Police chief placement on hold

SANFORD — An interim police chief, to replace Steve Harriett, who has resigned to take a position with the Seminole County Sheriff's Office, will not be named until after the Sanford city elections on Dec. 8.

Harriett will serve as chief of police until the end of the year.

Mayor Bettye Smith said that the decision of who will replace Harriett, even temporarily, must be made by the full city commission.

"It's not a decision for me to make," Smith said. "It is something that the commission has to meet on and discuss."

The city commission will meet again on Monday, Dec. 14.

"Any decision will have to wait until then," Smith said.

Arson arrest made

Cops nab 1 teen, 2 more linked in school fire

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Two more arrests are expected to follow the arrest Wednesday of a 17-year-old Casselberry youth in the April 11, 1991 arson of Tuskawilla Middle School.

Seminole County sheriff's spokesman George Procehel said the whereabouts of the 15-year-old and 17-year-old suspects are known. Sheriff's investigators are completing a review of the case with state attorneys before charges will be filed and arrests made, Procehel said. The 15-year-old is in a mental health facility, said Procehel. He declined to name the location.

The 17-year-old youth was arrested at his home yesterday, said Procehel. Charged with arson and burglary, the youth was taken to the Seminole County jail where he was booked, then transferred to the Seminole County Juvenile Detention Center.

The pre-dawn fire last year resulted in $3 1/2 million in damage to the school buildings and cost another $1.5 million to replace furniture, said Pat Zeull, assistant school principal. All but $100,000 was paid by the school district's insurance carriers. The deductible was paid from school general funds.

Nearly all of the school structure was damaged by the fire which left only the gymnasium and 11 portable classrooms untouched.

The nearly 1,400 Tuskawilla students were SANFORD — They came in empty vans and U-Haul trucks and station wagons.

This morning, a large truck arrived in Sanford from the Jackson, Ohio packing facility of Luigino's Inc., makers of Michelina's frozen foods. The truck was bearing Sanford resident Jeno Paulucci's $50,000 holiday gift to Central Florida: 55,000 frozen Michelina's food dinners. The Heathrow developer donated the entres to area organizations who in turn, will distribute and serve them to the area's needy and homeless.

Among the recipients were Sanford Christian Sharing Center, The Boys and Girls Club of Central Florida, Rescue Outreach Mission of Sanford and Salvation Army of Sanford. Other meals will be distributed in Orlando and Melbourne.

Lake Mary taps new cop chief

LAKE MARY — It's all settled, city manager John Litton said, but the naming of the new Lake Mary Police Chief won't be official until the city commission votes on it tonight.

Richard Beary, commander of operations for the Altamonte Spring Police Department, was chosen by Litton to fill the spot left vacant when Charles Lauderdale resigned earlier this year.

"It was a tough choice," Litton said. "There were so many qualified applicants."

Litton said, however, that Beary was his first choice for the top law enforcement job in Lake Mary.

Scouts cool protest of camp sale

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

GENEVA — Local Boy Scout leaders will cool their protest against a decision by Central Florida governing board members to sell Camp David Hedrick.

In turn, the assistant scoutmaster of Geneva's Troop 837 said Tuesday sale protesters will focus on raising up to $200,000 for immediate scouting needs.

Dave Young, assistant leader of the troop, said he will contact each of the 59 directors of the Executive Board of the Central Florida Council of the Boy Scouts of America asking for a special meeting to consider a 90-day delay of the sale of Camp Hedrick.

If directors consent to the meeting and approve the delay, Young said he and troop scoutmaster Bob Hughes will organize about 300 scout leaders, scouts and others to raise the money needed for repairs. Although Young admits to having a new focus of efforts following a meeting with scout executive Wayne Brock last month, the goal remains the same.

"The rules have changed but the goal is the same," said Young. "We are all in the scouting family and we should work together to resolve their problems."

In September, scout leaders authorized the sale of the camp and other scout-owned land to raise money for needed improvements

Flood's aftermath

Rain-damaged home may soon be repaired

SANFORD — It has taken more than a year, but Jack Marotta said the wheels have finally been put in motion to keep the rain from filling Ada Dennis' house with water every time it rains.

Dennis' house, which is near Southwest Road in the Goldsboro section of Sanford, was built in 1934.

The two story wood house is painted a cheery pink, but it has fallen into some disrepair over the years. The wood is worn and cracking, screens are a bit tattered.

But it is home to Dennis, who is 113 years old and her son Leslie Gager, 76.

Last week as Sanford splashed through 10 inches of rain in the streets, Gager stomped through several inches of rain inside the house. In rubber boots, he walked the house all night filling buckets with water and dumping them out.

Except for a short stint in a nursing home, Dennis has lived in that house for nearly 60 years. She has no desire to leave the home for a drier building. She wants her house fixed.

"I want to live here and I want to die here," she said recently.

Marotta, a Seminole County Community Development specialist, said that he has put Plane crash kills pilot

YORK — A plane crashed into a peanut field here about 3 1/2 miles from the Ocala Municipal Airport, killing the pilot of the single-engine Cessna.

Officials did not know the pilot's flight plan. He was dead when Marion County sheriff's deputies arrived at about 4:30 p.m. Wednesday.

"It looked like he was headed in a southerly direction and hit about 100 yards from where he came to rest," said sheriff's Sgt. Robert Douglas.

His name was not immediately released pending notification of relatives.

The Cessna 152 is owned by the National Aviation Academy in St. Petersburg. A spokesman for the academy late Wednesday declined to release any information on the school or the pilot.

Authorities were alerted to the crash when the Gainesville Regional Airport reported receiving a locator beacon signal from near the Ocala airport about 3:30 p.m. A helicopter pilot later spotted the wreck.

Exiled president to address parliament

MIAMI — Exiled Haitian president Jean-Bertrand Aristide will address the opening of parliament Dec. 15 in St. Vincent and the Grenadines, Prime Minister James Mitchell said.

"I'm giving him a forum," Mitchell said in an interview Wednesday at the Conference on the Caribbean.

He said he invited Aristide as a show of concern over the continued situation in Haiti. Aristide, the nation's first freely elected president, was overthrown more than a year ago.

Saliva test may aid in detecting virus

GAINESVILLE — A University of Florida veterinarian who developed a saliva-based test for the AIDS virus says the same method shows promise for detecting hepatitis B viral infections.

Dr. Roger Clemmons, an associate professor with the UF College of Veterinary Medicine, sees the test's greatest potential as a screening tool.

"We could prevent the disease by vaccinating ... unexposed people so they become immune," Clemmons said, "and we can find out who the unexposed populations are by quickly screening out those who have been exposed and have antibodies to the disease."

In a study funded jointly by UF and by Oracle Diagnostics, Inc. of San Mateo, Calif., Clemmons has examined saliva as a potential means of diagnosing hepatitis B infection by first testing hepatitis patients at the UF Health Science Center.

Future studies would be conducted with cooperation from the UF College of Dentistry and the state Department of Corrections.

Patents are pending on Clemmons' AIDS detection method, which involves incubating a saliva sample with a dipstick for five minutes, washing the dipstick before and after a second chemical is added, then applying a developing compound to obtain visible results.

'Hemingway Bandit' arrested

HOLLYWOOD — A man dubbed the "Hemingway Bandit" for writing eloquent notes to stick up Massachusetts banks has been arrested for a robbery in Florida, police said.

But Sean Maroney, 28, was much more succinct in his note Monday to a teller at Hollywood's Jefferson Bank, officials said Wednesday.

"This is a robbery. Give me all the money. I have a gun," he said.

The teller complied and Maroney fled in a taxi, which was traced to his neighborhood. Police using bank surveillance photos spotted him on the street Tuesday and arrested him.

Maroney had some of the stolen money on him and offered no resistance, police said. He was charged with one count of armed robbery.

The suspect was on parole for 11 armed robbery convictions in Massachusetts, where he picked up his nickname, said police spokesman Ed Cunningham.

2 boys to be tried for sexual battery

FORT LAUDERDALE — Two middle school boys accused of assaulting an 11-year-old schoolmate aboard a bus will be tried on sexual battery and attempted sexual battery charges, prosecutors said.

Assistant State Attorney Sherry Haagenon, who prosecutes juvenile sex offenses, said she plans to file a sexual battery charge against one boy; an attempted sexual battery charge against the other; and simple battery charges against the six other students who punched and kicked the girl.

The decision came after interviewing the girl and her family. Haagenon said Tuesday.

The girl's family had said they feared that no action would be taken against those accused in the assault.

"I'm happy with this," the girl's brother said. "I just wanted something to be done."

Gay rights ordinance passed

First pro-gays legislation since Anita Bryant's crusade

By Associated Press

MIAMI BEACH — City commissioners Wednesday passed the first gay rights ordinance in Dade County since Anita Bryant's crusade toppled a countywide anti-discrimination law in 1977.

Proponents of the ordinance, passed unanimously by commissioners in packed chambers, say it not only bans discrimination against gay people, but acknowledges the gay community as an integral part of Miami Beach.

"It recognizes that the so-called gay and lesbian community is contributing and intends to contribute in the future," said Beach attorney Mike Finesilver, a former state prosecutor.

The measure prohibits discrimination against all, regardless of age, religion, sex, family status, race or sexual orientation.

"We think it's another symbol of how Miami Beach is trying to work together to avoid any type of ethnic battles, or any gender-related battles," said City Manager Roger Carlton.

The new law exempts religious institutions, small businesses and small apartment buildings with resident landlords.

Bob Skidell, who ran for Miami Beach mayor last year and was a key player in the 1977 Bryant campaign, denounced the measure as one designed to give homosexuals the right to "naunt their sexual conduct."

"This ordinance, in effect, is to legitimize the homosexual presence in our community by forcing child-care centers, youth centers, theaters, arts and recreation facilities and apartment buildings to open their doors to homosexual role models," Skidell told commissioners Wednesday night.

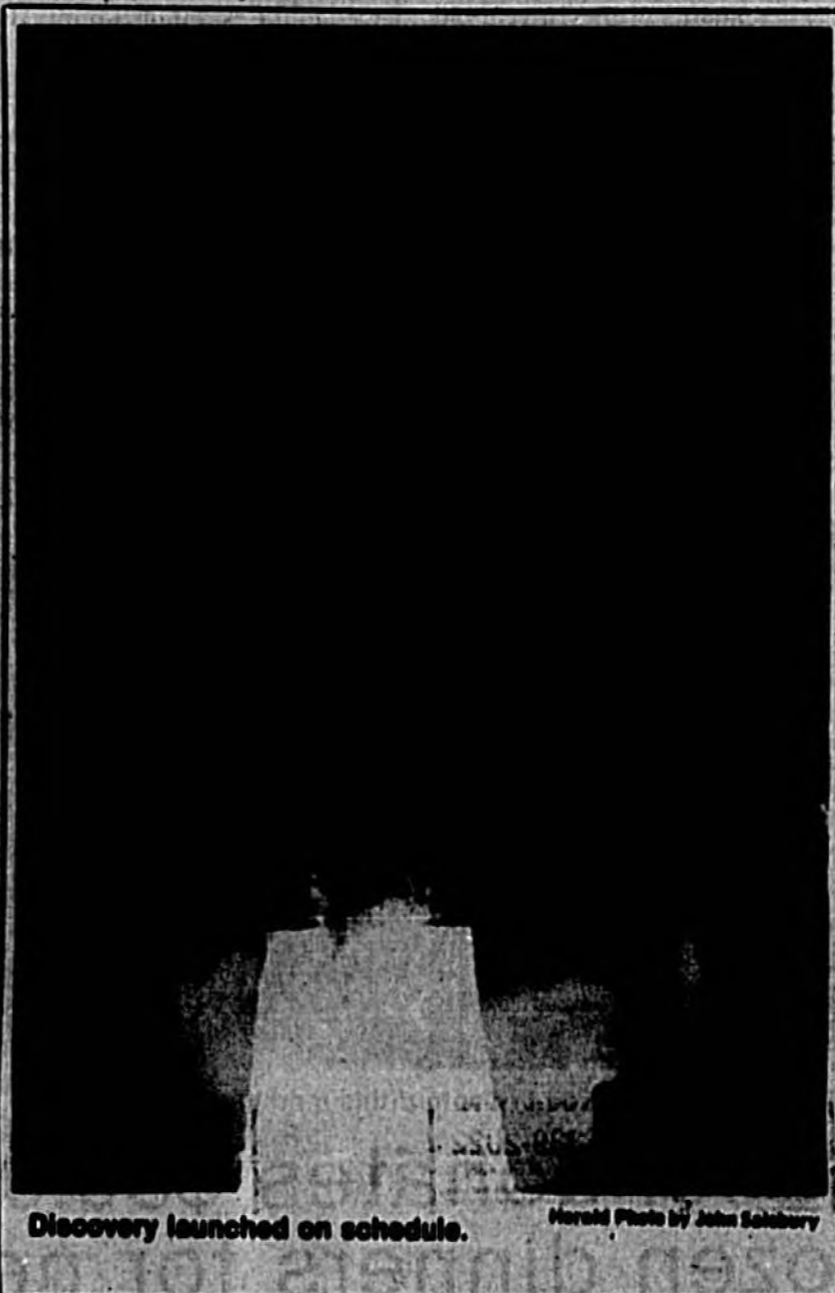

The city's move to protect gays comes as communities elsewhere are attacking gay rights laws.

Voters in Tampa overturned an anti-discrimination law and Colorado voters approved legislation excluding gay people from other human rights laws on Nov. 3.

Oregon voters defeated a measure that would have declared homosexuality "abnormal, wrong, unnatural and perverse."

Some of the most respected citizens of Miami Beach are Holocaust survivors, whose own fears of persecution led them to back the measure.

City Commissioner Abe Resnick, a Holocaust survivor, wrote in a letter to his colleagues that, had the rights of people in Russia, Germany and Cuba been guaranteed by law, "Who can tell how many scores of millions of human beings would still be alive?"

Shuttles

It's smooth sailing, but future up in air

CAPE CANAVERAL (AP) — NASA has finally mastered the art of launching shuttles on time, but it may be too late: Funds are down, costs are up, the military is out and a White House wants the fleet replaced with something new.

"The evidence has been building for years and years and years. There's just nothing for them (shuttle astronauts) to do up there, at least nothing that's worth the risk and the cost of putting them up there," said former NASA historian Alex Roland, now a history professor at Duke University.

Wednesday's launch of Discovery capped a stellar year of eight shuttle missions, the most since the Challenger explosion. And all but one of the launches took place on the scheduled day — a big improvement over past years in which launches were frequently delayed by days or even weeks.

For NASA, it seems too cruel an irony that the program may be outdated just as it is finally becoming reliable.

"Pretty soon somebody's going to notice that (improving record) and say, 'Shoot. It looks like those folks know what they're doing, maybe this is a good deal we've got going here and maybe it can serve the country for some time in the future,'" deputy shuttle director Brewster Shaw said Wednesday.

"I'm hopeful that that will come to pass, that people will realize the space shuttle is a good vehicle and it's good for the country and we'll continue to fly it for a long time," said Shaw, an ex-astronaut.

Two weeks ago, the White House task force recommended a new launch system — manned and unmanned — that would be cheaper, safer and more reliable than the shuttle, which is based on 1970s technology. To pay for this new family of rockets, the panel recommended reducing shuttle flights as soon as possible.

"The shuttle is very expensive relative to its role in the U.S. space program," the task force said.

National health care reform could help reach goal

By JACQUE MALIFAX
Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Lawton Chiles' campaign to get permission for Florida to override some federal rules on health care has been converted into a campaign for national reform, a top aide said Wednesday.

"I suspect any national plan ... will take care of my need for waivers" to bypass federal rules, the governor said.

Chiles, an 18-year veteran of the U.S. Senate before his sojourn in the Governor's Mansion, has been trying for the last year to get waivers for Florida to bypass federal rules governing Medicaid and Medicare.

He also wants the state to gain some control over health care provided by businesses that have internal self-insurance programs, an area that federal law now exempts from state oversight.

Medicaid is the joint federal-state health care program for some poor; Medicare is the federally run health program for the elderly.

The governor said his fears that Washington would impose "top-down" solutions were eased after he met Tuesday with staffers for President-elect Bill Clinton.

"I came away from that meeting feeling much better about that," Chiles said.

Clinton staffers told Chiles the state's needs would be met by a national plan as well as by waivers, according to Doug Cook, director of the state Agency for Health Care Administration.

"We agreed to vigorously lobby for a national health plan — as long as we had a hand in drafting it," he said.

Clinton staffers are developing a list of U.S. representatives and senators for Chiles to talk to, Cook said. And, in Florida, state officials are compiling a list of names to help the Clinton administration produce a health care proposal, according to Cook.

"Waivers are on the back burner as long as we can get something in the near term," he said. "I mean, if we can get a national plan in the near term that's complementary to our approach, then we don't need waivers."

Florida doesn't have a lot of time to wait around on a national plan. A state law passed this spring sets a 1995 deadline for extending health care services to all Floridians and getting control of the spiraling costs.

Some 2.5 million Floridians — most of them workers or the families of workers — have no health insurance and don't qualify for government aid. Their only recourse for care are the state's emergency rooms, where medical services are most expensive.

As far as costs go, the annual tab for health care in Florida is currently around the $31 billion mark and is expected to triple by the turn of the century if something doesn't change.

Saturday, help Sanford shine

Generally, when people talk trash they're filling the air with questionable language. However, when Sanford residents talk trash in regard to the annual trash bash, both air and grounds are filled with G-rated activities.

The trash bash, the annual clean-up campaign held in conjunction with the annual Make Sanford Shine drive is scheduled for Saturday. Activities will get underway at the parking lot of the Sanford City Hall when garbage bags and poker sticks will be handed out.

During the day, civic groups have specific areas designated for the clean-up campaign. Even members of the Sanford City Commission have an area allocated to them for the clean-up drive.

During the day, arrangements will also be made for depositing full trash bags at certain areas. The bags will be picked up by city crews.

This is an activity that everyone should be involved in.

"Sprucing up Sanford" makes a great deal of civic and community sense. Saturday is the day to Make Sanford Shine.

Kudos to principal

It is notable when any local individual is recognized statewide for his achievements. It is even more noteworthy if that individual works in the valuable field of education.

Carlton Henley, principal of Lyman High School, was awarded the 1992 Commissioner's Principals Achievement Award for Outstanding Leadership last week.

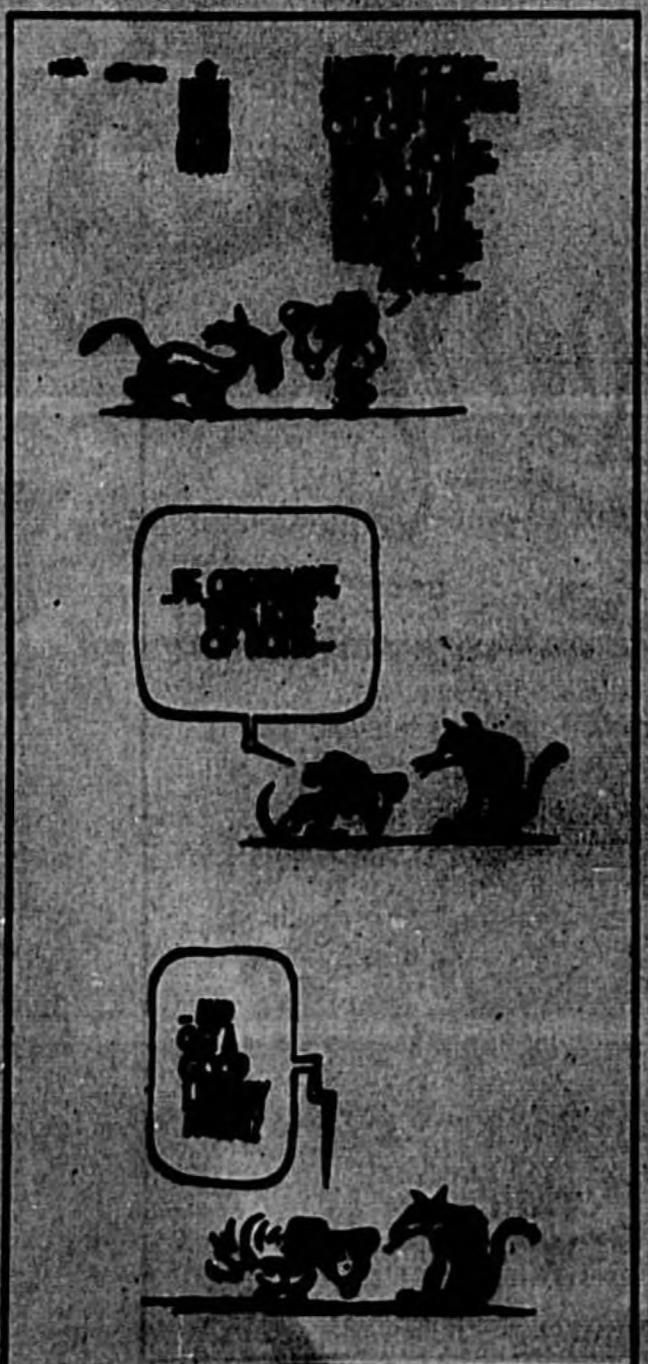

The award was given for his leadership in making Lyman High School one of the top schools in the state.

Henley was given high marks for his vision, emphasis on reading, introducing technology into the school on a large scale and his in-service programs for teachers.

This achievement award is particularly unique because, although it goes to an individual, it symbolizes more than mere individual achievement. The benefits of Henley's achievements consist of an ever-widening educational circle.

Because Henley is an exceptional principal, local teachers, students and parents are benefitting. Teachers benefit because they are in the school headed by Henley. Students are benefitting from the educational atmosphere created and maintained by Henley. Parents can be confident that their children are in a good school.

Finally, Seminole County is benefitting because one of the finest schools in the state is within its borders.

Meaningless clearance of Alger Hiss

Anybody discussing recent developments in the Hiss-Chambers case must remember that it all happened more than 40 years ago, and that accordingly nobody under 60 can have any contemporaneous adult recollection of the controversy. For them it's just another historical brouhaha.

So let's begin by giving the under-60 set a quick review of the key facts:

The American Communist Party secretly wormed its way into some highly influential positions during the Roosevelt years — in certain labor unions, in Hollywood, even to a modest extent in the clergy, and (most important) in government. The liberals, who were running the country, were aware of this, but it didn't seem to matter much, especially after the Soviet Union became our ally in World War II.

It began to matter enormously, though, when World War II ended and was promptly followed by the Cold War. Suddenly Moscow and its American sympathizers and agents became this country's deadliest enemies, and the Republican 80th Congress began looking into the activities of secret American Communists — most of whom, to make matters worse, had masqueraded, and were still masquerading, as liberals. No wonder the true liberals were uneasy!

One of the gaudiest fish pulled out of the pool was Alger Hiss, a Harvard Law graduate who had clerked for Justice Holmes, served in various high State Department posts, and was now (1947) chairman of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

Whittaker Chambers, a Time magazine editor who admitted being a spy for the Soviets in the 1930s before breaking with the Communist Party, swore that Hiss was not only a Communist too but had passed secret State Department documents along to him and that he, in turn, had given them to his Soviet handler, Col. Boris Bykov, of the Fourth Section of the GRU, the intelligence arm of the Red Army.

Remember that it all happened more than 40 years ago.

Hiss denied Chambers' charges, which seemed safe enough since his alleged actions were 10 years in the past. But unfortunately for Hiss, Chambers had never given Col. Bykov the last batch (microfilms, handwritten notes and official documents copied on Hiss' personal typewriter) that he had received from Hiss, and he now produced these: Hiss denied his culpability under oath, and while it was too late to prosecute him for espionage, he was convicted of perjury and spent four years in prison.

Hiss has continued to insist on his innocence, but over the years formidable support for Chambers' testimony has accumulated — from Nathaniel Weyl, who swore that he collected Communist Party dues from Hiss, and from Nadezhda Ulanovskaya, the fellow-agent and widow of Alexander Ulanovskii, one of Chambers' GRU handlers during the 1930s, who confirmed Chambers' underground role and described his work in detail. And of course there remain, by no means explained away, the documents turned over to investigators by Chambers.

Until and unless he does, and permits American investigators similar freedom, and furthermore until those documents are explained, any "clearance" of Alger Hiss is meaningless.

Hillary role model for the century

Here's a prediction that will put the Two Pats' teeth on edge: When the Clinton administration has run its course, the job of first lady will have been totally redefined. It might even have a new name — first spouse or first mate or first partner or something like that.

You do remember what Preacher Pat — Robertson, that is — said at the Republican National Convention in Houston last August. He don't you? He averred that Hillary Clinton was a radical feminist, and added:

"No one can convince me that the American people are so blind that they would replace Barbara Bush with Hillary Clinton." (Given the reverend's self-proclaimed access to higher authority, you would think he would have better information than that. Maybe he was so vexed that his heavenly circuits were blocked.)

And remember what Pandit Pat — Buchanan, that is — had to say? He snidely referred to Hillary as Bill Clinton's "lawyer-spouse," and said:

"Hillary believes that 12-year-olds have a right to sue their parents, and she has compared marriage as an institution to slavery — and life on an Indian reservation."

That was the Rabid Right, frothing at the mouth in the heat of a campaign. Now the mainstream wags have joined the chorus, albeit with less venom. The "Hillary Problem" has been the subject of an ABC "Nightline" program. She has been featured on the front pages of USA Today, the Washington Times, the Los Angeles Times and The New York Times. Indeed, the latter headlined its story, "Hillary Clinton's New Role — A Spouse or Policy Leader?" and wondered "whether Hillary can be Hillary without meddling with the nation's myths."

I am both amused and astonished. Amused because I think it's about time some of the nation's myths got meddled with, and watching the wags react to it promises to be a hilarious show. Astonished because I cannot believe that we are having this discussion as we are about to enter the 21st century.

How this unfolds in the matter of rights, Hillary Southern Clinton is an equal, so endowed by God Almighty. She can say or do any legal thing she pleases, and if you don't like it, you can vote for Mr. Potato Heads and Madame Bushback in 1996. In the matter of brains and ability, Hillary is probably Bill Clinton's superior — and that is by his own testimony. Hillary, her husband has said, is "far better organized, more in control, more intelligent and more eloquent" than he is.

Hillary will bring to the role of first spouse a combination of attributes never before seen. She is a superbly educated (Wellesley and Yale Law), deeply involved (former chairperson of the Children's Defense Fund), highly successful (ranked as one of the top 100 attorneys in the country), independent (the family's major breadwinner) and a working mother. She will be the kind of first spouse she chooses to be, and I seriously doubt that she will elect to pour a lot of tea.

What we are about to witness, I think, is significant generational change, and Hillary herself seems cognizant of it. "I feel like there is this great national conversation going on of which I am a part," she said in a recent Newsweek interview, "but it is not so much about me personally but about all the changes going on in the country — about women and our roles, the choices we make in our lives."

So here's another prediction for you: Hillary Clinton will be remembered as a dynamic first spouse, and she is destined to go down in history as a role model for women everywhere.

Here's a prediction that will put the Two Pats' teeth on edge.

Dear Mr. Clinton: Take my advice

Advice abounds. And Washington is awash with both the free variety (given by seekers of attention and/or jobs) and the other kind (given by advice-industry pros such as lobbyists, PR persons, and pundits). It all gets shoveled down to the grateful powers-that be in Little Rock.

The latest advice handed upon President-elect Clinton & Co. is to go to school on the Carter presidency, learn from its under-achievements and failures. So the Clinton team has consulted on Carter mistakes, and then shared their wisdom with that slice of America represented by The Washington Post.

But it's not clear they are getting all salient facts. To save our president-elect from learning wrong lessons, here are the untold Carter episodes that never made it to Little Rock:

1. About Advice to Ensure Sub-Cabinet Loyalty. Clinton also heard Stuart Eizenstat, Carter's domestic policy chief, wisely warn them to select sub-Cabinet officials rather than let Cabinet members pick them — to ensure loyalty to the president's agenda.

But Eizenstat knows that even a presidential seal of approval doesn't guarantee fealty — to wit, his own running battles with Carter's secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, Joseph Califano, especially over national health insurance. Eizenstat believed Califano was stalling White House requests for a plan limited to catastrophic illnesses, because the secretary favored the grander, comprehensive plan of Carter's Democratic rival, Sen. Edward Kennedy. Califano always denied disloyalty. Finally, Eizenstat asked Carter to write Califano a firm memo, demanding the limited plan. But Carter's memo, more cordial than any, simply requested a "series of options." The Carter memohead wrote: "I'm pleased to carry the health care crisis."

Lesson: Sometimes, presidents must be their own enforcers.

2. About Advice to Continue Non-stop Campaigning. After his populist 1976 campaign, Carter isolated himself for months, covering with a massive energy package thick enough to clog a Congress (which it did). Now Clinton aide David Williams is quoted as saying Clinton's White House will "maintain a campaign mentality" for four years — town meetings, an "800" phone number, etc. — to assure Clinton holds his grass-roots.

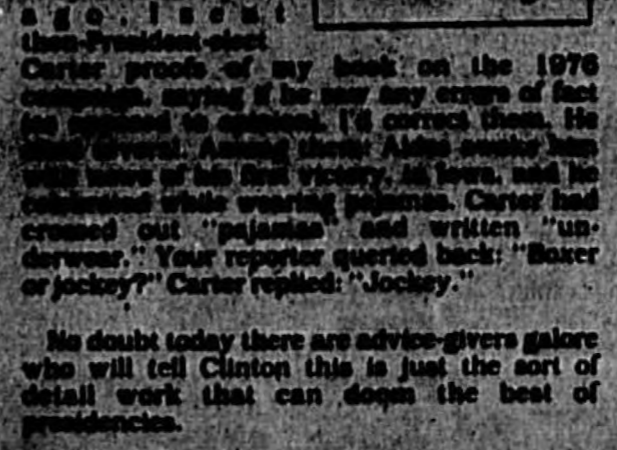

But campaigns can themselves become causes of isolation. So the staff must be the president's eyes and ears. In 1977, a Newsday reporter wrote of Carter's failure to understand cate as a leader, using as a springboard a description of a beleaguered calendar that White House speechwriters used for assignments: November: salaries filed just two squares; a dollar sign, drawn on pay day, and a turkey, drawn on Thanksgiving. The article in Newsday landed chief speechwriter James Fallows in hot water with senior advisers; but Carter didn't see it. However, The Washington Post reprinted the story the next morning, when Carter was leaving at dawn to fly overseas. In an act of self-preserving skulduggery, a figure resembling the chief speechwriter boarded Air Force One at the crack of dawn — and fished the president's Post! Carter arrived, burrowed into his briefing book — and never read the critique.

Lesson: If it's broke, fix it.

3. About Advice on Avoiding Presidential Preoccupation With D... a tall, Clinton, like Carter, dives deeply into politics. But he's no engineer, so he's unlikely to wallow in minutiae. I bring this up out of guilt. For I had the first evidence of Carter's presidential penchant for detail, but blew the story. When news agency editors asked me about it, I said: "I'm not sure I can tell you that." Carter, who was a good listener, then-President-elect Carter, prods me with my book on the 1976 campaign, saying if he saw any errors of fact he'd be pleased to correct them. He did. And I'm glad. About that: After Carter was sworn in, he had a few victories. In Iowa, and he celebrated while wearing pajamas. Carter had crossed out "pajamas" and written "underwear." Your reporter queried back: "Boxer or jockey?" Carter replied: "Jockey."

No doubt today there are advice-givers galore who will tell Clinton this is just the sort of detail work that can doom the best of presidencies.

U.S. forces to Somalia mixed

By SUSANNE H. SCHAPIRA
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON — The U.S. military units expected to be sent to Somalia — should the United Nations give the go-ahead — will be a mix of amphibious, light infantry and helicopter assault forces, Pentagon sources say.

"It will have a flexible capability to move in quickly, secure ports and airfields, secure the lines of transport ... and be positioned to defend itself, if need be," said one senior military officer familiar with some of the preparations for the effort.

First on the scene will be the 1,000 Marines of the three-ship strike force led by the amphibious assault ship USS Tripoli, which is off the East African coast.

They are expected to be followed several days later by light infantry Marines from the 1st Marine Expeditionary Force, flown in from Camp Pendleton, Calif., an administration official said Wednesday, speaking on condition of anonymity.

Elements from other quick-strike units, such as the Army's light infantry troops of the 10th Mountain Division at Fort Drum, N.Y., could be tapped to join them, military sources added.

Also steaming to the region is the Navy supply ship MV Jack Lummus, which is loaded with 600 vehicles — tractors, trailers, trucks and fork lifts — to help in the relief mission, as well as water purification units, generators, fuel and other supplies, the sources said.

The chairman of the House defense appropriations subcommittee expressed reservations today about the unfolding operation in Somalia, but stopped short of outright opposition.

"What we're talking about here is a dramatic change in the way we deploy troops," said Rep. John Murtha, D-Pa., in an interview on NBC's "Today" show.

"We have no mission. I think that's the thing that concerns me most. There is no limitation. ... Certainly nobody knows the cost of this operation, either in lives or personnel."

Murtha emphasized that his concern was not just about Somalia — "because I think that's a fairly common objection" — but the precedent being set.

"What I'm saying is ... we have these things happening all over the world. There is no clear national interest and if we're going to do this we have to know what the cost is. ... We have to know what the long-term consequences are. ... We just can't afford to be the policeman of the world."

President Bush was expected to meet today with the regional military commander for Africa, Marston Gen. Joseph Hoar, Defense Secretary Dick Cheney and the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Gen. Colin Powell, to put the finishing touches on U.S. plans for Somalia.

Hoar's plan requires lifting — by air and sea — up to 20,000 troops, ranging from covert Special Operations teams to the mechanics, cooks, medical aides and paper-pushers needed to support such a force.

Depending upon the amount of hostile force encountered in the Somali capital of Mogadishu, the Marine unit's primary task will be to secure the port and international airport so troops and equipment could arrive safely.

They are outfitted with a wide array of attack and transport helicopters: AH-1 Cobras, CH-53 Sea Stallions, CH-46 Sea Knight transports and UH-1 Hueys. For an amphibious landing, the Tripoli will discharge Marines aboard LCACs — specialized air-cushioned landing craft — while the dock landing ship USS Rushmore launches other amphibious vehicles and the USS Juneau provides supplies.

The Air Force will provide "a sky chain of C-141s, C-8s" to transport the infantry units and their support teams overseas, one officer said.

In line to command the venture on the scene is Marine Lt. Gen. Bob Johnson, who was one of Gen. Norman Schwarzkopf's top aides in Operation Desert Storm, the sources said.

Pentagon and military officials stress the effort isn't considered a combat mission as much as an operation designed to support the U.N.'s humanitarian goals.

And it may be possible in some cases to avert violent conflict with a very open display of America's high-tech firepower, another senior military officer suggested.

"You invite those warriors in, bring out an M-1 tank, let it blow one of their armored pickup trucks to pieces and say, 'Any questions?'" he said.

Much will be said about the U.S. military's intentions and plans in advance. In the hope it will curtail aggressive activity on the part of the local warring parties, a senior Pentagon official said.

"Our intentions will be very clear," he said.

Jobless claims drop by 12,000

By DAVE SCHIFFINO
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The number of Americans filing new claims for unemployment insurance fell by 12,000 during the week ended Nov. 31, the second decline in a row, the government said today.

The drop brought the level of claims for the week to a seasonally adjusted 362,000, down from 374,000 the week before and 388,000 two weeks earlier, the Labor Department said.

Claims now have declined in seven of the past nine weeks and have held below the 400,000 mark for 13 of the past 15 weeks. Economists said that fits with their belief that the economy, after appearing to stall over the summer, is again improving, albeit slowly.

The level is near the two-year low of 355,000 hit at the end of October. They had started the year averaging between 440,000 and 480,000.

A moving four-week average of claims, considered a more reliable indicator of labor market trends, inched up by 500 to 369,250 for the latest four-week period. But analysts consider the increase too small to be significant.

Meanwhile, the number of claims filed under a special emergency program enacted by Congress last summer totaled 23,268 during the latest week, up from 21,005 the week before.

Today's report is a good sign that the job market will be seen to have held on to recent gains have a roof over our heads and food on the table have a responsibility to help those in need," said Paulucci in a statement: "If we can take one small step toward making a stranger's Christmas a bit brighter, we'll achieve the true meaning of Christmas."

At 9:30 this morning, helpers jumped in and loaded vehicles with as many boxes of 12-package dinners as they could carry.

First in line was Thelma Mike, owner of the Good Samaritan Home in Sanford.

"It will help our grocery bill quite a bit," said Mike. "It will mean a lot to us. We'd just like to say thank you to Mr. Paulucci and all the officials that helped make this possible."

Mike said the meals will feed Good Samaritan residents and others for a month.

"He does things like this," said Lisa Paulucci-Helrich, sister to the founder of the Chun King and Jen's frozen food products. "He just kind of surprises people. He believes that if you take something out of the ground, you have to put something back."

Sanford Mayor Bettye Smith, who contacted the organizations with the help of others, said Paulucci contacted her about a week or two ago with the idea of donating the dinners.

"He approached me and asked if I thought it was a good idea," said Smith.

"How fortunate we are to have Mr. Paulucci as a resident of Sanford," said Smith before the distribution. "This is really neat."

Any undistributed food will be stored at Rich Plan. Company president Duke Adamson said he was happy to assist the Seminole County entrepreneur.

"We're always happy to help Jen's," said Adamson. "He's a great guy and he's been a great asset to us locally."

the project up for bids with the contractors. Bidding for the project closed Nov. 30.

"I've sent the bid to 14 contractors," Marotta said. "I might only get one back."

Marotta said this morning that he did not know if any bids had been received by the finance department yet.

"I know we haven't had a bid opening yet," he said. "We ran into a small problem, because the closing date was Friday and we were closed Friday (for the Thanksgiving holiday)."

Regardless, he said he hopes that the work can start by the first of the year.

Oager said he thought the contractors who were bidding on the job should have come out a week ago Wednesday morning to see where the flooding was coming from.

"They should come out now," he said. "If they saw this, it would help them do their job later."

Marotta said the job will be difficult none-the-less.

"It's not going to be an easy job to keep the rain out, but I've got some ideas and we'll see what the contractors have to say about it," he said.

He believes that the problems began when the wood floor that had previously been in the house was ripped up so that a carpet covered concrete floor could be installed.

"They extended the concrete floor about a foot outside the house," Marotta said. "That formed a lip that lets the rain collect and go back into the house."

Marotta added that the job they will do will have to be a patch up rather than a repair job, because if they get into extensive repair work, the house might have to be demolished.

"And she does not want that," he said. "In her case, we want to respect her wishes."

Pierre Abularrage, the social worker from Paragon Home Care in Sanford, said he was pleased that a year of struggle to "get the attention" of the community development department has paid off.

"It's a real blessing," he said. "They will get the work done, finally."

Abularrage said that he was told that following a story about Dennis in a recent issue of the Sanford Herald the community development office got quite a few calls urging them to help Dennis.

and repairs to the council's main campground, Camp LaNoche in Lake County, and to make roof and drainage repairs to scouting headquarters in downtown Orlando. Leaders also authorized the sale of Camp Stine near Sanford for the improvement project.

Geneva-area scouts and their leaders protested the sale authorization, saying Camp Hedrick would be used more often if it was maintained. Local leaders offered to volunteer labor and raise money needed to upgrade the 19-year-old camp.

One possible buyer for Camp Hedrick is Hubbard Construction Co., who asked the county for permission to excavate dirt from the site to use in construction of the Seminole County expressway. Geneva residents have joined the sale protest out of a fear excavation over their Geneva Bubble could allow for the contamination of their isolated source of drinking water.

Hubbard has not responded to county questions about the project.

Brock said the council has no active purchase offers.

Brock said he welcomes the support from the anti-sale protesters, but is uncertain if a fundraising effort will be successful. Brock said prior to the decision to sell the camps and land, he tried a limited fundraising effort to 35 to 40 individuals most likely to contribute sizable sums to the council.

"We found this is not the time to try to raise money," said Brock.

Seminole County, Litton said. "He lives and works in Seminole County."

Beary, 33, lives in the Winter Springs area and has served with the Altamonte Springs Police Department for 15 years.

During that time with the department, he helped open the Altamonte Mall police substation which has helped improve the department's response time to crimes. He implemented many cost-saving measures that also helped make the department more efficient, Litton said.

"I think he is really plugged into this area and the people of this area," Litton said.

The two have hammered out a salary package, but Litton refused to divulge any of the details of that arrangement until the city commission had a chance to vote on it. "Things could change," he said. "It will all be discussed tonight."

The Lake Mary Police department employs 19 full-time officers and seven reserves.

Beary, who was meeting with Lake Mary city officials this morning, was not available for comment.

Litton said that Beary has told him that he is not planning to make any sweeping changes in the department until he has had a chance to work with the department for a while.

Beary's family has a long history of law enforcement experience.

His father, Ray, is the retired police chief of Winter Park. His brother, Kevin, was elected as sheriff of Orange County in November.

The JAM fund was established to help the families of Arcadio Vergara, Michael Beckler, and Jeremy Millhouse pay for medical and other expenses. Millhouse was killed and Vergara and Beckler seriously injured Oct. 9 when a runaway trailer rammed through the bus stop where they were standing.

The incident prompted both Lake Mary and the city of Longwood to call for additional safety reviews for bus stops from the Seminole County School Board.

In addition to the city check, a representative of Storer's Cable will give a $250 check into the trust fund.

In another matter, the commission will hear a report on the completion contract for the Lake Mary Blvd irrigation system.

Commissioners are also expected to give routine approval to a series of ordinances that will set guidelines for newly-elected officials and filling of vacancies on the commission.

The ordinances were approved by Lake Mary voters in a November referendum but must be incorporated into the city charter.

The meeting will be the last meeting for Mayor Randy Morris. Morris decided not to run for re-election this year.

Consumers will get an idea of the standardized amounts of fats, sugars, and calories in these products.

But the new labels will give consumers a better idea of the total fat, saturated fat, carbohydrates and protein in the amounts of the products.

Put the information in the plain old simple diet diet of 1990's times with the amount of the serving size will be the same.

Except most food sold in the United States have included a package of foods sold by them.

Many high-fat foods may carry more information on how many grams of fat, and the words such as "healthy" have become a thing.

But it's simply the label of food labels has come down and American consumers are the winners. Health and Human Services Secretary Louis Sullivan said in a news conference.

Not everyone agrees. John Stanton, chairman of food marketing research center at the Philadelphia University, said the labels will only help those who are very well informed about diet.

As a compromise, Sullivan said by the White House to make labels a 2,000 calorie diet. But Sullivan said that the labels will help consumers make better choices.

Hinckley seeks holiday leave from mental hospital

By JAMES ROWLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

A WASHINGTON, D.C., newspaper reported that James Earl Hinckley, the assassin of Sen. Robert Kennedy, is seeking to leave a mental hospital to spend the holidays with his family.

Hinckley, who was convicted of murdering the senator in 1975, has been held in a maximum security facility at St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Washington, D.C.

The court papers said Hinckley requested to be released to his family for the Christmas holidays. He said he had been in the hospital for 10 years and that he had been treated by psychiatrists and therapists.

The court papers said Hinckley's request was denied. The judge said that Hinckley's mental condition was such that he could not be released to his family.

Hinckley's attorney, John Howard, said that his client had been in the hospital for 10 years and that he had been treated by psychiatrists and therapists.

Howard said that his client had been in the hospital for 10 years and that he had been treated by psychiatrists and therapists.

Since 1982, he has been moved to a minimum security facility and maintained employment for 10 1/2 years and has enjoyed the freedom of public transportation on the hospital grounds, the court paper said.

A higher ranking hospital official declined to comment on the case, including whether Hinckley was being kept in a minimum security facility.

A shaken monarchy faces future

By AUDREY WOODS
Associated Press Writer

LONDON — The British monarchy, its glitter tarnished and much of its mystery gone, has reached what many see as a turning point.

Queen Elizabeth II's decision to pay taxes mollified many critics of royal opulence, but has fueled debate about what kind of monarchy King Charles III will inherit one day.

"The standing of the queen and the monarchy reflects our own self-esteem," Foreign Secretary Douglas Hurd commented as this year the queen described as "horrible" draws to a close.

"This is not some trifling toy which can be tossed about in public controversy as if damaging it did no harm," he warned.

The government announced Nov. 26 that the queen's children, sister and aunt will be cut from the public payroll and that the queen will start paying taxes after a break of 80 years.

This followed a startling appeal for compassion by the 66-year-old monarch after the toughest year in her four-decade reign.

Her daughter Princess Anne was divorced; the marriage of her heir, Prince Charles, and Princess Diana was raked over endlessly in the newspapers as a loveless sham; and her second son, Prince Andrew, separated from his wife, the former Sarah Ferguson.

All this was accompanied by frenzied coverage by tabloid newspapers — whose lifeblood is royal doings. The year's most damaging royal pictures, showing "Fergie" frolicking topless with an American businessman, rocketed newspaper sales.

Sixty-seven percent of 1,003 people questioned in an ICM poll for the Daily Express said paying taxes will improve the monarchy's standing.

But some fear that Elizabeth is being pushed down a slippery slope that will end with a monarchy so casual that the queen pedals by on a bicycle, as does the Dutch monarch.

Others think her efforts are too late.

"Without its magical qualities, the royal family ceases to function as it did," said Colin Brown, political columnist for The Independent newspaper. "The queen in her glittering 40th anniversary portrait suddenly looks no more than a pensioner in fine clothes."

Three years of recession have soured Britons' taste for royal opulence. The trappings of monarchy cost the taxpayer nearly $80 million, including maintenance of palaces, the royal yacht, train and planes.

Anti-royal sentiment is rising, although most people favor continuing the institution. In June, a Market Opinion and Research International in The Sunday Times found 14 percent of respondents to back an end to the monarchy, up from 6 percent two years earlier.

Resentment at the Conservative government's willingness to pay for the damage to Windsor Castle from a Nov. 20 blaze appeared to reflect the change in public mood.

Critics say the monarchy is an anachronism that fosters an image of Britain as a historic theme park and underpins the class system.

LAKE MARY — Now that's more like it. For the first time since Doug Peters returned as the Lake Mary High School wrestling coach, the Rams gave an exhibition reminiscent of teams from Peters' first tour of duty, when Lake Mary dominated Central Florida.

Winning eight matches by pins, Lake Mary opened its 1992 campaign with a 56-22 thumping of the Lake Brantley Patriots Wednesday night before a vocal crowd that exceeded 1,000.

"I felt like we were awfully good down in the lower weights," said Peters, who was one of Seminole County's most successful high school wrestlers when he was a student at Lyman.

"It started with our 103-pounder getting us off to a fast start. The next thing you know, we have four pins in a row and we win six of the first seven by pin."

Freshman Richard Bradley got things rolling for Lake Mary when he won his match at 103 pounds with a pin late in the second period. Kevin Dunn followed that up with a pin at 112 just before the end of the second period.

Mike Laurent then faced off with Lake Brantley's Tim Meredith at 119 in a match that got the crowd into the match.

"The score was 5-5 after the first period and 8-5 after the second," Peters said. "Laurent used a reversal to a near fall and pinned Meredith right before the buzzer (at 5:54). That really electrified the crowd and got everyone going.

"Another key match for us was when Pat Paroline beat Joe Maines, one of their better kids, at 130 pounds. The score was 4-2 after one period and 9-6 after two. In the third, Paroline used an escape to a take-down, then scored three back points for a six-point combination and a win by major decision."

Also winning their matches with pins for Lake Mary were Corey Cullins (125 pounds), Kevin Reilly (135), Kyle Bergman (140), Greg Menello (160) and Terrell White (heavyweight).

Jean Pierre (171) scored a major decision, Terrell White.

For Lake Brantley, Jason Sofka (145) won by major decision. Jason Beathard (152) scored a decision, and Shawn Glynn (189) registered his first pin of the season. Chris Schlachter (220) won by forfeit.

Lake Mary's next match will be next Wednesday, when the Rams host Lake Weir.

Seminole shot down at buzzer

WINTER PARK — Tom Turner knocked down an 18-foot jumpshot with three seconds left to give the Oak Ridge Pioneers a 67-66 victory over Seminole Wednesday night in the first round of Rotary Tipoff Class at Winter Park High School.

Seminole (0-2) plays the loser of last night's Lake Howell/Edgewater game this evening at 5:30 p.m. at Winter Park High School. Oak Ridge will come back on Friday night and face the winner of the Lake Howell/Edgewater contest.

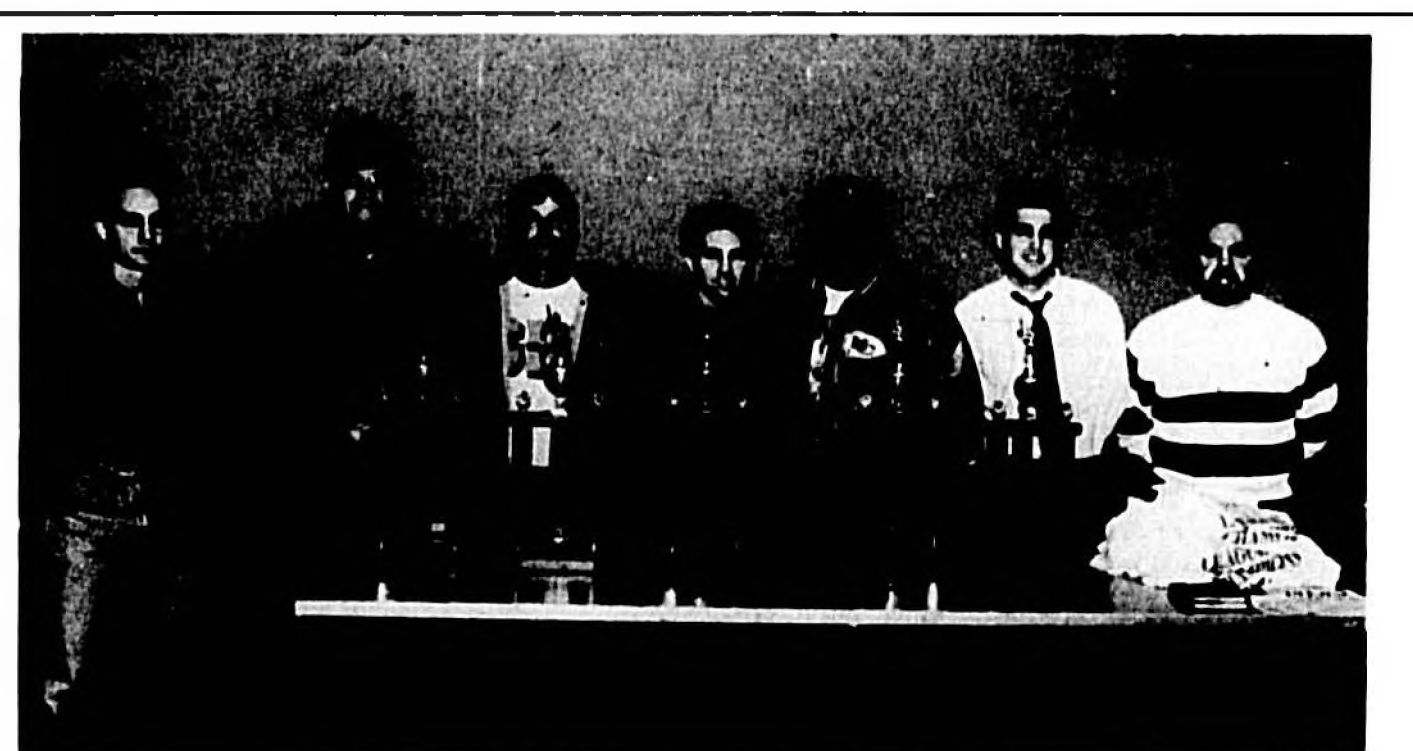

With nine seconds remaining in Wednesday's game, Matt Parker sank a pair of free throws to put the Tribe up by a point, 66-65. But the Pioneers were able to get the ball into the hands of Turner (who scored a team-high 14 points) for one last shot.

Eric Roberts and Deon Daniels led all scorers with 16 points apiece for the Seminoles. Parker finished with 13.

For Oak Ridge (1-0), Brian Savits also connected for 16 points while Vernon Hollinger netted 13 more.

Tribe applies pressure, takes win

From Staff Reports

DAYTONA BEACH — After his team suffered a two-point loss to Spruce Creek Tuesday night, Seminole High School girls' basketball coach John McNamara was furious with himself for the errors he felt he made that cost the Tribe the game.

Faced with almost the identical situation Wednesday, McNamara didn't make the same mistake twice and was rewarded with a 57-53 Seminole victory over host Daytona Beach-Seabreeze.

Because his already-thin roster has been depleted further because of illness, McNamara has been hesitant to turn the Tribe lose to run their high-pressure defense and transition offense, fearing that his players may either get into foul trouble or fatigue too quickly.

On Tuesday, that hesitation resulted in Seminole's first loss of the season. Then, on Wednesday, Seminole went into the fourth quarter against the Sandberabs trailing by two points, 43-41.

LAKE MARY — Wins are important to each and every team, but they're particularly precious to a young squad trying to define its identity.

On Wednesday night, the relatively inexperienced Lake Mary High School girls' soccer team took a significant step toward discovering what kind of team it might be by notching a 3-2 win over perennial Orange County powerhouse Winter Park.

"I'm really excited about the win," said Lake Mary coach Bill Eiselle. "We're such a young team. Tonight, for example, we started nine underclassmen. We're young, but hopefully, the tough schedule we're playing will help us gain experience in a hurry as the season goes on."

Angie Olson led Lake Mary with a pair of goals in the game's first 18 minutes. She opened the scoring with an unassisted goal nine minutes into the contest and, after Michelle Pierce had made it 2-0 with her goal in the 11th minute, Olson scored again for a 3-0 Ram advantage.

Brooke Kent set up Pierce's goal while Dana Mills was credited with the assist on Olson's second goal.

Despite being down three goals early, Winter Park (2-2) wasn't about to roll over and die, cutting the led to 3-1 by halftime and pulling to within 3-2 midway through the second half.

But the Wildcats were unable to come up with the equalizer, being thwarted by Ram goalies Michelle Rovito and Angie Snow. Rovito played the game's first 60 minutes, making two saves and surrendering both Winter Park goals while Snow played the final 20 minutes, also making two saves.

Lake Mary finished with a 16-6 edge in shots on goal and a 6-2 superiority in corner kicks, forcing Winter Park's goalkeeper to make seven saves.

Winter Park earned a split on the evening, winning the junior varsity contest 3-0.

Lake Mary (1-0-1) will open its Seminole Athletic Conference schedule with a home match against Lake Howell. The junior varsity are scheduled to play at 5 p.m. with the varsity match set for a 7 p.m. kickoff.

Oviedo boys build on season-opening streak

From Staff Reports

OVIDEO — For the Oviedo High School boys' soccer team, the best just keeps getting better.

After a superlative effort in the Goldenrod Rotary Cup tournament this past weekend (losing to Lyman in the championship match on penalty kicks), the Lions extended their hot start with a 3-0 shutout of Apopka Wednesday night.

"This is the best start we've had in the last couple of years," said Oviedo coach Dave Jeckanoski. "We had an incredible weekend. The kids played their hearts out. We had some chances to beat Lyman in the championship game, but as many chances as Lyman had, but we had our chances."

"To get to the finals, we defeated Boone, which is supposed to be the best team in the Metro Conference this year, and we beat Bishop Moore, which is always strong."

Apopka (0-1) presented the Lions with a different task Wednesday night. Not only did Oviedo come in as the favorite, Apopka was prepared to make the Lions earn everything they got.

"Apopka packed it in on defense," said Jeckanoski. "It was effective. It kept us off the scoreboard for most of the game."

Josh Itkor finally got the Lions on the board, scoring on an assist from Chip Barker five minutes before halftime. Oviedo increased its advantage with goals by Brad Franz and Scott Thelen in the first five minutes of the second half.

Sean Creaman set up Franz's goal while Franz assisted on Thelen's goal.

Oviedo outshot Apopka 25-5 and had a 5-3 edge in corner kicks. Lion goalie Darren Ockwig had to make three saves to post the shutout.

Oviedo also won the junior varsity contest by a 3-0 count.

The Lions (3-0-1) will play again this Saturday against Jacksonville-Bolles in a 1 p.m. game at Winter Springs' new Central Winds Park on State Road 434.

LAKE BRANTLEY 2, DeLAND 0

DeLAND — Sean Seaver came up with six saves to register his second shutout of the season, backstopping the Lake Brantley Patriots to a 2-0 win over the DeLand Bulldogs (0-2) in a boys' soccer match at Spec Martin Stadium.

Lake Brantley also won the junior varsity match, 7-0.

Providing the offense for the Patriot varsity were Tim LeCroix, who scored an unassisted goal, and Mike Johnston, who was assisted by Adam Berman.

Testosterone patch under development

MEDICINE
PETER GOTT, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I recently viewed on television a discovery of the patch with testosterone for men suffering from impotence. Please provide information on the subject and advise if the patch is available at present.

DEAR READER: The testosterone patch is under development. I am told it will not be released for at least four or five years.

The patch shows promise in treating certain forms of impotence and maintaining muscle strength and fitness. The advantage of the patch appears to be that it is not associated with cancer of the prostate gland, as is testosterone administered in pill form.

To give you more information on impotence, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Impotence." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 91368, Cleveland, OH 44101-3368. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: When I don't get enough sleep during the week, I will occasionally sleep up to 12 hours on a weekend. Why then do I have difficulty awakening and feel groggy and headache all day? I would think I would awaken rested and feeling great. I don't.

DEAR READER: Your experience is not unique. "Catching up" on sleep can often lead to the very symptoms you mention, which are normal. The reason for this is that each of us has a biological clock that is more or less set to accommodate our individual daily schedules.

When we don't sleep enough -- or, on occasion, when we obtain more sleep than usual -- the biological clock becomes desynchronized. This is the basis of "jet-lag," when we cross from one time zone to another and

There are times when experts make abnormal plays that work brilliantly. There is someone in the back of their minds telling them that this is the moment to deviate from the textbook. Today's hand is a good example.

North's three-spade rebid was a limit raise, inviting game. South, with a hand not worth an opening bid despite its 13 points, passed promptly.

heart, which West ruffed to defeat the contract.

Note that if West switches to the heart seven at trick three, playing high-low, declarer will foresee the potential ruff. Then he will probably play the ace and another spade, not risk the finesse.

Apparently a brilliant defense. But now it is time to come clean. That was how West hoped the play would go. But he had a partner who also saw the heart four. Knowing this couldn't be from a doubleton, East returned the club four after winning with the heart ace. Now declarer could afford to take the losing spade finesse and still make his contract.

The best laid schemes o' mice an' a bridge experts gang aft a-gley.

They can be answered only through the column.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
Dec. 4, 1992

A more active and expanded social life appears to be in the offing for you in the year ahead. It should bring you into contact with the types of persons with whom you've always wanted to be affiliated.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're in a fairly strong success-cycle at this time, but it does have its limitations. Don't base your hopes and expectations upon unsound premises. Sagittarius, get a jump on life by understanding the influences which are governing you in the year ahead. Send for Sagittarius's Astro-Graph predictions today by mailing $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you are in a leadership role today, you must act and behave like a leader. Don't expect a committee to provide you with directives you should be providing for them.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Just because someone has impressive credentials, it doesn't mean he or she is always right. Today you might fall for the pitch of a spellbinder who really doesn't know what he or she is talking about.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Today you might have an opportunity to take advantage of someone and no one will know about it except you and your conscience. Unfortunately, that's an audience you can't easily deceive.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your way of doing things might suit you to a "T" today, but it's not apt to impress your companions. Try to include their ideas with your own.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Unless you're as able to do what you command others to do today, your directives are likely to go unheeded. You must be the one who sets the example.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you hope to please others today, forget the airs and affectations. Just be yourself and, if that is not good enough for them, it's their loss.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Today there's a chance you might be slightly too disorganized to perform effectively. Have a definite plan or method and don't depend on Lady Luck to fill in where you fall short.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You'd better be prepared to back up your statements today if you are selling or promoting something to others. Your credibility is a bit thin and you might be challenged.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) There's a possibility that you might be generous to the undeserving while ignoring those to whom you should be kind. It could turn your day into a hardship.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Because you'll be willing to make compromises and concessions today, you might mistakenly judge everyone by your standards and expect the same from them. But remember, they're not you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't take on the duties or responsibilities of someone today who should be fending for himself or herself. There's a big difference between being a nice guy or gal or being just a "turkey."
