

ADVENTURES A of the TWINS

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

JUPE and the Twins followed the Truffle Hunter out of the back door, while Waldo, the pig, remained behind to do up the dishes. There, right before their eyes was a high hill with an orchard of cherry trees on top. "We shall have to climb this hill," said the Truffle Hunter, "and I warn you that it is very wobbly. I don't know whether you can stick on or not."

"I thought you never ate chicken any more," said Nick quickly. "Not since you lost Ambrose." But what the Truffle Hunter was going to say to that will never be known, for right then things began to happen. Without anyone noticing, Paddyfoot, the mouse, had jumped out of Jupe's pocket and run up one of the cherry trees. He had been racing busily from one bough to another, looking at every cherry hurry up the hill again. You're too late!" he squeaked. "That was old Blue Whiskers, the wizard, himself. He has stolen the blue cherry right from under your very noses!" (To Be Continued.) (Copyright, 1926, NEA Service.)

He sat on a branch of the Blue Cherry Tree and watched Jupe and the Twins climb.

"Sure we can," declared Nick. "We have magic shoes that they will take us anywhere." "Except," said Jupe, "where the magic is stronger than the Fairy Queen's magic. You know how hard it was to get into Blue Whiskers' castle and out again." "All you can do is to try," advised the Truffle Hunter, throwing his long nose over his shoulder and starting up the path. "Follow me!" So Jupe and the Twins started after. It was like trying to stand up on a rocking chair—climbing Cherry Bounce Hill. At every step the hill shook like a mould of gelatin turned out on a plate. The higher they got the worse it shook, and by and by they had to hold onto the trees to keep from falling off altogether. "It's time to begin," said the Truffle Hunter, sniffing here and there along the ground with his ever-so-long nose. He kept humming a little song as he searched: "Here a truffle, there a truffle, everywhere a truffle, truffle!" "Say," said Jupe suddenly, "are we searching for truffles or chickens? It seems to me that it would be better if you'd drop your nose up in the air for a spell, or instead of down on the ground." "My mistake, sir!" said the Truffle Hunter humbly. "But truffles are so delicious served with minced chicken or on—" He had seen Paddyfoot, the mouse, climb out of Jupe's pocket and scramble up toward the blue cherry. And he it was who gave the branch a shake and caused Paddyfoot to fall down on poor Truffle's nose. He was a very queer bird, this big bluejay. Suddenly he grabbed the blue cherry in his bill and flew away. At that minute Paddyfoot came

FEDERAL GRAND JURY IS PROBING 'BATH TUB' PARTY

Earl Carroll's Trip To Jury Room, Raises Question As To Whether He Is Immune From Law Violation Charge

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Earl Carroll's "bath tub party" is the subject of a federal grand jury. The producer appeared before the jury yesterday to explain what actually happened at an entertainment at his home Monday night, attended by the Countess of Cathcart, and many well known persons at which a nude girl is said to have bathed in a tub.

Carroll's trip to the jury room was before the grand jury. The producer appeared before the jury yesterday to explain what actually happened at an entertainment at his home Monday night, attended by the Countess of Cathcart, and many well known persons at which a nude girl is said to have bathed in a tub.

The prospect of immunity from prosecution for Carroll, even if the bathtub contained wine instead of ginger ale as claimed by the producer, is based on the fact that the act is not a crime under the constitution. The act also provides that a person who testifies before a grand jury in a liquor case cannot be punished. The act also provides that a witness may not plead his constitutional right to refuse to testify on the grounds of incriminating himself.

It is believed that after a short time the company will also establish a factory here, as their business is said to be increasing to such an extent in this state that Florida factory will be necessary to supply the demand for their products.

Sanford Entry Wins Sail Race

Thousands Gather To View Yacht Club's First Annual Meet

A colorful crowd recruited from practically all sections of Florida witnessed the first annual regatta of the Sanford Yacht Club held on Lake Monroe yesterday with many of the fastest speedsters in southern waters competing for prizes totalling $5,000.

Although the California entry, "Smiling Dan III" won easily in the feature event of the meet, competition for places in the many other events on the program was keen and the spectators who gathered in the greater portion of the lake shore were thrilled beginning to end.

"Smiling Dan II" of the hydroplane owned by Commodore H. W. Willett of Mount Dora, finished first in the 151 hydroplane class race, leading "Miss Pluto" owned by Commodore H. W. Willett of Mount Dora.

The California boat completed the 15 mile race in 26 minutes and 2.4 seconds, choppy water preventing it from making a record run. The Mount Dora entry finished second, covering the course in 27:49.25.

"Baby Sub-Division" piloted by George Malone of Monte Dora maintained its lead established in the first heat of the 725 displacement class yesterday morning and finished an easy winner of the two five mile heats in 10:20.45, leading "Miss Lake Jem" which finished in 10:49.25.

"Miss Eustis" piloted by Jack Creiger, was forced out on the first lap by engine trouble. Local Boat Wins Sailing Race. In the six mile one class sailing race over a triangular course, Fred Long, piloting the "Marie," owned by Judge W. E. White of Sanford, finished first, leading the "Seminole," owned by George W. Gibbs of Jacksonville and piloted by Ed Rice of Sanford.

A few years ago, Sanford was behind the procession in public improvements, but today it is not surpassed in the state for the completeness of its public improvements and utilities.

Sanford's growth has not been forced by the coming of some great developer with millions of dollars, but its progress has come about through the progressiveness of its own citizens, who are not here for a short time and then come to a new field of development, but are here to build a greatness.

Sanford's greatest asset is its progressive spirit and leadership. With these things, its marvelous location, great productive back country and other natural advantages will be fully capitalized in the building of one of the outstanding cities of Florida.

The next big step in the march of progress is the special advertising campaign to raise the world's attention to Sanford's substantial resources, location, back country and community spirit combined together to make this the city of greatest promise in all the state.

These things, the regatta, the building of the Forest Lake hotel, the golf tournament, the record-breaking campaign of the Chamber of Commerce, the splendid public improvements, and national advertising campaign, the fine civic spirit, and, finally, the special advertising campaign to start next week—these things, let us repeat, show us how and why the wind is blowing in Sanford, and it is towards great things.

low and others the regatta staged yesterday week before have been possible. Commodore Emory said:

"To men who were blind enough to come here and actively assist in the program the Sanford Yacht Club owes a debt of gratitude that it can never hope to pay."

In speaking of the co-operation and united efforts which made the regatta the building of the club's first regatta on such a large scale, Commodore Emory warmly commended the work of Secretary W. E. Shaw, his "right hand man" who bears the burden of responsibility, and said, who was successful in obtaining many of the best entries.

Explains Elgin Trophy

Following the award of prizes, Commodore Emory explained the significance of the Elgin National Trophy, a genuine silver cup which was captured at the hotel.

The cup, which is more than three and a half feet tall and weighs 35.700 pounds, is the Elgin trophy, a perpetual award, which goes to the owner of the boat setting the fastest time for the calendar year in the Florida yacht club's Commodore's Regatta, which would come to Sanford as a result of the fact that the regatta is the second regatta in America in which the cup is awarded by the "Smiling Dan III" boat.

A record of each year the cup is awarded to the holder of the trophy for the period, and a handsome award is awarded the former by the Water Commission, donated by the city.

From Sanford the Elgin Trophy is taken to Tampa and St. Petersburg, and the trophy is added to the list of trophies won by the club.

Winning yachtsmen were enthusiastic over the success of Sanford's first regatta, and all expressed the hope that the next year's regatta would be but the first of a series of similar water meets held here.

MARKETS

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Strong buying support was in evidence at the opening of today's stock market, and prices moved irregularly higher. The stern break yesterday apparently had resulted in a number of margin calls, with the result that General Electric broke three points and several other widely traded fractions.

Initial gains of a point or more were followed by a sharp decline, and the market closed with a common opened at 125, up half.

Repetition of the bear attack against the high priced industrial and specialties brought out another large volume of bear interest on which gave the market a rather unsettled appearance during the early trading.

Strong support continued, however, for a sprinkling of more and high grade industrial stocks such as Common, Dupont, U. S. Steel, Smelting, and American Smelting. Strength of the American Smelting issues broke the rail group.

New York Callers broke nearly six points to 44½. American Brake and Foundry dropped 2½, and General Electric extended its decline to five points before buying support was sufficient to withstand the tide of selling.

Pennsylvania, Acheson, October National Cattle and Sun were among the many issues that were low levels for the year. Foreign exchanges opened steady, demand sterling rising about 2½, 3-1-6 and French 117.47.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—(AP)—A bear drive against common stock of the foundation company, which collapsed 21 points, was the feature of today's irregularly lower stock market. Resumption of bear attacks against a number of vulnerable specialties, coming after the sharp break of yesterday, brought out another large volume of forced liquidation from traders who were unable to locate to meet their margin calls.

Strong buying support was provided, however, for U. S. Steel, Common and a number of high grade industrial stocks. The excellent showing by several of the leading railroad systems also served to restrain the decline of the railroads.

January Advance, American Bank, Shaw and Foundry, dropped 15, 12 and 11, respectively. The closing was heavy. Total sales approximated 200,000 shares.

A fraction of the recent loss led to selling activities seemed to predominate in the general run of railroad and industrial. CHICAGO, Feb. 27.—(AP)—With talk current that probably on Monday private estimates of domestic farm reserves of wheat would be smaller than have been looked for, wheat today took an early swing upward. The fact that prices here recently have had in severe setback and that Liverpool estimates this morning showed an increase of 141,000 bushels in the total reserve here and to give values a lift. Having indicated values pointed to a liberal upswing of the U. S. visible supply total Monday and to smaller world shipments. The above mentioned price quarter to 12 higher, May 11½ and Sept. 11½, and Feb. 12½, were followed by moderate further gains.

Reports that receipts of corn will continue small for a few days, however, strength to come higher, however, unchanged to the high, may 19 to 24, corn stock declined general advance, however, in the U. Higher quotations on hogs helped to strengthen positions.

Weekly Financial Review

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—(AP)—A sharp readjustment of stock prices, which carried both the rail and industrial averages to new low levels for the year; stiffer money rates and another influx of over $100,000,000 in new security offerings, were the high lights of this week's financial markets.

The decline in stock prices was conducted in the face of such constructive developments as the enactment of the new tax bill, reports of expanding steel operations, increasing inquiries for railroad equipment, indications of record breaking first quarter production and sales by several of the large automobile manufacturers, publication of unusually favorable 1925 earnings reports by some of the larger oil companies, and a long list of highly dividend announcements.

Trading was largely professional in character until on Friday when bear selling assumed sufficient proportions to dislodge large quantities of long stock, resulting liquidations by frightened investors.

With a few exceptions, the sharpest declines took place in specialties which had bid up to 50 prices not commensurate with their earning power.

The reaction in stocks was rather general, but some of the sharpest declines took place in the equipments, textiles, foods and public utilities.

General Electric collapsed over 40 points below its recent high and U. S. Steel common dropped more than 12 points, below 12½. The price of which stock was offered to employees under the annual profit payment plan announced earlier in the year.

J. L. He used deposits of those well-to-do loan money to poor farmers and laboring men. He said, and did not keep a cent for himself. Investigators, however, assert that poor as well as rich were defrauded, and Rosencrans has received a prison sentence of 12 to 50 years.

Huntington, W. Va.—"I was in a very weak and run-down condition—in fact, was in a serious condition," says Mrs. Fannie O. Bloss, of 1564 Madison Avenue, this city.

"In my left side the pain was very severe. It would start in my back and sides. Part of the time I was in bed and when up I didn't feel like doing anything or going anywhere.

"I didn't want any pleasure. I was very pale. I was nervous and thin, and so tired all the time.

"My druggist told me that Cardui was a good tonic for women and I bought a couple of bottles. I took two bottles, then I noticed an improvement. I kept on and found it was helping me. I have taken six bottles. I'm stronger now than I have been in a long time. Cardui has made from me a healthy, normal woman. I can now eat certain favorite dishes and upon the return to good health."

Automobile Accidents

Secretary Hoover of the Department of Commerce has made public statistics which show the startling increase in the number of automobile accidents during the past few years and the importance of immediate action toward checking this constantly increasing menace.

Last year there were 24,000 victims of automobile accidents, or 2.5 per cent more than in 1924. The most distressing part about these figures is that unless drastic measures are promptly taken by municipal and state authorities, there will be more deaths from automobile accidents this year than last.

In all probability some one of the subscribers of The Herald, now reading these very statistics, will within the next few months or before the year is out, join the rapidly growing list of motor victims. Not a very pleasant thought, is it? But perhaps it brings home to you the importance of traffic regulations and care in driving.

When one realizes that about twenty-five thousand persons will be killed by automobiles within the next twelve months, and when one stops to think that practically every one of these deaths could be avoided if proper caution were exercised by drivers and pedestrians, the seriousness of the situation is made evident.

There is no need for automobile accidents. Time honored excuses, "I didn't hear his horn," "I had the right of way," "He saw me coming," are all punk. If you didn't hear his horn, you should have seen him. If you had the right of way, you had no reason to kill him in order to maintain it. If he saw you coming, you too should have seen him coming.

Victims of accidents invariably tell you it's the other fellow's fault. You have never seen a man admit that he was to blame or even partly to blame for any accident. But it always takes two to have an accident. You won't get run over if you are continually looking out for yourself. If you put no confidence whatever in the skill of other drivers, and yourself shoulder all the responsibility of avoiding any collisions, you won't have accidents.

It is always the fellow who has been drinking, or the woman driver with a baby in her arms, or the real estate man trying to sell a lot to a client in the back seat, or the sweetheart with both arms around his girl, or the business man with his mind cluttered with financial details and far from the work of driving immediately at hand, or the absent-minded old duffer who may be thinking about anything except what he is doing, who contribute so largely to the ever increasing automobile casualties.

Railroad Competition

In the titanic Florida expansion programs of the Atlantic Coast Line and Seaboard Air Line railways financial experts see the most convincing proof of Florida's continued prosperity and leadership of southern states.

In their race for Florida supremacy, Wall Street magnates controlling the A. C. L. and Seaboard, are spending millions of dollars annually in buying up old lines, obtaining new right-of-ways, laying new tracks and constructing round houses, bridges and yards. Experts are agreed that the scene of the greatest railroad activity in the world last year was the southeast, and a large proportion of the southeast's rail expansion lies within the limits of this state.

No visible signs of a lessening of this feverish competition, and all indications are that the shining steel rails will continue to crowd over the Florida like the tangle of a mammoth octopus until the remotest corner of the state is served by the most modern transportation facilities.

The railroad is not only a harbinger of prosperity, it is a guarantee of continued prosperity. The railroad that expands does not take a chance on the future of the section that it serves. By its expansion policy it makes and establishes that section's future, and the state that is the scene of tremendous rail expansion is the state where existing prosperity will continue to grow with the passing years.

Florida's tremendous and unexpected boom caught the railroads totally unprepared to move the unparalled heavy shipments that they were called upon to handle. Equipment and facilities were limited, and one line, the Florida East Coast Railroad, had practically the entire East Coast sewed up.

These conditions exist no more. New lines have penetrated to the Eastern coast, destroying the F. E. C.'s monopoly and supplying the most salutary factor for railroad betterment, competition. Miles of new tracks have been laid, many new sections opened up, and still the expansion and extension of the A. C. L. and Seaboard continues in full blast, paving the way for future development and laying a substantial foundation that renders absurd the supposition that Florida is a "hubble."

FAME AND NOTORIETY MIAMI HERALD

Fame is acquired by a long and arduous process ordinarily. It comes from actual achievement and worth and it is, to a certain extent, enduring.

On the other hand, notoriety may both come and go quickly. It is not built up by studied plans and accomplishments of value, although it may result from clever schemes. Fame is fleeting, it is said, but notoriety is more so.

But a strange fact in this contrast is that the public will frequently flock eagerly to see and hear the one who has attained the temporary notoriety while neglecting the famous. And then through the basis of notoriety one may construct a foundation of fame.

Success today depends to a large extent upon the public attention which may be won, and hence the art of publicity has developed. There are those who have the natural aptitude of gaining mention, of doing and saying the unusual. Others employ the publicity representative to think up schemes to bring the newspaper headlines.

There is the Countess of Cathcart, who is the heroine of another most recent outstanding publicity plot, even securing high immigration.

TIA JUANA'S DEAD DAYTONA BEACH NEWS

It is a dreadful thing, this thing that has happened at Tia Juana, in Mexico. It is almost unbelievable that it could happen on the North American continent in the twentieth century.

You recall the circumstances, of course; how two American girls, sightseeing in Tia Juana with their father and mother, were drugged and attacked, and how the entire family committed suicide because of their shame.

Reporters, who have gone to the Mexican border town to investigate, report that such things are not out of the ordinary there. Men have been murdered, women have been assaulted, lines without number, and the law has done nothing.

Indeed, it is charged that the present investigation into the assault on the two girls is merely a whitewashing affair, and that none of the ringleaders will be punished.

All of this, at first glance, is almost enough to make one wish that it were possible to send a regiment or two of American soldiers down across the border to hang a few scoundrels and make the town of Tia Juana an example for all time.

Fame and notoriety are not synonymous, although people may regard them as such, and often one is closely allied to the other, so joining that it is difficult to tell them apart.

But a strange fact in this contrast is that the public will frequently flock eagerly to see and hear the one who has attained the temporary notoriety while neglecting the famous. And then through the basis of notoriety one may construct a foundation of fame.

Success today depends to a large extent upon the public attention which may be won, and hence the art of publicity has developed. There are those who have the natural aptitude of gaining mention, of doing and saying the unusual. Others employ the publicity representative to think up schemes to bring the newspaper headlines.

There is the Countess of Cathcart, who is the heroine of another most recent outstanding publicity plot, even securing high immigration.

Recall Chicago's tenderloin of two decades ago. San Francisco's Barbary Coast of the days before the fire. New York's Bowery of fairly recent date. Devils just as foul and revolting as anything Tia Juana can show were commonplace in those neighborhoods.

It is terrible that such a plague spot should exist in our very door. But it is not an excuse for intervention or warfare talk.

Mexico has had a stable government for only a few years. We have had one for a century and a half, but it was only recently that we cleaned out all our sink holes—if we have cleaned them out.

This government can properly ask the Mexican government to rush prosecution of the guilty in this last outrage. It can properly do little more.

Meanwhile, no American tourist is required to go to Tia Juana.

Yacht Club Ball Is Hailed As Most Brilliant Social Event Of Season

A fitting climax to the day which proved such a splendid success, was the dinner and dance given by the Sanford Yacht Club on Friday evening for members and out of town guests, at the Hotel Forrest Lake.

The table was U shaped and placed in the private dining room. It was centered with cut flowers in an old clipper ship with sails full spread. Marking the places of the guests were small cards bearing the club insignia.

At 7:30 o'clock an eight course dinner was served, during the evening a number of interesting talks were made by out of town officials as well as the local club officers.

Following the dinner, dancing was enjoyed in the spacious ball room overlooking the lake, the music being furnished by the Hotel Forrest Lake trio.

Tall potted palms, foliage plants and ferns together with pedestal baskets filled with cut flowers were used in decorating the ball room.

Fruit punch was served throughout the evening, from a daintily appointed table placed at one end of the room.

The gorgeous costumes worn by the guests added a finishing touch of color to the lovely picture.

Mrs. J. R. Emory wore an imported gown of Laine, in gold and orange, over a cloth of gold slip. Of Love Bird blue broadcated velvet was fashioned the smart gown by Mrs. Howard Hulick.

Mrs. Weyman was a dainty figure in a costume of shell pink crepe satin with touches of silver, a corsage of green moire ribbon, and pink French flowers adding a pleasing touch.

Mrs. Percy Mero was attired in Miami rose georgette with pearl trimmings. With this she wore a white Spanish shawl, embroidered in harmonizing tones.

Mrs. S. O. Chase was gowned in gray georgette combined with blue and steel, with a large Spanish shawl of white.

Mrs. Forrest Lake wore an imported creation of white, metallic cloth heavily beaded.

Mrs. R. J. Holly's becoming gown was of white crepe Elizabeth, scalloped and embroidered in silver beads. A touch of color was added by a large pink velvet rose corsage.

Mrs. Nelson Gray was gowned in a dinner frock of soft black crepe beaded in blending tones.

Ecrú lace over self-toned satin with touches of Love Bird blue, was the gown worn by Mrs. R. H. Berz.

Mrs. Ralph Wight was attractive in a costume of crab apple green georgette beaded in crystal.

Most becoming to her blonde beauty was the costume worn by Mrs. Monroe Hutton, it being of white georgette with gold cloth, with huge gold and velvet roses applied on the skirt and shoulder.

Mrs. Hal Wight was attired in a lovely gown of orchid with beading and trimmings in silver.

Mrs. Puleston's gorgeous gown was of white chiffon heavily beaded in crystal.

The WOMAN'S DAY Allene Summer

"The World Do Move!"

THE comely face of the lady Higher Education is again the target for paper wads! This time by a senior in Drake University who, for a welcome change, writes from the inside looking out and not from the outside looking in.

But, strangely enough, the changed viewpoint seems to make little difference, and the college youth describes as many warts and moles and freckles on Lady Higher Education's phis as do the gray-bearded critics outside! He says: "Papa and mama proudly refer to their offspring as 'college students.' The term is a misnomer. John and Mary are no more students than Henry the Eighth was a woman hater!

"The university of today is an immense vanishing works where one learns to dance, play bridge and poker, carry a load of alcohol gracefully, and invent clever excuses for undue work."

Something tells me that colleges won't be so sardine-packed next year! After all, papas pay the bills!

MEN are carrying vanity cases in public, dainty little vanity cases in filigreed gold and burnished metals!

One is supposed to trade against this sure example of the strong male's downfall. But, mindful of traces of tobacco stain upon many jaws, and soot specks upon the masculine proboscis, I am inclined to think the male's occasional use of a vanity case mirror not such a dumb idea!

Politics Affecting Women

BABIES come to millions of women upon whom every atom of science and knowledge and luxury is lavished in this day. But babies come to at least 750,000 mothers of America every year who do not even have the general country doctor, according to the Department of Agriculture, which asks for more rural hospitals.

Housewives of the nation are getting the $2,000,000,000 food trust formed in Wall Street recently with the formation of the Ward National Food Products combine. The movement is led by Mrs. Julian Heath of the National Housewives' League. Women everywhere are denouncing this combine as "absolutely foul" and "a menace to the nation."

No wonder women are rabid. A penny more or less on one loaf of bread doesn't mean much in Wall Street, but it means hours with or without radios and new rugs, a fiver or no fiver, and whether or not Johnny can keep on in school, to millions of "our best people."

Mrs. Earl T. Loucks Is Honor Guest At Mrs. Galloway's Card Party

The lovely country home of Mrs. Ernest McGowan Galloway was converted into a veritable floral lower on Thursday afternoon when she entertained at bridge honoring Mrs. Earl T. Loucks of Fort Washington, the guest of Mrs. G. Irving Loucks.

In the living room, pastel tinted sweet peas, baby breath, budles and roses were artistically used, while in the dining room the splendor of orange and white, was effectively carried out with calendula and Japanese narcissus.

The talkies were quaint cards with witty verse relative to travel, these being most appropriate, as Mrs. Loucks leaves next week for a two years' stay at Manila, Philippines.

After a most enjoyable game of bridge, scores were counted and the first prize, $ number crocheted glass salad plates, was awarded Mrs. Katherine Wilkey. Second prize, a brass flower basket, went to Miss Jeanne Gadsden. Third prize, an embroidered guest towel, was won by Mrs. Harry Fajsworth. Low score prize, a dainty yellow lace handkerchief, fell to the lot of Mrs. John Meisch. The guest of honor was presented a book holder and a copy of Edgar Gues's poem, "Just Folks," as a gift from the hostess.

Following the card game, the tables were laid with dainty ecru and a delicious salad and sweet course was served by the hostess. Favours of nosegays of sweet peas, pansies and violets in lace paper holders were given each guest.

Beauty Tips

WOMEN will soon be bald and have whiskers, on their chins unless they stop bubbling their hair, says a hair expert who explains that constant cutting atrophies the scalp muscles and nerves and causes the hair to drop from the scalp and appear elsewhere on the body, especially on the face.

Oh, well, what with boys' heads getting shorter and shorter, it won't worry the girls much! They'll just paint futuristic scenes atop their bald pate!

But—if you want to keep your hair—don't brush it with a wire brush, and don't put any faith in this singeing stuff!

Unmasked Thief Robs Driver Of Car, Money

WEST PALM BEACH, Feb. 27.—(AP)—An unmasked bandit snatched out from behind a tree in front of the E. T. Stotesbury residence, El Miraval, pushed a gun into the face of Charles Hammett, chauffeur for Joshua Corden, last night and striped the chauffeur of his money, $15 and a Sedan.

Hammett had parked his car in front of the Stotesbury home and was sitting in the car by himself. The holdup man snatched up to the automobile and ordered Hammett out of the car and demanded that the chauffeur hold up his hands. The chauffeur obeyed the order when he emptied the revolver. The gunman was unmasked and Hammett was able to give a good description of him to police.

Proper Attention To Cars Said To Be Necessary In Order To Prevent Wrecks

JACKSONVILLE, Feb. 27.—Investigation by manufacturers over a period of several years has demonstrated that automobile accidents caused by mechanical failure are few and far between, says the Florida State Chamber of Commerce, because of the care in selecting material and the manual in which machines are built. Accidents due to neglect of inspection, however, are numerous, many lives are lost and many persons injured because owners do not give proper attention to their cars.

The State Chamber, which believes traffic accidents in Florida could be greatly reduced if motorists would observe commonsense highway rules more closely, declares that tires, wheels, steering gear and brakes should be inspected frequently and that no driver who contemplates a long motor trip should venture forth without looking over his steering gear immediately before departure.

At least once a month each front wheel of the car should be jacked up and the wheel shaken to determine whether there is play on the spindle or in the steering apparatus. Hub caps also should be removed and the nuts on the ends of the spindles examined to determine whether the cotter pins are in place. Steering gear rarely breaks down of itself even though many accidents are erroneously attributed to this cause. Periodical examination and a few minutes devoted to tightening nuts, and keeping cotter pins in place would almost eliminate this type of accident since ninety-nine out of every one hundred of the kind are due to neglect. Steering wheels should be tested for play and if more than an inch and a half is discovered adjustment should be made to eliminate the excess. Excessive play wears out the mechanism rapidly, increases the hazard of accident and sooner or later results in an expensive repair job.

Tires also should be inspected frequently and no motorist should operate his machine at a speed greater than twenty miles an hour if the tread on either front tire has been so worn away as to expose the fabric or if the tires are old. It is impossible to keep a tire in a straight line at high speed if a front tire blows out even though the driver may hold it on the road. Such a mishap is a heavily traveled highway taken collision with another car almost certain if one is approaching or throws the machine into the ditch.

Furniture Mart Is Highly Praised By Local Business Men

Among those who have just recently returned from a buying trip to the American Furniture Mart at Chicago, is A. Miller of the Miller Furniture Company. In speaking of his trip which is a semi-annual event for the nation's leading retailers, Mr. Miller said "The Mart, which is the largest in the world, containing over 32 acres of floor space, was an actual fairyland with the many new ideas in furniture, famous designers have worked over an exhibition in gorgeous surroundings. It was a sight that thrilled and inspired me and I regret that people of Sanford could not have accompanied me on my tour of the treasure-laden structure. However, within a short time the new fashions I ordered will be in place on my floor where buyers of the beautiful may view them."

"The trend in furniture fashions is interesting in the extreme. The heavy, unwieldy and sombre furniture of a few years ago has given way to the light, gay and cheerful period designs with an outstanding touch of the Spanish noticeable in practically all the suites. Efficient mass production methods plus equally effective selling plans make it possible for the average home owner to equip his parlor, bedroom and porch as only the nobility could a century or two ago."

"Furniture has kept abreast of architectural improvements and modern home developments and a tremendous force for good in the world is being done by the Furniture Mart where, under one roof, representatives from every state in the union and many foreign countries compare notes that result in new style dictates. An interesting tribute to women's wear is the seemingly obvious fact that women's clothes are being made to deal to do with the coloring in furniture coverings and tapestry."

"The large market-time banquet given by the Mart to the visitors which celebrated comedians and stage folk entertained was attended by Mr. Miller on the evening of January 11. In the Furniture Club of America, the gathering place of the industry on the top floor of the Mart."

"Mr. Miller looks forward to an active and successful spring and summer season for conditions the country over are in fundamentally sound shape."

Two Bon Vivants Break Up Exclusive Palm Beach Affair

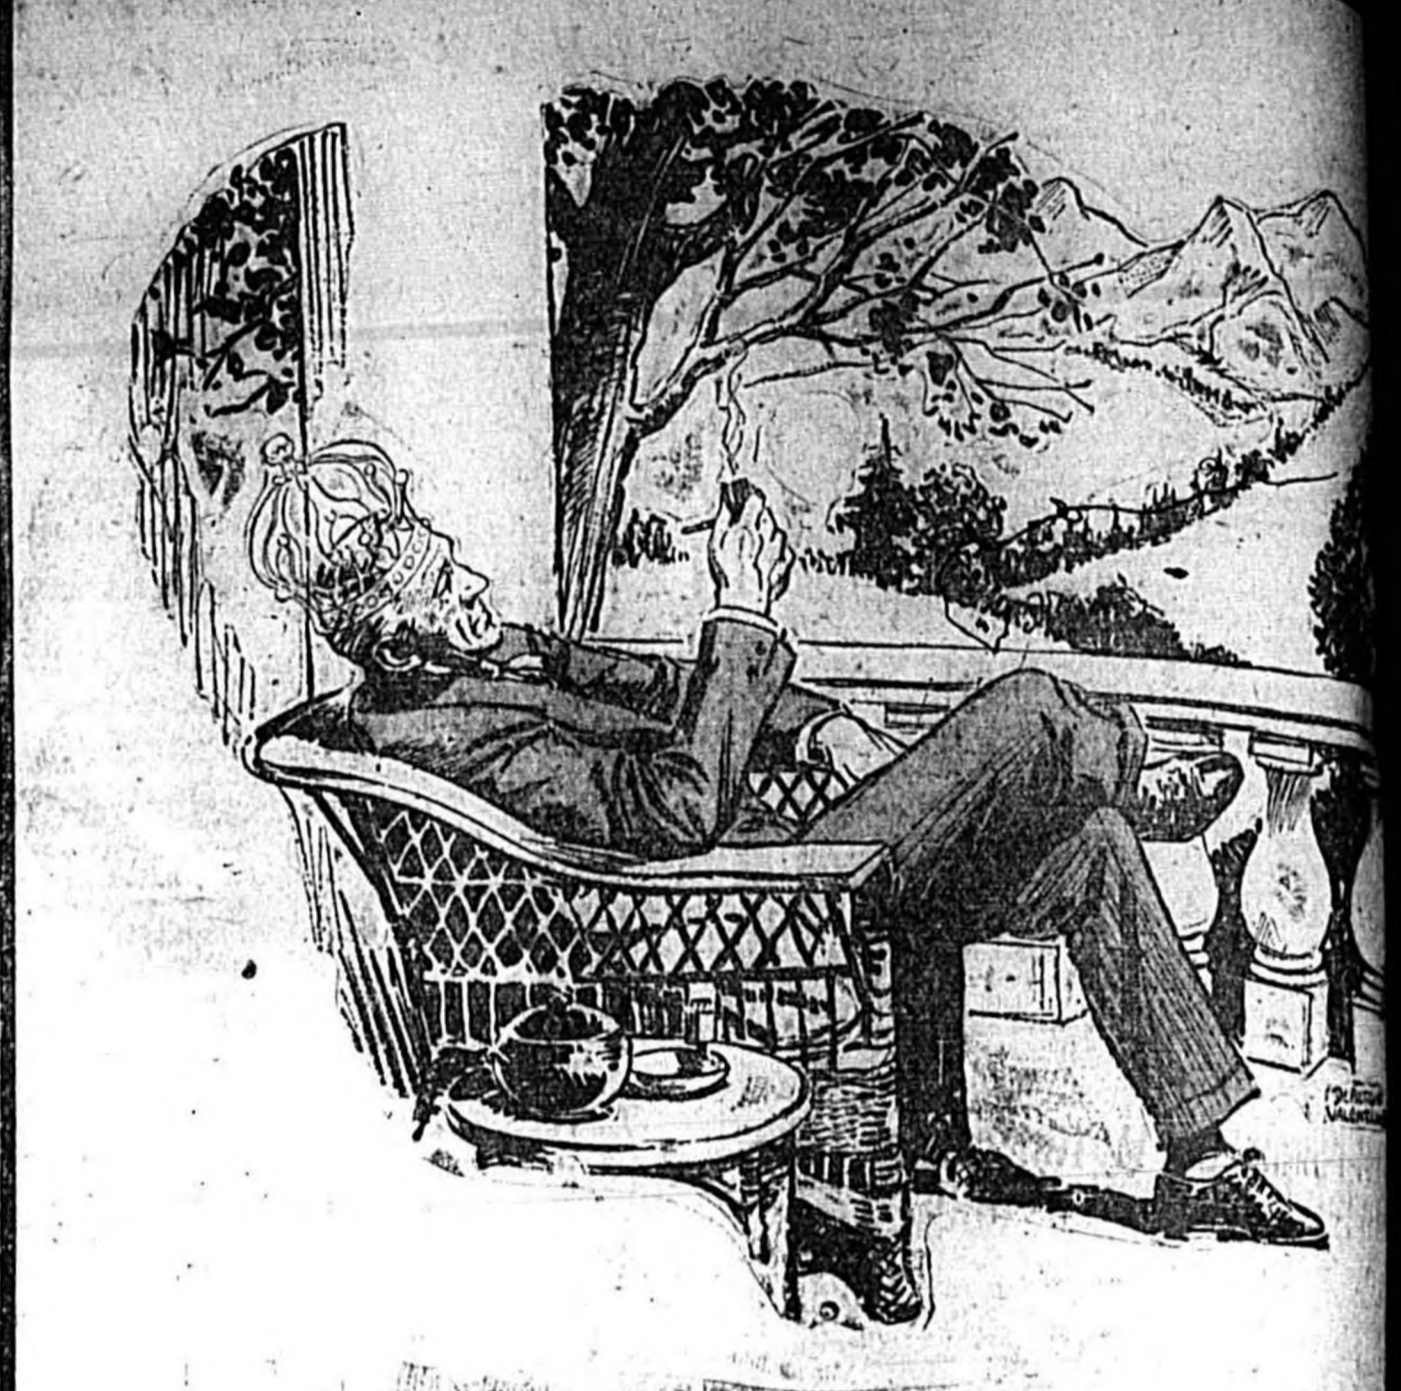

WEST PALM BEACH, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Society is still laughing at a joke perpetrated at itself recently by two bon vivants who effectively broke up the annual costume ball of the exclusive Everglades Club.

Clubs across the street from the Everglades Club, in the Via Pajarel, which is little more than a blind alley, A. Remoy, Pierson, a multi-millionaire globe-trotter, and Bob Adams, an artist, were hosts at a Bohemian party.

The two hired the entire street for the evening and the entrance was left open for any passerby to stroll in. So alluring was the informal affair that fully estimated 1000 dancers from the Everglades Ball tramped across the street in a congenial stream.

Before long the street had assumed an international aspect. It was designed after a Spanish in Seville. Two Italian singers were the chief entertainers. Mr. Pierson was dressed in a Chinese garb and the masqueraders from the Everglades ball came garbed in Colonial, French, German and Dutch costumes.

There was much singing and at each table was served a huge bowl full of spaghetti.

The Story of Old King Cole—The Man Who Wanted to Be Monarch of All He Surveyed

CLIFFORD Cole was a railroad official until he retired after many years of wrestling with the difficult problems of serving the traveling public.

Immediately following his retirement, Mr. Cole packed up and moved to Asheville. "I've always promised myself that some day I would have a bungalow up yonder on the mountain side," he said, and eagerly he set about realizing his dream.

On the sunny slope of one of Asheville's majestic mountains a little red-roofed bungalow nestles among the trees. It fronts on one of Asheville's streets, and when Clifford Cole is in the front of the house he is but one of Asheville's thousands.

But when he goes back to his favorite spot on the wide veranda across the rear of his house, he is KING Cole, with his pipe and a limitless expanse of green clad mountains, reaching up, and up until their purple tips pierce the fleecy clouds which look for all the world like great snowballs on a green picket fence. His. All his. No man can take it from him. He is monarch of all he surveys. No wonder his friends call him KING Cole.

Winter holds no terrors for him. Summer brings no discomfort. He roams the mountains, rides along the beautiful bridle paths through the trees. Nearby is one of Asheville's many golf courses and with this round of out-of-doors activities, King Cole is younger every day.

This same freedom—the same exquisite beautiful scenery, the same bracing mountain air, the same outdoor sports, the mountains and the same city is yours, you come to Asheville to visit, to play, or to make it your home. Values are increasing. Business is booming. The city is growing, and from the time you arrive until you depart—if you ever you'll dread, the thought of leaving.

Many hotels are here; large ones and ones; magnificent hotels offering every—and more modest accommodations than you prefer quiet quarters.

To see Asheville during the best months is to witness the marvel of a round resort which is at its best in the and summer.

Write for any specific information to Asheville. Let us send you descriptive literature. Come to Asheville on your way home, you drive, you will find hard-surfaced all the way. By train, you can get to Pullman via Southern Railway.

STEWART'S WASHINGTON LETTER

By CHARLES P. STEWART NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—(AP)—The possible happened. Calvin Coolidge has talked too much. At any rate, the "presidential spokesman" has.

And, as Congressman Oliver suggested in the House of Representatives the other day, it's rumored in Washington that Cal's ventriloquist and the "presidential spokesman" is the dummy he does his talking through.

ANYWAY, the "presidential spokesman" recently complimented the Democrats in Congress for battling with the Republicans to pass "non-partisan" bills.

What did the "presidential spokesman" mean by this? A word of explanation's necessary. It's politics, and tiresome, but won't take long.

CONGRESS consists of regular Republicans, regular Democrats and so-called radicals, who are called Republicans, mostly.

In the 68th Congress, as in this, the 69th, the regular Republicans had a safe majority in the House of Representatives, so leave the House of Representatives out of consideration.

But in the Senate the Democrats and radicals together are stronger than the regular Republicans—that is to say, when they vote unitedly.

In the last Congress that's what they did, tying up everything. However, a regular Republican and a regular Democrat have far more in common than either one has with a radical.

So, between sessions, the regular Republicans buttonholed the regular Democrats and said, "Let's combine against these dam radicals and you shall have some of the gravy."

THIS was formed what the radicals called the "coalition," though the regulars, on both sides, hated the expression.

Every time the regular Republicans wanted anything of any consequence, they proclaimed, "This is non-partisan," which enabled the regular Democrats to vote for it.

It was an arrangement which hogtied the radicals completely. No wonder the regular Republicans were grateful for the regular Democrats' co-operation.

HENCE that expression of appreciation from the "presidential spokesman."

It was a mistake, however. The regular Democratic senators' home folks hadn't been paying much attention to what their senators were doing, but when a Republican "presidential spokesman" complimented them they let up and took notice.

"WHAT in heck?" cried the home folks, in a flood of telegrams, "We're being led around by the ear by a Republican administration," explained Senator Jim Reed of Missouri, in a public statement.

Whereupon the "coalition" blew up, with a deafening report, in the midst of the Senate debate on the tax-bill. As for the tax bill, "Go to it! Rip it up! Run it!" yelled Senator Smoot, its sponsor, in an access of fury, as he saw what the combined Democrats and radicals were doing to it.

From which it may be gathered that it was a badly damaged tax bill.

From all indications the rest of this Congress will be one prolonged Donnybrook.

The "coalition" has gone floozy.

Cincinnati Players Leave For Orlando To Start Training

CINCINNATI, O., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Manager Jack Hendricks and less than a dozen players of the Cincinnati National League club made up the sound that left Cincinnati today for the beach to train the camp at Orlando, Fla. Other managers of the team will meet the Cincinnati contingent at Thanksgiving to begin practice Monday morning.

Rip Rixey, Rube Bressler and Donohue, regulars who failed to sign contracts, did not accompany the Hendricks squad. Nothing has been heard from Rixey or Bressler. Donohue was offered a $500 increase over his last year's salary, but is holding out for $2,000 more. President Herman said he expected Peto to accept the club's offer and report at Orlando Sunday night or Monday.

Mehlorn and Hampton Lead Tampa Tourney At Close Of 1st Day

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 27.—(AP)—The final 36 holes of the Florida Open Golf Tournament, annual winter sport classic, of the Tampa Bay Golf and Country Club, played over Temple Terrace's, course today.

Although Bill Mehlorn of Chicago, and Harry Hampton of Key West, were in top position when the field of 100 teed off this morning, enthusiasts who followed the first day's struggle with keen interest agreed that prospects are very likely before the final hole is completed this afternoon.

Mehlorn and Hampton turned in scores of 128 each for the first 36 holes, which were played yesterday over the Palma Ceia course. So close was the competition that there were but 8 strokes difference in the scores of the leaders and the first 30 low players.

They will be practicing today, moving to San Antonio where the training season will start in earnest Monday, upon the arrival of the remainder of the squad.

The old Cooper and Bailey circus was his next connection—and so on down the line until he was injured by "Tom Thumb."

"Bailey was a great showman. He was a good mixer and at the same time was very strict. He liked people who loved their work. Office he had confidence in a man he would do anything for him."

Strange Tale of Senators Norris And Reed And Those 3 Mellon Banks

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Norris, Reed and the Three Mellon Banks!

Good title for a story, what? Well, there is one.

SENATOR REED of Pennsylvania caught Senator Norris of Nebraska in a bad mistake recently, in the course of some of Norris' "radical talk," and called him down proper.

Subsequently he wished he hadn't caught him.

him, he furnished some additional information, which Reed, busy here in Washington, didn't know about—or want, either.

ACCORDING to Hickey, the three banks did make a "consolidated return."

GEORGE W. NORRIS

TO begin with: There are three Mellon banks in Pittsburgh. The Mellon National, the Union Savings and the Union Trust Company.

Some time ago they had occasion to file income tax returns. Instead of doing it separately—a return for each institution—they did it in one chunk. What's known as a "consolidated return."

SENATOR NORRIS criticized this. He didn't say it was crooked, but he did say it saved the three outfits $91,472.37. His point was that it was a big saving—worth investigating it, because of so much secrecy about the internal revenue bureau.

Norris was arguing for publicity.

UP rose Senator Reed and made mincemeat of him.

Reed's a director in all three of the Mellon banks. He's a first-class lawyer also.

He pointed out that the law called for a "consolidated return" from financial triplets hooked up like that. They did it the way they had to, legally.

He proved his case up to the hilt. Norris looked rather foolish.

BUT Reed committed the tactical error of saying Norris got his dope from D. E. Hickey, "a discharged treasury employee."

Hickey wasn't discharged. He resigned. Reed's reference to Hickey was a deliberate insult.

dated return," as Reed so clearly demonstrated the law demanded.

Later, however, their counsel, the firm of Reed, Shaw, Smith and McCray—of which Senator Reed's a member—discovered that they'd have saved $91,472.37 if they'd made their returns separately.

Consequently they raised heck at the internal revenue bureau until it allowed them to do it that way, and returned their $91,472.37.

IT goes without saying that Senator Reed wasn't aware of all this.

You bet he wasn't.

If he had been he wouldn't have proved so conclusively that a "consolidated return" was the only thing the law allowed his firm's client banks to make—considering that that's the way they finally didn't do it.

"The Key to Success in Life is to be Ready When Your Opportunity Comes"

---Disraeli

This is the Keynote Back of Sanford's Great "Fourteen Points" Advertising Campaign

Opportunity is coming toward Sanford in seven league boots and a great campaign is on to have the city ready when she steps up to the door to beckon The Substantial City to come on and follow her to greatness. This opportunity has never before come to Sanford because of conditions in the state over which she had no control, but today Florida is rapidly changing from a speculative condition to one of real investment, and investment involves three important factors,—Safety of principal, adequate return, and real value.

When during the rising tide of speculation, fortunes were being made in many localities, little consideration was given to real values, or even to return on the investment. Such a thing as Sanford's great annual celery crop adding millions of wealth to the community received very little attention, but with changing conditions it stands out as a mighty asset,—one that even the greatest cities of the state would gladly give millions of dollars to possess.

So with this wonderful opportunity at hand, it is proposed in this movement to set forth the outstanding things that entitle Sanford to the name of the Substantial City. These are fourteen in number and they have been incorporated into a series of splendid advertisements, one for each point, and they are to be placed in the great newspapers of Florida to run for fourteen consecutive days. When the series is over, scores of thousands of people will for the first time know Sanford as it really is.

Through various other advertising methods, these facts are going to be spread before the people of America.

This is Sanford's opportunity. Will it be ready with the money to pay for this great advertising movement? The question will be decided next week. Let us make it unanimously in the affirmative.

BILLY EVANS Says

THE RESIN BALL MINORS REJECT IT DISLIKED BY MANY

The National League, responsible for the return of resin as a pitching asset, says the use of it is optional not compulsory. The American League has already gone on record against the use of resin or any other foreign substance. Resin is sure to be used as the old ball for all forms of trick pitching.

It has taken practically five years to eliminate trick pitching, a menace to the best interests of the game. It seems a shame to offer a loophole for its return.

Grassless Golf Course Is Carved On Mountain Side Near Helena, Mont.

HELENA, Mont., Feb. 27.—(P)—The turfless golf course of the Helena Country club is evidence that grass is not essential to a golf links. This pleasant eighteen-hole course is without a blade of green on tee, fairway or putting "green."

The Helena club carved the links out of a mountain side among the rugged peaks of the Rockies, with only disintegrated granite as a base. Scraggy pine trees and a few shrubs lend the only tinge of green to the course.

The warm showers and plunges the heated golfer may want. The one disadvantage of this grassless course is the dust that rises as players walk over it. But the dust is clean, washed for ages under the rains and snows that have crumbled the masses of granite to friable fragments.

The citizens of Helena had not given much thought to golf until A. Smith of the Windsor club of Chicago, went there as a banker. He enlisted a few friends and they decided to build the course. The scheme was the chief topic of wit and humor in Helena for months, but now the club has 300 members and a waiting list. One or two similar clubs are in the making to take care of outsiders.

Middleweight Crown Won From Harry Greb By Tiger Flowers, Southern Negro

NEW YORK, Feb. 27 (AP)—Tiger Flowers, negro challenger, won a decision over Harry Greb of Pittsburg, at Madison Square Garden last night. The margin was not large, yet enough to convince the judges and referee.

Greb was not what he had been in previous defenses of his title. He was not the aggressive fighter who after four rounds he foresook his "switch" attack and noised a hit right hand for a damaging blow.

This blow never landed and Flowers, flushing out continually, gained the verdict for aggressiveness and a willingness to fight throughout. Many critics argued that the decision should have been a draw. But the State Athletic Commission has ruled that fights shall be decided by the number of rounds won.

Flowers Wins Six Rounds. Flowers, in the opinion of critics, had at least six of the rounds, while Greb could muster no more than five, and four were even.

Delaney Knewed Him Twice. Flowers probably has suffered more knockouts than any other champion the world has known. He went into the test with Greb, any-thing but favored because last winter Jack Delaney, the light heavyweight from Bridgeport, Conn., knocked him out twice.

On eight occasions Flowers has heard 15 content over him, four times in 1921 when Panama Joe Sam Lanford, Lee Anderson, and Jamaica Kid accomplished the feat, once in 1922 when Panama Joe Gans was his adversary and again in 1923 when Kid Norfolk required a single round to win.

Last year, besides the Delaney reverses he lost to Lou Bogash, on a foul at Boston, and was beaten by Mike McTigue in New York, although Greb at the ringside agreed with the verdict.

Flowers is married and has one daughter. He formerly earned the ring at about 170 but by constant dieting has brought himself down to the middleweight limit.

Greb won the title from Johnny Wilson, of Boston, three years ago.

Irvin Cobb Tells World's Greatest Historical Events

HOW THE BASTILE FELL

BY IRVIN S. COBB

It was the taking of the Bastille which marked the beginning of the French Revolution. It had been a symbol for royal oppression. By its downfall it became a symbol for mankind freed of the shackles of tyranny, a symbol of freedom and independence.

It took only a few hours of a summer day to capture the Bastille, to massacre certain of its defenders, to raze its walls. It had taken four centuries to give it its evil name, for since 1369 those grim towers had risen like the fingers of a menacing hand above the housetops of Paris.

The Bastille was both a fortress and a prison. Captives were held here without formal accusation, without trial, sometimes without reason. At the whim of a king or a king's favorite, any unfortunate might be locked up, and, because of some private grudge, some personal quarrel, left to rot alive in its gloomy cells. Notorious for its had become a place of confinement for writers who dared to attack the government or persons in power. For these reasons it was hated by the populace. It was an oppressed country's most perfect emblem of imperial despotism.

When the uprising of the people began, the rabble, led on by a few inspired patriots, attacked it on the fourteenth of July, 1789. Today, July Fourteenth is to France what July Fourth is to America.

That date had more and greater significance than merely marking the outbreak of the Revolution. By taking the Bastille the people came to have a realization of their own strength. They discovered that commoners might destroy a stronghold of hated might and not answer for the act with their own lives. The seeds of the French republic were sown in the red ruins of the Bastille. From that evening came the breaking-down of the ancient feudal system, the overthrow of the aristocrats, the nobility and the throne. From it also sprang the Reign of Terror.

It is told that when a courier from the rioters brought the news to the King (Louis XVI) at Versailles, the latter in horror cried out, "But this is revolt!" and the messenger answered, "No, Sir, it is Revolution."

Revolution it was, and by that Revolution a new trend was given to other king-ruled nations, on both sides of the Atlantic ocean.

with two flaming brands was buying himself setting fire to the saltpetre magazine. The brave Jean Baptiste Humbert, who had the honor to be the first to mount upon the towers of the Bastille and Hotel des Invalides, drawn by the cries of a woman, struck the madman in the pit of the stomach with a sword, he had not fired a single shot during the day, was pierced by a sabre which severed his wrist.

"Throughout all the streets of the city this same hand to which so many citizen sowed their safety was carried in triumph. He himself was dragged from the fort. The blind multitude which mistook him for a cannoner struck him with a gibbet where he died with one Asselin, a victim like himself of this fatal error.

"Maillard, Cholat, the grenadier Arne, and several other attackers, disputed the honor of arresting M. de Launay. He was not in uniform but clothed in a gray frock coat. In his hand he had

"Some of the soldiers stationed on the bastions, ignorant of the facts of the surrender, at this moment fired several shots and hurried themselves upon the invalides and crushed them with blows. One of them was slain. The unfortunate Bequart, that brave officer who deserved so well from the city of Paris by discharging the Governor when he had wished to blow up the Bastille, and who had not fired a single shot during the day, was pierced by a sabre which severed his wrist.

"The Price of Peace

"Within the fortress discouragement reigned. The Swiss mercenaries of the garrison however exhorted the Governor to continue the defense but the officers, high and low, besought him to surrender, and he himself knew that it was impossible to defend it, the impossibility of getting food provisions, him from sustaining the siege over a long period.

"The Governor, beside himself, addressed the garrison and asked if it were not better to fight than to surrender. He himself was ready to slaughter by the people from whose fury there was no promise of escape. "Let us go back upon the towers," said he, "and if we must die let us make our death disastrous to the enemy. Let us crush them under the debris of the Bastille." But the soldiers answered that they would prefer to die rather than to kill such a great number of their fellow citizens and that a further resistance was no longer possible. They must surrender. The drums were then beaten and a white flag was hung from the tower of the Bastille. But it was too late. The crowd, angered at the dastardly treason of the Governor when he had fired upon their deputies, saw only a new trick in these demonstrations of peace and continued to advance, firing their guns to the very bridge of the interior court.

"A Swiss officer, addressing himself to the attackers through a kind of loophole that he had found near the drawbridge, asked them that they be content with the honor of war.

"No," cried the crowd. He then held a paper through the same aperture, which distance made illegible, crying that they were willing to surrender if they received a promise that the troops would not be massacred.

"A certain man runs and finds a plank which is placed on a turret, several people place themselves under it to act as a counterweight. The brave unknown goes forward, he is ready to seize the paper but he falls into the moat. Struck down, according to some, by a gun shot, he dies a victim of his courage. M. Maillard, son of a muzzar at Chateaufort, undaunted by the death of the other, courageously goes out upon this long straight plank and seizing the paper places it in the hands of M. Hullin, who reads it in a loud voice:

"We have twenty thousand weight of powder. We can blow up the garrison and the whole quarter if you do not accept our surrender." Upon the word of an officer we accept," said M. Hullin, "Lower your bridges."

"The invalides (patients in the military hospital which was part of the Bastille) were drawn up on the right, the Swiss on the left. Their arms were placed against the wall. They took off their hats, clapped their hands and cried "bravo" to the people who were rushing, crowding into the fort. The first to enter treated the conquered with friendship, throwing themselves upon the neck of the officers in sign of peace and reconciliation and taking possession of the place as it was ceded in the terms of surrender. But those who followed them, breathing only slaughter and vengeance, treated the conquered as if they had been taken by assault.

The details here printed of the siege and surrender of the Bastille were taken from the Gazette Nationale ou le Moniteur Universel, a newspaper of the time. At Paris, the Paris Moniteur, the journal is still in existence.

In its issue of July 23, 1789—the issue next succeeding the Fall of the Bastille—the Moniteur carried an account of the event which perhaps was written by its editor. Whoever was this chronicler must have been an Eye-Witness. The attention to detail, the certainty with which he speaks of this phase or that, proves this. Besides, in referring to the attacking force he says, "We said this" or "We did that."

After dealing at length with the preliminary stages of the siege of the hated fortress by the populace and with the popular hatred of its commandant, M. de Launay, the paper proceeds to a spirited and circumstantial account of the main engagement:

"At the first news of the attack on the Bastille the very name of which recalls the thoughts of Lettres de Cachet, of shame and of oppression, heads were inflamed, madmen transported, and great daring suddenly became as great as the terror which had so long been felt at the mention of this formidable name. Moment by moment the crowd of attackers grew. To it were added citizens of every age, of both sexes, of every condition. Officers, soldiers, firemen, women, priests, artists, journalists, the greater part unarmed, all whirling about excitedly, all moved by a common impulse, dashed from the quarters of Paris and hastened by a hundred routes towards the Bastille. The Faubourg St. Antoine, which was directly under the artillery of the fort and was even more stirred up because of its proximity, turned out in its entirety. One also saw rushing thither country people, strangers and warriors recently arrived from other countries. One young Greek, subject of a great lord, watched our enthusiasm, and fired by it, turned French. Many, as soon as they learned of the attack on the Bastille were drawn thither by different motives. Some in the hope of pillage. Those received their due.

"Others came only to succour the wounded or to shield from the fury of the attackers parents, friends, or those from whom they during their captivity had fervently received consolations. Thus humanity, gratitude, and filial piety were expressed at the risk of life and limb. However, as they fought, dying around the drawbridge. Women rushing to the aid of their husbands fell wounded. One woman sought only war and victory fought in the front ranks of the conquerors of the Bastille. Soon the people hurled themselves in a mob into the court of the 'government house' and rushed to take the second bridge, at the same time firing a volley of musketry. These latter replied with a lively and sustained fire which forced the attackers to retire in disorder.

"This attack had gone on for an hour when suddenly from the arsenal side of the fort) came the beating of drums and sounds of marching. At the same instant we saw coming into the court de l'Arme, a flag escorted by a crowd of armed citizens. A great company then advanced towards the court of the 'government house' and cried to the enemy to hold their fire, that there were deputies from the hotel de ville who wished to speak to the Governor. Soon a white flag was raised on the bastions and the signs of peace and parley were multiplied by waving of hats. Upon this friendly invitation, M. de Corny accompanied by several others including M. Joannet, who carried the flag and was preceded by a drum, began to march toward the arch which led toward the Court de l'Arme. Everyone cried to them to put no trust in the perfidious promise which would be made them.

"M. Francois alone went forward with drum and a flag to the very foot of the moat while M. de Corny remained under the arch. Several of the people threw themselves upon him and begged him not to expose himself thus to the fire of the enemy, but the intrepid patriot as strongly urged them to withdraw from him, pointing out that they would do nothing against the fortress since the cannon could easily crush them, and that he had nothing to fear.

"The besieged then turned loose musketry fire which dropped the intrepid patriot on either side of him and forced him to withdraw in the midst of the whistle of bullets which seemed to rain upon the wall guarding the arch under which he joined the deputation. Filled with horror and indignation, they retraced their steps to the hotel de ville with but a small part of those who had accompanied them.

"Hot Fire Greets Peace Offers

"Shrieking, the furious mob charged the bridge but a volley again scattered them. A part withdrew a short distance, and while those who had guns fired ceaselessly upon the under-officers posted on the bastions, another group with axes beat down the gates of this quarter (a part of the fortress) which was thus open for pillage. A second deputation from the city came to present to the Governor the wish of the permanent committee and hair dresser, drunk or mad, armed to try and stop the bloodshed. This deputation carried the decree which ordered the Governor, M. de Launay, to surrender the Bastille to the city without spilling the blood of citizens. The M. de Launay was at his head and presented himself under artillery fire. He was answered with three times, always with a new outburst. These times he answered to the peace proposals were given only by ever whirling fire. The attackers, more coraced, brought up three wagon loads of straw set fire to the forward guardhouse and to the government house and to the kitchen. The besieged at the point fired a charge of grape shot. The bastions and the loop holes resounded with the noise of musketry and the officers themselves fired guns.

"The fire was still going on when there was a report in the court a detachment of militiamen made up of the most part of grenadiers from Raffetville and of riflemen from the company of Labrousse, with them was a numerous group of bourgeois under the command of M. Hullin. It was he who had just decided on the march of the militia, after having puzzled for over an hour on means of attacking the Bastille successfully. "My friends," he said to them, "are you ready to march against the Bastille. There they are slaughtering our friends and our brothers. We have the fatherland to avenge, traitors to punish. Can we doubt victory?"

"A Hairdresser on the Rampage

"At these words the brave warriors fell in step behind him and marched to the fortress with three cannon, re-inforcing themselves with two others which they picked up near the arsenal. Several military patients who had been restored to arms that morning joined them and they marched into the Court de l'Orme.

"In one of the courts of the Bastille they captured a young girl equally interesting because of her grace and her candour. Having led her near to the first bridge, it is the daughter of De Launay, cried the enraged people. "Either he will surrender or he will see his daughter die in flames." A straw mattress was to serve her to it and the unfortunate girl disappeared in the smoke.

"The father of Mlle. de Montigny, for that is the name of the unfortunate young girl, saw from the height of the tower his daughter nearly burned alive. He was going to hurl himself down when he was hit by two bullets and knuckled over. The generous Aubin Bonnier, of whom we have spoken, outraged by such an attempted crime, left his post, seized the blood-mad mob, seized the victim and placing her in safe hands returned to the combat.

"An even more terrible scene took place in the arsenal. A

LONDON LETTER

LONDON, Feb. 27.—The Prince of Wales' latest accident in the hunting field, in which he suffered a broken collar bone, has proved to be one of those blunders that come in disguise in the opinion of his physicians. They claim that it will tend to correct the slight droop in one of his shoulders which resulted from the breaking of the other collar bone in 1924. The droop was becoming quite noticeable.

The Prince has been caused very little inconvenience by this accident, and has been able to keep all of his appointments. It will be some time, however, before he will be able to dance or take part in most of his athletic pastimes.

"Bifurcated, but thoroughly lady like" is the description of a new garment which is offered to women of fashion in New Bond St. This garment is neither skirt nor trousers. It is an entire gown with the skirt so skillfully divided that it is impossible to detect it unless one sees the water stepping in a motor car or making a mad dash on the tennis court. The style is well suited for an afternoon tea at the golf links.

This innovation in women's attire, is a one piece garment of the coat frock order. The upper portion is cut on short tunic lines and wide loose trousers are substituted for a skirt. Clever cutting and perfection of the modern art of pleating make it impossible to discover the skirt is still unless the wearer takes a very long step. The new garments are made chiefly in fine woolen fabrics and are frequently trimmed with fur so as to make them suitable to any ordinary occasion on a fashionable woman's day.

England's first counties to sing before motion picture audiences has had a tremendous success. She is Catherine, Lady Westmoreland, who under the name of Catherine Morland, has been taking concert engagements in motion picture houses to raise money to assist the Red Cross fund. Her singing has been interesting for years.

Lady Westmoreland's (second) most notable success as a farm laborer, his wife and six children whom she came to know while she and the late Earl had a home near Sittingbourne. Some years later there was a financial reverse which pressed her again to continue her charity work as usual in the States.

American living in London now number 620 and the number of Australians is announced by the census. The Canadian population is 5,000 and the Irish 1,200. The Africans and 1,700 New Zealanders in London.

PANAMA CITY, Feb. 27.—Officials of the Atlanta and St. Andrews Bay Railroad are expected soon to announce whether this line will be extended from Dothan, Ala. to Montgomery or Opelika. Minor C. Keith, of New York, is the largest stockholder of the property, which now operates from Dothan through Cottondale to Panama City. STARKE, Feb. 27.—Bradford county property owners will go to the polls March 19 to vote on a highway bond issue of $450,000 which, with state aid on State Road No. 28, the Lake City-Starke-Dothan short route, will permit the construction of approximately 100 miles of roads.

MONROE, Feb. 27.—The British navy in Paris was the rather startling headline which appeared in the Paris newspapers this week. It was not a division of dreadnaughts which had found means to ascend the river Seine, but a flotilla of five motor gunboats returning from patrol duty on the Rhine.

The gunboats left the Rhine when the British evacuated Calais. Treaty stipulations prevented them from taking the simplest route home, by the Rhine and North sea, so they were compelled to explore France's rivers and inland waterways. Their journey by their routes took six weeks. While here they were anchored between the Concord and Alexander bridges, in the heart of Paris.

Seven members of the exiled imperial family of Austria-Hungary arrived in France. About a month ago four sons of the former emperor and empress' family of eight arrived at the little inland health resort of Argelos (Azost), in the French Pyrenees department. The latter Empress Zita has now moved from her two young children, the Princesses Elizabeth and Charlotte. She is using the name of Madame de Lunaco, and from Lunaco, in the small place in South Germany of which her husband was margrave. She is permitted to remain for six months in the Spanish home at Logués, near the Pyrenees.

Monting dances have become the fashion in London society circles. A dancing school, teacher, Monting dance classes have been organized by a lady of social rank, under chairmanship of Mrs. J. S. M. with the idea of giving London and setting a fashion of ball exercise.

Not the ordinary kind of dancing, entirely for pleasure, but more of a social nature with a view to direct it was decided upon. The rhythm of the new organization is "the rhythm of dancing which transcends the rhythm of modern existence, restlessness and boredom."

Monting dances have become the fashion in London society circles. A dancing school, teacher, Monting dance classes have been organized by a lady of social rank, under chairmanship of Mrs. J. S. M. with the idea of giving London and setting a fashion of ball exercise.

Not the ordinary kind of dancing, entirely for pleasure, but more of a social nature with a view to direct it was decided upon. The rhythm of the new organization is "the rhythm of dancing which transcends the rhythm of modern existence, restlessness and boredom."

Jazz is to be barred and the old fashioned waltz and foxtrot dances of other years are to be substituted.

The little Scottish town of Carmichael claims to be the greatest golf nursery in the world. During the last thirty years nearly 400 professional players have left Carmichael homes in the United States. At one time or another Carmichael has provided practically every champion American with a golf club, as well as supplying a champion of the United States, a champion of Australia and champion of South Africa.

Several Scottish professionals and three amateur champions have also been taught the finer points of the game on the Carmichael links.

BIG LUMBER DEAL

PANAMA CITY, Feb. 27.—Officials of the Atlanta and St. Andrews Bay Railroad are expected soon to announce whether this line will be extended from Dothan, Ala. to Montgomery or Opelika. Minor C. Keith, of New York, is the largest stockholder of the property, which now operates from Dothan through Cottondale to Panama City. Two surveys are being made north of Dothan, one to Montgomery and the other to Opelika.

STARKE, Feb. 27.—Bradford county property owners will go to the polls March 19 to vote on a highway bond issue of $450,000 which, with state aid on State Road No. 28, the Lake City-Starke-Dothan short route, will permit the construction of approximately 100 miles of roads.

MONROE, Feb. 27.—The British navy in Paris was the rather startling headline which appeared in the Paris newspapers this week. It was not a division of dreadnaughts which had found means to ascend the river Seine, but a flotilla of five motor gunboats returning from patrol duty on the Rhine.

The gunboats left the Rhine when the British evacuated Calais. Treaty stipulations prevented them from taking the simplest route home, by the Rhine and North sea, so they were compelled to explore France's rivers and inland waterways. Their journey by their routes took six weeks. While here they were anchored between the Concord and Alexander bridges, in the heart of Paris.

Seven members of the exiled imperial family of Austria-Hungary arrived in France. About a month ago four sons of the former emperor and empress' family of eight arrived at the little inland health resort of Argelos (Azost), in the French Pyrenees department. The latter Empress Zita has now moved from her two young children, the Princesses Elizabeth and Charlotte. She is using the name of Madame de Lunaco, and from Lunaco, in the small place in South Germany of which her husband was margrave. She is permitted to remain for six months in the Spanish home at Logués, near the Pyrenees.

Billy Church and Jack Richards Will Be Seen in Field Minstrels At Milane

In Jack Richards and Billy Church, America's sweetest singers, the Al G. Field Minstrels, which come to the Milano Theater on Monday, have two of the most popular minstrel singers of today; in fact, their popularity extends beyond the minstrel world for they are known all over the country. And they still sing their songs together as if they were two young school boys just started out of a Mark Twain novel. They are both happy-go-lucky, carefree young men who love to sing.

They both received their start in Calabash, Ohio, their home town, and are proud to begin their season there every year. They sing in the Trinity Church "chorus boys" and their clear, bell-like voices could be heard every Sunday along with the others. It was exactly a tradition and every one will ever remember the songs they sang in that church.

Jack and Billy sing without the slightest effort or strain; it could not possibly be called work, for them, and they love it. And the singing Field chorus loves singing with them because they are so easy to follow. They are just like one happy family of singing boys, touring the country to make others happy listening to them.

Best Star heads the list of comedians in the new 30th Annual Edition of the Field Minstrels this year, along with Harry Frank, Jack Kennedy, Johnny Healy and Joe McGee. Billy and Leo Doran head the dancing cast.

This year's production is by far the most entertaining and elaborate of any yet produced and Jack Richards and Billy Church have a prominent part in the program—exactly a tradition and every one will ever remember the songs they sang in that church.

NOTED DIVINE DIES—GETTYSBURG, Pa., Feb. 27.—Dr. J. A. Singmaster, president of the Lutheran Pastoral Society and one of the most prominent ministers of the United Lutheran Church in America, died here today from the effects of an apoplectic stroke suffered Monday.

Film Head Today Views 20 Years of His Picture Work

UNIVERSAL CITY, Cal., Feb. 26.—Carl Laemmle, who forty years ago landed in America from Germany alone and friendless, is celebrating here today the twentieth anniversary of his entrance into the motion picture business.

Six years after he had opened his first venture, Laemmle moved to the Pacific Coast and built a small producing plant in Hollywood. That location became too restricted and he shifted to Universal City, which took its name from his production plant.

Today the head of Universal Pictures Corporation to his friends and workers is the same, unassuming, kindly individual, known as "Uncle Carl."

PEANUTS $62 TON

QUINCY, Feb. 27.—(AP)—The solid carload of peanuts shipped from Gadsden county in several years has been forwarded to an all mill from Quincy. Gadsden soil is peculiarly adapted to the production of peanuts and while the crop year after year has been large it has been used almost exclusively as hog feed.

The marketing of peanuts has been getting stiffer during the last few years and last season a small tonnage was shipped to crushers. The solid car moved from here was sold at slightly less than $102 per ton.

LATEST LEAGUE PROBLEM STIRS ENGLISH PEOPLE

Chamberlain Attitude On Increasing Membership Of League Council Is Awaited
With Great Deal of Interest

LONDON, Mar. 1.—(AP)—The British public still is astir over what is to be the attitude of Sir Austin Chamberlain, the British Foreign Secretary, with regard to increasing the membership of the council of the League of Nations after Germany has elected a member of the League. The interest of Great Britain is quite because of the fact that Germany is opposed to any further new members of the League aside from herself.

Sir Austin is continuing to maintain silence with regard to his personal opinion on the subject. The League council meets at Geneva, and how far he may have committed himself to the French view in admission of Poland, Spain and Brazil to permit seats on the council.
The opinion prevails that if any understanding has been reached for the enlargement of the council Germany should have been apprised of the fact.

Prior to next Friday, when the council meets, it is understood that Premier Baldwin will endeavor to relieve the tension by a statement which will lay rumors that a crisis exists, but it is considered doubtful if he will definitely indicate the British policy. Another British cabinet meeting will be held probably Wednesday, before final instructions are given to the British delegation to Geneva.

There was no developments over this, tending to verify Sir Austin's rumored readiness to resign the foreign secretaryship. If his views cannot be harmonized with those of his colleagues, The Daily Mail says he has been invited to address a meeting of the League of Nations Parliamentary Committee before any announcement is made in the House of Commons, but it is not stated whether he has accepted.

The opinion of a large section of the British public is that a debate on the burning question of the League should be avoided, lest it increase the dangers of the situation. The holding of a debate is likely to depend upon the character of the ministerial statement.
It is thought that Premier Baldwin will frame his statement in such a manner as to avert a discussion on the League, but he is thoughtfully alive to the delicacy of the situation.

Meanwhile, according to the correspondent of the Daily Express at Prague, a little entente, embracing the British and Czechs, has declared its support of Poland's claim for permanent seat in the council.
The "Nation" can't govern world Lengier minister Beneš of Czechoslovakia is quoted by the correspondent as saying in an interview:
"The world cannot be governed forever by 10 nations. It would begin to be of interest if the council enlarged, to include representatives of every country in the world."
The same correspondent quotes President Benes of Czechoslovakia as saying he is entirely in favor of the plan to enlarge the council.
The writers represent these declarations as made in behalf of the entire little entente alliance.
"They complete the united front of Slav and Latin Europe for expansion of the council against the Anglo-Saxon and Germanic powers of the North."

First Picture of Omaha "Sniper," His Gun and Man He Shot.

Omaha breathed easier when Frank Carter, its mysterious "sniper," who took potshots at citizens through windows of their homes at night, was finally captured. Here is the first picture of him to be published. At the right is Ross Johnson, railway detective at Council Bluffs, Ia., whom Carter shot five times, but who lived and furnished officials with a description of Carter that led to the latter's arrest.

WIFE MURDERER IS SENTENCED TO PRISON FOR LIFE

Jury Deliberates Into Sunday
To Return Verdict Of Guilty
In The Case Of Victor
Holmes Of Beattyville, Ky.

BETTSVILLE, Ky., Mar. 1.—
A jury deliberated into Sunday a rare custom in this state, to return a verdict of wilful murder against Victor A. Holmes, for the murder of his wife. He was given life imprisonment.

The jury decided that Holmes deliberately shot over a 200-foot cliff an automobile in which was seated his wife, Mrs. Louisa Holmes, and their children. His wife and one child, Timmy, were instantly killed, while the second child survived, though being seriously injured. The jury's deliberation will be held today.
Holmes' attorney announced, and if this fails an appeal will be taken.

A chain of circumstantial evidence was presented by the prosecution as there were no eye witnesses to the tragedy. Holmes told of driving his car over a ridge several miles from here, and said the road became slippery so he got out to adjust his chains.
He said the chains slipped as his wife was backing the car, and it dropped over the precipice.

The first word of the occurrence was told by Holmes to farmers living near the precipice where he went for help.
Several days after this tragedy,
Holmes was arrested. In his first trial
last fall which resulted in a mistrial, 10 of the jury were said to favor his acquittal, one life penalty and the other death. The jury's deliberation is said to have been outcome to the resident of this community, in view of the first trial.

Holmes, who is one-armed, and was a veteran, met his wife during the war while in a hospital. He is at present suffering with influenza and had to be revived before he was brought into court.
He accepted the verdict without any apparent emotion.

Vance Douglass Re-Elected President Of Baseball Club At Reorganization Meeting

Vance E. Douglass was re-elected president of the Sanford Baseball Club Saturday night, and W. J. Harly was elected vice-president. Fred Budich, secretary and Robert W. Stone, treasurer at a meeting which was attended by about 50 enthusiastic stockholders and fans.

The board of directors for the 1926 season will be composed of Forrest Lake, John Russell, H. R.
Stevens, T. T. Brown, Fred Dorner, A. B. W. Stone and W. P. Stone, in addition to the officers of the club.
John Russell, W. J. Harly and A. B. Wallace were appointed to act as a committee of three to secure the services of a manager for the club during the coming season.
Following the election of officers, plans relative to the finance of the club were discussed and arrangements made for a meeting to be held Friday night, Mar. 5, at which time reports from the financial committee will be heard and President Douglass will report on the league meeting in Tampa, which is scheduled for Wednesday of this week.

Playing Manager Sought
The committee appointed to secure a manager for the club was instructed to immediately get in touch with the best men available and have them on contract before other teams in this, and other leagues, begin to scout the south for competent men. A playing manager is expected to be employed.
Announcement was made by the president that contracts had been mailed to members of last year's team who were still considered the property of the local club.
It is expected that the league meeting in Tampa Wednesday will result in the election of Joe Tinker to the presidency of the league.

Tinker, who was for years a star of the Chicago Cubs, has been a resident of Florida for the past five years and is said to have a thorough understanding of the problems of baseball in this state. It is believed that at least five of the clubs proposed for membership in the league this year are in favor of Tinker for president.

NEW YORK, Mar. 1.—(AP)—The

Batling through Polar seas in 1607 in search of a northwest passage to the Spie Island of the East today still stirs the blood of modern explorers who seek to solve the mystery of northern seas.

At least six expeditions hope

Four other purely scientific ex-

It has become almost an international race. By land, sea and air, expeditions representing interests in America, France, Norway, Italy and Russia will penetrate the regions that lured countless explorers before them.

A trade route to the east is sought, a landing place for air-

ENGLISHMAN TO DEVOTE FORTUNE TO CHURCH WORK

Henry Lunn, Prominent Laymen To Give Surplus Wealth To Be Used Generously For Betterment Of Mankind

NEW YORK, Mar. 1.—(AP)—Sir Henry Lunn, prominent layman of the Protestant church in England, who amassed a fortune after retiring as a medical missionary in India, has put into practice his belief that surplus wealth acquired by big business men should be devoted to the betterment of mankind. The World Alliance for International Friendship through the churches Sunday announced that he had turned over most of his vast properties to trustees who will administer the revenue for religious and social work, including international peace.

The exact value of the properties was not given, but the announcement said they total millions. They include the enterprises conducted by Sir Henry Lunn, Ltd., of London. This firm operates a tourist business and is well known in large hotels in Switzerland and other parts of Europe.

The funds accruing from the business were administered by the Lunn Foundation for the benefit of the movements which Sir Henry has supported during the past ten years. He is a leader in the church unity movement and is now touring this country in behalf of that church.

The only property not decided to be turned over to the trustees was a trust fund created for members of his family. Upon death, each beneficiary's share will go to the trusteeship.

Sir Henry, in a letter to a friend whom he asked to become a trustee of the Lunn Foundation wrote:
"I have always held that the best use of a large business is entitled to a reasonable remuneration for his work, and that he is trustee for all beyond that sum. In a complex civilization, where success are very great, the primitive idea of tithes has become an anachronism and an absurdity, and no system of proportionate giving can satisfy the demands of justice where the income is often many times that of a prime minister or a president of a state.
"You will, therefore, understand me when I tell you that, preparatory to the important engagements which I have undertaken to fulfill in my journey round the world,
I have definitely decided to divest myself of all my property and form an incorporated society which will provide the necessary funds for

The Review of the Churches, in-peace, and further other religious

Final Instructions Are Given Teams And Committees During Luncheon Meeting

Except Largest Amounts First
Many Speakers Urge
Workers To Action
At Today's Session

Final plans for the opening tomorrow morning, of the Chamber of Commerce drive for $18,000 with which to finance the special advertising campaign on the city of Sanford in the newspapers of Florida were completed and instructions given to the teams and committees which are to participate in raising the funds at an enthusiastic meeting held today in the Seminole Grill and attended by many prominent business and professional men of the city.

The session was marked by much enthusiasm, and following talks by D. H. McFarland, who is in charge of the campaign, Pat Casey, Judge J. G. Sharon and Mayor Forrest Lake, the various team captains were ordered to be in readiness for their part of the work early Wednesday morning.

The special committee, which is to solicit subscriptions of $100 to $1000, was ordered to be prepared for its part of the drive tomorrow morning. This committee was also asked to attend a short meeting of the executives of the Chamber of Commerce immediately following the assembly of the entire body at noon.

Mr. McFarland told those present today of the manner in which the money was to be spent and also described the nature of the advertisements which are to appear in the press all over the state. He also gave a short resume of the expenses of the Chamber of Commerce during the past 10 months and compared them with those of other cities in the state.

Pat Casey, president of Forrest Lake, one of the largest theatrical booking houses in the United States, was the guest of Harlan W. Kelley at the luncheon. He delivered a brief address in which he told the gathering that Sanford had more to offer than any Florida city he had yet visited and advised the citizens to spend hundreds of thousands in publicity and advertising. Mr. Casey is returning to New York after several weeks in Ft. Pierce Beach.

Mayor Lake characterized the beginning of the drive as being the place to either "go forward or stop." He urged those of the various teams and committees to pitch their shoulder to the wheel and get the drive over with a "bang." Judge Sharon, who is one of the team captains, was enthusiastic in his remarks to the effect that Sanford should be better known to the rest of the country through the medium of advertising.
Part of the money raised in the drive is to go toward paying expenses of the yacht regatta, held last week on Lake Monroe, and part is to be given as the local quota for a Florida exhibit building at the Philadelphia Sesquicentennial this summer.
It is estimated that over 1,000,
000 people will see Sanford "fourteen points" set forth in the special advertising campaign. The population of the cities in which the advertising is to run totals about 800,000, and most of the papers, especially those of Jacksonville, Tampa and Miami have wide circulation in the state.
For 14 consecutive days in advertisements five volumes wide and 14 inches long, the assets of Sanford and vicinity will be set forth in the most effective manner that trained advertising writers have been able to do.
