Hughes Asks $2 Property Tax Increase For Schools

By SYBIL MITCHELL GANDY
Herald Staff Writer

Anticipating a need to build more schools in Seminole County before the 1984-85 school year, School Supt. Bob Hughes is asking for a $2 property tax increase.

But school board members said before approving such a measure, they would hold several public hearings sometime in July. At present, county property owners pay about $6 per $1,000 assessed valuation for school purposes.

Hughes told the school board that a state survey team recently indicated in its findings that additional construction of five elementary schools, one middle school, and one high school would be needed in three years to meet the county's projected 3 percent population growth.

According to Assistant Supt. of Finance Roger Harris, a state law was passed last year which empowers a county school board to impose this "2 mill" property tax, for funding such building projects.

Although Hughes expects the tax to raise some $20 million between this year and the 1984 school term, the costs will only cover the projected expenses of building three new schools, he said.

Funds for building plans of the other schools are unavailable, said Harris. But monies levied for in this newly proposed property tax should cover all expenses for Hughes' construction package.

"The high school is just about completed," Harris said, referring to the $14 million Lake Mary High School.

"We have been studying this matter of projected future needs since February. As an advisory body, we were careful to include in the construction projects costs of rate increases over the next few years," Harris explained.

"Present building costs are increasing by 1 percent a month. So that means putting off proposed construction a year after it is scheduled will increase costs by about 12 percent," he said.

"The planning calls for building two elementary schools and one middle school. Excluding the Lake Mary High School structure, the need assessments for our county indicates we'll still be three elementary schools short."

A new survey, Harris further explained, will be conducted by the state in the 1984 school year. Seminole County's three-school deficit will be added to the newly assessed needs at that time.

In a budget presentation to the board on Monday, July 6, Hughes will outline plans for new school construction as well as some refurbishing projects with detailed costs, he said.

The budget proposal will call for:

- Building an elementary school east of the Mellonville avenue school board offices between May 1982 and June 1983.
- Building another elementary school construction to begin

Damage Estimate $100 Million

Navy Clears Fighter Jet Wreckage

The nuclear aircraft carrier USS Nimitz received only minimal damage in the fiery crash of a Marine jet on its flight deck late Tuesday that killed 14 crewmen.

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) — The nuclear carrier USS Nimitz steamed to its home port today while Navy swabbies cleared the twisted wreckage of fighter jets from the flight deck where 14 crewmen died and 48 were injured in the fiery crash of a Prowler counter-espionage plane.

A team of Navy Safety Center investigators will determine why the Marine EA-6B jet missed its landing on the mammoth 92,000-ton carrier late Tuesday, hurtled into 19 parked jets and set fires that caused an estimated $100 million in damages to some of the Navy's most sophisticated warplanes.

Lt. Cmdr. Bill McLoughlin of the Atlantic Fleet headquarters said the senior official aboard the Nimitz probably had already reviewed videotapes of the Prowler's landing during a nighttime "electronic warfare exercise." All landings aboard the carrier are recorded, he said.

The carrier, which left for its home port Wednesday, was expected to dock at the Norfolk Naval Base between 1 p.m. and 1:15 p.m. today. The Nimitz had been bound for the Caribbean before the crash.

Burned pieces of the EA-6B Prowler, an electronic warfare plane that missed its mark in a landing attempt on the Nimitz late Tuesday, had to be separated from two mangled F-14 Tomcat fighters.

Damage to the carrier, one of the world's two largest warships, and its 4½-acre steel flight deck was described as "minimal."

The Navy this morning released a list of nine of the 14 casualties. The partial list did not include anyone from Seminole County, although the home address of record was not known for 1st Lt. Steve E. White who was stationed at Patrick Air Force Base. White, aboard the plane that crashed into the carrier, was killed.

A Miami man was among the Navy's list of 35 of the 48 injured crewmen.

Until the Navy began releasing names of the dead and injured today, families of the 6,000 Navy and Marine personnel on the ship jammed a special telephone line, routed through Washington, to the ship.

Twenty-one of the most seriously injured crewmen were taken to hospitals in Jacksonville, Fla., for treatment of burns and broken limbs, and late Wednesday four seriously burned crewmen were airlifted to Brooks Army Hospital outside San Antonio, Texas.

The other 27 injured crew members stayed on board for treatment in the ship's hospital, but Navy officials said some might be transported today by helicopter to a hospital in Portsmouth if the ship neared its home port.

Three crewmen were aboard the Prowler when it landed but it was not known if any survived, Navy Cmdr. Jim Lois said.

Atlantic Fleet Capt. Larry Hamilton said the Prowler — a sophisticated Marine jet nicknamed for its ability to jam enemy signals — apparently missed the runway's well-lit center line during a landing exercise and skidded out of control on the flight deck, veering into planes parked on the edge of the runway.

Capt. Sam Flynn, an Atlantic Fleet expert on carrier landings, said any number of problems could have sparked the accident, including mechanical failure, inability to determine horizon, control problems or wind across the deck — "but that's unlikely because the carrier can turn with the wind."

Naval officials said reports of pilot error were "premature."

The crash was the worst accident ever suffered by a nuclear-powered carrier.

None of the aircraft involved was armed with nuclear weapons, Navy officials said.

Good Money Supply, Economic Growth Forecast

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government's index of leading economic indicators rose 0.4 percent in April, the Commerce Department reported today, reflecting an increase in the money supply and promising more economic growth.

April's rise came on top of a big March increase in the composite index, originally reported at 1.4 percent but revised upward today to 1.8 percent.

The March hike was the largest increase since September 1979. The index had fallen from December through February.

Seven of the 10 available indicators for April increased, and eight of the 11 indicators now available for March also increased.

Money supply, a stimulant to demand, contributed the greatest increase after adjustment for inflation, the Commerce Department reported.

Also up were average workweek, new orders, the pace of deliveries, building permits, stock prices, and crude materials prices.

The 12 percent surge in crude petroleum prices in February was still pulling the April index up, because it is included as part of a four-month moving average.

The Index of Leading Indicators reached 138.3 in April, compared to a 1987 base of 100. The March index was revised to 137.8.

Two indicators — contracts and orders for plant and equipment, and change in total liquid assets — declined in April.

The index for leading indicators is designed to forecast what the economy will do during the next several months.

The increase in the money supply stimulates the economy but, according to the administration,

Ma Bell: What A Drag

A 19-year-old chuluota man was in the Seminole County Jail today charged with possession of stolen property and damage to business property after literally taking Ma Bell for a ride.

Sheriff's deputy Lt. W.H. Robbins reported that about 4:30 a.m. today, he received a radio call to check on a pickup truck allegedly dragging a telephone booth down the street in Chuluota.

Robbins arrived at the scene at 2nd Street and Old State Road 13 and sure enough, there was Daniel Alan Marion's Datsun pickup truck stuck in the sand, a phone booth connected to his rear bumper by a length of chain. Deputies said Marion told them he was trying to pull the booth out of the road.

Marion was being held this morning in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Sinkhole Insurance For Businesses?

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

State Rep. Bobby Brantley, R-Longwood, was in Winter Park today with State Insurance Commissioner Bill Gunter inspecting the Fairbanks Avenue sinkhole. The tour came one day after a bill Brantley sponsored requiring insurance carriers to make sinkhole coverage available to commercial enterprises passed the Florida House of Representatives.

Brantley's bill was originally intended to give insurance relief to mobile home owners. It was amended by Orange County legislator, Bruce McEwan with Brantley's cooperation to require every insurance company selling property insurance in Florida to include sinkhole coverage to commercial properties.

A law was passed 10 years ago requiring insurance carriers to include sinkhole coverage as part of insurance for homes.

Gunter scheduled today's tour. He invited Brantley and McEwan to accompany him after the special legislation was approved by the House Wednesday.

Brantley and McEwan earlier met with representatives of the insurance industry to work out the language in the amendment that consumers and the industry could live with, Brantley said.

"This is a significant issue in Central Florida," Brantley said.

His bill was on its way to the Senate today.

Meanwhile, an amendment allocating $400,000 to help the city of Winter Park pay for repairs and police expenses caused by the Fairbanks Avenue sinkhole was inserted into the Senate appropriations bill Wednesday.

The amended bill allocates $250,000 to pay for rebuilding the municipal swimming pool damaged by the sinkhole; $75,000 to study the causes and

STARKE PARK DEDICATED

Dr. J.C. Ringling (top), vice president of Fonn Sanfordians, a fraternal organization, participates in ceremonies dedicating the Dr. George H. Starke Memorial Park Wednesday. The park, located on West 5th Street and Avocado Avenue, is named in memory of Sanford's first black physician, who practiced medicine for 50 years prior to his death in November, 1978. Mrs. Helen Stucks (left), daughter of the late Dr. Starke, was a special guest. City and Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce officials praised the doctor for his dedicated work on behalf of the community.

School Volunteers To Be Recognized

Florida Commissioner of Education Ralph Turlington will award 28 Seminole County schools for their outstanding school volunteer programs at a ceremony Friday at the Altamonte Civic Center.

Dede Schaffner, coordinator of the Seminole County School Volunteers "The Dividends," said the Recognition Day is being sponsored by the State Department of Education for the 4th year.

Golden School Awards will be given to 24 Seminole County schools. The other 4 honorees will be presented with the Silver School Award, a distinction initiated this year for secondary schools whose students have donated volunteer service hours to other schools.

The Recognition Day program will begin at 10:00 a.m. and will feature "The Company," a choral group from Lyman High School.

Doctors Fight To Save IRA Prisoner Who Quit His Fast

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher arrived unexpectedly in violence-torn Northern Ireland today where doctors were attending an IRA prisoner who gave up his hunger strike because of bleeding ulcers. As doctors fought to save the life of Brendan McLaughlin, 29, IRA gunman shot and killed an off-duty policeman. McLaughlin, serving a 12-year sentence on firearms charges, ended his 14-day fast Wednesday after doctors warned him Monday he would die within four to five days without treatment for a painful perforated ulcer.

The policeman was hit several times and rushed to a hospital where he was reported dead on arrival, a police spokesman said. The officer — the ninth policeman killed in Ulster this year — was married, with a family. His name was not immediately released. A spokesman for Sinn Fein, the IRA's political wing, said McLaughlin's place in the hunger strike probably would be taken by another prisoner within days, just as others have replaced the four strikers who died in an effort to gain political status for IRA prisoners — steadfastly denied by Britain.

Habib: No One Wants War

U.S. peace envoy Phillip Habib flew back to Washington for consultations saying he was sure no one wants a Middle East war, but Israel made preparations to counter what it termed a "warlike mood" in Syria.

"I think it is time for a little consultation," President Reagan said in Washington Wednesday, announcing Habib's temporary return from 20 days of shuttle diplomacy.

Israel has threatened to use force to remove Syria's Soviet-made SAM anti-aircraft missiles from Lebanon's Bekaa Valley. Syria maintains the missiles are defensive and refuses to remove them. The SAMs have downed three unarmed Israeli reconnaissance planes during the crisis.

Cardinal Wyszyński Dies

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Cardinal Stefan Wyszyński, the austere leader of Poland's Catholic Church who triumphed in three decades of stormy relations with the Communist government, died early today. He was 78.

The cardinal died on Ascension Day — the holiday commemorating Christ's ascension into heaven — apparently of cancer. The bells of Warsaw's 78 churches began tolling and Polish Radio played somber classical music.

In Rome, where the pope is recovering from gunshot wounds suffered 15 days ago, a Vatican spokesman said John Paul has asked Vatican Secretary of State Cardinal Agostino Casaroli to represent him at Wyszyński's funeral.

A spokesman for the Solidarity trade union expressed "great sorrow" on learning of the death of Wyszyński who had played a moderating role between the government and the independent labor movement in the recent upheavals.

Additionally, renovation and expansion of exceptional facilities at Idylwild, Sterling Park and Altamonte Elementary schools will be included in Hughes' July budget.

"Under the circumstances, we feel that the superintendent is using the only viable alternative open at this time. But a lot depends on public reaction to the tax," Harris said.

Between July 18 and July 20, public hearings will be held "to give people a chance to express their opinions on the matter," he added.

On the basis of Hughes' recommended construction package as well as public input, school board members will take an official vote on the two-mil property tax at their regularly scheduled meeting on Sept. 9.

For Cocaine Trafficking

'The Colonel' Arrested Again

By BRITT SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

"THE COLONEL" ARRESTED AGAIN

For the second time in two weeks, Harlan "The Colonel" Blackburn, one-time czar of central Florida gambling, has been arrested for alleged cocaine trafficking.

Blackburn, 62, of 1428 W. 22nd St., Orlando, surrendered to law enforcement officials at the Orange County Jail Wednesday and was released on $50,000 bond.

Blackburn and two Orlando men — Lonnie Earl Dowling and Roger Lee Eldridge — were charged in connection with the March 19 sale of an ounce of cocaine to undercover agents.

Blackburn and four others were indicted May 14 for various narcotics laws violations. Blackburn was charged with two counts of conspiracy to traffic in cocaine and one count of conspiracy to deliver cocaine. He is free on $120,000 bond on those charges.

REDHORSE FACES FIVE YEARS

Michael Allen Redhorse, 30, of Orlando, faces five years in prison after being convicted in Seminole Circuit Court Wednesday of grand theft in connection with the March 2 theft of $187.85 worth of clothing from the Sears store at 403 E. Altamonte Drive, Altamonte Springs.

Sentencing was deferred pending completion of an investigation into Redhorse's background.

In other court action, William Henry Cleveland, 28, of Orlando, pleaded guilty to burglarizing the home of William Morrell Jr., 812 Lake Shore Drive, Maitland.

Morrell caught Cleveland inside his home Aug. 8, 1979 and held him until Altamonte Springs police arrived.

Leon H. Lowman, 28, of Reed Road in Oviedo, pleaded guilty to uttering a forgery. Lowman was accused of trying to cash a forged check for $107 at the Meat World store in Oviedo. The check was one of several stolen from a car in 1977.

Sentencing for Lowman and Cleveland was deferred pending completion of background investigations.

WISHING FOR ITS RETURN

Betty McAllister, 50, owner of the Carefree Florist at 2387 French Ave. in Sanford, wishes thieves would bring back what they stole from her florist Tuesday night or early Wednesday morning.

She could perhaps throw a coin into her wishing well and wish for its return. The only problem with that, however, is it was the wishing well that was stolen. McAllister said the well is four-feet high, made of wood and stained a redwood color.

learned this morning that you have to pay the dancer too.

Drummond reported to Seminole County sheriff's deputies that he was at the Fling topless bar on U.S. Highway 17-92 in Casselberry about 3:30 a.m. when he hired a dancer to provide him a personal show.

However, when the dancer was through, she told Drummond he owed her four more dollars. Deputies said Drummond refused to pay and was met in the parking lot by the dancer and her boyfriend when he left the bar.

Drummond reported that he was beaten and robbed of a gold and diamond ring.

No arrests had been made as of this morning.

State Claims Guards' Mutiny Sparked Prisoner Rampages

JACKSON, Mich. (UPI) — Disgruntled guards who staged a "mutiny" sparked the first of four inmate rampages that erupted into Michigan's worst prison rioting in nearly 30 years, a preliminary state investigation charges.

Corrections Director Perry Johnson vowed the state would take "appropriate" action against guards and inmates who contributed to the disturbances since last Friday, but did not elaborate on possible measures.

Peter Ellsworth, legal adviser to Gov. William G. Milliken, reported Wednesday overcrowding and other factors "provided the basic fuel," but guards conducting an unauthorized search triggered Friday's riot at Southern Michigan Prison in Jackson.

The rioting at Jackson, the world's largest walled prison, ignited an outbreak at the Ionia Reformatory and was blamed for a second day of disturbances at Jackson and a fourth riot at Marquette

Branch Prison Tuesday.

Early reports said 30 people, including inmates, firefighters and guards, were injured in the riots, but Ellsworth said the figure actually was closer to 100 and included several heart attacks.

Damages to the institutions was expected to approach $4 million, he said.

Some 7,800 convicts at the three prisons remained locked in their cells today and there were no reports of further incidents. Ionia administrators said inmates would not be allowed out of their cells until the weekend.

Execution Halted

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — The state Supreme Court today blocked the scheduled execution Wednesday of Dennis Wayne Smith, but refused to delay the execution the same day of Charles Kenneth Foster.

The court did not give written reasons immediately for staying the electrocution of Smith, convicted of the July, 1975, robbery-murder of John Mitchell Armadoff in Polk County.

But Smith's attorneys said newly discovered evidence, not available at the trial, showed that the key witness against Smith confessed that he was the killer when he first turned himself in and did not mention Smith.

They also told the court that the witness, Wesley Johnson, has since recanted his trial testimony and claims Smith was not even at the crime scene and that he, Johnson, was the killer.

Seven Dead, Five Hurt In Jersey Tenement Fire

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (UPI) — A fire that began in a mattress and raced up the stairwell of a four-story tenement killed seven people, including a mother and her four children, who were trapped on the top floor, authorities said today.

Five others, including two children and a firefighter, were injured in the two-alarm blaze Wednesday night. Authorities said the deaths might not have occurred if tenants hadn't spent 15 minutes trying to put out the blaze themselves.

Fire Director Raymond Maloney said the fire began at 10:40 p.m. in a bunk-bed mattress in a third-floor apartment.

The tenant, Caroleen Cooper, 36, tried to extinguish the blaze, which was in her children's room, by throwing water on it, Maloney said.

"She then dragged the mattress out into the hall and it jammed in the doorway, then lit up," he said.

Millionaire Executive Shot

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — Police today sought two men seen fleeing the exclusive country club where Roger Wheeler, millionaire founder and chairman of the board of Telex Corp., was shot down after a round of golf.

Witnesses at the Southern Hills Country Club Wednesday afternoon said a man got out of an auto, walked up to Wheeler's car in the parking lot and shot him in the face point-blank with a large-caliber weapon.

The executive was found slumped in the front seat of his car, shot through the head. Authorities said they had no motive for the shooting.

Armed Robbers Surrender

DETROIT (UPI) — Two armed robbers surrendered to police today six hours after taking three people hostage following a bungled robbery and a shootout. A third gunman was shot and critically wounded by police in the shootout.

At one time, the gunmen were holding 14 or 15 people hostage, but most either escaped or were released unharmed, police said.

The three gunmen reportedly walked into a bar, armed with sawed-off shotguns and announced a holdup early today. Someone inside apparently triggered a silent burglar alarm and police arrived before the robbers could make their getaway. Shots were exchanged.

Hinckley Takes Overdose

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John W. Hinckley Jr., the troubled drifter accused of trying to kill President Reagan, was under 24-hour watch today at a federal prison for taking a potentially harmful overdose of headache pills in a fit of depression.

Hinckley swallowed an undisclosed quantity of Tylenol, an aspirin substitute, Wednesday at the federal correction institute at Butner, N.C.

A defense psychiatrist in whom Hinckley confided about the pills notified medical officials.

Future Looks Good For The Southeast

ATLANTA (UPI) — The Southeast will see a continued surge in employment, population and income in the 1980s, the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta said.

William Kahley, writing in the bank's May issue of "Economic Review," said total employment in the six-state region will increase 18 percent by 1990, even though the last members of the post World War II baby boom have entered the job market.

Kahley said the predicted growth rate for the southeast was lower than that experienced by the region between 1960 and 1980, but he said exhaustion of the baby boom accounted for a smaller pool of workers from which to draw.

"If recent history serves as a guide," Kahley said, "the 1980 to 1990 decade will be marked by continued employment, population and income growth at rates exceeding the national average."

The states covered by the Federal Reserve's 8th district include

Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and Tennessee.

He said total employment on the national level is expected to increase by just 15 percent.

Kahley said per capita income in the region should "continue converging to the national average," rising from the present $4,600 per year to $6,600 by 1990.

The article cites several issues of growing importance in the 1980's, including international political and economic developments, which Kahley said will have an important impact on the southeast.

Kahley said a significant migration to the region, both foreign and domestic, boosted employment increases in the six states dramatically.

"Compared to the nation's 48 million increase — to 228.5 million in 1980 — the region has accounted for almost one-fifth of the nation's total growth," he said.

Kahley said his projections could be revised by changes in federal government tax, spending and regulatory policies and by the movement toward deregulation of energy prices.

"The answers to these questions depend upon the individual and collective choices made by baby-boomers and their relatives," Kahley wrote. "But, the Southeast should continue to rise towards a national level of well-being at an above-average pace."

Tax Cut Compromise Near, But No Pact Yet

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Key congressional tax-writers and Treasury Secretary Donald Regan emerged from a meeting today with "brightened" prospects for a tax cut compromise, but no agreement yet.

"We are in agreement much more than we are in disagreement," said House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill.

"Things have not darkened as of this meeting," he said. "Things have brightened." Regan was reluctant to discuss details of the breakfast meeting, which he described as "a good give-and-take session." But, he said, "We don't have a tax bill."

The treasury secretary said he may meet again with Rostenkowski and Senate Finance Committee chairman Robert Dole, R-Kan., "late this afternoon or tomorrow morning."

Rostenkowski planned to meet with Democrats on his committee this afternoon and said, "We may come to some conclusion" afterward. Wednesday, Dole outlined a tax cut proposal that would reduce tax rates by 25 percent over 1 1/2 years instead of 30 percent over three years as proposed by the president.

Dole's blueprint also includes several popular tax code changes, such as a modification in the so-called marriage penalty, that are not included in the White House bare bones bill.

Rostenkowski said "core questions" that remain include the size of the tax rate cuts and whether the bill should cover more than one year.

"We probably will get together again" after Dole and Rostenkowski discuss the proposal with their committees, Regan said.

Dole and Rostenkowski met Wednesday to discuss the basic outlines of a tax proposal, and indicated they were close enough to an agreement that they wanted to ask the administration for its opinion.

Beware: Players Of Pinball, Space Invaders, Slot Machines

BOSTON (UPI) — Doctors have identified two new ailments afflicting armchair athletes: Space Invaders wrist and slot machine tendinitis.

Timothy McCowan of the University of Arkansas College of Medicine, a video game buff, wrote he could be suffering the first identified case of Space Invaders wrist.

McCowan reported he had been troubled for a month by a stiff, painful right wrist that could not be explained by vigorous sporting activities, since he had participated in none, and was not caused by injury.

The probable cause was his frequent use of "Space Invaders" by Atari, a popular video game that can be hooked up to home TV screens. Players use a hand-held control box with a control stick that requires a large number of rapid arm movements.

"My greatest concern is that this letter will prompt a wave of reports of video-game injuries (if not a subspecialty of sports medicine). In view of the booming video-game industry, the possibilities, unfortunately, appear endless: 'Asteroids' osteoarthritis, pinball palsy, phaser felon..."

In another letter, Dr. Richard Neiman of the University of California-Davis and an associate, Susan Ushiroda of Lewis and Clark College at the Northwest School of Law in Portland, Ore., described an affliction "rarely seen by physicians practicing outside of easy driving distance to gambling casinos."

They said two patients reported excruciating right shoulder pain with no history of injury. Questioning revealed the patients had spent the previous weekend in Lake Tahoe, Nev., playing the slot machines.

They postulated symptoms may vary with how long and how hard the players hit the slot machines.

"The optimal treatment is rest or winning a jackpot early," they wrote.

OPEC: They Do Us No Favors

Sheik Yamani, the Saudi Arabian oil minister, says the customers of OPEC need a breathing spell before they are hit with another price increase. Such concern is coming a little late. He speaks for oil monopolists who have engineered a 2000 percent increase in the price of their product in the last 10 years.

Ministers of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, in any case, now are being told not to expect higher prices for their product. Indeed, the ministers may be more concerned about how to keep prices from falling.

The reason is the "glut" of petroleum on the world market. Supply has pulled ahead of demand, a symptom of weakness in the OPEC cartel even if economic or political developments could make it a temporary phenomenon.

OPEC price actions which have raised the price of crude from a top of $2 a barrel in 1971 to $40 today have had the inevitable impact on consumption — through slower economic growth in the industrial countries, conservation efforts, the popularity of more fuel-efficient cars, and switching to non-petroleum fuels such as coal and nuclear.

Gasoline consumption in America is running 16 percent below the level of three years ago. Our oil imports in 1980 dropped 18.3 percent below 1979.

What should worry OPEC more is that an increasing share of the oil reaching the world market is coming from non-OPEC sources — such as Angola, Canada, Mexico, Norway and Malaysia. These countries owe no allegiance to OPEC to limit their production as a means of sustaining an OPEC-dictated price.

OPEC must contend with these developments to keep discipline in its ranks. Mr. Yamani says he hoped to get the more hawkish members to lower their prices to a figure closer to the $32 a barrel which Saudi Arabia is now charging for its oil and to keep the price stable for a year or two. Then, he says, OPEC could "index" its future price increases to inflation.

With Saudi Arabia wooing the West for the right to buy sophisticated arms, this is advanced as a moderate or reasonable stance by Mr. Yamani. He would have us believe, however, that $32 a barrel is a reasonable price for oil to begin with. His plan overlooks the fact that price-indexing of a commodity as basic to production as oil will only help perpetuate inflation.

We must not forget that OPEC is a price-fixing conspiracy that would not last an hour if subject to the anti-trust laws that govern our domestic marketplace. Consumers have no reason to feel kindly toward it because its chief strategist thinks they need "breathing space" before the screws are tightened some more.

OPEC was in a poor position to raise prices this time around because of the progress the importing nations have made in curbing their appetite for oil — especially oil offered for sale by countries in OPEC.

The lesson is clear. We should redouble those efforts which have brought us this far — exploring for new oil and gas sources in this country and in the non-OPEC sphere, encouraging development of synthetic fuels and alternative energy sources, and being conservation-minded at thermostats and gas pumps. This is the real key to stabilizing the price of oil.

As the result of water problems in South Florida Sanford will be the last port of call for the 12th annual Kissimmee Boat-A-Cade June 20-27. Water levels are so low in the Ft. Myers area that the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has closed locks in the area to prevent salt water intrusion of community drinking water, so the nautical caravan will not be leaving Kissimmee for Ft. Myers as originally scheduled.

Instead it will travel north from Melbourne along the Intracoastal Waterway with overnight stops at Daytona, St. Augustine, St. Simon's Island, Ga., then south to Palatka for the annual banquet. The trip ends on June 27 in Sanford with more than 425 nautical miles covered.

Registration will be June 20 at Jim Rathmann Marine in Melbourne. For more information call Kissimmee Boat-A-Cade at 305-847-4662.

The Federal Emergency Management Agency has apparently not heard about our drought, however. They have chosen this time to single out Seminole County as one of only three counties in the Southeast Region to be declared eligible for additional flood insurance coverage under the National Flood Insurance Program.

The full limits of flood insurance coverage are now available to any property owner located within Seminole County," according to Region IV Acting Director Harris M. Pope. "Coverage available on a single-family residential structure has now been increased from a maximum of $33,000 under the emergency program to a maximum of $165,000 under the regular program status."

Similar increases for other types of structures and contents are also available. Tenants may also obtain additional coverage for their personal property against flood loss.

Never mind the flood insurance, how about sinkholes and drought?

Prospective transfer students now attending Seminole Community College will have the opportunity to meet with a representative from the University of Central Florida who will be visiting during a visit to the SCC campus on June 18.

Advice for students who plan to transfer to UCF and those wanting to know more about the academic programs at the university will be available from 9 a.m. to noon.

"PLATO," a computerized instruction program is now available to community adults at Seminole Community College. Computer terminals are used by the students to learn a variety of topics including Chemistry, Physics, Algebra, Nursing and English and Basic Math. The PLATO Lab will be open all summer, Monday through Thursday from 7:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. There is a $5 fee for the summer term. For more information on scheduling computer time, call SCC at 322-1450, Ext. 538.

ROBERT WAGMAN Equal Justice, IRS Style

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The Internal Revenue Service insists that all taxpayers — rich or poor, powerful or obscure — are equal in the eyes of the tax collector. But two recent trials have again revealed that the IRS considers some taxpayers a little more equal than others.

This is the story of two men, both of whom happen to have come from Baltimore and to have been parties to recent court actions in that city.

The first is Richard L. Bennett, a local businessman who owns part of two related paving firms.

It seems that Bennett evaded about $11,000 in taxes in 1975 and 1976 by, among other things, having one of his companies make repairs on his personal residence and writing off the work as a business expense. He should have reported the cost of the repairs as income and paid taxes on that sum.

The IRS threw the book at Bennett, filing criminal charges against him rather than simply requiring him to pay the back taxes plus penalties and interest. Bennett pleaded guilty in federal court to one count of tax evasion and was sentenced to nine months in a federal prison and a $5,000 fine — even though he had already paid the back taxes.

The other man is Spiro Agnew, the former Maryland governor and U.S. vice president who now is in the import-export business.

Agnew was the defendant in a civil suit brought by three Maryland citizens, who charged that he had pocketed while governor some $200,000 in bribes from contractors who did business with the state. The three, on behalf of all citizens of their state, were suing to force Agnew to return the money to the state treasury.

You may recall that Agnew never admitted to any wrongdoing when he resigned as vice president in 1973. He was not charged with a criminal offense but was instead allowed to plead "no contest" in federal court to a civil charge of tax evasion. His only penalty was a fine of $10,000.

But papers filed as part of the recent court suit revealed that Agnew had quietly paid the IRS $194,000 in back taxes on unreported income for the years 1967 to 1973. The former vice president has not disclosed the source of this "unreported income" and refused to leave his new home in Palm Springs, Calif., to testify at the Maryland trial. His lawyer said that Agnew would take the Fifth Amendment if forced to testify.

So, for not paying $11,000 in taxes, Bennett faced felony charges and will have to go to prison. For not paying $194,000 in taxes, Agnew was allowed to quietly pay up, plead no contest to a civil charge and go about his business.

EDUCATION WORLD

Marijuana: Is It Burning Out Young?

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
UPI Education Editor
Is marijuana burning out the young — or no threat to school children?

It's burning out the young, says a many-pronged report in the May "PTA Today," the official voice of The National Parent Teachers Association.

The report adds up to a marijuana primer for parents, many of whom, in a contemporary tragedy, don't find out their kids are hooked until after the fact.

The authors include Dr. Robert L. DuPont, former director of the National Institute on Drug Abuse and president of the American Council on Marijuana. The council will sponsor a national conference on marijuana use in schools in the fall.

Another of the authors, also internationally renowned, is Dr. Gabriel G. Nahas, physiologist, pharmacologist and research professor of anesthesiology at the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Columbia University.

Virginia Sparling, National PTA president, tells the reason for the focus on spotting and fighting drug use among school kids — one of the PTA's crusades.

"Too many of us are losing our children to alcohol and-or drugs," she said. Sparling said parents should be alert to these facts:

—From 1975 to 1979 daily use of marijuana among high school seniors almost doubled; there is a tendency for younger and younger children to experiment with it.

—Increased potency of pot. Authorities are finding some pot being sold is as much as seven times stronger than pot sold four years ago.

—New scientific evidence marijuana smoking is harmful in a number of ways. Marijuana is "the single most serious new threat to our nation's health," DuPont says.

"The use of marijuana has become a serious problem in the nation's schools, where millions of children 10 to 18 are smoking marijuana daily," Nahas said. "There is now incontrovertible evidence that these young people are damaging themselves."

His summary of harm, based on reports at recent international conferences, went like this:

—Small amounts disrupt cell chemistry and impede formation of DNA, RNA and protein — the building blocks essential for cell growth, development, and division. White blood cells, for example, lose their ability to divide rapidly, a process necessary to combat disease.

—Study of male marijuana smokers, 18 to 22 shows that after one month of heavy use (several cigarettes a day), sperm count is lowered, sperm motility reduced, and incidence of abnormal cells markedly increased. "This information raises the possibility of transmitting a genetic abnormality to an offspring."

—The deep inhalation of one marijuana cigarette produces more lung irritation and airway obstruction than the smoking of 10 tobacco cigarettes.

—Heavy daily use has been associated with inertia and lack of motivation, so apparent in the "burnout" of adolescents.

What can parents do?
"The first principle is to learn," DuPont says.

"Parents, teachers, counselors, and youngsters themselves must have the facts. ... facts alone will not stop marijuana use. However, in the absence of factual knowledge, all preventive efforts will fail because they will not be perceived by adults and youth as firmly based on science and directed toward the well-being of youth. They will, instead, be seen as anti-youth and repressive."

"The second principle is to take a stand to ensure that our youth grow into adulthood free from drug dependence.

"... take a stand in schools, at home, and in the community. Drug use is not a decision for children to make. Drug use, including marijuana use, is not a normal part of adolescence. Even the national marijuana lobbying organization discourages children from using marijuana.

"The third principle is to join others in the effort. Do not try to solve the problem alone. Parents can get together and form self-help

ROBERT WALTERS They May Lose Their Seats

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Black and Hispanic representatives from inner-city congressional districts are in danger of losing their seats because thousands of their former constituents have migrated to the suburbs. The situation is especially ironic because racial integration of the nation's housing market long has been a high-priority goal of virtually every responsible political leader who is a member of a minority group.

Blacks and Hispanics able to flee from the blighted cores of many of the country's biggest cities, they have argued, often can benefit from the superior vocational, educational and recreational opportunities in the booming suburbs.

But the departure of those minority-group voters from the cities has endangered the status of approximately a dozen House members and scores of state legislators who no longer can rely upon a solid political base of ethnic support.

With state legislatures now constructing new congressional and legislative districts for the coming decade, "It's hard to create a ghetto or barrio district when people are spreading themselves around," notes Michael Barone, a highly regarded political demographer who is editor of "The Almanac of American Politics."

The 1980 census of population, whose results provide the basis for that reapportionment, documents the accelerating trend toward minority-group dispersal outside the cities.

Among the 10 congressional districts that suffered the largest losses of population during the past decade, eight are represented by Hispanics or blacks.

At the top of that list is New York's 21st congressional district, which covers the infamous South Bronx and is represented by Rep. Robert Garcia, D-N.Y., a Hispanic.

In second place is Michigan's 13th congressional district, encompassing Detroit's ailing center city. Represented by a black in the House in recent decades, its population declined 19 percent during the 1960s, another 37 percent during the 1970s and now stands at a mere 291,400.

Similar situations exist in congressional districts represented by blacks in Chicago, St. Louis, Cleveland, Philadelphia and other cities.

Some of the endangered legislators insist that their seats must be protected, citing the provision of the Voting Rights Act of 1965 that requires the states to prove to the Justice Department or the federal courts that a proposed reapportionment plan "does not have the purpose and will not have the effect of denying or abridging the right to vote on account of race or color."

parents' peer groups. Parents can work with school officials; parents can support laws to get rid of head shops, which sell marijuana paraphernalia; and organized parents can make life hard for the sellers of illegal drugs."

What about alcohol? Isn't that a bigger problem than marijuana with school kids?

Use of both have increased in the last decade and DuPont says heavy users of one drug — alcohol or marijuana — "are likely to be heavy users of the other."

"No anti-marijuana program can hope to be successful unless it also deals with the alcohol problem," he said.

"Similarly, youth now use other illegal drugs, particularly diverted pills such as tranquilizers and sleeping and diet pills, plus purely illegal drugs such as cocaine and heroin. Again, these problems, and the solutions to them, are closely interrelated."

Sparling listed the signs of heavy marijuana use among children — signs "familiar to many parents":

—loss of interest in schoolwork.

—The tendency to lie without any feelings of guilt.

—Change in child's attitude toward the family.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Pipe Bomb Explosion Hurts 2 In Gainesville

GAINESVILLE, (UPI) — A Marine Corps recruiter and his girlfriend were injured Wednesday when a pipe bomb went off in their apartment in downtown Gainesville, police said.

Neither was seriously injured. Police said they had no motive or suspects in the case yet.

Nathan Hines, 28, the recruiter, was treated at Shands Teaching Hospital for multiple shrapnel wounds on his legs and released. Juanita Barry, who suffered lacerations and burns on her legs and feet, was hospitalized.

Gainesville police Sgt. Ed Cason said the homemade bomb exploded shortly after 8:30 a.m., blowing the door off the duplex apartment, shattering windows and causing an estimated $2,000 damage to the interior.

Bill Bans Live Rabbit Use

TALLAHASSEE, (UPI) — The House easily approved a bill Wednesday prohibiting use of live rabbits or other small animals in training greyhounds to race.

The bill (HB 25) by Rep. Steve Pajcic, D-Jacksonville, is identical to a measure (SB 180) by Sen. Pat Frank, D-Tampa, approved last week by the Senate Commerce Committee. Both bills would give dog trainers until July 1, 1984, to devise some other system of training dogs — without using live rabbits.

Sen. Frank said dog trainers have been using wild jackrabbits, brought to the state from deer in the West. She said some of the rabbits have escaped from tracks and multiplied in Florida, becoming an environmental problem.

Senate Rejects Pay Raise

TALLAHASSEE, (UPI) The Senate rejected a move Wednesday to give legislators a pay raise but the House approved higher expense allowances for all state workers, including lawmakers.

The Senate voted 36-4 against an amendment by Sen. Don Childers, D-West Palm Beach, which would have hiked the salaries of legislators each year by the same percentage given state employees under the career service system.

A special commission headed by former State Ethics Commission Chairman Don Reed of Boca Raton has recommended that basic legislative salaries be jumped from $12,000 to $18,000.

House and senate budget writers are moving toward a 7 percent pay raise for state employees this year. The Childers amendment would have meant an $849 increase.

Drought Relief Temporary?

WEST PALM BEACH (UPI) — Fire officials say the rains that fell Wednesday put drought-stricken South Florida in the best shape it has been in for 2½ months, but it may only be temporary.

"We're in a better position... than we've been in for 2½ months," said fire-control officer Jim Keen of the Florida Division of Forestry.

"We're not out of the woods. This will dry out. By Sunday, we'll probably be back running fires again. But this gives us a breather."

Showers pelted dwindling Lake Okeechobee Wednesday, raising the level of the huge reservoir for most of South Florida above the critical point at which water would no longer flow out into its network of canals.

To Thrash Out Budget

House And Senate Panels To Confer

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — The House and Senate spent the first eight weeks of the session wrestling with their versions of a $9 billion-plus state budget, but that was the preliminaries.

The real work begins this afternoon when a House-Senate conference committee begins trying to reconcile the two spending plans into a final state budget — and in time for scheduled adjournment a week from Friday.

The Senate approved a $9.4 billion budget late Wednesday that provides hefty increases for roads, schools and law enforcement within existing state revenues, but may make tax increases inevitable sometime soon.

The budget was passed 37-3 after a full day of tough debate and several clashes in which a coalition of conservative Democrats and Republicans headed by Dempsey Barron of Panama City won out over supporters of Senate President W.D. Childers.

"This is a good news, bad news budget," said Rules Chairman Ed Dunn of Daytona Beach, one of Childers' top aides.

The proposal meets current state needs by providing $200 million for interstate construction and other special transportation projects and substantial increases for law enforcement, he said. But most of the money comes from the state's surplus reserve fund and if these programs are to be continued next year, the Legislature will have to raise taxes.

Barron said he sees no need for tax increases now or later.

The Senate appropriated $400,000 to help Winter Park deal with its giant sinkhole, but after a clash between Orlando Sens. George Stuart and Tom Jennings and Quincy Sen. Pat Thomas. Under a resulting compromise, $150,000 goes to the city from state coffers and $250,000 from federal trust funds.

The Barron coalition beat the Childers group and increased from $6 million to $15 million the appropriation to begin construction of a new Sunshine Skyway Bridge across Tampa Bay.

It also chastised two Childers' supporters, Joe Carlucci and Mattox Hair of Jacksonville, by eliminating $425,000 for a Duval County theater and removing money to let the University of North Florida plan freshman and sophomore programs.

During its budget work, the Senate voted 36-4 against an $840 pay raise for legislators now and additional increases in the future.

The Barron coalition consists of 24 of the Senate's 40 votes. It hung together throughout the day, maintaining the control that enabled it to withdraw the spending plan first approved by the Senate a month ago and start over. Barron had charged that the original proposal was designed to force a penny increase in the sales tax.

The group won 23-14 on a move to increase the Sunshine Skyway Bridge money. It won 24-15 on a drive to remove money for UNF's lower division programs, while leaving intact money to expand Florida International University in Miami and the University of West Florida in Pensacola.

The coalition also managed to put in $6 million for a UWF branch campus in Panama City, Barron's hometown.

Bouyed by these victories, Barron supporter Pat Neal of Bradenton predicted late Wednesday that House leaders will bypass Childers and deal with the "Dempseycrats" during the upcoming conference committee negotiations.

Voting against the budget were Sens. Pat Frank of Tampa, Sherman Winn of Miami and Carlucci.

Partly because of a threat by Gov. Bob Graham to veto the budget, the "Dempseycrats" agreed earlier this week to a $33 million law enforcement program. They added to that program Wednesday, finding $1 million for 20 additional Florida Marine Patrol officers.

The House and Senate are about $300 million apart in total spending. The Senate dipped into the $417 million working capital reserve fund for $194 million to help fund a $200-million-plus program of special transportation projects.

The House budget is minus the special roads projects.

Agent Faces Drug Charges

MIAMI (UPI) — The former head of a federal team that prosecuted South Florida drug smugglers has pleaded innocent to charges he aided in the trafficking of drugs by telling smugglers how to avoid being caught.

Former Assistant U.S. Attorney Harold Keefe, 37, made the plea in Dade County Circuit Court Wednesday and was released on his own recognizance. His trial is set for August 10.

Keefe is charged with trafficking in narcotics and conspiracy to traffic for advising a suspected smuggler "on how to best structure the criminal enterprise to avoid detection," said Arthur Nehrbass, commander of the Dade County Organized Crime Bureau.

The drug running operation allegedly smuggled marijuana, cocaine and Quaaludes into the United States from Colombia. Police said the drugs were smuggled into Miami, where some were sold. The rest were sent to Texas and the industrial Northeast, police said.

Police called the five-month investigation that resulted in the arrests of Keefe and 15 others "Operation Giraffe."

Now engaged in a private law practice in Coral Gables, Keefe once led the Miami office of a Justice Department team that prosecuted drug smugglers.

Keefe said Wednesday he had "no idea what the charges are about."

A Miami businessman free on $1-million bond is expected to surrender to police this week on drug charges stemming from the same case, Nehrbass said. Police say the businessman, Mario Tabraue, is the ringleader of the group.

Tabraue may be out of the state on a honeymoon, Nehrbass said.

Posey Hopes For Rosy Seminole Bloom Tonight

Quarterback Jeff Litton positions a teammate.

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor

Five Seminole County coaches hope to see a blooming spring team that will turn into a ripe veteran autumn unit tonight when the annual spring jamboree kicks off at Oviedo at 6:30.

Seminole, Lyman, Lake Howell, Lake Brantley, the host Lions and Orange County counterpart Apopka clash with each other in which each school sees two quarters of action.

Here is a look at the matchups:

Quarter one — Lake Howell vs. Apopka

Quarter two — Lyman vs. Sanford

Quarter three — Apopka vs. Lake Brantley

Quarter four — Oviedo vs. Lyman

Quarter five — Sanford vs. Lake Howell

Quarter six — Lake Brantley vs. Oviedo

For the hungry, an Uncle Jones Bar-B-Que ribs "Spring Fling" takes place in the Oviedo Commons from 4 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. A "Pop Concert" will be performed by the Oviedo band and dance students for your dining enjoyment.

Fighting Seminole Coach Jerry Posey will be looking for a little harmony from his squad during the football action. One harmonious group thus far has been the linebacking corps of Antonio Davis, Greg Register and Byron Washington.

"The linebackers have been excellent all spring," raved Posey about his senior-to-be trio. Despite nine senior-to-be defensive starters, Posey gives the impression he doesn't look at his defense as a veteran unit.

The defensive ends — John Rowsey and Jim Athey — are both seeing their first starting roles. Sophomore Junior Marvin Pringle takes over at one defensive tackle with 6-foot-1, 198-pound Billy Painter along side the 210-pound Pringle.

"Painter has been a pleasant surprise," said Posey about his defensive stalwart. "Last year we couldn't figure him out. Maybe it's because we changed him from offense to defense, but he's really getting after people this year."

While Posey looks for Billy to paint some bruises on opposing running backs, he already knows what to expect from his two safeties Vince Edwards and Mike Apple. Speed.

The two quick-stepping track men are counted on by Posey to run down any ball carriers which evade the front seven and stay with any fleet-footed wideouts. Both will be seniors this fall. Edwards, who was an outstanding 440-yard dash man for Coach Hank Daviero, was switched to defense from running back. Apple was a fine hurdler.

At strong safety Posey starts senior Butch Carter, while untested sophomore Daryl Manley gets his varsity baptism under fire at the weak safety spot. Quarterback Jeff Litton will do the punting. He is backed up by freshman Mike Futtrell.

While Posey hopes to get some harmony from his defensive unit, he has one of the finest solo acts going in Seminole County in senior-to-be offensive tackle Isaac Williams.

"Of course, Isaac's always been tough," reminded Posey about his 6-foot-3, 240-pound mass of muscle. "All three (Florida, Florida State and Miami) big schools in the state are interested in him." Williams benchmarks 350 pounds.

One of the three—Miami Assistant Coach Mike Archer—confided to Posey that Williams had the best form (offensive stance) for a kid his size that he's seen on the high school level.

Williams will be Seminole's strong side tackle, which means he will flip-flop to the side the Tribe usually wants to go. In accordance with the lineup, wideouts Frank Rowe and Frank "Quarter" Pounders will be used as tight ends or split ends depending on the formation.

Complementing Williams at the other tackle spot will be returning letterman David Williams or sophomore Doug Sanders. Buck Landers will play right guard and veteran Don Croslyn is the left guard. Sophomore Jay Hauck is solid at center. Landers and Croslyn will be seniors.

Posey's biggest and what he hopes will be his most beneficial move was switching Lenny Sutton to fullback. Sutton, a hard-hitting linebacker last fall, possesses 4.640 speed plus in a strong runner.

With Sutton to spring the inside game, Posey hopes it will release running backs Victor Williams and Johnnie Littles—two more fall seniors—to get the outside yardage.

The biggest indicator for Fighting Seminole success, however, will be the play of quarterback Jeff Litton. The 6-foot, 175-pounder saw action last year, but had trouble throwing the ball.

Posey, though, feels he is throwing the ball better this year. How much better will probably determine the 1981 success of the Seminole.

Greyhounds No Place, But Up

By BENTON WOOD
Herald Sports Writer

There is nothing to lose and everything to gain for Lyman football coach Bill Scott tonight. When his Greyhounds hit the gridiron in the second and fourth quarters of the spring jamboree at Oviedo High School, Scott will be looking ahead to a new football season while trying to forget about an 0-10 campaign last fall.

Tickets are going for $2. Parking is 50 cents.

"We've got some ideas on what we want to do next fall," Scott said yesterday, "but a lot depends on what happens tomorrow night (tonight)."

Scott has a mixture of returnees from last season plus a host of players from Lyman's undefeated junior varsity squad from a year ago. In fact, seven players off Larry Baker's (promoted to offensive coordinator this spring) 7-0 J.V. club will start tonight against Sanford and Oviedo.

Quarterback Duane Johnson, who started at the helm as a sophomore in the 'Hounds final six games last fall, will be throwing to two of the JV newcomers. Junior-to-be Todd Marriotti gets the starting nod at split end while David Jacobs will start at flankerback.

Also starting in the backfield will be tailback Vince Presley who is in the mold of Audie Cleveland. Presley, who was the starting flanker back last year as a sophomore, has the speed 9.9 to run past defenders and has the size (6-foot-2, 180 lbs) to run them over.

His running mate tonight will be Jim Farley who has been converted to fullback. They will miss Willie Perry, who teamed with Johnson and Presley at the end of last season for a three-sophomore backfield.

"Willis has a bad wheel and won't see any action tonight," Scott confirmed.

Up front offensively, Jay Mazaleski returns as the starting center. David Seligson and David Cadd get starting calls at left and right guard respectively, while Chris Tschieder and Graham Mays anchor down the tackle spots. Tight end Willie Perkins rounds out the starting offensive unit.

Three of the front four on defense are JV grads from last season. The lone senior, Frank Lawson, is joined at tackle by John McCoy. David Williams and R.J. Golda lineup at the defensive ends slots.

Rick Fredrick and Lonza Collier return from last season's defense to head the linebacking crew. Newcomer Mike Hill will start next to Collier at inside linebacker while Curt Schuster rounds out the foursome on the outside.

The secondary is solid with seniors Carl Queanberry, Jim Callan and Rhett Harwell returning.

Scott sounded optimistic about tonight's jamboree. "We've got a few things we're gonna experiment with to see what we can do."

Bisceglia Era Begins For Hawks

By SCOTT SMITH
Herald Sports Writer

Tonight's jamboree will be the first test for Lake Howell's new Head Coach, Mike Bisceglia and his men.

Learning players names and their abilities have been a minor task for Bisceglia, who came up from Hialeah at the beginning of May.

A players-coach, Bisceglia has quickly filled departed coach Sam Weir's shoes and hopes to be just as successful.

But this year, Bisceglia will be without the seniors that guided the Silver Hawks to an 8-3 record last year, along with a district title.

Howell has set moderate goals for the jamboree. "The teams number one goal is to execute well and number two, to come out on top."

"Each kids goal is to do their best" said Bisceglia, "while the coaches goals are to get as many kids in to play."

Quarterback Scott Frick is the key to the offense along with running backs Scott Grant and Ricci Magaro.

Also planning to see action in the backfield will be 5-foot-5 Bill Mosblech and freshman Bill Lang and Jay Robey.

Planning to open the holes for the backs are six large and young linemen. Dan Rae, a returning guard, started last year and is the only senior-to-be on the line.

David Orstein is the other guard. Mike Jones will be snapping the ball while Bill Norton and freshman James Royal are the tackles.

Completing the line is tight end Fred McNeil. Slot back Nat Edmonds and split end Carlos Payas round out the receiving crew.

Jeff Whipple, who caught a touchdown pass in last week's intra-squad game, will see action at split end as will freshman John McKay (no relation).

The defensive unit, which is prepared and ready for tonight, is led by tackle Mike Palmer. Jeff Bryant is the other tackle.

Kendell Wherry will be at nose guard while the ends are Jim Cook and Todd Russell.

Doug Fugleberg and Chris Bauer, who each had their share of tackles in the intra-squad game, are the linebackers.

Filling in the defensive back spots will be baseballer David Martinez, Joe Hunt, Magaro, Long and Grant.

Coach Bisceglia is not sure what to expect tonight. "I don't know the caliber of football played in this conference. "But our scrimmages looked well, and I'm pleased with the films," concluded Bisceglia.

Bennett Bound For Nationals

Sanford's Alice Bennett takes a major step in her Florida State track career Friday when she competes in the AIAW National Tournament at Austin, Tex.

The former Fighting Seminole qualified in two events. Bennett, a sophomore, leaped 20-feet-1 and one-fourth in the long jump to meet the National standard.

Bennett is also a member of the 4x100 relay team which set a school record May 17 at the Virginia Invitational. Bennett teamed with three flying freshmen — Esmeralda Garcia, Marita Payne and Randy Givens — to run a blazing 44.7.

Florida State placed third in the National Indoor Meet — its highest finish ever — and hopes to do well in the Nationals according to Coach Roger Smith.

There are too many ifs to predict where we might finish," said Smith. On paper we look good, but we're not running on paper. We've got to do that on the track."

Smith, who's in his first year at FSU, feels confident with his sprinting and hurdling strength.

We have a strong sprinting team up through the half mile," said Smith. We think we have as much depth as anyone in the country."

And responsible for part of that depth is a 5-foot-6 Sanford whirlwind.

Dr. J. MVP

DANVERS, Mass. (UPI) — Julius Erving put an end to rumors of a rift with his coach with the same efficiency he uses for one of his sweeping, slam dunks.

The brilliant forward for the Philadelphia 76ers, named Wednesday as the Most Valuable Player in the NBA, opened his acceptance speech at the awards lunch with a ringing endorsement of Coach Billy Cunningham. Erving also made it clear any feuding between the two, which was visible during Philadelphia's playoff series with the Boston Celtics, was attributable to the tensions and pressures of the moment.

"There's no doubt in my mind I wouldn't be here if it wasn't for Billy," said Erving, who averaged 26.4 points per game this season. "In four years, Billy has become a better coach and because of that I've become a better player. I just wanted to set the record straight. We do get along."

Erving, incredibly, became the first non-center to win the league's most coveted individual award since 1964, when guard Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati won. And not even the runner-up was a center; Boston forward Larry Bird was second in the balloting by 89 media members, three from each league city.

Los Angeles' center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, a six-time MVP, placed third, while Moses Malone of Houston, a center, was fourth and San Antonio's

JULIUS ERVING

George Gervin, a guard/forward, was fifth.

Other award winners announced were Indiana's Jack McKinney as Coach of the Year; Darrell Griffith of Utah as Rookie of the Year; Bernard King of Golden State as the inaugural Comeback Player of the Year, and Phoenix General Manager Jerry Colangelo as Executive of the Year.

New York Coach Red Holzman was presented the first achievement award by the NBA Coaches Association. Holzman has been with the Knicks since 1968 as a scout, coach and general manager and guided New York to league titles in 1970 and 1973.

The awards kicked off the first day of NBA meetings involving coaches, general managers and publicists. Among the topics under discussion are legalization of the zone defense and reexamining the playoff system.

Relations Board Seeks Injunction

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Labor Relations Board has broken into the lineup for the threatened baseball strike, seeking a court order that could keep the players on the field for at least a few more weeks.

The NLRB said it would ask the U.S. District Court in New York today to postpone the June 1 strike deadline in the players' contract until 68 hours after completion of injunction proceedings against the owners.

That injunction, also sought by the NLRB, seeks to force owners to disclose their financial records to the players as part of negotiations dealing with compensation to clubs who lose players as free agents to other teams.

Although the contract sets June 1 as the deadline, player representatives earlier set a date of their own — this Friday. Today, following a meeting with owners, they are to vote whether to strike.

Regardless if the court postpones the "contractual" deadline, players would be free to strike at any time. Many have said, however, they would rather play until the matter is resolved at the bargaining table.

William Lubbers, the NLRB's general counsel, announced plans for the injunction and temporary restraining order late Wednesday, as talks between the owners and the Major League Players Association remained deadlocked in New York.

Earlier this week, Lubbers issued an unfair labor practice complaint against the owners for refusing to release their records. An administrative law judge is to hold a hearing on the complaint on June 15.

Under terms of a contract signed last May, the players have until June 1 to strike or accept as part of the pact the owners' plan requiring compensation for loss of a free agent to another team. That compensation would be a player from the free agent's former club.

Players oppose such compensation, complaining it would result in teams declining to sign free agents for fear they would lose, as compensation, some of their top players.

Owners insist this compensation is needed to protect the game's fiscal health and to prevent rich teams from buying up all the superstars.

Following the June 15 hearing by an NLRB administrative law judge on the unfair labor practice complaint against the owners, the full board will issue a final ruling, which could be appealed to the courts.

Writing, Spelling Cost Student A Job

DEAR ABBY: Today a young man in his 20s came into our office and applied for a job. We always hire a few extra people for the summer season. He won't get a job. His application went into the wastebasket as soon as he left.

He misspelled the town he lives in, the school he attended and the month he was born, plus several other words. His penmanship was so bad the manager couldn't figure out his last name or telephone number.

Considering the unemployment in this area, we're sure he needs a job. He is married and the father of one. I hope the young people who read this letter will make a special effort in school or on their own to improve the skills that will get them jobs. We don't have time to teach a high school graduate how to spell and write. Even starting at the bottom is better than no job at all.

CONCERNED IN IDAHO

DEAR CONCERNED: Well said. Students?

DEAR ABBY: I don't know which appalls me more — your patronizing tone, or your completely incorrect answer to E. IN PHILADELPHIA, who complained of being under the control of "some kind of witch." You give me the impression you've already decided that "they ain't no sich animal" as hexes and spiritual oppression. The danger with such an attitude is that if just possibly there is such a thing, you'll completely ignore the only right answer.

Your advice to E. should have been to find a good Bible-believing minister and tell him or her the problem. If it really is only in E.'s mind, the minister could send him to a good psychiatrist. But if it's a spiritual problem instead, there isn't a psychiatrist in the whole world who can do a thing.

Sorry, Abby. You blew it.

OKINAWA DEAR OKINAWA: A "good Bible-believing minister" may be an authority on spiritual matters, but he isn't qualified to evaluate one's mental condition. That's a psychiatrist's job, and that's why I sent E. to a psychiatrist.

If the psychiatrist finds E. to be mentally sound, then E. should find a person of deep religious faith and conviction who will call upon God to deliver him (or her) from the clutches of evil.

DEAR ABBY: What can be done about a devout cheap-skate? There are several people in our office, and we all take turns bringing in doughnuts or other pastries for breakfast. One person always helps himself without being invited, but he never brings in a thing. Also, when there's an office party and everyone either brings a dish or contributes toward the purchase of an item, he never has "change," or he has some other excuse, but he always shows up to eat.

It's embarrassing to have to ask him for the money, so most of the time he gets by without paying at all. By the way, he is in a higher position than the rest of us and makes at least twice the salary we do.

This must be a problem in many offices. What is the solution?

IN THE HOLE IN LOUISVILLE

DEAR IN THE HOLE: The solution is for somebody to ask old freeloader for his fair share of the doughnuts, pastries or whatever. If nobody has the courage to corner him, don't blame El Cheapo for getting away Scotch-free.

Irish-Americans Elect Officers

The Irish American Club of Central Florida held election of officers at the May meeting.

New officers are: James Nasie, president; Ed Maginnes, vice president; Katherine Hefner, secretary; and Ed Schadt, treasurer.

On Sunday, June 14 the club will have a picnic at Lake Mills County Park in Chuluota, beginning at 8 a.m. All who plan to attend should bring picnic food.

According to John Kane, the club is invited to a covered dish supper on June 5 to be held in the First Federal Savings and Loan Community Room, Edgewater Drive, College Park, Orlando.

Kane said there will be no meetings in July and August.

UCF Fall Application Deadline

June 15 is the new application deadline for the fall semester at the University of Central Florida.

Fall classes will begin Aug. 24 under the semester system as opposed to late September under the previous quarter system.

UCF administrators also announced a curtailment in the admission of post-baccalaureate and unclassified students this fall in response to legislative funding projections.

Search Is On For Outstanding Dad

June 21 is Father's Day. The Herald is searching for the annual "Outstanding Dad," but we need the help of readers.

Tell us in your own words why you think a certain father is outstanding. First, write your name, full address and telephone number at the top of a page. Then add the name of your candidate, giving his full name, address and telephone number. About a page and one-half of information on standard size paper is sufficient.

YOUR BIRTHDAY

May 29, 1981

Your circle of friends and contacts is likely to be greatly expanded this coming year. Several persons you first know socially could later become business partners. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Playing favorites today could cost you a friendship. Treat all of your pals equally, even if you secretly like one better than the other. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph, Mail #1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 483, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Normally you're very protective regarding the interests of family members, but today you may give more concern to the needs of an outsider than you'll render to one under your roof. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your sense of humor and wit are very keen today, but you must be careful not to say things so that a sensitive friend could feel to be the butt of your jokes.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) This can be a profitable day, provided you use your imagination properly in financial dealings. Things may have to be jockeyed around a bit to be put in the black. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You have a talent today for negotiating tricky situations so that all involved benefit in some manner. You might have two occasions to use it. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This is a very unusual day, in that things you do for others will ultimately turn out to benefit you most in the end. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) A pleasant surprise could be in store for you today when you discover that you have a lot more in common with a casual acquaintance than you realize. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You may find that something you hoped to accomplish on your own can be achieved today only with the aid of key allies. Seek them out. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Try to enjoy others today for what they are, not for what they have to offer you. Pals should be appreciated, not exploited. PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your possibilities for gain from more than one source are very good today, but it may require clever maneuvering to ring the register. ARIES (March 21-April 19) Unless you are prepared to see things from the other fellow's point of view today, you might hurt the feelings of one for whom you care. Be fair-minded. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Take plenty of time to weigh the values of any major purchases you make today. If the scales don't tip in your favor, keep shopping.

FLETCHER'S LANDING

Learning To Avoid Fluid Retention

DEAR DR. LAMB - I need some answers about fluid in the body. Is there anything you can eat or drink that helps get rid of it? I do not drink any colas or alcoholic beverages. I eat breakfast around 8 a.m., lunch at 12 and supper at 5 p.m. Are my meals too close together? I've been to several doctors and they don't know what causes it. I am taking Hydrodiuril twice a day and that's all. My legs and body swell during the daytime and go down at night.

Dr. Lamb

DEAR READER - Swelling means retention of water. Fluid, which is mostly water, passes out of your circulation to bathe your cells. That is how they get nutrients and oxygen. Then the fluid is literally sucked back into your circulation by proteins inside your blood vessels.

When the pressure inside the vessels is too high, an excess of fluid seeps out into the tissues and it is difficult for it to be sucked back in. The pressure is affected by gravity the same way a water tower causes pressure, so when you stand up the fluid pours out into the tissues and stays there. When you lie down and the pressure in the lower body is decreased, the fluid is sucked back into your circulation. That is why people get swelling in the feet and ankles and lower body during the day.

There are many reasons for fluid accumulation, including retention of sodium. This can be premenstrual; estrogen causes the body to retain sodium and the excess sodium retains water. Decreased proteins in the blood decreases the sucking ability to return fluid to the circulation.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 11-4, Swelling; Causes and Management, which will explain this in greater detail. Eliminating salt in the diet is the best thing you can do from a nutritional point of view.

view. External pressure, as from elastic bandages or elastic garments, helps to prevent the accumulation of fluid. If an underlying medical problem exists, treating it may help decrease the problem.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm a 15-year-old male, 5 feet 4 and 150 pounds. Most of the boys in my class are taller than I. My parents are short, too. I've been lifting weights since I was 14 years old. Now I'm lifting 150 pounds maximum. My father thinks I should have gotten into another sport that would help my height, like basketball or tennis. I keep telling him there are no special sports that will make a difference in my growth, whatever height I'm meant to be. I'd appreciate your comments on this.

DEAR READER - As long as you have a well-balanced diet, with adequate protein, calories, vitamins and minerals and have no medical problems your growth will depend upon the genes you were born with. You are right. You can't expect to be taller because you play basketball or other sports.

In addition to genes and diet, your hormones affect growth. People much shorter than you have been given growth hormone. It is in limited supply since it must come from human pituitary glands. But genetic engineering is closing in on manufacturing human growth hormone by bacteria, just as insulin has been manufactured. When that happens it may be possible to safely increase height to average levels in those who are born on the short side.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Although North-South reached a terrible contract on today's deal, it is hard to fault either of them. Their identical spade distribution and wasted diamond values made their borderline-aggressive bidding decisions look poor.

West led out his top spades at trick one and two and switched to a low club at trick three. South had plenty to think about. East-West were using normal honor leads, so declarer knew that when West played spades in an abnormal fashion, first ace and then king, it meant that he had only two. But why had West switched to clubs instead of a diamond? Then it occurred to South. West, a fine player, must know that East couldn't hold the ace of diamonds. The only way West could be sure was if he had the ace. Thus, the hand was an open book to declarer. West, who had passed originally, had already shown up with ace and king of spades and presumably the diamond ace. He couldn't have the heart queen as that would give him 13 points. So, South won the club - a big hand and banged down the ace, king of hearts, dropping East's queen. It was then a simple matter to draw the last trump and pitch his spade loser on dummy's fifth club. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)
