Crooms Plays In Memorial Stadium Wednesday Night

By T. V. DAVIS
Just as Jackie Robinson made history as the first Negro baseball player to perform in the major leagues, Crooms Academy will be the first Negro team to play a night game in Sanford's Memorial Stadium.

By KENT CHELMAIN Sports Editor

Those 500-odd fans who were able to make last Thursday night's thrilling game at the Memorial Stadium were treated to a real thriller. Seminole High school post the mighty Seabreeze Sand Crabs of Daytona.

If Seminole High School had an official hall of fame for its athletes, both Metts and Fleischer should be elected in a breeze. The famed "Lack Monroe Locomotive," namely Metts, has just about done everything in the book for old SIS.

He also copped honorable mention from the Miami Herald's All-Florida School team and the Florida Sportswriters' Association. He was one of the top ranking linkers with the fifth ranking SIS golf team. He divided his time between the diamond and the links, unlike his golfing peer, Don Binghamhoff, the nation's junior champion, who specializes in golf.

The other half of this story deals with one of the finest players in the state and equally fine prep pitcher. As a Junior last year, Metts was one of the top ranking linkers with the fifth ranking SIS golf team. He divided his time between the diamond and the links, unlike his golfing peer, Don Binghamhoff, the nation's junior champion, who specializes in golf.

On hand for the game event will be the Crooms Academy band, decked out in its brand new uniforms for the second time. Only last week the Crooms music-makers made their first appearance wearing their stylish attire and playing their new instruments at an anniversary celebration in Oviedo.

Joe Johnson, a newcomer to the diamond ranks of Crooms Academy, may draw the starting pitcher's spot. He is a native of the Sanford area and has been successful in his work during recent workouts.

Robert "Dabba" Black, hard hitting shortstop, is one player who will probably be in the starting lineup. Black has been tearing the ball with such consistency that he is the current top contender for the Crooms batting title this year.

Sanford's Giants Beat Haines City Royals, 10 To 6

By T. V. DAVIS
Willis C. Cunningham pitched a most 10-0 victory over the Haines City Royals yesterday as the Sanford Giants blasted out nine hits at the beautiful Memorial Stadium.

The Giants got off to a 4-0 start in the first two innings, holding this for four frames. The Royals, rebuffed in the eighth to tie the score, but the home boys scored seven markers in the eighth to put the game on ice. Cunningham led the Giants' nine hit attack while B. Martin and Strav put two for three.

The lucky Chelaim next year, that is if Uncle Sam doesn't step in and sign Junior first. Metts is only 16 years old. He has accepted a scholarship from the Citadel as his Terry Corbitt.

Incidentally, Metts' athletic laurels are as extensive, we forgot to mention he was one of two negroes to be selected on the All-ECF baseball team by conference coaches. Artie Richards of Seabreeze was the other.

Metts has the swiftness, nose and offerings of a big leaguer and his hurling feats for last year's Campbell-Lanning Junior Legion team that reached the state finals in Starke last summer, made more than one major league scout raise his brows.

Holler's Is Giving Free Season Duents

Holler Motor Sales is again offering a free season ticket to the Sanford Cardinal baseball games this summer for any purchase of the 11 used cars, or six used trucks advertised in the Sanford Herald today. It was announced by Holler Motor Sales manager C. E. Hillert. The offer expires after Saturday, April 11.

For the third consecutive season the Syracuse Nationals have led the NBA in registering more free throws than field goals.

As in football, the Memorial Park has proved a boon to high school attendance," he concluded.

The concession stand will again be operated by the Sanford Cardinal Baseball Club, for the convenience of fans. Jim Fields, card general manager announced today.

Metts blasted across all three runs with his hits. Fleming's hit this experiment with both outfielders. Larry Bates and Steve Hamman was a failure. Both fly-balls were converted into left handed hitters from their normal right-handed swings. Neither was able to get the ball out of the infield in the Seabreeze contest.

Fleming may let the boys revert to their natural "right-handed" way. The Fed coach changed their hit, thus style when he seemed to detect that both had more success from the left side of the plate. Fleming also decided on the trial because of the lack of left-handed batters in the team.

Lions' Giants Win, 9-2 Over Seminoles

The Class League Giants trounced the Seminoles 9-2 in a 7-inning game at the beautiful Memorial Stadium last Friday afternoon.

In losing their sixth straight game, the Seminoles' record stands at 0-11. Only five hits and two tallies. Today the Cardinals play the Seminoles. Tomorrow the Seminoles play the Giants again at the Lake Toxopneon Diamond at 4:00 p.m.

Slugging Flyhawk Is Signed Up By Sanford Cardinals

The assigning of Tommy Nixon, 18-year-old outfielder, to the Sanford Cardinals by the St. Louis farm system last Saturday raised the number of players working out with the local club in Altoona to 24, including playing manager J. C. Dunn.

Nixon is a 6 footer who hits the scales at 175. He is a right-handed power hitter, whom Cardinal scouts hope will blossom out for Sanford this summer to help fill the power loss by the departure of last year's Seminole Blue Manager, Chuck Amano, and other sluggers, Joe Parise and Hillman "Dusty" Rhodes.

The 1952 trio hit a total of 53 homers, more than any other Florida State League team did with the exception of Daytona Beach. Local fans are hoping for the same kind of power as they see in last year's Blues when the band of stragglers from Albany arrive here for 12-o'openers a week from tonight.

Currently, the Cardinals consist of a slugging left-handed in Bob Foltz. This is something they lacked last season when Joe Parise was the only southpaw slugging of any repute.

Replacing Foltz will be a husky 190-pound initial sacker by the name of Bernard Tully. The burly rookie is a giant 6-foot-2 inlander with a propensity for the long one. Dunn will supply the power from his centerfield post as he has two catchers who can hit for distance in 200-pounders, Bob Heath and Pete Douglas.

Meanwhile, the Sanford Card ticket booth located downtown in front of Touche's, is selling books of 10 tickets and season duents. Fans may also purchase opening night season tickets for the Orlando (inaugural) week from tonight in the Memorial Stadium, General Manager Jim Fields stated today.

HOMETOWN, U.S.A.—Trellis Mac Peeble was preparing a lecture for her club—the Minerva Gln Rummy and Current Events Society.

At their monthly session these literary ladies usually devoted 15 minutes to a lecture—and three hours to card playing.

"Wilbur, I'm stuck for ideas," appealed Trellis Mae. "Won't you help me?"

"What is the topic of your talk?" asked her husband.

"Why men don't live as long as women."

"What reasons have you put down so far?"

"I can think of only one," said Trellis Mae. "Biological inferiority—men just don't have the strength in the stretch poor lads."

A red flush of anger mantled Wilbur's ears.

"Well, I'll tell you something that's killing off men before their time—gallantry," he said. "Put down gallantry."

"What's that?"

"Gallantry is chivalry," said Wilbur, nettled. "Surely you've heard of chivalry."

"I remember the term," replied Trellis Mae, "but I seem to forget what it means."

The battle was on. Wilbur put down his newspaper and said:

"Chivalry is all the useless things a man does for a woman, things that are totally unnecessary or that she ought to do for herself."

"Such as—?" murmured Trellis

Mac, her teeth showing.

"Such as opening doors for women, tipping your hat to them, picking up gloves they drop, jumping up when they come into the room, lighting their cigarettes, and—"

"The last time you remembered to light my cigarette was in 1928," she shot back at him.

"A man is like any other machine," continued Wilbur. "Every bit of energy he puts out brings him closer to the time he'll break down."

"Say a boy starts practicing civility at 15. Well, no wonder he drops dead at 65. In 50 years he has worn himself out opening maybe 100,000 doors for women, tipping his hat 200,000 times, lighting 300,000 cigarettes for them, and picking up 500,000 things they have dropped—and maybe running to catch 25,000 taxis for 'em."

"That is the silliest, most unfair," began Trellis Mae.

"And," she added, "how many tired husbands a year do you suppose die of heart attacks brought on by trying to help an overweight wife get into her car? There must be hundreds of thousands."

"May I say just one thing to you?" said Trellis Mae.

"You may."

Trellis Mae opened her mouth. Three hours later when the sleepless neighbors in the apartment below pounded on the radiator for quiet she still hadn't finished her first sentence.

"I give up, dear," mumbled Wilbur, exhausted. "Can't you take a little love?"

"I can—but I don't have to put up with this nonsense," said Trellis Mae. "Admit it. Women outlive men because they are biologically superior."

Poor Wilbur made a final blunder either that he said, "For because it's the only way women can be sure to get in the last word."

The neighbors had to clank on the radiator until dawn for peace.

Florida's farm people may take justifiable pride in the progress they have made in home comfort and rural living in recent years.

Assistant Director Marshall Watkins of the Florida Agricultural Extension Service is responsible for that statement, and anyone who has taken note of the advancements that have been made in rural homes will agree with him.

Encouraged and assisted by county and home demonstration agents and representatives of other agencies, thousands of farm families have installed sanitary sewage disposal facilities, modern plumbing, electric power, planted lawns, shrubs, and flowers in their home grounds, eliminated danger hazards, and have improved the appearance and increased the comfort of their homes in many other ways.

The results of such activities have been diminution in hookworm and other such diseases, better health generally, more comfortable and easier household tasks, more beautiful country landscapes, and happier and healthier rural living.

Many rural people have remodeled their homes or built new homes, and in such work they have given special attention to reducing the

Blues In The News

By RALPH GASSMAN

In last night's column, Bob reported to you that Gene Collier was nervous over his approaching marriage Apr. 10 in Sacramento, Calif. After Gene read the column last night he is even more nervous. He is a bit nervous married on the 10th, but he did not realize that the big day was so near. It seems Gene planned the wedding for June 10. However, through our error the date was moved up two months. Gene is a member of FASHION 51. Sorry, Gene, it was our mistake.

Tonight is the night of the USA gala Easter Dance. A decoration theme of pink and green was carried out through the club. Paul Kraham and his orchestra will play from 8:00 until midnight for the dancing pleasure of the expected capacity crowd. A floor show of specialty acts will be presented. Several prizes will be awarded during the evening, and cake and punch will be served. Mrs. M. Lane who is in charge of the event has extended an invitation to all servicemen, their wives and Junior Hostesses to be on hand for the dance.

Bob's membership plans have been changed by Uncle Sam. Last Friday I reported to you that Bob would be transferred Monday to Jacksonville. Monday Bob's orders were changed. He will be transferred sometime in the near future. Bob is a Tradesman Second Class with FASHION 51. Glad you will be with us awhile yet, Bob.

Vito Novelli will start his journey to New York City tomorrow. Vito plans to spend ten days at his home there. One of the events of Vito's leave will be his cousin's wedding. Vito will be the best man. Vito, an Airman, is with the NAAS Supply Department.

NAAS has added another "brown bagger" to its roster. Last Saturday Airman Apprentice J. D. Corbett married Miss Colleen Ann Mordige of Lansing, Mich. The wedding took place in Georgia. The Corbets are making their home at 214 East First Street in Sanford. Jerry is attached to the Security Department aboard the station. A wish of many happy years to you both, Jerry and Colleen.

Bob and I have often used the term "brown bagger" in this column. A "brown bagger" is any married navy man. Usually the married men bring their lunches every morning in small brown bags. Thus, someone called them "brown baggers" and the term was soon picked up by everyone and now is used by the personnel of almost every naval station.

"Dottie" Anthony had the surprise of her life last night. Yesterday was Dottie's birthday and her husband, Bob, had a surprise birthday party for her. The party was truly a surprise for Bob had planned it to the utmost degree.

When Bob secured yesterday, Bill Brennan went home with him to help all with little Linda. At 5:30 Dottie and Bob went out for dinner. At 6:31 Ken Jones, Clair Normand and I descended on the South Sanford Avenue home. By seven when the other guests ar-

A 19-year-old Negro was arrested by City police for careless and negligent driving when the car he was driving collided with another automobile at the intersection of Commercial and Palmetto Avenues early yesterday morning.

Patrolman Joe Hickson arrested Willie Hainington, colored, of South Sanford for running into Duncan Charles, McCoy, 35, colored, of 1022 Cypress Avenue. Hainington was traveling east on Commercial Avenue when he collided with McCoy's auto going north on Palmetto Avenue.

Hainington's car, owned by Bernie Adillon of Midway, received $200 in damages, while McCoy's auto, owned by W. L. Clark, 2410 Orange Avenue, sustained $125 damages.

The matter was taken under advisement and an attempt will be made to have the owner of the adjacent property permit the county to extend the ditch to the river.

Dade County Jail Keys Are Missing Following Break

MIAMI (AP)—Keys to all cells in Dade County's skyscraper jail are missing and a 25 caliber automatic may be hidden in the lockup. State Attorney J. Lee Smith revealed today following an inspection.

Brautigam was told that the keys which seven prisoners, took from Jailer Robert Hackett have never been recovered since the prisoners fled Saturday night.

Six of the prisoners remained at large and a state wide search went on yesterday especially in Greater Miami and Key West.

Brautigam said he found that Hackett had "inexcusably" exposed himself to attack when he failed to order the men back to their cells before opening a cell block door. The men knocked him down, took the keys and fled in elevators. One was caught shortly after the break.

Three federal prisoners were reported to have been seen in Key West a few hours after they fled Miami in a stolen car. Monroe County Deputy Sheriff Eric Sistrank identified them as Charles Guerrero, 24; Gilberto Corvantes, 27, and Albert Davis, 23, all being held in the Dade County jail.

The others still at large were John Lamb, 18, also a federal prisoner; Joseph Albert, 20, and William Chapman, 23, sentenced to 99 years each for the slaying last summer of Dr. Clifton C. Springer.

Sheriff Tom Kelly offered a reward of $100 each for information leading to the apprehension of the six escapees. The sheriff said his jail was hampered by lack of funds and personnel.

TUESDAY APR. 7, 1953

TODAY'S HILAR VERSE
Victories often are bought at a great cost. David would have swapped his victory to save the life of his son Absalom. The victory first day was turned into mourning.—2 Samuel 18:7

It is hard to see how any prisoner could break out of Miami's skyscraper "escape proof" jail without inside help, but seven of them did, just the other day, for the second time such an escape has taken place in the last two months.

An editorial in one of our exchanges deploras the passing of the word "whom". If one does inadvertently use the word "whom" even though correctly, he says, "he is apt to be slightly disconnected... as if he had blundered into another language or worn a stiff shirt at a picnic."

The State of Florida collected $63,299,000 in gasoline taxes last year. Now a move is under way to add another cent to the seven cent tax already levied in order to raise approximately ten million dollars more. Most people will agree, we believe, that the gasoline users, the motoring public, are already contributing more than their share to the cost of state government.

President Eisenhower signed the bill last week setting up the new Department of Health, Education and Welfare with Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby as its first secretary. She is from Houston, Tex., a newspaper woman, and organizer and leader of the WACs during the last war. Into the new department are being consolidated such agencies as public health, social security, food and drug, and vocational rehabilitation.

The State Legislature got down to work today for its 60 day session without benefit of the presence of Governor McCarty whose message on the "state of the state" was read by Secretary Gray. Despite the many headaches of rising taxes and demands for more money, Florida is in pretty good shape compared with the rest of the world. If the whole country were as well off as Florida, we would have little to worry about.

Gilbert C. Andrews of Lake Worth was voted the most courteous law enforcement officer in the state receiving a small plurality of the 16,643 votes cast. Although his winning this honor is certainly no reflection on hundreds of other able and conscientious law enforcement officers throughout the state, it is good to encourage courtesy among them by such contest. There is nothing like a little courtesy to ease the rocky road through life.

Capital punishment is with a common practice in the United States though most competent authorities agree that it ought to be banned. Most crimes are committed by people who are in reality ill, need treatment for their trouble rather than punishment. Enough trained sociologists and psychiatrists would probably do away with most crimes within a reasonable length of time. However, since this is impossible, death in the electric chair will probably continue to be the penalty for murder and rape. Last year 71 persons were put to death in this country for murder, 12 for rape.

If there is an armistice in Korea, what happens next? That is what a lot of newspaper columnists are asking. Will hostilities merely be transferred to some other front like Indo-China, or Iran? Or will there be a real peace which will create such a sense of security that military caution and preparedness can be relaxed. And if it does, what effect will that have on our national economy, now geared to a high production production rate? It would mean lower defense spending, lower prices would not only be the result, but the business world would make a lot of business during the next few years.

Leaders In The Legislature

As the 1953 legislative session convenes in Tallahassee today, probably the two most important men in the capital are Charley Johns of Starke, president of the Senate, and C. Ferris Bryant of Ocala, Speaker of the House.

Senator Johns is 47 years old and is a brother of Everett Markley Johns who as president-designate of the Senate some 20 years ago died in office. His father Everett E. Johns, served as Bradford county sheriff for a number of years and later was killed in the line of duty while sheriff of Nassau county.

Charley Johns was first elected to the House in 1934 and two years later was elected to the Senate. He has served continuously in the Senate ever since except for a brief period during the war years. He has a reputation for being the friend of labor, the old people, and the school teachers.

Rep. Bryant is probably one of the most able men ever to serve in the Legislature. During his first term in 1947 he received the Cracker Politics award as the most outstanding in committee and the St. Petersburg Times award as the most valuable representative. He has received the Cracker Politics award three times and the St. Petersburg Times award twice.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce has twice selected Bryant as one of five outstanding young men in Florida. He served in the Navy for 3 1/2 years, two of which were overseas. He was educated in the Florida public schools, Emory University, the University of Florida and Harvard from which he received his law degree in 1938.

Seminole County is well represented in the Legislature by Senator Lloyd F. Boyle, a veteran legislator now serving his third term, by Rep. Volle Williams, Jr., who seems destined to become one of the outstanding young men in the House, and by Alex Cleveland Jr., a freshman representative of bright promise.

Pet Seizure Bill

A bill is going to be introduced in the State Legislature known as the "Pet Seizure Bill", according to the Humane Society of Greater Miami which urges all true lovers of dogs and cats to defeat this bill. Otherwise the unclaimed animals in the public pounds will be turned over to the Medical School and experimental laboratories.

"More than the fate of stray dogs and cats is at stake in the so-called 'pound' bills currently being introduced in several legislatures throughout the United States," says the Christian Science Monitor. "At the very heart of the issue lies the question: Do private citizens have the right to organize within the law for a recognized legitimate purpose with the assurance that this purpose will not later be prevented by the government?"

"To date most of the debate has centered around the emotion-charged subject of vivisection. Little attention seems to have been paid to the fact that the 'pound' bills, by giving experimental laboratories the right to requisition 'unlicensed, unclaimed, and unwanted' stray animals from the humane societies, would compel these societies to act as partners in a business for which they were never intended.

"Most of these societies were in part set up to try to find homes for these animals or, failing that, to dispose of them in a painless manner. Money for support of the societies is contributed with this purpose in mind. To be government now to be allowed to designate an agent that can arbitrarily force these societies to open their pounds to the laboratory in contradiction of their express and legally established purpose?"

"The implications of this question exceed the immediate issue of the 'pound' bills, for if answered in the affirmative it would set a precedent easily extended into other areas and other organizations. Regardless of what position one may take in regard to vivisection, he should be alert to the broader implications of this proposed legislation which threatens to extend further the reach of government control. If one is not careful he will find that the 'logical' end to such a process is the transfer of all discretion from the citizen to the state."

Soldier And Truce

Probably at this very moment, somewhere in Korea, an American soldier or Marine is running an oily patch through the barrel of his rifle. A soldier cleans his rifle as a housewife cleans her silver spoons. It is a job he does almost lovingly, but as he does it his mind can wander and his thoughts can be occupied with things that have little to do with bolts or trigger mechanisms.

The soldier has heard of the possibility of a truce. He is hopeful, but he has heard such talk before and when the talking was ended he has had to stand bareheaded beside the new graves of comrades who died in the fighting.

After a time the man cleaning his rifle will pour down the bore to make sure that it is clean and shining. He will examine and oil each working part of the weapon and then he will reassemble it. As he works he may be puzzling over the meaning of this war he is mixed up in, he may murmur a sort of prayer that God will put an end to the fighting soon, before more good men are killed.

Let the diplomats and the brass settle the matter, he may think. Let them talk of the "thirty-sixth parallel," of "voluntary repatriation," of "settlement of political issues." He has prayed and made sure that his rifle is ready if he should need it. That is all a soldier can do.

WANTED: RUSSIAN INTERPRETER

THE WORLD TODAY
By JAMES MAILLOW

WASHINGTON—The world held its breath, hoping for Communist consistency, as the Reds abandoned their next to last apparent obstacle to truce in Korea.

They agreed today to the voluntary exchange of sick and wounded prisoners. Under terms agreed to earlier, and good as long as hostilities continue, none of the sick and wounded will be forced to return home against his will.

The next and last step would be agreement on voluntary exchange of all prisoners. There may, of course, be truce obstacles not now apparent. The Communists could drag in a new and unexpected roadblock.

The truce talks broke down last October when the Communists insisted on the principle that all prisoners had to be exchanged. That is: whether they liked it or not, all prisoners held by the United Nations would be turned over to the Reds, and vice versa.

The U. N. was just as firm on that principle, called forced repatriation. From October until now, the Reds refused to budge, preferring to let the war go on. They have budged in the case of the sick and wounded. The issue will come up again, if other prisoners, in any renewed truce talks.

Having once dropped the principle in the case of the sick and wounded, the Communists could not consistently stick to it in the case of all other prisoners. But the West has learned not to bet on Communist consistency and seldom to expect it.

This time, though, with the Russians and Chinese working the same side of the street, both talking peace for some reason of their own, there was hope for it. Nevertheless, a truce in Korea would not necessarily mean peace.

Once there's an armistice, both armies withdraw one mile, leaving a ten-mile zone between them. There they sit facing each other, fully armed and ready to renew the shooting if the peace talks break down.

In time, after training enough South Koreans to take their place at the front, the Americans could withdraw to rear, supporting positions and perhaps even bring some of their men home.

By agreement reached long ago by both sides, within three months after a truce the diplomats would begin their conversations on peace. These conversations could go on indefinitely, keeping the rest of the world on the edge of its seat, since the two armies would still be in the field.

The Communists may be banking on this oddness this American desire for peace, to win more at the peace table than they could win on the battlefield.

There are just some of the problems that could drag out the peace talks.

Should North and South Korea have separate governments? Would the Chinese agree not to arm the North Koreans, after a peace settlement, if the Americans insist upon arming the South Koreans?

What would the Americans do about China? Continue to arm him? Leave him where he is, open to Red attack later? Would the U. S. use him as a troublemaker against the Chinese Communists? And would the Chinese agree to abandon the rebels who have been warring on the French in Indo-China?

But this is only one side of the picture and, in the end, it may be the more unimportant side. The Russians and Chinese have been talking peace in unison. Whatever they are planning may be done in unison too.

The Russians have some problems. For one thing, they'd like to get the West to disarm. The Communist allies may be planning the old one-two on the West: while the Chinese talked peace in Asia the Russians could talk peace in Europe.

And while they talked both of them could hold over the heads of the Allies, sick of the slaughter in Korea, the threat of renewing the war there if the Allies don't meet the Communists more than halfway.

A rearmist Western Germany, part of a European army, would be a nightmare to the Russians. They know the West German army to be reunited with their 18 million countrymen in East Germany would split Russian thumb.

By holding out the bait of German unity, the Russians may hope to win the West Germans away from the West. You can almost pick your own topic for the Russians to talk about.

DEFENSE TO OPEN
DARTO War—The defense was to open its case today on behalf of Harlan Blackburn and nine others charged with conspiring to conduct a boltin attorney.

Defense attorneys have been cloistered about plans and witnesses. There were indications they might go right into argument to the jury without presenting any evidence.

The state took seven days to put its case before the six-man Criminal Court Jury.

The principal prosecution was Frank Duskin, an evangelist and clothing salesman, who said he worked for Blackburn and implicated most of the other defendants in describing his boltin checkup duties.

Mr. Pearson Leaves The Air
The Shreveport Times

Drew Pearson goes off the air shortly, after 17 years of broadcasting. His departure is from both radio and television. It is not voluntary, he stated in last Sunday night's broadcast. Mr. Pearson's demise after so long a time on the air is to most men passing interest, aside from his talents of wit.

Once Pearson, in high figures to have his product associated with his.

Before War II, Mr. Pearson and Robert Allen jointly authored a little-read column in Washington. Then they published a book, "Washington Merry-Go-Round," which was a combination of peep-hole reporting and what Westbrook Pegler calls "gent's room journalism." The Allen-Pearson column immediately was the most demanded. War came, Allen went off to service, becoming a major and losing an arm in combat under General George S. Patton.

When he came back he no longer was a Pearson partner—the latter had become the "big shot" both in print and on the air.

Mr. Pearson began to get into trouble. Nearly five years ago Mr. Pegler began calling him a liar, a blackguard, a scoundrel, a villain, a mountebank and various other things—calling him these things in print frequently and in hundreds of newsmen from coast to coast and from the Gulf to Canada.

Then Fulton Lewis, Jr., like Mr. Pearson both a columnist and a commentator, turned his dog's nose on Mr. Pearson. Collectively, they accused Mr. Pearson of vicious slander via lies and other weapons familiar to blackguards. They cited a lot of book chapter and verse in support of their ripping off of Mr. Pearson's personal and professional life.

Nearly four years ago Mr. Pearson sued Mr. Pegler for a million dollars, alleging that Pegler and Lewis had been subjected to what Mr. Lewis termed character slander in print or on the air from Pearson.

Lesson To Proofreaders

As everyone knows who has ever had anything to do with newspapers — and that includes reading them — proofreaders get blamed for the mistakes that appear in the papers. So, of course it was proofreaders on the Soviet Sector Tribune—16 of them—who got arrested for substituting the word "proofreaders" for more than a few days after their paper had made a typographical error. Sixteen was quite a few for which, presumably, no more than one proofreader could have been responsible. It was a blunder that happened to detract from the reputation of the erstwhile boss of all Bolsheviks as a peace lover.

The Tribune, which is the organ of the Communist East German trade union federation, published a conference message from the party which included this sentence: "With Joseph Vlasovitch Stalin, a great scientist of Marxism-Leninism and an excellent fighter for the preservation and strengthening of peace..."

No word has been received as to the sentences to be meted out to the unfortunate proofreaders. Probably few insurance companies would find them to be good risks for more than a few days at the most. And while they have no authority for the statement, some of our newspaper's proofreaders insist they have reason to believe that two typosetters were promptly shot for the error and the proofreaders released.

HOLLYWOOD BY BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD: It's amazing that a couple of years in TV can do that.

Guy Madison, whose film career was standing still two years ago, turned to a TV series about Wild Bill Hickok. Now he has headed back at the studio.

With the film job and portraying Hickok on radio and TV, plus hours to promote his merchandise, Madison is a busy man. He has even dropped 15 pounds in the rigorous routine. But he doesn't seem to mind. He remembers other days.

"Sometimes I would go a year and a half between pictures," he recalled. "I was under contract to David O. Selznick for six years and never did make a picture for him."

Selznick has had an amazing career. His film debut was a three-minute short in 1913. "Since You Went Away" Madison, who was in the service at the time, went away to the Navy, but he left an impression in the film. Hollywood went wild for him, and the Selznick press agency fed the fire with fan magazine layouts of the young man's muscular frame.

Selznick signed him to a contract after he left the Navy. He was thrust into a lead with Doris Moore in "Till the End of Time," which Guy considers his best picture. But his film career was anticlimactic after that.

His boss hated him and for an occasional picture. In between he posed for photo layouts and did some stage work. Three he landed the Eastern stages for eight months. It was good experience for a film actor who had never appeared before the footlights until then. All that experience but no pictures.

"Selznick went off to Europe and it didn't look as if he would make any pictures," Madison said. "So

State Legislature

while McCarty, on the advice of his Secretary of State R. A. Gray doctors, sat at the executive mansion nearly a mile away.
The governor, 1953, the Legislature to "set up" a $2 million dollar cash working balance in the general fund and to view with caution any proposals by pressure groups to push appropriations above the 347 million dollar figure set by the Budget Commission for the next two years.
He stuck to his proposal for a $300 annual pay raise out of State money for school teachers who want $500—and suggested that every county "reevaluate its own contribution to its own schools" and bring them into line where they are too low.
McCarty made no recommendation on the controversial toll turnpike to South Florida, except that it should be financed by a special authority set up by the Legislature. If the road in question finds it is financially sound.
He proposed a statutory state tax commission authority to "complete equalization" of tax assessment "within and between the counties." Such a measure might meet as much legislative resistance as a more powerful board with constitutional authority.
The governor also recommended construction of a 10 million dollar new mental hospital in South-east Florida, and earmarking of the two million dollar annual receipts from this proposed extra dog track take for mental health facilities.
Retaining the separate identities of the University of Florida and Florida State University under the Board of Control and changing Florida A. and M. College for Negroes to Florida Agricultural and Mechanical University. A group of senators will sponsor a bill to consolidate the two white universities under a single president.
Legislative "invitation" of a program to consolidate the state's conservations agencies. He gave no details of his plans.

Abolishment of the fee system of compensating county officers and substitution of regular salaries and centralized county budget systems.
Increased funds for old age assistance.
Abolishment of the State Safety Council and provision of emergency for the State Highway Patrol to carry out its traffic safety promotion efforts.
Exemption of gasoline used in farm tractors and commercial fishing boats from the state motor fuel tax.
Creation of a special commission to study revision of the state constitution and make recommendations to the 1955 Legislature.
Consolidation of the state's major tax collecting agencies in line with a plan proposed by a subcommittee of the Legislative Council.
Establishment of a "co-ordinated and supervised" system for purchase of state supplies which now are bought independently by the various agencies and departments.
Doubling the state advertising appropriation to a million dollars a year.

A constitutional amendment to create a state department of labor "with cabinet rank."
More consumer representation on the State Milk Commission, or a new milk control law "which will more satisfactorily safeguard the public interest."
Authorization for the State Budget Commission to attempt to give state employees equal pay for equal work pending submission to the 1955 Legislature of recommendations for a general reform of state employment practices which he called "a weird combination of spoils system politics, poor business practices and sound government."
Passage of bills placing supervision of nursing and real homes under the board of health and the hotel commission to "help prevent such catastrophes as the fire which last weekend brought death to 33 aged patients at a Largo home."
Establishment of a mosquito research center and appropriation of more money to the State Board of Health for a joint state-county effort to eliminate mosquitoes.
More money for agricultural research.

A greater appropriation for the state auditor's office to expand his staff and make it possible for him to make more frequent check of financial records.
The governor's message contained an endorsement of Atty. Gen. Richard Ervin's proposal for creation of state "racket squad" made up of agents from co-operating agencies that could be sent into counties to fight crime.
McCarty said the state agencies now are co-operating and urged that they be given more money to spend on law enforcement.
He told the legislators it is his intention "to limit the scope" of the State Improvement Commission's activity—particularly its borrowing power—but he did not request any repeal of laws giving it authority to issue bonds.
The Improvement Commission, originally set up in 1941, "was never intended to be a means of providing forbidden bonded indebtedness," he said.
"I feel that in some instances the Florida Improvement Commission has been used to circumvent this constitutional prohibition."
Gov. McCarty told the legislators the state's legalized dog tracks "are not now paying a fair share of the cost of government."
Two of them last year had net profits of $800,000 each; three had net profits exceeding $500,000 each said.
He recommended a bill giving the state all the old cent breaks after calculation of betting odds to the nearest dime, and making a gradually increasing cut from the tracks' share of earnings as a track increased its betting odds.
"I call to your attention the fact that these tracks operate under an exclusive franchise from the state," he said. "They receive its sanction and protection. They should be willing to carry a fairer share of the cost of government."
"Based on the facts, I believe that an increase of the tax on the dog tracks is fair. I believe that it is right; and based upon my recent campaign for governor I certainly think it is the overwhelming will of the people."
"Should the tracks continue to successfully resist an equitable adjustment of the tax which is so clearly the desire of the people, I would then recommend the abolition of the dog racing and the 'drawing of the dog' and 'draw' of the will of the people then their power is too great for the good of this state."

Senator Charley Johns of Starke was elected president of the Senate for the 1953 session in a Democratic caucus in Tallahassee last night.

Industrial Board

Industries, Inc. should not be brought into the picture until the need for financing has developed. City Commissioner John Kater said that the Sanford Industrial Board was created because the feeling prevailed that the Chamber of Commerce was not getting the results expected of it and noted that he would not like at this time to cut out the Industrial Board and turn the job back to the Chamber of Commerce.
Mr. Clark said he did not know that was ever the purpose of the Industrial Board and that he had thought it was to work in an advisory capacity and to assist the Chamber of Commerce in locating industries.
Mr. Breckenridge declared that the Chamber of Commerce has done more than any similar organization has ever done in Sanford to bring new industries here, and is at the present time working with a group which would bring a colony of people here and erect two thousand new homes in this city.
He said that the difficulty has arisen in the past through the lack of any effective organization to locate, or in financing, when they need financing, industrial groups, after they have been developed as prospects by the Chamber of Commerce.
Mr. Cowan declared that Sanford Industries, Inc. has an agreement with the Chamber of Commerce and he hoped that a solution could be effected where all could work together. He said that he had offered to do last fall for the Chamber of Commerce what he did last winter for the City. He solicited the support of the Chamber of Commerce, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, the City Commission and the County Commission and said that Sanford Industries, Inc. has no thought of divorcing itself from the Chamber of Commerce and that the only difference lies in who represents the people as a whole in this work.
He asked that Sanford Industries, Inc. be allowed to continue to function as now set up with the Chamber of Commerce. It is Mr. Breckenridge's duty, Mr. Cowan said, to divert any prospects he has to any organization which can do the job in locating them in Sanford and that is Sanford Industries, Inc.
W. C. Hutchison, Jr., read an outline of the organization of Sanford Industries, Inc. showing the various committees which have been set up, including the executive committee, the screening committee, the welcoming committee, and the prospect committee.
He declared that the worst thing that could happen to the industrial movement in Sanford was for friction to develop among the various interested groups. He said there should be no duplication of effort and added that there was plenty of work to be done by all the groups working together.
He favored retention of the Sanford Industrial Board made up of the leaders from the Chamber of Commerce and Sanford Industries, Inc. But he added that eventually all prospects would have to be turned over to Sanford Industries, Inc. because that was the only organization that had any money.
"If you," Mr. Hutchison said, "were not his thought that Sanford Industries, Inc. should carry the ball all the way, but should be called to lend a hand only when needed."
John Brumley, president of the Chamber of Commerce, said that he saw no reason why the various interested groups should be fighting one another and believed that most of the disturbance came from outsiders who did not know very much about it or who did not want industries to come here anyway. He pledged that the Chamber of Commerce would work with any group that might be set up to bring in new industry.

Albert Pike, explaining that the Chamber of Commerce is locating many good prospects for the City, and that Sanford Industries, Inc. was prepared to help finance them, asked where the Sanford Industrial Board fitted into the picture.
Mayor Chase said that the Chamber of Commerce lacked the mechanics for handling prospects after they were brought to this city. Some of them, he added, did not need financing, but might need other things. That is where the Sanford Industrial Board would come in, he said.
Mr. Breckenridge said he did not see any reason why there should not be an Industrial Board if the need of one, and that he had found from experience that such a group of experts like bankers, real estate men, insurance men and so forth are needed to be called upon immediately when a prospect developed by the Chamber of Commerce arrives in town.
Commissioner William Stemper outlined the background of the creation of the Sanford Industrial Board. He said that in his opinion Mr. Breckenridge was the best chamber of commerce manager any city could want. He said that the Chamber of Commerce should have an industrial board. The Commission had been charged with not wanting new industries here, and that was not the case. The only instructions given the industrial board, he said, was to do what was necessary to bring new industries to Sanford.
Henry Simpson deplored any thought that industries are crying to come in Sanford and said that if Sanford wants industries it has got to cry to get them. He said that Sanford had lost one good industry because it was unable to get a building for it, and added that if there had been a corporation here for the necessary financing a building could have been secured.
Dick Healy favored retention of the Industrial Board but would limit its duties to working with the City and to acting as a coordinator with the other groups to keep the City informed.
Jordan Frederick proposed that the Sanford Industrial Board and Sanford Industries, Inc. be allowed to function as one unit, that the Chamber of Commerce develop the prospects and turn them over to Sanford Industries, Inc.
Mr. Breckenridge said the conflict arose when the idea developed that the minutes of the Chamber of Commerce should hear of a prospect. It should turn it over to Sanford Industries, Inc. If no financing was needed, he said, there was no need to turn it over to that organization. And he added that his was a county-wide organization and that there was no more reason to turn its prospects over to Sanford Industries, Inc. than to any other organization, or to any other town in the county.

Wally Dietrich pointed out that the Sanford Industrial Board resulted in the creation of Sanford Industries, Inc. and added that it is true that Mr. Cowan did most of the work, but it is not the purpose of the members of the industrial board, he added, to run out on their duties. They still are ready and willing to do anything they can to help locate industries in Sanford.
He said the purpose of Sanford Industries, Inc. was to have a fund available when a new concern needed financing and he thought it was a dangerous policy to turn all prospects in the very beginning over to a financing organization which for some competitive reason might not want them to locate here.
Bralley Odham proposed the appointment of an industrial board by the City composed of 17 to 21 members with its functions carefully defined and with none of them receiving any pay for their services. He suggested that the manager of the Chamber of Commerce should be made executive secretary of the industrial board. Pointing out that no town has so many capable leaders pulling in so many different directions, he said it seems too many here are jealous for fear someone is going to do something.
Commissioner John Levy said he did not think the Industrial Board should be eliminated though he admitted it might be a little top heavy. He suggested breaking down the Industrial Board into a smaller group which could be called together easily whenever a prospect arrived in town.
Taking the floor again for the second time, Mr. Cowan said that it seemed to him that the main conflict has arisen over the qualifications of the men who have done the job. Pointing out that he had carried the ball so far, he suggested that he be allowed to continue as he has without being shackled. He said he felt sure that the people who are supporting San-

Hartley, both of Jacksonville; Thomas Clayton Clark, James David Ford and Frank James McLaughlin, of St. Petersburg area.
The five, convicted as members of a conspiracy to steal the liquor, having it in their possession and trying to dispose of it, contended the verdict was against the weight of the evidence.

No date for sentencing was set.

Benson

have been critical in Congress of what they termed his failure to do anything about price increases.
Benson listed these items as being among the Eisenhower administration's "inheritances":
(1) A dollar fallen 50 per cent in value in 10 years; (2) a national debt of 265 billion dollars; (3) a 16 per cent decline in farm prices in the previous two years; (4) high, rigid farm production costs which those who "planned the inflation left us"; (5) price supports that are putting farm products "into storage rather than into stomachs" and are "upsetting foreign trade" and "drawing foreign products to us like a magnet."
Benson said farm prices had dropped only 1 per cent since he took office. He predicted steady prices during the spring and summer.
In emphasizing the "inheritance" theme, the secretary said a sharp drop in beef prices typified what had happened in agriculture, he said. "Attractive" prices brought on by the World War II and postwar spending had encouraged a 30 per cent increase in beef cattle numbers during the past five years.
"These," he said, "were Democratic cows and bulls, but they created a Republican crisis."
The Cabinet officer was particularly critical of existing price support laws. He said that with rising prices born of world-wide inflation, rigid supports had the appearance of success largely because market prices were generally at or above the supports.
But now that surpluses have been built up, in the absence of production controls, the government is accumulating farm stocks of such magnitude, Benson said, that heavy losses are threatened.

"It is a quirk of fate that our predecessors had the joy ride, the bill for which is now assessed to us," he continued. "We will pick up the bill, but from now on I hope we'll do more careful driving."

Feds Seek 2nd In Row With Edgewater Here Tonight

Krider To Start In Memorial Stadium

By KENT CHETLAIN
Three Sanford baseball representatives, will be out this evening to break the backs of the traditional rivals from Orlando with the SRS team tonight at Memorial Stadium field at 8:30 o'clock to battle Edgewater High of Orlando.

Jimmy "Jack" Krider has been designated to make his first starting appearance of the year tonight. The lanky right-hander, who has matured, adding weight and height to his towering stature, will carry the team so ably held when "Mighty Mel" Friesch or lamed the Seabreeze invaders here last Thursday night, 3-2.

Krider's 1937 hurling record has been confined to his complete Junior League record against New Smyrna Beach in the latter city two weeks ago when the son of the former Florida State League President was tagged with a 10-0 loss.

Coach Fleming isn't relying on his calculated experiment of converting right-handed hitting outfielders, Larry Bates and Ross Hennum, who southerners are flaunting. He has asserted that despite the fact that neither one got a ball out of the infield against Seabreeze, it didn't prove a success. Another interesting point is that Krider's last summer loss to the state finals last summer have still to find the batting range.

A quick glance at the averages shows Metz is the only regular over the 250 mark this year. The Lake Monroe "Locomotive" is hitting the ball at a hotly 420 hit per Huky receiver Terry Cordell is at the 286 mark and below that you would think the averages represented weights or bat sizes. Only five regular Feds have been able to break into the hitting column all year.

Sanford now has a 1-1 record, holding a win over Seabreeze, 3-2, and a loss to New Smyrna, 10-9. It is interesting to note that both games have been decided by the margin of just one run.

Another interesting point is that tonight's SRS loss from Orlando were defeated by Seabreeze yesterday, 6-2.

Morris Hurts Bucs Out Of Last Place

Bill Morris twirled the last place Pirates out of the Rotary League basement with a brilliant 4-0 one-hit shutout over the Tigers at the Ninth Street Diamond yesterday afternoon.

Bill Jones slammed out a pair of doubles in two trips to the plate to pace the winners. The victory put the Pirates in third place and dropped the Tigers into the Rotary Loop cellar.

Knothole Gang Waits On T-Shirt Arrival

Plans for the formation of the most elaborate Knothole gang in the history of the City by the Sanford Cardinals, ran into red tape this week, it was reported today by General Manager Jim "Hot" Smith.

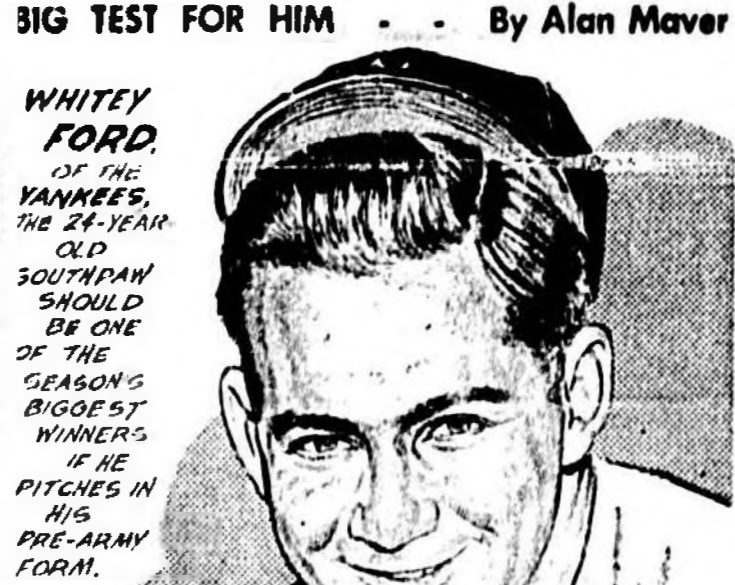

All youths, 14 and under, will be admitted free to all Red Bird games this year if they are wearing a special Sanford Cardinal "T-shirt." But this T-shirt hasn't been for sale because local merchants have had trouble finding an agent for a T-shirt company, who will have a large enough supply before the season opener here next Monday night.

"We are working day and night trying to get these T-shirts for the kids," Fields declared. Purchase of just one of these inexpensive T-shirts will be the same as a season's pass for the youngsters at all the Memorial Stadium games.

Optioned to New Orleans were first baseman Al Grunwald, pitcher Ed Wolfe, infielder Tommy Sennechia, and outfielders Brandy Davis and Gall Henley.

Linda Gingles Is "Fifth Man" On Mercer University Net Team

By KENT CHETLAIN
Have you ever heard of a woman being the "fifth man" on a tennis team? Well, Mercer University at Macon, Ga., boasts of just such a person. Mrs. Linda Gingles, former summer recreational director in Sanford, is the "fifth man," holding the distinction of being the only woman athlete to play on a varsity team in the school's history.

Linda, who is Mrs. Pat Gingles and mother of two children, is now enrolled at Mercer studying for her masters degree in physical education. Mrs. Gingles demonstrated her proficiency on the courts to such a degree as to battle off all comers and win fifth place on the team in a school that never had a woman competing in a major sport before.

The likable Linda, who supervises the tennis program and creation program from 1918 to 1950 and took charge at the Mayfair Inn in the winter time, admits she loves sports, but her two daughters come first.

Her father's husband, a graduate of Georgia Tech and is an architect who designed his first house while in Sanford. Mr. Gingles drew the plans for the Lake Mary home owned by Mr. and Mrs. H. E. True.

Linda began her unusual tennis career in the blue grass state winning both the eastern and western state amateur tournaments. Upon graduation she hopes to carry on her normal household and be an athletic supervisor.

Reserve Tickets Are Put On Sale For Card Opener

Sale of reserve season tickets to the Sanford Cardinals' season's opener at the Memorial Stadium next Monday night with Orlando Senators began this morning at the Red Bird downtown ticket booth in front of Touche's Drug Store. Adult reserve box seats are selling for 95 cents.

Persons holding 810 unreserved season tickets may pay only 25 cents for a reserve box seat at the Memorial Stadium opener Monday night. All reserve 855 season ticket holders have a box seat especially assigned for the opener and all games throughout the season. The 70-cent general admission tickets for Monday night's opener and all other games all went on sale this morning.

Advance single game ticket sales will be good for any game. No specific dates will be stamped on tickets this year as in the past. General Manager Jim "Hot" Smith said, "The purchase of a 70-cent general admission ticket will be good for any game the owner wishes to attend all season."

Seminole Lose 7th Consecutive Contest

Ken McMurray put the Cardinals back in the Lions League running again with a sterling one-hit 13-0 win over the hapless Seminoles yesterday afternoon at the Lakefront Diamond. It was the seventh straight loss for the Seminoles who have yet to crack the victory column.

All net proceeds after the season will be turned over to the Fernand-Lauderdale Hospital, since the Caris are being operated for the benefit of the hospital this year.

SHS Draws 358 To Set Prep Baseball Attendance Record

Seminole High School established its all-time baseball attendance record last Thursday night in its game with Seabreeze at Daytona at the Memorial Stadium. It was announced today by Robert Harris, SHS business manager.

The paid figures hit the 273 mark with 85 more coming in free for a total of 358, eight more than the estimated 350 reported last Friday. The City stadium tax of five cents netted Sanford $13.65. They also picked up $25 from the high school for the cost of lights, or $38.85 all told.

Of the 85 admitted free, 50 were members of the SHS band. The 35 additional gratis admissions were granted to concession workers, press, Seabreeze officials and SHS faculty members.

Felix "Breeches" Clary, Sanford's famed Gasheuser of the golden "Raw Meat" Rodgers era, dropped by to see Buddy Lake the other day as Clary was on his way up to Chattanooga with the Lookout. Just in the short time this correspondent has been in Sanford, I have come to respect and marvel at the niche Clary has carved for himself as a diamond fan in Seminole County through his zany antics on the ball field.

Who ever heard of a player taking a bucket of water from the dugout and showering some cash customer for a gib tongue, or hurling his bat clear over the grandstand for a bad call by the ump. Well, these are just a few of the daffy acts the fiery little fireman did to write one of the most colorful eras in the memories of local fans.

The rough and tumble, muscle-packed infielder from Valdosta, Ga., who might have gnawed on coal balls and no one would have doubted it, was indeed the Doctor Jekyll and Mr. Hyde of baseball. On the diamond he was as rugged as Ty Cobb in his prime, giving no quarter and taking none. While Clary would transform into a gentle, unassuming person as soon as he hung up his uniform and don his civies.

This is what Tom Holt tells us, and Mr. Holt ought to know, for Clary lived with the Holts for a time. But brother, stick him on the ball field and you have a horse of a different color. The playing of the baseball roudy was no more erratic than his erratic career, which is still very much going right now.

The unpredictable Clary is now entering his 18th year in organized ball. Only last year he was voted the most valuable player in the class A Southern Association, hitting over .300 pacing Joe Engel's Chattanooga Lookouts to the SA pennant. Clary figures prominently in the Lookout plans this year from his recurring ankle injury.

Clary has seen the best and worst in baseball, traveling the broken down bus circuits to the steaks and lights in the big leagues. He even played in that baseball coincidence—the all-St. Louis World Series back in 1914.

Clary was back a little, Clary was born in Valdosta, Ga. on Sept. 11, 1917. For the tender age of 17, he began his fabulous diamond career with Americans of the class D Georgia-Florida league in 1935. In 82 games he hit .216. After a dismal .188 average in 21 games with Americans the beginning of the next year, the hard-bitten infielder showed up in Sanford to get his baseball baptism under the inimitable "Raw Meat" Rodgers.

It was under Rodgers' fearless fielding leadership that the real Clary blossomed out on the diamond both in his playing ability and in dominating, pugilistic spirit. Clary's batting mark zoomed to the 270 mark in 94 games at shortstop for Sanford in 1936 under the batting tutelage of old "Raw Meat." It might be mentioned that Rodgers' real name was Bill but his ruddy face and truculent demeanor were most aptly described by his nickname, "Raw Meat," which has stuck. To this day an outfielder would have to think twice before telling him Bill Rodgers was.

Even with Clary and Rodgers sparking that 1936 club, Sanford, playing as a charter member in the six team league, could finish no better than fifth, but eight games back of the winning Gainesville 5 Men.

But the 1937 season ushered in a new era. Those Sanford Cardinals battled the G-Men down the wire with their fantastic fighting spirit before winning an second only 6 1/2 games off the pace. Clary tipped his average to .282 in 128 games. "Breeches" crossed the plate 122 times that season and blasted 76 more homers on 142 hits, 14 doubles and 12 triples with but a single home run.

It was while playing in Sanford that Clary picked up that unusual moniker "Breeches." According to Buddy Lake, Ellis with his flare for the unexpected and unorthodox would always wear a shabby pair of baseball pants that were much too big and long for him. The jaunty trousers hung down on his legs in such a rumpus fashion as to expose himself to that inevitable name—"Breeches."

We might mention here that the 1937 Sanford club had a rookie of Indian extraction who has since become one of the top minor league hitters today—Early Wynn of the Cleveland Indians' Big Three.

After the 1937 season the flamboyant "Breeches" went to Chattanooga having a good year, then a bad, and so on, up and down until he landed with Washington in 1942. Clary will best be remembered in the Major Leagues for losing to Red Chandler's bid for a no-hit game off the New York Yankee pitcher and it proved to be the only hit Chandler pitched all day off the bats of the Washington Senators.

But in Sanford, Clary will always be remembered as that furious and daffy playing shortstop who could do anything, and did. . . He was "Breeches."

West's Plans For Arms Talk Adopted By UN

Action Taken Despite Strong Red Appeal

UNITED NATIONS N. Y. (AP)—The U. N. General Assembly today adopted a Western plan for disarmament talks despite a strong appeal by chief Soviet delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky to modify it in the interests of East-West harmony.

The vote was 52 to 5 (Soviet bloc) with three abstentions.

The Assembly agreed, however, to one of Vishinsky's suggestions, it adopted, without a vote, his appeal that it drop commendation of the work the disarmament commission has done so far.

The Soviet delegate also proposed that the West agree, in order "to meet the Soviet Union half way" in making concessions, that the assembly drop references to the original resolution which set up the disarmament commission last year.

This was turned down, 10 in favor and 33 abstentions.

Vishinsky said statements that there was some hidden meaning in his proposals were untrue. "They don't mean anything else but what it says in the text," he declared.

He insisted the Soviet move was genuinely conciliatory and urged the West to "dig the tunnel" of friendship from both sides. In that case, he asserted, "we are likely to meet earlier."

Both Vishinsky and the Western delegates spoke in conciliatory tones in the General Assembly. Ernest A. Gross, U. S. delegate, said:

"My government remains deeply interested in a considered study of the Soviet government's proposals. We will study any concrete proposals the Soviet government may make."

A brief speech in the U. N.'s 60th general assembly, Vishinsky claimed that "in an effort to reach agreement the Soviet dele-

Resolution For Hospital Voted By County Board

County Commissioners at their regular meeting yesterday adopted a resolution providing for the issuance of $500,000 worth of hospital bonds of Seminole County and prescribing the maturities, form, and other details of the bonds.

The $500,000 of hospital bonds was authorized at the Nov. 4, 1952 election. According to the resolution, $50,000 of the bonds will be issued at the time of the next election to the county.

Lloyd F. Boyle, county attorney, was authorized to begin the necessary proceedings for the validation of the bonds by the Circuit Court of Florida for Seminole County.

Mr. Boyle, who is also a State senator, will return to Sanford tonight and remain here for the rest of the week during which he is expected to initiate the required validation steps.

At yesterday afternoon's session, a matter of a road grader was finally cleared up when the Commissioners voted to purchase a Five inches of rain on Monday destroyed probably 90 percent of the rice in the fields, County Agent George Hargis reported.

There is no way of estimating the big loss to growers by bad Berry prices had been good, bringing growers around $2 for a 16 pint crate.

Green fruit was unharmed by the downpour, but it likely will be several days before the fields are back in full production.

Meanwhile, the University of Florida Agricultural Experiment Station at Gainesville said the heavy rains have leached soluble fertilizer from many Florida farms and gardens, and the plant food should be replaced as soon as possible.

Dr. Gaylord M. Volk, experiment station soil chemist, said farmers in counties where rain fall exceeded ten inches in 48 hours should address their crops with nitrogen and potash now.

He explained, "If this is not done, corn and other crops in green-stalk condition will be washed away and will not produce as high yields as might have been expected. Leaching of soluble nitrogen and potash is especially heavy in sandy soils subjected to such downpours."

"Must crops would have benefited a great deal from a moderate rain, but the precipitation during the past few days in some counties was too much of a good thing and farmers lost fertilizer and money as a result."

Dr. Volk recommended a fertilizer mixture such as 10-10-10 where needed. The amount will range from 100 to 400 pounds an acre, depending on the crop, soil and amount of rainfall.

Counties in the northern and central sections of the state were principally affected by the rains.

Opposition To McCarty Fee System Proposal Develops; David Named House Speaker

Broward County Is Elected By 59 To 27

TALLAHASSEE—Rep. David of Broward County today was designated as Speaker of the 1953 Florida House of Representatives by a Democratic caucus.

The vote was 59 for David against 27 for Rep. Gus Dinkle of Baker County. His only opponent, the voting was delayed briefly while the House debated whether to let its five Republican members vote at the Democratic caucus. The Republicans withdrew to hold their own caucus.

The motion to go into caucus to consider the speakership was made by Rep. Sorenson of Volusia County who said he wanted to get the matter out of the way so "it won't clutter up every piece of legislation that comes into the House."

House members have left some of the representatives might be influenced in their voting on legislation by ambitions for the speakership.

It has become customary in recent years for the House to select its speaker two years in advance. Today's caucus was the earliest in history.

Senators, not waiting for a caucus, already have designated W. Turner Davis, Madison, as their president for 1953.

House and Senate both met after their 1953 presiding officers, Senate President Charles F. Johnson and Speaker C. Ferris Bryant, at the opening session Tuesday.

The vote to recess for the purpose of holding the caucus was 41 to 23 with 11 not voting.

Rep. Murray, a former House speaker, was named as chairman of the caucus.

Rep. Stokes of Bay protesting the move to select a speaker by an indirect method of a resolution adopted by a 1951 House caucus, condemning the practice of designating presiding officers. His year's absence of their taking office.

The 1951 caucus recommended waiting to designate a speaker until after the second primary election, a year's absence of their taking office.

Members are elected. The caucus vote on the proposal was 83-1.

If I have ever seen a storm rain has been dumped on me. I am a stake. We're not attempting to nominate a speaker who we have over 40 rookies on the floor that know nothing about the speakership of the House.

Rep. O'Neil, Dade, urged immediate action on the selection of a speaker. He said he had been taking place between candidates for speaker. It would be a wise move to select a speaker as soon as possible.
