Darby honored

SANFORD — Dr. John F. Darby was given a certificate and plaque of appreciation last night by the Sanford City Commission. Darby was unable to attend the meeting due to medical reasons which are keeping him out of town.

City Attorney Bill Colbert read an official proclamation commemorating Darby for 28 years of continuous service on the city's Civil Service Board. Colbert reported that Darby had served as the board's Secretary from July, 1966 through 1981, and as chairman from July, 1981 through 1993.

In the proclamation, Colbert explained, "During that time Dr. Darby attended over 215 meetings and sat on 19 disciplinary hearings plus serving in many other capacities for the board."

Mayor Bettye Smith also presented a plaque for his 28 years of service. The honors were accepted by city Personnel Director Tim McCauley at Darby's request.

Death order with a happy face

HOUSTON — A lawyer for a death row inmate complained after a judge signed the man's execution order with a little "happy face" flourish.

"My client was shocked by it," said the civil rights lawyer William Kunstler said Monday. "I've never seen anything like that before. Doesn't it seem terribly inappropriate?"

District Judge Charles J. Hearn added the symbol to an order setting an Oct. 15 execution date for Robert Nelson Drew. The judge said it was "not intended to take away from the seriousness of anything."

"It's just become part of my signature," he said. "My driver's license is signed that way."

Drew was sentenced to die for stabbing to death a 17-year-old hitchhiker.

The happy face flourish caused a stir last year when Hearn used it on the bottom of a letter to other judges announcing a peer's death.

The 62-year-old retired from the bench in 1992. But judges are occasionally called out of retirement to hear cases. Before his retirement, the judge could sometimes be seen praying with defendants before they were led away to prison.

Discovery launch set for Aug. 4

CAPE CANAVERAL — NASA today set Aug. 4 as the third launch attempt for a satellite-delivery mission by space shuttle Discovery.

The flight is 2½ weeks late because of a failed electronics switch at the pad and, more recently, a faulty steering mechanism in one of the two solid rocket boosters.

Technicians planned to replace the bad steering mechanism today. The unit failed in the final seconds of the countdown Saturday, and Discovery's computers immediately halted the countdown. The first launch attempt was the Saturday before.

NASA spokesman Bruce Buckingham said workers could have had Discovery ready to go Aug. 3. But managers decided to give the launch team some time off this weekend; the team has worked the past two weekends.

A precise launch time has not yet been set, but liftoff would be around 9 a.m. The countdown is to begin Sunday.

Five astronauts are to release two satellites during the nine-day mission. A practice spacewalk also is planned.

Cities eye pay raises

By NICK PFEIFAUF
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — A majority of Lake Mary city employees may have a pay increase during this next fiscal year, a matter being considered during 1993-94 budget discussions.

According to City Manager John Litton, a three percent merit pay increase for eligible employees has already been included in the budget line items. He is also proposing a pay plan adjustment of an additional two percent, which, for some employees, could result in as high as a five percent pay increase.

Litton explained the proposed increases during a special called city commission workshop meeting last Thursday. "Understand," he said,

"not all employees will get the three percent merit increase. That will be determined on the basis of their evaluations. I don't know how many may get them, but it could be as high as 75 percent of the total staff."

Litton estimated possibly 95 percent of the employees may get some form of raise, the two percent adjustment, or higher, based on their merit evaluations. "But that many won't get the total five percent," he added.

In response to a question from Commissioner David Meador, Finance Director Randy Knight reported an overall raise of only one percent, for all city employees, would amount to a total of $25,042 required in the budget.

Sanford: merit increases; Longwood: cost-of-living

By NICK PFEIFAUF
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford may go with merit pay increases rather than COLA (cost-of-living adjustment) raises in the 1993/94 fiscal year budget. Longwood may opt for COLA, and reject merit increases.

Sanford Finance Director Carolyn Small said the budget plans call for the regular merit pay plan to continue. "We have three levels, based on employee evaluation," she explained. "The levels are zero, three percent, and six percent. Based on their evaluation, those are the increases people could get."

City Manager Bill Simmons discussed the pay proposals in his initial budget letter to the commissioners. One of the budget objectives listed was to "ensure equitable compensation for our employees considering cost of living and compar-

Heroine, 3, calls 9-1-1 when 88-year-old falls

By NICK PFEIFAUF
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The granddaughter of a Sanford woman is being considered a heroine today. Julanna Cohens is only three years of age.

Altmecase Lewis, of Castle Brewer Court in Sanford, related the event that took place at Julanna's home on W. Garrison, in DeLand, last Thursday. "My mother, Marie Ford, 88, was coming out of the house, when she apparently tripped and fell on the steps. I don't think she was knocked out, but she couldn't get up."

Lewis continued, "Little Julanna was with her, and when she saw her great-grandmother was in trouble, she ran down the street, to the third house, and placed a 9-1-1 call for help."

The little girl was reportedly unable to answer some of the questions asked by the 9-1-1 operator, but managed to give the location, and report that her great-grandmother couldn't get up and was lying on the ground.

Paramedics arrived within minutes, and were able to help the woman, who was reportedly not seriously injured. See Tot, Page 5A

Sanford airs how to best use land

By NICK PFEIFAUF
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Sanford City Commission began discussions how to best use property it purchased across from the Sanford Middle School. "The staff is looking for guidance," City Manager Bill Simmons said during the work session meeting.

The city purchased the land, approximately 10 acres, for $590,000 in January. The move was in response to complaints from citizens in the nearby neighborhoods over a proposal to build a strip mall on the site.

Rather than approve the rezoning for the strip mall, the city purchased the land from the Seminole County School Board.

When the matter was brought up during yesterday afternoon's workshop meeting, Simmons suggested the commission consider establishing the property in a PD, (Planned Development) zoning classification, in order to place a commercial designation on a portion of the property.

"This would enable the city to work with the neighbors to insure

Taxpayers can comment on school budget today

By VICKI DeBORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Seminole County school board will be taking comments from the public regarding the proposed budget before voting to accept or reject the proposal this evening.

At the start of their regularly scheduled meeting at 7 p.m., taxpayers will have the opportunity to discuss objections or laud the school board for the budget plan.

Homeowners in Seminole County will be paying a little less money on school taxes overall this year, though portions of the bill will be going up.

This year, according to the district staff, the amount of taxes due on a $100,000 home with a homestead exemption of $25,000 will be $753.23, an average of $2.10 less than the owners would have had to pay on that same home last year.

There will be a slight (.76 percent) increase in the local required effort of the $344 million budget.

The legislature requires that the district collect a certain amount of money in order to qualify for state grants and other operating funds. The rate is set annually by the state legislature. The current rate of

Flak brewing over 'ghost' voter precincts

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — The chairman of the Seminole County Democratic Executive Committee has contested the 1992 creation of 133 precincts, several containing no voters.

"I would like to see all of these precincts abolished," said James Purdy, DEC chairman.

Purdy has filed a complaint with the Florida Divisions of Elections office, but has been told their office has no authority to investigate such complaints. Purdy said he is contemplating next filing a complaint with State Attorney Norm Wolfinger.

When commissioners redrew county precincts in July 1992 to subdivide the growing population into manageable voting units, seven precincts were created with no residents to accommodate new congressional and state legislative boundaries, said elections supervisor Sandra Goard. Three of the precincts had 10 or less people in them.

Two of the formerly vacant precincts have since become occupied and now have voters, according to a June 30 registration roll.

Goard said state law allows commissioners to adjust precincts as populations increase and allows for precincts with less than 25 registered voters.

Purdy has contested the creation of the precincts, saying the no-voter or one-voter precincts deter his ability to solicit Democratic representatives, called "committeemen" and "committeewomen" to the DEC.

Purdy complained under a state law which allows political parties to See Precincts, Page 5A

Registration cards mailed to all independent voters

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — More than 6,400 new Seminole County voter registration cards will be mailed this week to residents listed with independent party affiliations.

"For anyone registered 'independent' prior to April 27 this year, there will be a presumption those people intended to have no party affiliation," said elections supervisor Sandra Goard.

Goard said with the state registration of the Independent Party this year, "independent" voters may not be "independent" voters. Unless they notify Goard otherwise, formerly independent voters will be listed as "without party affiliation." "WPA" on their voter cards. If any of the 6,442 "independent" voters wish to remain so, Goard said they may return their cards for a change.

Goard said she chose to send out the change cards rather than wait for preference responses from the voters to cut down on See Cards, Page 5A

Pilot confused, aborts landing, crashes

CLEARWATER — Investigators say the pilot carrying his family was confused on which runway to use, aborted his landing, then crashed.

The pilot, William Bechtold Sr., 31, had permission to land on Runway 9. But he mistakenly was heading for nearby Runway 4, aviation safety officials said Monday.

"Am I on Runway 9?" he asked an air traffic controller. The controller was talking to another pilot and did not respond. Bechtold then told the tower, "I'm going to take it around I'm on the wrong runway."

A controller said, "Say again?" Bechtold did not answer. His Beechcraft Sundowner crashed into a chain-link fence at the edge of the airport, killing Bechtold, his wife, Cindy, and 10-year-old son William Jr. His 6-year-old daughter, Crystal, remained in critical condition today at All Children's Hospital in St. Petersburg.

"There was nothing wrong with the airframe, the flight controls or the engine," said Corky Smith, an investigator for the National Transportation Safety Board. He also said weather was not a factor in the crash.

Now investigators will be focusing on the "human factors," looking for clues about why Bechtold — a career sailor with the U.S. Navy based in a North Charleston, S.C. — might have gotten confused.

Dennis Roper, a radio traffic reporter who was waiting on a taxiway near the end of Runway 4.

"He was extremely slow," Roper said. "About the time that I thought he would stall, he did. The nose pitched over and then he headed for the dirt. It was almost like a cartwheel."

The precise flight path and altitude before the crash won't be known until investigators can analyze radar records, Smith said. He also is awaiting autopsy results on the victims and additional records on the plane.

Officers surrender to feds

MIAMI — The remaining three of six Miami police officers indicted by a federal grand jury on obstruction of justice charges have surrendered to federal authorities.

They were released after posting $50,000 personal surety bonds set by a magistrate. Arraignment will be Aug. 4 for the three on charges in connection with investigation of the Leonardo Mercado case.

Surrendering Monday were Pablo Camacho, 45, Charlie Haynes Jr., 34, and Armando Aguilar, 37.

The other defendants are Nathaniel Veal Jr., 34, Andy Watson, 36, and Jesus Aguerro, 30. They surrendered Friday, were also released on $50,000 bonds and will be arraigned Wednesday.

Camacho, Haynes, Veal and Watson were acquitted by a trial jury in 1990 on civil rights violations in the death of Mercado, a drug dealer beaten to death in his home. Their acquittal sparked fiery disturbances in Miami's Wynwood neighborhood that caused $3 million in damages.

Customs agent sentenced

HOUSTON — A former U.S. Customs agent has been sentenced to five years in prison for taking what he thought was $28,000 in drug money past airport security.

Ricardo Laurel, 38, was sentenced Monday in Houston by U.S. District Judge Lynn N. Hughes.

Laurel, who had worked for the customs service about 12 years, was convicted in April of money laundering and bribery. He had been arrested in January after an indictment against him was unsealed.

Prosecutor Greg Serres said Laurel took a $2,000 bribe to use his badge to bypass security at Houston Intercontinental Airport on Sept. 16, 1992. At the time, Laurel was carrying $28,000 of what he thought was drug proceeds bound for Miami, the prosecutor said.

Once safely past security, Laurel gave the money to a man who took it to Miami, Serres said.

Home sales rise

ORLANDO — Sales of single-family homes in Florida rose 17 percent in June, compared with the same month in 1992, a real estate association said.

"Statewide increases don't normally stay this high continually. But we've seen sizeable increases all year, so we believe the bulk of the buyers are serious about getting in while mortgage rates are low," said Dale G. Jundt, state president of the Florida Association of Realtors.

The largest increase came in the Ocala area, where June figures were 72 percent over the same period last year. This follows increases of 39 percent in May and 50 percent in April, compared to the same months in 1992.

The Miami-Hialeah area recorded a 53 percent increase over June 1992. Last month, 1,125 homes were sold in that area, compared with 734 a year ago.

Other areas with large increases in June, compared with the year-ago period were Bradenton, 53 percent; Tallahassee, 38 percent; Sarasota, 33 percent; Gainesville, 32 percent; West Palm Beach-Boca Raton, 27 percent; and Daytona Beach, 25 percent.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Longwood proposes roll back

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — City commissioners voted Monday night to set the city millage rate at $5.06 for the next year despite objection from city administrator James McFellin that the move is "fiscally irresponsible."

The proposed rate to fund the 1993-94 budget was $5.12 which is also this year's rate.

McFellin tried to persuade the commissioners to keep the additional six-cents in the rate rather than cut the few pennies.

"I feel it would be fiscally irresponsible to consider the roll back rate," McFellin said.

Although the proposed tax rate remained the same, the city would have collected more revenue next year than this year on the $5.12 rate due to increased valuation in the city through construction of new residences and home improvements.

Mayor Paul Lovestrund argued, "by setting the same millage rate it would be considered as a tax increase unless you go back to the rollback rate of $5.0601."

McFellin said the six-cents would produce about $31,000 which might be used to help build up city reserves.

"I know $31,000 doesn't seem like much, but it is when you don't have it,"

McFellin said. "May I remind you of what the auditor said to us about a year ago, that we should be rebuilding our reserves. By taking away revenue, you are not being fiscally responsible."

McFellin argued the city should try to keep the revenue growth rate at least the same as the rate of inflation. If the revenue is not available, the city will not be able to maintain the level of services, he added.

I know $31,000 doesn't seem like much, but it is when you don't have it.

-City Administrator James McFellin

Commissioner Steve Miller commented additional budget cuts were also a way to maintain services without additional money.

Commissioner Harvey Smerilson suggested the commissioners cut their pay from $350 a month to $100 to help in the budgeting process. According to the city charter, such a cut would not take effect until after the November election.

Lovestrund chided Smerilson at making a suggestion which would look good to voters but would impact new commissioners.

Smerilson, who is running for re-election, informed the mayor he intended to remain in his commission seat and made the suggestion to allow the $5.06 rate while helping maintain reserves too. The motion died after Miller withdrew his second.

"I'll support your decision whether it is right or wrong," McFellin said before the commission voted 4-to-1 to adopt the rollback rate. Commissioner Rex Anderson was the only "no" vote.

McFellin said the city may face difficulties in the budget making process for 1994-95 after the action taken Monday night. McFellin is looking for another job and said he will not be city administrator when the July budget making process begins in 1994. Public hearing dates on the millage rate are Sept. 13 and 27.

In other business, a request by Lovestrund that the city reimburse Lynette Dennis $450 for her legal expenses was defeated by a 3-to-2 vote. Dennis was a member of the city Code Enforcement Board brought up on charges she violated a rule of the board. She hired an attorney to help clear her name. The case against her was dropped. She remains on the board. Lovestrund appointed Dennis to the board in February.

Commissioner Fred Pearl admonished Lovestrund as mayor for requesting payment of fees rather than Lynette or her attorney.

"I have a serious problem with you as a commissioner presenting it," Pearl said. "I think it is inappropriate that you brought it up, not necessarily inappropriate that Mrs. Dennis or her attorney bring it up."

Lovestrund said he was asked by Mrs. Dennis and her attorney to present the request for payment of the fees to the commission.

During the public participation portion of the meeting, the three announced candidates for commission seats criticized the handling of the city charter amendment. Ron Sargent, Iris Benson and Anna Marie Vacca running against Anderson, Smerilson and Pearl voiced concern over the ordinance which is being amended to clarify the provision for staffing the police department.

At the present time, it would take only a majority vote of the five commissioners to change the police department.

Lobster season moved to midweek

By Associated Press

KEY WEST — The mad dash and chaos associated with lobster hunting may be curtailed because the season has been moved to midweek instead of the weekend.

The state moved the popular two-day preview before the commercial season from the weekend to Wednesday and Thursday. The purpose for the shift was to reduce the chaotic surge of crawfish hustlers.

"When it was on the weekends, anybody and their relatives that could think about diving were out there in anything that floats. We saw people in canoes," said Jim Abernethy of Seascope Charters in Riviera Beach. "Now it's only the serious people who are willing to take a day off work."

A slew of law enforcement agencies, ranging from the Florida Marine Patrol to the U.S. Secret Service will step up patrols to enforce bag limits and boating safety.

Enforcement has been stepped up to catch crawfish rustlers and protect the coral reefs where the lobster live. Environmentalists and Keys residents have complained that crawfish-crazed hunters topple, roll and tear off coral heads in the pursuit of the delectable crustaceans.

When the state moved the season to Wednesday and Thursday, the state also put in place special rules to make lobster diving more appealing outside the Florida Keys.

A joint effort

Modern Woodmen of America, Camp 16491, in cooperation with Sanford Walmart recently sold raffle tickets to raise money for the Humane Society of Seminole County to rebuild kennels destroyed in the April fire. Dr. Joseph Vaughan III accepts a check for $3,224 from Richard King, district manager of Modern Woodman.

Aide resigns, leaving governor with one member of original staff

By Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Lawton Chiles' deputy chief of staff said he is resigning, leaving the governor with only one member of his original inner circle remaining.

Phil Wise, 42, resigned because he wanted more time to devote to his private life and also to consider returning to an investment banking career, his profession before joining the Chiles staff, administration officials said Monday. He plans to leave at the end of August.

"This change is of Phil's choosing and he certainly leaves here on good terms and is a colleague who we will miss," said Chiles' spokesman Ron Sachs.

With Wise's departure, General Counsel J. Hardin Peterson will be the only member of the governor's original inner circle who has stayed on board since Chiles took office 2 years ago.

Probation violated

Kevin Rodney Henderson, 27, 1507 W. 13th Ave., Sanford, was charged in connection with violating the terms of his probation on battery charges. He was held without bond at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility.

Warrant arrest

Kiri Derrick Kiner, 32, 1119 W. 11th St., Sanford was charged with failure to appear in court on charges of possession of cocaine. He was held on $6,000 bond at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility.

Suspended license

Lorenzo Brundige, 32, 2729 W. 23rd St., Sanford, was charged with failure to appear in court on charges of driving with a suspended driver's license. He was held without bond at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility.

Disorderly intoxication charged

Sanford police arrested Charlene Ashley Boynton, 36, of 411 Willow Avenue on Sunday. Police said she was at the home of a former husband, in the 1000 block of W. 12th Street, and refused to leave the residence when asked to do so. She was charged with disorderly intoxication, and resisting arrest without violence.

Restaurants burglarized

Two Sanford restaurants were reported burglarized within a few hours of each other early Sunday morning. At 4 a.m., a burglary was reported at Rib Ranch, 2545 S. French Avenue. Sanford police said three cans of ribs, valued at $150, were taken, along with $5 from a charity candy jar.

Just a short time later, at approximately 6:40 a.m., Captain D's Seafood Restaurant at 2514 S. French Ave. was reportedly burglarized. Police said an unknown number of items were taken.

Double help call

A Sanford man called the law twice Saturday, in the 1800 block of Lincoln Avenue. The first call, at 7:40 p.m., was a complaint regarding a man who reportedly tried to provoke a physical confrontation with him. The second call, at 10:10 p.m., reported another verbal argument. This time the man reportedly told deputies he tried to stop an intruder with a knife, after the intruder forced his way into the house, pushed a woman against the door, and tried to strike the man. Deputies are investigating the two incidents.

Traffic stops

Phillip Fitzgerald Guilbeau, 30, 319 Hidden Lake Drive, Sanford, was stopped by Lake Mary police Sunday. He was charged with driving with a canceled/suspended license.

● Bruce Edward St. Clair, 27, of Deltona, was stopped by Sanford police at 25th Street and Laurel Avenue, when officers said he was seen driving at a high rate of speed. He was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol.

● Ramon Rosado, Jr., 28, 2208 Stonebrook Drive, Sanford, was stopped on Lake Mary Blvd. at 5th Street by Lake Mary police Sunday. He was charged with driving with a suspended/revoked license, (habitual).

Warrant arrests made

● Thomas Wayne Fryer, 26, 1311 Santa Barbara Drive, was arrested Sunday by Sanford police in the 3500 block of Sanford Avenue. He was wanted on a warrant for failure to pay a fine.

● George Gerald Burnham, 31, 3510 Park Avenue, was arrested at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility Friday. He was wanted for failing to appear on a charge of battery.

Domestic violence

● Mary Cathleen Anderson, 41, 2726 Ridgewood Avenue, Sanford, was arrested by Sanford police Saturday following a dispute at her apartment with a man. She was charged with battery, domestic violence.

● Carlos Santiago, 38, 114 Laurel Drive, Sanford, was arrested in the 2600 block of S. Orlando Drive by Sanford police Sunday, where officers said he was involved in an altercation with a female. He was charged with domestic violence.

● Jeffery Swift, 27, 200 Bradshaw Drive, Sanford, was arrested at his residence by Sanford police Sunday. He was charged with domestic violence, and possession of marijuana.

● Terry Wayne Vernon, 136 Pocono Point, Sanford, was arrested by sheriff's deputies at his residence Saturday following a dispute with his wife. He was charged with battery, domestic violence.

Incidents reported to the sheriff

● A storage building behind a business in the 2500 block of W. 5th Street was reportedly burglarized Friday. Items taken included an electric drill, weed eater, and a case of motor oil, with a total value of $355.

● A light, valued at $100, was reportedly stolen Saturday, from outside the Florida Kiwanis facility at 5545 Benchmark Lane, Sanford. Deputies said an alarm, attached to the light, was sounded because of the theft, and nothing more was reported stolen.

● Following a reported dispute between two persons in the 2200 block of Greenway Street, Midway, on Saturday, a number of items were reportedly stolen from the house, including $230 in cash and jewelry valued at $600.

● A vehicle was reportedly burglarized early Monday, parked near a restaurant on Lake Mary Blvd. A wallet, compact discs and tapes with a total value of slightly over $1,000 was said to be missing.

● A TV and sewing machine valued at $165 were reportedly stolen Sunday from a residence in the 2000 block of W. Airport Blvd.

Incidents reported to Sanford police

A man taking guard dogs to his business in the 700 block of S. French Avenue, told police he spotted another man inside a fenced compound near the soft drink machine, holding a sledge hammer and pick axe. He said when the man saw him and the dogs, he fled from the area.

● A 1991 Toyota was reportedly stolen from a parking lot in the 100 block of Country Club Circle on Saturday. The vehicle was recovered on Orange Blossom Trail in Orlando, later in the day by Orange County Sheriff's deputies.

● A residential burglary was reported in the 2000 block of Lake Mary Blvd. on Saturday. Items reported missing included a VCR and a black and white cat.

● A bag containing bank deposit and withdrawal slips was reportedly stolen from a desk in a church in the 900 block of Cypress Avenue on Saturday.

● A number of items were reportedly stolen Saturday from a Jeep parked in the 2000 block of Chase Avenue.

● Money orders with a total value of $1,784.50 were reportedly stolen from a safe Saturday at the Department of Corrections facility, 330 E. Commercial Street in Sanford.

● An attempted burglary was reported Thursday night at Christo's Classics, in downtown Sanford. Police report someone apparently attempted to gain entry through the roof of the building, but were unable to do so.

● Two stereo speakers were reportedly stolen Friday from an occupied building in the 600 block of Briarcliff Street in Sanford.

Woman accosted, men arrested

By NICK PFEIFAU

SANFORD — Seminole County sheriff's deputies arrested two men for auto theft in Texas after a woman reported the men accosted her in an unrelated incident on an interstate ramp.

A Casselberry woman, with three small children in her car, reported she was driving on the west-bound ramp of Interstate 4, from S.R. 46, when two men jumped out in front of her and attempted to flag her down.

She said when she stopped, the men attempted to open both side doors of her car, but were unable to do so. She managed to leave the area, but phoned the sheriff's office about the incident, and told them she saw a white car parked along the edge of the ramp.

When deputies arrived at the scene, they located the car and according to the arrest report, found the two men in the vehicle, "either sleeping or passed out." They said they found several open cans of beer in the vehicle.

The woman was asked to return to the ramp, and deputies said she was able to give a positive identification of the men.

The vehicle in which they were found, was listed as having been stolen in Texas.

Jerry Sanchez, 34, and Jerry Wilner, 24, both of Orlando, were each charged with grand theft, auto. Additional charges may be filed pending a continuing investigation into the incident with the Casselberry woman.

Building dedicated

Former mayor and city official Ed Myers, who died earlier this year, was honored with the dedication of the Recreation Building named after him in Longwood recently. Commissioner Rex Anderson, left, watches as Myers wife, Nannette, cuts the ribbon on the building, assisted by John George. Dick Harkey looks on.

Teens charged in attempts to kill elderly woman

By The Associated Press

GAINESVILLE — For days, four teen-agers thought up ways they could kill an elderly woman they called "Grandma." But their various attempts failed and they now face charges of conspiracy to commit murder and attempted murder.

The 13-year-old granddaughter of Cora Lee Orton, 71, and three of the girl's friends are accused of trying to kill the woman they said "always did nice things for them."

Police said they tried to poison her by putting medication, head lice treatment and ammonia in her drinks. When that didn't work, they decided more drastic measures were needed and attempted to smother her with an ammonia-soaked rag.

Police said they showed no remorse when arrested. They were being held at the juvenile detention center.

"I don't think they understand the seriousness of it, and I don't think they felt any remorse for what they had done," said Gainesville police detective Lynne Benck.

Last week, the three girls ages 16, 15 and 13, and a 15-year-old boy began plotting "little ways and methods of killing the grandmother for the purpose of obtaining her car, her house and her money," Benck said.

On Sunday night, they made the first of several attempts but failed. Orton's phone wasn't working but she was able to leave the house and call police.

Orton, who sustained a gash on her face in a fight with one of the girls, was in stable condition Monday night at North Florida Regional Medical Center.

The 13-year-old and a 15-year-old girl live with Orton, a nurse, according to police and relatives. The 15-year-old, from a broken home, was placed in the home by court appointment. Benck said.

The 16-year-old girl from Palatka had stayed with the others for several nights. The boy is the boyfriend of one girl. Benck said.

There was no evidence that Orton had mistreated any of the youths.

"They all said they liked her, that she was nice to them and she always did things for them," Benck said.

Benck gave the following account:

The saga began to unravel Sunday night when the group crushed pills Orton takes for a heart condition and put it into a milk jug, rather than Orton's glass.

They thought it might be too diluted and filled a syringe with another medication and injected it into the milk. Orton uses the syringe for a medical condition.

However, they abandoned the poisoned milk scheme after dropping the syringe in the jug.

Then they decided to poison Orton's drinks. While she was in the bathroom, they poured ammonia in her glass of water and a poison used against head lice in her glass of Kool-Aid.

However, that plan also failed as Orton smelled something odd and dumped both of the glasses.

They were also unsuccessful, for various reasons, when they tried twice to smother her with an ammonia-soaked rag.

Keep an eye on the zoo

New wildlife conservation preserve plans have been announced for Orange and Osceola Counties. We see it as another move to steal the zoo from Sanford.

The plan is supposedly supported by the Central Florida Zoological society, at least in principal. Initially, it may sound like an excellent proposal.

The proposed sites include 2,000 acres located just East of the Orlando International Airport, and an adjacent 8,000 acres in Osceola County near the Econlockhatchee River.

Seminole County Commissioner Larry Furlong was concerned over the proposal. He suggested the announcement should serve as a "wake-up call for us."

We believe his concern is valid. Several times in the past 18 years since the zoo has been at its present location just west of Sanford, attempts have been made to lure the zoo out of the area, and move it to Orlando. It would become another major attraction for that city.

Had any of these attempts succeeded, Sanford would have lost possibly its largest visitor attraction. Additionally, Seminole County, which helps subsidize the zoo, would have wasted hundreds of thousands of dollars in financial support over the years.

Now, amid the pomp and circumstance of the zoo's annual "Black Tie on the Wild Side" fund raising event (held in Orlando), the new plan was announced.

Sanford's zoo would not be discarded. Plans were suggested to have it provide better educational facilities and new improvements.

It appears as though the aim is to turn the Sanford zoo into a school, and move those animals which attract visitors, to an Orlando location.

If this is the case, Sanford would get a few people interested in zoological education, while Orange and Osceola Counties would get tens of thousands of tourists.

If and when this proposal is explained more fully, and if Sanford would not end up losing the zoo to Orlando, it may be worth considering.

In the meantime, we urge everyone to keep a close watch on these plans as they develop and are revealed. Let's not allow the Sanford zoo, which we have supported for years with many tax dollars, become another Orlando attraction.

Answers to PMS

I read with interest the column "Age old symptoms of PMS," by Dr. Udita Jahagirdar, published in the Sanford Herald. The column was informative, discussing premenstrual syndrome, its symptoms and current treatments. PMS affects 9 out of 10 premenopausal women, as well as their families and friends...many of whom don't know where to begin looking for hope or help.

I would like to share with you a helpful resource about PMS for your readers. It's PMS Access and it offers a toll-free number (1-800-222-4PMS) for anyone...male or female...who has questions about PMS. Each month, the PMS Access line receives between 2,000-3,000 calls. Callers may receive complimentary information packets including simple graphs to help them track their symptoms, and suggestions on how to manage those symptoms. PMS Access also publishes a newsletter often containing special recipes designed to help women reduce their intake of certain ingredients that may worsen their symptoms.

PMS Access is the educational arm of Madison Pharmacy Associates, Inc., Madison, Wis., a pharmacy established in 1982 in the management, consultation and education of PMS on a national level. Registered pharmacists and co-founders Maria Ahlgrimm and Dave Myers are respected leaders and pioneers in the field of PMS in the United States, and have been quoted on national talk shows and in major newspapers and publications, including US News & World Report. Madison Pharmacy Associates also provides a nationwide referral list of physicians treating PMS as well as a directory of PMS support groups throughout the country.

I thought you should be aware of this information in case you wanted to publish the PMS Access toll-free number or write any future articles on this topic.

Regulating airlines not the answer

People Express, New York Air, Eastern, Braniff, Midway, Pan American, Trump, Texas Air. These are some of the tombstones that may be found in the great graveyard in the sky. All were casualties of the airlines war of the past decade.

The shakeout within the U.S. airline industry is far from over. All of the major carriers are losing money — a collective $10 billion in red ink in just the last three years. Two airlines — TWA and America West — remain aloft only under the protection of bankruptcy courts.

To many minds, the continuing turbulence within the airline industry is an indictment of 15 years of deregulation. President Clinton recently appointed an airlines commission to consider, among other options, whether the government should exercise a stronger hand over the affairs of the nation's carriers.

But the weight of evidence suggests that, notwithstanding the upheaval within the airline industry, the benefits of government deregulation have far outweighed the drawbacks.

At least that was the conclusion of the Transportation Research Board, which issued a report on airline deregulation in 1991 under the auspices of the respected National Research Council.

The TRB found that since Congress lifted federal controls on airline fares and routes, market competition has been significantly strengthened, services have expanded, fares have risen at a slower rate than industry costs and both fatal and non-fatal accident rates have declined.

Prior to 1978, only 17 percent of air travelers could choose among three or more carriers on a particular route. By 1991, 65 percent of passengers enjoyed such a choice. And while major carriers now serve fewer rural areas than they did before deregulation, service on such routes generally has been picked up by regional or commuter airlines.

Not only are more carriers flying more routes today, they also are flying them at cheaper prices in real terms than before deregulation. Indeed, an analysis by the Brookings Institution, a Washington-based think tank, estimated that fares have averaged 18 percent less than they otherwise would have without deregulation. Over the last 15 years, this has saved the air-traveling public more than $100 billion.

The long and short of it is that more people are flying today more safely and at a lower cost than before deregulation. That explains the tremendous boom in air traffic since 1978 — from 275 million passengers to 500 million today.

To be sure, air travelers would be better served by a more stable, profitable airline industry. But re-regulation is hardly the answer. In fact, government interference actually is prolonging the airline industry's painful shakeout.

A report issued earlier this year by the General Accounting Office suggested as much. It urged Congress to take a close look at the pricing practices of bankrupt airlines. Such carriers are taking advantage of the court's protection — renegotiating labor contracts, holding off creditors, even suing rivals.

In a recent published interview, American Airlines senior vice president and chief financial officer Michael J. Durnham cited federal bankruptcy rules as the primary reason that the airline industry remains unsettled and insolvent.

These are some of the tombstones that may be found in the great graveyard in the sky.

How safe is food for kids?

The National Academy of Sciences' recently released report on the effects of pesticides on children kicked up a quick media storm that just as quickly blew away.

It's useful to underscore some points made in the three-year study, the first major scientific effort to understand what the annual use of 800 million pounds of pesticides in this country may mean for our children.

To start with, the panel reassured the public that our food supply is safe. The object is to make it safer. Kids should keep eating plenty of fruits and vegetables. Those responsible for food safety, however, should act quickly on needed improvements.

Two findings deserve broader attention. One involves the seemingly simple matter of how much water the very young consume. The second is more obviously complex: the possible cumulative effects of multiple exposures to several pesticides that all work on the body in the same way. Both issues come down to the basic fact that infants and children are different than adults. They eat and drink more of fewer kinds of foods than grown-ups do. Their bodies are busier. Kids burn up food far faster than adults, and because they are growing, their tissue cells are multiplying much more quickly.

What does all this have to do with water? First, keep in mind the disturbing evidence of an increasing pattern of low-level pesticide contamination of our drinking water supplies. A 1990 Environmental Protection Agency study found 10 percent of all community water wells now have traces of more than one pesticide.

Then count up where kids' water intake comes from. The tap is only part of it. There are all the formulas mixed with water, the juices, the fruits and vegetables.

Finally, consider that the young take in far much more water per unit of body weight than do adults. And the younger the child, the higher the proportion of daily water intake. "The highest intakes are found for infants during the first six months of life," the study found.

Water, it turns out, "may represent a significant source of pesticide exposure" for children, according to the study. (It should be pointed out that no pesticides have ever been found in infant formulas and that some baby food companies require that their products be grown without the use of pesticides.)

The obvious message, of course, is to keep our water supplies — as well as our food — from being contaminated by pesticides. And as of today, the water is becoming more contaminated by these chemicals, not less.

Investigation has only begun on the effects of multiple pesticide exposures from the full variety of foods eaten by young and old alike.

The academy study, however, presents evidence that some children may already be exposed to a higher cumulative pesticide dose than current regulations consider acceptable.

This evidence involves five specific pesticides collectively called organophosphates. In sufficient doses, these compounds cause symptoms from headaches, to muscle spasms, to coma. The panel looked at the known residues of these compounds in eight foods and three juices. They then used "real world" information on how much of these foods 2-year-old children eat and drink.

When all this information was put together, it indicated 1.3 percent of 2-year-olds are being exposed to doses of organophosphates higher than the government-set tolerance, and that one in 10 of those children is getting 10 times more than the tolerance level.

The data are not perfect and the figures may sound small. But when considered in the context of the entire youth population, "1.3 percent of 40 million children is a very large number," says panel member Dr. Richard J. Jackson, of the California State Department of Health Services.

A lot of work has to get under way quickly on the entire question of multiple exposures, the panel concluded. In the short term, the panelists recommended that acceptable pesticide exposure levels be set 10 times lower than current standards.

Their primary — and long overdue — recommendation involves how pesticide exposure levels are set. The current system calls for a balance between agricultural benefits and health risks.

"It was clear that agricultural considerations had actually taken precedence over health considerations," says Dr. Phillip J. Landrigan, chair of the academy panel. "That is not good policy. We make a clear recommendation that the agencies hold uppermost in their minds the goal that considerations of protection of the public health must come first."

To start with, the panel reassured the public that our food supply is safe.

What today's youths need

I'm beginning to feel like Tipper Gore must have felt. Members of the "My-Baby-Does-the-Hanky-Panky" generation, we hit middle age doing exactly what we were young, criticizing the music kids listen to. Fossils 'R' Us.

(I guess I'll know I've really made it when rapper Ice-T sings that he wants to commit a four-letter sex act on my 12-year-old nieces, as he crooned he'd like to do to Tipper's on one of his albums.)

Fossil or not, it doesn't seem like much of a stretch to conclude there may be a link between music videos portraying teen-age boys pulling down girls' swimsuit tops and dousing them with beer, and a recent incident in one of New York City's public swimming pools: A group of boys surrounded a 14-year-old girl and ripped off her bathing suit top. It was also reported that witnesses said one of the boys sexually molested her.

As these types of incidents grow — a group of 9-to-13-year-old boys AND girls were accused of throwing a 12-year-old girl to the ground and fondling her in Yonkers, N.Y., several weeks ago; and seven New Jersey teen-agers have been charged with a series of sexual attacks on two 14-year-old girls — kids report that gangs of boys often chant rap lyrics that demean women.

Does that mean that I want to censor music? No. Another kinship I feel with poor Tipper: She was pilloried by rock musicians and record producers as the worst thing since Carrie Nation, when she never mentioned censoring so much as a doo-wop, a jack-the-booty or a boddieeeee. All she wanted was a labeling system for music similar to the one used with movies. That way she'd know if a record was music she wanted her children to listen to, or would they have to listen to some misogynist singing about having sex with their cousins.

What I want is for adults to realize just whose hands and influence these kids are in. With fathers gone in many cases and schools doing good just to keep the violence contained to the halls, who's minding their moral education — the sycophantic jackals in the recording industry who produce degrading albums? "Great, Ice, whatever you say! 50 half-naked girls pawing on you instead of 20? Hey, we'll just rent a bigger studio."

The strongest adult influences some of these kids have in their lives are people who just want their money. Welcome to manhood, guys. The admission is a sports jacket, a $175 pair of court shoes and a case full of CDs, telling you that real men demean women. And what do young women see? That to be "in" among their peers, young men have to show how much they disrespect young women — and to have a boyfriend, a girl just has to go along with it. I'm unsure just what girls make of this, or if they identify with some of the assertive female rap and rock stars, and if they do, just what kind of influence THAT is on male-female relationships.

Psychologists and social workers lament the lack of discussion between kids and adults of issues such as sexual identity and healthy relationships either at home, in schools or in other social settings. In some families, discussion is still an option. I don't think any of us has definitive answers for the others.

One thing we do know is that teen society is driven by peer approval. It takes one-on-one adult interaction with a kid to help him or her become strong enough to resist peer pressure.

I guess I'll know I've really made it when rapper Ice-T sings that he wants to commit a sex act on my 12 year old nieces.

Castro signals major policy shifts

By JOHN RICE
Associated Press Writer

HAVANA, Cuba — President Fidel Castro celebrated the 40th anniversary of Cuba's revolution by outlining a major economic opening aimed at luring dollars from abroad to save the socialist state from a crushing economic crisis.

"We are ready to do everything necessary to save the country, the revolution and the conquests of socialism," he said Monday in a nationally televised speech in Santiago de Cuba.

Castro said socialists "in the current circumstances today cannot propose the (further) construction of socialism. There is not the means and they can't look for miracles."

Streets in Havana emptied as the 100-minute speech began, and the sound of open-air televisions set up to broadcast the event echoed between the hotels of the tourist district.

By turns somber and jovial, Castro gave the country's 11 million people a description of Cuba's dire economic woes and a general outline of policies to solve them.

Those include legalizing possession of foreign currency and making it easier for Cuban-

Americans to visit Cuba, as well as even greater efforts to lure foreign capitalists and tourists to the communist island.

By some estimates, Cuban exiles already send hundreds of millions of dollars to family members on the island by clandestine means. Making the process easier could multiply the figure.

"That is a source of foreign currency," Castro noted.

He noted that Cuba recently made it easier to send food and medicine from abroad.

The collapse of the Soviet Union, a 30-year U.S. embargo and "truly infernal" weather in the first half of this year devastated Cuba's economy, Castro said.

Without much oil, fertilizer and spare parts from Russia, the sugar industry produced $450 million less than expected this year.

Castro said imports are estimated to fall to $1.7 billion this year from $2.2 billion last year and $8.1 billion in 1989, and suffers a shortage of foreign currency.

"It would end many problems if we could make it, if we had a machine to print dollars," Castro joked, "but that machine is in Washington and it seems they are very difficult to reproduce, and besides it is not legal to reproduce them."

He vehemently defended socialism, but hinted at a de-emphasis on the orthodox Marxism that was central to Cuba during three decades as an ally of the Soviet Union.

Playing on the title of Karl Marx central 19th century work, Das Kapital, he quipped, "I don't have the slightest doubt that Marx knew a lot, but that capital was different from that today. This is worse," he said, laughing.

He gave no indication, however, of modifying Cuba's one-party system.

Castro, wearing green military fatigues, spoke to several thousand Communist Party activists in Santiago de Cuba before a large backdrop of Jose Marti, Cuba's 19th century independence hero.

He said Cubans would be allowed to possess foreign currencies and spend them in well-stocked stores now reserved for tourists. Such shops are a gaudy contrast to the bare shelves of state stores offering a subsistence level of food and other goods.

The shortages have led to booming black markets both in dollars and pesos, which officially are pegged at one to the dollar but sell at 60-1 on the black market.

He said Cubans would continue to use the national currency, pesos, to buy goods and receive salaries, but said officials were working on a possible convertible currency, a path followed earlier by China.

He gave few details about other measures, but said officials planned to try to sop up excess pesos in the economy. He said there are 9 billion pesos in circulation, up from 3.5 billion in 1970, when officials also expressed concern about excessive savings.

Officials cancelled official parades and mass celebrations for a second year due to the economic hardships.

Cuba has been promoting foreign investment through joint ventures with the government for several years and has managed steady gains in tourism from Canada, Europe, Mexico and other countries.

The speech marked the 40th anniversary of Castro's attack on the Moncada military barracks in Santiago de Cuba, the event Cubans consider the start of the revolution that brought Castro to power in 1959.

NASA: More and more workers afraid to report mistakes

By MARCIA DUNN
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL — Most space shuttle mishaps are the result of human error, yet there is a growing sense among workers that they will be punished or even lose their jobs if they report mistakes, NASA said Monday.

"This erroneous perception seems to be the result of budget-induced work force reductions and 'sometimes exaggerated reporting of incidents by the media,'" NASA said in a 45-page study of shuttle processing.

"We reviewed all the discipline records and found no evidence that reporting mistakes leads to disciplinary action," said Richard Perry, chairman of the review team and director of NASA's space flight safety and mission assurance. "Rather, we find that intentional violation of procedures ... did receive appropriate disciplinary action."

"But the perception is there on the part of the people, and we've conveyed that to management," NASA Administrator Daniel Goldin requested the review April 20, 10 days after a lost pair of pliers was found stuck on a solid rocket booster that had just flown on Discovery. Perry cited the incident as an example of exaggerated reporting.

Perry's team interviewed about 600 shuttle workers at Kennedy Space Center and analyzed 612 mishaps reported by workers from October 1990 through April 1993.

NASA defines a mishap as any unplanned event or series of events resulting in or having the potential to result in death, disabling injury, lost work days, occupational illness or damage or loss of equipment or property.

The team found 78 mishaps were associated with flight hardware.

Sixty-six percent was due to human factors. Equipment failure accounted for 8 percent and procedures 5 percent. The rest was attributed to "other."

Nearly two-thirds of the mishaps resulted in a lost work day due to injury or illness. Seven resulted in at least $25,000 worth of damage, including one that cost more than $1 million — a loss of fuel cell power on Atlantis in 1991.

Launch director Bob Sieck said preparing a shuttle for flight requires about 1 million tasks — "lots of opportunities for mistakes."

"We've sent the message that there will be no reprisals given it's an honest mistake," Sieck said. "But everybody knows that goes on their report card, and people who make a lot of mistakes are not going to get as good a grade as people who don't make any, given that they do the same amount of work."

The shuttle processing work force at Kennedy is down about 10 percent from three years ago, when employment numbered 7,100, Sieck said. Most of those departures were voluntary.

The work force is expected to be reduced by few hundred more over the next year, again because of budget cuts, Sieck said.

Overall, the review team concluded safety continues to be the top priority in shuttle processing even though some workers feel their concerns about hazards are not being addressed.

Industry hopes to target tourists on cable television advertisements

By Associated Press

NAPLES — Tourism officials in Florida hope to boost a sagging market by advertising the state's virtues on cable television and in spot television ads.

"Most of our attractions are either flat or down," said Donna H. Ross, executive vice president of the Florida Attractions Association. "And I am particularly worried about repeat visitors. As an industry, we have to be better niche marketers and bring back that business."

On today's agenda, Barry Kenney, director of the division of tourism, will unveil the state's 1993-94 marketing plan.

The decline of domestic tourism, even if only from some U.S. cities, hits hard on a statewide level. Eighty-four percent of Florida's tourism is domestic, and 92 percent is repeat business.

But despite difficult times in the past year, the tourism industry recorded successes that were "nothing short of remarkable," state Secretary of Commerce Greg Farmer said Monday.

Among the setbacks: Hurricane Andrew, the storm of the century in March and the much publicized brutal slaying of a foreign tourist in Miami.

"In the last 12 months, we were hit with it all," said Farmer at the 26th Annual Governor's Conference on Tourism in Naples.

More than 600 people in the tourism and hospitality industry gathered over the weekend for the four-day conference, which ends today.

But the state still had 10 consecutive months of increases in visitors and spending.

Farmer said the reason for the gains was that "We worked together. We came together as an industry."

Crime continues to be a concern, Farmer said, "a force more destructive than scores of hurricanes."

Farmer said that even though Interpol statistics show that Florida tourists have a 10th of 1 percent chance of being exposed to a crime, "with every new incident the perception problem starts again."

A portion of the tax levy is required in order for the district to get about $109 million in state grants.

Of the $753.23 tax bill, $484.88 is the portion required by the state. The district is proposing to levy $38.25 as a discretionary amount. An additional $80.10 will go toward payment of the district's debt service. And the remaining $150 will be used for capital improvement projects.

"I would question any idea of a blanket raise," said Commissioner Gary Brender. "Still, many of our employees are going beyond what is required of them, and they deserve to be rewarded."

Mayor Lowry Rockett said he was also against blanket raises. He commented, "I favor the merit increase as it will be based on an evaluation of employees' performance on the job." He added, "Naturally, they will be closely examined in order to qualify for the merit hike."

Commissioner George Duryea observed, "Years ago, past city commissions came out against any cost-of-living raises, and devised the merit system for employees who go over and above what they are paid to do," he said. "We should always avoid giving merit raises freely."

Litton explained how merit raises in the past had been determined by employees an-their pay grade. I have not included funds for a proposed COLA within this budget."

Longwood City Manager Jim McFellin said he is proposing the Longwood City Commission consider an across-the-board COLA raise rather than merit pay raises. "I've asked for a three percent increase for all of our city workers," he said, "and I've allocated the money in the preliminary budget."

McFellin said whether or not the commission goes along with the COLA recommendation will remain to be determined during budget discussions and work sessions still to come before the final budget is adopted.

that enforceable conditions and stipulations can be attached to future development of the site," Simmons explained. City Commissioner A.A. "Mac" McClanahan was the first to comment. "I still think the front portion of the property (on French Avenue) should be commercial," he said. "But we could certainly have recreational facilities at the back, or something of a non-commercial nature such as a safety complex."

"I originally supported the city's purchase of the land because we would have had no control over it if it were sold to a developer," said Commissioner

Whitey Eckstein. "Had we not done so, I'm certain we would have been ashamed of it in years ahead."

"I'm all in favor of the PD concept," he said. It would give us control. But we need to do something to recoup the money we spent on purchasing it."

Commissioner Bob Thomas agreed. "If we can retrieve some of our money, we should consider going this way."

Jay Marder, director of planning and development explained, "We are looking at the depth of the land, especially the southwest corner, and we want some suggestions on possibly buffers around the nouncing what goals they would like to achieve on their jobs. "This just didn't work," he said. "Many times, no matter what an employee may plan to accomplish, something beyond the employee's control came up and prevented it from being completed, so it did not matter how much he or she tried, nothing could be accomplished."

Brender commented, "And back then, an employee out mowing a lawn, may have found it difficult to come up with a goal for the future which would have earned a merit increase. I'm glad we have the evaluation plan now."

The merit increase and pay plan adjustments are included in items carried forward during Thursday's meeting, designated for additional discussion prior to the budget approval.

The city will hold more work sessions for one-hour periods prior to regular City Commission meetings during the month of August.

costs and delays. The postage for the mailing will cost about $1,400, she said.

Goard said she currently has 25 different party listings on her record books, now 26 with the "WPA" listing. Beside Republican and Democrat listings, Goard's records include "Communist," "Conservative," "US Taxpayers" and even a "Nudist" or two. There is even an "Independence Party."

"I have to list them according to whatever they put down," she said.

request elections supervisors to allow committee persons to be elected from specially-created districts rather than precincts.

"The Republican Party did not request it; the Democratic Party did not request it," said Purdy. "I just want the Florida statutes to be complied with."

Purdy said the "ghost" precincts should be merged with others to create balanced voting areas.

Purdy said the ghost precincts may harm the DEC's eligibility to obtain two state party grants for equipment purchases. One of the conditions of the grants is that county DECs have both a committeeman and woman for 70 percent of the Democratic electorate in the county.

According to a May 7 roster of DEC committee persons on file with the Seminole County Supervisor of Elections, the party had representatives from 55 precincts, including 19 that had the two committee persons. Purdy said more committee persons have been added since then.

Lynda Russell, executive director of the Florida Democratic Party, said Purdy's argument is inapplicable, although she admitted surprise at learning several of the county's precincts have no voters. She said county commissioners have the authority to adjust precincts.

"The statute is a little misleading," said Russell. "The only thing supervisors have to do is provide ballots according to the districts the (DEC) requested."

commercial area and types of businesses which we might permit."

He continued, "Then we can suggest some type of master plan and layout for the area and bring it back for commission consideration, possibly by the second meeting from now."

The commission gave a consensus vote for Marder and Simmons to pursue suggested planning for the property, and bring it back for further discussion at the Aug. 23 meeting.

The discussion took place during the work session of the commission, and was not brought up during the regular meeting last night.

The "Mane" stay of Mane Creations: L to R Fran Neville, Larua Martin, Ellie Kruk and Sherry Brewer.

It's A Jungle Out Thair

The lion walks proudly with his head - and mane - held high. And why not? After all, he is the king of the jungle. What about his queen? How does she keep looking her best? The king wouldn't let just anyone touch that beautiful mane, but he does trust the friendly professionals at Mane Creations.

Why shouldn't the king trust Mane Creations? Since 1978, Fran Neville has concentrated on providing quality hair and skin care in a small, caring, family style atmosphere. Since human beings require a little more primping than the royal felines, Mane Creations offers a variety of services. If your hair isn't the long, flowing mane you would like it to be, then let Mane Creations tame your hair with a set, color, highlights, cut, or perm using the European Top Form Foam perming machine. If your skin care routine has you clawing for new ideas, it is time to experience Mane Creations facials, makeovers, eyelash tinting, eyebrow tinting, or the rehabilitation make-up which can be used to cover blemishes and scars. If gorgeous nails keep you purring, indulge yourself with Mane Creations acrylic nails, manicures, or pedicures. The array of services also includes eyebrow waxing, leg waxing, bikini waxing, and body waxing. As Fran Neville says "from the top of your head to the tips of your toes it is 'total indulgence, zero guilt'".

You can feel good about the services knowing that only the highest quality products such as Nexus, Redken, Gerda Spillman, and Linda Seidel's Natural Cover are used. Personal care and attention combined with top of the line products keep you feeling good as well as looking your best.

The knowledgeable and experienced staff can help you create your own personal style as well as giving you tips on how to look great on your own. Fran Neville, owner of Mane Creations, started the business in 1978. Fran has 29 years of experience in hair care. Ellie Kruk has 28 years of experience. Ellie trained in Germany and has been a hair specialist in this country for 12 years. Sherry Brewer has ten years of experience with hair and nails. Laura Martin, licensed esthetic rehabilitation specialist and skin care professional, recently joined the Mane Creations staff to teach specialized make up techniques for clients with scars, birthmarks, and other skin problems. She uses Linda Seidel's Natural Cover as the products are of the highest quality and can be customized to meet the needs of her clients. Laura is knowledgeable on all aspects of skin care and is a skilled make up artist who can create looks ranging from everyday to glamorous.

You deserve to give yourself the royal treatment. It is as easy as calling Mane Creations at 322-7691 and driving to the Bayhead Eye Center, 902 East Lake Mary Boulevard, Suite 201. Visit Mane Creations and find out what it is like to be a queen for a day.

"Orient"ation To A Great Vacation

Summer is the perfect time to take a vacation with all the sun 'n fun and surf 'n turf. But what about those who have to work 'n work through the summer? Osaka Japanese Steakhouse suggests that you take a mini vacation to Japan without ever leaving Lake Mary.

Your dream vacation begins when you step out of your kitchen and into the dining room of Osaka Japanese Steakhouse. To accompany you on your culinary journey, you will be granted two guides. One of these guides will act as your very own personal chef and will prepare a Japanese feast right before your very eyes. Your second guide will serve as a waitress donned in a traditional Japanese kimono. She will ensure that your trip runs smoothly and will be happy to assist you should you need anything.

Allow yourself to relax in the friendly atmosphere of the Japanese environment while you plan the rest of your trip. Your itinerary may begin with an appetizer. Choose from the Japanese egg roll, torikatsu (deep fried crispy chicken), shumai (steamed crab dumpling), or gyoza (pan-fried pork dumpling). Your next stop is dinner. Osaka Japanese Steakhouse offers a hibachi dinner, dinner combinations, and dinner specials. Your choices range from vegetables to chicken and steak to seafood. If you want something a little extra to fill in those unplanned minutes, Osaka offers a wide array of side orders to choose from. You couldn't very well end your stay before topping it off with dessert. Choose from ice cream, fresh fruit, ice cream cake.

If a daytime excursion was what you had in mind, Osaka offers a full lunch menu complete with appetizers, hibachi lunch, side orders and desserts.

Osaka knows how hard it is to travel with children. For this reason, Osaka offers children's specials in chicken, steak and seafood.

What could be easier? No packing, no reservations, no hassles. Best of all, you won't even need a plane ticket or a passport to get to Osaka

Steve Ngu (l) and Jeannie Voong (r) invite you to vacation from the ordinary with a meal at Osaka Japanese Steakhouse.

Love story's happy ending was one phone call away

DEAR ABBY: My daughter ran into her ex-fiance at the mall. They had been broken up for about a year but when they saw each other again, they realized they both still cared. Since neither one of them had met anyone special, my daughter gave him her new telephone number, as she had just moved into a new apartment.

For several days after that, every time her telephone rang, she hoped it would be him, but it wasn't. She told me she refused to call him because he had broken their engagement, and she thought if he really wanted to see her again, he would call her.

She was so depressed and downhearted that after a few weeks had passed, I finally talked her into calling him. He was very happy to hear from her because he had tried to call her, but the telephone number she had given him was wrong — the last two numbers were reversed — and he thought she had given him a wrong number on purpose.

To make a long story short, they are now happily married and are expecting a baby! Abby, please tell your readers that if someone gives them a new telephone number, not to give up — call a mutual friend and get the correct number. One telephone call changed my daughter's life.

HAPPY MOM IN SAGINAW, MICH.
DEAR MOM: Good advice. It's amazing how one telephone call can change a person's life. Readers, if one telephone call changed your life, please write and tell me about it.
DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are having a disagreement — OK, we're having a fight about something we need to settle, and you're elected.
 Last month, my husband's brother and his brother's fiancee came to spend a weekend with us. Brother's divorce will be final next month and his ladyfriend ("Dame Diana") already has a diamond ring on her finger. (This will make Wife No. 3 for

WORTH REMEMBERING: There are two times in a man's life when he should not speculate: when he can't afford it, and when he can.

DEAR ABBY: I am 8 years old. Next month, I am going to have a baby brother or sister. I am afraid my mom and dad will pay more attention to the baby than me. What should I do?
COURTNEY FRANCIS IN CHICAGO
DEAR COURTNEY: Congratulations, you are a normal 8-year-old. All children, after having been an only child, feel resentment when another baby comes along. Of course the new baby will get a lot of attention at first, but it will not mean that your parents will love you any less — you will always be their first-born.

WORTH REMEMBERING: "The reason that fiction is more interesting than any other form of literature to those of us who really like to study people is that, in fiction, the author can tell the whole truth without hurting anyone — or humiliating himself too much."

Back pain is most likely sciatica

DEAR DR. GOTT: In September 1991, I had an operation to remove colon polyps. After surgery, I began having pains in my left lower back and legs. How long might this discomfort continue?

DEAR READER: I do not believe that your back and leg pain resulted from the surgery. More likely, you have sciatica, irritation of the nerves to your legs where the nerves exit from the spinal cord.

This could be caused by age-related arthritis of the spine or by a slipped disc. Based on an examination and X-rays of your lower back, your family physician should be able to diagnose your problem.

Although nerve-pinching may require surgery (by a neurosurgeon), many cases of sciatica respond to pain medication, heat, special exercises and physical therapy. Ask your doctor about this.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My husband suffers from vascular disease. What can you tell me about his condition?

DEAR READER: The term "vascular disease" encompasses many entities and disorders, ranging from inflammation to arteriosclerosis. In most instances, age-related blockages in arteries cause symptoms when the tissues supplied by the diseased arteries are deprived of oxygen and nutrients.

Vascular symptoms include muscular cramps, cold sensations, weakness and skin ulcerations. Vascular blockage is worsened by smoking and obesity; it is accentuated by diabetes. The affliction is evident on the physical examination and is confirmed by arteriography, a special X-ray test of the arterial circulation.

Treatment is aimed at increasing blood flow. Therefore, patients are urged to quit smoking.

ing, increase their exercise and take pills (such as beta-blockers) to relieve arterial spasm. Although arteriosclerotic vascular disease is incurable, the symptoms it causes can be helped by medical treatment. If such treatment is ineffective,

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

English author Evelyn Waugh made one of the strangest remarks ever: "All this fuss about sleeping together. For physical pleasure I'd sooner go to my dentist any day."

Waugh, I believe, was a bridge player — as is his son Auberon. Would they have recognized the Dentist's Coup in today's deal?

South wasn't sure what to bid over two diamonds, which showed that North had some 17-19 points. He might have made a cue-bid of three clubs, but his actual decision to support diamonds had a dramatic effect on the play.

West cashed two top clubs. Then, expecting his partner to have at most one diamond, West switched to that suit. South won with the queen and continued with the ace and another heart. West won and tried to give his partner a diamond ruff — but to no avail.

"Sorry, partner," said East. "Since I don't have a singleton diamond, I think I should drop the club 10 at trick one. Then you will think I have a doubleton and will continue with two more rounds of clubs. Declarer will ruff high in dummy, play a diamond to his queen and lead a low heart toward dummy. But now you win with the king and lead a fourth club. Dummy ruffs but I discard my last diamond. Declarer is stranded in the dummy."

"That's possible," commented West. "But I think South can do better. After ruffing the third club high in dummy, he uses the Dentist's Coup. He cashes the diamond ace before playing a diamond to his queen. Then we can't strand him in the dummy."

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
July 28, 1993

Your probabilities for long term gains in the year ahead look better than they have for quite some time. Lady Luck will help open the doors, but you must close the sale.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your chances for success are enhanced today, provided you do something about your good ideas instead of just expressing them. You've got what it takes to win, but you must apply yourself. Leo, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4465, New York, N.Y. 10163. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Generally speaking, you tend to be rather lucky today, but the area in which you might be most fortunate relates to finances or material things. Keep your focus there.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Conditions are fortuitous today provided you're the person who calls the shots. Include favorites if you like, but only if they're totally in accord with your thinking.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Helping others could be like second nature to you today. Even though you'll do so for unselfish reasons, handsome rewards are probably, but not necessarily from those you aid.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You'll have room in your heart for everyone today and that's why you'll be warmly welcomed wherever you go. Good things might happen through special friends.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Look for assistance today from a key player who is in a power position to make good things happen for you. This individual likes you better than you think and is ready to go to bat for you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Mingling with different groups of friends and exchanging thoughts will be fun today. This could also produce some ideas which have profitable applications.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) A situation over which you may have less control than you realize looks like it is going to work out to your ultimate benefit today just as though you personally engineered every step.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your greatest asset today is your ability to truly understand what others are trying to tell you and, in turn, to make yourself clearly understood by them.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you get involved in a high stakes game today pertaining to your work or career, don't let the other players intimidate you. You could win the pot if you keep a cool head.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Dealings you have with others today on a one-to-one basis could work out remarkably well for both parties concerned. This is because Lady Luck may play a role in your endeavors.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Early developments will have their significance and can't be overlooked, but the events that will really count will be where you're the strongest near the finishing line.
