

County Set To Battle For Minimum Housing

The County Commission at its meeting Tuesday voted to proceed with plans for minimum housing and a local government study commission despite reports from a representative of the legislative delegation that both bills are "as good as dead."
County Attorney Harold Johnson reported results of a conference with Rep. E. Pope Bassett earlier in the day when Bassett had revealed the delegation does not look with favor on the two bills. At a meeting last week in Tallahassee the delegation had indicated only revisions were necessary in the two bills.

County deputies trailed the fish just outside Anthon's other night and jailed the hauler under $200 bond selling whisky to minors.

Mermaid Plans Five-Day Test Under Water

LONDON (AP) — Mary Mary Margaret Revel is a 28-year-old California mermaid who plans to take a dive in the water this June — and stay under five days.
It's an experiment she's conducting to test how a person can withstand being submerged for extended periods without any shelter. The attempt will be made from June 5 to 10 in a little over the Mediterranean coast line of Sardinia.
She is training in London with a 46-pound self-contained backpack made by a French firm. It is an advanced aqualing, fully equipped with a radio, breathing apparatus and a life preserver.
The radio will keep her in contact with a boat. Her air will come from the tank's four cylinders and will be replenished every 30 minutes with an air pump fed hose leading to her mouthpiece. She will get about 200 cubic feet of air in her tank at all times, will operate the air pump.

Strikes... Spares

Say, how do you like that bowler-due jockey Gil Luck? Going out and trying to beat scop-Spillski. Gil's the secretary of the Monday evening Singles Classic League and was on hand when Bob Locke exploded with eight strikes in a row, spared, and finished with some more Xs for a fine 278 game.

BOB LOCKE

So what does he play for Locke the following morning? "It's been a Long, Long Time," that's what. So he leads me right into that Marathon which Gil will be bowling out here at the lanes on Saturday, May 20, at 7 p.m. He's going to try to bowl 20 consecutive games... that's a long, long time to be kidding, my vocal friend.

At first, I thought it was a joke. Navy planes practicing nighttime carrier quals which kept me awake. But that wasn't it at all. Looking that Jackpot to Kanner's 233 made me toss and turn all night long. Incidentally, there were quite a few "really big ones" tossed that same evening, like—Harry Pentecost 212, Mac MacLeary 24, and Dick Schmitter's 254.

So sorry to have to include the name of Chuck Singleton in this history of Navy personnel taking leave of the Sanford area. Chuck'll be serving Uncle Sam's colors for the next couple of years and will have the full knowledge that he has an awful lot of friends here who'll be looking for his return. I'd better get going now. I'll be back in the next few days. I'll have all the friends here who'll be looking for his return. I'll be back in the next few days. I'll have all the friends here who'll be looking for his return.

So sorry we didn't get around to featuring Beverly Adams last week along with her high game of 226 in the Jet Bowler League of Wednesday a.m. Incidentally, she has openings for four or five girls for this summer league, to fill eight full teams.

Do you earn too much to afford one? For many people the Volkswagen would be an ideal car. Except for one thing. It doesn't cost enough. They're afraid nobody will know they have any money, if it doesn't show in their car. In other words, they buy their car for other people. Not themselves. Then there are those who earn enough to buy a much better car than the VW. But they don't. Because they can't find one. For them the best car is one that simply gets by in their. Comfortably and economically. One they don't have to worry about. That doesn't make many stops for gas. And rarely needs repairs. A car where the rare repairs don't cost very much. A car where the car doesn't even cost very much. They feel they can afford to save money with a Volkswagen. Now, next time you see somebody driving a VW don't feel sorry for them. They know! On Silver Anniversary Mr., Mrs. Ashby Jones Feted

By JANE CASSELLBERRY Mr. and Mrs. Ashby Jones of 2410 Elm Ave., Sanford, were honored at a reception Sunday afternoon held at the home of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mess, of 204 Wistful Drive, Casselberry, in celebration of their 25th wedding anniversary. They were married May 3, 1942, at the First Methodist Church of Sanford. A lovely tiered cake highlighted the serving table, decorated with pink tapers, asparagus fern and baby's breath. The lace tablecloth was laid over a green cloth. Coffee, wedding cookies and mints also were served. A beautiful arrangement of calla lilies, pink gladioli, snapdragons and baby's breath (the flowers used at the wedding 25 years ago) graced a table. They received many lovely pieces of silver and other gifts, including a tea and coffee service. Their 16-year-old son, Glenn, conspired with his sister to surprise their parents. Among the approximately 50 guests attending the reception were their pastor and his wife, Rev. and Mrs. Robert Jenkins, of First Methodist Church, Sanford, and out-of-town guests, Rev. and Mrs. Jack Adams and daughters, of Palatka, former pastor at Sanford; and Mrs. J. W. Dravay, Waycross, Ga.; Harvey Snell and daughter, Mrs. Polly Ellisor of New Port Richey; Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Ferguson and sons, Daytona Beach; Mrs. Charles Hearn, Daytona Beach; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Soccer Lesson Given By English Visitor, 10

By JANE CASSELLBERRY
Simon Cole, 10-year-old English boy, conducted his own private cultural exchange when he spent the day visiting classrooms at South Seminole Elementary School.

Boys will be boys, and he quickly found common ground with his American peers, trading tips on playing soccer for a lesson in baseball.

On his second visit to Florida, Simon arrived a week ago for a three-week visit with his grandparents, Col. and Mrs. Alva Fern of Winter Park. He flew 4,000 miles for the visit from his home in Sussex.

Simon arrived at South Seminole on Friday, and under the supervision of Mrs. James Williams, second grade teacher at South Seminole, is a member of the Penns and is visiting Simon to visit the school.

He is in second form at Aachen Prep School at Eastbourne on the south coast of England. There he studies English, Latin, French, Geography, History, Math, Science, and more. It is a boarding school for boys.

His favorite sports are swimming, cricket, and soccer. He especially enjoys the Florida climate, which gives him more opportunity to indulge in swimming.

Miami Reporter Wins Pulitzer

MIAMI (AP) — The crime reporter who won a Pulitzer Prize Monday for stories which freed two innocent people from life sentences said if most American newspapers covered police news properly, more innocent people might be released.

Gene Miller, 36, was with his family on a beach picnic relaxing after four grueling weeks covering the Coppolino murder trial for the Miami Herald when he got the news he'd won a Pulitzer.

The special prize for local reporting cited his "initiative and investigative reporting which helped free two persons wrongfully convicted of murder."

"Good God... you mean it's the Pulitzer?" he asked when a reporter and photographer from the Herald tracked him to the beach.

"I can't believe it," he said. "My wife, Electra, threw her arms around him and said, 'We were hoping, hoping so much... Their four children, ages 5 to 12, watched."

Dear Abby: by Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a simple gift of 28 being at home with my widowed mother. I have a good job and am very happy. I date, but have no steady. Even though I am content with my life, my mother is not. She thinks something must be wrong with me because I'm not married by now and it doesn't seem to bother me. She's even suggested I get psychiatric help. I appreciate her motherly concern, but I am getting sick of hearing her tell me to hurry up and grab the next thing that comes along because it might be the last. She insists that every "normal" woman should have a husband. I can't take much more of her nagging. Please help me.

HAPPY DEAR ABBY: Tell your mother to quit worrying about you and go on a manhunt of her own. Widows are "normal," and she has less time left than you. Point out that you can't be good conscience to work on getting a man unless she has one. And if she still thinks you should see a psychiatrist, tell her you'll go if she will.

DEAR ABBY: I am being married soon and have had several lovely bridal showers. I received many nice gifts, such as toasters, mix-

Horoscope Forecast

THURSDAY, MAY 4, 1967
GENERAL TENDENCIES: Anything of a drastic or dramatic nature that is now forced to react very much against your best interest. Quietly allowing your own deep-seated hunches to manifest and express themselves brings gain and success. Avoid carelessness in travel but enjoy the cultural and amusement side of life.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19): One to whom you have confidence will help you to carry through with your ideas, plans, but co-workers may be somewhat resentful. Put aside the work that needs expenditure of too much energy. Be sure you assist them in need.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): A good pal comprehends your ideas and lends assistance in conjunction with associates. Your mate may be altogether too demanding. Keep busy but successful, personal aims that are important. Show ambition, be aggressive.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): You can make a wonderful impression on an individual person in business or cultural life today, and it is better you avoid that trouble at home, too. Be more popular, ensure personal security. Have wisdom.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 23): Drive right into some new outlet that is interesting and lucrative and steer clear of a partnership. Be in a mood for arguing. Take time to analyze own conscience, too. Be very cooperative with partners where some big project is concerned. Get ahead through hard work.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Find the clean items that will make your life, office, etc., more attractive. Keep busy and you forget some worrisome matter that has you sizing up your equilibrium.

SCORPIO (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Be sure you carry through with that idea that family proposes and the kitchen wall space will be more profitable to all concerned. Safeguard your reputation. Make sure that you keep your credit good.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Search your paper and other periodicals for new ideas you need at this time. Forget about going out on that tangent. Show one who is in trouble that you are indeed a true friend.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Avoid going off on the euphoric but recreation until you feel you have completed most important business duties. You could lose out on what is very vital now. Show attachment you have will power.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20): Don't permit an associate to force you into something risky. Get busy with whatever you feel is important right now. Attend some social affair that will be a steppingstone to greater things. Be fascinating with your words.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... Be, or she, will be one of those interesting young people who need to have much spiritual, psychological and philosophical training in order to understand others better. Thus the life becomes a very successful one and the vision truly great, and the ability to carry through with tasks considerable. Some good, substantial business course is fine here. The mind will be a serious one. "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Jacoby On Bridge

We don't intend to go into all the ramifications and variations that might have taken place in the bidding of today's hand. We aren't writing a book—merely an article.

After this bidding West opened the queen of clubs against South's three-ump contract. South led from dummy and led a low spade. Tommy Stone who sat East is one of the greatest defensive players of all time. The spade play was unusual enough to warrant someone to lead a diamond and Stone was down about to do that. Instead he led a club right to dummy. West was a possible to play the jack and hang onto the ace. Stone was as careful on card later, because West also realized what declarer's problem was.

Another club was led from dummy and Stone was again. This time he played his eight of hearts. South played low as did West. Back came a heart and East's ten and declarer's king fell to West's ace. West put his partner back in with the queen of hearts and Stone continued to harness declarer by leading the ace and queen of spades.

Tommy's king took the queen. This dummy with the four of spades. Declarer called "Low spade."

Stone said "Lower spade," and produced the deuce. By this time West had managed to get rid of all his four diamonds and Stone was down about to do that. Instead he led a club right to dummy. West was a possible to play the jack and hang onto the ace. Stone was as careful on card later, because West also realized what declarer's problem was.

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY:—Having read in the column of things that I make, I want to tell you how I made an attractive toy bag. Buy cheap webbing and draw on it a design you like and use one of your favorite colors of yarn. Sew this onto the bag before getting for the sides the right and use one strip for the bottom and another for a strap to slip family messages into. The other four yards of webbing was enough to make a bag that looks like those that sell for around $2.—MRS. M. M. POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY:—I have a three-cornered tear in a black, all-weather storm coat. This material has a foam rubber backing and I cannot sew through the material as the thread cuts and no adhesive will stick to the rubber. I would appreciate some help with this problem.—MRS. J. A. W.

DEAR POLLY:—An all-weather raincoat that is not only gaily painted and securely fastened on the inside of a cap-bored door or on an out-of-the-way kitchen wall space will serve as a compact, handy information center on which to hang all the family messages, favorite recipes, etc.—VERDA

DEAR POLLY:—I am replying to Mrs. A.D.T. who wants to know how to keep her husband's shirt from getting one always rinses it out in warm water and squeezes it dry before putting it away. This sure works fine for me.—GLORIA

DEAR POLLY:—I would like to suggest that May try coarse cloth saturated with a carbonated cola drink for removing those scum stains from the chrome handles on her stove. It also removed rust spots and stains from the chrome trim on my car.—MRS. K. E. R.

DEAR POLLY:—When I buy a new slip of bra I immediately try it on. I know my body length and then sew the loose ends on the straps. I either sew by hand or use the sewing machine. This prevents the slip from slipping, getting out of adjustment and I never have to worry about the loose ends showing.—BETTY

Beauty after Forty

At Easter I received a beautiful book containing a collection of poems by Helen Steiner. It is just being published and is titled "Just for You". I have a calendar with her poems, one for each month. Each is a gentle, beautiful piece of writing. Her lines are inspirational. Her new look contains the famous poem, "The Praying Hands," and there is one that I think so charming about the old Chinese saying, "Flowers leave their fragrance on the hand that touches them." The last line reads: "And you can't pick a rose, without part of its fragrance remaining with you."

The New York fashion shows presented for the new season showings the models wearing white stockings but—and this is new, too—they wear two pairs, to give an "opaque" look to the leg. And the shoes are white patent leather. However, this may be fun for your teenagers if they never for after-40 ladies. Some of the fashions are for seeing, but not for wearing.

Short jackets in white or black, laced with matching sequins, make a very simple piece of wearing. Sequins are shown on linen as well as silk fabrics.

The small leather handbag in the "shape" for spring. The straw bags are also small now, which just means you carry less junk.

I think it's interesting that women have been invited to become astronauts. The deadline for applications was January, 1967. Women who are scientists of exceptional ability are the ones who will be selected. Well, they say all women "take off into space" every now and then and perhaps we do, which makes us interesting, doesn't you think?

SQUARE dancers from Seminole County enjoyed Pirates Ball given by Orlando Whirl and Twirl Club. Shown are (left, bottom) Mr. and Mrs. Al Krenzer and sons, Jeff and Doug, of Forest City; (left) Mr. and Mrs. Carl Johnson and son, Robby, of North Orlando; (center) Mr. and Mrs. Al Fenton of Longwood and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ostrander and son, Ricky, and daughter, Kathy, and her friend, Linda Darnell, of Bear Lake.

Signs Of 'Life'

All of a sudden the sleeping giant is beginning to show signs of life. Of course we are talking about Downtown Sanford. A few weeks ago the Herald announced that Wim-Dixie plans a massive improvement program at the corner of First and Sanford to the tune of $350,000. And now this week comes the news that Russell Firestone Jr. has purchased two parcels from Strickland-Morrison downtown for $175,000. We of course welcome this news with loud cheers. The first step in revitalization of any downtown is "new blood" and "new money."

Top Priority Job

The postal service is like the weather: Everyone complains about it, but despite the promises we hear concerning the wonders science and technology will someday perform, nobody really does anything about it. Anyone who has ever affixed stamp to envelope can cite instances of the postman failing to deliver (even when he didn't have to contend with sleet and snow and gloom of night), of letters lost and packages mangled. We forget, however, all the other times when the mail is delivered dependably, day after day. We recall the long, lost days of bi-weekly delivery and the three-cent stamp, but forget that the increase in mail volume has far outstripped the increase in population. We read about the more efficient services in Europe, but forget that the U.S. Post Office, which this year expects a flood of 80 billion pieces of mail, handles more mail than the rest of the world combined. This is not to say there is not vast room for improvement in the mail service. In fact, unless radical changes are made soon, it will reach a point of crisis in which paralyzing jams like the one that occurred in Chicago a while ago will become more and more frequent. The Post Office Department simply cannot continue operating under the same general rules that obtained when Andrew Jackson made it part of his cabinet 125 years ago, dependent upon appropriated funds and political appointments. Postmaster General Lawrence O'Brien has proposed some radical changes. Among them: Making the Post Office a non-profit government corporation, operated by a board of directors and managed by a professional executive. The board, says O'Brien, should have the power to set postal rates and Post Office employees ought to be brought up to the standards of employees in comparable industries. While O'Brien's suggestions may not be the only answers, or the best answers, to the postal dilemma, he has thrown down a long overdue challenge to Congress. Postal reform deserves high priority consideration. If the lawmakers bobble the ball or content themselves with merely patching and mending an archaic system, their own mail problem deserves to get worse—with sacks of letters from disgruntled constituents.

Analysis Of The News

WASHINGTON (AP)—There isn't any doubt now, despite the Republican support for President Johnson on Vietnam, that the war will be a bleeding issue in the 1968 presidential race. Worse than that, it will be a sack of confusion. The voters will be drenched in an argument over details and whether or not to support the war, since very few people are equipped with a chronology of events to help them make the arguments themselves, yet they will be looking at the speakers left, right, left, right, like watching a tennis game. It comes down to this: while the Republicans back Johnson on fighting and trying to win the war, they are preparing to try to tear him to pieces for the way the war has been fought. But the Republicans will probably be arguing among themselves on what to find fault with or whether they should. Last September, a few weeks before the 1968 congressional elections, the Republican leaders in the House issued a White Paper, an updated study of a similar White Paper of the year before, criticizing Johnson on Vietnam. Now the Senate Republican Policy Committee has released a lengthy staff study pretty much paralleling the one put out by the House GOP leaders. Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, no longer a member of House or Senate but a very active prospect for the Republican nomination next year recently gave a taste of things to come. In March, while in Paris on a fact-finding world tour, he said the bulk of the American home-front administration's policies and actions in Vietnam. In April in Saigon he said he did not think the war would be an issue in 1968 but that U.S. tactics in prosecuting the war—such as the bombing of North Vietnam and manpower would be. This gives Nixon—and it appears to be Republican policy as it shapes up—freedom to talk in two directions at once. He said he thought the Democrats would be more divided over the war than the Republicans. Whether another likely Republican presidential prospect, Michigan's Gov. George Romney, will follow the Nixon technique isn't clear yet although, in his recent but carefully prepared statement supporting the war effort, Romney gave himself plenty of room if he thinks he needs it to criticize. Monday in the South Romney spoke out against actions that might weaken the effort to end the war or help the Communists. "I don't think," he said, "we should pursue a way that will weaken the President as long as he is President. Wilson and I think we should pursue a course that would help the enemy." But he regretted American involvement in Vietnam, saying "If we had followed the invisible hand of God in Vietnam we would not now be involved." He didn't explain that. He left the door open for himself for almost any kind of criticism later by saying "I do not just agree with everything that is being done." In the September statement, tracing the history of American involvement in Vietnam, the Republican House leaders complained that "the policy of the current administration has been uncertain and subject to abrupt change. The objective of the United States in Vietnam has become clouded."

Political Notebook

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—If recent utterances are any measure, some of this country's liberals—rather than President Johnson—seem bent on occupying Credibility Gap. Not long ago, Theodore Sorensen, former aide to John F. Kennedy, mistreated history as it pertains to vice presidents. Now economist John Kenneth Galbraith, now head of Americans for Democratic Action, is putting in his bid. He says the Vietnam war could lead to the "death and burial" of the Democratic party. In support, he contends that he has always spelled trouble for the Democrats, citing presidential or congressional triumphs for the Republicans in the postwar or mid-war elections of 1920, 1946 and 1952. Galbraith forecast that the Vietnam war would be even more disastrous for the Democrats if it is still on in 1968. His prediction will be tested by events. His "history" can be checked now. There is no question that Republican Warren Harding's presidential victory in 1920 reflected in considerable part U.S. voters' weariness with the sacrifices and inconveniences of World War I—ended two years before Harding's "normalcy" had great appeal. But it cannot be forgotten that the wartime Democratic president, Woodrow Wilson, was one of two exceptions (Grover Cleveland the other) who turned out to be 75 years of age at the time of his inauguration. Wilson would not have won the first time in 1912 without the narrow Republican vote, and by voting in 1920, those talks had gone on for 16 months. Men mountain were fighting and dying as if no truce existed. Of the 157,000 U.S. casualties in the Korean war, 78,000 were killed.

California Ag Faces Big Loss
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) - Nearly a solid month of saturating rain and killing frosts this winter has been punishing losses for California's agricultural industry - at $4 billion a year the nation's largest - according to experts.

The first day of May brought warmer, drier weather. But the eastern California Sierra Nevada held the threat of potential disaster - unusually deep spring snowpacks, some 30 feet thick.

Sudden hot weather could make torrents of the streams which cut through the San Joaquin Valley, including Fresno County - the nation's No. 1 farm-producing county.

Over 100,000 acres of riparian lands from 145 schools are expected to be destroyed.

General Harold K. Johnson, U.S. Army Chief of Staff: "During the past year our American Red Cross has served over 80,000 of our men in armed forces and many more families of servicemen have been aided."

Admiral David L. McDonald, Chief of Naval Operations: "To my in Vietnam, thousands of Navy men are fighting to assist a country to maintain its rightful place among the liberty loving peoples of the world. The Red Cross as always is present to provide the many services which have made the white banner bearing the red cross a familiar sight to servicemen everywhere."

AWARD-WINNING cartoonist Bill Crawford (left) and Jim Berry, of Newspaper Enterprise Association and The Sanford Herald, exchange hand-shakes and congratulations upon being named best in their fields by the 500 members of the prestigious National Cartoonists Society.

Berry And Crawford Win 'Best Of Category' Honors

NEW YORK (NEA) — Jim Berry and Bill Crawford, cartoonists for Newspaper Enterprise Association and The Sanford Herald have received the highest acclaim from their peers, the 500 members of the National Cartoonists Society. At the 21st annual NCS Awards dinner at the Hotel Plaza here Berry was presented the plaque as "Best Syndicated Panel" cartoonist and Crawford received the trophy in the "Best Editorial Cartoon" category. Berry is the second consecutive year he has been voted the NCS syndicated panel award. Crawford previously received the editorial cartooning plaque three consecutive years. Berry's selection is his second major award of the year. The National Headquarters Club in March cited Berry's work as "consistently outstanding editorial cartoons." Crawford, chief editorial cartoonist for NEA since 1962, long has been recognized as one of the top men in the field. His work has been widely reprinted in newspapers and magazines. Jim Berry is a top ranker in the almost unique field of socio-political cartooning. His sharp wit, keen ability with captions, clean-lined style, and his talent to draw definitive features make "Berry's World" the success it is. Berry was born in Oak Park, Ill., attended Dartmouth and was graduated from Ohio Wesleyan where he majored in business and minored in art. After a two-year Navy hitch, he worked in animation for television commercials and conducted training programs for a management consulting firm. He joined NEA's editorial art department in 1961. Besides his six-week daily panel, Berry also does a weekly cartoon in "Berry's World," which is fast attaining the acclaim earned by his daily cartoon. Presentations at the awards banquet were made by former winners of the Best of the Year trophy given to the cartoonist of the year. Otto Soglow, creator of "The Little King," won this year's trophy, named in honor of Isaac Goldberg, first president of the society.

County Board Holds Work Session

The County Commission meeting in work session this morning tentatively agreed to rebuild Weston Road (Little Wekiva Road) between Markham Road and SR 434. Work is expected to begin in the next month to six weeks. Estimates of cost of paving the 1.8 miles of road are $24,800 for a slp surface. Funds for the project will come from overestimated costs of the road program construction for this budget year. Total of over-estimated funds is $22,052. The commissioners also agreed to transfer the funds originally allocated for Brisson Road (approximately $8,000) to improving Crippen Road, Al-though Brisson Road improvements were budgeted, efforts to obtain rights of way there have been unsuccessful, Commission Chairman John Alexander announced. Reports given at the meeting by William Bush, county engineer and J. C. Lavender, road superintendent showed roads in the road program completed so far includes Mullet Lake Road, Pineyway, J. C. Hutchison Parkway, Old Lake May Road, Wynore, Chapman, White Park Drive, Spartan Drive, Banana Lake Road and one mile of the Longwood-Markham Road. The Sand Lake Road problem was discussed with Commissioner W. Lawrence Swartford reporting he has received numerous calls requesting maintenance on the road. Alexander declared, "I am not interested in going to jail. And if we do anything out of that road, it will be against the orders of the court." (Sanford side Sand Lake Road residents have brought court action against the county and obtained a temporary injunction prohibiting the county from doing any work on the road.)

Port Legislation Faces Test Tonight

Prime Port Authority, minimum housing and government study legislative measures for Seminole County will be given further study by the Seminole-Orange delegation at Tallahassee tonight, it was reported this morning by Sen. Robert E. Ertod, chairman. Ertod said that Rep. Henry "Ladd" of the delegating and chairman of the House appropriations committee, previously had requested the prime Port Authority bill be tabled. He made the request because of a provision seeking to earmark $50,000 of Seminole County's race-track tax distribution for the Authority. Land said the Legislature was considering overall legislation on race-track funds. However, Ertod said today, Land now has agreed to consider the measure tonight.

Port Administrator Francis Rounhill Jr., Gene Tucker and C. Howard McNulty were in Tallahassee yesterday conferring with legislators on the bill emphasizing the legislation would mean no tax increase for Seminole County. Senator Ertod indicated this morning that Rep. E. Pope Bassett had been in error when the latter said here last Tuesday that the minimum housing and local government study measures were "dead."

Ertod said today these measures also will be brought up for further consideration tonight. However, he said the delegation questions the bill's provisions following the people's other local county bills also will be studied at tonight's session of the local legislative measures, which can be appropriate.

Other local county bills also will be studied at tonight's session of the local legislative measures, which can be appropriate.

A Slum Tour: The Hidden Fear

By DONNA ESTES
The answer to the question propounded so many centuries ago "Am I my brother's keeper?" obviously still eludes the slum landlords of the Georgetown and Midway areas would seem to shout. The press accompanied members of the Community Action Board of Directors yesterday to tour these two areas and saw unspeakable living conditions in which the people there manage to survive year after year with little or no hope that these conditions will ever be any better.

Storied were told in whispers of how numbers of people die not even try to get better housing for fear of retaliation by landlords for their influence to cause loss of jobs. Despite the squalor and depressing way of life, children could be seen playing with their pets while flies explored their open sores. Yet apartment throughout both areas could be seen lively, well-kept and neat looking homes, obviously apartment owned and evidencing pride of ownership. At one site in Midway, nine houses occupied an 80 x 100 feet lot (less than the area allotted to one house in almost any subdivision). Despite the fact a water system operates in the area, the slumlord apparently could only afford to have one water faucet installed at each house and that at the site of rather than in the building. "These houses are tinderboxes, if someone would accidentally drop a match, we can all imagine what would happen to all these families," Dr. W. Vincent Roberts, Action president, declared. For these particular houses, the landlord receives $5.50 to $8 weekly rent. With little evidence of recent repairs, it is difficult to see how the slumlord can become rich in a short time. Rich at the cost of another human's suffering. At another site, bare wires could be seen carrying electric power to a house. The electric

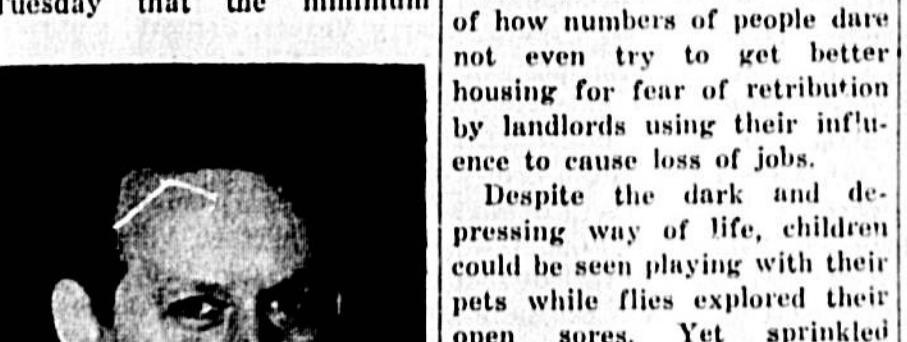

Altamonte Faces . . .

The Woes Of Growth

How can the Town of Altamonte Springs build a sanitary sewage system with no funds available and continue its growth and yet deny builders permission to install septic tanks? These questions were mullied over by the Town Council Wednesday evening, following report from William Palm of Glace Engineering, the town engineers, that the plan presented at prior meetings to call for builders of new developments to install sewage lines leading to central pickup stations in lieu of septic tanks is "not feasible." Under the plan presented formerly, the city would pick up raw sewage daily and transport it to a treatment plant until such time as a sewage system could be built.

Palm stated the only city in the area using a similar type arrangement - Maitland - has been facing problems of residents' complaints of odors from the collection areas and in addition have had the problem of hauling sewage as many as seven times daily while serving only 25 homes. "This would create problems the town would not want to become involved with," Palm said.

The city has been faced with the problem of trying to work out a solution to comply with the State Health Department and Federal Housing Administration warnings that further septic tanks in the town should be approved. Meanwhile at the meeting, William Knott, developer, with plans in hand, awaited council decisions as to what it would require sewage-wise before he acquire a territory wherein he plans to construct 72 homes. Knott's suggestion the city might give a franchise to a private utility to build the sewage system and serve all the town met with strong objections from Mayor W. Lawrence Swartford.

Would Train 600

Feasibility study for placing a vocational-technical training school on Sanford Naval Air Station property . . . after the Navy moves out July 1, 1968 . . . will be undertaken by the General Electric Company some time later this year, it was learned today. Some 600 students would be trained at the school for later employment in GE plants. The Herald was informed Wednesday that GE already is signing students for the school. M. J. McGregor, who is establishing a similar GE school at Bay St. Louis, Miss., said by telephone that "the signing of students for a proposed Sanford school is news to me," but added "it is welcome news if it is true." However, McGregor did say a feasibility study is planned to determine whether a school should be established here after Reconnaissance Attack Wing One, and its allied branches, are moved from SNAS to Albany Ga. Capt. H. N. Honek, commanding officer of Sanford Naval Air Station, said planning out the base already has been started in that as positions are now vacated they are not filled, unless necessary. He added the transition from SNAS to Albany should be fairly well accomplished by next May, and will be completed by the end of June 1968.
