State Officials Advise School

Lyman Gym Needs New Roof, Floor

By Micheal Beha
Herald Staff Writer

A state Department of Education official says the roof of Lyman High School's gymnasium should be removed down to the prestressed beams and the floor should be replaced.

The gym has been closed since Feb. 13 when school officials discovered that the gym had been flooded.

An inspection of the facility revealed that water had collected on the roof and run to the floor below through a tear in the roof's weather sealing.

Pumps were placed on the roof to remove the water and an investigation was launched into the cause of the leak.

Edward Hubert, the DOE engineer asked to examine the damage, said the structural problems which caused the gym roof to sag involve the concrete in the roof and the steel cables that are placed in the beams for reinforcement.

Hubert's report on the situation said the concrete in the roof began to contract more than expected and the cables relaxed more than anticipated. As a result, the roof sagged, allowing rain water to collect on top of the roof and come pouring through to the floor.

At least an inch of water covered the gym floor on Feb.

13, school officials said.

Hubert said it is questionable whether 7 of 22 30-ton beams in the roof would support the roof without additional support. The roof has been supported by scaffolding since several days after the leak was found.

The Seminole County School Board has hired an architect and a structural engineer to assess the damage of the roof failure and to determine who is responsible.

A surveyor has also been retained to determine how severe the sag in the roof is.

School officials originally said damage to the floor was minor and could be repaired by sanding. But later inspections have shown that the floor has buckled and should be replaced.

The gym roof is 15 years old and was designed by Watson & Co., an Orlando architectural firm which designed the Alan F. Keeth Elementary School now under construction in Winter Springs.

Gym classes at the school have been moved to an auxiliary gym and a state wrestling tournament which was scheduled for the gym was moved to Winter Park.

School officials have given no indication when repairs may be made or normal activity resumed in the gym.

Hubert's report will be presented to School Board members at their 3:30 p.m. Wednesday meeting.

Animals And Kids Meet At Sanford Zoo

Emergency Prompts Quick Reconditioned Fire Truck Purchase

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

The Lake Mary City Commission, at the request of the city's volunteer fire department, has waived its bid procedures and declared an emergency to purchase a reconditioned fire truck capable of fighting wood fires.

Fire Chief Jim Orioles said the truck, which the city used to fight about 50 fires yearly, broke down a week ago and is not worth repairing. The 27-year-old vehicle has been borrowed by the city for many years from the Florida Forest Service. Orioles said the situation constitutes an emergency.

Orioles said it would cost $6,000 to repair the old truck and a 20-year-old reconditioned truck is available from Southeastern Equipment for $8,300.

The purchase was authorized on a 4-1 vote Thursday night with Commissioner Ray Fox casting the only negative vote.

Fox questioned whether the purchase really is an emergency and asked why the commission hasn't been called into special session if an emergency exists. Although Commissioner Burt Perinchief voted for the waiver of bid procedures, he said he voted reluctantly to abridge clearly spelled out bid procedures.

"We have a bid procedure and we don't on a whim circumvent that procedure," he said.

Orioles said the department is willing to give up the possibility of purchasing chemical fire gear, budgeted for $6,400 this year for the truck, asking that the balance of the money be taken from the city's contingency fund.

When Commissioner Russ Megonegal said the fire department has only one Class A piece of equipment — purchased two years ago for $34,000, Fox demanded an explanation. Orioles said the department has a small brush fire truck, a class B pumper, that needs to be replaced and the two-year-old truck.

Perinchief said he doesn't "feel very safe" after Orioles' report and Fox said the commission was told that the two-year-old truck was the "be-all and end-all of equipment in glowing reports."

Commissioner Ken King said the truck that was down was used in his neighborhood a number of times when woods fires threatened homes.

Fox warned that it is too early in the year to go so often to the well of the city's contingency fund. He asked for an analysis of the fire department's needs rather "than shooting from the hip." Megonegal said that "right now I think we are without fire protection."

Fox responded, "If we have only one decent piece of equipment the commission should have a full report. He said if the fire department will go on record saying it has only one good piece of equipment, he would buy it."

At the same time, the commission took no action on a request from the police department to allocate an additional $1 of each court fine levied on Lake Mary traffic cases to an education and training fund in the police department. The police department is already allocated $1 from each case for the same fund.

City Treasurer Madeleine Minns said the police department would get about $818 from the extra $1 per case. Mrs. Minns said she got the information on the number of cases from the clerk of the circuit court's office.

She was instructed by the commission to seek verifying information on the estimate.

In other business, the commission authorized City Manager Phil Kulbes to advertise for sale city surplus equipment including a 12,000-gallon water tank that is 7 1/2 feet wide by 29 feet long and some office furniture that is no longer needed.

Code Enforcement Board Idea Is Defeated Again

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

City Commissioner Charlie Lytle, for the second time in a month, was unsuccessful in gaining the support of his colleague on the Lake Mary City Commission to create a code enforcement board to enforce city laws.

The issue failed on the same 3-2 vote that it did when Lytle brought the matter up the last time.

Commissioner Russ Megonegal voted with Lytle, while Commissioners Ray Fox, Burt Perinchief and Ken King voted against.

"It's a shame to punish the 99 percent who do comply with the city law and to let the one who doesn't create a problem for the city," Lytle said.

State law permits cities to create code enforcement boards to prosecute violators of city laws concerning zoning, junk cars, nuisances and such items, much like the old municipal court system. The county's other six cities have created code enforcement boards, but Lake Mary officials have been reluctant to do so.

And State Attorney Douglas Cheshire has said that his office's priority is the prosecution of capital crimes and felonies.

Lytle said he had received 10 telephone calls on the issue with eight of the callers favoring a code enforcement board. In addition he was approached by four or five others favoring a board.

"It's a shame to punish the 99 percent who do comply with the city law and to let the one who doesn't create a problem for the city."

In answer to a question from Lytle, City Manager Phil Kulbes said three dozen cases involving violation of city ordinances have gone unprosecuted in the past four years.

Fox warned that only the most flagrant violators would be prosecuted by a code enforcement board, adding, "I don't think persons who obey the law are being persecuted."

City Attorney Robert Petree passed out copies of the state law on the creation of code enforcement boards. Questioned by Fox, Petree said the city would have to hire another attorney to present cases to the code board. And he added that he has been totally successful in persuading law violators in the city to comply simply by writing them letters.

Kulbes said he had been successful as well with his letters to violators and in the few cases where letters weren't successful, his one on one talks to them had. It was Kulbes who recommended creation of the board.

"Are we in a puff of smoke or a dense fog?" Perinchief asked. Lytle's move failed.

And It Could Get Worse

Gas Taxes Going Up 6.7 Cents

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Gasoline will be taxed higher and most motor vehicle tags will cost more under the transportation package approved by the Legislature, but Gov. Bob Graham promises fewer traffic jams and safer bridges and highways in the long-run.

In an often disjointed three-day special session, lawmakers finally reached agreement Thursday on the plan to produce $250 million in new transportation revenues yearly.

To help raise that amount, the state will collect 1.7 cents per gallon more on gasoline beginning April 1, the same day the new federal 5-cent per gallon hike goes into effect. Later on, counties will have the authority to add their own increase ranging up to four cents per gallon.

In addition, tag fees for cars and small trucks will climb $2 beginning in May with the three heaviest categories of trucks paying 75 percent more for their plates. Trucks between 5,000 and 44,000 pounds — including most agricultural and citrus vehicles — will face no increases.

Commercial interstate airlines will begin paying a tax on their fuel but a special tax credit to partially offset this was approved for carriers which have their home offices in Florida, namely the financially ailing Eastern Airlines.

Without the county gas taxes, the typical Florida motorist will be paying about $15.60 more annually in state fees and taxes under the package, according to legislative analysts.

Graham said he would sign the package into law "as soon as we get it" and added: "What this represents is the end of a 10-year era of disintegration of our existing highway system and a failure to keep up with population growth."

The governor said the increases were needed to attack a $7 billion, 10-year backlog in road resurfacing and bridge repair needs.

The House and Senate rebounded from a collapse in consideration of the taxes package Wednesday night to pass the proposal and end the special session, which began Tuesday and was extended twice.

The Senate gave its final approval to the plan on a 23-14 vote, with the House accepting the plan by a vote of 75-41.

Florida also will receive about $250 million from the new federal tax hike but most of this will go toward interstate projects. The new state funds will be concentrated on repairs in the primary road system.

Graham said dozens of resurfacing and repair projects are ready to be bid and will be launched as soon as money from the tax increases starts coming in.

"The people of this state will see very soon an awful lot of needed highway work being done," House Speaker Lee Moffitt said.

Dropped from the final version of the bill was a 50-cent proposed surcharge on all tags that would have gone into a fund for air pollution control. Some critics blasted the proposal.

NATION IN BRIEF

More American Advisers Headed For El Salvador

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Reagan administration will increase the number of U.S. military advisers in El Salvador to the maximum of 55 but will not send American combat troops to the warring country, a White House spokesman says.

"We will maximize the use of our self-imposed limit" of 55 advisers, deputy White House spokesman Larry Speakes said Thursday in Los Angeles, where the president delivered a speech. "As far as combat troops, rule them out."

Both Speakes and a senior Pentagon official said the administration still is considering raising the limit above 55 in a drive to improve the ability of Salvadoran government forces to fight mounting attacks by leftist guerrillas.

The Pentagon official said the administration may permit the advisers to move into the countryside to train Salvadoran brigade commanders to fight leftist guerrillas. The advisers now train battalion commanders. Higher-ranking brigade leaders have a wider area of responsibility. This, he said, would require more than 55 trainers.

Burford Vows To Remain

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Democratic congressman is calling for a special prosecutor to investigate Environmental Protection Agency officials, including agency chief Anne Burford.

Though calls for her resignation or firing are continuing, Mrs. Burford told reporters Thursday, "I have no plans to resign."

Sources told UPI that Rep. James Florio, D-N.J., chairman of one of six House subcommittees investigating EPA, today planned to call for amending federal law to allow for appointment of a special prosecutor to independently look into the agency.

Mrs. Burford is under fire for allegedly stalling release of $1.9 million in federal aid to clean up a St. Louis Park, Minn. waste dump to justify holding up of funds for cleanup of the Stringfellow Acid Pits in California in order to damage former Gov. Jerry Brown's campaign.

According to a Pennsylvania hospital's fast food calorie counter, all fast foods are not created equal. McDonald's Quarter-Pounder, for example, has fewer calories than a Burger King Whopper. Weight watchers don't have to give up fast foods, the hospital publication says, just choose them wisely.

How To Stay Slim And Still Enjoy Fast Foods

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — A "Fast Food Calorie Book" published by nutritionists at a city hospital tells weight-watching consumers how to stay on their diets and eat burgers, fries and make-it-yourself salads at the same time.

"It's an educational tool," said Sharon Conely, hospital patient service manager. "The bottom line is, yes, you can fit (fast food) in a nutritional plan but it is up to the consumer to be educated enough to select wisely."

The publication was started four years ago at Western Pennsylvania Hospital to aid patients there, but an updated version is now available to anyone.

The book checks menus offered by 11 Pittsburgh-area fast food restaurants, including the Burger King, Burger Chef and McDonald's hamburger chains and Long John Silver's seafood restaurants.

It makes clear that all fast food is not created equal — at least as far as calories are concerned.

For example, it says, a Burger King Whopper is 600 calories, far more than Burger Chef's double cheeseburger, 434, or McDonald's Quarter-Pounder, 418.

As for a normal order of french fries, Burger King weighs in at 214, followed by McDonald's 211, Burger Chef at 187 and Long John Silver's 187.

Ms. Conely said a good way to cut calories at a fast-food meal is to drink iced tea rather than soft drinks.

Iced tea without sugar is about two calories while a 8-ounce soft drink can be 100, she said.

She also warned that salad bars — which many dieters consider a haven from calories — actually can be a weight-watcher's nightmare if the bacon bits and dressings are piled too high.

"The salad bar isn't necessarily low in calories," she said. "They add some cheese, which is about 75 calories, beans, about 35 to 40 calories, dressing, and on and on."

Ms. Conely said the hospital has been swamped by requests for the fast-food guide since its availability became known.

Lake Mary Eyeing Downtown Land Purchase

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

The Lake Mary City Commission is interested in an offer by Ottis Sjoblom to sell the city a large parcel of property in the community's downtown section for $200,000, and Commissioner Russ Megonegal has asked for additional information on the value of the properties and the soundness of the structures on them.

The sale offer, brought to the City Commission by Mayor Walter Sorenson, includes eight lots on the east side of Country Club Road directly across from City Hall. Five of the lots are 116 feet long by 33 feet wide and bounded by Lakeview Avenue. The other three lots are also 116 feet long by 33 feet wide and bounded by Crystal Lake. The two parcels are separated by a 20-foot alleyway.

Two lots next to City Hall which are currently used by the city for parking are included in the sale price.

Several businesses are operating from buildings on portions of the property and currently pay rental fees totaling $1,495 monthly.

In a memo to the City Commission, Sorenson said Sjoblom is requesting a down payment of 10 percent, or $20,000, leaving a balance of $180,000 to be mortgaged. Sjoblom is also willing to hold the mortgage at 8 1/2 percent interest. It was noted that over the life of a 15-year mortgage, the city would have to pay $1,775 monthly, much of which could be defrayed by the rental fees.

Sorenson also noted in the memo that the property could be used for future City Hall expansion and the second floor of the larger building at the corner of Crystal Lake Avenue and Country Club Road is unoccupied and expansion of space for staff personnel could begin there while maintaining the rental income from the businesses in the various buildings.

"These sites offer possible relocation facilities for our police department," Sorenson said.

The businesses from which the city would receive income include a casket company, laundry, carpet shop, church, beauty shop, print shop, and two houses, one of which is used for an office.

City Treasurer Madeleine Minns noted that if the property is purchased, the city would lose only $488.90 a year in tax revenues.

Commissioner Ray Fox was concerned that by buying the property, the city would be in direct competition with developers who are building rental property in the area. In effect, he said, "we'll be taking your money and mine to compete with you and me."

The city purchased City Hall from Sjoblom nearly two years ago.

Jury Rejects Insanity Plea; Convicts Robber

A 40-year-old man who was found guilty of robbing his friend of $20,000 worth of jewelry after his insanity plea was rejected will be sentenced on April 22 by Seminole Circuit Judge C. Vernon Mize Jr.

James Lancia, of Fort Lauderdale, faces a minimum of three years and a maximum of life in prison after being found guilty of robbing Dennis Gene Blakney at his Spanish Trace apartment, Altamonte Springs, on Dec. 21.

A two-woman, four-man jury deliberated for more than two hours at the end of the three-day trial on Wednesday before rejecting Lancia's plea that he was insane at the time of the robbery.

Lancia was staying with Blakney and as they entered the apartment one day, Lancia put a gun to his friend's head and repeatedly said, "I've got to do it," according to Assistant State Attorney Ralph Erickson.

Lancia bound and gagged Blakney, stole his jewelry and then took his car, according to testimony.

Lancia testified that he remembered most of the details of the incident but did not recall taking the car and jewelry and claimed he was insane at the time.

Fort Lauderdale psychiatrist Dr. Arnold Eichert agreed, but Orlando psychiatrist Dr. J. Lloyd Wyder said he was "80 per cent sure" Lancia was sane at the time. Both psychiatrists agreed that Lancia was suffering from a brain disorder brought about by excessive use of alcohol.

'Cancer Doc' Innocent Of Torching House, Fraud

MARIANNA (UPI) — "Cancer doctor" Frederick Boedy, who admitted he twice staged his own stabbing and set his house afire, says a jury "was just" in convicting him on two misdemeanor charges and acquitting him of arson and insurance fraud.

The jury of four women and two men returned the verdict against Boedy Thursday after about 2 1/2 hours of deliberation.

Boedy, 30, was on trial for felony charges of arson and insurance fraud and two misdemeanor counts of giving false information to police. The jury absolved him of the felony charges but convicted him on the lesser charges.

Dr. Boedy gained nationwide attention last year when he reported a high number of kidney and bladder cancer cases among his patients in the small Calhoun County town of Altha. His reports stirred controversy in the town although research showed the cancer rate was a coincidence.

Following the publicity, he told police he was stabbed on two occasions by unknown assailants and said someone tried to set his house afire. He later confessed he committed all three acts.

Defense attorney Phillip Padovano said during the four-day trial that Boedy was a manic depressive who stabbed himself during suicide attempts and accidentally set the fire while hallucinating. He is now taking medication to control the disorder.

Kidnapped Boy Found

VERO BEACH (UPI) — Four-year-old David Rattray was tired, confused and his face was dotted with mosquito bites, but he was otherwise healthy despite a 53-hour abduction in which his alleged kidnapper shot himself in the head, police say.

Dr. Charles F. Rattray clutched his son Thursday and told reporters, "We can't tell you how happy we are to have him back again."

The boy was rescued from the trunk of a car moments after his alleged kidnapper shot himself in the head during a struggle with police on a golf course west of Vero Beach.

Thomas G. Ross, 39, of Vero Beach was listed in serious condition at Indian River Memorial Hospital today. Officials said his condition had worsened since being admitted.

The kidnapper had demanded a $250,000 ransom for the safe return of the blue-eyed, blond boy. Officers refused to disclose if Ross had any connection with the Rattrays.

Pricing Agreement Again Eludes OPEC Oil Ministers

LONDON (UPI) — OPEC oil ministers set more talks today aimed at halting a worldwide oil price collapse, with agreement eluding them and Britain rebuffing requests to hold down its price on North Sea petroleum.

Key officials of the cartel met Thursday with non-OPEC producer Britain, while a five-hour "mini-OPEC" session failed to find a way to cut prices $4 to $5 from the $34 benchmark figure, Arab diplomats and British officials said.

They said OPEC urged Britain to hold off cutting the price of its North Sea oil by $3 a barrel so OPEC-member Nigeria could be persuaded to adjust its whopping reduction of $5.50 a barrel — the cut threatening the cartel's stability.

Executions Mar Papal Trip

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (UPI) — Pope John Paul II held to the original schedule for his Central American peace pilgrimage despite six executions by Guatemalan authorities who ignored a Vatican appeal for mercy.

The pope today was visiting Nicaragua, ruled by the leftist Sandinista National Liberation Front and a hotbed of controversy between a conservative church hierarchy and activist priests espousing the "liberation theology."

Developer Given Zoning Variance In Hidden Lakes

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

The city of Sanford is the hottest housing market in the Central Florida area for Residential Communities of America, according to company spokesman Jerry Feinstein.

The firm, developers of Hidden Lake subdivision and whose principals have been developing land in Central Florida for the past 25 years, has sold 67 villa units and 60 single-family home lots in recent weeks...even before the units were constructed, Feinstein said.

Feinstein attributes the success to quality development at an affordable price. "You can't fool the public. They know value when they see it," he said.

In the villas area, adjacent to Hidden Lakes subdivision, Feinstein said RCA pre-sold 25 units on one three-day weekend in February.

He said plans are to build 470 villa-townhouse-units, which will be individually owned along with front and back yards. Each unit has two or three bedrooms, one bath with 996 square feet of living area or three bedrooms, two baths with a living area of 1,500 square feet. The price range is $39,900 to $53,400.

RCA is also developing single-family homes in the $46,000 to $70,700 price range. In the first phase of the development of 100 lots, 60 have already been sold, Feinstein said.

The Sanford City Commission Monday night agreed to amend its zoning ordinance to permit RCA to build as few as three villa units per building, rather than the four previously required.

Feinstein said while building three units per building cuts down on the number of units it will be able to build in the villas section, it permits greater flexibility of design. The advantages are that more cul-de-sacs (turnarounds) can be planned and curving streets can be built rather than the old grid-style roads.

"In going around curves, it is easier to work with smaller buildings," Feinstein noted.

The commission also voted unanimously to direct City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles to work with Feinstein in order to determine which live oak trees located within the road right-of-way may be saved. Feinstein said there are many large live oaks, some as big as 50 inches in diameter, near the proposed rights-of-way in the villas section.

"They are magnificent," Feinstein said, adding that he would like to see as many as possible saved.

City policy forbids the location of trees within or near a city right-of-way because of the damage to roads the root systems could cause.

Search For POWs Lands Three Commandos In Thailand Prison

NAKHON PHANOM, Thailand (UPI) — Former Green Beret Bo Gritz met with U.S. Embassy officials Thursday to determine the status of his commando team that he said uncovered evidence of American prisoners of war being held in Indochina.

Gritz, 44, and four other Americans face charges in Thailand for possession of radio gear allegedly used to communicate with teams searching for POWs across the Mekong river from Nakhon Phanom in Laos.

That police said unauthorized possession of the equipment carries a penalty of up to five years in jail.

In a telephone interview aired in the United States on the NBC "Today" program, Gritz disputed news reports that he surrendered to Thai authorities.

"Nobody's been caught and nobody's surrendered," Gritz said. "I reported in at 3 o'clock in the morning, Monday morning, because there had been a couple of my team who had been falsely incarcerated for something they had not done."

Gritz, a former U.S. Special Forces lieutenant colonel, said he is worried about an FBI investigation.

"I am due to go in prison tomorrow and I don't know what my liberty situation is going to be," Gritz said. "I've been told that, incredibly, there is some kind of an FBI investigation that they may arrest me and incarcerate me when I return to the United States."

Gritz met for two hours at Nakhon Phanom police headquarters with U.S. Consul-General Richard Rand and Lt. Col. Paul Mather of the U.S. Joint Casualty Resolution Center. The officials refused to discuss the meetings.

The equipment, found at what Gritz called his "safe house" during a police raid Feb. 13, caused the arrest of Americans Lynn Standerwick, 26, and Lance Trimmer, 45. The two are free on $6,700 bail but remain in Nakhon Phanom.

Gritz was joined in jail Wednesday by David Scott Weekly, 35, Encinitas, Calif., and Gary Goldman, 38, Los Angeles, both believed to be team members.

Weekly earned the nickname "Dr. Death" for his weapons expertise and Goldman is described by associates as an anti-terrorist specialist.

Gritz led a foray into Laos last November financed by film stars Clint Eastwood and William Shatner. He is believed to have led a second probe last month.

Gritz claims evidence that more than 10 of the 2,500 American servicemen listed as missing from the Vietnam war are alive in prison camps.

"You have to understand I'm in jail right now and I can neither confirm nor deny what we have done," Gritz said in the television interview. But he added, "Let me say this ... we do have evidence."

'Alternate' Natural Gas Proposal Would Cut Prices, Tighten Controls

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A coalition of 26 House members introduced a comprehensive natural gas price bill Thursday that would roll back prices and toughen controls on industry.

The group, supported by the AFL-CIO and a wide range of other labor and consumer groups, offered its legislative package as a major alternative to President Reagan's plan for decontrolling natural gas prices.

"A mild winter this year kept us from being confronted with the widespread crisis that gas price hikes would normally have meant," said Rep. Dan Glickman, D-Kan., a leader of the House coalition. "We do need to move now, and not in the direction the administration has proposed, to make sure that consumers can make it through next winter."

Unlike the president's proposal for lifting controls on the gas industry, the plan announced Thursday would extend gas controls. The House group's proposal would roll back gas ceiling prices to levels established before this winter's large price increases, and would extend price controls for two years on gas wells slated for decontrol on Jan. 1, 1985. Under current law, nearly two-thirds of all gas would be decontrolled on that date.

The group's plan also would limit certain contract provisions that have fueled an average 25 percent gas price rise this winter.

"There's a recognition that Reagan's proposal is not consumer-oriented," said Edwin Rothchild of the Citizen-Labor Coalition, whose group is among those supporting the House measure. "Certainly the House plan is an alternative to Reagan's." Sponsors of the new bill include Glickman and Reps. Richard Gephardt, D-Mo.; Albert Gore, D-Tenn.; Norman Mineta, D-Calif.; Edward Markey, D-Mass.; Ike Skelton, D-Mo.; Robert Davis, R-Mich.; Lane Evans, D-Ill.; Tom Harkin, D-Iowa; James Florio, D-N.J.; Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., and Bill Hafner, D-N.C.

The president's plan, announced last Saturday, would deregulate the wellhead price of natural gas by 1986 through negotiation of new contracts or renegotiation of old ones. It includes a moratorium on automatic pipeline price hikes that are greater than the rate of inflation.

Energy Secretary Donald Hodel, a major architect of the administration plan, said the proposal would provide incentives for suppliers to seek lower-priced natural gas, and that the savings would be passed on to consumers.

The House coalition introducing legislation today is broader-based than the Capitol Hill groups that unsuccessfully pushed for tough natural gas legislation in frantic lobbying during the lame-duck session in December.

Several bills that came to be known as "recontrol" gas measures were brought up late last year, mainly by House members from the Frost Belt states, where consumers have been hit particularly hard by skyrocketing gas prices. None of the lame duck bills, however, offered a comprehensive set of regulatory reforms for the gas industry.

Leading that unsuccessful fight last December was the Northeast-Midwest Congressional Coalition, which wanted legislation to force pipeline companies to transport the least expensive gas available to them.

Roomie's Narcotics Can Lead To Your Conviction

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — A homeowner can be convicted of constructive possession if illegal drugs are found in plain view in his home, even if the home is jointly occupied, the Florida Supreme Court has ruled.

The ruling came in the case of James Frederick Brown, a West Palm Beach man who was convicted of constructive possession after law enforcement officers found marijuana, hashish and PCP at his home.

Brown's attorney appealed the conviction on the grounds that to support the conviction the jury had to "pile inference upon inference."

The 4th District Court of Appeal affirmed the conviction but certified the question to the Supreme Court.

To support the conviction, the court said, "the state must show that the accused had dominion and control over the contraband, knew the contraband was within his presence and knew of the illicit nature of the contraband."

The court said the knowledge element was met because the illegal drugs were found in plain view and the dominion and control element was satisfied because Brown owned the home and had control over the common areas.

"The elements of knowledge and control have been satisfied and the facts presented at the trial were sufficient to create a jury question as to constructive possession," the court said. "Given the evidence presented, the jury could easily have rejected every reasonable hypothesis of innocence."

In another decision, a divided court ordered Florida courts to stay out of a dispute between a Jacksonville woman and her ex-husband in Idaho over the custody of their two children.

In a 5-1 ruling, the court said the case was in the hands of the Idaho court which had previously awarded custody of the children to their father and had found the mother in contempt of court for taking them to Florida.

On Runaway Medical Costs

No sooner has a presidential commission figured out how to bail out the Social Security retirement fund than we hear another distress call. The companion Medicare program, according to a new congressional study, will run out of money by 1987 or 1988.

Announcements of the imminent bankruptcy of Social Security are becoming so familiar that the public will be forgiven some cynicism. Having been told that higher payroll taxes and a delay in benefit increases are necessary to save the retirement system, are we being softened up to receive the same message about Medicare?

It is depressing indeed to realize that all the fuss about Social Security in the last year has dwelled mainly on problems afflicting the pension component of the system. The Medicare and disability components have problems of their own, with different causes and different solutions.

If there is a Medicare "crisis" looming in 1987 or 1990, it will not be treatable by the kind of tax and benefit adjustments recommended as the cure for what ails the retirement fund.

The solvency of Medicare is threatened primarily by conditions lying outside the Social Security system itself—by runaway increases in the cost of medical care.

Medical costs are threatening not only Medicare but the viability of many private health insurance plans and the ability of federal, state and local governments to provide health care to the poor.

Hospital costs rose 17 percent in 1981 while the overall cost of living was rising only 8.9 percent. In 1982, the cost of living increased by a mere 3.9 percent while hospital bills were climbing at a rate of 13.3 percent. Payroll taxes and premiums paid by Medicare clients cannot remain at a reasonable level and keep abreast of cost increases of that magnitude.

Medicare now accounts for 1.3 percent of the 6.7 percent Social Security payroll tax paid by employees and matched by their employers. Under present law the Medicare share will rise to 1.35 percent in 1985 and 1.45 percent in 1988.

Even accelerating those future increases would not keep Medicare out of the red.

There should be no talk about another increase in payroll taxes until there is more serious talk about cost-containment in the health care industry. It is now claiming 15 cents of every federal tax dollar, and as costs are being projected, it will claim 20 cents of that dollar within five years.

The Reagan administration has proposed reforms in Medicare aimed at making patients, doctors and hospital workers more cost-conscious.

As it is, with either government or private insurance creating an illusion that health care is "free," there are too few incentives for all the parties involved to consider cost factors in treatment decisions.

An open-ended, fee-for-service system of medical insurance which simply reimburses doctors and hospitals for their costs is proving to be something the nation cannot afford.

The solution to the Medicare problem does not lie with the amount of the Social Security deduction on our payroll stubs. It lies with the health care professions and their institutions.

They have figured out how to provide the finest health care in the world, but not how to make it available at a cost the nation can afford.

Classic Case Of Cynicism

NEW YORK (NEA) — The smear now being conducted by the House Democrats against the Environmental Protection Agency is a classic example of its cynical type, and deserves to be studied by everyone concerned about the messier operations of our democratic process.

Let me first, make it clear that I am taking no position on the actual culpability of the EPA, or of Anne Burford (formerly Gorsuch), or Rita Lavelle. For all I know, they may have used federal funds to spray pure dioxin all over the Capitol building. But I didn't spend nine years practicing law for nothing, and I can spot an out-and-out smear, unsupported by any evidence whatever, a mile away in the dark.

The late Mayor Jimmy Walker of New York displayed a firm grasp of the fundamental principle involved when he said that he intended to ask his opponent what he was doing at the corner of Fifth Avenue and 42nd Street at noon on June 10th. "He can deny he was there until he is blue in the face," Hizzoner explained, "but on Election Day there will be 100,000 voters who think something funny was going on at Fifth and 42nd at noon on June 10th."

The vigilant House Democrats got their chance when the Reagan administration got shirty about letting them see 30 or 40 documents involved in potential litigation against businesses that dump chemical wastes, and invoked the principle of "executive privilege." This doctrine, which is not to be found in the Constitution but rests on the reasonable theory that Congress ought not to be allowed to prong at will through the private papers of the executive branch, is forever being attacked or defended, depending on whose ox is being gored. It is of dubious value at best, however, because, as every cub reporter and first-term congressman knows, a document withheld is 10 times as newsworthy and 100 times as incriminating as one handed over.

So Congressman Elliott Levitas (D-Ga.) was in hog heaven when Mrs. Burford, obeying the president, declined to fork over the requested documents. A contempt citation was rushed through the House, and obliging congressmen from no less than six House committees and subcommittees began raising all sorts of questions about EPA, all of which were treated to huge black headlines and endless TV exposure by the media.

Had requested documents been shredded? Was $53 million missing from the clean-up Superfund? Had EPA representatives entered into "sweet-heart deals" with offending businesses to receive them of hazardous toxic dumping? Etc., etc.

Agent Paid To Set Seminar Twice

WASHINGTON — It's a clever public-relations man who can get paid by two separate clients for doing the same piece of work — especially when the clients are two different governments. But Ian MacKenzie managed to pull it off.

He was paid by the U.S. Information Agency for a seminar intended to show foreign publicity people how to handle the American press; at the same time, he was being paid by the Haitian government to push its cause in the United States.

The USIA invited MacKenzie's Haitian client to send representatives to the press-handling seminar last December. The invitation was accepted by the director of information, Guy Mayer, and the foreign ministry's director of political affairs, Henri-Robert Nere.

The seminar — including all expenses for the visiting flacks — was paid for by USIA.

VIEWPOINT

A Seat For Cambodia

By Stewart Slavin

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — The most dramatic issue at a summit of the world's non-aligned nations next week is whether Cambodia—barred from attending the Cuban conference—will gain representation in New Delhi.

The issue will be taken up just prior to the summit by top-level officials who were expected to keep Cambodia's seat vacant again — rejecting both the Vietnam-backed Heng Samrin government in Phnom Penh and the resistance coalition led by Prince Norodom Sihanouk.

While India has recognized the Heng Samrin regime, a majority of the non-aligned countries voting in the United Nations have backed Sihanouk, a founding member of the non-aligned movement.

The summit leaders will keep the seat vacant to avoid conflict in the movement, a diplomat said.

"Don't be surprised if Sihanouk shows up at the summit even if he is not invited and makes a triumphant entry," said one Southeast Asian diplomat source.

India is being pressured to seat Sihanouk by the Association of Southeast Asian Nations of Indonesia, Thailand, Malaysia, Singapore and the Philippines.

No major fireworks are expected on the issue of the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan. The summit is certain to endorse the current U.N. intermediary role which involves shuttle diplomacy between Afghanistan, Pakistan and Iran, which will lead to talks in Geneva in April.

Karmal, Afghanistan's Soviet-backed president, is urging direct talks between the three parties. Pakistan is pressing the conference to take an active role in resolving the conflict.

Delegates are expected to rubber-stamp a declaration urging a political settlement of the Afghan war on the basis of withdrawal of "foreign troops and full respect for independence, sovereignty, territorial integrity and non-aligned status of Afghanistan."

Iraq was originally scheduled to hold the seventh non-aligned summit, but Iran protested and India agreed to be the host.

Colombia, the Bahamas and Barbados are expected to be voted into full membership to swell the total to 100 nations. Venezuela's application for membership was denied.

One of the most urgent concerns of the developing nations of the movement was the question of how to gain economic independence from the industrialized world.

At the 1975 summit in Algiers, the conference gave a call for a new "International Economic Order" urging negotiations between the developed and non-developed nations. That effort has stalled.

At Havana, the economic debate focused on cooperation between the developing nations themselves, which was expected to be a dominant theme in New Delhi.

"I believe firmly in what is known as South-South cooperation or economic cooperation among developing countries," Mrs. Gandhi said. "Successful South-South cooperation will also strengthen the hands of the developing world in negotiations with the affluent North."

Radiation Preserves Foodstuff

By Patricia McCormack
UPI Health Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — The use of very low doses of radiation to inhibit sprouting of potatoes and onions has been approved in the United States, Japan and other countries.

The process gives the tubers and bulbs extended storage life and, so far as is known, does not harm humans.

That's the latest development in the expanding use of radiation to preserve food by killing spoilage and disease-causing organisms. Radiation has been used for years in specialized cases to preserve food.

Apollo astronauts, for example, munched radiation-sterilized ham on the moon. American and Russian astronauts during the joint American-Soviet Apollo-Soyuz space flight ate radiation-sterilized beef, pork, smoked turkey and corned beef.

Radiation-sterilized foods have been approved for patients who must have sterile foods, as happens when their immunity to disease has been altered by medical treatments.

A new scientific status summary by the Institute of Food Technologists' Expert Panel on Food Safety and Nutrition tells what else is going on and what is ahead in radiation preservation of food.

The near future includes the possibility there may be radiation-preserved chicken on the supermarket shelves.

"A massive study on the wholesomeness of radappertized (radiation-sterilized) chicken, begun in 1976, has recently been completed," the panel said.

"The data are now being evaluated by the United States Department of Agriculture for their sufficiency to support a petition to the Food and Drug Administration."

There is only a small temperature rise when foods are preserved via radiation. As a result, there is minimal loss of flavor, odor, color, texture or nutritional quality.

The irradiated food, therefore, retains more of the appearance, taste and quality characteristic of fresh raw food.

"Another advantage of these processes is flexibility," the panel said. "Irradiation can be used to preserve a variety of foods in a range of sizes and shapes — crates of potatoes, flour in 50-or-100 pound sacks, entire roasts of meat, whole turkeys, sandwiches of sliced meat, fish, or chicken."

Payoffs include:

— Safe, long-term preservation without refrigerated storage.

— Prevention of food-poisoning.

— Prevention of loss of stored food or spread of pests.

Another possible application of radiation in food processing is as a means of preparing commercially sterile food products.

The panel said spoilage and disease organisms are killed at high radiation doses.

Kaminski's Spectacular Show Launches Satellite Toward Title

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

WINTER PARK — Sheri Kaminski always has that look on her face like she's ready to cry. It's not really a pout — more of a cross between a frown and a smile.

You can imagine what her opponents feel like.

Kaminski, Satellite Beach's point guard extraordinaire, won her personal battle with Valerie Seay Thursday night at the 4A State Tournament, and left the Lady Trojans in tears with their only loss of the year following a convincing 75-64 victory to advance to Saturday's championship game against the winner of tonight's Jacksonville Ribault-Miami Northwestern game.

"This was a revenge game," said Satellite Beach coach Pete Ballard while accepting congratulations from adoring fans. "(Sheri) Kaminski was great, as usual and we played like we were capable of."

In a game earlier this year between these two, 4A powers, Evans held the upper hand by 11 points in a game played at the Trojans' gym.

Ballard, whose club has won 28 of 29 games, pointed to better rebounding and perimeter shooting as the difference this time. "We hit our outside shots and we were better off the boards," he said.

Veteran Evans' coach Dorothy Starbird, bring her first state qualifier to Winter Park with 29 straight victories, confirmed the Lady Scorpions' superiority. "They are now the best team anyone will find in the state this year," said Starbird. "We beat them by 11, they beat us by 11."

But this one was far from an 11-point game after the first half when Satellite seized a 32-29 edge.

As expected, the point guards dictated the game. Kaminski, a blonde-haired 5-6 senior, picked up her second foul with 4:45 to play in the first period. She sat down the rest of the period and Seay used her absence and the fine shooting touch of 5-9 Ava Anderson to pull the Trojans even, 13-13, after one period.

Evans, with 5-4 senior Seay penetrating the middle of Satellite's zone or tossing lobs to Anderson, bolted to a 25-18 lead midway through the second period.

Kaminski, though, returned and it was the beginning of the end for Evans. First, she hit two free throws to pull Satellite within six. Then she fed guard Karen Kroen for two outside jumpers. With 2:20 left, Kaminski threaded an excellent pass to Julie Ketterer on a fastbreak to tie the score at 25-25.

Thirty seconds later, Becky de la Rosa hit from the outside to regain the lead and Kaminski tacked on three free throws for a 30-29 difference with 26 seconds to go.

Kaminski, however, saved her best assist for the last two seconds. Taking an inbound pass, Kaminski whipped the ball the length of the court to 6-1½ Linda McGowan who made a Lynn Swann grab, then turned and dropped in a baseline jumper with two seconds left for the three-point halftime edge.

In the third quarter, Satellite went into orbit. Val Mercado and Kaminski continued to shred the Evans' zone with 15-footers as the Scorpions built an 11-point lead, 42-31, with 5:45 to go.

Kaminski seemed to half Seay's number. She went by her on the press and defensively drew two charging fouls which took Seay out of her game. Literally. The second came with 5:25 to go in the third. It was the fourth on Seay and sent her to the bench.

Without the flashy senior to feed Evans' powerful inside attack of Anderson and sophomore Cynthia Williams, the Trojans were in trouble. Kaminski and Kroen harassed the Evans' substitutes into three straight turnovers which produced a bulging 51-35 lead, the last two points coming when Starbird was hit with a technical foul.

Seay came back with 2:31 to play, but two minutes later she picked up her fifth foul while reaching and the Trojans were down the tubes. Satellite pushed its lead to 18 in the final quarter until Evans whittled it to 11 as the subs played out the string in the final minute.

Kaminski finished with 13 points and 12 assists. McGowan dropped in 23 points and grabbed nine rebounds. Kroen added 10, de la Rosa 13 and Ketterer 13. Mercado totalled eight.

Anderson topped Evans with 24 while Williams added 14. Seay was held to seven.

Twenty-six seconds later, Newkirk calmly hit two free throws to give the Preps a 41-37 edge. Lyra Vance added another point with 14 ticks left for the final outcome. Hastings, 12-2, didn't score the last four minutes.

Tampa Prep, 19-4, plays the winner of tonight's Laurel Hill-Fort Lauderdale Westminster winner Saturday at 7 p.m.

Osceola Rolls Over Lake Mary

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

Kissimmee Osceola rolled up 11 runs on 13 hits and turned four double plays on defense en route to an 11-4 victory over Lake Mary Thursday in high school softball action at Seminole Community College. Lake Mary fell to 1-3 with the loss.

Osceola broke on top with a run in the first inning as Natalie Young drew a walk and came around to score on Stacy Davis' two-out single.

The Lady Rams came back to tie the game at 1-1 in the bottom of the second as Andrea Fenning ripped a two-out single to right and scored on Lisa Gregory's single. Fenning's single was her fifth consecutive hit over a two-game span, she was 4 for 4 against Seminole on Wednesday and is 7 for 10 for a .700 average in three games.

Osceola broke the game open with five runs in the top of the second inning to take a 6-1 lead. Singles by Patti Ralston, Michelle Faulx and Rene Emanuel combined with four walks paved the way to the big inning.

The Lady Rams fought back for three runs in the bottom of the second to cut Osceola's lead to 6-4. Lisa Santulli reached on an error to lead off the inning. Liz Stone drew a walk and Karen DeShetler walked to load the bases. Cindy Herman then hit into a force play and Santulli scored. Stone and Herman both came around to score as Lisa Simkins cracked a single to center.

Two more runs in the top of the third gave Osceola an 8-4 lead. Jan Pharis smashed a double to left to lead off the inning and Joyce Richard singled to put runners at the corners with no outs. Pharis came around to score as Ralston's bloop to center field was dropped by Santulli. However, there was no error awarded on the play as the ball ricocheted off Santulli's glove and rolled all the way to second base where Herman alertly nabbed the ball to force the runner at second. Ralston later scored on a Ram miscue.

Terri Blayne stroked a one-out single in the bottom of the third but Osceola ended the inning as Kim Averill's shot was gloved by the pitcher, Pharis, who caught Blayne off base for a double play.

Osceola's Michelle Faulx stretches to just nip Lake Mary's Cindy Herman at first base.

Osceola whipped the Rams, 11-4, Thursday in prep softball action.

Osceola scored once in the fourth and two more times in the sixth to take an 11-4 lead. Stacy Davis singled in the fourth and scored on Pharis' single. Lake Mary got out of the inning when Richard's grounder was fielded by Averill at shortstop who threw Richard out at first and first baseman Gregory fired the ball to Simkins at third to get Pharis for an inning-ending double play. Osceola's runs in the sixth came on an RBI single by Faulx and a walk with the bases loaded.

The Lady Rams threatened again in the sixth inning as Averill led off with a single and Beth Watkins reached on a fielder's choice. Averill was erased when Stone hit into a force play but Lake Mary still had runners on first and second with only one out. DeShetler then laced a grounder up the middle but Kelly Merrigan, Osceola's shortstop, got to the ball, stepped on second and fired to first for Osceola's fourth double play of the day.

Herman reached on an error to lead off the bottom of the seventh, but the next three hitters were set down in order.

In other prep action Thursday, West Orange knocked off Lake Howell, 4-3, in 13 innings at Casselberry's Summerset Field. Oak Ridge stopped the Oviedo Lions, 7-1, and Crooms rolled to its fourth straight win, an 11-6 victory at Umatilla.

"It was like playing a double-header," said Lake Howell coach Jo Luciano about the marathon encounter which dropped the Silver Hawks to 3-2. Lake Howell tries for revenge Tuesday at Winter Garden.

Lake Howell jumped on top in the first frame when Shiela Dixon singled but was forced at second by Sandy Gillies. Junior Erin Duffy, though, jolted a shot up the middle for a triple and a 1-0 lead.

West Orange added a run in the third, only to find Lake Howell retaking the lead in the bottom of the inning. Junior Rose Fry rapped the first of her three hits and moved to second on a single by Dixon. Gillies chased home Fry with another single for a 2-1 lead.

Lady Hawk hurler Barb Heim made it stand up until the seventh when West Orange scored to send the game into extra frames. In the 10th, Tracey Maxey tripled and scored on a single by DeJores Springer to give the Winter Garden club a 2-1 lead.

Lake Howell knotted the game in the bottom of the inning and almost won. Tami Hankins singled after two were out. Fry then ripped a shot over the left fielder's head which scored Hankins to tie the game. Fry, though, was tossed out trying to stretch her triple into a home run.

"Rose (Fry) is our fastest player and I thought she could make it," said Luciano. "Just a bad decision by the third base coach, me."

In the top of the 13th, Juanita Brazil slugged a solo home run for the game-winning hit.

Fry topped the Hawks with three hits including her triple. Dixon slapped three singles while Duffy had a triple and a single.

Crooms, meanwhile, received home runs from Anicia Wheeler and Blondina McKinney and a strong pitching job from Christi Gonzales to topple Umatilla's varsity. Loyda DeAlba also ripped three singles.

The Sanford ninth grade hosts the Oviedo junior varsity Tuesday at 3 p.m. at Fort Mellon Park in Sanford.

Youth Baseball, Softball Open Tonight, Saturday

If that nine or 10-year-old of yours has been a little hyperactive lately, think nothing of it. It comes with the time of year. Spring has sprung which means in Seminole County, it's time to play ball.

Three baseball or softball leagues will kick off their seasons tonight and Saturday with gala grand openings to which the public is urged to attend, according to league spokespersons. The Five Points Complex is on State Road 419, one-half east of U.S. Highway 17-92 near Winter Springs.

Tonight at 6:45, the Seminole Pony Baseball Association will have its opening night. The featured attractions tonight will be Altamonte Springs' State Representative Art Grindle and Rollins baseball coach Boyd Coffie along with the Seminole High School band.

The Pony League, which had a Bronco team finish second in the World Series two years ago, is made up of Pinto (7-8 years old), Mustang (9-10 years old), Bronco (11-12 years old), Pony (13-14 years old) and Colt (15-16 years old) divisions.

The Pintos, Mustangs, Broncos and Ponies begin opening day games Saturday at 9 a.m. while the Colts won't play until after the high-school season ends.

Also on Saturday, a barbecue dinner and door prizes will be offered for $2.25 and the Show Biz Pizza Bear Billy Bob will also be on hand. The Longwood II Pintos will make a grand entry about 9:30 a.m. with their sponsor — the Longwood Police Department — in the SWAT Van.

The Seminole Softball Club will kick off its inaugural season Saturday with a day-long schedule of activities at the Five Points Softball Complex.

The Seminole Softball Club is headed by veteran softball organizer Roger Richardson of Longwood. Last year, the Seminole Pony Baseball Association was the governing body of baseball and softball at Five Points. Softball will no longer be associated with that group.

Opening day festivities will begin at 9 a.m. with the South Seminole Middle School "Hurricane" band playing a musical prelude. At 9:15 a.m., the league directors will be introduced. Don Jonas will present a fund-raising activity at 9:20 a.m.

Introduction of the three divisions — Starlings (ages 7-10), Hawks (ages 11-12) and Eagles (ages 13-15) — and their players, coaches and sponsors follows at 9:25 a.m. A presentation of the colors by the Casselberry VFW begins at 9:55 a.m., followed by the national anthem by the Hurricane band. A guest speaker will talk at 10 a.m.

All the pomp and circumstance will be followed by 11 exhibition games. Here is a look at the pairings:

Starlings (Field A)
10:30 a.m. Forest City #1 vs. Winter Springs; 11:15 a.m. Longwood vs. Casselberry; 12 noon Forest City #2 vs. Forest City #1.

Hawks (Field B)
2 p.m. Forest City #2 vs. Winter Springs; 2:30 p.m. Longwood vs. Casselberry; Forest City #1 vs. Forest City #2.

Eagles (Field A)
1 p.m. Longwood #1 vs. Winter Springs #1; 1:30 p.m. Casselberry #1 vs. Forest City #1; Forest City #2 vs. Semoran; Longwood #2 vs. Winter Springs #2; Casselberry #2 vs. Forest City #3.

Another opening day is also scheduled for Saturday. The Altamonte Little League, which has been so successful in past state tournaments, starts its program at 10 a.m. at the Eastmonte Recreation Center.

Veteran baseball executive Don Crawford, District 14 chairman for the past 20 years, will be the keynote speaker.

Exhibition games will begin at 11 a.m. and continue through the day.

Fat Boy's Barbecue of Altamonte Springs will provide a family style country barbecue. The tariff is just $3 for adults and $1.50 for children. Hotdogs and hamburgers will also be available. — SAM COOK

Oviedo Boys, Titusville Girls Are Favored In Lake Mary Relays

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

The Oviedo Lions boys team and Titusville's girls team, which upset defending state champion Oak Ridge, will be the favorites at the Ram Relays Saturday at Lake Mary High. Seminole, Lyman, Lake Brantley and Lake Mary should be strong challengers in the boys meet while Lake Mary and Jones will contend for the girls title. The relays begin at 10 a.m. with the field events and the finals starting at 1 p.m.

Orlando Luther, Bartow, Titusville and Jones will also be in the boys meet while Luther, Bartow, Seminole, Oviedo, Lyman and Father Lopez will be in the girls meet. The field events will get under way at 10 a.m. with the boys discus being the first event. Each team will have three people in the events and the team whose members have the most combined distance wins.

Lake Brantley is favored to win the high jump as the county's best, Mike Patterson, leads the way. Patterson's best so far is 6-8 and the Patriots have two others who have jumped over 6-0.

"Lake Brantley is very strong in the field events," Lake Mary coach Mike Gibson said. "That's where they beat Seminole and that could make them challengers in the Ram Relays."

PrepTrack

Although Lake Brantley is strong in the field events, Lyman's Greyhounds have the top pole vaulters. "Their (Lyman's) third guy is better than most of the other teams' best guy," Gibson said.

Seminole's Dion Jackson has been in fine form in both the long jump and triple jump thus far this season and is the Tribe's top performer in the field events.

At 12 noon, the 330 hurdles relay will begin and Lake Mary will make a strong bid for first place with Brian Cook, Derek Turney and Rouse who Gibson said have all been running well lately.

Saturday's feature race will be the sprint medley relay (first leg 110, second 220, third 330, fourth 440). Lake Mary's team of Will LaValle, Keith Mandy, Patt Murray and Charlie Lucarelli ran a 2:05.1 the last time they ran the sprint medley relay while Oviedo, 2:05.1 and Jones, 2:05.4, will be in the running along with Lake Mary.

Another featured event will be the 440 relay. Oviedo's 44.4 represents the best time of the teams in the Ram Relays with Lake Mary not far behind with a 44.6. Jones with a 44.8 and Seminole and Lyman with a 45.3. Lake Mary's 440 relay team includes Lucarelli, LaValle, Mandy and Murray.

Seminole High will be strong in both the mile relay and the mile medley relay with senior Mike Wooten leading the way. "Wooten is one of the most fluid runners around," Gibson said. "He's the best senior in the county."

The Rams are also counting on strong performances in the 2 mile run and the 2 mile relay with distance runners Derek Tangeman, Mark Blythe, Jim Schnell and Brian LaVigne leading the way. "Our distance people are looking really good," Gibson said.

For the girls team, Lake Mary's top performers have been Fran "Flash" Gordon, Anquetette Whack, Andrea Beardslee and newcomer Sonya Walker. Whack and Gordon excel at several events while Beardslee is the Rams' top distance runner. Beardslee holds the school record in the 800 at 2:37. Gibson said his best bet for a first place in the girls meet is the 440 relay.

Lake Mary would have had a chance in the shot put but its three top people, Laura Glass, Peggy Glass and Andrea Johnson who all throw over 30 feet, won't be in the meet.

"A relays meet requires more of a team effort," Gibson said. "You don't just rely on one top person but the second and third person too."

Patitucci, Raiders Romp; Battle Valencia Saturday

Seminole Community College's Joe Patitucci rapped a home run and a single Thursday while driving in three runs to ease the Raiders past Central Florida, 9-2, in Junior College baseball action at SCC.

The Raiders, 7-10, have won two straight. They travel to Orlando to take on arch-rival Valencia on Saturday at 2 p.m.

Fire-balling right-hander Jody Ryan tossed a three-hitter for the Raiders who are 1-0 now in the Mid-Florida Conference. Ryan blanked the visitors in seven of the nine frames while going the distance for the first time this year.

The Raiders held a 4-2 lead entering the eighth inning, but exploded for five runs in the frame to put the game out of reach. Robert Thigpen had two hits to aid the cause.

Lake City Drops Broward

Lake City went through the motions Thursday night in the first round of the State Junior College Basketball Tournament at DeLand's Stetson University and came away with an 83-74 victory over Broward North.

Lake City, 28-3, plays Manatee, 27-5, tonight at 9. Ulyen Coleman led the 'Wolves with 17 points. "We certainly didn't play to our potential," said LC coach Joe Fields. "If we don't play any better Friday, we won't be around for Saturday (night's championship)."

In other games, Manatee topped Madison North Florida, 86-80. Florida College of Temple Terrace whipped Jacksonville's Florida Junior, 110-94. FJC had beaten Seminole Community College in the post-season qualifying tournament last week.

Defending state champ Miami Dade North dropped Panama City Gulf Coast, 94-83.

Florida College and Miami Dade North play tonight at 7 in the other semi-final game. Saturday, a 5:30 p.m. game matches the North All Stars, coached by SCC's Bill Payne, against the South All Stars. The title game will follow.

Buffalo Snaps Bruin String

United Press International

Boston Coach Gerry Cheevers was not as disappointed with the Bruins' first home loss in 23 games as he was with the way they lost.

"It was our worst game all year," Cheevers said after Buffalo downed the Bruins 3-2 Thursday night in Boston. "We didn't go near a goal. We didn't hit anyone. We even tried to avoid a lot of checks. We didn't go after anyone. Somewhere along the line, we lost what we do best — work our butts off in their end."

The triumph was Buffalo's third over Boston in the last 15 days and also was the Sabres' first in Boston Garden since Nov. 27, 1979. The victory was Buffalo's fifth straight and it was Boston's first loss at home since Nov. 11.

Buffalo Coach Scotty Bowman has preached patience with his young Buffalo team, and it is reaping dividends. The latest bloomer is 19-year-old Paul Cyr, whose third-period hat trick propelled the Sabres.

"Scotty goes with us, and that has to give us confidence," said Cyr, one of three No. 1 choices last June and the ninth overall pick. "We may not have the experience, but he thinks we can do it. And I think we are doing it."

Boston's lack of effort didn't hurt until Cyr rifled a 45-foot slapshot past Pete Peeters with 10:02 remaining in the game. The Bruins had gotten first-period goals six minutes apart from Mike O'Connell and Bruce Crowder.

Cyr struck again at 12:49, when, as he put it, "I just lowered my head and shot, and it went through a screen and into the net." The third goal was a rebound off a Mike Ramsey drive at 14:19.

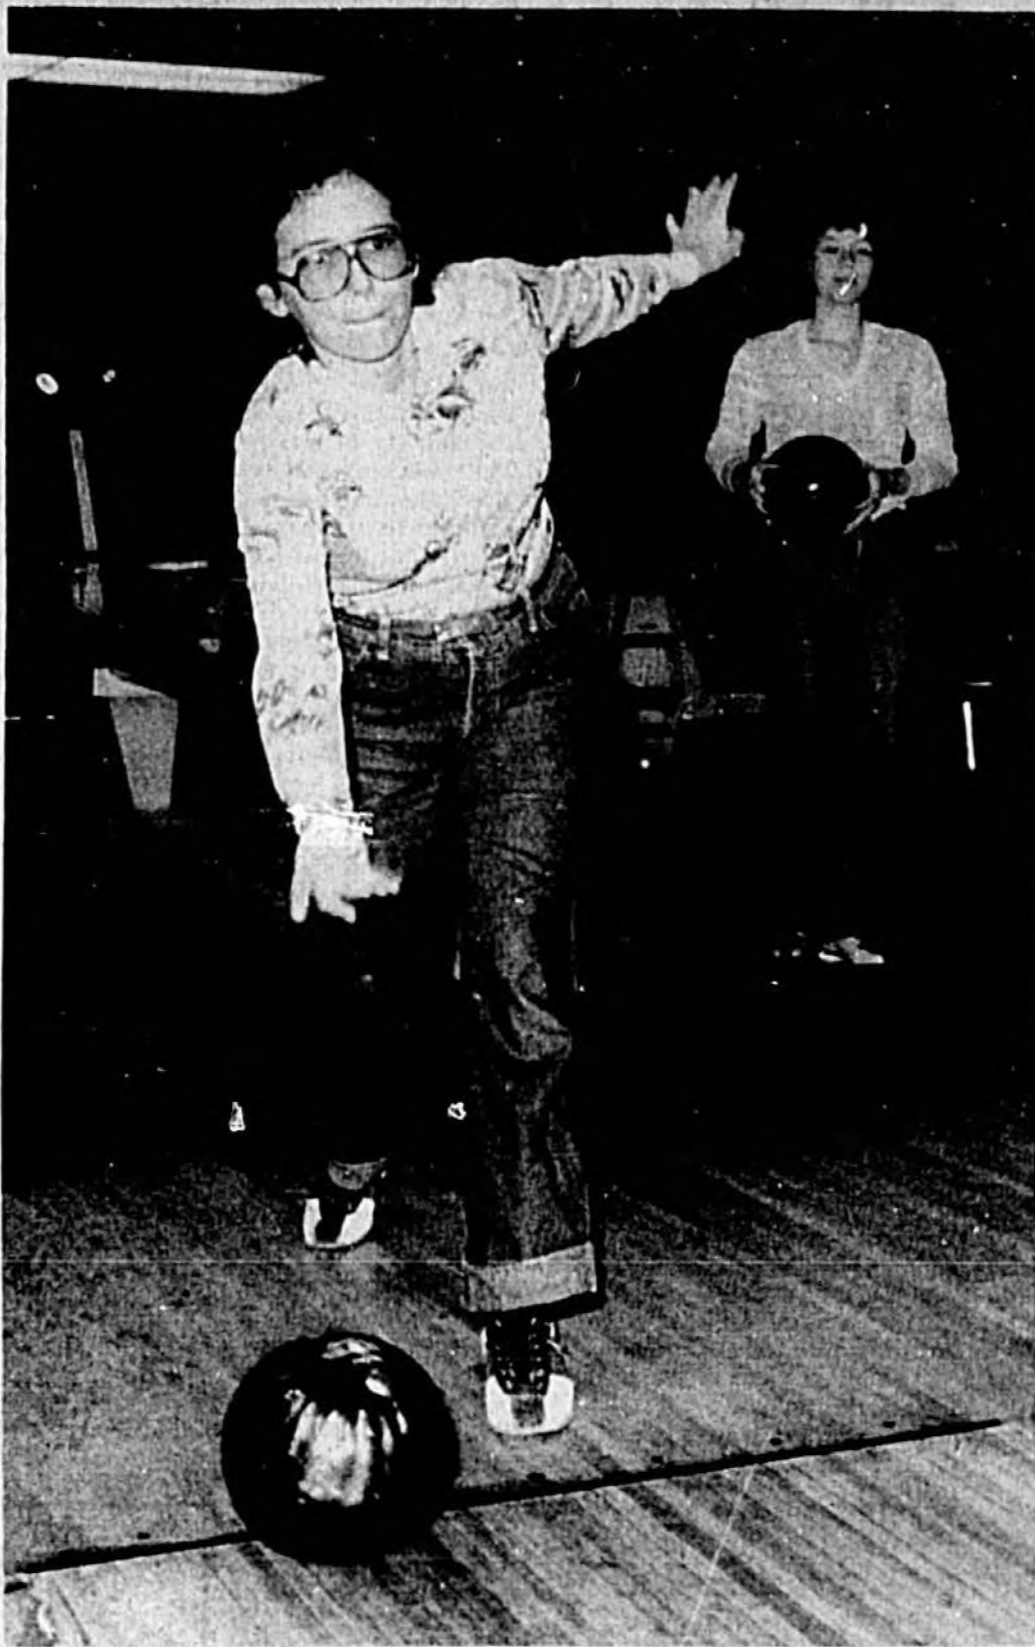

In other games, Detroit clipped Quebec 5-3. Washington nipped the New York Rangers 4-3, and Philadelphia smashed New Jersey 4-1.

Recreation All Stars Lose

The Sanford All-Stars of the Sanford Recreation Department Intermediate Basketball League stayed close to Orlando-Englewood the entire game but could not pull out the victory, falling 55-50, in the District Tournament at Davis Armory in Orlando.

Orlando led held a slim 29-28 halftime lead and led by just two, 43-41, after three quarters. Joey Turner connected for eight points in the fourth quarter to lift Orlando to victory.

Daryl Williams led Sanford with 16 points while Charles Ruffin tossed in 13 and Craig Dixon added six. Turner was high for Orlando with 18.

Wilkins 3-Point Play Saves Hawks

UPI Sports Writer

The Atlanta Hawks Thursday night turned to someone other than their captain during crunch time.

"The fourth quarter is pro basketball's quarter, and we played well down the stretch," said coach Kevin Loughery after rookie Dominique Wilkins took over and converted a three-point play with 28 seconds left to help the Hawks to their fifth straight victory, a 91-89 decision over the Washington Bullets at Atlanta.

"It was a great win for us. This is like a double-win because Washington is in the playoff battle with us."

The score was tied 85-85 with 3:38 left before Jeff Ruland scored four straight points to give Washington an 89-85 advantage with 2:21 remaining. Wes Matthews then hit a jumper, drawing the Hawks to 89-87 with 1:53 left. Wilkins then hit a basket and a foul shot. Ricky Sobers missed a three-pointer that would have won the game for Washington at the buzzer.

Atlanta, 30-29, was led by Wilkins' 17 points. Captain Dan Roundfield finished with 16 points, a team-high 10 rebounds and three blocked shots. Matthews came off the bench to score 13, including 11 in the fourth quarter.

Wilkins said the Hawks are gaining momentum with each victory.

"I think that would help any team's confidence, winning five in a row," he said. "I think it gets your morale going. It gets the guys playing together. It gets everybody fired up and ready to go for the next one."

Washington, 25-32, was paced by forward Greg

Pro Basketball

Ballard's game-high 30 points. Ruland added 25 and 13 rebounds before fouling out with 2:08 left. Sobers added 19 points as the Bullets suffered their 14th loss in the last 15 road games.

"We're just really struggling," said Washington Coach Gene Shue. "I felt we played well enough to win, but these are the kinds of things that happen when you're in the streak we're in."

In other games, Kansas City stopped Detroit 125-118, and Utah defeated Cleveland 118-113.

No Belushi Houston Survives Hogs' 'Animal House,' 74-66

United Press International
Having survived a night in Barnhill Arena, Houston is now ready for a walk in the sun in Albuquerque, N.M.

"If we had played with this kind of intensity against North Carolina (in the NCAA semifinals last year)," said Houston's Larry Micheaux, "we would have won the national championship."

"If we play like this the rest of the way," said Houston guard Michael Young, "I don't think anybody will beat us."

In a raucous and momentous outing at Fayetteville, Ark., Thursday night, the No. 1 Cougars defeated the No. 4 Razorbacks 74-66 to win their first Southwest Conference championship, lifting their hopes for a berth in the NCAA final four at Albuquerque.

It was a night for other accomplishments as well: — Houston won for the first time in eight years at Barnhill Arena, one of college basketball's great "animal houses." Arkansas had a 28-game victory streak at home. — Houston, 24-2 and 15-0 in the SWC, won its 19th straight and protected its No. 1 ranking.

College Basketball

— The Cougars beat the Razorbacks for the second time this season, the only two blemishes on Arkansas' record.

Any doubts the Cougars may have had about the department of the crowd at Barnhill were dispelled in the first three minutes as fans pelted the court with ice. Arkansas Coach Eddie Sutton, who previously has been accused of orchestrating the antics of the home fans, grabbed a microphone and appealed to the crowd's better judgment.

Houston owned the first half, claiming a 34-27 lead on the streak shooting of Benny Anders. The Razorbacks cut it to 57-56 with 5:30 to play. But then Young drove for a layup and Akeem Abdul Olajuwon, Houston's 7-foot Nigerian, followed with two resounding dunks. Clyde Drexler added a basket and, with Houston's lead at nine points, the Razorbacks were through.

"They were awesome," said Arkansas guard Darrell Walker. "Since I have been here we had won two conference championships, but I guess the third one wasn't in the cards."

For Houston, Anders had 18 points, Drexler 17, Olajuwon 15 and Young 14 while Micheaux grabbed 12 rebounds. Arkansas, 24-2, was paced by Joe Kleine with 20 points and 10 rebounds while Walker added 18 points.

Elsewhere in the Top 20, No. 6 Kentucky defeated Mississippi 61-58, No. 11 Nevada-Las Vegas dropped San Jose State 67-61, No. 12 Indiana ripped Purdue 64-41, No. 14 Ohio State lost to Illinois 74-73 in overtime, No. 18 Memphis State swamped Florida State 94-67, and No. 20 Iowa downed Northwestern 63-50.

At Oxford, Miss., Melvin Turpin scored 23 points to carry Kentucky, the Southeastern Conference champ. Carlos Clark had 26 points for Mississippi and freshman Kenny Walker added 17 for the Wildcats.

At San Jose, Calif., Sidney Green's 21 points and 10 rebounds helped Nevada-Las Vegas snap a two-game losing streak. The Runnin' Rebels were down by 12 at the half and did not take the lead until 75 seconds remained. Chris McNealy had 18 points for San Jose State.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Operation Needed For Hemorrhoids?

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — Under what conditions do you think an operation is justified to remove hemorrhoids? I am female, 74, and the doctor prescribed medications to regulate my heartbeat and blood pressure.

For two years now the hemorrhoids bleed occasionally, but always in the evening, usually after such exercise as walking around a large shopping mall. I quit roller skating, swimming and bicycling — all of which I did easily and well — because they seemed to bring on the bleeding.

My physician-surgeon wanted to "cut 'em off" more than a year ago, saying they would never stop bleeding. But I put him off.

DEAR READER — I hate to think that you are limiting your activity and your enjoyment because of hemorrhoids. Being active is important to your health if you are in good enough physical condition to be that active. Certainly a good walk is something you should be able to do without concern.

Whether you need your hemorrhoids treated depends on how much trouble they are giving you. And if you do need to do something, you need to know what kind of hemorrhoid you have before a decision is made regarding treatment.

Many people with mild symptoms find that better bowel habits that avoid straining at the stool help. And lubrication helps to avoid irritation and hence bleeding when being active.

might be able to have the rubber band surgery. It is also only for internal hemorrhoids.

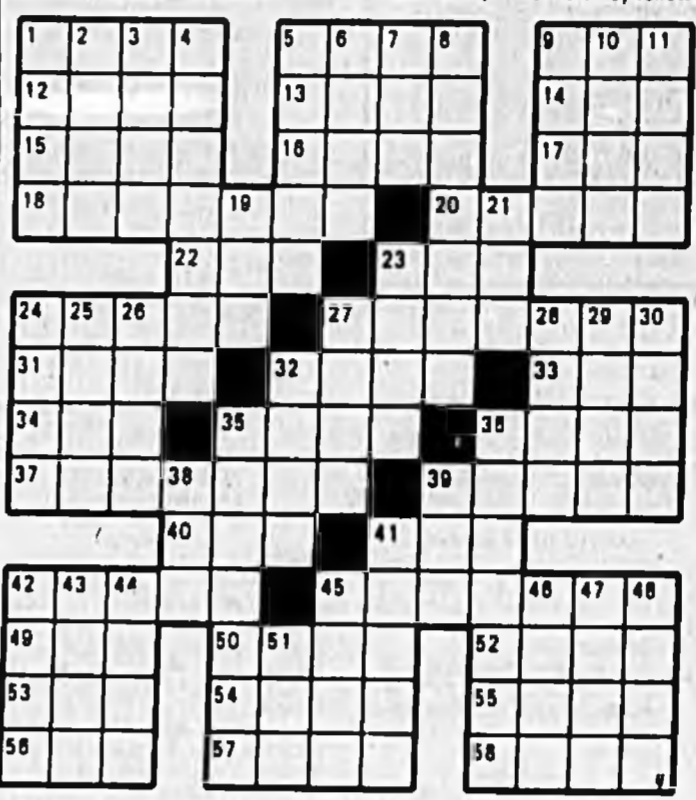

The choices for different types of hemorrhoids are outlined in The Health Letter 13-12, Hemorrhoids: New Treatments for an Old Affliction, which I am sending you. Others can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Which is more important: the grams of carbohydrate or the calories? And can you tell me how many calories you have to take in to gain one pound?

DEAR READER — Calories are what count. Generally speaking, there are four calories in every gram of carbohydrate. Compare that to four calories for a gram of protein, nine calories for a gram of fat and seven calories for a gram of alcohol. I think it is unfortunate that food labeling is not all done in calories to eliminate the confusion for the public.

You didn't say a pound of what. A pound of body fat contains about 3,500 calories. That means you need to consume 3,500 calories more than your body uses to gain a pound of fat. The excess calories can be from carbohydrates, protein, fat or alcohol.

But a pound of muscle contains only 600 calories. It follows that if you are consuming enough protein and are exercising properly, you can gain weight because you are developing muscle while you are losing fat from a calorie-restricted diet.

WIN AT BRIDGE

they always land in tall contracts. Here we see Bill at a mere three spades.

In explanation of the bidding, West's two-spade call showed hearts and one minor suit. There was probably at least 10 cards in the two of them. Harry's three-spade bid was a non-forcing limit raise and rather weak at that.

It also got Bill one trick too high, but with a little help from the defense plus expert play, he collected nine tricks and a good score.

West opened the king of hearts. East made the mistake of not overtaking with his ace. He did win the heart continuation and shifted to a club, but Bill was ready to go to work.

He cashed the ace of spades and noted the fall of the queen. Then he played diamonds. A heart went on dummy's king after the queen and ace had been cashed and a fourth diamond was ruffed. Now he cashed his remaining high club and ruffed the 10 for his eighth trick.

It didn't matter what card he now led from dummy. He was sure to make his ninth trick with the nine of spades. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Suzanne Lewis, Michael Hurrell Repeat Vows

Suzanne Lewis and Michael Hurrell were married Feb. 19, at 1 p.m., at VZ Top Art Gallery, Seville Square, Pensacola. Dr. Dallas Blanchard, professor of archeology and anthropology at the University of West Florida, performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Lewis, 510 Power Road, Sanford. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hurrell, Pensacola.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows an ivory matte taffeta gown fashioned along the Victorian silhouette. The scalloped Brussels yoke was accented with a high crown collar to complement the basque bodice. The Juliet sleeves featured extended cuffs accented with Brussel points at the wrist. She wore a spray of flowers in her hair to match the bouquet of spring flowers she carried.

Rulaine Kegerreis-Ogden, former roommate of the bride at the University of West Florida, attended as matron of honor. She wore an indigo blue chiffon gown, calf-length, with lace accenting the hemline and Victorian neckline. She carried a bouquet of spring flowers.

David Kegerreis-Ogden served the bridegroom as best man. Ushers were Burton Lewis Jr., brother of the bride; and Robert Hurrell, brother of the bridegroom.

Following a reception at E. J. Food Co., Pensacola, the newlyweds departed on a wedding trip along the Gulf Coast.

They are making their home at 1719 18th St., Pensacola.

The bride, a 1974 graduate of Seminole High School, a 1976 graduate of Seminole Community College, and a 1978 graduate of the University of West Florida, is employed as supervisory park ranger and district historian at Gulf Island National Seashore, Pensacola.

The bridegroom, a 1974 graduate of Woodham High School, Pensacola, is a partner of H & H Electric Co., Pensacola.

Gardening

Spring Garden Begins With Soil Preparation

A successful spring garden begins with proper soil preparation. Vegetable gardeners should start turning the ground in their plots about three weeks before planting, when the soil is dry enough to work.

Desmond Hastings

For large gardens, mechanical equipment such as a rototiller or a tractor-drawn plow is often necessary to complete the task. Gardeners can rent the needed equipment or even hire someone to do the job for them.

For small gardens, a spade, spading fork or shovel is adequate for turning the soil. Remember to turn the soil over completely when spading.

Weeds, cover crops and added organic matter, such as animal manure, can all be spaded under at this time. But the freshly turned-under organic material must be allowed to decompose and become fairly well-rotted before seeds are planted.

Woody plant materials such as sticks and dried dog fennel stalks should be removed from the garden rather than cut into the soil. Likewise, perennial grass and weed pests should be removed wherever possible to eliminate recurring problems.

Break up all soil clods and level the ground with a rake, or harrow the soil soon after turning to maintain good soil texture and prevent excessive drying. A finely pulverized surface generally insures easier planting, better germination and a more even stand, especially for small-seeded crops such as carrots. A plank drag can be used to smooth the soil in larger gardens, and a hand rake will serve the same purpose on smaller plots.

One important step in soil preparation in many gardens is the application of a liming material when a soil test shows it is needed.

"Most vegetables grow best in a slightly acid soil that has a pH between 6.0 and 6.5. The symbol 'pH' and the figures accompanying it are used to express the degree of soil acidity. A soil with a pH of 7.0 is neutral, while one with a pH of 6.9 or below is acid or 'sour' and one with a pH of 7.1 or above is alkaline or 'sweet.'"

The main functions of lime are to reduce soil acidity and to supply nutrients, mainly calcium, to the soil. Proper applications of lime on extremely acid soils will increase production of most vegetables.

Too much lime in the soil, however, may be just as bad as too little. Where soils are highly alkaline, special attention must be paid to the inclusion of minor elements in the fertilizer mixes. In any case, apply liming materials only if a soil test indicates a need for them. Gardeners can get assistance in having their soils tested by taking a representative sample to the Agricultural Center.

What liming material to use and the amount to apply depend, among other things, upon the soil reaction (pH) and the type of soil in the garden. It may be necessary to consult a technical advisor to determine the proper liming program for your garden, but in general, a reaction below pH 6.0 shows a need for lime.

Dolomite is a good liming material due to its magnesium content. This particular type of lime should be applied at least two to three months before planting because of its slow reaction time. Hydrated lime can be used where a quick acting material is required. Provided it is mixed well with the soil, hydrated lime can be applied two weeks or more before planting.

The lime should be spread evenly over the garden and then plowed or spaded into the soil to a depth of six inches.

While preparing the soil for planting at this time, gardeners should also be thinking about the fertilizer needs of their soil and plants and about proper nematode and pest control.

Please make a special effort to attend our March seminar at the Seminole County Agricultural Center. The seminar will be given by Uday K. Yadav, Orange County Extension Horticultural Agent. The topic will be "Propagation and Care of Woody Ornamentals." The time will be Wednesday, March 23, at 7:30-9:00 p.m.

Mr. Yadav is very versed in this field and every one will learn something. Bring your questions.

All Extension Programs are open to anyone regardless of race, color, sex or national origin.

In And Around Geneva

Carnival Set Saturday

It's a boy for Steve and Linda Nearhoof of Lake Harney Road in Geneva. Gregory Charles is the name chosen for the Neahoofs third child who was born Feb. 22 at the Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford. The baby weighed 8 pounds, 15 ounces and measured 21 1/2 inches.

Both Linda and baby Gregory came home last Thursday at noon to a warm greeting from his sisters, Therese, 4, and Paula, 2 1/2.

Linda's sister, Roseann Mattison, of Marengo, Iowa, flew down for a timely week-long visit, arriving this past Monday.

Steve is an engineer with Stromberg-Carlson.

Don't forget the big shindig this Saturday at the elementary school.

The Geneva Parent Teacher Organization is sponsoring a Spring

Lou Childers

Carnival from 11 a.m. until 4 p.m. Bring the entire family for a fun-filled day.

Hattie Byrd is recovering from a head-on collision. Speaking from her room at the Central Florida Regional Hospital she says, "I'm feeling much better, but still sore all over."

Hattie works at the Handy Way in Geneva.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Geneva Citizens Association Monday night, March 7. Gary Kaiser, Seminole County Director of Public Safety will be the feature speaker addressing Fire Hazards for People in Rural Areas.

Also, the final plans for the groups fund-raising Rummage Sale to be held March 19 at the community hall will be discussed. Loraine Whitting, secretary of GCA, hopes that while Genevans are doing their "spring cleaning," they will bring unwanted items to either her home or Luyene Kinnaird.

The sale will start at 9:30 a.m. on March 19, and beginning at 4 p.m., a Pancake Supper will be available. The price will be $2 for adults, $1.50 for children.

For more information call Luyene Kinnaird at 349-5263, Loraine Whitting at 349-5495, or Arnold Gottlieb at 349-5034.

Doctor's Care Extends As Far As Office Door

DEAR ABBY: Is it possible to have a genuine friendship with your doctor? I am a professional woman who has grown very fond of my woman physician during this past year. She treated me for a medical problem and has helped me a great deal with some personal problems, too.

From the very beginning I felt a strong attraction between us. We've attended the same social functions and have lunched together on occasion. After my medical problem was resolved, I had the feeling that my doctor wanted to end the personal relationship that I thought was just beginning to develop.

When I asked her about this, she said we could not maintain both a social relationship and a patient-doctor relationship, but she was quite willing to be my doctor.

I have trouble understanding this, as my husband and I have a social relationship with our lawyer and other professional types we deal with and it's never created any problems.

I would appreciate hearing your view or those of your readers on this topic.

ANONYMOUS, PLEASE
DEAR ANONYMOUS: It's my

Dear Abby

opinion that you came on too strong, and your physician felt that she couldn't handle a social relationship with you. In any case, she told you as diplomatically as she could that she prefers not to socialize with you.

Please accept her decision with grace and don't pursue her.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I returned to his hometown 80 miles away to attend a family wedding and stayed with his parents as usual. We asked in advance if we could bring a young woman who had also been invited to the wedding and were told that she was also welcome to stay with them as they had ample room.

When we arrived we were all told which bedrooms were ours to use. After the wedding and reception, we returned late and were very tired. Upon retiring, we found there were absolutely no sheets on our beds, so rather than go searching for bed linen, we slept on the beds with no sheets.

The next morning, my husband politely teased his mom about the bed being bare of sheets. Mom became defensive and said she didn't appreciate our sleeping on her beds without sheets, and called us "lazy" for not finding sheets and making up the beds ourselves!

This conversation took place in the presence of the friend we brought with us and it was very embarrassing. I was offended by my mother-in-law's remarks. Our visits are rare, and she had plenty of notice that we were coming.

Question: Wasn't Mom the lazy one for not being prepared for our visit? Or were we the lazy ones for not making our beds at such a late hour?

MIDNIGHT SURPRISE

DEAR SURPRISE: Obviously Mom wasn't properly prepared for your visit, but that doesn't necessarily make her "lazy." And neither can you be called "lazy" for opting to sleep sheetless as you did. But all the unpleasantness could have been avoided had your husband not "politely teased" Mom about her thoughtlessness.

GARDEN CIRCLES

CENTRAL CIRCLE

Mrs. Kelly Bennett, Mrs. Florence Wehrwein and Mrs. Shirley Simas were joint hostesses at the February meeting of Central Circle of the Garden Club of Sanford.

Guest speaker Mrs. Louise Bennett of Titusville, presented an interesting and informative talk on the art of drying flowers. She showed many arrangements she composed prior to the meeting.

HIBISCUS CIRCLE

Hibiscus Circle of the Garden Club of Sanford met at the home of Mrs. Ida Fauver with Mrs. Jean Taylor as co-hostess. The Valentine motif was carried out and refreshments were served. Needlepoint gifts, made by Mrs. Taylor, were presented to the members.

Speaker Sheldon Sparts, Science Instructor at Seminole College, showed slides and spoke on the topic: "Orchid Environment and Conservation in the Everglades." Some native orchids can be found in Seminole County, he said. Roads and land development are serious hazards that affect orchid life and growth.

A message was read from the president of the Garden Club, Mrs. Elizabeth Welebob. The general meeting and covered dish luncheon was held Feb. 17, at which time a painting by Ann Brisson was dedicated to the late Mrs. Carmella Herrington.

Kid Scientists Busy At Work

Science Fair competition at Wilson Elementary School challenged the ingenuity of the pupils who rose to the occasion by coming up with projects such as this magnetic train being demonstrated by 11-year-old Tommy Hill; and a transfer of energy being shown by Charles Grooms, 11, and his able assistant, 11-year-old sign holder Sean Parker; and a rock identification demonstrated by Kenneth Brashear, 10.

Retail Sales And 'Big Ticket' Factory Orders Up

NEW YORK (UPI) — The nation's major retailers, aided by sales of "big-ticket" items and traditional promotional activities, reported higher sales in February despite heavy snow and rainstorms around the country.

The February gains came on the heels of strong sales increases in January and provided analysts with encouraging evidence the consumer is finally beginning to spend again in sufficient volume to help spur economic recovery.

"The recent reduction in interest rates and unemployment, coupled with lower inflation and growing consumer confidence, will gradually improve the economic picture for 1983," Jeffrey Felner, retail analyst at Merrill Lynch, Pierce Fenner & Smith, said Thursday.

Sears, Roebuck & Co., the nation's largest retailer, reported a 4.3 percent increase in February sales. K-mart sales rose 8.6 percent; F.W. Woolworth, 1.8 percent; Federated Department Stores, 13.3 percent, and Montgomery Ward, 1.9 percent.

Only J.C. Penney, the third largest retailer, reported a February sales decline — 1.4 percent.

Among the biggest increases were a 30 percent gain by Wal-Mart and 25.2 percent by Zayre.

Also Thursday, the Commerce Department reported that new orders for factory goods topped $160 billion in January for the first time in 16 months.

The 2.4 percent increase from December to $160.1 billion in January was led by automobile orders but widely spread among a wide variety of so-called big ticket durable goods, the department said.

Growth in orders for autos, steel, non-electrical and construction equipment helped wipe out declines among the non-durable good, adding another healthy sign to mounting favorable economic statistics.

Hitting The Trail And Getting Back To Nature

By Michael Beha
Herald Staff Writer

In days long past, the North American continent was traversed by men who walked the trails, men like Daniel Boone, Jim Bridger, and Lewis and Clark. Those men and the fur trappers and traders like them blazed trails across the face of this country, opening up the wilderness for the settlers who would follow.

Those trails made possible the great Western migration and the eventual development of our urban society. But as the development progressed, superhighways supplanted those pastoral trails.

But today, in the midst of our high-tech society and more than a century after men like Boone and Lewis and Clark, an organization called the Florida Trails Association is working to restore hiking trails in Florida. This despite the continuing encroachment of urban areas into formerly rural settings.

One major trail exists in Seminole County. It is more than 20 miles long and connects the Longwood fire tower to Chuluota, according to Florida Trails' Riley Dykes.

Dykes, who lives in Winter Park, says the group is working to develop the Florida Trail, a 250-mile path between the Everglades and Pensacola. That trail will link existing trails into a system to traverse the length of the Florida peninsula.

Toward that end, association members are exploring several areas in which to create additional trails. Dykes recently hiked an area near State Road 44 and the Wekiva River Bridge to help determine where a trail could begin that would go all the way to Suwannee River State Park.

The group also hopes to develop a hiking trail in the 3-mile park being planned by the Seminole County Commission for an old railroad right-of-way near Paola. The park, near State Road 46, will border on the Wekiva River and have a canoe-launching facility.

Florida Trails' ambitious plans stems from its growing numbers...from 70 members in 1966 to more than 6,000 current members as hiking has become more popular.

Evidence the fact that the 14-mile trail along the Wekiva River has been heavily used in recent years, Dykes says. About 1,000 maps have been passed out since last year to hikers. "And who knows how many more hiked it without maps," he says. "The trail is marked and there are maps posted."

Hiking is a relatively inexpensive sport, Dykes says. The beginner only needs a pair of sneakers, (hiking boots aren't necessary in the sandy Florida soils) long pants, (the same Florida soils grow an Backpacking is an increasingly popular way to get away from it all without really leaving things behind. Several trails are available in the region for backpackers, including this one at Wekiva State Park near Longwood.

Brooke Shields isn't even out of her teens yet and already she has competition for the title of "Hottest Young Model-Actress In Show Biz." The newcomer is 15-year-old Tasia Valenza. Page 2.

Lotta laughs

If you don't take NBC's 'A-Team' too seriously, you might enjoy it. If nothing else, it's at least good for a few laughs. TV critic David Handler reviews the show on Page 5.

Huh?

Donna Kel Benz doesn't look Jewish. She looks Japanese. Which she is. But she doesn't sound Japanese. She sounds Jewish, which she also is. Confused? So are a lot of casting directors. Page 8.

Even Tony Curtis Has Warbled A Bit

DEAR DICK: My neighbor and I disagree, and haven't been able to find the answer. Maybe you can help. I say Tony Curtis has sung and my neighbor says he does not sing and has never sung. Can you help? H.N., Gables, Mich.

In Curtis' long career, he's done just about everything — including singing — once. It was in a 1955 musical called "So This Is Paris," in which he sang a duet with Gloria De Haven on a song called "The Two of Us." The sound-track album was issued by Mercury, so you might still be able to get a copy.

DEAR DICK: You recently said the person singing the Maxwell House coffee commercial was Ray Charles. Another source says the singer's name is Arthur Prysock. Who is right? My bet's on Prysock. D.P., Kalamazoo, Mich.

You lose, and so does your "another source." Charles does the Maxwell House commercials. Prysock does the Lowenbrau beer commercials.

DEAR DICK: This controversy has been going since Christmas '81. A homemade pizza is riding on your answer. I contend that the mail-room clerk who decides to send Santa's mail to the courthouse in "Miracle on 34th Street" is a very young Jack Albertson. My dear friend and companion refuses to believe it, unless verified by a respected authority such as yourself. B.W., Vancouver, Wash.

I'll have mine with mushrooms, pepperoni and anchovies. Yes, that was Albertson's first film. He was 30 at the time.

DEAR DICK: I heard Mike Farrell of "M*A*S*H" on a talk show describing a game called Broadway he had designed and was marketing. My daughter, who is interested in the theater, wanted one. I have asked at stores, but they know nothing about it. I wrote to Mr. Farrell at "M*A*S*H" but got no reply. Could you give me any information on the game and where I could get one? R.L.W., Warsaw, Ind.

It is sold only through mail order. If you send a check for $24.95 to Broadway Game, Box 700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069, you will get a copy. Enjoy.

DEAR DICK: Is the head director of my favorite soap opera, "Search for Tomorrow," the Fred (Freddy) Bartholomew? The boy from my childhood movies? J.G., Mount Clemens, Mich.

Yes, Bartholomew has long been working behind the scenes in radio and TV in New York, and is now executive producer of that show.

DEAR DICK: Is it true that Rick Springfield is really quitting "General Hospital"? C.A., Coalhurst, Alberta, Canada

Ask Dick Kleiner

Rick has already quit. He plans to do a movie, make a new album and start on a new personal appearance tour.

DEAR DICK: Please tell me how old Michele Lee, of "Knots Landing," is, if she was a singer at one time, and what her nationality is. P.C., Jensen Beach, Fla.

Michele doesn't look it, but she is 40 and, yes, she started out her career on Broadway as a singer. Her nationality? She was born in Los Angeles, so I guess she's pure Californian.

DEAR DICK: I am so hurt that "Texas" has been canceled. The other soaps are not good. The whole town is shocked about it being canceled. Please consider bringing it back. G.R., Athens, Ga.

I'd do anything for you, but bringing canceled soaps back is not within my power. The network wanted higher ratings, so dropped both "Texas" and "The Doctors" and replaced them with some game shows.

DEAR DICK: Could you please tell me what happened to Catherine Mackin. I think she was a news reporter for one of the networks. J.N., Warsaw, Ind.

Catherine Mackin — people knew her as Cassie — died recently. She had been with NBC for quite a few years.

DEAR DICK: As a youngster, I loved B Westerns and was a particular fan of Dan Duryea, one of the best heavies of that time. I best remember him in a movie with Audie Murphy, "Ride Clear of Diablo." I enjoyed that so much I would like to rent, borrow or buy a copy so I could see it one more time. Any idea where I can find a copy? M.B., Albuquerque, N.M.

The film is not yet old enough to be in P.D. — Public Domain — which means that it is not available through the usual channels of libraries or film rental firms. Your only hope is to approach Universal, the studio that made it, and see if they will let you have a copy. Doubtful, but possible.

Look Out Brooke Here Comes Tasia!

By Dick Kleiner

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Even before Louis Malle picked her for his new film, "Crackers," people back in New York kept telling Tasia Valenza that she could be the next Brooke Shields.

Then came the remarkable coincidence of Malle. It was the French director, remember, who put the young Brooke Shields in his film "Pretty Baby," which got the Shields express rolling. Then he found the 15-year-old Tasia Valenza and maybe lightning will strike twice.

The Shields-Valenza similarity is really only from the neck up. They have the same sort of face, which is a pretty good face, indeed. But Tasia is the first to recognize that the similarity ends south of the neck.

"We have different sorts of bodies," she says. "Brooke is tall and thin. I'm sort of medium in height (she's 5 feet 5 inches now and probably won't grow much more) but I've always tended to be a little heavy. I'm not the flat-chested sort."

The differences between the two girls go beyond physical traits, however. Brooke has been performing (if you consider modeling a type of performance) since she was a baby. Tasia has done a lot of school plays, but that's it.

Tasia — the name is pronounced like the tail end of "Fantasia" — is New York-born. Her parents divorced when she was 3. Her father is a noted New York restaurateur. Tasia has an older brother (now studying hotel management at Cornell) and a twin brother, Tor (who plans to go to M.I.T. and study solar energy).

It wasn't easy for Tasia's mother to support three children, and Tasia helped out. As recently as a couple of days before she was whisked off to California to become a movie star, she was working in a New York ice cream parlor. She had also clerked in a dress shop and worked behind the counter in a bakery, all for the minimum wage of $3.50 an hour.

Among other sources of income, Tasia's mother did extra work on movies shot in New York. Tasia, with stars in her eyes, always insisted that her mother take her picture with her when she worked. Just in case anybody would want a picture of a beautiful teenager who wanted to be an actress.

And it worked. The "just

in case" actually happened. On an extra call, Tasia's mother was interviewed by casting director Juliet Taylor. And Miss Taylor was asking everybody if they knew a beautiful, dark-eyed, dark-haired teen-ager to play a Mexican-American girl.

"My mom showed her my picture," Tasia says. "That was on a Friday. By Monday, I was in Hollywood for a screen test."

The part in "Crackers" isn't a big one. But Malle says the movie is a true ensemble affair, and all of the cast — including the nominal stars, Donald Sutherland and Jack Warden — have parts of roughly equal size. So Tasia's part is a good one, certainly for her debut.

She is positive that she is in acting for the long haul, but she doesn't want to leave her beloved New York for Hollywood. She says that, at this point in her life, she still wants to stay in New York.

"New York kids," she says, "are much more mobile than California kids, and we have more freedom. That's because we can get around New York, which has such a great transportation system, by ourselves. I'm still too young to drive — I will be 16 on April 5 — but in New York I can go anywhere I want any time I want."

Her mother, as you might expect, is pleased with her career progress. But she has a word of caution for her beautiful daughter, and that word is "classy."

"She keeps telling me to keep it classy," Tasia says. "She doesn't want me to do sex things, cheesecake, that sort of stuff. She says I should stick with things that show off my acting talent."

Nobody, except maybe Malle, knows yet whether or not she has genuine acting talent. Everybody knows, however, that she is an exceptionally beautiful young woman. That may be enough.

PBS To 'Save The Panda' SATURDAY

By Peter Meade

Even if your idea of cute and cuddly ranges more toward Tom Selleck or Victoria Principal, save some attention for the pandas. They really need it.

When the lovable black-and-white creature was first revealed to the Western world in 1936, "pandamania" spread quickly. After watching the panda frolic in this hour-long special, it's not hard to see why. However, today the animals' survival is in serious jeopardy.

"Save the Panda," airing Wednesday, March 9 on PBS (please check local listings, air dates may vary), documents the ongoing project to save the enigmatic creature from extinction. The Gulf-funded program, narrated by Richard Basehart, explains there are fewer than 1,000 pandas in existence today. Most live in the remote, mountainous, bamboo forests of central China, but their traditional domain has been decreased seriously by ever-expanding civilization.

In the season's third National Geographic Special, cameras follow field-biologist Dr. George B. Schaller of the New York Zoological Society and China's foremost panda authority Prof. Hu Jin-chu as they journey into China's Wolong Natural Reserve. In the 770-square-mile area members of "Project Panda" are trying to preserve the species through a wildlife protection agreement uniting the World Wildlife Fund and the People's Republic of China.

Few zoos around the world have pandas. Basically it is because researchers are still desperately trying to learn more about the animal. Breeding in captivity has especially been a problem, with the results of most attempts being ineffective

Those Zany Misfit Heroes Deliver Real 'A-Team' Fun

By David Handler

"The A-Team" is a fun one, a rollicking, wildly implausible hour actioner that goes mainly for laughs and gets them. Put at its simplest, this NBC mid-season entry is "Mission Impossible" with h.o. and a sense of humor. What more can you ask for?

Our zany misfit heroes are members of a crack commando unit that were sent to military prison in Vietnam for a crime they didn't commit. They busted out and have been on the run for the past 10 years. The military is still looking for them.

They've stayed together, operating out of the Los Angeles underground as soldiers of fortune, champions of the downtrodden and all-around unshaven good guys.

Need to rescue a reporter being held captive by a band of Mexican guerrillas? Free an innocent teen-age girl from the clutches of a maniacal religious cult leader?

Bust a friend out of a prison controlled by a warden who makes prisoners fight to the death for his own amusement?

"If you have a problem," our deadly serious narrator intones, "if nobody else can help you, and if you can find them, maybe you can hire the A-Team."

And what a team.

Hannibal Smith (George Peppard) — leader, mastermind, expert with disguises and foreign dialects, cigar-chomper, slob. "If you want someone with good manners," he's fond of saying, "hire yourself an English butler."

B.A. (Bad Attitude) Baracus — master mechanic, wheel-man, strong-arm. Loves kids. Hates flying. Nickname comes from immense hostility toward authority figures. Played by Mr. T of "Rocky III," the glowering, black warlord with the Mohawk haircut, sleeveless shirt and 10 pounds of gold hanging from his wrists, neck and ears.

Howling Mad Murdock (Dwight Schultz) — ace pilot, loyal, fearless. For cover he passes himself off as a schizophrenic at the VA hospital. Not hard, since he constantly jabbars to himself in a variety of human and animal tongues. A nut.

The Face (Dirk Benedict) — consummate scrounger, con man, pretty boy, make-off artist. Can provide Hannibal with a jet plane, a suite of rooms, a stockpile of weapons, whatever. A big fan of "the jazz" (I do believe that's hip talk for danger).

Triple A, a.k.a. Amy (Melinda Culea) — the one new recruit, an ambitious reporter who functions as the team's contact in the straight world.

The main idea here is fun, and "The A-Team" offers a good dose.

And then, the impossible job done, our comic book heroes fade into the sunset, stopping only to advise a grateful populace to "forget our names and descriptions."

My kind of show.

TV's Latest Videos

By Andrew J. Edelstein

This week, we'll rate some of the current offerings on Warner-Amex's MTV, the 24-hour-a-day music-video channel that's become one of cable's success stories.

Our criteria for determining a video's success is viewability — is a particular video creative and imaginative enough so that you'd actually look forward to viewing it again? Does it succeed in capturing the mood of the song? Or is it a crashing bore that has you hitting the channel changer before the first chorus is sung?

Video of the month is the macabre but good-natured "I Eat Cannibals" by Toto Coelo, five young women in the Go-Go's mold. The quintet — dressed in what seem to be multicolored trashbags — romp on a glorious technical-or beach complete with a pink neon thatched hut. The overall effect is something like a cross between a Carmen Miranda film and Francis Coppola's noble, neon-lit experiment "One from the Heart."

The best videos also tell a story. The best of the current crop is from former Blue Oyster Cult guitarist Buck Dharma's "Born to Rock," which is turned into a three-and-a-half minute drama. It's also an example of how a good video can elevate a song that's basically a standard piece of heavy-metal slag.

The video cuts between showing a bounty hunter in a souped-up car, armed with a wanted poster of Dharma, and a hospital where Dharma, dressed as a doctor, is preparing to deliver a baby. The two antagonists finally meet in the hospital and have a shootout with their guitars, accompanied by wild Led Zep-style guitar riffing. Dharma wins the battle and the video ends with him riding away with a beautiful woman in the car of his dreams, a 1956 Thunderbird.

A Japanese Actress With Jewish Accent

By Dick Kleiner
HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Director John Frankenheimer cast the lovely Japanese-American woman with the unusual non-Japanese name, Donna Kei Benz, as Scott Glenn's leading lady in the film "The Challenge." She did a great job, but...

"But he kept telling me," Donna Kei Benz says, "that I wasn't Japanese enough. He said I sounded more like a Jewish housewife than a Japanese girl."

Funny — she is a Jewish housewife. So she had to learn to sound and act like a Japanese woman for the part.

Donna Kei is a strange case. She is actually constructed from the purest Japanese genes. She was, however, born in Hawaii — "right near Diamond Head" — and the Benz in her name came from a stepfather. When he married her mother, when the little girl was 7, he adopted her.

She was educated in Michigan, at Albion College, where she was the Snow Queen. She is now married to Michael Goodley, who is a Jewish dentist. She converted to Judaism when they were married.

Her professional career is as unique as her heritage. She never thought of doing any acting. After her college career, she went back to Hawaii and she worked as a hostess in the Kahala Hilton Hotel.

That was the hotel, coincidentally, where "Hawaii Five-O" put up all their visiting guest stars and directors. The people from that show were always around the hotel, and could not help but notice the lovely Japanese hostess.

"And they would cast me often in the show," she says. "Just little parts, but it was fun."

She came back to the mainland, where she did some modeling and appeared in several television commercials. When she saw those commercials, she says, she realized she was not very good at acting, so she began studying.

Donna Kei Benz

"And that hooked me," she says. "When I started studying, I realized I liked acting a great deal."

She seems to have carved out a little niche for herself as a martial-arts expert even though she really isn't. But she was part of the "Force Seven" pilot — a spin-off from "CHiPs" — in which she was a martial-arts whiz, and in "The Challenge" she again has that distinction.

"I'm learning," she says,

"but I'm far from being an expert. But I seem to have a natural talent for it — I'm well-coordinated, I move well. When I was in Japan, for "The Challenge," they told me that I had more natural aptitude than most of the Japanese actresses they had tested."

She says her husband tells her that when she is doing a fight scene, he doesn't recognize her. He says she gets a strange look in her eyes, a combative, competitive look. She says she is competitive, that she likes to win.

"On the tennis court," she says, "I'm the same way. I have to win — and I do win most of the time."

The location trip to Japan to film "The Challenge" was her first visit back to the country of her ethnic origin. While she was there she felt a strange stirring inside — her roots? — and loved the experience.

"I felt very comfortable there," she says. "Except for the way they treat women. That's terrible."

assortment of prickly plants) a canteen and a daypack for carrying lunch.

Dykes says a pack used by kids for carrying school books can double as a daypack and a thermos or water jug serves the same purpose as a canteen. Those items can probably be purchased for $15 to $25.

More experienced hikers may want to go on overnight trips. Dykes says. For those adventurous souls, a larger pack is recommended along with a sleeping bag and a tent if you're afraid of getting caught in a rain shower. That equipment, depending on its quality, can be purchased for $100 to $200.

From there, the sky is the limit. Camp stoves, compasses and dehydrated food are among items the experienced camper may want to take along.

Dykes, who has been hiking and camping in the woods all his life, encourages other people to get involved in hiking. His group, the Central Florida Hiking Club, will have its next meeting at 7:30 p.m. March 10 at 210 Packwood Ave., Maitland.

If there's a bit of Boone or Lewis and Clark stirring in you, attend and get reacquainted with the great outdoors.
