Construction of the domestic terminal expansion project is expected to begin by January 2000, with completion anticipa ed by December 2000. White said the first new gate is expected to open during the summer of 2000.

As part of the 30 year agreement, TBI will pay $10 million against the $24.5 million estimated cost of the domestic terminal expansion project.

The first $7.5 million will be paid up front when the contract is finalized, and the remaining $2.5 million will be spread evenly over the first five years of the agreement. TBI will also make gross revenue payments to the airport. In addition, TBI will assume all operation and maintenance costs for the terminal facilities, and provide incentives for airline business attraction.

In return for funding toward the expansion project, the Airport Authority agreed to give TBI rights to parking lot fees and rental car revenues. Currently, the airport does not charge parking fees. White said that nationwide parking lots are often the leading source of income at airports.

TBI will also receive terminal related revenues such as food and beverage concession fees. Commercial ground transportation revenues will be split with the airport.

"The best way to get a new pool is through a joint effort," Rose said. "That way, everyone shares in the costs."

Senford, Seminole County and the achool-district are sharing the costs of constructing a $1 million pool at Seminole High School. Senford is paying $900,000 toward construction of the pool, while the county and school board are splitting the remaining $500,000 for construction.

"Using those funds in Oviedo might not even be possible because of different demographics," Maloy said. "We'd have to check on that." Maloy opposed the use of CDBG funds to construct Seniord's pool.

Substitute turkey parts for chicken

If you are like I am, you think of turkey about once or twice a year; on Thankagiving, of course, and then perhaps at Christmastime. I'm fortunate to be married to a man who thinks of turkey a lot more than that, and who loves nothing better than to cook up a Thankagiving-lah dinner — complete with stuffing, cranberries and other trimmings — at odd times of the year. (There's nothing more satisfying than a Thankagiving-lah dinner on a cold Sunday in Pubruary.) But neither of us ever think of using the cuts of turkey — the medallions, tenderioins and cut-lets — that seem to be everywhere in the supermarket these days.

They are, it turns out, every bit as versatile as boned chicken breasts. You can substitute many of these specialty ests for chicken breasts in your favorite recipes. Or you could acquire a free casy of the Butterball turkey-recipe collection, "Passpert to International Cuisine." These recipes, developed by Chef Belmet Heamans, fit the cologary of recipes I love best: They're good enough for company, but easy enough for a weeknight denser. I've tried two, which I've reprinted below. In addition, I've included one of my own favorite chicken breast-recipes, which easily adapts to turkey cutlets.

AT BRIDGE

Don't rely entirely on training

By Phillip Alder

Sensible people exercise regularly. Keeping fit increases one's chances of a longer life.

When you learn to play bridge, it is like a training program. You master the different moves that work most of the time. However, nothing is a winner every time. You must be flexible.

In particular, never stop counting—whether you're the declarer or a defender. In this deal, how would you expect the play to go in three no trump? Assume West leads the normal heart lack.

Do you agree with North's one-dia-mond bid? Obviously, it is "textbook." However, it wouldn't be silly to start with two no-trump. True, the count is low for that opening, but the excellent six-card diamond suit is worth a cou-pie of extra points.

South won the first trick with the heart queen. This was the correct play because it left East wondering if his partner had led from a suit headed by partner had led from a suit headed by the K-J-10.

Declarer played a diamond to dummy's king, which held, and continued with the diamond queen. New the spellight was on East.

If he had returned his partner's suit,
as many would thoughtlessly do, declarer would have claimed 11 tricks:
three speaks, three hearts and five diamonds. But East paused to count declarer's tricks. He could see at least nine: two speaks, two hearts and five diamonds. So, the only hope for the defense was to take four club tricks now.

East priched to the club four. West won with im Jon, and returned a club to his partner's king. Another club through South's 10-8 into West's J-9 tenace defeated the contract.

ASK DR. GOTT

Doctor should be more aggressive

DEAR DR. GOTT: My $3-year-old husband is steat and was told four months ago that his blood pressure was 170/160, his cholesterol was 750 and his triglycerides were over 1800. He was placed on a low-fat, low-calorie diet, without medication. He feels tired and run down, has a short temper, and won't stop smoking two packs of cigarattes a day. What's the next step?

DEAR READER: The next step, one that his dector should have taken four months ago, is to get your husband on medication. Hypertension and excess blood fats are an open invitation to serious heart disease and stroke. If year husband needs to diet, fine. But, during this time, his blood pressure and chalesters/triglycerides must be brought under control. In my opinion, he needs to be treated and monitored by a physician who will take a more aggressive approach.

There are numerous medications from which to choose. Anti-hypertensive drugs include beta-blockers, ACE inhibitors, calcium channel blockers and directics. Any one (or a combination) should premptly lower his blood pressure into the normal range, 166/60 or below.

Similarly, there is a mate of choice-terol- and triglyceride-reducing medications, primarily the "statin" drugs (including levastatin, nieuvestatin and pravastatin) that, when combined with an appropriate diet, will lower his blood fais.

Obviously, responsibility for your husband's health doesn't lie solely with his doctors; he, too, has to make some changes. He must stop seasing because this harmful habit adds significantly to his risk of cardiovascular conditions. In my view, your busband is sitting on a time bomb. He must obtain expert medical help and die whatever he can to after his lifestyle, so that his blood presiure and blood fats can be brought under control.

Costrol.

One final comment: i de not know the reason for his fatigue and short temper. Maybe he is afraid that his health will deterierate in the fature—and he has every right to be afraid because, without the changes I mentioned, it will. Perhaps he is merely angry at having to give up some of his most treasured life-patterns, is it possible that he has an emotional problem, such as depression, that should also be addressed? These are additional problem.

tional issues that his dector abould take up with him.

Modern therapy holds great premise for your bushand. But it's up is him to decide whether to avail him-self of this. For your part, he support-ive but stay out of the middle. Let him work this out with his declar.

To give yes related intermation, I am sending you a copy of my Monith Report "Hypertensies." Other readers who would like a copy should need $3 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Ber 2017, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to mention the title.
