Southerners lead Miss America

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. — Southern belles and Western beauties dominated the list of 10 finalists Saturday night as beauty queens from across the nation vied to write the happy ending to a modern-day Cinderella story by winning the crown of the 64th Miss America.

Included were Miss Texas Susanne Lawrence, Miss Pennsylvania Maria Wynne, Miss Tennessee Dana Brown, Miss Virginia Shannon Noelle DePuy, Miss South Carolina Mary Waddell Galtney, Miss Iowa Kerri Lynne Rosenberg, Miss Oklahoma Cynthia Lynne White, Miss Colorado Karrie Mitchell, Miss Illinois Marjorie Judith Vincent and Miss Louisiana Linnea Marie Fayard.

Miss America 1990 Debbye Turner, of Columbia, Mo., was to place the shining, rhinestone-studded tiara on her successor before a sold-out crowd in Convention Center on the Boardwalk and a television audience estimated at more than 60 million.

Man arrested for hosting party

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — A large party of about 150 juveniles was broken up by Seminole County deputies Friday night and the adult host was arrested on charges of contributing to the delinquency of minors and for holding an open house party.

Deputies said they saw an "incredible amount" of open and unopened cans of beer and other alcoholic beverages at the 648 Ridgewood Street home when they arrived at about 11 p.m. A large number of "unruly" juveniles were on the street and in the yard and beer cans were strewn on the street and in front yards of neighboring homes. The parties ran inside the home and shouted obscenities at deputies and fought among themselves, arrest reports show. Several other deputies were called to the scene to break up the gathering.

Thomas Louis Cowan, 23, the owner of the home, was charged with holding an open house party, contributing to the delinquency of a minor and breach of peace. He was taken to the Seminole County jail.

The current crisis in the Persian Gulf may be only a prelude to worldwide destruction springing from the turbulent region in the 1990s, according to the French seer of the 16th century, Michel de Nostradamus, or Nostradamus, whose obscure, darkly prophetic poetry has been credited with accurately forecasting events for more than 400 years, seems to have predicted the current heated tension in the Middle East.

GAINESVILLE — Sources close to the investigation of the slayings of five college students said a chief suspect has admitted to having knowledge of the first two killings, a newspaper reported Saturday.

The Florida Times-Union said that during an interview with investigators last week, suspect Edward Humphrey named someone he said killed the first two victims — Christina Powell, 17, and Sonja Larson, 18.

The two University of Florida students were found stabbed to death Aug. 26 in their Gainesville apartment.

The Times-Union said investigators believe the person Humphrey named is one of the multiple personalities he has appeared to exhibit.

Humphrey is considered to be one of eight suspects in the case. He was arrested on Aug. 30 and charged with assaulting his grandmother and was being held in lieu of $1 million bond in the Brevard County Detention Center.

Area ethnic history film in SCC debut

Students, citizens tracing their roots

By VICKI BOGGERMAN
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Eleven Seminole County high school students spent six weeks this summer recording on videotape the ethnic history of Seminole County through the sights and sounds of the members of the community.

"The Significance of Baked Cornbread" will make its debut in the Room J-100 at Seminole Community College tomorrow at 2 p.m.

The half-hour video, produced with $11,000 in financial support of the Governor's Summer Program, will also be shown on CableVision's public access station Channel 33 on Monday and Wednesday.

"These students worked very hard on this project and they produced something very special here," said William Schmidt, an English professor who helped the students with the writing of the film. "They did all the work. The staff merely oversaw the project, offering advice when they needed it."

The students began by studying the demographics of the area, choosing the communities they wished to have represented in their film, creating a storyboard, arranging and conducting the interviews.

In addition, they edited the film and wrote an accompanying program guide.

SANFORD — Eric Breitenbach, 33, of Sanford, records life with his camera. This month, selected pieces of what he has captured on film will be on display at the North Branch of the Seminole County Public Library, 150 N. Palmetto Ave., Sanford.

With a $13,500 grant from the Florida Endowment for the Humanities, Breitenbach, a photography professor at Daytona Beach Community College, was able to spend two and a half months in Goldsboro, Midway and Georgetown, the three predominantly black neighborhoods of Sanford.

"I wanted to go in and meet as many people in those areas as I possibly could," he said. "I wanted to get to know them as I photographed them."

The grant allowed him to work full-time on his project, giving him the time he needed to immerse himself into the communities.

"I was able to visit families at home and photograph them involved in everyday activities," he said. "I went to church services, weddings, funerals and community events."

Breitenbach, who moved to Sanford in 1986, became interested in photographing the black community while working on a year-long state funded project in 1987 and

Accident leads to arrest

SANFORD — A Sanford man was arrested following an auto accident that sent one maid to the hospital Saturday.

Sanford arrest reports state that Danny Adams was driving west on 13th Street near French Avenue when he was struck in the rear by a green car. The green car reportedly left the scene, but was stopped nearby on Cowan Moughton Terrace when a police officer noticed damage to the vehicle, reports show.

A check of the car's tag revealed the driver, Roosevelt White Jr., 32, 1008 Pecan Ave., Sanford, was wanted for failure to pay a fine. White was taken to the accident scene and Adams identified him, reports show. White told police he stopped after the accident but the other driver said he was all right.

White was charged with leaving the scene of an accident involving injuries. He was taken to the Seminole County Jail. Adams was taken to Central Florida Regional Hospital by American Medical Transport.

North Carolina man charged with threat

SANFORD — A North Carolina man was arrested by Sanford police Friday after a woman said he threatened her with a rifle

Sept. 3. Melvin Ray McDonald, 35, local address unknown, was arrested at 3:30 p.m. Friday at General Felt Industries. The woman told police McDonald had pointed a rifle at her and later drove by her home and fired a gun. McDonald was held on $4,000 bond.

Credit card fraud charged

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Patricia Browne, 29, 340 Forest Way, Apt. 1, Altamonte Springs, was charged with fraudulent use of a credit card Friday following a week's stay at the Altamonte Hilton. Arrest reports state hotel management checked the credit card number Browne used to register at the hotel and found it belonged to a West Palm Beach couple who had not authorized its use by her. The hotel tab came to nearly $957. Browne was also charged with grand theft and defrauding an innkeeper.

Lutheran group helps out at zoo

By MARK PFEIFER
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Although they made an appearance at the Central Florida Zoo yesterday, YUMPLs are not some strange breed of animal that no one but zoological experts could identify. But, maybe they are a strange breed because they are willing to work for nothing to help others.

YUMPL is the acronym for "Young Upwardly Mobile Pioneer Lutherans," and they are members of the St. Stephen Lutheran Church, 2140 W. Highway 434, Longwood.

Anyone who has visited the Central Florida Zoo knows of the boardwalk comprised of planks containing the names of zoo supporters. The newest section of the boardwalk leads toward the rest area and park benches are to be placed along the sides of the boardwalk. But no park benches were available, at least until this weekend.

Don C. Nolt, pastor emeritus at St. Stephen, heard about it, and when the Lutheran Brotherhood offered to buy the materials for the benches, Nolt's group decided they would volunteer the labor.

Fifteen of the Pioneers turned out at 9:30 yesterday morning and by 11 a.m., they had constructed a total of nine new benches for the zoo. While the benches are temporarily being stored, they will be installed in the near future by zoo maintenance personnel, Nolt said. "This is one of the most fun things we've done so far. Everyone really enjoyed the morning." Not satisfied with merely putting the benches together, which were purchased in lot form, the group also provided entertainment with three of their number in full costume, which explained the presence of Kermit the Frog, Miss Piggy and a Care Bear hopping around the concession and park areas of the zoo Saturday morning.

Zoo workers Robert Salaman and Ken Marthoma move benches made by the church group.

The YUMPLs, a group of about 18 couples and singles in their 20s and 30s, often go about doing neighborhood things such as helping home fix-ups for the elderly and poor in Seminole County.

Voters loyal to local lawyers in judge races

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Local folk remained loyal to local lawyers when voting for circuit and county judges last Tuesday.

Sanford lawyer Ned Julian, who will face Altamonte Springs lawyer Newman Brock in a run-off Nov. 6, won 17 of his 23 lead-vote getting precincts in Sanford area precincts and two in Lake Mary area precincts. Julian, a civil attorney based in Sanford, numbers among his public agency clients the City of Lake Mary as well as the Seminole County school board.

But the predominance of Brock, a mostly civil lawyer based in Altamonte Springs, over 71 mostly southern and more densely-populated Seminole County precincts enabled him to have a 2,529-vote lead over second-place Julian.

And Sanford lawyer Chris Ray, although final tallies placed him fifth out of five candidates for Seminole County, received the majority vote in 13 precincts, all in Sanford and Geneva. Apopka lawyer John Sloop will face Longwood lawyer Ken Bevan in a run-off Nov. 6.

Precinct reports were released last week by the Seminole County Supervisor of Elections office.

Although Brock won 71 precincts in Seminole County and outdistanced Julian by more than 2,000 votes each in Seminole and Brevard County, Julian's lead in Seminole County enabled him to face Brock in the November run-off. Seminole and Brevard Counties comprise the 18th Judicial Circuit.

Casselberry lawyer Robert E. Miller actually edged Julian out of a second-place showing in Brevard County with 15,818 votes to Julian's 15,642. Brock received 18,733 votes in Brevard County and Apopka lawyer George C. Kelley received 12,025 votes.

In Seminole County, Brock received 9,791 votes, Julian received 7,252 votes. Apopka lawyer George C. Kelley received 5,079 votes and Miller received 4,576 votes.

Circuit-wide totals gave Brock the first-place lead with 28,503. Julian in a second-place run-off position with 22,864, Miller in third place with 20,394 and Kelley last with 17,104.

Julian led Brock in most precincts that include all or parts of Sanford. His widest margins came from voters in Precinct 23, which includes the Sanlania subdivision, who gave Julian 124 votes and cast 64 votes for Brock. Julian received a 57-vote edge over Brock in the west central Sanford Precinct 28.

Julian also received a 50-vote margin over Brock in Precinct 26, which includes east Lake Mary, portions of Sanford and unincorporated Seminole County.

But Brock's support from the higher-populated south Seminole County precincts gave him the first-place spot.

In the county judicial race, although a distant fifth out of five candidates, Ray led in 12 precincts all in Sanford and Geneva. Ray's strongest vote came from the west Sanford Precinct 63, which includes the unincorporated areas of Lincoln Heights and Ravenna Park. Ray also had a strong lead in Precinct 30, a largely unincorporated area west of the Sanford city limits between lake Monroe and County Road 46-A.

Sloop outdistanced his competitors in 63 of the county's 95 precincts. Bevan, who will face Sloop again in November, only won nine precincts scattered from Goldenrod to Altamonte Springs and Longwood. But Bevan placed second in 33 precincts throughout the county, enough to put him in the run-off.

State of the worker

The 1980s were a decade of considerable upheaval for American workers. That decade saw a painful recession during which millions lost jobs. It saw once-dominant industries — like steel and autos — forced to scale back their operations. It saw plants temporarily shut down or closed altogether. It saw protracted strikes — like the air traffic controllers' disputes — end disastrously. It saw wage and other givebacks negotiated into collective bargaining agreements. And it saw the precipitous decline in unionism.

Yet, through it all, American workers survived. And on this first Labor Day of the 1990s, the overall state of the American work force is considerably better than it was a decade ago. Moreover, notwithstanding reports lamenting the decline of American labor, the United States still boasts the world's best work force.

Indeed, by such important measures as share of world exports, level of productivity, average factory pay and standard of living, U.S. workers continue to outstrip their counterparts in Western Europe and the Far East, and by a wide margin in some cases.

For all the hand-wringing about America's trade problem, for instance, the United States still accounts for 12 percent of total world exports. Only West Germany matches this figure. Japan follows with roughly 10 percent. Outside of these three, no other nation claims more than 6 percent.

Americans have also been bombarded with misinformation about U.S. productivity, the most prevailing myth being that Japanese workers have surpassed Americans. Wrong. Not only are U.S. workers 30 percent more productive than Japanese ($41,281 in average output in 1988 for U.S. workers, compared to $26,678 for the Japanese), they are nearly 15 percent more productive than every other work force in the world, save for Canada.

As to compensation, U.S. factory workers remain the world's best paid, at roughly $14 an hour. The West Germans are close; Japanese workers receive 35 percent less pay. Purchasing power of U.S. workers — which translates into overall standard of living — also is the highest in the world. With average per capita purchasing power of nearly $20,000 a year, U.S. workers are more than 25 percent better off than workers in all of Western Europe, not to mention Japan. Only Canadian workers are in the same ballpark.

All of this is not to suggest that there are no real concerns on the labor front. There certainly are. Each of these positive indicators of labor progress also has a down side. America continues to import more than it exports. Worker productivity is growing at a slower rate than in other countries. Wages are growing faster in all other major countries, except Japan. And increases in workers' purchasing power are staying just ahead of inflation.

These are unsettling trends of which policymakers in Washington must be mindful as they consider, among other vital questions, how best to improve America's trade balance, what kinds of new labor mandates to place upon employers and what types of new taxes to impose upon working Americans. Policy decisions on these and related questions will go a long way toward determining whether American workers remain in the 1990s the world's most productive and most well-off.

UF murders: Sign of violent times

Words will never adequately express the sympathy, grief and disbelief that the recent murders in Gainesville evoked. Talented human beings, in the flower of their youth, were brutally taken from society depriving us forever of any contributions they might have made to humanity. There is no way to change the past, but we must make an agonizing reappraisal of why there is so much violence in America.

Statistics about our beloved country are of grave concern. Women are the recipients of many abuses. Three out of four females in the United States will be victims of at least one violent crime during their lifetime. Almost three and one-half million women are battered annually.

Rapes and homicides in the United States occur more frequently than in other industrialized countries. The rape rate in America is 20 times higher than Japan, 13 times higher than Great Britain, and four times higher than in Germany. Relative to homicides per 100,000, there are four times as many homicides in the United States than in Scotland, our closest runner-up. The news media reveals that women, children and aged citizens are often prey for other members of society.

A society that does not protect its most vulnerable members by affirming the sanctity of human life leaves much to be desired. Values placed upon human life in America apparently are much less than in other comparable countries. What universal values are the youth of this country committed to?

SHIRLEY SPANGLER

Anti-social human beings are spawned by the same society that produces those who grow up to be law-abiding, concerned citizens. Violence is like a contagious disease spreading throughout our country. There are many angry, violent people who wantonly strike out at others, evidently without remorse.

Two of our basic institutions have been crumbling for years. The family and the church must assume their dominant roles in society again. Marriages that persist and inculcate positive values, while providing security and stability for children, are needed.

Churches should become beacon lights for this tormented society beckoning all to come and learn the true meaning of life. Martin Luther King Jr. indicated that, philosophically, he had searched for the true meaning of life. His search revealed that the greatest gift in the world was Love, Love of God and love of mankind.

Teaching of values begins at home. Parents are role models not only by their words, but their deeds. Values are also learned at church.

In memoriam to the young man and woman killed in Gainesville, let us all pledge to strengthen our basic institutions, our families and our churches.

Are Brits to blame for Iraq crisis?

WASHINGTON — Iraqi President Saddam Hussein says that he did not so much invade Kuwait as return it to its rightful place within Iraq. To understand this claim, one must go back 70 years to a tent set up in the desert outside of Baghdad.

The tent belonged to Sir Percy Cox, Britain's High Commissioner in the region, a man whose patience was quickly running out. For five days and nights during November 1922, the heads of various bedouin families had tried unsuccessfully to divide up the remains of the defeated Ottoman Empire. The empire had been under Turkish control, stretching from Turkey to the Persian Gulf. However, it had allied itself with Germany in World War I, and that was its downfall.

Britain had been active in the Persian Gulf going back into the 18th century when it began establishing ports and trading posts on the way from Europe to colonial India. One of those ports was in what is now Kuwait, but in those days it was an obscure outpost in the far reaches of the Ottoman Empire.

Officially, Kuwait never broke away from the empire. It was part of the Beers province, but during the latter part of the 19th century it increasingly came under the feudal control of the al-Sabah family. For several decades they successfully played the British off against the Turks. Then, in 1899, Mubarak Sabah became the new ruler after killing two of his half-brothers. He immediately made a deal with London — in exchange for 15,000 pounds annually, Kuwait would become a formal British protectorate.

After World War I, Britain obtained a mandate from the new League of Nations to operate what is now Iraq and about half of today's Saudi Arabia, as a protectorate. Sir Percy's mission was to set up formal boundary lines.

For five days he listened to the various participants bicker. It was obvious that the meeting could have lasted years with no agreement. Late on the fifth night, Sir Percy took pen in hand and completed the job himself. He then called all the participants to the tent and, one by one, showed them his solution. Reportedly, Sheikh Ibn Saud, great grandfather of the present ruler of Saudi Arabia, was so happy with what the House of Saud was given that he dropped to his knees in tears.

Thus, the modern borders of Iraq, Saudi Arabia and Kuwait were established by the pen of Sir Percy Cox at what has become known as the Conference of Uqair.

However, the boundaries Sir Percy drew were far from arbitrary. Essentially, he and the British foreign office were sure they could dominate both the Saudis and the al-Sabahs. Meanwhile, the political situation in Iraq was so unsettled that the British did not trust any potential rulers of this arid land.

So the boundaries were drawn to give the Saudis and the al-Sabahs all known oil reserves, guaranteeing Britain a constant supply of oil. Then, to insure that Iraq remained subservient, it was left effectively landlocked with only an 18-mile coast on the Persian Gulf.

Both Saudi Arabia and Kuwait accepted Sir Percy's handiwork. Iraq, however, never did. The establishment of an independent Kuwait under the al-Sabahs came to be associated in the minds of many in the Middle East with the general division of the Persian Gulf into tiny, oil-rich sheikhdoms that the British believed they could dominate. In the end, almost half the world's known oil supply was in the hands of only six families.

Thus, when Saddam Hussein says that his invasion of Kuwait merely redresses the wrongs of colonialism, it strikes a responsive chord in much of the Middle East, especially among the poor masses who openly hate the wealthy royal families of the Gulf states.

Now Saddam says that he has officially rejoined Kuwait to Iraq — declaring it to be his nation's 19th province, and renaming Kuwait City to Kadhimah. He has also done something else, which may be of significance in the long run.

Saddam has taken a strip of what was northern Kuwait and renamed it Saddamiyah Mithla, after himself. However, he has made it a part of Iraq's Beers province. This area has long been in dispute, and it is of great importance because it contains the small Kuwaiti portion of the vast Rumaila oil field, which lies mostly in Iraq.

It is believed that if Saddam is backed into a corner and feels compelled to withdraw from Kuwait, he will offer a deal agreeing to withdraw in exchange for this strip of land plus the Kuwaiti islands of Bubiyan and Warba, which have blocked wider Iraqi access to the Gulf.

If he is able to pull this off, he will be a big winner because he has unsuccessfully sought this concession from Kuwait for years.

S&L executives' lavish lifestyles

WASHINGTON — Looking back on the savings and loan scandal, it is difficult to believe one's own 20/20 hindsight. The lavish lifestyles of some of the most high-living business executives this nation has ever seen now look more like fiction than reality.

Charles Keating Jr., of Phoenix, Ariz., the former operator of the now-defunct Lincoln

Savings and Loan, has been elevated to be the king of the savings and loan scandal. It is a dishonor he deserves. But there are others who should not be forgotten. You might call them runner-ups for Miss Congeniality.

One of the most congenial was Don Dixon, party animal. Dixon, the former owner of Vernon Savings and Loan in Dallas, loved a good time. Exotic cars, Western art, lavish trips, four-star restaurants were among his weaknesses. He traveled by private jet and a 1964 Silver Dawn Rolls-Royce. He allegedly charged some of his extravagances to Vernon Savings and Loan, including $88,000 for trips and a single-month of credit card bills amounting to $34,444.42. Now there's a man who knows how to live.

Dixon also reportedly spent nearly $300,000 from a Vernon Savings and Loan account to furnish his 93 million beach house (home loan courtesy of Vernon) in Del Mar, Calif. When federal regulators said, "Whoa, Don!" he sought help from his friends in Washington. Dixon had cemented relations with former House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas, and former Rep. Tony Coelho, D-Calif., who didn't feel bad about asking the regulators to give Dixon a break. Neither one of them survived the scandal. Both resigned from Congress.

The bailout for Vernon Savings and Loan will cost taxpayers at least $1 billion.

Another Texas, Ed McIlroney, operated Sunbelt Savings and Loan of Dallas. The taxpayers own it now. But they aren't living as well as McIlroney did when he was in charge.

McIlroney has been called Texas' answer to The Great Gatsby — a host extraordinaire who allegedly spent $1.3 million on parties. At a 1984 Halloween party, the menu included lion, satelops and pheasant. McIlroney attended dressed as a king. Of course, his 1986 Halloween bash took place in a rented warehouse decked out in a jungle motif. McIlroney played Bwana. Of course, in addition to financing the parties, Sunbelt also allegedly picked up more than $278,000 in expenses by Ed (Barn to Barn) McIlroney at expensive stays including Neiman-Marcus.

"If you've got it, flaunt it," should have been the motto of the savings and loan industry during the high-living days of deregulation and lax regulation. The only drawback is that the scandalists didn't have it and they flaunted it anyway, living off the money you will eventually cough up for the bailout.

If you threw a party for all the fun-loving savings and loan owners who ran their businesses into the ground, most of them would be able to attend. They are unencumbered by jail bars.

THE SCANDAL THAT WOULDN'T DIE — The fallout continues from the Iran-contra scandal. The latest reports link the Central Intelligence Agency with drug traffickers in a joint effort to arm the contra. Secret Drug Enforcement Agency reports made public in a Los Angeles trial tell the story. They document a meeting with two DEA agents and a former communications chief for Mexican drug traffickers. The communications man claims the CIA flew arms into Colombia and drugs out. The CIA denies that he armed the contra from Mexico, much less worked with drug kingpins.

Ideal childhood vaccine sought

WASHINGTON — The World Health Organization and the United Nations banded together Saturday in a $150 million effort to devise the ideal childhood vaccine — a one-time dose to prevent a range of infectious diseases.

Health experts with the international groups acknowledged the task of developing the ultimate "children's vaccine" is formidable and could take 20 to 30 years to achieve.

However, if the unprecedented joint research effort succeeds, it would save millions of children's lives, especially in the Third World, they said.

About 70 percent of the world's children currently receive a standard vaccine regimen stretched over a series of months consisting of separate doses for measles, polio and tuberculosis, as well as a combination vaccine for diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus given in several staggered doses.

Kennedy clan turns out for wedding

CENTERVILLE, Mass. — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, the sole surviving son of America's most famous family, finally became the father of the bride in his own right Saturday.

His only daughter Kara, 30, married Washington architect Michael Allen during an afternoon mass at Our Lady of Victory Church in Centerville on a beautiful late summer Cape Cod afternoon.

The Massachusetts Democrat has given three other Kennedy women in marriage, serving as a surrogate for his slain brothers, President John F. Kennedy and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, at the weddings of his nieces Caroline, Kathleen and Courtney.

Congress faces difficult agenda

By ROBERT SHEPARD
United Press International

WASHINGTON — When Congress left for its August recess, lawmakers knew they faced a difficult agenda on their return, but that task has been greatly complicated by a threat of war in the Middle East and a weakening economy at home.

One of Congress's first priorities is agreement on a budget plan that will trim the projected deficit and avoid automatic and deep cuts in government programs scheduled to take effect Oct. 1.

Congressional and administration budget negotiators, who worked without results for weeks before the recess, gathered at Andrews Air Force Base in suburban Maryland this weekend for a crucial round of meetings.

President Bush gave the negotiations a push Friday when he traveled to Andrews for the opening session before leaving for his summit in Finland with Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev.

The president planned to address a joint session of Congress Tuesday after his return.

Only about one month remains before the lawmakers return home to concentrate on their re-election campaigns, and it is doubtful they can finish their work in that time. The time crunch raises the likelihood that Congress will have to return for a post-election "lame-duck" session.

The list of unfinished business includes legislation covering farm programs, civil rights, defense spending, clean air, housing, crime, child care, textile imports, campaign finance reform, and oil spill prevention as well as Senate action on the Supreme Court nomination of David Souter.

The most recent budget projection indicates a 1991 deficit of $162 billion and the budget negotiators had hoped to come up with a package of spending cuts and tax increases to get it down to around $74 billion. That would avoid the more severe automatic "sequester" cuts required Oct. 1 under the Gramm-Rudman law.

But the task has been complicated by prospects of a recession, which would lower tax revenues, by the high costs of sending troops to the Mideast.

Colombian president on anti-drug initiative

By TOM HARVEY
United Press International

BOGOTA, Colombia — One month into his term, President Cesar Gaviria has seized the political initiative in the war on the Colombian cocaine cartels.

Gaviria's decree in which he allows for reduced sentences and no extradition to traffickers who surrendered has swept out from under the Medellin cartel its justification for a war of bombs and bullets.

But it will take months to gauge how effective the measure is in enticing traffickers to give up the lucrative trade, officials said.

The decree issued Wednesday allows a judge to lower the prison sentences of traffickers who surrender, confess to all their crimes and give up property stemming from illegal proceeds. Those who fully comply would not be eligible for extradition to the United States.

Extradition led the Medellin cartel to form so-called "Extraditables" hit squad. When former President Virgilio Barco began extraditing suspects last year, the group declared "all-out war" and began setting off bombs and carrying out murders. At least 500 people have been killed in the offensive.

"The whole justification for the war has been extradition," said a top government official in explaining the decree.

A U.S. official, however, said while the decree takes away the justification the cartel used for the war, it does not mean the battle is over.

"I expect police and other authorities to continue, if not increase, the actions against traffickers," he said.

The government's extradition policy also was highly controversial among Colombia citizens, the subject of constant criticism by groups ranging from the left to the right.

Its unpopularity was reinforced when Washington D.C. Mayor Marion Barry was convicted on only one count in his recent cocaine trial that was viewed in Colombia as a test of the Bush administration's will to reduce drug consumption.

Soviet Parliament faces crisis

By MICHAEL COLLINS
United Press International

MOSCOW — The Soviet Parliament opens its fall session Monday amid what some are calling the country's worst economic crisis since World War II, and reform is again at the top of the agenda.

There is general agreement that the way out of the downward economic spiral is a move from central planning to a market economy, but urgently needed reforms may get bogged down in the debate over how fast and how radical the change should be.

President Mikhail Gorbachev vowed Sept. 1 that a single economic plan would be ready for consideration when Parliament opened, but economists were still scrambling Saturday to combine two vastly different competing plans.

"This work apparently will not be completed by the opening of the Soviet Parliament's session," said Ivan Silayev, premier of the Russian republic, which is already considering the more radical of the two plans.

Officials are trying to combine a radical program of privatization and decentralization, proposed by a commission set up by Gorbachev and Russian leader Boris Yeltsin, with the more conservative government plan of Premier Nikolai Ryzhkov that envisages continuing central control.

Ryzhkov's unwillingness to support radical economic reforms has led to a clamor for his resignation, and the official Soviet news agency Tass joined the criticism Saturday.

"One does not need to be an economist to understand whether the union government's actions produce results," Tass said in a commentary.

Wide teen steroid use documented

By WILL DUNHAM
United Press International

WASHINGTON — Hoping to run faster and look better despite the risk of serious side-effects, more than a quarter of a million American teenagers have used muscle-building anabolic steroids, a report said.

About 4.7 percent of boys and 1.3 percent of girls from the 1989 high school graduating class used the drugs, according to a report released Friday by the inspector general's office of the Department of Health and Human Services. That means some 262,000 teenagers — about 3 percent of that graduating class — experimented with or are still using steroids.

The study, which recommended that HHS develop a national education program to combat steroid use and urged further research into the matter, seemed to confirm earlier reports indicating widespread and increasing use of steroids by American youngsters.

Steroids, legal only if used with a doctor's prescription, are a synthetic derivative of the male hormone testosterone and are used to promote the growth of muscle bulk, strength and stamina.

Jackson, Bouey lead Greyhounds past Boone

By PHIL SMITH
Herald Correspondent

LONGWOOD — Jeff Jackson passed for 134 yards and two touchdowns while Cedric Bouey rushed for 111 yards and a pair of touchdowns to lead the Lyman Greyhounds over the Boone Braves 45-14 Friday night in the season-opener for both schools.

Toby Durham caught both of Jackson's touchdown passes, scoring on plays of 42 and 55 yards.

"The offensive line really got out there and blocked everybody," said Bouey. "Our offensive line showed everybody that they're really good."

Lyman scored first late in the first quarter when Jackson hooked up with Durham for 42 yards to cap a five-play, 62-yard drive.

But the Braves came right back when quarterback Ron Jordan ran for 41 yards on the first play from scrimmage. Stacey Mack scored three plays later on one yard out. The extra point was missed, keeping the score 7-6.

The Greyhounds then scored three unanswered touchdowns in the second quarter. Dallas Simpson scored from five yards out, Bouey scored from one yard out and Jackson threw to Durham again, this time for 55 yards, to boost the margin to 28-6 at halftime.

"We had a few things happen tonight that we can build on," said Lyman coach Bill Scott. "We played a little up and down, but on the whole, it was real good for us."

"Jeff did a good job of throwing the ball and Brian (Grayson) did a good job of blocking and running, which helped take some of the work load off of Cedric."

The third quarter started with Bobby Washington returning the second half kickoff 91 yards for a touchdown to increase the lead to 35-6.

After a Paul Klaus field goal, Lyman drove 87 yards in 11 plays consuming 5:38 capped by Bouey's 10-yard scamper, his second touchdown of the contest.

"They were keying on Cedric a lot, which opened up the passing game a little more," said Jackson. "In turn, this helped Cedric some more. It was a total team effort."

Boone finally broke a string of 38 unanswered points in the fourth quarter when they drove 57 yards on eight plays, Jordan throwing to Mack for 14 yards and the touchdown. Jordan then threw to Mack again for the two-point conversion to close the margin to 45-14.

Lyman (1-0) will play its first 5A-District 4 game next Friday evening when the Greyhounds travel.

Mistakes ground Hawks

WINTER PARK — Winter Park, led by 194 yards from Darwin Anderson, upset an unusually mistake-prone Lake Howell 31-28 at Lake Howell High School Friday night.

Lake Howell, ranked third in the Class 5A preseason state poll, gave up a safety on a high punt snap in the first quarter and fumbled on second-and-goal from the Winter Park 1 in the second quarter. The Silver Hawks also failed to score in the second quarter on a drive to the Winter Park 12-yard line and fumbled a fair catch of a punt in the third quarter that led to the final Winter Park score.

"We made too many mistakes," stated Lake Howell Coach Mike Biacaglia. "I could sense tightness when we came on the field. We gave up a lot of yards on critical downs."

Lake Howell took the early lead as Trevor Pryce grabbed an interception and ran 28 yards to the Winter Park 20.

Friday night's showdown between Central Florida's top two running backs was a draw. Winter Park's Darwin Anderson (No. 44, left) rushed for 194 yards and two touchdowns while Lake Howell's Marquette Smith (No. 22, right) gained 197 yards and scored three touchdowns. Winter Park won the game, 31-28.

APOPKA — Lake Brantley football coach Fred Almon knew two things would mean disaster for his Patriots: giving up big plays and an injury to any one of his key players.

On Friday night, the Apopka Blue Darters used touchdown plays of 69, 77 and 18 yards en route to a 26-7 win over the Patriots in the season-opener for both teams.

In the process, Lake Brantley lost offensive lineman Rob Baptist to a knee injury.

FSU defeats East Carolina despite Blake's TDs

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Florida State opened its season with a 45-24 victory over East Carolina Saturday despite Seminole High School graduate Jeff Blake's school record 91-yard touchdown pass.

Leading the way for FSU were Brad Johnson, who lofted three short touchdown passes, and Terrell Buckley, who returned a punt 63 yards for a touchdown.

Johnson, a junior making his first collegiate start, also scored on a 1-yard keeper late in the game.

Edgar Bennett, who caught two of Johnson's touchdown passes, ran 10 yards in the fourth period for another score.

The Pirates struck first when safety Derrick Fields recovered a fumble by Bennett at the 24-yard line on the second play of the game. Jeff Blake drilled a 13-yard scoring pass to Cedrick Van Buren six plays later.

The Seminoles tied the score on Johnson's 4-yard touchdown pass to Lawrence Dawsey. Kirk Carruthers recovered a fumble by Carolina's Dion Johnson at the Pirate 32 and Florida State cashed in with a 29-yard field goal from Richie Andrews.

ECU's Johnson atoned for his fumble with a 49-yard kickoff return, and Rob Imperato tied the score 10-10 with a 34-yard field goal.

Brad Johnson methodically moved the Seminoles 80 yards in 13 plays, capping the drive with four-yard scoring toss to Bennett midway through the second quarter. When ECU couldn't move the ball and punted, Buckley returned it 63 yards to put the Seminole ahead 24-10.

A pass-interference in the end zone gave ECU a first down at the 2 with 1:20 left in the half. After a 1-yard loss, Dion Johnson swept right with an option pitch for the touchdown to put ECU within 24-17 at halftime.

Buckley opened the second half with a 28-yard interception return.

Blake followed with a quick pass over the middle to Luke Fisher, who outran two FSU defenders for a 91-yard scoring strike — the longest TD pass in ECU history

But Winter Park showed quickly that they would not make easy fodder for the much-heralded Silver Hawks as Anderson took a pitch from quarterback Sam McBryde and ran 44 yards for the touchdown.

Lake Howell's next drive stalled, forcing a punt. But the snap sailed into the end zone for a safety, giving Winter Park the 9-7 lead.

Chris Beauford returned the following kick off to the 50-yard line for Winter Park. Reaching into their bag of tricks, Anderson reversed a hand-off to Terrence Foy, who scampered to the 34.

On the next play, Anderson weaved and leaped his way through the Silver Hawk secondary, leaping over the final defender for the touchdown. Anderson also added the two-point conversion on a 2-yard run to increase the edge to 17-7.

Starting from their own 38-yard line, Lake Howell then drove 71 yards to the one. But on second and goal, the ball popped loose and Winter Park pounced on it to end the threat.

The Silver Hawks cut the margin to 17-14 at halftime when quarterback Ryan Thomas hit Thomas Demps with a 40-yard touchdown bomb.

Lake Howell regained the lead on the first drive of the second half.

Winter Park's next drive died at their own 40-yard line. But Lake Howell muffed the punt and Winter Park took over at the 3. Anderson barged his way in for the touchdown and a 31-21 lead.

"Those were the two things that I was worried about and the both happened," said Almon. "I think Rob Seymore is the best offensive lineman in Central Florida. It looks like his injury is very serious. And he didn't even get hit."

"We tell the team that three plays can decide the outcome of a ballgame. And since you never know when those three plays are going to happen, you have to be ready on every play. Tonight, they (Apopka) had all three plays."

At first, it looked like it might be Lake Brantley's night as the Patriots took the opening kickoff and drove 80 yards for a touchdown, junior quarterback Rob Seymore scoring on a 9-yard run. Rob Hartman's kick gave the Patriots a 7-0 lead.

But moments later, Apopka took advantage of the game's first big play. On second and 8 from the Blue Darters 31, Derrick Turner split the Lake Brantley defense on a dive play that went for 69 yards and a touchdown. The kick for the extra point was blocked.

On just Apopka's seventh offensive play, the Blue Darters broke out big play No. 2. This time, quarterback Arron Smith and tight end Warren Sapp hooked up on a 77-yard touchdown pass play. The two were then combined for the two-point conversion to put the Blue Darters up 14-7.

Seymore rushed for 39 yards and a touchdown while Sprinkle gained a game-high 107 yards on 13 carries. He had a 55-yard jaunt in the first quarter on the Patriots' touchdown drive.

"Some day, people are going to believe me that Rob Seymore can play quarterback," said Almon. "He's a little shabby throwing the football (completing just one pass and getting intercepted twice on six attempts) but Apopka was taking away a lot of our routes."

"We came out and ran the ball right down the field. We probably should have stayed with it. That was my fault. I got a little anxious and we changed some things."

"The only one who got an edge in speed over the Patriot defense, the Blue Darters' depth - especially in the offensive backfield - took its toll on Lake Brantley. Eight different players had at least one carry for the Blue Darters, five players rushing for more than 25 yards."

Leading the ground assault was Turner, who finished with 69 yards on seven carries. Smith added 49 while Chris Hudson had 39. Smith completed just two passes, both to Sapp, for 98 yards.

Both Lake Brantley and Apopka both open their district schedules next Friday night. The Patriots will be at Lake Mary for their 5A-District 4 opener while Apopka travels to Winter Park (a 31-38 winner over No. 3-ranked Lake Howell Friday) to open their 5A-District 5 schedule.

Oviedo

Inexperienced Lion defense and stymied back with 28 second-half points on route to a 26-21 win in front of an opening game home crowd of 3,500 at Lake Weir.

The win gives the Hurricanes a 1-0 record in 5A-District 4 while Oviedo falls to 0-1.

"We were playing with two inexperienced linemen," said Oviedo Coach Jack Skenton. "We're not very deep at linebacker."

Making the job even more difficult for the Lion linemen was the play of Hurricane back-up quarterback Derrick Lake, who relieved starter Mickey Henderson in the second half and passed for 158 yards and three touchdowns.

Lake's heroics overshadowed a gutsy performance by Oviedo tailback Dana Allen. Allen scrambled for 171 yards on 26 carries and paced the Lions to a quick 21-0 lead.

Allen handed off to receiver Leon Lowman on a 22-yard reverse for the Lions' first score. After an exchange of turnovers, Allen slipped in from 14 yards out to up the advantage to 14-0.

He later scored on a 3-yard run in the second quarter for the Lions' final points. Seymore's quarterback Drew Jackson highlighted the seven-play, 40-yard drive with a 18-yard run on a third-and-11 play.

On the next drive, the Lions marched again to the Lake Weir 48, only to be thwarted on an acrobatic interception by Steven Oaken. Lake connected with McAllister a second time to give Lake Weir a 23-21 advantage with 3:07 left in the third quarter.

Lowman appeared to put Oviedo ahead after a leaping, stumbling 58-yard touchdown reception, but the officials ruled his knee touched the ground at the 50. Lowman came up big again with a fourth down catch later in the drive, but a botched field goal attempt from the 23-yard line resulted in no points.

That would be the last time Oviedo would see the ball until there was 1:47 left in the contest as Lake Weir engineered two lengthy, time-consuming scoring drives with a surprise inside kick sandwiched in between to seal the victory.

"I saw some positive things tonight," said Skenton, who lost an opening game for the first time since he has been at Oviedo. "Dana Allen ran the ball well and the receivers caught the ball well."

"Lake is quite a quarterback. They run the run-and-above offense the way it is supposed to be run. We did a poor job altogether."

Defensively for Oviedo, senior defensive end Chris Tabacco had six tackles and one quarterback sack while Chris Mack and Clay Appenwell each added seven tackles.

Next Friday, Lake Weir travels to Lake Howell for a 5A-District 4 game while Oviedo hosts Lyman in their home-opener.

Role models foster hope in ghettos

By NINA SUDAN
United Press International

ATLANTA - A brigade of black role models are waging war against drugs, violence and joblessness in Atlanta's poor neighborhoods, employing a weapon rarely found in the ghetto - the human touch.

Indirectly inspired by the city's most famous civil rights worker, the late Martin Luther King Jr., the group, Odeon's 300, aims to divert project-related youth from the lure of illicit activity by bringing offers of drug treatment and jobs to their doorsteps.

The program's founder, a second-generation King disciple, says Sen. Arthur Langford of Atlanta is encouraged by the initial success.

"In the past, we have met in large conferences and workshops, we have talked about the problem, we formed task forces, but what we did not do and what we must do is reach out to young people - go out to them and let them see we know what their problems are," Langford said.

"If the gangs can recruit our young males and females, we can too," he said.

Business executives, politicians, bus drivers and brick masons are among the eclectic coalition volunteering to help in the experiment, which is already gaining attention from other urban areas.

The first wave of surrogate father figures descended on three housing projects Aug. 25 and came back with about 40 candidates for drug counseling and job recruits who signed up for positions ranging from fast-food restaurant cook to electrician's assistant.

Another visit - this time by a contingent of women volunteers - is planned for Sept. 8.

Publix Super Markets Inc., to expand into Georgia area

By United Press International

LAKEVILLE - Publix Super Markets Inc., the nation's eighth largest supermarket chain, will build its first store outside Florida in a small Georgia town about 20 miles northwest of Fernandina Beach, officials said Wednesday.

"We have been working on this site for about a year," Publix spokesman Bob McDermott said.

He declined to say whether the 45,000-square-foot store would serve as a springboard for the Florida company to branch out in Georgia.

"I really can't comment on any other sites," McDermott said. "Publix has been looking at possible sites in and outside the state of Florida for many years."

The new store in Kingland,

Ga., will be located near the U.S. Navy submarine support base in St. Mary's, Ga. The population in the area is estimated at 28,000, McDermott said.

"For many, many years our north Florida stores, especially in Jacksonville, have been serving people from Georgia," McDermott said. "We're very pleased with the Kingland area, with its growth and potential."

American airlines rated tops

By FRANKLIN M. WOODS
UPI Senior Editor

NEW YORK - Seasoned American travelers picked American Airlines as the top domestic carrier and Singapore Airlines as the best of the foreign carriers, a survey reported. The Soviet Union's Aeroflot end up at the bottom.

Foreign carriers dominated the Zagat Airline Survey, conducted by Research & Forecasts Inc. of New York and released Thursday.

Besides Singapore Airlines, the top 10 in "overall ratings" were Braniff, JAL-Japan Air Lines, SAS-Quantas, Lufthansa, KLM, British Airways, Air France and Varig.

Besides American, the top 10 domestic airlines in best overall ratings were Delta, United, Midway, Piedmont, TWA, Pan Am, Northwest, US Air and Continental.

Aeroflot was named the flying public's least favorite airline with the lowest ratings in all service and comfort categories.

Financially beleaguered Eastern received the lowest ratings in all categories for a domestic airline: comfort, service, punctuality, food, and bang for a buck.

"The airline ranked number 11, but clearly the highest rated U.S. domestic airline was American Airlines," the survey said.

In a special "bang for a buck" rating relating the cost of flights to good service and comfort, Virgin Atlantic and Midway Airlines led the list.

Tim Zagat, who publishes regional restaurant, hotel and rental car guides with his wife, Nina, said at a news conference that he hoped the airline industry "will look at this data, take it seriously and act on it where warranted."

Nicholas Tortorella, chairman of Research & Forecasts, said the survey drew on responses from 4,482 "educated" frequent travelers who were asked to rate 27 major U.S. and foreign carriers.

Top European Airlines

Airline	Passengers in 1988 (in millions)	Loss from 1987 (in millions)
British Airways	22.5	25.2
Lufthansa (W. Germany)	17.9	11.1
Air France	14.0	11.2
Iberia (Spain)	10.0	18.7
S.A.S. (Scandinavia)	8.0	8.7
Alitalia (Italy)	6.0	8.7
Swireair	5.0	5.0
Olympic Airways	4.0	4.7
K.L.M. (Netherlands)	3.5	14.8
J.A. (Yugoslavia)	3.0	2.4

British Airways is the largest European airline, carrying 4.7 million more passengers in 1988 than West Germany's Lufthansa, the No. 2 airline.

list major irritations and suggest innovations.

He said that in selecting the best airlines, some respondents said the picked "only the best of a bad bunch."

Half of those surveyed said their biggest complaints focused on delays, no matter what the cause.

"The views of Zagat travelers suggest that the spate of airline mergers and acquisitions has not helped the traveling public and travelers feel their choice of carriers, routes and service has dwindled," Tortorella reported.

"Many feel that airline concern for them is diminishing as well. They are increasingly feeling like hostages to airlines and their connecting hubs. They want more comfortable seating, consistent pricing, better food and fewer delays."

Tortorella noted that although 10 foreign airlines outranked American in overall ratings, the number of travelers who rated American Airlines tops was close to six times the number who rated Singapore as the world's best.

Prostate cancer week set for September

From staff and wire reports

LONGWOOD — The week of Sept. 16-23 has been set aside for the Second Annual Prostate Cancer Awareness Week by the Prostate Cancer Education Council in New York City. South Seminole Community Hospital, 555 State Road 434, has been selected as one of the hospitals throughout the country to participate in the activities by the council, according to a Nick Williamson, a spokesman for the education council.

A national hotline, 1-800-4-CANCER, has been set up, in collaboration with the National Cancer Institute, to answer questions and inform the public of screenings in their area, according to Williamson.

During the week, Dr. E. Jake Jacobs, a Longwood urologist, will present a program entitled "Prostate Treatments: Treatments and Options for the 1990's," on Sept. 13 at 7 p.m. in classroom 108 of the hospital. The program will include a slide presentation discussing anatomy, prostate function, and benign and malignant prostate growth. The program is free and open to the public.

§The risk of prostate cancer increases with age, but it can become evident at any time in a man's life.§

On Sept. 22 at 9 a.m., free digital prostate exams will be provided. The free prostate exams will be performed by several physicians on the active staff at South Seminole Community Hospital whom have combined efforts for the program.

In a study by researchers at Thomas Jefferson University Hospital in Philadelphia recently, the magnetic resonance imaging technique appears to be a more accurate way of detecting prostate cancer than the commonly used ultrasound.

The study found that magnetic resonance imaging, or MRI, was accurate 69 percent of the time in detecting prostate cancer in men. That compares with the 58 percent accuracy rate for ultrasound.

However, the study noted that ultrasound test costs between $180 and $400 per test, while MRI costs $700 to $1,300.

Prostate cancer is the most common type of cancer in men, claiming 30,000 lives a year. The American Cancer Society estimates 105,000 new cases will be detected this year.

The disease is most common in men older than 65, with black males at greatest risk. The use of imaging technology to find the cancer is critical in determining the best treatment.

The 15-month study, published in Thursday's edition of the New England Journal of Medicine, involved 230 patients whose cancer was believed to be confined to the prostate, a small gland under the bladder.

IN BRIEF

Fish Memorial receives accreditation

DELAND — Fish Memorial Breast Clinic in DeLand has been accredited by the American College of Radiology (ACR).

The facility has met the necessary requirements, which include a peer review evaluation of the staff's qualification, equipment, quality control and quality assurance programs, image quality and breast dose.

There are close to 9000 mammography facilities in the U.S., of these only 2400 have applied for ACR accreditation. Just a small fraction of all mammography facilities are accredited, only 900+ have been accredited nationwide.

The ACR accreditation program was started in response to two major concerns expressed by radiologists, other national medical organizations and the public: (1) that qualified personnel perform and interpret mammograms and (2) that dedicated mammographic equipment be used to ensure that women receive optimum mammographic examinations with the lowest possible risk.

Fish Memorial Breast Clinic is the only ACR accredited facility in West Volusia County and the outlying area.

Widowed Persons Service set meetings

CASSELBERRY — Widowed Persons Service, a program of AARP, holds weekly support meetings in the greater Orlando area for both widows and widowers. Many widowed persons have found the group and related activities an important source of guidance, emotional support and fellowship. Beginning in October, afternoon support groups will meet as follows:

On the second and fourth Wednesdays of each month from 1:30-3 p.m. at the Caselberry Senior Center, 300 W. Triplett Lake Drive, (17-92 south to Lake Triplett Drive, then left at the light for about 1 mile).

For further information, please call the office at 648-9209.

Leonard attends educational sessions

LAKE MARY — Dana Rae Leonard, chiropractic assistant to Dr. Thomas F. Yandell, D.C. of Lake Mary Boulevard Chiropractic Clinic, attended educational sessions at the Annual Convention of the Florida Chiropractic Association at the Peabody Hotel in Orlando on August 25-26. More than 3,500 doctors, spouses, chiropractic assistants, certified radiological technologists and guests attended the convention.

Twelve hours of chiropractic assistant education was offered, as well as a complete 12-hour certified radiologic technologists license renewal program.

Support group offers sense of control

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — "Cancer: Back in Control" offers people with cancer — and their family and friends — tools to maintain a sense of control over their disease and to make quality lifestyle choices. This six-session series begins Thursday, Sept. 20, at 6:30 p.m. in the Chabos Conference Center at Florida Hospital, 601 E. Altamonte Drive in Altamonte Springs.

Cancer: Back in Control is the second in Florida Hospital's cancer support series. It is a free community service of the Florida Hospital Cancer Center. For more information, or to register, call the Cancer Center at 897-1800.

SOON to hold screening

LONGWOOD — South Seminole Community Hospital in cooperation with Orlando Regional Medical Center will co-sponsoring a nationwide blood pressure and cholesterol screening called COUNTDOWN U.S.A. The screening will take place on Thursday, Sept. 13, from 9-7 p.m. at South Seminole Community Hospital in Hospital Classroom 108. The classroom is located at 551 W. State Road 434, Longwood on the hospital campus. The screening is free of charge. However, registration is by appointment only. Call 648-3606 to register.

Area professionals, who are volunteering their expertise and time, are available for presentations on a wide range of mental health and aging topics; such as... "Dispelling the Myths of Aging," "Dealing with Life's Losses," "Sexuality & Aging," and others.

Another resource being offered as part of the Older Adults Mental Health Educational Resource project is a self-esteem program entitled "Look Out For The Time of Your Life" and funded by a grant from The Orlando Sentinel Foundation, Inc.

The program, led by a volunteer, includes a short videotape, a self-test, and an assortment of handout materials. It is geared at inspiring older adults who need encouragement in feeling better about themselves and in living a more active lifestyle. The video

ESTABLISHED

New officers for American Cancer Society

New officers fight cancer

Postal worker wins big

Tom Lewis Jr., an employee of the Mid-Florida Mail Processing Center in Lake Mary, popped the winning Pepsi Cola can to win $80,000 from the soft drink company.

His co-workers gathered for a special presentation, complete with cake and Pepsi, outside the mail facility.

Brent Franko, from Pepsi presented the check to Lewis, who said he will use the money to buy a new van for his family. He also said he will continue to drink a lot of Pepsi.

Mother rescues needy

SANFORD — At 67, Mother Blanche Bell Weaver, who operates the Rescue Outreach Mission, Rescue Church of God and the Rescue Day Care Center, still races up and down the roads of Sanford helping anyone who needs her.

She parks her van just long enough to speak about her past, her plans and her dream for the future.

As an 8-year-old in Georgia, Mother began to realize her dream was to help the needy. She fed and cared for neighborhood children so that "everybody can just be happy." This extraordinary woman has come a long way since then.

With the energy of someone half her age, Mother provides a temporary home for many HRS children. She began caring for needy children 20 years ago when licensing didn't exist.

"I used to go out off to the street kids and pull them in," Mother recalls.

In spite of her many activities and achievements, this shy woman never planned on entering the spotlight with her charitable work.

"I'm more of a ditchdigger type of person," she admits, saying she would rather do the job than be seen.

After robbery, shootout, Lake Mary man builds God's house in Guatemala

By LARRY BOWEN
Herald People Editor

LAKE MARY — Frank Liberatore must have looked like a Central Florida Santa Claus to Guatemalan children. The formidable, bearded bear of a man with the impenetrable grin stuffed the pockets of his cutoff jeans and his suitcase with colorful trinkets, books and clothing for the children.

His most precious gift of all: the donation of his time and expertise toward the building of a church.

Liberatore, who lives in Lake Mary, and five other parishioners from Calvary Assembly in Winter Park, Frank Sims, Tim and Phil Hancock, Ron Kelly and A.B. Sargent, all from Orlando, each paid almost $1,000 a piece to plan fare, expenses and tools for the whirlwind trip during which they almost landed in jail the first night and almost became embroiled in a shootout the second.

Landing in Guatemala City according to Liberatore was better than landing in Belize, where on his first trip to Central America "they pointed guns at us and cut our luggage apart."

The group left the airport to begin a 7-hour trek into the jungle, after which they were scheduled to meet Calvary Assembly's Guatemalan missionary, Peter Ferrant, whose congregation would be worshipping in the new church. Ferrant's son, Jethro, 16, traveled with the Calvary group as an interpreter and guide.

They were stopped at the border by Guatemalan military who asked that one of their policemen be given a ride.

"We were leery," Liberatore admitted. "You don't stop and give just anybody a ride in the jungle."

The policeman was dropped at his destination and the group drove on into the night. They were stopped again by the ever-present military.

"They all had guns. They told Jethro (who interpreted) that we were going to prison," Liberatore remembered. "Some of us prayed. I just kept watching the guys with the guns."

Strengthened by faith and a sense of humor, Liberatore said he grinned and spoke to one of the Guatemalan policemen, who was pointing a rifle at his head.

"I said I could kick 'em in the side of the head except they had real guns," he recalled. "They didn't understand a word of English!"

Liberatore said the people in the area are very poor. He suggested Jethro ask the police if the group had broken a law and incurred a fine which could be paid on the spot.

After negotiations, Jethro told the group they would have to pay the equivalent of $15.

"We smiled a lot and said thank you in Spanish. I looked one of 'em right in the eye and said 'listen jert, I hope you enjoy your vacation with the money you just stole from us! I said it in English, of course,'" Liberatore said.

The Americans journeyed to Guatemala City.

And time to talk about it.

Magician shares tricks of trade in benefit performances

By JOHN KANE
Herald correspondent

SANFORD — It's magic when live doves appear out of flowers and a hanky dances through the air.

The illusionist is Bear Sereno of Sanford, a retired construction worker, who has performed magic as a hobby for 30 years.

Sereno's wife, Joy, has found it interesting to live with swords, doves, and magic flowers.

Joy says, "It was magic, magic, magic all the time as he rehearsed one illusion after another. When I saw the good that it did, then it was easy with me."

What Joy saw Sereno do is hundreds of benefit performances, from coast to coast, for crippled children, muscular dystrophy and multiple sclerosis patients.

Sereno's stage name is El Santo the Magician and he holds membership in several magician's societies such as the Society of American Magicians, the Florida Association of Magician Entertainers and I.M.M., an international organization for magicians.

When El Santo appears on stage he is prepared to make magic for three hours.

"However," he says, "now I prefer a half hour or an hour show. It's more concise and less tiring."

Sereno is billed as the Sanford Brazilian Magician because he does a huge, suspended, white blanket with a Brazilian cape. He is assisted by a lovely young woman in a large hat. El Santo deftly sticks swords through her head. When he retrieves the swords, her head is unscathed.

While demonstrating his thimble, he swiftly lifts a sword and in a moment swallows it.

Joy chimes in, "No Bear, we don't do that sword trick anymore."

"The magician prods his wife to allow him to perform his coup de grace and says, 'I'll only swallow it half way.'"

Sereno and his wife have been married for 16 years. Both have been married previously. While Joy is American born, Sereno comes from Rio de Janeiro where he was an Olympic Gold Medalist in sailing (competitive boating preceded by sail). From 1964 to 1968 he was even gold medalist when served his Brazilian championship in sailing.

Sereno also started his hobby in magic while living in Brazil.

He and Joy have lived in Sanford since 1983 and plan to remain here.

El Santo plans to continue entertaining with magic and would like to perform at birthday parties locally. He is still available for the benefit of children as he was in Port Lauderdale where he helped raise $400,000 between 1979 and 1983 for the Muscular Dystrophy Association. He has received letters of thanks from several organizations that have benefited from his magic acts over the years. The magician can be reached at 331-6023.

Sereno and Joy share in their feelings at seeing the smiles in their children.

"We cry like babies at the sight until we see them laugh and enjoy magic, and that is magic," he says.

ENGAGEMENT

Cynthia Patricia Gaskell

Gaskell-Preston

DELAND — Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Gaskell of Deland, formerly of Longwood, announce the engagement of their daughter, Cynthia Patricia, to David Michael Preston, M.D., son of Mrs. Lavinia Preston, Buena Vista, Georgia.

Born in Cleveland, Ohio, the bride-elect is a 1984 graduate of Lyman High School, Longwood. She graduated in 1986 from the University of Central Florida, Orlando and is presently employed as an elementary schoolteacher of physical education and health in San Antonio, Texas.

Her fiancé, born in Columbus, Georgia, is a 1982 graduate of Americus High School and graduated in 1986 from Georgia Southwestern College, Americus, Georgia. He is a 1990 graduate of Emory University School of Medicine in Atlanta, Georgia, and is currently employed as a medical intern at the Brooke Army Medical Center, San Antonio, Texas.

The wedding will be an event of December 29, 1990, 3 p.m., at All Saints Episcopal Church, Atlanta, Georgia.

Organizations back in swing

Organizations are back in the swing of things after a summer recess and, from the looks of all the plans, watch out, Sanford.

The Woman's Club of Sanford Inc. will usher in the fall season with a membership coffee to be held at the Park Avenue home of Mrs. Ralph A. (Charlotte) Smith Sept. 23.

According to Mary Tilla, coffee chairman and the club's second vice president, a "very festive event" is being planned. Over 300 invitations have been mailed including one to Charlotte A. Ninow of St. Cloud, Florida Federation of Women's Clubs' District VII Director, and Lisa Robertson, president of the Junior Woman's Club of Sanford Inc. and all the junior club members.

Mrs. Smith, past club president and past president of the FFWC, and Marty Colegrove, newly installed president, will greet the guests at the door, along with other past club presidents.

The coffee, sponsored by the club's Board of Managers, will be held from 10 a.m. to noon. Members are asked to bring a guest if they like. Also, those not planning to attend are asked to please phone their regrets to 322-0234 or 323-0651.

Pilots help elderly

The Sanford Pilot Club officers participated in an officers' training workshop at Daytona Beach, according to Elizabeth "Beth" Weibob, recently installed president.

Beth says the club has big plans for the next year. Members will continue their projects for the elderly, including a safety program and a monthly birthday party at the Good Samaritan Home. Also, the newsletter will be reinstated and a literacy program under the direction of Harriett Little will begin.

Members will lead the Golden Age Games Pancake Race and will inaugurate a memorial tree, donated by Tom Verdi, in downtown Sanford.

Beth says announcements will be made of the events the club plans to sponsor this year. She attended the Pilot International Convention during the summer at Nashville, Tenn.

'Don't bag it'

Fran Morton, president of the Garden Club of Sanford Inc., is all gung-ho over the club's exciting forthcoming season.

One of the projects the club will undertake this year is "Don't Bag It," a program dealing with letting grass clippings remain on the lawn. Manuals will soon be available so that lawn caregivers can learn about the simple and successful procedure.

Presently, the garden club has a paper bin on the premises, Fairmont Drive and U.S. 17-92, where residents may drive in and leave their used papers.

The club will also help light up Sanford by selling electric candles for the St. Lucia Festival. Fran says the club hopes to have lights in every window at the Sail Pointe Condominiums on Lake Monroe.

An Antique Fair is scheduled at the clubhouse Nov. 8, 9 and 10, followed by the Christmas Bazaar Nov. 30 and Dec. 1. The club plans the annual luncheon for charity and the annual card party.

One of the highlights of the season, Fran says, is the annual flower show in April.

SISTER to help youth

SISTER Inc. (Sanford's Inter-ested Sarahs to Encourage Re-juvenation) has a full-year planned with details to be announced at the next board meeting. Emy Bill, president of SISTER, says the group will continue the annual Christmas parties for the Children's Village. The club provides underwear, pajamas and toys for the children there.

Also, the only fundraiser will be held in conjunction with the St. Johns River Art Festival next spring.

Emy will resume her post as chairman of the Golden Age Games Bridge Tournament sponsored by the Woman's Club of Sanford Inc. Now in its 16th year, Emy has been chairman for 14 years.

Marketplace set

Members of St. Peter's Episcopal Church have been busy since last Oct. 6 at the church on Rinehart Road in Lake Mary.

According to Barbara Chapman, publicist for the event, Sally Green, chairman, and the multi-talented members have made unusual and lovely items to be sold at the early fall sale.

Sally and her co-chairman, Betty Dedman, have chosen a southwest theme, so in addition to Christmas gifts and decorations, they have crafted southwest decorative objects to sell.

Barbara said that traditionally, the baked goods sell out early, so this year's Chairman Teresa Apple plans even a bigger sale to be held in one of the Sunday school rooms.

Alice and Jim Grant already have acquired some unusual plants for a plant sale.

The luncheon, under the direction of Sara and Dean Byers, will carry out the southwest motif. Dean, a former restaurateur, plans to serve fresh taco salad, beverage and desert, from noon to 2 p.m. Luncheon tickets, at $5 each, are available from the Byers or any St. Peter's member.

Ada O'Neil is busy selling tickets, too. But Ada is selling tickets for a drawing for a gorgeous, predominantly blue and white quilt, handmade by award-winning Emma Fredrick, a member of St. Peter's, the Quilter's Guild and Embroideries Guild. The tickets are $1 each or six for $5. The drawing will be held just prior to the closing of Marketplace at 3 p.m. Winner need not be present to win. Tickets are available through church members or at the Marketplace.

Spaghetti, anyone?

It's that time of year for the Sanford Lions Club's Annual Spaghetti Dinner and Bingo to be held at the Sanford Civic Center Sept. 29, from 4 to 8 p.m. According to Gloria Chang, publicist, patrons may eat all they desire for $4. Proceeds will benefit the Lions Sight Program.

Advance tickets are available from any Lions Club member, or through Rudy Sloan, 323-8960 (work) or 322-4785 (home). Also, tickets are available at the door.

Community Calendar

Scheduling a community event can sometimes be hectic. What else is going on at that time?

Well, weep no more. The Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce is compiling a community calendar for 1991 community, civic, business and social events. Local groups and organizations are invited to list their events on this calendar during the week of Sept. 10-14.

A chamber spokesman said, "At the end of the week we should have an unofficial calendar of events for the Sanford area in 1991."

Talent nurtured, encouraged through festival scholarships

Members of the Scholarship Committee for the Lake Mary Heathrow Festival of the Arts took time out of their busy schedules Thursday to honor area students who received $18,000 in scholarship money generated by last year's gala event.

Committee members include Larry Lucas, Bonnie Manjura, Connie Prebenda, DeLores Lash, Jennifer Kelly, Terry Scharr, and JoAnn Lucas.

Larry served as host for the breakfast, charming students, committee members and guests alike with his early morning wit.

Bonnie commented that the "festival is about a lot of education and commitment. We're supporting a quality of life in our community and recognizing the tremendous talent in Central Florida."

Bonnie said the October 6th and 7th event is a festival of the arts instead of an art festival because "we showcase beautiful art and the performing arts. It's a little of everything."

Terry said the number of artists this year has increased from 120 to 278.

"It's a big festival and a quality festival," she added.

Connie promised that the poster selected this year would please both male and female art-lovers.

"It's abstract with splashes of color. That's all I can tell you," she teased.

Jennifer, schoolteacher turned county commissioner, congratulated the award winners. She said she has a special affinity for the arts because she taught music for several years.

"You never know where life

Lucy Dornen and Lacey Longwood will lead you," she said.

DeLores excitedly listed a handful of the talent scheduled to perform at the festival, which includes musical selections for every taste and varied dance groups. She encouraged the scholarship winners in their pursuit of creative careers.

"You haven't been discovered yet, but you will be in the future," she said.

Winners who were presented with certificates and will receive checks next week were: Susan Thompson, Maria Rosario, Emily Wright, Carrie Colling, Rebecca Lewis, and Ella DeLany.

Come to tea

The Longwood Civic League Woman's Club will hold its first meeting of the season Tuesday, September 11, 1 p.m. in the clubhouse, 150 West Church Ave.

President Eida Nichols said the meeting is a "Membership Tea." She would like to remind all members to bring friends interested in becoming members of the club. "The public is also invited and most welcome," she said.

Receiving guests will be newly elected officers: President Eida Nichols, First Vice President

Jane Lormann, Second Vice President Lynette Dennis, Recording Secretary Marion White, Corresponding Secretary Eula Scott, Treasurer Louise Buffaloe and Parliamentarian Blanche Kiseane.

Refreshments will be prepared and served by hostesses Eida Nichols and June McCall.

The clubhouse, over 100 years old, is a great asset to Historic Longwood. It houses the Maxine McGrath Memorial Library, a privately owned public library, established and maintained by the Longwood Civic League Woman's Club since 1912.

For more information call Hazel Mason at 630-8299 or Marion White 339-8639.

Toastmasters honored

Outgoing District Governor for Toastmasters International, Rosella Bonham, who lives in Lake Mary, recently accepted the prestigious Distinguished District Award for the area she presided over, District 47.

Rosella, who is also a Distinguished Toastmaster, said only 33 districts in the world have received the district award. Rosella governed 4,500 members in Florida and the Bahamas.

She said that the extensive traveling she has had to do was made easier by her husband Tom, who did the driving.

"We jokingly awarded him the Official District Chauffeur of the Year," she said.

There are over 7,800 clubs worldwide, with 170,000 members from as far away as Moscow and Saudi Arabia.

operate in Sanford-Lake Mary, Seminole Community College, Daybreakers, and Omni.

Planner plans his future

Guests who got married! Lake Mary City Planner Matt West eloped last week with Sanford's Diana Foster.

City Clerk Carol Edwards originally introduced the pair. Matt said Carol told Diana to go out with him and have a good time, but not to get involved.

"The best laid plans..." a chuckling Matt said. "Actually I paid Carol to tell Diana she couldn't have married a nicer person."

Diana is the daughter of Bill and Betty Jack of Sanford.

After a wedding trip to Sanibel Island, it was back to business.

"I'm spending my one week anniversary at the city commission meeting," Matt confided.

Congratulations to the happy couple.

Peach family gathers to honor Mabel at 93

Special to the Herald

SANFORD — Mabel Miles Peach was honored on her 93rd birthday at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Irene and Harvey Smith on Onora Lake.

Eighteen family members gathered for the three-day reunion and celebration.

Fred Peach from Peabody, Mass. was the only child absent. He will visit later this year.

Family members gathered from Mass., Indianapolis, Jacksonville and DelRay Beach.

Present were six children, four grandchildren and four great-grandchildren plus daughter-in-law Norma Martin Smith; sons-in-law Frank Meyerhoff and Harvey Smith.

Swimming, walking, boating and barbecuing provided most of the entertainment plus hilarious childhood recollections.

Marion and Frank Meyerhoff treated the gang to a New England feast at "Bostons" in Winter Park.

Also enjoyed were New England codfish cakes, Boston baked beans, steaks, smoked salmon and chicken, hot dogs and hamburgers.

Harvey, a gracious southern host, forfeited his cornbread and black-eye peas for the occasion.

Harvey was stationed at the Naval Air Station three years as legal officer and public information officer as well as heading the "Sanfly", a base publication.

Young career criminals deserve public scrutiny

DEAR ABBY: I am still steamed about something that happened in our city a few months ago. A 16-year-old boy stole a car, and while the police were chasing him, he ploved into another vehicle, killing three innocent people. This "child" was going 80 miles an hour, after midnight!

His name was not released because, evidently, there's some kind of law that prevents newspapers from publishing the names of juveniles who commit such crimes. Why they deserve to be protected is beyond me.

It later came out that this 13-year-old "child" had a record of eight felony charges, including three auto theft complaints in the last two years!

Abby, you have more clout than all the senators and representatives put together, so please print this and demand some reforms.

OUTRAGED IN TULSA

DEAR OUTRAGED: I, too, am outraged. I agree, a person with this kind of record should not be protected by a cloak of privacy. Perhaps the law should provide privacy for a juvenile's first offense. But after that, "children" who are big enough to commit adult crimes should be made to face the music, publicly...the same as adults.

DEAR ABBY: I have worked in an office for the last 14 years, and a great deal of time has been spent answering phones and taking messages.

My biggest complaint is this: When people call and ask to talk to the boss, and I tell them that he's on the phone or tied up in a meeting, they always ask, "Do you know when he'll be free?" When I say, "I'm not sure; may I take a message?" I am invariably asked, "How long do you think he'll be?"

Abby, how do I know? It can be anywhere from 30 seconds to three hours — or longer.

Please inform your readers never to ask that stupid question. "How long do you think he will be?"

NO MIND READER IN MASSACHUSETTS

DEAR NO MIND READER: You unwittingly provided this excellent answer to that "stupid" question: "It can be anywhere from 30 seconds to three hours — or longer."

DEAR ABBY: The letter about the woman who left her dentures in the lingerie department of a store in Hoquiam, Wash., reminded me of the following incident:

Many years ago, I attended a dental convention in Las Vegas. It was around midnight, and I was doing a little light gambling

Evangelist comes home to help

Joyce Collins Shaw started her evangelistic ministries in Titusville in 1966.

She returned to Rochester, N.Y. in 1969 and continued working with Pastor Sarah Waters. Faith Deliverance of Jesus Christ, and served faithfully for 17 years. During the services with her, she received the PAW (Pentecostal Assembly of the World) license, serving as a national evangelist.

After the death of her mother-in-law, Smithy Shaw, she returned home knowing that she would have to start a church.

She served in Orlando, Titusville and Sanford seeking, not knowing where the Lord wanted her to begin the ministry. July 3, 1987, she moved from Orlando to Sanford and returned to her former church, Westside Freewill Holiness Church, and worshipped there. While working part-time at the Good Samaritan Home, she received much spiritual counseling and prayers from Thema Mike, Minnie Thomas and others.

In her own words: "One year ago this month, September, the Lord spoke and said to me to stop procrastinating and begin His work. This I obeyed, and started having Thursday prayer service on Thursday at my home. Later, Sunday School was added and now evening services, which will continue. Anyone is welcome to these services. If you need counseling or prayer, you may call us at anytime."

"The Lord has promised a restoration for my husband, Gilbert Shaw, to the ministry. Then, we as a family will continue to serve Sanford and the community in Christian worship."

Evangelist Shaw may be contacted at 322-0792. She serves those who need prayer, counseling and renewed faith in the Master.

Community documented

The Southeast Center for PhotoGraphic Studies presents the Sanford Documentary Project, a photography exhibit of the black community of Sanford. This is life in the black community where people survive through many disadvantages. This documentary depicts the conditions in the neighborhoods where there is a need for the commissioners, leaders of the community, to take action where drugs, low-esteem residents, poor housing and unemployment for many prevail. This photography exhibit shows the black community from infancy to old-agers, making the best of conditions around them. This exhibit can be seen Sept. 1-29 at the North Branch Library at 150 North Palmetto Ave. This exhibit is open to the public and is shown FREE in the Library's Meeting Room.

Happy birthday to all

Happy Birthday to Lotavah Hall, Victor Maurice Nathan, Natharine Bentley, Catherine Hawkins and Betty Black Smith, Rozland H. Tillman.

Women's day today

Allen Chapel AME Church will observe their annual Women's Day Service today at 11 a.m. The guest speaker will be Mrs.

Enabling friend to drink too much prolongs problem

DEAR MARY: One of my friends at work has been having a lot of personal problems lately, but I think she also has a problem with drinking.

I want to stand by her through the hard times, but she's asking me to lie to the boss about where she is when she's been drinking and can't come to work. I also have to cover some of her job when she's too hung-over to keep up.

So far, I've done what she's asked me to do, then I feel guilty and resentful. But I'm afraid she'll get fired if I don't do it.

What can I do to help her stop getting into these situations?

TRUE FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: You didn't cause your friend's drinking problem; you can't control it, and you can't make her stop.

What you can do is let the consequences of her actions impact her in such a way that she chooses to get help. Well-intentioned family and friends often try to cover for the problem drinker hoping that they will come to their senses, but that's not the way it works. By enabling her, you are actually prolonging the problem and delaying the time when she realizes she needs help.

If you decide to stop enabling your friend's alcohol problem, you will no longer continue to lie or cover up for her, or offer any assistance to hide her alcohol problem. Don't attempt to counsel her on her drinking problem. She'll get help when she's ready; don't violate her trust or confidence unless it's absolutely necessary to protect life or property.

It takes great strength and courage to stop enabling a friend or loved-one. It will be your greatest gift to her.

By Frances Edna Goss YOUR BIRTHDAY Sept. 8, 1990

Knowledge you've acquired the hard way over the past few years could pay handsome dividends in the year ahead. You will find ways to profitably use what you've learned.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Assessing situations realistically today will not be your problem. If you have any complications it will probably be due to the fact you'll act against your better judgment. Virgo, treat yourself to a birthday gift. For your personal horoscope, love-astrology, lucky numbers and future forecast, call Astro-Tone by dialing 1-800-454-3535 and entering this newspaper's access code number 000; 95 cents per minute.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) You're reasonably shrewd in business today, but you might not be quite as sharp as your commercial adversary. Too much self-assurance might cause you to become indifferent or careless.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) People to whom you make commitments today will take your promises seriously, so be sure your intentions parallel theirs. Reneging later could create ill-will.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Your possibilities for fulfilling your ambitious objectives look very encouraging today, but you must believe in your talents and what you're doing if you hope to succeed. Be bold.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You might meet someone socially in this cycle who is not everything as represented. This individual is very charismatic and you must be careful not to be taken in.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Focus your efforts and energies today on meaningful matters that are within closing range instead of spending time on things that are not yet fully developed.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Certain morals and principles by which you abide might not be equally as popular with your companions today. Don't sacrifice your standards to appease them.

ANNIE (March 31-April 19) In order to receive everything to which you are entitled today you will have to stand up for your rights. If you have honored your commitment, make sure others honor theirs.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) In arrangements today where team work is essential, be sure you're allied with people who can do their share. Non-productives could ruin the operation.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) People with whom you'll be involved today will be as protective of their self-interests as lightful side benefits today. On the other hand, business alliances may be shaky.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You will probably finish that which you start out to do today. You have the tenacity to see endeavors through to a conclusion that will both please and honor you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Companions will find your company very desirable today, because you appreciate the lighter side of life and know exactly what to do or say to take others' minds off of their problems.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Something you have not been able to finish to your satisfaction looks like it can be concluded at this time. It might be well if you waited, because conditions are now more favorable.

ANNIE (March 31-April 19) Developments you won't deliberately seek that have elements of chance should be taking in your favor today. Flow with events if you sense you're on a winning streak.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your probabilities for accumulating some type of financial or material gains today look rather hopeful, especially if you're involved in something potentially profitable initiated by a friend.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Leadership, initiative and sound judgment are your most dominant attributes today. You have a happy faculty for knowing how to make good things better.

CANCER (June 21-July 21) Things will be stirring behind the scenes today of which you may not be aware. When they do surface, however, they could contribute to your material well being.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 22) Dealings you have today with large corporations or groups should work out to your satisfaction. If you have something worthy to promote, try to make your presentation now.

Note the strategy of non-vulnerable East in today's deal. After his partner had opened in third position with a pre-emptive three clubs, East knew that the opponents would have a certain game and quite possibly a slam. So he made a seemingly outrageous raise to four clubs. That put some question marks after South's four-suited bid. Was South stretching to bid game, or did he have sound values? It didn't really matter to North, who held the world's fair anyway. He quickly asked for ace and then bid a grand slam. In the play, declarer won with dummy's king of clubs and drew three rounds of trumps, seeing that West had started with only two. Then he played A-K of diamonds, everyone following. Next came ace of clubs and a club ruff. Declarer's intent had been to next play K-A of hearts and cash his last spade. If East held five hearts and also guarded diamonds, he would not be the spade. But declarer changed his plan after cashing the K-A of hearts, since someone seemed did the job. West had shown up with only two spades, he had failed to follow to the second round of hearts, and he was known to have started with six clubs when East failed to follow to the third round of clubs, which was ruffed in dummy. Since West held specifically nine cards in all suits other than diamonds, he must have started with four to the jack in that hand suit. So declarer took the marked chance against West's diamond jack to make all 13 tricks.

Liberatore

"We were happy as speckled pups to get out of that one," Liberatore said.

When they reached the village, Liberatore said it had been the recent scene of a violent robbery. Gunfire was exchanged.

"We took one of the villagers, who had been shot in the head and neck, to a hospital that looked like an open fruit stand at a flea market. It's very primitive over there," Liberatore explained.

At daybreak, the Americans trekked back to the village, the site of the church to be built.

"We decided to do it as quickly as possible," Liberatore said.

Liberatore said the Guatemalan people were warm and friendly. They took turns guarding their American friends during nights thick with heat and danger from robbers.

"There were no banks with temperature signs on them, but it was hotter than Florida," Liberatore jokingly said. "Our clothes were wet the whole time. And the villagers mood guard around our tents at night because of the shootings."

Liberatore described a lush country whose black sand beaches are bombarded by huge ocean waves. Crops dot volcanic mountainsides, which jut from crystal blue lakes. Vegetation is lush. The people are charmed by the simplest of things.

"We taught them how to open cans of food and they were taken with the cans themselves. We cut lengths of masonry string for them, which they were excited about," Liberatore said.

Liberatore, who is a roofing contractor, helped build the church in two days. It is just as beautiful as the most extravagant church in America to the missionary and congregation who will worship in it.

"We could see the love and excitement in their eyes. I did it for the people. We don't know what nothing is. These people have nothing. I've been very fortunate in my life and I wanted to give them a little something," Liberatore said.

Despite gun-wielding military men, robbers, soaked clothing and primitive conditions, Liberatore is going back a third time. Perhaps, like Santa Claus, at Christmas.

King returns with more chillers

Four Past Midnight
By Stephen King
(Vintage, 750 pp., $22.95)

In a library of Stephen King collections, this latest four-story offering would hold a second place spot behind the well-read "Different Seasons," but better make that a close second.

King's latest collection is almost the opposite of "Different Seasons," published in 1983, in that it contains three classic King tales of visual horror and one of mental horror ("Secret Window, Secret Garden"). That ratio was reversed in his earlier work, which had three mainstream stories and one chiller.

King explains that in his introduction by confiding to the reader that this latest collection was written at a time when his mind was motivated by more sinister thoughts.

As in almost all of his earlier work, King tackles that dark side of ordinary life by peering into the shadowed corners. Here there are airplane trips with unknown destinations, authors who are their own worst critics, libraries where the head librarian really is a devil to be dealt with, and cameras which take pictures that are a little too realistic to be healthy.

Undoubtedly each reader will have his favorite tale, but King fans and newcomers to his work won't be disappointed by any of the four stories, which all contain evidence of King's uncanny ability to touch on the irrational fears in all of us.

Regardless of whether it's read past midnight or noon, this book is a must read for horror fans.

Mother

talk about it.

This hardworking, yet humble attitude started a dream which has touched many lives in this community. The dream began when Mother decided to trust the Lord to provide the money needed for the mission. The result of her faith is the Rescue Church of God, Rescue Daycare Center and Rescue Outreach Mission.

As her ministry grew, the shelter moved to its present location leaving the old mission at 2300 Airport Blvd. vacant.

True to her giving spirit, Pastor Weaver began plans to use the building as a shelter for the many homeless women and their children so that they could start rebuilding their lives. The shelter will enable them to go to work while leaving the children in the care of a babysitter.

Opening of the center has been delayed as Mother works on bringing the building up to the Seminole County building and fire codes.

Assistant Seminole County Fire Marshal Ray Pippin says all it will take is money.

"Zoning is fine. I approved her plans but improvements to the building will be at considerable expense to her," he says.

The building lacks illuminated exit signs, fire walls, smoke detectors and alarms among other things mandated by the state.

"We're just enforcing the state codes for that kind of facility," Pippin says.

While Mother saves money needed to complete her project, homeless women and their children will temporarily stay in the present Rescue Outreach Mission, but are often unable to work because there is no place for their children.

This mission does provide many things such as food, clothing, and counseling for those in need. Food donations from area grocery stores and bread from Pepperidge Farm provide basic staples for these people. Workers at the mission sort clothes for those who come in without them. Many people enter the mission not only needing food and clothes but counseling and direction. This is provided on a one-to-one basis by ministers in the church or during group chapel services.

The shelter's goal is to provide a spirit of caring.

"I want it to be where people are more than just a number," Mother says.

At 67, does she intend to slow down?

"No," Mother says. "But then I wouldn't be out here workin' if I didn't love them."

Mother has more work to do. Like a spark from a firecracker, she is off again, racing down the road to brighten someone else's life.
