And Freight Car Men Cutting 400,000 Men in All CUT SIXTY MILLION

IN MONEY ANNUALLY FROM THE PAY ROLLS OF AMERICAN RAILWAYS

(By The Associated Press)
CHICAGO, June 6.—Over the strong protest of three labor representatives on the United States Railroad Labor Board, the new wage cut of 7c per hour for railway shop mechanics and 9c per hour for freight car men, cutting 400,000 shopmen approximately $60,000,000 annually, was ordered today by the board, the cut to become effective July 1st.

CINCINNATI, June 6.—The new wage reductions for shopmen ordered by the Railroad Labor Board today can only intensify the present feeling of dissatisfaction with the railway labor conditions and will at least result in an immediate strike vote returnable June 20, according to B. M. Jewell, head of the shop crafts unions here today for the railroad strike conference.

VOLUSIA CO. IN PUBLIC EYE POLITICALLY

CAMPAIGN HAS BEEN HOT AND HEAVY ALL THROUGH

(By The Associated Press)
JACKSONVILLE, June 6.—Aside from the senatorial, congressional contests, the battle in Volusia county at today's Democratic primary is attracting the most attention throughout. It was openly charged the Ku Klux has a ticket in the field for the various county offices, including members of the legislature and the campaign for the last ten days has been heated and bitter. The weather is generally fair over the state and a large proportion of the registered voters are expected to go to the polls in spite of little general interest in the primary.

The creation of new counties by the last legislature resulted in the addition of a number of polling precincts in the state. The new total according to records of Secretary of State Crawford are 1,967.

THOMASVILLE, N. C., June 6.—Crowds of men and boys estimated at 3,000 in number early yesterday were searching the woods surrounding Prospect church, three miles south of here, for a negro who attempted to assault an 18 year old girl late yesterday. SANFORD GETS A NEW HEARING FOR WATERWAYS

CHANCES FINE THAT ROUTE BE ADOPTED ST. JOHNS RIVER AND CANAL TO MIAMI

Such amazing figures and other data on tonnage and other features of interest to a main artery of waterways was submitted to Maj. Wm. C. Lemon by the Sanford, Orlando and Delegations to the Intra-Coastal Waterway Hearing at Titusville recently that Maj. Lemon, chief U. S. Engineer for Florida, has given notice of a hearing to be held in the court house in Sanford, June 27, at which additional data will be received to be forwarded in the engineer's report of the preliminary examination directed by Congress in the Intra-Coastal Waterway from Jacksonville to Miami.

In speaking of the notice of hearing, copy of which was sent to the Commercial Club of DeLand, E. W. Brown stated that DeLand should send a delegation 150 strong to this hearing. He also laughed at the claims of Daytona that the delegation from that city "saved the East Coast canal for the state." Mr. Brown thinks that there is excellent prospect that the route finally adopted by the Government for this intra-coastal waterway will be on the St. Johns to Sanford, then by canal (to be surveyed, there being a chain of lakes that would greatly aid in this), to a point at or near Titusville, thence on the Indian River and lower coast canals to Miami.

There is now an intra-coastal waterway from Jacksonville to Miami, but this is not a Government project except a portion extending along the Indian River from Goat Creek to Jupiter Inlet, where a large Government light house and wireless station are situated. It is therefore up to the Government, through her surveyors, which route would be better for the expenditure of Florida's portion of intra-coastal appropriations. Advocates for the St. Johns river-to-Indian River project are from Missouri when it comes to accepting claims from the coast. They will have to show us. It is anticipated that St. Johns river advocates can swamp the coast people with a volume of freight tonnage and a scope of country tapped, as well as number of people benefited, that will open the eyes of the engineers and the Government as to shipping possibilities along the St. Johns and lateral waterways which will undoubtedly open up as a result of the adoption of the St. Johns river route, should this route be chosen.

The Central Florida Water Traffic League sends out a circular letter which states that already the St. Johns river has a deep channel to Palatka, 65 miles north of Sanford. The project is to deepen the channel to 20 feet from Jacksonville to Sanford, dig a canal from that point to the East Coast, near Titusville, and then by way of the Indian river southward. At the hearing in Titusville "a large volume of evidence and figures, showing an astonishing tonnage and the feasibility and practicability of the project to deepen the St. Johns River to the Indian River, and by lateral canals to interior counties was produced," according to this circular letter. The Oklawaha and Wekiwa river and other laterals would extend the system to other counties. It also adds that "it was the consensus of opinion that a favorable impression was created with the proper effort by the people of Florida we firmly believe that this great improvement can be secured for the state and its people.

The Rivers and Harbors bill passed by Congress recently carried an appropriation of $43,000,000 to improve the waterways of the United States. Florida pays her part of this appropriation, and she richly deserves a share in its expenditure.

The preliminary examination of Intra-Coastal Waterway from Jacksonville to Miami was called for by act of Congress approved June 5, 1920. The engineers office in Jacksonville has been busy, but there is prospect of getting something done if everybody dies his share, and the boating is done concertedly and with unity.

The St. Johns River route would undoubtedly serve the interests of the interior of the state far better than the coast route.—DeLand Sun.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Turner and children of Burbank are in the city the guests of Mrs. Turner's parents Mr. and Mrs. W. M. McKim.

LABOR UNION HEADS PROTEST AGAINST CUT

IN WAGES AT THEIR BIG MEET- ING IN CINCINNATI TODAY

(By The Associated Press)
CINCINNATI, June 6.—Concerted action against reduction in wages of railroad workers recently made by the United States railroad labor board will be the principal matter to be considered when heads of eleven railroad unions went into session here today.

The conference was called by B. M. Jewell, president of the railway employees department, American Federation of Labor, who will also preside at the sessions.

Leaders who arrived here yesterday held informal conferences and discussed ways and means to bring the question of wage reductions before their memberships. Strike votes are expected in every organization, it was said, each union taking its vote separately according to its own constitution.

It was pointed out that the matter of accepting or rejection of the cut rests on the membership of each union and the meeting today will enable the executives to advise with each other as to how to conform with the laws of their respective organizations in submitting the matter to their members.

Union to be represented in the conference are the machinists, boiler makers, blacksmiths, car men, electricians, sheet metal workers, clerks, signal men, telegraphers, maintenance of way, and stationary firemen and oilers.

Chiefs of the "big four" brotherhoods—the transportation unions—will be present, it was said, because the present reduction of the railroad labor board have not affected members of their organizations. It is considered probable that some of the "big four" chiefs will sit in at the sessions as observers, it was said.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, was expected to arrive here this morning from Washington to take part in the discussions. Leaders last night predicted the conference of the union officials will last for two and probably three weeks.

Bills in House Authorize Ford Shoals Contract

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, June 6.—Two bills authorizing Secretary Weeks to execute contracts with Henry Ford and transfer to him the government's $100,000,000 power and nitrate projects at Muscle Shoals, Ala., were introduced yesterday in the House by members of the military committee.

One presented by Acting Chairman McKenzie, of Illinois, provided for the acceptance of Mr. Ford's offer for the properties on condition that the Gorgas steam plant be excluded. The other, submitted by Representative Wright, Democrat, Georgia, called for unconditional compliance with the terms of the Ford proposal.

House Republican leaders announced that action on the measure would be deferred at least until delivery of reports by their authors, explaining them in detail and that time would be allowed the House membership to analyze each of the documents. After that had been accomplished, it was said, a decision would be made as to when actual consideration of the proposed legislation would begin. Under no circumstances was it regarded possible for the bills to be called in the House this week.

It also developed yesterday that the vote of 12 to 9 by which the committee favorably reported the McKenzie bill did not reflect the sentiment or rattitude of the committeemen towards all provisions of the measure. Many of its important sections, it was pointed out, would be subject to amendments on the floor when the fight was opened there.

CHANGE NAME OF JACKSONVILLE'S EVENING PAPER

METROPOLIS WILL BE CHANGED TO JOURNAL AS OLD NAME IS WRONG

(By The Associated Press)
JACKSONVILLE, June 6.—The Florida Metropolis, Jacksonville's afternoon newspaper, ceased to exist as such after yesterday's issue, according to editorial announcement today. The name has been changed to the Jacksonville Journal on the ground that the Florida Metropolis as a name for a newspaper is confusing. The editorial asserts the words Florida Metropolis are taken outside of the state to mean Jacksonville as the state's largest city. The announcement of the change in name of the paper, suggests "ville" be dropped from Jacksonville and the city in the future be known as Jackson since it is no longer a village.

Labor Organizations May Be Prosecuted Under Sherman Law

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, June 6.—Labor organizations are not exempt from prosecution under the Sherman anti-trust law, the supreme court yesterday announced.

Chief Justice Taft in delivering the opinion stated there had been no misjoinder of parties in the suit, as brought. He discussed at length the question of the suitability of the national and international unions if the unions were responsible for what was done pointing out that in common law unincorporated organizations could be sued as individual but from necessity of existing conditions it was utterly impossible of doing justice otherwise than by holding labor organizations liable.

With regard to the United Mine Workers of America organization, the court found that the international and its officers did not order the strike or ratify it and that they should not have been made parties to the suit.

Collins, Head of the Pro- visional Government Wants Explanation ON SHELLING TOWN

DENIED THAT BRITISH TROOPS WERE FIRED UPON AT ANY TIME

(By The Associated Press)
BELFAST, June 6.—Although up to late last night the British troops have not attempted to occupy either Belleek or Magheramona Castle, resumption of activity on that front is expected soon. The Republicans are understood to be pushing forward large reinforcements.

The correspondent of the Belfast Telegraph estimates the death list in the recent fighting as high as 30. The Pettigoe district where several more bodies have been found, is still held entirely by the soldiers, the constabulary and the specials being kept in the rear.

LONDON, June 6.—The Irish Republican army headquarters, says a dispatch to the Press Association last night, has issued an official communique contradicting the Ulster military report on yesterday's occupation of Pettigoe by British troops. Michael Collins, head of the provisional government, is understood to have requested the British government to hold an investigation of the whole affair, the dispatch said.

DUBLIN, June 6.—Michael Collins, head of the provisional government, takes a most serious view of the British shelling of Pettigoe, in Free State territory and has demanded from the British authorities a full inquiry into the circumstances.

It has been supposed that the Irish troops at Pettigoe were irregulars not under control of the provisional government, but an official communique issued last night from Beggars' Bush, headquarters of the Irish Republican army says that there were no Irish troops in that district except those of the regular Republican army. It is denied in the communique that the British troops were at any time fired on, and the British army statement that in consequence of the shooting of a motor car driver Pettigoe was shelled is contradicted. The driver, it is asserted, was not killed until long after the shelling, when there was an interchange of shots between the British and the retreating Irish troops.

According to the Beggars' Bush statement, one shell was fired while the people were at mass and eight others without warning or provocation immediately afterwards. Seven of the Irish troops were killed and several captured. The British at present occupy the hill and vantage points for two miles on the Donegal side, and all roads are traversed by British armored cars.

In any circumstances the joint appeal of DeValera and Collins to the electors issued last evening is likely to have the effect of discouraging candidates against the Sinn Fein ticket, and the Pettigoe incidents are considered an aid in bringing about solidarity for securing no contests for many of the seats.

ALMOST A FIRE

What might have been a bad fire was nipped in the bud last night when smoke was seen issuing from the roof of the Hill-Newman block and from the store occupied by Perkins & Britt. The fire department responded promptly and found the blaze in the roof of the building between the roof and ceiling. The department knocked out the ceiling and by the use of the chemical engine extinguished the blaze without damaging any of the stock and with very little trouble. It is not known what caused the fire in this place that was out of reach of everything except rats and spontaneous combustion.

Some old fools persist in their old-time methods of trying to gain attention at election time.

There are no managing editors in Florida and the Jacksonville Metropolis sent to Seattle, Washington, for one.

After the election is over we can settle down to real business and forget that an election ever occurred. These election squabbles are the curse of our American life today.

Man who had lost his speech regained it after taking a flight in an airplane. He could have done the same thing trying to run some of these cars that refuse to go in a heavy rain.

The Nobles of the Mystic Shrine are off to San Francisco for a big time and while they will see more country and more sights we will gamble that they will not have any better time than they had in Sanford.

Those American soldiers who were to be transferred to this country in July and have now been retained in Germany should worry about the bad news. With plenty of beer and pretzels and girls and a good time generally why should they worry about the "Watch on the Rhine."

Henry Ford has gone off at a tangent again and is now talking about the presidency. It is passing strange that men who have made their fortunes and have their place in certain work in the world should attempt to dabble in politics. Henry Ford would do as well in the president's chair as any other ordinary man but his place is just where he is now.

The little lady who killed her recalcitrant lover in Kansas City and then shot herself says she is not sorry and that in killing the man she saved other girls. It seems that this man who was married had made love to hundreds of other girls and had this last one to Kansas City under the promise of marriage. He evidently received just what he deserved.

Looks like Henry Ford will get Muscle Shoals after all and his bluff about running for president has evidently borne fruit. And if anything happened that he does not get the Shoals it will be the death knell to the Republican party. Either Henry gets the Shoals or the Republicans go into a long sleep and they know it. The people have been juggled long enough by the corporations and they will hereafter demand their rights and almost get them.

vanced from four and a half million dollars to thirty-three million dollars a year. This falls heavily on papers issued twice a week as they must pay to the postoffice 1 cent postage on every paper leaving the publisher but 96 cents to pay cost of publication. As no relief is likely to come from congress, papers in the state publishing two issues each week on July 1st, are going to pass this expense on the public and raise the price wherever there is a city delivery, to $3.00 a year. Postage rates on weekly publications have increased 500 per cent within five years.—Sarasota Times.

FREE ADVERTISING

"Riding a free horse to death," is one of Benjamin Franklin's aphorisms. Mr. Franklin was a publisher and knew whereof he spoke. If there is one free horse that has come down from pioneer days unchanged in its disposition as a free carrier, it is the newspaper. It is a daily Santa Claus to the public.

Few people realize how much free service is rendered by the newspaper. It requires the same amount of money to buy machines and pay men to operate them in the setting of free publicity that it does for paid publicity. Few people would expect a bank cashier to write a draft and charge no exchange on it; and the person would be considered a nut who would go into a store and ask for an article of merchandise for nothing, simply because he was a good fellow, engaged in a good cause. Yet this is daily occurrence with newspapers. Every day brings to the office desk of the editor such a large amount of mail consisting of requests for free publicity, that two hours of his time is taken up in opening and culling the mail; he dare not consign it to the waste basket without opening it, because once in a while there is someone thoughtful enough to enclose a few postage stamps, which he needs badly in his business. Then too, some of the requests that come for free publicity are worthy, and no editor turns down a worthy cause, tho his service may be as free as molasses in July. The greater part of this free publicity is requested by people who have axes to grind.

Much of the publicity asked free comes from men in public office who try to boost their political standing by sending out self-booster in the form of news letters. These are all right; we promptly chuck them in the waste basket, and as the price of old paper has gone up we can get a few cents out of this free stuff.

As an illustration of some of the requests that come to us daily, here is a sample of one mail's delivery: "The International Interpreter," "The U. S. Shipping Board," "The Rockefeller Foundation," "The National Good Will Association," "Near East Relief," "The Laymen's Home Missionary Movement," "The American Committee for Devastated France," "The School for Visual Education," "The National Woman's Republican Society," "The State Highway Commission," "The State Fire Warden," "Will Hays operations in the movie world and his speeches on that subject," "Pathe and Paramount advance notices," "Henry Lewis & Co., New York," "Indianapolis Motor Speedway," "American Railway Executive," "American Relief Administration."

It will be observed from the above titles that some of the requests are worthy of notice; others are purely selfish. All of them send copy and if all was used, it would fill up an entire newspaper.

Newspapers as a rule, are willing and anxious to serve every worthy cause, and because of this generous disposition, they are made a free horse for everything down to a dog fight—or up to it, according to present-day manner of reasoning amusements.

There is one lesson in this all, however, that is impressive; it is a forceful recognition of the value of advertising and the influence of the newspaper.—Reporter-Star.

THE WOMEN KEEP THE POLITICIANS GUESSING

Ever since woman suffrage became a fact in this country, the politicians have been confronted with the puzzling question, "How will the women vote?" We have had a few elections at which the women voted, but the great question is apparently as far from solution as ever. The presidential election of 1920, which it was supposed would go far toward providing the key to the problem only made it the more puzzling. Everyone supposed the women would follow the lead of President Wilson, in his idealism, his love of peace and his hatred of war. The women's clubs throughout the land had pleaded forcibly and almost unanimously for the ratification of the League of Nations covenant. They saw in it a long step in the direction of universal peace, but they did not vote for it in any great numbers. The result was a surprise to both great parties. The Republicans in their most optimistic moments did not anticipate such an overwhelming victory, nor did the Democrats expect such a crushing defeat. Who, did it? Was it the women's vote, or was it not? There is no means of telling, and the problem is as dense and unsolved as ever.

Take the results of the primaries in Indiana and Pennsylvania, in which the machine, backed by all the power and influence of the national administration of the national administration was disastrously defeated, routed horse, foot and dragoons. Was it the women's vote that caused such unexpected results, or was it the personal popularity of Beveridge in Indiana, and Gifford Pinchot in Pennsylvania? The great machine that had been constructed with so much care by such political masters as Quay, the Camerons and Boies Penrose, and equally astute Republicans of Indiana, was wrecked as completely and thoroughly as any flivver that ever contested the right of way with a locomotive at the crossing. What does it all presage? The political dopsters would give a pretty know, but they can only guess, and any one of us has the same right and the same opportunity to do that, and our guesses may be as near right as theirs. The women have got us all guessing.

There is but one thing of which we may be certain. The women are taking a greater interest in politics than the average man ever supposed they would. They are studying political and economic questions with a car and completeness that men have never displayed, and they are applying the principles they have learned to the practical duty of voting. They are not hampered as men are by the old passions and prejudices coming from a long series of hard fought campaigns. They are not tied to the fortunes of any man. As Mrs. Alice Robertson, congresswoman from Oklahoma says: They realize that through politics they can serve the interests of themselves. Perhaps that may explain the happenings in Indiana and Pennsylvania. They believe the powers that controlled the machine had been unfaithful to their interests, and they voted for a change. They are using their new power, not to promote the crooked political game, but to bring about better, happier and safer living conditions. If politicians are wise they will shape their future courses to meet the requirements of this great new force which is already functioning in American politics.—Tampa Times.

KEEP A GOOD SECRETARY

The Tampa Tribune has the following editorial that is worthy of more than a passing notice:

"The board of trade or other organization which has a good secretary, but because of some nomadic spirit dwelling in a few members wants to make a change every year or so, makes the greatest mistake of its life.

The rolling stone gathers no moss whether it be in a commercial organization, or hewed from the granite of the eternal hills. It is remarkable the success that attends those places where stability, and even mediocrity, is put up with, rather than to make a change at every veering of the wind.

Tampa's board of trade is one of the most striking examples of its paying to keep a man who knows the city, knows its needs, knows the likes of the public, and how the general public may be reached for Tampa's good. Lake county is a striking illustration of the fact that a good man in a county board of trade had better not be let go, no matter what the opposition offers him.

No newspaper would think for a moment of changing its department heads every year, because with every change there has to be broken a new machine, so to speak, and loss of forward motion is always the result.

We are glad to note that in the South the idea of "rotation in office" is becoming more and more to be held as an idle word both in politics and commercial life. If you have a good, efficient public servant in a place, and he is a competent man, a real servant of the people, it pays to keep him. If you have a good commercial organization head, or executive secretary, and he is doing better work every year, then it would be suicidal to change him for even the best known publicist of strange lands.

Permanency of position makes for the bettering of service when the man is worth while and is really the man for the place. To the man who is inclined to think he has a "cinch" on the place, there is apt to come a slacking of responsibility, a lessening of interest, and a falling off of accomplishment. For this latter man the remedy is prompt discharge. To the first man, the inclination to still better work is assurance of appreciation and the reasonable knowledge that he holds for "life or during good behavior" as the commissions of the high court justices of the country are worded.

"THE BACHELOR DADDY" IS A SPLENDID PICTURE

Thomas Meighan, Paramount star, and his well-balanced cast, including Leatrice Joy, leading woman, and five famous screen kiddies, Charlotte Jackson, Barbara Maier, Bruce Guerin and the mischievous Deliric Twins, present a splendid performance of "The Bachelor Daddy," at the Princess Theatre tonight.

The picture has a pleasing theme of a man's love for five motherless children entrusted to his care by a dying friend. He brings the children to his home, to the disgust of his intended bride and to the delight of his private secretary. As the story develops, blind love is awakened with surprising results. The picture is based on Edward Peple's novel "The Proxy Daddy," and was filmed under the direction of Alfred Green.

Also a Snub Pollard Comedy.

THE HOME GARDEN IN SUMMER

The idea prevails that summer vegetables cannot be grown in Florida. It may be true that less varieties can be grown in summer than in winter, but just the same there are a number of vegetables that can be successfully grown in the home garden throughout the summer.

In emphasizing the point that Floridians should have fresh home-grown vegetables on their table every day in the year, Professor W. L. Floyd, horticulturist of the Florida College of Agriculture, names several that are particularly adapted to summer conditions.

He states that New Zealand spinach stands summer heat well and that tender tips and leaves of it may be gathered every few days as new one put out quickly. It makes very satisfactory summer greens.

Cowpeas, especially the California black-eye and the Yellow sugar crowder, are very nutritious and grow well.

Mustard may be planted repeatedly grows quickly and is good when young an tender, tho it soon becomes tough.

Okra is cultivated an on its pads cut two or three times a week, will continue to bear throughout summer and will produce large quantities of fruit.

Eggplants, pepper and collards, if started in spring and given proper cultivation and fertilization, will continue to bear throughout the summer months.

Small climbing lima beans, especially the variety known as the Florida butterbean, does well if planted not later than May. Pole beans, such as the Kentucky wonder, are also good when started not later than May.

The bathers at the beach bought all they could eat but forthwith their attire had no capacity for surplus stocks, the doughnut waned after a while, the lassies avert. At that, the sales were not poor, they said.

MILK WILL INCREASE YOUR WEIGHT SURE SAYS LADY EXPERT

(By The Associated Press) GAINESVILLE, June 6.—If you don't believe milk will increase your weight, listen to what it did to two...

"In order to illustrate the value of milk in the diet, white rats of the same litter were separated from the mother and fed as follows: Number 1, a diet typical of certain rural sections of Florida, minus milk; number 2, the same food plus milk equivalent to a cupful a day in the diet of a child; number 3, the same food, plus milk equal to a quart a day in the diet of a child.

"Rat Number 2 grew to more than double the size and weight of Number 1. Number 3 more than outstripped all the rest. At the end of ten months Number 3 weighed a little more than four times as much as Number 1, although the only difference in care and feeding had been the milk. Furthermore, Number 3 bore two litters of young and reared them successfully.

"Milk supplies complete protein, all minerals except iron, and the vitamins necessary for health."

WHAT THE PUBLIC OWES THE NEWSPAPER

By Isaac VanHorn, of Haines City, Editor of the Florida Bull

When I refer to what the public owes its newspapers, I refer to those newspapers whose editors and publishers have an interest in something higher than the mere business gain of their papers and feel their responsibility to their communities, their fellows, their state and the nation within which they live.

I consider the newspaper, I mean the community newspaper from the city daily to the smallest little sheet having a public circulation, especially in a state like Florida, which is not only blessed with great natural business resources but which is one of the few winter play grounds of the nation, the one greatest essential to its progress and I believe no one will contradict this.

Then what does the public owe its newspapers?

First: Liberal support in the way of advertising patronage, that its publisher may improve his sheet and thus give the community the very best publicity. But this patronage is a business proposition, and not a charitable contribution, as many men seem to regard it, and when placing their advertising treat the publisher in a patronizing way as if giving him something, which places him under great and lasting obligation, to play up every business matter in which the advertiser is interested in the news columns and make special mention of him or the member of his family every time they visit the neighboring town or have him roast the paper for lack of due appreciation for his advertising patronage.

Everyone should understand this: the space of a newspaper is just as valuable, just as much a real asset, just as much a commodity as the goods on the shelf of the merchant and to ask or expect the newspaper man to sell it on any other basis than the merchant sells his goods, is an insult and belittles the merchant, just as much as it would the newspaper man, if he came into the merchant's store and because he was publishing a newspaper, advertising the merchant's town or city and was the greatest factor in its progress, treated him in a patronizing way and expected him to give himself and family special attention as rather superior persons.

The newspaper columns open to advertising are for sale to those who have business sagacity enough to realize their value to their business and no self-respecting publisher wants any one's business on any other basis. Second: The newspaper is what molds public opinion; chronicles the news and keeps the world posted on current events, both locally and nationally. The local paper gathers it up—and like a snowball rolled in the sun, gathers size and importance as it rolls up by other publications until each town, locality and city becomes familiar to the public at large.

It's the publicity of the "Press" that is making Southern Florida—it's the truthful statement of its opportunities poured forth from day to day, and week to week, going forth into every corner of the world, that is making our progress possible, and which will make Florida in the years to come, one of the greatest Commonwealths of this wonderful country.

Every man, woman and child living in the state of Florida is unconsciously benefitted by the work of the "Press" in so many ways it would be useless to try and enumerate them.

Every public question, every charitable effort, every religious gathering or work, from the big corporation to the new windows in Sam Smith's little village store, are given attention.

Sympathy in sorrow and trouble, condemnation of public evils, eulogies over the departed, kind words for men and women working in the Boards of Trade, Womens Clubs and a thousand different things receive sentimental attention at the hands of the newspaper man.

Does anyone think to buy his advertising space, ends the obligation for this personal service; not at all! That is simply a business proposition, simply the purchase by the advertiser of a bargain offered for sale by the newspaper man, so the town, the country, and the state will know that the advertiser is on earth; he buys that space because he needs it, to keep the weeds down in front of his store door.

But there is an obligation every resident owes his home newspaper—that of being a regular subscriber, to help increase the circulation and to keep posted on local news, but it does not end there. That newspaper is the mouth-piece of the city, the town or rural district. It tells the story of progress, of opportunity to bet new-comer and helps more than anything else on earth to make the future of each community and it's the duty of everyone to assist in extending the circulation of their local paper to pay up subscriptions and send to parties regularly, liable to be interested—to induce every non-resident visitor and property owner to subscribe for it and not only keep in touch with local conditions themselves, but to show it to their friends.

Third: Moral support. More than all this, the local paper is entitled to the moral support in the strongest sense that this word can be applied, of every individual in the community. We each have our own personal view point on all public questions—there are always two sides to every question. We want everyone to give us the right to express ourselves and act, as our own conscience dictates. Well, let us give this same right to the editor of the paper, and don't get mad and roast the paper every time something is said that don't suit. There is no one who knows it all and is infallible; not even the wisest of us, as important as we may feel ourselves to be, and if the editor of the paper and anyone do not agree on public questions, don't go off half cocked and commence to bore holes in the bottom of the ship that is sailing to a safe harbor just because the captain is a crank in your own judgment, but forget it and read the news telling of what a great city, town or country we live in and get so full of enthusiasm over that, that we can forget any little thing about the editor or what he may write. Does anyone think they could run their home paper and please everybody? We can't do that in our own private business. Just let all of us hollow our heads off for our local paper—that will interest others in it, and so the circulation will increase and it will gradually grow of greater assistance in letting the world at large know who, where and what we are.

Don't forget the editor is human like the rest of us—has his own troubles—has his own personal friends—his own convictions and many times is harassed and worried between love and duty and as a citizen interested in your community, stop long enough to realize your duty to your own home paper, for if we all, in each community support loyally our own publication, everyone will find that other publications will take up our work and extend the glad hand of co-operation to the end that we shall prosper and be known favorably as progressive and co-operative all over the United States, because the papers of Florida are circulated and read in almost every community in the great country.

So if all will help build up and maintain respect and confidence in their home paper by backing it up with their moral support and if we do ever get "hot under the collar" at the editor, invite him out for a ride and take him out in the woods and give it to him there—not in the postoffice at mail time.

In conclusion: I am personally such a believer in the newspaper and the newspaper men as a fraternity; in continuity of advertising; in helping the circulation of the local paper and in placing behind it the moral support of the community, that it is impossible in this brief way to express my feelings as to the great responsibility I feel that each individual owes the newspapers and those engaged in this line of work.

But in conclusion I desire to speak of one thing that has created a deep impression upon me always, and more especially during the past two years and from observation and conversation with men in all walks of life, and believe is having a great influence and is impressing itself on the minds of millions of people, and that is, the attitude of the Press generally, as to the belief in Almighty God and the benefit of Christian living.

We are all human and make mistakes, but I believe that the world is impressed by the attitude of the press on this great question and that the editorials, articles and little "daily thoughts" presented in the columns of the papers daily is making our local communities, Florida and the United States a better place to live in—no matter what hysterical reformers say to the contrary.

of publications was needed more and it is my firm conviction that the worth while people of the United States appreciate our honorable efforts to meet our responsibilities.

Comrade Commander R. A. Terhuen and Comrade Luke N. Walker and Comrade Alfred King, all of the Colonel Theodore Roosevelt Camp, No. 13, of Sanford, were in Saint Cloud Wednesday evening, May 24, and mustered several of the local Spanish War Veterans into their camp.

The commander was agreeably surprised to find such a large number of local Spanish War Veterans, and says they have a live and aggressive organization in Roosevelt Camp; one that will get results in the interest of all Spanish War Veterans.

The following were mustered in: H. E. Hedrick, Charles Holt, Gabe White, Lewis Seaman, John A. McCarthy and Harry White, all of Saint Cloud, and comrades in that vicinity are urged to see any of the above and receive the latest reports of what is being done for the United Spanish War Veterans.—Kissimmee Gazette.

REMEMBERED BY OUR FRIENDS

Sandy Anderson the live wire who looks after the outside affairs of F. Dutton & Co. is a friend to the editor of the Herald and knowing that we must have something to eat he never fails to bring us something from the various farms. Yesterday he brought us fifteen ears of fine sweet corn and a crate of potatoes and we are now fixed no matter which way the election goes.

The other day some kind person slipped up to the home of the editor and left two dozen ears of sweet corn. We found out afterward that it was Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ellsworth of Beardall avenue and we hereby tender out thanks.

Some people think the life of an editor is a terrible grind and it is but the greatest thing in this world is to know that you are appreciated and our loving friends let us know this in many ways. There is nothing in this world quite as nice as living in this garden spot of the world.

RAIN STOPS FIRST GAME

The first game of the season yesterday was broken up in the second inning with the score standing a tie, 2-2, and two Sanford men left on bases.

Palatka, supporting one of the fastest independent teams in the state are in Sanford to open the season and although the rain broke up the first game a double bill will be staged today.

Sanford's club is in good shape, and the line-up yesterday looked as good as anything outside of the Florida State League and maybe just as good as some of them.

Burdick, lead off man is known in Sanford as an old timer and he holds down short as of old. Vaden, a fast little player from Orange County is here to take care of third base and the way he romped around that sack in the short time of play yesterday proves that he knows his business.

Our old friend Walker from Orlando is playing second and plays just like he did while in the South Atlantic League. Kerlin the clean-up man is from Lake County and for a while played with Orlando this season. The way he knocks out those bingles makes the fans hearts glad. Amann and Chapman, with McCall as a relief pitcher gives us a pitching staff hard to beat.

Dubby Spencer and Sid Rive, two more Sanford boys, are old timers and they need no introduction to the fans here, and they are still going as good as last year and the years before, while Chief Chittenden, although carrying little surplus flesh now will soon get that worked down to where he will make the big leaguers look sick.

Leonard McLucas is general utility man, and a good one. With this line-up Sanford will be sure to let Palatka know that there is another team contending for championship honors. And if you were not able to yet to yesterday's game, see them today, as you can be assured of a real game of ball.

Games are being scheduled with clubs around the state and there will be a regular run of games all summer. Get your season ticket if you haven't already done so and not only help the club but save yourself some money.

The first game today starts at 2:00 o'clock.

Outer Beauty—Inner Strength

Beneath the beauty of a skyscraper stands a skeleton of steel—hidden, yet holding the great structure together for all time.

Under the weatherproof surface of Flex-a-Tile Giant Shingles lies a base of genuine Richardson felt—hidden, yet giving tensile strength without which surface beauty cannot last.

The best obtainable materials, and all the skill of more than 50 years' experience are built into every piece of Richardson felt. Scientific manufacture is primarily responsible for the long life of Flex-a-Tile Roofing.

This superfine felt is first thoroughly saturated with natural asphalt; then asphalt-coated on both sides. That is why Giant Shingle roofs offer perfect resistance to heat, cold or moisture from above or beneath.

FLEX-A-TILE HOUSE TOPS

Outer beauty is added to this inner strength by a layer of genuine slate from our quarries at Flex-a-Tile, Georgia. The rich, natural green of this special slate blends beautifully with any surroundings and any type or architecture. It cannot be imitated, because nature produced it and age has mellowed it.

Flex-a-Tile Giants give to a roof, whether new or old, an appearance of strength and permanence that adds to the beauty of the entire house. And they are better adapted for laying right over the old roof covering than any other type of asphalt shingles.
