Gator QB forced off the team

The University of Florida keeps shooting itself in the foot.
Starting quarterback Kyle Morris and his backup, Shane Matthews, were declared ineligible Monday for allegedly betting on college and professional football games.
Two other players were suspended for undisclosed NCAA violations.

The incidents occur one week after Gator head coach Galen Hall resigned under fire amid allegations that he made illegal payments to assistant coaches.

Giants make lineup changes

The Giants are willing to try anything to slow down the Oakland Athletics.
San Francisco is back home after an eight-mile 'road trip' and losses in the first two games of the World Series.

Giants manager Roger Craig is going to shake up the lineup for tonight's game, inserting Ken Oberkell at third base and benching shortstop Jose Uribe.

Sanford cop breaks leg

SANFORD — Sanford Police Officer Tom Skiba remains in Central Florida Regional Hospital with his leg broken in three places. He was injured Saturday afternoon in a struggle while arresting the suspect after a traffic stop, police said.

The suspect, Charles Rouse, 25, 1849 Lincoln Heights, Sanford, remains jailed on charges of aggravated battery on a policeman, resisting arrest with violence, escape, and other charges.

Cab takes suspect from scene

CASSELBERRY — Police here report catching an Orange County robbery suspect who allegedly took a cab to and from the scene of the robbery on State Road 436.

Casselberry police spotted the taxi near U.S. Highway 17-92, about 5 minutes after Orange County lawmen reported the gas station robbery to police. The driver of the cab wasn't involved in the robbery, police said.

A passenger in the taxi, George Dethlefsen, 35, of Orlando, was charged with armed robbery at about 11 a.m. Monday. He was booked into Seminole County jail on $25,000 bond.

Sharing Center gets over $6,100

SANFORD — The Sanford Christian Sharing Center, who last month projected it would run out of money to provide food and clothing to northern Seminole families, has received more than $6,100 this month, director Irene Brown said.

This month the center has received its first-ever gifts from local businesses in 11 years of operation, Brown said. Local businesses contributed about $900 in the first two weeks of this month, she said.

The board of directors for the center, which serves about 300 families monthly, will meet Tuesday at 5 p.m. at Good Shepherd Lutheran Church.

Tax-deductible donations to the center may be sent to P.O. Box 762, Sanford, 32772.

Ordinance may deter crime rate at 24-hour stores

By LAURA L. SULLIVAN

SANFORD — Last month, one local convenience store was robbed three times.
"Three's too many," Police Captain Charles Fagan said yesterday. But, he said, Sanford has not yet seen the onslaught of convenience store robberies and homicides Gainesville saw in 1986 before that city adopted an ordinance requiring at least two employees to staff each store overnight.

During a Sanford City Commission work session yesterday, commissioners discussed adopting the Gainesville ordinance as a measure to help ensure the safety of all-night food stores and their employees. The commission Monday will vote on drawing up a similar ordinance for Sanford.

The regulation of convenience stores was one of two ordinances brought to the commission work table yesterday by City Commissioner Lon Howell. The commission

LONGWOOD — "I've enjoyed and continue to enjoy my job as commissioner in the city," Commissioner Rick Bullington said at the onset of last night's commission meeting.

However, several citizens later on during public participation chastised Bullington and told him he should forfeit his office.

Bullington, 34, was convicted and sentenced last week in Seminole Circuit Court for a misdemeanor violation of the state Sunshine Law, an open-meetings law. Bullington had met in private last September with then-Commissioner Lynette Dennis, then-Mayor David Gunter

Smoke on the water

A brush fire on Grassy Island in an area near Osteen smoldered for a couple of days and sent clouds of black and gray smoke over Lake Monroe for much of

Environmental groups abandon idea of infiltrating shuttle launch pad area

United Press International

CAPE CANAVERAL — Even if plutonium from the shuttle Atlantis's Jupiter probe cargo leaked out in a launch disaster this afternoon, it is "highly unlikely" anyone living near the spaceport would have to be evacuated, according to space officials.

Environmental groups had argued that an explosion of Atlantis and its $1.4 billion plutonium-powered payload, the Galileo robotic space probe to the planet Jupiter, would spread deadly radiation.

But, protestors now say they have given up the idea of infiltrating the area surrounding launch pad 39B following a federal judge's refusal

City commissioner wants more police patrols, raids in black neighborhoods

By LAURA L. SULLIVAN
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — City Commissioner Bob Thomas is calling for more police patrol and frequent raids on suspected drug havens in predominantly black neighborhoods.

In a letter to fellow city commissioners, Thomas said, "I am pleading with you to direct our police chief to carry out vigorous raids until this garbage is cleaned out of our city. I ask you to treat it with the same care as you would if those persons were to set up shop on First Street, or any place that will threaten your peace and tranquility."

Thomas said yesterday his letter was a response to a barrage of complaints the city commission heard Aug. 29 about police protection in black neighborhoods. At that time, he supported National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) representatives and a group of black citizens who said police protection in black neighborhoods was inferior to protection in predominantly white areas.

City Commissioner A.A. McClanahan later rebutted the NAACP's claims about police patrol an advisor.

LaZenby's last day as director will be Oct. 31.

LaZenby last week announced his resignation from the authority to accept a $67,200 offer to head the Titusville-Cocoa Beach Airport Authority (TICO). This morning he distributed a written resignation dated Sept. 26, saying he waited until new two members were seated on the board until he announced his decision to leave.

Jim Young and Bob McKee replaced authority members John Mercer and Jim Deganough Oct. 1.

TICO offered LaZenby the salary to manage Space Center Executive, Arthur Dunn Airpark and Merritt Island airports in early September, three months after he began working in Titusville once weekly as interim director.
"I have not negotiated here to match that offer," LaZenby said.

"When (authority chairperson A.K. Shoemaker) asked me if I had a figure in mind, I told him the only figure I had in mind was the one mentioned by TICO....Sanford can't pay to run one airport what another community can pay to run three."

Authority members McKee, Shirley Schilke and Joe Denison will serve on a committee to select a new director. Member Bill Bush also asked LaZenby to serve on the committee.

Grinch steals carnival equipment

WINTER SPRINGS — Sometime between April and Friday a burglar hit a storage facility of Belle City Amusement and stole carnival equipment.
Seminole County sheriff's deputies report 12 bumper cars valued at $2500, one ferris wheel seat valued at $1,500, and other items worth a total of $3,800 are missing from the site at 1651 State Road 419, rural Winter Springs.
Amusement company representative Norma Lee Dubois, 40, of Winter Park, discovered and reported the loss.

Sanford policeman battered

SANFORD — Police report that a man, when asked for identification, fought a policeman who confronted him at Caesar's Palace Lounge, 3300 S. Orlando Drive.
The officer said the suspect allegedly kept him from using his portable radio to call for help. Other police finally arrived and the man allegedly continued to fight.
Ricky Dean Villett, 32, 401 W. Seminole Blvd., Sanford, is charged with two counts of battery on a policeman, depriving a policeman of communication, and resisting arrest with violence. He was arrested at the motel lounge at 1:29 a.m. Monday.

Walking man accused of hitting deputy

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — A walker ordered off State Road 436, Altamonte Springs, by a Seminole County sheriff's deputy at about 9:30 p.m. Saturday, allegedly resisted that order and fought with the deputy after shoving the deputy and trying to run.
Martin Yeager, 23, 804-C Orienta Ave., Altamonte Springs, was caught and charged with battery on a policeman and resisting arrest with violence. Bond is $1,000.

Suspect arrested in attempted burglary

SANFORD — A woman armed with a knife and reportedly seen trying to burglarize a utility room at Apt. 10, 3081 Airport Blvd., Sanford, was caught by city police leaving the scene.
Ruby Yvette Robinson, 27, 2024 W. 20th St., Sanford, was arrested at the scene on charges of attempted burglary, carrying a concealed weapon, possession of burglary tools and resisting without violence at about 8 a.m. Sunday.

Husband accused of battery

LONGWOOD — Seminole County sheriff's deputies report charging Robert B. Jobson, 35, 100 Hillcrest Drive, Longwood, with aggravated battery after an alleged attack on his wife at home at about 9:15 p.m. Sunday.

Four arrested on DUI charges

SANFORD — The following persons face a charge of driving under the influence in Seminole County:
• William Louis Weekley, 47, 1200 Forest Drive, Sanford, was arrested at 4:32 p.m. Saturday after his pickup truck was seen weaving on Lake Mary Boulevard, Sanford.
• Jeffrey Brian Ewing, 30, of Apopka, was arrested at 12:31 a.m. Sunday after his car was in an accident on State Road 436, Altamonte Springs.
• Johnell Ketter, 30, 3628 Jesup Ave., Sanford, was arrested at 2:41 a.m. Sunday after his car, traveling 65 mph in a 45 mph zone on U.S. Highway 17-92, Sanford, was seen weaving. He was also charged with driving with a suspended license.
• Shirley Diane Eisenhardt, 31, 144 Alma St., Altamonte Springs, was arrested at 9:33 p.m. Sunday after her car was in an accident at Springs Plaza, Wekiva Springs Road.

Haunted House to raise money

SANFORD — Dracula will land at Central Florida Regional Airport Oct. 26 to visit the Victims' Rights Coalition haunted house.
The victims' rights group will sponsor the haunted house at Sanford Plaza on U.S. 17-92. Proceeds will benefit the Safehouse of Seminole capital fund to build a shelter for victims of domestic violence.
Admission is $3 for adults and $2.50 for children under age 12. The haunted house will run from Oct. 26 through Oct. 31, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Deputy named chief of victim's services

SANFORD — Seminole County sheriff's deputy Theresa Jerecsek has been named coordinator of victim's services for the department.
Jerecsek, an investigator reassigned from road patrol, supervises volunteer victim's advocates who assist victims of rape and other violent crimes. She also serves as an advocate.
Jerecsek replaces deputy Doris Hundley, reassigned to road patrol after about six years as head of victim's services.

Launch

Monday to block the launch.

Bruce Gagnon, leader of the Florida Coalition of Peace and Justice, "We're going to be in Orlando. We're urging people not to be within 25 miles of the launch pad."

But Gary Wistrand, deputy director of security at the sprawling Kennedy Space Center, said, "I don't assume that at all. I expect more activity for the launch."
Security at the coastal space center has never been tighter for a shuttle launch, Wistrand said, or even secret military flights conducted under the jurisdiction of the Pentagon.

Besides the usual complement of rifle-toting SWAT teams, the space agency is spending $100,000 to add see-in-the-dark helicopters, aircraft patrols, an alarm system to detect infiltrators — and pay for overtime for its security forces.

The space center, a national wildlife reserve, also boasts an efficient natural defense. "We have a population of about 7,000 alligators here. I don't know how many rattlesnakes and a lot of wild dogs and probably millions of mosquitoes," Wistrand said.

The launch was scheduled for between 12:57 p.m. and 1:23 p.m. today.

Giant spotlights bathed the launch pad in the pre-dawn sky this morning as rocket crews loaded a half-million gallons of liquid hydrogen and oxygen fuel into Atlantis's giant external tank. Engineers ran through final checklists in the launch control center 3 1/2 miles away.

The weather for the launch "looks good," NASA spokesman Ken Benstead said.

Commander Donald Williams, 47, co-pilot Michael McCulley, 46, flight engineer Franklin Chang-Diaz, 36, Shannon Lucid, 46, and Ellen S. Seler, 36, were awakened shortly after sunrise. They ate a traditional astronaut breakfast at a table decorated by a pumpkin adorned with the crew's emblem and then donned their bright orange flight suits.
Six hours and 23 minutes after launch, the astronauts are to release the robotic Galileo probe from Atlantis's 60-foot payload bay at 7:19 p.m.

The Department of Energy is working with the Environmental Protection Agency, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, the Federal Emergency Management Agency and other federal and state organizations to deal with the possibility of a radiation release, no matter how slight.

"In the event of a major accident, you always assume the worst," said David Jackson of the Department of Energy. "There's simply no question about that."

The Galileo Jupiter probe is equipped with two radioisotope thermoelectric generators, or RTGs, loaded with radioactive plutonium 238 dioxide.

The atomic power packs were built to withstand any foreseeable launch accident without releasing any nuclear material. But in a handful of worst-case scenarios, small amounts of plutonium could leak into the environment and the Energy Department spent $6 million on contingency planning.

The plutonium 238 dioxide aboard Galileo's generators is in a ceramic form. To be a major health threat, the material would have to be pulverized into particles small enough to be inhaled and then blown into populated areas by the wind.

To assess the potential public threat in the event of such a failure, four computer systems loaded with meteorological data will be running at launch time to help analysts determine which way such a radioactive cloud might move.

While those associated with the launch believe there is little or no chance of a radiation release even if an accident occurred, the contingency plan calls for officials to assume the worst when it comes to advising the public.

Should an accident happen today, NASA's closed-circuit public affairs commentary channel would be tied into the local Emergency Broadcast System network.

Safety before convenience

Federal investigators probing the cause of a USAir jetliner's plunge into the East River from New York's LaGuardia Airport are focusing on ample evidence of pilot error. The apparent mistakes in the cockpit are so glaring they warrant a thorough federal review of controversial airline policies that tend to pair pilots with the least experienced in the same aircraft.

Co-pilot Constantine Kleiasas, 29, who was at the controls when the takeoff began, had only recently qualified for service on a Boeing 737-400. Indeed, this was his first commercial takeoff in that particular model. Capt. Michael W. Martin, 36, had flown only 138 hours in command of a 737-400, though he had logged 4,000 hours on other 737s, mostly as co-pilot.

The USAir flight crashed after the pilots apparently aborted the takeoff too late, killing two passengers and injuring 45. Flight recorder data show the plane had accelerated to 140 mph and therefore was unable to stop before running off the end of the runway. Even before that, an error by the co-pilot had taken the throttle controls out of their normal computer-controlled mode, causing uneven engine thrust that made the plane veer perilously to the left during the takeoff roll.

The two pilots were selected from a reserve pool composed mainly of junior fliers with the least experience. USAir, like many other airlines, gives senior pilots first choice of which flights they work. Less experienced pilots are then selected to fill in where needed.

This system tends to put experienced pilots in some cockpits and comparatively inexperienced pilots together in others. In theory, because all pilots are required to acquire minimum standards of competence, this should not jeopardize safety. But the reality is that, in an emergency, experience can make the difference between survival and disaster.

Following the advice of their union, the USAir pilots declined to appear before investigators or to submit to drug or alcohol tests for 36 hours after the incident. This is not illegal, but it renders the alcohol test pointless. If it is to have any meaning at all, the test must be carried out immediately after an accident. Federal rules should require this.

The East River crash has raised important questions about how air safety may be compromised by the customary way in which pilots are scheduled for duty. What federal investigators must determine is whether the convenience of senior pilots is being placed ahead of flight safety.

MESSAGE FROM PANAMA

WILLIAM A. RUSHER

Is the Soviet Union falling apart?

The word is that, in the higher reaches of the Bush administration, the conviction is growing that Mikhail Gorbachev isn't going to make it; that perestroika, his plan for the reform of the Soviet economy in the direction of greater freedom, is doomed.

I have said as much from the beginning, but let me hasten to add that this dismal prognosis gives me no particular satisfaction. We would all be vastly better off if there were in fact some easy way out for Gorbachev and the Soviet nomenclatura — some series of deregulating steps they could take, after which the Soviet economy would prosper.

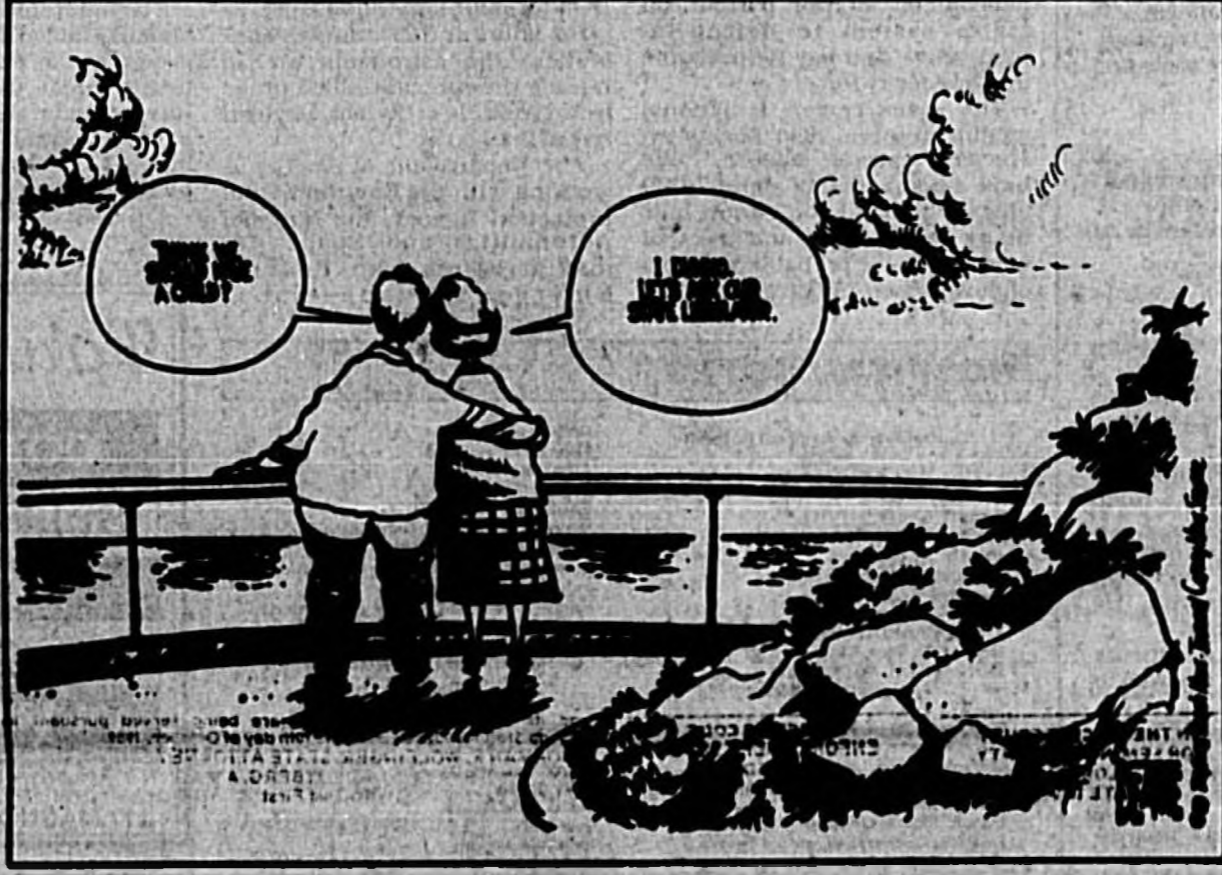

Also, there is no such magic formula. The Soviet economy is designed, in every detail, to thwart individual initiative and penalize private success. No amount of tinkering can reform it: It must be dismantled in toto and a wholly different economic system constructed on its ruins and in its place. Since it is not remotely reasonable to assume that the Soviet leaders know this, or would be able to do anything about it if they knew it, we can only wait and watch as the Soviet economy crumbles. These days, it is crumbling very fast indeed. Moreover, the news from the Russian frontiers is just as bad as the news from the regime's economists. The Soviet state is a federation of disparate nationalities, held together by brute force exerted by the Russian center. But today, as the economic crisis weakens that center, the various nationalities sense that weakness and, naturally enough, are moving briskly to take advantage of it. In the three formerly independent Baltic states — Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia — the passion for total independence from the Soviet Union is reviving. Nowhere is this truer than in Lithuania, where parliamentary elections in January are expected to produce an overwhelming 80 percent men to stay yoked to the Russians merely because it would irritate or embarrass the latter to give them their freedom. Mikhail Gorbachev, then, is all but programmed to fail, both politically and economically. He certainly deserves to go down in Russian history as the man who let the genie of freedom out of the bottle, for it almost certainly cannot be captured and re-bottled. But he is fated, however unfairly, to be identified forever with the collapse of the Soviet economy and the fragmenting of the federation. What, practically speaking, ought the West to do?

GEORGE F. WILL

Educators, it's time to wake up

WASHINGTON — Hey (as the educational president, TEP, might say) what do you want, anyway; boring unanimity? Look on the sunny side: most (88 percent) of seniors — college seniors — know that the Civil War occurred in the second half of the 19th century.

Don't worry, be happy (as TEP did say en route to becoming TEP): an 87-question examination given to an (also) representative sample of 696 seniors at 67 colleges and universities reveals that slightly more than half have heard of 'Moby Dick' and 'David Copperfield,' and half could identify the Magna Carta and the Emancipation Proclamation.

After 16 years of American education, 80 percent of these seniors thought the Korean War began during the Roosevelt, Eisenhower or Kennedy administrations or shrouded in bafflement. One-third confused Reconstruction with the Marshall Plan and one in four college seniors thinks that "from each according to his abilities, to each according to his needs" — Marx's daydream — is from the U. S. Constitution.

No extraordinary surburst of inspiration is required to explain such numbers. Chester Finn Jr. — one of America's wisest voices concerning education, puts the crucial point plainly enough that even the education profession can understand: "Kids tend to learn that which they study, and they tend to learn it in rough proportion to the amount of time they spend studying it."

Only 2 percent of the 3,000 institutions of higher education have core curricula. Students can graduate from 36 percent of America's colleges and universities without having taken a single history course, as at the university where the "humanities requirement (so to speak) can be satisfied with a course on interior decorating. So, perhaps it is gratifying that only slightly more than half (58 percent) of the 696 seniors failed the 87-question examination (assuming 80 percent correct answers for a passing grade).

There are 57 million Americans with bachelor's degrees that certify... not much. Colleges and universities are failing to do what high schools fail to do in the first place. There, years ago, a survey of 11th graders (80 percent of whom were studying history that year) found that 67 percent could not place the Civil War in the correct half century.

A large part of the problem, says Finn, is that the education profession is pursuing the wrong goals. It is "obsessed" — Finn's word — with whether the student's mind is functioning and is not sufficiently emphasizing the business of actually learning things. Finn distinguishes between skills and knowledge:

"Our educators in general are so transfixed by cognitive skill that they have concluded that as long as you are thinking, it does not really matter whether you know anything; as long as you are reading, it does not matter what you are reading; as long as you are able to analyze, it does not matter whether you possess knowledge worth analyzing."

It matters, especially concerning history and the history of Western Civilization, of which the American experience is a given product. Without an understanding of that civilization, the passions of the Puritans, for example, are unintelligible.

That example is given by Prof. Paul Gagnon of the University of Massachusetts, Boston. He has written with proper urgency about the civic importance of awakening young people to history's fascinations. Young people are susceptible to the enchantments of the muse Clio because they are developing their identities and want to locate themselves in the stream of life.

The reason for studying history is not extract from it tidy potted little "lessons" about this or that particular problem. On the contrary, the basic lesson to be learned concerns the particularity of events. That particularity prevents the compilation of pat answers to "recurring" situations.

The study of history is the best way and, other than by bitter experience, perhaps the only way to be inoculated against the terrible simplifiers, those people who lead nations into trouble. It is better to learn from history than from, say, the semi-sponsorship of failed coups the role of accident and irrationality in history. A polity that is well-schooled concerning the core of history — contingency — will be a prudent and patient polity.

The study of history should, says Gagnon, encourage citizens to appreciate "the necessary combination — sometimes accidental — of circumstances, ideas and leadership" that exists when democracy flourishes. Such a combination does not occur automatically or last indefinitely, so "the truly tough part of civic education is to prepare people for bad times." Students should learn what has been required, and will be required again, to preserve democracy: "Hard work, high costs and genuine sacrifice — toll, tears and taxes."

To the indelicate use of that last word, The Education President says: "Er... it's time to recess."

The education profession is pursuing the wrong goals.

Markets boycott pesticide produce

WASHINGTON — Five small supermarket chains in the United States and Canada have pledged to phase out all produce treated with cancer-causing pesticides. For their trouble they have been lambasted by the very agency that is supposed to take the consumer's side — the Environmental Protection Agency. Despite the EPA's sleepy record of pesticide regulation, it can't seem to stomach the idea of someone else doing the job.

EPA Assistant Administrator Linda Fisher condemned the supermarket chains, saying that decisions about pesticides should be taken out of the marketplace and put back in the government, where they belong.

But if marketplace waited for the government to act, it would wait a long time. The EPA has spent the last two years studying one of the pesticides that the supermarkets are worried about, although it had information 10 years ago that the pesticide could cause cancer.

The supermarket chains, like the public, simply got tired of waiting. "We've gotten to the point where the industry, the media and everyone else is making decisions on pesticides while the EPA is sitting around sucking its thumb," one independent research scientist who specializes in pesticides told our reporter Greg Moore.

The chains are ABCO Supermarkets in Arizona, Raley's in California and Nevada, Petrin's in California, Provigo Distribution Inc. in Canada and Bread and Circus in Boston. Their gradual phase-out of produce treated with cancer-causing pesticides will be a small ripple for consumers, but the announcement made a big splash in the grocery industry.

The Food Marketing Institute, the supermarket industry group in Washington, D.C., sent a menacing letter to its members warning them not to participate in the phase-out. The institute called the tactic "economic terrorism."

On the list of pesticides the stores want to phase out are ethylenebithiocarbamates or EBDCs. They are used on one-third of all fruits and vegetables grown in the United States. The EPA suspects something might be wrong with EBDCs, but the agency is taking its own sweet time figuring that out. Evidence linking EBDCs to cancer was available as early as 1974. The EPA circulated a memo in 1979 reporting that tests of EBDCs on mice resulted in liver tumors.

In 1982, the EPA had closed meetings with the pesticide industry and decided to impose minimal restrictions on EBDCs. The Natural Resources Defense Council, a private environmental group, sued the EPA over the decision to lock environmentalists out of those meetings, and the EPA said it wouldn't do that any more.

But it wasn't until 1987 that the EPA agreed to reconsider the rules on EBDCs. It has been promising a decision since May.

EBDC pesticides are made by four companies. They're waiting on the EPA too, and doing damage control in the meantime. The companies say they will reduce the number of crops treated with EBDCs from 73 to 13, but that is only window dressing. EBDCs are still used on major crops including wheat, tomatoes, potatoes, onions, grapes and sweet corn.

The makers of EBDCs have long maintained that most of the pesticide is removed by rain and washing before the fruit and vegetables pass anyone's lips. EPA officials told us they didn't know until last March that the residue reduction from washing could be significant, so now they're studying that too. Farmers have known about the washing theory for a long time.

The EPA is sitting around sucking its thumb.

Child care funding debated

United Press International

WASHINGTON — While Congress worked on child-care legislation, a report said today that real wages for child-care workers fell sharply during the last decade, leading to an increase in staff turnover and threatening quality.

A conference committee this week was to combine slightly different bills passed by the Senate and House that would increase funding for child care. Both bills would allow states to use some of the money for raising salaries, but neither directly allocates funds for that purpose.

Helen Blank, director of child-care issues for the Children's Defense Fund, said the legislation "will not by itself solve the salary crisis" in child care but will "make a start."

The study by the Child Care Employee Project in Oakland, Calif., funded by a consortium of foundations that includes the Ford Foundation, examined 237 day care centers in Atlanta, Boston, Detroit, Phoenix and Seattle.

The report said salaries adjusted for inflation fell 37 percent for teachers and 30 percent for assistants at child-care centers between 1977 and 1988. The average annual wage of $9,363 in 1988 was even lower than the federal poverty threshold of $9,431 for a family of three.

The study also found that many child-care teachers were the main wage earners in their household. Twenty-five percent accounted for more than two-thirds of their total household earnings, and the same percentage held a second job to supplement their income in 1988, up from 7 percent in 1977.

While wages fell, the study said, the percentage of teachers leaving their job each year soared from 15 percent to 41 percent.

Congress tries to undo spending cuts

WASHINGTON — Optimistic congressional leaders hoped to find a way today to undo $16.1 billion in automatic spending cuts ordered by President Bush.

House Budget Committee Chairman Leon Panetta, D-Calif., said Monday he was "confident" the House and Senate would find a way, perhaps by the end of this week, to undo the cuts ordered by Bush.

White House spokesman Martin Fitzwater said he did not know if the president favors keeping the cuts in place, rather than having them rescinded by Congress as had been widely expected, but said, "We will continue to work with Congress to get a budget-reduction bill."

Bush signed an order Monday canceling $16.1 billion in federal spending after Congress failed to meet a self-imposed deadline for reducing the budget deficit.

But congressional leaders played down the initial impact of the automatic, across-the-board spending cuts, called sequestration, saying drastic personnel or program reductions would not occur for weeks, giving lawmakers time to reverse the reduced spending.

"The major impacts will not be felt until 30 or even 60 days down the line," Senate Budget Committee Chairman James Baker, D-Tenn., said of the automatic cuts.

Damage to Galveston not major

HOUSTON — Galveston Mayor Jan Coggeshall called city residents "very lucky" after Hurricane Jerry battered the coastal city with its 100 mph wind gusts, leaving three people dead and causing $8 million in damage.

"We've had power lines down, trees down, that kind of damage, but nothing in the category of a major storm," Coggeshall said Monday after taking a helicopter tour of the city to survey the damage.

The hurricane, which roared ashore east of Galveston and was downgraded to a tropical depression early Monday, toppled trees and power lines, littered coastal Texas with heaps of debris and spawned at least five tornadoes.

Stock prices recover

NEW YORK — The Dow Jones industrial average surged 88.13 points Monday, recovering about half of its losses in Friday's steep drop.

However, the average was down 26.24 to 2631.14 shortly after the market opened this morning in moderate trading of after the nation's August trade deficit was reported higher than expected.

Declines led advances 757-321 among the 1,519 issues crossing the NYSE tape. Early turnover amounted to about 18,980,000 shares.

Record imports pushed the nation's merchandise trade deficit up a steep $2.5 billion in August to a seasonally adjusted $10.77 billion, the highest level since last December, the Commerce Department reported early Tuesday.

From United Press International reports.

East Germans demonstrate

United Press International

BERLIN — More than 100,000 people marched through the East German city of Leipzig in the largest pro-democracy demonstration in 36 years, publicly backing high-level calls for the resignation of hard-line communist leaders.

Witnesses said police did not interfere with the massive protest Monday, in contrast to recent anti-government demonstrations that police violently crushed with clubs and water cannon.

East Germany's government-run television, radio and news agency reported the Leipzig protest — an unusual move that followed official calls for a freer media and other changes in the hard-line communist state.

Well over 100,000 demonstrators chanting "Free elections!" "We are the people!" and "The country needs new men!" marched 3 miles through East Germany's second-largest city after traditional Monday evening peace prayers at the St. Nikolai Church, virtually filling the broad avenue, witnesses said.

Some estimates put the number of demonstrators at more than 120,000, easily more than double the 50,000-strong crowd that marched through Leipzig Oct. 9. That protest was called the largest in East Germany since 1953.

The West German daily newspaper Bild said Monday that 13 of 15 regional party secretaries have called for the resignation of East German leader Erich Honecker and the entire 21-man Politburo amid fears of nationwide strikes and continued massive demonstrations.

The report, which could not be confirmed independently, said Honecker and other Politburo hard-liners had turned down a demand by the officials that an extraordinary session of the Central Committee be held to discuss the growing demands for reform.

Bild said the officials were demanding wide reforms, including more freedom to travel.

Crusading paper bombed in Colombia

United Press International

BOGOTA, Colombia — A car bomb exploded in front of the offices of a crusading anti-drug newspaper in the town of Bucaramanga, killing three people and wounding six others, police said.

Police said they suspected the blast Monday was the work of one of the drug cartel-funded hit squads formed in August to battle the Colombian government in its fight against the country's cocaine barons.

Since the cartels' declaration of "total war," more than 150 bombs have exploded in Colombia, killing at least 10 people and causing millions of dollars in losses.

Also Monday Carlos Gomez Zapata, awaiting possible extradition to the United States on drug-trafficking charges, escaped before dawn from a hospital in Barranquilla 775 miles north of Bogota, a national police spokesman said.

Gomez was arrested Sept. 21 and was to be moved to a top security jail in Bogota this week prior to his extradition hearing. No details of his escape were made available.

Police said a Renault Four compact car filled with 150 pounds of dynamite went off at 6:10 a.m. at the headquarters of the Vanguardia Liberal newspaper in the center of Bucaramanga, 195 miles north of the capital.

One of the victims, Jose Noe Garcia, a machine operator with the paper for 32 years, was killed instantly. Two others died later at a hospital.

The explosion damaged 15 businesses and homes within two blocks of the newspaper, downed power lines and burst water pipes, police said.

It was the third bomb attack against an anti-drug newspaper in six weeks. On Sept. 2 a 300-pound bomb destroyed the Bogota headquarters of the El Espectador newspaper, wounding 83 people.

IN BRIEF

Clippers lose Benjamin to Italy

INGLEWOOD, Calif. — The Los Angeles Clippers lost another player to an Italian team Monday when center Benoit Benjamin announced he has signed a one-year contract with Philips Milan.

The enigmatic 7-footer, who averaged career-highs of 16.4 points and 8.8 rebounds for the Clippers last season, said he would not "play for peanuts," so the former Creighton star decided to play overseas.

"At this point I think it's best for me to get a fresh start and get some of the negative influences that surround Benoit Benjamin away from me," he said during a news conference at a YMCA gymnasium. "(I want to) totally concentrate and showcase my talents."

FOOTBALL

Reich leads Bills to late win

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. — Frank Reich said he did not feel like a hero after his first NFL start. It might be hard to convince the Los Angeles Rams otherwise.

Reich, who spent the last three years with the Buffalo Bills as Jim Kelly's backup, made a successful debut Monday night, engineering one of the greatest comebacks in the 29-year history of the Buffalo franchise.

Reich threw two scoring passes in the final 2:32, including an eight yarder to Andre Reed with 16 seconds left, lifting Buffalo to a 23-20 victory over the previously undefeated Rams.

"I really don't feel like I was the hero," said Reich, a former Maryland star called in to start after Kelly separated his shoulder against Indianapolis last week. "It was a team victory. We were able to score enough points to win and I'm thrilled about that."

The Bills had taken a 16-13 lead, their first advantage of the game, at the 12:37 mark of the final quarter when Reich flipped a one-yard TD pass to running back Thurman Thomas.

AUTO RACING

Agabashian passes away

ALAMO, Calif. — Memorial services are pending for Fred Agabashian, a former Indianapolis 500 driver who died Friday. He was 76.

Agabashian began racing midgets during the early 1930s in California and finished ninth in his first Indianapolis 500 in 1947. He eventually appeared in 10 more Indy races during the 1940s and 1950s, winning the pole position for the 1952 race driving the Cummins Diesel Special.

His best Indianapolis finish was fourth in 1953.

Following his racing career, Agabashian worked for Champion Spark Plug Co., appearing at schools to talk about safety.

He retired from Champion 1978 and later worked as a color commentator for the Indianapolis Motor Speedway's radio network.

He also concentrated on his hobby of car restoration.

Washington clips Canadiens

MONTREAL — The last time Patrick Roy lost an NHL regular-season game at the Montreal Forum, second-year Canadiens Coach Pat Burns hadn't been given the job yet.

But that streak came to an end Monday night, when Dale Hunter scored at 3:37 of overtime, his second goal of the game, to lift the Washington Capitals to a 4-3 victory over the Canadiens.

The goal made Roy the losing goaltender at the Forum for the first time in two seasons. Roy hadn't lost a regular-season game at home since Feb. 13, 1988.

"Sure, I am disappointed that my home streak has come to an end," Roy said. "But I not going to think about getting another streak together. I knew as long as we won, my regular-season streak would keep going."

Hunter scored his fifth goal of the season when he took a pass from Doug Wickcheteer and lifted a high shot over the right shoulder of Roy.

Seminole stings Hornets

'Noles getting prepared for demanding finish to season

From staff reports

ORLANDO — Faced with a killer stretch to end the season, the Seminole High School boys volleyball team picked up a little momentum by defeating Bishop Moore 15-13, 17-19, 15-3 on Monday night.

Now 5-6 overall, Seminole returns to action this evening at home against Oviedo. On Thursday, Seminole travels to Lake Mary before finishing the season at home next Tuesday with a match against Lake Brantley.

Currently, Lake Mary, Lake Brantley and Oviedo are the top three teams in the Seminole Athletic Conference.

"Our next three opponents are the top three teams in the conference," said Seminole coach Byvester Wynn. "After tonight, I think we're ready for Oviedo. The last time we played them, it was in a tournament. We played them pretty well in the first game, but we didn't do so well in the second."

"I think we can beat all three. All three are real good teams. We're going to try to do our best. If the guys play up to their potential, they may be able to defeat these teams."

In both the first and second games against Bishop Moore on Monday night, the Seminoles had to rally from behind. They were able to come back and win the first game and took the second game to deuce three times before losing.

"In the second game, we were down 13-6 and we lost 17-19," said Wynn. "We played hard. In the third game, we just came out as a team and played basic bump, set and spike."

Seminole was led by the strong net play by Scott Sukup and Denny Clayton. Over the whole match, Clayton had 14 kills while Sukup had four.

"They really went at it in the last game," Wynn said. "The whole team played real well in that third game. We didn't give them a chance to do too much."

Girls
MASTERS ACADEMY at

ORANGEWOOD CHRISTIAN
MAITLAND — Mimi Sheets and Kate Belanger both played well to lead the Orangewood Christian girls' volleyball team to a 15-4, 15-6 win over Masters Academy in IA-District 8 action Monday night.

In Monday's junior varsity match, Masters beat Orangewood 17-15, 11-15, 15-13.

Now 11-7 with the win, Orangewood Christian returns to action tonight with a 6 p.m. home match against Loch Lows Prep. Masters Academy is now 4-15.

Against Masters, Sheets was 10 for 14 from the serving line with three kills and three aces. Belanger was five for seven from the serving line with four kills and one ace.

"I'm pleased with performance because they played together," said

SANFORD HERALD PLAYER OF THE WEEK

Tribe's Wiggins bombs Edgewater

By MARK BLYTHE
Herald sports writer

Seminole's Kerry Wiggins broke two school records, passing for five touchdowns and 376 yards Friday night, to be named the Sanford Herald's Player of the Week.

Wiggins guided the Tribe to a 42-14 rout of Edgewater, previously ranked ninth in Class 4A, as Seminole improved to 4-1 overall and 1-0 in the district. The win vaulted Seminole into the Class 4A state poll, where they are currently ranked 10th.

Other players who were considered this week were Octavius Holliday of Lyman (85 yards rushing and 67 yards in pass receptions), Lake Brantley quarterback Clint Johnson (150 yards and two touchdowns rushing, 105 yards and two touchdowns passing), Rodney Kilborn of Lake Mary (an outstanding game at defensive back), Lake Howell's Cortez Graves (124 yards and a touchdown rushing) and Frank Diaz of Oviedo (34 yards rushing).

"Kerry is starting to understand what we want from him," Blake said. "He knows now not to force anything. He takes whatever the defense will give him."

The Edgewater defense never had a chance as Wiggins constantly exploited its weaknesses. Wiggins found ways to score, as he rushed for a TD to go along with his five scoring passes.

Blake was happy to see that his team was clicking, and although the Tribe could have gone to a running game, he elected to stay with the passing game.

"We could have run the football."

Editor's note: Seminole's Kerry Wiggins, who passed for a school-record 376 yards and five touchdowns on Friday night, is this week's Sanford Herald player of the week.

Other players who were considered this week include:

• Octavius Holliday of Lyman rushed for 85 yards and had 67 yards in pass receptions.

• Lake Brantley quarterback Clint Johnson rushed for 150 yards and two touchdowns and passed for 105 yards and two touchdowns.

• Rodney Kilborn of Lake Mary played an outstanding game of defensive back.

• Lake Howell's Cortez Graves had 124 yards and a touchdown rushing.

• Frank Diaz of Oviedo had 34 yards rushing.

Seminole's Kerry Wiggins

Blake said. "But the offense was in a groove. And I'm a believer that if you're team is doing something well, why go away from it?"

Seminole totally manhandled Edgewater both offensively and defensively. The Tribe has allowed 14 points twice this year. Seminole's defense has been overlooked this season, largely due to its powerful offense.

"We have two tough games coming up and our defense is doing the job," Blake said. "We've given up 14 points twice this season, and with our offense that's good. We'll have to continue to do the things that have worked for us so far."

Blake knows both his offense and defense will have to play their best this Friday when the 'Noles host

Lake Howell, which is ranked fourth in Class 5A. Blake also knows it will take another brilliant performance by Wiggins for Seminole to keep pace with Lake Howell's potent offensive attack.

"Kerry will have to find out what the defense will give him," Blake said. "We can do a lot of things and he'll have to find out what is working. We can run and pass the ball. We'll go with whatever puts points on the board."

Wiggins, who now has passed for over 1,000 yards, and Seminole know that the only teams that have had success against Lake Howell have moved the ball through the air and will look to put the ball in the air as much as possible.

SAC bowling dominated by Seminole

From staff reports

Seminole's boys and girls both extended their leads Monday night in Seminole Athletic Conference bowling action at Fair Lanes in Longwood.

Both teams will need the leads as they roll in the non-conference match next week, allowing the other conference teams a chance to gain ground.

The Tribe boys lead with 97 points, followed by Lake Mary with 88½, Oviedo with 72½, Lake Howell with 69½, Lyman with 65½, and DeLand with 45.

Seminole's boys downed Lake Brantley 9-3 with Luke Ingerman rolling a match-high game of 215, and a team-high 486 series. Seminole was led by David Adams who had a team-high game of 203 and a match-high series of 570.

Lake Mary downed Oviedo 9-6 led by Tony Cory who rolled a match-high game of 208, and a series of 564. Ray Valesquez led the Lions with a game of 205 and a match-high series of 588.

Lake Howell edged Lyman 8-7 led by Brian Patterson's game of 215 and match-high series of 607. The Greyhounds Rob Craig rolled a match-high game of 246 along with a series of 566.

Sunniland, Stromberg stay unbeaten with routs

By DEAN SMITH
Herald correspondent

SANFORD — Sunniland Corporation and Stromberg-Carlson remained undefeated as The Barn Burners moved over .500 and into sole possession of third place in Sanford Men's Class C Slowpitch Softball Fall League action at Chase Park on Monday night.

Sunniland crushed Ken Rummel Chevrolet 15-1. Stromberg whipped RMC Industries 14-7, and the Burners held off Harcar Aluminum Products 5-2. The standings have Sunniland and Stromberg at 3-0, The Barn at 2-1, Ken Rummel at 1-3 and RMC and Harcar at 0-3.

Sunniland made short work of Ken Rummel by scoring six runs in each of the first two innings. They had six hits in the first and seven hits in the second. Rummel scored its lone run in the fifth inning.

Leading the Sunniland 21-hit attack were Chuck McMullen and winning pitcher Rocky Morris with three hits each. McMullen had a double and three runs scored, and Morris scored twice.

Others adding to the attack were Craig Spitt (double, single, two runs scored), Ron Carroll (two singles, two runs scored), Shannon Spitt (two singles), Chris Spitt (single, two runs scored), Dan Sacco, Mike Mauby, Tom Moore and Rick Tubb (each with a single, run scored) and Tom Moore, Rick Ciolek and Brent Wallace (each with a single).

For Rummel, it was Cary Kender and David Goldstick with two hits each, Brian Curtis with a single and one run scored, and Tom Wilk, Chuck Lambert and Grady Leggett with one single each.

In the second game, Stromberg scored four runs in the first inning and three runs in the third to take a 7-1 lead. But RMC got a three-run home run from Mike D'Amico to cut the score to 7-4. RMC crept closer.

Cold, smoking, drugs worsen arterial spasm

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a 28-year-old female with Raynaud's disease. I've been to many doctors, as well as two vascular surgeons, and they haven't come up with any real reason for my symptoms. My weight has decreased from 170 to 135 pounds in about one year. Is this related? I've been to so many doctors, I'm frustrated and ready to give up.

not the phenomenon, you are a candidate for vasodilator drug therapy or sympathectomy. Weight loss is not usually a symptom of Raynaud's disease, but it can be a symptom of some of the diseases that underlie the phenomenon. Don't give up. Request a referral to a vascular laboratory at a teaching hospital where super-specialists may be able to discover a cause for your problem and suggest treatment. Because lupus is a common cause of Raynaud's phenomenon, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report.

DEAR READER: Marked arterial spasm of unknown cause, associated with disruption of circulation, is called Raynaud's disease. The spasm occurs in cyclical attacks, affecting the fingers and toes—and, occasionally, the nose and tongue. It may last for minutes or hours, during which the involved tissue is deprived of oxygen; this can result in pronounced skin changes (tightness, shininess, ulceration) over the digits, possibly progressing to gangrene.

Patients with Raynaud's disease must protect themselves against cold, avoid smoking and be cautious of certain medications (such as beta blockers) because all three factors accentuate arterial spasm.

Raynaud's disease is treated with drugs, such as prazosin and calcium-channel blockers, that relax spasm. In severe cases, sympathectomy (surgery to sever nerves to the arteries) may be necessary.

I am concerned that you may have an underlying disorder causing arterial spasm. Raynaud's phenomenon is secondary to a number of diseases, such as rheumatoid arthritis, scleroderma (a disease of the body's connective tissue) and lupus erythematosus. It's important to distinguish between Raynaud's disease and Raynaud's phenomenon, because treatment of the latter condition involves therapy for the underlying disorder.

If your doctors are convinced that you have the disease and North's reopening one no-trump showed 12-14 high-card points. Whether South's jump to three spades was meant as forcing or invitational, North was glad to go to game with maximum values and nothing wasted in hearts. Since East was marked: t the spade ace for his opening bid, declarer had no trouble starting out right. He won the heart ace in dummy and led a low spade. East had to play the ace and now switched to the king of diamonds. South correctly assumed that West could not hold a singleton diamond (he had not led that suit), so he let East hold the trick. But he won the next diamond with the ace and cashed the queen of hearts. He played a spade to dummy's king, played A-K of clubs and ruffed a club in dummy. Then came the remaining high heart, on which he discarded his losing diamond. West ruffed, but that was the last trick for the defense. If declarer had taken the first diamond trick, at this point West could play a diamond to East, and another diamond would promote the setting trick in trumps. Yes, West should have led the jack of diamonds at trick one. Of course we know that, because we are looking at all the hands, but there is some logic to it. For one thing, the jack of diamonds should help in promoting tricks. For another thing, East might have risked bidding diamonds because he knew that that would be a better source of tricks if the opponents were to play in spades.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
Oct. 18, 1989

In the year ahead you are likely to establish more ambitious goals for yourself than you have for the past few years. Your motivations will be stronger and so will your chances for success.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you are too insistent about putting your self-interest first, there's a good chance you'll come out last. The secret to your success today is to want for others what you want for yourself. Libra, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-9428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Today you might kid yourself into thinking you have all the answers where, in reality, you are viewing issues only from a limited perspective. Keep an open mind so you can learn from others.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Take care no money changes hands today if you have involvements with people about whom you know little. To be on the safe side, it's best to wait until you get to know them better.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Do not let others make decisions for you today that affect your reputation. If you're going to make any mistakes, it's best you do it yourself so that you can learn what not to do next time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Facts and figures should be double checked today so that you do not make errors predicted upon unsound reasoning. Ask a reliable associate to back up your play.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Judge a new acquaintance for yourself today, instead of being overly influenced by the opinion of another. They may have reasons for disliking one another that don't affect you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It isn't fair to expect your partner to live up to your expectations if you don't try to do the same. Parity is essential for a successful alliance today.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

Care must be taken today in your conversations with people in general. Although you may not intend any disrespect, there's a possibility that off-the-cuff comments could be misconstrued.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) What might look like a fantastic bargain today could turn out to be all hassle and no steak. Don't make any impulsive financial commitments or expenditures.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Lady Luck could be a trifle more fickle than usual today, so play things close to the vest. Don't count on her to fill in an inside straight if you're playing a poor hand.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Before passing on information to others today, be sure to have the facts verified, especially if it pertains to a matter of importance.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It's well and good to be concerned about a casual acquaintance, but it's best not to go too far today, such as loaning money you can't afford.
