

Those Unlawful Traffic Fines

----- 1,000 Seminole Drivers Due $33,000 In Refunds

By JANE CASSELBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

About 1,000 motorists who paid traffic fine surcharge in Seminole County since the controversial system went into effect July 1 may be in for a refund.

That was the word today from Clerk of Courts Arthur Beckwith Jr. in the wake of a Florida Supreme Court ruling declaring the surcharge unconstitutional. In its 7-0 ruling the court struck down the core of this year's lawmaking effort to hold down rising auto-insurance costs by declaring the fines and Good Driver Incentive Fund unconstitutional. Fines paid into the fund were to be rebated to ticketless drivers.

The court did not immediately explain its action and it reserved judgement on the rest of the controversial law, which passed the legislature in the closing minutes of this year's annual session.

The justices also did not say if their ruling would be retroactive. It said it would issue later a written opinion on the decision.

Beckwith estimated today a total of $33,000 will be reimbursed in this county.

Although the unanimous ruling found the collection of the $30 surcharge on moving violations and the $250 surcharge for drunk-driving convictions unconstitutional, it was business as usual in the county traffic court this morning.

Beckwith said there has not yet been any official directive from Tallahassee as to what to collect and what to refund, although one may come today.

"We're going to collect the full amount until we're directed otherwise," Beckwith said. "We can't act on what appears in the news media, no matter how well founded."

The State Supreme Court also found unconstitutional the Good Driver Incentive Fund in which the surcharges were deposited to be paid out later as a reward for safe driving. The fund was the core of this year's effort by the legislature to hold down rising auto insurance costs.

Beckwith said the procedure for computing the reimbursements is already being set up in his office, but it will probably be the last of next week before the list can be completed. Checks in the amount of the surcharges will be mailed to all those eligible for the refund and Beckwith asked that they not come to the office for the money.

Beckwith said the court's ruling did not apply to the basic traffic fine imposed, but only the surcharges, and would not affect the judgement of the court in finding the defendant guilty as charged.

Judges in 25 counties had already declared the law unconstitutional, and that may have had an effect, if only psychological.

Sanford And Police: Face-To-Face Talks

By BOB LLOYD
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford city officials are opening lines of communications with policemen in the face of a continuing legal battle by a union seeking to represent officers.

City Manager Warren E. Knowles told officers following a state Public Employees Relations Commission (PERC) hearing Wednesday that city officials and city labor lawyer David Kornreich are scheduled to meet with policemen Friday afternoon at police headquarters.

Knowles and Kornreich said they'll recommend to city commissioners Monday that police be given a 6.4 percent pay raise effective Oct. 1 and that "real grievances by the men be resolved as soon as possible."

Kornreich said he feels the city is on "legally solid ground" in opening communications with policemen, despite the continuing effort of the Orange County Police Benevolent Association Inc. (OCPBA) to gain recognition as bargaining agent for police in contract negotiations.

"To do otherwise would be detrimental to the morale of the police department," Kornreich said. "It's not fair for the men to get caught in the middle of this."

In June a majority of policemen voted to join OCPBA and have the union bargain for the officers. The city refused to voluntarily recognize the union. Mayor Lee P. Moore told officers that the city "is going to have its rights and the police officers will have theirs."

Moore said an election on unionization wouldn't be held "until every job is tested and every little is titillated."

Then, on the advice of Kornreich, city commissioners said the 6.4 percent pay increase to be given other city employees Oct. 1 would be withheld from policemen because if it was given the city could be charged with unfair labor practices.

On Aug. 13 policemen voted 28-9 to withdraw the unionization effort.

OCPBA contends the vote was invalid and Wednesday refused to withdraw the petition for an official vote by policemen on union representation and recognition. The union Wednesday also filed an unfair labor practice charge alleging the city coerced policemen into the Aug. 13 vote.

The day after the vote, city commissioners agreed to give the policemen the 6.4 percent raise that had been withheld. But then on Aug. 29 Knowles recommended against the raise because OCPBA was continuing union efforts.

Five officers were allowed to testify in Wednesday's hearing before PERC hearing officer Richard Donelan about the Aug. 15 vote — but only after Donelan conferred by telephone with PERC officials in Tallahassee. The officers' testimony will be included as an addendum to the hearing transcript.

Donelan's recommendation of whether Sanford officers should be allowed to vote on OCPBA's attempt to represent them in labor negotiations will be made to PERC within 10 days. The union and city then will have approximately one month to file briefs in the case.

PERC could order an election by police on two bargaining units sought by OCPBA — patrolmen and non-sworn personnel — or could dismiss the union petition based on the officers' Aug. 15 vote. The PERC ruling can be appealed in the courts. Officials said litigation in the issue could take up to two years.

OCPBA president Stephen A. Micicche said today that the union, which represents more than 400 Orlando policemen, is prepared financially to continue the Sanford effort.

"We won't turn our backs on the nine or 10 officers who still want bargaining representation. I think we would take the same position in any other city," Micicche said.

The labor leader warned that if Sanford doesn't give policemen the 6.4 percent wage increase effective Oct. 1 the OCPBA "will fight for it legally every way we can."

Meanwhile, Knowles and Kornreich have asked policemen to delay taking their grievances to the city commission in a public meeting. Mayor Moore said the city commission committed itself to publicly hearing the grievances.

Trio Ponders Mosquito Problem

Federal Aid Sought To Battle Bugs

By MARK WEINBERG
Herald Staff Writer

There is no known solution to the blind mosquito problem on the Sanford lakefront, and a comprehensive, basic research program is needed to find the answer, three local officials agreed Wednesday.

The officials — Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce President Tom Hunt, anti-mosquito task force director John Krider and Seminole County Administrator Roger Neiswender — agreed Sanford's program of spraying for mosquitoes on the lakefront and in town should be continued until the pesky midges are eradicated.

Officials of the University of Florida's Gainesville campus will be here next Thursday to discuss the problem with chamber officials. Krider, who arranged the meeting, said he hopes the university officials will help design a basic research program.

A federal grant to help finance the research will probably be necessary, Krider, Neiswender and Hunt agreed. "There's federal money available for everything else. There must be some federal funding available in some agency for a pilot program to eliminate the blind mosquitoes," Krider suggested.

Neiswender said the county commissioners are also interested in finding a solution to the blind mosquito problem, but hadn't been able to come up with one last year. "The commissioners will want to see a viable solution and what it would cost. But until a solution is found, it's premature to talk about funding," the county administrator said.

"I know they'd listen," Neiswender continued. "We've got an investment with the courthouse here, and we're investing further in the downtown area with the Rounhill building, which will house the county's manpower program and other county offices."

"There's no reason to approach the county until we have a good, workable solution," Krider said.

"Last year people wanted us to do more spraying — outside the areas Sanford was spraying. But we checked it out, and we determined the mosquitoes weren't doing an end-run around the city-sprayed areas," Neiswender said. "We didn't find a way to handle the problem that would be effective in terms of the dollars spent."

Neiswender also investigated the possibility of dropping larvae into Lake Monroe to kill mosquito eggs, but the larvae alone would have cost over $12,000, and a plane to drop the larvae would cost $154 an hour.

"Besides, you'd have to drop the larvae into the lake twice a year for several years, and there would be no guarantee it would kill off the mosquitoes for good," said the county administrator.

Another complicating factor is that the mosquitoes rise from all over the lake — not just at the lakefront, Neiswender said. The officials agreed there would never be large-scale development on the lakefront until the mosquitoes are eliminated.

But the officials were optimistic about finding a solution that would make Sanford the first community anywhere to eliminate the midges for good.

Fingerprint Nails Bombing Suspect

NEW YORK (AP)—The FBI says a fingerprint on a phony job application led to charges that the wife of a suspected Puerto Rican terrorist planted a bomb that killed one person last month.
FBI Special Agent Edward Foley said Wednesday a warrant had been issued for Marie Haydee Beltran Torres, 22, wife of suspected FALN leader Carlos Alberto Torres, 25.
The FALN claimed responsibility for the Aug. 3 bombing of an office for Mobil Oil Co. building that killed Charles Steinert, 26.
Also that day, a bomb exploded in offices of the U.S. Defense Department, but no one was injured. FALN claimed responsibility for that blast also.
Officials said the Mobil bomb was in a woman's purse when it exploded, killing Steinert and injuring eight persons.

Board Recommends Hearing On Heathrow

By MARK WEINBERG
Herald Staff Writer
A Wednesday night vote by the Seminole County Planning and Zoning Commission set the stage for public hearings on the question of whether the planned unit development (P.U.D.) zoning of the 1,268 acre Heathrow area near Lake Mary should be changed to agricultural.
The zoning board voted 6-1 to recommend that the Seminole County Commission change the zoning from P.U.D., which would permit development of a residential community with an eventual population of 12,500 to 15,000 to agricultural, which would allow one dwelling per acre. The area was zoned agricultural before it was granted P.U.D. Zoning in 1972.
Heathrow, located west of Interstate 4 and north of Lake Mary Boulevard, is the subject of a legal dispute between the county and Lake Mary. The city annexed the area in July, and the county went to court to block the annexation.
Judge Dominic J. Saffi of the 18th Circuit Court has delayed the effective date of the annexation until the annexation litigation is resolved.
The motion to recommend the P.U.D. zoning be changed back to agricultural was made by zoning board member George Deschambeau and seconded by Gloria Ward. Voting in favor were Mrs. Ward, Deschambeau, Samuel Bowman, Gary Nelson, Ronald Holtman and Ned Johnson. The only vote to recommend continuation of P.U.D. zoning was cast by Harry Beckham.
The zoning board's recommendation will not become final until the board conducts a public hearing on the issue Oct. 5 at the courthouse at 7:30 p.m. "Any change in zoning would require a public hearing," said John Dwyer, county land development coordinator.
"We would not like to go to a public hearing," said Sanford lawyer Joe Davis, who represents Heathrow's owners. The principal owner is Minnesota businessman Jeno Paulucci.
After the zoning board hearing, the board will either reaffirm its Wednesday night decision or vote to recommend continuing PUD zoning for Heathrow.
In either case, the matter will be decided by the county commission following a commission public hearing. Dwyer will present a status report on the zoning board's action to the county commission at its meeting next Tuesday.
The county commission last month referred the question of Heathrow's zoning to the zoning board when Davis requested that the commission extend the deadline for the start of construction of Heathrow for two years. The deadline had expired late last month before the commission could act on Davis' request for an extension.
Citing low-density residential development in areas near Heathrow since 1972, Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff said residents of the area could be severely affected by the increased population of a fully-developed Heathrow.
"He noted the county commission had granted two construction deadlines to Heathrow without referring the matter to the zoning board, and "the planning and zoning commission should take a look at the situation after five years and make a recommendation."
When Davis appeared before the county commission last month to request construction deadline extension, he said "it would be equitable to grant the extension until the litigation (over an annexation) can be resolved. There's been a cloud placed over the development of this property."
Davis repeated the argument before the zoning board Wednesday night. Though Heathrow received P.U.D. zoning in 1972, procedural delays prevented the zoning from becoming final until August, 1974, the lawyer pointed out.
Shortly thereafter, Davis said, the bottom dropped out of the local economy as part of a nationwide recession. "It shut off overnight. One day you had a thriving local economy. The next day, everything stopped, and this project did not develop," Davis said.
Davis told the zoning board Heathrow's owners had no immediate development plans because of the annexation litigation between the county and Lake Mary.
"If we had put in a few roads, we probably wouldn't be here today," said Davis. He was referring to the Greenwood Lakes PUD, approved about the same time as Heathrow. Greenwood is owned by Florida Land Co., a subsidiary of Florida Gas Corp. It is located southeast of the intersection of Interstate 4 and Lake Mary Boulevard.
Though subdivisions have been built in Greenwood, the developers built streets and a sewage treatment plant.
According to county regulations, rezoning from the PUD classification will not be reconsidered if there has been "substantial construction" in the area. Greenwood apparently meets this criterion, but Heathrow, where no construction has taken place, does not.
In voting to recommend changing Heathrow's PUD zoning back to agricultural, the zoning board followed the recommendation of the Department of County Development Land Development Coordinator Dwyer said the trend in the area around Heathrow since 1972 is that "land is going back to agricultural (zoning) from residential, or the zoning board has recommended denial of higher density development."
The zoning board has ruled on six cases in the Heathrow area since 1972. In three cases, the zoning board recommended changing residential zoning back to agricultural and in two cases denied requests to change zoning to permit higher residential density.
In a 1973 case, the zoning board recommended rezoning from agricultural to residential and the county commission concurred. The area — Hanover Woods — has not been developed.
"We don't feel Heathrow and its gross residential density of 3.4 units per acre is consistent with development patterns in the area," said Dwyer. "It should revert to agricultural."
Staff members who made the recommendation were: Dwyer; Bill Kercher, county planner; Woody Underwood, principal planner; Herb Hardin, land development administrator; and John Percy, director of county development.

Parents, Klan Join To Fight School Busing

TAMPA (AP)—With an assist from the Ku Klux Klan, a parents group has gone to court to try blocking a judge's order that busing be used to desegregate schools in Polk County.
Thirty-four petitions were filed in federal court Wednesday in what Klan leaders called the first step of a nationwide campaign to bring busing before the U.S. Supreme Court for a definitive ruling.
John Paul Rogers, Florida grand dragon of the United Klans of America, said the central question in busing is whether the children are in federal custody while on the bus.

Jimmy's Cousin Liz

By B. J. CUTLER

Politicians seem to be one thing before an election and another after, and President Carter is no exception.

During the campaign, Jimmy Carter came across as a populist, a man of the people, a folksy peanut farmer from Plains, Ga. Now it turns out he is descended from a family that produced America's first millionaire and is related both to George Washington and the Queen of England.

The news comes from Debreit's Parage, an old London firm that rooks around in noble family trees and publishes sort of a stud book of the British aristocracy.

After eight months of study, Debreit's genealogist traced Carter back to a family of wheelwrights and hatters (carters) in 1811 in Kings Langley, Hertfordshire, about 20 miles north of London.

Next Debreit's traced the President to John Carter, a well-known London wine merchant, whose son Thomas and John sailed to America on the ship Safety in 1820.

John Carter fathered Robert "King" Carter, a millionaire landowner who was influential in colonial America. Thomas, who did less well, had plantations in eastern Virginia, and was the president's direct ancestor.

Debreit's says Jimmy Carter's royal connections came from the fact that the Carter family was related to the Tokes and Newces families in Hertfordshire, which were related to George Washington. Queen Elizabeth I is known to be related to the Washingtons on both sides.

Just what effect the discovery of his blue blood will have on Carter is not known. It could rush to his head and cause him to try to revise the modest and imperial presidency.

Or he could remain as is, inviting the Queen of England to come visit "all and introduce her around as Cousin Liz. That would blow her around with American family trees.

Good of Bert Lance and his Office of Management and Budget. OMBers, it turns out, not only keep a wary eye on federal spending, but they also brood about the welfare of consumers of whiskey, beer and wine.

So the OMB fired off a letter to two other government agencies telling them to get together soon on a requirement that all the ingredients of alcoholic beverages be listed on their labels.

1 Freed, 1 Held, 1 Pleads Guilty In Robbery

The 'Film Producer' And Go-Go Dancer

By BOB LLOYD
Herald Staff Writer

A circuit court jury Sanford has acquitted a 22-year-old Michigan man accused of conspiracy, aggravated assault and robbery of a Texas worm salesman who told a Club Juana dancer that he was a movie producer.

The six-member jury took 40 minutes at the end of the two-day trial before Circuit Judge Robert B. McGregor to return verdicts of acquittal Wednesday for Gary Chester Refkofsky, of Bay City.

Refkofsky and Scott William Souder, 20, and his wife, Lisa Davis Souder, 19, both of Mallard, were charged in the June 23 robbery near Longwood of Robert Rush, of Richardson, Tex.

Souder earlier pleaded guilty to robbery and is in jail awaiting sentencing. He could get a maximum 15-year prison term. His wife, free on bond, 'I'm sitting with a man with $900' could get up to five years in prison for her guilty plea to grand larceny in the case. The Souders were state witnesses against Refkofsky.

Defense attorney Leon B. Cheek successfully argued to the jury that the Souders conspired to "conveniently implicate" his client in the robbery, but that Refkofsky had just "innocently" given Mrs. Souder a ride back to the robbery scene after Rush was held up by two men when Mrs. Souder parked Rush's car near the Rolling Hills golf course after leaving Club Juana.

Cheek argued that the only testimony "worthy of belief" was that of Rush. Refkofsky didn't take the witness stand.

The Souders were married two days after they said Refkofsky gave them $450 from the robbery and they went to California. The Souders were jailed after their car broke down in Pensacola on the return trip and they turned themselves in to authorities and implicated Refkofsky in the holdup.

Mrs. Souder, a thin brunette, testified that she'd danced on Rush's table at the Club Juana. She said she saw Refkofsky take the money from the robbery and she drove on the wrong side of the road and had asked her to drive his car.

Souder told the jury "she (Lisa) came to me in the club and asked if I wanted to rob Rush for $900. I said I'd go back to the house and ask Refkofsky if he wanted to do it with me."

Souder said he and Refkofsky went to the club and then with a gun, approached from a clump of bushes and demanded his money.

Mrs. Souder said Rush had been drinking and was driving on the wrong side of the road and had asked her to drive his car.

Souder told the jury "she (Lisa) came to me in the club and asked if I wanted to rob Rush for $900. I said I'd go back to the house and ask Refkofsky if he wanted to do it with me."

Souder said he and Refkofsky went to the club and then followed in another car as Lisa and Rush drove to a pre-arranged spot at the golf course. "She knew where to go," Souder testified. "My wife and I had discussed it."

There was testimony that

Refkofsky has tattoos on both forearms, but Rush didn't mention seeing such markings.

Assistant State Atty. Alan Robinson argued to the jury that Refkofsky "has lost lots of weight and has shaved off his full beard."

"I said the girl goes with us," Souder testified, "to try to make it look like a kidnap."

When Mrs. Souder later returned to the robbery scene in a van with Refkofsky and another dancer, she told police that the couple had picked her up in a drugstore parking lot at Altamonte Springs where she'd been released by the robbers.

At the Refkofsky trial, Mrs. Souder claimed they had returned to the scene after the money was divided at a house in Caselberry.

Rush testified that one of the robbers had a beard, wore a short-sleeve shirt and had a pot belly.

There was testimony that

Canadian Pipeline

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Carter and Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau announced today agreement on construction of a $1.6 billion pipeline across the Canadian Trench to carry natural gas from Alaska to the lower 48.

"This joint undertaking will be the largest single private energy project in history," they said in a joint statement issued by the White House.

Carter and Trudeau said "major benefits will accrue to both countries" from the pipeline. They said it will give Canada greater ability to develop its own gas reserves and provide the American market with a secure source of natural gas.

Relic To Rest In Museum

Clifford and Lillian Corden are returning cornet to its birthplace, Elkhart, Ind.

100-Year-Old Cornet Blows Final Note

By DORIS DIETRICH
Herald Writer

Lillian and Clifford Corden of Lake Mary are fun-loving senior citizens with many missions, they say. The couple departed this week to their hometown, Elkhart, Ind.

Mission: to enshrine a horn in a mansion.

And the horn they blow is far from ordinary—it is a 100-year-old cornet the couple is contributing to the Ruthmere, a museum converted from the Albert R. Beardsley Mansion at Elkhart.

Only 24 horns of this type were manufactured at the Elkhart plant from a German patent. Designed with three keys as opposed to today's one-key instruments, the horn features delicate free-hand engraving.

The century-old cornet worked its way into Corden's hands at the death of his father in 1941. The elder Corden purchased the cornet while a teenager to play in a band.

And for 20 years Clifford worked in the factory where the horn was designed and manufactured.

Why are the Corden relinquishing the antique instrument? Lillian said they did not want anything to happen to the cornet and decided to return it to its birthplace for the future enjoyment of the public.

The couple is looking forward to their mission to the mansion and visiting longtime friends and relatives. Lillian attended high school with the current museum president and heir, Walter Beardsley.

Neither bats an eye about divulging their ages. Clifford is a 77-year-old retired merchant. And 72-year-old Lillian's business is beauty.

Holiday Tree Still Up Awaiting Dad's Return

DEAR ABBY: A reader wrote in asking what you thought of people who still had their Christmas tree up in May. He suggested that perhaps the men in the white coats carrying butterfly nets should be called, "I'm glad you didn't join in and ridicule the people whose tree was still up because ours has been up longer than theirs."

My husband disappeared on December 22nd, 1975, and no one has heard of him since. He helped me put up our Christmas tree on the 20th of December, and our kids (now 6, 9 and 10) keep begging me not to take the tree down "until Daddy comes home."

It's still up. My hopes are fading, but you know how kids are—they never give up. God bless them.

ALL CRIED OUT

DEAR CRIED: If prayers will help, be assured you have mine.

DEAR ABBY: Seeing that you answer everything from A to Z, I was wondering if you'd stop at "D" for dogs.

I have a problem with mine. He's an 8-month-old shepherd—a terrific dog, but I can't seem to housebreak him.

He is not dumb, but I can't seem to get the idea across to him that he has to wait until someone jets him out.

Abby, I have read dog books and followed every suggestion in the book, from rubbing his nose in the mess to spanking him within an inch of his life, but nothing has worked for me.

I hope you'll print this because there must be a way to housebreak a dog that works, even though it's not in a book.

DESPAIRING

DEAR DESPAIRING: My canine consultant suggests that you establish a "routine" by walking your dog at set times of the day. If he does what he's supposed to do where he's supposed to do it, reward him with a treat. And if he messes in the house, scold him in a harsh tone and "show" him why you are displeased. He'll catch on.

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for trying to educate the public concerning the handicapped.

My wife and I are both deaf and mute (blind, not "deaf and dumb") and we use sign language to communicate with each other.

The reaction of some uninformed people we encounter in places of business would astonish you.

I'd like to repeat a very old, but true story to make my point. One afternoon two fine Boston gentlemen were hanging onto the straps of a trolley. Below them were seated two deaf-mutes, conversing in sign language.

One of the straphangers whispered to his friend, "I'm curious about something." "I've heard you didn't join in and ridicule the people whose tree was still up because ours has been up longer than theirs."

DEAR AXEL: Beautiful!

Yearbook Staff Reaches For More Annual Awards

By MARYLIN SHEDDAN
Herald Writer

When is a high school yearbook not a yearbook? When it includes so much information that it becomes a valuable record of what happened locally, nationally and internationally during the year it represents.

Such is the yearbook from Seminole High School, class of '77. The "Salmagundi," or "Sally" as it is traditionally called, picked up a great many awards from national yearbook organizations last year because its staff chose to make it a record of what went on outside the school as well as in.

Last year's editor, Ester Edelberg, tells how that decision was made. "We chose as a theme 'Things are looking up,'" says Ester, "and we tried to use that theme throughout the book."

She points to a display of photographs of happy moments, pictures of people with their heads to the sky - and of arrows, lines, even colors chosen to elaborate on the theme.

"We wanted to provide a multimedia yearbook," she says, and points out with pride the record slipcases in the back cover of "Sally."

On that record are pep rallies, classes, and scenes from throughout the school, recorded through the day as students go about their business, says Ester.

"That issue of the yearbook received numerous awards," says English teacher John Cullum Jr. Cullum is not only yearbook adviser for the "Sally" but a judge of yearbooks for other schools around the country.

"The Sally won an All-American Award from the National Scholastic Press Association," explains Cullum, "and a brief blue ribbon passes between last year's editor Ester Edelberg and the upcoming editor, first judge Eve. Last name, Edelberg. Relationship? Sisters."

"I had nothing to do with her becoming editor," says Ester. "Please be certain people understand that."

Cullum backs her up, adding that Eve had worked hard from the beginning, regardless of her sister's title. "I just got Eve finally settles a quiet but authoritative word."

"If anything, I had to work harder," she says, "so that the other members of last year's yearbook staff would not think I was being favored because the editor was my sister."

Eve's experience as a staff member last year has given her some awareness of what will be required to "top" that last edition of the Sally," she says.

Cullum, whose upcoming edition of the yearbook will be his eighth, admits that he, too, still has something to learn about "exactly how we'll top the last edition."

"Every year we wonder how it can get better," says Ester. "Every year people ask how we can possibly be better?"

"But every year, somehow, it always is," says Cullum.

The Edelberg sisters and Cullum have not waited for the opening of school to begin their work toward this year's Sally.

While other SSS students were trading about in the sand at the beach, sending off the end of summer, Eve and Ester were meeting with Cullum, considering seriously the theme for this year's Sally.

"That theme will be kept a secret, but we'll increase the size of the yearbook into the hands of SSS students."

"Although they 'have a theme pretty much in mind' neither the Edelbergs nor Cullum are talking. But they are talking about other new plans for Sally."

"We are expanding it this year from 368 pages to 512," says Cullum. "We will increase the size of the yearbook into the hands of SSS students."

The three have obviously agreed on one thing: the theme of the yearbook may be a secret, but the summer sold to students for barely half its cost (and the rest of its cost subsidized through paid advertising) will once again be achieving its award.

MRS. ROBERT C. BENGE

Couple Weds In Garden Nuptials

Deborah Lee Hofmann and Robert Cameron Bengue were married Aug. 14, at 10 a.m. in a garden setting on the shores of Lake Branley at the Longwood home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Dale Hofmann.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mrs. Gladys L. Hofmann, a Sanford resident since shortly after the turn of the century.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Bengue of Wichita Falls, Texas.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a dotted Swiss gown with lace trimming the round neckline, and short sleeves. A wide ruffle terminated in a chapel train.

She wore a matching hat adorned with daisies and white streamers. She carried a white Bible, a gift from the bridegroom, overlaid with white daisies.

Nina Lynn Hofmann attended her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Holly Dale Hofmann, sister of the bride, and Mara-Lee Feist.

Their gowns were fashioned from yellow daisy flocked nylon net over yellow tulle. Each carried white daisies in a white wicker basket and wore daisies in her hair.

Steve Welch served the bridegroom as best man. Ron Wolf was the usher and David Hale, the groomsmen. Greeters were Susan Bengue, sister of the bridegroom, and Ann Wolf, cousin of the bride.

The bride's parents entertained at a home garden reception following the ceremony.

The newweds are making their home at Pell City, Ala. The bridegroom teaches physical education and religion at Birmingham Junior Academy.

Area Engagement

Hardin-Wall

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon B. Hardin of Sanford, announce the engagement of their daughter, Vicki Lynn, to Douglas Ray Wall of Deland.

"Every year we wonder how it can get better," says Ester. "Every year people ask how we can possibly be better?"

"But every year, somehow, it always is," says Cullum.

An Impotent 63-Year-Old

By Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB - What has happened to a man who in the nine years I have been his wife has been sexually vigorous and is suddenly impotent? His age may be important, but from what I have read, it is not necessarily so. He is 63. We are happily retired, but he keeps physically active as I do. He weighs more than he did at 20, a trim 135 pounds on a 5 foot 7 frame. He does smoke - one to two packs a day. He does not drink.

I am trying to avoid accepting the possibility that I have done or said something to "turn him off," and I don't know whether to open the subject for discussion which might hurt him.

When we were discussing his proclivity for catching colds and the fact that I rarely get one, he rather testily pointed out to me, "don't forget, I'm ten years older than you."

Can you suggest anything to help or to help me adjust to a lack of something very precious to me?

DEAR READER - The most obvious fact is that the two of you have a communication problem. A husband and wife should be able to talk freely to each other about the important things in their personal life, or affectively both. If you were able to communicate effectively your husband might not have much difficulty either.

If your husband does have an impotence problem that doesn't correct itself, he should regard it as a symptom and have an examination. If you have other marriage problems you may profit from seeing a marriage counselor.

Your personal relationship to each other is important. A couple having difficulties in their marriage is also likely to have difficulties in the bedroom. If this applies to you it might be a good idea to try to improve the personal relations in the marriage besides just sex.

Loving attention outside the bedroom may result in receiving loving attention in the bedroom.

If your husband does have an impotence problem that doesn't correct itself, he should regard it as a symptom and have an examination. If you have other marriage problems you may profit from seeing a marriage counselor.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Friday, September 9, 1977
YOUR BIRTHDAY Sept. 9, 1977
Don't get up on things in which you've invested your time, talent and money. These will pay off this coming year, not flash-in-the-pan-type activities.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Friends' could be important if you take it the granted. Under no conditions speak for a pal without his or her consent. Like to find out more of what lies ahead of you? Send for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter, bymailing 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 688, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10101. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Look toward the future optimistically, but also be realistic. Before you embark on any new projects, be sure you assess all the probabilities.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Show only your best side to the public today. Any out-of-character actions could damage the image you want to project.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Save yourself some embarrassment for the future. Don't pretend to know something that you really don't. A challenge could make you look very foolish.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be careful who you assign to handle your business affairs today. Put the wrong person in the driver's seat and you'll end up with egg on your face.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Both you and your mate are more edgy than you realize today. Some inconsequential word or action could cause a spontaneous flare-up.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) "Sally First" is always a sound rule. This is particularly important to you if using new or unfamiliar equipment.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't spring any sudden changes that disrupt family routines today. You'll get everybody rattled with your disregard for their feelings.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) You are not noted for making snap judgments, but you may do so in your own detriment today. Stick to your familiar pattern of moving cautiously.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Take no financial risks today. Don't buy anything that is more novel than utilitarian. Your yardstick should be predicated on a practical scale.

Cancer (June 21-July 21) A misunderstanding could arise between you and a friend today over something silly. Quash it before a foolish barrier is erected.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 22) Your timing could be off today regarding when and how to close a deal. You can rectify this by being aware that "when" is just as important as "how."

in his happiness about all else, he may want to talk about it. He may be afraid of failure because he is getting older. It may be as simple as convincing him that he need not be successful every time any more and that the closeness and love is the important thing to share. He is still young enough to be sexually active. More than half of American men older than 75 are it. It follows that many by that age are not and often this is because of associated disease, particularly disease of the arteries that affects all parts of the body in addition to causing heart attacks or strokes.

I am sending you the Health Letter number 32. Impotence, to give you a better idea of what affects men. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10101.

This hand from "Bridge is Beautiful" shows how responder handles a good hand with weak three-card support for partner's opening bid. He starts with a two-bid response. Maybe the hand belongs in notrump or in a minor suit. Then when South rebids to two hearts, North steps exploration and goes on to the heart game.

West opens the 10 of trumps and South ducks the first trump bid to keep control of the suit. East leads a second

Okay, guys! Huddle up...the play is simple. The Evening Herald does the blocking and tackling, all you have to do is take the ball and run for daylight. A new football season is here, and for the most extensive local coverage in the South, simply follow the sports pages of The Evening Herald, Sports Editor Jim Haynes is your offensive coordinator. He has devised a gameplan which will cover all aspects of football — ranging from the youth leagues up through high school, college and pros.

What we offer Seminole County readers is unavailable elsewhere — detailed stories and photographs of every local football game all-season long.

POP WARNER
One wonders what did Pop Warner himself would think about some 1,100 youngsters, 9-14, roaming the football fields of Seminole County, working diligently during the week for Saturday's kickoff in the Seminole YMCA League. With sportsmanship a prime criteria, he probably would be just as pleased as the parents of those youngsters involved: And, if Pop were still around, he would read the highlights of all the games in The Evening Herald. That's one of the broad-and-butter plays The Evening Herald will rely on in its efforts to give readers news and photographs on all the games — big and little.

POP WARNER
The answers to these and other questions are yet to be unraveled. However, as the situations unfold, be abreast of the possibilities as The Evening Herald's team of piskin experts roam the sidelines, search the locker rooms and keep an ear to the ground in daily reports which go so much farther than who won the game and scored the touchdowns. That's in our game plan, too.

POP WARNER
Haynes Hunches — A weekly prediction column followed avidly by Central Florida readers the last decade. Major Hoopie — Ego! The old boy never gives up. That's what makes his fearless forecasts so interesting. Piskin Prophet — Associated Press ticks the major college and pro games each week. Will Grimsley — Veteran wire service columnist gives his personal insights into the big games. Murray Olderman — His question-and-answer column is well-read nationally.

POP WARNER
Pulling guard Andy Girardi makes the rounds of all the schools, as well as keeps direct contact with Pop Warner League coaches.

Fullback George Shriver is a good buddy who takes a channel 19 break to search the midweek stories as well as "what happened" on game night. Cornerback Lee Geiger puts no punches when he cover a game. He calls 'em like he sees 'em. And when his Geiger Counter clicks, our readers benefit.

Wideout Dennis Festa puts his ear to the turf and typewriter (to the test as our Friday night special assignments man. Branchwarmer Dan Rutledge complements our offense as one of the best specialty team members in the game.

BILL WADE

Lance: Wrong, Right, Ethical... ?

Local banking officials today expressed mixed reactions to the accusations against Bert Lance, director of the Office of Management and Budget, and claimed the overdrafts are both "ordinary and inadvertent."

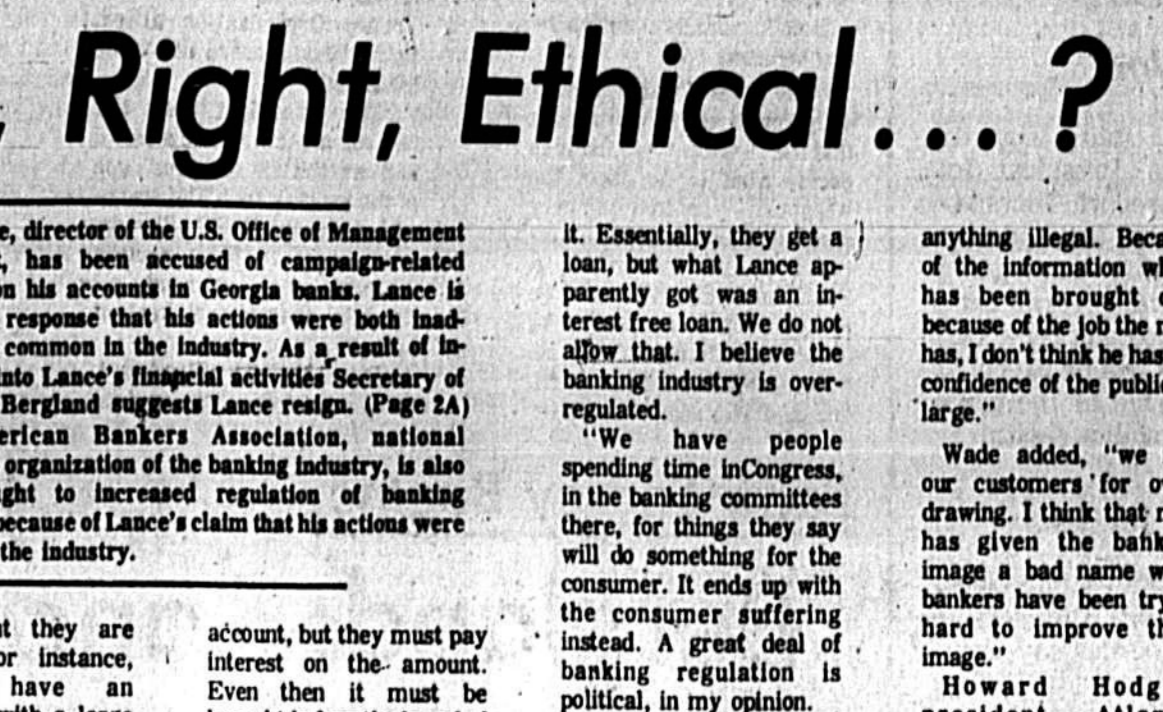

One local banker suggested Lance should already have resigned. Another agrees he should resign, while a third declined to comment on the resignation question. A local savings and loan official felt the resignation was inevitable because of the continuing investigation into Lance's financial activities.

"His handling of the situation should not be commensurate with the continuing investigation into Lance's financial activities," said Bill Wade, senior vice president, Flagship Bank of Sanford.

Wade continued: "If an officer or director did that here he would be out quick. We do have people who will be overdraw, but they are contacted. For instance, we may have an arrangement with a large business where they are allowed to overdraw their account, but they must pay interest on the amount. Even then it must be brought before the board of directors and approved by the board before we allow anything illegal. Because of the information which has been brought out, because of the job the man has, I don't think he has the confidence of the public at large."

Wade added, "We call our customers for overdrawing. I think that man has given the banking image a bad name when bankers have been trying hard to improve their image."

Howard Hodges, president, Atlantic National Bank of Sanford, said Wade, "regardless of whether or not he has done

HOWARD HODGES

Bert Lance, director of the U.S. Office of Management and Budget, has been accused of campaign-related overdrafts on his accounts in Georgia banks. Lance is claiming in response that his actions were both inadvertent and common in the industry. As a result of investigation into Lance's financial activities Secretary of Agriculture Bergland suggests Lance resign. (Page 2A)

The American Bankers Association, national professional organization of the banking industry, is also giving thought to increased regulation of banking procedures because of Lance's claim that his actions were ordinary in the industry.

overdraw, but they are contacted. For instance, we may have an arrangement with a large business where they are allowed to overdraw their account, but they must pay interest on the amount. Even then it must be brought before the board of directors and approved by the board before we allow anything illegal. Because of the information which has been brought out, because of the job the man has, I don't think he has the confidence of the public at large."

Wade added, "We call our customers for overdrawing. I think that man has given the banking image a bad name when bankers have been trying hard to improve their image."

Howard Hodges, president, Atlantic National Bank of Sanford, said Wade, "regardless of whether or not he has done

Mosquito Experts: Future Hopes Dim
Sanford may be in for some bad news next week when entomology experts from the University of Florida at Gainesville confer with officials of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce on ways to solve the blind mosquito problem.

The experts say there is no known way of eliminating the midges, which are blown into downtown Sanford by the millions each year, and there are no known sources of federal grant money to finance a five to 10-year basic research program to find a way to get rid of the midges.

"I know of no federal program to do research on them," said Dr. Donald Hall, a mosquito expert at the University's Department of Entomology. Department chairman Fowden Maxwell and other members of the department will meet with chamber officials next Thursday.

"We have no research base at this time to deal with the problem," said Dr. Maxwell, "but there are some things that can be explored if we can find the resources to do it."

The entomology department works with the Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences (IFAS), a consortium of university and government officials, which handles agricultural research in Florida.

"Even if money were available from the federal government, there are no answers to the problem of blind mosquitoes at this time," said Dr. Hall. "To find an answer we'd need a long-term

Football's IN THE AIR
Football is certainly in the air, what with six high school games featuring Seminole County teams dotted the schedule. Oviedo pass-catch combination Randy Isner (12) and Gerry Meta get in the spirit of things prior to tonight's Leesburg at Oviedo game. Seminole, Lake Howell and Lake Brantley are home tonight while Lyman is on the road and Trinity Prep opens Saturday afternoon at home. For more details and photo coverage, see Page 5-A.

Liddy: He'd Do It Again
WASHINGTON (AP) — The years in prison softened Gordon Liddy's voice, shrunk his physique, made him less cocky and overbearing. But they didn't change his view of Watergate. If his president asked, he'd do it again.

"When the prince approaches his lieutenant, the proper response of the lieutenant to the prince is 'flat voluntas tua,'" Liddy said Thursday. The Latin phrase means: "This will be done."

Liddy, the Watergate planner, a lieutenant? "Yes. I would not rank myself as a captain."

It was Liddy's first day home and he devoted hours to interviews. He wanted to talk about the two federal sentences where he spent most of his 92 months imprisonment, not Watergate.

"But G. Gordon Liddy knows more about Watergate and has said less about it than anyone else, so the questions came:

Q. Can you tell us why you went into the Watergate? A. I can, but I won't.

Q. Can you tell us what you were looking for? A. I could, but I will not.

Q. Why won't you? A. I choose not to.

For choosing not to, Liddy got the stiffest prison sentences of any Watergate figure: 6-90 years, plus an extra 18 months for refusing to testify before a grand jury. Only President Carter's intervention and the parole board's approval got him out of prison now.

"I don't wish to appear to be quibbling in these refusals to discuss Watergate and so I will say this," he said,

Park: They Won't Let Him Go
WASHINGTON (AP) — A New York congressman says he may try again in his effort to cut U.S. aid to South Korea to force Seoul into returning indicted rice dealer Tongsun Park to the United States.

Rep. Bruce Caputo, R-N.Y., whose amendment to reduce food aid to Seoul was defeated 205-181 Thursday, said he may reintroduce it if Park is not returned to face charges for fraud and questioning by congressional investigators.

The House vote came several hours after a top South Korean official said his government could not force Park to return to the United States to face bribery charges arising from an alleged scheme to buy influence in Congress.

Caputo's amendment would have cut American food aid overseas by $10 million, stipulating that Congress wanted the deletion to be made in the aid earmarked for Seoul. South Korea receives about that amount in commodity assistance from the United States.

"He argued for the cut in Food for Peace aid because 'through this program Tongsun Park perpetrated his frauds against this Congress.'"

"Park is accused in the 38-count indictment handed down last week with using commissions from sales of Korean rice in attempts to buy influence for the Korean government, with several congressmen."

The House also defeated a second amendment that would have halted all American assistance, including military aid, to South Korea.

The vote on that amendment, by Rep. Andrew Jacobs, D-Ind., was 268-120.
