25 Per Cent Gas Output Cutback Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration today proposed a 25 per cent reduction in gasoline production...

Other distributors would get whatever was left over, but in no case would receive more than 90 per cent of what they received a year earlier.

Under the new proposal, these fuels would go first to a top priority category of users, including fuel production activities and public transportation...

Energy czar William E. Simon, in proposing the regulations, also revised an earlier proposal for allocation of home heating oil and diesel and jet fuel.

Truckers Say Fuel Situation 'A Mess'

By JEAN PATTESON Herald Staff Writer The fuel situation is a mess any way you look at it, according to truckers interviewed at local truckstops this morning.

"We're hanging around wasting our time and money," said New York trucker Peter Brown. "The shippers are scared to death. Either we can't get places soon enough at 50 m.p.h. or they're afraid we'll get stranded without fuel and they'll lose the shipment."

"The lowering of the speed limit is the major gripe. Speed increases in the price of diesel fuel and the shortage of fuel are also causing truckers' headaches.

"You get truckers who'll cry about everything," said Brown. "But we're talking about the big things that are killing us."

Three North Carolina truckers agreed they are using more fuel now they are travelling slower. "My truck's more efficient at 70 than at 50 m.p.h.," said Merle Brunch.

"That's right," agreed Charles Fain. "My truck's been drinking more fuel now I'm driving slower. I've got to go at least 60. Anything lower than that and I've got to change to a lower gear which makes the truck turn over harder.

"Besides, it's tiresome going slow and I get more sleep," Tommy Belch told the same story. "It's hurting us going 55. It's making us burn more fuel."

Not only are truckers complaining the lowered speed limits are causing them to run their schedules inefficiently, but their schedules have been upset. "A lot of times you've got an overnight market to run, like from Fort Myers to New York. I did it easy in 24 hours before, but now there's no way," said Belch.

"Try and make the Belle Glade-Boston run in 24 hours," challenged Fain. "At 55 m.p.h. (Cont'd on page 1A)

'Lame Duck' Council Gets Mayoral Power By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS—An angry crowd of more than 100 citizens booed and catcalled Tuesday night as city council began stripping the mayor's office of power and salary.

On three unanimous votes, city councilmen (including James Decker, Mayor Lawrence Swafford and Councilman Keith Nixon) instructed City Atty. Joe Davis to prepare resolutions reserving the power of hiring, firing and creating new positions in the city council and establishing the post of personnel director at $10,000, $13,416 annually and city manager at $17,500 to $25,500 a year.

Councilman Dan Dorfman with the board's approval told City Clerk Phyllis Jordahl to advertise for both jobs in professional journals.

Dorfman said the hiring and firing powers would remain in the council's hands at least until a civil service ordinance is adopted to give city employees job security.

Councilman Donald Myers said he planned to make an identical motion on the hiring and firing, but Dorfman beat him to it.

Dorfman's motion was that no employee be dismissed, no new employees be hired and no new positions be created without a majority vote of the council.

Seminole Revokes Permit Of Orange Electric Firm

By CHRIS NELSON Herald Staff Writer Tuesday, Gundling said he made his electrical permit revocation independently, based on violations of the Southern Standard Building Code, and the National Electrical Code.

The grand jury report charged county officials, contractors and subcontractors with systematically ignoring the national codes, and admonished the commission to upgrade the then-proposed electrical ordinance.

The commission did so, and ordered the independent investigation of the 10 sites named Nov. 16 by Herring in a letter to Villen.

The remaining nine sites include Stubbins' School of Dance, Sweetwater Oaks, Shadowwood Village, English Woods, Sterling Park, Mayberry Club, Fair Lanes, Bowling Lanes, Green Meadows Apartments, and Sportman's Den nightclub in Casselberry.

Seminole County Building Official David Gundling Tuesday revoked the electrical permit of a contractor working on Cherrywood Apartments, a south county project on a list of 10 named as containing "hazards to life and property" by State Atty. Abbott Herring.

Principal Jaworski To Get Two More Nixon Tapes

Report Is Delayed

By MART WEINTZ
Herald Staff Writer

The report on an inquiry by a state committee into complaints against Casselberry Elementary School Principal Christy Hary has been delayed until January, School Supt. William Layer said Tuesday. The Professional Practices Committee (PPC) sent a man to look into the situation at Casselberry and determine if a formal hearing is necessary. The report was scheduled to be returned this week but will be returned until January because the PPC does not have a meeting scheduled until then, Layer said.

The complaints center on "experimental programs" which separate boys from girls and left-handed students from right-handed students. The controversial programs have resulted in numerous complaints from parents and P-TA members including the president of the P-TA who termed the situation "terrible." Hary declared the programs were "new" and were instituted to "help the students."

At a November school board meeting Layer contradicted Hary's contention that the programs were new. Layer said the programs have been in existence for six years. Layer also said the programs have not been approved by the Curriculum Improvement Committee because "they were put into practice before the committee was instituted three years ago."

Toy Plea Made For Youngsters

Sumland Parents and Friends are collecting Christmas gifts for the 3,000 retarded youngsters at Orlando and Gainesville Sumland Center. Toys, dolls and grooming items are needed. Small items like tricycles and record players needing minor repairs will be accepted.

Fire Departments in Maitland, Winter Park and South Seminole are serving as drop off points. Small items may be placed in "wishing wells" at Winter Park Mall and bigger items will be picked up. Call 855-2829 for more information.

Retirees Schedule Party

DeBary—The annual Christmas party of the DeBary Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons, will be held Friday, starting at 9:30 a.m. at the Firemen's Recreation Hall.

Refreshments will be served under direction of Mrs. Wilamina Grant.

Following a brief business session Chairman Adrian Fredeman, will present a musical program, which will include banjo numbers by Miss Irma Killian, Sanford, and Jerry Friese, Deltona.

Harry Kemp, Deltona, will lead a sing-along which will include carols accompanied by Fredeman.

As chapter memberships are due the first of the year, President Mary O'Leary requests members to renew memberships during the meeting. Membership Chairmen Oscar Hovik, will enroll new members.

Only members of the AARP and of the National Association of Retired Persons are eligible to join the local group. Those interested in a chapter sponsored cruise to Mexico, are asked to register for the trip at the meeting.

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica plans to turn over copies of two more subpoenaed presidential tapes to special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

The tapes to be turned over today contain conversations held between President Nixon and aides on March 21, 1973. The White House had made no request to withhold any of the four March conversations from the Watergate grand jury.

Sirica still must rule on White House requests to withhold the tapes of two other meetings and part of a third from the grand jury. Meanwhile, Mark Weiss, a member of the panel of technical experts assembled to examine the tapes, said Tuesday a report on the 18-minute gap in one subpoenaed tape should reach Sirica by the end of this week. Weiss declined to say what the report might contain.

The experts examined the tape of a June 20, 1972, conversation between the President and H. R. Haldeman at laboratories in New York City and Cambridge, Mass., during the past two weeks in an effort to determine what might have caused the 18-minute gap and whether it would be possible to recover the conversation obliterated by a hum.

Technology, who advised the tapes received this week from Sirica, Jaworski and his assistants closed number last weekend from the White House. Those tapes were turned over voluntarily in response to requests from Jaworski and his assistant, a special prosecutor, Archibald Cox.

Completion Scheduled For February

Sheriff Says Building Will Consolidate Units

By MARK WEINTZ
Herald Staff Writer

The $300,000 building under construction next to the old sheriff's two-story building and the renovation of the old structure is expected to be completed in February which is ahead of schedule, Polk said.

When the construction is finished Polk will move his office from the fourth floor of the courthouse to a revamped site in the new complex. The detective division, presently housed in a trailer across the street, also will move to the new location, Polk said.

The entire department, which is spread out over nearly a two-block area, will be consolidated in the new structure, Polk said. The new building is approximately 6,000 square feet and is being built with an allowance for a future addition of a third story "in case we should need it," Polk said.

The two-story building is being built on a foundation designed to support three stories. An elevator shaft has been built to comply with the law which requires three story buildings to have an elevator, Polk said. There will be no elevator until a third story is added, Polk said.

The sheriff said he was looking forward to moving into his new office. "Then I will be right in the pulse of things and be able to talk to all of the men more often."

Another new feature of the complex will be the television sets in the sheriff's office which will monitor the jail.

"The monitors will keep the jailers on their toes," Polk said with a chuckle, adding, "Just about any time a jailer gets hurt it is because he is careless or setting a pattern."

Under the monitors in the sheriff's office will be an "electric map" which will diagram the jail and all the security doors inside. "Every door will have a corresponding light on the map and I will be able to tell at a glance which doors are open," Polk explained.

The new building is beginning to show some semblance of an office complex now that workers have started to partition off the interior.

One partition, cluttered with construction rubble, caught the sheriff's eye and he said proudly, "This will be my office."

"When I move in here we will move the central communication center from the third story of the courthouse to my old fourth floor office," Polk said.

As the sheriff walked through the new building it was apparent he had memorized the blueprint. Every nook in the building is known to him and for each he has a specific purpose.

Longwood Interceptor Bids Asked

LONGWOOD—City council Monday night called for bids by Jan. 14 on the city's planned $1.57 million sewage collection system, hoping to divert the project from the interceptor system at the Atlantic City Springs regional sewer plant, neither of which has been given final approval by federal agencies.

City Engineer Bill Palm also reported that he is hopeful bids for the various parts of the city sewer system will come in below estimates to permit inclusion of water improvements in the $2.7 million sewer bond issue.

Although Palm for more than two years said the bond issue would include water improvements for the Longwood-Maitland Road area where development is currently concentrated, he told the city council Monday night the city "can get by" without the water improvements for two years.

Palm said the city accepts a bid for the collection system on Jan. 14, a contract could be awarded Feb. 1 and the bonds sold thereafter.

He said a conference with fiscal agents, Pierce, Welborn and Murphy Monday revealed that the city can probably expect to pay six per cent annual interest over the 30-year life of the bonds.

He recommended the city set connection fees of $200 per home. Some weeks ago he urged a monthly sewer charge of 100 per cent of monthly water bills with a maximum to homeowners of $6.50 monthly.

Palm said the city has applied for a $615,000 grant from the Environmental Protection Agency rather than the $600,000 announced some months ago and that the entire cost of the interceptors is estimated at $930,000.

In addition he said the master lift station would cost $200,000, force mains $728,000 and contingencies of $187,000. The board approved a partial payment of $28,803.75 to Palm for his work.

NATO Detente

Allies Suspect Moves By Russia

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON
Associated Press Writer
BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and other key foreign ministers of the North Atlantic alliance are suspicious of what the Russians are doing behind the scenes of East-West detente.

Max van der Stoep of the Netherlands voiced the underlying mood when he told the NATO Council of Foreign Ministers: "We have to ask ourselves if the Soviets did not perhaps put the Arabs up to using the weapon of oil to undercut the economies of the industrialized West. Indeed, we in NATO have to find out if the Soviets perhaps did not instigate the Arab attack on Israel."

The Dutch minister's comment might be attributable to the fact that the Netherlands is the victim of a total Arab oil boycott for its pro-Israeli policy. But the experienced diplomats of Britain, France and the United States also cast doubt on the Kremlin's purposes.

Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home of Britain, newly returned from talks in Moscow, came out flatly against the idea of a pan-European summit conference to sign a new security treaty — a longtime Soviet goal.

He said there has been no tangible progress at the 34-nation Geneva talks on European security and cooperation, which the Soviets want to raise to the summit level in the next round of negotiations.

Foreign Minister Michel Jobert of France went further. He said the Americans, by entering into their private arrangements with Moscow, were weakening NATO and exposing Western Europe to attack. His implication was that at any time Moscow could renege and overwhelm Western Europe.

Kissinger, a chief architect of Soviet-American detente, angrily denied Jobert's interpretation. But he left no doubt that certain Soviet aspirations have not escaped him. He used soft words, but stressed that U.S. policy is geared to defending the influence and interests of the West. He did not identify Moscow as the main threat, but no one doubted that was what he meant.

Campaign Funding Bill

'Purity' May Be Somewhat Costly

Congress had every reason to hesitate, even at the expense of not approving necessary debt ceiling legislation, over whether to approve a bill that would allocate more than $50 million every four years from the public treasury to subsidize major candidates for president.

As proposed, the measure would permit — and match — small private contributions to politicians in the primary elections as a means of eliminating frivolous candidates. Private contributions would be prohibited in the general election. Instead each major candidate for president would receive $21 million from the federal treasury.

The intent of the legislation is to increase the purity of the political process by eliminating immense contributions, such as those seen in the 1972 campaign. An irony and an anomaly are evident at once in the bill. The House and Senate, for example, would say in effect that they should not be shielded from the temptations of private contributions, but that presidential candidates should be. Additionally, House and Senate members would fall victim of the modern fiction that political funds furnished by the federal government cannot be misappropriated or misused by government bureaucrats.

It is not for the fact that current events have made impeachment a household word, there would be no occasion to inject the name of Samuel Chase into today's news.

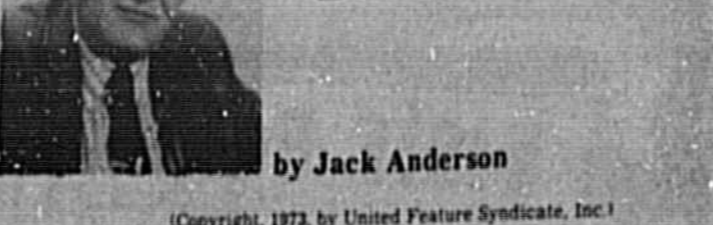

But Chase's name is in the books because in 1804 he became the first justice of the U.S. Supreme Court to face impeachment proceedings. In short, Justice Chase was accused of criticizing the government and misconduct in office, but the Senate acquitted him on all counts on March 1, 1805.

Chase was not only the first Supreme Court justice to face impeachment, he has been the only one. Conversational drives for impeachment lull up, now and then, Earl Warren and William O. Douglas being among the names mentioned, but nothing has happened.

Impeachment, as provided in the Constitution, has been resorted to only 11 times in U.S. history, and in only four cases has conviction followed impeachment—all four being members of the judiciary. To "impeach," we need to remind ourselves now and then, means only "accuse," "indict," or "challenge"; conviction is another process.

England began impeaching of-ficeholders in the 14th or 15th century. The procedure usually consisted of adoption of charges by the House of Commons; this was followed by a trial held by the House of Lords. The last English impeachment was that of Lord Melville in 1806. He was blamed for

by Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Pipe-puffing Arthur Burns, chairman of the powerful Federal Reserve Board, doesn't want to open his books to government auditors.

When House Banking Chairman Wright Patman introduced legislation to subject the Fed's fiscal operations to government audit, therefore, Burns quietly got on the phone to top bankers and urged them to bring pressure on Congress to kill the bill.

Competent sources have told us about Burns' telephone campaign and have supplied us with documentary evidence of one key call. Under the massive assault by Burns and the bankers, the bill was successfully blocked.

The bill was the outgrowth of charges that the Fed was more interested in protecting the bankers than the public. Burns was absolutely opposed to allowing the GAO to scrutinize the Fed's books.

Internal memo. We have now obtained an internal memo detailing some of his backstage maneuvering. Dated "10/19/73 4:40 p.m.," it tells of a telephone message from John Lee of the New York Clearing House, a link between local banks and the Federal Reserve System.

The memo states that Lee "had a call from Gabriel Hauge (board chairman of Manufacturers Hanover Corp., New York) who advised that Arthur Burns, chairman of Fed. Mr. Burns asked Mr. Hauge if he could muster some support in New York to help the Fed resist a bill sponsored by Mr. Patman that would require full GAO audits of the Federal Reserve System."

Bankers, no matter how they feel about the Fed, are particularly vulnerable to its pressures. Dr. Burns had no difficulty mastering support to beat back the audit. "Mr. Hauge had a conversation with Burns remembered the conversation with Hauge and that Burns 'undoubtedly did mention' the bill, but did not 'recall the tone of the conversation' about lobbying.

Hauge agreed the audit bill "must have been part of the conversation." But like Burns, Hauge could not recall the references to lobbying. Hauge said he has opposed an audit of the Fed for many years.

Patman's Charge. Representative Patman has charged over the past few months that Burns and the Fed mounted "an unprecedented effort" to sabotage the audit bill. Our discovery of the memo on the exact course of the campaign, however, is the first substantive evidence to back up Patman's charge.

Special Session Asked Solons Get Energy Battle Plan

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — The Florida Energy Committee has sent to the legislature a broad energy crisis battle plan giving Gov. Reubin Askew the power to shut down schools and curtail working hours.

A select Senate committee was to begin consideration of the recommendations today. Sen. George Brestler, D-Miami, and Rep. Kenneth MacKay, D-Ocala, Energy Committee co-chairmen, were to meet with Askew to discuss the plans formulated Tuesday.

Askew was to be asked to call a special legislative session "as soon as possible" to deal with energy conservation issues. "From this time forward, I believe it's going to be up to the legislative leadership and the governor" to deal with the crisis, MacKay said.

The bill also allows the governor to implement any energy-related measures which may be mandated by Congress. It proposes as one of its alternatives an energy conservation surtax imposed on the number of kilowatt hours above a usage rate to be determined.

Askew has been to Washington to urge federal officials to take account of Florida's growth and last year's unusually mild winter in allocating heating oil and kerosene.

Askew To Seek Gas For Vacationers

When it would rule on the request. Conservationists say lowering the reservoir will save thousands of trees and keep alive chances of having the Oklawaha River brought under the U.S. Wild and Scenic Rivers Act.

Council, to make clear his intent, he added, "That means three votes of the council." It will take a significant amount of time to develop the ordinance, Dorfman said, and then demanded the floor to speak against each of the issues, Swafford said none would be heard because they were not on the agenda. Many insisted they had attempted to have their names included on the agenda, but were refused. "As the meeting opened, Mayor-elect Norman Floyd and Councilman-elect Cal DeVony were invited to take seats near the council table usually reserved for department heads.

Altamonte To Borrow $123,000

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — City Councilmen Tuesday night decided to keep $500,000 in cash and investments untouched, agreeing instead to borrow from Southeast First National Bank of Maitland at 5 per cent interest the $123,000 matching funds needed to begin construction of the city's northside sewage collection system. Comptroller Denver Baxter recommended the move, urging that the city's $248,000 in cash accounts and another $253,000 in investments be left untouched.

Baxter said U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development grant monies for the project will not be released until the city's matching money, the $123,000, is spent. The $123,000 for the short term is to be paid in 12 months in 90-days to 24 months, loan to service for Altamonte Springs and the CALNO area. — Confirmed Mayor Lawrence Swafford's appointments of Ross Williams and Jim Pierman to the planning and zoning board.

will be withdrawn as attributed to faulty electrical wiring by Fire Chief George Harritt.

In revoking the Palmer Electric permit, Gundling's letter charged the company failed to bring work up to code standards despite warnings and "irregular inspections," and that work done at Cherrystone was not in accordance with original plans filed when the permit was issued.

The letter lists nine deficient areas, including overall workmanship, and electrical safety measures such as grounding and fire spread prevention techniques. Gundling ordered a halt to all work until the firm corrects deficiencies by Palmer, and said only after the corrections are made will he issue a permit for continued work. In his verbal instructions to Hurst, Gundling said "we're interested in getting it corrected, not in harassing anybody," and added "the letter implies that there may be other deficiencies we may not have noticed."

Gundling said he would be "reluctant" to take the step of revoking Palmer's competency card, but because the company "is normally an excellent outfit," and because he feels the present ordinance does not set the proper penalties.

"Just because a guy does bad or illegal work doesn't mean he lacks competency but the ordinance doesn't really address itself to any other problem," he said.

In announcing the independent probe would be made by Shauf and Hurst, Villen said if results showed a pattern of bad work the building department's regulatory boards will be instructed to review the licenses of offending contractors. Villen Monday steadfastly maintained the Cherrystone inspection revealed no hazards to life as charged by the grand jury, and Gundling refused to be drawn into the debate, labeling it "politics."

"The findings of the new building official certainly confirms that which was told to us by the former electrical inspectors," Herring said, adding the warning "I don't think revealed the potential wide open problems that exist."

Herring responded Nov. 16, noting he told Villen and Assistant County Atty. Howard Marner of the problem areas on Sept. 25, but later sought to downplay the briefing saying the commission had asked for a work session on the problems prior to the onset of the early October grand jury probe.

Longwood Considers Health Site 'Facelift'

LONGWOOD — City councilmen in work session at 8 p.m. tonight will consider action on the single bid received for renovating the medical clinic building, whether to proceed with granting an exclusive garbage collection franchise and the problems involved with notifying water customers with late accounts before discontinuing service.

The board delayed action on the three items in regular session Monday night. Architect James Melvin said although he advertised in an out-of-county newspaper for bids on the medical clinic renovations only one bid from Harris Construction Co., at $17,306, was received. A motion by Councilman Dick Crenshaw to accept the bid died for lack of a second.

Councilman B. H. Ferryell said the bid price was high while Mayor Eugene Jaques said paid firemen are presently sleeping in the building without heat.

The city council evicted the health department from the building October, saying the space is needed to expand city offices. Jaques indicated some weeks ago a garbage collection company was willing to submit a $2.50 bid cost per household for service under an exclusive franchise agreement. Bids received Monday night, however, ran from a low of $3.50

3rd Suspect Is Charged In Larceny

A third suspect was arrested by Seminole County detectives Tuesday and charged with grand larceny in connection with thefts occurring at Springwood Village during the first week of December.

Two Sanford men were arrested Monday in connection with the same incident. All the men worked at the subdivision which is under construction, Seminole investigator Tom Hennigan said.

Richard Allen Hippenstall, 41, of Apopka, is in the Seminole County jail in lieu of $5,000 bond. Lorenzo Teague, 22, 110 West 10th St., and Keith Charles Passon, 26, 1923 Summerlin Ave., both of Sanford, also had their bond set at $5,000.

"We have recovered gloves, a refrigerator, chandeliers, tools and cabinets. We are not sure how long this has been going on, but, we expect no more arrests, Seminole investigator George Hagood said."

Ex-Fire Chief Takes Council Seat Tonight

WINTER SPRINGS—Former Fire Chief Irvin Hunter, elected last Tuesday to the 13-month term of Victor Miller, who resigned, will formally take office at the 7:30 council meeting tonight.

Miller resigned because he plans to move out of the city early in the new year and wanted the people to elect his successor.

Also on the agenda is a public hearing on Bobby Hattaway's request for annexation of 72 acres of Tusawilla Road, one-half mile north of Red Bug Road. It has been announced Hattaway is seeking planned unit development zoning for the parcel.

Zaccarello, owner of H and W Garbage Service will present an amended contract to continue the exclusive garbage collection franchise in the city. The current contract calls for residents to pay a $3.50 monthly charge for garbage and trash collection. Zaccarello is asking for a 50 cent monthly increase. An ordinance accepting a new code of ordinances prepared by the Municipal Code Corp. will be considered.

Royal Living Today

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) - They read by the flickering light of a kerosene lamp. Their water is pumped by hand. And the bathroom consists of a tub in the front yard and an out-house in the back.

There is no energy crisis in the lives of Doc and Shelley Dachtler. They say they live like kings, in their own desert sort of way.

There's no electricity for the remote log cabin the Dachtlers built nearly two years ago with the help of Doc and Shelley Dachtler.

Energy Briefs

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Sen. Bill Brock, R-Tenn., has accused three major oil companies of creating unnecessary red tape for homeowners using heating oil.

Brock, here to address the Tennessee Farm Bureau Federation, said he had heard of cases in which the three companies — Gulf, Texaco and Exxon — required homeowners to fill out lengthy forms.

"The small homeowners are supposed to go directly to a dealer, state their need and the dealer is supposed to get them what they require," Brock said.

"That's supposed to be done with no form, no red tape," he said.

Help!

HARTFORD (AP) — Gov. Thomas J. Meskill had to call on Vermont state police for assistance last week when it appeared he might not have enough gasoline to drive his family home to Connecticut.

Meskill said that as he prepared to leave Manchester, Vt., Saturday afternoon he found all of the filling stations closed well in advance of the 3 p.m. deadline requested by President Nixon.

Meskill called on the state police who furnished him nine gallons.

Truckers

CAMBRIDGE, Ohio (AP) — Truckers are betting they can prove to an Internal Revenue Service investigator that they can save fuel by driving faster speeds.

An IRS agent was expected today at the Shenandoah Truck stop east of here, where angry drivers have blocked fuel pumps since Thursday.

A spokesman for the truckers said the investigator would ride one of the tractor-trailers to check drivers' claims that they get their best gas mileage between 60 and 65 miles per hour.

"We're going to fill up and drive my speed until we run out. Then we're going to fuel up again and go his speed. My bet is we get 15 to 20 per cent better mileage my way," said Art Smith of Corona, Calif.

Giveaway

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The way cars were lining up at Uncle Russ's Shell Station it looked as though he was giving gasoline away.

He was. Station owner Russell N. Holbrook was ordered by the Internal Revenue Service to refund past overcharges to customers, so Monday Holbrook pumped out about 3,000 gallons of gasoline — free — a maximum of 10 gallons per customer.

The queue leading to his station on Massachusetts Avenue was so long that police had to close northbound traffic on all but one lane. To help keep traffic moving, police also asked Holbrook to dispense with the usual chatter with customers and cleaning windshields.

Try Baby Gouda

Party dips are high on the list of foods to consider as part of the holiday season shopping budget. One dip that goes well at a party and also makes a good sandwich spread is this Baby Gouda. It sounds exotic and slightly indecent but it basically is a mix of gouda cheese, chicken spread, scallions and other seasonings. Make this ahead and keep refrigerated until ready to use.

STUFFED BABY GOUDA
1 7-ounce or 8-ounce Baby Gouda cheese

3 tablespoons light cream
1/4 ounce can chicken spread
1/4 cup minced scallion
1/2 teaspoon minced pickles
1/2 teaspoon lime juice
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Cut 1 7-inch slice from top of cheese. Using a teaspoon, scoop out the cheese, leaving firm shell. Place cheese and cream in a blender cup and whir at high speed, scraping occasionally until cheese has formed a smooth paste. Spoon into a bowl and stir in remaining ingredients. Pile lightly back into cheese shell. Chill and serve with your favorite crackers.

Traditional Helper Raisins In For Holidays

Raisins have long been a traditional ingredient for holiday baking. No self-respecting fruitcake or plum pudding would be the same without the tangy goodness of California Raisins.

California raisins are now back on the grocery shelves in excellent supply.

Make-it-yourself gifts featuring raisins also make special presents for friends and family.

Raisin Yule Loaf is one idea that can be made ahead and frozen until you're ready to wrap it up. Full of tangy, sweet raisins, this specialty bread is flavored with a bit of mace for special flair. Raisin Yule Loaf is fast and easy to make and easy to please both family and friends.

Call on California Raisins for between holiday desserts and snacks, too. Reintroduce the raisin-oatmeal cookie to your youngster's lunch box and be sure to have plenty of raisins on hand for between meal nibbling. Raisins give you an energy boost that can help you keep going during the hectic season to come.

RAISIN YULE LOAF

3 cups sifted flour
1 1/2 cups sugar
4 teaspoons baking powder
Turn into greased 9 x 5 x 3-inch loaf pan. Let stand at room temperature 20 minutes. Bake at 350 degrees for about 1 1/4 hours. Remove from pan and cool on wire rack. Makes 1 loaf.

Glace: This 1 cup confectioner's sugar with 2 tablespoons milk. Drizzle over loaf.

Natural Foods Books Welcome Christmas Gifts

By Gaynor Maddox

More books on natural foods are arriving. Many could be used as welcome Christmas gifts for those not yet converted to the health food shops. Here are two books that are pleasantly written, touch on basic interests and contain good recipes.

"Growing Food the Natural Way" (Doubleday $7.95) by Ken and Pat Kraft, seeks to explain organic gardening to the beginner, the confirmed or the yet-to-be-convinced. The Krafts (husband and wife) are excellent writers and successful farmers who seem very proud of their "magical" compost, among other aids to crops. Though not a natural food lover, I found reading this book a warm and inspiring experience. I wanted to go right out and start farming. But the book's final chapter, "A Home in The Country for You?" stilled my enthusiasm. The authors remind us about loneliness, different types of neighbors, getting help, illegal hunting and theft and vandalism. Also, they ask how you plan to get water, roads, mortgages and if you are prepared for hard physical work. They warn that no farm should be bought until these and other questions have been fully answered.

To the inevitable question "Why organic?" their answer is: "We have noticed and in fact we think that one of the strongest urges for going organic is something nature has built into people. Feeding the earth with the earth's own products feels right. By contrast, dusting the soil with a saccharine chemical that looks unhealthily like cement and even smells something like it

"The Natural Foods Sweet-Tooth Cookbook" by Eunice Farmilant (Doubleday — $5.95) is a way-out treatment of natural foods that are substitutes for sugar and other sources of sweetness. It contains around 140 recipes for desserts, all pure and unadorned by sugar and honey in general use. No sugar, honey or artificial flavors. But the author rules out any use of bananas or pineapples because, as she says, they must be fumigated to enter the United States.

Tuna Holiday Tree Offers Delightful Change Of Pace

Holidays bring out the best in us, the desire to share our blessings with one and all. And since holiday pleasures are bound up with "at home" hospitality, there's always a demand for new ideas in festive specialties to carry out the theme of the season.

What more delectable welcome could you provide than to greet friends and family with this handsome Tuna Holiday Tree, created with a luscious tuna pate! Not only is it an eye-catcher as something dreamed up by a professional caterer, it's delightfully easy to make, it's economical considering the cost of party foods, and it's as good as it looks. No empty calories here. When you spread the tuna pate on bread or crackers, it includes tuna's solid protein—solid and satisfying. The ingredients that go into the Tuna Holiday Tree are supermarket staples: canned tuna in vegetable oil, cream cheese, ripe olives, walnuts and capers. The seasonings include grated onion, lemon juice, dry mustard and thyme. They're all quickly mixed together and shaped into a tree. (The pate holds together so beautifully, there's no need for any hidden props or base.)

Trimming the tree doesn't require a degree in culinary artistry either.

Fantasy, Reality For Child

PROVO, Utah—Can a 3-year-old child distinguish "reality" from "fantasy?"

Not really, because they can't think in abstract terms. However, by the time a child reaches the age of 5, this ability improves considerably, according to a specialist in child behavior.

Dr. Barbara J. Taylor, assistant professor of child development and family relations at Brigham Young University, said children's fantasy is a little-known subject among psychologists and more research needs to be done.

"In selecting books, television programs, or other media for preschool children, parents and teachers of young children should provide opportunities which support firsthand experiences of the here-and-now," Dr. Taylor explained. "As the child matures, he will then be able to understand more abstract ideas."

A 3-year-old child can identify and understand a pet such as a dog in a family environment, but would probably be confused by the animal taking on human characteristics such as they see on various media, she said.

Dr. Taylor pointed out there are two different types of fantasy.

One is called "withdrawal," in which a child attempts to compensate for his inabilities or fears by retreating from the real world and creating a make-believe one of his own.

The other kind occurs when a child cannot understand his world and, because of his inadequate mental abilities, confuses reality with fantasy.

Dr. Taylor studied the latter type of fantasy in detail. She studied 13 boys and 13 girls in each of the three age groups from 3 to 5 years old at the Human Development Institute at Florida State University, and two other nursery schools in Florida.

A test using 12 pictures, six portraying humans or animals with normal features, and six with animals showing human characteristics, was given.

After a panel of nine judges rated pictures selected from young children's books, she showed the pictures to the children and asked each one to describe what was going on.

An example of the realistic pictures was a bird feeding its young in a nest.

She Sets Recipe Trends, Desserts Are Among Best

By CECILY BROWNSTONE Associated Press Food Editor

Zoe Coulson, a slim young woman with sparkling blue-green eyes and a friendly grin, is in charge of feeding 5,000 luncheon guests each year. Sometimes there are only a few guests, sometimes dozens more in the spacious, formally furnished and elegantly quiet dining room that Zoe oversees.

This oasis on one of Manhattan's busiest streets is in an office building that houses Good Housekeeping Institute. Zoe is director of foods and cookery of the institute and editor of the brand-new edition of "The Good Housekeeping Cookbook."

Zoe is enthusiastic about entertaining so many people.

"The dishes we serve are first tried in our test kitchens," she says, "and the tasting by guests is an indication of the foods people prefer. For example, after we developed a recipe for Celery Vinaigrette, we weren't sure how much it would appeal to men. But when we served it at our lunches and we kept ordering seconds, we knew it was a winner."

Zoe has a down-to-earth background because she grew up on a diversified farm in the rolling hills of southern Indiana amid corn, soybeans and cattle. "I had to learn to cook," Zoe told me. "I was the oldest child, the only girl, and my three brothers helped my father with the farming. We grew a lot of what we ate and my mother and I did the preserving. Say black berries to me and I think of how every summer my mother and I put up 25 gallons of them—100 quarts, 100 cobblers!"

"I was a tomboy at heart and would rather have tended the cattle, but my mother wasn't 'liberated'—she thought my role was helping in the house."

After graduating in home economics from Purdue University, Zoe held various jobs in the food field in Chicago.

"The dishes in our new cookbook are less heavy than in previous editions and my menus reflect this," Zoe says. "When we tested some of our older ice-cream recipes they were so rich they tasted like butter. We substituted half-and-half for heavy cream and now the ice creams are both rich and good."

To me the most revolutionary change in the 1973 Good Housekeeping Cookbook is in the recipes for quick breads, cakes, cookies, pies and puddings. It is the first modern American major comprehensive cookbook to recommend using in these recipes all-purpose or cake flour without sifting before measuring and without sifting again with leavening, salt and spices if these are called for. This turnabout is bound to have enormous influence.

When I interviewed Zoe over lunch at Good Housekeeping we had shrimp-stuffed brocoli, herb tomato salad, sesame cloverleaf rolls and frosty lime soufflé. All made from delicious recipes in the new cookbook. If, like Zoe, you love to knead yeast dough, I strongly advise you to look up the recipes for the rolls—they are the best of their kind I've ever tasted.

Here's a recipe for an apricot bar from the 1973 Good Housekeeping Cookbook. It first appeared, with sifting directions, in the 1965 edition. Now no sifting is called for and the cookies are still as super as they've always been.

LUSCIOUS APRICOT SQUARES

2-3rd cup dried apricots
1/2 cup butter or margarine, softened
1/4 cup sugar
1 cup packed light brown sugar
2 eggs
1/2 cup chopped walnuts
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 teaspoon salt

In covered small saucepan over low heat, in enough water to cover apricots, cook apricots 15 minutes; drain and finely chop. Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease 8 by 8 inch baking pan. Into large bowl, measure 1 cup flour, butter and sugar; with mixer at medium speed, beat until well mixed and crumbly; pat evenly into pan. Bake 25 minutes or until golden. Meanwhile, in same bowl, measure 1-3rd cup flour, apricots, brown sugar and remaining ingredients except confectioners' sugar; with mixer at medium speed, beat until well mixed, occasionally scraping bowl with rubber spatula; pour over baked layer and return to oven; bake 25 minutes longer or until golden. Cool in pan; cut into squares. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar. Makes 16 cookies.

Rose Valpreda's Lemon Loaf Tea or Coffee LEMON LOAF

A good cook in E. Wallingford, Vt., contributes this Shaker recipe for a tea bread.

2 cups un sifted flour
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 and 1/3rd cups sugar
2 eggs
1-3rd cup milk
1/2 cup chopped walnuts
2 teaspoons grated lemon rind
1/4 cup lemon juice

Thoroughly stir together flour, baking powder and salt. Cream butter and 1 cup of the sugar; beat in eggs one at a time. Stir in flour mixture and milk just until dry ingredients are moistened. Stir in nuts and rind. Turn into a greased 9 by 5 by 3 inch loaf pan. Bake in preheated 350-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean—55 to 60 minutes. Meanwhile cook remaining 1-3rd cup sugar and the lemon juice, stirring, until sugar dissolves, until boiling and syrupy—a few minutes.

Pour hot or warm syrup over hot baked loaf; place on wire rack and let stand 10 minutes. Loosen edges and turn out on rack; turn right side up; cool completely.

U.S. Housing Fraud Probed By Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional investigators suspect government prosecutors have only skimmed the surface in uncovering massive schemes to cheat the poor in federal housing programs. And this despite about 300 recent indictments in 20 cities across the country. Justice Department investigators claim steady headway in an attack on the biggest crooks. But the department's approach has been just that—go for the big guys and make believe out of the rest.

Now the Legal and Monetary Affairs subcommittee of the House Government Operations Committee plans hearings early next year on Justice Department progress in attacking housing fraud.

The Justice Department attack first centered on Philadelphia, Detroit, Chicago, Newark, N.J., and Brooklyn, N.Y., and soon was expanded to 15 other cities.

"What we found was just a massive series of unconnected fraudulent schemes. Everybody seemed to be in the same game," said one Justice official. "What we find in one city, we're finding in other cities in almost the same pattern of activity."

In simple terms, the schemes affect subsidy programs to help poor people buy homes with down payments as low as $300 and to help private contractors and nonprofit associations develop rental complexes.

Committee investigators say they are most interested in what the department has done about alleged fraud in the management of dozens of housing projects controlled by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Spurred in part by the subcommittee's 1972 hearings, the department took the unusual step of assigning a task force of Washington investigators to assist U.S. attorneys around the nation in ferreting out housing fraud.

The task force attack so far has led to 1973 indictments against 306 defendants, said three department officials who asked not to be identified for fear that some judges might consider it improper for them to discuss the investigations and dismiss cases for that reason.

The officials said they have obtained 107 convictions. Charges against some minor figures have been dismissed and other cases are pending. They said government prosecutors have lost no cases against major fraud participants.

The scandals involve programs administered by the Federal Housing Administration and its parent agency, HUD.

The Justice Department "focused on what would take us as high up in the business community as possible and as high up in the FHA as possible if anyone in FHA was on the take," said one department official.

"This was our project—to go for the big guys and make believers out of the rest," he continued.

A number of low-level FHA officials have been indicted and the director of the Philadelphia office of FHA, Thomas J. Gallagher Jr., was convicted of taking bribes and sentenced last Oct. 10 to three years in prison and a $40,000 fine.

The Justice officials indicated that current investigations may involve other higher-ranking housing officials.

"We don't really know. We've got some vibes about it but nothing really substantive that we can say," one investigator reported.

But they emphasized that HUD Secretary James T. Lynn and the highest DHA officials are cooperating and encouraging the Justice probes.

In the case of single-family dwellings, the scheme commonly works this way:

A real estate speculator buys up dilapidated houses for a pittance makes cosmetic repairs to conceal the extent of the ruin, and often persuades or bribes an FHA appraiser to jack up the appraised value.

Comets Take Bad Raps, Evil Attached To Them

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Comets have been getting a bad rap.

"They've long been regarded popularly as heralds of death and disaster, plagues, crop failure, earthquakes and similar unmerited events."

Look to an article in Harper's Weekly magazine 116 years ago, on June 6, 1857:

"There were predictions, it said, that a comet that year would hit and maybe annihilate the earth. It also took note of some salacious promoting 'comet-proof suits of clothing,' and that 'a cometary life insurance company—premiums payable in advance—has been created.'"

A comet in 1668 was blamed for a lethal epidemic among rats in Westphalia, Germany, the magazine went on, and a comet in 1665 was pegged as causing a great epidemic in London that same year but with "no one, apparently, caring to settle the question why the malign influence of the comet should fall only upon London, not extending even to the neighboring towns and villages."

And "a comet appeared in the year 590 to which was attributed a fearful epidemic which prevailed in that year, in the paroxysms of which people were seized with uncontrollable fits of sneezing, generally resulting in death. When anyone about this time sneezed, it became customary to say 'God bless you!' from which, probably, proceeded a similar custom to this day prevalent upon the continent of Europe."

"A comet which appeared in March 1402," Harper's continued, "was stated by the astrologers of that day to presage the death of John Galeas Visconti, an Italian prince. This gentleman, being a devout believer in astrologers and comets, duly died—no doubt of fright—and thus, to the great delight of the astrologers, made their predictions come true."

The defeat of the English at the Battle of Hastings in 1066 has been attributed by some to a comet harbinger of bad news. But it must have looked different to William the Conqueror out of Normandy. He won.

When the famous Halley's comet last appeared in 1910, there were widespread fears that it would destroy the earth, perhaps because the earth would soon pass through its "fiery" tail, that oceans would boil, the whole world burn up. Seeking to allay such fears, a prominent astronomer of the day, Mary Proctor, wrote in a bylined story in the New York Times of May 4, 1910, that this was a deception, since ominous-looking comet tails are made of material so flimsy that we can see stars right through them.

And there were alarms that noxious gases in the comet's tail would choke and kill humans by the millions when the earth intercepted the cometary tail. It didn't happen.

Christmas Stereotype Necessary

NEW YORK (AP) — Christmas won't seem like Christmas if the following things don't happen.

A majority of Americans will agree that Christmas has become too commercialized—and then go right on deeper into debt than ever buying each other presents.

One million grandpas will weep with nostalgia as they tell their four million grandchildren how, in the good old days when they were children a kid was thrilled if he only got a bright fresh orange in his Christmas stocking.

The four million grandchildren will conclude that either grandpa is an awful liar or that kids must have been awfully dumb in those days.

A robber dressed in a Santa Claus costume will hold up a bank and get away with the loot.

Another one dressed the same way will try the same thing, but his escape will be foiled when he is tackled and captured by a genuine street corner Santa.

Four firemen and 12 policemen working as department store Santas will be recognized by their captains and brought up on charges for moonlighting while on sick leave.

Ten million husbands will get as gifts neckties they wouldn't wear to a dog show.

Two husbands will get exactly the kind of ties that delight them—but only one will get to wear his. The other will die of surprise.

Two days before Christmas an ambitious young congressman will get a lot of newspaper for proposing that the playing of "Jingle Bells" in public be banned for 10 years.

An exhibit, possibly young lady in Chicago will be arrested for strolling nude down State Street except for a Santa Claus outfit consisting only of a pair of black boots, a pair of red mittens and a long white beard.

Ten thousand stenographers will be given a raise shortly after the first of January because they helped the boss have a real good time at the annual office Christmas party.

Rationing Blasted By Professor

By DONALD C. BAUDER
Copley News Service

Prof. Ross J. Wilhelm of the University of Michigan's Graduate School of Business Administration opposes gas rationing. He believes that the free market would be the best and fairest allocator of fuel.

"We're living in a world in which groups with political power will assert themselves," Wilhelm said, "and rationing will only make it worse."

As an example, he pointed out that already two important power groups have been given concessions. Trucks will be permitted to drive at 55 (Have you ever seen a truck driving only 55 on the highway?) and, "Rationing at the wholesale level represents nothing more than the independents getting their fuel by using influence," he said.

"We're beginning to hear from the A.T.O., which wants to make sure industry will not get cut out so unemployment won't grow. Everybody is getting in their licks," he said in an interview.

Under rationing, a black market, "a boon to organized crime," would develop, along with "a system encouraging everybody to lie and cheat to justify their need for fuel."

He foresees "a flow of coupons from the northern and southern parts of the country toward the center of the nation. Those living near the Canadian and Mexican border will be able to get gas by driving over the border. As the black market develops, they'll make money by selling their coupons."

Wilhelm said, "The only sensible way to ration gasoline is to do it through the use of higher prices. The price system would ration the gas to those who were willing to pay the higher price."

"This would cut out the need for a bureaucracy which would get deeply involved in the lives of people," he said. "It estimates that rationing would require a force of 10,000 bureaucrats costing in excess of $100 million a year."

Noting that counterfeiting coupons approached 18 per cent of the total outstanding in World War II, Wilhelm said, "Everybody and his brother has a Xerox machine. The danger of counterfeiting will result in an enormous police force to prevent such activities, similar to Prohibition."

Wilhelm said that higher prices will definitely make the oil companies richer—but what's wrong with that? "The only way to solve the problem is to get oil wells drilled—and the only way to get the wells drilled is to let the oil companies get rich," he said.

But Prof. Gardner Ackley, also of the University of Michigan, former chairman of President Johnson's council of economic advisers, disagreed, in another interview.

"That kind of a windfall to the oil companies would be unacceptable," said Ackley. "A price system either by a tax or simply higher prices would be very unfair to the people on low incomes."

"My first choice would be a rationing system with marketable coupons," he said.

Will a suit suit a proud Scotsman?

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am planning my wedding, and a problem has arisen. My fiance's best man is a native Scot, who probably wears his kilts on all formal occasions.

Ours will be a formal wedding in a church, and we have been told that it would be an insult to the best man were we to ask him not to wear his kilt, but to dress like the other men in the wedding party.

Some of our inquiries are so outlandish one sometimes wonders if they are sincere, but be assured mine is a serious inquiry. Thank you. BRIDE TO BE

DEAR BRIDE: In Scotland the wearing of a kilt is a matter of pride, but Robert Burns, one of Scotland's greatest poets (who probably rarely if ever wore a kilt), wrote in his poem about this very topic:

"A wad some Power the glistie give us To see ourselves as libbers see us. It wad frae misse a blunder free us. An' foolish notion: What airs in dress an' gait wad leg us. An' ey'e a deval'ant."

So, if you feel that a kilt would be out of kilter with your wedding, ask the best man to wear a suit. And if he's a well-bred Scotsman, it will suit him.

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of three children, 6, 9 and 16. I am divorced from their father, and the children live with me. I am now married to a man who loves my children, and they love him.

This is the first Christmas that I will be married to this husband. I must be honest with you. I have not had any Christmas presents for any "Xmas" from the children—and put their names on the cards?

So far none of the children have mentioned buying anything for him. If I go ahead and do it on my own, he might think I care for him, which I do not. Also, when we were married, he hardly looked at them. And even now, he doesn't seem to be as much as the law allows.

So what should I do? EX WIFE

DEAR EX: Children can be thoughtless, so ask them if they want to remember their father at Christmas. If they want to, cooperate. Otherwise, don't go through the phony bit of doing it for them.

DEAR ABBY: We have a heated double garage. We use one space and our married son who lives near us keeps his second car in the other one. He also uses it when he has something to fix. He pays us nothing.

We are in our middle seventies. My husband has had a stroke and has trouble getting around. Also, he has arthritis in his hands and can't do any of the repairs around the house.

Our son has never lifted a finger to help us. I couldn't even ask him to fix a leaky faucet. I would like for him to get his car out of our garage so we can rent it out and use the money to get things done around here.

My husband says I shouldn't mention it as it would only make trouble. Am I right or wrong? OLD FOLKS

DEAR FOLKS: You are right. You use your son's garage because you need the extra income, so he shouldn't count on using it anymore. Period.

Kissinger To Meet Tho On Dec. 20

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and North Vietnamese special adviser Le Duc Tho will meet in Paris on Dec. 20 to discuss matters of mutual interest in the present situation, the White House announced today.

White House spokesmen would not elaborate on the reason for the first meeting between the two men in six months, but it seemed clear they would take up the problem of continued fighting in Vietnam.

Kissinger is now en route to the Middle East as he continues his efforts to resolve the crisis there. While in London Wednesday, he was presented with the Nobel Peace Prize, which he won jointly with Le Duc Tho for their Vietnam peace negotiations.

The Duc Tho refused to accept the prize, contending that peace had not been restored in Southeast Asia.

Kissinger and the Hanoi Politburo member last met in Paris on June 11-13.

Deputy White House Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren, responding to questions, said "I can't spell out at the moment" what was meant when the brief announcement referred to "matters of mutual interest in the present situation."

Warren said the two diplomats would "discuss topics within that general description."

When asked who initiated the session, he said it was "worked out through mutual consultation" and had been "under discussion for a few weeks."

School Board Moves To Data Processing

By MARK WEINZ
Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County School Board took another step Wednesday toward implementing a county-wide data processing system with the decision to hire a director of data processing and keep the operation "in house."

School Supt. William P. Lauer recommended to the board an independent corporation handle the system.

Board Member Jean Bryant made a motion rejecting the proposal and after much discussion the board decided to look into hiring an initial staff of six persons to man the system.

Board Member Stuart Culpepper proposed the county commissioner be contacted to see if he would be interested in a joint-countywide data system.

Lauer said he has been looking into that possibility.

Lauer said the idea of such a joint operation was the reason he was against going out and buying the necessary machines.

Lauer recommended that the board hire Florida Software to handle the data operation but with the board's decision, he said, only the machines of such a business would be needed.

Lauer said the board currently employs two persons in data processing but the operation is on a small scale.

"It will require about $30,000 to hire the director and an additional three persons to make the necessary six man team," he said.

At a Nov. 20 board meeting Lauer warned any further delays in implementing the data system could jeopardize the July 1 goal of complete operation. He said Wednesday the data system was proceeding on schedule and the deadline would be met.

Also at the November meeting Lauer said, "The state has almost mandated that we have a data processing system with the implementation of cost accounting, the new state funding system and accountability."

The cost of the operation is now expected to run under the projected $12,500 budget.

Trucks Block Sanford Station, Protest Lack Of Diesel Gas

By JEAN PATTERSON
Herald Staff Writer

Truckers stranded without fuel at Sanford's Village Rest truckstop today blockaded the fuel pumps and the entrance to the stop protesting the short supply and high prices which, they say will wipe them out.

At least one of the stranded trucks, according to its driver, contains a $40,000 load of frozen fish in danger of thawing because he is running out of diesel fuel to keep the refrigeration unit running.

Truckstop manager Melvin Payne said he has been out of fuel since late Wednesday, and cannot get more until Jan. 1. He said he used up his 5,000 gallon December allotment by Monday, and was able to borrow an additional 1,200 gallons to see him through Tuesday and Wednesday.

"I used half this month's allotment last month," explained Payne, "but the suppliers won't advance part of my January allotment; they say they don't have it to give."

Payne said he has called everybody he thought might be able to supply him with some fuel, including representatives of Standard Oil, McNamee and Texaco. "I even called Washington, D.C., but they referred me to Tallahassee. It hasn't helped any," said Payne.

His 1974 fuel allotment will be 93 per cent of what he sold in 1973, but Payne says his business has almost tripled during this year. "I'm not kidding when I say I have a problem," he commented. "The situation is as bad as it can get; there's no fuel now, so how can it get worse?"

Broker Dave Brinkley who operates All-States Truck Service Inc. from behind the Village Rest truckstop, said he also has called all the oil company representatives in the area, but none could promise him fuel for the first month of the year. He estimated there were 15 to 20 truckers stranded at the stop, and more in motels or at their homes if they live locally.

Brinkley said the Texaco station adjacent to the Village Rest had only been able to get a 9,000 gallon per month allotment, so he has closed up.

Attempts by Brinkley and Payne to have the Texaco allotment transferred to their stations have failed.

January is the peak time for produce farmers in Seminole County, and Brinkley said if they can get no fuel in early January many farmers will not get their crops to the markets.

Brinkley said the blockade had been orderly and there are no threats of violence in the Sanford area yet. Reports of damage to trucks which have not joined in strikes in other parts of the country are filtering in, he said, and two truckstops in Virginia have been burned down. He said one of these stops had been selling at the first 40 gallons of diesel at pump price, and was charging 75 cents a gallon for anything over that. He expects most truckstops across the country will close down to stay out of trouble.

While blockades are occurring across the country, there appears to be no large-scale organization of strikes, and confused truckers say they are waiting to see what the next man does. "We just know there ain't no fuel available, so it don't do us no good to roll," commented one trucker.

Brinkley said if he knew what was going to happen he could close up and go fishing. "But I don't know how long the strikes will last—until there's no fuel I guess. So I've just got to sit by the phone till I find out something definite," he said.

Wholesale-retail grain and produce merchant Dick Wilber commented, "It's so disorganized, and truckers are worse than old women for gossiping. This whole thing don't know how long the strikes will last—until there's no fuel I guess. So I've just got to sit by the phone till I find out something definite," he said.

Energy Czar Announces Fuel-Saving Measures

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's energy czar, William E. Simon, announced today he will order reduced lighting in commercial and industrial buildings as soon as Congress gives him the authority to do so.

Simon also placed petroleum exports under a licensing system and told all federal agencies to get rid of their big limousines by Jan. 1.

The new fuel conservation measures were announced just one day after Simon's new Federal Energy Office proposed regulations to reduce U. S. gasoline production 5 per cent below 1972 levels, a move that would increase the actual anticipated gasoline shortage to about 25 per cent early next year.

The energy office fumbled badly in issuing that proposal, at first reporting it as a cutback seemingly five times as big as really intended.

Simon held a White House news conference this morning to announce a whole series of additional actions and proposals to cope with expected fuel shortages.

He proposed that all commercial and industrial buildings, including stores, factories and offices, be required to reduce their lighting to specific light levels considered "minimum but effective and safe."

The proposed reductions would cut lighting to roughly one-third to one-sixth of customary levels, he said.

Simon said the action, to be made mandatory once pending emergency legislation becomes law, would save some 800,000 barrels of oil daily.

Simon also proposed that major highway and freeway interchanges be turned off, except at lightings and ramps where the lighting would be cut in half.

If imposed after public comment, this action could save the energy equivalent of 15,000 barrels of oil daily, Simon said.

Simon also asked industry to set up energy-saving committees, asked commercial building managers and owners to turn off all but essential lighting during nonworking hours, and asked citizens to cut down voluntarily on their use of electric space heaters.

Simon ordered federal agencies to reduce their driving by 30 per cent in the first quarter of next year and to get rid of limousines and heavy sedans, retaining those which are leased.

Simon told agencies to use compact or subcompact cars unless a larger car was absolutely necessary.

In a move to prevent excessive petroleum exports from the United States during the fuel crisis, Simon placed exports under a licensing system effective immediately.

For the time being, he announced, the system would be used to monitor exports but not to limit them.

If the exports become too large, he said, limiting action would be imposed.

But in explaining the gasoline cutbacks Wednesday, the energy office kept falling over itself.

Fuel Shortage Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fear of political damage to the Nixon administration in an election year was one of several factors which may have contributed to the fuel shortage, Senate investigators have been told.

In a series of interviews conducted under oath, some of the government's most senior oil-policy planners acknowledged that mistakes and miscalculations made over the last three years were partially responsible for the energy crisis.

The officials said warnings that American oil production was peaking and would soon start tapering off were heeded. They said timely steps were not taken to increase imports of foreign crude oil to take up the slack.

"They gambled that there would be no shortages and that the most severe thing that would happen would be the development of a tight supply-demand situation," said LaVerne F. Duffy who headed the oil shortage probe for the Senate permanent subcommittee on investigations.

Duffy's testimony was prepared for delivery to the subcommittee headed by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash. Duffy entered into the record sections of the transcripts of several of the interviews.

CLUBHOUSE FIRE

LATE WEDNESDAY afternoon a fire started in the kitchen of the Shuffelboard and Tourist Club House behind the Sanford Civic Center. Firemen arrived in time to put out the blaze and contained it to the kitchen area and attic.

Sanford Police Officer D. L. Anderson reported there was approximately $2,000 damage. The club house is owned by the city and maintained by the Recreation Department. Cause of the fire is undetermined.
