Judge Wright Gives Talk To D.A.R. On 'Law Enforcement'

Speker Puts Burden On Orderly Government Squarely Upon Citizens Of America

Urges More Love, Respect For Law

Mrs. Willson Talks On Preserving So Ngs Of Seminole Indians

Addressing delegates to the twenty-seventh state conference of Daughters of American Revolution on the subject of "Law Enforcement," Judge Wallace W. Wright last night placed the burden of orderly government squarely upon the people.

"The world needs today is not a new system of government, but rather a new number of men and women who will make an intelligent effort to live up to and support the existing system," declared Judge Wright in sounding the keynote of his speech, delivered at an annual banquet at the Hotel Deland.

Two hundred guests were present.

Judge Wright's address elicited a short program, which included a short play, "The Story of the Seminole," by Mrs. G. W. White, vice president of the national society, and "The Florida D. A. R.," by Mrs. B. E. Brown, state president, and a talk by Mrs. Minnie Rose Wilson on the Seminole Indians, supplemented by the singing of three Seminole songs, Mrs. Joseph B. Sherouse.

Declaring that "morals cannot be legislated into people, but that they must be brought about by the influence of the individual," Judge Wright said:

"Love for and respect of the law must begin and be instilled in the home, the school and the church so that we of the present generation, and particularly those of the future, who will be the citizens of tomorrow, will be brought to a proper understanding of the necessity for and observance of those primary and necessary rules for the government of the conduct of man."

The speaker, after saying that "the law is the only thing that can save us from the chaos of anarchy," declared that "the law is the only thing that can save us from the chaos of anarchy."

What better service could we, citizens, render to ourselves, families, our nation and our country, than to do our part in law to conserve and preserve the principles upon which our government was founded and which, if it is to prosper, it must continue.

"I have faith in my race and nation. I have faith that the American people will continue to be a law-abiding and a law-loving people, and that the principles upon which our government was founded and which, if it is to prosper, it must continue."

After the principal address, a series of short plays were presented, which were followed by a series of short plays.

3 ARRESTED IN CORAL GABLES HOTEL SLAYING

Exclusive Miami-Biltmore Is Scene Of A Fray Ending In Death And Wounding Of 1

Injured Man Is In Serious Condition

Refuses To Tell Anything About Melee In Room Of Hotel

CORAL GABLES, Fla., March 7.—(INS).—Police today arrested three men, and were searching for a fourth, in connection with the slaying of Thomas Walsh, New York, and the wounding of his friend, Arthur L. Clark, also of New York, in a room of the Miami Biltmore last night.

One of the men under arrest was known to police only as "Faro," while the other two gave their names as William Wallace and Bert Griffith. There was no charge placed against the trio, but they were held for questioning.

Meanwhile, police were searching for two women, who they believed were in the tower room at the time of the slaying. According to the authorities, there were other persons in the room at the time the slaying occurred.

No guns, or cards or money was found in the room where the slaying occurred, police said. Although police were not positive of the identification of the slaying, they found the name "Thomas Walsh" written on an envelope in one of the pockets.

The injured man, police said, was Arthur L. Clark, 30, address unknown. He was in a critical condition, having sustained a chest wound. The bodies of the two men were removed to an early hour this morning by Dr. A. H. Weiland.

The dead man lay face downward on the floor of the room, in a pool of blood.

Clark lay in another part of the room. He was rushed to Miami General Hospital. "I won't tell anything," the injured man told the police. "I won't tell anything. I'll say no question."

Then Clark asked: "Is the other man dead?" He was informed that he was, and the wounded man was taken to the hospital.

Physicians said Clark had a 50 percent chance to recover. The shooting occurred on the fourteenth floor of the hotel tower. The slaying in this section of the hotel rent for as high as $75 a day.

NEW YORK, March 7.—(INS).—A slaying of Tom Walsh in a gambling game at the Miami Biltmore at Coral Gables today caused considerable excitement among the city's gamblers.

The slaying was reported by a gambler who was slain over a gambling matter.

New York authorities immediately began checking with Miami police to see if the murdered man was Walsh, Jim Walsh was at one time the body guard to Rothstein. Formerly a member of the big Jack Diamond crowd, Walsh was a well-known gambler.

Mexican Revolt Seems To Be On Wane As Insurrectionists Flee Before Attackers

End Of Disorders Is Seen Shortly

State Of Sonora Will Be Concentrated On By Federal Forces

EL PASO, Tex., March 7.—(INS).—The battle for the possession of Ciudad Juarez, most important city on the Mexican-American border, was reported today to have developed between the small Juarez federal garrison, commanded by General Manuel Limon, and the rebels, commanded by General Carrasco, near the town of San Felipe. Limon commanded a force estimated not to exceed 600 men, while the strength of the insurgent was unknown, but was variously estimated at 2,000 to 3,000.

MEXICO CITY, March 7.—(INS).—With two important government victories won within the past 24 hours, military leaders here today expressed belief that, by the end of the week, the revolution would be suppressed or dominated everywhere except in Sonora. Monterrey and Vera Cruz have both been evacuated by the rebels.

Gen. Escobar's rebel force that occupied Monterrey is in flight northward. Gen. Aguirre's insurrectionists fled westward from Vera Cruz under the command of Gen. Escobar.

The advance of the federal troops was reported to have been rapid. The rebels were forced to evacuate the cities.

Dempsey To Rival Madison Square Garden In Role Of Big Time Sport Promoter

Jack Is Through With Garden Corporation; Plans To Make Detroit Rival Of New York As Sport Capital Of U. S.

By Davis J. Walsh
International News Service
Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Mar. 6.—(INS)—Jack Dempsey and the Madison Square Garden Corporation, all wrapped up in each other like a couple of clams, have parted for good. The fight promoter, who has been in the field of big time promotion of sports this summer.

This was declared to be virtually inevitable today as the garden corporation was making formal announcement, through William F. Carey, that it had decided what everybody already seemed to know—that it didn't need Dempsey except as a fighter. According to Dempsey's friends here, it hasn't taken him long to decide that he doesn't need the garden corporation in either of any capacity and that, with the aid of horse racing in Michigan, he plans to make Detroit an arch-competitor of New York for the distinction of being the sport capital of America.

Dempsey's tentative plans for the Detroit setting include: The beating of the garden outfit by a McLarnin-Ray Miller replay and, falling in this, an attempt to get Joe Dundee for McLarnin in a welterweight title fight.

A lightweight championship fight featuring Sammy Mandel. A light-heavyweight championship fight coupling Tommy Loughran with Lomax, providing Loughran gets by Mickey Walker in Chicago this month.

A heavyweight championship fight featuring Kid Chocolate, Cuban.

Dempsey is supposed to arrive in New York some time before the end of the week, at which time he probably will declare himself definitely on his plans for the immediate future. He might even give one of those interviews about fighting again but, if he does, the betting is that it will be followed by some regulation B. entitled I won't. In this way, he remains right whatever happens, and at the same time, he preserves a significance he might otherwise lack.

Floyd Fitzsimmons says that he and Dempsey have an option on Navin Field in Detroit and can put on his fights in all divisions, meaning that they realize the garden outfit has the heavyweight situation in close custody. The only way Dempsey can break that monopoly is to declare himself in on the heavyweight tournament and, whatever his intentions in this connection were before he died, it seems to be generally admitted that John now considers himself too smart to be mixed up with anything so undignified.

He told one man recently in Miami Beach that nothing less than a million dollars—$500,000 on the line and the rest in percentage—would make him even contemplate the thing. I don't believe he could get a million dollars out of the garden corporation if he offered to fight Colman with baseball bats. The only way, in fact, that he might get away with critical money like that would be to promote his own fight at Windsor. One, the rap off the 25 percent govt. agency from Detroit and thus take a tax that prevails here.

Carey, on the other hand, says that if Dempsey fights, the money will mean nothing; that he will fight only if he believes he can win. Personally, I think it resolves itself into a combination of both, which makes Dempsey's return highly unlikely. He is expecting too much when he demands both the proper money and the proper opponent.

Marshall Field Wins Tax Suit Against U.S.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 6.—(INS)—Marshall Field III, of Chicago, won a $300,000 tax suit against the government today. The board of tax appeals ruled that a deficiency assessment in that amount made against him by the board of internal revenue was illegal and that the Chicago millionaire would not have to pay it.

The case involved the will of the late Marshall Field, founder of the great department store of Chicago who died in Chicago in 1916.

OLD SCHOOLMATE DESCRIBES FIRST LADY'S GIRLHOOD

Mrs. Hoover, Daughter Of Village Banker Was Popular Leader

WHITTIER, Cal., Mar. 6.—(INS)—Back in the days when this prosperous city was merely a little Quaker hamlet, Lou Henry, daughter of the village banker, was foiled in her historic ambition to be burned at the stake as Joan of Arc—hence, growing into a living, charming woman, she became the wife of the man who took office on March 5 as President of the United States.

This little incident in the girlhood life of the present Mrs. Herbert C. Hoover was related here today by Mrs. Susan Noble Hardy, who was a classmate of Mrs. Hoover at the old Bailey street school in 1891.

"Lou Henry entered wholeheartedly into everything she undertook," declared Mrs. Hardy. "When her fondness for athletics was discouraged, she turned with enthusiasm to tableaux and other forms of school entertainments. I still can see her in the role of Joan of Arc in a class tableau, and remember how she made her coat-of-mail out of the cleanly cut tips of tin cans, punctured with a bad and neatly linked together with string."

Wanted To Burn

"Only one thing marred her happiness on that occasion. The teacher positively would not permit Joan to be burned at stake. Lou wanted at least an imitation burning with brightly-colored paper used as flames, but the teacher, Miss Jessie de Wolf, now a widow living in Berkeley, would not permit it because of the actual fire hazard involved."

But, despite her inability to obtain martyrdom in her role, Lou Henry was a great success as Joan of Arc—and none of the girls in the school were jealous of her. No reasonable woman could be jealous of Lou Henry, who was then, and is now, too, of her success today. For Lou, delightful, too considerate of others, too loyal, to admit jealousy.

The enthusiasm which the future "first lady of the land" displayed in the tableaux roles accorded to her found expression also in many original ways, according to Mrs. Hardy.

Lou organized a fan drill team of more than a dozen girls, worked out all its formations and gathered for the team rounds of applause at school entertainments," the Whittier matron said.

Captain of Team

"As captain of this drill team, she wore a blue fringed sash that was the envy of all. The fringe was fully a foot in depth and it appears to me even now as the most gorgeous sash I have ever seen. That sash and its wearer's radiant, strong individuality stamped Lou Henry's personality in clear relief at every entertainment."

Certainly, Lou Henry could not have borrowed her ideas from any stage performance for when the girl left Waterloo, Iowa, she was too young to have been a theatre goer. But as an Episcopalian transplanted into Quaker surroundings, she doubtless had broader, more original ideas than her little companions. At any rate, her drill team, with its intricate evolutions, accompanied by the graceful flourishing of fans, was a decided "hit" in Whittier educational circles, according to Mrs. Hardy's recollection.

"Right of the girls were dressed in light costumes, with light colored fans," the reminiscence continued. "The others, for contrast, were dressed in darker hues, with fans to correspond."

"Although Lou Henry worked out the evolutions of the team, one of the teachers who was greatly interested took charge of perfecting the steps and figure movements. I remember that one of the girls at rehearsal was not very observing, and the tired teacher mildly reprimanded her."

The girl cried, and Lou Henry dried her tears with assurance that the teacher did not really mean all she said. That was characteristic of Lou. She was constantly comforting, encouraging and helping.

The men and women of today who were classmates of Mrs. Hoover could not possibly be more proud of her now than they were years ago when we were girls and boys together.

SEGRAVE GETS NO 'KICK' IN DRIVING AT TERRIFIC PACE

States He Never Gives Thought To Danger In His Racing Trials

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Mar. 6.—(INS)—Driving an automobile at the terrific pace of more than 200 miles an hour does not give Major H. O. D. Segrave of Great Britain a "kick" any more. The novelty of high pressure speeding was worn off, he said today. He is more afraid of riding a horse.

Segrave, a tall, slim, rosy-cheeked man of 32, with sparse blonde hair, will launch an attempt in a day or two to win back the world's motor speed record for land. It is now held by an American, Ray Keech, who drove his Triplex at 207.55 miles an hour across the sands here last April.

"I know I'm taking a long chance," said Segrave, "but I hardly ever give the danger of it a thought. My mind is adjusted to the idea. I have been racing professionally for nine years and have held the world's record twice. So you see I am accustomed to it."

Segrave established a world's record of 203.79 miles an hour on Mar. 29, 1927 in the Sunbeam car. On Feb. 19, 1928, Malcolm Campbell, of London, went 206.96 miles an hour at the Blue Bird. And on April 22, 1928 Keech set a new world's record of 207.55.

Keech, the present record holder, came into Major Segrave's suite as I was interviewing the Englishman. Keech is a stocky, round-faced blonde man of about 35. He is here to see Segrave make his attempt and "wishes him luck."

The two "fastest drivers in the world" laughed at suggestions that a 200 mile clip in an automobile is one way of flirting with the undertaker.

"Oh, it's all in a day's work," remarked Keech. "When I broke the record my car leaped into the air 10 to 15 times. One of those bumps caused the machine to leap a distance of 52 feet. You have got to be a good jockey to drive over 200 miles an hour."

Segrave "kidded" Keech, asking him if he was grappled with his knees when he was driving. The Englishman complimented the American for his nervy driving of the Triplex. "I wouldn't drive that thing," declared Segrave with a smile.

Keech laughed and, in response to a question, estimated that at one stage in his record-breaking race he made 218 miles an hour.

"There is no limit to speed," said Major Segrave when asked how fast he thought a car could be driven. He hoped to drive his gigantic streamlined "projectile," the Golden Arrow, at a speed of 250 miles an hour.

"Everything is becoming faster," Segrave declared. "Automobiles are making better time. The airplane is getting people to places quickly. Ships are speeding up the only thing that is stationary is the railroad track, and in England the railroads are waking up because fast buses are taking the business way from them."

"I think the time is coming when travel will be greatly speeded up. The general public will not be afraid to ride in automobiles at seventy-five and one hundred miles an hour. That will only come, however, after it is scientifically shown that speed and safety can be combined."

Segrave said he has been busy in making the attempt to make the world's speed record for Great Britain. First, from the starting point of view and his locality to England, and secondly because of its scientific aspect. He declared that a great deal of good can result from such speed races, pointing out that the automobile would not have been developed if it were not for the fact that it is today had not it been for the automobile speed chase.

He said, for example, that in the days trees were ripped from the ground today we have the detachable wheel.

The greatest danger of an accident in his effort to beat 207 miles an hour would come from the bursting of a tire, according to Segrave. The wheel, he said, on the Golden Arrow cost $15,000. The tire was of cord covered with 1 1/2 inches of an inch of rubber. 37 by 7 inches.

DETECTIVE CHIEF SAYS CAPONE HAS QUIT RUM RACKET

Failing To Convict Al In Gangster Killings Cops Think He's Through

Francis E. Healy
International News Service
Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, Mar. 6.—(INS)—Al Capone, as was exclusively foretold by International News Service several months ago, has quit the racket.

This was officially acknowledged by Chief of Detectives William Scammon here after he had attempted to couple the mass slaying of seven gangsters to the activities of the new gangster Capone gang. Failing to do this he said that he believed Capone had "retired."

From interviews obtained from the famous gangster at his Miami retreat, it was stated in Chicago by an International News Service staff correspondent that Capone had left matters to his underlings to control as best he could. Jackie Guzik, Capone's chief aide, has also left the city for better or for worse and is living in California.

Of the 190 gangsters, bigger and minor fry, in the Chicago alcohol war, Capone is the only one, with the exception of Johnny Torrio, who was wounded severely and now alive to have the brains of his money-making.

Why he retired is little known to Chicago detectives, who who n secretly. It is believed that he respects the gangster's peripatetic in retreating to his life of a "sportsman."

Capone, and a few others, may be mentioned when to quit. Capone, to the most reliable sources, has an estimated fortune of several million dollars, and is enjoying living in a lavish style.

The truth of the matter is that Capone has sold his modern home on the south side. It is known by national news service that he has his house "up for sale."

The truth of the matter is that Capone and Guzik, last, after years of domination, have relinquished their rights as chiefs.

Their dog track venture, they may be noteworthy in the intricate careers of gangsters, were merely "playboys" these too, it is understood, been abandoned.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

JOY AND REJOICING—Thy word was unto me the joy and rejoicing of mine heart for I am called by thy name, O Lord God of hosts.—Jeremiah 15:16.

PRAYER—Why Word, O Lord, is a lamp unto my feet and a light unto my path.

THE BLAME

He blames her now because she goes.

That way he begged her once to go.

He blames her now because she knows.

The things he trained her mind to know.

I saw a neighbor shake his head

And heard him say: "The maid was pure."

And sweet the day that they were wed

And very modest and demure."

But now in court he cries her down.

And labels her a brazen thing;

He cites her follies with a frown,

Demanding back his wedding ring.

Now does she, once in anger set,

"I learned these things to please his whim!"

I never aimed until the day

He begged of me to sin with him."

But thus she loses him she ought.

To keep by lessening her pride;

She learned the habits that he taught

And then by him was thrust aside.

Italia Mystery Unsolved

An echo of the ill-fated Italia expedition, which caused an international sensation last Spring, rumbles in the public ear with the publication of a report of the commission of inquiry appointed some time ago by Mussolini. General Nobile, commander of the dirigible, has been held responsible for the loss of the Italia and for the disastrous ending of the flight, which resulted in seventeen casualties, eight of them members of the dirigible staff and nine rescuers. The commission unanimously subscribed to the following conclusion relative to liability for the tragedy: "The loss of the Italia was caused by a false maneuver, and was due to the composition and utilization of the crew. The responsibility for this maneuver rests upon the commandant of the dirigible."

Equally as terse is the rebuke administered General Nobile for permitting him to be rescued from the erupting survivors. His command, as the commission "finds" and "justified"—by the conditions of physical and moral discipline in which the general found himself, and thus a thing did not allow him to be limited at his own value and consequences this step. Captain Zappi and Mariani, whose story of the death of Professor Finn Malmgren, Swedish scientist, created considerable doubt throughout the world, even led to the charge that they had killed and eaten him were acquitted with praise for their actions. The body of a quip has this to say about them: "The conduct of Mariani and Zappi is not open to any censure, but on the contrary to be praised."

Thus is written the final official chapter of the disaster, and while the commission's findings may satisfy Mussolini and others, they do not completely allay the suspicions of a great many people. A group charged with the responsibility of an investigation owed to the public to ascertain the facts as far as possible and to present them clearly and conclusively. When the commission reports that the loss of the dirigible was attributable to a "false maneuver" and to the "composition and utilization" of the crew, it leaves the public too vague. They do not convince the world but merely confirm the suspicion that the truth has been withheld.

Prosperity Continues

Florida is not directly affected by the activities of the New York stock market but inasmuch as the success of a tourist season depends to a large extent upon the general prosperity of the country, it is interesting to note the continued aggressiveness of business's best barometer. It appears that the Federal Reserve Board is unable to curtail stock market trading because the public is impressed with the possibilities of continued prosperity for the next four years. This being the case Florida should prepare itself to meet the deluge of tourists which will undoubtedly descend upon it. The New York Herald Tribune writes:

"The favorite subject of controversy in financial circles for the last three weeks has concerned itself with the question of whether the Federal Reserve Board, having warned member banks of the system against permitting too much credit to flow into the security markets, is in a position to back up that warning with effective action. It may be said that the best financial minds are in agreement that the board and the regional banks have the requisite power, if they choose to use it. Nevertheless, there has been, and still is, an articulate, though perhaps not distinct, minority which insists that the reserve banks have lost control of the situation. The routing of loans directly to brokers, instead of indirectly through the banks, a phenomenon that has become increasingly important in recent months, has, they assert, seriously undermined the position of the banks."

"There is no denying the fact that the 'bootleg' loan has complicated matters for the Reserve authorities, but we have a feeling that if this were the major problem facing them in carrying out their suggested program of stock market liquidation the 'big squeeze' would now be well under way. To our mind the major problem—the one that has caused such 'trumpet blasts' as that sounded early this month by the banking authorities to go almost unheeded—has been the spirit behind the present market for securities. That spirit is founded on something more than speculative mania. It is founded on the fact that the country is enjoying unprecedented prosperity and that the outlook is promising for a continuance of such prosperity for at least another four years. It is extremely difficult for the security-buying public to become greatly alarmed on reading the news that brokers' loans have increased $30,000,000 or that call money has temporarily touched 10 per cent when it finds on the same financial page the announcement that the steel industry is running at between 90 and 95 per cent capacity and that railroad earnings are currently exceeding those of a year ago by more than 40 per cent."

TEACHING THE YOUNG IDEA

ST. PETERSBURG TIMES

There is food for thought in the statement of the United States bureau of education that whereas in 1909 the city boys had one chance in seven of getting a high school education, the city boy of 1929 stands a better than even chance. Such a method of comparison emphasizes more powerfully than any statistical record of the number of high schools, the marvelous progress which a generation has made in putting free schooling at the service of a free people.

It has been proved by careful research and computation that even the bare governmental standard of the hours spent in high school are most valuable to the student by increasing his earning capacity in after years beyond that of the boy who does not enjoy high school training. There can be no doubt that they confer at least equal benefits by enabling mental laziness and

Plans For Flower Show Progressing, Committee Reports

By Mrs. Henry Wight
Plans for the Woman's Club Flower Show are shaping up rapidly with every encouragement to expect a very wonderful exhibition. The season has been the most favorable one for years past, and never before has Sanford seen such magnificent annuals as are to be seen now on every side.

Roses are just coming into bloom, and the amaryllis will certainly surpass any ever exhibited in this city. In addition to the usual classes of annuals, roses, sweet peas and bulbous subjects, the committee are adding this year a class for cacti and similar plants. Instead of the decorated tables of previous years, the balcony will show several treatments for windows, and following the lead of the larger shows in the cities a great deal of importance will be attached to flower arrangements and composition.

An appeal is made to all who have novel potted plants and palms to enter them. Tomorrow the full list of committees and classifications will be published, and Mrs. Scott and her able assistants will be glad to answer questions from those who are interested.

Irregular Beach Halts Effort To Set Speed Mark

Has found White without a driver for his Triplex. He has number of applicants for the job for steering the 30-cylinder car which last year set the present record of 207.54 miles an hour for the mile straightaway. At least two of the prospects have been put out of the picture, Ray Keck, last year's driver who was unacceptable to White, and Wilbur Shaw, Indianapolis, who was ruled ineligible by the contest board of the American Automobile association. Keck and White broke relations some time ago.

Course Is Barred
Installation of the timing device and a survey of the nine-mile course was completed today and everything was in readiness. A new timing device, built for the city by the bureau of standards at Washington, arrived today and probably will be installed tomorrow. It will be operated independently of the timing apparatus used by the American Automobile association. City officials believe their apparatus will prove more accurate than that used by the association and if this is done, they expect to make an effort to have it approved by the international rating association.

While awaiting a favorable beach, White has spent his time tinkering on the Triplex or playing golf, while Segrave has occupied himself with making adjustments to his powerful motorboat, Miss England, with which he hopes to break the present water record of 92.8 miles an hour, now held by Miss America VII, owned by the Wood brothers of Detroit.

Major Segrave took his boat out on the Halifax river today and succeeded in stepping it up to an 84 miles an hour clip over the measured mile course. "He was highly pleased with his performance but said he intended to install a still larger propeller in the hope of attaining a higher speed."

MIAMI BANDITS GET LOOT
MIAMI, Fla., Mar. 7.—(INS)—Police today were searching for a lone, unmasked bandit who took $2,000 in cash from James E. Conroy and William Kleckhaus, Cornington, Ky., tobacco merchants, when he held them up in their store as a downtown hotel last night. The bandit entered the room as they were counting the money.

Quake Stirrs Fear Of Pacific Tidal Wave

SAN FRANCISCO, Mar. 7.—(INS)—A severe earthquake which was reported on seismographs throughout the United States and caused fears that the Pacific Ocean might be swept by tidal waves was believed to have centered in the far north, probably at the extreme tip of the Alaskan Peninsula. No word of any spectacular tidal disturbance had reached here early today from Honolulu or any Pacific port.

The steamer Yokosuka, Maru reported by radio to Cordova, Alaska, that the vessel while near the islands of Four Mountains, felt the earthquake at 3:35 P. M. yesterday. The master of the vessel said the shock lasted a full minute. A slight quake was reported felt at Unalaska at the same time.

Legislature Wishes To Prolong Studies

Hartford, Conn., March 6.—(INS)—Six days more school per year, the state board of education in Connecticut believes, are necessary to give the modern child the requisite public school education, and that addition to the school year is being asked of the legislature. The frequency of holidays, the increasing sums being spent on schools, and the enriched curriculum are urged as the reasons for the increase in the days of attendance required.

For many years Connecticut schools have required an average of 184 days a year attendance, under the proposed law 190 days would be required.

It is often as hard to keep money safely as it is to get it in the first place.

Mrs. John G. Leonard, regent of the Sallie Harrison Chapter, served as toastmistress. Mrs. Robert W. Simms of Jacksonville, sister of the late Mrs. B. J. Starling, founder of the chapter, and honorary member of the local order, presented the local members with a flag and flagstaff in memory of Mrs. Starling. A vocal selection was rendered by Mrs. Julius Takach, the number being the "Florida State Song," official song of the state division of D. A. R. "The Spirit of '76," a painting owned by John J. Thomas, winter visitor, was exhibited and described by Mrs. Anna DeForest.

A short talk on Kenmore, the home of Betty Lewis, sister of George Washington, who spent considerable time at the place, was given by Mrs. Theodore Strawn. An explanation of the work, which is being done to preserve the place, for its historical interest, was recounted by Mrs. Strawn who praised the Fredericksburg, Va. chapter of the D. A. R. for its efforts.

The assemblage manifested keen interest in Mrs. Willson's talk and Mrs. Sherouse's interpretation of the Seminole songs, which were transposed by Albert Gale. The "John Jumper Song," "Night Love Song," and "Hunting Song" were the numbers rendered. "While it saddens the heart to know, that as Americans and Floridians, we have taken away from the Seminole every possession he has ever had, still it is with pride in this conquered race that I am able to tell you that we have not taken, either by ruse or surreption, his music," declared Mrs. Willson in presenting Mrs. Sherouse.

The Seminole leaders, with a patriotic pride, gave their songs with the belief that their music would be preserved for the purpose of showing to future ages the hidden records of their heroic ancestors, and demonstrating that the greatest crime charged against their fathers was their love for their own, sunny Florida homes.

Life Saving Device To Have New Depth Test

ABOARD U. S. S. MALLARD OFF KEY WEST, Fla., Mar. 7.—(INS)—The volunteer crew of the experimental S. L. once the turn of men today will attempt to escape from the submerged craft in 200 feet of water.

The Mallard this morning, with the submarine, in tow, was 90 miles off the Florida coast, where the epochal tests will be made. In previous experiments, members of the S. L. crew have escaped from depths up to 125 feet. The escape will be made by a newly-invented device called a "lung" or mask.
