BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

HOW DID ANCIENTS KNOW ABOUT THE COSMIC PULL OF
THE PLANETS? ASTRONOMERS DISCOVERED IT THREE THOUSAND YEARS AFTER ARAB SHEPHERDS HAD DIVINED IT! THERE IS HIDDEN WISDOM IN A VERY ANCIENT BOOK. THE BIBLE HELPS US
FIND THE CREATOR! Seek him that maketh the seven stars and Orion.—Amos 5:8.

There will be so many bowl games on Thursday we fear there will be another outbreak of "lying saucers."

Practically all economists agree that the shortage of steel, especially scrap, is one of the chief bottle-necks retarding production in the country. It has been said that some of our diplomats can't arrange to obtain a sizeable bank of the "iron curtain" from Russia to alleviate the situation.

Italy's former king and Mussolini's "yes man," Vittorio
Emmanuel, died in exile last Sunday.
He was noted for two things:
his small physical stature (5-foot-3) and his small stature as a leader of a once great people, whom he handed over to the machinations and mercy of Duce, who led them down the rocky road which all dictatorships follow.

Now is the time for all good people all over the world to begin thinking seriously about their New Year's resolutions.
Most of which will be broken a few minutes after the clock tolls midnight, Dec. 31, 1947. One resolution, which all editors yearn for, is that the very small minority of citizens cease to solicit free publicity brought to the office in the guise of legitimate news.

It isn't too early for New Year's merry-makers to contemplate certain precautions against the almost inevitable toll of accidents which always accompany the celebration of the great occasion. Oddly enough, the misuse of liquors is one of the most potent hazards which the population of the country faces.
Gasoline and alcohol mixed together have the very unhappy faculty of bringing tragedy to many persons, the accident victims themselves, their relatives and friends, and in many cases an entire community.

We criticize the British royal family for spending so much money on Elizabeth's wedding, but we are reminded of an epitaph on a tombstone in a little church yard in Stratford-On-Avon, near where Shakespeare is buried. It reads, as best we recall: "The faults you saw in me, pray, strive to shun; but look at home, there's something to be done." An item from Washington only yesterday tells of the Truman family and friends lunching on the presidential yacht, "Williamsburg," a ship which costs the taxpayers many a dollar to keep in operation. We don't begrudge the President his yacht, but it seems he might have settled for something more modest than the "Williamsburg."
There was a time when he would have been "laid" in a small launch.

Not True But Believed

It is dangerous to start a legend. It may be believed. The late Arthur Machen, British novelist whose stories ran to the mystic and sometimes the grim, was thrilled by the last-stand retreat that the British made at Mons in the first world war. He wrote a fairy story, "The Bowmen," in which St. George, the time-honored protector of England, led a host of angel archers who shot down the German hosts and won safety for the tiny British rearguard. It was pure fancy, but it was snatched up and believed. Many soldiers swore that they had seen the angels themselves. Machen's protests never caught up with the legend.

Henry L. Mencken, the Baltimore newspaper man had an experience like Machen's except that it was in the grotesque field rather than the heroic. He wrote a space-filler once, averring that bathtubs had not been invented until 1828, that they shocked the conservatives, and in some communities were forbidden by law. It was pure imagination, but the story was passed on and even now continually reappears. Mencken has never been able to kill this creature of his fancy.

Evidently anything but absolute solemnity may get a writer into trouble.

Noisy Stars

K. G. Jansky, in 1929, hearing hisses in his radio-receiver, traced the sounds to a source outside the earth, and finally, with the assistance of other scientists, he reached the conclusion that they came from the stars making up the milky way.

Just as the telescope and the spectroscope have added to our vision and enabled us to study the heavens from the angle of sight, so radio is expected to increase our ability to hear what goes on in the solar system. Physicists are studying and investigating the stars from the standpoint of sound, and important discoveries may be made as a result of what the ordinary radio listener deprecates as "static."

A well-known midwestern astronomer once told a lecture audience that "the size of our universe is determined by the extent of our knowledge." Our knowledge of the great outer spaces that surround us may be increased by the use of every aid to our humanly circumscribed senses.

Salvation For Tristan

Looking for a house? Try Tristan da Cunha. This island in the South Atlantic, midway between South America and the Cape of Good Hope, has only 250 inhabitants, and has accommodations for a fair number more. The catch is that their food supply is running short.

Tristan da Cunha has come into notice lately through the philanthropic zeal of Rev. E. P. Lawrence of Capetown, South Africa. He spent three years there during World War II, when the British navy had a weather and radio station on the island. He is trying to organize exploitation of Tristan's rich lobster beds. Unless steps along this order are taken, there is a dark future for the descendants of the three sailors who chose to settle there in 1817.

THE NATION TODAY

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31 (AP)—Here's an explanation of the problem of the 16 European nations asking your help under the Marshall Plan.

Thousands of experts have worked on the plan and the problem. Their work fills volumes. This is only a rough outline of what they say.

The Marshall Plan, as finally announced by President Truman, would cost us about $17,000,000,000.

He wants it to work for years, starting April 1, 1948, and ending June 30, 1952. He and the experts figure it's needed that long.

The idea is to pump help into Europe until it can get back to something like normal.

For example: We'd keep on giving Europe coal and steel until by 1952 it could produce enough coal and maybe enough steel for itself.

Not all the help would come from us, but most would. The rest would come from other countries in this hemisphere and elsewhere.

Besides coal and steel, those 16 countries need things like food, fertilizer, farm machinery, mining machinery, ships, dollars.

(They'd need dollars, for instance, to buy from other countries which wouldn't take their money but would accept American dollars.)

Probably most of our help would be in loans. How much would we get back? No one knows.

Those 16 countries have agreed in order to get our help, to help themselves and one another.

They've agreed to step up their own output of things like coal and steel and farm machinery and food. They need our help to do it.

And they'll try to help themselves in such ways as lowering tariffs on the goods they import from one another.

This would increase their trade and make them more prosperous. As time went on they'd buy things from us and have more things to sell us.

But take a look at the problem: Even in normal times those people in the 16 countries of western Europe couldn't grow enough food for themselves. They had to import some.

Now they're worse off than ever because of war and weather. Last winter there was a freeze, last Spring—a disastrous day spell. As a result of war there's a lack of farm machinery, farm animals, fertilizers, farm labor.

So they'll have to keep on getting food from us and other countries. They need farm machinery from us, and fertilizers.

With the machinery and fertilizers they hope to grow more food and so in time need less food from us and others. But even by 1952, those 16

BATTLE OF SLACKS

CAMDEN, N. Y., Dec. 31 (AP)—A 14-year-old eighth grade girl today won the "battle of the slacks" at Camden Central School.

John A. Little, President of the board, had repeated his warning against girls wearing slacks in classes.

Little said the board voted three to one in favor of the repeal. He said school officials had been advised by the state education department to back down, "in accordance with the present policy of not interfering in matters of dress or attire of students."

So much for food and farming. Now look at their industry. Western Europe has a lot of industries but more than 50 years, those countries have had to rely on outside supplies for the raw materials their factories used.

Before the war they had enough coal and iron for their needs. But they were short of, or wholly lacked, other raw materials like cotton, wool, lumber, paper, rubber and oil. They had to import them. They still do.

By importing raw materials for their factories, they turned out finished goods which they sold abroad or to one another. In that way they made their exports pay for their imports.

They made money, too, by selling abroad special foods and drinks like cheese, wine and liquors, and through shipping, investments abroad, and tourists.

During the war they had to sell much of their investment's abroad. So a lot of income from those investments is gone.

And in the war their ships were sunk, trucks and freight cars and factories and houses, were smashed. Here's an example of what happened:

Before the war western Europe was able to get along on the coal produced by Britain, the Ruhr section of Germany, and Poland.

New coal production in Britain and the Ruhr is away down. Britain hasn't been able to send Europe coal since the war ended. Poland isn't sending much.

Yet coal is part of Europe's backbone. It's an inter-locked backbone. With the various parts depending upon one another.

For Example: If Europe can get more fertilizer and farm machinery it can grow more food. With more food, mines can turn out more coal. With more coal, more steel can be made.

More steel means Europe's factories can turn out more mine machinery to turn out more coal. It can turn more farm machinery to turn out more food, and so on.

THE WORLD TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Young King Mihai's abdication of his throne has no mysterious significance, for Romania already was under the domination of Moscow and he was monarch in name only by the grace of the Bolsheviks until he had set aside their purpose and they were ready to declare another Red Republic.

Mihai's personal tragedy merely represents the final step in the grand coup which the Russians have executed in taking over Romania for, to all intents, it is now a part of the Soviet empire. And they've secured a fine prize.

Romania is rich agriculturally, as is testified by her great fields of corn and other grains, and she has petroleum, perhaps a doubtful asset for a small country with powerful neighbors. But she is even more important strategically.

Not only does Romania have a coastline on the Black Sea but she houses the mouths of the mighty Danube, which winds back across the Balkans and on into central Europe—a navigable river which is capable of handling heavy traffic and thus is one of the world's vital waterways—militarily and commercially. Moreover, she lies up against the Russian border, and thus her political complexion and international relations are of vast moment to Moscow.

The taking over of Romania is a prime example of the dogged persistence with which the Communists pursue the hunt. As far back as 1939 they were causing unrest in that country, and the authorities uncovered a widespread Soviet espionage organization. Some 140 alleged Red agents were arrested in various cities. These underground activities continued until the late war gave birth to the golden age of Bolshevism in eastern Europe.

As we check up on former Romanian monarchs, we find we can't give them perfect marks in steadfastness and deportment. But Mihai who is only 26—just a youngster as kings go—has been showing a sturdiness of character which endeared him to his people and might have made him a great ruler if he had been given a chance. He has been so brave in trying to carry out his duties in the face of personal danger that one can understand the affection in which his subjects held him.

So far as courage goes, Mihai's colorful father has plenty of it, only he would seem to have directed too much of it in wrong directions. The former King Carol, now living in Portugal with his wife—she who was Margia Lupescu—will be recorded as one of the notable royal lovers of history. At the age of 21, during the first world war, Carol eloped with a Romanian provincial commoner, Zizi Lambrina, and married her, to the consternation of the whole country. He even wanted to abandon his rights to the throne but his father, King Ferdinand, finally got the marriage annulled.

Then Carol married lovely Princess Helen of Greece and she is Mihai's mother. However, Carol soon fell violently in love with Madame Lupescu, abandoned his throne for her and was divorced by his wife. To give Carol credit, he has stuck to Margia through thick and thin, and they were married recently in Brazil when it seemed that she was about to

Former Army Officer Rapped On Tax Count
WASHINGTON, Dec. 30 (AP)—A former Army officer who sought to trim his income taxes on the grounds that part of his service pay was in "inflated" foreign currencies met a rebuff today from the United States tax court.

St. E. Boyer of Casper, Wyo., who served as a lieutenant colonel in Britain and France during the war, had claimed deductions on his 1943, 1944 and 1945 income tax returns. He said he was given one British pound for each $4.03 in pay he drew in England because that was the official or controlled rate, whereas he could have got pounds for $2.75 each on the free market if he had been paid in dollars.

In France, he said, the Army paid him at the official rate of one franc for two cents, whereas the open market rate was one franc for 85-100 of a cent.

On his tax returns, Boyer undertook to count the difference between those rates as a loss deductible from his tax liability, but the revenue bureau disallowed it and billed him for $439 in extra taxes.

The tax court, by siding with the revenue bureau, rejected contentions that might have cleared the way to widespread tax deductions by large numbers of Army and Navy officers stationed abroad.

He said he was given one British pound for each $4.03 in pay he drew in England because that was the official or controlled rate,

I fear that Carol got his greaver traits from his dad, King Ferdinand. A friend of mine who knew Ferdinand well told me that his majesty had a warm penchant for Romania's beautiful gypsy girls and was quite content to leave many affairs of state in the hands of his very able and world famous wife, the late Queen Marie.

Talking of love, of course it is natural that Mihai's reported desire to marry a Danish Princess, Anne of Bourbon-Parma, should be coupled with his abdication. He is said to have requested the sanction of his government to marry and it refused. This didn't have much, if anything, to do with his surrender of the throne.

Mihai was forced out to make way for another sovereign—Communist totalitarianism.

Presidential Bidder Wallace Offers Plan

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 31, (AP)—Presidential candidate Henry Wallace has proposed a "Wallace Plan" for rehabilitation of the nations of Europe, to be administered by the United Nations.

Speaking before a Wisconsin Citizens' For Wallace meeting a day after announcing his candidacy for President as an independent, Wallace said he originally had favored the Marshall Plan for recovery of Europe but that in its present form there are "fatal differences."

The former vice president said the "Wallace Plan" would be financed by all nations "possessed of the means" and administered by a special agency of the U.N. He said priority in the allocation of funds should be given to nations "which suffered most severely from Axis aggression" and "without regard to the character of the politics and social institutions of the recipient nations."

He specified that there would be "no political or economic conditions attached to loans or grants" and that none of the money should be used for "military supplies, armaments or war preparations."

Grain Dealers

against "gambling" in grain.

Anderson made it clear that he had not discussed his proposed recommendation with the President this morning. He quoted reporters from a letter he had received from a small town doctor who had invested some savings in corn and later in cotton, losing money in both.

The letter, from the doctor, whose name was withheld, closed with these words:

"I am sorry I am not extrovert enough to take this in stride but life does not hold the promise for me to try to live down this public stigma after losing the money."

"My family will have my insurance at least, any they can move elsewhere. My wife says I get like a man condemned but she does not know it is only a rebuke until the day my name is published."

"You hold much potential happiness or heartache in your hand, Mr. Secretary. May God guide and have mercy on us both."

Anderson said he had hundreds of letters from people all over the country—small fry—who had invested as they were found, commodities with no intention of doing wrong.

The accumulation of such investments, he said, had caused rises in prices and in making public his list, it had to cover trades as they were found.

Congress, shortly before adjourning its special session, adopted a resolution authorizing Anderson to make the names public.

Among visitors in Sanford who

Miss Clinkscales Is Wed To W. J. Linder

In a quiet candlelight ceremony at the First Presbyterian Church Gwendolyn Clinkscales, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cody Geoffrey Clinkscales of Sanford, became the bride of Walter Jay Linder of Waverly, la., son of George Linder of Odessa, Fla. The marriage was solemnized before a small assemblage of relatives by Rev. Douglas E. Charles at 4:00 o'clock on Dec. 23.

The church was decorated with Christmas greenery, poinsettias, coveus platanus palms and tall white tapers in graduated candelabra.

Prior to the marriage service Mrs. F. S. Vernay, organist, rendered a program of nuptial music which included "Choir delance," "The Lord's Prayer" was sung by Robert Brown and the traditional wedding marches were used.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a light blue crepe gown fashioned with a matching lace pelum. She wore a black hat and accessories and her corsage was of white carnations.

Her only attendants were her two sisters, Mrs. Frank Cheney of Macon, Ga., and Mrs. John Shepard of Sanford. Mrs. Cheney wore a brown crepe dress with dark green accessories and Mrs. Shepard was gowned in a soft green wool dress with which she wore brown accessories.

Following the wedding a reception was held in the dining room of the Montezuma Hotel. The bride's table was overlaid with a white lace cloth and centered with a three-tiered wedding cake.

The trend away from independent production in Hollywood is still being probed by the fact that Johnny Weissmuller was going to swim the English Channel.

Edward Kirchers Have Open House

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kircher entertained last evening between the hours of 7:00 and 10:30 p.m. with open-house at their home at 1104 Myrtle Avenue.

In decorating the rooms of the Kircher home a large Christmas tree was placed in the living room. French decorations from Nice, France formed the unusual decoration for the attractive tree.

A Santa Claus scene banked with small trees was in the center of the mantle flanked with tall red tapers. On a table in this room a large red chandelier surrounded with holly stood against a reflecting mirror.

The dining table was overlaid with a white lace cloth and centered with a three-tiered wedding cake.

Soil Payments

Under a later re-estimate based on the support that many states would not use their full allotment of money for the past year—Mississippi's allotment was raised $20,000, Louisiana $10,000, and Florida $10,000.

An Agriculture Department official said the program generally was set up to pay farmers for the use of their land for soil conservation but with the understanding that certain other conditions practices would be paid for if funds were available.

Radio And Television Look Forward To '48

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 31.—(AP)—The radio and television industries, noting 1947 as the greatest year in their history, are looking forward to further gains in the coming year. John Ballantyne, president of the Philco Corporation, said yesterday.

"The radio industry in 1947," Ballantyne said in a statement, "produced over 16,500,000 receiving sets with a total retail value of approximately $900,000,000, a net profit of 175,000,000, and a net worth of nearly $100,000,000."

The greatest expansion will be in the field of television. Ballantyne said.

"We are just concluding the first real year of television production," he added. "Tremendous gains have been made so far, it is only the beginning. The year 1948 should see the production of at least 800,000 television sets with a value over $200,000,000."

Florida State News In Brief

ARCURI BERICIOUS. MIAMI, Dec. 31.—(AP)—The condition of Nick Arcuri, 44, of Rome, N. Y., suffering from a bullet wound in the abdomen was described as still "serious" at city-owned Jackson Memorial Hospital today. Attendants said he had a "fairly good night."

Arcuri was shot during a card game in suburban Hialeah early last Saturday, police Sgt. R. R. McCarty of Hialeah reported.

McCarty arrested John Dave Dunay, 44, of Hialeah, for the shooting and he was charged with "assault with a deadly weapon before being released under $1,500 bond by Peace Justice Henry L. Oppenberr.

BENNETT QUALIFIES. TALLAHASSEE, Dec. 31.—(AP)—Charles E. Bennett of Jacksonville today qualified as a candidate for the United States House of Representatives from the Second Florida congressional district.

The position is held at present by Rep. Emory Price, also of Jacksonville. He has not qualified for re-election so far, Secretary of State R. A. Gray's office said.

Key Club. (Continued from Page One) Fred Rosseter announced that through the agency of Principal Herman E. Morris, the club had its own special room in which to meet, a formerly empty class room at one time used for radio instruction. The members cleaned out things not needed, renovated the room, built tables and chairs, and the Art Club, at their request, has finished a mural painting on one wall showing deer and other animals, they said.

Porter Lansing, Jr. summed up the club's achievements, including building the club to full membership, raising funds by decorating the Jayce parade float for Armistice Day, raising funds through a rummage sale in which girls of the school co-operated and merchants aided by donating articles, and other activities. He also announced that the club is putting on a dance tonight at the Woman's Club.

Robert Park told of the benefits derived from attending the St. Petersburg meeting, and predicted a successful year for the boys group.

Howard Monthlett lead in singing with Harry Wester accompanying. Walter LeLand briefly told how Sanford may improve its waterfront for boating.

The Congress for authority and funds to extend military aid beyond June 30, the present deadline. Greece could look to the Marshall Plan for European recovery for further economic assistance.

Beek active assistance from other nations through the United Nations. If blocked by a Soviet veto in the Security Council this conceivably might be done under article 51 of the charter, conceding the right of self defense of any member state.

Asked point blank whether the administration proposes to stand on a policy of sending only technical advisers rather than combat forces to bolster Greece, Lovett replied yesterday that our policy, of course, will have to be related to circumstances. He added he is not willing to say at a time like this what our policy will be.

On the issue of diverting aid funds to arms, he said such diversions in the past and said further action is under constant consideration.

Greek Battle

Athena press reports said the rebels encircling the city had launched a last desperate assault on Konitsa and were being pounded by artillery fire.

The bulk of the Greek reinforcements units were reported to be within a mile of strategic Hourouani bridge, 11 miles west of Konitsa. It was predicted the rebels would blow up the bridge in their retreat, but army engineers already were said to be bringing up fording boats and bridge parts.

LA General Kalogeropoulos, commander of the Second Army Corps, sent a message to the Konitsa garrison: "Be brave. Make a final valiant effort. Strong units are moving toward Konitsa. We shall meet and shake hands today."

"By authority of the king, I award to all wounded officers and men the military cross. I reserve the privilege personally to pin these decorations on your breasts."

Authoritative military sources repeated their belief that the danger to Konitsa was past and disclosed that Greek forces in Epirus numbered 12 battalions of slightly more than 5,000 men. The war ministry said earlier.

consideration by the mission headed by Dwight Griswold. Lovett's news conference statement was the first official American reaction to the proclamation of the rump regime headed by General Markos Viliades. Lovett declared:

"The claim of certain Communist guerrilla leaders that they have established at some unknown point a 'First Provisional Democratic government of Free Greece' is a transparent device, the true purpose of which will be clear to everyone.

"It is only a phase in the familiar effort of certain elements to overthrow the legitimate and recognized Greek government and to threaten the territorial integrity and political independence of Greece."

Truman Voices

Refused to comment on Henry A. Wallace's decision to head an independent presidential ticket next year. But when asked if the Democrats would have a happy New Year he replied, sure they will.

Disclosed he will send his message on the state of the union to Congress Jan. 7, his economic message Jan. 9, and his budget message probably on Jan. 12. He will announce later whether he will deliver his legislative recommendations in person. In this connection, he said, he has not been informed of any Democratic tax reduction plan, and his tax views will have to await his message.

Refused to say James M. Landis is not being reappointed to the Civil Aeronautics Board. He said two vacancies on the board will be filled as quickly as possible.

Refused to answer definitely a question about the difference between what a reporter called "greedy and legitimate trading in commodities." He said he will have to write an essay about it later. He did say however that he does not believe his personal physician, Brig. General Wallace Graham, did anything wrong by trading in the market. Graham said Monday that his broker had purchased some commodities for him without his knowledge and when he found about it ordered them sold. Mr. Truman said he did not know about the Graham matter until the morning he asked what names of speculators he made public. Graham told him about it then. He also said he did not know that Edwin W. Pauley was in the market until Pauley went before a congressional committee and told of his dealings.
