Wanger Kisses Joan Goodbye At Airport

LOS ANGELES (U-P) — Joan Bennett and producer Walter Wanger, estranged since he shot her agent, Jennings Lang, last Dec. 18, appeared to be a very loving couple as he kissed her good-bye Thursday night at International Airport. Miss Bennett was off to New York, where she will prepare to tour in who play. Next Tuesday Wanger will learn what if any penalty is to be imposed on him for seriously wounding Lang, whom he accused of breaking up his home. In spite of the eyewitness reports of the farewell at Los Angeles, Miss Bennett denied on her arrival in New York that Wanger had kissed her good-bye. She conceded only that "he drove me to the airport."

Shriners To Hold Council In Miami

MIAMI (Special) — "Welcome Nobles" decorations are being displayed in all sections of the state along routes of 50,000 Shriners headed here for the 78th annual Imperial Council Session the week of June 16. It was pointed out by Harry C. In some vicinities, decorations are being distributed by local Shrine clubs with the approval of the Council Session. In addition to the Greater Miami area, authorized Shrine decorations already are being sold in Tampa, Fort Myers, Naples, Sarasota, West Palm Beach, Lake Worth, Fort Lauderdale, Dania, Hallandale, Hollywood, Fort Pierce, Okeechobee, Vero Beach, Jensen, Stuart and Key West. Truman Raps Senate Over Steel Crisis

President Deplores Plan To Restrict Cash For Operation Of Seized Industry

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman told the Senate today that if it restricts use of government funds for operation of the seized steel mills it may result in "paralyzing the operations of the government in an emergency."

In a letter to Vice President Barkley, the President hit out vigorously at Republican-sponsored moves to deny any funds for government operation of the mills.

He said enactment of the GOP proposal might lead to a complete shutdown in steel and "immediately reduce the ability of our troops in Korea to defend themselves against attack."

Further, the President contended, such a move would be "extreme and misleading character."

He warned:

"If the Communists stage another offensive in Korea this spring, the success or failure of that offensive may well depend on whether or not we have kept our steel mills in operation. This is a consideration over and above the drastic effect a steel shutdown would have on our total defense effort."

Truman repeated what he had said in a message April 9—that he ordered "temporary operation" of the steel mills by the government "with the utmost reluctance; that the idea of government operation of the steel mills was thoroughly distasteful to me; and that I wanted to see it ended as soon as possible."

The President went on then to challenge Congress to come up with a better way to deal with the situation created by the steel wage dispute if it "did not believe it could meet its responsibilities simply by following a course of negation."

Several Decisions Are Handed Down By Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (AP)—By a 4-4 vote, the Supreme Court today refused to free German Countess Marianna von Molke from the prison term she drew on charges that she aided Hitler's Reich during World War II.

Mrs. Von Molke's home was in Detroit. Her four-year sentence has been marked by litigation since it was pronounced in 1944.

The Supreme Court action was announced in an unsigned order which noted only that the tribunal was equally divided. Such tie votes always uphold the lower court.

Justice Clark disqualified himself from the case.

Mrs. Von Molke and her husband came to this country from Germany in 1926. The countess became an instructor of military science at Wayne University. In 1943 Mrs. Von Molke was arrested as a dangerous enemy alien.

In the espionage case, the government charged she was associated with conspirators who planned to send to Germany documents, pictures and blue prints giving information about national defenses of the United States.

In other actions today the high court:

1. Refused to reconsider its March 10 decision upholding contempt sentences given six lawyers who defended a Communist who defended at a stormy New York trial.
2. Refused for a third time to set on an appeal by Vincent V. Hallinan, San Francisco attorney who received a six-month contempt sentence during the Harry Bridges perjury trial.
3. Upheld 7-0 a finding that the Richmond Oil Corporation of Louisiana violated the anti-trust laws by requiring 2,000 Western service stations to buy only from it.
4. Rejected five requests that it set aside a controversy over a reorganization plan for the big Missouri Pacific Railroad which has been in bankruptcy proceedings since 1933.

Chap. Danielson Explains Duties At Rotary Meet

Chaplain John M. Danielson of the Sanford Naval Air Station spoke to the Rotary Club today on the duties of a chaplain, explaining that there are about 750 chaplains in the Navy today and that about 250 more are needed. Chaplains, he said, cannot be drafted, but must be raised by volunteers.

"There are no atheists coming out of Korea," he said. "Regardless of what they are like when they go in, those who come back are seriously minded young men who are ready to talk to us."

Chaplain Danielson, who was introduced by Roland Dean as a native of Florida and former resident of Ocala and Orlando, expressed his appreciation for the "goodness" of Sanford and the friendly spirit which prevails here, and also commended Capt. John M. Chittenden as a fine Christian gentleman.

He explained that a chaplain must be an ordained minister before he will be accepted in the armed services. He said that the best thing about the chaplain's work is the contact with the men and the fact that they regard him as a friend to whom they can go with all their troubles.

The chaplain also has direct access to the commanding officer and can go straight to him on any matter affecting the men.

"When I go aboard a ship," he said, "it is my first duty to set up a Christian worship and a church educational program, and to see that there is an adequate welfare program for the men."

The meeting was presided over by Past President Orville Tuckton in the absence of Jack Rattan who is attending the Rotary convention in St. Petersburg. Visiting speakers tonight are Charles Morrison as A. C. Bauer of West Orange, N. J., Charles Wagner of (Continued on Page 2)

IFT GAS GUN

HALIFAX, Nova Scotia (AP)—A local machine engineer and master mechanic has invented "gas gun" to mark both bank robbers and their loot.

The inventor, J. Dan Frider, has taken his gas gun to Canada and has patent applications pending in other countries.

Not intended to kill or injure permanently, it would be installed in banks, stores and other buildings. The gas gun would mark the bank employee would mark the robber with a red ammonia hydroxide shot from a gas gun under 2,000 pounds of pressure.

The ammonia would blind and stain the robber. The purple dye would wash off him for several days, and would never come off any money he held.

Smathers And Herlong To Speak For Russell At Jaycee Meeting

The presidential campaign in Seminole County was intensified today with the announcement by Senator George Smathers and Rep. Bill Herlong would speak on behalf of the candidacy of Senator Richard B. Russell of Georgia at the Jaycees' meeting in the Yacht Club Thursday night.

Mr. Crawford said that the public is invited but that reservations must be made in advance by calling 1372. He also stated that Senator Estes Kefauver and any other presidential candidates or their representatives would be welcome to speak before the Jaycees at subsequent meetings.

"The Jaycees are anxious to hear all the presidential candidates or their representatives," Mr. Crawford commented.

Mr. Crawford also mentioned that Senator Russell will be in Sanford on Tuesday night, May 27, to speak at the Jaycees' meeting in the Yacht Club Thursday night.

Senator Russell will make an intensive 10-day campaign tour across the state in advance of the state's May 27 primary election. It was announced by the "Russell For President" headquarters in Ocala today.

The Senator's itinerary includes more than 35 public radio and television appearances, beginning in Gainesville at 12:00 p.m. Saturday, April 25. The campaign will extend from Pensacola in the northwest to Miami on the tip of the southeastern coast.

Temper Flare In Clerk's Race At Longwood Rally

Nettled by a question from the audience, "What about the grand jury?" O. P. Herndon, county clerk, was aroused to a stinging rebuke at the Longwood Democratic rally Friday night against statements by his opponent in the race, Mayor W. H. Stemper of Sanford.

The flare-up came with dramatic suddenness, and was much more friendly and jovial talks, interspersed with humorous tales and straight listing of his accomplishments at the previous four rallies.

Replying to the charge as made by Mr. Stemper in a previous radio talk that the grand jury had not been called into session in over a year, Mr. Herndon said: "The Circuit Judge is the sole authority who can call a grand jury." He then pointed out that on April 7, 1950 there was a grand jury in session with a lady and a Negro man serving on it, and that grand jury investigations had taken place on Nov. 9, 1950 and on April 7, 1951.

Mr. Stemper in his talk preceding that of Mr. Herndon, pointed out that the office of the county clerk is not merely a place for records, but that the clerk had other important responsibilities such as tax land sales, clerk of the Circuit Court and secretary of the County Commission. He compared the job to that of a court messenger.

Renewing a previous charge of dictatorial powers on the part of Mr. Herndon over a period of years, Mr. Stemper asked why it was that some people had given the clerk credit for the building of certain roads in the county. He attacked the "vicious influence" on the part of the clerk and spoke of his "vicious influence" with respect to his dictatorial power.

Mr. Herndon denied political or gang tactics, and stated that he had striven to be an honest and faithful public servant. "If I am the monster they claim I am, I (Continued on Page 2)

New Plan Studied For Assignment Of Fliers To Overseas

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Air Force has a new plan, effective June 1, for determining when and for how long fliers should be assigned to foreign duty.

An Air Force spokesman said it will abolish the point system so many points for combat, service abroad and so on—which has been one factor in overseas assignments since World War II. This system, he said, was never fully satisfactory for permanent use.

The spokesman said the new plan, based upon an individual's ability to perform abroad, has been under preparation for months. He said its adoption has no connection with recent refusals by some officers to fly.

Some officers at Randolph Air Force Base in Texas are elsewhere ignored orders to take part in air formations. Some said they had had their fill of combat in World War II. One has been court-martialed, but the Defense Department has halted disciplinary action pending against others until it issues a new statement of policy.

The new method was explained this way:

1. No officer or airman will serve more than 18 months overseas away from his dependents. If this is waived, the man must serve at least 12 months abroad after his dependents arrive.
2. No personnel with less than 12 months still to serve will be eligible for overseas duty.
3. Two years' duty in the United States must be served before re-assignment abroad.
4. These rules may be set aside if the airman volunteers for overseas service.

Colonel Fortescue, A Colorful Figure, Dies In Palm Beach

WEST PALM BEACH (AP)—Col. Gerald Roland Fortescue, 76, soldier, author, dramatist and one-time military aide to President Theodore Roosevelt, died here today after a prolonged illness.

His home was at Haysport, N. Y. Fortescue began his military career, which spanned three campaigns, in 1898 as a private with Roosevelt's "Rough Riders." He was wounded in their famous charge at San Juan Hill.

He subsequently served in the Philippine Campaign, was a military attaché with the Japanese army before Port Arthur in the Russo-Japanese War, and became a special correspondent for the London Standard with the Spanish army in the Rif War in Morocco in 1909.

He returned to military service in the American Expeditionary Force in France in 1917-18, serving with the 314th Field Artillery. He was wounded at Montaucon, France, during the war. He retired from military service in 1923.

Fortescue wrote several books relating to the World War I, including "At the Front with Three Armies" in 1914, "Russia, the Balkans and the Danubian" in 1915, "The Frontiers" in 1916 and "France Bears the Responsibility" in 1917. KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Army, augmented by civilian workers, carried on a grim battle today to save the Sherman Army Field of the nearby Missouri River.

Some 1,600 men dug through mud in a chivalry, bolstering a three-mile stretch of dikes against the treacherous river pressure.

It was a dangerous hand-to-hand struggle.

Flood waters behind the dikes stood as much as nine feet above the level of the air field. Lifelines were kept at hand. Most of the work was done without aid of machinery. The field was too soggy for trucks.

Fort Leavenworth is about 25 miles northwest of Kansas City. The critical area along the flooding Missouri is now between St. Joseph, Mo., and Kansas City.

If the dike at the north end of Sherman Field gives way, the water probably will cut a new, deeper channel across the field leaving part of it an island. Flood fighters reported.

While the Army fought the Sherman Field battle, tricky Missouri Valley weather posed new problems on 700 miles of the flooding river.

What worried the flood fighters was the question: How much will it rain? And where?

All the experts would say was that a change of heavy rain exists. It would be a matter of whether it would hit the Missouri basin, especially the overloaded area from St. Joseph, Mo., to Kansas City.

Even if it rained a full inch in the Kay (Kansas) basin, they said, it would raise the Missouri at Kansas City only about a foot. That would still be well below the level of the protecting dikes were built to stand.

The Kaw, a fast-acting river, was what gave Kansas City, Mo., and Kansas City, Kan., their worst flood when it poured on the Missouri here last July. It's rolling down at a low level now.

Sanford Sailor Is Found Dead In Jail

DELAND (AP)—The body of Andrew R. Martin, 22, Sanford Naval Air Station sailor, was found hanging from a water pipe in a Volusia county jail cell Friday.

He was on a four-day confinement on a charge of drunken driving. Chief Deputy Engine Petrone said Martin removed his neck from a mattress to make a noose.

Martin was identified by a driver's license issued at Norwood, N. Y. He was brought to jail at 4:11 p.m. Thursday after being involved in a traffic accident which resulted in the death of a Volusia county deputy, and he was dressed in civilian clothing.

Shortly after 4:45 p.m., Martin was found hanging from a cross beam in the jail cell. He had fashioned a rope from torn strips of a mattress cover. Two physicians who examined the body stated that the young man had died almost instantly.

Justice of the Peace Wallace Smith termed the death a suicide and said that no inquest will be held.

PACKERS FINED

OCALA (AP)—A fine of $1,200 was imposed on a Umatilla citrus packing company today in Federal Court after an official of the company admitted they had packed oranges and tangerines for out-of-state shipment last Dec. 31, in violation of holiday embargo regulations.

W. F. Austin Jr., secretary-treasurer of Best Fruit Co., Inc., admitted his company's guilt, but told the Court it was "a blunder on our part is not thoroughly reading the regulation."

TAFT CIRCLES

By The Associated Press

Backers of Sen. Robert A. Taft are circulating a petition asking Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's views of 21 "vital questions."

This new move by Taft supporters came to light as voters prepared for primary tests Tuesday night will result in the election of more than one-third of the delegates to the Republican National Convention July 7.

Those primaries will be held in New York and Pennsylvania, which rank one and three in total delegate strength.

Idaho Democrats choose their 12 delegates to the National Convention today. The delegates will be selected at a state democratic convention.

The Idaho delegation is expected to go to the convention untroubled despite efforts by Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee and Robert Kerr of Oklahoma to gain their support.

Taft headquarters in Washington said the new Eisenhower questionnaire was prepared by Guy L. Smith, editor of the Knoxville (Tenn.) Journal and chairman of the Tennessee Republican Committee.

Among other things the questions ask Eisenhower's position on the Truman administration's foreign policy, the firing of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, civil rights legislation and the Taft-Hartley labor law.

Eisenhower, who was confined to bed with a severe cold in Paris today, gave no indication when he requested that he be relieved of his duties as supreme Allied commander in Europe whether or not he would set forth his views on controversial issues before the GOP convention.

Of the 40 Republican delegates chosen to lead Taft holds a lead of 209 to 121 over Eisenhower among those who have officially pledged support or who have been willing to designate their favors.

Supreme Court

Washington (AP)—The Supreme Court today upheld a federal law that kept Gen. Dwight Eisenhower in bed for another day.

Informants said his temperature has dropped to normal but another day of rest is needed to lick an "upper respiratory infection."

The general was ordered to bed by his doctor on Saturday.

DOCTOR HONORED

MOORE HAVEN (AP)—Dr. Duncan M. Draughn observed his 65th birthday today but it was nothing like the celebration this town gave its only physician a day in advance.

Dr. Draughn, who set up practices here in 1910 and brought an estimated 1,500 babies into the world since that time, led a parade down the main street and was given a television set by admirers and fellow townmen.

More than 600 persons thronged the city park to eat from overloaded tables of food and pay tribute to the "country doctor" who served the community from automobiles, mules and model T automobiles.

Jet Plane Shakes Writer Before He Leaves The Ground

By SAUL PETT
(For Hal Boyle)

OTIS AIR BASE, Cape Cod, Mass.—Off hand, I'd say I'm as brave as the next man, if the next man happens to be a toward I recently had occasions to get up in a jet fighter plane. Many people have flown in these 60-mile an hour jobs. But I'll be none came as close as I did to backing out BEFORE takeoff.

A nice young officer, whose serenity I learned to detest, helped me into my equipment.

"There's really nothing to it," said Lt. Lou Glento, Denver, Colo. "smoother than your car."

He zoned me into a flying suit which, I was assured, had built-in compartments that would automatically inflate against sudden pulls in gravity. Lou also helped me into:

A helmet, bigger but lighter than a football helmet; an oxygen mask; a ball-out bottle ("in case you need oxygen if you jump"); a 28-foot parachute with a folded up rubber dinghy attached; a Mae West life preserver ("The pack, you know, is shark-resistant"); heavy gloves, and a signal mirror flashlight and whistle (in case I landed in the ocean in the dark or fog and needed to attract attention).

"There's a knife in the cockpit of the plane which you use to puncture the dinghy if it inflates accidentally," Lou said.

He and another man then put me into the rear cockpit of a 2-seater F94 jet. With all those gadgets, I couldn't get in myself. With help, I was pushed in backwards and then sideways. It's really a very unglamorous way of taking off for the wild blue yonder.

I had to sit with my knees bent and my head leaning down slightly because of the low, transparent canopy.

"Now look," Lou said when I was all connected. "There's nothing to worry about. But if something should go wrong, remember the first thing is to keep calm."

I asked him to rush on to the next thing. The first advice was completely useless.

"If the pilot gives you the order to jump," Lou said, "You pull up these seat handles first. That makes ready a 20 mm. charge under your seat."

"Where, where?"

Lou put my quivering hands on the seat handles.

"Oh, yes, if the pilot can't open the canopy, you pull this gear here. As soon as it opens, squeeze this trigger on the arm of the seat. Do it quickly. The wind will be terrific."

"Where, where, where?"

The DeBary Civic Association, Inc. held its regular business meeting last Friday evening at Dickinson Memorial Library in Orange City. The resignation of the president, Ernest Moller, was accepted with regret and Hudson Myers, vice-president took over the presidency of the organization. All chairmen of committees were invited to meet with the Board of Directors the first Tuesday of next month. Nine new members were accepted.

On Apr. 15, Hazel White became the wife of A. R. Smith. Their friends in DeBary are very happy for them and extend to them their very best wishes.

Lt. and Mrs. Glenn Ferris and their daughter, Beth, have returned to DeBary after a three-months' stay in Corpus Christi, Tex.

On Saturday Mrs. Ray E. Peck flew to Cincinnati, Ohio to spend some time visiting with her family. She accompanied her niece and her husband on their return from a Florida vacation.

We don't envy Mrs. Robert Vance who left on Tuesday for her home in New Jersey where she will pack their belongings prior to coming to DeBary to live in their charming new home.

Mrs. Archie Rounds has returned from a trip to St. Petersburg. Caesar Robioli left on Wednesday morning to fly to a convention of his firm in Minneapolis.

Mr. and Mrs. Neil Quackenbush spent the Easter holidays in their home. They hope to return again the charge and shoot you out of the plane. Now, you'll find yourself 70 or 80 feet in the air above where the plane is, or was. You'll still be in a sitting position, with the seat strapped to you. Remember, be calm. Then unhook the seat belt."

I felt frantically for the hook. Lou found it for me around my waist, under some other gadget.

"After you unhook the seat belt," he continued, "straighten up in the air, arch your back a little like for a swim dive. Wait a few seconds and then pull the chute cord."

"Where, where, where?"

"Right here. Pull the ripcord all the way out, arm's length. Stay relaxed. Keep your feet together, try to land on your toes and keep your legs flexible. If you land in water, pull these two small cords down to inflate the Mae West."

"Where, where, where, where?"

Lou showed me. Then we went over the various steps four times. I'm a stickler for detail.

Finally, the pilot, Maj. A. J. Coleman, Newark, N. Y., climbed in, and we took off. The flight was comfortable and uneventful. Actually, I didn't see much. I spent most of my time memorizing and cracking up the gadgets I might need but didn't.

Private Papers Of Sen. Vandenberg Rap British Veto Power On Bomb

By JOHN W. HIGHPOWER
WASHINGTON (AP)—Britain held veto power over American use of the atomic bomb for several years during and after World War II, but lost it with the ending of the atomic partnership of the United States, Britain and Canada.

In proposing to create a new partnership a few years ago, President Truman told congressional leaders in secret that he wanted to share all U. S. atomic weapon secrets with Britain and Canada. Republican leaders strongly objected.

This information bearing on a major phase of American atomic policy development has been brought to light with the release of "The Private Papers of Sen. Vandenberg," a volume of personal and official records from the files of the late Republican foreign affairs leader in the Senate.

The 500-page book, edited by the senator's son and long-time assistant, Arthur H. Vandenberg, Jr., covers the whole range of American foreign policy from Pearl Harbor to the time of the senator's death one year ago. The perspective is that of a man who first went through a personal revolution from "isolationism" to "internationalism" and then, beginning about the time of the San Francisco U. N. conference, played a vital role in the shaping of many great decisions.

Although he was a Republican or because he was a Republican devoted to bipartisan support of foreign policy—Vandenberg advised Truman administration officials on foreign affairs repeatedly and even shared in some of its secrets at election campaign time.

In 1948, a critical period for the President at home and abroad, Vandenberg and Vandenberg, Jr., advised Truman administration officials on foreign affairs repeatedly and even shared in some of its secrets at election campaign time.

Vandenberg noted in his diary that the President appeared anxious to do something for peace and also seemed to be aware that his election campaign (which at the time most people thought was a lost cause) "sadly needed a shot in the arm."

It was not until later that Vandenberg learned, from the newspapers, that Mr. Truman had contemplated sending Chief Justice Fred Vinson on a peace mission to Moscow and had given up the idea when Gen. George C. Marshall, then secretary of state, opposed it. The idea of a telephone call, which actually never came off as far as the record shows, then was judged by Vandenberg to have been a substitute for the discarded Vinson mission.

The Vandenberg disclosures on atomic energy policy and proposals were checked by this reporter with administration officials in position to know the facts and to have a viewpoint different from that of the late senator. The inquiries showed that the information in the book was checked with responsible officials prior to publication and therefore may be taken as substantially the same as the facts shown by official records.

There was some speculation here that there might be repercussions in Britain from the disclosure that London had lost a veto in the use of the A-bomb. However, it was pointed out that the British have long since accustomed themselves to basic changes in Anglo-American relationships which have occurred in this field since the war.

The essence of the information respecting the veto is that the late President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill entered into secret arrangements at Quebec and at Hyde Park, N. Y., in the midyears of the war for the joint development and control of atomic energy.

These arrangements which were privy to very few high government officials apparently did not become known to Republican leaders in Congress, and perhaps to Democrats as well, until some time in the first part of 1947 when Vandenberg, then chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, and Sen. Hickenlooper (R., Iowa) learned about them.

They learned that along with providing for the sharing of facts on atomic development, the joint sharing of uranium ore from the Belgian Congo and the joint promotion of the atomic program, agreement had been made that neither the U. S. nor Britain would use the A-bomb unless both agreed.

At the time the information became known to the Republicans the United States was in fact already going it alone in this field, the partnership between America and Britain, shared also by Canada, having practically broken up.

Vandenberg and Hickenlooper were therefore shocked to learn that while Congress had been working on the assumption that the President had final decision on the use of atomic weapons, the United States was technically bound to consult the British before making the decision.

The two Republicans brought considerable pressure on the administration to change this, the book shows, and in January, 1948, the veto agreement was finally ended in a new understanding among the three wartime partners which had the effect of placing ultimate decision on using the A-bomb with the President.

Under the 1948 arrangement, Britain could obtain little information about U. S. atomic projects and undertook to develop its own weapons.

In September, 1949, the Russians pulled off their first atomic explosion and Vandenberg and other interested congressional authorities were told about it in advance of public announcement. Vandenberg commented in his diary as to its significance.

"We had a meeting of the Atomic Energy Committee in secret this morning (and a very solemn one) regarding the Russian development—it's far from certain precisely what the Russians have other than man-made means of exploding nuclear fission with vast resultant radio reaction. It was (a fairly short time) in our own case. After our original experiment, we had a different mental explosion before we tried any actual bomb. Then it's many months before there can be real bomb production in minimum quantities."

"But the Russians have had (many thousands of) men at work on the job and the benefit of many top-notch German scientists whom they virtually kidnaped. In an event, this is now a different world. The new problems are appalling. Where do we go from here and what do we do about it?"

CRIME GROWING
WASHINGTON (AP)—Crime is increasing in the nation, says the FBI and—"a tragedy of our times"—the accent is on youth.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover Sunday released a compilation of statistics from police departments throughout the country. They show rate increases for 1951 of 5.2 per cent in cities and 5 per cent in rural areas.

Hoover commented: "A tragedy of our times is expressed in 1951's fingerprint statistics on youthful offenders."

Of persons arrested during the year, he said, most were aged 21, 14.4 per cent were under 21; there was a 7.7 per cent increase among the under-18 group, and 41.9 per cent of 20-year olds had previous fingerprint arrest records.

His unit, the 1st Armored Division, formed the spearhead of the U. S. force that drove the Argentine across the Colorado River, completing the destruction of the invading "enemy" two days ahead of schedule.

More than 115,000 soldiers and units under combat conditions in the giant maneuver, one of the largest in U. S. history.

Pfc. Hoover is a member of the 91st Armored Field Artillery Battalion.

She's THE SAFEST LADY ON THE ROAD

With Chrysler POWER STEERING plus Chrysler POWER BRAKES

At the wheel of a new Chrysler, you have quicker, surer, control of motion than you've ever had in a car. You can't imagine what it's like till you drive it! With this full-time power steering, hydraulic power does 1/5 the steering work at your gentle pull on the wheel! You also turn the wheel 1/3 less distance. And on rough roads, soft shoulders, snow or sand, "wheel fight" just doesn't happen. Your hand actually has five times the usual steering control, through every minute of every mile... with the same sure "wheel feel" at all times!

With this safer way to steer, power brakes make stops at all speeds safer and easier, too. Power from the engine "boosts" every touch of your toe. Actually you stop with up to 2/3 less foot pressure than non-power brakes. You can bring your Chrysler to a halt from full speeds in many feet less distance than other cars of comparable size can stop. See your Chrysler dealer soon. Feel for yourself why thousands of owners say Chrysler offers the two greatest advances in many years in driving safety and driving ease!

TODAY'S BIBLE VERSE

God's laws are kindly intended for our betterment and safety.
If ye keep my commandments ye shall abide in my love.—John 15: 10.

Some people think castor oil is funny. Mostly it's not. Certainly it's serious business to Brazil, the world's largest producer, which is turning out 170,000 tons of the stuff a year.

Bill Hendrix, Ku Klux Klan candidate for governor complains that he was kidnapped and beaten by three men near Hialeah the other day. Now he knows how it feels to be a victim of the Ku Klux Klan.

There were real fireworks at the Longwood political rally Friday night. If you have not been attending these gatherings, you do not know what you have been missing.
Better make it a point to be at the next one.

We have at last discovered why it is so hard these days to hire experienced reporters. They are all working for the government. Some 2,625 of them, it says here, plus 1,007 part time employees dishing out propaganda at $17,134,390 a year.

Did you know that the United States will give away nearly twice as much money in foreign aid this year as it did last year? When the Marshall Plan first got under way it was supposed to cost about five billion dollars. Now it is running about ten billion dollars a year, or about twice what we spend on public education all over the United States.

Jim Powell, the Tampa Tribune political correspondent, finds Dan McCarthy still in the lead, but with the extent of his margin widely disputed. "There is widespread confession," he continues, "over whether it will be Aldo Adams or Walter Odham running second.
Adams has much more organization than Odham, but the latter has his own political device, the radio "quintathion." Adams has a lot of big money. Odham has a lot of small contributions, over 1,000 last week."

Averell Harriman seems to be the choice of New York Democrats for President though he was, like McCarthy, born with a silver spoon in his mouth and heir to one of the big railroad trusts which caused such a furor half a century ago.
There is no accounting for what the New York Democrats will do. They seem to be all for the little fellow, but against the corporations and the big business, strong for the Foreign Man, but invariably they line up with someone like Harriman, Roosevelt, or John W. Davis.
Men like Russell, Kefauver, and so on are not good enough for

Big Government

The greater the demands upon government, the bigger and more powerful government must become, and the bigger and more powerful the government, the greater is the consequent tendency, human nature being what it is, to a deterioration of both public and private morals, Leroy A.
Lincoln, board chairman of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, told the Southwestern Legal Foundation conference at Southern Methodist University in New York last week. He was participating in a conference of business and professional leaders on the theme "Immortality in Government."

Some people "expect from central government many things for which government is not equipped and which are not a part of our American philosophy," Mr. Lincoln added.
"They come close to and ideology which has made headway in some countries and which we constantly profess to spurn.
I suppose there are relatively few of our citizens who are not subconsciously or avowedly supporters of one or another kind of so-called pressure group. Their menace to the public official is overwhelming."

If there is a remedy, Mr. Lincoln declared, it must be the development of "social unselfishness." Groups must not seek to pile their demands on public officials and government, and must be prevailed on to seek the general good rather than their own selfish personal interests. Furthermore, the individual citizens must once again learn to recognize their many responsibilities and accept them as such.

"It is only when our citizenry recognizes this fact and begins to set the example and to make its views known that we can hope for any change," he said. "Democratic government is no better and no worse than its citizens demand that it be, and morality in government is no better and no worse than the standards fixed by the people themselves."

A strong plea was made by Mr. Lincoln for Americans in every walk of life to return to reliance upon themselves and, where feasible, upon their local governments, rather than rely upon a strong central government. He saw trends toward the "welfare state" as influences sure to lead to moral deterioration in government.

Mr. Lincoln called attention to a recent "Statement issued by the Bishops of the United States," from which he quoted the following:

"We exhort Americans in every walk of life to redi-cate themselves to the wisdom of our founding fathers—a wisdom which proclaimed God's rightful place in human affairs—a wisdom so memorably expressed by the father of our country in his farewell address: 'Of all the dispositions and habits which lead to political prosperity, religion and morality are indispensable supports . . . reason and experience both forbid us to expect that national morality can prevail in exclusion of religious principle.'"

Famine in China

In various parts of the world the coming of Spring does not mean new hope as it does in America. In rural China for instance, the spring means an extension of famine, the beginning of another year of hunger and privation. Although the Communists who now rule China have aligned these people with enemies of democracy, it is impossible for Americans to be unmoved by their lot. Those hardest hit by privations are peasants, largely illiterate and uneducated, to whom Communism and democracy are merely words, words without as real and concrete a meaning as other words like hunger and death.

It would be foolish to hope that the famine will lead the Chinese people to revolt. They are deprived of weapons, poorly nourished and vigilantly watched. The Communists promised more food more land and better housing. But politics, radical or conservative, cannot make rice grow in bar-ren soil or rain to fall and nourish the rice that does spring up.

The Communists, however, have made matters worse.
The cost of the war in Korea in materials, food and money is making itself felt. The peasants have had to pay a higher percentage of their pitifully small crops in taxes this year.
The stand taken by the Communist government has cut China off from the aid and assistance the free world might have sent to the unfortunate.

Because Communist promises were so extravagant the famines will hurt their cause. Other impoverished nations will observe the events in China. They may conclude that trading liberty to the Reds for food is a poor bargain, especially since the Communists cannot deliver the food.

Leap Year Advice

This is Leap Year and a hazardous 366 days it is for the hard-shelled bachelor. The most recent attack on his state of bachelorhood comes from a doctor writing in a medical trade paper. According to this physician bachelors are more likely to have gastric ulcers than their married brethren and single men are less able to stand fast in the face of a financial crisis. This appears to be medical confirmation of the slogans emblazoned on the banners of maidens this leap year which read that: "Two can live as cheaply as one," and "The way to a man's heart is through his stomach."

Getting married is serious business and it is easy to understand why a man ponders the move a long time before making it. Yet one suspects that the bachelors who are still eligible for marriage are not nearly so determined to avoid it as they pretend to be, and that those who are no longer considered eligible bachelors are just a bit envious of their married friends. Loneliness and gastric ulcers make a dire prophecy with which to have to live.

CAPTAIN KID'S TREASURE

Congressman Herlong Reports

By SID HERLONG
While the practice of inviting their constituents to comment on current issues through the publication or mailing of questionnaires is by no means universal among Members of Congress, I know of several who do this each year. One of my friends who represents the Third District of the State of Washington has just finished tabulating the replies to his annual poll, and I thought it might be interesting to you to compare the views of these people from the far Northwest with those from our own Fifth District of Florida.

The Washington Representative's questions were not all the same as ours, but eight of them were identical, and these are the ones which I quote. The comparative figures are as follows:

	Wash.	Yes	No	Fla.	Yes	No
Do you favor Cutting Tru- man's budget?	95%	5%	94%	6%
Universal military training?	59%	41%	65%	35%
Raises in taxes by Congress?	5%	95%	11%	89%
Economic aid to foreign nations?	46%	54%	32%	68%
Socialized medicine?	14%	86%	11%	89%
Federal aid to education?	7%	48%	52%	30%	70%
St. Lawrence water-way?	54%	46%	40%	51%
Invasion of China by Nationalist forces?	84%	16%	50%	41%

You can't imagine how much I'm enjoying being in Florida for a few weeks. The chance to be among home folks, to get around the district and see as many of our friends as possible, to enjoy Florida sunshine and flowers, is something I needed. I am not forgetting that there are many unsolved problems, many hard decisions, much hard work still before us in this session of Congress; but this brief interlude which has allowed most of us to

If all women over thirty-five were to examine their breasts carefully each month and re-their physician, the number of cases of this disease could be cut in half.

Surgical treatment has proven best for this type of cancer.
When the malignancy is dis-early stage complete cure can be expected. The mortality rate from this type of opera-

Bloody Battle Breaks Out In Jackson Jail

Dispute Over What To Do With 11 Hostages Causes Fight Among Prisoners

JACKSON, Mich. (AP)—An angry, tired band of multicolored prisoners staged a bloody battle in their beleaguered cell block today after a dispute over what to do with 11 Southern Michigan prison guards they held as hostages.

Two of the prisoners were stabbed and beaten badly in the melee which ended when their bloody bodies were tossed out of the cell block by other convicts.

The civil war among the 170 multicolored, central figures in the riotous, fiery 3-day-old outbreak that brought death to one convict and two million dollars' damage to the huge Southern Michigan prison, came as negotiations were underway for a truce.

The multicolored, in tense parleys with prison officials, had indicated a desire to barter the lives of the 11 guards they held as hostages in return for promises of no-punishment for their part in the rioting and improved conditions at the prison.

Prison officials and inmate Russell Jarbo, termed one of the ring leaders in the bloody outbreak, reached an agreement in a truce talks held outside a prison block.

Jarbo agreed to speak over the prison radio today in an effort to calm the prisoners, whose rampage caused an estimated two million dollar damage at the big prison.

Prison officials, in tense parleys with prison officials, had indicated a desire to barter the lives of the 11 guards they held as hostages in return for promises of no-punishment for their part in the rioting and improved conditions at the prison.

Candidates Asked For Positions On Local Hospital

4 Replies Received To Questionnaire By Citizens Group

Candidates for the County Commission have been questioned in a letter signed by a group of interested citizens who wish to know their views on the proposed construction of a new hospital in cooperation with the Fish Estate.

The action was motivated by the fact that a crisis has been reached due to lack of sufficient accommodations in the present hospital, resulting in patients being turned away.

Replies had been received from four of the candidates up to noon today. They were from C. E. Priest, Benner G. Carter, Victor M. Greene and W. G. Kilber. All of them expressed the need for a new hospital, though there were different views on the best way of proceeding to get one.

1,000 Pounds Of Fish Are Ordered For DeBary Day

More than 1,000 pounds of fish have been ordered for the DeBary Day fish fry which will take place at 6:15 o'clock at the Sanford Park Thursday evening, Edward P. Lane, general chairman of the DeBary Day program, announced this morning. Robert R. Harris is assistant chairman.

Smathers Sees Big Victory For Senator Russell

Margin Of 2 To 1 In Florida Is Predicted For Georgian

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Smathers predicted today that his home state of Florida will give Sen. Richard B. Russell a wide margin over Sen. Robert W. Taft in the Democratic presidential preference primary May 6.

"I think Sen. Russell will win by a 2 to 1 margin," Smathers told a reporter.

If that happens it will be the first setback for Kefauver, former chairman of the Senate Crime Investigating Committee, who so far is undefeated in Democratic primaries. These include a victory over President Truman in New Hampshire, before Mr. Truman moved himself from the race and one over Sen. Robert W. Taft of Oklahoma in Nebraska.

Russell, who is entering his 10th primary in Florida and will face a 10-day campaign there, also forecast a victory but was cautious.

Odham Raps McCarty For Gambler Aid

Pensacola Dog Track Operator Admits He Supports McCarty As Personal Matter

By MALCOLM B. JOHNSON, Associated Press Staff Writer

Bradley Odham's charge that a Pensacola dog track president's $100 contribution to Dan McCarty violated the election law endorsed by the Florida governorship campaign today.

W. W. Harbison, Pensacola hotel owner and member of the board, promptly acknowledged he was for McCarty and had donated $100 to his campaign, but insisted it was a personal contribution and had nothing to do with his connection with the dog track.

McCarty's receipt of campaign expenses and contributions filed with the secretary of state showed Harbison made the donation on March 25. The campaign treasurer who signed the report was Charles F. Good.

Return Of Steel Industry To Private Owners Is Demanded In Another Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—A resolution asking impeachment of President Truman for seizing the steel mills was introduced in the House today by Rep. Hale R. Hays.

Another resolution introduced by Hays introduced a resolution which would declare the opinion of the House in the event the President violated the Constitution and that the steel plants should be returned to private operation.

Replies Received To Questionnaire By Citizens Group

In a letter from the group to the Commission candidates it was pointed out that whereas from 50 to 55 patients per day was the average peak case load when the hospital was at the Naval Air Station, the present hospital will not accommodate more than 32.

It was also pointed out that the Fish Estate had not been sufficiently liquidated to warrant any hope of early construction of a hospital in Seminole County, and that the liquidation is contingent upon the price of orange groves.

At present these prices are low, may not improve for some time and it is becoming increasingly apparent that a solution to the hospital problem here is dependent upon the action of the County Commission.
