Mussolini, Weakest of Lot. Columnist Checks Up on Is the First Dictator to Fall. What Various Isms Mean

WASHINGTON—Many years ago when I was young and a democrat, with a little, adjectival, rather than the big political symbol (D), implying a difference between our opposing Republican and Democratic parties, I thought I was a liberal Republican. I assessed as pretty darned conservative and I did not draw much distinction between big and little initial letters.

GUEST STARS of the entertainment world helped the Radio Stage Door Campaign celebrate its first birthday in New York. Working on that cake (l. to r.) are: Monte Woolley, Carole Landis, Maxene Andrews, Host Elton S. Green and Betty Andrews.

VOLATILE MILAN, an Italian industrial center, often has been the birthplace of violent movements. Crowds, such as this, today again storm through the streets. Now, however, they demand peace as ardently as they were seeking war on the Allies when this picture was taken before the German consulate.

DO NOT BE DISCOURAGED IF YOU HAVE A HARD TIME IF YOU STAND UP FOR THE HIGHEST TRUTH AND UPRIGHT BUSINESS NEW IDEAS AND NEW STANDARDS ARE ALWAYS OPPOSED. So persevere! They prophesied which were before you. Mal. 4: 5, 6.

(From Harper's Magazine)

Just then the clock stopped. I had never heard the stopping of a clock before. First there was a regular ticking. And then, one petrified second. Then, quiet. Like that when night closes over dusk. First falling and then suddenly, one moment, dark. The little mechanical pulses trip into the night. Stumbled on after. And astonished, like one who had just been holding his breath. Turned. Stunned.

The Waves are doing such a good job that the Navy wants about 50,000 more of them.

There is an old saying. When in Rome do as Romans do. But Americans won't do that, or they'll soon be holding for calf rope.

In the Herald's classified ad columns someone is looking for a cook. Most of the cooks they are looking for cook them selves.

We sense where milk is going to be rationed this Fall. The idea seems to be to make sure that the American people will get an even break with Henry Wallace's hot tentacles.

The experience of a large chain grocery store that announces larger sales, smaller profits than ever in its history, is a matter of concern throughout the country. The war has brought no prosperity to business men.

Karl Nordgren looked pretty snappy in that picture in the Times Union the other day. He is assistant chief of staff in charge of intelligence for the newly activated "Panther" division at Camp Blantling now. Karl has gone up like a skyrocket since he got in the Army.

The price of farm lands is beginning to respond to the pressure of additional money in the hands of farmers; let us hope that Suwannee county will not suffer the distressing experience of 1931 when farm lands were almost without cash market value. Suwannee Democrat.

Florida editor has offered the King and Queen of Italy jobs in his newspaper, probably thinking that he would make a great foreign correspondent and she could do something on fashion for women. Well, maybe so, but what the King has been through for the past 20 years would give him a reputation of being a "top" press.

Senator Andrews is optimistic about the war. He says the Army already has more men than it can train and send overseas in the next two years. By that time, he thinks, the war will be over. He says no need to draft married men with children or for that matter any more men of any kind. And he suggests that the war may be over long before the "two weeks" are up. If the war is over by Christmas, he says, "this country will save 70 billion dollars already appropriated." And he talks about "many billions not yet appropriated."

Some things already set on fire, virtually 500,000 men in this army during the summer. When you think of the facts for 1943 and the prospect of 1944, the military situation is somewhat better than it was at the end of the war. But the fact is that the military situation is somewhat better than it was at the end of the war.

Auto Accidents

Whatever may have been the other effect of gasoline rationing and the ban on pleasure driving, the fact remains that these wartime restrictions on the use of automobiles have brought about a reduction in the motor vehicle accident toll in the country. Last of two jobs ago accorded by a Bureau of Census report for the M. Automobile Insurance Company. During the first half of 1943, the mortality from this cause in the company's millions of Industrial policyholders was 11.6 per 100,000. This is approximately the rate which prevailed in the first half of 1932, and represents a drop of 47 percent from the first half of 1942.

While the company's estimate that the motor vehicle accident death rate will continue to improve during the last half of 1943, it does not look for any such startling drop for the year as a whole which registered in the first six months. For restrictions on automobile driving had already brought down the motor vehicle accidents to a relatively low level in the latter part of 1942, with the result that the difference in mortality for the two years will undoubtedly be less during the second six months of the year than in the first. The company predicts that the automobile accident mortality rate for the full year will be approximately 13 per 100,000 policyholders, about the same rate as registered in the early 1920's.

Automobile drivers and passengers, rather than the pedestrians, have been the principal beneficiaries of today's traffic conditions. While the mortality due to collisions between automobiles has dropped about 30 percent between 1942 and the year before, pedestrian deaths declined by only 15 percent. The smaller reduction for pedestrians has been due, in part, to greater carelessness in crossing streets and highways because of dimmed-out traffic and to less adequate lighting.

It is gratifying that the number of deaths from automobile accidents has dropped materially at this time, when manpower is so vitally needed, the company comments. For many years those in the safety movement have been working toward a traffic reduction in the death toll from this cause. In some measures their efforts have been fruitful, the death rate figured on a mileage basis has been lower in recent years than formerly. There has also been an appreciable drop in deaths from automobile accidents among children under 15 years of age. It is somewhat disappointing, however, that the recent sharp decline has been brought about mainly by diminished traffic and decreased mileage and not by safeguards to pedestrian and driver.

"The solution to the problem cannot possibly rest on limiting the use of the automobile. No one doubts that after the war ownership of automobiles will be even more widespread than it was before, and that travel will be greatly increased. It is not pleasant to contemplate a death rate rising in proportion. The war against automobile accidents must be waged relentlessly now, to prevent any such rise."

Delinquent History

Delinquent parents are being blamed right and left for the lawless acts of their delinquent children, and rightly so. Parents who do not know nor care what their children are up to, nor where they are after nightfall, are definitely at fault for the present situation. But how did those parents get to be that way?

The children who commit the depredations are mostly from 13 to 18 years old. They were born, therefore, between 1925 and 1930. Their parents were going through their teens and early twenties during the war and post-war periods. "Eat, drink and be merry, for tomorrow we die" was then, as now, the spirit of only too many war marriages. Then came the age of easy money and of prohibition lawlessness. Parents were knocking three times on the outer door at Charlie's, caring little or nothing what the children were doing at home. They were setting the worst possible example to those younger parents whose babies were just coming into being. It is those young parents whose married life began in that atmosphere of heedlessness of duty and defiance of law, whose children are making most of the trouble today.

The next phase was the depression, for which these young parents were completely unprepared, either with savings or with backbone. They learned how hard it is to do without money. So now they are working time and overtime to make more and more money, heedless again of how their children fare.

Any successful effort to cope with delinquency must face the whole problem, and at once. Foundations for worse delinquency must not now be laid.

Dangerous Prosperity

The avoidance of inflation is almost as important as winning the war itself. But millions of Americans, particularly factory workers, don't seem to understand this, and many labor leaders are handling the delicate problem in a very careless way. It should be obvious to intelligent people that industrial wages generally have already advanced to a dangerous degree. "What is dangerous about getting higher pay?" some may ask. And they might ask, just as intelligently, what is dangerous about blowing up a rubber balloon. The explosion looks grand, but the balloon bursts, leaving nothing but air and a smell of rubber.

Benito Mussolini

NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE

Dead, captive in flight or simply in the outer darkness, few can doubt that Benito Mussolini's career has ended as it was destined to end—in the pit of failure reserved for all men on horseback who follow the Napoleonic star. For despite the fact that he gave a system of order to the world, Fascism was an alibi thought with Mussolini. Italy means to an end. He sought power, won it, and was wrecked by it; bringing misery to thousands before the end came and leaving a legacy of hatred, ruin and death.

Soldiers Eat More Fresh Fruits Than They Did Last Year

ATLANTA, Aug. 2.—Army and Navy officials here today reported that soldiers and sailors are eating 45 percent more fresh fruits and vegetables than they did a year ago.

The report is pointed out by the chief of the Quartermaster Department, which is in charge of the food supply for the armed forces.

The report is based on a survey of the eating habits of 100,000 soldiers and sailors in the United States.

The survey shows that the average soldier and sailor now eats 100 pounds of fresh fruits and vegetables a year, compared with 70 pounds a year ago.

The increase is due to a number of factors, including the fact that the government has made it easier for soldiers and sailors to buy fresh fruits and vegetables.

The government has also made it easier for farmers to sell their produce to the armed forces.

The result is that soldiers and sailors are getting more of the good things that nature has to offer.

Fall Of Orel, Nazi Fortress, Believed Near

Germans Begin Retreat As Red Armies Storm Within 5 Miles Of City

The fall of the great German stronghold at Orel was believed near today. The Germans were retreating westward as Red armies stormed within five miles of the city. In the southwest Pacific American jungle troops inched ahead against stiffening Japanese resistance in the Battle of Buna. Allied planes destroyed two hundred enemy troops and ammunition barges in ten days.

Smashing into the suburban village of Orel, German soldiers in central Russia, Soviet forces drove to within five miles of the besieged city, capturing Stish and Filatovka in the south, then occupying the railway station of Domnoye, seven miles to the east.

Soviet encirclement of Orel seemed nearer with these gains and with accompanying cutting of major highways.

At the same time the Russians gained a notable victory to the south where the desperate German offensive in the Donets basin was captured completely without success on the fifth day. It was the second German summer offensive to break against Soviet defenses, but breaking out at Orel last month.

Capture Of Orel
A special Moscow communiqué, recorded by the Soviet monitor, said the Soviet troops in the 22nd day of battle had captured more than 50,000 prisoners in a general advance of four to six miles.

Row Between OPA And Milk Board Nears Decision

JACKSONVILLE, Aug. 4 (AP)—An early showdown was indicated yesterday on a conflict between the Florida Milk Control Board and the Office of Price Administration.

Dealers in the Pensacola and Panama City areas were in the position of having to move either the milk home or the OPA if they wanted to sell. The milk board said it would not accept a price higher than the OPA's ceiling.
