SR 436 Work To Pause For Holiday Season

By MICHEAL BEHA

Herald Staff Writer Listen closely. That sound you hear is Altamonte Springs merchants breathing a collective sigh of relief.

Construction on State Road 436, scheduled to begin late this summer, will be stopped during the Christmas shopping season, a state Department of Transportation official said today.

Charles Sylvester, deputy district DOT engineer, said, "We will definitely write something into the contract that will stop roadway work from the week before Thanksgiving until the week after Altamonte Springs officials, county officials and the county's state legislators have lobbied DOT to get alternative work schedules on the $3.7 million construction project so that traffic tie-ups can be reduced. City officials are concerned that the traffic will seriously affect businesses along the highway.

Sylvester and other DOT officials met with a delegation of Altamonte Springs officials Monday to discuss the alternatives.

While the city contingent was pushing for night construction, Sylvester said the problems associated with working at night would make the project - widening from four to six lanes between Boston Avenue and Douglas Road - a lot more expensive and create safety and noise problems.

"You can do a night operation if you're in an isolated area," Sylvester said. But the Altamonte Springs highway is lined with apartment complexes, restaurants, night clubs, motels and other businesses that generate night traffic.

"There's still a lot of traffic at night on SR 436," he said.

Sylvester said the traffic problem is compounded by the noise problem. The normal construction noises are magnified at night. Those noises would be troublesome to residents of the adjacent apartments, he said.

Artificial lighting, necessary for night work, "limits the work you can do." It also limits the safety of the workers since the lights often can blind motorists, Sylvester said.

Delivery of supplies is another problem. Getting celiveries of concrete at night means the concrete plants would have to be operated beyond their normal working hours," he said. "That would be expensive."

But regardless of what efforts are taken to alleviate traffic snarls during the two-year construction period, there will still be significant problems.

"If we worked at night it doesn't necessarily mean you're not going to have traffic delays," Sylvester said.

If a job is not finished during one night's work, lanes would have to be blocked off during peak traffic hours anyway and when the pavement is removed to install pipe, traffic will be stopped on at least one lane at a time. from the area by then.

Sylvester said DOT officials are busy developing alternative construction techniques. A report is expected in three weeks, he said, with the district's final plan being sent to Tallahassee by March Bids are scheduled to be let on the project in June and construction will probably begin in August or September, Sylvester said.

He said the construction "will probably be delayed until after Labor Day." Much of the tourist traffic will probably be gone

Tornadoes Hit In Orange; Seminole Escapes

By VICTOR ASSERSOHN Herald Staff Writer

While Seminole County was pelted with heavy rain this morning, the county escaped with relatively little damage from the storms which struck Central Florida.

A tornado struck an apartment complex in Orange County and high winds were reported in Volusia County. But the storms, the same ones which battered the California coast last week, did little damage in Seminole County.

Various Seminole County emergency agencies reported late Wednesday morning they had received no reports of major storm damage in Seminole.

One tornado ripped through Orange County, flattening several apartments in southeast Orlando and caused more than $1 million in damages, a city official reported. By noon today, Orange County authorities reported at least three tornadoes had touched down, ripping roofs off several houses, overturning mobile homes and battering a convenience store.

Orange County Fire Department spokesmen placed the cost of damage at several million dollars."

There were no early reports of major damage in Volusia County.

Police said county residents reported sighting about a dozen other tornadoes : Numerous injuries were reported but none was serious, an Orange County sheriff's department spokesman said. At least 12,000 central Florida residents were left without electricity when power lines were knocked down by high winds, said utility officials. Hundreds of others had no telephone service. The American Red Cross and the state Department of Emergency Services set up aid stations throughout the Orlando area and offered shelter to residents driven from their homes by the storm.

A Red Cross spokesman said he didn't know how many people were left homeless but that his office had received more than 100 calls by mid-morning.

The rain came, and came and came this morning throughout Seminole County as a storm with highvelocity winds passed through Central Florida. This flood scene was at 13th Street between Laurel and Park Avenue.

Commissioners Disagree On Title Insurance

All five Seminole County commissioners agree the county needs 15 acres adjacent to the Five Points complex for future development of county facilities.

But there doesn't seem to be a consensus as to what kind of title insurance the county needs to protect its $481,000 in-Commissioners have traditionally used abstracts, detailed histories of property that are expensive and difficult to decipher, to show any easements or encumbrances on county Recently, however, County Attorney Nikki Clayton convinced a majority of commissioners that a marketable policy deed, a guarantee that the deed given to the buyer of land is marketable as written, would be sufficient for their property at Five Points.

But when negotiations were concluded with Dynamic Development, Inc., the Illinois firm which owned the 15.85 acres, the company sent the county a general warranty deed, the most common deed in land transactions. The sellers told the county the marketable deed policy is available but the county would have to obtain it.

Ms. Clayton told commissioners the general warranty deed was sufficient but said an easement across the property for an abandoned restaurant along U.S. Highway 17-92 should be abandoned prior to closing the deal.

Commissioner Robert G. "Bud" Feather, a realtor, said it's the responsibility of the seller to provide an acceptable title for the property. He said general warranty deeds are no guarantee against easements that were approved but never used or other encumbrances.

But Commissioners Robert Sturm and Barbara Christensen said the deed provided would be sufficient.

Commissioners Sandra Glenn and Bill Kirchhoff sided with Feather and a motion to accept just a general warranty deed was defeated by a 3-2 vote.

Sturm chided his colleagues. "The county attorney's advice is sound. It's what we're paying her for, we should listen to her

Mrs. Christensen, also a realtor, disagreed with Feather's insistence on the marketable policy deed. She said the marketable deed is new and its impact is "a matter of Kirchhoff then stepped into the debate, telling commissioners the best guarantee is an abstract. Kirchhoff, who owns substantial property in the county, said he always gets an abstract when he buys land. "You always find something you didn't expect," he said. He said the county should pay for the abstract since it would simply be added to the purchase price if the seller paid for it. His motion received unanimous approval although Sturm and Feather were not entirely satisfied with the compromise. "I'm voting for it but I recommend the county attorney's opinion be followed," Sturm said.

For Drainage

County Short $58,000 On Land Funds

By MICHEAL BEHA Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County is about $58,000 short of funds needed to purchase land approved for acquisition this year for improved

Public Works Director Jack Schuder said the money is needed to acquire the 14 parcels designated for purchase this year as part of the county's water management plan. The parcels are in Midway, Rolling Hills, Winwood and Lockhart. They are currently under negotiation. Schuder told county commissioners Tuesday the purchases are necessary to implement adequate drainage systems in those areas. But time is also of the essence since the purchased by individuals and developed into homes or commercial establishments, Schuder said. He said rising prices and the possibility of development make allocating sufficient funds necessary if the county hopes to carry out its long-range drainage plans.

"We don't want to get to a point where we negotiate a good price and then not be able to follow through on it," Schuder

He reminded commissioners that the program was not funded fully when the fiscal 1982-83 budget was approved.
"We should do everything we can with the money allotted to buy those parcels as rapidly as we can," Schuder said. The reappraisal of property in 1980 raised the appraised value of the property involved by about $50,000, Schuder said. Schuder said the money is available from the county's revenue sharing funds. He argued against taking money from contingency funds but said the public works department has saved enough money from other purchases to fund the

But County Administrator T. Duncan Rose said there is an alternative. The county could purchase property until funds are exhausted and then more money could be allocated, if commissioners decide to continue the program.

Rose scheduled the funding request for a Feb. 22 work session. Commissioners also will discuss final costs for renovations to the old Seminole Memorial Hospital building and funding for a road improvement program.

The county developed extensive maps of drainage basins and the areas they serve in 1977. Since that time, county officials have planned a long range program of land acquisition to alleviate drainage problems.

The purchase of eight parcels in the Winwood Park area, a subdivision near Altamonte Springs, is being negotiated by county officials. The county has offered $32,800 for seven of the parcels. The remaining owner refuses to sell the property.

The county is negotiating for the purchase of four parcels in Rolling Hills subdivision near Longwood. About $32,000 has been offered for three of the parcels with the fourth owner refusing to sell. On one parcel a purchase price of $10,130.50 was agreed to but the owner of the land died before the purchase was finalized. In Midway, east of Sanford, $12,000 has been offered for one parcel but the owner refuses to sell. About $10,000 has been offered for a parcel in Lockhart, west of Sanford.

Truckers Still Out; More Violence Reported Groundhog Phil

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

It was impossible to determine today how many Sanford and Seminole County-based truckers are supporting the Independent Truckers Association strike, now in its third day.

Local truckers contacted today refused to talk, fearful of reprisals from other truckers or from

More violence was reported overnight in other areas of the country as truckers continue the strike to protest the 5-cent increase in federal fuel taxes, the quadrupling of highway use fees and the increases in taxes on tires and parts. The increases in the taxes and fees will go into effect April 1.

Wendell Moore, manager of the Sanford State Farmers Market, said today the market actually weighed five more out-going trucks than it did Tuesday a week ago.

"I don't know whether some are getting weighed is a slow-down and I suspect some are going to wait over the weekend to see how strong the strike is. "One broker said he was refused by one trucker to take a load to New York," Moore said, noting, however, that the "flower people are not bringing any more flowers in to the market for shipment." Moore also said he doubts the truckers themselves are involved in sabotaging fellow truckers' equipment. "I can't believe a trucker would slash the tires of a fellow trucker's truck," he said. Moore feels the saboteurs in other parts of the country are "agitators or dope fiends," people not related to truckers. "I hope we have a different clientele here," he said, adding he hopes he's right and doesn't wake up tomorrow to find local sabotage. The truckers in this area are having a hard, financial time, Moore said, noting that the revenue from freight is the same as received for many years, but diesel fuel costs twice as much and other

Nationally, snipings and vandalism forced more truck drivers off the road today, making them unwilling participants in the strike, but others armed themselves and depended on state police and Teamsters for security.

Truckers were advised to travel in caravans and many parked their rigs overnight, preferring to drive during safer daylight hours.

Non-striking truckers were the targets of bullets, bomb threats, rocks, bricks and nails. There were more than 270 incidents of violence reported in 28 states since the strike began early Monday.

Leon Felix Jr., president of the Florida Independent Truckers Association, urged about 175 truckers Tuesday at a Hillsborough County truck stop to stay off the road.

Gov. Bob Graham said he is ready to call out the National Guard if necessary to keep the roads open in the face of growing violence in Florida because of

Sees No Shadow Spring is just around the corner, if you believe Punxsutawney (Pa.) Phil, the groundhog who on Feb. 2 emerges from his winter hideaway to become the nation's premier weather soothsayer. Phil emerged at 7:29 a.m. today and, to the cheers and applause of a couple hundred people, did not see his shadow - meaning there are less than six weeks left in winter.

It was only about the fifth time in 30 years that the furry and fearless prognostigator predicted an early end to winter - and members of the Punxsutawney Groundhog Club say he's never wrong.

Phil's prediction this year was delivered in a downpour to the onlookers. Many of the spectators began arriving as early as 2:30 a.m. to get the word on winter.

For the past 96 years, according to legend, Phil has peaked from his snug burrow on Feb. 2, Groundhog Day, to tell top-hatted members whether winter's end is at hand.

Optimistic Reagan Says 'Recovery Has Begun'

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Having declared "the recovery has begun," President Reagan must wait and see if the public, and especially the financial community, is willing to jump on the economic bandwagon he hopes to lead.

Reagan went a step beyond the rhetoric of his more cautious economic advisers Tuesday in assessing the state of an economy that only days earlier he described as "heading into recovery."

During a day-long trip designed to highlight economic "good news" and counter the pessimism of his critics, Reagan told the St. Louis Post-Dispatch: "I think the recovery has begun. And I have to put it that

White House aides later said Reagan did not mean to state in flat terms that the current recession - the longest since World War II - is over, or that his views match those of the theoreticians.

"He's just saying you see signs of recovery in the economic indicators going up in eight of the last nine months, in housing being generally on the rise and in auto workers being hired back," said presidential spokesman Larry Speakes.

In truth, no one knows for sure when recovery begins. The final authority, according to accepted practice, is the National Bureau of Economic Research in Cambridge, Mass., whose historians chart the rise and fall of the economy and often cannot tell for as long as six months when recovery began.

NATIONAL REPORT: A major winter storm that hammered the Plains with 18-inch snowfalls, 50-mph winds and 8foot drifts slowly lumbered cross-country today, and tornadoes and severe thunderstorms pummeled the South. Seven deaths were blamed on the weeklong storms. Near-blizzard conditions brought traffic to a standstill Tuesday from New Mexico to lowa as snow whipped into blinding sheets across the flat land. Hundreds of schools were closed and thousands of cattle were stranded in pastures without feed. Tornadoes ripped through the Florida Panhandle and southern Alabama, overturning cars, ripping the roof off an elementary school for handicapped students and destroying small buildings. A tornado watch was posted today for parts of Georgia and Florida, and much of the South was under a flash flood watch. Hastings Miffed As Trial Winds Down

MIAMI (UPI) - The bribery conspiracy trial of U.S. District Judge Alcee Hastings moved toward its conclusion today with final arguments and the handing of the case to a jury of seven women and five men for deliberation.

Testimony in the trial, now in its fourth week, ended on an angry note Tuesday when Hastings, acting as his own lawyer, first won reopening of the defense's case then withdrew the witness he wanted to present.

Hastings reacted angrily - his first display of temper at the trial - when prosecutors threatened to cross examine the witness. Hastings' former attorney, on matters Hastings felt were protected by attorney-client privilege. The jury was out of the courtroom and did not witness the heated arguments.

Hastings, a 46-year-old Altamonte Springs native, is Florida's first black federal judge and the first sitting federal judge to be tried on criminal charges. He could face a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison if the jury convicts him on the bribery conspiracy and obstruction of justice charges

The jury of 10 whites and two blacks must weigh 11 days of testimony by 66 witnesses and nearly 90 pieces of supporting evidence, including court-ordered wiretaps and recorded conversations between an undercover FHI agent and Hastings' alleged co-conspirator.

Justice Department prosecutors presented what they called a "Jigsaw puzzle" of circumstantial evidence they said involved Hastings and his longtime friend, William A. Borders Jr., in a bribery plot. They said the two men conspired between Sept. 10 and Oct. 9, 1981, to solicit a $150,000 bribe from brothers Frank and Thomas Romano who had been convicted of racketeering in Hastings' court.

In exchange for the alleged bribe, prosecutors claimed, Hastings agreed to reduce the $1.2 million he first ordered the

Romanos forfeit to the government

Borders, a prominent black Washington, D.C., attorney, was convicted of bribery conspiracy by an Atlanta federal court last summer and is appealing a five-year prison sentence.

During two days on the witness stand in his own defense: Hastings denied every point the government presented as evidence of his complicity in a bribery scheme. The judge claims he was an unknowing victim of a "noted influence peddler" trading on his good name, even though Borders had been his political friend for more than 13 years.

Hastings said his contacts with Borders during the undercover FBI investigation revolved solely on his and Borders' efforts to aid Hastings' closest friend, Hemphill Pride of Columbia, S.C., regain his lawyer's license after being paroled

"It's as simple as that," Hastings said.

Judge Won't Reduce Murder Charge

By VICTOR ASSERSOHN Herald Staff Writer

A Seminole circuit judge has rejected a motion to reduce a second-degree murder charge against a 45-year-old Chuluota woman accused of stabbing her husband to death last fall.

Judge Robert McGregor Tuesday denied a motion by Assistant Public Defender Don West to reduce the charge against Cora Louise "Sami" Cannon from murder to manslaughter.

It was a 15-year denial. If convicted of the second-degree murder charge, Mrs. Cannon could face up to 30 years in state prison. A manslaughter conviction carries a maximum 15-year

Mrs. Cannon is accused of stabbing husband Lawrence Cannon at their Chuluota home on Sept. 25 following an argument. Cannon bled to death from the groin wound, according to Seminole County Medical Examiner Dr. G. V. Garay.

In making his motion, West said, "I think it is very clear that any charge, if there can be one, should be manslaughter. There has been insufficient evidence to support a second-degree murder charge.

"The facts and circumstances surrounding the blow are that there was an altercation. She was being attacked by the deceased and after pleading to be left alone he continued and she struck the blow in self-defense," West said.

But McGregor disagreed. "The picture before the jury at this stage is one preparing for battle and that is not in the realm of manslaughter. The argument could be that she well knew from prior combat (with her husband) what was to come and prepared for it," McGregor said.

In a taped interview with police played for jurors Tuesday, Mrs. Cannon said her husband "grabbed me by the throat and

Gasoline Prices Lowest In Three Years

United Press International

The gas war is on.

Across Florida, gasoline prices have dropped below $1 on the concrete battlefields. Figures compiled by the American self-service regular leaded gas are less than a dollar in at least six cities across the state. For customers, the price war is a dream. But for the warriors of the pump, the battle is a losing one.

"It's ridiculous. There's no need for a gas war," Frank Bruno, manager of an Orlando Amoco station, said Tuesday.

Bruno is caught up in the price battle. He's selling self-service regular leaded gas for 98.9 cents a gallon.

"It happens because one guy gets hungry and says, 'I'm going to show that s.o.b. over there.' Show him what? How to lose money?" Bruno estimates he loses about 3 cents a gallon with the 98-cent price because the fuel he purchases from Amoco hasn't been lowered at the pace that he's dropped prices. Gasoline costs less than $1-a-gallon at numerous service stations across the country, an informal UPI survey shows, and federal officials say its average price is the lowest in

The latest official figures show leaded regular gasoline sold for an average $1.18 per gallon in December. The price of unleaded gasoline, which is burned in newer model cars,

MARIANNA B. KIMBLE,

Federal officials say prices have dropped about a nickel a gallon on average since December and experts predict further lowering by spring. The UPI survey found gasoline selling for as little as 92 cents a gallon for leaded regular at a suburban Denver, Colo., service station.

Pump prices vary nationwide in part because of differing state taxes. Gas prices will go up coast-to-coast April 1, when the federal excise tax increases by 5-cents-agallon to 9 cents.

"Gasoline prices are the lowest since February 1980," a spokesman for the Energy Information Adminstration said in Washington Tuesday. At that time, "Leaded regular was selling for slightly below $1.16 and more self-service stations today than three years ago," the spokesman said. "And demand has gone down substantially. We're using a lot less gas today."

The decrease is coming at the refinery level. reflected by $1 per barrel drop in price com-

Part of the lower crude prices is fallout from a dispute among oil producing countries over production levels and pricing in the face of an international oil glut caused by the worldwide recession.

IN BRIEF

Lawmakers Move To Ban Housing Discrimination

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) - A Senate committee has approved a bill that would give Florida its own law barring housing discrimination based on sex, race, religion or national origin.

The measure by Sen. Carrie Meek, D-Miami, would replace federal laws against discrimination already in effect in the state.

The bill, passed 6-0 Tuesday by the Senate Economic, Community and Consumer Affairs Committee, originally included a provision prohibiting housing discrimination based on age, marital status and handicaps but this was dropped at the urging of the real estate industry.

Florida is one of the few states in the country without a state law prohibiting housing discrimination. Discrimination is prohibited in the state, but by the U.S. Civil Rights Act, and complaints have to be taken before federal officials in Atlanta.

Agriplex Going Elsewhere?

ORLANDO (UPI) - Agriplex, a giant $800 million agricultural trade mart scheduled to open in Orange County in 1987, could wind up in another location, developers said.

The Orange County Commission has decided not to waive a two-year moratorium on zoning changes at the Debra Project, site of Agriplex. The moratorium prohibits rezoning necessary for construction to begin in the area and left Agriplex officials angry.

Construction on Agriplex, planned for southwest of Orlando, was to begin later this year.

But the city of Orlando is in the process of annexing the 1,785-acre Debra Project - a proposed residential and business community - and county officials oppose the merger unless Debra developers agree to pay $40 million in off-site road improvements for the area.

So far, Debra officials have declined to offer funds for the off-site improvements. According to state law, if a city annexes property from a county, it cannot rezone it to a higher density for two years unless the county commission approves. Currently, land at the Debra site is zoned for agricultural zoning. Until the land is rezoned, the project cannot be built.

Study Predicts Driving Costs Will Drop In '83

operating a compact car in 1982 rose little more than a penny per mile — the smallest increase in six years - and drivers are likely to find costs dropping this year, a Hertz Corp.

A compact car cost its owner 44.67 cents per mile in 1982 - up 1.25 cents or about 3 percent over 1981, the Hertz study showed.

The increase is the smallest in any year since 1976 and was credited to financing rates and gasoline pump prices that fell in the last part of the year, the New York-based company said Sunday.

A Hertz spokesman said the "fantastic increases" in car costs of the past decade appear to be over.

1980. Since 1978, driving costs have zoomed 63 percent and they have risen a total of 174 percent since 1972, the last full year before the Arab oil boycott.

But in 1983, said Hertz spokesman Leigh Smith, "they may even go down" if interest rates and gasoline prices continue to drop -"and if Detroit holds the line on prices."

Hertz, the nation's largest rental car and leasing company, said a car such as a Ford Fairmont cost 44.67 cents per mile to drive in 1982 compared to 43.42 cents per mile last in

Hertz said a subcompact like the Ford Escort cost 34.18 cents per mile in 1982, up just more than .7 cents or 2.1 percent from 33.47

Vietnam Should Teach Truth's Value

Ten years ago, President Richard Nixon announced the truce that ended U.S. involvement in the Vietnam War. Nixon told the American

"The United States and the Democratic Republic of Vietnam express the hope that this agreement will ensure stable peace in Vietnam and contribute to the preservation of lasting peace in Indochina and Southeast Asia. ... The people of South Vietnam have been guaranteed the right to determine their own future, without outside in-

The hope was mistaken. The guarantee was useless. The fighting never stopped until the fall of Saigon two years later. There followed the genocide of Cambodians by communist leader Pol Pot, the Vietnamese invasion of Cambodia, the Chinese attack on Vietnam and the flight of millions of Southeast Asian boat people.

Today the victor, Vietnam, is a nation devastated by war and depressed economically, while pro-Western nations of Southeast Asia prosper.

How could Nixon have been so wrong? He wasn't alone.

The room to hope was big enough to hold many newspapers, including The New York Times:

"The world can only hope that a war-weary people (the Vietnamese), left to their own devices, will find a peaceful way out of the many problems that remain unresolved."

Editorial writers were not the only wishful thinkers. Hawkish Sen Barry Goldwater wrote:

"The cease-fire and peace agreement in Vietnam marks one of the most important victories the United States has ever scored over communist aggression. In a very fundamental sense, the agreement is a tribute to the concept of firmness, strength and realism in the conduct of American foreign policies and armed intervention.

In rebuttal, dovish Sen. Frank Church wrote: "We have fought the war with so many illusions, let us have no illusions about the peace. ... It is no more than a truce, and it may last no longer than the earlier truce of 1954, when the French withdrew. ... Having done all that one country can do for another, the future of South Vietnam must now be left to the Vietnamese. Whether they stand or fall is now up to them."

Church ended up being right, but what a painful realization it was. Had Americans known in 1964 what they knew in 1973, America might never have gotten embroiled in the Vietnam War. Had Americans known in 1973 what they know today, this country might never have signed the Paris

We do not bring back these memories to humiliate politicians or editorial writers. Any reconstruction of the events of 1973 must show the complicity of the American people in their leaders' vain hopes and empty guarantees.

As we look at the potential conflicts that face us today, in Central America and the Middle East, in Eastern Europe and Afghanistan, we must not forget how the capacity to deceive ourselves once led to our involvement in the Vietnam War, and how an equally great capacity for hiding painful realities led us to declare victory and pull out.

Hindsight is too facile to be a virtue. But if we learn anything from the Vietnam War, it should be to value the truth, however painful.

ROBERT WALTERS When Those Cotton Balls Get Rotten

By JANE CASSELBERRY

WASHINGTON (NEA) -- After enjoying 12 years of generous salaries and lavish expense accounts paid from a government-supervised fund, a New York businessman has retired with a $925,000 farewell present from the same fund.

The substantial retirement payment received by J. Dukes Wooters when he stepped down as president of Cotton Inc. late last year is the most recent development in the decade-long saga of the abuse of quasigovernment financing by that firm and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

A 1966 federal law authorized USDA to establish a 20-member Cotton Board devoted to cotten research, promotion and product development. To finance those efforts, the law also required all of the nation's cotton growers to pay a special assessment for each 480-pound bale of cotton produced.

The Cotton Board delegated virtually all of its responsibilities and funds to Cotton Inc., a nonprofit, New York-based corporation which received more than $28.8 million in direct federal payments during the mid-1970s. Throughout the past decade, various members of Congress have accused Cotton Inc. of squandering much of that money on office furnishings, travel junkets and Wooters' salary and expense account.

When Cotton Inc. moved into new offices in New York in the early 1970s, it spent almost $1.3 million — including $25,000 for a private elevator, $96,000 for cabinetry and woodwork and $125,000 for floor, wall and window coverings.

A three-year Cotton Inc. contract with Wooters in the mid-1970s called for him to receive a salary peaking at $121,275 annually and fringe benefits including:

- "A suitable furnished apartment" and "a suitable automobile," with the vehicle's operation and maintenance expenses fully paid by the company.

- Payment of all travel, entertainment and other business expenses," including travel expenses for his wife "whenever you decide to have her accompany you."

- Membership "dues, fees and other charges" at the Harvard Club of New York, the New Canaan, Conn., Country Club and any other clubs where "your membership would facilitate your work for the company."

- A $500,000 life insurance policy as well as a full package of health, disability and other insurance benefits.

When Congress learned of these arrangements in 1975, it ordered that the final $3 million in direct federal payments to Cotton Inc. be withheld unless Wooten's salary was cut almost in half to $62,520, the amount then paid to members of the president's cabinet. Wooters ostensibly made what Cotton Inc. called a "personal sacrifice" and accepted a drastic pay cut -- but at the same time he entered into a secret arrangement with the J.G. Boswell Co., a Los Angeles firm which is the nation's largest cotton producer, to receive $60,000 annually as a "consultant." That amount was virtually identical to Wooters' supposed pay cut. Moreover, Boswell reportedly received an average of about $60,000 annually from the federally supervised cotton promotlon and research

the president's speech writers were working on the mend." on the early drafts of the State of the Union Reagan made two major new proposals address, and there was a good deal of staff discussion about the direction in which the president would choose to go.

Earlier, last fall, at the end of a letter to me, the president commented: "I hope you won't accept some of the press and media interpretations of my record as based on fact. I'm unchanged philosophically and with regard to my determination to accomplish what we set out to do."

The direction set by last week's State of the Union address shows that the core of Reagan's position remains unchanged.

The only changes from earlier Reagan speeches are rhetorical: he did not give his conservative supporters the raw meat they are accustomed to, and he made numerous rhetorical gestures toward bi-partisanship. He praised the work of the bi-partisan commission on Social Security, he expressed hope that similar cooperation might be achieved on other matters, and he even had nice things to say about his arch political enemy, Tip O'Nelll.

But the substance was pretty firm Reaganism. He reached out to women, promising to work toward the elimination of discrimination on credit and other matters and he will do that — but he did not concede anything to feminists on EHA.

He also reached out to blacks, via a strengthened Civil Rights Commission, but he did not disavow the efforts of his administration to halt reverse discrimination via racial quotas.

Most importantly, he stuck by the third year of his tax cut, central to his economic program, betting that it would stimulate the

Correctly, he pointed to the signs in the economy of revival - interest rates and inflation down, home and auto sales up - and

Last time I was around the White House, he made the theme of his address "America is affecting the economy: a freeze in government spending, and a stand-by tax increase which would go into effect if the deficit is not reduced to 2.5 percent of the Gross National Product by 1985.

It is difficult to estimate the future of those proposals, but safe to say that they will not be enacted in the stark form in which the president proposed them.

The freeze on spending is a good idea, but would have to be adapted to particular circumstances, and an automatically triggered tax increase would represent a direct challenge to the annual taxing responsibilities of the Congress. Again, one can conceive of its passage only in highly modified form, perhaps in the form of a declaration of congressional intent.

In their pre-recorded response, Democratic spokesmen indicated the truth of what everyone has guessed, that they do not have a credible alternative program. They promised to trim "waste" in the Pentagon budget, of which there is certainly some, and vaguely promised a gradual modernization of the armed forces - without specifics. They embraced the nuclear freeze which Mr. Andropov has already rejected, at least by inference.

Reagan reads a major address more effectively than any president since Franklin Roosevelt, easily but dramatically, his timing close to perfect.

All in all, it was a strong political performance and a necessary reassertion of his presidential leadership. He will surely have to modify and compromise, but he has always been adept at retreating on step in order to take two steps forward, and his conservative critics should not make the mistake his liberal critics have always made, the mistake of underestimating him.

DON GRAFF Germans Hurting All Over

Does Europe have a new sick man? Like maybe West Germany?

Recent reports from that quarter could be giving you thoughts along that line.

What is essentially a caretaker government has been semi-running things in Bonn since last fall, when parliamentary double-dealing transferred power from exhausted Social Democrats to the only marginally more vigorous Christian Democrats. Caretaker because the German electorate has the final word in elections coming up on March 6.

That word could be disaster for a third party that has played a power role out of all proportion to its numbers throughout the postwar decades. By all indications - provincial elections, opinion polls — the Free Democrats are in grave danger of falling below the 5 percent of the popular vote that entitles them to representation in the Bundestag, and thus participation in governing coalitions.

The party that threatens to take their place isn't one, really. The Green Movement is a loose alliance of zealots for various causes who are hostile toward almost every aspect of the established political system. Not promising partners for the coalition-making that, given German voters' disinclination to bestow a clear majority on major parties of either left or right, has been essential to forming governments that can govern.

The question has been raised whether Germans once more may be falling an experiment with the democratic process.

It doesn't help that the economy is hurting. The one-time locomotive of the industrial democracies has run short of steam. Unemployment is high and rising. It is expected to hit 10 percent by election day, intolerable for a society that, since picking itself up out of the rubble of World War II, has regarded job security and mass prosperity as an 11th commandment.

Meanwhile, the caretaker government's weakening enthusiasm for new American missile installations to counter the Soviet threat already in place brought ally No. 1, French President Francois Mitterrand, scurrying to Bonn to deliver a forceful call for nuclear preparedness and Western unity, especially the European coupling with the United States. (Never mind that France itself will have none of American missiles and decoupled itself militarily years ago. What alls the French is another matter - and, if history is any indication, probably incurable.)

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko's high-profile West German tour further heightened fears that the Germans could be bullied and enticed - by hints of eventual reunification with the East - into deserting the alliance.

Virtually nothing short of a direct Soviet attack could be more disastrous for a Europe that, having grudgingly accepted the new Germany back into the fold, had come to depend upon it as the rock upon which its economic strength, political stability and military capability rest.

It's all possible. But is it likely?

Not very when you examine the German condition more closely. German democracy is sturdler than current dithering in Bonn may indicate.

Justice Probing Bribe To Senator

WASHINGTON — The Justice Department is conducting an extremely sensitive investigation of Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., the venerable, 80-year-old chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

The investigation centers on statements by a man who claims he saw Thurmond accept at least $20,000 in bribes for unknown services. The money was handed over by a middleman acting for renegade CIA agent and convicted arms amuggler Edwin P.

In a personal meeting with me, the senator vehemently denied the allegation. He acknowledged that he knew the purported middleman. But he said no bribe offer was ever so much as discussed. Wilson also denied through his lawyer that he ever bribed any member of Congress. He is now in federal custody. He was brought to trial and convicted on charges of conspiring to ship 20 tons of plastic explosives to Libya.

In fact, a source close to Wilson said that during the ex-CIA agent's plea bargaining, Justice Department officials brought up the allegation of a Thurmond bribe, and indicated things might go easier on Wilson if he agreed to testify in such a case. "If he had known anything, that was the time for him to say it," the source pointed out. But Wilson stuck to his

I first learned in September 1981, that Justice was looking into a related allegation that one man had offered Thurmond's services - for a price - to Frank Terpil, a Wilson associate who is still a fugitive. That investigation hinged on testimony of Kevin Mulcahy, a government witness who died last October.

Before he died, Mulcahy told my associate Dale Van Atta that he had been with the middleman and Terpil in 1976 when the possibility of a bribe to Thurmond was discussed. The purpose of the meetings, Mulcahy said, was to figure out a way to get Libyan dictator Muammar el-Qaddafi the eight C-130 transport planes Libya had purchased. But they were embargoed by the State Department because of the dictator's support of international terrorists.

Terpii had been offered a $1 million commission for each plane delivered. Mulcahy said the middleman suggested getting Thurmond's help, at which Terpil offered the man a commission of $250,000 per plane and an equal sum for the senator if he cooperated.

When we asked about these charges in September 1981, the middleman denied taking part in any such discussion. "Even if something like that occurred," he said, "I would no more go to somebody like Sen. Thurmond — I wouldn't go to anybody. Number one, I wouldn't know how to, and number two, I'd be out of business in a day."

The man did acknowledge that he had been approached by probably three or four different people on those C-130s."

In the semi-related case now under investigation, the new witness, in a sworn statement, says a middleman "would regularly come to (the Arlington, Va.) office at Delex International Inc. . . a Wilsonsponsored company."

He has told government officials that on at least two occasions this middleman took $10,000 cash in an envelope to a meeting with Thurmond, and that the envelope was turned over to the senator, "whom I know by sight." The witness added that he did not know what the payment was for.

This particular middleman told Van Atta he was a social, but not a business, acquaintance of Wilson. But a letter he wrote last Aug. 2 to the Judiciary Committee's chief investigator suggests a closer relationship to Wilson than he admitted. In the letter, which thurmond immediately turned over to the FBI, the middleman wrote of Wilson: "I consider him a friend that I have known for about 10 years."

He wrote that he had received a phone call from Wilson in Jail, and that the ex-CIA agent "said he would pay me $25,000 now and $25,000 later if I would talk to Senator Thurmond . . .

to see if the senator would discuss with Justice the possibility of having his bond lowered." The middleman said he agreed to pass along Wilson's message "as a gesture of friendship."

NEW YORK (UPI) - The big question facing those who took out mortgages a year or two ago at interest rates of 16 or 17 percent is whether to refinance now that rates have dropped. Refinancing almost always looks like an extremely tantalizing proposition at first glance and certainly can provide long-term savings to a homeowner stuck with a high-rate mortgage. For such a homeowner, comparing monthly payments based solely on the change in rates would lead him to find he could save a substantial amount - perhaps $145 a month for the next 29 years by trading in a very high-rate $60,000 mortgage.

But refinancing is not something lenders do for free. Upfront fees can run several thousand dollars and take years to recoup. Whether to refinance or not requires serious consideration. Assume you took out a 30-year fixed-rate mortgage of $60,000 one year ago at a rate of 16.5 percent. Now you find that lenders in your area are offering fixedrate mortgages at 13.5 percent.

The difference in rates would cut your monthly principal and interest payments to $686 from $831. That is a savings of $145 a

But that is not the bottom line.

To get that refinanced loan, the lender will be charging you some one-time fees.

According to economists at the U.S. League of Savings Institutions, an industry trade association, lenders typically will charge 2.5 points, or 2.5 percent of the loan amount, as a fee for originating the refinanced loan. That would amount to $1,498 in the $60,000 loan example.

Expect to pay another $500 or so to cover other fees such as title and loan application.

Refinancing also can involve a prepayment penalty for paying off your current mortgage early.

In states where the prepayment penalty is allowed, some mortgages will contain the penalty provision, while others won't. Among those that do, the savings league says, the penalty often is equal to 80 percent of the interest due in the next six mortgage payments.

In the case of the $60,000 loan, the penalty amounts to $3,954. Thus the refinancing fees and penalties total $5,952. According to the league's calculations, those costs will take 40 months to recoup before you start saving a penny from refinancing at a lower interest rate.

But there's still one more angle to consider. If you About refinance and instead invested $5.952 in an account earning 10 percent interest compounded, you would have $2,343 in interest earned after 40 months.

On the other hand, if you decided to refinance and took the $145 in savings on your monthly payments and put that into the bank each month, you would earn a total of $1,048 interest in 40

The difference shows that you would be about $1,300 in the hole by refinancing at the 40-month mark.

The calculations do not take into account such other factors as tax consequences. If interest payments are reduced by refinancing, your interest tax deductions also become smaller - although points and prepayment penalties are also generally allowable deductions in the year they are paid.

What the calculations do show is that if a homeowner in this case moved within three or four years, refinancing would have cost him money instead of saving him money.

However, if there wasn't a prepayment penalty involved, refinancing costs could be recouped in about 14 months and the homeowner would come out ahead.

Thus the key questions to consider are how much exactly is refinancing going to cost, how long will it take before those costs are recovered, and will you likely still be in the home after that time to reap some savings.

The personal immunization cards have been adopted by every state to encourage uniformity of records and to facilitate the assessment of immunization status by schools

Fingerprinting For Students Not Considered In Seminole

A plan to fingerprint parents. If police have wouldn't want this to be my thousands of school children in Brevard County has received passing grades from local authorities.

County School Superintendent Lloyd Soughers offered the proposal, which remains in its infant stages. He said the records would be useful in identifying kidnap and murder victims as well as runaways.

In Seminole County, there has been no discussion of fingerprinting students, administrator A.J. Bracken said. But Bracken added that the idea could have some merit for parents of small children.

A Brevard sheriff's department spokesman said he approves of the plan because identifying a body by fingerprints is less traumatic for family members than having to identify the body.

The president of the Florida division of the American Civil Liberties Union said he supports the proposal if the fingerprints are left only with general access to fingerprints, it would be a violation of constitutional rights, said Jim Hooper, state ACLU

Death Cheated Him Out Of His U.S. Citizenship

BROCKTON, Mass. (NEA) - This is the story, not yet ended, of a man who died for a country that has not claimed him. The man is Wladyslaw Staniszewski.

The country is the United States. The story began in Scotland, in 1963, when Staniszewski, pronounced Stan-I-chef-ski, was 15 years old. His father was a Polish national, his mother was a Scot, and they decided they would move to the United States so the family could enjoy the benefits of the American experience.

Part of that experience was patriotism. The family settled in Brockton, a working-class community south of Boston, where a richly diverse population was not ashamed to wave the flag, honor the history, and pass about the praises of the oldest democracy on earth.

The family fit in nicely. The parents had lived through the European details of World War II (Mr. Staniszewski had been a Russian prisoner during the period), and, like many im--valgrants, they when the value of freedom, as well as the gossamer frailties of its guarantees.

So they set about from the start to become citizens. They were told it would take seven years residency. They did not mind waiting. Mr. Staniszewski worked at a modest job for hourly wages, Mrs. Staniszewski took care of a small home, and the son, Wladyslaw, attended public school.

Four years later the wait for citizenship was interrupted by a the time stipulated that anyone residing in the nation on a permanent basis was subject to conscription. It should be noted that the young man could easily have ignored the law. Like others of the day, he could have bypassed the American military by moving to Canada. He was still a The corporal's parents feel the letter from the U.S. Selective Service System. The war in Vietnam was picking up momentum, more and more young men were needed in the armed forces, and Wladyslaw

Staniszewski was ordered to report for military induction.

The draft notice was a surprise. The son had not yet lived in the country for seven years, and he didn't know he was eligible for the service. He was. Citizenship didn't matter; the law at Scot, and he held a British passport, thus it might have been perfectly reasonable for him to go north.

Yet he was too patrictic for that. He did not think of the draft notice as a threat, rather as an opportunity. When he got it, he promptly went down to the Brockton recruiting station and volunteered for the Marines. Once in, he worked for and received the rank of lance corporal.

The parents say he could not have been happier. Nor more proud. The first time he came home on leave, dressed in a carefully tailored uniform, he said, "Hey, I'm a U.S. Marine, get me my dinner." He was not officially a citizen, but at least he was a soldier in the service of the nation.

Then he was sent to Vietnam. He was assigned to an infantry company that, in turn, was assigned to the thick of the battle. The parents say Cpl. Staniszewski didn't complain. He wrote in his letters that he was, in effect, doing his part, and he really did not want it any other way.

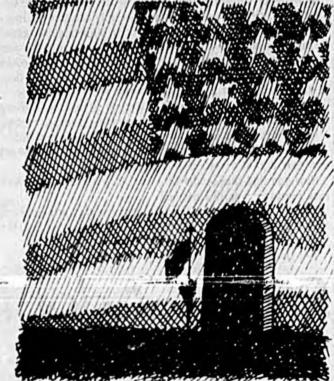

Actually, the young man did more than his part. Three months after he arrived in Vietnam, Staniszewski's unit fell under fire during an encounter with Viet Cong guerrillas. During the skirmish, the corporal was struck in the back by fragments from a hand grenade. The wounds were fatal.

He died two weeks after his 20th birthday.

He was mile and citizen. Today, 15 years later, the dead soldier's parents have begun a small campaign to rectify that last point. They say Cpl. Staniszewski would have become an American citizen, if he had been allowed to live, so they have asked the U.S. government to grant the status posthumously.

They have enlisted the help of service organizations. They have written to state and national officials. Last year Rep. Brian Donnelly, D-Mass., introduced a bill in Congress that would waive the residency rule in this instance; 70 members of the House cosponsored the measure.

Yet that bill has not progressed. Congressional leaders say it has too many implications. They explain that if the residency rule is waived in the case of Cpl. Staniszewski, then it might very well have to be waived every time a non-citizen is killed while serving in the U.S. military.

The corporal's parents do not think that would be a bad thing. They feel the nation owes a debt to such dead. They say that anyone who gives up his life for America should be considered an American, and, in the unfinished case of Cpl. Staniszewski, a lot of Americans may agree.

Climbing Mountain Helps Future Execs

OTTO, N.C. (UPI) - Can climbing a rockface in the Appalachians help a corporate executive cope with job stress? Will a 14 hour wilderness hike help graduate students through a demanding school program?

Instructors at the Babcock School of Management at Wake Forest University and the North Carolina Outward Bound School believe future MBA's can learn some valuable lessons from a physically demanding, nine-day outdoors program designed specifically for business people.

"My feeling is that there are a lot of analogies between experiences in the program and experiences in business," said Robert Shively, dean of the Babcock School of Management. "The program stresses teamwork, which I think is absolutely essential in management."

Zeke Zelliff, director of the Outward Bound program, agreed.

"The classic example is the 14-foot wall," said Zelliff. The first problem Outward Bound students face is how to get their entire group over the obstacle. Students are forced to identify the individual abilities of each group member and determine what they can best contribute to the whole class.

"A lot of times its a problem of identifying your resources and using them. In a business situation, you look to your resources and determine how to use them to solve whatever problem you have," Zelliff said.

"We constantly use the metaphor, 'How does this particular situation apply to your work situation?"

The possibility of enriching Wake Forest's business administration program with a week in the woods first occurred to second-year student Jean Fitzsimmons, 36, about a year ago. "The instigator on it was the fact that my wife went through the Outward Bound program in Maine a few years ago, and I was very pleased with the things she came back with," said Fitzsimmons, who also participated.

"Having been out in business and in the Marine Corps as well, it just struck me that it offered some real advantages to business students as prospective managers."

Fitzsimmons finally convinced Shively and other school administrators to support the experiment. Shively said it was so successful the school plans to offer the program to students twice this year.

Fitzsimmons, a Vietnam vet, likened the program to "boot camp, with a little support built in."

"A business school can teach accounting, and they can teach you finance and operations," he said. "But the development of the people skills, that is just awfully difficult to teach in class. "In the Outward Bound experience, you go live with people in very close proximity, under stress, and you get a little bit hungry and awful tired and its like a living classroom, because all the plastic is washed off." Zelliff described the program as a series of increasingly difficult mental and physical challenges that leave the participants with a sense they can "do a lot more than they previously thought possible." The students who participated in the experimental program in August were rousted from their sleeping bags on the floor of the Nantahala National Forest at 5 a.m. each day for a run through the woods. They endured seven days of almost ceaseless rain, learned to read maps, rappel from cliffs, climb mountains, and whitewater raft. Three seminars were conducted in the woods by outside consultants, with lectures on business leadership, group communications, and stress management. They hiked for 14 hours one day and scaled a 30-foot rockface.

Robin Hamerick, a 27-year-old Babcock student who suffers from epilepsy, said she feels like she is "spreading the gospel" when she talks about her experience in the program. "I feel like a superperson now."

"Before the program, I looked at myself as incapable of doing anything physically. I think one of the most important things I got out of Outward Bound is that it taught me I could do anything I want to do, if I set my mind to it.

Japanese-Soviet Ties Cool

By JOHN NEEDHAM

TOKYO (UPI) - The Soviet Union's threats to rain nuclear devastation on Japan have further chilled a cold relationship between two nations that have not yet signed a peace treaty to end World War II.

The first ularm signals went off in early January, when Soviet leaders told West German politicians they were targeting SS-20 nuclear missiles on Japan.

Then Japan's new hawkish prime minister, Yasuhiro Nakasone, spoke of turning Japan into an "unsinkable aircraft carrier" that could resist the penetration of Soviet Backfire bombers. That was before he visited President Reagan Jan. 18.

The Tass news agency in Moscow responded - after Nakasone's return to Japan - with words'to evoke World War II memories. It said Nakasone's plans make Japan "a likely target for a retaliatory strike" - one that "could spell a national disaster more serious than the one that befell it 37 years ago" when U.S. atomic bombs devastated Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

The fusiliade of rhetoric led the foreign ministry to call Soviet Ambassador Vladimir Pavlov on the carpet and accuse Moscow of practicing "the chauvinism of a stronger Sountry,"

After the 70-minute session of Japanese protest, Soviet counter-protest and Japanese restatement, a Japanese foreign ministry official related, Pavlov said neither side was getting anywhere and "since we know each other's position, why don't we end the meeting."

Pavlov's exit from the nondescript building that houses Japan's diplomats left the Japanese with a series of mutually-related problems:

- The Japanese distrust militarism because of the generals and admirals who led them into World War II, with its devastating defeat. Military spending remains less than

I percent of the gross national product. -Low defense spending is made possible by the security treaty with the United States, the bomber of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, and now the protector of Japan.

-The security treaty means U.S. bases and 40,000 U.S. troops will remain on the island of Okinawa.

-The U.S. bases make Japan a guaranteed target for Soviet missiles.

Japanese distrust of Russia, both Czarist and Soviet, is longstanding. Japan's defeat of Russia in the 1904-05 war was the first time an Asian power beat a European nation and led to an awakening of nationalism in Asia.

That was ended with a peace treaty signed in Portsmouth, N.H., negotiated with the help of President Theodore Roosevelt.

In 1945, the Soviets broke the non-aggression pact with Japan and declared war a week before World War II ended. Besides retrieving territory Japan had invaded, the Soviets took four islands off northern Japan.

Tokyo still claims the islands. The Soviets still occupy them and in the past three years have moved more than 10,000 troops onto them, plus equipment that since last month includes MiG-21 fighter planes.

The "northern islands" issue is the main reason the two countries have never signed a neace treaty to end the are, though they have had diplomatic relations since 1956.

The Japanese insist that the Islands be returned. The Soviets have refused to discuss it.

Moscow has put military installations on at least three of the four islands, the closest only 50 miles from Japan. In an obvious response, Tokyo and Washington announced last September that sometime after Oct. 1, 1984, up to 50 sophisticated F-16 U.S. Air Force fighter planes would be stationed at Misawa Air Rase, 350 miles north of Tokyo and home to both Japanese and U.S. forces. In addition, Japan's Defense Agency announced that next month it will station two E-2C early warning electronics planes at Misawa. The $500-million planes can detect military movements with a 250 mile radius.

Consultant Advises

If You're Trying To Get Somewhere, First Conform

NEW YORK (UPI) - A new age of conformity in dress and behavior has descended on American business.

New York Image consultant Frederick Knapp says, "The free lifestyle image with emphasis on self-expression that started in the late 1950s and was so rampant in the tumultuous 1960s, began to ebb in the mid-1970s and now is dead."

"Men and women who want to climb the corporate ladder today had better emulate the boss and the bess's boss in both dress and manner," added Knapp, whose firm has given advice on personal image-making over the years to 15,000 executives of blue chip firms.

The trend is toward conservative clothes and the Confucian golden mean moderation - in behavior. "Resist the temptation to look or behave differently," is Knapp's watchword for today's young male executives. His associate. Penny Leigh, has exactly the same advice for the females scrambling upward in business. "Wear efficient looking suits or frocks, plain, substantial shoes and go easy on makeup."

Knapp said the trend to conformity has accelerated in the past three years, and warned that "young men and women who insist on defying the trend will be taking grave risks of being passed over for promotion or even of being eased out of the company.

Knapp said the current code "is not nearly so rigid as the conformity requirements in dress and behavior in American business in the 1920s and 1930s. not even as rigid as the customs the young GU's coming out of World War II business."

Nor does it extend so much to social life as nineteenth century conformity codes did. Remember the passage in one of J.P. Marquand's novels where the proper Bostonian looked out his window, saw a chap sitting on his porch in his shirt- you may be dismissed as a bureaucratic sleeves and promptly put his house up for drone.

added, because current social attitudes much the same in style and tone as those are just as complicated and varied in for men - "no fashion extremes such as business as elsewhere. "If your boss slit skirts," she said. "That kind of style happens to be the kind who seemingly accentuates frivolous glamour instead of pay you to be a spiffy or even a terriby careful dresser," Knapp said.

But the main thing to remember is that "anything about your personal appearance or your behavior that evokes special attention from other people may detract from your positive image," Knapp said. "Don't wear dark glasses. They can suggest Mafia or at least put up a wall between you and those you are talking to." Emulating the boss may be drinking what-Amerinks. Otherwise, it's a good had to accept when they entered rule of thumb these days to drink Scotch or white wine rather than a Bloody Mary or bourbon.

The businessman today should learn to modulate his voice and acquire an articulate, sensible vocabulary. If you indulge in double talk or gobbledegook, Penny Leigh said the conformity But the code does cut both ways, Knapp requirements for women in clothes are pays no attention to his clothes, it won't projecting efficiency and power."

Women Can Fight Fires, Too

NEW YORK (UPI) - They are pioneers in a time of few frontiers — unsettling settlers staking claims on exclusively male territory. They are women who are making proads as New York City firefighters.

"I don't think they'll be here in 20 years," new recruit Joseph Battista, 28, said of the women recruits in his graduating class recently. "I don't think it's a feminine lob." he said. Thirty-live women, the most in any fire department in the United States, disagree. by Brenda Berkm who became a lawyer to fight the physical requirements for becoming a firefighter - the women have waged the longest discrimination battle ever against a city fire department. The suit was filed in 1978 and the first female firelighters to break the sex harrier in the fire department's 117-year history reported to firehouses on Nov.

. 1982. Since then, they have been adgered by reporters, watched with skepticism and alternately blasted and praised by colleagues. A second group has followed in their footsteps, but five of the original women have been fired for failing their physicals twice.

Of the original 79 women who took the physical in 1978, 79 failed. They convinced a federal judge the test discriminated against women and he ordered a new test. The men complain it is too easy and the men are still required to take the old, harder test.

A male "proble," or probationary firefighter, expressed the feelings of several recruits when he was asked whether he would be in increased danger if he was in a life-threatening situation with a woman partner.

"Absolutely. That's a fact," he said with other men in the class nodding in agreement. Susan Byrne, 32, a former physical education teacher and swimming champion, responded:

"Everyone wants to say it was an easier test. It was a very different test. It was a better measurement of the ability on the job. The other test was also designed to knock women out. It was the hardest physical they ever gave in the history of the department."

Most of the women aren't defensive about having to prove themselves on the job. They say they would have to earn the respect of their colleagues in any line of work. "I expect it anywhere. If I go to an office job I expect it to be a little rough at first," said firefighter Carol Boykin. "I can handle myself." "The girls I've met are trying hard. Their hearts are in it." said Pat Brown, a member of the crack Rescue Company One.

Big Night At SCC-

By SAM COOK

Herald Sports Editor The Seminole County Sports Hall of Fame will induct its first three members tonight at halftime of the Seminole

Community College-Lake City basketball game at the SCC gym. Andreasting will have plant the approximately 8:15 p.m. Tipoff is 7:30

Barber, 62, due to a previous commitment involving his latest book, "1947 - When All Hell Broke Loose in Ball," will not be in attendance, but he sent a warm letter conveying his thanks to the committee, according to Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce President Jack Horner.

The "Old Redhead" was a Sanford High graduate who attended the University of Florida. He grew to "This was Red Barber's period, when prominence as a baseball announcer he was at the top of his game, the most of the term, "The Catbird Seat."

Raiders Tackle Lake City In Key Clash

If for no other reason (and there are a few), tonight's 7:30 clash between the Seminole Community College Raiders and the Lake City Timberwolves features a player of great dimension.

His dimension goes just one direction - up. Lester Fonville is 7-feet-3 inches and 200 pounds. Harah succut to make anyone forget Artis Gilmore or Kareem Abdul Jabbar yet, but coach Joe Fields thinks he will have a fine one

"Lester is a very nice boy first of all." said Fields after the 'Wolves had tamed SCC in their first meeting. "He played at a very small high school in Mount Bayou, Miss. and didn't have any competition. He's just 19 years old.

The still-growing freshman averaged 21 points and 18 rebounds as a prep senior. He doesn't jump real well (Delvin Everett outjumped him for the center jump), but how high do you have to jump if you're 7-3? He has a tremendous wingspan.

Fonville blocked a layup attempt in the closing two minutes against the Raiders which may have turned around the game. SCC coach Bill Payne thought it was goal-tending but then he wasn't officiating.

Lake City, 21-3 and 7-1, proved invincible over the weekend, losing 79-78 to Central Florida. "They (Lake City) Payne. "We're going to need a good effort on the boards to beat them."

SCC, 6-2 and 16-8, was without leading scorer Rudy Kuiper the first time against the 'Wolves, but Payne doesn't know if that will be much of a difference, since Kuiper is not considered a strong rebounder and is still favoring his ankle which he severely sprained late last year.

The Raiders, however, are 12-0 at home, almost the normal procedure thing in the Mid-Florida Conference. A victory would tie the Raiders with Lake City and possibly ensure the host position in the second-place playoff tournament if the Raiders do not win the conference. Two teams go to the state tournament in Deland.

Payne, though, points to a treacherous end-of-the year schedule which will test his club. "We have Central Florida (winners of five straight for a 5-3 conference mark), St. Johns River and Santa Fe on the road," he says. "Only Daytona Beach and Valencia are at home,"

The Raiders continue to get consistent play from Luis Phelps, Ricky Sutton and Jimmy Payton, who came off the bench for 18 points Saturday. Jerry Smith, Keith Whitney and Delvin Everett have been the other starters.

"We've played eight or nine guys the last few times and I think its helped us," said Payne. "Saturday (a 119-92 win over St. Johns), we were fresh at the end."

Because of Payton's excellent showings of late. Payne may switch back to a three-guard lineup. Lake City has very quick guards (Oak Ridge's Willie Lawton, Tony Eady and Herb Washington). Lawton missed the first contest with an injury. Tipoff is 7:30 p.m.— SAM COOK

Seminole's Blitz Buries Howell

When a team has lost 18 of 19 games, there seems to be one point in each setback where the coach can point and say, "That killed us."

Greg Robinson, Lake Howell's cage coach, has seen that point too many times this year. He saw it again Tuesday night against Seminole High. He knows he'll see it a few more times this year.

Holding a scant 20-16 lead with six minutes to play in the second quarter, the Fighting Seminoles ran off 18 unanswered points en route to an 87-55 Five Hawks at Seminole High.

"That killed us," said Robinson appropriately. "Seminole has a good team and their press really hurt us."

The Tribe, 16-8 overall and 9-2 in the Five Star Conference, travels to DeLand Friday for a crucial match with the 10-2 Bulldogs which will probably decide the conference and district race.

"Seminole has never won a Five Star Conference," said Tribe coach Chris Marlette. "You know we'll be fired up for that one."

Senior Calvin "Kiki" Bryant and junior William Wynn staked the 'Noles to a 36-17 halftime lead by combining for 20 points. Bryant tossed in several of his patented, long-range jumpers while Wynn picked off some errant Howell passes against the Tribe press and scored on short Marlette substituted freely in the second half as the Tribe blew the lead up to 32 points on two occasions, the last on a basket at the buzzer by Kelvin "Special K" Robinson.

Bryant finished with 22 points while Willie Mitchell, Wynn and Steve Alexander all notched 12. Junior Jimmy Gilchrist added eight and Tracy Holloman chipped in six. Gilchrist and Holloman turned in several excellent blocked shots in the final half.

"Gilchrist will be in the starting lineup Friday," assured Marlette about his 6-3 jumping jack. "We have Jimmy G. to have a good game on the boards to beat DeLand." - SAM COOK

as Bryant tossed in 22 points.

By BRENT SMARTT Herald Sports Writer

Just a glance at the boxscore of Lyman's 55-39 setback to Daytona Beach Mainland relays all the information a reader needs to know about Tuesday night's mishap at Longwood.

With cornerstone guards Alexis Cleveland (18.5 points per game) and Rod Hillman (9.5 points) held to just five points along with the absence Tom Felter (8.4 rebounds), who was pulled from the team by his parents because of slipping grades, a lot was missing from the Lyman attack.

The setback snapped a five-game Greyhound winning streak and left them with a 10-7 overall mark and 7-5 in the Five Star Conference. Mainland improved to 8-4 and 12-8.

The hot shooting Bucs quickly grabbed an 18-14 edge over the 'Hounds in the fastpaced opening period. Mainland's big inside gun, Will Anderson, posted eight points in the quarter.

The second stanza was played at a contrastingly slow pace as both coaches tried to out maneuver one another. With Mainland grabbing an early lead on Tony Bucks' outside shooting and Lyman unable to shake the cold shooting bug, Toth chose to hold the ball the final three minutes of the half. Missing a last second shot, Mainland took a 32-21 bulge to intermission.

"We didn't do a bad job defensively, but we didn't put the ball in the basket quarter would bring no relief to the

Greyhound cause as two baskets from steady senior James Pilot would be Lyman's only third period mark. Mainland, still playing mythodically, didn't fully capitalize on the Greyhound inabilities, only extending its lead to 38-25, heading into the final quarter. The fourth period final started with some much needed action, with the 'Hounds pulling within six at 32-38 on a Hillman bucket at 5:54. Toth once again employed his stall again successfully. Lyman, forced to foul, sent the Bucs to the line where they met the challenge hitting 11 of 14 in the period from the charity strip in the quarter and freezing all Lyman comeback hopes. "When you hold someone to 55 points you should be able to win," Lawrence said. "We could have got closer if we had put in some layups."

Anderson led Mainland's balanced attack with 13, followed by Val Irick with 12. Lyman's James Pilot led all scorers with 17 points and another fine effort on the boards.

In the girls' varsity preliminary, Coach Dick Copeland's Lady Greyhounds were nosed 46-44 by Mainland. Lyman, which led the whole contest until the 4:20 mark in the fourth period falls to 9-5 and 8-4 in conference play.

In a very sloppy and turnover-plagued affair, the Bucs capitalized on an abundance of Lyman fouls and errant passes to overtake the 'Hounds 40-38, midway, and held on for the victory. Down 46-40 with 2:50 left Lyman's Pam Jackson hit three buckets but the 'Hounds were unable to foul the Bucs in the last 28 seconds.

"We thought all we had to do was how up having beaten them by 20 points early in the year," said a puzzled Copeland. "We just didn't play. I can only hope we can get our act together in some way."

Elsewhere in prep action involving county teams, Florida Air Academy put on a ferocious second-half surge and dumped Lake Mary 53-48 at Melbourne.

After a 22-22 halftime tie, Florida Air. 11-3, outscored the Rams, 10-6, 31-26 to sew up the victory. Four technicals on Lake Mary didn't help matters much. The Rams made six more field goals than Florida Air but Florida Air made 23 of 36 free throws.

Billy Dunn's 13 points were high for Lake Mary while Darryl Merthie and Reggie Medlock tossed in 10 aplece. Lake Mary has now lost three of its last four games and the Rams host Lyman Friday night at 8.

The Lake Brantley Patriots were victims of one of the best team shooting nights of the year. Spruce Creek's Hawks made 42 of 62 shots from the floor for 70 percent accuracy as the Hawks blazed to a 92-70 victory at Lake Brantley.

"I've never seen anything like it, it was unbelievable," Lake Brantley coach Bob Peterson said of Spruce Creek's torrid shooting. "Only 10 or 12 of their (Spruce Creek's) 42 field goals were layups. I've never seen a team shoot as well as they

Lake Brantley, 4-15 overall and 2-10 in the Five Star Conference, hit 27 of 59 field goal attempts for 46 percent but it wasn't enough to keep up with Spruce Creek. Paul Hoffman turned in a 30-point performance for Brantley while Wille Cooks and Jim Nagle poured in 24 apiece for the

At St. Cloud, Oviedo, playing without Ronnie Murphy and Bill McCartney, had a tough time with the lowly Bulldogs but finally came away with a 49-33 victory.

Without McCartney and Murphy, the Lions had 37 points sitting on the bench, but Gene Angel continued to carry Oviedo as he poured in 21 points. John Kewley added 10 points for the Lions who now stand 15-7 overall and 6-2 in the Orange Belt Conference. St. Cloud fell to 2-20 for the year and lost its 12th straight.

Larry Pleau finally got to see first-hand what he has inherited.

Pleau, general manager of the 13-33-6 Hartford Whalers, took over as coach of the team three games ago when Larry Kish had had enough punishment. Since then, the Whalers had won once and tied once. But Tuesday night, it all fell apart in a 12-3 demolition at the hands of the Nordiques in Quebec. The Whalers had beaten the Nordiques 6-2 last Thursday in Hartford, Conn., in Pleau's first game.

The Nordiques sent goaltender Mike Veisor to the showers with six first-period goals and then scored three goals in both the second and third frames on Greg Millen, who had excelled in last week's game.

In other games, Washington downed Detroit 5-2, Chicago blanked St. Louis 5-0, the New York Islanders tied Calgary 2-2, the New York Rangers tied Los Angeles 5-5, and Montreal defeated Vancouver 7-3.

Henning Was Assured NFL Job

SUWANEE, Ga. (UPI) - Everyone knew Washington Redskins offensive coordinator Dan Henning was one of the leading candidates for most of the NFL head coaching vacancies.

The question was which one he'd take. Oddly enough, although he says he spoke to three teams the day after the Redskins won the Super Bowl, Henning Insists the Atlanta Falcons, with whom he signed during a flight from Los either. Angeles, was the only one that made him

One of the complaints against Bennett. who had the Falcons in the playoffs in three of the past five seasons, was that he appeared unable to "fire up" the team. Henning indicated Tuesday he doesn't go in for the "rah-rah" brand of coaching

"You have to pick individuals with the inclination toward inner motivation." he said. "You shouldn't have to hound players in professional football. We don't want to abuse players, verbally or physically. We just want to win."

He was out of coaching in 1975 when he served as manager of security at the World Trade Center in New York.

Henning is the sixth head coach in the Falcons' 17-year history. He follows Norb Hecker (1966-68), Norm Van Brocklin (1508-74), current Philadelphia Eagles coach Marion Campbell (1974-78), Pat Peppler (1976) and Bennett.

"We've signed Dan to a multi-year contract, for more than two years," said LeBaron, declining to go into further details. "We hope for continuity, to build on whatever success we've had in recent years. No one expects him to get us to the Super Bowl overnight."

The Falcons also talked to two other offensive coordinators, Joe Walton of the New York Jets and John Mackovic of the Dallas Cowbovs.

Victory Has A Thousand Fathers

NEW YORK (UPI) - On the way back across the country from Pasadena, I noticed everybody wearing Washington Redskins' caps. I didn't see a single one saying Miami Dolphins. You know how that goes, don't you? Victory has a thousand fathers. Defeat is an orphan ...

If it takes one to know one, then take Larry Csonka's word for it. John Riggins is the goods. And watching his performance in Super Bowl XVII brought back memories for Csonka. One of the four records Riggins broke in Washington's 27-17 victory over Miami was held jointly by Csunka and Pittsburgh's Franco Harris, and Csonka, the Dolphins' big ball carrier in all of their three previous Super Bowl games, was on their bench to see what Riggins did to them in the Rose Bowl Sunday.

"He's super," Csonka paid tribute to the Redskins' 33-year-old power runner. "He started out docile and looked a little heavy legged in the first half, then got untracked in the second half. The thing about him is he fits so well into Washington's structure. I looked at him and it brought back a lotta memories."

It was the first time Csonka was on the Dolphins' bench the entire season. "They're a good team" he said of the beaten Dolphins. "I'm sure they're gonna come back and I won't be surprised if they're in the Super Bowl again next season"....

Virgil Seay, the Redskins' speedy little wide receiver, says they were never worrled even when they trailed in the final quarter. The reason the Redskins weren't fretting, according to him, was because of Riggins. "Sooner or later, we thought he'd wear down their defense," Seay says.

Before she died not that long ago, Vince Lombardi's widow, Marie, said that among all the coaches she saw, Don Shula reminded her most of her late husband. That was because of how much emphasis he put on discipline and attention to detail.

Shula doesn't feel he goes overboard in either of those respects, so that when one newsman asked him what sort of special plans he had in mind for the Dolphins to help them cope with the light and the shadows because of the midday starting time of Sunday's contest, he laughed and answered, "I don't have anybody out there charting the sun."

Don Strock, Miami's backup quarterback, knows Shula as well as any of the Dolphins, having been associated with him so long.

"Once he adopts a policy, he generally sticks with it," Strock says. "I can't remember a lot of changes he has made in 10 years. His greatest quality is organization. That particularly applies to our work habits. You know exactly where you're going to be at 9:30, 10:30, 11 o'clock and 11:05. We all know how disciplined he is and that rubs off on us."

Time also was very important to Lombardi. When he told his players to be on hand for an 8 o'clock meeting, he really meant a half hour earlier. Some of his newer players who didn't know better would arrive at 8 and be fined for being "late." His veterans always knew enough to show up a half hour early. They called it "Lombardi Time"

National Hockey League owners working hard behind the scenes to keep the Blues in St. Louis by trying to get an American buyer for the team. A number of the league owners are vigorously opposed to allowing the franchise to be transferred to Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, pop. 150,000. Raiston Purina, the present owner of the Blues, isn't prepared to keep on incurring more losses and although Saskatoon would like to have the team moved there, one owner scoffed, "Can you imagine that sign at Madison Square Garden saying: 'Hockey tonight - The New York Rangers versus the Saskatoon Blues?'....

Now that the White Sox have picked up a couple more pitchers from the Cubs in Dick Tidrow and Randy Martz, they feel they're in better position to renew their attempt to get third baseman Buddy Bell from the Texas Rangers.

right-field wall to drive in two runs to spoil the no-hitter and win the game for the Dodgers.

"I'll be a suck-egg mule," was all the stunned Barber could sign off the air with.

Sterling, who retired last year from coaching, is still athletic director at SCC. He was the only coach the Raiders had ever known, building the program into a state powerhouse after a successful high school coaching career which included state championships at Greensboro (1951) and Apopka (1954).

Sterling, 58, won 319 high school games and lost 106 for an excellent 75 percent winning percentage. His record at SCC included 351 wins and 116 setbacks along with a state championship

Sterling, an excellent baseball and basketball player before going into coaching, won 670 games, lost 222, took three state championships, had two state runnersup, sent 17 teams into state tournaments and claimed 14 conference titles.

Raines, the third inductee, is from a different generation and should have the best years of his baseball career ahead of him.

The 23-year-old outfielder was a very gifted prep athlete, competing in four sports most of the time. He was a dazzling halfback on the football team who ran for over a 1,000 yards in his senior year.

Baseball, however, was his best sport. After a sparkling senior year, Raines was the fourth pick in the June draft by the Montreal Expos.

He moved gradually up the minor league ranks, improving his hitting and base stealing at each spot, until he capped the climb by being named Minor League Player of the Year by The Sporting News three years ago.

In the strike-shorted season two years ago, Raines batted .304, led the major leagues in steals with 71 (88 games) and earned a write-in vote to the All-Star game. He was Sporting News Rookle of the Year.

Last year, Raines won a spot in National League outfield for the All-Star Classic. He finished with a .278 batting average and 78 stolen bases.

Cranston Announces For President In '84

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Sen. Alan Cranston of California, pledging to end the "insane policy" of nuclear arms buildup, today became the first Democrat to formally enter the 1984 presidential race.

The 68-year-old Senate Democratic whip, who set the record in his age bracket for the 100 yard dash, began the race as a liberal running far back in the pack behind the two favorites - former Vice President Walter Mondale and Sen. John Glenn.

"I come here today to announce my intention to campaign for the office of president of the United States," Cranston said in a prepared statement. "I have no other choice ... not if I am to remain loyal to the principles which I have developed during four decades of public life."

Cranston made the unnouncement beneath the ornate crystal chandellers of the Senate Caucus Room - the same place where John and Robert Kennedy and a dozen other senators have begun their run for the White House. None began earlier than Cranston, who announced more than a year before the nation's first primary in New Hampshire.

Although little-known nationwide, Cranston is a dedicated and hard campaigner who is one 4 million votes in an election.

for nomination, Cranston's candidacy will become credible if he makes any kind of respectable showing in the early primaries.

In launching his campaign, Cranston sought to carve out as his constituency the "overwhelming majority" who believe nuclear weapons threaten to wipe out society.

Cranston said his stand comes not from the nuclear freeze movement, but from the fallout of Hiroshima, and the conference of 50 Americans who gathered shortly after World War II to discuss the meaning of the nuclear

One twister touched down on Orange Blossom Trail and then veered toward Fairbanks and Lee Road in Winter Park.

Unconfirmed reports said that it touched down at Howell Branch Road and State Road 436 on the borders of Seminole and Orange counties. There were no reports of the twister touching down in Seminole County. Unconfirmed reports said tornadoes hit Inglewood Elementary School and Stonewall Jackson Junior High School in Orange County. The Red Cross sent crews to both of those schools.

Capt. Chuck Goulder, communications director of the Orlando Fire Department, said, "It is one of the worst tornadoes to have hit Orlando. There has been a lot of damage and luckily there have only been very few minor injuries. Injuries have fortunately not been a problem."

Goulder estimated the damage caused by the tornado was "in excess of $1 million."

A dispatcher at Seminole County's emergency operations tellier said emergency crews were only sent to a couple minor traffic

The American Red Cross office in Casselberry said that office received no requests for aid as a result of the storm.

County road crews were inspecting roads this morning to determine what damage was received in the storm. One intersection -

Airport Boulevard and Old Lake Mary Road was closed today for repairs by Seaboard Coastline Railroad crews.

According to the National Weather Service in Orlando, 1.60 inches of rain had fallen in the hour period ending at 9 a.m. The storm system, extending into the Gulf of Mexico, was expected to move out into the Atlantic Ocean late today, a weather service spokesman said. The pouring rain early this morning was pushed by steady 9 mph winds which gusted to 15 mph.

Elsewhere in Florida, tornadoes were reported in Alachua and Hillsborough counties with high winds reported in Jacksonville, Pensacola and St. Petersburg.

The first of two tornadoes in Alachua County touched down at 5:38 a.m. in Hawthorne near the home of Jim Averill, 60. The house collapsed and Averill was killed, said Sgt. Bill

The second tornado struck a mobile heme park in the town of Micanopy about 7:30 a.m., destroying one mobile home. The residents were nct injured. Denson said.

"The tornadoes were pretty bad," Denson said. "We are asking residents of Hawthorne and Micanopy to conserve water and power because power and water supplies have been

'Cancer Doctor' Faked Crimes Due To Depression

MARIANNA (UPI) - Dr. Frederick Boedy says he stabbed himself twice, then claimed to be the victim of a murder plot, because of mental depression triggered in part by convicted killer Christine Falling.

Ms. Fallings' first victim was one of his patients, Boedy told the St. Petersburg Times in an interview that was the basis for a story published Tuesday. He realized later that if he had been more diligent, he might have prevented the murders of four other children and that caused him "to hit the skids."

"I had a lot of sleep disturbances and appetite problems," he said. "I withdrew ... By that time, I more than likely was ... seriously mentally ill."

Bordy claimed last fall to have been stabbed twice and had his office in Altha set on fire. He claimed to have been attacked by men who warned him to stop complaining about a high cancer rate and pollutants in the Chipola River from two battery recycling operations.

On Oct. 1, he confessed to stabbing himself and setting the office fire. Because of the confessions, he has been charged with insurance fraud, arson and filing false reports to police and goes on trial March 2.

He also is being investigated by the state Board of Medical Examiners and could lose his license to practice medicine.

Boedy, 30, gained media attention when he complained of the large number of cancer cases he was treating at his clinic in Altha. Although he denies ever specifically doing so, he appeared to be linking the cancer with pollution to the Disease Usually Fatal

Interferon Used To Combat Kidney Cancer

HOUSTON (UPI) - Medical researchers have used the natural protein interferon in a yearlong study to reduce the size of tumors spread from kidney cancers but experts warn "there's still a long way to go."

Dr. Jordan U. Gutterman of the University of Texas' M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute said the significance of the development is that kidney cancer and tumors that spread from it have been very resistant to treatment.

"It's a continued advance," he said.

He called the development a small but important step forward in use of interferon, a protein found in the body in tiny amounts.

He said treating cancers spread from the kidneys is only a first step in the eventual treatment of kidney cancer.

"There's still a long way to go," he said. Results of Gutterman's yearlong study appear in the current issue of Cancer Research, the publication of the American Association for Cancer Research. "The importance of this study is that (it tumor that previously was resistant to other methods of treatment," Gutterman said.

Dr. Frank J. Rauscher Jr., research vice president of the American Cancer Society, said studies by other investigators have supported Gutterman's findings.

Kidney cancer usually is fatal. The cancer society estimates this year 18,200 new cases of kidney and urinary cancers other than bladder will be diagnosed, and 8,500 victims will die from the disease.

The Gutterman study involved 19 patients -14 males and five females - ranging in age from 29 to 75 years old. All suffered from malignant kidney tumors and in each case the tumors had been removed surgically.

Five of the patients showed a 50 percent or greater decrease in the tumors in their lungs after receiving daily interferon injections.

Two other patients had between 25 and 50 percent reduction. In one patient the disease had stabilized for over two months and in another patient for six months.

In three other patients there were mixed appears) the use of a relatively non-toxic effects - both regression and progression of biological agent, interferon, can induce the tumors in the same person's body. Seven

Cook Of The Week

Boys Outnumber Girls In Oviedo High Food Class

Herald Correspondent

Gene Williams, a junior at Oviedo High School has received the good news that his grade average in Food and Nutrition class for the semester is a B.

The wonderful world of food came alive for Gene and a lot of other students in Mrs. Ruth Metcalf's cooking classes. "We made a lot of fantastic things," says Gene, "like doughnuts the old-fashioned yeast kind that are glazed while still hot and caten while still warm."

Gene said because the croking class is only enchour long, it took them two days to make the doughnuts, but only two minutes to finish them off.

The main course that Gene rates A-plus is Braised Beef with Rice. "This hearty dish is prepared in a pressure cooker, making it quick and easy to fix," Gene says.

"We also learned how to make white sauce, and then what to do with it after it is made." Creamed Peas are the end result of Gene's white sauce.

At Christmastime Gene says he "surprised his family" (parents, Kathy and Sonny Dobbs of Oviedo, and sister, Tammy) with a homemade apple pie. Gene is not always busy cooking, but he is always busy. He is a member of the OHS Chorus and Jazz Ensemble and he played linebacker for the JV football team this year. He is also active in church work as a Royal Ranger lieutenant commander.

Although Gene doubts he will ever seek a food-related job such as chef, meat cutter, caterer or the likes, he is still glad he took the Food and Nutrition class. "A lot of young men were in our class," says Gene proudly, "as a matter of fact, four of the five people in my cooking group were guys."

6. Place dough onto floured board and knead about 5 minutes, or until dough leaves no impression when pressed with fingers.

7. Place dough into greased bowl and grease surface. 8. Cover with plastic wrap and place in refrigerator. (May be stored about 4 days in refrigerator). 9. When ready to make doughnuts, take dough from refrigerator and divide into two sections. Roll each out to desired thickness (15 to 3) inch). Cut with daughoute vitare... 10. Let doughnuts and holes rise covered in a warm place until double. 11. Place 2-3 cups vegetable shortening in a skillet and heat to 375 degrees. Gently drop doughnuts into hot shortening and cook until golden brown on bottom side; flip with tongs and cook this side to golden brown.

12. Drain doughnuts on paper towels and glaze while still hot. Glaze for doughnuts:

2 cups 10X sugar

4 cup milk

1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix all ingredients together until smooth. Add a few drops more of milk if glaze is too thick. Dip doughnuts in glaze, or if desired, spoon over doughnuts. (Makes enough glaze for 3 dozen doughnuts.)

BRAISED BEEF WITH RICE Brown I pound stew beef in I tablespoon cooking oil in bottom of pressure cooker. Add 1 cup water, secure lid on cooker and cook 15-20 minutes. When pressure is down, remove lid and stir in 1/2 cup water, 1 teaspoon salt, dash pepper and 2 tablespoons Worchestershire sauce.

Cook 1 cup rice in 2 cups water with 1/2 teaspoon salt. When fluffy and fully cooked, add rice to beef, stir and serve.

Zippy Marinade New Salad Twist

Tired of tossed green salads? Looking for a change of pace? Then try Veggie-Olive Salad. It's a smashing combination of fresh raw vegetables: cauliflower, broccoll, cherry tomatoes, zucchini and ripe oilves. Marinated in a zippy Italian dressing, this sensational salad is colorful, nutritious and appealing.

Although the vegetables called for in this recipe are a winning combination, don't limit yourself. Take advantage of seasonal specials or vegetables from your garden. Vegetables that substitute nicely are summer squash, mushrooms, cucumbers, celery, radishes, beans and green peppers. Frozen vegetables work well, too.

But don't forget the ripe olives - they add marvelous texture and color contrast to the salad and, of course, are available year round.

Before Treatment, Define Dizziness

DEAR DR. LAMB - Lam 32, a mother of five and have always had good health. Eight months ago 1 started having dizzy spells for no apparent reason. These spells would come on at any time without warn-

My family doctor sent me for numerous X-rays of my head but nothing showed up. I went to a specialist who pumped ice water into my ears to make me dizzy and monitored me each time. He could not give me any explanation for my problem.

Now they want me to go to a center for more tests. I should mention that since these spells started I get headaches that feel as if there is a tremendous weight across my forchead.

DEAR READER - The first thing to be clarified is what you mean by dizziness. When some people say they feel dizzy, they mean they are weak and have the sensation of an impending faint. Those are usually caused by inadequate blood flow to the brain and tend to occur while standing.

The other meaning of dizziness as commonly used is vertigo, which is an illusion of motion. You may feel the room is spinning around you or you are spinning. These feelings are more. complicated.

True vertigo may be caused by disorders that affect the balance canals in your ears, or by disorders of the eyes that you use for posttion sense or even disorders of nerve paths from your body that automatically give you information about the position of your body.

In young people the ears are the common source of the problem. In middleaged and older people the brain itself may be the source of the problem.

A new study shows that some people have vertigo attacks as part of a migraine accompanies the vertigo may not be a typical mily than usual. You're graine at all. This is not surprising since migraines are. talking to your teacher face. caused by changes in circution, New York, NY 10019, DEAR DR. LAMB - My husband cats two eggs every day. I've heard that the intake of too many eggs is bad for a person. Couldyou please comment as to why? How many eggs is considered too many?

DEAR READER - The American Heart Association recommends that individuals who need to limit their cholesterol intake, specifically men, should not consume more than three eggyolks a week, including those used in cooking. There is nothing wrong with the egg whites.

If you don't know what your cholesterol level is you should limit your cholesterol intake. But my approach is to find out whatyour cholesterol level really is, and, if it is high take the necessary measures to lower It. Necessary measures include limiting cholestero intake, fat (particularly saturated fat) and total calories to achieve desirable weight levels. If you have a high choles terol level, whether it is from your own metabolism or your diet, it will significantly increase your risk of heart attacks and strokes.

Dr. Taylor Reviews Year Spent In Poland For Women Educators

Alpha Nu chapter of Alpha Delta Kappa has had several exciting meetings recently, according to Kate Nash.

Members met at the Morse Gallery in Winter Park for a continental breakfast followed by a conducted tour of the museum to view the magnificent stained glass work of Louis Comfort Tiffany, Mrs. Nash says. The Morse Museum has the largest collection of his work in existence.

After the tour members reassembled at the new home of Charlotte Geyer for lunch. The regular business meeting was held later in the afternoon. At that time it was voted to make a donation to the Margaret Reynold's Scholarship Fund at P.A.C.E. School in memory of Angelin Taylor.

The December meeting was held at the home of Mary Dunn and was highlighted by music and a group of hell ringers from the Goss Memorial Methodist Church.

Refreshments were served following the songs.

Gifts suitable for either needy young children or for senior citizens in nursing homes were contributed by members. Twenty-seven members were present.

Lake Monroe. Sue Burton introduced the speaker, Dr. William Taylor, chairman of the English department at Stetson University.

Dr. Taylor has just returned from a year in Poland where, as a Senior Fulbright Scholar, he taught English in a university in Poland. He was present before, during and after martial law was declared. Dr. Taylor recorded his experiences in Poland and his impressions of the current situation in a series of vivid, narrative poems.

He said he stood in line with Polish people to buy food, he rushed with them to board buses and trains and he observed the effects of martial law on the lives of the man in the street, on his students and his fellow instructors. He was impressed with the incurable optimism of the Polish.

Despite the recent suppression of the Solidarity Movement, the common people are convinced that one day they will be free to live their lives without repression, without fear, he

Dr. Taylor said he was impressed by the openness and The January lunchess meeting was held at Holiday Inn on friendliness of the people, with their helpfulness to him and with their liking for Americans. The Polish people are understandably downhearted over the current situation, he says, but he feels that they will try and try again.

Dr. Taylor's poems were so colorful and realistic that you could see the people as he saw them and understand their grief, Mrs. Nash says. But he also caught their indomitable

The following members attended the meeting: Leah Benner, pres., Ruby Booth, Sue Burton, Geneva Cochran, Karen Coleman, Mary E. Dunn, Hazel Flynt, Charlotte Geyer, Mary Groome, Rebecca Holmes, Sandra Jennings, Mary Grace Kosky, Hazel Madden, Jan Miller, Kate Nash, Marion Nichols, Roberta Richards, Helen Richey, Blanche Rucker, Belle Rumbley, Bette Watterhouse, Beth Whigham, Lois Wilkins.

Patient Sick Of Waiting Wants Cure For Doc's Case

DEAR ABBY: Why do doctors schedule six patients for the same time, keeping a roomful of patients waiting?

I had a doctor's appointment for 9 a.m. I arrived at 8:45 and was told that the doctor would be tied up "for a little while" and was asked if I would like to go get a cup of coffee.

I went for coffee, returned at 9:15 and found four more people in the waiting room. They all had 9 o'clock appointments! They were also told to get a cup of coffee, and as they walked out the door, another 9 o'clock appointment rushed in — apologizing because she was

Abby, I sat there until 11:20, then I heard one nurse say to the other, "He has four more proctoscopes to do, then we can start calling them in." (He has four examination rooms.)

I flipped out and said, "Who is going to pay for my extra parking? I think I'll send this problem to Dear Abby." I was taken within three minutes. (They must have told the doctor I was starting a riot in his waiting room.)

If I go to a doctor who has a first-come, first-serve policy, I will wait patiently without complaining, but I resent having to wait for 21/2 hours when I have an appointment. Switching doctors doesn't help.

Does this happen everywhere? Or only

DEAR ABBY: Please don't throw this away thinking it's only a gag, because I'm serious. I'm a middle-aged man who started dating a woman (my age) a few months ago. Valentine Treats

Romantic Desserts Pave Way For Cupid's Target

Valentine's Day comes in the middle of stern February o gladden the hearts of romantics everywhere . . . the one day of the year devoted to love and lovers.

Seize the opportunity to woo the man of your choice with delectable goodies and a wonderfully aromatic pot of coffee. Create an atmosphere of sweet enchantment . . . then sit back and watch Cupid shoot his arrows in the air.

Valentine Truffles pave the way. Easy to prepare, they are sinfully delicious. Finely chopped, peeled oranges are simmered for ten minutes with rich chocolate, heavy cream, butter and sugar, then removed from the heat and mixed with vanilla wafer crumbs. Rolled into 1-inch balls and dipped in a topping of coconut or cocoa, the truffles are a small biteful of bliss. Orange has a natural affinity to chocolate and many of the most famous desserts combine the two ingredients. With fresh Florida oranges readily available it is easy to enjoy its piquant flavor and pull out all the stops in creating classic recipes.

Sweetheart cookies, by contrast, are light and delicate. Fresh orange juice and grated peel lend a subtle but pungent flavor to the airy texture of the dough.

Having set the stage for pure romance, say a tiny prayer to St. Valentine and ask his blessing. ORANGE-CHOCOLATE

TRUFFLES 2 whole Florida oranges, unpeeled

8 square (1 ounce each) semi-sweet chocolate 1/4 cup heavy cream

1/4 cup butter or margarine 3 tablespoons sugar

In a large saucepan combine chopped oranges. chocolate, heavy cream, butter and sugar. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until chocolate melts and mixture is well blended, about 5 minutes. Continue cooking 5 minutes longer, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Stir in cookie crumbs. Chill until mixture is firm enough to handle. Roll mixture into balls about 1-inch in diameter. Capture Family's Hearts With A Love-Ly Dinner

If you have trouble finding the right Valentine's Day cards and gifts to express your feelings, let your loved ones know just how special you think they are with a Valentine's meal made just for them.

Since nothing satisfies like a thick, juicy beef steak, you're sure to win hearts when you headline the menu with Broiled Sirloin Steak with Wine Sauce. While the meal-sized steak is delicious simply broiled, it becomes holiday-special served with a flavorsome Madeira wine sauce accented with mushrooms and green onions. Fortunately for the busy cook, broiling a tender sirioin steak couldn't be easier. For best results, you will want to place the steak the proper distance from the heat for its thickness and time it carefully, broiling just to rare or medium.

Since steak and salad naturally go together, include Salade Jardin on your Valentine's menu. Crisp, delicately-flavored iceberg lettuce is teamed with fresh mushrooms, cherry tomatoes, green onions and capers, then tossed with a homemade lemon-oil dressing. When selecting iceberg lettuce, look for a head that is "springy-firm," giving slightly to gentle pressure. Don't be concerned if the core end is brown; this is simply nature's attempt to seal the cut made during harvesting or trimming.

For dessert, say "Be mine!" deliciously with Cherry Amaretto Cream. This in-the-pink creation is studded with tart, flavorful cherries and topped with an elegant cherry sauce laced with amaretto liqueur. While this heart-shaped dessert will bring a chorus of "oohs and aahs," it's easily made with convenient cherry pie filling.

With this collection of festive foods, you'll not only be giving your special Valentine a memorable meal, you'll also be providing them with many valuable nutrients they need to be healthy and happy. Beef sirloin steak is an excellent source of high-quality protein and many vitamins and minerals including thiamine, riboflavin, niacin, iron and zinc. Iceberg lettuce in the salad is high in natural fiber and low in sodium and calories and contributes Vitamins A and C as well as potassium, Thiamine and other minerals to the diet. Even the dessert plays an important role in a well-balanced diet, thanks to the cherries that are high in Vitamin A.

Garlic Can Give A Subtle Flavor

Garlic makes a subtle flavoring for many dishes, including salads, and need not be overpowering.

Try a mixture of garlic juice pressed from a fresh clove of garlic and lemon juice to add to fish steaks in the last few minutes of cooking. A seasoned sauce for the fish steaks includes garlic, but you will discover the gentle use of garlic heightens rather than overpowers foods when used in proper proportions.

Microwave Magic

Power Output Gives Options To Cooking

Almost all of the microwave ovens that you can purchase now have variable power, meaning that the power output can be regulated from 100 percent output down to 30 percent output and many settings between those two

This feature gives more cooking options and helps to give better results. For example: soups and stews need slow simmering to cook ingredients and blend flavors. This is quite possible with a 50 percent power (medium) setting or 30 percent (simmering stew).

Remember with a low or reduced power setting more time is required, but not as much time is needed as would be If you cooked the recipe conventionally.

These soups and stew recipes are good to try on these cooler than usual days. Use your lower power settings for Angel Souffle and Date-Cherry Crumble Dessert are great ways to celebrate Valentine's Day or George Washington's birthday.

Richly Color February Red

Color perception depends upon many complex scientific factors. Conditioning and training, however, influence color perception of many objects, including foods. For instance, apples are expected to be red, green or yellow and never blue.

Colors of food also affect taste perception. Studies reveal that certain colors elicit certain expectations. For example, reds excite and call the viewer to action. Red is frequently associated with sweet, succulent flavors.

Valentines and George Washington's cherry tree create expectations of the color red. Home economists in the Betty Crocker Kitchens have developed two timely recipes that permit us to fulfill color and taste expectations of the ingredients. Maraschino cherries flavor, as well as color, Angel Souffle. Red tart cherries add color and excitement to Date-Cherry Crumble Dessert.

ANGEL SOUFFLE 1 package white angel food cake mix

1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese, softened

1 cup sugar

1 teaspoon vanilla

2 cups chilled whipping cream

1 jar (10 ounces) maraschino cherries, drained 1 cup miniature marshmallows

Bake and cool cake as directed on package. Tear cake into about 1-inch pieces. Beat cream cheese, sugar and vanilla in small bowl on medium speed, scraping bowl occasionally, until smooth and creamy. Beat whipping cream in chilled bowl until stiff. Gently fold whipped cream, cherries and marshmallows into cream cheese mixture. Tuss cake pieces and cream cheese mixture. Make 4-inch band of aluminum foil 2 inches longer than circumference of 6cup souffle dish. Extend dish by securing band around outside of dish. Turn angel food mixture into dish. Refrigerate until set, about 8 hours. Refrigerate any remaining souffle. 12 to 16

DATE-CHERRY CRUMBLE DESSERT 1 package date bar mix

1 can (16 ounces) pitted dark sweet or red tart cherries, drained and coarsely chopped Whipped cream or ice cream

Heat oven to 375 degrees. Prepare Date Mix and crumb mix as directed on package. Stir cherries into date mixture. Press half of the crumb mixture lightly in ungreased square pan, 8x8x2 inches.

Top with cherry mixture. Sprinkle remaining crumb mixture over cherry mixture. Bake until crumb mixture is golden brown, 30 to 35 minutes. Serve warm with whipped cream.

Buttery Mixture Tops Potatoes

Baked potato fans topped with a richly seasoned butter mixture make an attractive, inexpensive side dish. Serve with your favorite fish or poultry dish.

POTATO FANS 34 cup soft butter or margarine 1 tablespoon finely chopped paraley

1/2 teaspoon salt 1/4 teaspoon paprika
