HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Friday, February 2, 1979

YOUR BIRTHDAY February 2, 1979
The types of changes you've been wanting to make in your basic lifestyle are likely to be brought about this coming year. That which held you back formerly is no longer existent.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
Members of your family may find you a shade too opinionated today. This could cause some rumbles on the home front. Respect their views if you want them to respect yours. Find out which signs you are compatible with by sending for your copy of the all-new Astro-Graph Letter for 1979. Mail $1 for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 480, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
Co-workers who will resent you today if you try to con them into doing your work. Production should be your purpose, not flowery prattle.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Things in general will come easily for you today. That could work to your disadvantage. You might take an opportunity for granted and fail to exploit it properly.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
You know what needs doing today, but you may have problems in getting your initiative into high gear. Be lively, not lethargic.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
It's best to let others boast of your accomplishments today, rather than tooting your own horn. If you've done something worthy they'll mention it, so relax.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Even though you'll be money-conscious today, you're still likely to spend beyond your means for things which aren't necessities — and feel guilty in the process.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
In competitive situations it will take more than your charm and good looks to get by today. If you coast, your competition will glide past you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Normally you make cautious assessments before you involve yourself. Today, however, you may ignore this procedure and do something impulsively.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
Take care today not to labor under the illusion that an influential contact is prepared to pull off all types of miracles for you. Unfortunately, he can't.

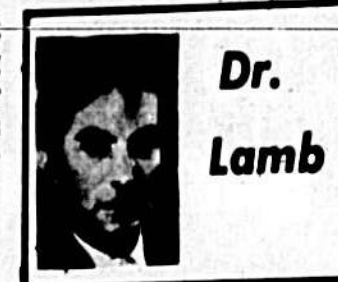

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
An associate may not feel the same urgency that you do today regarding a collective objective. If it means that much to you, go it alone.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
Instead of being your usual industrious self, you're more prone to rationalizing and postponing things today. Neglected tasks will plague you later.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Don't attempt to manage something for another today where you feel inept. You could cause all concerned unnecessary problems.

Your Food Intake Can Keep You Thin

DEAR DR. LAMB — Is it always true that consuming more food than is necessary for the upkeep of your body causes overweight? I am a small eater and I have a medium-large frame. I am 5 feet 6 but I don't seem to be able to lose any weight. I don't drink beer and I eat very little bread, potatoes or peanut butter. What else can I do?

DEAR READER — You need to learn to evaluate properly how many calories are in the foods you eat. I see you avoid starches, sweets and, apparently, alcohol.

The other major source of calories in the diet is fat. There are nine calories for every gram of fat as opposed to only four calories for every gram of carbohydrate or protein. If you want to limit your calories, I suggest you limit your fat.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet, to give you some basic information on how to plan a balanced diet that is limited in calories. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

This diet will give you between 1,200 and 1,300 calories a day. I don't like to see people go on a diet that is much more restricted than this one unless they are under careful medical supervision. A person shouldn't stay on a strict diet more than two to six weeks, depending upon how severe it is. Such diets may cause serious problems. Yes, it's always true that your body acts like a checking account. If you deposit more than you can use, the balance will accumulate. The balance in this instance isn't quite so attractive because it's deposited as fat.

The other side of the basic balance system is how many calories you are using. I might ask if your lifestyle permits you to use enough calories.

If you are not physically active, you might try to gradually develop a physical fitness program — even if that is walking an hour a day. You can divide such a walk into two parts if you don't want to walk too much at a time. You can decrease your balance (fat tissue) by spending more calories.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Just what is meant by "passing sounds"? What is the purpose for it? My doctor has done this three times and I don't know why. He said the opening to my uterus should be opened. I am 60 years old and have had some uterine bleeding. I am taking hormones.

DEAR READER — You can think of a sound as a rod; different sounds are made from different substances. They are used literally to dilate openings such as your doctor has done in your case. They may be used to dilate the opening in the esophagus if it becomes constricted. They're often used if there is a stricture of the urethra in both men and women.

There is no way I would know what is causing your uterine bleeding, but you have done the right thing in seeing your doctor. I would like to take this occasion to tell all women who have an unexplained bleeding, particularly between periods or after they have completed the menopause, to see their physician immediately. Sometimes this can be an early sign of cancer. Never ignore unexplained bleeding.

but that bid was invented by 28-year-old Oswald Jacoby some six months later.

Hynes could not force with two hearts. He would have had to jump to three to force, so he elected to cue bid two spades. Sam should probably have bid just three clubs. But even at 69 (his current age) Sam is a most aggressive bidder, so he tried three hearts.

Eddie, who always looked for something brilliant, decided that seven hearts would be the most brilliant bid at his disposal. He bid it. Sam didn't think it was brilliant when he saw the dummy and realized that it would take a lot of luck to bring home all the tricks.

He won the spade, cashed dummy's king of clubs, drew trumps with two leads and cashed his ace of clubs in the hope that something really good would happen in that suit. But West showed out.

Now he needed real luck in diamonds. He cashed his king, noted the fall of the jack from East, finessed against the queen and everything had come up roses.

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sostag

Sam Fry (life master number 10) was Sam Fry Jr. back in 1931. His partner the late Edward Hynes Jr., became life master number 23. Their bidding of today's hand is indicative of how experts had to use imagination back in 1932.

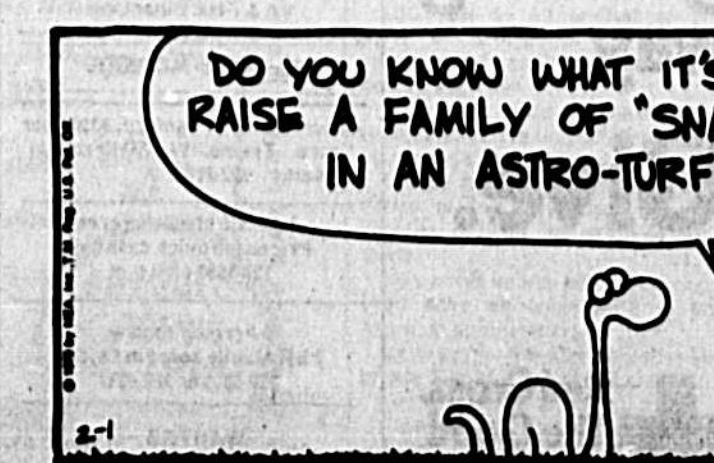

Sam's opening club bid was normal and sound then as it is now. West might have made a weak jump overall.

SALT Tension, Our National Interest...

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Chief SALT negotiator Paul Warnke said Thursday that rejection of the treaty would heighten world tension while approval would lessen the danger of nuclear war.

"SALT II is the best that we can do now, and if we don't grab the opportunity, we can never do better," he told a State Department briefing attended by about 200 persons. "The failure of SALT would be a tragic setback for our national interest."

Warnke said Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev may come to the United States within four or five weeks to formally sign the final proposed agreement, which will be subject to Senate approval.

Some of the civic and government leaders gathered for the conference voiced skepticism about the treaty, but Warnke insisted it is in the nation's interest.

Harold G. Gordon of the conservative U. S. Industrial Council, for example, charged that the U.S. negotiators may have underestimated the Soviet Union's determination to "win a nuclear exchange."

But Warnke said, "We will do what is necessary, with or without SALT, to maintain a balance of forces between us and the Soviet Union."

"Trust is not an issue, but rather self-interest," he said, quoting the late Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Church: Take Off Kid Gloves In Dealing With Saudi Arabia

WEST PALM BEACH (UPI) — The United States has treated Saudi Arabia with kid gloves for too long, says Senate Foreign Relations Committee Chairman Frank Church, and it is time for some policy changes to help the peacemakers in the Middle East. Sen. Church, in his first major speech as head of the committee, said Thursday night it was time for "plain speaking" with the Arab nations and the Saudis in particular.

Viets Loot Buddha Images?

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — Khmer Rouge broadcasts today charged that invading Vietnamese troops "in a savage act of banditry" have looted ancient Buddha images and priceless antiques from the 12th century ruins at Angkor Wat. The broadcasts by the "Voice of Democratic Kampuchea," located in southern China, claimed that on Jan. 20, "the Vietnamese aggressors succeeded in temporarily taking Angkor Wat."

'Revenge' Bombing Kills 14

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — Leftist guerrillas, seeking revenge for the "government massacre" of a priest and four children, bombed government and army offices Thursday, killing 14 national guardsmen and two civilians, officials said. Hefferman blasted the prosecution for having virtually no physical evidence in the case, such as ballistics or fingerprints. He also said the eyewitnesses in the case fell an obligation to identify Sims. "His community is looking for him to perform he's on center stage," Hefferman said of the eyewitnesses.

Coming... Pope: 'My Heart Beat In Unison'

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope John Paul II returned to the Vatican triumphantly from his first foreign trip, a 15,000-mile journey to Latin America that brought him into close contact with millions. "It was very beautiful in Mexico but I overcame the temptations and came back to Rome," the smiling pope told a crowd of 1,000 in St. Peter's Square that looked paltry compared with the multitudes that lined the plazas of Mexico and the Dominican Republic during his one-week trip. Looking tanned, triumphant and only a bit tired, the 58-year-old pontiff said Thursday after an 8-hour, 35-minute transatlantic flight that his main feeling about the trip was one of "gratitude."

You can tell it's getting cold when local thieves start stealing jackets with fur collars. Such a jacket was reported stolen Wednesday from in front of Poplar's Grocery, 315 Poplar, Ave. in Sanford. Who'll Arrest Whom In Iran? Take Your Pick TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Premier Shahpour Bakhtiar moved to confront the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, ordering the army to arrest anyone named by the holy man in an Islamic Council intended to rule Iran, government sources said today. In an interview with French Radio, Bakhtiar said he was willing to meet the ayatollah for discussions to try to defuse the situation between them, and prevent an outbreak of civil war. Bakhtiar was quoted today by London's Guardian newspaper as saying he hoped to establish contact with Khomeini today or Saturday, that "that is up to him." Bakhtiar repeated that such a meeting would come about by threats and said he would not hold any discussions if Khomeini continued to insist he first resign as prime minister. "Bakhtiar is a person neither the army nor the people accept as legal," Khomeini declared upon his arrival Thursday. Khomeini also appealed to a still undecided army — which remained in barracks during the tumultuous celebrations — to "come to the people" and unleashed a blistering attack on the United States.

...Home Patty: Hiding And Planning Wedding

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Patricia Hearst was in hiding again today, but for the first time in five years she was neither a prisoner nor a fugitive. This time only the privacy of the 34-year-old newspaper heiress was at stake. Her companions were her fiancé and family friends and her major worry was planning her wedding. Miss Hearst walked out of prison Thursday hand-in-hand with her fiancé, Policeman Bernard Shaw. She grinned and waved the presidential commutation that set her free after 22 months at the Federal Correctional Institution at Pleasanton across San Francisco Bay. "I'm really happy to be going home," she said. Miss Hearst, Shaw, 30, who is divorced and the father of two children, and her attorney, George Martinis, went to the home of her mother in Hillsborough where they had a reunion breakfast before leaving for an undisclosed location. Miss Hearst said she would be "in hiding" for a short time. She bantered with reporters at her mother's house, at one point opening her jacket to reveal a T-shirt with "Parole Me" printed on it. She and Shaw sat on a couch as media representatives pressed them for answers about their wedding. The only thing she would say was it would be "fairly good-looking because I have a lot of friends who worked on the committee (for her release) and a lot of friends. It's not going to be a small one."

'Shahpour Who?'

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Premier Shahpour Bakhtiar made a fresh attempt today to avoid an impending civil war by offering to take opposition members into his cabinet and open talks with his major opponent, the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini. But the holy man, ignoring Bakhtiar's peace feelers, received a delegation of cheering followers who mobbed his headquarters on his second day home after exile.

Ex-FPC President Pleads Guilty In Price-Fix Fraud

TAMPA (UPI) — Angel P. Perez, former president of Florida Power Corp., pleaded guilty in federal court today to a conspiracy in a price-fixing scheme which fraudulently inflated the price of oil sold to the St. Petersburg-based utility in 1974-75. Perez is the first person to plead guilty or be convicted of charge in connection with the so-called "daisy chain" operation, which resulted in the overpayment of several million dollars for oil. As part of the plea, Perez agreed to make restitution to the company as best he can, and appear as a prosecution witness against six other defendants in the case. The government said it had no recommendation as to what sentence should be imposed upon Perez, leaving the decision up to U.S. District Judge W. Terrell Hodges. Perez, who could receive up to five years in prison, is not expected to be sentenced until after the trial of the six other men. Five of the six are scheduled to go on trial in Jacksonville Monday. They are former Florida Power Corp. executive vice president Richard Raymond of St. Petersburg; James B. Clark, president of Laron Petroleum Corp. of Houston; Ronald Puritt, a Houston-based attorney and partner of Laron Petroleum; John L. Burns, a former executive with Charter International Oil Corp. of Houston; and Walter L. Ballard, former officer of Signal Oil and Gas Co. of Houston and now a resident of Fort Myers. Each is charged with one count of conspiracy, six counts of mail fraud and five counts of fraud by wire. Oil baron Raymond Grandland of Houston — identified by the prosecution as the key figure in the price-fixing scheme — faces the same charges as the five scheduled for trial Monday, but he had his trial severed because of health reasons. He has been hospitalized with heart problems and a stroke, suffered since the federal grand jury indictment was returned in September.

Groundhog Phil Sees Shadow, Heralds 6 More Winter Weeks

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa. (UPI) — It's going to be six more weeks of winter weather for the nation, according to the annual long-range forecast of the nation's No. 1 groundhog, Punxsutawney Phil. Precisely at 7:28 a.m. today, Phil crawled out of his dark burrow on Gobbler's Knob and spotted his shadow. If the groundhog had failed to see his shadow, spring would have been just around the corner, according to legend.

Union: What Wage Guidelines?

ATLANTA (UPI) — The United Rubber Workers union said it would ignore President Carter's wage and price guidelines in seeking benefits when it negotiates a new contract this year. "A cloud hangs over our negotiations in the form of President Carter's anti-inflation program," URW President Peter Bommarito told 200 delegates at the URW international meeting. "His voluntary wage-price controls aren't working mainly because they are unfairly biased in favor of management. We intend to bargain as though they do not exist."

Did He Steal Uranium?

WILMINGTON, N. C. (UPI) — David L. Dale, a temporary construction employee at General Electric's nuclear fuel fabrication plant somehow — no one knows how — walked out of the plant with 150 pounds of low-grade uranium. The FBI Thursday accused David L. Dale, 39, with stealing the uranium and trying to ransom it back to the company for $150,000. Dale was held on retention charges in lieu of $150,000 bond. The uranium was discovered several hours after his arrest, sitting in an open field about five miles from the plant. No money was paid and an FBI spokesman insisted the uranium was too low-grade to make a bomb or weapon of any sort.

2 Auto Firms Cutting Back

DETROIT (UPI) — The "struggling two" of the nation's five biggest automakers are cutting back production schedules and laying off thousands of workers this month because of badly swollen inventories of slow-selling cars. Chrysler Corp. and American Motors Corp. said they temporarily will close some plants and lay off some employees to keep stockpiles from growing more unwieldy.

Teng Skips His Grits, Flies On To Houston

ATLANTA (UPI) — Chinese Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping, in a quest to learn more about America so he can try to mold his country into a modern industrial society, began the second day of a cross-country trip today, skipping breakfast and flying on to Houston. Teng flew from Dobbs Air Force Base near Marietta, Ga., about 20 miles northwest of Atlanta, after spending the first 2 1/2 days in America's Sunbelt. He flies on to Seattle Saturday afternoon. Temperatures were a brisk 23 degrees under clear skies on the runway as Teng, his wife and the Chinese delegation bade farewell to their hosts, Georgia Gov. George Busbee and his wife. In Houston temperatures at mid-morning were warmer, 49 degrees, but it was cloudy with a light drizzle. Teng had originally been scheduled to eat a southern breakfast with all that entails, including grits. But the room service manager at the Peachtree Plaza Hotel, a 70-story glass and steel monolith that dominates the Atlanta skyline, said the vice premier didn't eat breakfast. "I was on the floor all morning and he never came out of his room. We had a continental breakfast (coffee, orange juice and danish rolls) set up for the entire delegation, but the vice premier had nothing to eat," said room service manager Art Sigel. Passing through the lobby en route to his black limousine bearing Chinese and American flags, about 15 hotel guests applauded Teng. He smiled and waved. The expressway to Dobbs, Interstate 75 north, was cleared of a horde of rush hour motorists as the delegation sped to its waiting U.S. Air Force One jetliner loaned by President Carter for the two-hour flight to Houston's Ellington AFB. Along the route Teng saw some more of what he came to see — the bumper-to-bumper rush hour traffic of the southbound lane of the interstate, plush apartment complexes nestled among the pine woods of the Georgia suburbs and a sweeping perimeter highway that diverts truck traffic and Florida-bound tourists around Atlanta.

'Veal...It's Like This...'

ATLANTA (UPI) — Georgia Gov. George Busbee host for a dinner with visiting Chinese Vice Premier Teng and 13 governors Thursday evening, asked Teng if he had discovered anything unique about life here. "Yes," Busbee quoted Teng as replying, "you Americans eat veal with every meal." Thursday was the third time Teng was served veal. Earlier he had it at a White House state dinner and then at a luncheon hosted by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

three times, and later seeing how American arts are made with Henry Ford II, respects America's space center in Houston. He also will dine on the Texas tradition — barbecue — watch a rodeo tonight and don a wide-brimmed cowboy hat, also in the Texas tradition. The 74-year-old Chinese leader is making a five-day tour of Atlanta, Houston and Seattle to "get to know the American people" after inaugurating what he calls a honeymoon with America born in three days' talks and pacts with Carter in Washington. His culinary adventures began after his arrival from Washington Thursday. He downed a meal in plain with a fork, rather than chopsticks, and applauded politely after Mayor Maynard Jackson offered a toast in Chinese drawn out so slowly that it had to be translated into Chinese again for Teng. Thursday night, at a dinner at Gov. George Busbee's mansion with 17 other governors and various Washington officials, the 4-foot-11 social lion of America was once again fed veal — a dish he was given twice in Washington. Busbee asked Teng if he had discovered anything unique in American life. "Yes," replied Teng. "You Americans eat veal with every meal."

When the going gets rough, sometimes we wish we could be magicians and simply pull a rabbit out of a hat at the right moment. But, it doesn't work that way. We have to face up to things like rising prices, the energy crisis, the kids' education and getting braces for Susie's teeth.

Sometimes there seems to be no end to it. And we're not magicians. Yet, even on the gloomy days, we have something that keeps us going. Guess you'd call it faith. It's not easy to come by, either — but once you have it, it is yours for keeps!

Where do you start looking? How about in the church of your choice?

'Mother': Memories By A Friend

By JANE CASSELLERY
 Herald Religion Editor

To Mother Ruby Wilson, who died this week in an auto accident, God was not some abstract being in far-off space. She was so intimately acquainted she often referred to him as "Poppa."

She looked to Him each day to meet all her needs and those of her old folk at the Good Samaritan Home and the children at Resthaven Day Care Center.

She was a revered and beloved institution to the community, but to me and the many whose lives she blessed, she was a very special friend.

I met Mother Wilson about 25 years ago, when she was operating the Good Samaritan Home in the modest frame facility built by funds raised through fish fries and the sale of stationary and seven-cent pencils.

She never belittled the part played by little children selling frozen cups of Kool-Aid and pencils to raise building funds. I was impressed with the cleanliness of the rooms and the tender loving care given the contented residents.

Mother Wilson radiated love and the big smile that lit up her face reflected the joy within. Over the years we grew to be personal friends who could share intimate triumphs and heartaches and know the other would understand.

She had a great sense of humor and a mischievous smile in her eye — and the ability to laugh at herself.

She was impatient with red tape and was not willing to seek government funding at the expense of restricting the operation of the Good Samaritan Home. It would have forced her to keep out the very people she wanted to help.

This meant operating the home on faith days by day in a hand-to-mouth way.

Many of the members of her Freewill Holiness Church were volunteers on the staff at the home, until they were required by the government to pay them the minimum wage.

Often there would be no money in the bank to meet payroll or pay workman's compensation or social security payments required by the government.

Mother Wilson would just "turn it over to the Lord," who would pass the word to someone in Ennis, Deltona, Casselberry or Sanford and a check for the right amount would arrive at the last minute.

"Isn't He wonderful," she would exclaim, always grateful for the latest miracle. She was never quite sure why it was necessary for God to wait until things were quite so low, but she figured it was to remind them of their utter dependence on Him and to "keep me humble."

Accclaimed by senators, congressmen and community leaders and written up in the Congressional Record and "Who's Who," Mother Wilson kept her humility. When others praised her, she would put the credit "slawbers for her accomplishments.

Mother Wilson always kept a storehouse of the "blessings" donated by friends all over Central Florida, which she distributed to those in need of furniture, food or clothing. This sometimes brought down the wrath of fire marshals, who would order her to make other arrangements.

As she got older, Mother Wilson remarked on her anniversary that God had blessed her with a husband who wanted to stay in one place or she would not have been able to do the work here that she did.

She kidded "Poppy" as Mr. Wilson is fondly known, and the excitement in anticipation of their "honeymoon" as being the cause of his high blood pressure.

She confided in me that she was pretty excited herself. A day or so before she had fallen when running out to get the car for her foster son, Leonard, did not mean his car for school. As he started back to get about her, she ordered him to see to the bus, "I'll just lay here and think about it awhile," she added.

Leonard had a way of missing the bus quite frequently and she was driving him to school at Lyman High, when Wednesday's fatal accident occurred.

Funeral services will be held for Mother Wilson Wednesday at noon at Freewill Holiness Church.

Now that "Mother" has gone home to her "Poppa," in my mind I can hear her joyously outbawling the angels with "hallojahs" and praise.

HELP COMING AND GOING

Rev. WILLIAM ENNIS
 All Souls Catholic Church
 In St. John's gospel, Jesus tells us "By this shall all men know that you are my disciples, if you have love for one another."

As these abuses are in themselves, they are doubly bad when done in the presence of children.

When we realize all these sins of the tongue, we cannot fail to reflect on some of the teachings of Jesus. He says in St. Matthew "Out of the abundance of the heart, the mouth speaks." (Matt 12:38) Indeed a tongue is a good indicator of a person's character! Jesus continues "every idle word men speak, they shall give an account on the day of judgement."

How did it indeed are the words that cut and wound and hurt our neighbors; that rain reputations; break up friendships and create enemies. We will have to answer to Almighty God for all of them.

Then Jesus tells us He considers as done to Himself — whatever we do to the least of His brothers. How often do we stop to consider that our uncharitable speech must first pass through the heart of Christ before it wounds the heart of our neighbor!

How can we avoid or overcome the sins of the tongue? Cultivate the practice of charitable thoughts as a predisposition to charitable words.

Practice self-control and self-denial. Today too many people say too much, too fast. Once the words are out they cannot be recalled. So think before you speak. If you have nothing good to say about a person, it is best to say nothing.

A good rule of thumb in the use of the tongue is the golden rule which Jesus gives us "As you wish men to do to you, so do you also to them." (Lk 6:30)

Golden Rule Applies To Tongue

Over the years we grew to be personal friends who could share intimate triumphs and heartaches and know the other would understand. "Isn't He wonderful," she would exclaim, always grateful for the latest miracle. She was never quite sure why it was necessary for God to wait until things were quite so low, but she figured it was to remind them of their utter dependence on Him and to "keep me humble." Picture the joy of a little child as he plays in the yard after supper. With yesterday forgotten and tomorrow not near one day at a time. The burdens you carry won't ever be too heavy because they won't include yesterday's blunders or tomorrow's uncertainties. And once again you will be able to feel the lighthearted joy of a little child.

The psalmist put it like this: "O my soul, why be so gloomy and discouraged? Trust in God... he will make me smile again" (Psalm 43:5, The Living Bible).

'Baby Bust' Phenomenon Women Choose $$ Over Motherhood

Money, often blamed for man's downfall, is currently being linked to American women having fewer babies, reports the American Council of Life Insurance.

For women in their childbearing years, given the choice of becoming a mother or earning money, are increasingly choosing that good old U.S. legal tender, say two California economists.

Prof. Ward, who co-authored a study on U.S. post-war fertility trends for the Rand Corporation with Rand economist Dr. William P. Buist, says the "baby bust" trend began in 1967 and has continued steadily since.

His study, undertaken for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare concludes that women have been rejecting motherhood in favor of weekly wages for more than two decades.

According to Dr. Buist, the nation's declining birth rate can be attributed to the remarkable post-war growth in employment of women of child-bearing age — not the pill per se. In 1974, for instance, 3 in 5 of the nation's young

AN IMPROVISATIONAL JAZZ SAXOPHONIST MUST LEARN THE RULES OF MUSIC TO BREAK THEM

'Spider' Martin: His Music Grows

You might catch John (Spider) Martin playing "Wildwood" or one of his other favorites one way on Tuesday, then hear him play the same tune a different way the following Wednesday.

"We grow each and every day. Each day there is a little difference. There's 24 hours of growth and maturation with every night and day," said Spider. "It may be minute, but you have experienced 24 hours of growth and that comes out in your music if you are an artist."

Though he has been jamming with other musicians in the area for several weeks, the start of his serious effort to establish himself in central Florida will take place Sunday night when he performs in concert at Sineni's in the Longwood Village.

He also plans to develop a jazz column for "Fretbird" — a music magazine.

Spider's journey from upstate New York to central Florida has been a long one that touched the careers of many other musicians and singers.

Most recently Spider appeared with Tony Bennett and Ramsey Lewis. He is under contract to Bennett's Improv Records.

But the beginning was long ago. The first big name he played with was Lionel Hampton.

Martin's other credits include being musical director and playing for Aretha Franklin, Wilson Pickett, Etta Jones and Dixie Gillespie.

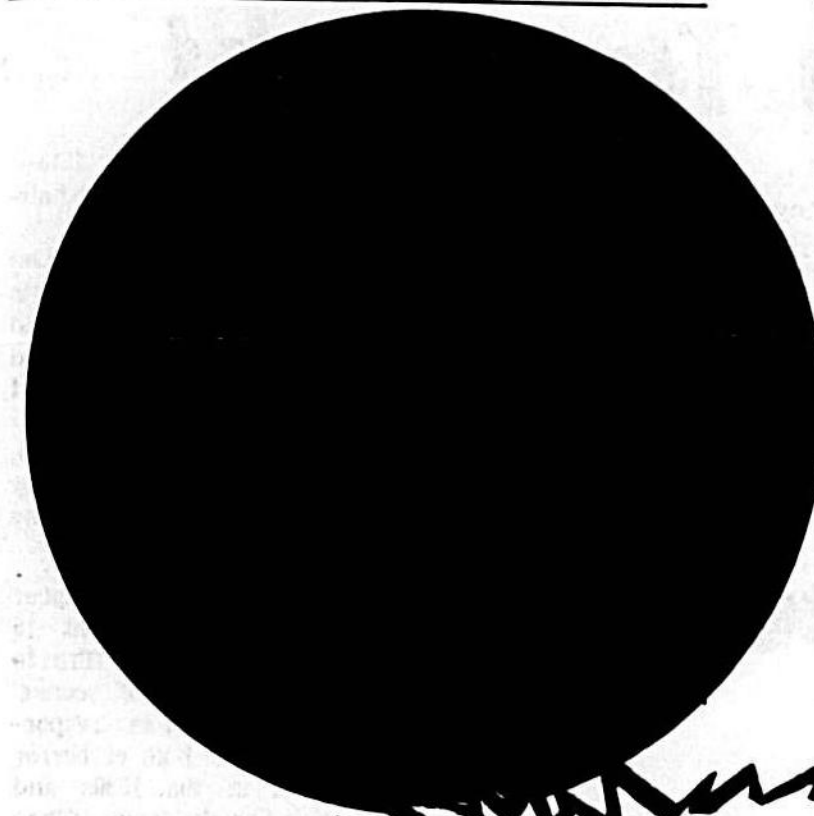

Spider began playing at age 13 on a saxophone his father, then working for the WPA, (Works Progress Administration) bought for him in a pawn shop.

Spider's music breaks the rules in that it is a creative venture that changes every day. After all, Spider changes and grows every day and that comes through in his music.

2 Hours Of Slithering In The Night

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Excepting old movie reruns and most top-rated situation comedies, TV almost never provides viewers with horror shows. CBS will remedy that oversight Feb. 6 with "The Horror Show," a two-hour retrospective of classic horror movies filled with terror, creepy-crawlies, monsters, madmen and creatures that slither in the night. The show, covering 60 years of film chillers, is narrated by Anthony Perkins, who scared more women out of showers than a brigade of peeping toms. It was Perkins, you'll remember, who killed Janet Leigh in the shower in "Psycho." Clips from 65 horror films — going back to 1919 and such landmarks as "Metropolis," circa 1915— have been edited for the hair-raising special. Special tribute is paid Lon Chaney, Bela Lugosi, Boris Karloff, Lon Cheney Jr. and Vincent Price who terrified two generations of moviegoers.

The show was written, directed and produced by Richard Schickel, Time magazine's film critic.

Schickel and coproducer Volney Howard spent 10 months watching 170 films to select the scariest scenes.

"Universal was responsible for the bulk of horror movies in the 1930s and 1940," Schickel said. "They turned out 'Dracula,' 'Frankenstein,' 'The Mummy,' 'Wolfman,' 'The Invisible Man' and all the sequels.

"We got some fine old RKO classics, too, 'King Kong' and 'The Thing.'"

"We discovered some horror pictures can't be clipped. 'The Cat People' and 'The Haunting' are examples. They depend on suspense being built up over a period of time and make no sense when a scene is isolated.

"TV doesn't produce horror shows because it can't build a mood with commercials interrupting every 16 minutes. Suspense can't be sustained if viewers are getting up for a beer in the middle of things."

Schickel defines horror movies as creating stress and terror when the natural order of things is upset to a degree that one's expectations fall to materialize.

There are sub-categories of horror films which Schickel breaks down into monster, doomsday, mad scientist, occult and psychological thrillers.

"For the purposes of this show," Schickel said, "we put horror in any form of supernatural, unnatural or semi-scientific intervention in the normal order...including science fiction, fantasy and psychopathic violence."

Horror films rarely attract respectability among critics and filmmakers as do westerns, drama, comedy and other genres. Almost all of them were low budgeted pot-boilers with "Jaws," "The Exorcist" and "The Shining."

Schickel suspects one of the reasons for the low estate of horror films was the unwillingness of major stars to appear in them. He added, "Horror films are symbolic projections of secret plots maintained by a large number of people which project unpleasant fantasies."

WINKLER

Fonzie Funeral?

No need to get your black leather jackets cleaned after all.

Just as the media was readying for the funeral, the New York Post has reported that a "Happy Days" script entitled "Fonzie's Funeral," does not really spell the end of The Fonzie.

Paramount TV's Dick Winter said in response to all the questions about Henry Winkler's unhappy end, "well, not quite."

The script is just a mid-season maneuver to boost ratings even higher than the number one and two spots they've scored all season. If the play works the first time, maybe they'll do it for real when Winkler's contract expires and he tries once again to make it without the Fonzeirelli following.

KRISTY

'Sneaky' Kristy?

TV's teen superstar, Kristy McNichol, may be spreading her wings professionally, but in real life she's playing it close to the nest.

Like the character she plays on "Family," of whom Kristy says, "I've turned Buddy into me," the 16-year-old actress is in no hurry to grow up.

"A lot of actresses my age want to look real spiffy and everything, with lots of makeup," she says in US magazine. "But what's the hurry?"

That doesn't mean she doesn't go astray every once in a while.

Kristy was recently caught sneaking into a movie theater to see "King Kong."

The manager lectured her, "You're Kristy McNichol, you don't have to sneak in."

"Yeah," the high-salaried kid said, "but it's more fun."

'Academy Leaders': High-Art Shorts

NEW YORK (UPI) — When was the last time you saw a movie short?
 That's the question posed by Norman Corwin, who is the writer and host of "Academy Leaders," a series of Academy Award quality short subjects that PBS will put on the air for 10 weeks beginning Feb. 5, 9-10 p.m., Eastern time (check local listings).
 While Corwin is best known as a writer for the golden age of radio — and a successful filmmaker who won an Oscar nomination for his screenplay of "Lust for Life," it was his years of chairing the documentary division of the Academy Awards that provoked this series.
 "We are hoping this series will reverse a trend toward the extinction of the short as a form," he said.

Post-Super Sunday On Tube: Ho Hum...

By David Handler
The armchair athletics season ought to start humming along right now, when the only outdoor activity most of us even remotely consider is the dash from the front door to the car so our feet won't freeze to the pavement.
The notion of not having to go outside for an entire weekend is savored with selfish glee. Great time to blow a day in front of the set. Jock heaven.

Unfortunately, it doesn't work that way. The dead of winter is the leanest time for sports fans. Super Sunday work has passed.

REVIEW

There is very little, it seems, worth living for. But do check out what the networks try to foist on us instead of football. It's a laugh riot, although very little of it could be called entertainment. Try:

Pro basketball - the thrill of the Jerry West-Bill Russell days has given way to a smug playground game, top-heavy with hotdog shooters and muscle-bound slam dunkers. No defense. No team ball. No hustle.

Fan attendance is slipping. The TV ratings are falling off, too.

There are only a handful of good games per week and CBS never seems to carry them. Who can still for three hours watching the New York Knicks go against the Detroit Pistons? Even the players look like they'd rather be somewhere else.

College basketball - The big college teams fashion their play after the pros. The only difference is that they aren't quite as slick and many of the players still have problem skin.

NBC's Saturday coverage often features a doubleheader. The regional small school games are low-scoring, exciting contests.

The athletes play solid, fundamental ball and they seem to be enjoying themselves.

There's no slam dunking because no one on the court is taller than 6-feet-4. The games are telecast from tiny, dark gyms built 50 years before the advent of TV, so the cameras are crammed in the back row, usually behind some guy's head. The fans sit right on the court and scream like crazy. Basketball lives on.

Bowling - I caught a pro tournament on ABC recently that was telecast live from Mel's Bowl in Alameda, Calif. I stayed with it for over 30 minutes and the only competition I could detect was over which bowler was wearing the ugliest sport shirt. Chris Schenkel, who can handle any sport badly, chipped in with lines like "Whoever hits most of his spares will win most his matches." Gutter ball.

Golf - Try as they might, the networks still haven't managed to turn this sport into an exciting and coordinated TV event. NBC's handling of the Bob Hope Desert Classic was blooper city, anchored by ex-grinder John Brodie, who makes every sport he covers sound like a tosser.

'Country Matters' Takes Center Stage On PBS

Beginning Sunday, Feb. 4, "Country Matters," a collection of five plays depicting various aspects of country life, takes center stage on PBS's "Masterpiece Theatre."

The vehicles for comedy and tragedy in the English countryside of the earlier part of this century include: A.E. Coppard's "Crippled Bloom" (Feb. 4), H.E. Bates' "Breeze Anstey" (Feb. 11), "The Simple Life" (Feb. 18), "An Aspidistra in Babylon" (Feb. 25) and Coppard's "The Sullens Sisters" (March 4).

Pauline Collins, the vivacious, saucy housemaid Sarah of "Upstairs, Downstairs," will be seen in a markedly different role when "Cripple Bloom" launches the five-play series.

With her leg encased in a cumbersome brace, Pauline plays a beautiful but crippled young woman who loses her only suitor to her sister.

Joss Ackland, seen in London as Juan Peron in the West End musical hit "Evita," plays the suitor, and Anna Cropper, who recently completed a long London run in Terence Rattigan's "Separate Tables," portrays the lame girl's sister.

"Breeze Anstey," the Feb. 11 play, stars Meg Wynn Owen, whom PBS viewers will remember as Hazel Bellamy on "Upstairs, Downstairs," and Morag Hood as two young women who leave a jobless community to start a country herb farm.

Bernard Archard plays the man who breaks up the young women's farm idyll, and Rachel Kempson is an expert who advises the struggling young herb farmers whose lack of agricultural expertise brings their venture close to disaster.

In private life, Ms. Kempson is Lady Redgrave, the wife of Sir Michael, and mother of Vanessa, Corin and Lynn.

A middle-aged woman's loneliness, frustration and desperation are dramatically depicted in "The Simple Life," the Feb. 18 segment of "Country Matters."

Peter Firth (the star of "Equus") plays Roger, a young boy who does odd jobs about the country cottage, which is despised by bored, gin-fuddled Stella Bartholomew (Maggie Fitzgibbon). Rebellious hopelessly against the passion of her husband (Robert Urquhart) for the "simple life," Stella finds September-May relationship with Roger.

"The Simple Life" is set in the early 1950s. As it depicts the continuing war between husband and wife, the dramatization gives continuing testament to Bates' understanding of women and his penetrating insights into what makes them tick — also characteristic of his "An Aspidistra in Babylon" and "Breeze Anstey."

Jeremy Brett plays a philandering sea captain who destroys the innocence and faith of a young woman in "An Aspidistra in Babylon" on Feb. 25. Carolyn Courage is the young woman whose violent metamorphosis from adolescence to passionate lover is depicted against a post-World War I background in this "Country Matters" episode.

An unsophisticated adolescent's whopping case of puppy love becomes a family affair in "The Sullens Sisters," dramatization of A.E. Coppard's comic story on March 4.

Peter Firth plays an 18-year-old who falls in what he thinks is love with a 26-year-old postmistress. To achieve contact with the object of his heart's desire, he goes to the post office every day to make a purchase — a ha'penny stamp.

Khomeini Threatens Holy War

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — The Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini today threatened to launch a "jihad" — an Islamic holy war — to topple Prime Minister Shapour Bakhtiar and announced formation of a Revolutionary Islamic Council.

"If the government continues to resist, with American support and assistance from Israel, then we will declare a holy war (jihad)," Khomeini said, though he stressed he would prefer "to solve this country's problems through non-violent means."

It was the first time the white bearded, 78-year-old patriarch of Iran's Shiite Muslim majority has publicly threatened civil war and the second time he bitterly attacked the United States in three days.

Speaking to 200 reporters at a news conference in the Moslem school he had made his headquarters, the ayatollah accused the United States of using Iran's oil for its own needs and "foisting unneeded weapons and advisers on the country."

Khomeini also said he has drafted a new constitution for an Islamic republic and shortly will announce the names of the Revolutionary Council's members. He said both the constitution and the new government will be submitted to a referendum.

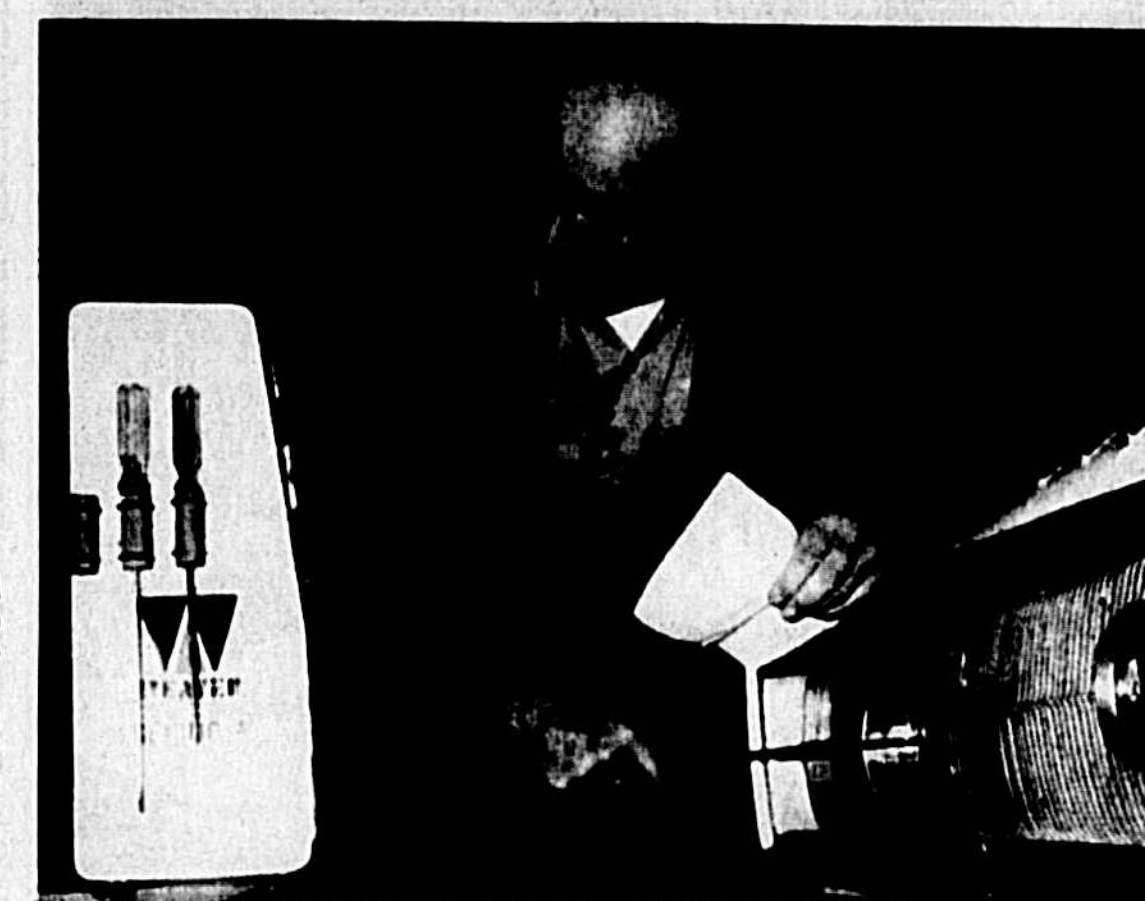

Diplomatic sources said Khomeini's announcement had pushed Iran to the very brink of civil war.

Only a few hours before Khomeini's announcement, Bakhtiar said he would not step down — and warned the army was fully on his side. Government sources said Friday Bakhtiar and the army had made plans to arrest any Iranian that Khomeini names to the Revolutionary Council.

Though he dismissed the Bakhtiar government almost contemptuously, Khomeini made a strong appeal to the army to help establish a "pure" Islamic state.

"The armed forces must join our ranks as soon as possible," he said. "They must not use machine guns against the people."

He appealed to the army's patriotism — "We want them to be free of foreign commanders and not to be under the thumb of foreigners," Khomeini said in a clear reference to the U.S. advisers who helped build Iran's army into one of the world's most powerful military machines.

'Mother' Rites At Civic Center

"As Mother Wilson would say, the Lord just worked things out," said Rev. Elizabeth Ross of the Freewill Holiness Church today, "and the Sanford Civic Center will be available for the funeral after all."

Funeral services for Mother Ruby Lee Wilson, founder and president of the Good Samaritan Home, who died last Wednesday at the age of 78, were originally scheduled for noon, Wednesday, at the Freewill Holiness Church because the civic center was not available. Mother Wilson was pastor of the church.

Ross, who escorted Mother Wilson in the home and the church, since 1968, said the services will now be held at noon at the Civic Center so that more of her friends in the community can attend. Her body will lie in state at the church at 1704 W. 9th St. all day Tuesday.

Ross will deliver the sermon at the funeral which will be presided over by Dr. Buck Jones, a St. Louis minister and foster son of Mother Wilson and her husband, Timothy.

Others who will be participating in the service are Dr. Oswald Brumson, president of Rollins-Cookman College, Daytona Beach; Sanford Mayor Leo P. Moore; Horace Orr, head of the Sanford Chamber of Commerce; and John Krider, who served the home as director and advisor for many years. Music will be provided by the Holyday Avenue Church of God Choir and Chorettes.

Auto Inspection Study To Save Or Not To

By MAX KERKILITIAN
Herald Staff Writer

"I'd be for abolishing it. I think it's a waste of time and money," said Ben Butler, Seminole County Sheriff.

"I think we should keep it. I think it's the best $3 we can spend," said John Polk, Seminole County Sheriff.

Both men were talking about the state motor vehicle inspection program.

Gov. Bob Graham has proposed abolishing the program as an unnecessary expense to Florida motorists. The American Automobile Association (AAA) Clubs of

(As Seminole County staff, at the request of Commissioner Robert Burns, is gathering data on the need for the motor vehicle inspection program in the county in wake of Gov. Graham's bid to discontinue it, The Herald wondered what other officials think of the program.)

Florida have called for a legislative study to see if the program is worth the expense.

AAA said the study is needed to determine if "the program could and should be improved, or motor vehicle inspection is a waste of time and should be jettisoned."

"I don't think they find that much in the inspections," said Butler. "Mostly they come up with leaky mufflers and bad tires."

Butler added that he felt most accidents are caused by human error and not equipment failure.

"Very few accidents are caused by faulty equipment," said Butler, "most of the time it's something someone did wrong."

Polk on the other hand feels the program is necessary for preventive maintenance for

GARY CARPENTER (RIGHT) MR. AND MRS. NEESON

At Mr. P's, Old Imperial They Came

The "ghost of Mr. P's" or the "Phantom of the Opera?"

Although they saw nothing of the apparition, this was part of the mystique of Sanford's old Imperial Opera House that Jack and Margaret Neeson discovered during their visit Friday to the building at 119 E. Magnolia in Sanford.

Researching data on old theaters for the League of Historical American Theaters, the Neesons learned about the Imperial — known for the past 2 1/2 years as "Mr. P's Supper Club" — while in the Tallahassee area researching old theaters.

Neeson, who teaches in the theater department at Clemson College in Pittsburgh, Pa., is on a year's sabbatical leave. As a project he is researching historical legitimate theaters for cataloging and listing by the league and for his own lectures.

The Neesons learned of the "ghost" in the third floor left from the maintenance man, Gary Carpenter, who showed them around the building. Carpenter explained that although he personally had not seen anything, "it had funny up there" and a former employee refused to go up there again after seeing "something."

"The League of Historical American Theaters, of which we are members, is trying to locate all the old theaters and movie palaces around the country,"
