BRIEFS

Sturm and Goodall wed

SANFORD — Seminole County commissioner Bob Sturm married Gertrude Goodall of Sanford Monday afternoon. "We've been seeing each other for about 11 or 12 weeks," said Sturm this morning. "I went away to St. Petersburg for the weekend and when I came back, I called her and said 'Let's get together.' After we got together yesterday, we both decided we were unhappy as hell and we were really only happy when we were together. It was kind of a mutual thing. We decided to get married at 2 and at 4, we were married."

Sturm said Seminole County Clerk of Courts Maryanne Morse officiated over the simple proceeding. Sturm has been single since the death of wife Peg last June.

McCollum begins campaign

U.S. Congressman Bill McCollum will host a "Grassroots Campaign Kick-off" May 3 for his 1992 re-election effort for a sixth term. McCollum, a Longwood Republican, represents all of Seminole County and portions of Orange County. The Sunday dinner will be at Townsend's Plantation in Apopka from 2 until 5 p.m. The cost is $25 per person, $45 per couple and $10 per child. Dinner includes fried chicken, ham, mashed potatoes and black-eyed peas. For reservations, call 682-6474.

Volunteers hold community night

SANFORD — The Retired Senior Volunteer Program will sponsor a community night at Shoney's Restaurant in Sanford, on Orlando Drive, May 5. From 5 p.m. until 9 p.m., RSVP will receive a portion of all regular menu items sold. RSVP provides seniors to volunteer for charitable causes throughout the county, including the Temporary Emergency Food Assistance Program. Shoney's is located at 3150 Orlando Drive.

Jail tightens security

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Beginning Monday, inmates at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility made their appearances in the jailhouse courtroom in handcuffs and leg-irons.

And in the future, inmates may make their first court appearance by way of closed-circuit television.

Those and other changes were made as the result of the 12-hour escape of inmate Robert Baron last Tuesday. The unshackled Baron shoved his way through a deputy and two corrections officers and fled to a nearby wooded area. He was captured near Longwood after Lake Mary police say he stole a car from a woman near the jail.

Jail administrator Maj. David Brierton said the changes were made Monday after a review of courtroom security and rights of the public making appearances in the same courtroom as inmates. Brierton said the changes will be made only with the acceptance of judges, but he anticipates their cooperation.

"We think this will do it without going overboard," said Brierton.

Brierton said he did not believe courtroom security was lax before the changes. "In fairness, court security was in place for several years and seemed to work," said Brierton. "This time it didn't. But now we think we have discouraged repeats of this type incident."

Brierton said only five inmates at a time will be allowed in a locked jail courtroom for arraignments, probation violations and sentencing. Only inmates will appear before the judge, no undetained members of the public will mingle with the inmates as before. Outside the courtroom, a secured hallway will become a "staging area" for inmates waiting to enter the courtroom.

Courtroom security, consisting of an armed deputy and corrections officer and one unarmed bailiff, will not be changed, he said.

Brierton said inmates making their first appearance in court will now be handcuffed, but will continue to stand before the judge in a locked courtroom. No undetained members of the public making similar first appearances will be in the courtroom with them as before. The number of detainees in the courtroom will be limited only by docket and courtroom size, said Brierton.

Brierton said he is researching the use of video cameras for inmates' first appearances. The inmates would remain in a secured section of the jail but see and be seen by way of television. See Jail, Page 5A

Foil egg encourages students to recycle

By VICKI DeBORNER

SANFORD — Goodness gracious... great balls of foil!

No, the space aliens have not landed and left a giant metallic egg to hatch on the front lawn of Pine Crest Elementary School, 405 W. 27th Street, Sanford.

The large ball of aluminum foil and aluminum pie tins that rested against the school's sign all day yesterday is made of used foil collected by students and staff at the school since November.

"We started early on to take advantage of the holidays," said Renee Priest, the school's PTA environmental chairman. "At Thanksgiving and Christmas, people use a lot of aluminum foil."

The ball weighs more than 200 pounds, Priest said. She noted that the bulky item became too unwieldy to place on the scale a few months ago, so they won't know the exact weight of it until it's officially weighed at the recycling center.

The foil, Priest said, has been See Foil, Page 5A

Streetman 'roast' soon

Time is running out to purchase tickets to the "Fred Streetman Roast" to benefit the Good Samaritan Home in Sanford.

More than half of the 400 tickets have been sold for Thursday's $100-per-plate dinner at the Altamonte Springs Hilton. U.S. Congressman Bill McCollum and National Republican Committee co-chairman Jenie Austin are among the 10 "roasters" honoring Streetman, who will retire from the Seminole County commission this year. Central Florida leads NWS in modernization

FORT LAUDERDALE — Lightning, floods, tornadoes and hurricanes will be much easier to predict once the National Weather Service's new radar system is complete, officials say.

The sophisticated $1.2 billion radar network should provide advance warning of dangerous storms nationwide by 1996, said Weather Service deputy director Robert Landis, who is in charge of the modernization effort.

Eventually, Florida will have new radar stations in Melbourne, which serves Central Florida, Miami, Jacksonville, Tampa, Tallahassee, Key West and at Eglin Air Force Base in the Panhandle, Landis said. The West Palm Beach station then will be closed or reduced to one employee.

The service now depends on 1950s-era vacuum-tube radar equipment, so old that spare parts no longer exist in the United States. For years, the agency went to the Soviet Union for replacements. Now, they must be handcrafted in machine shops.

"We don't know how much longer we can go," Landis told The Fort Lauderdale News in a telephone interview. "It's getting tougher and more expensive."

Some of the meteorologists in the South Florida weather office in suburban Miami "weren't even born when that thing went in," said meteorologist Ray Biedinger, referring to machinery first installed in 1957.

The agency's future can be seen 150 miles away in Melbourne, where a new Doppler radar system began working about six months ago.

"We're going to see so much data it's going to be mind-boggling," Biedinger said.

Double murderer executed today

Reprieve at last minute dramatically overturned

By MICHELLE LOCKE
Associated Press Writer

SAN QUENTIN — Double murderer Robert Alton Harris went to his death in the gas chamber today in California's first execution in 25 years, after a dramatic last-minute stay was overturned.

In an extraordinary move, the Supreme Court overturned a fourth and final stay, issued by the U.S. 9th Circuit Court of Appeals, and ordered lower courts not to file any more stays without the high court's permission. The fourth stay was issued after Harris was already strapped in the gas chamber.

After the Supreme Court's ruling, Harris, 39, was hastily returned to the chamber, looking somber but winking at one guard. He mouthed, "all right."

The gas was introduced at about 6:05 a.m., and shortly afterward Harris' head jerked from left to right before falling slowly to his chest. He appeared to be unconscious about 6:12 a.m., and was pronounced dead at 6:21 a.m.

Harris died 14 years after he shot to death two San Diego teen-agers so he could use their car for a bank robbery. He admitted taking part in the slayings; his supporters cited his past as an abused child, among other things, as reason he should have been spared.

Longwood's garbage rate-increase killed

By NICK PFENAU
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — Local residents packed the City Hall again last night to object to a new garbage-collection proposal, prompting the City Commission to reject a proposed ordinance that called for a rate increase.

If approved, the proposed ordinance would have established a new three year contract with Industrial Waste Services.

The vote was three to two, with Commissioners Paul Lovestrand, Clanci Keith and Fred Pearl voting against it on second reading.

Two weeks ago, the City Commission passed the first reading of the ordinance, with Commissioners Lovestrand and Keith voting against it.

The proposed new contract with IWS would have brought back the twice per week household trash collection. In addition to continuation of the once per week yard trash and recyclable materials collections.

IWS has informed the city that the return would increase the cost by 89 cents per household, per month.

Lovestrand has been one of the leading objectors. During a number of previous meetings on the matter, he has objected to the city's plan to continue the contract without putting it out for bids.

He also repeatedly has questioned why the original IWS contract calling for the 2-1-1 collection changed to only one each per week, demanding to know why the household trash collection dropped to only one per week, with a request for an increase in order to return it to what Lovestrand said was agreed upon in the original contract. Community Affairs leader named

TALLAHASSEE — A growth management veteran with Capitol lobbying experience was chosen to lead the Department of Community Affairs, left without a secretary when Bill Sadowaki was killed in a plane crash.

Gov. Lawton Chiles on Monday appointed attorney Linda Shelley, 40, to the $89,000-a-year position.

"Linda is a veteran of Florida's growth management efforts and is dedicated to balancing our growth needs with a sound quality of life," Chiles said.

Shelley most recently has worked as a lobbyist for the city of Tallahassee, the Regional Planning Council Association and the Defense Lawyers Association. She also represented Martin and St. Johns counties before DCA on growth management issues.

Carnival goers claim discrimination

ST. PETERSBURG — Three carnival goers claim they were kept off a thrill ride because they are all legally blind.

The carnival manager denies the accusation, saying he refunded the trio's money Saturday only after they refused to sign liability waivers his insurance company requires if there is a possible risk because of a handicap.

"We're very concerned about individual rights, but it's a delicate balance between the safety of the individual and what some people perceive as their rights to be admitted," said Tom Porter, office manager for the traveling Fantastic Midways, which had been set up in a shopping mall parking lot.

Joe Miller and companions Tammy Hawkins and Mike Hatcher consider the case handicapped discrimination. They were seeking to ride the "Zipper," a kind of Ferris wheel in which metal cages spin as the wheel turns.

Reynolds explains disclosure

TAMPA — Actor Burt Reynolds said his recent disclosure of a 1984 addiction to a prescription sleeping pill was intended to help others who may fall into the same trap.

Reynolds made the disclosure in an interview for the April 25 issue of TV Guide. In it, he said he nearly died from taking as many as 50 Halcion tablets a day to deaden pain he suffered following a jaw injury while filming the 1984 movie "City Heat."

"Having overcome this, my concern was for the many people who might not realize the very addictive nature of the drug," Reynolds said Monday in a statement. "I felt it was important to relate my own experience in the hopes that the public would become more aware of its dangers."

"If one person is saved from the trap, then it will be worth all the public and press scrutiny I will receive."

Kidnapping trial postponed

MARIETTA, Ga. — A judge postponed for a day the kidnapping trial of a woman who claims she hid hundreds of children from abusive fathers.

Superior Court Judge Harris Hines delayed Faye Yager's trial until today so he could spend Monday hearing pleas in dozens of other criminal cases, his secretary said.

Mrs. Yager, 44, the founder of the Children's Underground Network, is accused of kidnapping a Florida boy, interfering with the custody of his 8-year-old sister and treating both cruelly.

Mrs. Yager, who was arrested in 1990 and freed on $15,000 bond, has denied the charges.

If convicted, she faces a maximum 60-year prison sentence.

Chiles OKs pro-business bill

By CURT ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Lawton Chiles has signed legislation he said would improve Florida's ability to recruit business and quicken the process of issuing permits for development.

The bill (HB 55E), passed during a special session last month, creates two economic programs: "Enterprise Florida" and "Partners for a Better Florida."

Chiles hailed them as "a major step in the long journey toward true economic prosperity for all Floridians."

"We've been lagging behind," Chiles said. "Today we sharpen our tools and begin to get back our competitive edge."

The "Enterprise Florida" initiative sets up a non-profit corporation led by a 21-member committee of public officials and business executives to recruit industry, design job-training programs, promote ideas from state universities and help locate financing for businesses.

Florida has never had a combined public-private business recruitment effort before, leading to a scattershot approach that sometimes translated into lost opportunities for jobs and investment.

"It's been said too long that economic development in Florida is like pouring molasses in the wintertime," said Sen. Pat Thomas, D-Quincy.

The "Partners" idea sets up another group to examine ways to accelerate the process of obtaining permits from agencies such as the Department of Environmental Regulation. It also will seek to eliminate duplication and move the state toward a "one-stop" permitting operation.

DER Secretary Carol Browner said the legislation would not try to skirt environmental protection laws in order to foster business growth. Many of the recommendations would have to be enacted by the Legislature.

"You can streamline the permitting process and not lose the environmental protection," Browner said. "The real issue is getting an answer faster. It's not necessarily getting a different answer."

Chiles actually signed the bill on Friday but held a ceremony Monday to highlight several points.

Way Back When

The faculty of the Sanford Grammar School posed during the 1920-21 school year. Grades one, two and three were supervised by Principal Stella P. Arrington. Grades four, five, six, seven and eight were under the supervision of Principal Clara Millen. At that time the Sanford Junior High School at Palmetto and Ninth was Sanford High School with grades nine through 12. After Southside Primary was built, grades one, two, three and four attended that school. Sanford Grammar became the school for all the fifth and sixth graders.

Nursing shortage

Health care workers needed, students wait

By JACKIE MALLIFAX
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Thousands of people who wanted to enroll in health programs at Florida's community colleges would have made a dent in the state's shortage of personnel — but there was no room for them.

"The applicant pools are up considerably ... from where they were two years ago," Erin McColekey, an analyst for the State Board of Community Colleges, said Monday.

Because of staffing and equipment requirements, it costs 62 percent more to teach nursing and related health-care fields than other advanced and professional instruction.

In a report to be presented today to Gov. Lawton Chiles and the Cabinet, the community colleges recommend that $5 million be made available to community colleges to create or expand health care programs.

If they agree, the governor and Cabinet would pass the recommendation on to lawmakers, who still have to come up with a budget for the fiscal year that starts in July. Chiles vetoed the budget legislators produced during the regular session because it cut services rather than raised taxes.

McColekey attributed the new interest to the recession and marketing as people look for secure jobs.

Last year, some 9,200 people applied to the registered nursing programs at Florida's 28 community colleges. There was room for just 3,400.

That acceptance rate of 37 percent looks good compared with the licensed practical nurse program. In 1991, there were 2,200 students interested in becoming LPNs. Fewer than 600 — just 28 percent — were accepted.

By the turn of the century, the statewide demand for RNs will increase by 84 percent and the demand for practical nurses 55 percent, according to predictions by the state Department of Labor.

Gardner criticizes student fee

From Staff and Wire Reports

TALLAHASSEE — University student leaders defended a fee that funds a group that lobbies on environmental and consumer issues as a democratically approved charge.

"Of all the fees students pay, it's the only one a majority of the students voted for and the only one they can choose not to pay," said Joe Murphy, a senior at the University of South Florida and chairman of Florida Public Interest Research Group.

A leading lawmaker says there should be a review of the FPIRG fee, which students at the University of South Florida, Florida State University and Florida International University pay — unless they check off a box to avoid the charge.

About 30 percent of students choose not to pay. But the critics say students don't realize the fee is voluntary.

"What they're using is, in effect, a hidden tax. It's just not right," said Sen. Winston "Bud" Gardner, chairman of the Senate budget panel

"What they're using is, in effect, a hidden tax. It's just not right."

—Sen. Winston "Bud" Gardner

who represents parts of east Seminole County including Sanford.

Gardner, D-Titusville, and other state lawmakers said they may review the organization's funding methods when the Legislature convenes in May for a special budget session. During the regular session this spring, an attempt to change the automatic funding system so that students would have to actively elect to pay the fee failed.

Members of FPIRG link the criticism to their unsuccessful campaign to increase the use of recycled materials and reduce wasteful packaging.

Driving with suspended license charged

Veronica Ann Hanes, 21, 2547 Georgia Ave., Sanford, was charged with driving with a suspended driver's license when she was arrested on Saturday.

Police said she was stopped for a traffic violation and it was determined that her driver's license had been suspended three times for failure to pay fines.

She was transported to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held in lieu of $100 bond.

Traffic violation brings arrest

Lynn J. Cuthouse Jr., 27, 591 Lake Minnie Dr., Sanford was charged with driving with a suspended driver's license when he was arrested Sunday.

Police said he was stopped for a traffic violation when it was discovered that his license had been suspended three times for failure to pay fines and failure to appear in court on a traffic summons.

He was transported to the county jail and held on $100 bond.

Loitering, prowling charged

Ronald Anderson, 37, 905 12th St., Sanford, was charged with loitering and prowling and with resisting arrest without violence when he was arrested on Sunday.

Police said they stopped a vehicle in which Anderson was a passenger. Police said the vehicle had been moving slowly at Old Lake Mary Road and 25th Street. Police said Anderson attempted to flee when the vehicle stopped.

He was transported to the county jail and held on $500 bond.

Drug charges filed

Louis Pacella, 24, 1740 Sunwood Dr., Longwood, was charged with possession of less than 20 grams of a controlled substance when he was arrested on Saturday.

Police report that he was sleeping on the bench inside the Domino's Pizza on U.S. 17-92 in Longwood. They said that when he searched for his identification after he was awakened, he pulled a hand-rolled cigarette from his wallet. The contents of the cigarette tested positively for marijuana.

He was taken to the county jail and held on $500 bond.

Couple charged with domestic violence

Heidi Frink, 41, and Mark Frink, both of 952 Bird Bay Ct., Lake Mary, were charged with domestic violence when they were arrested Sunday.

Police said they were involved in a verbal altercation that turned physical. Both displayed bruises and cuts.

Both were taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held without bond.

Firearm possession leads to arrest

William Donald Vaughn, 35, 870 S. Grant St., Longwood, was charged with possession of a firearm by a convicted felon when he was arrested on Saturday.

Police said they were responding to a call at Bottles Bar, 222 State Road 434 in reference to someone who might be going to get a gun to resolve an argument.

Police report finding Vaughn at a relative's house with three 12 gauge shotgun shells in his pocket and the gun not far away.

Police said that he had been convicted of a felony in 1990.

He was transported to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held on $2,000 bond.

Warrant arrests made

James Knox Bieber, 41, of 409 Dorchester Square, Sanford, on charges that he was wanted in the state of Alabama for failure to pay child support.

He is being held at the county jail without bond.

Willie Martin, 29, 1820-B Sanford Landings Apartments on charges that he failed to appear in court on battery charges. He turned himself in at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility where he was held on $2,000 bond.

Freddie Lee Williams Jr., 23, 2850 E. 21st St., Sanford on charges that he failed to appear in court on charges of sale of a counterfeit controlled substance.

He was held at the county jail in lieu of $10,000 bond.

Jury will deliberate land suit

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Seminole County Expressway Authority will ask a jury to decide the value of the damages to Christopher and Janet Bulet resulting from a property reservation placed on their Upsala Road home in 1987.

The Fifth District Court of Appeals upheld a decision a year ago by Seminole County Circuit Judge Robert B. McGregor stating the authority's 1987 roadway reservation maps prevented the Bulets from selling their. On Feb. 7, the DCA agreed with McGregor's April 9, 1991 decision the reservation map had resulted in a financial loss to the Bulets. The DCA denied a request by the authority for a rehearing March 17.

SCEA Attorney Lonnie Groot said he will not recommend a $60,000 settlement offer proposed by the Bulet's attorney Jay Small because the amount is unsupported. Groot said he will recommend authority members ask a jury to determine the amount of damages the Bulets' incurred.

The Bulets sued in January 1990, saying they were unable to sell their home because of the right of way reservation the authority placed on a portion of their property in 1987. They said they were facing financial difficulties which forced them to sell their home. But they were unable to sell their home due to the reservation and subsequently lost it to foreclosure.

McGregor agreed April 9, 1991 the reservation amounted to a "taking" of their property without immediate compensation.

In May, following a Florida Supreme Court case involving the Florida Department of Transportation use of the reservations, the authority removed all of the reservations.

Groot said now that the appeals court has agreed the reservation amounted to an uncompensated taking, the issue that remains is the amount of damages.

Locker campaign features expert

Nationally-known Charleston, S.C. Police Chief Reuben M. Greenberg will be the keynote speaker at a May 9 fundraiser for Seminole County sheriff's candidate David Locker, a Democrat.

Greenberg, former chief deputy for Orange County and deputy director of the Florida Department of Law Enforcement, has written a book and several articles on crime-fighting and has appeared on national television and received several national awards for his efforts.

A reception and opportunity to meet Greenberg will be held at the Ramada Inn in Altamonte Springs from 7:30 p.m. until 8 p.m. Dinner will follow from 8 p.m. until 11 p.m. Live entertainment will also be featured.

Terry quits

Scheduled to be replaced, he's had enough

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — City Administrator Donald Terry submitted his resignation last night. It will become effective April 30.

Terry was terminated from his post during a City Commission meeting on Jan. 30. At that time he had volunteered to continue serving in that capacity until a replacement could be found.

"It probably won't be long before they find a new Administrator," Terry said this morning. "So I don't feel as though I'm leaving the city in any serious problem."

Regarding his reason for the surprise announcement made during last night's meeting, Terry said, "When I agreed to remain on a temporary basis, I did so under the condition that I would be able to maintain a harmony with the Commission and be productive."

He added, "There have been more and more instances lately where I don't believe this harmony has existed, and cooperation has often been replaced with turmoil, so I think it's time I moved on."

Mayor Adrienne Perry commented, "I was surprised by the move, but with the pressure Mr. Terry has been under as a result of recent city problems, I can see why he is doing this."

Terry said, "I really had expected the commissioners to find a replacement for my post by this time, and I have already made some plans." He would not immediately comment on any specific details for the immediate future.

$1 million dump fine reviewed

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County attorneys are negotiating with Art Lane dumper Frank Sobotka's attorney to settle his $1 million code fine.

Assistant county attorney Lonnie Groot said Monday Sobotka's attorney has offered a settlement for the $500 fine, running daily since 1986. Groot would not disclose the terms of the settlement offer, but said it may include a cleanup of the site, suspected to harbor hazardous waste since 1983, prior to Sobotka's ownership.

On Jan. 2, Sobotka was sentenced to one year of probation and donation of 100 hours of community service to the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission after he was found guilty for illegal dumping on his property in early 1991. The site is located at the northwest end of Art Lane, a tiny unincorporated enclave north of Lake Mary Boulevard between Sanford and Lake Mary.

On Oct. 22, 1988, the Code Enforcement Board fined Sobotka and fellow owners of the property Rodney S. and Carolyn R. Laval $500 per day for illegal dumping and for operating a dump without a permit. The fine has continued at $500 per day, seven days a week without abatement since then.

As of today, (ED'S NOTE: 4-21) the fine reached $1,004,500, the largest amount ever imposed by the county code board.

On Jan. 7, Sobotka filed for Chapter 11 reorganization of his debts in the Middle Division of U.S. Bankruptcy Court in Orlando in January. Sobotka of Longwood is owner of JCL Landclearing Inc., which uses the Art Lane site to dump land clearing debris.

The county and state has sought a cleanup of the property since 1983 when groundwater contamination was found. In 1985, a county inspection found Fiberglass boat molds among other unpermitted materials. Before the state could require the previous owner to remove the contamination, the property was sold to Sobotka and the Lavalls.

Sentencing

To Luis Armando Valdez, a Mexican who sold clothes from the back of his truck to support his family of six, it was an offer too tempting to refuse. A man he knew only as Ruben promised him $2,000 to drive a car with an unknown amount of marijuana in it. Valdez was caught. In sentencing him, the judge in Arizona's U.S. District Court considered not only Valdez's actions as a "mule," or drug courier, but also living conditions along the border, where he said "people are starving to death."

As a result, the judge knocked the mandatory prison sentence of 41 to 51 months down to eight months, plus three years of supervised release. The U.S. government appealed.

The 9th Circuit Court of Appeals upheld Valdez's abbreviated sentence. The decision gives judges new leeway to consider socioeconomic conditions when sentencing drug-smuggling defendants.

Judicial discretion is creeping back into the sentencing picture.

Not everyone is pleased. In a blistering dissent, U.S. Circuit Court Judge Ferdinand F. Fernandez pointed out that "mules" are a key link in the drug trade.

Excessive latitude in sentencing produced the very sorts of disparities that led Congress to adopt mandatory sentencing guidelines in the first place. A justice system in which one defendant could be hammered by a hanging judge while another equally guilty defendant could walk away with probation was plainly unjust. Justice should not be a matter of the luck of the draw.

Federal judges, who are appointed for life and expected to be paragons of fairness, resent the sentencing guidelines, which went into effect in late 1987. Little wonder. Sentencing by the numbers tends to confuse their role to the largely mechanical task of following formulas.

Under the guidelines, justice is blind to such mitigating circumstances as a defendant's employment record, motives and family responsibilities. The guidelines keep a judge focused on what really matters — the particulars of a crime and the defendant's criminal record. But critics of the system — and judges themselves are among the most vocal — say it is unduly rigid. As one judge put it, "We need some play in the joints."

Even so, a recent report by the U.S. Sentencing Commission shows that the range of sentences meted out to criminals with similar criminal records for similar crimes has narrowed substantially under the guidelines.

And that's the point: eliminating huge discrepancies in sentencing. But reforms are still needed.

The probation and prisontime guidelines are based on a grid of 43 levels of offense and seven categories of criminal history. In such a methodical system, inequities can be glaring. For example, shooting a gun at the ceiling during a bank robbery steps up the possible prison time by seven notches on the grid, while inflicting permanent or life-threatening bodily injury during that same robbery would add only six levels. Such kinks need ironing out.

The system also has shifted discretionary power from judges to prosecutors, who can inject new inconsistency through the plea bargains they negotiate and the charges they file. Sentence discrepancies based on the prosecutor's disposition need to be eliminated as well.

The guidelines help keep judges on track. It's unfortunate so few have grudgingly acknowledged that, however imperfect, the guidelines bring needed consistency to the federal justice system.

New faces herald new political era

Would you like a little good news for a change? Concerning the longtime congressmen and state legislators who are being defeated in primaries or special elections, or will get the boot this fall, or who are quitting rather than face the justified wrath of their constituents, or are simply throwing in the towel rather than slog on in the face of intractable governmental problems, the best we can say is that the Augean stables are being cleansed. But who will fill the seats being vacated, and the new seats that have been created as a result of redistricting after the 1990 census?

The good news is that, in an encouragingly large number of cases, men and women of real quality are bidding to represent us in Washington and our state capitals. You may be one of the lucky ones who gets a chance to vote for one of these.

Take Larry Arnn, who is seeking the Republican nomination for Congress in the new 43rd congressional district of California, in the southeastern corner of the state. At 39, Arnn has not previously sought public office. Instead he has built a distinguished career as a political scientist, receiving his Ph.D. in government from the Claremont Graduate School near Los Angeles and continuing with graduate work at Oxford. While there he served as Director of Research for

Martin Gilbert, the official biographer of Winston Churchill. (He also met and married a charming English woman named Penny, by whom he now has three children.)

In 1985 Arnn became president of the Claremont Institute for the Study of Statesmanship and Political Philosophy, which is where I met him. The institute is an independent (and solidly conservative) think tank that has done important work on policy issues at both the state and national level.

Now Arnn seeks to put his knowledge and experience at the service of the people of his congressional district, and I only wish I lived there and could vote for him. As Ronald Reagan once wrote to him, "You are committed to the principles of limited government, free enterprise, and traditional family values." Is there a better platform than that?

But there are exciting new faces in politics at the state level too.

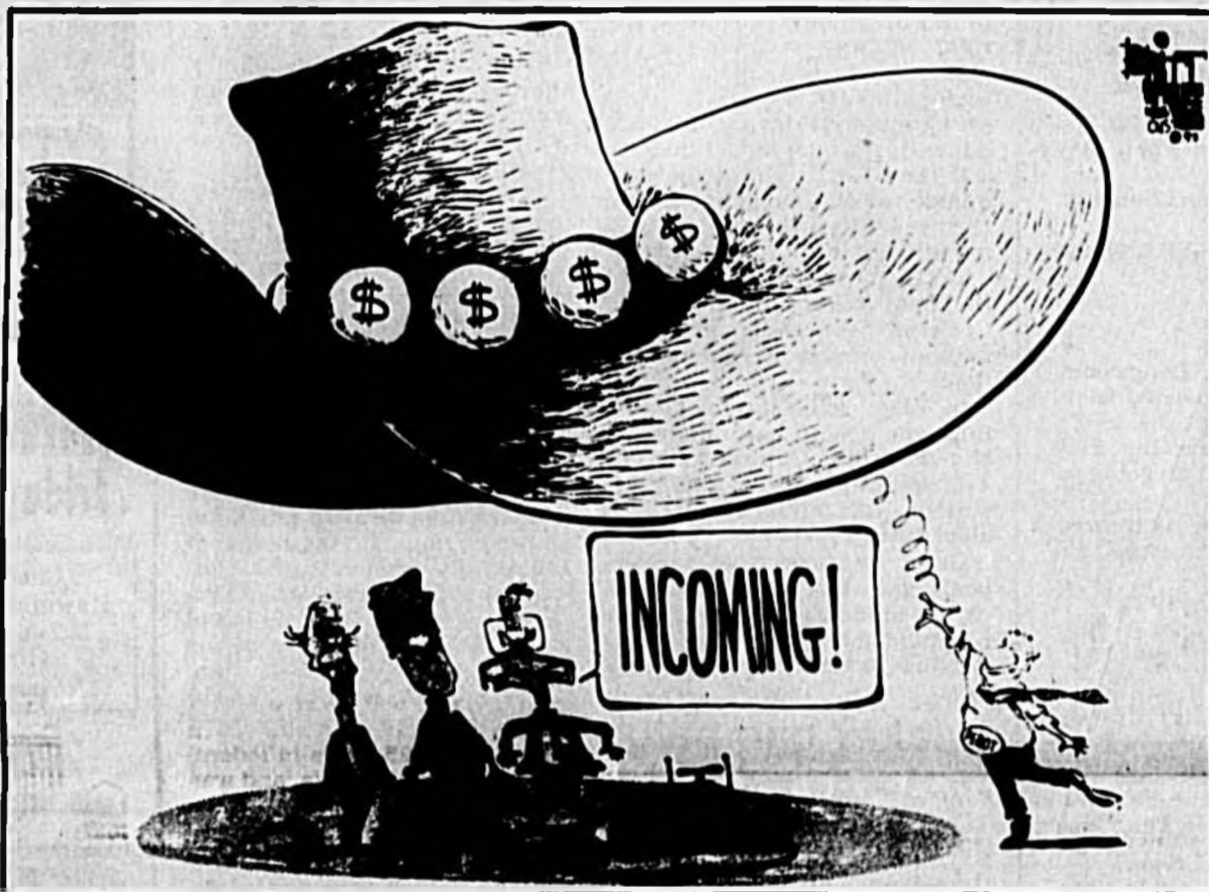

Take the new 25th Assembly District of California, carved out of the San Joaquin Valley by a redistricting panel. Here Barbara Keating-Edh is seeking the Republican nomination, and if the voters send her to Sacramento they will have shown ahrewd judgment indeed. For this is one very special lady.

I have known her since the early 1970s, when she was Barbara Keating, the widow of a Marine major killed in Vietnam, trying to raise five small children on her own. To the astonishment of New York's ultra-liberal Republican senator, Jacob Javits, this busy but courageous young woman ran against him on the state's conservative line in 1974 and rolled up nearly 900,000 votes.

In 1980 she remarried and moved to Modesto, Calif. But the liberals hadn't heard the last of Barbara Keating-Edh. For many years she has been the driving force behind Consumer Alert, the nationwide conservative organization that battles the follies of Ralph Nader and other liberal "consumer spokesmen."

The good news is that men and women of real quality are bidding to represent us.

JOSEPH SPEAR

Enough! No more bad news

I have culled from the mailbag a number of complaints regarding the way the media goes about its business, most notably its fascination with the negative. Much is happening in America and around the world that is good, you seem to be saying, so why don't we hear more about it?

I confess to this fault. I must admit that when I plumb George Bush's personality, for example, I focus on his hypocrisy and lack of conviction when I should be effusing about his pleasantly goofy side. I find myself condemning the banking industry's 15 percent surge in profits last year when I should be marveling over the resilience of the free marketplace.

To counter this tendency, I asked the Spear Foundation, the severely understaffed Washington think tank with which I am associated, to take on the task of finding good news. To ensure that its previous haphazard efforts to accomplish this objective were not repeated, the SF formed a small unit called a GLADDD Team and instructed staff researchers to find as many Good, Laudable and Distinguished Deeds and Developments as they could.

The results have been surprising. If you've a mind to look for it, you can find good news just about anywhere. Yes, the S&L scandal will cost hundreds of billions of dollars, but Charles Keating is going to jail, isn't he? Yes, Bill Clinton will win the Democratic nomination, but we won't have to ponder the Cuomo enigma for four more years, now will we?

Did you know that raw amber has been unretired and will reappear in the Crayola box of 64? That Mars Inc. has developed a lower calorie Milky Way? That laser technology will be used to peel potatoes with less waste? The GLADDD Team found much more:

Armano Foods of Distinction Inc. is dropping Frank Sinatra's line of pasta sauces. I can accept the crooner's denials of underworld connections, but I disdain his lack of appreciation for the free press, and I have been unable to stomach him since the evening years ago when he encountered a Washington Post columnist in a restaurant, stuffed some money into her drink and suggested she engaged in elaterly pursuits. I never bought or tasted an ounce of Old Blue Eyes' tomato gravy, and it's gratifying to see that my boycott worked.

As a protest against UN sanctions on Libya for its refusal to turn over two men accused in the 1988 bombing of Pan Am flight 103, strongman Moammar Gadhafi cut off contact with the outside world for 24 hours. Many of us were delighted not to see Gadhafi's timer for a full day, and the SF proposes that Libya's withdrawal from the world be continued until the year 2000, with extensions routinely granted until Moammar ascends.

The perquisite wars between Capitol Hill and the White House have produced some golden results. For one thing, it is immensely instructive for the public to see precisely how privileged their servants have become. For another, the price of a haircut in the House barbershop has doubled to $10. For another, Secretary of State James Baker is flying commercial on his purely private trips, as he damn well should have been all along. The GLADDD Team pledges it will attempt to keep the Perk Wars alive until J. Danforth Quayle is no longer hopping military aircraft to play golf.

Thanks to the rubbergate scandal and frustration with Congress' inability to get things done, dozens of lawmakers have decided to call it quits. It is truly sad to see the likes of the estimable Sen. Warren Rudman, R-N.H., depart Capitol Hill, but it is a colossal thrill to hear Sen. Tim Wirth, D-Colo., say nayonara. He has been one of cable television's favorite waterboys for years and personally defeated a 1990 attempt to re-regulate the industry. Wirth's Democratic colleagues are said to be mourning; I say it's celebration time.

Watch this space. When good news happens, your GLADDD Team will be there.

I should be effusing about his pleasantly goofy side.

MARTIN SCHRAM

One of Congress' perks still to go

Flushed with embarrassment, the sort that comes with getting caught, members of Congress have pruned their perks. Gone are the days of free prescription drugs, free private gyms, fixed parking tickets, cut rates on haircuts and meals and gifts and, of course, the free hitting privileges, given in lieu of toasters, to the check-writing customers of the House Bank.

About all that's left to brighten the dreary lives of our senators and representatives is free postage and what you might call their right to solicit legal bribes from special interests that exist under their official gaze.

Each day, members of Congress reach for the phones and play their game — Dialing for Dollars. They must raise thousands of dollars each day to pay soaring campaign bills, so they call lobbyists who represent the special interests that come under their congressional committees. Some ask for campaign contributions, but political action committees are limited to contributions of $5,000 per candidate. So they often ask the lobbyist to host a fund-raising dinner where other special interest elites will ante up. Small-timers who are new to Congress will say they need $20,000 from the event; the big shakers will demand $100,000. And, lo, it happens.

(1) Members of Congress hate this system that forces them to shake their tin cups, begging for bucks. "It's damned demeaning," says a prominent Democratic congressman, "but none of us wants to risk being defeated next fall. So we're always trying to raise more and more campaign funds."

(2) Lobbyists hate this system that forces them to jump through hoops for powerful senators and congressmen who may not even be friendly to their plea. "When a committee chairman or ranking member calls and asks us to host a fund-raising dinner, no one can say no to him," says one of Washington's most influential lobbyists. "If we did, our access to him would be cut off. So it's some system — they don't like it, we don't like it; but we're all afraid to try anything new."

Access — not votes — is what lobbyists figure they're buying with a big cash bash. Salesmen figure they've got it made when they can stick a foot in the door; lobbyists do it with a checkbook.

But there are ways to stop the special interests from exercising a controlling interest in our campaigns. We've made a good start by having public funding for our presidential campaigns — reducing the role of the lobbyist. The same can be done for Senate and House races.

Such a plan could be the greatest boon for the Grand Old Party, which has been desperate to limit the huge advantage the incumbents (read: the Democratic majority) have when it comes to putting the arm on the special interests. Any plan that would guarantee that incumbents and challengers would race on a level playing field, each spending the same amount of money, can only benefit the challengers (read: Republicans). Yet, as if hit by an epidemic of shortsightedness, the Republicans oppose a Democratic reform that goes almost that far. The House has passed (and the Senate soon will) a plan limiting the total candidates can raise from PACs and providing matching federal funds for small contributions of $200 or less, up to a total of $200,000 for House races and $825,000 for Senate races.

But President Bush has vowed to veto the plan — apparently because, if Democrats proposed it, Republicans must oppose it.

We're all afraid to try anything new.

cleaned so as not to attract bugs. "We thought about that," Priest said. "So this is all used foil, but it's clean."
Priest said that the on-going nature of the project has kept the issue of recycling constantly on the minds of the students.
"It has created an on-going awareness among our students of the importance of recycling," Priest said.
The ball has been used in various math and science projects as well as a recycling reminder. The students have made various calculations about its size and weight and have calculated the amount of money they will receive by turning it in at the recycling center in Orlando.

The collectors did have a monetary incentive in mind all along as they crushed pieces of foil into the ball.
Reynolds Aluminum has sponsored a contest to find the largest ball of foil in Central Florida. In addition to earning 20 cents per pound for the aluminum, the company will pay $500 to the winner of each category and $1,000 to the overall winner.
"We are real confident that we could earn the top dollars for our ball," said Priest.

The ball will be weighed on Tuesday and, Priest said, the students will have to hold their breath until Thursday afternoon when the winners are announced.
"I just know we're going to win," she said.
Priest said that the money raised by this project will be used to supplement the school's budget to purchase supplies for the math and science classes for the next school year.
She did not know if the school would be participating in a similar project next year, but she believes the students will continue to recycle.

bouncing radio waves off them. The new technology also measures wind speed, cloud movement and how fast rain is falling - data that should make advance warnings possible.
"It's too late once the tornado has been formed," Landis said. Lightning, tornadoes, floods and hurricanes kill about 212 people a year nationally. Landis said fewer lives will be lost under the new system.

The new radar probably has already saved lives in Central Florida, according to Bart Hagemeyer, meteorologist in charge of the Melbourne weather office.

On March 25, when a severe hailstorm damaged thousands of cars in the Orlando area, it allowed the office to track the storm's progress instantly and warn specific towns 30 to 40 minutes in advance, and residents suffered no major injuries.

Garbage

IWS had responded that the increase was due to unusual changes and the cost of doing business caused by the state mandated separation of yard trash.
One of the big objections, especially from the citizens, has been the results of a recent survey sent out by the city asking opinions on the collections. A total of 903 residents responded to the survey. 795 provided evaluation scores on the level of service IWS has been supplying, responded.
As a result of the findings, 261 residents or 29 percent, found the service less than satisfactory, 220 graded it in the middle, and 311 found it above average.

Although citizens voiced their opposition two weeks ago, the matter was passed by a three to two vote, with Commissioners Paul Lovestrand and Clancy Keith voting against it.
This past Sunday, the Longwood Hills Homeowners Association distributed flyers to Longwood residents. Association president Chris Mylett said, "The homeowners are so dedicated to resolving this matter, they were willing to spend their Easter Sunday putting out 3,500 of these flyers."
The flyers urged the general public to turn out at last night's meeting to voice their objections to the ordinance.
Regarding the survey results, Mylett wrote, "It clearly showed that over two thirds of the residents of Longwood are not pleased with IWS' performance and want the City to go out for competitive bids."

He asked, "Why are certain commissioners ignoring the results of that survey?"
During last night's meeting, the Commission responded by calling for a re-bidding at the end of the present IWS contract which expires this year.
"The next step," said City Administrator Don Terry, "is for a work session to be scheduled between the city and IWS, and discuss services they will provide for the rest of this current contract with us."
"Then," he added, "I expect the entire refuse collection will go out for re-bidding when this present contract expires."

becomes the 20th state to make use of the death penalty since the U.S. Supreme Court in 1976 allowed states to resume capital punishment. He was the 169th person put to death since the ruling.
Sixteen other states have the death penalty but haven't used it.
The last person executed in California was police killer Aaron Mitchell, who fought with guards and shouted that he was Jesus Christ as he was strapped into the gas chamber in 1967.
Harris had been scheduled to die just after midnight, but the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in San Francisco put the execution on hold six hours beforehand, based on a claim that his brother shot one of the teen-agers.
It issued three more stays based on a claim that death by gas is cruel and unusual punishment before the U.S. Supreme Court ordered no more stays.

Before the fourth stay came down, Harris was strapped into the chair by three guards at 3:49 a.m. At 3:51 a.m., the telephone in the witness room rang. A member of Harris' family was heard to say, "Oh, God." He was returned to a holding area before the Supreme Court cleared the way for his execution 2 1/2 hours later.

Honor Mother with a Mother's Day Greeting

Just as the twig is bent, so grows the tree.

Mothers help us grow in so many ways - through their love, guidance and words of encouragement. This Mother's Day tell your mom how much she truly means to you with a special Mother's Day greeting. And don't forget those wonderful mother-in-laws and grandmothers - they deserve a special word of thanks, too!

NASA boasts Hubble makes discoveries

By W. DALE NELSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Despite the troubles that have plagued its first two years, the Hubble Space Telescope has discovered the hottest known star, provided new insights into the birth of galaxies and buttressed Albert Einstein's theories of the universe, scientists say.

At a news conference Monday called by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, the scientists conceded they were disappointed by mechanical problems that made the telescope unable to perform planned observations of quasars, the brightest objects in space.

But they said they expected the telescope to be even better than originally envisioned after a team of astronauts repairs the $1.5 billion instrument in a mission set for November 1993 or early 1994.

"We thought we were going to find the most distant quasars in the universe," said astronomer Daniel W. Weedman of Pennsylvania State University. "Well, we still are, but we haven't done it yet."

The Hubble was released from a space shuttle two years ago this Friday, to orbit 400 miles above the Earth. It was found to be focusing improperly, and scientists blamed a misshapen mirror. The mirror is to be replaced in the repair mission.

"We want to fix it and make it do the whole job," said Stephen P. Maran, a Goddard Space Flight Center senior staff scientist who moderated a panel of scientists at the news conference.

Sally Heap, a specialist in the study of stars at NASA's Goddard facility, said a recent Hubble photograph indicated the discovery of a star 33 times as hot as the sun.

"So far as I know, it is the hottest star on record," she said.

Heap also said a NASA enhancement of a Hubble photograph of a star cluster about 169,000 light years from Earth had produced the clearest view yet of such a group of stars.

Weedman called the image "an example of one picture that totally changed our way of thinking."

"We conventionally thought of globular clusters as the oldest groups of stars in the universe," he said. "Now we see a whole system of globular clusters forming very recently."

"We may have been very wrong about our theories of galaxy formation," Weedman said.

John Bahcall, professor of natural sciences at the Institute for Advanced Studies in Princeton, N.J., said he found it "awesome" that "back to the very edges of the universe, the laws of physics that were formulated in the 1930s, by Einstein largely, seem to apply."

"To me it is humbling that it is possible to have anticipated in the 1930s, based on pure reasoning here, on an absolutely negligible part of the universe, how these huge things would behave at the earliest times we know about."

Eating right key to healthy aging

By RANDOLPH E. SCHNEID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Screening Americans for proper eating can be as important as testing blood pressure or pulse. And a new checklist can make nutrition testing easy enough for nearly everyone.

"Nutrition is basic preventive health care," Nancy Wellman of the American Dietetic Association said in announcing the new program.

A nutrition checklist is being published in a cooperative effort by the ADA, the American Academy of Family Physicians, the National Council on Aging and other groups, she said.

"You might call it a low-tech solution to a major problem," said Sen. Brock Adams, D-Wash.

The checklist, he said, can be used at home or at senior centers, meals program sites and doctors' offices. It will be available nationally through doctors and other health professionals, senior centers and adult day-care operations.

Individuals also can request copies from the Nutrition Screening Initiative, P.O. Box 25657, Washington, D.C., 20007.

"Research has shown that a significant proportion of America's elderly are malnourished or at risk of the health effects of poor nutrition," said Dr. Jerry Keller, vice president of the Academy of Family Physicians.

Many older Americans live alone, take multiple prescriptions, skip meals and have low incomes, said Keller. All those things put people at risk for poor nutrition, he said.

Among questions posed by the checklist are: whether illness affects a person's appetite or consumption of milk and vegetables, if they have had recent weight changes, and whether they can shop, cook and feed themselves.

The answers are scored and the total indicates whether people are at risk. Those who are at risk are advised to consult a professional.

Paul Kerschner of the National Council on Aging said that well-nourished people recover faster and more fully from illness than other people.

Older Americans are indicating increased concern for their nutrition, said Bill Moyer, nutrition projects director for Senior Services of Seattle.

"Our clients are beginning to understand that there is a clear and direct relationship between nutrition and health or illness," he said. "They want to stay out of hospitals and nursing homes. We can't afford to let them slip into such facilities just because they are not eating right."

Helpful Information From "The Eyes Have It Optical"

If you're among the nearly 60 percent of all Americans who need vision correction "The Eyes Have It Optical" located in Lake Mary Centre can provide you with the best value. They relate that today's buyer can become confused and lured by offers of quick service and "free" glasses, and end up spending more than they really need to. Many people think that going to an eyewear "superstore" will mean low prices. However price checks of optical stores show that chain superstores often cost more - much more - than the same product from an independent optometrist or optician. The owners of "The Eyes Have It Optical" John Emmanuel, Ken MacDonald and Wayne MacDonald suggest that you always get a comprehensive price on your eyewear up front.

Wayne MacDonald, FNAO is the stores optician, and Bernadette Woods is the Optometrist. They suggest some quick and simple ways to gauge the quality of service you should get. Most importantly a skilled optician or stylist should ask to see your prescription before showing you frames. Some prescriptions don't work well in some frames. Also he or she should study how the frame fits the nose and face, and look to see that the eyes are centered behind the lenses. Also you should be asked your occupation and hobbies, whether you use a computer and how often you take your glasses off and on.

This week The Eyes Have It Optical will be supporting eye research during "National Eye, Tissue, and Organ Donor Awareness Week," April 19-25.

The "RECYCLE SIGHT PROJECT" involves participating opticians donating a portion of each frame sold during the week to Tissue Bank International's Eye Research Program. All funds raised will be used to further research and development for the cure and prevention of blindness.

This event is in conjunction with "Earth Day". Saturday April 25, the store will host a live radio broadcast over AM 1400. This would be an excellent opportunity to speak with representatives of the Eye Bank of Central Florida about their program and to sign an organ donor card. Everyone is invited to stop by between noon and 2 pm for a free hot dog, soft drink and to register for prizes. Also, you can browse and get information on the newest in improved frames, frame selection, lenses and coatings that help you look and see better. The Eyes Have It Optical is located in Lake Mary Centre or you may call 333-2740 for an appointment.

Wren Decking a wonderful way to enhance the beauty in and around your home.

At Wren Decking, Imagination Is Your Only Limitation!

Wren Decking is a versatile company that can fulfill any of your deck or floor surface needs. Among the things they do are concrete restoration, driveways, patios, pool decks, and balconies, both interior and exterior surfaces.

Some of the beautiful surfaces available are simulated tile, simulated marble, Spanish stucco texture and smooth Spanish texture. Field stone, flagstone (similar to slate), brick and paver brick are also popular options.

Owner Tom Wren says "simulated marble with accent pavers is especially popular with homeowners. Its color variations provide good hiding power for dirt and debris. People really love it for driveways: there are no tire marks, it's non porous, fade resistant, exhibits superior bonding to existing concrete, is slip and acid resistant, and does not crack, chip, fade or peel. Many standard and custom colors to match your home are available."

Their expert consultants can find just the right surface for you. Thinking of replacing your carpet or linoleum? They can show you exciting new options for your interior floors that are wear resistant, low maintenance and last virtually a lifetime.

Wren Decking stands behind all of their work. Tom Wren supervises every installation and emphasizes that all work is neat, clean and of superior quality. The company offers a two year guarantee on material and labor for most services. Homeowner Herb Barclay of 5302 Tangerine Avenue, in Winter Park, is so pleased with his new driveway, he invites anyone to stop by and see the quality work typical of Wren Decking.

For a professional consultation on your needs, commercial or residential, call Wren Decking today. (Substantial discounts offered to Senior Citizens). They are located at 2704 Shad Lane in Geneva. Phone 349-1273 or 1-800-882-3449.

Mandela has launched her comeback

By GRACE BYRNE
Associated Press Writer

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Winnie Mandela, still a heroine to many young, militant blacks, has launched a comeback campaign just days after her political career appeared to be finished.

Thousands of African National Congress supporters cheered her Monday when she vowed to remain active in politics despite the controversies surrounding her.

"I will not abdicate my position," Mrs. Mandela said outside the southeastern city of Pietermaritzburg.

Mrs. Mandela's tumultuous career appeared over last week when she separated from her husband, ANC President Nelson Mandela, and resigned her post as the ANC's social welfare director.

The announcements came after several of Mrs. Mandela's former associates accused her of criminal acts. Mrs. Mandela, convicted last year on kidnapping and assault charges involving four young blacks, maintains her innocence and is free as she mounts an appeal.

The ANC leadership has sought to distance itself from Mrs. Mandela. Some leaders say privately that she has become a liability and would prefer that she stay out of the spotlight.

But the strong-willed Mrs. Mandela, 57, still holds her elected post on the ANC's national executive committee, the policy-making body.

More importantly, she has retained the support of young militants by preaching confrontation with the white authorities.

In contrast to his fiery wife, Mandela delivers low-key speeches about the need for a negotiated political settlement. He is working closely with the government on a new constitution that will end white domination.

But his talk of compromise does not inspire many young ANC supporters, who received their political education in repeated street battles with police.

Mrs. Mandela's passionate speeches often brings crowds to their feet, though her statements are sometimes seen as reckless and at odds with official ANC policy.

On Monday, Mrs. Mandela blamed the government for the chronic black faction fighting and called President F.W. de Klerk "the managing director of the violence."

Loony comedian dead at age 67

By MICHAEL WEST
Associated Press Writer

LONDON — Plump, bug-eyed comedian Benny Hill, who won cult status in the United States but had his TV show axed in Britain in 1980 after critics called it sexist, is dead at age 67.

An autopsy showed he died of a heart attack, Scotland Yard said.

Police found his body in his southwest London apartment on Monday night. They had been sent after neighbors reported not seeing him around.

Hill initially made his name on British television in the 1950s and began hosting his own TV show in 1958.

A master of sexual double entendre, with a pop-eyed leer and a knowing wink, he combined visual and spoken gags, musical parody and mimicry.

His shows always ended with him being chased by scantily-clad young women, irate husbands, policemen and others to a quirky saxophone soundtrack.

His success grew after he signed with Thames Television, part of Britain's commercial TV network, in the late 1960s.

In the 1980s he became a cult figure in the United States. "The Benny Hill Show" — half-hour selections of skits from his British specials — was first broadcast in the United States in 1979 and appeared on dozens of stations.

Pop star Michael Jackson, a Hill fan who visited him in hospital this year, said in a statement from Chicago Monday night: "The world is suffering a great loss of a great talent."

Despite the broad and very British nature of Hill's comedy, his shows appealed to audiences in more than 80 countries, from Iceland to China.

But in 1980, Thames dropped them in Britain after some British critics called them sexist, vulgar and out-of-date.

Hill retorted "I never understand why I'm called sexist. What does it mean?"

Central Television said Monday night that it had been negotiating with Hill to make some new TV shows.

Hill, a lifelong bachelor, was one of Britain's wealthiest stars.

Paying tribute, comedian Ernie Wise, said: "He was one of our greatest exports. He was also our most successful comedian — supposed to be worth about 12 million pounds ($20 million)."

Hill left no survivors. No funeral details were immediately announced.

Stars rock for AIDS victims, late singer

By MICHAEL WEST
Associated Press Writer

LONDON — Some of the biggest names in rock music played for 73,000 fans in Wembley Stadium to help AIDS sufferers and honor a celebrated victim of the disease — late Queen singer Freddie Mercury.

The event is expected to raise more than $17 million to raise AIDS awareness and help victims of the virus, London news reports quoting other Queen members as saying.

Nearly a hundred performers, including Elton John, David Bowie and George Michael, gathered for the 4½ hour concert, which was broadcast on television to 70 countries.

Many in the crowd held red banners bearing Mercury's name. Performers wore the red ribbons that have become a symbol of AIDS awareness.

At one point, actress Elizabeth Taylor, president of the American Foundation for AIDS Research, strode onstage to loud applause.

Unions: Centralize control of schools

By VICKI DeSOMMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Seminole Education Association and the other unions representing school district employees are not pleased with the way the Seminole County school district is giving powers to individual schools to govern themselves.

They have requested a work session with the school board this evening at 7 in order to express their views on the subject and to listen to what the district has to say in response.

"There needs to be some centralization of decision making," said Nancy Wheeler, executive director of Seminole Un-Serve, the unions' governing body. "There doesn't seem to be any administrative control over the principals."

Each principal has the freedom to make decisions about how his or her school should be run under the concept of school-based management.

"The principals have too much power in some cases," Wheeler explained.

She noted that in a "true" school-based management situation the decisions are made by the principals, the community, the students and the employees.

"The way it is done here is totally unacceptable to us," she said. "We think the school board needs to make some decisions."

Wheeler said that the elementary, middle and high school administrators at the district level seem to have "little control" over the principals they are supposed to be supervising.

"What it amounts to is that we have 80 different school districts in Seminole County each doing things in their own way."

The unions are not planning any formal protest at tonight's meeting.

'The Babe' opens disappointingly at the box office

By JOHN HORN
AP Entertainment Writer

LOS ANGELES — "The Babe," the new Babe Ruth bio starring John Goodman, was a disappointing fifth in the box-office batting order.

The leadoff hit after five weeks was "Basic Instinct," starring Michael Douglas and Sharon Stone. The erotic thriller earned $6.7 million. Exhibitor Relations Co. reported Monday.

In second place with $6.1 million was the comedy "White Men Can't Jump," with Woody Harrelson and Wesley Snipes as pickup basketball artists.

"The Babe" sold a weak $5 million in tickets despite good reviews for Goodman. Other new releases "Brain Donors" and "Brenda Starr" struck out, and the literary romance "Howards End" played brilliantly in limited release.

"City of Joy," the Patrick Swayze film about poverty in India, grossed a mild $3.4 million for seventh.

"Wayne's World" became the first 1992 release to pass the $100 million mark, bringing in $3.1 million for ninth. It has made $102.8 million to date.

"Brain Donors," a Marx Brothers-style comedy, ducked in with a lame $504,057. "Brenda Starr," the much-delayed Brooke Shields film about the comic-strip reporter, made a feeble $30,035. That works out to fewer than nine people per showing.

Volunteers flock to aid HRS with case backlog

Associated Press

MIAMI — When Jim Towey appealed for volunteers to help clear a backlog of hundreds of cases involving children under state supervision, the Health and Rehabilitative Services official wasn't expecting much.

The response from teachers, lawyers, retirees, business people and others wanting to join a grassroots project dubbed Fresh Start surprised him.

Among them was Patricia Lewis, one of 20 Xerox employees who wanted to lend a helping hand to overburdened HRS caseworkers.

"I was worried I'd want to adopt every child I heard about, but it was all very professional," Ms. Lewis said. "They wanted a fresh view from people not involved in the system, and I wanted to get involved in the community. It was great."

About 250 people from throughout Dade, Broward and Palm Beach counties showed up on a recent Saturday in southwest Dade, and another 200 volunteered to work other days and in other programs. New volunteers call every week.

"The HRS people work under difficult circumstances and often feel they are out there alone and with no community or media support," said Sara Herald, the unpaid chairperson of the volunteer effort. "Just seeing over 200 people willing to spend a whole Saturday trying to help them out improved morale dramatically."

When the volunteers arrived, each was assigned to a panel including at least one social worker, an attorney and other lay people.

Each panel worked with a caseworker to review six to eight files on children taken from their parents and usually placed with a grandparent or other relative under HRS supervision.

They decided which children no longer needed periodic HRS visits. By clearing out these cases — 250 of them — the volunteers eased the load on the caseworkers, who have an average of 130 cases each.

"We've had a good first inning, but the game isn't over," said Towey, HRS district administrator who oversees Dade and Monroe counties. "It's a nine-month project, and we have thousands of cases left."

Towey expected some resistance from the caseworkers in the mammoth social services agency to trust the public. But even those who were least receptive to the idea have embraced it.

HRS employee Lourdes de Armas, who works in the department that handles adoptions but wanted to help the protective-services department, said it has been a morale booster.

"Sometimes you work in the field and feel frustrated because you don't have the time to do everything, but that Saturday it felt great," she said.

Why A Business This Big Runs A Yellow Page Ad This Small.

Actual Size

When people start reading the Yellow Pages every evening, we'll start running big ads in it. Until then the Yellow Pages is no more than a directory... that the average person seldom reads. Which is why we run our ads in the newspaper, and we suggest you do the same.

Your Yellow Pages salesperson can't tell you how many people see your ad every day in his directory. But we can tell you that over 7,000 households receive the Sanford Herald daily and 20,000 households receive the Herald Advertiser every week. That kind of coverage can lead to sales. Especially when you use the Herald to tell people about competitive pricing, a new location or service, or illustrate a clear advantage over the competition. You're not allowed to do any of these things in the Yellow Pages.

And another thing... you can't be flexible in the Yellow Pages. You're stuck with the same ad for a whole year. So what do you do when you need to respond to the market? Or promote a sale? Or build your image? You advertise in the newspaper.

So let us talk to you about opportunities in newspaper advertising. Our number is in the Yellow Pages, but remember, what just sold you on us was the newspaper.

Paddy McGee wins again

CASSELBERRY — The Paddy McGee "Mice" continue to roll along unbeaten in the Women's Class C Softball League at Red Bug Park.

The "Mice" clobbered O Bat 9-0 to improve to 8-0 on the season. The Oviedo team can go a long way toward claiming the title if they can knock off their nearest competitors, Aqua Turf (6-2), next Monday. The game is set for 6:30 p.m.

Connie Thomas again led the way as she tossed a five-hitter with no walks and made two outstanding fielding plays. She also helped herself offensively with two hits.

Other offensive standouts were Terri Mann (2-for-2, triple, Sacrifice Fly) and Karen Kohs (two hits).

Debbie Leigh, Mindy Kracht and Mary Beth McCullough chipped in with two RBI each.

Defensively the infield of Jill Janowiak at second base, short stop McCullough and first basemen Tereasa Waburger and Phyllis Baynes combined for 11 putouts on ground balls with no errors.

Auburn signs Florida star

AUBURN, Ala. — Pat Burke, a 6-foot-11, 215-pound center from Cape Coral, Fla., signed with Auburn's basketball team on Monday.

Burke averaged 15.7 points, 11.5 rebounds and 4.5 blocks per game as a senior at Mariner High School. He shot 57 percent from the field.

"Pat has come a long way in the last two years and obviously his best days are ahead of him," Auburn coach Tommy Joe Eagles said in a statement. "He is a good athlete who runs the floor well for a big man. He also has very good hands."

Burke is Auburn's fifth signee.

Tribe, Lions top seeds in baseball

By DEAN SMITH
Herald Sports Writer

SANFORD — It's put up or shut up time.

Seminole and Oviedo have earned the top seeds in the Class 3A-District 5 and Class 4A-District 9 tournaments, respectively, but all that means is that they were the best during the regular season.

The Tribe is 23-4 on the season and ranked No. 6 in the final Class 3A State Poll and seem to be back on track after suffering a semi-slump two weeks ago. Coach Mike Powers starts only two seniors but despite its youth Seminole is a veteran ball club as most of the players have started for three years.

LAST HURRAH

Senior's Marcus Bullock (left) of Lake Mary and Demy Beamon (below) of Seminole hope to keep their high school baseball careers alive when the district baseball tournaments start play today.

While not the stars of their respective teams, both Bullock and Beamon have been instrumental in their teams' success this season. Bullock, a catcher, has filled in as a pitcher and outfielder this season, while Beamon, an outfielder, has played most of the season as the third baseman for the Tribe.

Lake Mary will have a difficult task on its hands as its opening game in the 4A-District 9 tournament will be at surging Lake Brantley at 8 p.m. tonight. The Patriots came on strong at the end of the season to win the Seminole Athletic Conference title.

Seminole, ranked No. 6 in this week's final Class 3A state poll, earned the No. 1 seed in the Class 3A-District 5 tournament and will not play until tomorrow when it will host the winner of today's Edgewater-New Smyrna Beach game at Seminole Field at 4 p.m.

Softball: key may be SAC experience

SANFORD — Is it time for a changing of the guard?

After having controlled the district in softball for the past several years, the Lake Brantley Patriots have some company this year as Lake Howell, Lyman and Lake Mary are all seeded higher than the Patriots this year as the Class 4A-District 5 Softball Tournament gets underway today.

The only game scheduled for today is a game between DeLand and Deltona at Deltona starting at 4 p.m. with the winner advancing to meet top seeded Lake Howell on Wednesday.

Lake Howell finishes big day with win

By BILL KERNS
Herald Correspondent

LAKE HOWELL — After gaining the No. 1 seed in the Class 4A-District 5 Tournament earlier in the day, the Lake Howell varsity Softball team went about the task of gaining a share of the Seminole Athletic Conference title.

And it made the day a clean sweep as the Silver Hawks grabbed a share of the title with an 8-0 whitewashing of visiting Seminole at Eunice Smith Field Monday afternoon. The game was stopped in the bottom of the fifth inning because of rain.

Lake Howell concludes the regular season with a 14-4 record overall. But more importantly the Silver Hawks finish the SAC schedule with a 7-3 record which gives them a share of the conference title with Lake Mary and Lyman.

The Hawks first game in the district tournament will Wednesday at 8 p.m. against the winner of today's Deltona-DeLand matchup.

Despite the loss the Tribe finishes the season with a 12-14 record, their best in several years. They end up the SAC with a 1-9 mark, but the one win was an upset of Lake Brantley at Lake Brantley.

Seminole will open play in the Class 3A-District 4 Tournament in Sparr on Wednesday when they take on Ocala-Vanguard at the Jerry Gantt Softball Complex starting at 4 p.m.

Diann Lowe was her usual spectacular self on the mound for Lake Howell as she held the hard-hitting Tribe to only three singles. The win was her 14th against just four losses.

Contributing to the Silver Hawks offense were Lowe and Christy York (both 3-for-3), Shannon McDowell (2-for-2) and Sallie Floyd (triple). Val Wilks, Rita Frison and Jill Jasovic got the hits for the Tribe.

Expos continue strong play in Little Majors

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Letdown? Not this team.

The Korg U.S.A. Expos could have been excused if they had had a letdown after beating rival K-n-D Trailer Hitch Red Sox in the battle of the unbeaten last Saturday.

But a letdown never developed as Chaz Lytle tossed a two-hitter and Alex Jacot rapped three hits as the Expos whitewashed the Sanford Ace Hardware Orioles 10-0 Monday evening in Sanford Recreation Department Little Major Baseball League action at Ft. Mellon's Roy Holler Field.

The victory improved the Expos to 9-0 while the Orioles fell to 2-7.

The next action for both teams will be Saturday as the Expos will face the Rinker Materials Dodgers at 8 a.m. and the Orioles will battle the Fisher, Laurence & Deen Blue Jays at 2 p.m.

Today at Roy Holler Field there will be a doubleheader, with the First Union Bank A's taking on the Blue Jays at 5:45 p.m. and the Cattle Ranch Cardinals playing the American Division leading Red Sox

Team effort paces Cards to Babe Ruth League win

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — A total team effort.

That's what the Knight's of Columbus Cardinals gave Monday evening as 14 of the 15 players on the roster contributed to the offense as the Cardinals remained unbeaten with a 19-4 drubbing of the Templeton Roofing Expos in Sanford Recreation Department Baseball League action at Sanford Memorial Stadium.

There will be no Babe Ruth baseball today as the Class 3A-

District 5 Baseball Tournament will start at the Stadium. Today's scheduled game between the Rotary Club Royals and Kiwanis Club Orioles will be part of a doubleheader at Chase Park Thursday. The other half of the double-dip will be between the Hungry Howie's Cubs and Moose Lodge Pirates. Game times will be 5:45 and 7:45 p.m.

Drug therapy could be cause of nausea

MEDICINE

PETER GOTT, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have a friend who suffered from heart failure some three or four months ago. Even though recovery has permitted her to be up and out, most of the time she has nausea. Her prescribed meds include Lanoxin and Capoten. Is there something more that can be done?

Interested in helping to control her heart disease with diet, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Eating Right for a Healthy Heart." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 91389, Cleveland, OH 44101-3389. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR READER: Heart failure, an extremely serious consequence of cardiac disease, is marked by an accumulation of excess fluid in body tissues, notably the lungs, liver and lower extremities. Patients with heart failure literally drown in this excess fluid.

Treatment is directed to increasing the strength of cardiac contractions, reducing the work of the beating heart (making heartbeats more efficient) and eliminating superfluous fluid through the kidneys. Lanoxin (purified digitals) is used to strengthen the heartbeat, Capoten (captopril) to reduce cardiac work and diuretics (such as Lasix) to stimulate the kidneys.

Your friend is receiving two of these drugs, both of which can cause nausea. I am particularly concerned about Lanoxin because nausea may indicate that a toxic level is building up in your friend's system. She should have a blood test to measure the amount of Lanoxin in her body. If the level is high, she must immediately stop taking the drug until her doctor judges that further digitals therapy is safe.

If the Lanoxin level is not excessive, her doctor should alter her Capoten dosage schedule -- or change to a similar drug, such as Vasotec, which is associated with fewer side effects.

Nausea does not ordinarily accompany heart failure. Therefore, I'm suspicious that her medicines are the culprit. Because your friend might be

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder
Today's hand is a second one from "Test Your Card Play 3" by Hugh Kelsey (Collins, $8.95, 212-866-5860). The book contains nine defensive and 27 declarer-play problems. You can consider yourself an expert if you get them all right.
Cover the East and South hands. Against six hearts, you lead the spade six; queen, two, five. Declarer plays the club four from the dummy; seven, king, two. Next he leads the heart six from his hand. How do you plan the defense?
The bidding is in the British Acol style, in which a two-heart rebid would be non-forcing even after a two-over-one. In North America, a hand with better hearts would be needed for the three-heart rebid. However, the slam is excellent, basically being in danger only against a 4-1 heart break.
South has guarded well in trying to guard against Q-10-x of hearts in your hand. A less accomplished declarer would have led out the A-K of hearts and died immediately. However, the best line is to lead the heart jack to the ace in hand at trick two. Next, South should play a club to dummy's queen and lead the heart four, planning to finesse the nine.
It is clear from the bidding that South must have the A-K of hearts and the diamond ace. But if you can find your partner with both black-suit jacks, you have a chance. You must go in with the heart queen and return the diamond king.
However declarer maneuvers, he cannot get back to his hand safely and draw your heart 10.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
April 22, 1992

Opportunities could come your way in the year ahead from unusual and unexpected channels. It behooves you to be constantly alert, because they may be so peculiar that they will be hard to interpret.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
An associate who barely acknowledges you might be extremely attentive today. Be watchful that you're not being manipulated for ulterior motives. Taurus, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for Taurus' Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Confusion is likely today in a joint endeavor that is counting on teamwork. It looks like each party is expecting something from the other that cannot be delivered.

CANCER (June 21-July 21) In order to be an achiever today, you must first set realistic goals. If you make unreasonable demands of yourself, disappointment could result.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You might worry so much about the industriousness of those you'll be involved with today that you may forget to push your own starter button. Focus on your efforts.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be extremely careful where investments are concerned today; you might be inclined to believe what you want to believe instead of the cold, hard facts.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you're purchasing a luxury item for your house today, be certain it can be returned if you're not satisfied. It may not be as attractive at home as it is in the store.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) A serious development you're overly complacent about could drift in the wrong direction today. If it gets grounded on the shoals, you'll only have yourself to blame.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) This could turn out to be another of those expensive days, owing to the impractical manner in which you'll manage your resources. Be fiscally disciplined.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't let your guard down today in an arrangement that requires both tenderness and tact. If you do, you'll leave a poor lasting impression.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be careful today, because what you might consider an innocent flirtation could be taken seriously by the recipient. If this occurs, things may become rather complicated.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You're presently in a cycle that could put some extra strings on your budget. Start looking for ways to curb expenses rather than incurring new ones.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Take time today to determine the worth of your objectives, or else you may focus in on a goal that is full of empty promise. Don't make much ado about nothing.

ANNIE by Leonard Starr

GEE, T.C. ... I'M SURE PROFESSOR EON WYKID HAD ON THAT WHEELCHAIR. Y' COULD'VE AT LEAST...
YOU SAID THERE'S AN ELEVATOR IN THIS PLACE!
HOLD ON, ANNIE!
... I'M IN HUH? OH... SURE, MRS. SKRUBBO...
WAIT A MINUTE! YOU'RE IN CHARGE OF WHAT?
YOU BIG BOY, AND YOU'D BETTER REMEMBER THAT.
YOU LADY - HAVE BEEN INFORMED.
