Officials Deny Reds Get Army Commissions

McCloy, Gen. Bissell Say They Never Will Loyalty Is Key Test

WASHINGTON, Mar. 5. (AP)—The War Department officials who advised military commanders recently that Communists could become commissioned officers so long as their loyalty to the United States was unquestioned, said today that there are no "Red" officers in the Army, and that there won't be.

Assistant Secretary of War John J. McCloy and Major General Clayton L. Bissell, assistant chief of staff in charge of Army intelligence and counter-intelligence, testified before a House Military Affairs subcommittee inquiring into charges that War Department regulations permitted the commissioning of subversives.

But, they asserted time and again, War Department policy has been, is and will continue to be based fundamentally upon loyalty, not what a candidate's past persuasions were. And that test, Mr. McCloy said, "applies equally to Communists, Anarchists, to adherents of Nazism, Fascism or the divinity of the Japanese Emperor."

The inquiry was ordered by Chairman Andrew J. May, Democrat of Kentucky, after publication of what purported to be a new Army directive governing commissions. Mr. McCloy and General Bissell confirmed joint authorship of directives issued Feb. 5, 1944, and Dec. 30 of the same year pertaining to commissioning of subversives. But, they said, the directives were issued because field commanders demanded a "yardstick" to measure Communism. Their frequently complaint was, "What is a Communist and what do we do about it?" To R. Ewing Thomson, Democrat of Texas, subcommittee chairman, and other members, General Bissell disclosed that some 100,000 investigations of suspected subversive activities have been made since Pearl Harbor.

"Considering the size of the Army, the cases of disaffection have been very few," he said. "Of all the cases investigated, about 2,500 were checked on basis of 'Communist affiliation.'"

"How many discharges resulted from these investigations of suspected Communists?" Mr. Thomson asked.

"Only two," General Bissell replied. "How many courts martial resulted?"

"None," he answered. "How many were dismissed out of other members asked?"

"Not very many. Most of them were found not guilty, but they were taken out of 'sensitive positions' anyway."

General Bissell said that many reports alleging Communist or other affiliations came from "jealous or vicious persons." He said he would not tolerate a former Communist or subversive in his department, and he added:

"Any one who tries to talk Communism in our Army today is in for a lot of trouble. There are a great many red-blooded men around who just won't stand for it."

Both Mr. McCloy and General Bissell insisted that the reason for the Army's secrecy on the Communist directives was that publication would have disclosed the procedures and tests applied to officer candidates. Such information would be extremely valuable to the enemy and would encourage the subversive themselves to cover up more skillfully, they said.

Both vehemently denied reports that some one in the War Department was destroying the records of one-time Communists who are being commissioned.

Tough Colonel Of Marines Is Philosophical

By LOYD BRADY AP Newsfeatures

CHICAGO—Col. Evans F. Carlson is soft-spoken, thoughtful, chooses his words carefully—and looks as if he'd be more at home discussing philosophy than leading a Marine raider battalion at such places as Makin Island or Guadalcanal.

Yet somehow this man, who looks a bit like the traditional concept of a Yankee but who has won 21 decorations in this war, has managed to combine a good deal of philosophic thought with a life of action. He is an apt to discuss the Chinese philosophy of Gung Ho or Ying-Yang, possibly in the native tongue.

Gung Ho as he explains it, is the philosophy of cooperation, Ying-Yang that of the essential dualism of all things. "Gung Ho," he said, shepherd—his somewhat— "is the reason, I think, why the Raiders were so successful. It is working together—teamwork. Every man knew his job and did it. When someone got into a jam, there always was someone else to help out."

Japanese Second-Rate He termed the Japanese army "fundamentally second-rate because the individual soldier is not taught to think for himself. Consequently when he runs into a situation not provided for in his instructions, he tends to go to pieces."

However, Col. Carlson's primary interest is not applied military tactics, despite the fact that he is a professional soldier. It is "just plain human beings."

"They're pretty much alike the world over," the Colonel says. "People want pretty much the same things and whether they're in China or the United States, I think I learned that when I was in Nicaragua. Once those people learned to trust me, I learned a lot. Certainly lots of them needed a bath. But they also needed food and shelter and affection—even as you and I."

He scratched his chin meditatively with his good arm, his right one is minus a piece of bone, removed without benefit of surgery by a Japanese machine gun on Saipan.

"It's a little hard to think back," he continued, "to discover why I think as I do. I suppose my father (a free-thinking New England Congregationalist minister) had a great deal to do with it."

"I was always digging into his books," he said, "and was grateful to give me responsibility."

"And I learned a lot in the Army (he enlisted at 16) which was a pretty tough place in those days."

He tells of attempting to converse with the Nicaraguans with the aid of a traveler's dictionary. He finally mastered the Spanish and thinks that his refusal to use an interpreter aided materially in gaining the trust of the people. But his pretty wife, Peg, insists it was due to his sense of fairness and justice.

"Applied Humanity" In any case from then on the Colonel turned his attention away from his books and more to what might be called "applied humanity." He watched people in Panama, the United States, Cuba, China, the Philippines.

In China he spent two years learning the language, then planned to get into the interior with the Eighth Route Army which he characterized as "so-called Communist but actually democratic."

"I wanted to see this army in action because it was the only Chinese army that would whip the Japanese at that time."

Yet perhaps the best index to Carlson's character is the story he tells of the Marine landing on Tarawa. He describes vividly the scene, how one force of Marines piled from their barges, formed skirmish lines in neck-deep water and finally managed to win their way to the beach.

despite heavy casualties. He doesn't say that he was on the beach ahead of them.

American 3rd Army Routs Nazis Within 15 Miles Of Rhine

(Continued From Page One) miles east of Berlin and "establish further attacking bases" against the Nazi capital, the German high command reported. Moscow said the Soviets were sweeping across Wolin, the first of the stepping stone islands in Stettin bay to the north in a push designed to cut off Stettin from the sea.

The Reds captured Willin, 28 miles north of Stettin. Berlin said the Russians threw seven successive attacks at Keustrin's north-eastern defenses but claimed they were repulsed.

The Supreme Allied Headquarters announced the capture of the bomb-blackened Rhine area said this only sporadic fighting continued last night in Cologne's southern outskirts.

(A broadcast from London reported by the National Broadcast Correspondent Company quoted BIC Correspondent Frank Gillard as reporting the Hohenzollern bridge at Cologne was still standing yesterday and open to foot traffic).

Thus, Germany's fourth largest city and the greatest energy industrial center that has so far capitulated was in Allied hands on the twelfth day of the powerful offensive from the Rhine.

Since the start of the shattering attack from east of captured Koblenz at dawn yesterday, Patton's armored forces had captured more than 1,500 Germans, including a corps commander, and reached a point only 20 miles from the Rhine. Tonight tanks led by Brig. Gen. Holmes Dager of Union, N. J. were reported Representative M. H. Smith, reporting for the good roads committee, expressed confidence that the Road 65 project from the Titusville bridge to the Lake county line would go forward rapidly and said State Engineer J. Dowling would be here next week to discuss this and other road matters.

W. A. Leffer pointed out the need of securing more industries here in the post-war period, especially for the purpose of employing returned veterans.

There was considerable discussion as to how to provide taxi or bus facilities to take care of persons who arrive at the Sanford depot at night and find they have no conveyance to take them to town. Volle Williams, operator of a taxi line, suggested that if the taxi office could be notified by the railroad 15 minutes before arrival of trains, they would be able to furnish taxi service to incoming passengers. Otherwise, he pointed out, varying schedules of trains coming in would not permit taxis to await their arrival.

Women's College To Give Concert TALLAHASSEE, Mar. 7. (Special) The Florida State College for Women here, which has been much in the news for participation in the Governor's inauguration and other events, will give its first concert of the year on March 8 at 8:15 p. m. at the college's Westcott Auditorium.

The band, under the direction of its Russian-born conductor Frank Szyka, will present music of many nations at the concert, which will be opened with presentation of colors by the band's color guard and the playing of the National Anthem.

A French march, "Father of Victory," will be played as a salute to the armies of the United Nations for their recent victories, and a corps of marching girls will drill during the number. Current world events will again enter the picture when "The Caribbean Fantasy," a new composition based on intricate Latin American rhythms, is played in recognition of the Pan-American Union conference now in progress in Mexico City. China, too, will be celebrated with "In a Chinese Temple Garden" by a composer from another allied nation, Great Britain.

Jean Hitchcock Serogin, director of the FSCW demonstration school band and a FSCW alumna who was one of the founders of the college band, will be guest conductor in an arrangement of the popular song "Deep Purple." The string, "There's Something About a Soldier" will close the concert.

Session has been suspended, but we feel that it is our patriotic duty to cooperate with all government authorities engaged in shortening and winning the war. Dr. Harvatt also said that all State Elks Associations have been instructed to refrain from holding meetings that are not strictly in line with the letter and spirit of Mr. Byrnes' request.

State Board Begins Drive To Control Malaria Mosquito

(Special) The State Board of Health this week announced the long-awaited availability of massive DDT to be used in the control of malaria bearing mosquitoes. Launching a brand new type of campaign with U.S. Public Health Service personnel and finances set aside by Congress for the protection of civilians against malaria, the program gets under way in Citrus county this week, according to Dr. Harlan P. Under, director of the State's bureau of Malaria Control.

For the first time, individual homes will have mosquito control treatment. In the past, activities have been confined to drainage ditches, and the use of larvicides and insecticide sprays. However, in this revolutionary program, trained crews with complete equipment to handle the precision DDT will work from house to house with cooperation of the homeowner.

The first section of the State to receive the benefits of the demonstration program includes the counties beginning with Citrus and extending north along the limestone belt—most of which have contributed to the malaria rate, and where mepheline mosquitoes are to be found. In some cases entire counties will receive the DDT service, while in others only those homes in heavily breeding sections will be sprayed.

Community group meetings will be held to instruct housewives in the part they are asked to play in the program. Because of the long and arduous nature of the work, as well as shortage of personnel, many of the homes to be included in the program as soon as sufficient supplies are released by the War Production Board.

It was asserted that DDT, in this manner of administering it, is believed to be a feasible control for scattered communities, where ordinary practices of mosquito control are economically impractical.

Community group meetings will be held to instruct housewives in the part they are asked to play in the program. Because of the long and arduous nature of the work, as well as shortage of personnel, many of the homes to be included in the program as soon as sufficient supplies are released by the War Production Board.

It was stressed that DDT is not instantaneous in its destruction of insects. Nor is it a repellent. It is sprayed on the walls of the room, and the mosquitoes must pick up the insecticide on their bodies. It is not absorbed from the air. Nor does it offer a permanent protection. However, it is believed to be strong enough to kill mosquitoes, silver fish, snakes, and other reptiles, and ticks as long as three or four months after it is administered.

Another emphasis was that DDT is not recommended as a panacea for, nor has it any advantage over well screened houses. In fact, in order to spread the supply, it is possible that many screened houses will be bypassed in the program. It was added that there will be inspection follow-ups of the sprayed premises during the mosquito breeding season.

WINS SCHOLARSHIP DEATH, Ga., Mar. 7. (Special) Miss Dorothy Morrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Morrison of Sanford, has been named winner of a $300 scholarship in the annual Agnes Scott college competitive scholarship contest. The award was made by Dr. J. R. McCain, president of the college.

Miss Morrison is a student at Semolee high school where she is news editor and managing editor of the newspaper, literary editor of the yearbook, an officer in the art club and in the Girls' Club, and member of the glee club and the orchestra. She is also active in school athletics.

Awards in the scholarship contest were made on the basis of the contestant's high school record, the results of an aptitude test, student activities in school, church and community, recommendations and an essay of 1,000 words.

Major Ralph G. Moye Serves In Germany

(Special) Major Ralph G. Moye, 6th Army Group, France, Mar. 7. (Special) Still the great kuler of the enemy and at the same time the protector of its own infantry, a Field Artillery Battalion of the 42nd American Infantry Division is dropping accurate, sustained and concentrated fire on German personnel, defenses and other targets in the French Alps along the Franco-Italian border.

As part of Lt. Gen. Jacob L. Devers' 6th Army Group, the battalion which includes in its personnel Major Ralph G. Moye of Sanford, Fla. is providing protective fire for infantry patrols working their way through the mountain passes into German positions by demolishing enemy resistance and attempted ambushes.

In the treacherous mountain terrain, forward observers have a very tough responsibility. They must spot enemy concentrations, machine gun emplacements, mortar, sub-machine gun, pillbox and anything else that might hinder the advancing patrols. Then they must request and direct artillery fire upon those objectives, regulating the accuracy and amount of fire.

The accuracy of the battalion's fire is second to none. In the Italian campaign the battle for a strategic hill near the "Little Casino" line north of Rome, the battalion accounted for more than 400 enemy soldiers. An artillery officer visited the battleground later and found more than 120 dead Germans, all killed by artillery, within a circle of 200 yards. Other experts described it as "the best firing we have ever seen."

Carrying its well-established reputation from Italy to France, the battalion contributed much to the 42nd's rescue of the now famous "Lost Battalion" of the 36th Division. Not only did it support the infantry continuously, but its forward observers also played a big part in the dramatic rescue. One observer led a platoon of doughboys up a heavily defended slope and helped cut the Nazis from that key position.

Another forward observer has fired more than 75,000 rounds since going into action.

Major Smith is a member of the European Theater of Operations, 313th Troop Carrier Group.

The U.S. Troop Carrier Force, headed by Maj. Gen. Paul L. Williams, fourth air Component of Lt. Gen. Lewis H. Sgt. Smith entered military service in June 1942. He is a graduate of Benjamin Franklin High School, Tampa, Florida, class of 1937. Prior to his entering the service he was employed as a clerk by the Atlantic Coast Line R.R. in Sanford, Florida.

"Our homes are the greatest institution if we have the understanding of parents in regard to their children," she said.

Judge Farmer was introduced by Mrs. Julius Dingfelder who stressed the need of mental and moral hygiene in equipping children for better citizenship.

Supt. T.W. Lawton followed Judge Farmer's talk by asserting that there is too much "craziness" or outside recreational plans for youth in our social set-up. Children should have the social companionship of their parents, he pointed out. He cited statistics showing that there were very few cases of juvenile delinquency among children who attended Sunday School regularly.

Man, 70, Saves Child And Dies Of Heart Attack

Bethel Hatter Disregards Ill Health As Girls Fall Thru Ice

BETHEL, Conn., Mar. 7. (AP)—Seventy-year-old John Eckert disregarded a doctor's warning against unusual exertion Saturday and sacrificed his life to save an eight-year-old girl, Phyllis Morcy, from drowning in a pond near his home on Maple Avenue. Mr. Eckert collapsed and died of a heart ailment soon after fishing the little girl from the icy water. Phyllis, who lives half a mile away from Mr. Eckert's place, ventured onto the thin ice of the small pond with a companion, Florence Worth, ten, about 6:30 p.m. last night. The ice gave away beneath their weight and they fell through about ten yards from the bank.

Mr. Eckert, working in his garage, heard a neighbor woman scream for help for the two girls. He seized a 15-foot apple pike and ran the hundred yards to the pond. The elder girl had managed to swim ashore, but the other child was still floundering in the deep water.

Wading out into the water up to his waist, Mr. Eckert hooked the child's dress with the apple pike and pulled her to safety.

According to Dr. H. Frank Moore, medical examiner, Mr. Eckert had been undergoing treatment for a heart ailment and was prohibited by his doctor from violent activity. The exertion and excitement of the rescue were too much for him. He collapsed

Vegetable Prices Drop Below Cost Of Production

LAKELAND, Mar. 7. (Special)—Sales prices of many Florida vegetables, for the first time this season, have dropped below the cost of production, with indication that even lower prices may be looked for during the coming months, it was revealed by tabulations of the Florida Vegetable Committee this week.

This serious turn of events in Florida vegetable industry, according to LaMonte Graw, committee manager, is giving growers a foretaste of what they may experience after the war unless drastic steps are taken to modernize the entire process of growing, processing and marketing.

Graw cited a number of reasons as being responsible for the critical situation that has developed and he stressed far beyond temporary, emergency measures to find adequate remedy for conditions that, in his opinion, are bound to recur unless basic improvement is made.

"Supplies of cabbage, tomatoes, snap beans and other commodities have exceeded the demand for much of the month of February, and even lower prices may be expected during the coming months, but this is attributed to the national shortage of lettuce. The Irish potato is the only major commodity which is selling at or near ceiling.

There are various reasons for the over-supply. Plantings of all commodities have been heavy, spurred on by reports of national shortages, and the willingness of the farmer to produce all he can. A disastrous fall season has been followed by excellent winter weather, which promises not only a bumper crop on the lower East Coast, but is boosting the estimates of spring yields. If labor is available to harvest the crops, and cars to transport them, Florida farmers face the prospect of selling much of their production at less than inflated war costs.

Consumer purchases have been lower than national agencies predicted. Cold weather has retarded the demand for fresh foods, but the failure of OPA to keep consumer prices in line with OPA prices has probably been the principal factor. Snap beans, for example, are being sold at 10 cents a bushel, but the cost of production is 12 cents.

Mr. Eckert was a battery employee of the Mohawk Hat Company of Bethel, Conn., and his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Eckert, and a son, Frederick, of Danbury, Conn., were with him.

Saturday Night Business Drops On Broadway

50 To 60% Cut Reported By Night Clubs; Patrons Grumbling

NEW YORK CITY, Mar. 7. (AP)—Business dropped to one-half to two-thirds of normal on the first Saturday night of the mid-week curfew in the Times Square and midtown areas, cafe and restaurant managers reported.

One of the hardest hit appeared to be Leon and Fidler on Fifty-second Street, east of Sixth Avenue. Leon Enken, co-owner, told reporters that on an average Saturday night, 1,400 persons swam the average crowd.

"Tonight," he said, "we were lucky to get 700." Week-day business, he estimated, was off 10 per cent. He also observed that considerable grumbling among patrons, especially young men who seemed to resent their inability to get a drink and a sandwich after midnight.

Turnover is slight.

Capacities were the same, but the curtailed time prevented the turnover that make a full Saturday night's business.

"Taken home by home" explained Gigi Avonzo, food manager at the Latin Quarter, 200 West Forty-eighth Street, "business is as good as ever. But the turnover is off about 50 per cent. The cafe's average Saturday night patronage is 1,800, last night would be 1,200 or less, he said.

At the Cafe Zanzibar, Broadway near Forty-eighth Street, Carl Erbe, co-owner, estimated that his loss last week was $10,000, and he expected the decline to be worse, with patronage dropping from a pre-war average of 4,300 to 1,400 at the Cafe Zanzibar.

At the Village Business 100 West 42nd Street, the manager, Jack Dempsey's Restaurant, on Broadway, declined to estimate the week's loss, but said that it was substantial.

Snake Hunters Start Warning Is Issued On Week's Expedition

SHALE SPRINGS, Mar. 7. (Special)—What promises to be one of the most interesting unusual snake hunting expeditions ever staged in Florida, under way at Miami early today when a group headed by Dr. Allen of the Florida Department of Health, set out on a week's trek that will take them to the swamps of the Everglades.

The party, headed by Allen, includes Lt. Condit John Maloney, retired author now residing here; George Morabont, telephone businessman; Marshall Bishop, Allen's Miami representative, and two other men.

Maloney will be gathering material for future stories on the life of the Agouty murrelet.

Morabont, an enthusiastic amateur cameraman, will photograph the expedition, while Bishop and the other two men will assist with the snakes that are to be captured.

For the trip into the Everglades, the Allen party is using two of the famed "Everglades bogies," especially built for use in swampy areas.

The party headed into the swamps from Ochoyopy, but, unless some unusual animals or birds make their appearance and can be captured, it will confine its activities to capturing as many snakes as possible.

Allen indicated that he was heading for spots never before visited by white persons, and that it may take 36 hours to travel 15 or 20 miles.

He anticipates a record haul of poisonous snakes of all types, and expects to be back here Saturday night.

He may be greeted upon arrival here by 30 Egyptian cobras which are to be "milked" for their venom now in great demand. It will be the largest shipment of cobras ever seen in the south, Allen said.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

RIGHTEOUSNESS IS NOT REPRESSION, IT RATHER IS ENORMOUS EXPANSION, WHICH CROWDS OUT EVIL, DOUBT AND FEAR: Let the heart of them rejoice that seek the Lord.—Ps. 105:3.

The Census Bureau in Washington publishes a 245 page volume on "The Fertility of Women." The newspaper problem has really become acute.

A Daytona Beach night club operator has been found shot to death in his own home in true "Crime Doctor" style. Jimmy Brynes' midnight crew to the contrary notwithstanding.

We see where Henry Miller, shipbuilding magnate and head of the "Little Businessmen for Roosevelt Club," had net profits of $27,000,000 last year after taxes and renegation of contracts which were supposed to absorb most excess profits. No wonder he's a "businessman for Roosevelt," but we don't see where the "Little" comes in.

How many motorists in Florida know that in the event of a puncture, they are supposed to pull off the highway—all four wheels off the pavement—before stopping to change the tire. That is the law and it may get you into trouble with the State Highway Patrol if you do not obey. As a matter of fact, in these days of rapidly depreciating tires and equipment, it might be a good idea for everyone to get a copy of highway rules and regulations and find out just what they are supposed to do under any and all circumstances.

Not including returning war veterans, Orlando will need twice the hospital facilities it now has after the war is over, says Martin Anderson in the Orlando Sentinel. After the war Sanford will need four times the hospital facilities it now has since it already needs twice those now available. But hospitals cannot be built without money and providing the wherewithal is something which city and county commissioners, as well as other civic leaders, should now be planning. The federal government, to which we have become accustomed to go with our hands out, will have its hands full trying to take care of veterans.

Efforts will be made in the next session of the Legislature to tighten restrictions on the sale of "sleeping pills." Statistics show that billions of these presumably harmless capsules are sold to the American public every year, but no adequate records are kept of the harm they do. From Miami, however, comes a report that 12 persons were killed last year in one county alone from an overdose of sleeping pills. Not everyone ever takes an "over-dose," but thousands become slaves to this habit, never able to sleep without them, made dopey, irritable and sticky by day. Curtis Sweet, state drug inspector, says, "All of them are habit-forming drugs—there are 60 different kinds of barbiturates in common use. And all of them are worse than opium. A narcotic fiend goes to sleep. A barbiturate fiend gets all hopped up and is likely to commit a holdup or kill someone."

It is silly, we are told, to think of Sweden as the possible aggressor in the next world war and yet the Swedes once were the aggressors in a war which saw most of Europe brought under their iron heel. But possibly it won't be the Swedes. Possibly it will be the United States, the United States of America, who in 1944 adopted universal military training as a means of being always prepared to prevent future wars, which in 1944 under a water-renting dictator, faced with the prospects of a desperate time depression at home, completely sold the public with its promises on the wisdom and benevolence of developing the resources of South America for the force of arms. If we are to be satisfied, well, may be so. Yet out of all of our foreign wars, we were the aggressors in three. The War of 1812, the Spanish-American War and the World War.

Tennis Hall of Fame

Baseball has its Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N.Y. Why not tennis? This suggestion, made by William A. Fischer, veteran enthusiast of the game, is backed by the United States Lawn Tennis Association. Forest Hills, N.Y., the scene of many famous matches, is proposed as a suitable site.

Only deceased players and persons who have contributed to the game would be eligible. This would admit such old masters as Malcolm D. Whitman and W.A. Larned; also Little Bill Johnston, Tilden's side-partner; but it would leave the recent game very scantily represented.

The baseball Hall of Fame does not require death as a condition of admission, merely retirement from the game. This would bring in the stars of a few years ago like Vines and Budge, also the master of them all, Big Bill Tilden who in his 50s can still give the ablest a battle. Then there is Dwight F. Davis, former secretary of war and donor of the Davis Cup for international supremacy.

It would be a gracious gesture to admit famous players of other countries who have proved their worth on American courts. Cochet and Borotra of France, Anderson, Patterson and Hawkes of Australia, Karel Kosek of Czechoslovakia, Fred Perry and the other many English stars, all have sufficient quality for entry. As tennis is an international game, far more than baseball, there might well be special panels for other stars than American.

Also what about the women? Helen Wills and Helen Jacobs, to name only two, would make things interesting for almost any man.

John Bull

There are still many Americans who dislike the British. It is a prejudice which seems to be based partly on the fact we once fought a war against them—or even a war and a half, if the unpleasantness of 1812 is counted. But since that time we seem to have got along "not too badly," as an Englishman or Canadian would say. A peace that has lasted for nearly a century and a half, along with a great deal of friendly cooperation from time to time, is something to remember in a shaky world.

Most of our people, largely from historical precedent, are still somewhat inclined to a "show-me" attitude where ever John Bull is concerned. But discerning Americans have learned that in time of trouble, especially in distant parts of the world, John is generally ready and eager to lend a helping hand. Such practice is reciprocal. Both sides have learned by experience that we're more like each other, not only in our language and traditions but in our general attitude toward the world, than we are like any other nation.

These simple but sometimes forgotten facts come to mind rather reassuringly, with Prime Minister Churchill's renewed guarantee to President Roosevelt that just as soon as our two nations have licked the Germans, his government will turn around and "throw everything it has at the Japs" to help us clear the world of that pest. There need be no doubt that the pledge will be kept, as a matter of honor and mutual benefit.

Jimmy Foxx Returns

Jimmy Foxx is getting a new try in major league baseball. The famous old slugger is back in Philadelphia once more, but with the Phillies; not his old team, the Athletics. Manpower shortage has given him this new chance after several years' absence from the game. As with most aging athletes, his legs may not be up to standard, but he should still have the same old keen eye and muscular power that made him a hitter second only to Babe Ruth. Even were he an ordinary player, he would be remembered for the unusual spelling of his name. Sports writers who, at the start of his career, gave him only one "x", were soon corrected. Originality in names is not easy to attain, but the husky Marylander's monicker will not be beaten until some one thinks up a name ending in two q's.

Too Late To Classify

My good friend Editor Earl Sellers of the Washington County News, Chipley, pounced on me with hob-nail boots in his last issue, not for what I did say, but because of a lot of things I failed to say about Chipley and Washington County in my recent column dealing with my swing through West Florida. Reading that particular column over, I can appreciate how Earl felt and I can't say that I blame him, for it's a fact I didn't give his section much more than what the clipping bureau term "mere mention," but it certainly wasn't intentional. You see there is a whole lot of territory between Tallahassee and Pensacola, with a score of lively progressive communities any one of which would provide ample material for a lengthy feature article. If a fellow had time to gather it and space to publish it, but I covered the territory in that column like it was covered on my trip, EAST. About all I can say to Earl is what MacArthur said when he left the Philippines, "I'll be back." — I sure will, Earl, and while I realize now that it would be impossible to do Chipley or any other community justice in a single column, I'll see to it we at least go beyond the "mere mention" stage. And that goes, too, for all the other towns out there that may have galvanized the impression that I deliberately slighted them. — Anyhow, even my feeble remarks about the area did some good for Editor Carl Hanton of the Ft. Myers News-Press told me that he had forgotten there was such a section of Florida until he read my column and he ran it on his editorial page. I haven't had a chance to look over all the other West Florida papers and it may develop that Editor Devans Williams of the Bonifay Advertiser, Editor John Wainlett of the Marianna Floridan, Editors James Griffin and H. C. Storrs of the Duval Springs News, and Herald, Editor W. L. Pickard of the Oklawaha News-Journal and Editor C. W. Mapoles of the Milton Gazette are also gunning for me. I had planned to take my readers on another break-neck jaunt from Tampa to Miami in this week's column but in view of the reaction to my previous travel column, maybe I'd better find another subject, but then the fellows in South Florida are expecting some attention and while I cannot promise each community a "complete illustrated Chamber of Commerce booklet," I'll try and set down a few random impressions for what they are worth, provided it is understood that I'm not trying to tell the WHOLE STORY. I don't know how long it has been since you have traveled Road 5 from Tampa South but I hadn't made the trip since before the war and I was amazed at the development around Ruskin, the tremendous acreage in vegetables, the new packing houses and general hustle and bustle visible from the highway all the distance to Bradenton. The Ruskin-Palmetto area has always been a rich winter vegetable section but it has developed beyond belief in the past few years. I was talking with a farmer and asked him if he had any trouble marketing what he raised. "Nister," he said, "I could sell weeds, if I could get help to harvest 'em."

Stopped to see Editor Russell at the Palmetto News but he was out telling folks how sorry he was he couldn't take any more advertising. The same thing was true at Bradenton, where they told me that Editor Bob Bentley of the Bradenton Herald was taking the afternoon off because he had a cold. In some way I'm gonna quit working for a living and get me a good job publishing a newspaper. At Sarasota, Editor George Lindsay was seated with his hind legs on his desk boxing over an edition of the Herald-Tribune that had just come off the press. There ought to be a law against anybody crashing a "Sanctum Sanctorum" when a guy is all rattled back comfortably like that, but George greeted me cordially and

If I attempted to recount in this column all the things he told me about Sarasota and the surrounding country I wouldn't have to write another column for a year. However, the town is jammed and running over with people. Business is rushing and from what I could gather newcomers are building tree houses. Stopping at Venice, we found a guy who was willing to reach under the counter and smuggle a couple of coca-colas after looking anxiously in both directions, but he swore by all that was holy that he didn't have any cigarettes. The Army Air Force has just about taken the town and winter visitors who failed to heed DDT warnings are wearing out precious shoe leather trying to find a place to stay. Arrived in Punta Gorda just in time to catch Publisher Jordan before he left for his grills and mullin. Like all newspapermen, he was swamped with work and screaming for help. Had a nice visit with Representative Leo Woltzky, the only guy I know who has more jobs than I have. He serves Charlotte County as its representative, teaches school, edits the Punta Gorda Herald, makes out income tax reports for wealthy natives and I think mows lawns between times, anyhow. The boy is plenty smart and whether Floridians know it or not, he is an asset with a capital "A" in Tallahassee. — Sorry, Carl Han-

Top 25 Of Florida 4-H Girls Given $25 War Bonds

TALLHASSEE, Mar. 7. (Special)—State honors in the form of $25 War Bonds have just been awarded to the top 25 Florida 4-H girls from 16 counties, with from $1 to $10 in War Stamps going to 124 other outstanding girls from a total of 31 counties. One other top ranking girl received a gold watch as her prize. The awards are made by Miss Mary E. Keown, state home demonstration agent with Agricultural Extension Service, and her staff of district agents and specialists in place of free trips to the National Club Congress in Chicago early last December. They were made possible by donations from large merchandising concerns in Florida and elsewhere, most of the money being handled by the National Committee for Boys and Girls Club Work. The announcement was made as an opening feature of National 4-H Club Week, March 3-11.

The state honors have emphasized excellence in food production, preparation and conservation, dress making, home grounds improvement and general records and achievement along the 10-000 Florida 4-H club girls, equipped with 25 county home demonstration agents.

War Bonds for their excellent records in food preparation have been sent to Betty J. Rushman of Miami, Doris E. Nowak of Pensacola, Elise Tomas of St. Petersburg, and Ruth Lemon of Barberville, Volusia County. The awards were made by a large refrigerator manufacturer (Service, Inc.).

Top state honors in canning and food preservation have gone to Betty Fletcher of Quincy, Dorothy N. Fisher, Dover, Hillsborough County; Mary Virginia Fountain of Monticello, and Roberta Alford of Grand Ridge, Jackson County. They were given by a large glass manufacturer (Kerr Glass Manufacturing Corporation).

Eight War Bonds were awarded to as many girls with outstanding records in victory gardening, through the courtesy of a large Chicago mail order house (Sears, Roebuck & Co.). They went to Betty Mae Patton of Miami, Evelyn Fletcher of Quincy, Alma Davis of Wevabitchka, Gulf County, Doris Butler of Dover, Evelyn Heuley of Cottontale, Jackson County, Estelle Cone of Madison, Winnie Colea of Bare Beach, Palm Beach County, and Betty Geiger of Geneva, Seminole County.

Winners of top honors in dress making, whose prizes were supplied by a rayon manufacturer (American Viscose Corporation), were Shirley Jones of Brooksville, Barbara McKinney of Miami, Sara Ruth Elkins of Chattahoochee, Gadsden County, and Ruth Largent of Longwood, Seminole County.

For outstanding all-around 4-H records, War Bonds were awarded to Mary R. Miller of Plant City, Joyce Merritt of Mascotte, Lake County, Jeannette Zetrouer of Micanopy, Marion County, and Betty Trevathan of Orlando. Their prizes were donated by another mail order house (Montgomery Ward & Co.).

Faye Smith of Madison, chosen last summer as sponsor of a 4-H club Liberty Ship, the William L. Watson, at ceremonies staged before the launching, was named for a War Bond for her excellent 4-H achievement. Her prize came from the Florida Chain Store Association. Mae Rountree of Hastings received a gold watch given by Mrs. Chas. Wellgren for her record in home grounds beautification.

Money donated by the chain store association, to stimulate 4-H club work and encourage outstanding girls, supplied War Stamps worth from $1 to $10 to 124 other girls in Alachua, Bradford, Broward, Calhoun, Citrus, Clay, Columbia, Duval, Holmes, Leon, Manatee, Polk, Putnam, St. Lucie and Taylor counties.

Seminole County winners include in this group included June and Florence McGill and Betty Yarborough of Sanford, Anna McLain, Doris Phillips and Frances R. LeFils of Geneva, and Dorothy Price of Lake Monroe.

Dredging Lagoon For Port Is Urged By Highleyman

Other Improvements Recommended For Post War Projects

Dredging of a large lagoon to give Sanford ideal port facilities in view of contemplated deepening of the St. Johns River to a depth of 12 feet in the vicinity of a lagoon and a lagoon in the vicinity of the St. Johns River, was urged today by W. R. Highleyman, chairman of the Port Authority.

Highleyman made the following suggestions: "Dredge out a lagoon 300 feet wide and 600 feet long. This lagoon would start at the mouth of the concrete bridge over Mill Creek and extend south to First Street, taking in that property owned by the city and west of Mill Creek and extending west 250 feet."

"The lagoon would be dredged to the depth of the river to be here and back to the city. Concrete piers would be built around the lagoon. At the extreme east and west ends of the concrete pier a railroad spur from the boulevard to First Street. Install a plank bridge over the boulevard long enough to accommodate any freighter that could come down the river. The land west of Mill Creek is low and swampy and the sand dredged from the bottom of the lagoon could be used to level up this property making it more valuable to the city. All of this land as outlined above is owned by the city of Sanford and has never brought in any taxes or income of any kind.

"There would be no entrance to this property from the boulevard."

Home On Leave

W. R. Williams Is Back From Tour Of Duty In Pacific

Home on today leave after 2 1/2 years of active duty with the Sea Bees in the south and south-west Pacific, W. R. Williams, USN, USN, former president and manager of the Cross Road Packing Company, says he found it pleasant to relax and spend time with his family. Williams is presently stationed in a unit with a sister in North Carolina. He is staying at the home of his brother, Police Chief Roy G. Williams, 149 Elliott Avenue.

After selling his interest in the packing firm to Suback Patrick and single Chief "Bill" Williams, Williams joined the Sea Bees on Nov. 22, 1942. He participated in the invasion of the Admiralty Islands and for his share in this campaign received the bronze star on his chest. He also served in New Hebrides, three places in New Guinea and the Marshall Islands. He was returned to Pearl Harbor.

Work of the USN in pugling fine camp shows for the next was a fine factor for keeping up morale, he said. On one of the Admiralty Islands the Sea Bees constructed a fine open air theater and stage where Irving Berlin with his Army cast put on his famous show, "This Is The Army." A large group of men attended, the biggest audience, Berlin declared, he had at that time played to.

At another time Bob Hope and Frances Langford had a big show. Frances was very popular with the men, he said. Another good show was put on by Randolph Scott and Lanny Ross, he added.

He praised the work of the Red Cross overseas, and said that the hits they provided with small articles, such as shaving and sewing materials were much appreciated by the men.

NEW YORK, Mar. 9. (AP)—A New American army, the 15th, has gone into action on the western front as part of Gen. Omar Bradley's 12th Army Group, an N.Y. broadcast from the front reported today.

American First Army troops today poured across the Rhine River into a second bridgehead in virtually unbroken columns and fanned out on the east bank.
