Police Seek Suspect

Winter Park police continue today to track down leads called in to the department concerning the disappearance last week of 39-year-old Georgia Caruso of Longwood.

However, Officer Rick Nuss said today the number of calls received each day are getting fewer and officers are beginning to get frustrated at the fact that none of the calls has turned up information on where the woman is, or who the man she was last seen with is.

Police have released a composite drawing of the man, based on descriptions given by people who saw him with Caruso on Nov. 18, the day she disappeared.

The man identified himself as George Williams but police have not been able to confirm if that is his real name, or where he is from.

Nuss said the department still welcomes calls from people who think they may have information about Caruso or Williams that may help them. "It only takes one call with what may be the information which gives us

Abductor Shot Ending Siege

By Richard Whittaker
And
Tom Giordano

One of two alleged kidnapers accused of abducting two people and holding at least four others hostage at a Deltona home on Thanksgiving Day is in the hospital today after being shot twice with his own gun by one of the men he allegedly abducted. His accomplice is in the Volusia County jail.

And, while the six-hour Thanksgiving Day siege ended Thursday morning after a burst of gunfire, events leading to the kidnapping-shootout may have begun as long ago as one month.

The gunshots resulted in SWAT team members from Volusia and Seminole counties rushing the house and ending the six-hour drug-related hostage crisis.

The Volusia County Sheriff's Department took the five people remaining in the house at 755 LeLand Drive into custody at about 10:10 a.m. Thursday, but said they didn't know then who were the kidnapers and who were the hostages.

Capt. Edward L. Carroll, a Volusia County Sheriff's Department spokesman, said after interviewing those inside the home that two of them were holding the other three captive.

The alleged kidnapers were: —Jorge Ramirez of South Florida, who is listed in stable condition at Halifax Medical Center, Daytona Beach, after being hit with two shots from a .357 caliber revolver, once in the upper left chest area and once in the hand.

—Scott Keith Joedicker, 28, 863 Hagar St., Deltona, held in the Volusia County jail without bond. Both have been charged with kidnapping, false imprisonment, and additional weapons and drug-related charges may be pending.

Held hostage during the ordeal

were:

- James Emanuel of Enterprise, who also had been kidnapped.
- Lisa Neal of Enterprise, who also had been kidnapped.
- Bruce Watson of Deltona.
- Fred Russo of Deltona.
- John Emanuel of DeBary
- Robbie Raider of Deltona

Carroll said the VCSD's investigation concluded that early Thursday morning Joedicker left the Leland Drive address about 4 a.m. armed with a short-barrel shotgun (of unknown gauge) intending to kidnap James Emanuel and Lisa Neal from her home in Enterprise. The couple allegedly owed Joedicker and Ramirez approximately $2,000 from prior drug dealings.

Raider, who is listed as the owner of the Leland Drive house was forced to go with Joedicker on the kidnapping mission, according to Carroll. He added that Russo's car was used for the kidnapping.

While Joedicker was abducting Emanuel and Neal from Enterprise, Ramirez remained behind with Watson, Russo and John Emanuel (James' brother) at Raider's house.

Louisiana Rioters Reach Agreement; Atlanta Stalemated

By Gary Hines

United Press International

Cuban convicts freed one hostage from a Louisiana prison and agreed tentatively to release the other 27 today, but inmates controlling an Atlanta prison rejected a proposal to free 50 of their 94 captives in a show of good faith.

The tentative agreement at Oakdale, La., was reached Thursday night in a meeting between federal officials and four leaders of the 1,000 rebellious inmates at the Federal Alien Detention Center. Negotiations continued early today.

"We have a tentative agreement," a federal

One hostage released as negotiations continue official said in a videotape released to reporters. "All four (inmate leaders) will sign the agreement and then they will release the other 27 (hostage) officers. The agreement goes into effect immediately upon the release of the remaining 27 officers."

The federal negotiator, who officials refused to name, and the inmate, Manuel Monzon, shook hands at the end of the videotape.

The time for the signing of the agreement first was to be 10 a.m., followed by the release of the 27 hostages. But Justice Department spokesman Mark Sheehan said early today the time for the signing had been set back to 1 p.m. Details of the agreement were not released.

"We are negotiating," Sheehan said in Oakdale. "We are continuing to negotiate. I am always hopeful."

The inmates released prison guard William Hoffpaur shortly before 9 p.m. CST Thursday, and he was escorted to the main gate while about 200 inmates cheered in the background. The husky Hoffpaur appeared on the verge of tears as he was taken to Humana Hospital, where he was listed in good condition.

Sheehan said Hoffpaur was in "excellent spirits. He has not been abused. He indicated to us that the Cubans were very protective of the hostages — sort of safeguarding them. He was released because they liked and trusted him."

The 1,200 Cuban inmates in Atlanta took over the federal penitentiary Monday, three days after the Oakdale uprising by 1,000 inmates.

New Sanford Branch Library Slates Opening

By Brad Church
Herald Staff Writer

Thirteen weeks after it closed, the Sanford branch of the Seminole County Library will finally open in its new building—six weeks late.

The Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce will host a ribbon-cutting ceremony at 10 a.m.

Dec. 16 to kick off an open house at the new building, located behind the old library building, at 150 N. Palmetto Ave.

Jean Rhein, county library director, said children and their parents are especially invited to tour the new library on opening day and become familiar with the new children's section.

Special programs are planned for youngsters.

The library was closed Sept. 18 and was originally to open on Halloween, but construction delays postponed the opening six weeks.

Hours of operation for the new library will be 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays.

A final inspection of the new building is scheduled for Wednesday and library employees will begin moving the books, shelves and some of the furniture from the old building to the new one the next day.

Powerless Aircraft Makes Short Power Pole Landing

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

The Thanksgiving afternoon ultra light aircraft flight of an Orlando man ended atop a power pole in Fern Park. Malcolm Arthur Jones, 30, landed in the hospital with a fractured vertebra when his flight fell short at about 2:20 p.m. in front of a Prairie Lake Drive home.

The 1987 fiberglass, Buccaneer craft was traveling northwest when it made a large loop around 511 Prairie Lake Dr. and over a large portion of the lake. The plane made a second, smaller loop, hit a tree and crashed into a power pole, witnesses said.

When Seminole County sheriff's deputy Neal Fowler arrived on the scene at 511 Prairie Lake Dr. at about 2:22 he saw the plane resting atop the power pole. Seminole County Fire Department rescue workers were treating Jones, who had been removed from the plane by witnesses. Florida Power and Light Co., workers, Fowler reported, were on the scene to aid in the rescue and in the recovery of the plane.

Jones, the only occupant of the plane was transported to Florida Hospital-Altamonte Springs, where Friday he was in fair condition. In addition to the broken vertebra, Jones, who works for Comreal Real Estate, suffered cuts and bruises. Walter Bruce Pemberton, 36, of 682 Galdwin Ave., Fern Park, the designer of the plane and owner of Pemberton, Inc., witnessed the crash, Fowler reported.

Jones, who has been piloting ultra light aircraft for about five years, with a good safety record, told Fowler he believes the aircraft malfunctioned.

Five Florida Power and Light Co., trucks and numerous power company workers were on the scene to remove the pilot and plane from atop the power pole, Fowler reported.

Polk Judge Apologizes For Bungling Case

LAKELAND (UPI) — A Polk County judge wrote a letter of apology to a widow, saying he did not know her husband died in a car crash and was sorry for the way he handled the accident case.

Judge Robert A. Young told Faye Dorman he was unaware her husband, Donald, had died in a summer accident because the court file was incomplete and mislabeled. Had he known, he said, the driver would have faced a felony charge.

"First, the label on the front of the file should say 'SBI/FATAL' (SBI means Serious Body Injury). It didn't. Second, the complete accident report should be included in every accident case, and it should reflect the condition of every person involved. It wasn't. Finally, as a last resort, the ticket has a small box indicating fatality. I missed it," the judge wrote.

"The justice system consists of a lot of good folks working hard in the public interest. Too often we make mistakes," Young wrote. "In this case, the mistake was mine, and I'm sorry."

Faye Dorman said Wednesday she still feels slighted because Thompson was not charged with a felony.

Donald L. Dorman, 45, of Lakeland died Aug. 29 when the pickup truck he was driving was struck by a car driven by Freddie Lee Thompson, 37, of Winter Haven.

Thompson was cited by the Florida Highway Patrol for failing to yield the right-of-way, a civil infraction, and for driving with a suspended license and failure to surrender a license, both traffic offenses.

Neither Thompson nor Dorman's son Erik, a passenger in his father's truck, were seriously injured. The accident occurred when Thompson tried to make a left turn and drove into the path of the pickup truck.

Records show Thompson's license was suspended in April after he failed to pay a speeding ticket. His license was restored Sept. 3, less than a week after the fatal accident. Records also show he paid court costs of $55 for the traffic citations issued after the accident that killed Dorman.

Although Young apologized in the letter for the way he handled the failure to yield charge, court records show Thompson has not been arraigned on that count. His court appearance is scheduled for Dec. 7.

Court records show that at an Oct. 19 hearing, without Thompson present, Young received papers showing Thompson's license had been reinstated. Young then dismissed the failure to surrender license charge and ordered Thompson to pay $55 court costs for the driving with suspended license charge.

Dorman's widow, Faye, contacted the judge's office after learning about the Oct. 19 hearing, and asked Young to put in writing why the case resulted as it did.

"I withheld adjudication of guilt because of the defendant's relatively good driving record. Had I known of the death, I never would have allowed that outcome," the judge wrote Oct. 27. When a judge withholds adjudication of guilt, it means the person charged will not have a criminal record.

Mrs. Dorman remained upset by the judge's action.

"Not only has this taken my husband, but I have a teen-age daughter who cries at night. I lost my best friend, my children have lost their father and my grandchildren will grow up never knowing their grandfather," Dorman said.

"He killed my husband, just as surely as if he had shot him with a gun. I think this man deserves some sort of punishment. I'd like to see him charged with manslaughter or vehicular homicide," said Dorman, 44, a medical assistant at Watson Clinic.

Attorney, Boat Racer Among Defendants

Six Indicted In Money-Laundering Plan

MIAMI (UPI) — A Miami attorney and a champion power boat racer were among six people indicted in an alleged $14 million drug money-laundering scheme prosecutors say stretched from London to Los Angeles.

U.S. Attorney Leon Kellner said the scheme allowed the defendants to transform marijuana smuggling profits into a marina, boats, a casino and condominiums through an elaborate network of bank accounts, companies and businesses.

Those named in the indictment unsealed Wednesday were: racer Benjamin Barry Kramer; his father Jack; defense lawyer Melvyn Kessler; the late Samuel Gilbert, a prominent sports booster; his son Michael; and Charles Victor Podesta.

Ben Kramer and former race car driver Randy Lanier have been indicted in Illinois on charges they brought thousands of pounds of marijuana into the United States. Kellner said the laundered money stemmed from that smuggling business.

Jack Kramer directed the millions of dollars that poured through the network while Kessler provided the legal expertise to form various offshore companies and make wire transfers, Kellner said.

"No narcotics organization is made up solely" of smugglers, Kellner said at a news conference. "It also involved the professionals. They are people who hide the assets."

The 44-count indictment charged Ben Kramer and Kessler with racketeering, violations of the Travel Act and federal income tax laws. Kramer is also charged with conducting a continuing criminal enterprise, a charge that carries a life sentence.

Kessler was released on bond.

IN BRIEF

Jacksonville Teenaged Killer Sentenced To Three Life Terms

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) — Calling the case a "bizarre and incredible criminal episode," a judge sentenced a woman to three consecutive life terms for kidnapping a 4-day-old baby, killing the infant's mother and injuring the grandmother.

Wendy Leigh Zabel, 19, pleaded guilty to one count each of first-degree murder, attempted first-degree murder and armed kidnapping in exchange for a promise from prosecutors not to seek the death penalty. She also agreed not to appeal her sentence.

As Duval Circuit Judge Bill Parsons read the sentence, Zabel held back tears.

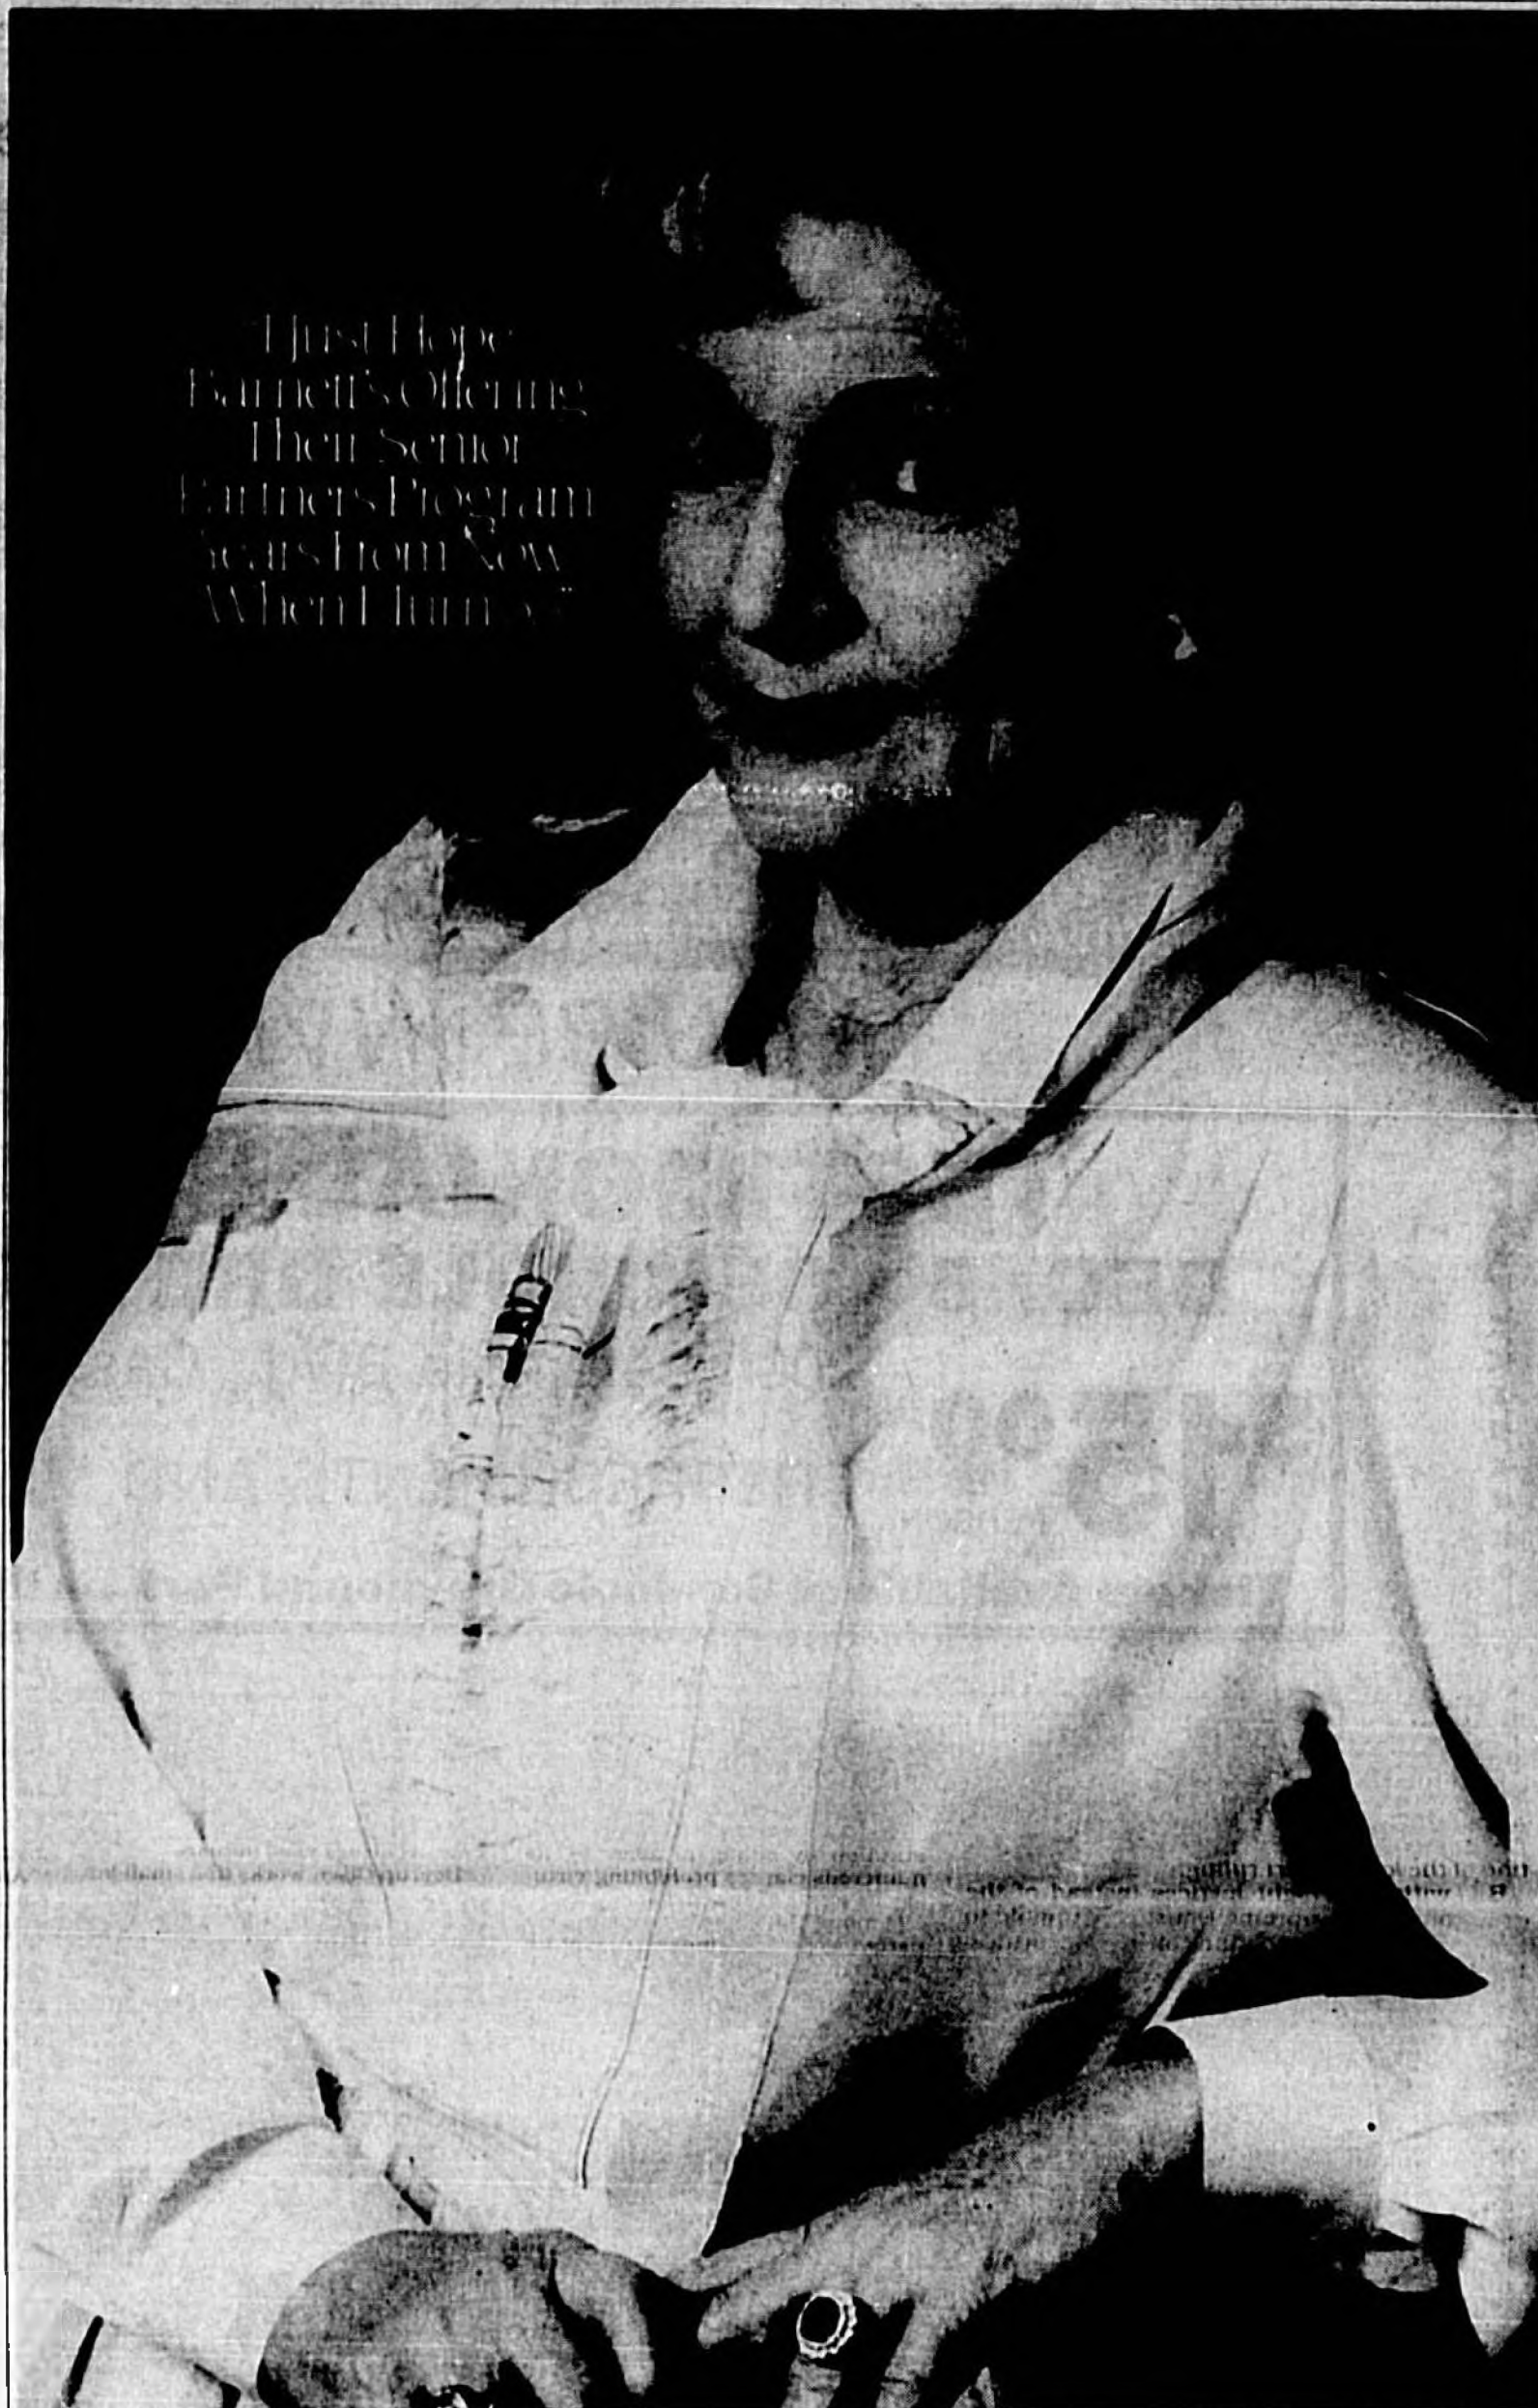

"Wendy Leigh Zabel took the life of Joan Witt, stabbed and shot Marie Barrett and kidnapped Heather Marie Witt, the first-born infant of Joan Witt — by removing her from the arms of her dying mother," the judge read. "These actions by Wendy Leigh Zabel may be the most bizarre and incredible criminal episode in the modern history of the United States."

Pilot Describes Drug Trips

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) — A World War II pilot said accused cocaine czar Carlos Lehder paid him $10,000 for smuggling 20 pounds of the drug and later helped him unload 600 pounds of cocaine from a plane in Winter Haven.

Richard Blankenship, who is in the second of an eight-year prison term for narcotics trafficking, testified Wednesday in Lehder's federal drug smuggling trial that his friend Andy Barnes introduced him to the cocaine smuggling business in late 1977.

The pilot said Barnes requested his company on a trip to a small island in the Bahamas. At the time, he said, he did not know Barnes was flying there to pick up a shipment of Colombian cocaine from Lehder.

Education Officials Fear Raid On Lottery Money

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — An unexpected $2.4 million bonus has not eased the concerns of education officials increasingly worried about a lottery-inspired raid on education funds.

Education officials learned Wednesday the Department of the Lottery's decision to begin the games on Jan. 12 instead of Jan. 15 would mean $2.4 million more for the Education Enhancement Trust Fund. But they are well aware that fund is subject to the whims of the Legislature, and fear lawmakers and other state officials will see lottery money as justification to cut traditional sources of funding for education.

"The lottery could not only end up not helping education, but could actually hurt education," said David Voss, Department of Education spokesman. "So many people are picking at the education budget, using the lottery as an excuse."

As an example, Voss cited Transportation Secretary Kaye Henderson's suggestion that a 10-year, $40.2-billion transportation plan could be partially funded by raiding vehicle registration fees traditionally funneled to the Education Department.

Henderson says the education agency would no longer need the $35 million from the annual fees because of the lottery income.

Voss also mentioned a persistent rumor among legislative aides and budget planners suggesting lottery money will help reduce a shortfall in Public Education Capitol Outlay funds, used to build schools and other education facilities.

"We are hearing more and more threats to use lottery money to replace other funds and that is dangerous," Voss said. "We strongly feel lottery money needs to go to enhancing the education budget, not supplanting it."

Voss said the Illinois lottery, which like Florida's was sold as a way to enhance education, has supported school programs.

Kings Snap 6-Game Skid

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — After losing a guard to injury for the sixth time this season, the Sacramento Kings were forced to rely on their bench to break a six-game losing streak.

Franklin Edwards, activated for his first game of the year Tuesday after recovering from an ankle injury, answered the call. During his 41 minutes of play Thursday, Edwards scored 19 points and added a game-high 9 assists to lift the Kings to a 110-102 victory over the New Jersey Nets.

Ed Pinckney chipped in 15 and Otis Thorpe collected 13 points and a game-high 13 rebounds. Sacramento had not won since stopping the Denver Nuggets Nov. 10.

The Nets sank 7 of their first 9 shots en route to a 15-8 lead with 7:19 left in the first quarter. # Vikings Kick Cowboys, Edge Toward Playoffs

IRVING, Texas (UPI) — Minnesota and Dallas gave football fans a Thanksgiving feast Thursday, one that showed the Vikings closer to the playoffs and dealt the Cowboys a vital setback in their wild-card hunt.

The Vikings and Cowboys combined for 879 yards over almost four hours and created enough big plays to fill a highlight film.

The last key play, however, went to the Vikings: a 24-yard touchdown run by Darrin Nelson 7:51 into overtime that brought Minnesota a wild 44-38 victory over the Cowboys.

"I've always dreamed about scoring a touchdown in overtime and winning the game," said Nelson, who gained 118 yards on 18 carries and scored twice. "It was our best men against their best men all day and our best men won."

Dallas quarterback Danny White completed 25 of 41 passes for 341 yards and four touchdowns, three of them going to veteran wide receiver Mike Renfro. But White was also intercepted three times and fumbled twice, the last of those turnovers setting up the game-winning touchdown drive.

"Danny did what we had him in there for," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry, who had benched

White last Sunday in favor of Steve Pelluer. "He did it over and over today. Sure, he has some bad plays. But he still has the ability to move the offense."

"These kinds of losses stay with you a while. But you have to go on. The game doesn't stop."

The Vikings twice owned 14-point leads, but let both slip away before grabbing a victory that inched them closer to a playoff spot. Minnesota improved to 7-4, comfortably in position for a wild-card spot, while Dallas' postseason hopes all but disappeared as the Cowboys fell to 5-6.

In addition to scoring the winning touchdown, Nelson ran 52 yards up the middle for a touchdown that gave Minnesota a 28-14 lead in the third quarter.

Starting Vikings quarterback Tommy Kramer threw touchdown passes of 11 and 37 yards to Anthony Carter in the first half, and Kramer scored on a 1-yard touchdown in the opening period to give the Vikings a 21-14 halftime advantage.

After Nelson scored on his 52-yard run in the third quarter, the Vikings added points on a 33-yard field goal by Chuck Nelson and a 1-yard run by Rick Fenney.

Chiefs.....27
Lions.....30

PONTIAC, Mich. (UPI) — The Kansas City Chiefs made a pair of changes to earn their first victory since the opening week of the season and give the Detroit Lions a tie for the league's worst record.

Bill Kenney returned to action for the first time since Nov. 1 and picked up where he left off — throwing touchdown passes — to help Kansas City snap a nine-game losing streak Thursday with a 27-20 victory over Detroit.

The victory by the Chiefs, who returned to a 3-4 defense for the first time this year, gave both teams league-worst records of 2-9.

"It seemed like we had control of the game," Kansas City Coach Frank Gaspar said. "Then we made a couple of turnovers and it seemed as though we lost control."

"During our nine-game losing streak there were a couple games where we had the lead. But then the inevitable turnovers would come and we lost the game. This week we kept our presence and won the game."

Detroit rallied for a late touchdown but was unable to get a first down when it took possession at midfield with 1:13 to play.

"I'm embarrassed," Detroit tackle Lomas Brown said. "This was our home, our dome, our special day — Thanksgiving Day — and we got beat. We were flat in the first half. Then the mountain was too high to climb."

Kenney was making his first start since fracturing his wrist after throwing four TD passes Nov. 1 at Chicago. He marched the Chiefs 67 plays after the opening kickoff and fired a 7-yard touchdown pass to tight end Jonathan Hayes.

"Standing on the sidelines," Detroit coach Darryl Rogers said, "it looked like our football team did not come to play. But as the game went on we got more involved."

Kenney's pass to Hayes gave Kansas City its first offensive touchdown in 14 quarters. Two possessions later, Kenney capped an 80-yard drive with a 13-yard TD pass to backup tight end Paul Coffman to help the Chiefs take a 24-10 halftime lead.

Lake Mary Graduates Bolster Strong South Carolina Squad

By Mark Blythe
Herald Sports Writer

The ninth annual Lady Sunshine Classic, starting today at Lake Mary High School, will feature an added highlight in the college portion of the tournament.

Both Laura and Peggy Glass, 1984 graduates of Lake Mary, now playing for the University of South Carolina, return home to compete for the first time since they played for the Rams.

Peggy started in the second half of the season last year for the Lady Gamecocks and will add depth and experience to the play in the middle this season.

"We have three centers and everyone is experienced," Peggy said. "Whenever we get into play we'll be able to hold our own."

"Starting those games last season was very good for me," Peggy said. "The playing time really improved my confidence."

Both Glass girls are excited about their return home and the chance to play in front of their family and previous coaches.

"It's kind of like a homecoming," Peggy said. "We knew of this tournament and asked our coach (Nancy Wilson) if we could come down here and play. Bill Moore invited us and things worked out so we could come back."

Laura, who sat out last season with hepatitis and an infected abdomen, returns to the squad this season, adding to its strong middle.

"I can't even find the word about how I feel right now," Laura said. "We're both excited to be back and play in front of all the people we used to play in front of."

Laura has been out for over a year and hopes to improve vastly over the season.

"It was hard for me in the pre-season," Laura said. "It's been a long time since I've played in a game. I wish we had played at least one game before this tournament."

Both started for three years for Lake Mary under coach Moore and played on two district championship teams.

Both stand at 6-2 and will play both center and power forward for the Lake Mary Gamecocks who just missed winning their second consecutive Metro-Conference championship last season.

"We just missed winning the championship and going to the NCAA tournament last year," Peggy said. "We feel we can do well in the tournament and throughout the season even though we have a younger team this year."

South Carolina finished with an 18-12 overall record last season and hope to get started off on the right foot hoping for an early tournament win.

"We would like to win this tournament because we will be playing in front of our old friends," Laura said. "Auburn is really good and it would be nice if we could play a tough game against them."

Auburn, ranked third in the country and finished last season at 31-2, brings in All-American center Vicki Orr who should test the Lake Mary Gamecocks middle if the two teams meet.

South Carolina opens with Drake University, 9-18 last year, tonight at 6 and hopes to get started off right with a win in its season opener.

Auburn and Providence College, 23-9 last season, meet at 8. Providence finished second in the Big East conference a season ago and fourth in the National Invitational Tournament.

"We played Auburn a couple of times in our freshman and sophomore season and every game was close," Peggy said. "After we start playing and get our nervousness out I'm confident we can do well."

Laura, though her pre-season was tough, feels she's getting stronger and improving with every practice.

"It was tough in the early going but I feel much better now and feeling more confident," Laura said. "It took me a couple weeks of practice to get going but I feel much more sure of myself now."

"When we found out we would be playing here we both were ecstatic," Laura said. "We were so happy we could return to where we started out playing."

Gators Take On Iowa State In NIT

NEW YORK (UPI) — Teams that have reached the semifinals of the Big Apple NIT have proved themselves both strong starters and closers during the college basketball season.

In its first two years, the tournament has produced four teams that eventually advanced to the NCAA Final Four — Duke, Louisville and Kansas in 1985 and Nevada-Las Vegas last year.

That is a good omen for this year's NIT semifinalists: Seton Hall, New Mexico, Iowa State and Florida.

Of the four, Florida, ranked No. 17 in UPI's preseason poll, looks like the only team good enough to uphold the tournament's track record in postseason play. Gators Coach Norm Sloan says he feels fortunate to be in New York for Friday's semifinals.

"I never realized the pressure I would have in the first two games," said Sloan, whose club defeated Jacksonville and No. 19 Georgia Tech. "A lot of people have projected us high and if we didn't make it here, a lot of people would have been disappointed and it could have been harmful to the team psychologically. I'm a relaxed man now. Only good things can come out of this now."

Seton Hall did not have as much pressure as Florida, but now that the Pirates have advanced this far, Coach P.J. Carlesimo believes it can only help his team.

"This is a confidence builder," said Carlesimo, whose club advanced with victories over George Mason and Middle Tennessee State. "This is like playing the Big East tournament. It gives us something to focus on. It's like playing two more Big East games. This way when we play Connecticut come January (in the Pirates' Big East opener), we'll look back and say this was great preparation."

Seton Hall, which posted a 15-14 mark last season for its first winning record since 1979-80, opens the NIT semifinals Friday night at Madison Square Garden against New Mexico at 7 p.m. EST. Iowa State and Florida will follow at 9 p.m. and the championship and consolation games will be played Saturday night.

The Seton Hall-New Mexico game will feature two running teams. The Lobos, who beat Weber State and upset UCLA to advance, have a big height advantage over the Pirates. Senior forward Hunter Greene, New Mexico's best player, will team with 7-foot center Rob Loeffel in an imposing front line.

Mark Bryant is Seton Hall's tallest player at 8-9.

Syracuse Wants To Make Amends For Loss

Basketball

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) — Top-ranked Syracuse, its position jeopardized by a season-opening loss, will attempt to make amends Friday in the 10th Great Alaska Shootout.

The Orangemen, who lost 96-93 in overtime last Saturday against North Carolina, are one of three Top 10 entries in the eight-team Shootout. Also entered are No. 4 Michigan and No. 10 Arizona.

The tournament's first round pairs Alabama-Birmingham against Southwest Texas State. Syracuse versus host Alaska-Anchorage, Michigan against Miami of Florida with 7-foot Tito Horford, and Arizona against Duquesne.

The semifinals are Saturday, third-place and other consolation games Sunday, and the championship Monday night.

Syracuse has had a week to consider its second-half fold against North Carolina. The Orangemen were up 14 points with 15:37 to play but squandered the lead and lost in overtime. North Carolina shot 71 percent in the second half, while Syracuse made numerous mistakes — point guard Sherman Douglas was 1 of 9 shooting with 6 turnovers after the break.

"We didn't do the job defensively and we couldn't make the outside shot," said Syracuse Coach Jim Boeheim, who may find more time to play shooting specialist Matt Roe in the Shootout.

Syracuse is led by 6-10 big man Rony Seikaly and Derrick Coleman. Seikaly had 23 points against North Carolina.

Michigan and Arizona open their seasons in the Shootout with similar expectations but different ways to get there.

Michigan is a young team with only one senior, star guard Gary Grant.

"You like to be picked high," Michigan forward Loy Vaught said. "But it also puts on pressure to live up to. When you're read about and talked about, people expect an unbeatable machine. We've got a lot of work to do. But by February, we should have things the way we want them."

Arizona should be on top of its game early. The Wildcats are a veteran club with eight seniors and juniors, most of whom played in the 1985 Shootout when Arizona won once in three games.

"It should be our best club," said Arizona Coach Lute Olson, who took Iowa to the Final Four in 1980.

Alabama-Birmingham, though unranked, also has high hopes, both for the Shootout and the season. The Blazers, who won this tournament in 1984, have been to the past seven NCAA tournaments, a string watched only by Georgetown, Kentucky and North Carolina.

taken up the slack during Ford's absence. Tightend Donald Grayson, a 1985 Lake Mary grad, has become an important part of the offense as he has hauled in 34 passes for 265 yards and three touchdowns.

"Donald has got great hands," McDowell said. "When team play zone coverage, we like to get him the ball as often as possible."

IOP's rushing attack is led by runningback Raphael "Pudgy" Abercrombie. Abercrombie has picked up 583 yards and tow touchdowns this season.

Although McDowell is tickled to be in the playoffs, his team has not played up to par in recent weeks. UCF's had several chances to beat FAMU, but couldn't put the Rattlers away. The Knights were lackluster in their win over Morningstar last week.

McDowell is the first to say that the Knights are going to have to play much better this week. "We haven't played all that well in the past two weeks," McDowell said. "We all know that in order to advance in the playoffs, we are going to have to play at our absolute best."

about to change now."

Blake said that the Seminole offense has the versatility to do whatever is needed. "We can run inside with Curtis (Rudolph), or we can outside with Jerod (Jones)," Blake said. "And if they let us throw the ball, you can bet that we will let Jeff (Blake) throw it."

"We saw him (Blake) play against DeLand," Benedetto said. "That kid is a major college quarterback if I have ever seen one. I don't know how we are going to stop him, but we'll sure give it a shot."

Blake, the leading passer in the county, said that the team has more confidence now that ever. "We are all feeling very good about ourselves," Blake said. "I think that if we really put our minds to it, we can go as far as we want to."

The Seminole defense has also played very well lately. The Tribe, led by linebacker Earnie "Sackman" Lewis and tackle Ralph Hardy, held a strong DeLand offense to nine points. DeLand's only touchdown came against Seminole's second string defense.

"I think that our defense is playing at its best right now," Lewis, the second leading tackler in the county, said. "We're just looking to shut them down totally."

The Land O' Lakes offense has Beathard worried. "They do something that we haven't seen that much this season," Beathard said. "They run a double tight end formation and their offensive linemen take huge splits."

"That really spreads the defense out," Beathard said. "We have had a chance to scout them a few times, and they run the veer pretty well.

They are the type of team that throws the ball only when they have to."

Beathard said that he expects the Gators to stick to their ground game. "They like to grind it out on the ground, and I'm sure that they will continue to that against us," Beathard said. "I just hope our defense is up for the test."

Lewis said that 'Noles are more than ready. "We have got a pretty good idea of what they are going to run," Lewis said. "We're just going to have to make adjustments as the game goes on."

Don't Neglect House Plants During Winter

House plants often are confronted with adverse growing conditions during the winter months. The following are key factors in keeping house plants healthy, particularly during winter.

All house plants must have light. The best light is a southeastern exposure of filtered, never direct sunlight. Attempt to locate the plant in a permanent location, as constant moving exposes plants to changing light conditions. Too much light or direct light often causes burning of plant foliage.

House plants are often over-watered while a few may be under watered. Try to water as the plant needs it. Your finger is the best indicator if inserted into the soil an inch or two. The best key to watering is to allow the top of the soil in the pot to become fairly dry prior to watering, then water well, washing the soil. Most house plants, depending on size of pot, location, type of soil and size of plant will need weekly waterings. A lack of water will cause yellowing and wilting of plants. However, these same symptoms are characteristic of too much water. If leaves are wilted due to lack of water, they will become turgid after a good watering. If the leaves do not become turgid after a watering, then probably too much water has been given over a period of time causing damage to the root system. Winter heat in homes is often very hard on house plants. The ideal temperature for most plants in the home is from 65 to 75 degrees during the day, and a 55 to 65 degree night temperature. Avoid placing plants near heat sources.

Humidity or moisture in the air is necessary and beneficial to most tropical house plants. A 40 to 60 percent relative humidity is ideal, yet this cannot be provided in homes during winter, as heating systems dry out the air. To increase the indoor humidity from time to time, syringe the plant's foliage with a fine spray of water. Another method of increasing the humidity is placing the pots on gravel, which is covered with water. Place the pots on the pebbles, being certain that the bottoms are not sitting in the water.

House plants must have a loose, well-drained soil. Packed soils should be loosened from time to time, being sure not to damage the root system. Plan to repot plants in spring when growing conditions are best.

Most house plants require little fertilization during winter since rapid growth is not made at this time. Feeding at half strength with a soluble fertilizer once every two months will be adequate for most plants.

Avoid drafts and provide fresh air. Plants do not like locations which expose them to cold or hot air. They also suffer from gas fumes and products of incomplete combustion, which makes fresh air essential during winter.

Clean the plant's foliage by watering with warm water. You may add a drop or two of detergent to the water used for cleaning the leaves. Rinse washed leaves with clear water to remove soap film. Keep plants attractive by removing dead leaves and faded blooms.

Gifts, Glitter Can Bewilder

It's Christmas morning and every kid is wading in gifts delivered by sleepy, smiling parents. Trees sparkle and new puppies yap. No matter how hard they're tugged or cuddled, toys just don't break.

At least, that's how the holiday would dawn in an ideal world.

But let's face it — for many families in the real world, pulling off a close-to-perfect Christmas isn't easy. There may not be both a mom and a dad, or gifts and a tree. Often everything's in place, but it cost so much that parents' tempers flair.

Child-care specialists offer a variety of suggestions to help any family with youngsters reduce stress when the holiday threatens to fall short of ideal — as it often does.

For example, making gifts and encouraging children to do the same is a good way to eliminate some tension and financial strain, says Dr. Benjamin Spock, the world-famous author of "Baby and Child Care."

Now 84 years old, Spock recalls making a yuletide present for his own parents when he was in third grade: a fountain-pen blotter with a snowy scene and a small calendar on the top of it.

"Of course my parents exclaimed that it was the best gift they could possibly receive," he said in a telephone interview from his office in the Virgin Islands.

Experts agree that an overemphasis on gift-giving, the focus of an intense yearly advertising blitz, may disappoint youngsters or promote a materialistic attitude toward love. As Spock says, "It's an American weakness. Children are overwhelmed with gifts."

Nowadays a lecturer on global disarmament, he particularly opposes giving children war toys.

Here are some child-care specialists' other suggestions for reducing tensions at Christmas:

(BU) Have your children share some of the responsibilities for planning the holiday. "Express your appreciation. Don't complain," says Dr. Lee Salk, professor of psychology, psychiatry and pediatrics at Cornell Medical Center in New York. "It gives children a feeling of being participants, and it takes away from your burdens."

(BU) Don't promise more gifts than you can come through with. "What children expect to receive may be unrealistic," says family therapist Jacqueline Brown. "Sometimes parents feel they have to go along with what the child asks for, even though it's too expensive or otherwise impossible."

Brown, who is mental health coordinator for the Children's Aid Society East Harlem Center in New York, advises parents to tell their youngsters ahead of time what is possible, helping them to develop a sense of reality.

"The parent can help the child to see that things don't come to him magically, and that one thing leads to another," she added.

(BU) Another way to reduce the financial stress of gift-giving is to build anticipation around diverting activities such as viewing Christmas lights or taking seasonal trips that the children help plan.

(BU) Dr. Samuel B. Ross, director of Green Chimneys, a multi-service agency for children in the New York area, suggests that parents provide children with a chance to help someone else, so the child becomes a giver.

Finally, child-care experts say that parents can make Christmas an extra-special time by invoking the true meaning of the day — a peaceful celebration of Jesus' birth — and reminding their children that they love them.

Gifts Should Be A Joy To Give And A Joy To Receive As Well

DEAR READERS: Well, are the Christmas gifts getting closer together or does it just seem that way? It's time to start preparing for the holidays again, so do yourselves a favor and do your Christmas or Hanukkah shopping early.

Here's my annual—slightly revised—column on holiday shopping.

If you're wondering what to give Aunt Olivia or Grandpa, who doesn't go out much, let me tell you what not to give them:

Forget dusting powder, aftershave and cologne. (They probably have several unopened boxes gathering dust on their closet shelves.)

Grandpa doesn't need another necktie, and Aunt Sylvia doesn't really want any more brooches, necklaces, bracelets or earrings.

With the price of groceries so high, older folks who live alone on a fixed income would be delighted to receive a basket of goodies. Include small cans of salmon, chicken, ham, tuna, fruit, instant coffee, tea bags, crackers, cookies and instant soup mixes.

Older people who live in confined quarters do not need more "things" that are ornamental only. Don't send music boxes, statuettes or other bric-a-brac.

A truly thoughtful gift: postcards and some lined stationery with envelopes and a generous supply of postage stamps. (Enclose some felt-tip pens, too.)

A handy gift: an assortment of greeting cards for all occasions, so that they, too, can send birthday, anniversary, graduation, get-well and condolence cards to others.

Don't give a gift of clothing unless you're absolutely sure the size is right.

If you're tempted to pass along a scarf, purse, wallet or some little doodad you received three Christmases ago, please don't; the recipient will probably find it just as useless as you did. (Besides, you might get it back the year after next.)

If someone on your gift list is living on a pension, a check for any amount would be far more appreciated than some useless little trinket. Another thoughtful gift would be a year's subscription to a newspaper or magazine you are sure he or she will enjoy.

If you buy a gift on sale, be sure it's appropriate, since if the recipient tries to exchange it, he will be told, "Sorry, sale merchandise is not returnable."

Never give a pet to anyone unless you're absolutely sure a pet is wanted and will be properly cared for. And if you want to delight someone who considers his pet a "member of the family," include a tin or two of cat or dog food for the pet.

Don't give wine or liquor unless you're sure the recipients imbibe. Candy, nuts and fruit-cake make wonderful gifts for those who aren't counting calories, but please have compassion for those who are, and lead them not into temptation. Also remember that many older people have difficulty chewing hard candies and nuts.

Instead of giving someone a gift with permission to "take it back and exchange it if it's not what you want," save yourself (and them) time and effort by giving gift certificates in the first place.

For those who maintain their own homes and apartments, consider a gift certificate for other types of service needed—window washing and rug cleaning. And don't forget certificates for the barber shop, beauty parlor, taxi rides or dinner out to a fine restaurant. And (don't laugh) a trip to the podiatrist!

Holiday time can be depressing for people who are alone, so if you know someone who might be alone and lonely, give him (or her) the best gift of all—an invitation to have a holiday meal with you and your family. Loneliness is the ultimate poverty.

Genealogical 'Spike' Is Truly Puzzling

fevers aggressively — for example, using acetaminophen to keep the fever under control.
(C)1987, NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I've been doing some family genealogical research, from 1830 to 1930. Looking at a chart of death rates, there are two "spiked" rates — one for infants below 5, and one between ages 20 and 22. The rest of the curve is more bell-shaped, or what one would expect. I can understand the high infant death rate, but the "spike" at about 21 has me puzzled. The victims were equally divided between males and females; no wars were involved. Do you have any insight?

DEAR READER — Your family pattern is indeed thought-provoking. The increased rate between 20 and 22 could be due to the old-time high maternal death rate from childbirth. Also, in their early 20s, our ancestors usually struck out on their own and were less protected by family. In the old days, before government entitlement programs, welfare and food stamps, such an independence must have been extremely risky. However, I'm guessing. Perhaps some genealogy maven out there can answer your question. If so, I'd like to hear from such an expert.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I teach mathematics and use a lot of chalk every day. Even though the box is labeled "dustless and non-toxic," there is quite a bit of dust. Is this hazardous?

DEAR READER — The new "dustless" non-toxic chalk is not harmful. Unless you experience an allergic reaction to the chalk, such as coughing, sore throat, difficult breathing or rash, I believe that it is safe to use.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My son, 2, had two febrile seizures, both due to ear infections. The doctors say that if he gets another seizure, they will put him on phenobarbital until he's 5. Is this necessary?

DEAR READER — Some children appear to be particularly susceptible to febrile convulsions, seizures during high fevers. Because convulsions can be harmful to young children, the pediatrician is probably correct in suggesting that your son may have to take anti-seizure medicine, such as phenobarbital, if he has another convulsion.

However, an alternative option might be to treat his future

WIN AT BRIDGE
 By James Jacoby
 Making the right defensive play requires you to have confidence in your opponents' bidding. You assume they have bid correctly, and you try to picture the cards held by declarer. Then you plan to develop enough tricks to set the contract, based upon your perception of declarer's holding. That's the right approach to defense at bridge, even though declarer will frequently have different cards from what you anticipated.

Today East used this line of thinking to come up with an unusual winning play. Declarer played dummy's heart king at trick one, and East won the ace. Since South had simply signed off in four spades without expressing any slam interest, East mentally placed him with nine or 10 high-card points. If that were the case, perhaps West had a trump trick. Where then would the setting trick come from? East finally decided there would be a good chance of success if his partner had as much as the 10 or even the nine of diamonds. So he played back his two diamonds at trick two. Declarer won the queen of diamonds in dummy and took the spade finesse. West won and returned a diamond, and the A-J took the setting tricks.

Why would the nine of diamonds be enough in the West hand to achieve a favorable result? Suppose South held 10-8-7 instead of 9-8-7. With a diamond return at the second trick, the natural card for him to play is the seven or eight rather than the 10. Readers of this column will now do better, right?

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

By Bernice Bede Osoi
YOUR BIRTHDAY
NOVEMBER 28, 1987

In the year ahead, you might have to shoulder a bit more responsibility than you have in the past. Don't let this dismay you, because the bigger the job, the greater the rewards.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) The restrictions you may experience today might not be due to the faults of others. They could be generated by lack of foresight and planning on your part. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Matchmaker set instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail 82 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be realistic in evaluating situations today, but don't dwell solely on their negative aspects. What appears to be just a black cloud could have a silver lining.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your rate of expenditures is likely to be dominated by the company you keep today. If you get involved with high rollers, you might spend more than you intend.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Lofty goals might not be easy to come by today; in order to achieve them, it will require more effort than you may be prepared to exert.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You must be careful today that you don't use methods, procedures or tactics that are self-defeating. Think and plan ahead.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you are past due on an obligation to a friend, save yourself embarrassment today by calling it to this person's attention before he or she has to remind you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Companions will have a considerable influence on your attitude today. Avoid crepe hangers, because they'll cause you to view the world through defeatist glasses.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Someone to whom you've assigned a critical task may not be as dependable as you had hoped. To be on the safe side, keep a close tab on this person today.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) At a social function today, there is a chance you might run into one of your least favorite people. Don't let old feelings detract from your enjoyment.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Sidestep an old issue today that always creates friction between you and your mate. If you bring it up, your spouse could use it as a hook on which to hang other complaints.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Criticizing the efforts of another will not help this person's performance today. It may just cause him or her to lose interest in working with you again.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you overextend yourself financially at this time, you might not have the money available to do something fun you'll want to do further down the line.

...Astral

In addition to sprinkling the stars across your ceiling and down the walls, they can also hang the moon in any of its phases. They may also add the tape recorded sounds of crickets chirping or the soft roar of ocean waves. The moon and sound effects aren't covered by the $200 or so cost of the star-filled room. They are available for a small additional charge.

This astronomer's dream is hidden from view in a lighted room, and does not damage surfaces and does not wash off. The "stars" are "charged" by exposure to light, and then revealed when the lights are turned out. The glow seems to strengthen as the viewer's eyes grow accustomed to the dark. Focusing on a specific area can create the illusion that the stars are actually twinkling. The effect gradually fades in the darkness as the "energizing" effect from the lights wears off after about three hours in the darkened room. The sky can be brought to life again through additional, brief exposure to light.

The stars can be applied to almost any surface and can only be wiped out if they are pointed over. The application can even withstand floor traffic, although Shapiro said, it is typically only applied to the ceiling and walls down to the level of the light switches.

Jackson Heights Middle School in Oviedo is the first Seminole County school to incorporate Stellar Vision into its science program. The night skyscape was installed about three weeks ago and principal Bob Rainey called it "A big addition to our science program."

"There's no question it increases interest in astronomy. It makes everything clear to the student and interesting. I had a hard time with astronomy. This makes it easy."

The system was installed in a physical science classroom and, Rainey said, all students, as they go through sixth grade science classes, will have an opportunity to view the room. Seventh and eighth graders will also use the room.

"You have to know how to use it. But that only takes a 15 minute orientation for teachers," Rainey said.

The school's science department chairman, Polly Wilson, said "I think it's really neat. You really learn from it. It makes you want to go out to look at the stars to compare the sky to the room. It can also be used in the daytime."

Before the sky system was installed, Wilson said, sixth graders were introduced to astronomy through the use of charts and books. "This is so exciting. The students are very enthusiastic."

Although Stellar Vision is an excellent learning tool, Shapiro said the idea caught her interest for another reason. She was seeking a non-chemical sleep aid for her restless 11-year-old son, Shawn, when she read about the skyscape and its soothing effect.

Shawn not only finds his starry sky relaxing in his bedroom, but his brother, Robbie, 8, also has a star-studded bedroom. And both, Shapiro said, are absorbing astronomy as they gaze at the "night sky" as they nod off.

Shapiro said the starry skies also create a romantic setting and spouses sometimes order Stellar Vision as a gift to a mate, to recapture romance under the stars.

So, Stellar Vision, she said, is a mix of romance, education and relaxation, which is always available regardless of the time of day or atmospheric conditions. All you have to do is switch off the lights and light up the night sky in the comfort of your own home. The universe can be at your command.

Once More Stars There Than In Heavens

MGM Comes Back With A Loud Roar

By Vernon Scott
UPI Hollywood Reporter

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — There was a time when Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer was the mightiest studio of them all with "more stars than there are in heaven."

Under the stewardship of Louis B. Mayer and the brilliant Irving Thalberg, MGM made the most successful pictures with the most popular actors and actresses under the guidance of top directors.

Academy Awards accumulated in golden drifts.

From 1924 until 1950 MGM flourished, as did 20th Century Fox, Paramount, Warner Bros., Universal, RKO, Columbia and such independents as Sam Goldwyn, who left MGM early on.

The studios were run by tough, shrewd men — ex-junk dealers, glove salesmen and other first-generation Americans, almost all of them from the East Coast's teeming immigrant ghettos.

They were scheming businessmen with a surprising flair for mixing commerce and art through the movie medium. Instinctively, they knew what the public wanted to see on the screen.

None knew better than Mayer and Thalberg.

In the old days studios operated their own theater chains. Profits were limitless as long as MGM kept its contract lists bulging with such idols as Greta Garbo, Jean Harlow, Clark Gable, Spencer Tracy, Robert Taylor, Katharine Hepburn and later James Stewart, Lana Turner, Ava Gardner and virtually scores of others.

MGM directors were equally impressive, among them Victor Fleming, Clarence Brown, King Vidor and W.S. Van Dyke. The studio also had a galaxy of famous writers and musicians under contract.

All the Metro moguls needed do was shake the proper ingredients together and, voila! out would pop profit.

There was an aura of glamour about everything the studio produced. And indeed its boast about there being more stars at MGM than in the cosmos appeared to be true.

But a decade or so after that claim was made old Leo the Lion and Metro were in the dumper.

The government ruled against studios owning theaters. Agents convinced superstar clients not to sign exclusive contracts. Television raised its unpretty, ubiquitous head, professional sports blossomed to new cities, rock concerts came along.

Suddenly, movies weren't king of entertainment anymore. "B" pictures disappeared or were passed off as TV films.

Because the major studios tried to ignore TV, hoping it would go away, they all suffered and went into sharp decline. Soon there were no actors or directors under contract.

And no studio had more to lose than Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

MGM fell from its heavenly heights with a thud after Mayer left office as president and chief of production and was followed by a succession of incompetents, bunglers and mediocrities.

Each time there was a change of guard — and there were many — the studio's movies got worse. There was no continuity of leadership. Finances plunged.

During the parade of hollow three-piece suits through the Thalberg Building suites, Metro's back lots were sold off to replenish depleted coffers. Where Andy Hardy's home once stood there is a shopping center and condos crowd another Metro back lot.

Another brainy executive raised revenue by holding an auction of MGM artifacts, props, costumes, photographs and other memorabilia.

But nothing helped. MGM's gushing fountain of hit pictures diminished to a sickly trickle of third-rate films. Management continued to change regularly and without improvement.

Finally, in 1985, even the old studio lot was sold to Lorimar. The famed MGM sign was removed from its landmark water tower and many Hollywoodians believed they had witnessed the demise of a giant.

Ownership of the production company changed hands several times in complex deals. Current owner and stabilizing force is Kirk Kerkorian who owns most of the stock.

One of Kerkorian's moves was re-organizing MGM with

—Goldie Hawn
'Overboard' on slate

another suffering company, United Artists, to form MGM-UA with headquarters in Beverly Hills. Installed as chairman and chief executive officer was Lee Rich, a Lorimar veteran, who knows the entertainment business and is as tough-

Rock 'N' Roll Diplomacy

Speaking of summit meetings, an unusual one was held last summer in Moscow. Showtime pay TV, which broadcast a tape of it in October, called it "A Rock 'n' Roll Summit." Bonnie Raitt, Santana, the Doobie Brothers and James Taylor joined the Soviet rock group Autograph in a rousing outdoor bash on July 4.

Guy MacMillin

Then Billy Joel showed up in the Soviet Union to put on several concerts. One was captured on tape. "Billy Joel: From Leningrad, USSR" was shown on HBO a few months later. (HBO doesn't answer my letters, so I wasn't able to get an advanced screening copy.) Both programs are off the air now, but I suspect they will be out on videocassette soon. Make it a point to take a look at them.

Decadent, rebellious American rock music in the conservative Soviet Union? What's happening here? Has glasnost become a sing-along? Even Soviet fans are mystified. One obviously delighted young man sitting on the lawn at Showtime's Moscow affair could hardly contain himself. "This, as a matter of fact, is a miracle," he said. "It was a great idea to make this concert. It's impossible, and that's great."

In the overall scheme of things — what with nuclear missiles and Star Wars and Afghanistan and Nicaragua — it may seem a trivial matter that U.S. rock stars are performing in the Soviet Union. But don't draw any final conclusions about what it all means until you look at the faces of the people in the audiences as Joel stomps through "A Matter of Trust" and the Doobies rip into "China Grove."

There's undiluted delight in those faces, rapture even. These people are experiencing something more direct and personal than traditional good will and international cooperation. Unlike other ideologies, rock 'n' roll seems perfectly capable of world conquest.

A stunning thing happens in the Joel concert. At one point, between songs, he shouts out the cacophonous cry that Little Richard terrified American parents with three decades ago: "A womp-bomp-a-loompomp, a lop-bomp-bomp." And about 10,000 Soviet teenagers shout it back at him! This is like Khrushchev's famous threat. "We will bury you," he said. "We will bury you."

you," in reverse. Except for the audience reaction, the two pay-TV programs are quite dissimilar. When the bands aren't playing, "A Rock 'n' Roll Summit" gets terribly preachy. There are lots of shots of peace marchers, and there's lots of talk about how human beings are all alike. The commentary ignores the very real differences of perception and philosophy that separate Soviets and Americans.

The Joel concert is more impressive, because it's just a concert. If it weren't for the Russian translator and the little U.S. and Soviet flags in the audience, this could be any arena anywhere.

And yet I confess to a slight discomfort hearing "A Matter of Trust" and "Goodbye, Saigon" sung in this context. The songs are marvelous, bitter anthems — one about the injustice of unemployment, the other about soldiers in a pointless war. But, in Leningrad, they conform too nicely to Soviet impressions of the United States. Joel missed an opportunity to point out the universality of his complaints: he could have told his audience to think of "Goodbye, Saigon" as "Goodbye, Kabul."

But let's get back to those faces. Soviets and Americans don't share many experiences. There are barriers of language, culture and beliefs, serious differences about the meaning of liberty and the role of government. So it's worth noting that those obstacles can be blown away, however briefly, by amplified guitars.

Parton Headlines

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Dolly Parton will star in the first new weekly network television musical series in several years with "The Dolly Parton Hour" for ABC next fall.

The two-year contract also involves additional specials, movies and other program development for the singer-actress. "I am very excited about my new TV show, especially that it will be on ABC. We had great success together on a "Smoky Mountain Christmas" and I look forward to many years with them," Parton said.

Did Eliot Ness Really Book 'Em?

Dear Dick: I remember watching "The Untouchables" with Robert Stack for a long time, plus many re-runs. I know the series was based on a book, but I can't remember who wrote the book. Is it still in print, and do you know where it can be purchased? — E.L.M., Hollywood, Fla.

Dear E.L.M.: That series was based on Eliot Ness' autobiography. At least, the first show — it was originally a two-part "Desilu Playhouse" drama in 1959 — was taken from Ness' book. Most of the subsequent TV series episodes were strictly fictional. The book is long out-of-print. You may be able to acquire one from a used book store, or one of those outfits that locates out-of-print books.

Dear Dick: I am writing to see if you can give me some information about a movie called "Robinson Crusoe" which starred Dick Van Dyke. I believe it was a Disney film, and I think my grandson would enjoy seeing it. — M.M., Steubenville, Ohio.

Dear M.M.: It was called, actually, "Lt. Robin Crusoe, USN," and it was a 1966 release from Disney. Nancy Kwan was Van Dyke's co-star in the story about a downed Navy pilot who drifts onto a Pacific island — but this island was not uninhabited.

Dear Dick: Some friends and I were watching

Ask Dick Kleiner

"Nightmare on Elm Street II" and we can't decide where we've seen Hope Lange before. Could you please tell us where it might have been? — E.B., Vicksburg, Mich.

Dear K.S.: Probably in her TV series, "The Ghost and Mrs. Muir," in which she was Mrs. Muir, opposite Edward Mulhare as the ghost. She also appeared in films — including "Death Wish" and "Pocketful of Miracles."

Dear Dick: I need some information on a very old Laurel and Hardy movie. I'm not sure if it was called "Babes in Toyland" or "The March of the Wooden Soldiers." I think it is a classic. Would it be available on VCR? — L.E.W., New Albany, Ind.

Dear L.E.W.: You're right, that was one of the L&H classics. It was originally called "Babes in Toyland" when it was first issued in 1934, and then later retitled "March of the Wooden Soldiers." I find it surprising, and sad, that it is not listed in any catalog I have of available VCRs.

Dear Dick: Could you please give me some information about Deanna Durbin, the beautiful child singing star of years ago. Is she living or dead? Why did her singing career end while she was so young? — M.V.S., Reading, Pa.

Dear M.V.S.: She retired when she was only 27, mostly out of choice. She had grown tired of the same sort of roles, and Hollywood had type-cast her viciously. Her decision may also have been prompted by the fact that she was having serious weight problems. She is still living, in France, where she retired in 1948. She is 68 this year.

Dear Dick: My girl friend and I have a bet if Robert Hays of "Airplane" also played the bomber in the TV movie "City Killer." I say it was another actor. Who's right? — T., Houston, Texas.

Dear T.: You are. Hays was not in the film. Terence Knox played the bomber.

...MGM

mindful as the moguls of old.

His first priority was to turn MGM-UA around by making profitable pictures at reasonable costs.

"The world has changed since MGM's heyday and it will never return to what it was," he said in his plush headquarters offices.

Rich is one of a dozen or so men in Hollywood who determine which movies will be seen in this country and around the world. It is his decision, and his alone, what pictures MGM-UA will produce.

His production chiefs, Alan Ladd Jr. and Tony Thomopoulos, are experienced show business executives who put together projects and present them to Rich for his approval or thumbs down.

Rich is nothing if not candid about turning MGM around.

"We were nowhere when I came in," he said. "The problems with Metro were complex, but they had the wrong people running the studio. A lot of things went wrong."

"I can't recall a major successful picture from MGM for a dozen years before we came in. No big hits."

"But in the past 16 months we've made 17 pictures. I think we've accomplished amazing, Herculean, results."

Rich picked up a piece of paper and recited that "The Living Daylights," the latest James Bond film, had grossed $52 million domestically and was headed for $120 million in foreign release. "Spaceballs," the Mel Brooks comedy, picked up $38 million domestically and is doing well abroad.

"We stumbled with 'Real Men,'" he said. "None of us liked it and it didn't do well."

"But 'Baby Boom' is a winner with $13 million in three weeks domestically. And 'Fatal Beauty,' the new Whoopi Goldberg picture, is holding its own."

Coming up on Metro's slate is Goldie Hawn's new comedy, "Overboard." Cher in "Moonstruck," Michael J. Fox in "Bright Lights, Big City," "Masquerade" with Rob Lowe and Meg Tilly and "Willow," the new George Lucas film directed by Ron Howard.

The flurry of activity has made MGM a rising star in the movie firmament, but it will never again produce 80 movies a year as it did in the golden age, nor will it boast a roster of stars.

"It was much easier in the old days when you could assign a director to a picture with contract stars, even when the director and performers didn't like the assignment," Rich said. "It was a form of bondage."

"Today you deal with independent filmmakers like Dick Zanuck, Irwin Winkler, Norman Jewison or Peter Weir. Either they come to you with a property or you try to entice them to make a picture for the studio. That's how the creative people come together."

"The secret to the whole thing is the screenplay. If you have a good script you will attract creative people, both stars and directors."

"Take Goldie Hawn, for instance. She's been making pictures exclusively at Warners for years. But she liked our script for 'Overboard' and (producer-director) Garry Marshall wanted to do it. If you've got the right script, you can get anyone."

"But even major stars can't guarantee a successful film. 'Ishtar' (starring Warren Beatty and Dustin Hoffman) was a disaster. There are dozens of other examples."

"I would say there are only two stars today that can be counted on absolutely at the box office — Clint Eastwood and Eddie Murphy. Not even Sylvester Stallone is guaranteed box office, as he has proved recently."

"There's too much competition for the entertainment dollar out there. Studio executives have to be more selective and sophisticated, and they've got to keep a firm hand on costs."

Tough guy Rich says his films are made for an average of $11-12 million, as compared with the overall industry average of some $17 million. Waste and carelessness aren't tolerated at MGM-UA.

"If you don't keep the costs down you are in big trouble," he said. "You have to keep an eye on producers, directors and stars who cause delays and overruns on budgets and schedules. Nothing was more true than not allowing the inmates to take over the asylum."

"A lot of people in this industry are fiscally immoral. In those rare cases where producers or directors have their own money invested, they can bring pictures in on time and budget."

"I know one director who never brought in a film on schedule. He inevitably ran over budget. Then he signed to make a film for $7 million, agreeing that he would pay for anything over $7 million. It was the only time he completed a picture on time and under budget. Now he's back to his old tricks. I would never hire him for anything."

"I refuse to work with irresponsible people. It's not worth it, no matter how talented they may be."

Horror stories like director Michael Cimino's disastrous "Heaven's Gate," which helped destroy United Artists, make Rich wince.

As one of the handful of new moguls who decide which films will be made, Rich looks for four major elements in a project brought to him by Ladd and Thomopoulos — script, budget, director and an indication of the cast.

"Moonstruck" is a case in point," he said. "It was brought to me with a good script, a budget and Norman Jewison as director. Then Cher fell into place. So all the elements of a good picture were present."

"Those factors have to come together in my mind. All decisions are different, but I'm also aware of what projects are being shaped and prepared for my decisions. I know what is going on, but I trust what Alan and Tony bring me."

Television Final Score Redskins 42, Dems 2

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In football terms, it's called a rout. In political jargon, it's a landslide.

Either way, it was no contest when it came to the battle for local viewers Monday night between the Washington Redskins game with the Los Angeles Rams on ABC and a discussion between the six Democratic presidential candidates on independent station Channel 5.

In the 90 minutes they were head-to-head, from 9:30 p.m. to 11 p.m., the football game was on 61 percent of all TV sets in use in Washington area households. The Democrats, however, were on but 3 percent of the sets in and around the nation's capital.

The final score was 42 Nielsen rating points for the football game, 2.1 points for the Democrats, or only a fraction more than a safety.
