Sheriff's Office

Investigation

The Seminole County Sheriff's Office is continuing its investigation into a suspicious incident reported in Heathrow Monday.

According to authorities, a boy got off a school bus at about 3:45 p.m. in the area of Bridgewater Drive and Bristol Cove in Heathrow. Two people, a black male and female, asked from their car if the boy could help them look for their lost dog.

The boy reportedly said no, and returned to the bus. The boy went home and told his parents about the incident and they contacted the sheriff's office.

SCSO authorities reported Tuesday that someone did indeed call one of the Heathrow gate entrances yesterday morning (hours before this incident) to inquire about a lost dog. The caller evidently did not leave specific information about where in Heathrow the dog was lost, nor did they say whom they were, but the caller indicated they were looking for a dog. It is possible this has a connection to the incident.

County seeks settlement of 13-year-old case

By Christopher Patton
Managing Editor

After more than a decade of legal wrangling, the Seminole County Board of Commissioners are offering a settlement to Bob Dance Dodge.

The U.S. Highway 17-92 car dealership was cited four times in the past 13 years for violation of the county's ordinances for display of banners, pennants, streamers and balloons.

The previous three citations were

County commissioners lower Bob Dance Dodge code violation fines by $15,000 either dismissed or paid off, but a $21,250 fine remained as well as a recorded lien against the property.

Bob Dance requested the county board reduce the lien amount to $3,000 Tuesday.

Staff recommended the board not reduce the amount, however, suggested if commissioners did reduce the fine to not reduce it by less than $11,750, which was based on the amount of a 47-day repeat violation in 2001.

"On occasion there has been other violations on the property up to and including just a couple of weeks ago," said Deborah Leigh, county senior code enforcement officer.

Other large dealerships have violated the county's ordinances for display advertising, according to Leigh, but others have come into compliance before being fined.

The section of U.S. Highway 17-92 Bob Dance Dodge is located on is between incorporated Longwood and Sanford, which both have more lenient sign regulations, said Commissioner Dick Van Der Weide.

Traffic Officer Ray Irvin of the Sanford Police Department patrols for speeders in front of Hamilton Elementary School on Mellorville Avenue in Sanford during Safety Zone Awareness Week. Sanford police officers, as well as other local law enforcement agencies, are out in force this week as part of awareness week. The traffic officers, led by the Seminole Community Traffic Safety Team (CTST), are patrolling school zones in an attempt to make the roadways safer for local students. "Our presence in the school zones is to make people aware that school is open and that children are present in these areas again," said Cleo Cohen, public information officer for the Sanford Police Department. "During the summer people tend to forget about the presence of schools in the neighborhoods. This will bring public awareness to the situation." According to Cohen, although the officers are focusing on speeders, if another obvious violation is made the driver will be ticketed. "The department will be strictly enforcing the traffic laws," Cohen said. "People will be stopped and ticketed." Officers of the Sanford Police Department are patrolling all the school zones in their jurisdiction, however, a focus has been placed on Hamilton Elementary School on Mellorville Avenue.

July passenger numbers soar at Sanford airport

By Dan Ping

SANFORD — The number of passengers traveling through Orlando Sanford International Airport increased significantly in July, a sign that is encouraging for local airline officials.

Still, overall traffic is down almost 20 percent for the year.

Airport officials have been predicting for several months now that passenger counts would substantially increase during the summer months. Larry Gouldthorpe reported to the Sanford Airport Authority that July represented the breakthrough month. Gouldthorpe's company, TBI Airport Management Inc., oversees the day-to-day operations of international and domestic terminals for the airport authority.

"Most of the increase on the international side is primarily because of the very robust UK market," Gouldthorpe said. "In our budget we conservatively predicted a 5 percent increase for July. The actual increase was 22 percent."

An improved currency exchange rate which makes travel to the U.S. a bargain for the British is the chief reason for the increased traffic, Gouldthorpe said.

Overall, international travel was up 4 percent in July compared with July 2002. On the domestic side, traffic was up 25 percent in July, a substantial increase considering the airport lost a large domestic carrier in December 2002.

"Vacation Express had 32,000 passengers in July 2002," Gouldthorpe said. "With the loss of that carrier, domestic travel was still well above last year's figures."

Pan Am led all domestic carriers with 24,000 passengers. Two new airlines, Southeast and TransMeridian Airlines (TMA), were close behind with 20,000 and 14,000 respectively.

In July 58,000 domestic passengers traveled through Orlando Sanford

Vigil slated for Seminole pets

A dog in Missouri drew national attention last week when he cheated death by outlasting carbon monoxide gas administered to euthanize him.

The dog, a 1-year-old Basenji now named Quentin, was turned in to St. Louis Animal Control when his owner decided to move to an apartment complex that didn't allow animals.

When he was not adopted within the animal con-trol's allotted eight days, it seemed as if Quentin would become another euthanasia statistic.

"People should realize that when they take on a pet they should think of it as a family member and keep it for the duration of its life," said Gloria Wade, founder of Protectors of Companion Animals, Inc., in Seminole County, a nonprofit organization. "The animals depend on us. If we move so does the pet."

Iraqi Diary: Ambushed

Editor's note: Staff Sergeant Charlie C. Carlson III, son of Sanford historian Charlie C. Carlson II, is currently deployed in Baghdad, Iraq as part of the 549th Military Police Company. Carlson has provided a continuing journal of his experiences in Iraq, which the Herald will publish over the next several weeks.

May 30, 2003 I heard another glimmer of hope about us still leaving earlier than November. We deserve it. I mean look at what we have done in less than a month. We have already turned over three zones right after opening a new police station. Those areas were turned over to 307 MP Company. Now we control areas 21, 22, and 50. After that is done we have no more areas to work. Plus we already started a new police station there as well. Also IPTF, a U.S. contractor called the Dynco Corporation will be here in the next few weeks to train the Iraqi Police.

June 1, 2003 I don't check my boots when I put them on in hopes I get bit by something and have to be sent home. There was a ray of hope when someone said they saw one of those big black scorpions in our living area. It was not in my shoes or boots, which is only indicative of my luck.

Yesterday, we provided order and discipline while over 200 Iraqi police got their new uniforms issued to them. It is a light blue short sleeve shirt with dark blue pants and a dark blue brassard with the Iraqi flag at the top.

I spent $5 for ice as everyone puts in $5 a month in the ice fund.

June 3, 2003 I was in charge of the mid-shift patrol last night and had four Humvees [4 teams with two interpreters]. We were in Saddam City and the place was crowded with markets and people.

About 2100 at night, I was in the lead vehicle with Sgt. Mann, as we were moving down one street, when Boak, our gunner, yelled "shots fired at 1200!" I looked ahead just in time to see a few tracers arcing overhead and then more shots rang out from automatic weapons fire on my right.

I reached back and pulled Boak out of the turret as rounds hit the side of our

SEMINOLE SUMMARY

A GLANCE AROUND OUR COUNTY

Fiance threatens to ground family's high-flying vacation

DEAR ABBY: I have saved for two years to take my children — ages 7, 11 and 13 — on a dream vacation. My kids have never been on a plane, and they are very excited about the prospect.

The problem is my fiance, "Drew." He wants to come with us. However, he has just admitted to me that he is deathly afraid of flying. He wants us to change our plans and drive instead. It would require an 18-hour drive each way.

The kids will be very disappointed if they have to give up their first flight, and we'd all be miserable spending that much time confined in a car. We'd be tired before we arrived, and worst of all, four days of our one-week vacation would be spent in transit.

I have offered to pay for Drew's gas or train ticket so he can meet us there. I even found the name of a psychologist who specializes in phobias, but Drew won't fly, take a train or see a "shrink."

Drew claims if I "really loved him," I would accept him, fear and all, and return the plane tickets. He also says if we go without him, the engagement is over.

I understand that Drew's fears are very real, and I am sympathetic to his problem. However, I feel it is unreasonable for him to expect us to make such a drastic change of plans to accommodate him — especially since we are leaving in less than a month. Am I unsympathetic?

TRYING TO BE REASONABLE IN RALEIGH

DEAR TRYING: I don't think so. You made an important promise to your children, and it should be kept. A mature individual would understand that and not twist your arm with an ultimatum.

If I were you, I'd take the children on that trip and let the chips fall where they may. Your fiance appears to be controlling and self-centered. He does not have your children's best interests at heart, and his attempts to control you and them show what kind of stepfather he will be. Please think twice about tying the knot with Drew.

DEAR ABBY: One of my co-workers, "Roger," conducts business for his second job — real estate — every day on company time. Everyone in the office can hear him "selling" on the phone.

My office mates and I find Roger's real estate paperwork scattered all over the place — left in the copier or fax machine, even in the lunchroom. He is constantly surfing the Internet looking at houses.

Roger is a nice person with a sweet wife and three little kids. However, my office mates and I see the side of him that is without morals.

I, for one, don't know how to treat him. All employees sign a "code of conduct" each year in order to continue working for our company. The document clearly states that employees are to report anyone conducting outside or personal business on company time.

I am torn about what to do. I don't want to ruin this man's career, but I feel I have broken a pledge by not reporting him. What's the answer, Abby?

WORKING WITH A CHEAT IN MICHIGAN

DEAR WORKING: The person in the office who is closest to Roger should have a heart-to-heart with him, conveying the sentiments of the rest of the employees. If that doesn't do the trick, then all of Roger's co-workers — including you — should sign a letter to the bosses informing them about the breach in company policy. The names should be listed in alphabetical order.

Roger's behavior is not only dishonest, but it also undermines office morale. A warning from his supervisor may teach him a lesson and get him to shape up. If he's lucky, he won't be dismissed.

Disco cleaning: New car washes to make a splash

By Dan Ping
Editor

Motorists traveling across the Lake Jessup bridge are all too familiar with insects.

One trip across the bridge will leave bugs of all shapes and sizes splattered on windshields and hoods.

"You always ask yourself, should I turn the wipers on and risk smearing the windshield with dead bugs?" said Alan Norris.

Regardless of your decision, Norris has a solution. He plans to build two car washes, named Happy Bays, on both sides of the bridge — one in Sanford and one in Oviedo — with convenient access to State Road 417.

But these aren't your run-of-the-mill car washes. With disco balls, Lawrence Welk bubbles and golden oldies playing on the sound system, these self-serve car washes are guaranteed to generate buzz.

"This is a totally unique facility that you've never seen before," said Norris, who owns Choo-Choo Car Wash in Sanford.

The first thing customers will notice is an 1950s style movie marquee in front of six self-serve bays and two automated bays. It's the automated bays where the real fun is at, Norris said.

"When you pull up, you can swipe your credit card, so you don't have to have a pocket full of quarters," Norris explained. "You'll choose your wash and you'll receive a message to tune your radio to a specific frequency. Once you pull into the bay, it will fill up with bubbles, the lights will dim, a disco ball will come on and you'll hear '50s music through your radio. The disco ball and lights on the walls will flash in tune with the music you're listening to."

Norris said the experience is so unique, some customers choose to go through a second time.

"There are five Happy Bays in Arkansas and they are very popular," Norris said. "The kids just go crazy over it."

The Sanford and Oviedo Happy Bays facilities will be the first franchises in the Central Florida market. In fact, retro-style car washes will be the first outside of Arkansas.

"Shell Spivey, the owner and creator of Happy Bays, wants to use this area as a test market," Norris said. "If it takes off like we think it will, there will be Happy Bays all over the country."

Spivey is a self-proclaimed '50s fanatic and thought a 1950s style car wash would stand out in an industry with little brand identity.

"If you build a car wash that is so unique that when people drive by it, it will stay in their mind, and if somebody asks them about that '50s car wash — what you have done is branded your car wash," Spivey says.

Norris noted that operators of Happy Bays franchises will spend several thousand dollars installing features that do not directly relate to cleaning cars. However, those costs are recouped, he said, because you don't lose customers when another newer car wash opens.

"This is so unique, any other car wash that opens will pale in comparison," Norris said.

The facilities will be open 24 hours a day. During regular business hours, Happy Bays will offer hand waxing and buffing services. There will also be a large covered area with vacuums and trash bins.

Norris said he plans to emphasize local history at each facility through the use of large, mural paintings.

"We want to promote the heritage of the community so we're having local artists design murals," Norris said. "We'll also use the marquee to promote community events."

The Sanford murals will include 1950s scenes from the old Sanford Zoo, the riverfront, the stadium, the Ritz Theater and the downtown area.

The Sanford Happy Bays will be located on East Lake Mary Boulevard between U.S. Highway 17/92 and the Seminole County Schools administration building.

vehicle. The lieutenant said to move on through as fast as we could. We were sitting ducks with fire hitting us from both sides. I could see civilians ducking and running for cover as one of our attackers went over a wall and down the alley.

We drove on and went to the other police station. We got out and looked at the damage where the bullets had hit our vehicle. It turned out the vehicle I was riding in received nine rounds in the side, the second vehicle received zero, the third vehicle received four hits, and the last vehicle received one or two shots, plus they tried to roll a Molotov cocktail under the last vehicle which blew up just seconds after we passed. That armor is good.

They set up an ambush and unloaded on us, then ran like cowards. I am going back out there tonight and search for them. The hunt is on. The lieutenant is staying back as he has to do an after action report for the battalion commander.

We went down the alleys and through a maze of streets but found nothing. Sgt. Hunter thought he saw a weapon in a truck so we pulled that truck over and put the driver on the ground and searched his truck. No weapons. This was in the same spot we were ambushed. The driver, with hand raised, kept saying over and over again in English, "Bush is good, Bush is good, Bush is good."

I wasn't scared, just mad about that ambush. After 2300 curfew starts. We stop and search all vehicles out after curfew. Tonight, everyone seemed to be taking someone to the hospital. One was a little boy that was sick. His little brother was standing with his mother holding a toy truck.

It broke my heart to see that little boy so scared and holding his little toy truck. He was no older than my own youngest boy. We let them go on to the hospital. Then there was a pregnant lady. Then right next to the hospital a husband and wife being dropped off carrying their infant who did not look alive at all. I hope to God the infant is alive and well.

I had to put it out of my mind. Maybe the baby was asleep (God, I hope so).

The rest of the night was uneventful and we came back in about 0430.

June 8, 2003 I got my armor plates for my vest and put those in. The vest was very heavy as I also have 120 rounds of M-4 ammo and 20 shotgun shells. At first, I decided not to wear the plates, but after that last ambush I stuck the plates in my vest, and I do wear them (as uncomfortable and heavy as it is, but I will do anything to stay alive).

We've been conducting vehicle searches in the city. While we are searching one car another would be coming from the other direction. Three of us would stand in the middle of the road. (The other 9 were searching the other car). I would stand in the middle with the shotgun raised which pretty much made up people's minds to stop. Then the other two would search as I kept aim on the driver.

They sent Mac and his squad to get ice but he only got one block for the platoon and bought his own which he won't share. Ice is a great luxury, it is frozen water and there is nothing better than that.

I found out during tonight's meeting that in a few weeks we will train up the 307th MP company. We have to live that long, I think we can. Anyway, this is a sign we could leaving sooner as we no longer will be doing IPF escort and patrols which is direct support. We shall see how long this good news lasts before we get extended again. I've learned not to believe anything about this deployment.

Wal-Mart robbery leads to 4 arrests

From staff reports

A robbery at Wal-Mart on Orlando Drive (U.S. Highway 17-92) in Sanford led police to arrest four Palatka residents Monday.

According to Ronnie Valentine, loss prevention officer of the Wal-Mart store, 36-year-old Kimberly Jeneal Davis and 32-year-old Harrison Lee Edwards entered the store's men's department and began selecting items.

The two then continued shopping in the electronics department where they selected a $528.58 Panasonic DVD player.

After returning to the men's department, the two placed a pink sticker, similar to the ones used to verify returns at the store's customer service counter, on the DVD player and placed it in an empty Wal-Mart shopping bag they had brought into the store. They also placed the items from the men's department into the bag.

According to police reports, the couple proceeded to the checkout where they purchased school supplies, but did not attempt to pay for the DVD player or the men's items.

As the two attempted to exited the store, Valentine took Edwards into custody. Davis fled the store and handed the DVD player to the passenger of a brown Ford Contour with Florida tag H32 VCH, later identified as Michael A.

Edwards, 30.

The driver of the vehicle, Lashonda R. Johnson, 27, along with Michael A. Edwards, began to drive off, but were stopped by Sanford police officers.

The four suspects were charged with grand theft and are being held at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility in Sanford. Harrison Lee Edwards, Johnson and Michael A. Edwards were also charged with resisting officers without violence.

When Davis' vehicle was searched, officers discovered additional electronic items in the trunk. The items were removed and placed into evidence. The Wal-Mart items were photographed for evidence and returned to the store.

"To compete in that atmosphere has got to be tough," he said.

"It must drive this guy crazy to be in the circumstances where he feels the constraint of his location, and he's already been a great corporate citizen contributing to charities and everything else," Van Der Weide continued. "And the other thing to consider is the trend on 17-92 is for these car dealers to move out to I-4. I'm very hesitant to do anything to encourage these large property owners on 17-92 to move out to Rinehart Road or the I-4 area."

Commissioner Randy

Morris disagreed stating that he thought Bob Dance Dodge was a "chronic violator," and it has been an issue the county has been wrestling with even before any of the present commissioners were on the board.

"The board has bent over backward in this particular case to support this individual," he said.

Morris openly questioned what kind of message reducing the fine would send to other businesses on the highway corridor that do not violate the codes.

Instead of lowering the fines to $3,000, the board unanimously favored $6,000.

"I think a lot of this comes back to the earlier challenges in the 90s when there was all kind of attempts to try to claim their rights to advertise," said Chairman Daryl McLain.

Since Bob Dance Dodge has been in compliance in the last couple of years, McLain said he favored the fine reduction.

"I'm pretty sympathetic when comes to all this — businesses trying to sell products," Commissioner Grant Maloy said. "I can see where staff is coming just trying to interpret these codes."

Airport

International Airport (OSIA), compared with 46,000 in July 2002. International numbers were 115,678 in July compared to 111,352 in July 2002.

"I think the trend will continue," Gouldthorpe said, "particularly on the domestic side where all of the carriers are out performing our predictions."

Despite the solid gains in July, total traffic at OSIA is down 19 percent for the year, 592,000 January 2003 through July 2003 compared with 730,000 during the same period last year. Victor White, vice president of the Sanford Airport Authority, believes the airport could match last year's total numbers come December. One reason is passenger counts dropped drastically beginning September 2002. Also, new routes and new airlines have been added for the fall.

"We've got the new flights to Las Vegas, Rockford, Ill., and Toledo, Ohio beginning later this month," White said. "We'll also have our service to and from Toronto beginning in October."

The Sanford airport has traditionally been referred to as a "seasonal" airport with much of its business generated in the summer from British tourists. White said the addition of the Midwest and Canadian flights is beginning to change that.

"We're seeing a shift to where the airport becomes more of a traditional Florida airport with northern passengers coming down in the winter to balance out the summer season," White said.

"I'm truly believe we can catch up to last year's numbers," White said.

Just under 1.3 million passengers traveled through OSIA in 2002.

AN OPEN LETTER TO OUR CHURCHES

Dear Friends,

This area is truly blessed to have so many houses of worship, which have played such an important part in the development and continuance of this area's rich religious heritage.

Sharing the news of your church is not always easy with new people in the area, or residents who may not know about your church. We at the Seminole Herald want to help spread the good news of your congregation to our readers and visitors.

The Seminole Herald will publish a directory of worship for the area. This Publication will have profiles on area churches. Each church that chooses to participate will need to provide a written profile highlighting its history, worship schedule, pastor or other pertinent information. The Herald will take a photograph of each church.

This special publication "Come Worship with Us" will publish in the Seminole Herald on Wednesday, September 10, 2003. The Deadline for copy is Monday, August 18, 2003.

The costs to publish your church's profile are as follows:
Full-page - $275, 1/2 page - $180, 1/4 page - $95. Color may be added for an additional $175. We also have premium rates set for the center spread and back page of the edition.

It is certainly our hope that the information we will be sharing through this publication will be a blessing to you, your congregations and the area as a whole. To reserve space for your church profile, please call me at 407-322-2611, ext. 11, or email to dsutton@seminoleherald.com

On "doggie death row" eight days is a lifetime, literally. Quentin, set to meet his fate, was placed in an airtight gas chamber with seven other dogs. After 25 minutes of exposure to carbon monoxide, a worker at the facility opened the door to the gas chamber only to find seven dead dogs and Quentin still alive — wagging his tail.

Although workers are unable to explain how he survived the lethal levels of gas, they felt he had earned the right to a second chance. Because of the media frenzy surrounding the "miracle," more than 700 people have asked to adopt Quentin, who unknowingly became the "poster-dog" for National Homeless Animals' Day. This national observance, held the third Saturday of August each year, is set aside to remember the millions of homeless dogs and cats who have lost their lives due to pet overpopulation.

According to Randy Grim, founder of Stray Rescue of St. Louis, the organization in charge of his adoption, Quentin will have a new "forever home" by next week.

Although Quentin was lucky, more than 10 million animals who are euthanized in the United States each year are not.

According to the St. Louis Post Dispatch, like most people, the citizens of St. Louis were horrified to learn that six to eight dogs are euthanized daily at the city's animal control due to pet overpopulation.

"So many people are uneducated on the subject," said Wade, who became an animal rights activist in 1999. "They just don't understand what is going on and what these homeless animals go through."

In an effort to educate the masses, Wade, along with other members of Protectors of Companion Animals—a grassroots group founded in 2000 to bring awareness and a solution to the overpopulation of dogs and cats in Seminole County—will hold a candlelight vigil Saturday at the Seminole County Sheriff's Office in Sanford.

The International Society for Animal Rights first recognized National Homeless Animals' Day with candlelight vigils in 1992.

In the decade that followed, many governors, including Florida's Gov. Jeb Bush, have signed proclamations announcing Aug. 16 as a day to remember these animals. These declarations urge pet owners to act responsibly by having their companion animals spayed or neutered to help curb pet overpopulation, ultimately putting an end to the killing of healthy, but homeless animals.

"There are animals full of life, little puppies and dogs, being killed every day across the United States and here in Seminole County because there are just too many to find homes for," explains Wade of Winter Springs. "The only way to solve this problem is through educating people on spaying and neutering their pets."

On average the Seminole County Animal Services puts 5,506 animals to sleep each year. The numbers increase when the figures from the Seminole County Humane Society and those that die on the street are added in.

"We pick up a lot of dogs and cats throughout the county," said Mike Wittmer, manager of Seminole County Department of Public Safety, Animals Services Division. "When you say the animals are homeless, I think a lot of animals are owned, but people just move and leave them behind or turn them out into the streets. All of that is bad. Spaying and neutering is certainly important, it will cut down on the population of unwanted animals."

"We have a whole kennel of dogs who need homes," he added.

The Seminole County vigil, a spin off of the Orange County vigil now in its 10th year, act as a means to spread the word about the adoption process and the abundance of homeless animals.

"I never felt like I was qualified to do this," said Wade, who became an animal activist while volunteering at the Seminole County Humane Society. "But I felt like it needed to be done."

The Seminole County Department of Juvenile Justice Probation Unit donated a truckload of backpacks and school supplies to Wicklów Elementary School in Sanford Thursday. The donation, part of a community service restitution program for 20 Seminole County youth on probation. "This was a much needed donation because we have many kids who are underprivileged and parents don't have the money to purchase them school supplies," said Quintin Faison, family-school liaison of Wicklów Elementary School. The youth involved in the restitution program are on probation for offenses ranging from possession of alcoholic beverages to sex crimes. "We want the kids to give back to the community," said Robyn Worlds, juvenile probation officer supervisor. "This program gives them a chance to be productive citizens. If they are giving back and being productive it helps them have a better sense of self worth. This in turn helps reduce juvenile crime." J.C. Robinson, probation officer (from left to right), Worlds, Sharon Washington, senior probation officer, Michelle Langford, probation officer, Faison.

Local swimmers post lifetime bests

Special to the Herald

The Seminole Aquatics swim team continued their winning ways as they competed in the Florida Swimming Area 2 Championships at the Longwood Aquatic Club on August 1-3.

The swim team, partially sponsored through the City of Sanford Parks and Recreation Department, took 26 swimmers to the three day event. Seminole Aquatics swimmers had 88 lifetime bests recorded in the meet, a total that surprised even their coach, Tony Ackerson.

Seminole Aquatics sparkles in Area 2 Championships

"I had a good feeling about the meet all week, but I was just blown away by how well we swam," he said. "The kids had a great summer of hard training, and it's great to see it pay off in such a big way."

Leading the team effort in terms of point totals were the following: Kara Reeves - team leader in 10 and under girls division with 10 points.

Andrew Travis - team leader in 8 and under boys with 35 points.

Katie Martin - team leader in 13-14 girls with 32 points.

Trice Bailey - team leader in 11-12 boys with 32 points.

Luke Travis - team leader in 13-14 boys with 31 points.

Robert Hess - team leader in Senior boys with 37 points.

Altamonte Patriots rolling in Pool Play

Special to the Herald

The Altamonte Patriots Fastpitch 16-and-Under team has found Kentucky to its liking.

The squad arrived in Louisville, Kentucky last Friday for the Babe Ruth Softball World Series and has taken the area by storm since.

Pool Play began on Saturday with the Patriots edging East Central, Colorado (the Midwest Plains Regional Champions), 2-1, as Adina Maria Jordan allowed only a single run in the bottom of the first inning and went the rout, giving up just three hits, striking out seven and walking only one.

The Central Florida Christian Academy standout did not get a lot of offensive support as the Patriots only had four hits, but it was enough as the team scored single runs in the first and second inning and Jordan made them stand up.

The Patriots were to have finished Pool play on Tuesday and start Bracket Play today.

BoatU.S. boating safety grants available

Special to the Herald

With the U.S. Coast Guard recently indicating that up to 15% of all boating related drownings could involve carbon monoxide, the BoatU.S. Foundation for Boating Safety & Clean Water will give special consideration to funding boating safety projects that focus on carbon monoxide during its 2004 Boating Safety Grant program campaign. The program gives grants of up to $5,000 to local community organizations, boat and yacht clubs, flotillas and squadrons. A total of nearly $45,000 in grant funding is available and the deadline to apply is November 1, 2003.

"While we will accept applications on any boating safety topic, carbon monoxide is a serious problem that needs to be addressed," said Chris Edmonston, director of the Foundation's Boating Safety Programs. "Whether you cruise, houseboat, water ski, or simply have a generator, this problem has the potential to affect nearly every boater."

Over the past 15 years the Foundation has awarded over $570,000 to organizations that develop creative and innovative projects that promote safe boating on local waterways. Topics have ranged from creating See Outdoors, Page 10

Golden Knights begin hitting

Special to the Herald

The UCF football team ended its first practice of the preseason in full pads Monday morning in Orlando. The Golden Knights hit the fields for nearly three hours as they continued to work on all of the fundamentals in their fifth practice of the preseason.

One area of concern has been the rash of injuries to the offensive line. Redshirt freshman Seth Ush is listed as questionable for the season opener at Virginia Tech with a lower body injury. Sophomore center Adam Butcher is out with a lower body injury and could return to practice later in the week. Redshirt freshman guard Sean Gilhuly is due back to practice Tuesday from an upper body ailment.

"We have been hit here a little bit early by the injury bug," stated offensive coordinator/offensive line coach Robert McFarland. "A couple of guys have had to sit out with some nagging injuries so unfortunately we are moving some guys around up front after just five practices."

On the defensive line, sophomore tackle Frisner Nelson left practice early with a lower body injury and will be reevaluated on Tuesday.

The Golden Knights were to have hit the field for two practices Tuesday, the first two-a-day practice of the preseason for the Golden Knights.

On Sunday, the team worked out in shorts for the final time and it was also the first edition under the lights. The Golden Knights had a high-tempo, intense practice for just over two hours.

"I thought the practice was very good," commented UCF head coach Mike Kruczek. "We seemed to have an up tempo practice and with being in shells (helmets and shoulder pads), it can get a bit dangerous. Still, we did a good job for the most part and the cool weather allowed us to have an extra bit of energy and move around very well."

In seven-on-seven drills, senior quarterback Ryan Schneider was extremely efficient, finishing 15-of-17 with completions to eight different receivers.

As the team moved along into the 11-on-11 period, the defense started to make its mark. Defensive end Paul Carrington would have had at least one sack (the quarterbacks are not allowed to be hit) while Trenton Jordan also had an apparent sack during the period. One highlight for the offense was a short swing pass to Tavaris Capers that ended with Capers outrunning the secondary to the end zone.

Saturday morning under the hot sun, the Golden Knights were dressed in "shells" (shoulder pads and helmets) for the first time in 2003.

"It has been hot," commented UCF senior quarterback Ryan Schneider. "Everyday we continue to get better and better."

The practice featured several spirited battles between the offense and defense even though the practice was not full contact. One highlight was a match-up between the defensive backs and wide receivers including freshman wide receiver Mike Walker and junior cornerback Rashard Johnson. Johnson won the one-on-one battle as he jammed Walker at the line of scrimmage and did not allow the rookie to run his route.

Walker responded well with a strong showing in 11-on-11 drills as the passing game looked very sharp. Schneider threw the ball to several different receivers includ-

Sanford's Jeff Blake (No. 11, above) made his debut in a Phoenix Cardinals uniform a winning one as he went 5-for-11 for 52 yards in one quarter of work as the Cardinals shutout the Dallas Cowboys, 13-0, last Saturday. Tonight (Saturday, Aug. 16), Phoenix heads to Qualcomm Stadium in San Diego to face the Chargers starting at 9 p.m. EST. Arizona's final two preseason contests will be Friday, August 22 at home against the Chicago Bears, and Thursday, August 28 at Minnesota against former UCF star Daunte Culpepper.

Additionally, individual gold medals were won by Adam Brown in the Senior boys 200 and 500 meter freestyle and the 100 meter butterfly, Hess in the Senior boys 100 meter free and 200 individual Medley, Martin in the 13-14 Girls 100 meter butterfly, and Lujing Liu in the 13-14 Boys 100 meter free.

For all of the team success, Ackerson was quick to point out other outstanding swimmers on the team.

"That's the great thing about this sport," he said. "You can win some medals and feel good, or you can get dead last and go your best time in the event, and you feel like you just won the Olympics."

Other strong performances in the competition were Kirbie Ackerson's two-second drop in the 25 meter free, Brian Beasley's outstanding 55.12 in the 100 meter free, Dara Bornstein's four-second drop in the 100 meter breaststroke, Gabby Bornstein's best time ever in the 25 meter backstroke (35.17), and Adam Brown's 1:54.06 in the 200 meter and 5:09.41 in the 500 meter freestyle.

hurling another masterpiece, scattering five hits over five innings, while striking out eight and walking two in posting a shutout of Kimberton, Pennsylvania (Mid-Atlantic Region).

But her gem was almost overshadowed by the Patriots offense, as it exploded for 12 hits and 12 runs as the locals won, 12-0, by the Run Rule.

The third and fourth innings were the big ones for the Patriots as they scored five runs in the third inning and six more runs in the fourth.

Wain helped herself at the plate, going 2-for-3, while incoming Lake Mary freshman Danielle Valentino was 2-for-2 and Lake Brantley's Jessie Sadlowsky had the big blow, a double, for the Patriots.

Monday, Jordan returned to the mound and bettered her own performance from Saturday, giving up just two hits and striking out seven in hurling a 3-0 shutout of Superior, Wisconsin, the Ohio Valley Region champion.

Valentino tripled and scored the game's first run in the bottom of the first inning and Wain finished the contest 2-for-2 and driving in two runs.

The Patriots are now 3-0 in Pool Play and were to have faced host Fern Creek, Kentucky at 8 p.m. at Ulmer Field on the campus of the University of Louisville on Tuesday.

No matter the outcome, the team should be one of the three teams to advance to the Double Elimination National Championship Tournament starting on Wednesday and culminating with the Championship Game on Saturday (Aug. 16).

With the most recent victories, the Patriots are now 15-0 in postseason play.

Additional efforts like Laurel Counterman's eight-second drop in the 200 meter Individual Medley, David Lehmkuhl's 37.33 in the 50 meter backstroke, Benjamin Liu's Eighth place in the 10-and-Under 50 meter freestyle, and Katie Newman's three-second time drop in the 100 meter free all gave Ackerson plenty to smile about.

Caroline O'Malley cut over eight-seconds from her 50 meter free, while her sister Katherine took a whopping 14 seconds off best time in the 200 meter freestyle. Newcomers Caitlin Patterson, Kyle Terwilliger, and Thomas Zhang were all superb in their USA Swimming debuts, as were veteran swimmers Sarah Schuh, Natalie Wendt, Joseph Travis, and Phillip Stevenson, who swam unattached pending his transfer from another team.

Since starting the program three years ago, the team has seen its numbers steadily build as good word about the program continues to spread. Just two weeks ago, Seminole Aquatics swimmer Collin O'Malley won the Junior Olympic High Point Award for 13-14 year old boys in Orlando.

Members of the team, and the school they play for, are: pitcher Andrea Wain and outfielder Lauren Bennet of Lake Mary High School and incoming Ram freshman Danielle Valentino, the team's top hitter; outfielders Natalie Ruff and Jessie Sadlowsky, third baseman Nikki Hall and shortstop Alex Lofton of Lake Brantley High School; infielders Ashley Tabor of Seminole High School; pitcher AnnaMarie Jordan and catcher/infielder Gloria Garaffa of Central Florida Christian Academy; pitcher Jennifer Garaffa of Orangewood Christian School; and catcher Arielle Jenkins.

To follow the team, log onto the Babe Ruth World Series website at www.brl-worldseries.com/html/16uws.html.

The secret to the team's success? For Ackerson, the answer is simple.

"First off, the City of Sanford and the Recreation Department has made a total commitment to teaching kids to swim, and to allow local kids to fully develop their talents," said Ackerson. "But what's equally important is that I have the greatest team of swimming parents anywhere."

"They don't pressure or try to coach their own kids, they fully support each others' kids, and they trust me to do the right things to help their kids be successful. I've seen a lot of different club teams during the last few years, but this team really is something special. We work hard and we swim fast, but there is a sense of family that makes all of the hard work worthwhile. And I think the kids feel that and perform better because of it."

Next up for the team is the fall season. Seminole Aquatics practices year-round out of the Olympic-size pool at the Dale Aquatic Center on the Seminole High School campus. The team has already begun accepting new swimmers for August, and more information on either joining the team or learning to swim is available by calling the pool at 407-302-1034.

ing sophomore Brandon Marshall, who made several nice catches.

With the NCAA instituted change of cutting back on two-a-day practices, it has given UCF a chance to spend more time in the meeting rooms and watching film. "We are all watching a lot of film and preparing for Virginia Tech," added Schneider.

Friday morning, the team worked out for nearly three hours as the Golden Knights were still in just helmets and shorts as they went over many of the same facets of the game as Thursday's practice.

"I thought practice went OK today," commented Kruczek. "I think the kids were tired and I know that is going to happen. They just need to be mentally and physically tough enough to be able to push through things."

"Training camp is a tough thing," added Kruczek. "You have to execute when your body is physically unable to."

The practice started with UCF working on its special teams as both the punters and kickers got some work in. One area of concern for Kruczek is the loss of all-MAC second team punter Ryan Flinn. "Right now our punting is a major drop off from Ryan Flinn last year," stated Kruczek.

Later in the morning session as both the offense and defense squared off in 11-on-11 drills, the offense had its share of big pass plays mixed in with a few false starts.

"You have dumb mistakes like jumping offside or procedure penalties, but they will learn to overcome them," said Kruczek.

One highlight from the practice was when senior quarterback Ryan Schneider hooked up with freshman wide receiver Chris Narseslan on a 40-yard post pattern.

The first game on the 2003 schedule for UCF is August 31 when they venture to Blacksburg, Va., to face No. 10 Virginia Tech on ESPN.

Glassing posted a distance of 47 feet (14.4 meters). Ray set a pending world slalom record of 2 buoys (37 kph) at 18.25 meters on the outer course. Great Britain's Jacky Stimpson set a pending world slalom record of 3 buoys (55 kph) at 10.75 meters.

On the final day of competition, Bowness jumped 78 feet for his second pending world jumping record of the tournament.

Based on performances at this year's Nationals, the Water Skiers with Disabilities Association team selection committee has named Stephany Glassing (MP2) and Steve Hornsey (MP3) as additions to the 2003 U.S. Disabled Water Ski Team. Janice Duvall (Women's A/L) was also selected to ski at the Worlds in a demonstration category.

The 2003 U.S. Disabled

Water Ski Team will return to Cranes Roost later this month for the Disabled Water Ski World Championships, Aug. 26-30.

The sixth biennial event is expected to feature more than 50 athletes from an estimated 15 countries. Other athletes competing for the U.S. Disabled Water Ski Team include: Bowness, Fine, Larson, Mawby, McMurtry, Oberholtz, Jarvis-Ray, Ray, Timm and Turner. Denise Bowness of Brandon, Miss., and Joel Zeisler of Sandy Hook, Conn., will coach the team.

Competition at the Disabled Nationals included slalom, tricks and jumping events. Within each event, skiers who are partially (VHB2, VHB3) or totally blind (VHB1), paraplegics or quadriplegics (MP1, MP2, MP3), and arm or leg amputees (with or without prosthesis) competed against athletes with the same disabilities. Event winners were based on a two-round total while the overall winners were based on overall points from the best scores of either round. The best performance of either round received 1,000 points.

Jeroen Slop, financial director of AFC Ajax (left), and Mark Dillon, president of the Royal Orlando Football Academy (ROFA), announced last Wednesday that Ajax will collaborate with the Orlando Club to form Ajax Orlando in a press conference in Amsterdam. AFC Ajax announces US football collaboration with Orlando Club

AFC Ajax, one of the world's most famous and successful professional soccer clubs, has announced that it would enter the American market for the first time with a collaborative agreement with the Royal Orlando (Florida) Football Academy (ROFA). The U.S. club will be called Ajax Orlando. The technical collaboration between the two organizations was made public during ceremonies in Amsterdam on last Wednesday.

Ajax Orlando will have exclusive use in the U.S. of the Ajax name, the parent club's striking, red and white striped uniforms and famous logo, which features an image of the mythical Greek hero, Ajax.

ATP Online, an international travel conglomerate, whose headquarters are in Amsterdam and London, was also announced as a joint partner with Ajax Orlando in the U.S.-based operation.

Under the terms of the three-year agreement, Ajax Orlando will be permitted to teach the European club's, highly-respected technical training methods in its youth development programs and camps. Ajax Orlando coaches will go to Amsterdam for personalized, technical training under the auspices of the parent club's top coaches. Youth tournaments will also be held in Central Florida under the Ajax Orlando banner, starting later this year.

In the agreement signed in Amsterdam by Ajax Managing Director Arie van Eijden and ROFA President Mark Dillon, the 103-year-old Dutch club, in exchange use of its name, logo and training expertise, will have the right to select talented players from the Ajax Orlando club to play in the European team's elite organization.

"This positive collaboration represents another step in Ajax's search to identify talented young players who have developed under our proven training system," van Eijden said. "We are very pleased with this relationship, and believe the Ajax Orlando club will be successful." van Eijden said that Ajax and Ajax Orlando would also be exploring the possibility of bringing the parent club's first team squad to Central Florida for training camps.

Dillon, one of the first Americans to play professional soccer in Europe, said Ajax Orlando will be opening offices in Metropolitan Orlando within a month, and is already in discussion with several public and private entities in Central Florida for the first Ajax training center.

"This agreement is the culmination of many years of hard work," Dillon said. "The Ajax training and youth development systems are second to none in the world today. I believe, as does Mr. van Eijden, that this program will provide a unique opportunity for young players to fully develop their soccer talents."
