Parents Say They'll Sue If Teacher Not Removed

By Rick Brunson
Herald Staff Writer

Two Sanford parents who, along with other parents, accused a Pine Crest Elementary School teacher of child abuse Wednesday, say they may sue the Seminole County School Board if no action is taken to remove the man.

Missy Jemery, of 1214 Randolph St., Sanford, said she told school board officials in a closed meeting Wednesday that a special education teacher at the school grabbed her son, Michael Cote, 9, by the throat, leaving marks on his neck.

She also said he was lifted from the floor by his head.

Miss Jemery said she removed her son from the class last week because of the alleged abuse and the lack of progress he was making in his studies.

Two other parents and a grandmother attended the meeting with Miss Jemery to express their concern and to tell of abuse to their children who were or still are in the class.

The school board has turned the question of abuse over to the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services, Miss Jemery said. They also told her they would contact her in three weeks after investigating the claim that her son was receiving an inadequate education in the class.

HRS officials said it was against the law for them to comment on a child abuse investigation.

Dr. Hortense Evans, administrative assistant to the school superintendent, said before the meeting that the school board would not comment on the case.

Renewed attempts Thursday to reach Clay Carroll, the school's principal, and the teacher were unsuccessful.

Meanwhile, another parent told the Evening

Herald Thursday her 10-year-old son, also a student in the class, was "slapped" and thrown against a wall.

Jane Smith, of 1717 Park Ave., Sanford, said she didn't believe her son, Kevin, when he told her of being hit by his teacher because "he is a little 'Dennis the Menace'." But after receiving a note from the teacher apologizing for striking her son too hard, she took his claims more seriously, she said.

Mrs. Smith said she called Carroll Thursday and questioned him about the teacher's alleged

Hero's Welcome Balloonist Ready To Tackle Pacific

ORLANDO (UPI) — Trans-Atlantic balloonist Joe Kittinger came home to a rousing welcome that included a downtown parade and announced he is ready to tackle the Pacific.

"We're looking for a sponsor," said Kittinger, 56, who last week became the first person to fly solo across the Atlantic in a helium-filled balloon. "That would be a hell of a flight. We'd take off from Japan and fly across the Pacific and across Canada."

"That would be a heck of an adventure. As soon as I can find somebody with the dollars, I'll be ready to take off on that one."

Kittinger estimated the Pacific flight would cost $500,000.

Kittinger, an Orlando native, was welcomed home Thursday by several thousand cheering fans who braved a driving rainstorm created by tropical storm Isidore to gather for a parade and street party in downtown Orlando.

Thousands stood under umbrellas and awnings to cheer as Kittinger drove by in an antique yellow convertible.

"Never in my wildest dreams did I think there would be so many crazy folks who would come out in the rain," said Kittinger. "I'm honored to be here with you."

Kittinger, a retired Air Force colonel with numerous flying records, took off from Caribou, Maine, on Sept. 14 in the Rosie O'Grady Balloon of Peace. He crash-landed four days later in Savona, Italy.

In addition to becoming the first person to fly solo across the Atlantic in a balloon, he also set a distance record of 3,526 1/2 miles.

Asked how he compared his flight to the first solo airplane flight by Charles Lindbergh in 1927, Kittinger quipped, "Well, I'm a Lindbergh with a balloon."

"But I'm in a different category. There were good engineering reasons for Mr. Lindbergh's flight. Ours was strictly adventure. But I did sleep in Lindbergh's bed in France, which I'm very proud of."

Kittinger, who broke his foot on his rough landing in France, said his injury is healing and he should be flying again in about four weeks.

With confetti on his face, a smiling Joe Kittinger greets fans who turned out in the rain for a parade in his honor.

Man Electrocuted By Downed Line

A 21-year-old man was electrocuted Thursday in Oviedo when he touched a pickup truck that a powerline had fallen on.

Randi William Nichols, who according to an Oviedo police records clerk Maggie Metcalf, "lived in the Oviedo area," walked out of a house on Magnolia Avenue, Oviedo, attempted to open the door of the truck and was electrocuted at 6:43 p.m. Thursday.

"He apparently didn't know the line was down," Ms. Metcalf said.

Nichols had been visiting friends and was leaving their home when he was killed. His body was taken to Winter Park Memorial Hospital, Winter Park.

Oviedo police and firefighters were "in a meeting" this morning and were unavailable to give details on the incident. Ms. Metcalf said she did say that Nichols worked for a moving company.

Florida Power Corp. spokesman Tracy Smith said today that a tree limb had fallen on the powerline during a storm and had knocked it onto the bumper of Nichols' truck.

Lake Mary OKs Record Budget

The Lake Mary City Commission adopted its $1.4 million 1984-85 budget at its meeting Thursday. The budget was officially approved after its second public reading, as required by law, said City Manager Kathy Rice.

The commission also learned that its compromise water contract with Sanford was stalled by the Farmers Home Administration.

The budget, Lake Mary's largest ever, passed without objection from the commissioners or the audience. The only addition was a $422 salary increase for a water department employee.

The city also set property tax rates at $3.75 per $1,000 assessed property value for the coming fiscal year. Last year the rate was $4.10 per $1,000, but the city will take in more money this year because new building have been added to the tax rolls, Mrs. Rice said.

Next to water, the city will funnel the biggest bulk of its money into the police department. Commissioners want to buy a new patrol car along with weapons, holsters, bullet-proof vests and related equipment. Currently, officers have to buy their own guns and other equipment.

Beside the police department, other big-ticket items in the budget's general fund category include $146,345 for the public works department; $140,254 for city administration; and $93,520 for communications. The general fund total is $974,344.

The rest of the budget breaks down this way:

• Federal revenue sharing projects: $21,587.

• Water Department: $360,422.

• Sewer Department: $41,840.

Later in the meeting, City Attorney Robert Petree told the commissioners that the proposed water purchase agreement with the city of Sanford was killed by the Farmer's Home Administration because the organization said Lake Mary still had some unpaid loans. Despite efforts to do otherwise, Petree said the two cities will now end up in court over the water issue.

"We've done our best. We've offered everything we could; Sanford has been very cooperative up to this point," Petree said.

In other action, the board hired a policeman and two dispatchers. The commissioners also voted for a 4.4 percent salary increase for city employees effective Oct. 1.

In planning and zoning action, the board rejected the request from Johnny Walker for approval of a addition to an existing building on the corner of Lake Mary Boulevard and Middle Street.

Gary Massey, the attorney representing Johnny Walker, tried to persuade the commission to waive its demand for a fire hydrant on the property. He also argued unsuccessfully that additional parking spaces and the paving of Middle Street, items the board requested in order to approve the project, were not needed.

Mayor Walter Sorenson said the city

Storm Damage Minor Locally

Utility crews were still working today to restore power to customers after unpredictable tropical storm Isidore passed over Seminole County with winds gusting to 36 mph.

With word that the storm might be coming back across the state, R.V. Allen, Florida Power & Light customer service supervisor for the Sanford district, said there may be more problems yet to come.

Allen said some 2,000 customers suffered outages as the result of Isidore's sweep across the state's midsection Thursday night with the largest concentration of the outages in the Deltona area where between 500 and 700 customers were effected when a lateral line went out. He said there were numerous other scattered outages from one end of Sanford to the other including residences and businesses. Wires were down at 15 locations and one pole was blown down.

Florida Power Corporation, which serves the southern part of the county, reported isolated outages caused by downed power lines and falling limbs beginning Thursday afternoon. Repair crews worked through

Doonesbury's Back

After a 20-month hiatus, DOONESBURY returns in full color in the Evening Herald on Sunday. It will also appear as a daily black and white comic beginning Monday.

As a more mature Michael Doonesbury, Joanie Caucus, Zonker et al emerge, their maker, Garry Trudeau, has blossomed accordingly.

He has since transformed his Pulitzer Prize-winning comic strip into a Broadway musical and become the father of twins. Just what Trudeau thinks of all this hoopla surrounding his Second Coming, he'll never tell. He doesn't give interviews to the press.

"Garry thinks whatever he has to say is said in the strip," explains Lee Salem, editorial director of Universal Press Syndicate. DOONESBURY's distributors. "Anything else is private or personal and he doesn't want to get into that aspect of his life. It's a longstanding position of his."

On the flip side of Trudeau's reclusive nature, his wife, Jane Pauley, spends her days chatting to millions as co-anchor of NBC-TV's "Today" show. Their twins, a boy and a girl, were born in December.

"Garry does everything right," John McMeel, Universal president, says of the male-female

This limb which fell onto the bed of a Sanford Police Department truck was only one of many blown down by the high winds accompanying tropical storm Isidore as it passed through the area Thursday night. Downed power lines left one man dead and thousands of residents without electricity. City cleanup crews also had their hands full. The National Weather Service in Orlando reported Isidore dumped 1.94 inches of rain on Central Florida.

FBI Following 'Solid Leads' In Two Terrorist Bombings

NEW YORK (UPI) — The FBI says it has "solid leads" on the terrorists who bombed the South African consulate in Manhattan and a suburban chemical company in a campaign against South African apartheid.

"Terrorist investigations are slow, tedious long-term investigations," FBI spokesman Joseph Valiquette said Thursday. "We do have solid leads. It's a matter of speculation as to how long it will be before making arrests."

Valiquette declined to elaborate on what the leads were.

Wednesday's explosions, in which there were no injuries, were the latest in a series of at least 15 bombings against corporate and government targets since 1982. The FBI believes they may be the work of the same group.

There have been no serious injuries in any of the blasts, including one last autumn at the U.S. Capitol in Washington.

Gromyko Talks Tough About U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan, seeking "a new beginning" for U.S.-Soviet ties, is optimistic his meeting with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko today will help ease tension despite strong signals the Kremlin is not softening its stand.

Aides said Reagan was not put off by Gromyko's tough speech to the United Nations Thursday but is "watching and waiting" to see what develops during the scheduled two-hour talk at the White House — the first meeting of substance Reagan has held with a top Soviet official since being elected.

In his U.N. address Monday, Reagan urged a "new beginning" in the superpower relationship and called for a constructive dialogue to resume nuclear arms negotiations on a flexible basis.

Gromyko gave the White House reason not to expect much.

In his remarks to the U.N. General Assembly, Gromyko accused Washington of sponsoring state terrorism and seeking military superiority over the Soviet Union through a buildup in nuclear weapons.

Banker Can't Win For Losing

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Former Penn Square Bank official William Patterson wept with relief on his acquittal of fraud charges stemming from the Penn Square Bank collapse, but within hours learned he had been indicted on charges of conspiring to defraud a Chicago bank.

Patterson and two other men, John Lytle, a former vice president of Continental Bank, and Oklahoma oilman Jere Sturgis, were charged in a $585,000 kickback scheme involving $1 billion in loans between Penn Square and Continental Illinois National Bank, U.S. Attorney Dan Webb said Thursday in Chicago.

Graham To Appoint Panel To Study Malpractice Issue

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Gov. Bob Graham has joined the ranks of Amendment 9 opponents, saying the controversial proposal to limit damage awards in civil suits should be handled by law, not constitutional amendment.

Graham said he would appoint a medical malpractice commission to study the issue in the near future.

Amendment 9 arose out of the unsuccessful efforts by the Florida Medical Association to persuade the legislature to pass a law to hold down both the number and severity of medical malpractice suits.

It would cap losses for non-economic damages such as pain and suffering at $100,000 in all civil actions and would hold defendants financially liable only to the degree they were culpable in the accident.

Cuban Trips Draw FBI Interest

TAMPA (UPI) — A University of South Florida history professor who specializes in studying Cuba is concerned over a recent interrogation by an FBI agent who questioned him about a visit to the island nation in 1982.

Louis Perez said the agent questioned him a month ago. He was the second person at USF to be questioned about a trip to Cuba. The Rev. Ray DeHainaut, a Methodist minister and director of USF's University Chapel Fellowship, said he was questioned twice eight months ago about his trip to Cuba last year and about another trip to Nicaragua.

DeHainaut he told the agent at the second meeting not to come back.

Perez said he went to Cuba to do research, and DeHainaut, who is a contributing editor to The Churchman magazine, said he went as a journalist and led a delegation from the Methodist Foundation for Social Action making a visit to celebrate the 100th year of the church.

Boys Killed As Train Hits Bus

PORT ST. LUCIE (UPI) — A 33-car freight train slammed into a school bus stalled on a crossing and rammed it 65 feet up the tracks, killing two students, including the bus driver's son, authorities said today.

Police said two of the four children on the bus from the private Indian River Academy in Fort Pierce were able to escape from the front of the bus before the collision early Thursday with the Florida East Coast train.

Raimie's brother, Shawn, 15, and Kevin Hazelleff, 13, escaped. Raimie had went to the back of the bus to wake John, who was sleeping on the back seat, and they did not make it back to the front and off the bus in time, said Lt. William R. Driggers of the St. Lucie County Sheriff's Office.

Democrats Back Carter On CIA

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Top Democrats roared their disagreement with President Reagan's suggestion that Carter administration personnel cuts had weakened the CIA and led to the truck-bomb tragedy in Beirut, Lebanon.

Former President Jimmy Carter, who has maintained a low profile since leaving Washington in January 1981, reacted angrily Thursday to what he called the "personally insulting and ... gross" remark.

He was joined by Democratic presidential nominee Walter Mondale, his vice president; former CIA Director Stansfield Turner; Senate and House Democratic leaders and scores of other Democrats.

Jimmy Carter ...calls Reagan charge about CIA cuts "personally insulting ... and gross."

Even Reagan's vice president, George Bush, asked about his boss's remark, said: "No, I don't believe that. I don't think anyone can say that. But I do believe there were cuts made in the intelligence business that were inappropriate."

Turner charged Reagan with having "done more damage to the CIA than any president in history."

"He has politicized it. He has ruined its reputation," Turner said. "Under Carter, we did not reduce even one operative overseas. What we did do was reduce some bureaucratic overhead in Washington, based on recommendations from a report of pro-professionals in the CIA."

Reagan and his spokesmen said the remark had been taken out of context and the dispatches about it were a "distortion" of what he said.

At least one aide confirmed Wednesday that the president was referring to the Carter administration, which shifted emphasis from cloak-and-dagger spies to high-tech intelligence gathering, but deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said that was not Reagan's specific intent.

Carter said, "This series of tragedies in the Middle East has been brought about by the president's own deeply flawed policy and inadequate security precautions in the face of proven danger."

For 3 1/2 years, he said, he has "listened with disappointment and some degree of anger to a stream of false assertions made by President Reagan in his attempt to blame his every mistake and failure on me."

Barfield Stops Fight For Her Life

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — Murderer Margie Velma Barfield will go to her death with "prayer and meditation" now that Gov. James Hunt has refused to stop the nation's first execution of a woman in 22 years, friends say.

Hunt denied clemency for the 51-year-old grandmother Thursday, saying she "literally tortured to death" her victims, and Barfield said she will no longer fight for her life.

Barfield, who poisoned her mother and three others with arsenic, is scheduled to die Nov. 2. Under state law, she can choose death by lethal injection or the gas chamber.

"Velma feels that the emotional upheaval this has caused her family and the other families should come to an end," said defense lawyer James Little, who broke the news in a visit to the state Correction Center for women.

Little said Barfield accepted Hunt's decision calmly, saying, "We knew this would happen."

"She wants to spend as much time alone as possible for prayer and meditation because she is a very religious person," said Marge Grabarek, director of the Catholic Church's Peace and Justice Office.

The daughters of Barfield's victims celebrated Hunt's decision.

"My heart goes out to her family but my heart goes out to my family, too. She poisoned my daddy," said Margie Lee Pittman, daughter of John Henry Lee, 80. "There is, after all, justice in our court system."

Barfield was convicted of killing her fiancé, Stuart Taylor, in 1978 by lacing his beer and iced tea with rat and ant poison.

After her arrest, she first denied and then confessed to poisoning her 74-year-old mother and two elderly Lumberton, N.C., residents — Lee and Dolly Edwards, 85.

Barfield worked for the Lumberton residents as a private nurse.

Hussein Meets With Arafat On Middle East Peace Plans

AMMAN, Jordan (UPI) — While Jordanian officials defended the country's decision to restore ties with Egypt, King Hussein met for the second time in two days with Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat in find a joint approach to Middle East peace.

The Palestine Liberation Organization leader, who is trying to mend fences with Syria and the hardline PLO factions it backs, avoided commenting publicly Thursday on the Jordanian move.

Both Syria and Saudi Arabia have criticized the decision. Syria called the restoration a "conspiracy" paving the way for Hussein to enter a "new Camp David."

After discussing with Jordanian Prime Minister Ahmad Ibeidat the nation's means of jointly supporting Palestinians under Israeli occupation, Arafat met with King Hussein Thursday for the second time in as many days.

Dissidents Storm Embassy

Tajgardoos was knocked unconscious in a similar incident April 26 when a group of 17 Iranian dissidents, to protest the Khomeini government. They were given suspended sentences of a few months each.

Fatal Plane Crash Sparks Lawsuit

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

The brother and mother of a Palm Bay man killed in a plane crash near Oviedo have filed a lawsuit against the pilot's estate, Cessna, the manufacturer of the plane, and the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., maker of certain parts in the plane.

Louis Patino, of Melbourne, representing the estate of George Louis Patino, 23, of Palm Bay, and his mother, Inez Perez, filed a 14-count suit Thursday against the estate of James I. Humphrey, 60, of Casselberry, Humphrey's wife, M. Ann Humphrey, estate representative, his company, Humphrey Associates Inc., and Cessna and Goodyear. Patino and his mother are asking for an unspecified amount of damages in excess of $5,000 on each count.

George L. Patino and Humphrey were killed Feb. 23, 1983 when a four-seat Cessna 182 they were in crashed with a full load of fuel shortly after takeoff from the Flying Seminole Ranch. Humphrey kept the plane at the ranch.

According to eyewitnesses, the men took off at 10 a.m. on a pleasure flight to Georgia. After the plane climbed to about 200 feet, its motor stopped. During what appeared to be a 180-degree powerless turn back towards the landing strip, the plane plunged into a nose dive and exploded on impact. Both men were trapped in the fiery wreckage.

George Patino was a part-time flight instructor at the flying ranch and investigators speculated that pilot Humphrey had, because of his age, asked the younger Patino to accompany him on the flight.

In the suit, the Patinos charge Humphrey, his company which owned the plane, Cessna and Goodyear with negligence.

The complaint alleges that Humphrey failed to make a thorough pre-flight check and missed detecting water in the plane's fuel tank. The Patinos also claim that Humphrey operated the craft negligently, causing it to crash.

Cessna, the suit says, was negligent of making and selling a plane that had a known history of problems with water in the fuel tanks because of a design flaw. The company was aware of the problem, the suit claims.

Goodyear, the Patinos said, made a bladder fuel cell used in the fuel tanks of the Cessna which, though designed to solve the water accumulation problem, did not. They allege that Goodyear was aware that their product did not function well.

Each defendant named in the suit, according to the Patinos, had a legal contributing cause in the crash.

The suit asks for punitive and compensatory damages and a trial by jury. No trial date has been set.

Attempted Murder Trial Continues In Seminole Court

Testimony in the trial of an Eatonville man charged with attempted murder was scheduled to continue today in Sanford.

Bobby Lowe Jr., 21, of Taylor St., whose trial started Thursday, is accused of trying to kill Arthur Lee Bennefeld, 19, of Smithy's Motel, room 3, Oviedo, on June 6 at North and Marker streets in Altamonte Springs.

According to court records, Bennefeld reported that a man approached his car and fired several shots into it from a handgun.

A fragment of one of the bullets struck him in the back of the head but did not penetrate the skull. He was treated at Florida Hospital-Altamonte and released.

Bennefeld said that on the previous day at the same location, the man fired several shots into his car, damaging the vehicle but not causing him any injury. At the time, the man told Bennefeld not to return to the area unless he was armed with a shotgun, according to a sheriff's report.

If convicted, Lowe faces up to 7-12 years in prison.

The trial is being held before a six-member jury in the courtroom of visiting Circuit Judge J. Emory Cross.

actions. She said Carroll told her he would call her back in two days.

Mrs. Smith also said her son has not made satisfactory progress in the four years he has been in the class.

combination. Since the strip's debut in 28 newspapers October 1970, Trudeau, 36, and his characters have become international cult figures. Or as former President Gerald Ford once said: "There are only three major vehicles to keep us informed as to what's going on in Washington: the electronic media, the print media and DOONESBURY — not necessarily in that order."

When Trudeau went on sabbatical in January 1983 to give his collegiate characters "20 haircuts, graduate them and move them out into the larger world of grown-up concerns."

his strip was carried by 729 newspapers. That figure has mushroomed to 748, and "as many as 90 million people will read it every day," Salem estimates.

When it comes to specifics on the new DOONESBURY, Universal Press is evasive. But they will say the plot resumes in the same setting it left off — on a White House stage.

Trudeau revealed in the latest edition of Life magazine that the character profiles go something like this: Michael Doonesbury has joined a large Manhattan advertising agency after dropping out of business school halfway through his first year. And he has proposed marriage to J.J. Joanie Caucus Jr., who counterproposed by suggesting a six-month trial period of cohabitation.

It worked. Michael and J.J., who has started a career in the plastic arts, were married on the back porch of Walden. Watch for Mark Slackmeyer to be a prominent player in the new DOONESBURY, six weeks before the national election. He now has his own chow on a Long Island radio station, "All Things Reconsidered" and a set of White House press tags.

A Delicate Balance ...

For some, genetic engineering offers the prospect of a better world where scientists will eliminate disease and chronic food shortages. Others, however, are fearful biotechnology will usher in a brave new world where supermen are mass produced in laboratories.

Although both scenarios are exaggerated, this much is certain: Gene splicing is the most significant scientific breakthrough since the splitting of the atom. Consequently, scientists have an unparalleled opportunity to examine - and modify - the complex machinery of heredity.

Biotechnology enables scientists, with much greater accuracy, to alter genetic material which determines the growth and function of organisms. This technology, popularly known as recombinant DNA, already has produced some impressive medical successes.

Thus far, the gene splicers have induced bacteria to make human insulin and several other hormones. Researchers have identified the specific defect in DNA in more than a dozen inherited disorders, including sickle-cell anemia and a congenital form of emphysema. Scientists at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston are trying to isolate the gene for Huntington's disease. And a team of researchers at the University of California and the Salk Institute in California have induced a substance to counteract the Leech-Nyhan syndrome, a debilitating neurological disorder in which victims are retarded and prone to self-mutilation. The most dramatic development, however, has been in cancer research where scientists have identified a half-dozen genes associated with lung, bowel, and bladder malignancies.

The potential for biotechnology to increase food production is similarly impressive. By growing plant cells in laboratories and transplanting genes between plants, researchers expect to add $5.6 billion a year to the world's agricultural crop yield by the year 2000 and $20 billion annually after that. Current studies involve self-fertilizing food crops, tomatoes with more solids and less water, corn and wheat plants that will double their yield, yet resist disease, drought, and herbicides. Scientists are also working on a hormone that will accelerate the growth of livestock, thus reducing the labor and shelter cost per animal.

In fact, the tempo of biotechnical research has accelerated to such a degree that there is considerable uncertainty about how the burgeoning industry should be regulated. Judge John Sirica's recent injunction, concerning a California case, requires that environmental impact reports be filed before open-air genetic tests are conducted. And because nearly one-third of the biotechnology companies are located there and much of the leading research is conducted at University of California campuses, the state Assembly has requested studies of existing and proposed regulations of the new industry. But, federal action appears likely to determine how best to protect the public interest and promote this new technology.

Such statutory clarification would benefit biotechnology companies that have conformed to National Institute of Health standards, even though no law requires them to do so. Although these firms have cooperated with federal officials, they prefer a streamlined regulatory process that will permit them a reasonable amount of freedom to continue their research and market their products.

Whatever lies ahead, there is no doubt that genetic engineering is opening new frontiers for mankind. This awesome breakthrough is not going away. Chief Justice Warren Burger conceded as much when he concluded in the 1980 patent decision that no one can "deter the scientific mind from probing into the unknown any more than Canute could command the tides." Thus, it is left to the scientists, private enterprise, and public officials to ensure that this inquisitiveness serves the common good instead of becoming a destructive Frankenstein.

BERRY'S WORLD

AROUND THE CLOCK
By Donna Estes
Many Seminole County public officials will remember George Perkins of Altamonte Springs today and some will give him major credit for election victories. He died Tuesday night after a lengthy illness and a mass was to be celebrated in his memory at 3 p.m. today at St. Mary-Magdalen Catholic Church in Altamonte Springs. He served four years on the Altamonte Springs City Commission and was an unsuccessful mayoral candidate. A third generation newsman (his grandfather founded the first newspaper in Sioux City, Iowa, early in the century) and learned the profession as a youth working there. Perkins, 43, was considered a near-genius in creating political campaign advertising and in developing campaign strategy. He was president of Seminole Publishing Co., Altamonte Springs.

As ill as he was, he completed work on one final campaign in the weeks before his death and he voted in the Sept. 4th primary election from his hospital bed. His last campaign effort was for the re-election of an old friend, County Commissioner, Robert G. "Bud" Feather. He had planned to work in the Eddie Rose campaign for the Altamonte Springs City Commission and was listed on Rose's election reports as his campaign treasurer. Despite Perkins' death, Rose plans to keep the Perkins name on his official records. Perkins as a personal friend worked in all of County Commissioner Sandra Glenn's campaigns for both city and county office. Others whose campaigns he was involved with included: Circuit Judges Dominick Saffi and Kenneth Leffer; Sheriff John Polk, County Commissioner Bob Sturm; former Supervisor of Elections Camilla Bruce; the unsuccessful races of John Morris for county commissioner and Troy Pfland for the state legislature; in Altamonte Springs Mayor Ray Ambrose's initial campaign in 1981; in Lake Mary Mayor Walter Sorenson's 1982 election. He was also involved in many Altamonte Springs, Longwood, Casselberry and Winter Springs city races. A life-long Republican, he designed and laid out the county Democratic Executive Committee's 1980 newspapers. It was ironic that Perkins died at Florida Hospital-Altamonte. One of the last city boards he worked on was as chairman for four years of Altamonte Springs' Health Facilities Authority that floated a bond issue to expand the hospital several years ago.

WASHINGTON WORLD

Shaky South Quits Fritz

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (NEA) — Democratic presidential nominee Walter F. Mondale's serious political problems elsewhere in the nation pale in comparison with the potential disaster he faces on election day here in the South.

Even if Mondale is victorious in major battleground states in other regions, he must also capture about 30 to 40 Electoral College votes in the South if he is to score an upset victory against President Reagan.

But Reagan's appeals to conservatism and patriotism have given him a commanding lead everywhere in a region where Mondale is viewed by many voters as too liberal.

"Almost without exception, journalists and political insiders from both parties throughout the South (say) that Reagan has a strong lead in their states," notes the Southern Political Report, a highly regarded newsletter.

Darden Research, an Atlanta-based survey research organization that specializes in Southern polling, found throughout this year that the region's voters prefer Reagan over Mondale by an overwhelming margin of almost 2-1.

Eliminated early in the primaries were three contenders for the Democratic presidential nomination — two of them from the South — who framed their campaigns to appeal to center-to-right voters: South Carolina Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, former Florida Gov. Reubin Askew and Ohio Sen. John H. Glenn Jr.

After they were defeated by Mondale, he sought to assuage the South by including on his list of potential vice presidential running mates a number of prominent politicians from the region.

Included in that category were Texas Sen. Lloyd Benisek, Texas Gov. Mark White and Arkansas Sen. Dale Bumpers. But they were rejected in favor of New York Rep. Geraldine A. Ferraro.

At the Democratic National Convention, Mondale made a final but clumsy effort to placate the South by tentatively selecting Georgia Democratic party Chairman Bert Lance to be chairman of the Democratic National Committee — an unsuccessful ploy that humiliated both Mondale and the South.

Notwithstanding that recent history of missed opportunities for improved relations, Mondale has an outside chance of defeating Reagan in the most populous state in the South — Texas, with 29 electoral votes.

The South's second most populous state — Florida, with 21 electoral votes — has consistently voted for Republican presidential candidates in recent decades.

Arms Compliance Hard To Verify

WASHINGTON — President Reagan meets today with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. Some implacable anti-Soviet advisers wanted the president to confront Gromyko with charges that the Soviets have routinely violated arms agreements.

In fact, a report was prepared, accusing the Soviets of arms-treaty violations.

But the president has overruled the hotheads and stopped the release of the report. In too many cases, intelligence reports of Soviet violations are riddled with "ifs," "buts" and "maybes."

Equally experienced analysts can look at the same raw data and come to different conclusions: i.e., that the Soviets are violating arms-control treaties repeatedly or that they are keeping strictly to the letter of the treaty limits.

How is this possible? My associate Dale Van Atta investigated one classic example of confusing intelligence: the alleged Soviet violations of the 1974 Threshold Test

WILLIAM RUSHER

On Gromyko's Visit

NEW YORK (NEA) — Don't become unduly preoccupied with the public statements of either side, following President Reagan's meeting in Washington with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. They must necessarily reflect immediate concerns, such as the impact of the meeting on the election campaign; whereas its true significance lies much deeper.

Mr. Reagan is forever being criticized, by the Democrats and the media, for "not having a policy" toward the Soviet Union; for indulging in "empty rhetoric" concerning it; for "failing to negotiate" with the Soviet leaders; or not producing, as a result, any "new agreement" with the Russians.

It would be easy to respond by pointing out that such agreements as Messrs. Nixon, Ford and Carter managed to reach with the Soviet Union, to the extent that they were ever ratified at all, have been systematically broken by the Russians (as in the current case of their new phased-radar array, that makes a mockery of the ABM treaty), and that in any case it is difficult to negotiate with a tight collective dictatorship whose top leaders keep dying off at the rate of one every 18 months.

But the truth is that Mr. Reagan does have a policy toward the Soviet Union, that it is a positive model of clarity and precision, and that it is already beginning to pay impressive dividends.

On assuming office, Mr. Reagan inherited the aforementioned congeries of broken agreements, a military establishment whose land-based strategic components would inevitably soon be vulnerable to a Soviet first strike (the "window of vulnerability") and a group of allies whose determination to match the Soviet deployment of IRBM's in Europe, though proclaimed, was far from clear.

He wisely recognized that major reductions in nuclear weapons would be in the best interests of both nations — but only if the reductions began from a position of rough equality, which the West had lost (as described above) and which the Kremlin would never voluntarily permit it to regain.

Negotiations, therefore, were put on the back burner while the United States and the West brought their strategic nuclear forces back to a level of rough equality with the Soviet Union. That is the meaning of the long battle over the MX missile, in which Mr. Reagan has won every round thus far over the tooth-and-claw opposition of the House Democrats. A further crucial step was NATO's move, last December, to start deploying Pershing II missiles and cruise missiles in response to the already-installed Soviet IRBM's.

Naturally the Russians screamed and pouted and vowed never to negotiate until these NATO weapons were dismantled. But Mr. Reagan was already laying down yet another card — the biggest ace of them all: the plan for a non-nuclear satellite defense against nuclear missiles (what his critics call Star Wars).

Who can seriously oppose a purely defensive system of non-nuclear satellites that would free future generations from the grim logic of "mutual assured destruction"? The anti-nuclear protesters in the West, paradoxically, because fear of nuclear holocaust is their stock in trade. But the Soviet leaders oppose it, too.

Religion: You Can't Take Sides

By Arnold Sawlsak UPI Senior Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Religion has been a factor in a number of presidential campaigns, but never more dramatically than 100 years ago when it may have cost James G. Blaine the presidency.

Blaine, the Republican candidate, received a group of ministers just before the election and one of them, a Rev. Burchard, referred to the Democrats as the party of "rum, Romanism and rebellion."

Blaine let the statement pass without comment. When the election returns came in, he had lost heavily. Catholic New York by fewer than 1,200 votes out of 1.1 million cast. New York's electoral votes threw the election to Democrat Grover Cleveland.

Presidential candidates, with the notable exception of Jimmy Carter, usually soft-pedal religion with broad references to Judeo-Christian values calculated to offend no one. All warmly endorse tolerance, and go about shaking hands with every minister, priest and rabbi they can find.

It is rare for specific religious issues to be openly debated in a presidential campaign. The rule of thumb is that you can't take sides in any dispute with religious overtones without risking offending as many voters as you please.

But President Reagan has rejected that conventional wisdom and propelled himself into several areas where, like it or not, religious involvement cannot be avoided.

His position against abortion allies him with the Roman Catholic hierarchy as well as others opposed to the practice. His support for state-sponsored prayers in public schools puts him alongside, among others, evangelical Protestants such as the Rev. Jerry Falwell.

Pollster Lou Harris recently looked into this facet of the 1984 campaign and came up with some results that may indicate Reagan, on balance, is not helping himself by getting involved in religious controversy.

Harris found that 78 percent of "white Moral Majority voters" — churchgoers who say they follow radio or television evangelists — support Reagan. But he said 41 percent of that group is in Southern states where Reagan is so far ahead that Mondale ought to "write it off."

On the other hand, Harris found in an early September survey that white Catholic voters supported Reagan over Mondale by only 51 percent to 46 percent, which is less than half of the lead the president had among all voters. He noted that 57 percent of those voters live in eight populous Northern states with 204 electoral votes.

right of violating the treaty. In each case, the Soviets replied that the tests were 150 kilotons or less.

There's no way U.S. scientists can contradict the Soviets with certainty. In one explosion — on Sept. 14, 1980 — the central-value yield of 315 kilotons seemed to indicate that the Soviets had set off at least a 157-kiloton bomb, seven kilotons over the treaty threshold.

But since even the central-value-yield limits are only a 95 percent probability, there was a 5 percent chance the blast was, in fact, 150 kilotons or lower.

To compound the uncertainty, the U.S. methodology used in 1974, when the treaty was signed, produced estimates 150 percent higher than the current system. That would mean the Soviets could have tested at least a 393-kiloton device four years ago — and possibly one as powerful as 1,374 kilotons.

But nobody knows if the current test-monitoring method is more valid than the one used in 1974 — or if both are cockeyed.

Architects Chosen For $520,000 In School Projects

The Seminole County School Board has approved the architects for three new school projects.

The projects include the reroofing of Sanford and South Seminole Middle schools and the enclosure of a patio at Eastbrook Elementary School.

The board will negotiate contracts with top-ranked firms chosen by the school system's architectural selection committee. If no agreement is reached with one of the higher recommended companies, the board will go down the list until one is worked out.

The projects and the selected architects are:
 • Sanford Middle School: Dalmwood, Derryberry, Pavelchak Architects, P.A.; ARC Associates Inc.; Catalyst Incorporated Architecture; The Schemmer Associates Inc.; Kellam, Bird, Johnson Inc.
 • South Seminole Middle School: ARC Associates Inc.; Dalmwood, Derryberry, Pavelchak Architects, P.A.; Catalyst Incorporated Architecture; The Schemmer Associates Inc.; Kellam, Bird, Johnson Inc.
 • Eastbrook Elementary School: Dalmwood, Derryberry, Pavelchak Architects, P.A.; Catalyst

Incorporated Architecture; The Schemmer Associates Inc.; Reynolds, Smith and Hills Architects; Hunton, Shivers, Brady Associates Architects, P.A.

Benny Arnold, assistant superintendent for facilities and transportation, said workers will reroof the covered walkways and classroom wings at Sanford Middle School and everything except the gymnasium at South Seminole Middle School.

Construction on the projects is scheduled to begin in January, Arnold said. The patio enclosure at Eastbrook will cost $100,000 while reroofing Sanford and South Seminole Middle Schools will cost $145,000 and $275,000 respectively. Arnold said the projects would take about six months to complete.

In other action Tuesday, the board voted to apply for a $68,000 state grant to develop a program for minority or foreign children identified as gifted. The program, if approved, will provide materials and instruction for parents and teachers to further the abilities of gifted children from other lands. The program would run from January 1985 to June 1986. —Rick Brunson

Probe Of Officer Accused Of Fondling Woman Suspended

The investigation into allegations that a Sanford policeman fondled an 18-year-old woman has been suspended indefinitely while the officer is out of town because of the death of his mother.

Assistant Sanford Police Chief Herb Shea said today that the investigation into the allegations against Sgt. Joe Dillard will resume when he returns to Sanford from Kentucky. A date for his return has not been set, Shea said.

Dillard, who has been a Sanford policeman for 14 years, was suspended with pay Sept. 10 pending the outcome of a probe into the claims of a Sanford woman who said he "fondled" her.

The woman, whose identity has not been released, took a lie detector test which supported her claim but she has refused to press charges against Dillard, Shea said. The incident reportedly occurred last year, but police have refused to divulge details in the matter.

Depending on the outcome of the investigation, Dillard could be fired, Shea said.

FORGER PLEADS GUILTY

A Sanford man arrested on eight counts of uttering a forgery, six counts of grand theft and one count of petty theft, has pleaded guilty to four counts of forgery.

Gary Sager Hudgins Jr., 21, of 1808 Landing Drive, entered the plea Wednesday before visiting Circuit Court Judge J. Emory Cross who set Nov. 13 for sentencing. Cross was serving for Circuit Judge C. Vernon Mize Jr. who is out of town at a judges' conference.

While Hudgins could receive up to a year in prison, the state attorney has recommended probation.

According to court records, Hudgins wrote the forged checks on an account at Atlantic Bank, Sanford, for a total of $2,785 between April 9 and 23.

He was arrested at his home on July 12.

LIGHTS OUT ARREST

An Altamonte Springs man who was stopped by police for allegedly driving a car that had a burned out taillight and tag light reportedly kicked that officer and now faces several charges. He was being held in the Seminole County jail today in lieu of $5,000 bond.

The man was stopped on state Road 436, Altamonte Springs, by an Altamonte Springs officer at about 11:30 p.m. Wednesday. He reportedly had no driver's license and cursed the officer. The lawman charged him with driving under the influence and the man reportedly kicked the officer in the shin when he tried to handcuff him.

In addition to the DUI charge, Roger Hornsby Steward, 24, of Windsong Apartments, 919 Ballard St., also faces charges of battery to a police officer, resisting arrest, driving with a revoked license and having improper tail lights.

JEWELRY CHEST TAKEN

A Sanford man told police someone entered his home and took a jewelry chest containing watches and Masonic rings.

Willie R. Brown, 68, of 1300 W. 7th St., said the burglary occurred between 7 and 10 p.m. Sunday. The chest and contents were valued at $200.

DRUGS IN CAR

Altamonte Springs police, responding to a suspicious persons call, charged four men with possession of cocaine, marijuana and drug paraphernalia.

After receiving a tip about some men in a car parked in a wooded area along Oaklondo Drive, Altamonte Springs, police investigated and ordered the men out of the car. A search of the suspects and the vehicle uncovered two bags of marijuana, a small plate with white powder on it, a razor blade, cigarette rolling papers, a vial of liquid and other items of drug paraphernalia, police report.

Anthony Harold Jones, 22, of 779 Trailwood Drive, Altamonte Springs, was released on $5,000 bond. Willie Thomas Stephens, 30, of Orlando, and Clem Reese, 21, of 2236 Hillview Drive, Altamonte Springs, were released on $1,500 bond. They are scheduled to appear in court Oct. 12. Baron Anthony Ewing, 18, of 9612 McNorton Road, Altamonte Springs, was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

ALMOST NOT CHARGED

An Oviedo man who allegedly fought with another man and kicked in some drywall at an Altamonte Springs building site settled that dispute after an Altamonte Springs policeman arrived and no charges related to the fight were filed. But the man was charged with driving with a suspended license and carrying a concealed gun after the lawman searched his car.

Although the suspect and Billy Aylor, 26, of Orlando, had settled their difference, the officer who responded to the scene in Oakland Village on Gallberry Street charged the man for driving on a suspended license. Once the man was charged, the officer searched his car and reported finding a gun.

The man had denied he had a gun and refused to let the officer search his car. The loaded pistol was found under a shirt on the front seat of the man's car, according to a police report.

Wesley James Hotaling Jr., 20, of 4859 Publix Lane, was arrested at 10:51 a.m. Tuesday. He was later released on $5,000 bond.

GOP Opens Campaign HQ Friday

The public is invited to attend the opening of the Reagan/Bush and Seminole County Republican party's campaign headquarters to be held 5:30-7:30 p.m. Friday. U.S. Congressman Bill McCollum, R-Altamonte Springs, will cut the ribbon at the headquarters, 245 W. Highway 436, Suite 1077 in the Village Shops behind TGI Friday's.

Republican candidates and officials will be there to greet and talk with guests.

SAMARITANS ROBBED

A couple who stopped to assist two men yelling for help were robbed at gunpoint.

Harold Douglas Morgan, 21, of Lake Mary, and Christina Williams, 21, of Sanford, said they were driving along W. 13th Street at 1:55 a.m. Wednesday when two men flagged down their vehicle, hollering for help.

When Morgan stopped, according to a police report, one of the men produced a .22-caliber revolver and ordered the couple to hand over their property.

After taking $330 worth of items including cash and a gold ring, the bandits told the couple not to return to the area or tell the police of the robbery.

NO INJURIES REPORTED

HAND THROUGH GLASS DOOR

A Sanford man was injured when he accidentally put his hand through a plate glass door.

David Offenberger, 22, of 1105 S. Laurel Ave., told police he was arguing with his wife Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. when he turned to leave their home and unintentionally put his hand through a glass door.

He went to the police station where he was treated and then transported to Central Florida Regional Hospital.

Lake Mary Mayor-Elect Ordered To Pay $295 In Late Alimony/Support

Lake Mary Mayor-elect Richard "Dick" Fess has been ordered to pay $295 in late alimony/child support payments to his former wife.

Linda Fess petitioned the court for "enforcement of support" Sept. 7 after saying her former husband was three to five weeks behind on his payments.

When the two were divorced in March last year, the judge ordered Fess to pay $250 in alimony per month for two years. He was also ordered to pay $85 a week to support the couple's 5-year-old son, Brad.

The domestic relations board determined Tuesday that Fess was $125 behind in alimony and $170 in child support.

According to the report, Fess acknowledged that he was behind but said he did not read his final divorce judgment and was confused as to the starting date of the alimony payments.

He also said he did not pay child support for two weeks in August because Brad was staying with him during that time, according to the report.

The domestic relations board did not find Fess in contempt but ordered him to pay $115 in court costs and lawyers' fees, in addition to the $295.

Besides being mayor-elect, Fess, 39, is a banker and resides in Lake Mary with his 12-year-old daughter, Lisa. Mrs. Fess, 25, is a registered nurse and lives in Altamonte Springs with Brad.

Brittle Wishbone Forces Sooners Into Passing Lane

United Press International

It's like watching the 1927 New York Yankees bunt.

The Oklahoma Sooners, traditionally among college football's rushing elite, have been passing a great deal more lately — although not by choice. The wishbone offense has turned brittle with a rash of injuries so they've been throwing.

The No. 4 Sooners, 3-0, have led the nation in rushing six times and finished second on four other occasions in the last 13 years. But this year, Oklahoma is a mere 28th in rushing with an average of 220 yards per game.

A heavy favorite to win their fourth straight game when they take the field against Kansas State, Oklahoma goes against a club which ranks 92nd in the nation in rushing defense and that alone could revitalize their ground game. The lack of healthy bodies has kept the Sooners away from what they considered their rightful place among the rushing leaders. Their best back heading into the season, Spencer Tillman, hasn't played yet and their second best runner, Earl Johnson, hasn't played an entire game since the opener and might miss the remainder of the season.

"We're throwing the football better this year," Oklahoma coach Barry Switzer said, "but we're not running the football like we're capable. But then our best backs haven't been in there. We're playing pretty good and we'll get better as we get healthy."

Tillman, who rushed for 1,047 yards as a freshman last year, has been sidelined by a pulled hamstring. Johnson, who rushed for 954 yards as a freshman last year, rushed for 48 yards in the opener against Stanford but played only one quarter the next week against Pitt and two plays last week against Baylor.

In other games involving Top 20 teams, No. 1 Nebraska visits Syracuse, No. 2 Texas plays No. 6 Penn State at East Rutherford, N.J., No. 3 Ohio State visits Minnesota, No. 5 Washington hosts Miami (Ohio), No. 9 Florida State hosts Temple, No. 10 Georgia visits South Carolina, No. 11 Oklahoma State visits Tulsa, No. 12 Southern Methodist hosts Texas Christian, No. 13 Southern Cal hosts No. 18 Louisiana State, No. 15 UCLA visits Colorado, No. 16 Miami hosts Rice, No. 17 Notre Dame visits Missouri, No. 19 Auburn hosts Tennessee and No. 20 Iowa hosts Illinois.

Nebraska thrashed the then 10th-rated UCLA Bruins 42-3 at the Rose Bowl last week and this week's contest is, at least on paper, a huge mismatch. Syracuse barely beat Northwestern 13-12 two weeks ago and then was blanked by Rutgers 19-0 last week.

"Syracuse is going to be disappointed in their last game and try to make up against us," Nebraska coach Tom Osborne warned. "They may have been looking past Rutgers at us."

Penn State is off to a 3-0 start, compared to a nightmarish 0-3 start last season as defending national champion. The Lions' biggest victory was a 20-7 upset at Iowa that alerted the country that Penn State is back.

Low-Key Hall Makes Debut

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — Galen Hall steps out of the shadow Saturday when he makes his debut as head coach of the Florida Gators.

The Gators entertain Mississippi State in a Southeastern Conference game at Florida Field.

Hall, 44, a longtime assistant coach at Oklahoma and Florida offensive coordinator for the first three games this season, was named interim coach Sept. 16 after Charley Pell was fired.

Quirk Of Fate Deflates Twins

United Press International

Call it a Quirk of fate.

The Minnesota Twins' chances of winning the American League West title have been ruined by a sudden twist named Jamie Quirk, who although he wears the uniform of the Cleveland Indians, no doubt bleeds Kansas City Royal blue.

Quirk, who played seven years with the Royals and still has several close personal friends on the club, hit a home run in the ninth inning Thursday night to give the Indians a 4-3 victory over the Twins.

The loss dropped Minnesota two games behind first place Kansas City in the AL West with only three games left to play in the season.

Quirk's homer, off reliever Ron Davis, 7-10, came in his first at-bat for the Indians after being purchased from the Chicago White Sox Triple A affiliate at Denver last Monday.

"I'm just up here trying to get a foot in the door for spring training next year," said Quirk. "After I hit the ball, I really was in shock for a moment. I thought, 'This is happening to me?'"

Minnesota has three games remaining with the Indians and Kansas City three with Oakland.

"I guess we have to win the next three and pray Kansas City loses two of three," said Twins manager Billy Gardner. "It's extremely disappointing."

"I suppose you know that Quirk played seven years with Kansas City? Figures an ex-Royal would help puncture our balloon."

What made Gardner feel even worse was the fact the Twins blew a 3-0 lead in the eighth inning, courtesy of a throwing error by second baseman Tim Teufel which allowed the tying run to score.

A.L./N.L. Baseball

"I feel like a magician who puts his hand into a hat, only to discover that the rabbit is gone. Somebody just told me that one and one may not equal two after all," said Gardner.

At least the Twins are still mathematically alive, which is more than can be said for the California Angels. The Angels were knocked out of the pennant race by the Texas Rangers, 2-1.

Red Sox 4, Orioles 3

At Boston, Mike Easler singled home Tony Armas from second base with two outs in the eighth inning to give the Red Sox their victory. Armas doubled with two outs off reliever Sammy Stewart, 7-4, and Easler singled to left to make a winner of reliever Mark Clear, 8-3. Cal Ripken homered for Baltimore.

Yankees 2, Tigers 1

At New York, Don Baylor's two-out eighth-inning pinch hit single drove home Bobby Meacham from third base with the run that gave the Yankees their victory. Bob Shirley, 3-3, went eight innings for the victory with Dave Righetti pitching the ninth inning for his 31st save. Larry Parrish homered for Detroit.

'Mr. Cub' Returns To Wrigley Field

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Cubs reactivated Hall of Famer Ernie Banks Thursday, naming him an honorary member of the National League East championship team.

Banks, who was nicknamed "Mr. Cub" during a 19-year career in which he belted a team-record 512 home runs, will suit up in his familiar No. 14 Cubs' uniform during the NL pennant series, which begins Tuesday in Wrigley Field.

"It's a great joy to be able to be associated with the 1964 Cubs," Banks said during a news conference held at the North Side ballpark to announce the former shortstop and first baseman's return to the Friendly Confines.

Brewers: Walk Away Rene

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The Milwaukee Brewers, trying to recapture the magic of winning, have fired Manager Rene Lachemann and brought back former manager George Bamberger.

Bamberger, who turned the team around once before, said he was happy to get another chance to come to Milwaukee.

"This is the third time I'm (being a manager), but this is the first time I want to manage," he said Thursday at a news conference.

N.L. Baseball

Banks, 53, will be on the field during batting and fielding warmups and on the bench when the Cubs host the NL West champion San Diego Padres in the first and second games of the best-of-five pennant series.

Banks, who was inducted into the Hall of Fame in 1977 and became the first Cub to have his number retired in 1982, will also throw out the first pitch of opening game of the series. Hall of Fame broadcaster Jack Brickhouse will throw out the first pitch of the second game.

A.L. Baseball

In Lachemann's first season as Brewers manager, Milwaukee is 65-93 with three games left. The injury-plagued Brewers clinched last place in the American League East earlier this week.

Bamberger, 59, managed Milwaukee in 1978 and 1979, then left as manager after his recovery from bypass heart surgery in 1980. His record at Milwaukee was 235-180.

Plants Help To Conserve Energy

Your monthly utility bills should be a constant reminder of the need to conserve energy. Of course, such things as added insulation and weather stripping as suggested by the power companies can help minimize heating and cooling costs. And, so can plants! Through careful selection and placement of landscape plants, you can reduce the expense of maintaining a comfortable indoor environment year-round.

Many landscape plants can serve dual purposes. When properly placed, they will beautify your home grounds, and at the same time serve as effective buffers against heat and cold. This can result in significant savings on home energy costs — those which are almost certain to continue to climb in the years ahead.

Trees planted on the west side of your home will shield it from the hot afternoon sun. To shade a one-story home, plant medium- to large-growing trees about 15 or 20 feet from the foundation. For maximum shade, the tree canopy should extend over the roof. Deciduous trees are good for this purpose, because their foliage provides a shield against summer heat. And, after they lose their leaves in the fall, their bare branches allow the sun to warm your home in the winter. Evergreen trees — those that retain their foliage almost the year-round for shade — are preferred by some homeowners.

Expeller plants trained to grow flat against walls or trellises will keep a home cool by absorbing or reflecting the sun's rays. Trellised vines may be used to shade windows, especially those that face south. Like trees which lose their leaves as cold weather arrives, deciduous vines will provide cooling shade during the summer, and let in warming sunlight during the winter.

Landscape plants can conserve energy by reducing air circulation around your home, too. For example, a row of evergreens established next to a wall creates a dead air space. The still air between the wall and the trees has an insulating effect. In winter, this dead air space reduces the loss of heat from your home. And, in summer it helps keep your home from absorbing heat, particularly if your home is constructed with concrete blocks.

For this method to work effectively, the row of evergreens must be very dense. And, when full grown, the inside edge of the row should be about three feet from the wall.

Blocking and directing wind currents is another energy-saving service of trees and shrubs. Evergreens with dense foliage extending to the ground can be used to create a barrier that will reduce the chilling effects of cold winter winds. And, if properly located, usually on the north and west sides of your property, will direct cooling breezes around your home in summer.

Fortunately, there are many attractive plant materials from which to choose, and a number of ways to use them to achieve worthwhile reductions in energy consumption, while beautifying your home grounds. Actually, a relatively small amount of time and money spent on establishing strategic plantings can pay off in substantial savings on your utility bills and is truly worth considering.

So far, we have been spared the fury of hurricane winds this season. But, there is still a couple of months left in the 1984 season, and we still may suffer damage. If you haven't already done so, you'd better get out and inspect your trees for broken, damaged or dead limbs. Especially, if you lost some during last winter's freeze and have not, as yet, cleaned them up. Falling limbs can cause considerable damage to cars, roofs, windows or anything else they may strike. It may be necessary to reduce the size of overgrown, neglected trees. This will require severe surgery and the tree will probably look ugly for a few months whether or not a hurricane hits. If you've kept your trees thinned and with a canopy in proportion to the trunk, you'll have only minor pruning to do.

Don't forget your palms, either. Fruit clusters and dead leaves can act as missiles if the wind catches them right. These last minute prunings should be disposed of properly for safety reasons.

If a storm threatens, tropical plants, tub specimens, hanging baskets and other outside movable plants should be brought indoors. Less than hurricane force winds can strip the leaves from these plants, toppled them over, or cause breakage of branches and stems — even destroying them.

We all hope there will be no hurricane hitting our area this year, but it is better to be prepared for them. Check your landscape now and take any precautionary measures as needed.

Happy gardening!

'Fast' Sister Should Be Part Of Parents 50th Anniversary

DEAR ABBY: My parents will soon celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary, and we, their children, are planning a grand reception for them at our country club.

We are six children, three sons and three daughters. The problem is the youngest sister — the beauty of the family. She's been on the fast track since her teen-age years and has humiliated and disgraced us many times, but our parents seem always to forgive her.

She was arrested for shoplifting in high school. Later, she was kicked out of college for stealing. At 23, she eloped with a wealthy young boy of 19. A year later, he caught her in bed with a 16-year-old caddy she dragged home from the country club.

She's on her second marriage now, and this husband doesn't have the big bucks her first husband had, so she's a hooker. Everybody in town knows this but our parents.

Do we have to include her at the 50th? I'm afraid she'll hustle men at the party. I spoke to our minister about this and he said, "'I' stands in the middle of pride," but then he doesn't have a hooker for a sister.

Please advise us.

THE ELDEST

DEAR ELDEST: The purpose of the celebration you're planning is to bring joy to your parents, so don't mar it by excluding your sister. Listen to your minister. Wise man, he.

facing up to his responsibilities. Your George must be quite a man. Cherish him.

DEAR ABBY: I am 28 and George (not his real name) is 34. We are very much in love and plan to marry soon. This is my second marriage and George's first. The problem: George contributes to the support of his two illegitimate sons. He became a father at 18, and then again at 20 (two different women). I have never met George's sons. Each lives with his mother in a distant state.

George plans to provide for his sons' college educations, which may mean some sacrifices on his part — and mine.

I understand this, and I'm not grumbling about it. My problem? My parents haven't been told about George's sons. George says he thinks my parents should be told now, but I've asked him not to tell them yet. My parents are small-town conservative people, and I'm afraid they would be turned off on George if they knew he had two illegitimate sons.

Help me get my head straight, please.

CHICKEN

DEAR CHICKEN: I agree with George. Tell your parents now. Even small-town conservative people should respect a man for

DEAR ABBY: I need an answer as soon as possible. I am to be married in three weeks, and just lately I have been wondering if my fiancé has ever been married before. He claims he hasn't, but is there some way I can check this out to be absolutely sure?

We are both in our late 40s. Does the government keep a record of all marriages in the United States? If my fiancé was married in California, would there be a record of his marriage in Michigan? I have heard of some men being married to more than one woman at a time. How can a woman protect herself from this?

LULU
(NOT MY REAL NAME)

DEAR LULU: Marriages are listed in the county records, but there is not central government agency that keeps track of all marriages in the United States.

Evidently you have reason to distrust this man. Please permit me to offer you a little unsolicited advice: Do not marry him until or unless all doubts about him are resolved. It's far easier to dissolve an engagement than a marriage. And much cheaper.

Miss Russell Bride Of Bryan L. Dorion

Sherri Lynn Russell and Bryan Lynn Dorion were married June 23, at 6 p.m., at Harry P. Leu Gardens, Winter Park. The bridegroom's uncle, the Rev. Jimmy Elston of DeLand, performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Russell, 210 Flamingo Drive, Sanford. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Provost, 600 Mimosa Terrace, Sanford.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents. Laura Lambert attended the bride as maid of honor.

Brad Dorion served his brother as best man. Usher was Dennis Lambert.

The bride's niece, Angela Davis, was the flower girl, and her cousin, Michael Campbell, was the ring bearer. The reception was held at the Casselberry Woman's Club.

Following a wedding trip to the Florida Keys, the newlyweds are making their home in DeBary. The bride is employed as receptionist by Scott Adams Inc., and the bridegroom is manager of Fishy Business.

Aplastic Anemia Makes Body Prey To Infections

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — I was diagnosed as having aplastic anemia 16 months ago. My hematologist has had me take prednisone and Anadrol. Most of the time, my platelets hover between 20,000 and 40,000. Last summer they were down to 13,000.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I was diagnosed as having aplastic anemia 16 months ago. My hematologist has had me take prednisone and Anadrol. Most of the time, my platelets hover between 20,000 and 40,000. Last summer they were down to 13,000.

Do you have any advice about my problem?

DEAR READER — Your low platelets, low red blood-cell count reflected in your low hemoglobin and your low white blood-cell count are certainly consistent with aplastic anemia. All of these vital blood cells are manufactured in your bone marrow. Sometimes the bone marrow quits producing these. Often the cause for this is unknown. In other instances it is caused by some chemical, such as a benzene derivative or household solvent, dye, paint or insecticide. A variety of medicines may cause it, too, including those you can buy yourself without a prescription. The medicines you have taken are commonly used to try to get the bone marrow back in production again.

You will understand the problem better after reading The Health Letter, Special Report 13, Why Anemias Occur.

Because of your low white blood-cell count, you are susceptible to infections. Your body is not equipped to fight them off. Remember that colds and respiratory infections are contagious diseases; and avoid people and situations that may increase your exposure. And at the first sign of a cold, seek help from your doctor.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a male, 18, and I have noticeable bags under my eyes. How can I get rid of these dark lines or prevent them from getting any worse than they are now? Sometimes I only get five to six hours of sleep due to my work schedule. Could this be the problem?

DEAR READER — If you mean dark circles under your eyes, they are probably due to pigment in your skin, although absence of normal fat pads in that area may also allow dark

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
Imaginative falsecarding by declarer is well worth reporting, particularly when it works. Ed Manfield was the architect of this deception at the recent summer North American Championships held in Washington, D.C.

Playing four hearts, he received the 10 of diamonds opening lead. East won the king and declarer played the jack. (If East continued with a second high diamond, a spade loser would be easily avoided.) East, however, shifted to a low spade. Manfield won the ace, played two rounds of hearts, ending in dummy, and played a second diamond. When East won the ace, declarer played the queen.

A second spade was played, won by West with the jack. That hapless defender, convinced that diamonds were futile, played a third spade. Declarer trumped in dummy, happily shedding the club 10, and now had 10 tricks.

It would have been better defense for East to play the spade queen after he had won the second diamond. Now he could safely play a club. But this defensive shortcoming takes nothing away from the ingenious trap set for the opposition. Manfield created enough uncertainty in the defenders' thinking to get them to present him with his contract, and he did it in a way most of us would overlook.

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY SEPTEMBER 20, 1984
Try to put your originality to profitable uses this coming year. Projects or ventures that you conceive will have good chances for success.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Unless you are compassionate toward others today, you will have small reason to expect them to rush to your aid when you need their help. Major changes are in store for Libras in the coming year. Send for your year-ahead predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Do not place too high a price tag upon having a good time today. Just because certain activities are expensive, it doesn't mean they'll be fun.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your personal ambitions aren't likely to be fulfilled today if you go about things with an indifferent attitude. Objects must be clearly defined.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A positive attitude is a must today or else you might waste a lot of precious time worrying about things that may never happen.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) A questioning mind is a valuable asset, but today you might let your curiosity get the better of you and probe into matters others wish to keep secret.
PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Instead of relying upon your own judgment today, you might make the mistake of seeking advice from persons who aren't as wise as you.
ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you have important instructions to comply with concerning your work today, it's best you write them down, rather than trusting your memory.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your sales resistance may be lower than usual today. Don't let a persuasive merchant sell you things you don't want or need.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Persons with whom you are rather chummy could make some comments today that might displease you. Bite your tongue before responding in anger.
CANCER (June 21-July 22) Although you'll be eager to gain the respect of others today, there's still a chance you may make some remarks that will arouse their disdain.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Try to be on guard today so you will not be careless with your money or your prized possessions. Treat both with prudent respect.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Make a sincere effort to follow through on promises you have made to your mate or family members today. They will be disappointed if you don't comply.

This Town Planning To Boycott TV

FARMINGTON, Conn. (UPI) — The town's experiment to turn off television for a month was such a success last winter that organizers are trying another boycott this year and hope to make it an annual event.

"We had so much success with the last one, but one of the things we really felt we needed was for parents and teachers to constantly do this," Nancy DeSalvo said.

DeSalvo, the children's librarian in the community of 16,000 residents, helped organize last January's "TV Turn-off." It attracted nationwide attention and DeSalvo said she hoped to involve more people and towns this time around.

The first boycott prompted 1,000 people to go cold turkey, was in front of the television and another 4,000 to reduce their viewing time.

"We were hitting about one-fourth of the town," DeSalvo said.

But she said the publicity forced librarians to spend time coping with media requests while families broke the ban to watch themselves interviewed on television.

"I don't expect that kind of attention again this year, and I think we'll get more done toward what we want to accomplish, which is to educate teachers and parents on how to use television," DeSalvo said.

"With preschoolers we found one-third of their waking time was in front of the television set," she said. "Test scores were down, learning disabilities were up .... It was really getting kind of scary as far as I was concerned."

Organizers were planning more alternative activities this year and hoped to involve other towns and schools including a New Zealand town already pledged to share the January turnoff.

"People are trying it on all levels, maybe just a class, or a school, or for a week, but on different levels people are really trying to do something," DeSalvo said.

Ballet

Lisa Clontz, 13, of Longwood, takes to the bar, which sometimes seems to be a torture rack, to practice her ballet moves. Like most other ballerinas, Lisa hopes the pain of practice will payoff in applause — and maybe even a career. Page 2

Life At The Bar Demands Dedication

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

Inspired by a seemingly impossible grace, glamorous costumes, and the lure of an adoring audience's applause, many girls harbor the storybook dream of becoming a ballerina. But those who follow that dream learn that behind the glitter there is discipline, dedication, and pain.

"Ballet is hard because it's everything that goes against your body naturally," said 14-year-old Shell Wilbur of Sanford who has been studying ballet for almost 11 years.

"People don't always walk with their toes turned out, their stomach sucked in and their tail feather under. Ballet goes against what you naturally do and it takes a while to get used to it. It's hard work and takes a lot of muscle coordination and a lot of brain power.

"You've just got to work with the pain, try to work it out and don't try to fight against it," said Deltona's Heather Hoffmann, 13, who has been a member of the same Sanford dance class as Shell for nine years.

"Dancing is my life. I want to do it as long as possible," Shell said. "It's the most important thing in my life. It comes before my friends, a boy I might go out with; they all know what my dancing is to me and if they are loyal to me they won't make me choose."

'Dancing is my life. I want to do it as long as possible. It's the most important thing in my life. It comes before my friends, a boy I might go out with; they all know what my dancing is to me and if they are loyal to me they won't make me choose.'

-Shell Wilbur,
14-year-old ballerina

If it came to making a choice ballet would win, she said, and although being involved so intensely with dancing does curb her interest in other activities, Shell maintains that she does have a social life, despite working out in the dance studio for up to 30 hours some weeks.

Both she and Heather hope to become professional ballet dancers, but realize that the chances of attaining that lofty goal are slim. So, they say they may have to lower their sights and shoot to become hoofers on Broadway, or at an attraction such as Walt Disney World.

Sanford's Valerie Weld, who along with her sister Miriam Wright, has been teaching ballet for 20 years, says the odds against a dancer earning a spot in a professional ballet company are phenomenal.

"The dancers who can stand up to rejection are going to be the ones who make it through," Ms. Weld said. "And those who don't make it to the top will always have their dancing to fall back on.

"The happiest dancers in our studio are probably those who have gone on to other careers and have come back to dancing as a form of relaxation and recreation" she said.

In addition to the mental and physical demands of ballet, there's also an emotional burden.

"You have to have a good attitude about everything, about correction," Shell said. "Because you are always going to get corrected no matter how good you are.

"Your attitude has a lot to do with whether you're going to be good or not. You always have to look on the good side of things. If you mess up once or twice you can't say, 'I'm terrible, I'm never going to get it.' If you think that way, then you won't," Shell said.

Although girls dominate ballet, Ms. Weld said, boys also take to the dance, but usually start later than the girls. Those who usually begin dancing in their teens have the advantage of greater strength, which is something girls take years to develop, she said.

'Glitter' Is Tarnished

By David Handler

Aaron Spelling, who has given us "The Love Boat," "Fantasy Island" and "Hotel," is now offering us his version of the magazine business.

"Glitter" is the name of his new ABC series. It's also the name of the magazine, which vaguely bows to People. But let's understand one thing — "Glitter" has more to do with "Lifestyles of the Rich and Famous" than it does with "Lou Grant."

As with any Spelling show, the producers aren't interested in what the characters say or do, only how they look doing it.

The key word here is glamour. The palatial Glitter magazine reception area is right out of an Astaire-Rodgers movie. Giant vats of flowers grow in the middle. Exposed chrome stairways climb to the chambers of power.

Employees wear fancy designer suits and drive sports cars. They hobnob with the rich and famous. They love their jobs. Who wouldn't? Each writer has a carpeted office that in real life is the size of a magazine's entire editorial department.

But let's not bring reality into this. "Glitter" is a pipe dream. It's also the exact same show Spelling has done over and over again.

Each week a core of regulars provide the glue for a batch of soft, corny, old, true-love fables played out by well-known guest stars, who are either aging movie actors or the young stars of other ABC series.

Our leader this time is Charles Hardwick (Arthur Hill), Glitter's publisher and editor.

Sam (David Birney) is our adorably boyish star reporter. He eats cold pizza for breakfast.

To his dismay, the boss teams him with a bright, attractive young reporter, Kate (Morgan Brittany).

She's a fan of his. "I wish I'd written it," she says of his last story. "In fact," she adds, "I think I could have." Kate is also Hardwick's daughter, but she won the job on her own. I don't know how.

For cuteness, a mail clerk named Chip (Timothy Patrick Murphy) is romancing the receptionist, Angela (Tracey Nelson).

For humor, Arte Johnson is on hand as Clive, the head photographer. "How long ago was this picture of Phyllis Diller taken?" the boss asks him at the morning staff meeting. "A year ago," he fires back. "And it's Boy George."

For stories, we have the celebrity escapades our Glitter staffers are sent out to cover. In Palm Springs, they visit the set of a movie that's reuniting famous screen lovers (Mike Connors and Juliet Prowse) who split up 15 years ago.

Sam and Kate, meanwhile, cover a famous brothel keeper (Patricia Neal) who is dying and who is — but it's a big, big secret — the mother of a U.S. senator (Ken Howard), who displaces her.

Not only do Sam and Kate reunite the pair, but they don't write the story about it because they refuse to be "immoral and unethical and exploitative."

Reportedly, the "Glitter" producers plan to tone down its "comic" elements and make it more serious, which certainly means more soapy, not more real. This is a show that assumes its audience doesn't want real. It also assumes that its audience has no intelligence or taste.

Keenan Wynn Revs His Motorcycle

By Dick Kleiser

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — The screen grandfather can be wise or wicked, cute or carnal, sexy or senile. So when Keenan Wynn was cast as the grandfather on the new ABC-TV series "Call To Glory," he had some choices to make.

He chose to make Carl Sarnac a man much like himself.

"I know this character very well," says Wynn. "In fact, I invented him. I just turned 68, but I don't believe it — and neither does Carl. This character still flies and still uses his motorcycle. That's me."

He says the kind of grandfather he likes to play is the one who is "a buddy who just happens to have grandchildren."

The kind of grandfather he hates playing is the stereotype. "I loathe the foxy grandpa," says Wynn. "I loathe the cute little old man."

"The grandpa I'm playing is the complete opposite of the one that Will Geer played on 'The Waltons.' He was the wise old man, but he wasn't current. This fellow I'm playing is current."

Wynn says he knew both of his own grandfathers. His new role is more like his maternal grandfather, Frank Keenan, an old-time silent movie actor.

Believe It Or Not, John Wayne Really Did Sing

DEAR DICK — I am a big fan of the late John Wayne and have a question I hope you can answer. Did he ever record and release an album called "America" or something like that? If so, when was it released and how may I obtain a copy? — R.W.L., Columbus, Kan.

The full title of Wayne's album is "America — Why I Love Her." It was made and released in 1973. It is still available on the RCA label. In either record or cassette form.

DEAR DICK — I am inquiring about Esther Williams, swimming star of the 1940s, who retired in 1961. She wrote me once when I was in construction, trucking and landscaping. I heard she was in ill health. — R.M., Kalamazoo, Mich.

She's OK now. She's lost a lot of weight and looks better than she has in many years. She was active during the Olympics, doing the commentary on the synchronized swimming for ABC. Now she thinks she might do some acting again.

DEAR DICK — I was wondering if Mary Gross, of "Saturday Night Live," is related to Michael Gross, of "Family Ties." — S.S.U., Springfield, Mo.

DEAR DICK — Is Nancy McKeon of "Facts Of Life" any relation to Philip McKeon of "Alice"? — M.R.M., Harriman, Tenn.

In both cases, they are brother and sister.
DEAR DICK — Did male singer Lee Greenwood ever sing on record with Nancy Sinatra when she was popular? If it wasn't Lee, could you tell me who it was? — L.D., Michigan City, Ind.

Ask Dick Kleiner

Lee Greenwood is a fine singer. But the singer associated with Nancy Sinatra was Lee Hazelwood. He was behind her biggest hits — wrote, produced and sang with her on a couple, such as "Jackson."

DEAR DICK — What is the real name of the woman who played the part of the doctor's wife and neighbor and friend of Maude in the "Maude" series? How old is she, and is she still active? F.J.B., Peru, Ind.

That was the fine actress and very attractive lady, Rue McClanahan, who played the character known as Vivian Harmon. Her age is unreported. But she graduated (cum laude, incidentally) from college in 1958, so she is somewhere around 50. She is still working as an actress.

DEAR DICK — What nationality is Apollonia Kotero, who plays opposite Prince in "Purple Rain"? — T.M., Amarillo, Tex.

She is one of those good old Americans — meaning a bit of this and a bit of that. In her case, she is part Mexican and part German Jewish.

DEAR DICK — Would you please tell me the name of the woman who played on "Rich Man, Poor Man"? I say her name is Susan but I forget her last name. My daughter says no. She is now on "Falcon Crest." — A.R., Scottsbluff, Neb.

You are correct. Susan Sullivan, who is presently part of the "Falcon Crest" brigade, was the star of "Rich Man, Poor Man, Book II."

DEAR DICK — I heard that Bob Barker of "The Price Is Right" died. If so, please tell me when he died, what from and who will take his place? — Mrs. D.C., Baginaw, Mich.

You heard incorrectly. Barker is still alive, happily.

DEAR DICK — I am writing in regards to "As the World Turns." I have watched that soap opera for a long time, and me plus a lot of people have been very interested in Steve and Betsy, played by Frank Runyon and Meg Ryan. Why are they having Meg Ryan (Betsy) leave the show? She and Frank are the best part of the whole show! Why don't they get rid of Diane McCall or some of the new characters that are on the show and have Meg Ryan stay? — N.W., Great Valley, N.Y.

Meg Ryan's contract with the show was up. Over the years, she had had offers to do other things — movies, other TV shows. So, she decided that this would be a good time to see what might happen to her career if she tried some of those. So she left the show voluntarily.

Lifetime's New Image

NEW YORK (UPI) — Lifetime, cable TV's lifestyle and health network, will be spending $25 million to revamp and advertise its programming, replacing 77 percent of its nighttime schedule to attract a broader audience.

"We're getting away from being the champagne of cable television," said Thomas Burchill, president and chief executive officer of the 7-month-old network born of a merger between the Daytime network for women and Cable Health Network.

A vital part of the plan calls for viewer-interactive shows, which will focus on topics vital to viewers' lives and give them the opportunity to call-in and participate in contests and polls.

The Men Of Vice

Ms. Wright, who dishes out the criticism at her school while Ms. Weld serves up the sugar, says that her role of teaching the youngsters dancing deportment and etiquette is not one she has relished, but it brings positive results. "Former students, who have gone into other fields, sometimes call and say that if they had not had the discipline and their ballet training they wouldn't have gotten where they are."

Although the tab for ballet classes, including transportation, leotards and tights, costumes for shows and shoes can add up over the years to an investment of $20,000 or more, according to Robin Scott who at 13 has already won several awards as a ballerina. She began dancing as a tot.

Ms. Weld said that basic classes start at $20 a week for a one-hour session, and pointe shoes for advanced dancers like Robin, who dance on their toes, are probably the most costly single item for an accomplished dancer.

Robin said she dances through about one pair of the $35 slippers each month of the ballet season, which runs from September through May.

But dedicated dancers save money in other areas. Ms. Weld said, because they don't have time for shopping sprees or other typical teen pastimes.

They still have a social life. Shell said, but that centers around dancing. "When you take ballet, there isn't any in between — you either love it or you don't. If you love it and you're willing to make that commitment to dancing I don't think you would feel left out."

We go to dancing school and all of our friends that we hang around with are at the dancing school, so we're usually together.

Both she and Heather agree that audience appreciation, applause and recognition following a public performance are the payoff for all the work and pain required to get them there.

"The best part is when you're standing up there after the end and you've bowed and you look out at the audience and everybody's smiling and clapping. It feels real good inside," Heather said.

But all ballet experiences don't leave students with a good feeling. Care should be taken in choosing a school, she said, pointing out that there "are so many bad schools across the country that teach bad dancing." In choosing a school and its instructors should be considered and that. Ms. Weld said, can be determined by talking with dancers and students.

"Ballet is like an oak tree," she said. "It takes a long time to grow an oak tree and people treasure and value them. There are other kinds of trees, like a camphor tree — the seed sprouts and the next thing you know you've got a giant tree, a beautiful tree, but it's not an oak."

"Break dancing is more like a petunia that needs to be picked and tossed out, the same as disco. I mean it's fine, but it bottoms out. You can only learn so much and then you lose interest."

"Ballet, you never beat it. By the time you get old enough to understand how logical ballet is you're entirely too old to dance. It's a constant challenge."

"My parents were divorced when I was 6," says Wynn. "I went to boarding school and Frank Keenan would take care of me on weekends.

"He got me drunk for the first time in my life. It happened this way: I wanted to see a certain play, but he didn't. So he took me to lunch at Jack and Charlie's -- that later became the 21 Club in New York City -- and he offered me a martini. I had two. And I went home and slept all day. So, he didn't have to go to that play."

At 64, Wynn believes his best years may still be ahead of him. He scoffs at the notion of retiring, and points to the career of Melvyn Douglas. "Mel Douglas is a great example to me," Wynn says. "If you can win an Academy Award at 61, there's hope."

"My father (Ed Wynn, the great comedian and actor) retired. He aged very badly in two years, and so he went back to work and was much happier -- and younger."

Like his Carl Sarge character in "Call To Glory," Wynn is a veteran motorcycle rider. "I started to fly, too, when I was still a teenager," he says. "But I had trouble with my father. He didn't know that I was in motorcycles, racing them."
