Sanford police are being tight-lipped about a Sunday morning traffic accident which injured two officers, at least one of them severely enough to be sent to the hospital.

The two-car crash, which involved a patrol car and an unmarked police vehicle, occurred shortly before 6:30 a.m., but Assistant Police Chief Herb Shea would give no details today about who was involved, how the wreck occurred or where.

"I've got two officers stove up." Shea said. "We haven't taken statements from them and I'd rather not say anything until we've investigated it." Shea said he did not know how long the investigation would take.

'Small, Still Voice' Drove Abortion Clinic Bombers

PENSACOLA (UPI) - Two members of a Pentecostal church who admit bombing three abortion clinics say only other Christians could understand the "small, still voice" that compelled them to commit the attacks.

Matthew Goldsby, a construction foreman, and James Simmons, a glass cutter, were to appear before U.S. Magistrate Robert Crongeyerf today for a preliminary hearing on 16 bombing-related charges.

The closest that you could explain it is such as a call to preach," said Simmons. "It's not a voice from God. It's a small, still voice in your spirit. I don't think unless you're a Christian you can understand that."

Goldsby and Simmons, each 21, are being held without bond in the Escambia County Jail. The two men are lifelong friends who grew up attending churches around the papermill town of Cantonment, 15 miles north of Pensacola.

They are charged with bombing three Pensacola abortion clinics within a 15-minute span Christmas morning and a fourth bombing last June at one of the clinics. No one was injured in any of the blasts.

"I believe that what the issue is right now is why we did it." Goldsby said.

"Maybe we didn't go about it the right way, but now that we've thrown it into the public light. I should hope such legislation would occur to make abor-tion illegal." Goldsby's flance, Kay Wiggins, and

Simmons' wife of four months, Kathy, both 18, have also been charged as accomplices in last month's bombings. Both were released on their own recognizance into the custody of their mothers. Goldsby and Simmons said they regretted getting the women involved. but had no apologies for the bombing incidents.

They decided not to ask the elders of their church whether or not they should bomb the clinics because they felt their plan would be rebuked.

"We knew abortion was wrong. We also knew the majority of religious leaders would not go along with what we did," Goldsby said. "We didn't go to the church elders because they would have told us not to, that it would have been illegal."

Both men denied a role in any other bombings. There have been 26 bombings and arson attacks at abortion clinics nationwide in the last two years, and officials have said an anti-abortion terrorist force may be at work.

Kennedy Visits South African Black City

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) - Sen. Edward Kennedy says a flithy, crowded migrant camp in the segregated black city of Soweto is the most depressing place he has ever visited.

Soweto Sunday, was greeted by several hundred cheering people. The senator arranged to meet today with

Kennedy, who also visited three homes in

was scheduled to visit the rural black settlement of Mathopestad, north of Pretoria, and Onderstepoort, the site of a new segregated black township.

On Sunday, Kennedy visited Soweto, a segregated black city outside Johannesburg with a population of about 1.4 million, and walked through a filthy migrant camp.

After seeing the tiny, sooty rooms and pools of stagnant water and garbage heaps at the Nancefield Men's Hostel, he said: "This camp is one of the most distressing, despairing visits I ever made to any facility in my life."

The hostel houses migrant workers whose families must remain in tribal homelands or th other black African states where no employment is available. The men see their families only once a year on annual vacations.

'We are so happy, so thankful that he is here,' exclaimed Thereza Mosokeng, an unemployed seamstress. "Perhaps he can solve some of our problems, like the violence in Soweto."

Violence in Soweto, South Africa's largest black city, and other segregated townships erupted last September, killing hundreds of blacks in civil "He has a good heart," said Dorothy Mosimane.

An elderly black man in a leather jacket standing nearby added, "What she means is she is happy because he may do something good for us blacks in South Africa:"

Kennedy described the people he had met as "some of the most courageous, bravest, warmest men and women I have ever met anywhere in the world (who) want to see change brought about by peaceful means."

Kennedy, who flew to South Africa following a tour of famine-stricken areas in Ethiopia and Sudan, is to meet Wednesday with Winnie Mandela, wife of Jailed African National Congress leader Nelson Mandela.

His aides said no response had yet been received to a request for a meeting with Mandela who is serving a life sentence at Pollsmoor prison In Cape Town.

New Yorkers Support Vigilante But Mayor Condemns Shooting

NEW YORK (UPI) - Almost 50 percent of crime-weary New Yorkers stand behind confessed subway gunman Bernhard Hugo Goetz, who opened fire on four alleged muggers on a subway.

A Daily News-WABC poll released Sunday found that 49 percent of the 515 New Yorkers questioned approved of Goetz's actions - and only 31 percent disapproved.

Mayor Edward Koch, however, offers no such support. New Yorkers' frustrations are "understandable," but that "doesn't mean you give vent to barbarism," Koch said Sunday. "That doesn't mean you get into a subway or street of New York and shoot 'em up, because you're not only going to shoot up the criminals, but the innocent

The mayor said New Yorkers could better channel their frustrations by asking for improvements in the courts, "and the state Legislature can change a whole host of laws that have given much too much protection to criminals ..."

Von Bulow Ducks Retrial Publicity

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) - A decision to retry Claus von bulow on charges he tried to kill his heiress wife has sent the famous socialite into seclusion.

Von Bulow, 58, was unavailable to reporters Sunday and a person answering his phone said the Danish-born financier had no comment.

In 1982 a jury convicted von Bulow of twice trying to kill his wife, Martha "Sunny" von Bulow, with insulin injections at their Clarendon Court mansion.

Mrs. von Bulow, 53, who was not diabetic, had a condition aggravated by insulin. She is in a coma in a New York hospital.

The verdict was overturned because state police failed to obtain a search warrant before having a crime lab analyze drugs seized from the mansion. State Attorney General Arlene Violet announced Saturday she would retry von Bulow April 2.

City Fears For Paroled Killer's Life

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) - The killer of Mayor George Moscone and gay Supervisor Harvey Milk is out of prison and off parole, and while legally free to go anywhere, San Francisco has made it clear he shouldn't come back.

Leaders of the politically powerful gay community have warned of radicals who might harm Dan White, and Mayor Dianne Feinstein has expressed similar fears. White's one-year parole in Southern California, which followed a five-year prison term, ended Sunday. He was convicted of manslaughter rather than murder and the jury's decision touched off a riot, including the torching of 13 police cars outside City Hall.

Publicity, Protests Force Israel To Halt Airlift Of Ethiopian Jews

JERUSALEM (UPI) - Israel's "Operation Moses" airlift of Ethiopian Jews has come to a standstill under the weight of protests from abroad and two no-confidence motions within the government.

As the Cabinet placed its discussions of the airlift under the official secrets acts to prevent further leaks, President Chaim Herzog Sunday demanded the operation's disclosure be "thoroughly investigated."

Herzog said the partial disclosure last Thursday of "Operation Moses" — named after the Biblical prophet who led the exodus of the Jews from Egypt - "endangered the lives of thousands of people inside and outside Ethiopia."

The refugee flights reportedly originated in Sudan, stopped in Belgium, then flew on Israel. The route was used because Israel does not have diplomatic relations with Ethiopia or Sudan.

Jackson Meets With Archbishop

LONDON (UPI) - The Rev. Jesse Jackson arranged a meeting with the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Most Rev. Robert Runcie, today as part of his international campaign to galvanize the world's moral leaders against apartheid. Jackson, who last week called on Pope John Paul II to visit South Africa, is on a weeklong trip to Western Europe to urge greater action against the South African government's policies of racial segregation, known as apartheid.

Jackson told 300 worshipers at an Anglican church in London Sunday that Western nations should work together through NATO and the Common Market against apartheid. "Democratic republics are pillars of apartheid, not the east. It is Western democracies who trade arms with South Africa, who export and import from South Africa -Western countries led by the United States, Israel, Germany and Britain," Jackson told worshipers.

One Third Are Attacked

Million People Surprised By Burglars

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Almost a million people are at home each year when a burglar breaks in and about one-third of them are attacked, the Justice Department

The department's Bureau of Justice Statistics said Sunday that in 13 percent of 73 million burglaries that occurred from 1973 through 1982, someone was at home at the time of the break in. That means almost 9.5 million people were surprised by burglars during the 10-year period.

Of those, about 2.8 million were the victims of violent crimes committed by burglars, a bureau study said. Over those 10 years, almost 1.7 million people were assaulted, 786,000 were robbed and 281,000 were raped by burglars.

The study also said "a substantial percentage of household burglaries are committed by persons related to or known by

"Household burglary ranks among the more serious felony crimes." Steven Schlesinger, the bureau director, said. "because a substantial proportion of the violent crimes that occur in the home take place during a burglary.

"Burglary is potentially a far more serious crime than its classification as a property offense indicates," he said.

According to the study, a household member was present during 9 percent of all forcible entries, 14 percent of all unlawful entries not involving force, and 17 percent of all attempted forcible entries.

In these cases, a violent crime was committed during a third of the forcible entries, during almost two-fifths of the unlawful entries and during one-seventh of the attempted entries.

Information for the report was collected through the National Crime Survey, which gathers data on crimes not reported to the police as well as those reported.

The survey defines burglary as the unlawful or forcible entry of a residence, usually but not necessarily attended by theft. It included attempted forcible entry.

In 9 percent of the burglary incidents studied - those in which something was known about the offender - the report said the burglar was the victim's spouse or former spouse in 7 percent of the cases or another relative in 4 percent.

In 25 percent of the incidents, the burglar was an acquaintance: In another 6 percent, a person known only by sight; in 48 percent,

Black households were forcibly entered much more frequently than were white households, but they were unlawfully entered, without force, at about the same rate,

"Families with incomes under $7,500 per year had the highest overall burglary rates during the 10-year period," it said.

Rescue Workers Stranded On Mountainside

LA PAZ, Bolivia (UPI) — Three Bolivian climbers who reached the wreckage of an Eastern Airlines jet in the Andes were stranded today on the side of the mountain by snow and high winds, officials said.

The climbers, led by veteran climber Bernardo Guarachi, made it to the snow-covered wreckage of the Boeing 727 Saturday. The plane crashed New Year's Day. None of the 29 people aboard survived.

The climbers were ordered to descend from the 19,600-fcot level of Illimani Mountain Sunday and were on their way down when deteriorating weather prevented them from reaching camp by nightfall. Attached to a rope, they were

Cocaine Suspects Extradited In Secrecy To Avoid Mob Attack

MIAMI (UPI) - Four Colombian nationals secretly extradited to the United States to avoid a bloody rescue attempt by organized crime figures faced drug charges today in Miami and Washington, D.C.

The four men — the first extradited from Colombia under a 1982 treaty - are accused of involvement in schemes to import and distribute cocaine or launder drug money. They left their homeland Saturday under the shroud of government secrecy and arrived at Homestead Air Force Base in Florida aboard a C-130 cargo plane.

U.S. officials said soccer team manager Hernan Botero Moreno was wanted in an alleged $57 million money laundering scheme in Plantation, Fla. They said two brothers, Ricardo and Said Pabon Jatter, were among 13 Colombians sought in a similar plot in Miami.

Transferred to Washington was Marco Cadavid, a Colombian businessman. He was indicted with 14 other people in December 1983 for allegedly running a nationwide cocaine ring that laundered $1 million through a Washington bank.

Threats of reprisals from organized crime began after Colombian President Belisario Betancur signed extradition orders on Nov. 14. In all, the United States has asked for the extradition of more than 70 Colombian nationals, most of them on drug-related charges.

Preacher Held On Drug Charges

LEE (UPI) - Police say an ex-convict charged with smuggling 2,700 pounds of marijuana used his fundamentalist faith as cover for a sophisticated drugsmuggling operation.

Joseph F. Valverde III, arrested Dec. 28 in a steel hangar where 83 bales of marijuana were seized, charmed Madison County residents with ready Bible quotations and soulful prayer meetings. But police charge that Valverde, who spoke of opening a religious retreat on a 250-acre farm, instead used the property as a staging area for a marijuana smuggling operation. Authorities, who arrested Valverde six months after receiving an anonymous tip, have seized a $1 million airplane, a motor home and $107,000 in cash found at the Valverde, 36, who turned to Christianity after he was convicted in 1975 of smuggling cocaine, is being held in Madison County jail on $1 million bond along with Thomas Geers, 38, who also was arrested Dec. 28. Both men have asked for Bibles in their cells and reportedly are preaching to their fellow inmates.

Freighter May Be 'Freed At Last'

PALM BEACH (UPI) - A 197-foot Venezuelan freighter beached beside a millionaire's swimming pool may be pulled free by the end of the month and sent back to sea,

The freighter Mercedes I broke through a seawall and beached itself on Thanksgiving Day during a powerful wind and rainstorm that raked Florida's East Coast.

Salvage workers report good progress in freeing the ship from Mollie Wilmot's oceanfront backyard.
Wilmot filed suit in U.S. District Court to have the freighter removed from her property when initial salvage attempts unsuccessful. That suit is pending.

Donjon Marine, of Hillside, N.J., was low bidder at $223,696 on the contract with the state of Florida to pull the Mercedes I free. The firm has until Jan. 31 to accomplish the task.

Art Takes Back Seat To Drywall

GAINESVILLE (UPI) - Art may be important but so is drywall, say Shands Hospital officials who are challenging a state law requiring the purchase of $100,000 in artwork for a new patient services building.

The 1979 law, enacted to help support local artists and beautify state-owned buildings, requires that budgets of all newly commissioned state buildings which are accessible to the public include an allocation for artwork. Prisons are excepted from the measure.

But officials at Shands, a University of Florida institution, say they can't afford a requested $100,000 art allocation for their new $64 million Patient Services Building because of substandard drywali construction that must be redone.

Discovery Crew Readies For Secret Mission

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) - The crew of Onizuka and Air Force Maj. Gary Payton the Discovery planned to participate in a practice countdown today to clear the shuttle for blastoff Jan. 23 on a top-secret mission to launch an Air Force spy satellite.

The "terminal countdown demonstration test" began on time at 1:40 p.m. EST Sunday and was scheduled to end at 8 a.m. today with a computer-simulated ignition of the shuttle's three main engines.

The crew for the classified mission -Navy Capt. Thomas Mattingly, Air Force Lt. Col. Loren Shriver, Marine Corps Lt. Col. James Buchli, Air Force Maj. Ellison planned to board the shuttle for the final two hours of the countdown.

Discovery is scheduled to blast off for real sometime between 1:15 p.m. and 4:15 p.m. on Jan. 23 for the first fully classified manned space flight in the history of the American space program.

The exact launch time will not be known until the shuttle's main engines flash to life.

By keeping the launch time secret, the Air Force hopes to make it difficult for Russian tracking stations to lock onto the shuttle or Its sensitive satellite payload.

That payload, a "signals intelligence" surveillance satellite, is believed to be capable of monitoring Russian compliance with arms control agreements.

To prevent the Soviet Union from learning other details about the mission, air-toground conversations between the astronauts and mission controllers will not be released unless an emergency occurs during the flight.

In addition, Discovery's landing time will not be revealed until 16 hours before touchdown, presumably at the Kennedy Space Center.

Rebels Repel Viets In Border War

AMPIL. Cambodia (UPI) -Cambodian rebels launched a surprise attack against Vietnamese forces today and repulsed a flerce assault on the guerrilla military headquarters at Ampil on the sixth anniversary of Vietnam's military takeover of Cambodia.

The fighting, described by military sources in Thailand as the heaviest of Hanoi's dry season offensive, spread to other guerrilla bases along the illdefined Thai-Cambodian border.

Heavy shelling on the guerrilla base at Ampil, military head-quarters of the Khmer Peoples National Liberation Front. caused scores of insurgent casualties on the sixth anniversary of Vietnam's 1979 military take-

Red Cross officials said they ran out of ambulances to transport the wounded from Ampil to a hospital at the nearby Khao-l-Dang refugee camp.

Before dawn, the guerrillas launched a preemptive mortar strike on Vietnamese troops massing for the long-expected assault on Ampil, triggering heavy artillery shelling by

Spearheaded by Soviet-bullt T.54 tanks, the Vietnamese launched a ground assault on the heavily fortified Ampil headquarters, but were repulsed by the insurgents led by former Cambodian Prime Minister Son

"I think Son Sann's troops can hold. They are holding it right now," Maj. Gen. San Sripen, commander of Thai forces at the border, told reporters. He said the guerrillas knocked out three tanks during the fighting.

San also said at least 20 Victnamese shells landed in Thai territory, forcing the evacuation of hundreds of Thais near the border.

Thai military sources reported scattered Vietnamese shelling of nearby Liberation Front guerrilla camps at Nong Samet and Nong Chan - sites of earlier fighting between the rebels and Hanot's

An attack on the rebel base at Ampil had been expected since mid-November when Hanot's 160,000 occupation troops launched their earliest and most in the six-year war.

Guerrilla leaders said Hanoi had assembled near Ampil an attack force of at least 3,600 troops backed by six Soviet-built T-54 tanks and 10 armored personnel carriers.

The Liberation Front reportedly brought in extra forces to defend the headquarters, 43 miles northeast of the major That border town of Aranyaprathet.

Vietnam invaded Cambodia in December 1978. Its forces captured Phnom Penh on Jan. 7. 1979, ousting the Khmer Rouge government and installing the pro-Hanol Heng Samrin regime.

The communist Khmer Rouge later were joined by two anticommunist groups — the Liberation Front and followers of former Cambodian ruler Prince Norodom Sihanouk - in a three-party coalition government in exile. That government is recognized by the United Nations and most non-communist

The rebel coalition is armed and supported by China while Vietnam is armed and supported by the Soviet Union.

Self Defense Or Vigilantism?

A subway gunman in New York City has many people cheering and quite a few others concerned about vigilantism. What he reportedly did before leaving a subway train recently was to shoot four alleged teenage muggers. Armed with sharpened, heavy-duty screwdrivers, the youths had "harassed" the gunman for $5, they told police.

Since the shooting, hundreds of New Yorkers have flooded the police with calls praising the gunman's action and the Congress of Racial Equality, a civil rights group. has offered to pay his legal defense.

Some supporters have likened the shooting to the 1974 Charles Bronson movie "Death Wish" about an architect who wages a bloody, one-man vigilante campaign against muggers and thieves. Tired of crime on the subways, others have suggested the real-life "Death Wish" gunman run for mayor against Edward Koch. His honor has denounced the shooting as something he never will tolerate.

When the gunman appears in court, he may face a legal donneybrook instead of the free trip to Chicago given to Charles Bronson in "Death Wish." Did he cross the line between self-defense in a life-threatening situation and taking the law into his own hands?

We don't know, and we'd like to cheer anyone who gets the better of hoodlums and robbers. At the same time, the gunman's actions are cause for concern, especially if everyone were to start copying him.

New York Gov. Mario Cuomo, no fan of the "Death Wish" gunman, has warned that "in the long run, that's (vigilante shootings) what produces the slaughter of innocent people." He has a point.

On one level, the subway shooting could have had several unhappier endings: Instead of hitting a menacing mugger, the gunman might have missed and hit an innocent bystander. Or what may have appeared to be menacing muggers may actually have been loudmouthed youths with no intention of robbing anyone. The subway superman also might not have beaten his assailants to the draw, so to speak.

Gov. Cuomo, and law enforcement officials. probably are more concerned with the bigger picture. If everyone reacted to threats this way, there'd be a lot more blood in New York's subway cars, or any public place for that matter, but not necessarily less crime.

Law-abiding citizens do have cause to speak out for their rights. And they aren't always ignored. On Jan. 1, in California, for example, a new law sponsored by state Sen. H.L. Richardson went into effect that aids home owners in defending themselve with firearms against intruders. The legal burden of proof no longer is on the home owner to demonstrate he or she had reasonable fear of being in a life-threatening situation.

But defending property and person against forcible entry is more clear-cut in our mind than shootouts in the public. In general, Americans haven't condoned the "death squad" mentality that pervades many Latin American countries. If we don't approve of police and other groups elsewhere taking the law into their own hands, we shouldn't be so quick to applaud it here.

Education Dept.'s Frivolous Seminar children desperately need help in remedial reading and other types of teaching assistance. the Department of Education has frivolously blown $20,000 on a "social psychology"

The "Learning Techniques Workshop," held for the benefit of federal bureaucrats and educational bigwigs from around the country, is one of many dublous seminars and 'workshops" held by this $16 billion-a-year department that often doesn't seem to know what to do with its money.

Eighty-two people attended the affair, held in nearby Columbia, Md., Dec. 11 through Dec. 13. The seminar was addressed by British author. lecturer and television celebrity Tony Buzan. who charges between $2,000 and $3,000 a day

What any of this has to do with a return to teaching the basics - as the National Commission on Excellence in Education instructed the nation to do more than a year ago - is questionable.

Just before Christmas, the department decided to rent rooms at the Columbia Inn for five days and invited Buzan to hold a three-day seminar. Meetings with Buzan were also held the day before the event as well as the day after for the benefit of department officials.

The bills for the brainstorming sessions are not all in yet, but officials say the entire affair cost taxpayers approximately $20,000 to rent rooms, purchase supplies, and pay Buzan's honorarium and travel expenses.

Among the supplies purchased for the event were copies of Buzan's book. Use Both Sides of Your Brain, which were given to all seminar

Was the seminar worth the equivalent of a public school teacher's yearly salary? Project organizer Barbara Richardson insists it was.

But others in the department think it was a waste of money.

Attacking Federal Benefits

WASHINGTON (NEA) - The White House has signaled that it's ready to stage an all-out attack on federal pay and benefits. But getting Congress to go along with those cuts will be another story.

The White House is attacking on The first would call for an across-the-board 5 percent pay cut for all federal workers.

By law, pay for federal workers must approximate the pay for similar work in the private sector. Each year, a commission surveys private-industry pay scales and recommends the kind of raise that federal workers should get to stay

Last year's survey stated that federal workers should have gotten a raise of more than 12 percent to stay even with private industry, but they received a fraction of this. This year's survey hasn't been released, but experts believe it will show that federal workers' pay is a full 20 percent behind that of private industry; at middle-management levels. It is 50 or 100 percent

The president has said that to set an example, he and his Cabinet will take a 10 percent pay cut. Since Reagan and most of his Cabinet members are millionaires whose investments give them six-figure annual incomes, the offer hasn't impressed federal workers who are trying to support their families on $25,000 or $30,000 a year.

The second front in the White House war on federal pay and benefits is against the federal retirement system - "the Cadillac of pension plans," according to Donald J. Devine, director of the Office of Personnel Management and the man most bureaucrats love to hate.

Devine calls the federal retirement program "the the third largest entitlement program in the federal government." Federal retirees received almost $22 billion in 1984: only the Social Security and Medicare programs were bigger.

The Reagan administration is proposing benefit cuts that it says will save $5 billion in three years and $20 billion in five years. The proposed cuts wouldn't decrease checks for those who already receive them, but would force future retirees to accept much less.

A similar plan was rejected in the last Congress.

One major opponent is Virginia Republican Frank Wolf, whose suburban Washington district is the home of tens of thousands of current and retired federal workers.

"It's not going to happen," Wolf says of the administration proposals. "My general feeling is Congress will give the recommendations the same treatment they gave to them in the past. They killed wither the GOP?

NEW YORK (NEA) - Recently in this space I discussed the problem facing the Democratic Party in the wake of Ronald Reagan's massive re-election. Today I would like to devote equal space to the problem facing the Republicans.

It is not quite the mirror opposite of the Democrats' problem. The Democrats are in real danger of becoming, at least as far as presidential elections are concerned, a semi-permanent minority, able to count (at best) on union labor, blacks, Hispanics (to a much lesser extent), those with incomes under $10,000, those with less than a high school education, Jews and atheists. The Congress is in much better shape from a Democratic standpoint, but even here they rely heavily on such risky advantages as artistic gerrymandering.

But the Republicans dare not simply sit back and luxuriate in their presidential majority, and concentrate on redesigning congressional districts to reflect their real voting strength. Their so-called "presidential majority" is in fact an unstable anti-liberal coalition of economic conservatives and social conservatives who, if truth be told, don't have much in common save their detestation of liberalism. If the Democrats were to repudiate liberalism, or (more likely) if the GOP were to nominate in 1988 a candidate indifferent to, or ignorant of, the urgent need to appeal to social as well as economic conservatives, the presidential election of 1988 might be won, narrowly, by some Democrat able to appeal, as Carterdid in 1976, to social conservatives. How likely, then, are the Republicans to stumble? There is, of course, always the danger of an intervening economic catastrophe of some sort - in which case all of the above bets are off. But, barring that, the question bolls down to whom the GOP is likely to nominate.

Here the odds-on front-runner is unquestionably Vice President George Bush, and his assets as a 1988 presidential contender are formidable. Bush halls from the old, discredited "moderate" wing of the party, which Reagan defeated in the 1980 convention and which was practically invisible in Dallas last August. But, as a high-ranking conservative Republican put it to me not long ago, "Bush has not only been a loyal soldier; he has made important substantive contributions to the Reagan administration." There is no reason whatever to suppose that President Reagan regards him as an unacceptable heir. and there is every reason to think that the average Republican state or county chairman will regard Bush as the easy and indeed obvious solution to the problem of the succession.

That reckons, however, without Rep. Jack Kemp, who is and always has been a dedicated conservative, more or less of the New Right variety: i.e., alert to the need and possibility of appealing to social conservatives of blue-collar antecedents for whom Bush's famous "preppie" image is a serious disadvantage.

Among other Republican possibilities, Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole.

SCIENCE WORLD Bracing For The Big One

TOKYO (UPI) - For Kiyoo Mogi, the next great Japanese earthquake may begin not with a bang but a Mogi is one of six seismologists on a committee set up in 1978 to predict the moment when a blockbuster earthquake, expected to measure 8 on the Richter scale, will hit either Tokyo or the adjacent Tokai region.

If the data collected by the seismographs, strain meters and other devices suggests that a big quake is in the offing, Mogi's six-member Eathquake Assessment Committee will be summoned into immediate session.

"We can be called anytime of the day or night with this," said Mogi, patting the pocket beeper on his belt. Should they ever go off, the committee figures it can convene within an hour. If the majority decides a major quake is likely, the agency director will inform the prime minister, who in turn will warn defense and rescue units and the general public.

Seismologists don't agree on when this will happen, but most of them say it is only a matter of time. Most also say that the heavily industrial Tokai region, where geo-logical stress has been building for 128 years without relief, will be hit

Scientists hope they can prevent a repetition of the disaster that occurred in 1923 when a 7.9 Richter earthquake along the Kanto plain killed more than 140,000 people in Tokyo and Yokohama.

Officials estimate casualities could be reduced in a similar quake if people were given enough warning to turn off their gas mains and evacuate to designated sites.

More than 1,000 quakes jolt the Japanese archipelago every year because Japan is sitting atop the point where two vast undersea plates are crunching against each other and pushing under the Japanese mainland.

The friction created by this geological gridlock produces pressure that, according to the most prevalent theories, crupts in earthquakes. The Izu Peninsula in the Tokai region, 120 miles southwest of Tokyo, is a focus of this pressure. and the accumulation of crustal strain is steadily increasing.

Most seismologists believe that the Great Tokal Earthquake, when it comes, will be preceded by 'precursory phenomena" such as foreshocks, crustal deformation and ground level changes. If so, then the government will have time - any: where from several hours to several days - to prepare. What will happen if prediction

"I don't want to think about it," said Tsumura. "Tens of thousands of people would be killed if we fail."

Israel Secretly Aiding Ethiopia Massawa. The Soviets have been

WASHINGTON - It's no secret that Ethiopia's deadly (amine has been made worse, not better, by the actions of its Marxist leader, Col. Mengistu Haile Mariam. Instead of mounting an all-out effort to help the starving millions, he has devoted the government's energies to putting down rebellious tribesmen in the northern areas where the famine has been most severe.

What is a well-kept secret. though, is that Mengistu has been getting military aid from Israel almost since the day he seized power 10 years ago. What makes this surprising is that, according to a secret CIA report seen by my reporters Dale Van Atta and Scott Barrett, Israel was second only to the United States as a source of military and technical aid to Ethiopia during the reign of Emperor Haile Sclassie, the man Mengistu ousted in 1974. The United States didn't make the ideological leap, but Israel did.

Unlike Mengistu, who got his military training in the United States, several of his associates were trained at an Ethiopian military academy staffed by Israelis. Ever since he and his buddies seized power, they have been "in discreet contact with Israel." the CIA report states, adding: "The Israelis, for their part, welcome any opportunity to improve their position in Africa."

in addition to training, the Israelis offer Mengistu's army weapons it needs to fight the rebels in the northern provinces. They have sold him at least $20 million worth of Soviet-made munitions and spare parts captured two years ago from the Palestinians in Lebanon - and at bargain-basement prices.

The Soviets, of course, remain Mengistu's major military patron. This alliance began in 1977 when the Kremlin decided to ditch Somalia, Ethiopia's neighbor to the east, which had been harboring anti-Mengistu rebels.

"Up to 17,000 Cuban troops and over $1 billion in Soviet arms were rushed to Ethiopia by early 1978," a secret Joint Chiefs of Staff report states, "and the Soviets deployed a general staff to organize and direct the Cuban-Ethiopian war effort against Somalia. The Soviet Intervention in

Bradshaw Reiterates: Marino Is The Best...Ever

MIAMI (UPI) - Sure, I know, if you were among those who watched the Miami Dolphins breeze to the Super Bowl for the fifth time with aimost ridiculous ease, you're probably kicking around the same question as everyone else. Is this big curly-haired kid Dan Marino some kind of Superman or something? How good is he? True, he has played only two years of pro ball and you don't normally measure anyone's ability until he has been around at least four, five times that long. But where does Marino stand right now in relation to some of the other great quarterbacks who played

In the NFL?

"I'll tell you where he stands; he's the best," volunteered former Pittsburgh Steeler quarterback Terry Bradshaw without the slightest reservation. "And I'm not only talking about what he did today. I honestly thought Pittsburgh was going to win. But with Marino out there, they never had much of a chance. He's the best quarterback I ever saw."

Wait a minute now. Come again. Bounce that off the wall one more time, please.

"You heard me correctly," Bradshaw told a reporter. He was standing by himself toward the back of the Dolphins' steamy, sardine-packed dressing room after their one-sided 45-28 victory over his old team for the AFC title in the Orange Bowl Sunday.

"I've never meant anything more in my life," continued Bradshaw, who played for the Steelers 14 seasons and whose next stop will be the Professional Football Hall of Fame in Canton, Ohio. "Marino is better than Joe Montana, better than Joe Namath, better than anyone you can name."

Bradshaw holds six Super Bowl records and twice was named the Super Bowl MVP. Is Marino already better than Terry Bradshaw ever was? "He passed me a long time ago." laughed Bradshaw, who was at the

he was almost transcendental, passing for four of Miami's six touchdowns while connecting on 21-of-32 throws for a league-playoff record 421 yards.

None of the Steelers could figure how to stop the remarkable 23-year-old quarterback, but Bradshaw did. He nailed him on the 45-yard line, but it was too late. Bradshaw got him there after the game for an interview.

The Dolphins' victory Sunday was worth $18,000 a man and each is in line for $36,000 if Miami can beat the 49ers It. Super Bowl XIX at Palo Alto. Calif., on Jan. 20. Usually, the winners celebrate with champagne, but Miami coach Don Shula did it with a beer in the press lounge.

Shula will be going to the Super Bowl for the sixth time, having guided the Baltimore Colts there in 1969 before his four trips with the Dolphins. He was talking about the same thing everyone else was - Marino. They were asking him the same thing, too. Just how good is Marino, and the question made him smile.

'This wasn't anything really out of the ordinary for him, it was typical of what he has done for us all year." explained the coach, sipping his drink. "He didn't surprise me by what he did today because how many times can you keep being surprised? Nothing he does anymore really surprises me. He does everything within the framework of his ability. He's never awed or intimidated.'

Marino made it look so easy when he put the Dolphins in front midway in the first quarter with a 40-yard pass to wide receiver Mark Clayton. The Steelers more than held their own in that first quarter.

Rich Erenberg tied the score for them with his 7-yard burst through the middle and after the Dolphins went in front again on Uwe Von Schamann's 26-yard field goal, Pittsburgh led for the first and last time on Mark Malone's 65-yard scoring strike to John Stallworth.

That was it for the Steelers, though. Marino took over, throwing a 41-yard TD pass to Mark Duper and setting up Tony Nathan's 2-yard scoring run within a minute of one another to give the Dolphins a commanding 24-14 advantage at halftime.

"Marino was fantastic, absolutely fabulous," said Malone, who didn't do that badly himself for the Steelers. hitting 20-of-36 passes for 312 yards and three touchdowns. His undoing was that he was intercepted three times while only one of Marino's passes were picked off.

"Danny has impressed me all season long." Malone said. "I've never seen a guy who releases the ball as quickly as he does. The Dolphins won the game and deserved it. They were the better

At San Francisco, the 49ers lurned Chicago's strongest weapon to its own advantage by recording nine sacks in defeating the Bears 23-0.

The 49ers, who were a record 15-1 during the regular season. and the Dolphins, 14-2, will meet in Super Bowl XIX on Jan. 20 at Palo Alto, Calif.

Marino's fifth 400-yard day of the season broke the AFC championship game record of 401 passing yards set by Oakland's Daryle Lamonica in 1968 against the New York Jets. His four touchdowns also broke the record of three last achieved by Joe Namath of the Jets in that same 1968 game.

Marino is the best quarterback we've seen," said Pittsburgh Coach Chuck Noll. We had nothing to be ashamed of. They were just too good today. It was just too tough to overcome Marino and their passing game."

Marino completed 21-of-32 passes with touchdowns throws of 41 and 36 yards to Mark Duper, 40 to Mark Clayton and six yards to Nat Moore as Miami ran up the most points in an AFC championship game since the 51 scored by the San Diego Chargers in 1963.

'Noles Stomp Lake Highland For 1st Victory

By Chris Fister Herald Sports Editor

Sanford's Fighting Seminoles exploded for five second-half goals Friday en route to their first victory of the prep soccer season, 6-2, over Lake Highland Prep Saturday afternoon at Seminole High.

Seminole now stands at 1-5-1 for the season and returns to action Tuesday when its hosts Ovicdo's Lions at 5 p.m.

The Tribe got on the board first Saturday as Matt Albert drilled in a penalty kick midway through the first half. Lake Highland's Chris Miller then scored to tie it at 1-1 and it remained tied at haiftime. Seminole then broke loose for four unanswered goals in the rst 25 minutes of the second half to take a commanding 5-1 lead. "We came out and dominated the second half, Seminole coach Logan Fleck said. "The kids played their best game of the season. Lake Highland has a good team, but the guys really played hard and descried to win. Sidney Griggs broke the 1-1 tie as he scored seven minutes into the second half. Seminole made it 3-1 when Mark Hibbard, a defender, pushed ahead for a goal 16 minutes into the half.

Alex Piquer, a freshman. added a goal midway through the second half to make it 4-1 and Griggs' second score made it 5-1. Miller then scored for Lake Highland but Tim Roberts put the icing on the cake for the Tribe when he scored with 10 minutes left to play to make the final 6-2.

Seminole goalkeeper Robert Brumley came up with seven saves. "He played a great game in goal and made some nice saves," Fleck said of Brumley.

NELSON RETURNS WITH 3

Led by the offensive attack of Vicky "Spuffy" Pakovic, Sherri Rumler and Janet Hauck, Sanford's Lady Seminoles compiled a 6.2.2 record in the first half of the prep soccer season with its only two losses coming in the prestigious Burger King Classic Tournament.

While none of the ingriedients were missing for the Seminoles. the addition of Beth Nelson made the recipe for a winning team even better. Nelson, a talented three-sport athlete, was kept out of the Tribe's first 10 games because of a broken collarbone suffered three days before the start of the season. But she came back strong Saturday and pumped in three goals as Seminole rolled to a 6-2 victory over Lake Howell's Lady Silver Hawks at Seminole high.

"She made a big comeback," Seminole coach Suzy Reno said. "A hat trick in her first game is really something."

Nelson, who also excels at volleyball and softball, gave the Tribe a 1-0 lead in the first half as she scored on a breakaway. Nelson's presence became even more important when Hauck suffered an ankle injury in the first half.

'I'm glad she (Nelson) is back because we really need her now," Reno said. "Janet (Hauck) may be out for a week or more." Nelson's score was the only goal in what was a slow first half. Seminole took eight shots on goal in the half compared to just two for Lake Howell. The Lady Tribe got its offense

SCC's Swizzle Stick Stirs Up Win No. 11

By Sam Cook Herald Sports Editor

LEESBURG - There wasn't anything "Slim" about Greg Johnson's contributions Saturday night. Seminole Community College's 6-7 swizzle stick of a center turned in his best scoring and rebounding effort of the year as the Raiders won their 11th game in 17 outings.

"Slim," Johnson's richly deserved nickname, would better fit Lake Sumter's meager starting and ending five. A quintet was all the Lake County community college could muster for the game as it lost three players due to academic problems and one via injury.

"They even put an ad in the school newspaper advertising for anybody who'd played basketball and passed 12 hours," said SCC assistant coach Dean Smith. "But they couldn't get anybody else.

Taking advantage of the numbers game, SCC immediately went with its full-court pressure and raced to a 10-point lead in the first three minutes en route to a 78-70 victory over Lake Sumter at Lake Sumter Community College. Eight points was the closest LSCC could get in the second half.

The victory avenged an earlier one-point loss to Lake Sumter. which bordered on the miraculous. Tyrone Bedford, one of those academic casualties, wildly tipped in a loose ball from the free throw line to hand the Raiders their first loss of the season on Nov. 20. SCC then lost three of its next four games.

The Raiders now dive into their Mid-Florida Conference schedule. They travel to Jacksonville to play Florida Junior College Wednesday and then to Palatka for St. Johns

Basketball

River Saturday.

'Our transition game worked for us very well early," said Smith. "The defensive pressure broke the game open. We didn't play bad...but we didn't play good either."

Except for Slim. "Slim had a great game. He just killed them inside," offered head coach Bill Payne about his 26-year-old Navy veteran who dominated the inside with 19 points and 11 rebounds. He hit 9 of 14 field goals and 1 of 2 free throws.

Johnson scored eight first-half points and 6-4 guard Kenny Edwards blistered the outside for 12 more as SCC stormed to a 45-28 lead at Intermission. Greg 'Skywalker'' Bates added six.

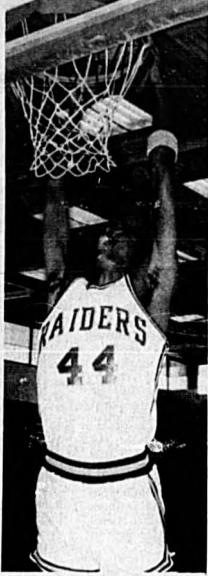

"The pressure made them turn it over," Payne said about the first 20 minutes. "We played everybody and there was never a whole lot of danger of losing."

The Raiders blew the advantage up to 51-28 in the opening minutes of the first half as 6-5 Brent Baird stole the ball and scored and Linny Grace did the same. Johnson then grabbed a missed shot and put it back in for the largest lead.

Baird, who played his second game at point guard, handed out eight assists and collected four steals. "Brent did another good job at point," said Payne.

Calvin "Kiki" Bryant, who returned to action Thursday after a year off, connected on his first two field goals to run his string to nine straight before missing his only shot in the second half.

Dietrich, Roberts, Bolin Ignite Lady Raiders

By Chris Flater Herald Sports Writer

Christmas presents were better late then never for Seminole Community College's Elizabeth Dietrich, Raysha Roberts and Karen Bolin Saturday night.

Dietrich and Roberts didn't see a whole lot of playing time in the early going of the season and Bolin didn't see any, but due to the absence of two starters Saturday, all three played important roles as SCC's Lady Raiders upended Miami-Dade South. 57-51, at the SCC Health Center.

Dietrich and Roberts, a pair of freshmen forwards, stepped into starting roles Saturday and both performed well. Dietrich, a Lake Howell High graduate, scored eight points and grabbed seven ribunds while Roberts, a DeLand High product, added four points and nine rebounds. The two were filling in for Juana Coletti and Vikki McMurrer. SCC coach Ileana Gallagher said Coletti is being held out for another week while McMurrer quit the team.

"Elizabeth (Dietrich) and Raysha (Roberts) both played well for their first time starting." Gallagher said. "Both contributed on offense and played good defense."

Bolin, a sophomore guard, missed the first part of the season with an injury and she came off the bench to contribute four points and some outstanding hustle in her first game for the Lady Raiders. "Karen (Bolin) did an excellent job for her first game of the season," Gallagher said.

SCC improved to 7-4 with the victory and also avenged one of its losses. Dade South beat the Lady Raiders by two at Miami before the Christmas break. SCC returns to action Tuesday night at Indian River. The Lady Raiders open Mid-Florida Conference action Thursday at 7 when they host Central Florida.

"We played a really consistent game." Gallagher said of Saturday's win. "It wasn't bad for just coming off the Christmas break. I got to play almost everybody and they girls played together well."

While Dietrich and Roberts turned in strong efforts in their first starting assignments, SCC's three other regulars played impressively. Sophomore guard Pam Lee connected for a game-high 19 points and handed out four assists and freshman point guard Tammy Johnson pumped in 14 points. Freshman center Kim Lemon, made just 3 of 17 floor shots, but she cleaned up on the boards with a game-high 17 rebounds.

Kareem's Jumper Dulls Spurs

United Press International

The exhilaration on Kareem Abdul-Jabbar's face Sunday night was enough to convince everyone at The Forum that this 37-year-old veteran still loves the game.

Abdul-Jabbar, who decided a month ago his passion for the NBA - and a new $2 million contract - was enough to put off retirement for another season, canned a 12-foot baseline jumper over Artis Gilmore as time expired to give the Los Angeles Lakers a 99-98 victory over the San Antonio Spurs.

"You don't get many charges after you've played 16 years, but you could see how animated and excited Kareem was after that shot," said Los Angeles Coach Pat Riley.

"It was not anything unusual. He practices hard on his baseline jumpers. So many teams try to take away his akyhook by double- and triple-teaming him. He has to work on other things."

In the only other NBA games. Utah downed Houston 121-92 and Portland defeated Indiana 118-101.

responsible for feeding, clothing and housing their children until they decide to leave home.

If parents are really that hard up. I can see asking their children to help out once in a while, but as for charging them room and board. like I say, Abby, I think that stinks.

FURIOUS IN DALLAS

DEAR FURIOUS: Read on: DEAR ABBY: Concerning chidren should pay for living at home: Regardless of whether the parents need the money or not. their children need to learn responsibility. Furthermore, parents who allow their children to live at home for free are teaching their children to be irresponsible.

I've seen grown children live at home for years, spending their carned money only on things to pamper themselves. Consequently they never learn how to deal with responsibility in the real world.

How can parents not see this? CONCERNED IN ARIZONA

DEAR CONCERNED: Many parents (consciously or unconsclously) provide their grown children with all the comforts of home indefinitely for free as a way to keep them from trying their wings and leaving the nest. So what they appear to be generosity is in reality a holding

DEAR ABBY: I am the secretary of a very successful bustness executive. For several years now, my boss has been giving me a Christmas present "for another year of faithful service." He takes me to lunch - Just the two of us.

My boss is a fine man and we get along well in the office, but whatever gave him the idea that lunching with him is some sort of "gift" is beyond me. Rather than a gift, it is actually a tense hour during which I must pretend to be totally engrossed in what he has to say (always about himself) and thank him yet for the privilege of being a onewoman audience for his boring monologue.

I make a good salary, and lunching out is no big deal for me. (I do it every day.) His company is nothing special either. I see him eight hours a day, five days a week.

I can think of no way to decline his invitation without causing hard feelings. Perhaps a word in your column would wise up my egomaniacal boss - and others like him.

NOT HUNGRY (SKIP THE CITY)

DEAR NOT HUNGRY: An egomaniacal boss would never see himself in this letter, but it may be worth a shot.

Anxiety? Let A Doctor Determine The Problem

know more about the drug Inderal. I am a 42-year-old woman and I have shaking hands, legs and hard, pounding heartbeats. I've had this for more than 10 years. I can't tell you how much I have suffered as a result of this condition.

It has gotten to the point I hate to go out of the house, even to hypothyroidism flow thyroid the supermarket.

DEAR READER - You need to find out what you have. Your story does sound like anxiety. Why not visit a psychiatrist or a mental health clinic and check it out? You will recognize your symptoms in The Health Letter on anxiety, but remember that anxiety is a great imitator and causes symptome similar to those of many diseases. Let a professional determine what the real problem is.

Inderal is not a tranquilizer or a sedative, but is a beta-blocker. There are many such medicines now. They neutralize the effects of adrenaline. Adrenaline literally causes a lot of the symptoms of anxiety. Since a fall in blood glucose may also cause a release of adrenaline, which produces 24 Ear (comb. the same symptoms, anxiety is often misdiagnosed as low blood

When you feel threatened. your body releases adrenaline. which is sometimes called the 35 Charitable orfight-or-flight hormone. It mobilizes your body for an emergency. That raises the blood pressure, speeds up the heart and stimulates the liver to release glucose into the bloodstream for energy. It also causes sweating and shakiness. All of these symptoms can be minimized by beta-blockers, but other medicines are also important.

Some people have a combination of anxiety and depression. This requires a different medical approach. Finally, remember that you need to find out what is causing these reactions. Resolving the cause often removes the need for continued medication.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Could you give me any advice about hypothyroldism? My symptoms include fatigue, inabilty to tolerate cold, dry skin, loss of hair, I've had many of these symptoms for years. My basal temperature is 96.2 to 97.2.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Seattle last fall, the first qualifying round provided a preview of the finals, when the USA again met Britain.

On the diagramed deal, Sally Horton of Great Britain arrived at four hearts. Since at the other table her East-West teammates had played four clubs doubled and incurred a penalty of 300 points, ahe had to bring in the contract for her team to gain on the deal.

After the opening lead of the diamond ace, West switched to a small club. Declarer won back to her ace, discovering the bad trump break. Undaunted, Sally Horton cashed the club king and led a spade to dummy's queen. When that held the trick, In the Women's Event of the shayed a third club and trumped it. Next she played a diamond to the king and trumped the third diamond. Hapless East had to follow to all these minor suit plays. South now cashed her heart queen and led a low spade.

If West ducks, East will win and be forced to lead into dummy's K-10 of hearts. If West wins the spade ace. East will have to trump anything West leads, and the same end play results. Either way, declarer gets 10 tricks.

The key to declarer's success lay in winning the minor suits with her small trumps before dummy's ace and played a heart playing a second spade. Otherwise East would have been able to ruff the third spade, exiting with either a club or a diamond.
