Architect for the Ritz Theatre, Gerald Gross, observes as Bob Roberts, Devore Associates demolition contractor, uncovers the historical cornerstones at the Ritz.

Saving the past Some dissension mars Ritz Theatre renovation update

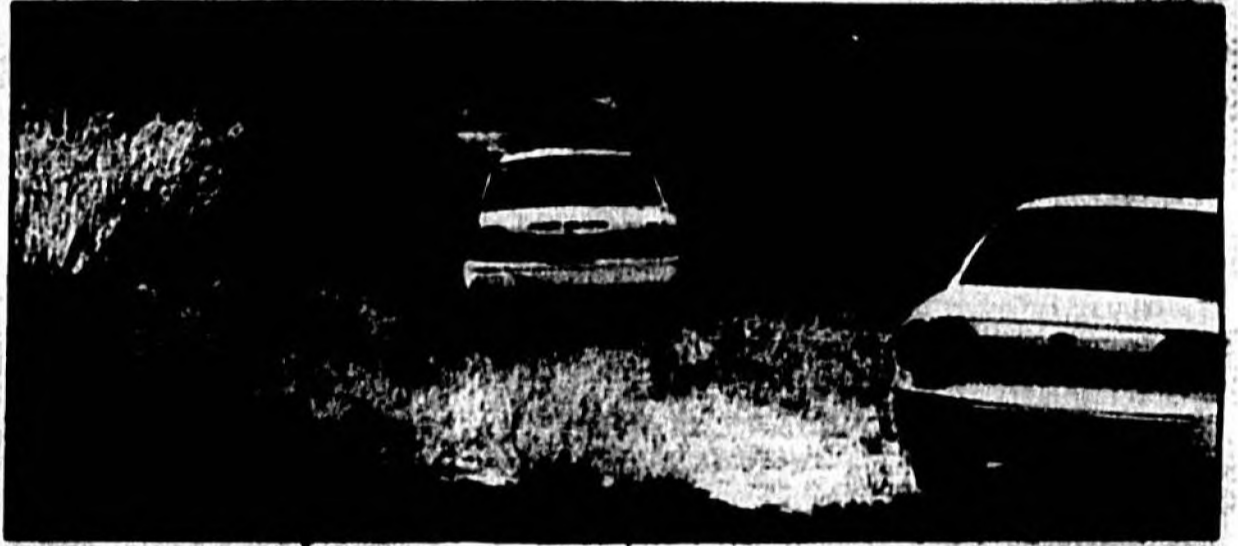

By MARIA OREM
Herald Staff Writer

What started as an update of the Ritz Theatre renovation turned into a confrontation as members of the Historic Preservation Board chastised the project architect for not following procedures. At its meeting Thursday at Sanford City Hall, several board members criticized architect Gerry Gross for failure to present Certificates of Appropriateness prior to removing exterior windows. "You need to come to this board for any renovation," said Laura Sollen, board chairman. "I want to see the C of A." "All we did was take the boards of the windows. There was nothing behind those windows," Gross said. Gross, who also serves on the historic board, told members if they had a problem they should speak up. Members Mike Skat and Jerry Mills agreed with Sollen saying that removing windows was an exterior change and required prior approval. See Ritz, Page 4A

Cops nab carjacking suspect, another sought

By DAVID FRAZIER

The driver of a 1989 Ford Bronco was the victim of a carjacking early Thursday morning in the 800 block of Perimmon Avenue. Police have arrested one suspect and are seeking another. About 6:10 a.m., Glen Green, 26, of Sanford, was traveling on Perimmon when an unknown black female jumped in front of his vehicle forcing him to stop. Then a black male --whom police later identified as Gilbert Strawter, 40-- came up from behind the vehicle and put a knife to the throat of Green. Strawter allegedly demanded Green get out of the car, and then Strawter and the female sped off. At about 9 a.m., Officer Robert Curtin of the Sanford Police Department noticed the vehicle

Farm purchase advances Lake Apopka restoration

Special to the Herald

PALATKA, Fla. - The clean-up of Florida's most polluted large lake moved forward as the St. Johns River Water Management District Governing Board agreed to buy another farm located within Lake Apopka's historic wetlands. The Governing Board agreed to pay $9.2 million for the 1,493 acre Lust Farms. The farm consists of two parcels located on the northern shore of the lake.

The purchase is in response to a legislative mandate. The Lake Apopka Restoration Act of 1996 directed the District to buy the farms to halt the phosphorus-rich discharges to Lake Apopka. The purchases at Lake Apopka are unique in that the Legislature has directed that the purchases include equipment and business value in addition to the cost of the land. The nutrient-laden farm discharges fuel algae blooms that cloud the water and contribute to the four feet of sediment blanket-ing the lake bottom. These conditions impede the growth of aquatic plants, which in healthier lakes provide fish and wildlife habitat. Lake Apopka was once heralded as "the world's most dependable fishing lake." The farm discharges and other pollution sources are blamed for the degradation of that once-great fishery. Furthermore, the Lake Apopka pollution flows downstream and harms the Ocklawaha Chain of Lakes in Lake County. The Lust Farms purchase is the third farm purchase at the lake since the enactment of the 1996 legislation. In April, the District closed on the purchase of the 3,211 acre A. Duda and Sons muck farm. In August, the District placed in escrow the money needed to buy the 5,254 acre Zellwin Farms properties in preparation for a closing scheduled for August 1998. Lust Farms will harvest its final crop in June 1998. The closing date is slated for September 1998. See Restoration, Page 4A

Student councils may soon set policy

By SHARI BRODIE

Seminole County School Board chairman Sandy Robinson challenges the representatives of the county's seven high schools to help set policy for the next school year.

The Seminole County Public Schools Association of High School Student Councils, commonly known as "District Student Government," may have the opportunity to have an impact on policy set by the school board for the next school year. In its first meeting of this school year, the representatives of the seven county high schools were challenged by Seminole County School Board chairman Sandy Robinson to evaluate the current "student appearance and dress code," and to suggest changes to the code that would make it more easily and evenly enforced at the high school level. "I have a personal interest in gathering information from the persons most effected by our policies," Robinson told the students gathered at the Educational Support Center on Thursday, Sept. 4. District Student Government was created in 1993 by the school board and school administrators to form a link between the students of the various schools and the body that governs them. Members of the District Student Government include the student council presidents of Lake Brantley, Lake Howell, Lake Mary, Lyman, Oviedo, Seminole and Winter Springs high schools, along with four other students selected to represent a "broad cross-section of the student population." U.S. swifties: A writer and a runner

Today is...
RUSS WHITE

Henry Louis Mencken and Jesse Owens had very little in common other than they were born on the same day and that we will forget them not.

Mencken was one of America's best newspapermen, the Sage of Baltimore. He was born on Sept. 12, 1880 in Baltimore, and died there on Jan. 29, 1950.

"If, after I depart this vale," he wrote in 1921 (Epitaph, Smart Set) "you ever remember me and have a thought to please my ghost, forgive some sinner and wink at some homely girl."

This alone ought to make us appreciate dear H.L.

Owens was one of America's greatest track & field stars. He won four gold medals at the 1936 Olympic Games in Berlin, Germany. He was born on Sept. 12, 1913 in Oakville, Ala., and died March 31, 1980 at Tucson, Ariz.

In May 1935, while competing for Ohio State University at a meet in Ann Arbor, Mich., Owens broke five world records and tied Henry Louis Mencken another in the space of 45 minutes.

The 10th and last child of a dirt poor Southern sharecropper, Owens became a compelling personality, a popular goodwill ambassador for the Olympic games, and an inspiring example for thousands of American athletes of all races and backgrounds.

"In America, anyone can become somebody," Owens said.

Sing along

What's with all the singers being born on Sept. 12? Maria Muldaur ("Midnight at the Oasis); George Jones ("He Stopped Loving Her Today.") and Barry White ("Can't Get Enough of Your Love, Babe." Muldaur is 54 today, Jones is 66, White is 53. It's also actress Linda Gray's birthday - No. 50. She was Sue Ellen on "Dallas." Ex-baseball pitcher Mickey Lolich, who won three games in the 1968 World Series is 57 today. Basketball player Tim Hardaway is 31.

Dinner and a movie

The rules are simple: Get ready for The Game

David Frazier

Screen Tests

David Fincher's The Game (Three stars) has one simple rule: see it! The film is a labyrinth with assorted twists and turns. It is exhausting yet exhilarating at the same time.

The Game is like a little known, rarely seen 1966 "B" horror movie called April Fool's Day. And like that old film, The Game reels you into its enigmatic web and then serves up a big payoff in the end. It is a nightmarish, Twilight Zone-ish puzzle.

Reviewer's note: Following will be an abbreviated version of The Game's plot because disclosure of too much might hinder the experience of seeing the film. Michael Douglas plays Nicholas Van Orton, a wealthy businessman that is unhappy like his father was before he plummeted from the top of the family mansion. Van Orton's brother, Conrad (Sean Penn), sees that and hopes to pull Nicholas out of his miserableness. So he offers Nicholas a gift - a voucher to play a "game". Nicholas takes the voucher to a company called Consumer Recreation Services (CRS) and, after a series of tests, the game is afoot. However, the "game", which a spokesman for CRS referred to it as "a kind of vacation", turns out to be a fight for survival both, mentally and physically, for Nicholas.

The film's script is credited to the writing team of The Net: John Brancato and Michael Ferris. However, Premiere magazine reported in its September '97 issue that Seven scribe Andrew Kevin Walker rewrote The Game script. All the better. Even though the film has situations that are far-fetched and even ludicrous, it is a cleverly tight thriller.

The choice to bring Walker on has another advantage to it, as well. It pairs him up again with Seven director David Fincher. Like Seven, the creators of The Game take a character and pushes that person to the brink and then sees how he reacts. Will Nicholas fall prey to fate and end up like his father? Or will he choose an alternative route?

It is interesting that Michael Douglas likened his character to Ebenezer Scrooge of A Christmas Carol. Like old Uncle Ebenezer, Nicholas realizes through his ordeal all the things that are missing in his life. Actually, that he has no Great food, great surroundings, and great prices. What else can you ask for?

How about freshly brewed beer?

At Hops Grill and Bar in Altamonte Springs, with a second location soon to be opening in Sanford, diners may view the microbrewery, which is at the center of the restaurant and surrounded by a glass enclosure. Several vats hold the varieties of beer offered, which include, Lightning Bolt Gold, Clearwater Light, Hammerhead Red and a seasonal Brewmaster's Choice. When the beer is ready, it is chilled and pumped directly into the taps.

The establishment is spacious and warm, decorated with richly stained wood. The immaculate kitchen is open for viewing as diners may watch their meals being prepared in the expansive grill area. Chefs slice prime rib and other prime cuts of beef, chicken and pork to order. Seafood choices ranging from shrimp to salmon are also grilled.

The association elects a president school, a vice president school and a secretary /treasurer school. These positions are held this year by Lake Mary, Oviedo and Lyman, respectively. Members of the faculty or administrators from each school serve as advisors who supervise the meetings.

The group meets five times a year. According to Marcy Gray, student activities director at Lake Mary High School and the advisor for the school's representatives, this is the first year that the SCPBAHSSC has voted to take on a project of this magnitude. In order to be considered in the school board's annual review of the Secondary Student Conduct and Discipline Code, the District Student Council must finalize a formal report by February. This gives the group only two more meetings in which to accomplish this task.

After a discussion period of what the audience considered appropriate or inappropriate dress, district president Nick Nanton introduced Robinson. Robinson first explained the make-up and function of the school board, how the board is elected and how policy is made.

In explaining the current dress code she issued a two-part challenge: define what is acceptable and what is enforceable.

"You need to talk to your fellow students," Robinson said, "because that's who you represent."

The student council chose to research the project by finding out how parochial and non-parochial private schools, elite private schools in the Northeast, other Central Florida public schools and society deals with the dress code. Also one school will research the effectiveness of uniforms and one school will examine the First Amendment ramifications. They will also become familiar with how each school enforces the current dress code and how the administrators interpret it.

The District Student Council's suggestions will be reviewed the board in a work session and if any changes are to be made, the changes will be advertised and brought before the public in a regular meeting of the school board.

Robinson also encouraged the students to choose a time when they could meet with the school board members in a round table discussion.

"Your opinion is critical," Robinson told the group in closing.

Ritz

Skat said he was concerned that Gross's actions would set a precedent and people desiring changes to their buildings would bypass the board process.

Gross said he followed procedures and removed the windows because they were life safety items.

"We went through City Hall and all the channels... we did nothing wrong," Gross said.

Sollien told Gross he should have come to the board first.

"If you want to be holier than thou, then get off the board... I am inclined to ask for your resignation," Sollien said.

At that point Gross proceeded to give an update of the renovation referring to a 1929 photograph of the theater located at 203 Magnolia Avenue. He said his goal was to bring the theater back to its original state as much as possible. Because of extensive water damage and years of deterioration, Gross said "we were months away from losing the entire structure."

Gross added that the windows were being stored in the building next door owned by Kay Bartholomew. Also in storage are fountains thought to have been installed in the 1930s. Her building, originally planned for an art gallery, has been the site of several theater productions, most recently, "Nunsense."

Following the meeting, Kay Bartholomew, vice president of the Ritz renovation committee, said the historic board let its petty differences get in the way of forward movement. She said the renovation crew had to act quickly because of time limits set on the grants and also because of the deteriorating condition of the Ritz building.

"Gerry knows what he's doing and they should let him go forward," Bartholomew said. "He's doing this at a very reduced rate and he has a lot of experience in downtown Sanford. He's restored most of First Street."

Gross on Friday said he plans to stay with the project, which he estimates will take about two years depending on the money flow and the actual renovation. He estimated the cost of the project, not counting the seating, to be about $800,000.

Funded through county and state grants totaling about $180,000, the actual work on the theater started about a month ago when crews demolished interior rotting structures. The stage has been removed and the roof will need to be replaced, Gross said, adding that crews are now focusing on stabilizing the building. When the stage was removed, workers discovered about three feet of standing water, which has since been pumped twice. The building is being aired out.

A recently discovered orchestra pit will be refurbished and the front door will be moved back about 15 feet to allow an open lobby. The marquee will be boarded up until it can be refurbished. The theater's 12 windows will be restored with canvas canopies.

The 10,000 square-foot theater will have about 550 seats because of safety reasons and American Disability Act requirements.

The Ritz first opened in August 1923 with about 1,000 seats as a vaudeville theater offering Sanford residents live theater. Since then, various projects have come and gone leaving the theater empty for long periods of time in a constant state of deterioration.

Gross, who was contracted as the project architect about four months ago, said he has loved Sanford since he started his first project here in 1978.

"It's a great community. It's a shame that a few special interest groups want to have their thumb in everything."

"This purchase brings us another step closer to meeting the Legislature's mandate to clean up Lake Apopka," said Henry Dean, executive director of the District. "We've a lot of work ahead of us, but we've never been this close to realizing the dream of a restored Lake Apopka."

tempts to take the movies out of the theaters will never work no matter how great the effects are, or the sound is, or the quality of the home entertainment system it's played on. These films -- or products as the case may be -- is part of a disturbing trend: Studios and cable television stations are cannibalizing the movies. These big screen imitations may be cheaper to make, but the cost comes out in the product.

Casper, A Spirited Beginning (Two stars) arrived in video stores this week from 20th Century Fox home video. It is an excellent example of how these films are handled with less care than their cinematic counterparts.

The new Casper offers themes about the family that are cliched and overused; dialogue like "doesn't stand a ghost of a chance" shows screenwriter ineptitude; the CG effects are less than convincing compared to the stellar job of the theater Casper; there is shameless marketing tactics on the part of 20th Century Fox and Saban Entertainment to advertise their films and television shows; and, the acting could be classified as amateurish at best.

There are, however, two good things about the new video venture: 1.) It will appeal to small children -- its target crowd -- and, 2.) the vanishing act the film does after its 90 minute running time is the most notable.

SAFELY HOME

I am home in Heaven, dear one: All's so happy, all's so bright! There's perfect joy and beauty in this everlasting light.

All the pain and grief are over. Every restless longing passed: I am now at peace forever. Safely home in Heaven at last.

Did you wonder I so calmly Tread the Valley of the Shadow? Oh! but Jesus' love illumined Every dark and fearful glade.

And He came Himself to meet me In that way so hard to tread: And with Jesus' arm to lean on Could I have one doubt or dread?

Then you must not grieve so sorely, For I love you dearly still: Try to look beyond earth's shadows, Pray to trust our Father's will.

There is work still waiting for you. So you must not idle stand: Do your work while life remaineth: You shall rest in Jesus' hand.

When that work is all completed, He will gently call you home: Oh! the rapture of the meeting! Oh! the joy to see you come!

Everywhere we look we miss you,
Love from the family.

Mormons celebrate 150 years

By JENNA HUGHES
Herald Correspondent

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints is celebrating the 150th anniversary of the arrival of the Mormon pioneers in the Salt Lake Valley. The story behind the anniversary is a piece of American history interspersed with religious persecution, the American west, hardship and faith.

WMFE-Channel 24 recently aired "Trail of Hope: The Story of Mormon Trail." Response to the documentary was so positive that the station is planning to air it again at a future date.

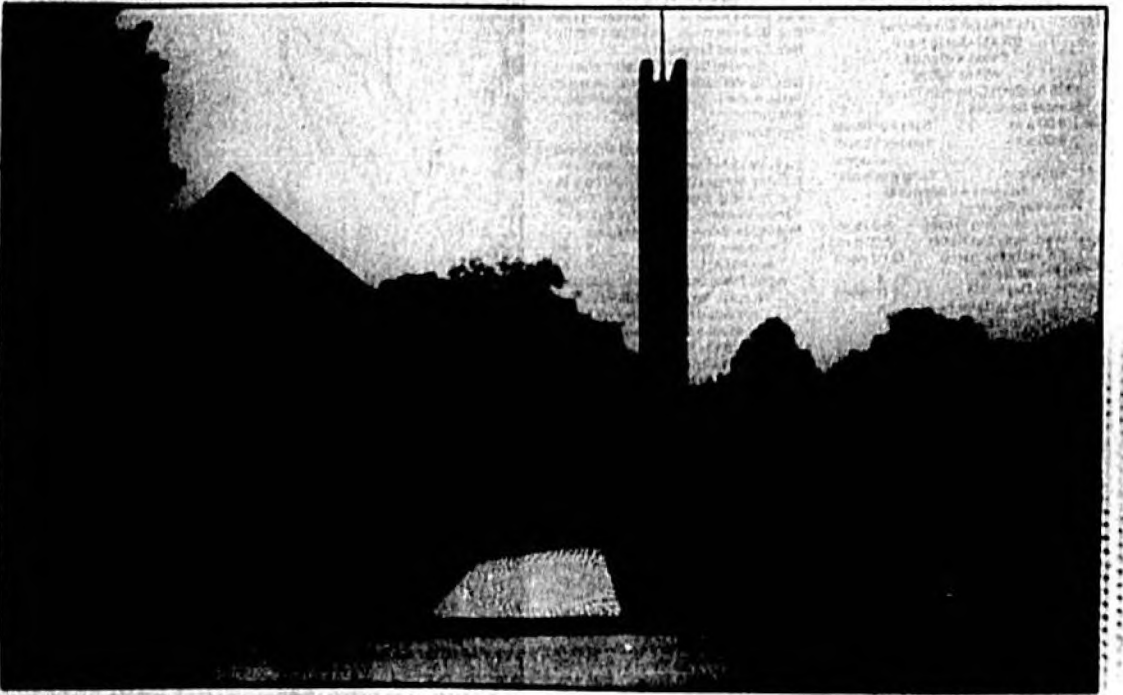

In the 1800s the Mormons' religion made them a close knit community within a community. Non-Mormons feared that the Mormons' unity would give them a stronghold on local politics and economics. Members of the Latter-day Saints were harassed, physically harmed, jailed and killed.

In the hope that they could live and worship in peace, the Saints built the city of Nauvoo, Illinois.

In the years that followed Nauvoo, located on a bend of the Mississippi River, grew to be one of Illinois' largest cities. The Saints began the work of building a temple. But the persecution began again. On June 27, 1844 an angry mob stormed the jail in Carthage, Illinois and murdered Prophet Joseph Smith and his brother Hyrum.

Following the death of Prophet Joseph Smith the Saints planned to move west to the Rocky Mountains, under the leadership of Brigham Young, President of the Quorum of the Twelve Apostles. The Church leaders studied the most up-to-date maps and information. Though the Saints knew that they must leave Nauvoo their commitment to completing the temple became even stronger. The temple would become a symbol of their dedication to their beliefs, and their faith in the plan God had for them. The Saints planned to leave Nauvoo in the spring of 1846, but threats of more violence hastened their plans. The Mormons had to sell their homesteads at great losses. Some had to simply walk away leaving virtually everything they owned behind. The great exodus from Nauvoo began on February 4, 1846.

The pilgrimage west was fraught with hardships. Mormon settlers faced the same perils as the settlers who came before and after them. Frigid weather, hunger, exhaustion, illness and death took their toll on the pioneers. There were encounters with Indians. These encounters were for the most part friendly. The Mormon travelers treated the Indians and their lands with respect. The two groups, though very different, shared a common bond. Each was seeking a place to live in peace and freedom. The Saints made the long, arduous trek, not as fearful people fleeing, but as the faithful heading to the promised land.

The Saints were trailblazers. During their migration the pioneers improved roads, built bridges, kept accurate travel records, and made lasting contributions to the technology of the day. One of the Saints, William Clayton, later wrote a book based on the knowledge gathered during their trip. "The Immigrant's Guide" was used by settlers of all faiths. United States army recruiters made a request for Mormon men to serve in the Mexican War.

The Mormon Battalion, a unit of 541 men, left their families behind on the trail to serve their country. Those left behind continued on their mission.

After a journey of 1300 miles the Saints finally reached their destination. Upon seeing the promised land for the first time President Brigham Young is reported to have said, "It is enough. This is the right place."

July 24, 1847 marked the Mormons official entry into the Salt Lake valley. Their journey had been a testament to the human spirit, the strength of many with a united mission, and the fulfillment of a prophecy.

In honor of their pioneer heritage wards throughout the world were encouraged to give 150 hours of service to their communities. Many local organizations including the Florida State Bureau of Braille and Talking Book Library, Children's Home Society, Habitat for Humanity and Outreach Rescue Mission benefited from the volunteer hours and donated goods. During Pioneer Service days roadways were cleaned, blood was donated, trees were planted, and donated goods were gathered and distributed. Volunteers from the Longwood Ward gave more than 300 hours to cleaning and repairing the Pace-Jackson Cemetery in Sanford. More than 1500 hours of volunteer service were given in the Central Florida area.

The Lake Mary Stake of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints is located at 2505 Lake Emma Road in Lake Mary. The Family History Center is also located at that address and contains a genealogy library that is open to the public.

For more information you may contact the Stake at (407) 333-0545 or the Family History Center at (407) 333-0137.

Revival promoted by Pastor Patterson

Editor's note: The following poem and comments were retrieved from the church bulletin from Central Baptist Church where the minister pastors.

These words appear on a tomb of an Anglican bishop in Westminster Abbey:

"When I was young and free and my imagination had no limits,
I dreamed of changing the world.
I discovered the world would not change, so I shortened my sights somewhat and decided to change my country.
But it too, seemed immovable.
As I grew into my twilight years,
in one last desperate attempt,
I settled for changing my family, those closest to me.
But alas, they would have none of it.
And now as I lie on my deathbed, I suddenly realize:

Rev. Jimmy Dale Patterson

If I had only changed myself first, then by example I would have changed my family.
From their inspiration and encouragement,
I would have been able to better my country and,
who knows, I may have even changed the world."

Let revival begin with you.

FOOTBALL FEVER

By JEFF BERLINICKS and KELLIE WERNER

Game of the week: Oviedo (1-0, last week beat University, 28-21) at Lake Howell (0-1, last week lost to Winter Park, 27-10), 7:30 p.m.

CASSELBERRY Oviedo has a score to settle. Last season, the Lions appeared dominant throughout the regular season until Lake Howell came to town for the final game of the year. The Silver Hawks beat Oviedo, setting up a three-way playoff with Lake Brantley for the two post season spots available.

Oviedo ended up as the odd team out, relegating them to the Rotary Bowl.

For the Lions, it was also the final game for longtime coach Jack Blanton who turned the reins over for Greg Register this season. Tonight, Register will be making his Seminole Athletic Conference debut.

Last week, the Lions bounced University with a steady performance from new quarterback Josh Cullen who fired a touchdown pass, and two rushing touchdowns from Jamie Scott (129 yards).

Scott and Leroy Jackson make up the bulk of the Lions' attack.

At Lake Howell, the Silver Hawks who are perennially the team to beat in the SAC, got off to a rough start last weekend. Despite a 73-yard touchdown run by quarterback Jesse Hannon, Lake Howell lost their opener for the first time in years. Hannon also fired a touchdown pass to Victor Nespeca.

Lake Mary (0-1, last week lost to Edgewater, 29-23) at Lyman (0-1, last week lost to Seminole, 19-14), 7:30 p.m.

LONGWOOD The Rams and Greyhounds face off in what amounts to a do-or-die contest in the second game of the season. Both teams lost last week in their season openers and must win tonight to keep playoff hopes alive in the tough Class 6A-District 4.

Lake Mary surrendered a 17-point first quarter lead at Edgewater but did have some shining moments. Cory Cooper threw three touchdown passes to newcomer Tim Spivey and Robbie Randall had a big night carrying the ball.

It was the defense, expected to be Lake Mary's strong suit, that led coach Doug Peters down with a miserable night stopping the run.

At Lyman, coach Larry Baker is hoping his team can finally turn the corner but came up short in the opening loss to revamped Seminole. Lyman stayed close as Joe Gioia caught a touchdown pass from quarterback Brian Krause and another touchdown run by newcomer Brad Harris, but time ran out on Lyman.

The Greyhounds are led by all-arounder Tarik McCall who is one of the best all-around players in the county.

On defense, the Greyhounds look solid despite having only three returning starters from last season.

Lake Brantley (0-1, last week lost to Apopka, 30-20) at Deland (last week lost to Mainland 35-0), 7:30 p.m.

DeLAND The Patriots are still looking for their first win under coach George Clayton. Last week, the Patriots gave up 10 points in a nine-second span in the fourth quarter to fall to neighborhood rival Apopka despite a big night on the ground.

For the second straight week, Brian Criswell broke a long touchdown run from his quarterback spot. In both games, Criswell went straight up the middle. Ryan Pagan, the Patriots' workhorse, also ripped off an 80-yard run.

Tribe-Panthers start newest rivalry

By KELLIE WERNER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD Tonight, when Seminole High takes the field, they will be fighting a battle that means a lot to not only them, but to their visiting opponent as well.

Pine Ridge is coming to town.

That means two things. One, that the first district match-up of the season for both teams will have one team fighting for position and one team in the driver's seat once the game is over.

"This game is important because it is our first district game," Seminole coach Jim Worthington said. "We have to go in ready to play and it's real important that we win so that we have a foot into the district race."

There is another reason, however, that this game will be an emotional one.

Worthington was the head coach at Pine Ridge for three years before taking the top job at Seminole.

At first, some of the Pine Ridge players took Worthington's choice personally. "I made a professional choice to leave Pine Ridge," Worthington said. "It was in no way personal, especially toward the players. I really liked all of the kids and still do. I wouldn't hesitate to tell a recruiter to go over there and look at one of them. My decision had nothing to do with my feelings about the kids."

According to Pine Ridge coach, Tim Johnson, although the kids might have resented Worthington at first, those feelings have quieted a little.

"There really hasn't been a lot of talk among the players," Johnson said. "But the kids are not looking at the game as personal. They are looking at it as a very important district game, and that's what it is. Maybe in the back of their minds they feel a little extra emotion because coach Worthington is no longer here. But I guess if I left, they'd dislike me a little too, for awhile."

Worthington is only looking forward to the game for the same reasons as his Volusia County opponents. His players know how much a win would mean in the district race and are ready to play. The fact that the game is against their coach's old team would just make a win a little sweeter.

"We really want to win to show Pine Ridge that we're coach Worthington's team now," said linebacker T.J. Martin, who will be playing his first game of the season after suffering an injury that knocked him out of last weekend's opener, a 19-14 win over SAC rival Lyman. "But we're going out there, ready to play, and looking to win a district game. There will probably be a little rivalry. Page 2B

Rams, Hounds boys get volleyball wins

From Staff Reports

LAKE MARY Ryan Holm had 36 assists as the Lake Mary boys' volleyball team ran its record to 4-1 with a 15-6, 15-9 victory over visiting Bishop Moore Thursday night.

"We are working together and gaining confidence as we continue to progress as a team," said Lake Mary coach Jeannie Fisher. "This is a rebuilding year for us and we are working both ends of the court well. The whole aspect of our game is coming together."

Also playing well for the Rams were Mike Otero (11 kills, three blocks), Jason Hawkins (12 kills, nine blocks) and Scott Henderson (nine kills).

Lake Mary will travel to Lake Brantley on Monday and then host Oviedo next Wednesday in Seminole Athletic Conference matchups and then travel to Winter Garden next Thursday for a contest with West Orange. All matches begin with the junior varsity at 6 p.m. with the varsity set for a 7 p.m. start.

LYMAN OVER .500

DELTONA Lyman's boys volleyball team gained added spirit and confidence as they raised their record to 3-2 after defeating Trinity Christian Academy Thursday night. Lyman coach Norman Ready said, "We played real well in the first game (15-6) but slacked off in the second (15-17)."

Stewart Cragar, Kevin Gray, and Michael Carolan had 24 blocks among them which helped in winning the game. Evan Lolocono had a terrific night setting with 15 assists. Lolocono also served 12 of the 15 points. Gray had five digs and Eric Soto had six. Cragar served seven aces and Gray had nine.

Ready said, "The second game I tried to substitute all the players so everyone would get a chance to play. Our strength at the net won the game."

The Greyhounds will stay on the road for a Seminole Athletic Conference match at Lake Howell on Monday night and then head over to East Orlando for a contest with University on Tuesday. Lyman will then return home for an SAC matchup with Seminole on Wednesday. All games start with the junior varsity at 6 p.m. and the varsity takes the floor at 7 p.m.

Delund struggled in its first game in District 6A Class 4. After giving Seminole a fight in the Kickoff Classic, the Bulldogs got routed by a stronger team in their opener. Running back Kenon Akins is one of the best in Volusia County and sophomore Craig Candeto leads the Bulldogs who lost to Lake Howell in the first round of the state playoffs last season but have little returning.

Seminole (1-0, last week beat Lyman, 19-14) at Pine Ridge (0-1, last week lost to Seabreeze, 21-16), 7:30 p.m.

This matchup should prove to be a heated one as Seminole coach Jim Worthington leads his 'Noles against his former team, Pine Ridge. "We're focusing on the game as important to the district," Worthington said. "I don't think that the kids are as stressed about who we're playing as they are about starting off the district race with a win."

Last week, Seminole beat cross-town rival Lyman, led by running back powerhouses Joe Knight and Deon Howard. Sophomore quarterback Garrett Goldsmith is fitting in nicely with his new varsity offense and although the passing game is a little rusty, the offensive line is making nice holes for their backs.

On the other side of the ball, the secondary lived up to its preseason expectations and protected nicely against the Lyman passing attack.

Pine Ridge suffered its first loss of the season when the clock ran out as the team moved the ball to the two-inch line. They are ready, however, to shake off that loss and to play an anxiously awaiting Seminole team.

"We've had good practices," said Pine Ridge coach Tim Johnson. "The kids haven't said much about the fact that they're going up against their old coach. They just want to win this one because it is a district game and it's very important."

Look for a pretty evenly mixed offense when Pine Ridge is in control. When full back Jay Rogers and tail back Keith Alexander aren't busting up the field, quarterback Steve Pitcher will attempt to find one of his talented receivers.

Special teams may be the key to the game as Seminole has Jason Armstrong and the Panthers have a young staff.

tie trash talking at first, but after we tackle them good and sound, that should take care of that."

Not suprisingly, the Panther players have the same sentiments for their Friday night opponent, especially after a potential game-winning drive stalled inside the one-yard line during a loss to Seabreeze last week.

"We're ready to play because this game could play a key role in the playoff picture," said linebacker Jeff Terado.

"They just better be ready for us because we're going to come at them hard and fast," added offensive lineman Carlos Corchado.

In all, the game tonight at Thomas E. Whigham Stadium should prove to be full of emotion, hard hitting and good playing. Don't be suprised, though, if the players feel a little bit stronger about the match up than they're letting on. It'll probably show in the strength of the tackles, the celebrations after scores and the reactions of the kids after the game is over.

the Tribe was able to pull off the comeback.

Clarence Latimer ran for 150 yards and scored three touchdowns for the Greyhounds. "We had a great running game and a tremendous comeback," said Seminole coach Ray George. "We shut Lyman out with our strong defense."

Seminole hosts Lake Brantley in a freshman-junior varsity doubleheader starting at 5 p.m. next Wednesday.

NEW SMYRNA BEACH In Saturday games, Sanford Youth Football Association teams against New Smyrna Beach, the Seminoles were 2-2-1.

The Mitey Mites played a find game in the 6-6 draw, despite having two touchdowns called back because of penalty flags. Scoring the only official touchdown for the Mitey Mites was Kevin Elliott. Also receiving some playing time were Dwayne "too short" Manley, Darrell Davis and Henry Dye.

The Jr. Pee wees were not as fortunate as they lost to the Cuda 26-12. The team played well despite the injuries to three starter and four players missing the game. Marcus Kendrick and William Edison had a good game as did Chris Smith who ran and 70 yard touchdown with both ankles heavily taped.

The Pee Wees controlled the ball much of the game not allowing a barracuda first down. Highlights of this 13-0 win were Chris "Bull" Oaler recovering a fumble and Chris Castillo, Jeff Bowers and Michael Goble dominating the line of scrimmage for the offensive unit. The Pee Wees' star player is Parker Davis who will be but for the season with a broken left arm. Get well Turner!

The Jr. Midgets were just as impressive as they posted a 26-0 shutout. Maurice Byrd grabbed the ball away from the Barracuda's QB and ran for a 75 yard TD for the Noles, who added two more tds in the first half and one more in the second half on route to a victory.

The Midgets were not as lucky getting behind early and never really getting into a good rhythm and losing 26-6. Douglas Walkuraki, Darrell Montgomery and Jonathan Kraft put forth an outstanding effort.

Last but not least, we would like to mention the cheerleaders whose hard work and effort shines every play of every game.

How to avoid travel problems

CONSUMER FOCUS

BARBARA HUGHES / GREGG

Travel scams may seem like genuine air fare and vacation package bargains. Complaints about travel promotions are often related to telemarketing firms or postcards stating you have won a prize. Vacation certificates, club memberships and 2-for-1 offers are travel promotions that may be too good to be true.

To prevent problems:
 • Never give your credit card or checking account number to a company that you don't know.
 • Check out the travel firm with consumer protection agencies and the Better Business Bureau where the company is located.

• Get all details of travel offers, including restrictions, and refund policies, in writing before you pay.

• Check travel offers with the hotels, airlines or cruise lines involved before you pay.

Sometimes problems occur even if you are careful. If you have a problem that involves:

• A travel promoter who won't provide the trip or give you a refund, contact the Attorney General's Office in the state where the business is located.
 • Contact or payment sent by mail, complain to the U. S. Postal Inspection Service's regional office where the business is located. Your postmaster can give you the address.

 • An offer charged to your credit card, notify your credit card company.

Complain to the National Fraud Information Center (NFIC) at 1-800-878-7080. The NFIC collects information and shares it with enforcement agencies.

Also, send a copy of your complaint to the Federal Trade Commission, Correspondence Branch, Washington, DC 20580. They don't handle individual complaints, but your letter might alert them to abuses requiring action.

AIR LINE TRAVEL

Remember to:

• Make sure you know all restrictions on airline tickets and what will happen if your plans change.
 • Protect your airline ticket, since lost tickets are very much like lost money.

 • Keep your valuables with you as you travel. Airlines aren't required to compensate you for lost jewelry, cameras or other valuables.

If you have a problem with an airline because...

• Your flight was delayed, canceled or you missed your connection, check with the airline to see if they will reroute you on another carrier or provide amenities such as a meal, phone call or hotel room.

• Your flight was overbooked and you were bumped, you aren't entitled to compensation if you reached your destination within 1 hour of scheduled arrival time. Beyond 1 hour (if you met the airline's check-in requirements) you may receive face value of your ticket (1-2 hours late) or twice the amount up to $400 (more than 2 hours late).

• Your baggage was lost, delayed or damaged, notify the airline's airport staff immediately. The airline's maximum liability per passenger on domestic flights is $1,250 ($9.70/pound) up to a maximum of $840 on international flights.

• Your plans change and you are due a refund for your charged ticket, the airline must send a credit to your credit card company within 7 business days of receiving the information needed to process the credit. If you have trouble getting your refund, write to your credit card company.

• The airline doesn't resolve the problem, contact U. S. Department of Transportation to report your complaint. File a service complaint with the Aviation Consumer Protection Division, U. S. Dept. of Transportation, C-75, Room 10405, 400 7th Street SW, Washington, DC 20580, (202) 368-2220. Send complaints about safety or security to the Federal Aviation Administration, Community and Consumer Liaison Division (APA-300), 800 Independence Avenue SW, Washington, DC 20581, (202) 267-3484 or 1-800-FAA-SURE.

RAIL TRAVEL

Complaints about railroad passenger service should be sent to Amtrak Customer relations, Washington Union Station, 60 Massachusetts Avenue NE, Washington, DC 20002, (202) 908-2131. Safety-related complaints should go to the Federal Railroad Administration, Passenger Programs Division, 400 7th Street SW, Room 5411, Washington, DC 20580, (202) 368-8332.

Change in teen sounds parents' alarm

Dear Readers,

I got a call this week from a mother of two teenagers in Seminole County schools. She was especially interested in the letter from the mother of the girl whose language, dress and behavior had changed dramatically since the family's move from Iowa to Central Florida. Sue, the mother who called, would like to share her experience in the hope that other parents might be able to learn from their family's pain.

Sue grew up in Iowa and is still a loyal Hawkeye fan. However, she and her family have lived in Central Florida for many years. The description of their family could double for a 1950's TV show: parents happily married, two children, stay-at-home mom, church every Sunday, parents very involved in their children's lives, both at home and at school. There are no cigarettes, alcohol or any other drugs in the home. So, what is wrong with this picture?

When Sue's son turned 14, she began to notice subtle changes in his dress, attitude, language and behavior. Since everyone knows that turning 14 is a synonym for temporary insanity, Sue attributed these changes to "normal" adolescent behavior.

Things at school were also

FAMILY COUNSELOR

beginning to change. At first he was tardy to a few classes. He then began cutting some classes and later started skipping school for a day at a time. Eventually, he was expelled for fighting at school.

The boy did not look odd. He did not have long hair, nor was his head shaved. None of his body was pierced and he did not wear any clothing that would easily identify him as a member of an at-risk group.

As his behavior at home and at school became more aggressive and hostile, his parents attempted to put restrictions on his activities. This only made him more out of control and violent. He was finally arrested for assault.

During all of this, his parents were frantically searching for answers to how to help and control their son. They sent him to a counselor, which did no good. When they asked him if he was using drugs, he would act hurt and say, "How could you even think that I would do that?" This made them feel guilty and ashamed for wondering. Additionally, they had taken him to a doctor for a complete physical, including a drug screen, and the court ordered another one after his arrest. The result of both screenings were negative.

When their son was 16, he had a religious experience that literally changed his life. He confessed that he had been using drugs for the past two years and that he had forged the results of the two drug screenings. (He knew in advance when he would be taking them.)

It would be nice to say, "And then they lived happily ever after," but this is a real-life story. He's had a few slips, but he's been able to get back in control after each one. He knows that he will struggle for the rest of his life with the siren-call of drugs. What would Sue do differently if she'd known then what she know now?

1. She would have paid no attention to his protestations when she asked him about possible drug use. His behavior was telling her what she needed to know.

2. She would have put him on random, periodic home drug tests.

There are home tests which test both hair and urine samples. (Drug residue lasts longer in hair than in urine.)

3. She and her husband are now participating in a parenting class dealing with teens through their church. And they pray a lot.

Grandpa Needs To Find a Bigger Audience

DEAR ABBY: Our grandfather is driving us bananas. He is in good health, retired and visits us every day. He is very good to us, but this everyday thing is taking a toll on us.

We love Grandpa dearly, but unless we make plans not to be home at the time of his daily visits, we are stuck listening to his opinion on everything - and according to him, his opinion is the only right one.

We don't want to hurt his feelings, but we are on the verge of a nervous breakdown. Alay, how can we handle this sensitive problem? PERPLEXED GRANDDAUGHTER

DEAR PERPLEXED: Your grandfather obviously is lonely and bored. Call the local seniors center and find out what kind of programs they offer. Encourage Grandpa to check out the center. If they serve lunches for seniors, suggest he go for lunch a few times to make friends.

Also, look into volunteer needs at local hospitals, libraries and schools, and impress on Grandpa how much he is needed in those programs.

If Grandpa is interested in traveling, buy him some travel magazines and pick up some brochures from your travel agent. There are some interesting cruises and tours especially for seniors.

DEAR ABBY: I have read your column many times and would like your advice on a problem I have.

I am 13 years old and am a partial vegetarian (I don't eat red meat or pork), which was my personal choice. When I eat at friends' or relatives' houses, they often serve red meat.

Most of my friends and family know what I eat, but when they forget, it is often a little embarrassing for me. I feel like I'm being ungrateful for not eating what they are serving me.

Abby, is this rude - and what should I say when this happens?

VEGGIE IN SIOUX CITY

DEAR VEGGIE: You are not being rude or ungrateful. Do not make an issue of it. Simply say, "The salad was delicious. May I please have a second helping?" (The same goes for the vegetable side dishes.)

It's nice to be kneaded.

Doctors need to listen to patients

DEAR DR. GOTT: Having just read your column entitled "Diagnosis of all-in-my-head warrants second opinion," I was relieved to learn that I am not the only person with this problem.

Ten years ago, because of numbness of my legs and feet, I saw my doctor, who told me that my symptoms were all in my head. Subsequently, I had an X-ray test that showed a herniated disc in my lower back. This was followed by corrective surgery. I am now fine — no symptoms.

I want to thank you for believing in people and taking their symptoms seriously. Many physical ailments could easily be confused with mental symptoms, but a good doctor should be able to differentiate between the two. Why don't doctors LISTEN more carefully?

DEAR READER: I am thrilled that your symptoms were eventually diagnosed and successfully treated. You are, of course, correct that doctors sometimes miss the boat because they don't take enough time to listen to patients' complaints. Consequently, it's pretty much standard thinking in medical circles to assume a patient's symptoms are psychosomatic (emotional) if the doctor can't find a physical explanation for them. As you've stated, this is not only cruel and unfair, but is bad medicine, to boot.

Rather than brushing off a patient's (sometimes bizarre) complaints, the careful doctor should seriously think of referring him for a second opinion. Such action can prevent an embarrassing resolution; more important, it sets the stage for compassionate and competent medical care. Thanks for writing.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have information indicating that TUMS exerts a harmful effect. By changing the acidity in the stomach, this product actually reduces the absorption of calcium and the digestion of protein, leading to toxic bowel. Therefore, your endorsement of TUMS is incorrect.

DEAR READER: TUMS tablets contain oyster-shell calcium, an effective dietary supplement and antacid. In order to neutralize stomach acid (and inhibit digestion), a person would have to consume many times the recommended dose of TUMS. Many experts suggest about four TUMS tablets a day to provide extra calcium as a strategy to prevent osteoporosis. This dosage is consistent with the manufacturer's suggestions for use as a calcium supplement. I do not believe that such a dose is in any way harmful to health, and in fact, it may be advisable for post-menopausal women, especially those taking hormone replacement therapy or anti-osteoporosis drugs such as Didronel and Fosamax.

Like any medication, TUMS can

DEAR DR. GOTT: My husband has a high cholesterol level in his blood. To help lower it with diet, I use Eggbeaters. However, the product contains 100 milligrams of sodium. Is this safe?

DEAR READER: Eggbeaters, a Nabisco product, is a safe substitute for whole eggs in people on low-cholesterol diets. Made primarily from yolk-free egg whites, Eggbeaters contains no fat or cholesterol whatsoever. It can be used the same way that whole eggs are: in recipes and for regular eating. The amount of sodium in the product is inconsequential.

WIN AT BRIDGE

What does that mean?

By Phillip Alder

To start, here is a British idiom. What do you think "dead chuffed" means? To give you a hint, after today's deal, one South was dead chuffed while the other certainly wasn't. How should the play go in four hearts after West leads a diamond away from the king? The deal occurred during the Forbo international team tournament held last February in The Hague. It helped Italy claim first place. For the United States, Bobby Wolff put in dummy's diamond jack and, when it held, immediately ran the heart jack. However, Alfredo Versace of Italy (West) won with the queen and returned a trump. With his communicallions in a mess, Wolff couldn't arrange to take two club ruffs in the dummy and lead toward the spade king, so he finished one down. At the other table, Norberto Bocchi showed the correct line. After winning trick one in the dummy, he took the club finesse. West exited with a low diamond. Declarer cashed the club ace and ruffed a club with dummy's heart nine. East discarded a diamond, making it unlikely he had the heart queen. Back to hand with a trump to the ace, Bocchi ruffed his last club with dummy's heart 10, East discarding another diamond. Declarer then played a heart to his king. When the queen dropped, Bocchi drew East's last trump with his heart eight and played a spade to dummy's king for an overtrick. When he found out that Wolff, many times a world champion, had gone down, Bocchi felt dead chuffed: very happy.

HOROSCOPE

Your Birthday
Saturday, Sept. 13, 1997

Some interesting twists could be in the offing for you in the year ahead. You are likely to be the luckiest in places where you were rather unfortunate previously.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Lately, the sun of opportunity has been hovering about your career. Today might be the day when it finally breaks through the lingering cloud cover. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2.75 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Your popularity is at a peak, so don't be surprised if friends are more attentive to you than usual. There is something magnetic in your charisma.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your feelings of fortune will be justified, even though outward indicators might not support them. Your luck is leading near the surface.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you have ideas or plans upon which you would like to expand, this is a favorable day for thinking big. Do not be intimidated.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Today you might experience strong feelings that Lady Luck is with you where your material interests are concerned. Play upon it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) You might be in a position to enhance already large opportunities today. Be grateful for your breaks and do what you can to build upon them.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) You might not have control over an important development today, but don't fret. Someone equally as competent as you is sitting in the driver's seat.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your high hopes can be realized today if you think about success instead of worrying about the number of ways you might fail.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) It is imperative that you establish meaningful objectives today. If not, you're likely to feel unfulfilled and ready to do something else.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you're determined to influence public opinion on an impressive scale, this is a good day to make your speech or presentation.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) In commercial matters today, trust your instincts. Along with your native resourcefulness, they make for a powerful combination that spells success.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) An associate whose clout exceeds yours will view you as a equal today. Do not be surprised if he or she suggests forming an alliance.
