

'Beauties,' Grieved Over Decision, Will Have Own Contest

BALTIMORE, Sept. 7—(INS)—Disintegrated with a decision naming Miss Lillian Andrus, 21, of Buckeye Lake, Ohio, "Miss America" at beauty contest at Carlin's Park here, most of the other 47 "beauties" intend to hold a second contest at a downtown hotel today.

Miss Andrus was selected by five judges last night after Earl Carroll, noted arbiter of feminine prettiness, had gracefully withdrawn as one of them. The disappointed girls and their sponsor from various sections of the country, immediately filed a protest charging that Miss Andrus was a "ringer," and should not have been allowed to enter.

It was also asserted that James W. Carlin, proprietor of the park, also runs an amusement park at Buckeye Lake, and Miss Andrus came here at his suggestion.

Carlin's comment was: "N. Miss America was picked. This wasn't a representative showing. What the judge did was to pick the prettiest girl in Carlin's dance pavilion."

Most of the entrants were from Pennsylvania, with Kentucky and New York next.

Hoover Will Likely Visit Detroit For Edison Ceremonies

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7—(INS)—President Hoover probably will visit Detroit on Oct. 21, to attend the dedication of the Edison laboratory which Henry Ford has been reconstructing in the original at Dearborn, it was stated at the White House today.

Mr. Hoover hopes to work in private either at the start or the conclusion of his trip he will take down the Ohio River about the same time, the realization of the river having been completed. Commemorative exercises for this event will be held in Cincinnati and it may be that Mr. Hoover will extend his trip to Louisville and beyond.

Origi ally it had been planned for the President to go down the Ohio and thence into the Mississippi to New Orleans, and the visit Texas, but this has not been determined because such a program would entail a protracted absence from Washington while Congress is in session. Definite decision, however, has been postponed.

Since his inauguration six months ago, Mr. Hoover has made only one trip away from the Capital, other than to his fishing camp in nearby Virginia. That was when he went to New York to speak on law enforcement.

Hornshy Is Named In Writ Filed In Court

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 7—(INS)—Rogers Hornshy, second baseman of the Chicago Cubs and one of the leading sluggers of the National League, was named in papers filed in the circuit court here, today. In that cause, why he should not be cited for contempt of court and sentenced to jail for failure to answer a summons in a suit.

The suit was brought by his former attorney, Frank J. Quinn who charged that Hornshy owes him $5,250 for legal services. Hornshy's attorney claims no definite date had been set for the taking of deposition and hence Hornshy could not have appeared in court for hearing. The citation for contempt, filed by a county public, will not be reviewed by the circuit court until the October term.

MAL BLECKER TO CAPTAIN 1929 COLUMBIA GRID TEAM

James Campbell, center, who in three elections had been tied with Malcolm Blecker, tackle, for the captaincy of Columbia's football team, has withdrawn in favor of another election should be held.

In consequence Campbell's withdrawal yesterday was a surprise.

He told his reasons in a letter to Rogers Bacon, Chairman of the Committee, which follows:

The letter which Campbell also issued for publication reads as follows:

"It is my desire to revere the football Captaincy from the stains of a conventional figurehead into something real."

"In the past it has been the custom for the team to elect at the close of each season its Captain for the year ahead. This is imperative, if the Captaincy is to become anything but a monstrosity, that the Captain be given a reasonable time during the spring semester and summer vacation preceding the football season to formulate his tactics.

"I am sure that the committee must recognize that the only possible thing under these circumstances is to award the Captaincy to Mr. Blecker. And I can only urge that the undergraduate body co-operate in every possible way toward assisting the Captain in building a first rate team at Columbia."

When the team met last December to elect a leader for the 1929 campaign, each of the two electors received nine votes. There were elections after the holiday more elections after the holiday to break the deadlock, which was ascribed to fraternity politics.

The Committee on Athletics then decided to let the matter rest until after the third game this fall, when, the committee ruled,

Sadye's Shop Gets Georgia Connection

Sadye's Specialty Shop, 209 Magnolia Avenue, in the future will be affiliated with Zell's Department Store, Brunswick, Ga., according to an announcement today following the completion of negotiations between the two firms. Zell's Department Store is one of the largest concerns of its kind in business for years, based in South Georgia, having

By virtue of its new connection, Sadye's Specialty Shop will have the use of a permanent buying office maintained in New York by the Brunswick firm. This will permit the store to carry a more complete line of ready-to-wear goods than heretofore, and also enable it to keep in closer touch with trend of modern styles, according to the announcement.

Heflin's Son Fails To Appear Before Court

PHOENIX CITY, Ala., Sept. 7—(INS)—"Young Tom" Heflin, son of the senior Senator from Alabama, failed to show up in police court today to answer charges of drunkenness and violating the state prohibition laws. His bond amounted to $25, was declared forfeited. H. M. Hayes, arrested with Heflin and charged with being while drunk and failing to stop at an officer's command, also forfeited his bond.

The two young men were arrested when the car in which they were riding drove zigzag down the main street here Monday night. They were placed in jail overnight, despite young Heflin's recitation of portions of the Declaration of Independence to the arresting officer.

Against an unclouded sky
Is one long curve of brown sunburnt turf,
And at the top
A bunch of cactus.

2.
I have looked so long at this
That the sky has crept down
Upon the hill,
And the hill has withdrawn immeasurable distances into the sky.

3.
And now the cactus is a pale creature,
Mach on a far horizon,
With jointed bulbous limbs,
Stark and misshapen,
And holding motionless against the sky.

4.
The hundred daggers of its wrath, Unseen up raise up upon many into lands, Pouring its fiery wine into the deep cup of the valley,
I have seen the sunset tangled in tops of trees.
There was it imprisoned in a still lake.

5.
But it is still, its flame on to the flat horizon,
It spreads to the north and south,
And its edges meet in the east,
As it goes around me like a hoop of fire.

With many stars.

We note with interest that three days after our editorial condemning W. B. Shearer, President Hoover threatens the ship-

the President was such a close

Jones has been dethroned. Bobby is not ready for crowns or checkers yet, however, as he can walk twelve two hundred and eighty yards, and a thirty foot putt to no unusual for him. In fact if he were to play Jimmy Johnston tomorrow, we would let on Bobby.

One of President Hoover's advisors, who hails from Kansas, has been appointed a Senate page.
This boy probably imagines that to the bolts of congress he will find America's most representative citizen. He will, of course find representatives, and some of them he will learn are honest and courageous, but he will stare in wide-eyed amazement at things others will do and say.

Skeptics will say we told you so, now that the story of the crisis of the City of San Francisco and the deaths of eight aboard had been verified. We should not overlook the fact that whenever a plane falls it is news of no immediate interest and makes the front pages of the newspapers, but many an auto wreck and even train smashup occurs without even a mention of it being acted out on the wires.

"World Times" and "Business Depression" is more of a psychological condition than an actual fact, declared Judge Daniel A.
Simmons, nationally known psychologist and jurist of Jacksonville, in an address made to the American Legion post of the Gulfway City. In his opinion "hard times is a state of mind," and that the "general economic situation of the country depends upon the optimistic spirit of the public."—Times-Union. And we might say, inversely, that the optimistic spirit of the public depends very largely upon the economic situation of the country.

Curves Preferred

Not always easy in the life of the bathing beauty. What we know of bathing beauties is that they are sometimes beautiful, always wear abbreviated bathing suits, and are invariably the subject of a good headline in any newspaper office. We would gather from this that they are the objects of public adulation, and that this adulation is wholly to their liking, else they would not enter such contests. Nevertheless here is at least one instance in which the most beautiful of them all was not adored, and did not like the attention she received from the public.

Lili Goldfarbeler, daughter of an Austrian cobbler, bearer of a Jewish name, descended upon Galveston a few months ago in all her sylph-like loveliness, and not much else, and in competition with scores of other choice ladies from all over the world, emerged "Miss Universe". Not only, we judge from that title, was she to be regarded as the most beautiful girl on earth, but on other planets as well, on Mars, Jupiter, Venus. She was described as a fairy queen blessed with an air of ethereal purity.

In Rumania, where Marie, another sort of queen, rules, lived Magda Dimitrescu, one of many girls had defeated for the title of "Miss Universe". To Bucharest Lili had been invited to show her wares at the famous Sinaia Casino. Leaving the Vienna Express she was met by Mile, Dimitrescu, who befriended her, and by a tremendous crowd of natives, not so friendly. Young men, brawny, eyed her strangely, compared her to plump and sturdy Dimitrescu whose fulsome curves and arches are what Rumanian rowdies call sex appeal.

Growing bolder, they expressed their thoughts in words. More printable were these: "Give us someone our weight! Give us Magda Dimitrescu—Magda is our weight! We want no underfed queens here! Let's make her eat some pork!" Then they rushed her. Police tried to hold them back. An officer was knocked down, trampled upon by the mob. Only a call for reserves and their prompt arrival prevented an onslaught upon a cathedral in which the Austrian girl had taken refuge.

Rough, hard American bawlers feel sorry for Lili Goldfarbeler as she, sobbing hysterically, was whisked in a limousine away from the fury of the mob. Being a prize winning beauty, she had suddenly found was not all it is cracked up to be. Perhaps she will be glad to return to the cashier's job in her father's shoe shop. There are animals among men, she has learned. But how much better to learn it as she did than as so many others do.

Clemenceau, The Man

To those who know anything about French political history, the name of Georges Clemenceau has long been synonymous with all that is rough, gruff and ruthless. So much has this been the case that the burly old statesman has been given the life-long sobriquet of "The Tiger", whose sharp and savage nature the fiery political characteristics of Clemenceau have so much resembled. It is recalled that in his early life the war-time premier fought a duel over a political dispute and today proudly wears a scar as a token of his youthful impulsiveness.

Last week new side of his life was revealed. It is a story of unassuming charity and philanthropic endeavor which forms a vivid contrast to the usual picture one has of the man who by intimidation and ruthlessness wrote such a notable chapter in the history of France. It is a story of "The Tiger's" interest in a sick girl, his concern over her affliction and his efforts to restore her to her pristine health.

Apprised of the condition of Marthe Renault, who lived in a modest little cottage nearby, Clemenceau sent for his physician, the finest in all France, and he ordered him to do everything in his power to bring back the girl's health. And now she is being well taken care of and is almost sure to recover from her illness, thanks to the unsuspected kindheartedness of her new friend.

Whether Clemenceau always had a little gold in his heart or whether it came there with old age will always remain a secret, except, perhaps, to those who knew him very intimately. Our guess is that his characteristics of harshness were in a large degree only a sham to be used in attaining the things which were his passion and that they represented Clemenceau, the statesman, and not Clemenceau, the man.

THE UNDEFENDED FRONTIER

PHILADELPHIA LEDGER

Whenever an American, a Canadian or an Englishman is called upon to address a gathering at which either or both of the nationalities is represented, there is one topic on which he will certainly refer, and which the reference, although it is altogether expected and, indeed, inevitable, is invariably greeted with volleys of surprise and enthusiastic applause. That topic, which is widely discussed last week at the Williamsburg Institute of Politics in the undefended frontier, 3000 miles long, which exists between the United States and Canada; and the speaker will expatiate at length upon the sweet sympathy which has allowed two nations, each of them ambitious and each, in a sense, aggressive, to live side by side without any breach of peace for more than a hundred years. The implication is always the same: that the United States and Canada, by referring their difference to the arbitration of reason rather than of force, have set an example which the rest of the world would do well to follow. And the implication, unfortunately, is not altogether justified.

For the hundred years, peace is founded not in sympathy and mutual forbearance, but in certain political considerations which apply exclusively to this continent. And the principal factor has not been the relationship which exists between Canada and the United States, but that which exists between Canada and Great Britain. Until recently Great Britain was responsible for the foreign policy of the Dominion, and since any conflict between Canada and this country implied the disintegration of the British Empire, Great Britain was careful to see that no such conflict occurred.

Great Britain, indeed, was considerably more forbearing in regarding the relationships of Canada with the United States, than Canada would have been in the mistress of her own destinies. The "Anglo-Saxon Times,"

Some golfers have been playing their favorite game in Florida while arrayed in their pajamas. There is nothing particularly startling in this. There is nothing now to prevent a Northerner from invading a Confederate state and playing golf in a union suit. But if a golfer in pajamas might be considered all dolled up. Comfort with decency is the rule under a Southern sun.—The

"Madame X" Opens Sunday At Milane For Three-Day Run

Raymond Hackett, who plays the son of "Madame X" in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's 24 talking filmization of the great stage favorite, playing at the Milane Theatre today and Tuesday, makes his second "talkie" appearance in this production. His debut on the talking screen was made in "The Trial of Mary Dugan." In both productions Hackett has the role of a young attorney at the bar, and in both plays he defends women to whom he is related.

A versatile star, Mr. Hackett has appeared in support of many of the most noted of dramatic stars, his makeup truth, it might be mentioned, having been a gift twenty years ago from Douglas Keane, when he was with her in Clyde Bruck's "The Happy Marriage."

music they want to see your New York," he declares. "Here no pleasure they nevertheless do not fail to look about for a good thing in the way of an investment."

Pancho has both an Argentine tango band and an American jazz band. He will take his jazz band to his own country soon.

"Give them jazz down there, and tango here in New York and we'll understand each other," he declares. Since Pancho's arrival, Americans are quickly learning to tell the difference between various types of South American music, for he is teaching them the melodies of Mexico and the Argentine, as distinguished from pure Spanish music.

Says he: "Pretty Little Maid of Old Madrid" that delightful fox-trot, shows real Spanish influence, yet many confuse this type of music with Latin-American melodies. It's a Spanish tune done in American foxtrot rhythm. "Ramona" was Mexican, and "Shoney" is Cuban. It is hard for the untrained ear to tell the difference, but my Argentine orchestra gives Americans the opportunity of hearing real Argentine music.

"Since the radio has taken American music to the Argentine, many wealthy Argentines who once spent their playtime in Paris are coming to New York instead, for enchanted with your real Argentine music."

SOUTH WITH THE BIRDS

Prepare Now ~ A True Florida Welcome

TO the South lies Florida! Sunshine and perfect climate—fishing and golf and boating and tennis—summer all winter, with surf and sand and every conceivable form of out-of-doors entertainment. Nowhere else can the traveler find greater comfort and enjoyment, and as a result, these factors of Florida's perfection have brought millions of visitors and millions of dollars into this state.

Tourists are a perpetual source of wealth to Florida and each passing year records an amazing increase in their numbers. Authentic reports of their worth to Florida indicate that there is no other source of income of greater importance. And many who come to visit, remain to live—adding materially to the normal growth of population.

It is this period of the year that the tourists of other climes are planning for their annual invasion of this state. Within a few weeks they will be coming into Florida by motor, by rail, by air, and by water. Indications are that the 1929-30 tourist season will outstrip other years by a wide margin.

It is NOW that we in Florida should prepare to welcome this army of visitors. Their favorable attitude and their good will must be fostered and maintained. Our house must be in order to receive them. Every Florida community should be making preparations now for this annual migration. Tourist travel is a definite and dependable asset to this state.

Just so long as Florida is bathed in the healthful rays of continual sunshine—refreshed by cooling breezes from Southern Seas—warmed by the Gulf Stream's limpid embrace—so long will the lure of its semi-tropic locale beckon invitingly to the rest of the world to "Fly South With The Birds"—AND SO LONG WILL FLORIDA REAP THE BENEFITS OF THEIR COMING.

Traffic Increase

As a specific example of the increasing tourist travel into Florida, the St. Johns River Bridge at Jacksonville records the following figures:

For the month of June, 1958,
3,644 Southbound out-of-state automobiles carried into Florida. 11,389 passengers.

For the month of June, 1929,
6,937 Southbound out-of-state
automobiles carried into Florida 18,927 passengers.

An increase of 2,343 automobiles and 7,538 passengers

NEW DORMITORY STATURE HALL WILL OPEN SOON IS DESCRIBED AS AT GAINESVILLE JUST JUNK SHOP

Swimming Pool Also To Be Dedicated At State University

GAINESVILLE, Sept. 9.—A new dormitory, costing approximately $200,000, a $100,000 athletic field building, and a $50,000 swimming pool will be dedicated at the University of Florida this month with the opening of the 1929-30 session.

On Gothic-Gothic style of architecture, constructed of brick and reinforced concrete, the 10-story dormitory apartment building is one of the most imposing structures on the campus of the state university. It forms a majestic connection with the south hall of fame and buildings that have been erected during the 1928-29 session.

Nine four suites, furnishing accommodation for 102 students, are contained in the new dormitory. The very latest features in dormitory construction are embodied in the building. The frescoes have been designed to suit the atmosphere of the University of Florida.
