Rosenwald Probe

State Hears Parents' Gripes; Begins Look At School For Handicapped

The state Department of Education has begun an investigation into complaints from five Seminole County parents about conditions at Rosenwald Exceptional Child Care Center.

Lynn Groves, a consultant with DOE's Bureau of Exceptional Education, said the investigation began Wednesday. She said interviews are being conducted with parents and school district officials to determine the extent of the disagreement.

The parents have complained that the absence of an occupational therapist and a school lunch program during the summer session is detrimental to the mentally and emotionally handicapped students who attend the school, Ms. Groves said.

The parents, Dr. and Mrs. Gordon Garver of Winter Springs, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Skaggs of Casselberry and Sandra Jones of Casselberry, asked for the formal investigation in a letter last week, Ms. Groves said.

Mrs. Jones complained that a teacher at the school has been handling occupational therapy during the summer session. She believes her son's condition is worsening because he is not receiving professional therapy.

The school occupational therapist's contract was not renewed by the School Board at the end of the 1982-83 school year and a new therapist will not begin work at the school until Aug. 22.

But summer school will end next week and Ms. Groves said that may make the question a moot issue.

The lunch program issue may take longer to resolve. The school board has offered no lunch program at Rosenwald even though some of the students there must receive specially prepared food at specific times.

According to Don Ricci, Seminole County's Director of Exceptional Education, two warmers have been placed at the school and ovens are available, so that food sent from home can be served hot.

Skaggs has been at odds with the school administration since earlier this year over numerous deficiencies he perceives at Rosenwald, including curriculum complaints, overcrowding and the lack of a kitchen.

The school's kitchen was converted into classroom space several years ago. And while the district plans to spend a $295,000 state grant to build seven additional classrooms, there are no plans to build a complete kitchen in the school.

District officials want to build a finishing kitchen, where food prepared in Lyman High School's kitchen is heated for serving.

Skaggs said he feels the special dietary needs of the Rosenwald students dictates a full kitchen be constructed.

During the summer session, some institutionalized students have been leaving school early so they can receive hot lunches. Their early departure has cost the district some state funding.

Ms. Groves said she is required by state law to resolve the complaints within 60 days.

Marina Owners Protest Docks Proposal For Port

By Michael Beha
Herald Staff Writer

A New Smyrna Beach man has asked the Seminole County Port Authority to approve construction of a 196-slip marina at the port's complex west of Sanford.

But owners of existing marinas on the St. John's River voiced opposition to the plan and several port authority members expressed their doubts.

Bill McVey of New Smyrna, a partner in the newly formed partnership Hidden Harbor Marina, told authority members Wednesday he wants to build the marina on an unused piece of waterfront property at the port.

A solid wood boardwalk would jut into the water from the western edge of the port's waterfront. Floating docks would be connected to the boardwalk, McVey said.

He told authority members construction would take place in two phases. The first phase would have 96 slips, the second 100 constructed in the second phase. A small store and clubhouse with pool are also planned for the marina.

The port would receive 10 percent of dock rentals and a lease fee from about a half-acre of land, McVey said. That would generate more than $13,000 a year for the port.

But several port authority members aren't so sure the port should allow a recreational facility to be built alongside its industrial properties.

David Lanier said the port is paying its bills and doesn't need to rush into an agreement which could later stop an industrial user from leasing the property.

Robert Sturm, the county commission's liaison member of the board, said he has some unanswered questions about the group seeking to build the marina, the financing of the project and security at the port.

Port Authority Attorney William Hutchison said he needs to study several things before the authority approves the marina project. His biggest question is whether the port authority, which operates an industrial complex, would violate any federal funding agreements by allowing the marina to be built.

The authority received federal Housing and Urban Development funds to help develop the property and new industries can use industrial revenue bonds to locate at the port complex.

Hutchison said the property was designed to serve as a port on the Cross Florida Barge Canal. The industrial park was intended to house industries which would use the barge canal, he said.

But Port Authority executive director Dennis Dolgner said the facility changed from its original purpose when the barge canal was abandoned. He said the marina "is not destroying the integrity of anything."

Two operators of existing marinas on the St. John's River also voiced opposition to the authority allowing the marina to be built.

Archie Smith, operator of Sanford Boat Works at the Douglas Stenstrom Bridge on State Route 415, said the project would jeopardize an expansion project planned for his marina.

Smith plans to double the size of the existing 150-dock marina. He said about 10 new docks would be constructed on an annual basis until the expansion is complete.

He said a new marina could make the expansion unprofitable.

Smith cited the effect of Monroe Harbour Marina, built in downtown Sanford in 1972. "When Monroe Harbour went in we lost 50 percent of our rentals in one day."

Not until the last year have all the spaces at the marina been filled, he said.

Chuck Vogt, of Monroe Harbour said his marina is also seeking to expand. An application has been filed with the federal government to allow for the addition of more docks on the "Island" on Lake Monroe.

"Why would the port want to compete with Sanford's franchise?" Vogt asked.

McVey said the marina would not be competitive. He claims telephone surveys of marinas on the river show that another 600 docks could be filled.

"Sure we're going to have some impact on Sanford Boat Works and Monroe Harbour but we expect to get a lot of transient traffic from Orlando who are now keeping their boats on trailers," he said.

Dolgner said he would review the questions submitted by authority members and present the project to the authority at its next meeting.

Fond Farewell Airport's Daniels Honored

By Donna Estes

"I love you all. I surely do," said John Daniels, Sanford businessman, in an emotion charged statement to his colleagues on the board of the Sanford Airport Authority as he was honored at a luncheon by airport and city officials Wednesday.

At the luncheon held at the Skyport Restaurant at the airport, Daniels was praised for his service on the authority board and presented with an engraved plaque. The Airport Authority was created by special legislation 11½ years ago, after the city of Sanford acquired the former Sanford Naval Air Station from the federal government. Daniels is a charter member of the first authority board and continued his service through the years since. Members of the authority board serve without paid.

Daniels has resigned from the authority because of the press of business and for personal reasons.

He is one of six of the seven member board that has served continuously since the airport authority was created on Oct. 1, 1971. The others are Scott Burns, Dr. Robert "Crusty" Rosemond, Joe B. Baker, John Mercer and A.K. Shoemaker Jr. The other authority member is James de Ganahl.

Only Shoemaker and de Ganahl could not be present for the occasion. "It's been a pleasure sitting,

Herndon Too Slow, Fire Chief Says

By Tom Giordano
Herald Managing Editor

Fire departments in at least two Seminole County cities are complaining that Herndon Ambulance service is taking too long to respond to calls in violation of its contract with the county.

But the owner of the firm, Idus Willis, says the seven-minute response time called for in his contract with the county was established several years ago and may no longer be realistic.

The issue began a few months ago but is coming to a head soon, according to Winter Springs Fire Chief Charles Holzman. His is one of the departments complaining. Holzman said he noticed several months ago that the response time by Herndon Ambulance to rescue scenes in his city "seemed to be taking much longer than the seven minutes they agreed to."

He said he complained to Barbara Smith, coordinator of the county's emergency services department, and indicated to her he would be conducting his own survey by recording response time. Holzman said his survey, conducted over the past 90 days, is completed, but that he hasn't compiled all the statistics or put them into a report yet.

"But I'd say the survey shows that of about 125 calls Herndon responded to in that period, the average response time was between 10 and 13 minutes."

Willis doesn't deny that may be the case. "Consider this, we have an ambulance in Casselberry, one in Sanford, one on Howell Branch Road and one in Altamonte Springs on the west side of Interstate-4. Depending on the time of day, weather conditions and the number of controlled intersections an ambulance encounters on the way to a call, it may be unrealistic to say seven minutes."

Willis pointed out it gets worse if the ambulance closest to the scene is out on another call. "Then we have to draw an ambulance from another point and obviously we lose a few minutes there."

Ms. Smith verified that Holzman's department is one of two departments complaining, but declined to name the other city.

They (the unidentified fire department) were somewhat vague about their complaint and what exactly they might be doing about it. "She said her department constantly monitors the ambulance service "at all levels, not just response time, and if we detect a major problem, we try to correct it. I'm waiting for Chief Holzman to turn in his report so we can evaluate it."

McCollum Finds No Support For Salvador Rebels

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer
First of two parts

The people of El Salvador don't want handouts, food, or American military personnel and they don't want to emigrate to the United States like the people of some Caribbean countries.

"They want to go back to their farms to work." These feelings were expressed to U.S. Rep. Bill McCollum, R-Altamonte Springs during an intensive 2½-day fact-finding tour of the Central American nation wracked by hit-and-miss guerrilla warfare from rebel forces.

The people, he concluded, do not support the rebel forces.

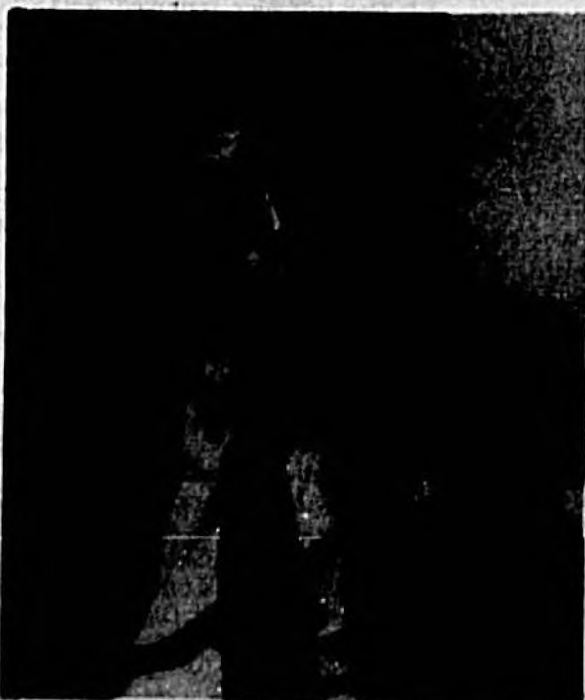

During his tours of camps where natives are living since they were forced to leave their farms by guerrilla fighters, McCollum found, he said, a universal theme in response to his questions.

"I asked them the simple question, 'What do you need most?' and their answer was universal, 'I want to go back to my farm,'" McCollum said.

If the shooting stopped and their home territory were free of military action, they want to go back to their farms, the congressman from Florida's fifth district, reports.

"The work ethic of these people is strong. They are poor by our standards, but if they were able to be farming they would be well off and most have no incentive to come to the United States," McCollum said.

The congressman was particularly impressed by his visit to San Francisco, a government post in the far regions, which is 1,500 strong and completely surrounded by guerrillas. "It's dif-icult at best, practically impossible to ship supplies in," he said.

A father of three sons, McCollum especially noticed the "kids with distended stomachs and eye infections, living under wretched conditions." But the people have actually built of their own accord a school, McCollum said, albeit a crude building with desks that are falling apart.

"They want to teach the children to read and write and they wanted to show us their school. I made a surprise visit, I asked for it," he said. "And I was really impressed."

"There was no organized leader of the group," McCollum said. Neither the government nor anyone else told him where to go or what to look at.

I was tremendously impressed with the people," he said, adding about 60 percent of the Salvadorans are literate.

When he first arrived in El Salvador, McCollum met with President Magana, was briefed by Gen. Vides-Casanova, defense minister; by Maj. Dubuson, president of the constituent assembly and head of the Arena Party, one of the two major political parties (the other major party is the Social Democrats); then spent time with Monsignor Freddy Delgado; visited both the military hospital and the civilian hospital and talked with the American medical advisory team.

He was also briefed by the American Embassy staff and indicated the places where he was interested in touring. He visited San Vicente, an area where the fighting between the government forces and the rebels has been reported extensively in news stories published in the United States.

"I was briefed there by Col. Goucher, who heads the task force for 'Operation Well-Being' and I visited displaced persons' camps. I left there by helicopter and flew over the eastern part of the country where the war has been going on. In San Francisco, I met with the military, Col. Cruz who is head of that department (departments are areas in El Salvador that are somewhat like counties in Florida) of the El Salvador government.

The displaced persons' camp there was filled with particularly impoverished persons, McCollum said.

Each night while he was in El Salvador, dinner was held at someone's home, usually that of a business community leader or member of the chamber of commerce, many of whom lost land in the government's agrarian reform.

The military leadership's agrarian reform calls for taking away from owners property exceeding 1,230 acres for redistribution to those who have farmed the land. Many of those farmers who were given land are now in displaced persons camps, McCollum said.

"There are 280,000 DP's in the country, have left their farms or gone to live with relatives in a city away from the war or to DP camps because guerrillas shot their cows or whatever," the congressman said.

"Until the country is in a condition for those people to return to their farms, there is no hope," he said, noting that trade within the Central American country has nearly come to a halt.

IN BRIEF

Botched Sterilization Can Lead To Lawsuits

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Parents can sue doctors and hospitals for the cost of raising and educating a child born after an unsuccessful sterilization, the Arizona Supreme Court has ruled.

In a 3-2 decision Wednesday, the court said there were many situations in which parents "are simply unable to handle another child" for financial or emotional reasons and the birth could cause "substantial damage."

The ruling was issued in a case involving Patrick and Peanne Heimann of Tucson, who filed a malpractice lawsuit against the University of Arizona Hospital.

The suit alleged Mrs. Heimann became pregnant after one of the hospital's doctors performed a vasectomy on her husband. She gave birth to a girl on Oct. 4, 1981.

Lavelle On Trial Today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rita Lavelle, fired as chief of the Environmental Protection Agency's toxic waste cleanup program, goes to court today to fight contempt of Congress charges that could send her to prison for a year.

Miss Lavelle, 35, was indicted by a federal grand jury shortly after the House voted 413 to 0 to find her in contempt of Congress May 18 for failing to obey a subpoena from a House Energy and Commerce subcommittee.

The contempt charge stems from her refusal to testify on March 21 before the subcommittee about allegations of politicking and mismanagement in the EPA hazardous waste cleanup program.

President Reagan fired Miss Lavelle from her job as EPA assistant administrator for solid waste and emergency response on Feb. 7 amid intensifying congressional investigations into charges of mismanagement, political favoritism, "sweetheart deals" with corporate polluters and conflicts of interest at the EPA. Much of the Capitol Hill action focused on Miss Lavelle's management of the Superfund toxic waste cleanup program.

Baby Panda May Be Dead

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Zoo's giant female panda Ling-Ling gave birth early today to the first panda cub born in the United States, but officials said the infant appeared to have died several hours later.

Zoo spokeswoman Leslie Hornig said the cub was born at 3:18 a.m. but by 7:30 a.m. appeared to have died.

The birth came 124 days after Ling-Ling coupled with her mate Hsing-Hsing, the first successful mating after eight years of trying. But Hornig said the "cub's paternity is impossible to determine at this time" because veterinarians also artificially inseminated Ling-Ling with semen from the London Zoo's male panda, Chia-Chia.

Ling-Ling and Hsing-Hsing were given to the United States by the Chinese government during the Nixon administration in 1972.

GNP Up Sharply

Economic Recovery 'In The Big Leagues'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's economy galloped ahead at an 8.7 percent rate from April through June, the strongest growth of the gross national product in more than two years, the Commerce Department said today.

Increased consumer spending, particularly on automobiles, and an end to the sale of inventories without replacement, helped the year's second quarter leap ahead of the first quarter's 2.6 percent growth rate.

The new quarterly figure, adjusted for both seasonal patterns and inflation, brought the current economic recovery "squarely into the big leagues, clearly in line with previous recoveries." In the post-World War II era, department spokesman Larry Moran said.

Last month the department projected, on the basis of partial information, that the second quarter growth rate would be 6.6 percent. Most leading private analysts had forecast a rate of between 6.8 and 7.2 percent.

While there is no guarantee the July-September quarter under way will continue the growth, analysts expect another strong performance but warn the recent hike in interest rates of up to 1 percent may slow down housing and auto sales after that.

The second quarter displayed the strongest growth since the January-March period of 1981, a quarter of 9 percent growth that was a rebound from the previous short recession made worse by restrictions on credit.

Economists generally consider a growth rate in the neighborhood of 4 percent, sustained over several quarters, necessary to substantially improve the unemployment rate.

One of the main factors building the second quarter economic growth beyond initial projections was the fact consumer spending was running at an 8.9 percent annual rate above the first quarter.

The latest report showed the biggest negative factor in the recovering economy, export sales, grew worse.

Nixon Reportedly Threatened Ford To Ensure Watergate Pardon Granted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One day before his Watergate pardon was made public, Richard Nixon called President Gerald Ford and threatened that unless it was granted he would claim Ford "promised the pardon in exchange for the presidency," an article in Atlantic magazine says.

The Washington Post reported today that the article, written by former New York Times reporter Seymour Hersh, says the alleged phone call was made Sept. 7, 1974, as a lawyer representing Ford was negotiating with Nixon and his representatives on conditions under which a pardon would be granted.

Ford repeatedly has denied making any such bargain before Nixon's resignation.

"Nixon's message," Hersh writes, "was blunt, according to those few White House aides who knew of the private call: If Ford did not grant him a full pardon, he, Nixon, was going to go public and claim that Ford had promised the pardon in exchange for the presidency, because Ford was so eager to get it."

Spokesmen for Nixon could not immediately be reached for comment, and Robert Barrett, a Ford spokesman contacted in Colorado Wednesday night, said the former president would have no comment until he saw the article.

In his 20,000-word article, Hersh writes that Ford, in an April interview with him "emphatically denied" making a deal with White House chief of staff Alexander Haig during a private meeting eight days before Nixon resigned.

Barrett told the Post earlier: "In Ford's mind, there was no phone call."

'Whether there was a deal may never be known, because the men involved have yet to give a full account.'

—Author Seymour Hersh

Hersh wrote that many of the aides who worked closely with Haig and Ford "still assume that there was a deal of some sort," but Hersh stops short of making such an assertion. "Whether there was a deal may never be known, because the men involved have yet to give a full account."

None of the aides who knew of Nixon's alleged call to Ford the day before the pardon are identified.

The article is certain to revive speculation that Nixon, in return for the promise of a pardon, struck a

"It's been estimated that over 500,000 'foot people' from El Salvador have come into the United States illegally."

"They create the same type of problems as the illegal Haitians and Cubans, but are not as notorious in the press," he said.

McCullum said he found that the El Salvador government military in the past 37 days has taken the initiative and now has the upper hand in San Vicente department.

"They decided to concentrate their forces under what is called 'Operation Well Being.' Their game plan was to be a six-month effort to move out all of the rebels from San Vicente. They were successful in little more than a month," McCollum noted. "They didn't expect to be so successful so quickly."

"They reopened 32 of 120 schools so far and have begun to set up cooperatives, to put people back on farms in San Vicente," McCollum said.

Friday: If El Salvador's people don't want handouts, nor American military personnel, what do they want? McCollum gives his assessment in a written report to President Reagan.

Sanford Man Jailed In Burglary, Assault On Woman

A 19-year-old Sanford man has been arrested and charged with breaking into a Sanford woman's home Wednesday, fondling her and burglarizing her apartment.

Sanford police officers arrested Howard Lee Armstrong, 900 W. 11th St., and charged him with battery, armed burglary and grand theft. He was being held in the Seminole County jail today in lieu of $10,000 bond.

Police say Armstrong entered the apartment of Doretha Eady, 27, at 57 Castle Brewer Court, through a south window, searched a back room, entered the victim's bedroom and removed $90 in cash from her purse. He also picked up a hunting knife from her dresser, according to police reports.

Eady told officers she awoke at 3:05 a.m. to find the intruder in her bedroom. She said the man fondled her, she screamed and the man fled.

ARMED BURGLARY

A Sanford woman awoke at 3:07 a.m. Wednesday to find a strange man standing inside her bedroom doorway, rumaging through the contents of her dresser top.

The woman screamed, and the intruder fled through the living room door.

The victim, Doretha Eady, 27, of Apt. 57, Castle Brewer Court, told Sanford police that a hunting knife and about $90 in cash was missing from her dresser.

The man entered her apartment through a living room window, police said.

CABLE DUG UP

About 200 feet of buried cable, which belongs to Orange-Seminole Cablevision, was dug up behind a house that is under construction at Cheryl Estates near Maitland between 4 p.m. Monday and 9 a.m. Tuesday.

A cable pedestal was also destroyed, according to Marvin Louis Usary of Orange-Seminole Cablevision, who reported the incident to Seminole deputy sheriff. Usary estimated the total loss at $500.

FILE OF QUARTERS

A thief made off with 3,640 quarters — that's $910 worth — from a Sanford man's home between 9 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Robert Scout, 56, of 303 Sir Lawrence Drive, in the Grove View subdivision, said the quarters were piled up in a white bucket on a desk in his bedroom.

The intruder removed $800 worth of quarters that were rolled up and $110 worth of loose quarters, according to a Sanford police report.

ARTISTIC TOUCH

Someone used a can of aerosol paint to "decorate" a southwest Seminole woman's car, spraying a way line on the left side windows and adding a swirl design on the left front window between 4 p.m. Monday and 10:45 a.m. Tuesday.

Clara M. Waldron, of 1150 Mountain Way near Apopka, told Seminole deputies that the incident happened while her 1978 Ford Granada was parked on the street in front of her house.

SCHOOL THEFT

A locked bicycle which belonged to a Lake Brantley High School student was taken from a bicycle rack outside the school between 12:10 and 1:15 p.m. Monday.

The owner of the bike, William Clay Thompson, 13, of 521 Balaawood Court in Altamonte Springs, said the black and white Diamond Back racing bicycle was valued at $275.

COINS SNATCHED

A man snatched 65¢ out of the hand of a 7-year-old Sanford girl as she was returning home after buying a soda at a store at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Yolanda Perkins, of 62 Castle Brewer Court, told Sanford police the incident happened as she was walking near her home.

FENCE VANISHES

A 20-foot section of chain link fence and some support poles were stolen from the backyard of Helen U. Chaney, 73, at 682 Greenmeadow Ave., near Maitland, Wednesday afternoon.

DUI ARRESTS

The following persons have been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence:

•Raymond John Kouwe, 36, of 1035 W. Notre Dame, Altamonte Springs, was arrested at 10:08 p.m. Sunday while driving on State Road 434 near Raymond Street.

•Rick Allen Krodell, 21, of 2666 Hill Ave., Jacksonville, was arrested at 5:10 p.m. Sunday while driving near 25th Street and Park Avenue in Sanford.

•Thomas Arthur Pendergast, 42, of 8270 Via Bella Drive, Sanford, was arrested at 3:25 a.m. Sunday on Markham Road west of Sanford after his car struck a power pole, according to the Florida Highway Patrol. Pendergast was also charged with careless driving.

•Cynthia Marie Horrobin, 22, of 2029 Nottingham Drive, Winter Park, was arrested at 8:45 p.m. Sunday while driving on S. Sanford Avenue in Sanford.

•Robert Langston Kearse, 60, of 517 Cypress Ave., Sanford, was arrested at 9 p.m. Saturday at the Sanford Burger King, 2930 S. Orlando Dr.

•Laura Renee Dawson, 22, of 4810 Darwood St., Orlando, was arrested at 10:54 p.m. Sunday as she was driving on U.S. Highway 17-92 two miles north of State Road 434. She was also charged with failure to maintain a single lane, fleeing and attempting to elude police.

•Jesse A. Lawson, 29, of 104 Drew Drive, Sanford, was arrested at 3 p.m. Monday while he was driving near Park Avenue and 4th Street in Sanford.

Fatal Shooting Leads To $1 Million Lawsuit

The shooting death of a man during an argument at a Deltona Little League baseball game in April has led to the filing of a $1 million lawsuit.

The lawsuit was filed Tuesday in Circuit Court in Volusia County by Catherine Hill, the mother of the man who was killed, on behalf of the estate of her son, Thomas James Dunn Jr. The suit was filed against Daniel Alphonse Fleming, also of Deltona.

Fleming, 40, a former New York City policeman, was indicted in May by a Volusia County grand jury on a first-degree murder charge in connection with the killing.

Dunn, who was 22 at the time, was shot in the head April 14 as he sat in his car at Vann Park in Deltona.

Witnesses said that Dunn and Fleming got in an argument because Dunn's car was blocking Fleming's van from driving away from the park where his son was playing baseball.

No trial date has been set in the case.

MX Missile Funding Retained

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The MX missile survived another crucial vote in the House, but its opponents say the momentum is turning against the nuclear weapon.

The House late Wednesday rejected 220-207 an amendment to a military spending bill that would have cut out $2.5 billion for production of the first 27 MX missiles.

The Senate scheduled a vote today on a petition filed by Republican leader Howard Baker to choke off debate on the MX.

The House vote followed an intensive campaign in which Reagan and other top administration officials lobbied wavering House members to support the 10-warhead nuclear weapon.

The House rejected an amendment by Reps. Nicholas Mavroules, D-Mass., and Charles Bennett, D-Fla., that would have deleted $2.5 billion for procurement of 27 MX missiles but retained $2 billion in research funds.

But the margin of rejection was much narrower than the 239-186 tally in May by which the House approved flight-testing funds for the missile.

MX opponents said they hope to carry the momentum through September, when the House is scheduled to consider a military appropriations bill containing MX funding.

"We lost by 53 votes in May. We lost by 13 votes today. We picked up a vote a day," said Rep. Edward Markey, D-Mass.

He predicted that unless Reagan makes demonstrable progress on arms control in the next few months, "MX will die on the next vote."

But Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., one of a group of moderate Democrats who originally opposed the missile, argued it was part of a compromise recommended in April by the president's Scowcroft commission, named after its chairman, retired Air Force Gen. Brent Scowcroft.

Reagan embraced the panel's recommendations for basing 100 MX missiles in Minuteman silos; deployment of a small, mobile single-warhead missile by the 1990s, and a renewed commitment to arms control.

White House Refuses Access To Reagan Files

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The head of a House subcommittee called his members together today to deal with the refusal of the White House to grant the panel direct access to Ronald Reagan's 1980 campaign files, sources said.

The subcommittee is investigating possible leaks or theft of Carter White House files by the Reagan campaign and wants permission for its investigators to pore over President Reagan's files, stored in a California library, to see if any Carter materials turn up.

Sources familiar with the week-old negotiations said Rep. Donald Albosta, D-Mich., probably will not ask his Post Office and Civil Service subcommittee to issue a subpoena for the files at this stage.

But the sources said Albosta and his staff found unsatisfactory a proposal by White House counsel Fred Fielding that they review only Reagan campaign files considered pertinent by the FBI.

A team of FBI agents already is reviewing the massive files, enough to fill 550 feet of shelf space, at the Hoover Institution Library at Stanford University. Albosta has argued his subcommittee's inquiry, under the panel's mandate to reform the Ethics in Government Act, is broader than the scope of the FBI investigation into possible criminal wrongdoing. He asserts the subcommittee should be allowed to see all the Reagan files.

Until Wednesday's letter from Fielding, subcommittee aides had said they were "very close" to an agreement providing access to the files, and it was unclear whether the panel had offered to compromise on its original demands.

When the controversy first began brewing over disclosure of the Reagan camp had access to a briefing book prepared to aid President Carter in rehearsing for a presidential debate, Reagan pledged his full cooperation with investigators.

WORLD IN BRIEF

5 Killed, 15 Injured In Beirut Hotel Bombing

United Press International
A car bomb exploded outside a fashionable seaside hotel in west Beirut, killing five people and injuring 15 just hours after Israel said it would redeploy its army to more defensible positions in southern Lebanon.

The attack on the Summerland Hotel, owned by a Druze Moslem, came late Wednesday some 15 hours after east Beirut was hit by the latest in a series of shellings from Syrian-controlled Druze areas of the mountains outside Beirut.

Official Beirut radio said four men died in the hotel explosion and identified one as a 22-year-old Lebanese taxi driver. A fifth person, a doorkeeper, was gunned down and killed by the attackers seconds before the blast.

Gemayel: 'Everybody Out'

United Press International
Lebanese President Amin Gemayel, insisting that Israel withdraw all of its forces from his war-torn country, says a partial removal of the troops would result in the splitting apart of his nation.

"The partial withdrawal means a de facto partition of Lebanon," Gemayel said.

Israel announced earlier Wednesday it is redeploying its forces in Lebanon, apparently pulling back from around Beirut to a point about 11 miles to the south to place Israeli troops in more defensible positions.

Is Girl Still Alive?

ROME (UPI) — The parents of a 15-year-old girl, Italian police and Pope John Paul II awaited word today to see if kidnapers had fulfilled their promise to kill her unless papal assalant Mehmet Agca was freed.

Investigators said they hoped until the last minute that the mysterious kidnapers would abandon their demand for the release of Agca, the Turkish terrorist who shot and wounded John Paul in 1981, in return for Emanuela Orlandi, daughter of a papal messenger.

The midnight Wednesday deadline passed with no new communication.

Emanuela, who had just finished a music lesson, disappeared June 22 while waiting for a bus in the center of Rome near Italy's Senate.

'Junk Food' Prof's Killers Sentenced To Life In Prison

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — One teenage defendant wept in the arms of his attorney and another sullenly assented when asked to confirm his guilty plea.

In separate hearings, the two teenagers charged with the ritualistic suffocation of University of Florida "junk food" professor Howard Appledorf last September pleaded guilty Wednesday to first-degree murder.

The two admitted homosexuals — Paul Everson, 19, of Roslindale, Mass., and Gary Bown, 19, of New York City — were immediately sentenced to life in prison with no eligibility for parole for 25 years.

Clinging to his attorney, Huntley Johnson, Bown broke down and wept as a statement describing the killing was read. Unsmiling, Everson answered, "Yes," to Circuit Judge Elzie Sanders' questions.

Both were dressed in blue denim jeans and prison-issued blue shirts.

Bill DeCarlia, an attorney for the third defendant, Shane Kennedy, 16, of Woodbury, Conn., said the guilty pleas in no way affected his client's case. Kennedy is scheduled to go to trial in September.

Attorneys for Bown and Everson said they decided to enter into plea-bargaining negotiations with the state about a month ago. They said the state agreed only last week not to ask for the death penalty.

Asked why they chose not to go to trial, Johnson told reporters, "Either side would have been rolling the dice on the death penalty."

The 44-year-old Appledorf, a nutritional expert, was dubbed "the junk food professor" because of his advocacy of the food served at fast-food restaurants.

On Sept. 4, 1982, he was found bound and gagged in his lakefront apartment. The words "murder and redrum" — murder spelled backwards — were scrawled in ink and barbecue sauce on the living room walls.

Police said he slowly suffocated beneath a canvas bag placed on his face while his killers sat in a circle on the floor quaffing beer and munching sandwiches.

The three defendants were arrested a few days later in New York's "meat rack" section, a well-known gathering place for male prostitutes.

In entering Everson's plea, attorney Stephen Bernstein claimed his client was under the influence of alcohol and LSD at the time of the murder.

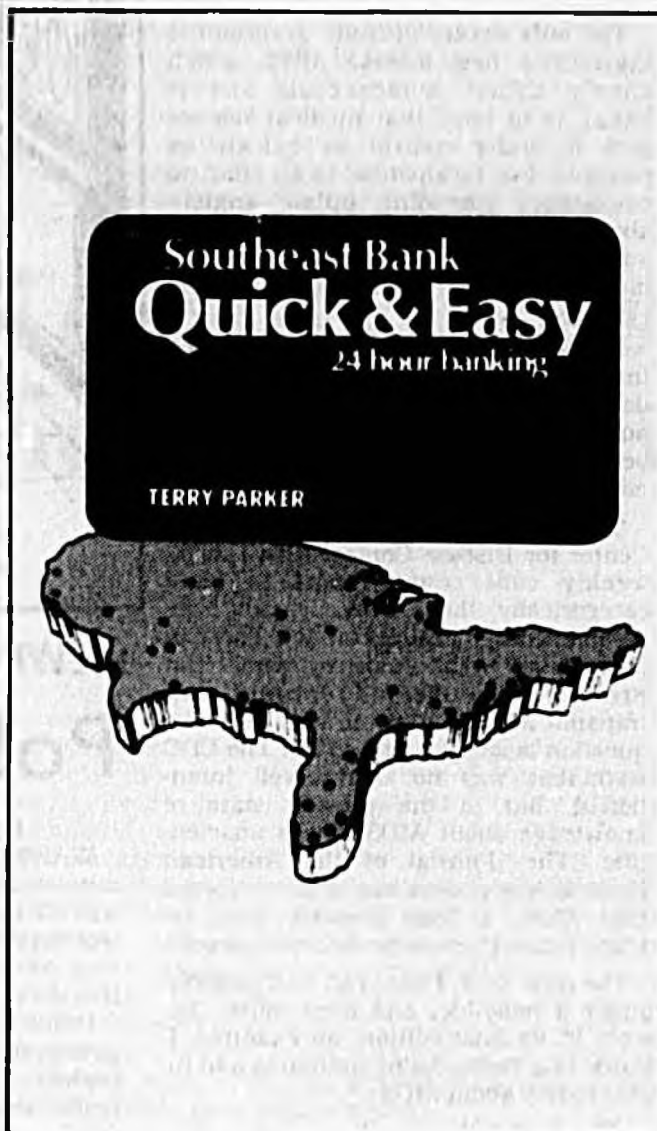

The statement said Everson and his co-defendants sought revenge on Appledorf after they were jailed for stealing and trying to cash one of his personal checks. Appledorf later dropped the charges.

The three had stayed at Appledorf's apartment as his guests before the stolen check incident, neighbors told police.

Next Frontier Of U.S. Industry

Beware of a false recovery.

While the Japanese and Germans are building better cars, America is building bigger conglomerates. While the world market is expanding, basic American industries are seeking shelter in protectionism. While Third World industries are experiencing growth, U.S. producers are in decline. While foreign countries are tooling up, American corporations are juggling assets.

Paper entrepreneurship — paper acquisitions plus paper losses equals paper profits — is the way American managers have weathered the recession.

But the 1983 recovery, now just beginning to bloom, will be killed off if American business doesn't halt the paper chase and put financial and creative resources to work. American industry must maintain its basic components but undergo a qualitative change, like water turning to steam, if we are to avoid obsolescence and enter the new industrial era.

That rather apocalyptic analysis comes from Robert B. Reich, a Harvard professor at the Kennedy School of Government. Writing in the March and April issues of The Atlantic Monthly, Reich argued that the entire foundation of American industry — high-volume, standardized production, using unskilled labor — is going the way of the horse and buggy.

What is coming in is a new form of production based on flexibility, new technology and skilled labor.

And if American managers don't shift directions, investment capital, which knows no geographic boundaries, will leave American industry behind and find a home in efficient and progressive industries abroad.

It already has, to a great degree. American investment and equipment is increasingly being exported to countries where workers will do the same assembly-line jobs as American workers — for less money. This is throwing basic industrial cities like Detroit and Youngstown into a tailspin of declining jobs and revenues from which they may not recover. Unless, Reich argues, they strike out into the "next frontier" of high quality, flexible production.

Take steel. U.S. steel production has been in decline for a decade. But specialty steel, which employs new alloys and demands high technology, is on the upswing.

Take another example, cars. While Washington is asking the Japanese to abide by "voluntary quotas" — a stalking horse for U.S. protectionism — Japanese manufacturers are using the limits to produce fewer cars, but of higher quality, to sell to the U.S. market. They are using U.S. protectionism to upgrade their products, while U.S. manufacturers are hiding behind protectionism to keep from having to upgrade their cars.

It doesn't have to be that way. America has the technology and the skills to produce high-quality manufactured goods that cannot be manufactured in Third World production lines. But U.S. corporations, absorbed in the conglomerate game, fostered by heavy tax write-offs, are finding it easier to acquire say, an insurance agency, than to retool their industries and become competitive.

The end result of current trends is that America will become a supplier of basic resources (coal, wood etc.) and simple manufactured goods, while so-called Third World nations will be manufacturing complex, high-quality goods. That dead-end road would make Henry Ford roll over in his grave.

To change course, Reich proposes basic reforms. Among them are:

1. Eliminate protectionism and all incentives that shield industries from necessary, even painful, changes to new technologies.
2. Remove the tax on income, which imposes a penalty on real profits, and impose a tax on consumption, which promotes income saving.
3. Stop giving tax incentives for companies to make conglomerates. This would make it more attractive for a company to invest in itself, rather than buying a smaller company in a different field.

These are excellent ideas. America needs political leaders committed to economic reform. American industry must stop shuffling paper assets and start producing real prosperity.

BERRY'S WORLD

"You're lucky. I wish MY parents were going to computer camp."

By Charles Cobb

Hank Bierly of the Seminole County sheriff's department's special operations unit wants to remind everyone that the Florida Sheriffs Boys Ranch and Girls Villa are still two of the most worthwhile charitable ventures to be found in the state.

There are thousands of needy and worthy youngsters all over Florida who deserve a better break in life, says Bierly.

Some are victims of broken homes, some are orphans, some are dropouts, some are drifters and most of them have started life with three strikes against them.

They are not juvenile delinquents. They are simply good girls and boys who have had some bad breaks, Bierly said. They need a helping hand to keep them from drifting into a life of crime or hopeless futility — and fortunately there is a place where they can get it.

The Boys Ranch, founded in 1957 by the Florida Sheriffs Association, is located nine miles north of Live Oak on a 2,800-acre site on the historic Suwanee River.

Girls Villa was founded in 1967 and chartered by the Sheriffs Association in 1970. It's located in Central Florida, two miles east of Bartow on 125 acres.

The goals of the Ranch and the Villa are to give security, love, discipline and understanding to neglected and homeless boys and girls. Also to provide them with opportunities that will enable them to resolve their personal conflicts, find their identity and learn right values and judgments. And, finally, the goal is to prepare them for a secure future.

The Boys Ranch and Girls Villa "have helped hundreds of youngsters to come into the good life with a family environment," said Bierly. "The youngsters live in cottages with a house parent for each group."

"The boys are taught vocational skills such as mechanics and they have their own farm where they grow crops," said Bierly. "The girls learn home making and other skills. Both institutions are located on bodies of water and have excellent recreational facilities."

Gifts (which are tax deductible) for both institutions should be mailed to Boys Ranch, Fla. 32060.

Media Bias On AIDS

The only decent attitude towards the mysterious new disease AIDS, which chiefly afflicts homosexuals and is lethal, is to hope that medical science gets it under control as quickly as possible. But meanwhile, in an effort to counteract spreading public anxiety about the disease, medical and other authorities have been issuing statements that go far beyond the available evidence.

The bottom line on AIDS (Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome) is that we do not know what causes it, and we do not know how it is transmitted from one person to another. And, of course, we do not know how to cure it.

Thus, it is nonsense for the national Center for Disease Control (CDC) in its weekly case control report to state categorically that AIDS "cannot" be spread through casual contact. There in fact seems to be some evidence that prolonged household contact can transmit AIDS, but at the very least the question is an open one so far. The CDC statement was no doubt well intentioned, but in the present state of knowledge about AIDS it was unscientific. The Journal of the American Medical Association has in fact reported that AIDS, at least possibly, may be transmitted by close household contact.

The New York Times ran that opinion under a headline, and then killed the story in its final edition, an example, I think, of a media disinclination to add to the anxiety about AIDS.

The July 4 Newsweek assures us that "Most medical experts insist that AIDS can be transmitted only through intimate sexual contact or blood products." Well, those medical "experts" may well be correct, but they are certainly going far beyond the present state of scientific knowledge concerning AIDS. In New York City, a sanitation worker, reportedly entirely heterosexual and not a drug user, came down with a severe case of AIDS. How he contracted it remains unknown, despite the "insistence" of "most medical experts."

Newsweek also reports, as if evidence of public hysteria, that "in Provincetown, Mass., a resort town on the tip of Cape Cod with a large gay population, local officials and businessmen have been besieged with inquiries about whether it's safe to vacation in Provincetown and eat in its restaurants."

Well, it's probably safe to do so — but we certainly do not know that as a scientific fact. Are we absolutely certain that AIDS, as a blood condition, cannot be transmitted by a mosquito? After all, we know that it can be transmitted by a hypodermic needle.

It remained for New York's Episcopal Bishop Paul Moore to opine that "AIDS is not God's vengeance on the homosexual community," which I suppose is true, but which has not really been very widely claimed, even by Jerry Falwell.

What seems to be happening here really has a kind of political coloration. Many people are making sweeping statements about AIDS, statements that go far beyond the scientific evidence, both in effort to calm exaggerated public anxieties, and in an effort to protect the homosexual cultural and political interest.

U.S. Poland Position Worries Some

WASHINGTON — Is the Reagan administration going "soft" on the Polish communist regime? This may seem out of character for President Reagan, but our European allies are worried about just that.

The issue is whether to lift the economic sanctions imposed on Poland after Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski promulgated martial law in December 1981. Administration sources say that for months the West Europeans have been urging the U.S. government to go slow in resuming friendlier relations with the Polish military regime.

Then last week, as a result of judicial leaks to the press, it was disclosed that the United States had unilaterally negotiated a secret deal with the Poles that would thaw the chilly relations of the past year-and-a-half. Undersecretary of State Lawrence Eagleburger and Polish Charge d'Affaires Zdzislaw Ludwiczak were trying to work out a quid pro quo: lifting of some U.S. sanctions in return for

VIEWPOINT

Poland Post-Martial Law

By Walter Wisniewski

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — The Communist regime has clearly signaled it will lift martial law, but most Poles are wondering how much difference the new political decree really will make in their lives.

Indications are growing that the government may lift martial law only to replace it with a set of equally strict restrictions remaining in effect through 1985.

Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski's government has mounted the most intense propaganda campaign of the 19-month period of military rule to drum up enthusiasm for the return to civilian rule, which apparently will be accompanied by amnesty for several hundred political prisoners.

Poland's state-controlled press has begun praising the concept of amnesty, which was first proposed publicly by a government-backed group called the Patriotic Movement for National Rebirth.

The pardon will extend to the underground, reliable sources say, but only on the regime's terms: political activists who want to end their clandestine existence must swear loyalty to the government.

Details of the official amnesty plan were unavailable at the weekend before martial law was to be lifted. But the official PAP news agency suggested any underground activists coming in from the cold also would have to make a clean breast of illegal activities they took part in, and name their accomplices.

The leadership of the Solidarity underground, a five-man group known as the Temporary Coordinating Committee, denounced the regime's approach to lifting martial law and its amnesty plan even before the full shape of the program emerged.

"The formal lifting of martial law without canceling the legislation introduced under its cover ... will be only a gesture, without any substantial political significance," the underground said in a statement.

"Social trust cannot be built on the rubble of August 1980. A merely formal lifting of martial law and amnesty will in no way induce us to halt our activity."

The size of the underground's active membership is unknown. But the remnants of the Solidarity organization hold the allegiance of a sizable share of Poland's 36 million people even though the union itself has been formally abolished.

The military takeover on Dec. 13, 1981 that shut down Solidarity, sealed Poland's borders and resulted in the jailing of thousands of people was one of the most unpopular episodes in the nation's history.

Ironically, now that full civilian rule is about to be restored, many Poles realize that the authoritarian changes they have experienced are about to be made permanent.

The 460-seat Sejm, or parliament, last week passed with only three dissenting votes a bill guaranteeing Polish police virtually the same sweeping powers they enjoyed under martial law, including full privileges to stop and search anyone at random.

The legislation specifically gave the security forces the right to use tear gas, water cannon, clubs and dogs — weapons they have used to break up demonstrations since December 1981 — whenever necessary.

The martial law prohibition against any public gathering of five or more people without official permission probably will be allowed to pass out of existence quietly. But the police still have the power to move against any demonstration that they say threatens the authority of the state.

Paired with the new law on police powers was a bill revising press censorship regulations. It has not yet been passed, and may be delayed until autumn by objections from non-Communist members of parliament.

It would roll back all of the many reforms of censorship regulations Solidarity won in late 1981, when Poland briefly had the freest press in the Communist bloc.

One of the major elements of the regime's legislative plan to lift martial law has not yet been divulged. It's labeled simply "the special legal regulations in the period of overcoming the socio-political crisis," and a brief official summary says it will remain in effect from 1983-85.

Shedding Light On Cancer...

By UPI-Science Digest

The most basic ingredient in seeing things — light — is now being used to help doctors diagnose lumps in breast tissue.

Developed in Sweden, the technique is called diaphanography, and can determine whether breast lumps are fibrous, benign or malignant, according to a report in the August issue of Science Digest.

Radiologist Rita Girolamo of New York's Westchester County Medical Center, says its safety, simplicity and accuracy make it an important addition to diagnosis. It is particularly significant for younger women, for whom radiation mammograms are considered dangerous.

A white light is shined through breast tissue as pictures are taken on infrared film. The resulting photos detail blood vessels and tissue masses including lumps. Since cysts and benign and malignant tumors all differ in density, they can be distinguished by examining color differences in their images on the infrared film. For example, a cyst reflects more light than a tumor because it contains more fluid, while a denser benign tumor is darker. Malignancies or hemorrhages look dark brown or black. Alone, the diaphanogram has been 80 percent accurate; when combined with a physical exam, thermogram, and mammogram, accuracy is 96 percent.

Babies in Togo, West Africa, cry less and are more eager to explore than American ones. A Columbia University pediatrician thinks it may be because they're held and carried more frequently.

To test his hunch, Nicholas Cunningham and research psychologist Elizabeth Anisfeld are comparing the babies of two randomly assigned groups of American mothers. On leaving the hospital, one group is given soft pouches that hold the baby close to the body; the other group is given free-standing baby seats. Then for 18 months, the babies' responses to stress and separation are noted.

In Africa, says Cunningham, "It's accepted that babies are carried, pampered and breast-fed on demand. In this country, we value independence and start to teach it from birth, instead of allowing the baby to initiate the separation process. No one's ever looked to see if this creates more confident children or more dependent ones."

The next generation of ultrafast, high-speed computers may be based on a new device that does everything a transistor can do but uses only one-hundredth as much power as the most advanced circuits of today. This device is called a quateron.

Less power means less excess heat to be dissipated. This will allow designers to pack thousands of extra circuits into the same space without risk of overheating. This speeds up the flow of electronic information.

The invention of IBM engineer Sadeg Faris, the quateron relies on the strange properties of superconductors, metal alloys that lose all resistance to the flow of electricity when cooled to near absolute zero (-459.6 degrees F).

Curiously, classical physics says the quateron won't work.

interagency group headed by the State Department persuaded President Reagan to sign a secret options paper that would have allowed a conciliatory gesture toward Poland at that time. The Europeans persuaded the administration to wait at least until after the papal visit.

Now they're continuing to urge the White House not to rush into detente willy-nilly.

FOXY FRITZ: Sen. Ernest "Fritz" Hollings, D-S.C., is a shrewd businessman, no doubt about it. According to his income tax returns, which he made available to me, the Democratic presidential hopeful made more than $1 million in the stock market last year.

Between 1976 and 1980, Hollings bought 45,000 shares of stock in an electronics and machine-tool firm called Giddings and Lewis. He hung onto the stock until the company merged last year; then he sold his shares for a grand total of $1,350,000. That left him with a tidy capital gain of more than a million.

Experienced Nationals Covet State Championship

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

With four, maybe five, players returning for their second straight state tournament and a pitching staff with three strong arms, the Sanford Nationals will be a team to contend with in the 1983 Florida Little Major League State Tournament starting this Monday at West Palm Beach.

"I'm going in to state with one idea on my mind," Nationals manager Sylvester "Slick" Franklin, Jr. said. "And that's to bring the state championship back to Sanford."

The Nationals open the state tourney on Monday at 11 a.m. against St. Petersburg Fossil Park. Last year, Sanford opened with Key West, which went on to become the state champion. The winner of the Sanford-St. Pete game will meet the winner of the Pensacola-Okechobee (West Palm Beach area) winner on Tuesday at 9 a.m. with the two losers coming back on Monday for a 6 p.m. loser's bracket game.

"With the pitching staff we have, we should be very competitive," Franklin said. "The tournament experience should help us get over the first-game jitters. We hope the guys who played on last year's team can help the other guys out. The state experience could be a big advantage for us."

Sanford's number one pitcher is Willie "Sugar Tex" McCloud who will be pitching in his second straight state tourney. McCloud has lost only two games (counting last year's state) over the past two years while winning about 30. When it comes time to get down to business, McCloud will be ready.

The second pitcher in the three-man rotation is 11-year old Mike Merthie. Merthie is in his first year of Little Major League baseball and played an important role in the Nationals Sub-District and District championships. Merthie can mix up his pitches as well as any pitcher in the league and is also a fine relief pitcher.

Southpaw Tim Graham, who also played for last year's team, completes the rotation. Graham pitched two outstanding games in his last two outings and he won the game that clinched the district title for the Nationals. The number four pitcher, mainly a reliever, is Jimmy Murphy who pitched well in relief in the district.

Baseball

Joining Graham and McCloud from last year's team are catcher Jeff Blake and second baseman George Gordon. Shortstop Dwight Brinson was also on last year's team but he missed the district tournament and may miss the state tourney, too. He is presently vacationing in New York.

Blake and McCloud have been battery mates for two years and over 30 games. They were teammates on two straight City Championship with Poppa Jay's as well as two All-Star teams. McCloud won the Most Valuable Player award in this year's Sub-District tourney while Blake won the MVP in the district.

Graham got some state experience last year as an outfielder. This year he plays first base and pitches. Graham is also one of the team's top hitters as he proved at last year's state tourney in which he hit a home run in the Nationals only victory in Tallahassee. Gordon is among the best fielders on the team and has good speed with the ability to get on base a lot. Gordon also played on Poppa Jay's the last two years.

The newcomers to state tournament play should have no problem with the first-game jitters with help from the experienced players. Joining Blake, McCloud, Graham and Gordon in the starting lineup are Mike and Anthony Merthie, Harry Chibberton, Denny Clayton and Hubert Williams. Mike Merthie plays shortstop when he isn't on the mound while Anthony is the Nationals' steady third baseman. Chibberton is in left field with Clayton is center and Williams in right.

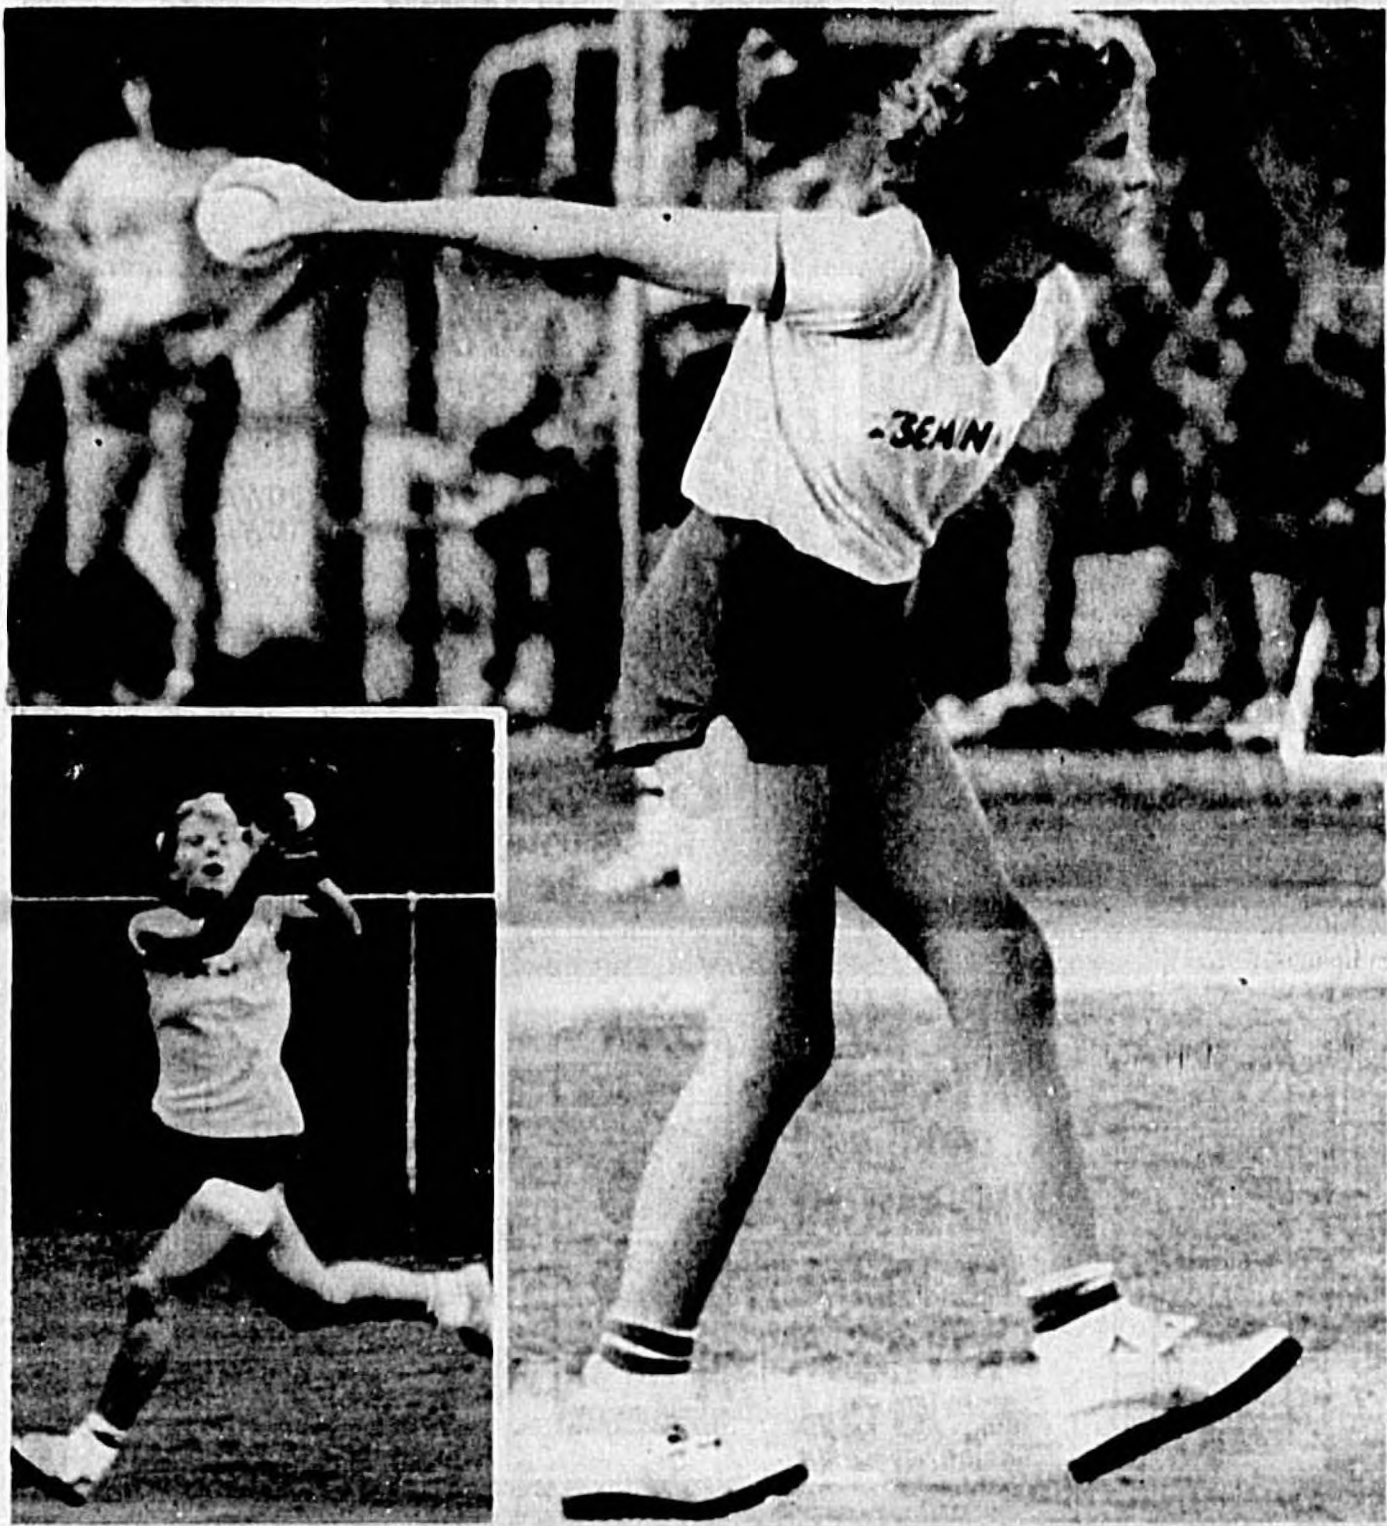

Along with being a fine pitcher and infielder, Mike Merthie can handle a bat with the best of them. In fact, Merthie hit four home runs in one game during the regular season. Anthony Merthie has played exceptionally well at third base and has contributed some big hits too.

Chibberton, an infielder for Poppa Jay's during the regular season, is adjusting well to playing in the outfield. Chibberton also holds the distinction of being the only switch-hitter on the team, and perhaps the only one in the state tourney. Clayton has come into his own in tournament play and has emerged as a fine leadoff hitter and center fielder. Clayton came up with some big hits in both the Sub-District and District tournaments for the Nationals. Although Williams is having trouble at the plate, he is still a good man to have in the lineup. Williams is a steady outfielder and a good left-handed hitter. Williams fell into a slump in the district tournament and Franklin hopes he can snap out of it for the state tourney.

Bench strength for the Nationals comes from Kerry Wiggins, Leo Ford, Steve Johnson, Tony Curry, Murphy, Mitchell Wright, Burgett Washington and Brian Howard. Wiggins and Ford are a pair of fine outfielders who will fill in well if Franklin should call on them. Howard, Curry and Washington are also outfielders while Johnson and Wright are infielders. Murphy is a pitcher-outfielder.

The Nationals will be leaving for West Palm Beach on Sunday morning. The tournament is scheduled to run from Monday until Thursday, weather permitting. The final game is scheduled for Thursday at 9 a.m. with a second game, if necessary, at 3 p.m.

Chris Tibbitts tossed a no-hitter Wednesday night as the Seminole Savages won the Metro Softball Tournament, but she needed plays by Karen DeShetter, inset, to keep the gem in fact. The Savages beat Conway, 9-0.

Tibbitts Tosses No-Hitter, Savages Devour Conway

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

Like the "Wolf" in Duran Duran's hit song, the Seminole Savages are hungry. Seminole rolled over Conway to win the Metro 15 and Under Softball Tournament title Wednesday night, and now the Savages are on the hunt for a berth in the National Tournament next month in Tifton, Georgia.

"Our first day of practice, I set a goal of going to the nationals," Seminole manager Roger Richardson said. "We've lived up to that goal so far by playing outstanding ball."

The Savages will have to finish among the top three teams in the regional tournament to make it to nationals. The regional is set for August 5-7 at Oxford (Northwest), Alabama. Both the Savages and runner-up Conway qualified for the regional tournament.

Chris Tibbitts hurled a no-hitter, was backed by brilliant defensive play and an eight-run first inning as the Savages devoured the Conway Lovebugs, 9-0, Wednesday night in the Metro final at the Five Points softball complex near Winter Springs.

The Savages sent nine hitters to the plate in the bottom of the first inning before Conway could record an out. Karen DeShetter led off with a single to left and reached second on a Conway error with Laura Davis taking first on the fielder's choice. Kelly Neary followed with a single to left to load the bases for Ava Gardner. Gardner hit a grounder to shortstop who threw home. But, the throw pulled the catcher off the plate allowing DeShetter to score. Kristie Kaiser then reached on another Conway error, enabling Davis to score. Kim Wain followed with a single to load the bases with still no outs. Jaudon "Pee Wee" Jonas, Riane Richardson and Tibbitts followed with RBI singles to give the Savages a 6-0 lead.

With the bases still loaded on no outs, Angle May hit into a force play for the first out, but a run scored when the third baseman, who tagged third for the out, threw wildly to first trying for the double play. Tibbitts came across with the eighth, and final, run of the inning on DeShetter's RBI groundout.

The Savages added a run in the third as Richardson singled with two out and scored when Tibbitts drilled a double down the left field line.

Tibbitts came within two hitters of a perfect game. She gave up one walk, in the third inning, and Seminole committed one error, in the sixth inning. Otherwise, Tibbitts and the Savages' tough defense were perfect.

The Savages look like a strong contender for a trip to the national tournament on August 18-21. Every one in the lineup swings a potent bat while the defense has no weaknesses. Tibbitts and Beth Watkins, who handle the pitching duties, allowed a total of only eight runs in four games as each pitcher picked up a pair of victories. The defense behind Watkins and Tibbitts has Richardson behind the plate, Kaiser at first base, Neary at second, DeShetter at shortstop, Gardner at third, Wain in left field, Jonas in center, May in right and Davis is the short fielder. Bench strength comes from Mikki Eby, Jennifer Jonas, Kris Korzon and Cindy Staggs.

In the Metro 10 and Under Softball Tournament Wednesday at Five Points, West Orange came back from a forfeit and routed Seminole, 10-2, for the title. In the first game, West Orange took a 8-0 lead into the bottom of the sixth. But, a West Orange player made an illegal re-entry into the game. Seminole protested and West Orange forfeited, forcing a second game between the two teams.

In the second game, West Orange erupted for four runs in the top of the first behind a two-run single by Shannon Bullin, an RBI single by Wendy Cain and a RBI groundout by Ashley Summers.

West Orange took a 7-0 lead with three runs in the second. Key hits included a two-run double by Shannon Moore and a RBI single by Jennifer McVay.

Seminole got on the board in the fourth inning as Kathy Creighton singled and scored on Jenny Stevens' RBI groundout.

West Orange added one run in the fourth and two more in the top of the seventh to take a 10-1 lead into the bottom of the seventh. With two outs, Stevens singled, Tonya Lewis walked and Kelly Hartman reached on an error to load the bases. Sherry Adams then ripped a single to left to drive in Stevens but Lewis was tagged out in a run down by West Orange's Moore to end the game.

Peete Is Well-Suited To Defend Kingsmill

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (UPI) — Calvin Peete, the defending champion in the $350,000 Kingsmill PGA Classic, says the course is well-suited to his style of play.

Peete arrived Monday to begin practice for the tournament which begins today on the demanding 6,684-yard par-71 course.

"Kingsmill is a long course, but it favors an accurate driver like myself," said Peete, who won three other PGA events last year — Milwaukee, B.C. Open and Pensacola. "I kept the ball out of the rough to win and that's the only way to play here."

Peete's 1982 Kingsmill victory came during a summer hot streak that saw him win more than $200,000 from July 11 through Sept. 5.

"I can't deny it, I played well," said Peete.

British Open winner Tom Watson will skip this stop, as will a number of the top PGA money winners, including No. 3 Ben Crenshaw, No. 4 Gil Morgan, No. 5 Fuzzy Zoeller, No. 7 Severiano Ballesteros, Fred Couples, Craig Stadler, Hale Irwin and David Graham.

Among the players returning to the course along the James River are Ray Floyd, Peter Jacobson, Tom Kite, Bill Rogers, Tom Weiskopf and Hal Sutton.

The tournament is sponsored by Anheuser-Busch Inc.

Danny Edwards, the winner of last week's Quad Cities Open at Coal Valley, Ill., will be in Williamsburg looking for his second straight victory.

Rain shortened the Kingsmill tournament to 54 holes last year when the second round had to be played over two days.

Peete, who arrived in Williamsburg early Monday, put together rounds of 66-68-69 for a 10-under 203 total to win the 1982 event.

The gallery will also see three Virginians playing close to home. Curtis Strange, originally from nearby Virginia Beach, Va., owns a home along the Kingsmill golf course and is the course's touring pro.

Strange had a course-record 64 to tie for the third-round lead two years ago, but faded to a final-round 73 to finish six shots off the pace.

Lanny and Bobby Wadkins, natives of the Richmond area, have played the course many times and are also in the field.

The tournament was played in Napa, Calif., for 13 years before moving to Kingsmill in 1981. The course is located on the banks of the James River, and the 17th hole is located where the British first set foot on American soil.

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Twenty-eight of the top 32 LPGA money winners will play a $200,000 tournament this weekend at the Country Club of Indianapolis, in a tuneup for next week's U.S. Women's Open.

The tournament, which starts today, is sponsored by Mayflower Corp.

There are notable vacancies in the entry list, including Nancy Lopez, who left the tour because of her pregnancy and who has not played in Indianapolis in years. Sally Little, the defending champion, will be out recovering from a knee injury, and Amy Alcott, the 1980 Indianapolis champion, also will not play.

Beth Daniel, who owns a tournament record and has been close to winning at Indianapolis for years, is one of the favorites. Daniel ranks fourth on the money list with $139,000 after winning last week's tournament in Malvern, Pa. She edged JoAnne Carner for that title in a one-hole playoff.

Daniel shot a tournament-record tying 65 on the last day in 1982, but still finished second, five strokes behind Little.

Other favorites in the field of 124 are LPGA star Jan Stephenson; Hollis Stacy, who won the U.S. Open at CCI in 1978 and won the Mayflower in 1979 on a different course; Kathy Whitworth, a member of the LPGA Hall of Fame and No. 3 on the 1983 money list, and Pat Bradley, who has won twice this year and won the U.S. Open in 1981.

Three local amateurs will play with the pros. They are state junior champ Jackie Gallagher of Marion, Julie Carmichael of Martinsville and 1982 Indiana amateur champ Janis Kleiman of Rushville.

The first three days of the 1982 Classic were noted for temperatures in the 90s. The same should be true this year, with temperatures in or near the 90s forecast through the weekend.

Such temperatures have prompted tournament director Harold Elliot to look for June dates for next year's tournament.

Rattlers Snake Tail At B-CC, Look For Another Opponent

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — A spat over where Florida A&M and Bethune-Cookman College should play their football game this fall has turned into a year-long estrangement.

Florida A&M said Wednesday it was tired of having its overtures toward compromise rejected and began looking for an opponent to replace Bethune-Cookman on its 1983 schedule.

Bethune-Cookman responded by saying it was right all along and is still right in its insistence of playing the Nov. 19 game in Tampa.

"We still feel we should have the right to play our home game with FAMU in Tampa Stadium just as it will be their right to determine where to play the game next year." BCC Athletic Director Lloyd Johnson said.

But FAMU Athletic Director Roosevelt Wilson said BCC's plan would mean two straight Rattler games in Tampa. FAMU has scheduled its Orange Blossom Classic game against Southern at the same location the week before.

"To play two games on consecutive weeks in Tampa would not be in the best interests of Florida A&M University," Wilson said.

Sanford Soccer Club Registers Saturday

The Sanford Soccer Club will hold registration at Pinecrest Elementary School, from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m. on Saturday, July 23 and on August 6 and 13 for boys and girls ages 6 through 16.

New players need to bring one copy of their birth certificate and two pictures; returning players need to bring two pictures. The fees are: $35 for new players and $25 for returning players with uniforms. The fees cover the Fall 1983 and Spring 1984 seasons.

Lanes Break Ground

Groundbreaking for Longwood Lanes, on Savage Court just off Highway 434 in Longwood, took place recently as Longwood Mayor June Lormann was present to turn the first spade of earth. Lormann was assisted by Meta Burgess, Executive Secretary of the Longwood-Winter Springs Chamber of Commerce.

With a long awaited break in the weather, the new bowling center has rapidly begun to take shape. Scheduled opening of the 32 lane establishment is set for September 1st of this year, according to General Manager Bruce Fleck who is overseeing construction and taking applications for leagues and new employees.

Will Heddon, President of Central Florida Projects, believes a center at this location will fill a present need as well as providing healthful recreation for future residents of this rapidly growing area. Tom Quatary, Vice President of the group of owners, served as host for the occasion.

Longwood Lanes will be the fourth bowling center operated by the group in Central Florida. Semoran Lanes, Deltona Lanes and Winter Dale Lanes at Auburndale and Winter Haven are the others which they own and operate.

'Hall' Won't Induct Cannon

NEW YORK (UPI) — Billy Cannon's involvement in a counterfeiting operation will cost Billy Cannon a moment that money cannot buy.

The National Football Foundation announced Wednesday it would not induct the former Heisman Trophy winner into the College Hall of Fame because of his admission of guilt in the operation.

"As a result of Dr. William Cannon's recent plea of guilty to a felony charge he will not be inducted into the Foundation's College Football Hall of Fame," Vincent dePaul Draddy, the Hall's board chairman, said in a statement. "The other announced living candidates will be inducted into the Hall on Dec. 6, 1983 as scheduled."

Cannon was an All-America halfback at Louisiana State and later played pro ball with the Houston Oilers and Oakland Raiders.

The 10 living candidates who will be inducted are Dick Butkus, linebacker, Illinois; William "Moose" Fischer, guard, Notre Dame; Lee Roy Jordan, center, Alabama; Floyd Little, halfback, Syracuse; Charlie Krueger, tackle, Texas A&M; Louis McFadin, guard, Texas; George Owen, a back, Harvard; Jack Scarbath, quarterback, Maryland; O.J. Simpson, running back, Southern California, and Albert A. Spurlis, guard, UCLA.

Loreleis Swim At Games

The Loreleis Synchronized Swim Team, from the Sharidan Aquatic Club in Longwood, will be sending its Florida Jr. Olympic 10 and Under team champions to the Sunshine State Games, Friday through Sunday, at the Hilton Inn Florida Center in Orlando.

The 10 and Under team is represented by Tammy Cleland from Maitland, Heather Sheplan, Jennifer Jackson and Jennifer Zarnowicz from Longwood and Amy Michael from Altamonte Springs. Cleland will compete in solos and then team up with Sheplan to compete in duets in the 8 and Under division. Jackson, Zarnowicz and Michael will also do a trio and Jackson and Michael will compete in the duets in the 10 and Under division.

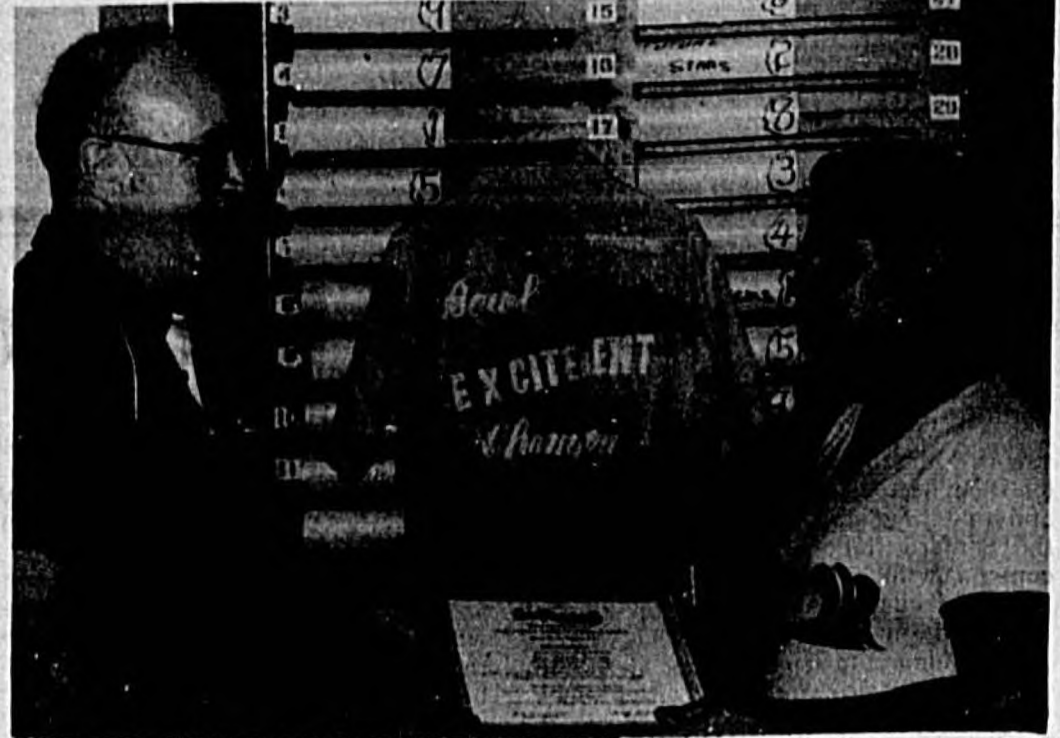

The competition will begin Friday at 10 a.m. with compulsory figures followed by the solos on Saturday at 10 a.m. with duets to follow. Trios will begin on Sunday at 9 a.m. followed by teams. Competition is open to the public and admission is free.

A couple of sisters from Longwood, Kim and Jerilyn Santoro, also qualified for the Sunshine State Games synchronized swimming competition. The Santoros will also represent the Loreleis Synchro Team. Kim will compete in the 11-12 solos competition while Jerilyn will compete in the 15-16 solos.

Coach Mary Rose said 12-year-old Kim is a strong representative in this age group. Jerilyn, 16, is the Florida Association Jr. Olympic solo champion, a Jr. National qualifier in solo, duet and Senior National qualifier in teams. Kim is in the 6th grade at Rock Lake Middle School while Jerilyn is a junior at Lake Mary High.

Local Bowler Wins Big

Sanford's James Robinson received a pretty good return on his $4.35 investment. Robinson invested that much to compete in the Sanford Bowl America Excitement Tournament. He won the tournament by bowling a whopping 124 pins over his average, earning a season's free pass in the league of choice at Sanford Bowl America which costs $136.50. His triumph also won him and his wife an expenses paid trip to Washington, D.C. to compete in the national tournament. Robinson competed against 25 bowlers from across the United States, and once again came out on top. For his efforts, Robinson won an expenses paid trip for two to Lake Tahoe. At the left, Robinson shows off his championship form. Above, he receives his championship plaque from Bowl America's Roger Quirk.

to be Fleming in Louisiana, officials have confirmed.

Police were awaiting fingerprints from Tyler, Texas, to positively identify the suspect, who also had claimed to be former basketball great Bill Russell.

Several people who apparently knew Fleming were brought to Louisiana from Florida to identify him Wednesday, but police refused to name them or say if they confirmed the jailed man was the retired tight end.

If the man is confirmed as being Fleming, it would be the third time in three years that he allegedly attempted the investment scheme.

"He did advise me that he was Marv Fleming, the football player," said Natchitoches detective Larry Vaughn. "But we still have no solid proof that he is. I'm not going to make a statement that's definite until I'm 100 percent sure."

WILMINGTON, Ohio (UPI) — The Cincinnati Bengals are counter-attacking and escalating the NFL-USFL battle for players.

The Bengals, bitter about losing their two top pass receivers to USFL teams, say they intend to "return the favor" by raiding the USFL clubs.

The USFL Tampa Bay Bandits recently signed Bengals star wide receiver Cris Collinsworth to a "future" contract to begin playing for the Bandits in 1985. Similarly, the USFL Boston Breakers have signed Bengals tight end Dan Ross to start playing for the Breakers next season.

Groat Says Take A Look, Then Count Your Blessings

WASHINGTON, D.C. (UPI) — Dick Groat wasn't standing up on any soapbox. He was sitting in the back of the bus, the one carrying many of the Old Timers back to their hotel after the second annual Cracker Jack Classic, and he came up with one of the best suggestions I've ever heard for ballplayers. That's all ballplayers, old timers and new timers.

Groat, who certainly has done it himself, suggested that they all take a good look at themselves in the mirror and count their blessings instead of living under the illusion the world owes them a living simply because they are now or once were big-league baseball stars.

"Everybody in this bus should get down on his hands and knees and thank God that they could all play major-league baseball," Groat said. "It's the greatest thing that ever happened to us and probably ever will happen to those playing today. What does the world owe us? Nothing, absolutely nothing. If anything, it's the other way around. Do you realize that for the rest of our lives simply our names and the fact we once played major-league baseball gives us an automatic passport in so many places. How many other people on this earth have this kind of privilege.

"Guys who badmouth baseball make me sick to my stomach. They're way off base. Baseball has been a Godsend to all of us. I'll say it again. Every one of us on this bus should give thanks we've been so lucky and the same thing for those guys playing in the big leagues today."

Among the players on the bus were such stars of yesteryear as Bob Feller, Eric Banks, Billy Williams, Johnny Mize, Lou Brock, Johnny Sain, Billy Pierce, Bobby Doerr, Moose Skowron, Boog Powell, Tim McCarver and Gus Triandos.

Groat played shortstop 14 years with the Pirates, Cardinals, Phillies and Giants and always showed how much it was possible to achieve on sheer determination alone plus some brains. He literally "made" himself into a big-league star.

Sports Parade

By MILTON RICHMAN

He couldn't run much and had only an average arm. With the bat, his swing was choppy and looked like it was made in Taiwan. By pushing himself to the limit, and extracting as much as he possibly could out of the ability he had, he was selected to five All-Star teams, led the league with his .325 figure while helping the Pirates win a world championship in 1960 and was named National League MVP that year.

Nobody, not even Pete Rose, ever got more out of less equipment than Groat.

That was in baseball. Now in basketball it was an entirely different story. He was a great passer with excellent peripheral vision, a natural team leader and a pure shooter with an outstanding jump shot. He was such a basketball standout at Duke University that the Fort Wayne Pistons signed him to play in the NBA during the 1952-53 season.

Before Monday night's game at RFK Stadium, Red Auerbach, the Boston Celtics' patriarch, came by the ball park to see one of his "boys" — Dick Groat. Auerbach handled him when he was assistant coach at Duke during the 1949-50 season. The two of them had a good talk on the field before the Old Timer's Game.

Robin Roberts asked Auerbach about Groat's basketball ability. "Was he better in our game or yours?"

the Phillies' former meal ticket put it to Auerbach.

"No question, he was a much better basketball player," Auerbach answered.

Groat agrees. "At 52, I consider myself a retired basketball player, not a retired baseball player, because I was a much better basketball player. Not that baseball was bad to me. It was marvelous to me and I appreciated the opportunity to play it in the big leagues."

Groat and a former Pirate teammate of his, Jerry Lynch, own and operate the Champion Lakes Golf Club in Arnold Palmer's home town, Ligonier, Pa. Palmer's 68, as a matter of fact, is the course record.

When he arrived here for Monday night's game, Groat discovered he wasn't in the starting lineup, but he didn't pout or become angry about it.

He was just glad to get together with all his baseball friends.

Hudson's Near No-Hitter Lifts Phillie Spirits

United Press International

Though he missed pulling off a classic, Charlie Hudson pushed the Philadelphia Phillies into a positive mood entering a road trip.

"We're still in the race in the National League East and hopefully now everything will come around," Hudson said Wednesday night after coming within two outs of pitching the first NL no-hitter in nearly two years, leading the Phillies to a 10-3 victory over the Houston Astros.

"This will help us going into Atlanta and Houston," added the 24-year-old native of Ennis, Texas. The Phillies are 44-44, a half-game out of first place.

"Sometimes it takes something like this to pull the team together," said interim manager Paul Owens, who picked up his first win since replacing the fired Pat Corrales Monday. "As the game went on, you could almost see their hearts beating."

Backed by Joe Lefebvre's five RBI, including a grand slam, Hudson entered the ninth seeking to become the first rookie to spin a no-hitter since Steve Busby of Kansas City and Jim Bibby of Texas did it three months apart in 1973.

"In the ninth I went out and said, 'Here it is,' and then I tried to block it out of my mind," said Hudson. "I had a blister on my finger, but I blocked it out. I wanted the no-hitter bad."

With one out, Craig Reynolds hit a blooper into short center that fell among center fielder Bob Dernier, shortstop Ivan DeJesus and second baseman Kiko Garcia.

"I knew the guy was a tough hitter," said the right-handed Hudson. "I tried to nip the outside corner and missed, and then I came back with a hard slider down and in. After he hit it I said, 'Well, there goes the no-hitter.'"

Giants 4, Cubs 3
At Chicago, Jack Clark belted a home run with two out in the top of the 10th for the Giants. Clark's 15th homer of the season came on the first pitch off Lee Smith, 3-5. Greg Minton, 4-6, earned the victory despite giving up one out home run to Jody Davis in the bottom of the ninth that tied the score.

Mets 3, Braves 2
At Atlanta, Mookie Wilson singled home Danny Heep with two out in the eighth to hand the Braves only their second loss in their last eight games. Ed Lynch, 7-4, was the winner, with Donnie Moore falling to 2-2. Doug Sisk, who got Dale Murphy to hit into a game-ending double play, notched his eighth save.

Pirates 7, Dodgers 3
At Pittsburgh, Dale Berra drove in five runs with a three-run homer and a single to power the Pirates, who have won nine of their last 10 and 22 of their last 30. Rick Rhoden, 7-8, was the winner, with Kent Tekulve notching his 11th save. Burt Hooton, 8-4, took the loss.

Expos 6, Reds 4
At Montreal, Doug Flynn had three hits and Warren Cromartie scored twice to lead the Expos. Charlie Lea, 7-6, went 8 2-3 innings for the victory but left after allowing a two-run double to Nick Esasky. Bob James came on to get his first save. Mario Soto, 10-9, was the loser. Tim Lincecum went 1-for-5 for Montreal.

Padres 5, Cardinals 4
At St. Louis, Ruppert Jones reached Bruce Sutter, 7-6, for a three-run home run in the ninth to help San Diego break a five-game losing streak. The blast made a winner of Luis DeLeon, 1-3. Sid Monge finished for his fifth save despite allowing a sacrifice fly by Willie McGee.

Dan Ford

Sammy Stewart

Orioles 4, Mariners 2
If this is how Dan Ford produces when he's only concentrating on meeting the ball, imagine what might happen when he goes for the fences.

Ford, the Baltimore Orioles' right fielder, came off the disabled list Wednesday and later in the day belted three home runs to pace the revived Orioles to a 4-2 victory over the Mariners in Seattle. He had spent 28 days on the disabled list with a bad knee.

"In the situation that I was in, I was just trying to make contact after the layoff," Ford claimed. "I'm trying to get my timing down. I'm just looking for a base hit."

Batting in the leadoff position, Ford ripped the second pitch of the game from starter Matt Young, 8-10, deep into the left-field bleachers for his sixth home run of the year. He came back in the third for another solo blast and then led off the ninth with a home run off reliever Mike Stanton.

Yankees 6, Twins 4
At New York, Don Baylor slammed a two-run homer in the 10th inning to carry the Yankees to their sixth straight victory and hand Minnesota its seventh loss in a row. The Twins had tied the game in the eighth on Dave Engle's homer, his sixth of the season, off New York starter Dave Righetti.

A's 9, Tigers 5
At Oakland, Calif., Dwayne Murphy broke a 2-2 tie with a two-run single and Bill Almon capped a six-run seventh inning — all off reliever Doug Bair — with a three-run homer for the A's. Murphy and Rickey Henderson both notched their sixth home runs of the year. Chris Codrilo pitched his fourth complete game.

Brewers 4, Rangers 3
At Milwaukee, Cecil Cooper cracked his 21st home run of the season in the eighth inning to give the Brewers their ninth victory in the last 10 games. It was his league-leading 73rd RBI of the season. For Texas, George Wright smacked his 10th home run and Dave Hostetter hit his fifth.

White Sox 8, Indians 2
At Cleveland, two-run homers by Tom Paciorek and Ron Kittle and a solo shot by Harold Baines powered Chicago. Starter Rich Dotson, 9-6, scattered nine hits and trucked out six in eight innings for the White Sox, who are 31-19 since May 26. Kittle drove a shot 450 feet to the auxiliary bleachers in left-center for his 21st homer of the season.

Royals 14, Blue Jays 6
At Toronto, Pat Sheridan and Don Slaught drove in two runs each to highlight an eight-run seventh inning and Willie Aikens added a two-run homer to power the Royals. Paul Splittorff worked six innings, surrendering four runs on eight hits, striking out five and walking three to raise his record to 8-3. Dan Quisenberry notched his 23rd save while Dave Stieb, 11-8, took the loss.

Red Sox 6, Angels 4
At Anaheim, Calif., Wade Boggs' two-run triple off left fielder Brian Downing's glove with two out in the ninth lifted Boston over Tommy John, 7-7. It was the ninth loss in 12 games for California. Bob Stanley, 6-5, pitched 12 1/3 innings for the victory.

SOURCE: Census Bureau

NEA/Moffitt Cecil

Americans tracing their ancestral origins to England are still the largest ethnic group in the population, but they are pressed closely by German-Americans in the Census Bureau's latest figures. The 1980 census was the first to survey ethnic backgrounds going back more than one generation. Some 13 million respondents identified themselves only as "Americans."

...Daniels Honored By Colleagues

listening and learning." Daniels said, adding he's been proud to be part of a board that exemplifies professionalism and dedication.

Mayor Lee P. Moore, usually a man of few words at ceremonial occasions, reviewed a little history of the acquisition of the airport property and the decision to have the airport operated by an independent authority. He said while some believed it ought to be a department of the city government, he and others felt it should be as independent as possible.

One of the matters, that "hung heavy" when the city was trying to acquire the property is that if the airport failed, it could become a burden on the city of Sanford, Moore said.

"But the city of Sanford has not contributed a dime to the airport and it is managed so well. You people have made that possible," the mayor told the authority board members present.

While Moore said it is a shame to see Daniels' career of service for the city end, "it comes at a time when service to the public must end for some," he added.

Moore, who has served on the Sanford City Commission for more than 14 years, said recently that he will not be running for re-election next year.

Also present at the luncheon to honor Daniels were city commissioners David Farr, Milton Smith and Ned Yancey, Commissioner Eddie Keith was ill.

"John, I hope you enjoy your free time," the mayor said.

J.S. "Red" Cleveland, director of aviation at the airport, said that Daniels and all the men who have served on the Airport Authority have made the kinds of decisions about airport business that they would have made about their own businesses.

Citing the growth of the airport, Cleveland said the first year's budget at the facility was $69,000, but since that time the combined budgets of the airport have totaled $24 million.

"The airport illustrates how the community can generate new industry in the area if the right people are in charge," he said.

Baker said of Daniels that he has been "a real joy to work with" and pointed to Daniels as a conscientious and straight-forward person.

Mercer, chairman of the airport authority board, said while Daniels served without pay, it was not without honor.

Burns noted that Daniels began the practice of the board reciting the pledge to the flag and saying a few words of prayer prior to meetings. Rosemond added that he also appreciates what has now become habit.

Others on hand to honor Daniels were: Airport Authority attorney William C. Hutchison, Assistant Airport Director Mack LaZenty, Assistant City Manager Steve Harriett, and authority employees.

The Sanford City Commission will appoint Daniels' successor.

Thieves Stage Real Stick-Up

LONDON, July 21 (UPI) — Two London robbers, in what was described as a real stick-up, ensured a leisurely getaway by gluing their victim's hands to a wall.

June O'Brien, 31, was held up Wednesday as she opened her post office in Islington, North London. She had a pointed object stuck in her back and was ordered to open the safe, police said.

Her hands were then smeared with fast acting superglue and stuck to the wall.

"It was literally a stickup," a Scotland Yard spokesman said.

The woman was unable to free herself until her husband arrived more than an hour later, cut away the wallpaper around her hands and took her to a hospital, where the paper was removed with solvents.

Police did not disclose the amount taken from the safe.

Herpes Drug May Get Human Trials

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — An application to begin testing a drug on humans to treat genital herpes has been filed with the Food and Drug Administration by Philadelphia-based Pennwalt Corp., the company announced.

The drug has effectively treated the genital lesions and blisters associated with the Herpes II virus in tests on laboratory animals, the company said.

"The experimental results were most impressive when the compound was administered both internally and topically," said Dr. Stephen Riggi, Pennwalt's vice president of pharmaceutical research.

The patented compound, somantidine hydrochloride, was synthesized by Pennwalt and has been undergoing tests for nearly five years, the company said.

The initial tests on humans will be limited to topical applications and, if successful, Pennwalt plans to later apply for FDA permission to test an internally administered version of the drug.

"The herpes virus has such a long period of remission that it is difficult to determine whether this compound or any compound offers a permanent cure for the disease," Riggi said.

"However, if the success we achieved in our experimental tests with animals is confirmed in the treatment of herpes II in man, we will then be able to determine if it will prevent a recurrence of the disease."

...AND NOW THEY HANG WOMEN

On June 18th the Islamic Republic of Iran hanged ten women, three of them teen-age girls. Their "crime" was refusal to recant their faith. They were Baha'is and as Baha'is believed in:

- The unity of mankind
- The unity of all religions
- The equality of all races
- The equality of men and women
- Universal education
- Universal peace
- The harmony of science and religion

Iran's mullahs threaten to destroy the entire Baha'i community. The judge who condemned the women to death, and recently sent seven Baha'i men to the gallows, warned: "The Islamic nation will, God willing, fulfill the prayer mentioned in the Koran, 'Lord, Leave not one single family of infidels on earth.'"

The President of the United States appealed to the Ayatollah Khomeini to stop the killings, and the Congress in a concurrent resolution has condemned the persecution.

Only the concerted pressure of world public opinion can avert a tragedy of appalling proportions: genocide.

We invite Americans of all races and creeds to express support of Presidential and Congressional appeals to end these killings. The people of the United States should be in the forefront of world demands that the barbarous persecution of a peaceful community cease.

Evening Herald, Sanford, Fl. Thursday, July 21, 1962-18

Professional Secretaries Present 3 Scholarships

Three Central Florida women preparing for secretarial careers were awarded scholarships by the Winter Park Chapter of Professional Secretaries International at the July 12 meeting.

"These are the first college scholarships presented by our group," says chapter president Linda S. Fitzgerald. "We want to continue to offer such scholarships in the future," she added.

Lou Arden Thomas, Longwood, received a $500 scholarship. Thomas, a recent graduate of Lake Brantley High School, is a member of National Honor Society and is listed in "Who's Who Among American High School Students." She plans to attend Seminole Community College.

Willene Jones of Orlando received a $250 scholarship. She attends Valencia Community College and plans a career as a legal secretary.

Jean Marie LaCava of Orlando received a $250 scholarship to complete her studies at Valencia

Community College toward a degree in secretarial science. She is planning a career as a medical secretary.

"One of the goals of Professional Secretaries International is to elevate secretarial standards through continuing education," says Fitzgerald, "so the Winter Park Chapter sponsors educational seminars each year open to interested Central Florida secretaries. The proceeds from these seminars go into our scholarship fund."

Bergquist-Smith Vows Spoken

Lisa June Bergquist and Scott Douglas Smith were married June 19, at 7:30 p.m., at Highland Seventh-day Adventist Church, Apopka. The Rev. Thomas Juarros of High Springs performed the 7:30 p.m. ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Evert S. Bergquist, Route 2, High Springs. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl M. Smith Sr. 201 E. Colonial Court, Sanford.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a white silk organza gown fashioned with a high neckline of lace and lace leg-of-mutton sleeves. The full silk organza skirt over bridal satin was bordered with a lace-trimmed ruffle that terminated in a cathedral train. A halo of orange blossoms and baby's breath secured her cathedral-length veil of illusion. She carried a bouquet of silk gardenias, baby's breath, miniature carnations and peach sweetheart roses.

Laura Bergquist attended her sister-in-law as matron of honor. Peggy Radford was the maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Lauri Kersey, Joni Altomose, Sarah Smith, Debbie Musselwhite and Sherri Webb. Each wore a peach-colored, lace-trimmed gown fashioned with a full skirt and carried a parasol showered with white and peach miniature azaleas and long white lace streamers.

Ralph D. Smith served his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Courtney Gallimore, Earl Smith Jr., Thomas Altomose, Gary Musselwhite and James Bergquist.

Angela Smith was the flower girl and Bobby Altomose, the ring bearer. Pages were Holly Musselwhite and Freddy Altomose.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott Douglas Smith

Following a reception in the church social hall, the newlyweds departed on a wedding trip to Mexico.

They are making their home in Gainesville where the bridegroom will enter the University of Florida as a pre-med student in the fall.

Central Florida Quilters Guild Sets Meeting

The Central Florida Quilters Guild, a member of the National Quilting Association, will hold its monthly meeting on July 28 at 7:30 p.m. in the First Baptist Church, 519 Park Ave., Sanford.

Members are asked to bring materials to make Christmas items for the Annual Quilt Show in September. Members will continue to quilt the Log Cabin quilt for a drawing. For details, call Rae Harper at (305) 321-6821.

200 Learn To Swim

Petite Alisha Kellett learns basic water skills under the direction of Sandy Hoffman of the Seminole YMCA. The YMCA aquatic programs were made available locally for the first time this year through the cooperation of Nick Rizzo, Cavalier Motor Inn, and Frank Salgado, Holiday Inn, Sanford Marina, who offered the pools at these facilities for this community service. More than 200 children attended during the two 4-week sessions and learned to swim the "Y" way.

'Prints USA' On Exhibit

Approximately 70 fine prints are on display in a new exhibition at the Loch Haven Art Center that opened July 17.

The "Prints U.S.A." exhibition consists of winners of a national juried show, sponsored by Pratt Graphics Center and Exxon and judged by Gabor Peterdi, a distinguished printmaker, teacher and author.

Over 1,000 artists submitted 2,100 entries, which included all print media except photography. The styles range from the totally abstract, such as Janice DeMario's "Reverse," to the precisely realistic "Glass Roof" by Wilfred Loring.

The exhibition is free and open to the public and will continue through Aug. 14. Loch Haven Art Center hours are Tuesday - Friday 10 a.m. - 5 p.m., Saturday noon - 5 p.m. Phone 896-4231 for further information.

Stroscheins Mark 50th Anniversary

Charles A. and Marie A. Stroschein, 1090 Apache Trail, Winter Springs, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary with open house at Redeemer Lutheran Church, Winter Park.

Entertainment was provided by the Mixmaster Kitchen Band and their daughter, Kathleen Stroschein, Sanford.

A "This Is Your Life" program depicting memories of the couple, was created by Warren Adams and Elmer Schultheis.

The couple were married July 12, 1913 in the parish house of Evangelical Lutheran Church, Pitscain, Pa. Mr. Stroschein is retired from farming and mining. Both are members of the Lord of Life Lutheran Church on Tusawila Road. They previously lived in Plain Grove, Pa. and Stateville, N.C.

The couple are the parents of four children besides Kathleen: Mrs. Lorraine Gilson, Grove City, Pa.; Mrs. Nancy Johnston, Morow, Ohio; Mrs. Marie Stewart, Altamonte Springs; and Charles D. Stroschein, Orlando. There are seven grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Stroschein

Both are members of the Mixmaster Kitchen Band. Mrs. Stroschein directs the band which plays and sings in rest homes, festivals and other Central Florida celebrations.

Unwed Mother's Gratitude Shows Up 54 Years Later

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for publishing my letter concerning Booth Hospital for unwed mothers. We've received some lovely donations and even some inquiries from people wanting to adopt one of our 10-year-old pregnant girls. (Booth doesn't have a license for adoptions, so we had to discourage that.)

Dear Abby

One woman who had been in Booth 54 years ago wrote:

"I came to your hospital in 1929, a young, unmarried girl, 8 months pregnant. Everyone was wonderful to me. I had no money, but was treated the same as those who could pay something. I decided to keep my baby and I'm glad I did, because two years later I fell in love with a gentleman who knew my story and said he loved me even more because I kept my baby. He married me, adopted my child and a year later we had another child."

ALICE GRAHAM
WINTERS,
BOOTH HOSPITAL, CHICAGO

DEAR ABBY: About three months ago I stopped by to see my sister and she looked ill. She said she had a terrible headache. She didn't talk right, and she bumped into things when she walked. I offered to take her to a doctor or the hospital, but she said she didn't have the time because she had to finish her daughter's prom gown.

When I got home I was still worried, so I called my sister's husband at work. He went right home and took her to the hospital and they found that she had had a stroke!

While she was in the hospital all she did was worry about "Joan's" prom gown. I told her I'd buy her one because I can't sew well enough to finish the one she had started, and it was too late to find somebody else to do it.

Well, the only dress Joan liked cost $250, which I couldn't afford, so I told her I would spend $100 and no more. Well, she got mad and refused to go to the prom because she couldn't have the dress she wanted!

Now my sister isn't speaking to me. She said I should have let her finish the dress instead of "interfering" and calling her husband. Also, since I did buy it, I should have bought Joan the dress she wanted. Abby, my whole family is mad at me.

Was I wrong? What would you have done?

FAMILY OUTCAST

DEAR OUTCAST: You were not wrong, and I would have done exactly as you did.

DEAR ABBY: For the last year or so, when I go into a store I take a few small things and put them in my purse or pocket. I have the money and could easily pay for them, but I still do it. Some of the items I have taken I throw away because I have no use for them.

Why am I doing this? I am a respectable 42-year-old married woman. Please tell me soon, as I'm very much ashamed.

OTHERWISE HONORABLE

DEAR HONORABLE: You could be afflicted with "kleptomania" — a compulsion to steal. If you can't bring yourself to ask your physician to recommend a therapist, consult your local mental health facility. It offers confidential counseling.

DEAR ABBY: Our son is home from college for the summer, and while cleaning his room, I found (under his bed) a stack of magazines featuring nude women, bound, gagged, and some being whipped or beaten.

My husband says it's nothing to worry about, that just because he favors that sort of magazine doesn't mean he participates in such activities.

I disagree and am very concerned. What do your experts say?

BAD AND SICKENED

DEAR S & S: My experts say that having a curiosity about a subject does not necessarily mean that a person is "into" it.

It might relieve you, however, to confront your son with what you've discovered and give him the opportunity to assure you that you need not be "bad and sickened."

But if you do, your college-age son may insist that his reading material is his own business, and that you should not have invaded his privacy.

DEAR ABBY: Add one more female to your list of women who are plagued with facial hair. I never travel anywhere without a tweezer, a small razor, a triple-strength magnifying mirror, a high-intensity lamp and an extension cord. (I have to use them twice a day.)

I had electrolysis done in a doctor's office, but most of the hair grew back. I could scream! Sign me...

HAIRY

DEAR HAIRY: Read on:

DEAR ABBY: Please tell your readers that electrolysis does not always remove all hairs permanently in one treatment. Extremely coarse hairs must be removed two and sometimes three times. An honest electrologist will tell the client this up-front.

Also, the best way to find a competent, honest electrologist is through a dermatologist. There are still 22 states in which "operators" are not required to be licensed to practice, but do practice anyway.

Please urge your readers not to give up on electrolysis. I have been through it, and it was worth all the time, money and discomfort I endured.

CLEAN AS A WHISTLE

3rd Recipe Contest In 3rd Week

The Herald's Third Annual Heritage Cookbook will be published Sunday, Aug. 21, and Wednesday, Aug. 25 (Herald Advertiser).

The unique cookbook will feature a collection of the area's best recipes submitted by readers to share with other readers.

And there will be prizes. As the recipes are entered weekly, judges select the top recipe in each of the eight categories.

These winners will compete for the grand prize in a cook-off to be held at the Seminole County Agricultural Center on Saturday, Aug. 6.

The cookbook will be divided into eight categories with recipes being submitted over a 4-week period. Now in its third week, recipes for Meats and Casseroles are being accepted through July 23. The fourth week, July 24 through 30, will feature recipes from readers for Breads-Rolls and Desserts.

Contestants are asked to limit recipes to two in each category. For each recipe entered in the contest, please print name, address and day telephone number.

Type or print the complete recipe giving full instructions for preparation, cooking time and temperature.

All recipes received will be published. Bring recipes to The Herald, 300 N. French Ave., Sanford, or mail to Cookbook, C/O Evening Herald, P.O. Box 1657, Sanford, 32771

Bereavement Can Suppress The Body's Immune System

CHICAGO (UPI) — The emotional period after a spouse dies triggers suppression of the immune system, increasing illness and death, particularly among widowers, doctors say.

In a study of 4,000 people, increased mortality was found among widowers during the 10 years following the death of a spouse. Dr. Steven J. Schleifer of Mount Sinai School of Medicine in New York said in the latest issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

An estimated 700,000 Americans over the age of 50 lose spouses each year.

"These findings suggest that approximately 35,000 deaths occur yearly in the newly widowed population and that 7,000 of those deaths can be attributed to the death of the spouse," Schleifer said.

"The increased non-fatal morbidity in this population may be even greater."

Schleifer's research team studied 15 widowers whose wives had died following varying periods of treatment for breast cancer.

They found a significant decline in the activity of lymphocytes — white blood cells involved in the body's defenses against disease — during the first two months after the loss.

"The present findings are consistent with a hypothesis that changes in the immune system following bereavement are related to the increased mortality of bereaved widowers," the researchers said.

"A highly significant suppression was seen as early as one month after bereavement."

"The processes linking the experience of bereavement with effects on lymphocyte activity remain to be determined. Changes in nutrition, activity and exercise levels, sleep and drug use often found in the widowed could influence lymphocyte function," they said.

Suppression of the immune system may also be affected by the neurochemical mechanisms that have been associated with depression and anxiety, both commonly found in the grieving widowed.

In another Journal article, Drs. J. Trig Brown and G. Alan Stoudemire of Duke University Medical Center cited studies showing bereaved individuals feel sicker, spend more time in hospitals and use alcohol, cigarettes and tranquilizers more than non-bereaved individuals in age-matched control groups.

Depressive symptoms are more common, they said, and a marked increase in mortality occurs 6 to 12 months following loss of a spouse.

Miss Liberty Needs $30 Million Facelift

By Arnold Sawislak
UPI Senior Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "I lift my lamp beside the golden door," says the inscription on the Statue of Liberty. The lamp is rusty and the 97-year-old lady in New York harbor is a bit tattered herself these days, but help is on the way.

It will take, according to a team of American and French architects and engineers, up to $30 million to restore the 305-foot, copper-clad statue to its former splendor. And it can be done, they said, before Miss Liberty's 100th birthday, Oct. 28, 1986.

The experts, hired by the French-American Committee for Restoration of the Statue of Liberty, presented a preliminary report to the National Park Service detailing the wear and tear of nearly a century of service on Bedloe's Island at the head of the harbor and the pounding of millions of tourists who have clambered around the statue's fringed interior.

The engineers found the sheathing of the statue has some holes and stains, the right arm and the torch it holds up needs major work, the framework is bent in some places and guy rods and tie rods are loose. But the massive iron main frame is intact and the job can be done without closing the statue for the entire 2.5 years it will take, they said.

The statue, a gift to the United States from France, has greeted millions of immigrants and visitors to the United States since 1886.

It has become one of the most revered monuments in the United States and probably symbolizes the country better than any other structure for people in other parts of the world.

The work will require surrounding the statue and pedestal, which stands twice as high as the legendary Colossus of Rhodes, with scaffolding. It may require removing the right arm and torch, but it may be possible to make the repairs in place, the report said.

The French-American committee raised $5 million for the engineering studies but money for the actual renovation is being raised from public donations by the Interior Department's Statue of Liberty-Ellis Island Commission. The commission also is raising money to restore Ellis Island, the New York harbor complex where millions of immigrants were processed in the 19th and 20th centuries.

"No government funding is anticipated," Paul Windels Jr., president of the French-American committee, told reporters.

Hayden said none of the 13 trouble spots detailed in the report had reached the point that there was danger to the statue or the visiting public. If left unrepaired, he said, "the deterioration will continue," but added "I would hate to see a 100-year storm hit New York harbor."

The public is being asked for nearly $30 million to make major repairs to the aging Statue of Liberty in New York harbor.

Nazi War Criminals May Be Deported To Israel For Trial

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nazi war criminals living in the United States may be deported to Israel for the first time, the Justice Department says.

Mark Richard, a top department official, met this week with Israeli Attorney General Yitzhak Zamir and other representatives of the Israeli prosecutor's office to discuss the possibility.

The department said the discussions concerned the deportation and extradition to Israel of Nazi war criminals residing in the United States, including Archbishop Valerian Trifa. A department spokesman said the issue had not been resolved and expected discussions to continue.

The United States has attempted to find a country willing to accept Trifa, who admitted to U.S. authorities that he concealed his pro-Nazi activities when he entered the United States following World War II.

The government accused Trifa of covering up his role in the anti-Semitic Romanian Iron Guard to get into the United States in 1950. He also was accused of inciting anti-Jewish riots in which hundreds died in Romania in 1941.

Trifa, the spiritual leader of 35,000 members of the Romanian Orthodox Episcopate, based in Grass Lake, Mich., agreed last year to leave the United States rather than continue fighting deportation.

Under U.S. immigration laws, Trifa was entitled to designate one nation where he would prefer to go. But Switzerland, which he chose, refused to accept him, as did West Germany and his native Romania.

Earlier this year, the Justice Department asked Israel to consider accepting and prosecuting several alleged Nazi war criminals. Aside from Trifa, no other prospective deportees were identified.

The department said each case will be evaluated individually to determine whether Israel has the authority to prosecute. Israeli courts claim the authority to try people who committed crimes against the Jewish people or crimes against humanity during the Nazi era.

To date, no Nazi or Nazi collaborator has been deported to Israel by the United States.

Cesar Chavez To Take On Lucky Supermarket Chain

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Cesar Chavez and his United Farm Workers are gearing up to do battle with the Lucky Stores supermarket chain in what he says will be the union's biggest boycott fight since the grape wars of the 1960s.

The campaign against Lucky has three features that are seen by the company as particularly alarming.

—It is a highly sophisticated effort, with $1 million to be spent on professional media services.

—Chavez is using it to determine to what extent he can mobilize the Hispanic community in California, a power that would have extensive political implications.

—The goal is not merely to get union lettuce into Lucky markets, but to "seriously damage" the company.

At issue is Lucky's refusal to stop buying lettuce from Bruce Church Co., a Salinas Valley producer that the UFW claims has refused to negotiate a contract with the union.

Lucky, which operates 1,800 stores in 29 states, says the boycott is "unfair."

Spokesman James Koerlin said only a few Lucky stores carry Church's "Red Coach" brand lettuce and it would "create chaos" if the company agreed to stop buying products from everybody Cesar Chavez disagrees with. In the late 1960s, Chavez led a nationwide grape boycott that forced major growers to recognize his union. Strikes and boycotts against lettuce growers in the 1970s resulted in successes and failures, as with the Bruce Church farms.

A Bruce Church spokesman defended the company's treatment of employees, noting their average wages are higher than UFW workers get and they have had a pension plan "since long before the union's went into effect."

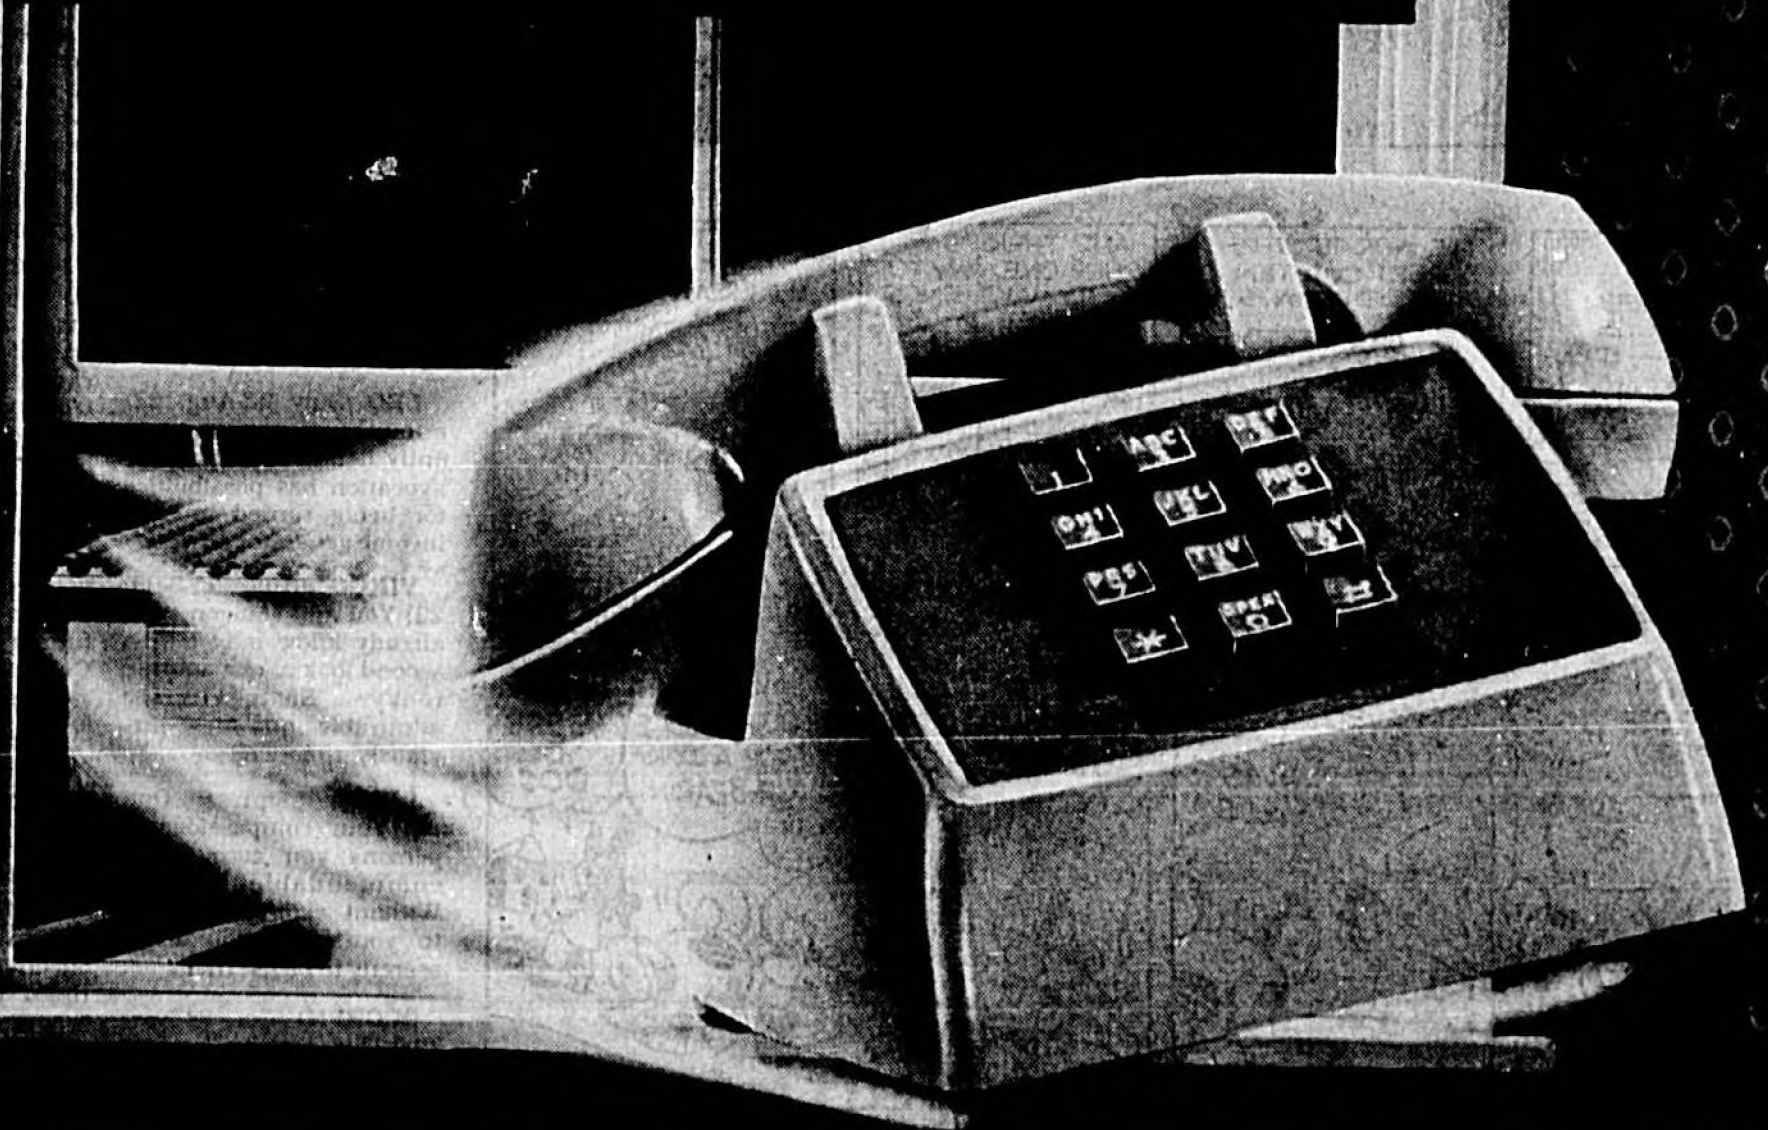

Chavez, charismatic founder and longtime leader of the UFW, said the boycott will give the union its first crack at using sophisticated new tactics to win public support for its cause.

"In the past we always used real basic methods in our fight," Chavez said. "We'd go door-to-door. We'd hold rallies. We'd picket, leaflet, try to get media attention. All those things."

"This time we're trying something new. We've got demographics and statistics people and professional direct mail experts. There's a team of people specially trained over the last year and a half for this one."

Bruce Church spokesman Mike Payne said the company doesn't object to negotiating a union contract but "Chavez has been unreasonable. He's gone from trying to improve conditions to building an empire. He wants absolute hiring and firing control and he wants union control of all pension and benefit plans."

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You have the ability to assimilate and retain knowledge easily today, especially if you're enthusiastic about what you want to learn.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You can be extremely effective today in helping those you love be more secure and happy. Put their concerns above your own.

Diet Is The Thing For Diverticulosis

DEAR DR. LAMB — Several months ago I went to the hospital with severe stomach pains and after three weeks they diagnosed my case as diverticulosis, a spastic colon and muscle spasms of the stomach. The doctor said that I shouldn't eat any raw vegetables or head lettuce, popcorn, peanuts or anything with seeds.

I have been trying to lose weight but on this bland diet it is hard to do. I am on Serax, Donnatal and a pain pill. They do relieve the pain. Will I have to take these the rest of my life? I'm 62 years old and about 25 pounds overweight. What can I eat or drink? I do get constipated at times and at other times I have diarrhea.

DEAR READER — Your letter is not clear about your present diet. If you really mean you are on a bland diet without bulk that is not the most common treatment for diverticulosis anymore. It was commonly used 10 years ago.

Of course if you have an acute complication, such as inflammation, perforation or hemorrhage, you have to limit the diet but otherwise the current thinking is that you should include bulk, meaning bran, vegetables and fruits. Bulk formers such as Metamucil may be used. All of this is to prevent constipation and relieve pressure on those little pockets of your colon called diverticula.

I'll include some excerpts from a letter I received in today's mail from an 80-year-old man with the same problem and no symptoms: "For breakfast I have a fruit salad which I make by chopping up apples, citrus fruit and bananas. For supper I make an immense bowl of chopped lettuce, cabbage, tomatoes and onion. Deasert is again fruit salad. I often eat peanuts with my fruit salad.

And he goes on from there. While I don't recommend you try his diet, it makes a point. You should avoid things — which you will find by trial and error — that cause you gas.

You might request a consultation with a specialist in gastroenterology to clarify your particular dietary needs.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have been told I have aortic stenosis. What does that mean? The doctor put me on Lanoxin and Lasix. Why? I am a 68-year-old male, weigh 174 and my blood pressure is 160 over 20. Is that good or bad? The last visit I had a racing heart so the doctor put me on Lasix. He says I have a heart murmur.

DEAR READER — The aortic valve is at the outlet of your heart and regulates the flow of blood from your heart into your main artery, the aorta. Aortic stenosis means that it is obstructed, commonly as a complication of previous rheumatic fever.

But if you are right about your blood pressure you also have aortic insufficiency, meaning the valve does not close completely, allowing blood to leak backward into your heart and letting your lower blood pressure reading fall.

The Lanoxin and Lasix keep you from retaining fluid.

WIN AT BRIDGE

found one.

He led his ace of hearts and noted the fall of the six from West and the seven from East. Someone was giving count since the five was missing. Then he played three rounds of diamonds, being careful to leave the fourth diamond winner in dummy.

East discarded the deuce of spades, and the Professor assumed that East had started with 5-4-2-2 distribution.

He took his king of hearts. West dropped the queen, and East completed an echo when he dropped the five. The fourth diamond produced spade discards from both defenders. The Professor was now sure of his count, so he simply threw West in with a club.

West collected three clubs but then had to lead to the ace-queen of spades to give the Prof a top score. Every other declarer had taken the spade finesse and had gone down one.

Note that the Professor had risked a bottom score if East had been dealt six spades to the king and three hearts, but the Prof was certain of his count. Also note that if East had led a spade at trick two, the end play would have become impossible.

By Oswald Jacoby and James Jacoby
The Professor let East's king of clubs hold the first trick, but won the club return with his ace. A quick count of winners showed just eight with the only real chance for a ninth riding on his queen of spades. A simple finesse might give him his ninth trick, but the Prof, like all great experts, wanted to find a better chance if there was one. Then he

ABC Keeps A Stiff Upper Lip In Face Of Ratings Losses

By Julianne Hastings
 UPI TV Reporter

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sounding a little like NBC, which prides itself on giving a second chance to certain shows that perform poorly in the ratings, ABC says it's prepared to ride out the summer with its newest soap, "Loving."

"I'm not saying it's going to work and I'm not saying it's not going to work. I'm just saying it's premature to say," said George Keramidas, ABC vice president for research.

Life can't have been easy for the folks at ABC over the past two weeks.

Besides losing the No. 1 slot in the daytime Nielsen ratings to CBS for two consecutive weeks for the first time in four years, the network also scored a pitiful 9.8 prime time rating last week.

An NBC spokesman hailed the 9.8 as the lowest prime time rating in television history for a non-convention week.

The daytime losses coincided with the network's decision to yank the hour-long "Love Boat" reruns and replace them with "Too Close for Comfort" reruns at 11 a.m. EDT and Agnes Nixon's "Loving" at 11:30 a.m.

Keramidas admitted it was a risk to put a soap opera on the air before noon.

"Sure it's a risk. The truth is, we're not really going to know until fall," he said. "But we've done surveys that indicate women do want to watch this kind of program and they are available in the morning."

"Love Boat" had a "strong kid following" and in the summer, "kids dominate the set," Keramidas said.

But come fall, when the kids are back in school, the audience of females, 18-49 years old, that "Loving" is aiming for regain control of their dials, he said.

"We knew initially it would be a slow build," he said. "This form rarely, if ever, catches on right away. 'The Young and Restless' took two to three years to catch on."

As for the 9.8 disaster, Keramidas shrugged it off. "It was a week dominated by the repeat showing of 'Masada' and two major commitments to sports," he said. "One isolated week out of summer. I don't think it's a trend."

The network executive said ABC had expected a better response to the rerun of its eight-hour, four-part mini-series because it did so well when first aired.

But he did not think its low ratings indicated anything about how two other popular ABC mini-series would perform in reruns — "Winds of War" and "Thornbirds."

"There's no formula for what will repeat well and what won't. 'Dynasty' and 'Dallas' have the highest ratings but they don't repeat well," he said.

ABC's "World News Tonight" also has ended up in the No. 3 spot in the early-evening news category fairly consistently since anchorman Frank Reynolds, who died Wednesday, went off the air because of his illness on April 21.

But Keramidas said things were turning around since London anchor Peter Jennings was brought to Washington to fill Reynolds' post.

"Initially we had David Brinkley fill in and there was a departure from our normal level (of viewers)," Keramidas said. "Brinkley has an older appeal and we lost our younger viewers."

"We put Jennings on and it reversed."
 Keramidas said the ABC news profile was "somewhat different from the other two networks. We depend on a younger audience."

In general, Keramidas said he saw a trend in the three commercial networks hanging on to shows longer than they used to.

"Everyone is exercising more patience," he said. "Making decisions just based on the number of households tuned in is a thing of the past."

"You've got to look at a lot of factors before making a decision," he said. "'Ripley's (Believe It or Not)' was one of the lower rated programs on our schedule, but you have different targets for different time periods. It was up against '60 Minutes.'"

Other shows that didn't perform well until they were moved to new time periods were "Dynasty," which started on Mondays, and "Dallas," which moved from Sundays to Fridays.

Not Badly Hurt

Sanford fire department rescue workers place an injured man on a stretcher Wednesday after he was struck by a pickup truck about 12:30 p.m. at the Zayre's Plaza parking lot in Sanford. The victim, Charles Brewer, 49, of Clearwater, suffered cuts and bruises to his left leg and was treated at the emergency room at Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford and released, according to a hospital spokesman. The truck shown in the photo was backing up when it hit Brewer, according to a Sanford police report. The driver of the truck, Donald Eugene Hurst, 43, of Orlando, was charged with improper backing.

No Such Thing As A Safe Cigarette

WASHINGTON (UPI) — People who smoke low-nicotine cigarettes in hopes of reducing their chances of getting cancer still may absorb as much nicotine as they would smoking regular brands, a study said today. "Many smokers will alter their smoking behavior, changing the number of cigarettes smoked, the method of puffing, and the depth of inhaling the smoke to maintain a desired level of nicotine intake," Dr. Neal L. Benowitz said in the New England Journal of Medicine. An accompanying editorial said there is no safe cigarette. "It is obvious that, despite the seductive advertisements, there is no less hazardous, safer cigarette," said Dr. Claude Lenfant of the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute in Bethesda, Md.

"We conclude that smokers of low-nicotine cigarettes do not consume less nicotine," said Benowitz, who leads researchers from the University of California, San Francisco. Nicotine levels advertised on the cigarette package are based on tests taken by the cigarette industry and the U.S. Federal Trade Commission using smoking machines. "The fact is that people do not smoke like machines," said Benowitz. "They learn how to smoke to get as much nicotine as they want out of a low-yield cigarette. He said tar levels are difficult to measure but probably were the same as the levels of nicotine. Tar and nicotine both have been linked to lung cancer and carbon monoxide from smoking also is implicated in smokers' higher incidence of lung cancer. He said physicians often advise patients who need to stop smoking for medical reasons to switch to brands low in tar and nicotine if they cannot quit. "Our study suggests that the health benefits of switching to such cigarettes may be small or non-existent," the researcher said. Neither the FTC nor the cigarette industry denied the findings. "More than 20 years ago the tobacco industry itself told the government that machine-testing of cigarettes could in no way mimic human smoking," said William D. Toohy Jr., spokesman for the Tobacco Institute in Washington, D.C.

Samantha Ready To Leave Without Meeting Andropov

MOSCOW (UPI) — American schoolgirl Samantha Smith packed to return home today without a hoped-for meeting with Yuri Andropov, saying she believes her message of peace still reached the Soviet leader during her two-week trip. Samantha, 11, of Manchester, Maine, and her parents were scheduled to leave the Soviet Union in the early afternoon today. She attended a farewell lunch at Friendship House Wednesday about the same time Andropov was hosting Hungarian leader Janos Kadar in the Kremlin. It became clear the president would not attend Samantha's lunch when Leonid Zamyatin, a foreign specialist in the Communist Party Central Committee, offered several gifts on Andropov's behalf to Samantha. "It doesn't bother me," the irrepressible sixth-grader said after learning that no meeting would take place. "I feel I did get through to him in a way." Samantha's father, Arthur, told reporters she gave her secret present to Zamyatin as he stood in for Andropov — a scholarly edition of Mark Twain's public addresses. The gift was inspired by the letter Andropov wrote to Samantha inviting her into the international arms control spotlight for weeks. In his letter Andropov said she reminded him of the Twain character, Becky Thatcher.

In return, Samantha "was just showered with gifts," Smith said. "We received a full-size samovar (a metal urn) and a lacquered jewelry box which had a painting of Red Square on it," he said, describing the box as a "really beautiful piece of craftsmanship." Smith broke the news that there would be no meeting in a telephone conversation with reporters while Samantha skipped an afternoon trip to the children's Musical Theater to catch a nap. "Samantha didn't seem to be upset," her father said. He described his own reaction as "mildly" disappointed. "I was never certain that there would be such a meeting," he said. "There could very easily be extenuating circumstances." Andropov's health has been a subject of recent concern but he also was busy this week with Kadar. Earlier, Samantha told reporters she was anxious to get back home. She could not recall in a session with Soviet children what question she had posed to Andropov when she wrote him last April asking whether the Soviet Union wanted war. "She won't say that she's tired and that she's had enough," Smith said. "She just gets tired and cranky. But she's really enjoying it."

Martial Law To End At Midnight

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Poland's President Henryk Jablonski today declared that more than 19 months of martial law will end at midnight. Jablonski announced the restoration of civilian rule in a speech before parliament that was broadcast nationwide shortly after 9 a.m. EDT. Minutes earlier the 460-seat house voted overwhelming approval of an amnesty decree that will free hundreds of political prisoners. Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski, the Communist Party leader and premier, imposed martial law on Dec. 13, 1981 to shut down the Solidarity union and eliminate what he said was a threat to Poland's survival and independence. But, he said, lifting martial law "will not work wonders" and cure Poland's economic and social problems overnight. Jaruzelski said the peaceful outcome of Pope John Paul II's trip to Poland last month helped authorities decide to end the active phase of their crackdown on Solidarity and political opposition. But he warned the government would act firmly to put down any fresh outbreak of anti-government demonstrations. Martial law was suspended last December, but many of the tough rules forbidding unauthorized public gatherings or protests remained in effect. Parliament set the stage for ending martial law by passing an amnesty decree and legislation giving police broad powers to curb dissent. The centerpiece of the government's legal package — a bill extending many of the restrictions of martial law through 1985 — was delayed by disagreements among the deputies. The Solidarity underground urged its members to accept amnesty, an offer government officials said applied to anyone — even the underground's No. 1 fugitive, Zbigniew Bujack. Officials estimated up to 600 people could be freed from custody, but said a panel of judges would decide each case separately. No one will be freed before Saturday and the process could last up to a month. In the background of Parliament's meeting was a disagreement between the government and the Catholic church, which successfully argued for removal of several of the most objectionable portions of the post-martial law legislation. Urban confirmed the church asked for several changes and said the government was "attentively listening." A government proposal that would have extended the universal military draft to riot police and the army was killed at the church's request, sources said. Other points in the new laws that raised objections — among them the toughest censorship laws in years and the threat of stiff prison sentences for anyone involved with a banned union — may have been simply delayed until another Parliament session July 28-29. One member of the 460-seat Sejm said the regime delayed action on some bills to avoid souring the publicity surrounding the end of martial law.
