bill

Seated are Jim Doucette of the Florida State Bank Loan Dept.; Howard Hodges of Sanford Atlantic Bank; Mrs. Lois Housholder of the Sanford Atlantic Loan Dept.; Walter Gielow, Mrs. Gielow and Dale Coven of GFC in Orlando. Federal Agencies Hit By Scandal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Senate judiciary subcommittee said today that federal regulatory agencies have such a huge backlog of cases awaiting action that it "approaches a national scandal."

The subcommittee, headed by Sen. John A. Carroll, D-Colo., said that although significant advances have been in the procedures of the agencies, many still lag badly in handling their loads.

It cited as an example the Federal Power Commission, which last November had pending 97 natural gas rate cases involving $393.5 million.

Members of some agencies, the subcommittee found, are theoretically supposed to decide thousands of important cases every year. It said that "nothing can justify" such a procedure.

Carroll and Sen. Phillip A. Hart, D-Mich., have introduced a bill that would make hearing examiners' opinions final unless the agency members decide otherwise.

Other congressional news: Civil Rights—The southern bloc fighting the Senate bill to make sixth grade education proof of literacy for federal election voters were still confident they could fend off any effort to stop their talkathon. But sources close to the southerners indicated they were much less sure of their ability to convince the administration to let the bill die.

Boats — Informed sources said President Kennedy's plan to tax pleasure boats to help finance expansion of outdoor recreation areas created such a volley of protest from boat owners that the administration has abandoned hope for its approval.

There's Just About Nothing Titov Can't Talk About

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gherman S. Titov can talk about almost anything.

He can speak of snacks in space and peace on earth, and muse with fear on the fate of man.

The cosmonaut was scheduled to return to Washington for a late afternoon reception at the Soviet Embassy.

Rail Wage Boost To Come Under Fire

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A presidential board's recommendation of a 10.4-cent an hour wage increase for a half-million railroad employees appeared certain today to come under fire from both management and unions.

President Kennedy hailed the report, issued Thursday night, as gratifying, and called on both sides "to negotiate a responsible and non-inflationary settlement in their own and in the public interest."

But a spokesman for the 11 non-operating railroad unions quickly expressed distaste for the emergency board's proposals and the railroads, judging from past statements, seemed just as likely to oppose them.

Under the Railway Labor Act, the board's report automatically prevents a strike for 30 days. But the unions will be free to strike any time after June 2, as they have threatened to do.

Here are the board's recommendations compared to the position taken by the unions and the railroads:

Board — Recommended a four-cent an hour increase retroactive to last Feb. 1 plus a 2 1/2 per cent increase May 1. Government officials said this would amount to an average 10.4 cents an hour as of May 1.

Union — Demanded 25-cent an hour increase and contends such a boost would be well within the President's guidelines for noninflationary settlements because of rapid productivity gains.

Railroads — Proposed a 20 per cent pay reduction for 38 groups of middle and lower range employes, a flat $1.25 hourly rate for employes serving food or drinks.

Board—Recommended five working days advance notice for employes whose jobs would be abolished.
