Angola Blames U.S.

For S. Africa Raid

By United Press International
Angola told an emergency meeting of the U.N. Security Council the United States and other Western powers encouraged South Africa's invasion of its territory by their failure to deal strongly with the Pretoria government.

The South African invasion threatened to jeopardize the joint effort of five Western states — the United States, Britain, France, West Germany and Canada — to devise a plan for independence for South West Africa — also known as Namibia — by Dec. 31.

Man Robbed In Car Outside County Club

By DENNIS FEOLA
Herald Staff Writer

An Altamonte Springs man was robbed at gunpoint of $75 as he sat in his car in front of a local men's club at 1:30 p.m., Friday on North Street in front of the Altamonte Men's Club.

James J. Lanigan, 41, told police he was in his car when he was approached by a man, about 23 carrying a brown shirt in his left hand which blocked from view his right hand.
The man asked a question, then dropped the shirt revealing a .32 or .38 caliber blue snub nose revolver, according to records. "This is a sick-up, give me your money," the man is reported to have said.

Lanigan gave the man $75 in cash just as a second man driving a 1969 Plymouth pulled up nearby and the robber jumped inside. The pair fled north on State Road 427 from North Street.

KEYS STOLEN
Bill McDaniels, a coach at Seminole High School told Sanford police three boys, all about 13, stole his roll book and keys to the school.
The incident took place during football practice, according to records, which indicated the youths were last seen by witnesses running into the school.

PURSE STOLEN
Sue Mosley of 465 S. Sumner Ave., Sanford, told police someone broke into her home and stole her purse containing $250 in cash.

TWO GOLD WEDDING RINGS, an engagement ring with a marquise diamond, a pair of gold earrings and assorted old coins were stolen from an Eastbrook home Thursday, according to records.
Anne Driggers, 32, of 1881 Chilean Lane, reported the theft to police and she said the merchandise was worth $700, police said.

TV TAKEN

Jeannette Cooper, 56, of 63 Eagle Circle, Casselberry, told sheriff's deputies her home was burglarized of a color television and stereo valued at $800.

Utility Tax Illegal

(Continued From Page 1A) establishing the license fee) is invalid to the extent that it purports to levy, assess and authorize the collection of such tax.
The commission originally enacted an ordinance in 1974 to regulate water and sewer systems in the county. That ordinance imposed a five percent gross receipts tax on those utilities. About one year later, the county turned over the regulatory duties to the PSC.
In August the commission adopted an "emergency ordinance" amending the ordinance that established the "gross receipts tax." That amendment changed the reference to gross receipt tax to license fee. — MAX ERKLETTIAN

HELPING OUT

What can I do to help a police officer? That's the question Stephanie Williams, 9, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Williams (left), and Lori Swain, 9, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Swain, answered well enough to win second and third places, respectively, in a contest sponsored by the Sanford Police Department. Stephanie won a bicycle; Lori, a baseball glove. First-place winner was John Burton who won a 12" TV set.

"Of the sums received back from the state, I knew very definitely there was a question as to whether the money was mine or belonged to the county so I put it aside and said I would wait for a ruling," said Robbin.
Robbin said he deposited the money in an escrow account. Later, when it was determined the money should be returned, Robbin said he closed the escrow account and gave the money to the circuit court. Robbin had informed the court the money might belong to the state or the county, he said.
The total amount Robbin returned was $4,413.80. He said he thought that was all the money paid to him in the double-billing.

Scouts Drop Age Limit For Handicapped Eagles

NORTH BRUNSWICK, N.J. (UPI) — The Boy Scouts are dropping age restrictions for advancement of the handicapped to allow Eagle Scout rank to a cerebral palsy victim who crawled on his hands and knees and used a wheelchair to complete a 10-mile hike.

The new age regulation, issued Friday, clears the way for at least nine handicapped young men across the country to advance to higher ranks — including Gregory Wittine of Baldwin, N.Y.

Boy Scouts spokesman Tom Dew said the lifting of the age specifications gives unlimited time to two men with muscular dystrophy from Toms River, N.J., who failed the Eagle badge test because of the physical standards. They were Steven Cerbasi, 17, and Frank Burrell, 19.

The Fonz Ties The Knot

NEW YORK (UPI) — There's bad news for female fans of The Fonz.

Henry Winkler, the lovable leather-jacketed character in TV's "Happy Days" show, got married Friday in a Jewish ceremony to a girl he met while shopping for a shirt.
Winkler and his bride, the former Stacey Weitzman, held a brief news conference before whisking off to a European honeymoon.

Abortifacient Mistrial

SANTA ANA, Calif. (UPI) — A mistrial was declared Friday in the murder trial of Dr. William B. Waddill, charged with murdering a baby who survived an abortion.
He was accused of strangling a baby girl allegedly born alive 12 hours after he tried to abort it by injecting a solution of salt water into the mother's womb at Westminster Community Hospital.

Massey Faces Pay Cutoff From City

City Attorney Gary Massey, fired by the Winter Springs City Council on April 13 received a $750 monthly paycheck for April, but he may not receive any more money from that city.

Councilman Thomas Craven cast the deciding vote to pay the legal counsel, who has continued to retain his city attorney post despite a 4-1 vote to disperse with his services.
But it won't happen again, said Craven Friday.

"I would strongly oppose any action to pay him further," said Craven, adding, "I was stretching a point, making it easier for others to go ahead and pay him for April."

Craven on April 6 voted with colleagues John Daniels, Laurent Pellerin and Burt Logan to fire Massey effective April 13 and stop his monthly retainer at that time. Last week Councilman John Sabatini, Logan and Craven voted to pay the attorney through April. At the April 13 meeting, Massey, who was absent the week before, said he submitted his resignation to Mayor Troy Piland but was staying on at Piland's request until his successor was appointed and confirmed by the city council.

In addition, Piland challenged the council's right to fire the attorney.
Explaining his reasons for voting to pay the retainer, Craven said he was satisfied that Piland was making an effort to get names of attorneys for appointment to the post.

The mayor's actions seemed earnest to me. He said he was not going to accept any more returns beyond Friday which indicated he is ready to make a nomination to the council," said Craven.
Piland told the councilmen that he will choose six resumes of attorneys to submit to the council. He said the council could then choose three and he would appoint one of the three to the post.
Massey was unavailable for comment.
Resumes of 12 attorneys of firms were in the city hall files on Friday, according to City Clerk Mary Norton. Resumes are from: O.H. Eaton of the law firm of Brock, Massey, Walden and Eaton (Massey's law firm) of Altamonte Springs; Joseph Goldstein of the Altamonte law firm of Jacobs, Goodman and Goldstein (Jacobs is an Altamonte Springs city commissioner); J. Robert Hunkapiller, Winter Park.

Howell, Brantley Meet For District Baseball

It will be the battle of the lakes tonight at Sanford Stadium when Lake Howell and Lake Brantley collide at 8 o'clock for the Class AAAA district baseball championship. The two Seminole County teams advanced Friday night with semifinal victories marked by strong pitching. Lake Brantley used the one-hit pitching of Randy Jones to spend Lyman, 5-1, outlasting the one-hit pitching of Mike Oliver and Mark Brown. Lake Howell got a one-hit effort from Tom Thebauth and bested Gainesville, 5-0. Brantley scored both its runs in the second inning off Oliver. Jim Fry started the rally with a walk and after being balked to second, scored on a double by Randy Jones. Later in the inning Greg Furner drove in what proved to be the winning run with a sacrifice fly to right field. Hugh Miller broke up Jones' bid for a no-hitter with a fifth inning hit, also scoring to spoil the shutout.

Bob Luby hit the big blow for Lake Howell, a two-run homer in the first inning which was all Thebauth needed for the win. Al Squartino had singled and was on base when the Luby round-tripper shocked a confident Gainesville team. Squartino started the other rally, getting on base in the sixth on an error and scoring on a Luby single. Tonight's championship game will see Lake Howell send Brian Marley against Brantley's Jim Fry in a matchup of starting pitchers from Tuesday's opening round. The winner advances to next week's regional contest.

HOWELL COACH BENJAMIN GIVES HAWKS WORD OF ADVICE

Sports Parade

By MILTON RICHMAN

Question Of Being Provoked

NEW YORK (UPI)—A distinctly provoked, any human being will react, no matter how meek or docile he might be otherwise. Thurman Munson had fished that point and he responded accordingly.

The Yankee catcher isn't that meek or docile to start with, nor is he so belligerent that he'll go out of his way looking for trouble. If it comes, he's ready. His nature is such that he won't back off.

After the Yankees-Twins game at Bloomington, Minn., Friday night, a fan waiting outside asked Munson for his autograph. The fan, a 22-year-old University of Minnesota sophomore, wanted the signature on a fraternity pledge paddle he had with him and Munson chose not to sign it.

The youth persisted. Munson kept saying no. Instead of accepting that, the student, Stewart Thornley, continued following Munson and when another fan, a girl, said hello to the Yankee receiver, Thornley told her not to speak with him.

"I don't like you," Munson said to Thornley. "The feeling is mutual," answered the autograph seeker. With that, Thornley charges. Munson grabbed him around the neck and tried to choke him. As a result, the student has filed an assault complaint with the Bloomington Police Department.

Munson admits he put his hand on Thornley but denies trying to choke him. He says after Thornley asked him for his signature 10 times, "I just got sick of it."

Stewart Thornley was borrowing trouble by insisting the way he did and he aggravated an already bad situation with his response to Munson. I'm inclined to doubt the whole thing will ever get to court but whether it does or not, the question arises, as it generally does in incidents of this type, is a big league ballplayer obliged to sign autographs for fans, and if so, when does his obligation cease?

Anyone in the public eye, a head of state, a ballplayer, a prize fighter, an actor or whatever, answers that signing autographs comes with the territory. It's a part of the price of fame.

Most autograph seekers are well behaved; some aren't. They think nothing of intruding during a private conversation or a meal, and sometimes once in a while enough. Occasionally they want the same person's autograph twice or three times. That can get on anybody's nerves.

Once in awhile, adults will approach for an autograph self-consciously. "This isn't for me," they'll say. "It's for my 8-year old little nephew. Would you please sign 'To Mervyn'?" And when you finish that, I have two other nieces who are crazy about you, too."

Multiply that a few hundred times or so, and you can see for yourself how it would begin to wear down anyone.

The only professional athlete I've ever seen who repeatedly refused to sign his name was Bill Russell. He made it a bigger thing than it should've been and certainly didn't win any friends for himself with his indelible head-up-the-sky attitude.

Personally, I've observed rudeness on both sides in the area of autograph giving and receiving. But for every Bill Russell, there are countless others who don't mind the temporary inconvenience of signing their name.

Richie Hebner of the Phillies is an example. He understands that an autograph can mean to someone. "Half this game is public relations," he says. "Signing autographs is a part of that. The average person who struggles for a living, working 40 hours a week, puts us up on a pedestal where we don't really belong. If anyone asks me for my autograph, I'm happy to give it. When I sign my name for someone, maybe a little kid, and then his father or mother comes over and says 'Thanks, Mr. Hebner,' it makes me feel good. It's a little ego thing with all of us."

As a kid growing up in Boston, Hebner was a red-hot Red Sox fan. "I remember waiting outside Fenway Park and getting autographs from Ted Williams, Frank Maloney, Sammy White, Jackie Jensen and Pete Runnels," he says. "The guy who was my idol, though, was Mickey Vannelli. I made up my mind I was going to get his autograph no matter what. One day, he came out of the park after a ball game and I caught him just before he got on the bus. He gave me his autograph and I took it home. You know something? I still have it."

Leafs Still Hoping

By United Press International
The Toronto Maple Leafs have started their Stanley Cup semifinal playoff series the same way they opened the quarterfinals. In that one the Leafs lost the first two games before rallying to edge the New York Islanders in seven games. This time, however, they're playing the Montreal Canadiens.

Just as they did against the Islanders, Toronto opened the series with two losses on the road, losing the first in a rump but looking a bit sharper in the second.

The Leafs beat Montreal tonight in the third game of the best-of-seven series and they would like nothing better than for this series to continue to follow the pattern of their previous one.

The Boston Bruins-Philadelphia Flyers series continues Sunday in Philadelphia, with the Bruins holding a 3-0 lead.

Against the Islanders, the return to Maple Leaf Gardens and the home fans marked the turning point of the series. The Leafs won both games handsily in Toronto and used a fierce hitting style to intimidate the team with the third-best record in the NHL.

"We feel now more like we did coming home from Long Island," said Toronto Coach Roger Neilson. "We played well. We are coming on now."

"It's going to be a lot more difficult for us in Toronto," said Montreal winger Rejean Houde. "These guys never give up. We're going to have to have our skates laced up."

The Boston-Philadelphia series is also following a familiar pattern, as the Flyers would like to see changed.

The Bruins swept the Flyers in four straight in last year's semifinals and are halfway toward a repeat performance.

"A four-game sweep is possible," said Rick Middleton, who won the first game out of the overtime goal and scored the game-winner in Thursday's 7-0 victory.

Bullets Force 76ers Into Bad Spot, 123-108

By United Press International
While the Elvin Hayes-George McGinnis feud continues, Bob Dandridge and the rest of the Washington Bullets have forced the Philadelphia 76ers into a "must-win" situation Sunday afternoon in Landover, Md.

With referees Joe Guahue and Paul Mihalik calling 71 personal and three technical fouls, Dandridge's 20 points led the Bullets to a 123-108 victory Friday night and a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven Eastern Conference final series.

In the other playoff game Friday night, Denver took a 1-0 lead in its Western Conference final with a 116-107 victory over Seattle.

Guahue and Mihalik attempted to establish control of the physical contact early, calling 12 personals in the first three minutes and 22 in the first quarter. The Hayes-McGinnis feud had heated up before the game even started when the 76er forward refused to shake the Big E's hand.

"We wanted to go out and establish ourselves physically," said McGinnis, who so far is coming out second-best in his personal battle with Hayes. "But the first thing the refs said was that they've been reading the papers and that they weren't going to let a lot of physical play go on. They set the tone for the game."

Whatever tone was set for the game, the Bullets had no trouble playing along. Washington took a 20-20 lead after the first quarter and then took control in the second period with an 18-3 spurt. The 76ers could get no closer than seven, at 46-39, the rest of the way.

The Bullets, playing without center Wes Unseld, got help from his replacement, rookie Greg Ballard, who grabbed 15 rebounds. They also received help from Hayes, with 16 points and 12 rebounds, and Kevin Grevey, who wasn't supposed to play very much because of a stiff neck.

"It makes me admire him more," said Bullets Coach Dick Motta after Grevey contributed 21 points, 13 in the second half. Kevin cutting in and playing the way he did in the second half shows me he'll be fine."

McGinnis, who was in foul trouble through most of the game, led the 76ers with 16 points.

Nuggets 116, SuperSonics 97
David Thompson, held to only 11 points over the first three quarters, hit 12 key points in the fourth period to lead Denver to its bruising victory over

Calumet Tradition Winning

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—It has long been a tradition at Calumet Farms to send only horses who can win to the Kentucky Derby.

From 1935 through 1971, 19 horses went to 15 Derbies bearing the famed devil's red-and-blue of the stables, not including Alydar, the favorite for today's 104th Derby.

Because of that tradition, Calumet's winning percentage has been tremendous, with their horses taking eight of those 15 Derbies and placing in three others.

But that was long ago. Beginning with Triple Crown winner Whirlaway in 1941 and lasting nearly two decades, the Calumet horses dominated racing and the Kentucky Derby as no other stable has ever done, nor is likely to do in the future.

Within that 17-year span, Calumet also won the Derby with Pensive in 1941, Citation in 1948, Ponder in 1969, Hill Gail in 1972, Iron Liege in 1977, and Tim Tam in 1978.

Since Tim Tam splashed home a half-length ahead of Lincoln Road, however, the stables has sent just four Derby candidates, including Alydar, Forward Pass (who was awarded the 1968 Derby after Dancer's image was taken down) and the entry of Bold and Able and Eastern Fleet in the 1971 Run for the Roses.

But the death of the stables' legendary trainer, Ben Jones, the retirement of his son, Jimmy, and the death of their prominent stud, Bull Lea, all contributed to the decline of Calumet. In 1974 the stables' earnings, which had surpassed the $1 million mark as late as 1971—stood at a mere $67,726.

But then things began to change. Lucille Marley, who owned the stable with her late husband Warren Wright and now operates it with Adm. Gene Marley, hired a young man named John Veitch, son of Hall of Fame trainer Syl Veitch, to take over the training of their stable.

She also bred a mare named Sweet Tooth to the stud Harbinger and produced the filly champion Our Mima. A year later she bred the same mare to Raise A Native and produced Alydar, who is her favorite horse after Whirlaway—the colt Jones called the dumbest horse he ever worked with.

Between Our Mima and Alydar, the stable earned $273,000 in 1977 and Veitch is looking forward to the crop of 2-year-olds he will be working with this year.

"They're wonderful people to work for," said Veitch. "They don't get in your way and they understand what it's all about, which is very important to a trainer."

The Marleys, however, are now in their 80s and because of severe arthritis are unable to come to the track. Last week they went to the races at Keeneland for the first time in years and were able to watch from their car as Alydar—the horse they had never seen run—drew away to a 1 1/2-length victory in the Hula Grass stakes.

In the suit, the club claims that 77 of 225 persons who bought a package deal were forced to travel to Louisiana the night before the game rather than on the day of the contest, contrary to terms of the agreement.

The club contended the agreement said club members were to pay $200 for air and ground transportation and lunch in New Orleans and were to get a $17 refund. The suit claims Travel Ventures never paid the $11 to the club's 225 members and owes $2,960 to the club.

Denver Fans File Suit

DENVER (UPI)—A group called the Denver Broncos Quarterback Club filed suit Friday claiming they got less than they had bargained for at the Super Bowl Jan. 15 in New Orleans.

The suit was filed against Travel Ventures, a Denver travel agency.

The club said more than 200 of its members received far less than they expected when they made arrangements through Travel Ventures to attend the game between the Broncos and the Dallas Cowboys in New Orleans.

In the suit, the club claims that 77 of 225 persons who bought a package deal were forced to travel to Louisiana the night before the game rather than on the day of the contest, contrary to terms of the agreement.

The club contended the agreement said club members were to pay $200 for air and ground transportation and lunch in New Orleans and were to get a $17 refund. The suit claims Travel Ventures never paid the $11 to the club's 225 members and owes $2,960 to the club.

play right away. He will lead a spade from dummy and let West take his two spade tricks. West will surely lead some red card and our expert declarer will let that card hold. Eventually he gets around to playing clubs. He will be left with A 9 6 of the suit, dummy will hold K, 3 and a small red card. Now he plays the king of clubs and it is up to West to drop the queen, not the 10. This play is automatic. West has marked himself with the queen of clubs, but South cannot know who holds the 10. South leads dummy's last club. East plays the eight and South must decide if East's last card is a club or a red card. It shouldn't be a guess. Somehow or other our expert declarer should have worked out either East or West's distribution by that time and will know where that 10 of clubs is. If he hasn't worked it out he isn't really an expert.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sanberg. Any declarer worth his salt is going to make three notrump. He will win the second spade, lead a club and finesse dummy's jack. As you can see, the finesse is on the club, not the spade and there are eight easy tricks. An expert declarer won't bother with a second club.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Sunday, May 7, 1978

YOUR BIRTHDAY May 7, 1978 This coming year you may have to shoulder a little more responsibility. Don't let this dismay you. The bigger the job, the greater the reward.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) The restrictions you're feeling today are not the family's fault, so have a little tolerance. Don't take things out on them. Having trouble selecting a career? Send for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter by mailing 30 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Any limitation you feel today will be caused by your negative thinking. Dwell on helping others and the doldrums will leave quickly.

CANCER (June 21-July 21) Permitting friends to pressure you into spending more than your budget can handle leads to resentment, when you only have your self to blame.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Lofty aims won't be easy to come by today because, in order to achieve them, it will require more effort than you may be prepared to expend.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You must be very careful today to not use methods or procedures that are self-defeating. Make your road smoother, not bumpy.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If there's an obligation you owe a friend, save yourself embarrassment by calling it to his attention before he has to remind you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Associates have a greater influence than usual on your attitude today. Avoid creepahangers. They'll cause you to look at the world through multi-colored glasses.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Unplanned tasks tend to overwhelm you today. Put down the magnifying glass. They're only molehills, not mountains.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) At a social gathering today you may run into one of your less-favorite people. Don't let an old grudge dampen the festivities.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Sidestep volatile issues today that cause sparks between you and your mate. Bring them up could turn the day into a burnout.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Criticizing the work of another will not help his performance. Just the opposite is true. He might lay down his tools and quit.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Because of overspending you won't have the money today to socialize with your pals. Brooding will only make you more unhappy.

YOUR BIRTHDAY May 8, 1978 This coming year several new channels may be open for you that will enable you to add to your earnings. It's possible that something you almost consider a hobby might be one of them.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Take the time to really shop around if you need special services performed. The savings you realize will be considerable. Having trouble selecting a career? Send for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter by mailing 30 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't be hesitant about assuming a leadership role now in your immediate circle. You're the one who is able to get things moving.

CANCER (June 21-July 21) An inner understanding of what will succeed best for you and your family can be achieved at this time. All will attempt to work toward a common goal.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You may hear today about someone who has a strong attraction for you. If you're receptive to a new relationship, this is a good time to begin.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're an excellent strategist today, capable of developing something in a rather mysterious and unique manner that will prove to be of profit.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You'll be in your element if you're involved in some form of group activity. Good things come from rubbing shoulders with the right crowd.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Do a little more detective work in a situation you have suspicions about. Something rather beneficial can be uncovered today.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Discuss important issues today. You're capable of building a fire under others and getting all the needed cooperation.

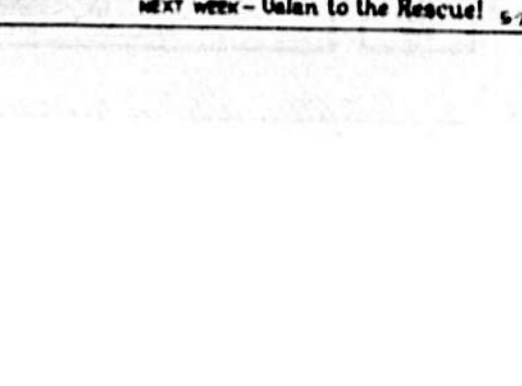

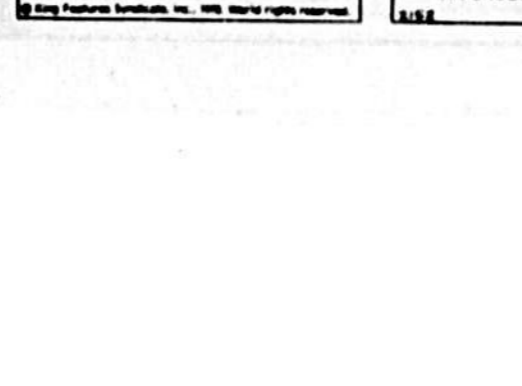

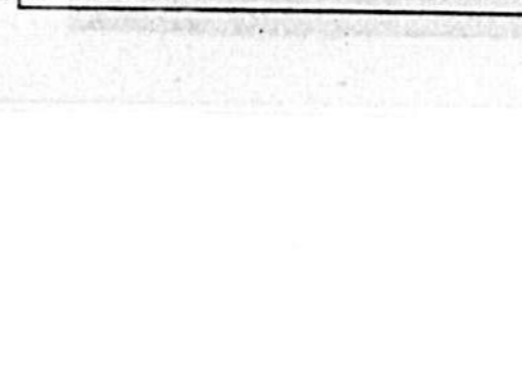

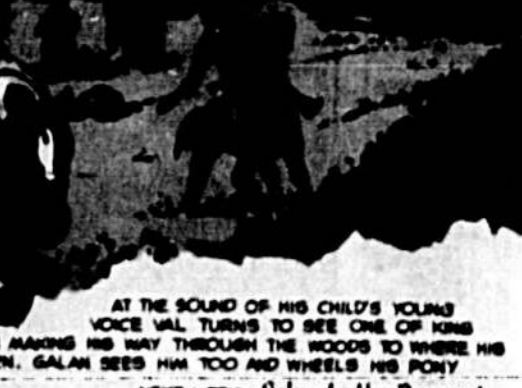

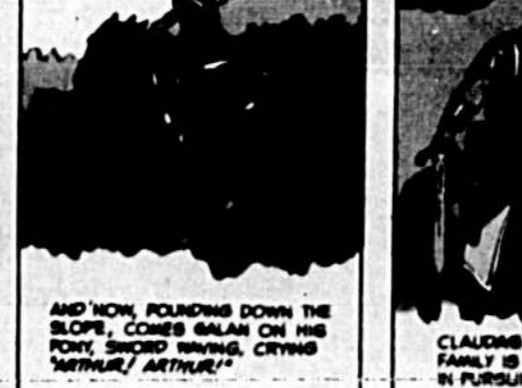

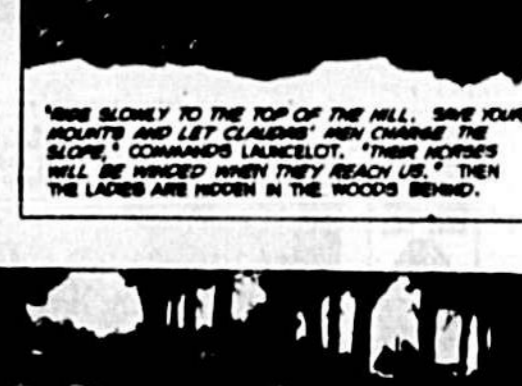

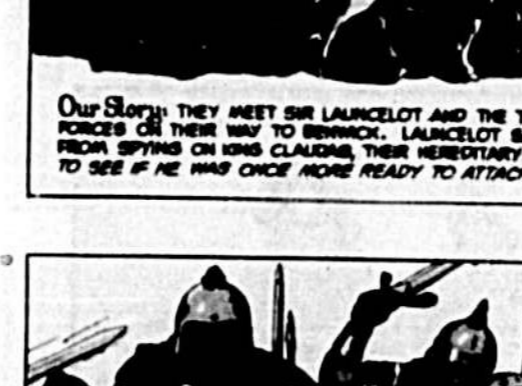

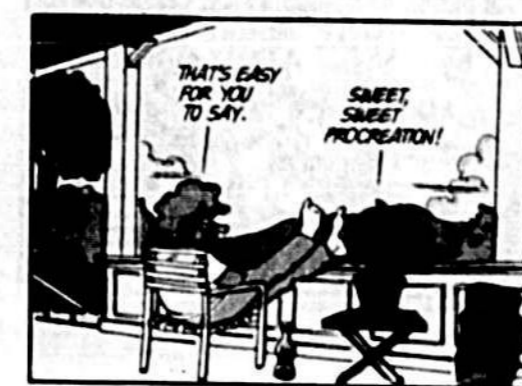

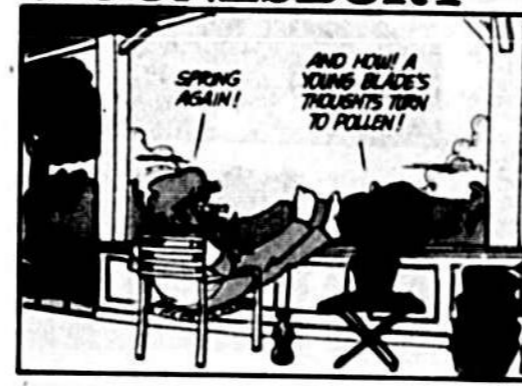

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) This is a good day to make changes you've been considering relative to your work or aims. You'll be able to bring them about most harmoniously.

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

DEAR HELOISE:

When we started to remodel recently, we wanted to take up the carpet tiles. We started pulling them up and it was shocking how much of the foam rubber backing stayed down! After trying a little bit of everything to remove this, my husband came up with a great idea.

We wet a hand towel (old one) real good and put it on the foam rubber. Then heated an iron carpet tiles that have been glued directly to the floor. The "hot-towel" method can be used if these solvents are not available. But we would not recommend using this procedure on hardwood floors as they can easily be damaged by the heat and moisture.

We checked with our friends at AIAA (Association of Interior Decor Specialists) and with their consent would like to pass along their valuable comment: Special solvents are made for the removal of carpets and spreads shortened so they will not drag the floor. Some bed-spreads I have cut off and shortened.

I had the same problem with my own, and my husband had the solution. He purchased two 2 x 4's, just long enough that they could be cut to fit inside the metal rails. Then he nailed the bed slats across, using five for strength.

This platform raised the bed spring and mattress enough for the bedspread to clear the floor. Lots of people

I have a dog and he was always jumping the fence, and the first thing I wanted to do was wrap him. Then I found out that he ran faster away from me and was afraid to come home.

I tried some experiments on him, like walking away from him (not looking back), running from him, sitting on the ground and calling him. They all worked! All he wanted was a little attention.

When I do get him I don't scold, but love and play with him. And a little loving goes a long way.

While visiting my sister recently, I was going to make some ham salad sandwiches out of leftover ham, but she didn't have a meat grinder. So her daughter suggested using the back of the cheese grater.

In Fiscal 75 Audit

Public Defender's Office Hit

By MAX ERKLETTIAN
Herald Staff Writer

The State Auditor General's audit of the 18th Judicial Circuit which criticized billing procedures in the circuit court reporter's office also gave low marks to then Public Defender Frank Kelley's office for record-keeping practices. Kelley serves as an assistant public defender.

Practices criticized in the public defender's office by the audit included:

- Improper collection of debts.
- Failure to control the use of telephones for long distance calls.
- A conflict of interest in the purchase of bookshelves.

—Failure to maintain accounting for the use of state-owned or leased vehicles.

The audit was requested by the Chief Judge of the Circuit Court Joe A. Cowart Jr., according to Robert Syma, assistant auditor general. However, former state attorney Abbott Herring said he also requested an audit.

Herring's office had made an investigation of practices in the public defender's office.

"Our investigation resulted in a request that the state auditor come in and make an investigation," said Herring.

"There were no criminal charges brought and none contemplated prior to the audit and then I never did receive a report and of course I am no longer state attorney," commented

Herring.

The audit covered a period from July 1, 1975 to June 30, 1976. David Porter, the present public defender took office in January 1977. However, the audit was extended to the end of November 1976 in an effort to account for $40 which is still unaccounted for, according to Syma. Syma supervised the audit.

The report noted cash collection of debts owed the public defender's office was "inadequate". It noted receipts were not written for some cash collections and $92 was not "adequately accounted for of record."

A $45 cash collection was not on hand at the public defender's office at the close of the audit and was not accounted for in a bank

You are asked to insert the numbers 1-4 in the remaining pips—clubs, spades and diamonds—so that each number appears just once in each row and in each set of pips, with a sum of 10 in all directions.

It may be worked out with a pencil or playing cards.

'Son Of Sam' Pleading Guilty To Six Murders

NEW YORK (UPI) — David R. Berkowitz today admitted he was the so-called "Son of Sam" murderer and pleaded guilty to the last of the six slayings that brought terror to New York. Sentencing was set for May 22.

It was the first of three guilty pleas scheduled for the day in state Supreme Court in Brooklyn, where the 24-year-old former postal worker was to admit committing six murders and seven attempted murders in Brooklyn, Queens and the Bronx.

Judges from the other two boroughs were ready to hear the pleas in separate sessions.

Standing calmly before Brooklyn Justice Joseph R. Corso — his well-known hair-arms completely suppressed — the blue-jacketed defendant admitted that on July 31, 1977, in the Bensonhurst section of Brooklyn he fired a .44-caliber revolver at both Stacy Moskowitz, 20, and her boyfriend, Robert Violante, 20, as they sat in their parked car.

"I shot them," Berkowitz said, his voice steady and low-pitched.

"How many times?" Corso asked.

"Five times," Berkowitz said.

"Who did you fire at first?" "Stacy Moskowitz."

"Were you particularly after either one?" "No."

"When you aimed the gun at Stacy Moskowitz' head, did you intend to cause her death?" "Yes."

Corso was asking a list of questions designed to satisfy himself and the law that Berkowitz knew what he was doing at the time and the consequences of the act.

The defendant said he knew he was firing a loaded revolver and was aware of the consequences at the moment he fired. "What did you expect?" the judge asked.

DAVID BERKOWITZ

"They would die," Berkowitz answered.

Asked whether his conduct was right or wrong, Berkowitz replied firmly: "It was wrong."

"Are you pleading guilty because you are really guilty?"

'What did you expect?'

'They would die'

Violante was wounded in the shooting, losing an eye. The attack occurred, Berkowitz said, at 2:35 a.m.

Corso said he was satisfied that "the defendant fired a .44-caliber revolver into a car in which Stacy Moskowitz was seated and that he did so with the intent to, and did, cause her death on July 31, 1977."

He also ruled that Berkowitz fired with intent to kill Violante and that during the whole affair "he knew and appreciated" it was wrong according to prevailing standards of morality.

During questioning that disclosed that Berkowitz had aimed at Miss Moskowitz's head, the dead woman's sister, Ricki, 16, pressed a yellow handkerchief to her eyes. Her father Jerry cheered on his finger, and her mother Neysa sat expressionless.

Economic Development Package

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — A House Appropriations subcommittee voted 5-2 today for an economic development package providing industries with roughly $136 million in tax cuts during the next four years.

The bill (no number) exempts businesses and farmers from paying sales and use taxes on pollution control equipment, agricultural equipment and production machinery. It also exempts commercial enterprises from paying taxes on energy.

If passed by the full Appropriations Committee and later the House and Senate, the bill would cost the state $24.1 million in tax revenues next year.

In another action, the House Mental Health and Health subcommittee killed a bill providing free fluoride mouth rinses for grade school children living in areas where the water is not fluoridated.

The bill (hb 1467) lost in a 3-3 vote.

Richard Hodes, D-Tampa, sponsor of the legislation, said fluoride treatments would reduce tooth decay in grade schoolers by 30 to 45 percent each year. But opponents said fluoridation could cause cancer and damage bone tissue.

Tucker wants to tear down the structure, replaced by a modern skyscraper completed several months ago.

Miss Lillian On Carter 'Wart' Book Author: 'Scum'

By HELEN THOMAS
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lillian Carter was so upset over passages in a new book about her family — written by her nephew Hugh Carter Sr. — that she called him "the scum of the earth," the author said today.

The book, "Cousin Beedie and Cousin Hal," is due to be published on Wednesday. It is the work of Carter — the president's cousin — and Frances Spatz Leighton. The book claims to portray the Carters "warts and all."

Hugh Carter Sr., a Georgia state senator from Plains, was interviewed this morning on NBC's "Today Show."

In the book, he refers to Mrs. Carter as "dimwitted" in her treatment of her daughter-in-law, Rosalynn, and he quotes the president's mother as saying of her son: "There's nothing special about Jimmy."

These passages, said Hugh Carter, prompted Miss Lillian to confront him recently before her trip to Copenhagen. "You're the scum of the earth for what you said in your book about me,"

Carter said Miss Lillian told him: "This really hit me in the eye," Carter said, "and I thought to myself, well the truth really hurts."

As for the president's reaction, the author said, "He understands."

But sources close to the first family described them as "upset — unhappy" with some of the book's revelations.

The title comes from the nicknames of the two cousins who grew up together — the president being "Cousin Hal," because his father called him "hotshot," and Hugh being Cousin Beedie because his nurse used to coax him to "beddy-bee, beedie bye."

In the book, Hugh Sr. expresses admiration for first lady Rosalynn Carter.

He says that when Jimmy, Georgia's newly elected governor, and Rosalynn were moving into the governor's mansion in Atlanta in 1971, "Miss Lillian simply went along, too, and cheerfully announced that she would be the acting first lady because Rosalynn wasn't sophisticated or knowledgeable enough to handle it."

"To Rosalynn's credit, she did not cry and carry on or make Jimmy do her fighting for her. She waited until they were both in the kitchen out of Jimmy's earshot and with a voice that was as steady as she could muster, she told her mother-in-law that she fully intended to run her own household but that Miss Lillian could always 'come and visit.'"

"She even dared to tell her that it would be better if she packed and left and came back when things were in better order," the book says.

Of Billy, Hugh Carter says: "I think Billy's new image is unfortunate. Yet I don't know what Jimmy can do or what he should do. Perhaps after Jimmy is out of the White House, he (Billy) can still go into comedy as a serious career."

"But I do believe that the timing is a little wrong."

The book suggests being in the limelight has gone to the head of the president's young daughter, Amy, and "is making her just a bit bratty in that she passes judgment and doesn't hesitate to say that this and that are 'dumb' or show her contempt for various people."

"But she may be saved by the calming influence of Rosalynn," it said.

Of "Cousin Hal" himself, cousin Beedie writes that he was convinced he had done a good job as Georgia's governor: "Like a Crusader, he felt that God was on his side."

On the gossipy side, Hugh Carter says, "The president sleeps in jockey shorts, doesn't like his shirts starched too much, likes polyester suits — they are easy to care for."

GEORGE PROUDFOOT CHECKS PLANS FOR NEW JAIL

New County Jail Tops Agenda Of Former 'Top Cop In Korea'

By LEONARD KRANSDORF
Herald Staff Writer

None can accuse George Proudfoot of not staying around until the very end.

Despite having just completed four years as Seminole County jail administrator and almost 13 years in the field of criminal justice Proudfoot still has one more goal: to see the new county jail in operation.

Proudfoot has been hired to work as a $50-a-month consultant on the new county jail. He has turned over his jail administrator duties to Capt. Max Stewart.

Proudfoot has started his preliminary work but his duties will become more acute once the bids for the jail are opened May 18. The new jail is expected to cost in the neighborhood of $8.5 million and will house about 200 inmates.

But, coping with the responsibility and the tough decisions that will surround the new jail's construction, will be nothing new to the man who has served in the U.S. Army for almost 30 years — most of which was with some area of criminal justice.

Sitting in his office in the old Masonic Lodge on Park Avenue, Proudfoot reflected on his Army career which began during W.W. II in the Infantry.

Proudfoot received his first taste of the criminal justice system when in 1949 he was assigned to the military police in Germany. After that stint, he was transferred to posts at Ft. Gordon, Georgia, and then spent a year as an advisor to the Thai army.

After another year back in the U.S. at Ft. Meade, Maryland, Proudfoot was transferred in 1961 to
