Search On For Babies Abducted In Cabbage Patch Caper

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County sheriff's investigators are searching for two babies that were abducted in a break-in at the Geneva General Store.

The babies, Cabbage Patch Kids Carla Lisbeth and Kristi Andrea, are both about 18 inches long. Carla has light brown hair and pigtails. When last seen she was wearing a blue and white dress. Kristi has short curly, light brown hair and was wearing a white and burgundy dress.

Linda Halliburton, assistant manager of the store, said she had been taking care of the babies since October and had planned to turn over custody of the pair to her daughters, Joy, 12, and Heather, 9, on Dec. 25.

If any infants are found, Ms. Halliburton said she will be able to make positive identification of the her girls because she has the babies' fingerprint and footprints records, which the thief didn't take.

Ms. Halliburton said the thieves also left behind the birth certificates and the adoption papers of the two Cabbage Patch Kids, so they will become blackmarket babies if they are not recovered.

She said she is not hopeful she will see the two babies again, at least not in time for Christmas.

Finding another pair of adoptable children for her daughters may be difficult at this late date, but Ms. Halliburton said she has a friend in one of the agencies that handle Cabbage Patch adoptions who may be able to help her out.

Her daughters, she said, became very upset when they learned about the loss of their prospective children and are so angry they want to take the law into their own hands when the thieves are caught. She said they will seek the death penalty in the kidnapping.

In addition to the abduction, the perpetrators, who entered through the roof of the rear restaurant portion of the store on State Road 46 at State Road 426, broke into two freezers and stocked up for a Christmas feast.

They got away with 25 pounds of catfish, 40 pounds of shrimp, 25 pounds of steak, $20 worth of oysters, half a hog, 3 hams, and a roll of bologna. They also took 12 cartons of cigarettes, a box of chewing tobacco and enjoyed a couple of beers while they ransacked the store and restaurant.

Video games and a pool table were broken into and about $600 in change was taken. The total value of the loot stolen, which except for the Cabbage Patch Kids, belonged to Glenn Williams, 42, is about $1,200.

Boy Says He Won Gifts As Test Of Promise To Give All To Needy

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

Although he is only 11 years old, Phillip Perez, a fifth grader at Wilson Elementary School, has already discovered the real joy of Christmas is in giving.

The son of Oscar and Marilyn Perez of 304 Kimberly Court, Sanford, was the winner of a six-foot tall stocking filled with more than 25 gifts given away by the Seminole County Teachers Credit Union.

"I think I'm more excited about giving it away than if I was keeping it," Phillip said.

The stocking contains stuffed toys and games and its value is estimated at $75.

Phillip said he believes his name was drawn from the 5,000 entries because God was testing his promise to send the stocking and all of its contents to needy children in Alaska if he won.

When Phillip filled out three entry blanks last Wednesday, he told his mother that if he won he would send the toys and gifts to the needy children in Alaska and was not going to keep one thing for himself.

"God will probably let you win to see if you keep your word," his mother told him. Saturday he received a call to confirm the fact that he had indeed won the prize.

Phillip, who is in the choir at Central Baptist Church, had heard his mother and father talking about the Christmas project of their couples Sunday School class, which was buying gifts to send to a missionary in Alaska for distribution to needy families. The missionary, the Rev. Dave Baldwin, is a former assistant pastor at Central Baptist Church and every year passes out gifts for the needy.

"But the idea of giving the prize away was totally his own idea," said Mrs. Perez. "We're very proud of him and his decision."

His two sisters, Heather, 7, and Monica, 5, also think it is a good idea, their mother said.

"He's one of those people who likes to do everything and is pretty successful at most of it," she said.

Among Phillip's varied interests are karate lessons, playing the piano, and playing on the Toronados soccer team in Winter Springs.

How is he going to get the stocking full of gifts to Alaska in time for Christmas?

Mrs. Perez is confident. "My husband is good at figuring things out and I'm sure he'll think of something," she said.

11-year-old Phillip Perez holds up the giant size Christmas stocking filled with toys and games he won and plans to give to needy children.

U.S. Firms To Boost Hiring; Outlook Mixed In Seminole

From Staff and Wire Reports

Despite the usual post-holiday season decline, 22 percent of all businesses will hire more workers starting in January, compared to 14 percent a year ago, a survey showed.

"If the present trend holds, unemployment levels should come down in the period ahead," said Mitchell Fromstein, president of Manpower, Inc., which did the study.

The figures represent the highest first-quarter hiring intentions in the past five years, Manpower reported in its quarterly poll of 11,000 employers in 346 cities.

In Seminole County, the hiring picture for 1984 is mixed.

County government has no plans to hire new personnel until at least Oct. 1, and the school system may put on only a handful of new workers, spokesmen say.

Senior county personnel analyst German Romo said that all county positions including those of the sheriff's department and the elections office, are determined during the budget hearing process and then set for the fiscal year. Except for emergency situations, no new positions, reclassifications or upgrading of positions are carried out until a new budget is considered, she said.

The once-a-year review is a procedure instituted by the county administrator, T. Duncan Rose III, she said.

In the private sector, however, things aren't so rigid.

Cardinal Industries, a Sanford manufacturer of modular homes, apartments and motels, will be adding approximately 40 people to its work force this coming year, according to a company spokesman.

Bill Bridges, Cardinal director of personnel, said the company will be adding to its administrative force starting in January and continuing throughout the year. Later in 1984, the company will be adding personnel in the manufacturing phase of the business, he said.

Cardinal currently has a work force of 487 people, up 87 workers from a year ago, Bridges said.

The Seminole County school board won't make its employment projections for 1984 until March. But Owen McCarron, assistant superintendent for administrative services, said because of the growth in the county in recent years the trend has been and will continue to be to add a few new people each year. He said that the addition of one new school in the county — Hamilton Elementary in Sanford and — will create a few new jobs.

Stromberg-Carlson, Longwood, expects its employment picture to change little in the new year. Company spokesman David Wonderling said he foresees no significant openings in their Seminole County facility, but a few jobs may open in their sister Orange County companies which will be expanding throughout the year.

In April and May, Rush-Hampton Industries of Longwood expects to have openings in their production department. Chris Carducci, director of personnel, said he couldn't project at this point how many workers the company will hire.

Buck Hodges manager of the J.C.

'If the present trend holds... we can expect a dramatic turnaround in job opportunities.'

Penney's store in Sanford Plaza said that if the current economic upswing continues, "a small number of new positions will be added within the store, but there won't be a significant number of people hired in 1984."

In November, the nation's unemployment rate was 8.4 percent.

The Milwaukee, Wis., based temporary employment agency study showed only 12 percent of all the firms polled plan a workforce reduction in employees during January, February and March. It was the lowest first-quarter figure in eight years.

It predicted a "dramatic turnaround" in job opportunities within the manufacturing industries — particularly in the West.

Thirty percent of manufacturers of durable goods, items built to last at least three years, like appliances and automobiles, reported plans to hire additional workers, compared to 12 percent a year ago, the survey said. Only 9 percent expect to reduce their workforce compared to 19 percent one year ago.

Twenty-two percent of manufacturers of non-durable goods, like foodstuffs and paper, plan to add staff, compared to 11 percent last year. Only 8 percent expect reductions, compared to 11 percent last year.

The survey showed the South and West will have greatest hiring increases in all job categories.

In manufacturing, Western firms report the greatest number of expected job opening increases — 37 percent of the first for durable goods and 29 percent for non-durable.

In the wholesale-retail industry, merchants apparently expect consumer demand to remain strong because 19 percent plan to add workers compared to 11 percent last year, the survey said. It said Southern merchants report the best outlook of all regions, but Western employers report the greatest improvement over last year's hiring expectations.

Construction companies showed the highest first-quarter hiring predictions in at least eight years.

Although the first quarter is historically a period when more employers plan to cut back than add workers, 22 percent plan to hire and 19 percent will reduce their workforce in 1984. The most construction jobs will open up in the South.

School systems reported the best job outlook since 1979. Overall, 12 percent plan to hire more workers and 5 percent plan reductions. The Northeast reports the most job openings.

Manpower Inc., a subsidiary of the Parker Pen Co., is the world's largest temporary employment agency and annually places 700,000 people in jobs through 1,000 offices in 31 countries.

Sanford Man Pleads Guilty In Rape

A Sanford man, scheduled to be tried for rape and kidnapping in Seminole County, has pleaded guilty in Orange County to the sexual battery of a hotel-bar employee last spring.

Gregory Rios, 20, of 134 Lakeside Drive, faces trial Jan. 16 in Seminole County Court on charges that he kidnapped and raped another woman while on bail.

Assistant state attorney Joe Flood, said Rios will be tried for kidnapping and rape in which a threat of force was used.

According to Mark Blechman, prosecutor for Orange County state attorney's office, Rios entered a guilty plea in the rape of an Orange County hotel-bar employee May 14.

Blechman said Rios went to a bar that had video machines and spent the evening there repeatedly talking with a receptionist each time he went for change to play the games. At the end of the evening, according to Blechman, the 20-year old woman went to her apartment with Rios. After she changed clothes, Rios said he had a knife and assaulted her, the prosecutor said.

The woman called her roommate who worked at the same business. Her friend got an off-duty police officer to detain Rios who was returning to the bar. Rios was then turned over to on-duty officers, according to Blechman.

Blechman said the Seminole rape Rios is charged with occurred a similar manner as the Orange County battery, Flood, who will prosecute Rios in Seminole County, declined to comment.

Rios, who pleaded guilty Dec. 9, will be sentenced Feb. 14 by Orange Circuit Court Judge Ted Coleman for the Orange County rape. He can receive a sentence of 3½ to 4½ years under the state's new sentencing guidelines.

Rios is currently being held in the Orange County Main Jail.

Firm Using 'Scare Tactics'

Water Softeners No Help Against EDB

Sanford residents are being advised that water softeners are of no help in eliminating EDB contamination in drinking water, according to Sanford City Manager W. E. "Pete" Knowles.

Knowles said an area company has been telephoning local residents in an effort to demonstrate their water softener, "but they apparently are implying the water softeners can eliminate EDB contamination. That isn't true. Water softeners have no effect on EDB or any other organism."

Knowles said some city commissioners apparently were also called by the company, and that other residents have complained to them about what one city commissioner described as a "scare tactic" to get into a person's home to demonstrate a water softener.

"They're absolutely useless against EDB," Knowles said.

Longwood Hotel Restoration Set

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

A $1 million renovation of the century-old Longwood Village Inn is planned by the Orlando-based Centennial Company.

The firm acquired the landmark for $220,000 recently from Cornell University, according to Centennial president James M. Seneff Jr.

When restored, the 1883-vintage building in the heart of the historic district in downtown Longwood will have both office space and upgraded restaurant, Seneff said.

"We're going to restore the building to its original state," he said, "with probable tenants including professionals who need a small office space, 200 to 300 square feet with shared secretarial help. Rents will be $11 to $13 per square foot."

Seneff said renovations should start early in 1984 with completion before the end of the year.

The three-story, wood frame inn, which Centennial seeks to have included in the national register of Historic Sites and Properties, fronts on County Road 427 between Warren and Church avenues.

NATION IN BRIEF

Greyhound Buses Could Roll Again By Wednesday

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Greyhound Bus Lines will resume full service this week if today's vote count shows striking workers approved a contract that calls for a pay cut and an end to the 47-day walkout against the nation's largest intercity bus firm.

Amalgamated Transit Union officials were to start counting ballots cast by its 12,700 members early today and announce the results later in the day. The proposal calls for a 7.8 percent reduction in wages.

E.B. Franklin, international vice president of the Amalgamated Transit Union, said union officials believe the contract will be approved.

If the union accepts the new contract offer, Greyhound Bus Lines is prepared to resume full operations Wednesday at bus terminals across the country, said Leslie White, a spokeswoman for Greyhound.

However, if the offer is rejected, the bus company will begin implementing "Phase II," she said. She said operations now are at 10 percent of pre-strike levels and said "Phase II" would increase that to about 25 percent.

Care And Share Day

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan, whose top adviser made headlines for questioning the authenticity of widespread hunger in America, is lending his prestige to a voluntary effort to feed the poor at Christmas.

Reagan was scheduled to sign a proclamation declaring today "National Care and Share Day," to recognize efforts in previous years and to encourage more participation by the food industry to donate food to the needy.

The White House office of private sector initiative is asking food wholesalers to donate cans to poor people through civic associations and supermarkets to set up bins where shoppers can deposit cans they have bought in the store.

'Alphabet Bomber' Plotted To Kill Ford

ATLANTA (UPI) — The CIA and law enforcement officials foiled a 1974 plot by the "Alphabet Bomber" of Los Angeles to assassinate President Gerald Ford with homemade nerve gas. The Atlanta Constitution reported today.

The report, from the newspaper's Washington bureau, is based on a paper by two chemical weapons experts to be published in January by the Institute of Foreign Policy Analysis in Boston and on interviews with Los Angeles police.

Law enforcement officers, with assistance from the Central Intelligence Agency, aborted the plan, weapons experts Neil C. Livingstone and Joseph D. Douglass told the Constitution.

Police arrested Muharem Kerbegovic, a native of Yugoslavia, on Aug. 9, 1974. Although never charged with threatening Ford, Kerbegovic was found guilty of killing three people with a bomb planted at Los Angeles International Airport.

Kerbegovic became known as the "Alphabet Bomber" because when he telephoned or mailed bomb threats to authorities he revealed each location with a different letter of the alphabet. At his trial he claimed to be the messiah and told the judge he had access to 19 atom bombs.

Detective Arieigh McCree, head of the Los Angeles Police Department bomb squad, told the newspaper Kerbegovic had assembled most of the materials for a nerve gas bomb.

McCree said a search revealed Kerbegovic had all but one of the ingredients to construct a nerve gas bomb in his home. The detective said an organic phosphate that would have produced a highly lethal nerve agent when combined with the other ingredients had been ordered by Kerbegovic.

"It had been shipped to Los Angeles and it was just waiting to be picked up. He was that close," said McCree.

Kerbegovic was never charged with threatening the president. Prosecutors believed they had a stronger case against him on other charges, said McCree.

A Secret Service spokesman in Washington, however, said that agency has no record of Kerbegovic threatening a president.

Livingstone, chief author of the paper, declined to reveal his sources. He said only the source was a "senior member" of the Secret Service presidential protection detail.

"What they were dealing with was essentially a very skilled looney with the ability to manufacture a very rudimentary agent," Livingstone told The Constitution.

Sanford Woman Nabbed In Disney Trinkets Case

Disney World Investigators, Orange County sheriff's deputies and Seminole County investigators converged on Flea World outside Sanford over the weekend and arrested a vendor who is accused of selling stolen Disney trinkets.

The Saturday afternoon arrest came after a months-long investigation by Disney authorities who have been tracking items that disappeared earlier this year from their inventory. The items: keychains, ornaments, sterling silver charms, are unique to Disney World, Disneyland, and Tokyo Disney, and are not available through any other source, investigators said.

At Flea World booth R-12 on U.S. Highway 17-92 south of Sanford, the investigators said they bought about $90 worth of Disney trinkets for under $30 from the vendor. The investigators said nearly $10,000 worth of Disney inventory is missing and about $6,500 worth of items was found in the possession of the flea market vendor.

Rachel Rose Mullen, 44, of 312 Pacer Court, Sanford, who was charged with trafficking in stolen property in the case, posted $8,000 bond and was released from the Seminole County jail Saturday. Her hearing is scheduled for Jan. 6.

Investigators said a Disney employee is also a suspect in the case and other arrests are expected.

ORANGE ASSAULT
An Apopka woman told Seminole County sheriff's deputies that she was assaulted by an orange-throwing man while at an Altamonte Springs nightclub.

Rita J. Olsen, of 220 Atlas Dr., said she and her husband, Robert John Olsen, 31, of the same address, were at Captain Hooks, State Road 436 and Montgomery Road, when her husband became angry.

According to the report, Olsen started throwing oranges at Mrs. Olsen and Katharen Butche, of 6812 Bonavista Court, Altamonte Springs. Mrs. Olsen had fingermarks on her neck and minor pain from the orange strikes, the deputy noted in the report.

Olsen was arrested and charged with aggravated assault. He was taken to the Seminole County jail and then released on $5,000 bond.

SUING FOR SURGERY
A Fern Park woman is suing Central States Health and Life Co. of Omaha in connection with costs arising from surgery.

In her civil suit, which seeks an unspecified amount of damages in excess of $5,000, Sandra S. Grossberg charges that a medical insurance policy she bought from Central States on Feb. 22, 1982 should have paid for a mastectomy she had on or about Aug. 10, 1983. The company has refused to pay medical bill for the surgery, she claimed.

Ms. Grossberg is suing for costs, damages, fees, and demands a jury trial, according to the suit.

Earlier this month, the Centennial Company received the "1983 Gold Brick Award" from downtown Orlando Inc., for its renovation and revitalization of the Southern Building located at 618 E. Colonial Drive.

A spokesman for Centennial noted that recent court decisions and new tax laws created incentives that make rehabilitation projects economically feasible.

The history of the old structure, outlined in the application for inclusion in the national register, notes the following:

In 1883, E.W. Henck, president of the South Florida Railroad Company and the founder of Longwood, commissioned Josiah B. Clouser to build a stately hotel there. Clouser was well-known for constructing Victorian homes in central Florida, and by 1887 he had completed The Waltham Hotel.

The doors opened for business on Jan. 3, 1888. The rate: $3 per day.

"The Waltham was not only a haven for winter tourists, but a center of local activity, attracting lumbermen and cowboys as well as farmers and townsfolk," the application says.

When the Big Freeze struck Central Florida in the winter of 1894-1895, the tourist trade was ruined along with the citrus crops. The hotel was empty and closed until C.W. Entzminger, a Florida legislator, purchased the building in 1910, refurbished it, adding spittoons and gaslights in the lobby.

In 1922, Entzminger sold the hotel to George E. Clark who renamed it the St. George Hotel.

By the mid-1920s, Clark's brother, Fred, managed the hotel, renamed it the Black and Orange, and it became known as a sporting establishment and was advertised for its "bootleg whiskey, gambling and painted ladies."

In 1926, Ed Crocker headed a syndicate (which included baseball great Joe Tinker) which took over the hotel and renamed it "The Longwood Hotel."

Governors of 32 states on their way to the National Governor's Conference met at the hotel in 1929.

There were a number of owners of the hotel in the intervening years before L.T. and Bobbie Joe Hunt acquired it in the late 1950s or early 1960s. Mrs. Hunt, an heir, but not related to E.W. Henck, the original owner, and her husband were married in the hotel years before.

In 1964, the movie Johnny Tiger, seen every now and then on the television late movies, was filmed in part at the hotel. Its cast included Robert Taylor, Chad Everett, Brenda Scott and Geraldine Page.

In the fall of 1972, Grace Bradford of Altamonte Springs bought the hotel, forming a corporation with her son and daughter-in-law, and changed the name to the Longwood Village Inn.

The Bradfords began renovation work in Nov. 1972, and had their grand opening party on Jan. 2, 1973.

In 1973, Mr. and Mrs. Georges St. Laurent Sr. of Claustrer, N.J., bought the hotel.

When St. Laurent Sr. died in 1978, Mrs. St. Laurent donated the hotel to Cornell University where both she and her husband had been students. The university has leased the hotel offices and restaurant to several different managers since receiving ownership.

In the application to have the hotel designated an historic building, the Centennial company says the building's architecture with its Italianate Revival influence marks the hotel as a significant example of Florida in the late 19th century.

Kidnappers Cut Off Ear Of Heiress' Son

ROME (UPI) — Kidnappers holding jewelry heiress Anna Bulgari Callisoni and her 17-year-old son cut off his right ear and sent it to their family in a gruesome warning to pay a ransom demand, police said.

The gang telephoned family associates Sunday and said they could find the ear in a bag stuffed in a downtown trash can.

Police recovered the blood-stained ear and after tests confirmed it belonged to Mrs. Callisoni's son, Giorgio. Gunmen posing as police grabbed the two from their country estate south of Rome Nov. 19.

The mutilation recalled the 1973 kidnapping of oil magnate J. Paul Getty's grandson, whose ear was sliced off and sent to his family. Getty paid $2.9 million for the teenager's release.

The sources did not say how much was being asked but in 1975 the family reportedly handed over $2 million for Mrs. Callisoni's cousin, Gianni Bulgari. He was kidnapped in Rome and held for a month.

IRA: 'We're Sorry'

LONDON (UPI) — The Irish Republican Army admitted responsibility for the bombing of Harrods department store but said the blast was not "authorized" and expressed regret over the civilian casualties.

The IRA added in its statement issued in Dublin Sunday that police did not take advantage of a warning the blast was about to occur. Five people were killed and 91 injured in the Saturday bombing of the luxury store.

Scotland Yard rejected the IRA expression of regret as "contemptible" and said the group's warning prior to the bombing had been "an invitation to death."

The IRA said its members had planted the bomb outside Harrods, but the attack had not been approved by the group's leadership.

Eunuchs Demand Rights

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — New Delhi's "Eunuch Welfare Society" wants the United Nations to help eunuchs gain human rights and receive such government benefits as old-age pensions and free education.

Many Indians dismiss eunuchs as misfits who are forced by unemployment to earn money by begging, prostitution or dancing. Other Indians regard them as auspicious.

FLORIDA

IN BRIEF

Toxic Chemicals Found In Water Treatment Plants

FORT LAUDERDALE (UPI) — A survey by the State Department of Environmental Regulation shows traces of toxic chemicals in at least 12 water treatment plants in Broward and Palm Beach counties.

Of the 14 plants tested in the two counties, at least 12 showed signs of toxicities. Louis Devillon, the department's southeast drinking water engineer said Sunday.

The survey stemmed from earlier queries in which widespread pollution was found in Florida's groundwater. Devillon said, Groundwater is the source of 90 percent of the state's drinking water, he said.

Devillon said other South Florida utility companies will comply with a state request to test tap water for traces of 129 toxic industrial chemicals and pesticides.

He said several of the 129 chemicals on the DER list have been linked to cancer in humans and laboratory animals, along with liver, kidney and nerve damage.

Computerized Sleuthing

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — A crusade led by John Walsh, the father of 6-year-old murder victim Adam Walsh, has persuaded the FBI to catalogue unsolved murders in a nationwide computer system in hopes of catching mass murderers.

The system, to be established after Christmas, is designed to help law enforcement officials match details of random killings across the nation.

Random murders have increased three-fold in the United States during the past 15 years. Investigators believe many of those killings are committed by a small group of men who wander from place to place looking for victims.

Walsh became a crusader for murder victims when his 6-year-old son Adam was abducted outside a Hollywood shopping mall July 21, 1981. The boy's severed head was found floating in a canal two weeks later.

Have No State Licenses

Children's Homes Operating Illegally

By United Press International
State officials know very little about a handful of children's homes in Florida — whether they clothe, feed or even treat the children well.

But state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services officials do little to remedy the situation. They believe their hands are tied because of a state law that is in limbo.

At least nine children's homes in Florida are operating illegally by not having state licenses.

The problem is the law that requires the homes to be licensed. The law was due to expire Oct. 1, but the Florida Legislature postponed a decision until the 1984 session.

"There are a number of facilities that are refusing licensing," said Mary Ann

Price, program specialist with the DER's Children Youth and Families Office. "Some were licensed before and either let their license lapse during the last couple of years or never sought to be licensed in the first place."

The homes known to be operating without a license include Victory Home for Girls in Baldwin; Camp Tracey in Baker County; The Florida Children's Home in Melbourne; Lighthouse Children's Home in Tallahassee; Florida Boys' Ranch Foundation in Groveland; Faith Children's Home in Tampa; Edgewood Boys' Ranch in Orlando; Sabal Palm in West Palm Beach; and Youth Hall in Fort Pierce.

Two of the homes — Sabal Palm and Youth Hall — are both county operated. The others are privately run.

Israeli Warjets Bomb Druze Fighters

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Israeli warjets bombed Syrian-backed Druze Moslem positions southeast of Beirut today in apparent retaliation for a grenade attack that wounded two Israeli soldiers and killed a Lebanese civilian in southern Lebanon.

In the northern port city of Tripoli, Israeli gunboats kept guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat and 4,000 loyalists penned up with a barrage of shelling that delayed their evacuation from a seige by Syrian-supported PLO rebels.

Israel's air strike against Druze bases in the Bhamdoun area on the Beirut-Damascus highway came just a few hours after the bombardment in Tripoli.

On Sunday in a U.S. retaliatory strike, American warships pounded Syrian anti-aircraft positions for the third time in less than a week, but Syrian President Hafez Assad vowed his forces would continue firing at American surveillance flights.

The latest barrage of 60 5-inch shells was "against anti-aircraft gun emplacements, which had fired on U.S. Navy aircraft flying a tactical air mission over Lebanon," said Marine spokesman Maj. Dennis Brooks.

Federal Benefits Are Out Of Line

The federal government has a monopoly in its field. Absent any prospect of competition, the only restraint on spending is the availability of public funds.

And even that is not much restraint when a Republican president is leading the nation down the path of deficit spending to the tune of $200 billion a year.

But President Reagan is not without the right instincts. He has established a committee of 161 top executives of leading corporations and asked them for a study of possible savings in the operation of the executive branch of the federal government. Under the chairmanship of J. Peter Grace, the committee is publishing reports of its findings.

Vol. V, "Anomalies in the Federal Work Environment," is at hand.

It concludes that the government overpays its blue-collar workers 8 to 12 percent and its white-collar pay system costs too much because of overgrading (classifying jobs at higher pay grades than necessary).

It says federal workers enjoy a benefit package that would be unaffordable in the private sector — health benefits that cost the taxpayer 6.8 percent of payroll compared to 5.8 percent in the private sector, vacation benefits that cost 7.1 percent of payroll compared to 4.5 percent in the private sector, sick pay that costs 3.4 percent of payroll compared to 2.1 percent in the private sector. Are all these goodies really necessary to attract qualified applicants and keep them in the federal service? We doubt it.

But the most costly benefit is the federal retirement system.

Consider that the cost of the civil service and military retirement systems has been rising an average of 13.6 percent a year for the last 36 years, doubling every 5.4 years, heading toward $50 billion in 1988.

Unfunded pension liabilities of the federal government (not included in the national debt) are rising at the rate of nearly $100 billion a year.

Civil service retirement benefits are two to three times higher than those of the top private-sector plans. Military retirement benefits are about six times higher (with some justification because of the need to keep the armed forces young).

Of course, congressmen and U.S. senators don't get any Brownie points from civil servants or the military by voting to reform the federal benefit systems. And the public doesn't pay much attention to roll call votes in Washington, just as long as their representatives pay lip service to government economy in Rotary Club speeches. Our political system rewards congressional generosity to public employees. It penalizes any effort to economize. And yet some such effort must be made.

We cannot change the implicit contracts that cover today's federal employees, today's military people and those already retired. Their benefits cannot be cut.

But we need to look carefully at the incentive packages needed to attract new federal employees and new military recruits and officer candidates. The benefits should be brought in line with the benefits of employment in the private sector. And the benefit packages should be redesigned to suit the purposes of government, not lobby pressures.

Reform would create two classes of civil service and military people — a senior class with more benefits and a junior class with fewer. There would be discrimination, but it can't be avoided, if the system is to be changed. Already civil servants hired after Jan. 1 will have to pay Social Security taxes — a step in the right direction. Further steps should be taken.

We have and must continue to have a first-rate civil service and a first-rate military. But federal service is not so unrewarding that we have to offer premium benefits to attract first-rate people. The federal compensation package should be comparable to private employment. It does not need to be gold-plated.

BERRY'S WORLD

"That reminds me! NEXT Sunday, we're going to church!"

More than 500 Seminole County senior citizens and hospital patients will receive handmade holiday greeting cards from students in the county's middle schools.

The cards with individualized illustrations and written messages of cheer from the sixth, seventh and eighth graders is part of an "across the disciplines writing effort" known as the "Power of Writing" program.

In its second year the program has as its main objective increased writing activities in all subject areas.

Organizations which will distribute the cards include: Meals on Wheels for the Jackson Heights, South Seminole, Rock Lake and Sanford middle schools' cards;

Baskets for the Needy for the Tuskawilla Middle School; Share-a-Home and local nursing homes from the South Seminole, Milwee, Lakeview and Teague middle schools; hospitals from the Rock Lake and Lakeview middle schools.

The county schools coordinator of secondary language arts, Charlotte H. Geyer, assisted the schools with the project.

A public school system employee, supporting the four-day workweek approved for School Board employees during the summer time, put her feelings in verse.

The poem composed by Betty Hickson, accounts payable clerk with the finance department at the county school office, says it all:

I must admit I had a fit when Monday morning came. To be at work at 7 sharp is really quite a shame.

And 38 minutes for my lunch, I really must confess.

It isn't time for me you see to give myself a rest.

The extra time I used to have I certainly took for granted.

It's remembered every morning as I rush around in frantic.

But now that Thursday is finally here I want to tell you this

To work every week for five days straight is something I don't miss.

Blood Clotting Studied

By Patricia McCormack
UPI Health Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — An experimental blood clotting concentrate may be the key to stopping a dangerous complication of surgery for cancer of the esophagus, researchers say.

Dr. Julian Ambrus, a Roswell Park Memorial Institute scientist in Buffalo, N.Y., is investigating use of the compound to stop leakage of body fluids — such as saliva — into the space between the lungs following resection of the esophagus.

"The mortality rate following esophagectomy ranges from five to 30 percent," said Ambrus, director of the institute's pathophysiology department. Fifty percent of these are related directly to leakage and respiratory complications.

"Clearly, any reduction in leakage incidence will have a major impact on patient survival," he said in an interview.

This year, 9,000 Americans will have been told they have esophageal — foodpipe — cancer and 8,500 will die as a result of the malignancy, the American Cancer Society says. More than half the cases have been linked to smoking, according to the Surgeon General's Report on Smoking and Health.

In patients, fluids might leak through minute holes made while surgeons stitched the operation site. Esophageal leakage also can be attributed to other problems such as previous radiation exposure, inadequate nutrition, or hypoplasia, Ambrus said.

In his research with dogs and monkeys over the last several years, Ambrus said he has used Fibrin Seal, provided by the Austrian Institute for Blood Components in Vienna.

He said the preparation closes hemorrhages and air leaks, and has been used at Roswell Park to reinforce surgical closures during lung and spleen surgery in laboratory animals.

The clotting concentrate used with such favorable results in the animal work consists of fibrinogen, which forms the network of a clot; a natural agent which promotes clotting; another to promote growth of platelets, blood cells associated with clotting; and other elements.

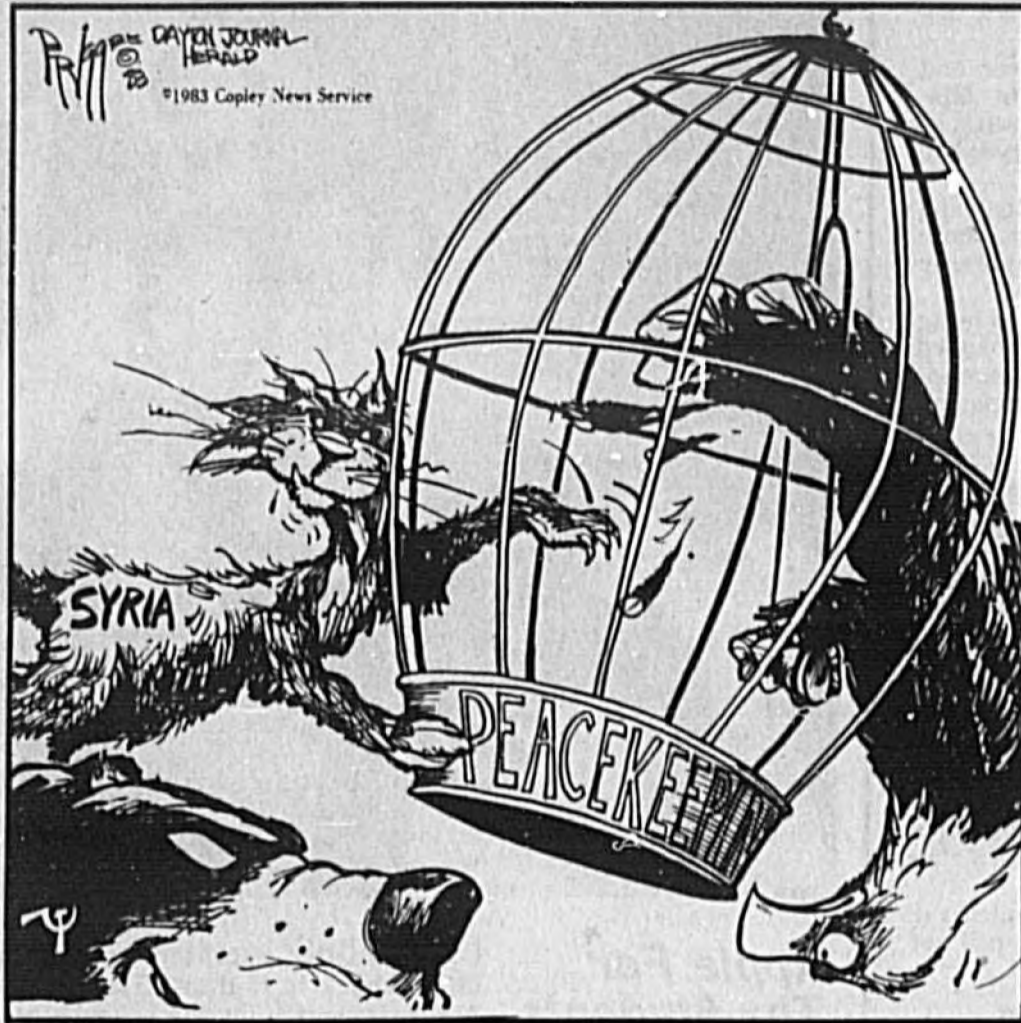

Sprayed on sutures while the patient is in the operating room, Fibrin Seal "works by creating a stabilized fibrin clot around the surgically-formed passage, keeping it virtually leak-proof for up to 10 days," Ambrus said.

By that time, the normal healing process is well on its way, he said.

In the most recent Roswell Park study, published in the "Journal of Surgical Oncology," Ambrus and associates observed 10 dogs treated with Fibrin Seal and 10 in a control group.

In the control group, 50 percent of the animals developed esophageal leaks. Of these, four died. In the Fibrin Seal-treated group, only 20 percent of the animals developed and died from esophageal leaks.

Ambrus said further research is clearly warranted. He intends to apply to the Food and Drug Administration for permission to start human trials when the animal studies are completed.

Conservative Critics

Now that President Reagan has come within a millimeter of announcing his candidacy for re-election, it is time for those of us who approve for the most part of the job he has done during his first term to say so directly.

The president has his liberal critics, of course, and we have become accustomed to their approach. For months during the economic recession, you could not turn on network TV without seeing lengthy interviews with the welfare and food stamp constituency, and Dan Rather developed considerable expertise at finding the most destitute and pitiable citizen of whatever town he happened to be visiting. Now that the recession is over, the liberal venue has shifted to foreign affairs, and we are invited to believe that Reagan is threatening our very survival in deploying Pershing missiles or invading Grenada.

All of that is par for the course, and only to be expected, but the surprising thing is that Reagan appears to have not only critics but political enemies on the conservative right.

In some degree, they are valuable to him. To the extent that they possess political plausibility, they permit Reagan to say to a Chuck Percy or a Bob Dole "I would like to do what you want, but the right would crucify me."

During the Nixon administration, the White House deliberately tried to stimulate conservative criticism of Nixon so that he could do just that. Indeed, criticism from the right allows the president to look "centrist," which can be politically valuable.

But what does the right have against Reagan, or his first-term record?

There is, in fact, quite a shopping list and I give it to you in no particular order of priority.

Reagan did not do enough, or for that matter anything much, about Poland. He stood by and watched Solidarity being crushed. He caved in on sanctions against the Siberian natural gas pipeline, and he caved in on selling grain to the Soviets. He has not given anti-aircraft and other weapons to the Afghans. He has been soft on the Taiwan issue, and tended to undercut a steadfast, more or less democratic and prosperous ally in order to curry favor with a problem-riddled tyranny in Peking. He responded only with words to KAL 007. He submitted to the tax-increase engineered by Bob Dole. He has not done much on the "social issues" which figured so importantly in his 1980 campaign. Racial quotas and reverse discrimination are still with us, as are abortion on demand and the prohibition of school prayer. Pornography is unchecked.

There is something to be said for each of those points, but if you examine them one at a time you see that there is at the same time more to be said in behalf of Reagan.

For example, the coherence of NATO is certainly more important than trying to impose pipeline sanctions on our European allies. Reagan could do little to help Lech Walesa. His concessions on Taiwan have been entirely rhetorical. Much in the "social issues" area is constitutional in nature, and not susceptible to a president's will. I myself cannot defend the Dole-sponsored tax increase, nor, really, does the White House try very hard to do so. It merely says that the financial community had to be reassured that the administration takes a serious view of the deficits.

Reagan's critics on the right, however, tend to go off the deep end, and even make fools of themselves — as they did in the premature howls over the appointment of Sandra Day O'Connor to the Supreme Court. Indeed, one of the key issues in the coming election is the fact that Reagan will in all likelihood make two or three appointments to the Court during his second term.

It would be politically intelligent in all quarters, however, to recognize that Reagan was elected in 1980 by a coalition of various interests — defense, tax-cutting, social-issue, patriotic — and that the priorities of each interest may differ. He is also dealing with competing and often intractable situations abroad, and with allies whose priorities are often not the same as his.

ROBERT WALTERS

On The Illusion At Polls

WASHINGTON (NEA) — To understand why public opinion polls are a highly imperfect tool for assessing candidates' strength in political campaigns, take a look at what recently happened to former Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D.

Almost immediately after he declared his candidacy for next year's Democratic presidential nomination, McGovern vaulted ahead of four other Democratic contenders in public opinion polls.

Does that mean that McGovern is actually preferred by more potential voters than former Florida Gov. Reubin Askew, Sen. Alan Cranston of California, Sen. Gary Hart of Colorado or Sen. Ernest F. Hollings of South Carolina?

It almost certainly does not. McGovern's ability to quickly achieve relatively high ratings in the polls is probably almost wholly ascribable to the visibility he attained when he was the Democratic Party's presidential nominee in 1976.

McGovern's experience illustrates the fundamental flaw in relying upon survey data to designate some politicians in a multi-candidate field as the leading or major contenders while virtually dismissing some others as less than serious.

In a celebrity-conscious society, many people instinctively identify themselves with politicians whose names are familiar because of earlier publicity — and those politicians invariably dominate the early stages of the campaign.

The current status of the race for the 1984 Democratic presidential nomination provides a superb illustration of that phenomenon.

Leading the pack is Walter F. Mondale, with 30 percent to 35 percent support in most recent polls — much of it attributable to his tenure as vice president from 1977 to 1981.

In second place is Sen. John H. Glenn of Ohio, whose career in Congress has not been notably more distinguished than the other three senators in the race. Instead, Glenn's high ratings undoubtedly are related to his earlier fame as an astronaut.

Behind Mondale and Glenn are McGovern, the former presidential nominee, and Jesse M. Jackson, a relatively well known civil rights leader, with 5 percent to 10 percent support each.

Occupying the bottom half of the list, with less than 5 percent each, are Askew, Cranston, Hart and Hollings — all of whom currently are suffering not because voters have carefully examined their credentials and found them wanting but because they weren't famous before they entered the race.

(When ABC News earlier this year surveyed a sophisticated group of politicians, the members of the Democratic National Committee, an astounding 61 percent of those polled were undecided or refused to disclose their preference.)

The problems posed by excessive reliance upon premature poll results become magnified because of the tendency of the news media to use those figures as a guide to which candidates merit coverage because they are "major" contenders and which politicians can generally be ignored because they are not "serious" candidates.

NRC Considering TMI Start-Up

WASHINGTON — The Nuclear Regulatory Commission is scheduled to meet behind closed doors today to consider continuing equipment troubles at TMI.

— A reactor operator testified that the company deliberately falsified measurement data to make leaks of reactor cooling water at Unit 2 appear smaller than they actually were. Now the NRC's investigators suspect that management lied about leaks at both TMI reactors. The agency has denied that almost caused a meltdown in Unit 2.

At the time, the NRC ordered Unit 1 to remain shut down, citing, among other reasons, "questions about management capabilities." Now the commission is under tremendous pressure from General Public Utilities, the owner, to allow Unit 1 to begin producing power again.

Despite the indictment of the company last month on charges of falsifying crucial safety data before the accident, the commissioners are reported to be leaning toward approval of the start-up plan.

There are three main problem areas the agency should consider before it lets TMI start operating again — management integrity, questionable supervision by the NRC and continuing equipment troubles.

— A reactor operator testified that the company deliberately falsified measurement data to make leaks of reactor cooling water at Unit 2 appear smaller than they actually were. Now the NRC's investigators suspect that management lied about leaks at both TMI reactors. The agency has promised that TMI-1 will not be allowed to resume operation until the investigation of the alleged falsification on that unit is completed sometime next month. Coincidentally, the plant won't be able to start until then anyway.

— As further evidence of management problems, the NRC levied a $140,000 fine against GPU last July for failing to tell the federal agency that the facility's supervisor of operations had cheated on a licensing exam.

— Both the company and the NRC knew soon after the 1979 accident that a plant operator had blown the whistle on the falsified records. Yet neither saw fit to dig deeper. The company's investigation consisted of a consultant's interview with the whistleblower, Harold Hartman Jr. — but not with the company executives who may have ordered the falsification.

After squelching any mention of Hartman's charges in its two massive reports on the TMI accident, the NRC staff finally told the commission last May — more than four years later — that Hartman's charges were believed to be true.

— A valve failure triggered the TMI accident. Yet the same kind of valve will be used in the undamaged reactor, despite the manufacturer's warning that its use under certain conditions "may be detrimental to its ability to seal without leaking, thus contributing to an increased failure rate." The warning was deleted from the NRC's final TMI report, and was brought to light by the Union of Concerned Scientists.

The valve may not be the only piece of equipment that needs checking. There have also been problems with the instruments used to measure the amount of cooling water available in case of emergency, according to the company's own admission.

The first devices installed after the accident failed miserably. New meters also proved inaccurate.

But in a November letter to the NRC, the company explains that the inaccuracy of the meters is not really critical, because the instruments are more accurate during high-flow conditions and operators can use other means to ascertain the flow levels. So the company concluded that everything is hunky-dory.

Footnote: A General Public Utilities spokesman admitted the valve leaks under low pressure conditions. But another valve upstream, he said, should solve the problem.

Seminole's Brown Takes 140-Pound Title

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

While 4A powerhouse Brandon breezed to the Lyman Christmas Tournament, Seminole 140-pounder Tony Brown kept the Hillsborough County grapplers from making it a clean sweep. Brandon placed eight wrestlers in Saturday night's finals and seven came away winners.

The eighth — Dale Perazzola — fell prey to Sanford's Brown. The Seminole senior standout, used his great quickness to overwhelm Perazzola, 9-3. With the championship victory, Brown upped his record to 9-0 for the season.

Brown advanced to Saturday's finals via a 18-6 victory over Oak Ridge's Chuck Semerick while Perazzola advanced by blanking Lake Mary's Bob Olson, 4-0.

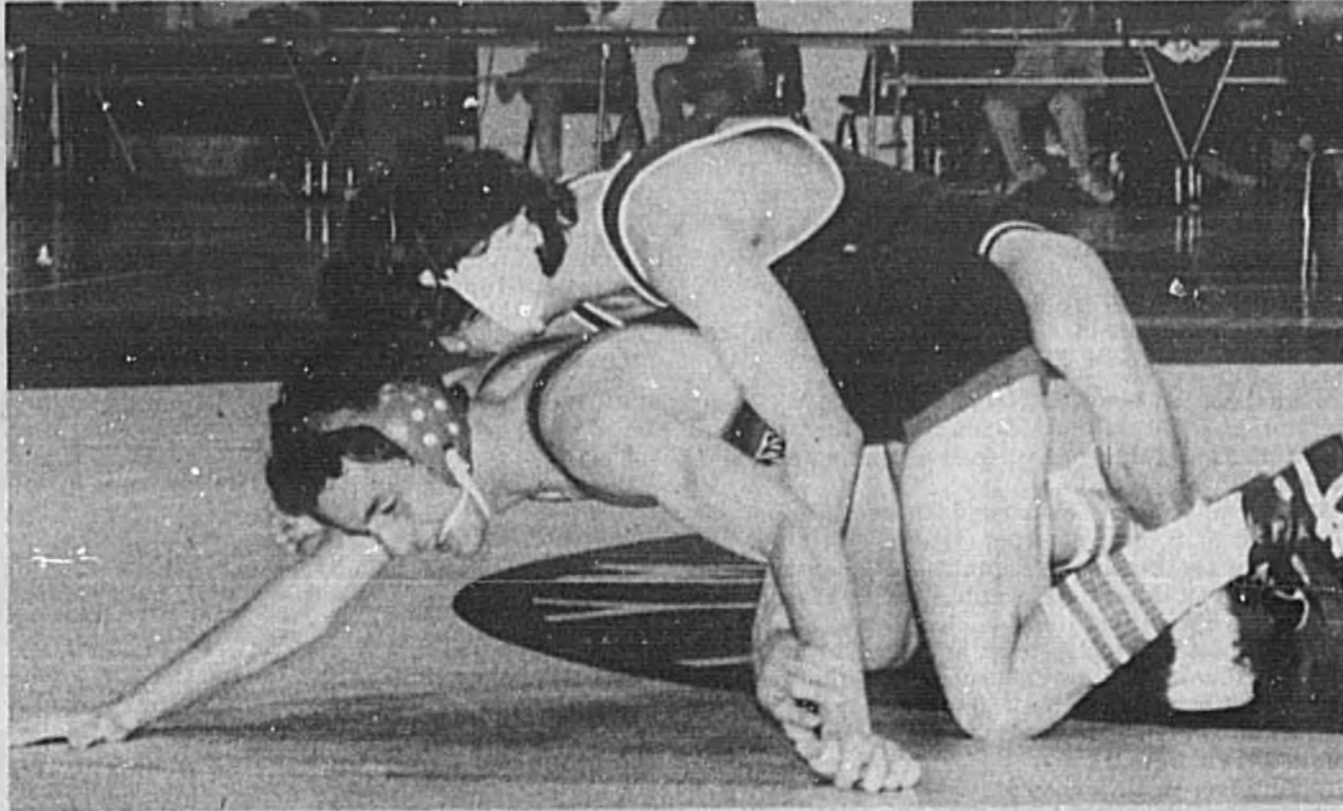

Although Brown spoiled Brandon's supremacy in the finals, it still rolled to the tournament title with a score of 222 compared to 135 1/2 for second-place Lake Mary. Oviedo was a distant third at 108 1/2.

Brown jumped to a 2-0 lead with a takedown, but Perazzola came back with a reversal to even the match after one period.

In the second period, Brown used his superior quickness to score a reversal and back points for a 7-2 edge. Perazzola picked up one penalty point when Brown locked his hands.

In the final period, Brown escaped for a point and then took Perazzola down for a 9-3 victory.

"Brown was too quick and knew too many moves for Perazzola," said Seminole assistant coach John Brady. "Tony wrestled a great match."

Turner Loses Disputed Decision To Smith, 4-3

The Fighting Seminoles, who are 0-5 in dual meets, just missed another championship, according to Brady, when a referee incorrectly charged 157-pounder Troy Turner with locking his hands against Lyman's Derek Smith. Seminole's tenacious freshman eventually dropped a controversial 4-3 decision.

Smith, a senior, took a 2-0 lead but Turner, came back with a reversal for a 2-2 deadlock after one period.

In the second two minutes, the controversy flared. Turner got behind Smith and took him down with locked arms, which is legal. At that point, Lyman coach Skip Pletzer interjected and told the official Turner had locked his arms after Smith had hit the mat, which was not legal. "Smith was coming back up and it would not have been a takedown," said Pletzer.

Brady, and Lake Mary coach Frank Schwartz, however, saw it differently. "Turner definitely took him down," said Brady. "The referee admitted after the match he had made a mistake."

Schwartz concurred. "The officials felt badly after the match, but it was too late then."

In summary, the officials took away the takedown points, which were debatable, but they gave Smith the penalty point, which was incorrect.

"They did make a mistake on giving Smith the penalty point," conceded Pletzer. "But it's anyone's interpretation whether the takedown was legal. I think it should have been zero-zero."

Davis Nips Likens, 6-5

The one point, nevertheless, ended up making the difference in the match which Smith claimed, 4-3.

The tournament's most exciting matchup, too, came down to one point as two of the state's top 114-pounders — Lake Mary's Jack Likens and Edgewater's Eugene "Dap" Davis battled tooth-and-nail before Davis pulled out a 6-5 decision. Both were unbeaten state champions last year and this year's encounter had all the makings of a state final.

Likens broke on top, 2-0, with a takedown, but Davis came back with a reversal to tie the match after two periods.

Likens started in the down position for the final two minutes, but he reversed Davis to take a 4-2 lead. With a minute to go, however, Davis switched Likens to pull even at 4-4.

Likens then escaped for a 5-4 lead with 25 seconds left, but in doing so went chest down on the mat. Davis, reacting immediately, jumped on Likens for two points and a takedown to pull out the narrow victory.

"Jack (Likens) just used so much to get his escape, he sprawled on the mat," said Lake Mary coach Frank Schwartz. "Nobody but Davis could have reacted that quickly. He's just unbelievably quick. I feel badly for Jack, he dominated for two periods."

The loss was the first for Likens after 39 consecutive wins. The Rams lost another tough one at 107 pounds when Brandon's Diego Eguerra outlasted Ivan Carbia, 10-5. Eguerra took a 2-0 lead with a takedown, but Carbia came back with an escape and a takedown for a brief lead until Eguerra escaped for a 3-3 deadlock after one

Lake Mary Girls Blank Tribe; SCC Loses 3 County Roundup

Lake Mary's girls soccer team pushed across four first-half goals, then added one more in the second half to shut out Seminole, 5-0, Saturday at Seminole High School.

"Seminole played a much better game the second half," said Seminole coach Suzy Reno. "Susanna Hauman did a tremendous goal as goalie."

Huaman, a senior, stopped 12 shots in the second. Sherri Ruml handled goal-keeping chores in the first half and had seven saves. Seminole, 1-2, hosts Lyman Jan. 10.

Seminole Community College's Lady Raiders went on their southern swing over the weekend and ran into some tough competition, dropping three straight games as their record fell to 6-11 for the year.

SCC played Broward Thursday night and lost a 64-61 decision. Sanford's Cathy Jones tossed in 14 points and Sue Winterheimer had

County Roundup

10 for the Lady Raiders while Valerie Roessler grabbed 12 rebounds and scored nine points.

In Friday's game against Miami Dade South, SCC succumbed, 68-52. Roessler and Lee were the only players in double figures with 10 points each.

In Saturday's final game, Miami Dade North blew away SCC, 83-66. Jones tossed in 17 points, Evelyn Smith added 13, Ross had 12 and Brinkley threw in 10 points and handed out 14 assists. Juana Coletti contributed nine points and 11 rebounds.

SCC returns to action Jan. 7 against Brunswick, Ga. at home.

Lake Brantley's Patriots scored 12 more points from the field (six field goals) than Oviedo's Lions Saturday. You think that would be enough to win, or at least keep the period. Eguerra escaped in the second two minutes, but Carbia escaped, too, and came close to pinning his Brandon foe at the end of the period. In the final period, Eguerra used his superior conditioning to pull away for a five-point win.

"Eguerra just kept coming on that final period and Ivan (Carbia) gave up too many back points," said Schwartz.

Rawls Flattens 4

Although two Rams suffered heartbreaking setbacks in the finals, Lake Mary's biggest Ram — 300-pound Robert Rawls — made quick work of Bishop Moore's Andy Yerashunas to come away with a pin and a championship in 1:06.

Yerashunas dove at Rawls' feet to open the match and was lifting Rawls' leg from behind in the early going.

Rawls, though, was perturbed. "Robert just gave him that look that said 'what are you going to do now?'" laughed Schwartz. "Then he rolled him over and pinned him."

It was the fifth straight time Rawls has pinned Yerashunas over the past two years.

For the two-day tournament, Rawls pinned all four of his opponents in less than two minutes. He is 7-1 for the season.

Seminole County placed four more wrestlers in the finals, but just one — Lyman's Jay Hunziker — came away with a championship. Hunziker, a four-year veteran, outpointed Oviedo's Mike Hilgar, 5-2, to claim the 134-pound title.

Hunziker used a single-leg tackle to forge a 2-0 in the first period. Hilgar came back with a reversal in the second period for a 2-2 deadlock entering the final two minutes.

Hunziker then switched Hilgar in the final period and picked up another point when Hilgar locked his hands for the three-point decision.

Oviedo's Brian Smith (121) and Jerry Jordan (100) also made the finals, but lost. Jordan was defeated by Brandon's Bob Hendrickson, 7-5, and Smith was pinned by Brandon's Chris Arlona in 5:10.

Davis was named the tournament's most valuable lightweight while Brandon's defending state champ Dale Gustafson (147), who pinned Edgewater's Mark Mitchell in 3:07, won the heavyweight MVP.

Seminole County finished strongly in the consolation championships as Lyman's Chad Dubin (100), Oviedo's Shawn Knapp (114), Oviedo's Steve Berg (128), Lake Mary's Bob Olson (140), Lake Brantley's Joe Waresak (169), Lake Howell's Steve Cina (187) and Lake Mary's Ned Kolbjornsen (222) claimed titles.

Knapp, Waresak and Kolbjornsen won with pins.

Tennessee Lowers Boom On Boomer, Terps, 30-23

ORLANDO (UPI) — The Citrus Bowl featured a brilliant performance by Tennessee running back Johnnie Jones and a record five field goals by Maryland's Jess Atkinson, but one tackle changed the game's complexion.

Tennessee's Reggie White and Dale Jones made the tackle on Maryland quarterback Boomer Esiason in the second quarter of Saturday night's game.

But it became more than merely a sack when Esiason, a senior southpaw, crashed hard to the ground on his left shoulder.

He spent the rest of the night on the sidelines with a slight shoulder separation, watching his 15th-ranked Terps fall 30-23 to the unranked Vols.

"If it had been my right shoulder, I would have gone back in," said Esiason, who threw for more than 2,300 yards this season. "But since it was the left, I couldn't throw the ball and wouldn't have done the team much good."

"What a way to end it," said Esiason.

The Atlantic Coast Conference champion Terps finished the season 8-4. The Southeastern Conference Vols, after losing two of their first three games, wound up a solid 9-3 for the year.

Maryland trailed Tennessee 7-3 when Esiason went out. Reserve quarterback Frank Reich did a fine job, passing for 192 yards, but the Vol defense allowed the Terps only one touchdown.

"We didn't capitalize on the big plays," said Maryland Coach Bobby Ross. "We had to settle for too many field goals."

"Defensively, we couldn't stop them in the second half."

The Terps had trouble stopping Jones all night in front of an Orlando Stadium sellout crowd of 50,183. The junior tailback was the workhorse of the Tennessee offense, running 29 times for 154 yards and two touchdowns.

His two touchdown dives — from 1 and 2 yards — came during a 2:03 stretch early in the fourth quarter and put the game on ice for the Vols.

"We wanted this one badly," said Jones, who was voted the game's Most Valuable Player. "The entire team was pumped up. It meant a lot."

White, Tennessee's All-America tackle known affectionately around Knoxville as the Minister of Defense, led a Vol defensive surge that did some bending but little breaking.

"They gave us some trouble with their short passing game," said White. "But when it counted, we stopped them."

Lions End Buc Misery, 23-20

PONTIAC (UPI) — The only thing the Detroit Lions know about the playoffs is that they're in them.

"We don't know who we play or when," Detroit coach Monte Clark said Sunday after his team qualified for the NFL playoffs as the NFC Central Division champions.

Pro Football

with a 23-20 victory over the Tampa Bay and ended the misery of the Buccaneers's 2-14 season.

Actually, Detroit backed into its first title since winning the NFL championship in 1957 when Chicago defeated Green Bay earlier in the afternoon.

Detroit would open its playoffs at Washington for the second straight year if Dallas wins the wild card game against either San Francisco or Los Angeles. If the Cowboys lose the Dec. 26 contest, the Lions would play on the NFC West champion's field.

Dallas hosts San Francisco tonight to determine which of the two, the 49ers or Rams, will enter the playoffs as the NFC West winner and which qualifies as a wild card team.

The Lions will also not know until after the wild card games whether they play Saturday, Dec. 31, or Sunday, Jan. 1.

"I'm going to give the team a couple days off," Clark said. "But I don't want them to get too far away from football so we'll come back Wednesday and work Wednesday, Thursday and Friday against ourselves."

The Lions got off to a 1-4 start but recovered to go 8-3 and finish 9-7.

It is only the third time Detroit has qualified for the playoffs since 1957. In 1970 the Lions lost to Dallas, 5-0 and Washington squashed Detroit, 31-7, in the first round of the playoffs following last year's strike-shortened season.

Three field goals by Ed Murray, a touchdown by Sims and a 6-yard touchdown pass from relief quarterback Gary Danielson to rookie receiver Jeff Chadwick enabled

Checks For Charities Spread Holiday Cheer

DEAR ABBY Almost 10 years ago my letter arrived too late to run before the Christmas holidays, so you published it in January. I am hopeful you will receive it this year in time to make the Christmas deadline.

EUGENE F. MEGYESY, TULSA

DEAR EUGENE: I did, and I thank you for a generous gift, as well as a novel idea that is well worth repeating:

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I solved the problem of what to give the people on our Christmas gift list who have everything — including a collection of white elephants from previous Christmases.

We sent them checks (made out to them personally) in the amount of whatever we would have spent for a gift, and on each check we wrote, "Please sign this over to your favorite charity. Holiday cheer to you!"

Abby, there are so many worthwhile charities, why spoil the holidays fretting and shopping for unneeded gifts for people who are doing the same for us? We submit this idea in the hope that it will appeal to grown-ups who want to double their giving.

Abby, since you are probably among those who have everything, please accept the enclosed check for your favorite charity as our gift to you. God bless you and yours.

EUGENE F. MEGYESY, TULSA

Wrapping Service

The Sanford Jaycee Women will sponsor a gift-wrapping booth at Kmart, Sanford, Dec. 17-24. Proceeds will benefit local charities.

Prices start at 75 cents. Hours are: 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., Saturday; noon to 6 p.m., Sunday; and weekdays, from 6 to 9 p.m.

DEAR ABBY: First some facts: I live more than 1,000 miles from my parents, who have been married for 45 years. I've been able to visit them only a few times since my marriage 19 years ago, but I keep in close touch by phoning once a week.

My husband, two children and I visited them recently. They have a four-bedroom, two-story home, but there was room for only one extra person to sleep, so I slept on the living room sofa and my husband and children stayed nearby with relatives.

I couldn't unpack because there was no place to put anything. My clothes were on doorknobs and the backs of chairs. I was not allowed in the five upstairs rooms, which for the last seven years have been off limits to everyone but my parents, because nobody could walk through them.

No closet door will close. Five inches of counter space in the kitchen is maximum. My mother refuses to throw anything away. The place is a warehouse of broken appliances, old clothes, newspapers, food etc.

My two brothers who live nearby said they gave up years ago. Dad says if he even mentions throwing anything away, Mother creates a terrible scene. When he discards something, she retrieves it from the trash!

The place is an obvious firetrap, but we can't do anything about it. Can you suggest something?

CONCERNED DAUGHTER

DEAR CONCERNED: Face it, your mother is a very sick woman, and if your father has lived under those conditions for seven years, he's sick, too. Your brothers should arrange for physical and psychiatric examinations. Implore your family doctor to make a house call. The fire marshal and a public health official should also be summoned to examine the premises. Please don't wait until a tragedy occurs.

Your parents looked after you. Now it's your turn to look after them.

DEAR READERS: Last year Don Townsend sent the following item from the December issue of Changing Times magazine. It arrived too late for Christmas, but it could be helpful this year:

"Don't send Christmas greetings in cash unless you want to risk making an unintended gift to Uncle Sam. Last year, 170,000 pieces of illegibly addressed mail containing $1.1 million ended up in the dead-letter office. The Postal Service tracked down the owners of $472,000 — and kept the rest."

Hurry gals, it's time to save!

Spirit Of Season Shows In Holiday Gift Cooking

In kitchens across the country, The Holiday Season is the happiest and busiest time of the year. The spirit of the season is reflected in holiday cooking and baking.

No matter how large or small the budget, a homemade food gift crafted by you enhances the pleasure of the holiday season.

Give one of the following gifts of love made by you:

SUGARPLUM BREAD
 1 1/2 cups sugar
 2 1/2 cups flour
 1 tablespoon baking powder
 2 teaspoons pumpkin pie spice
 1 teaspoon salt
 3 eggs
 1 cup vegetable oil
 2 jars (4 1/2 oz. each) strained plum baby food (1 cup)

1 cup chopped pecans
 Preheat oven to 350°F. Combine sugar, flour, baking powder, pumpkin pie spice and salt in large bowl; set aside. Combine eggs, oil and baby food in a separate bowl. Stir liquid mixture into dry ingredients; mix just until moistened. Fold in pecans. Divide batter evenly between 2 ungreased red-pan loaf pans or 3 ungreased mini-loaf pans. Bake 45 to 55 minutes or until toothpick inserted in loaf comes out clean. Cool in pan.

Makes: 2 loaves or 3 mini-loaves.

ONE-STEP MINI STOLEN

1 package (1/4-oz.) active dry yeast
 1/4 cup warm water
 3 tablespoons sugar
 2 tablespoons vegetable oil
 1 egg at room temperature
 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 cups flour, divided
 1/4 cup golden raisins
 1/4 cup slivered almonds
 Powdered sugar

In bowl, mix yeast and water; let stand 5 minutes. Stir in sugar, oil, egg, lemon peel and salt. Stir in 1 cup flour, fruit and nuts. Add enough additional flour to make a stiff dough. Turn dough out onto lightly floured board. Knead about 3 minutes or until dough is smooth and elastic. Roll dough into 7-inch circle, fold in half just off center and place on a greased red-pan cookie pan. Cover loosely with lightly oiled plastic wrap; let stand in a warm place 35 to 40 minutes or until almost double in bulk. Bake in preheated 350°F. oven 20 to 22 minutes or until golden brown. Remove to cooling rack. Cool completely. Sprinkle with powdered sugar.

Makes: 1 loaf.

DATE NUT CANDLE RING

5 1/2 to 6 cups flour, divided
 1/2 cup sugar
 2 teaspoons salt
 2 packages active dry yeast
 1 cup milk
 1/2 cup water
 1 cup butter or margarine
 2 eggs at room temperature

Filling:
 1 box (8 oz.) chopped dates or 1 1/2 cups raisins
 1 cup chopped walnuts
 1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar
 2 teaspoons ground cinnamon

Icing:
 1 cup powdered sugar
 5 teaspoons milk
 1/2 cup chopped walnuts

Makes: 2 coffee cakes.
Mix: 2 cups flour, sugar, salt and yeast. Beat in milk, water and butter heated to 120°F-130°F. Add eggs and 1/2 cup flour; beat 2 minutes. Stir in enough flour to form a stiff dough. Cover bowl with oiled plastic wrap. Let rise 20 minutes

Spread: with half the filling; roll into 18-inch log. Pinch seams. Place seam side down on foil-lined baking sheet. Form around foil ring; pinch ends together. Slash and turn 1-inch sections. Cover with oiled plastic wrap; let rise 45 minutes or until doubled.

Form a ring of heavy duty aluminum foil 2 inches tall and 3 1/2 inches in diameter. Grease; set aside. Combine filling ingredients; set aside. Turn dough onto floured surface; divide. Roll each half into a 18x10-inch rectangle.

Preheat oven to 375°F. Bake 15 minutes; remove ring. Bake 10 minutes longer or until golden brown. Cool bread on rack. For icing, mix powdered sugar with milk; drizzle over bread. Sprinkle with nuts. Place on decorative tray with candle in center.

Cover cardboard circle with heavy duty wrap. Place bread on tray. To save time, make recipe ahead; drugstore wrap. Label, date, and freeze.

At time of gift giving, thaw bread. Place a candle in center or decorate with Christmas greens and overwrap with plastic wrap.

1 1/2 cups finely chopped pecans, divided
Mix cookie crumbs and liqueur in medium bowl. Set aside. Melt chocolate morsels and butter in small saucepan over low heat, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat. Gradually stir chocolate mixture and corn syrup into crumb mixture until well blended. Add powdered sugar and 1/2 cup pecans to mixture. Stir until well blended. (Dough will be stiff.) Shape by teaspoonfuls into balls. Roll in remaining chopped nuts on a sheet of aluminum foil. To maintain optimum freshness, store in freezer before giving. Drugstore wrap in heavy duty foil. Label, date and freeze up to 2 weeks. Serve at room temperature.
Makes: 48 balls.

BEER-CHEESE TWISTS
2 1/4 cups buttermilk baking mix
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1/2 teaspoon cayenne pepper
1/2 cup shredded sharp Cheddar cheese
1/2 cup beer
3 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
Poppy seed
Grated Parmesan cheese
Preheat oven to 425°F. Combine baking mix, mustard and cayenne. Add cheese and beer; mix until a soft dough forms. Beat vigorously 20 strokes. Turn out onto lightly floured board. Knead 5 times. Roll dough into 8x8-inch square. Cut dough into 1/4-inch strips and tie each in a loose knot. Place on ungreased aluminum foil-lined baking sheet. Brush with butter; sprinkle all twists with poppy seed and Parmesan cheese. Bake 10 minutes or until golden. Cool slightly, remove from aluminum foil sheet. To save time, shape remaining twists on sheets of foil the size of cookie sheet. Slide baked twists to cooling rack and bake remaining twists.

Liver May Recover From Booze Damage

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am a 45-year-old woman. Early this year I had an attack of alcoholic hepatitis. Although I feel slightly recovered I still have two or three bowel movements a day, itching and impaired circulation. I also notice small red spots on my body.

How will I know how much damage has been done to the liver and whether I can regain an adequate amount of liver function? How soon? Can you recommend a diet or medication? Will all the symptoms eventually improve and disappear?

DEAR READER—Fortunately the liver has about the best regenerative capacity of any organ in the body. That doesn't mean it will recover entirely, but you do have a good chance of a return to adequate function.

The best index of how you are progressing will be from various blood tests that measure liver function. These may remain abnormal long after your symptoms have disappeared.

The red spots are an indication of active liver disease and as you recover they should disappear.

Not everyone who has damaged his or her liver with alcohol makes a complete recovery. The liver may become scarred and contracted, called cirrhosis of the liver.

You may be surprised to know that a high percentage of the deaths in the United States are caused by cirrhosis of the liver. It is the fourth most common cause of death in men between the ages of 35 and 54 and fifth in women of the same age group. About 60 percent of these cases of cirrhosis are caused by alcohol. But I must emphasize that many people have cirrhosis of the liver and it is not from alcohol.

Let your doctor guide you on your diet as your liver status will make a difference. Obviously you should never touch alcohol again. It is toxic to the liver and you may gain some benefit from additional amounts of the vitamin B group.

DEAR READERS—Now that the cold weather is here, it is important to consider the problem of temperature, particularly as it relates to older people. As a person ages, the cold is difficult to tolerate. Many deaths occur each year because of cold exposure; cold weather is undoubtedly a factor in many disorders.

Cold exposure most often occurs in the home itself. Older people should not be in rooms below 65 degrees. Be sure that is room temperature, not just the temperature where the thermostat is. The bedroom where an older person is staying may be colder than the room where the thermostat or thermometer is located.

While people complain of coldness and may shiver at body temperatures between 95 and 97 they may not feel cold or shiver at lower body temperatures. It is important for older people to have their body temperature measured regularly if there is any exposure to lower temperatures.

Be sure the thermometer is shaken down below 95 degrees. If it reads 98 before you put it in the mouth that will be the lowest reading even if the body temperature is 94.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

construed as a great asset."

Jim: "Had West's opening lead been a club or diamond, South would have had no play for his contract, but West led a trump. East's 10 lost to the jack. The ace of spades was cashed and then South entered dummy by leading to the king of hearts."

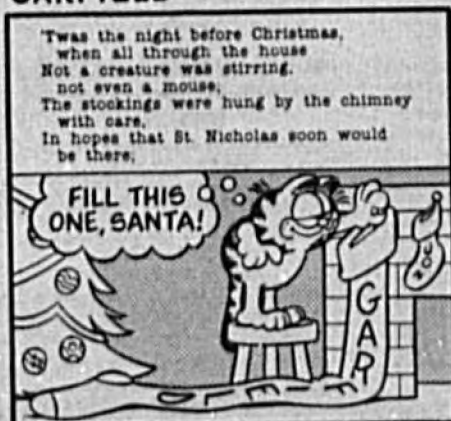

Oswald: "If he led the three of hearts, his play was both careless and stupid. It was stupid because he should know that that card might well be needed as a later entry to dummy, and careless because he played it without any pause for thought."

Jim: "He had to win that heart with dummy's king so the only entry left to dummy was the ace of clubs. Had he kept his three of hearts, dummy's six would have been a second entry."

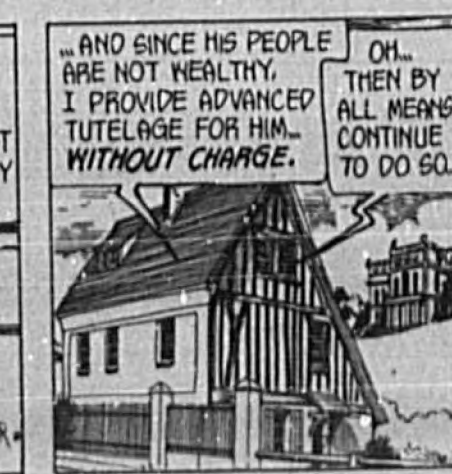

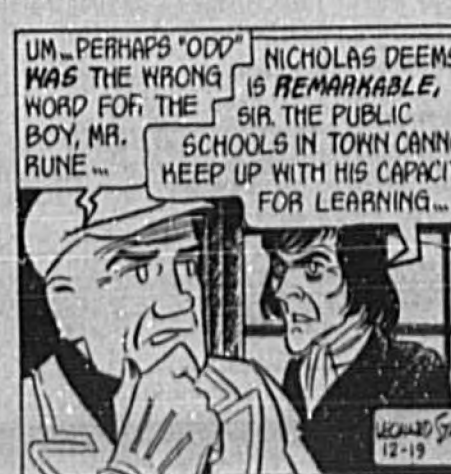

Oswald: "Finally he made a real comeback play. He led dummy's queen of spades and discarded a diamond after East had played the jack. West got that trick and two immediate diamonds, but dummy's spades were set up for club discards."

By Oswald Jacoby and James Jacoby
 Oswald: "Everyone makes stupid plays. They also make careless plays. Stupidity can't be helped; carelessness can."
 Jim: "I remember when you made a horrible play with me some 30 years ago. As a dutiful son, I could hardly keep quiet, but you saved me by remarking, 'I just played like an idiot.'" Oswald: "South had little excuse for his four-heart bid. His singleton ace of spades could not be
