Keeping Kids Happy On A Long Auto Trip

By HERMAN M. BUNDESEN, M.D.

If you are embarking on a long vacation trip in the family auto this summer, I may be able to save you some trouble. For unless you are properly prepared, youngsters can be pretty trying traveling companions.

Long before you leave, make a visit to the neighborhood dime store and invest a few dollars—dimes do not go far anymore—in several small toys or games which you can spring as a surprise on your children when the occasion demands. Keep them hidden until you actually need them in the car to quell an argument or to soothe a tantrum.

Simple Toys Best

Coloring books, a deck of cards and such simple things probably are best for tiny tots. For older girls, dolls which they can dress or paper cut-outs will keep them occupied for a long time. Boys can find amusement in cardboard press-out of soldiers, boats, cars and the like.

Of course, you've got to make a certain amount of room for the children's favorite traveling toys which they will need throughout the trip.

Games are good time-passers. As you start out in the morning let each member of the family make a guess as to the number of out-of-state license plates you'll spot during the day. Give a daily prize to make the game worth while.

Let Them Count

You can set a time limit on counting things on each side of the road.

For example, let the youngster on one side of the car count the number of white houses seen within the next ten miles. Let the other child do the same on his side.

Be sure you have a pillow or two so the kids can take a comfortable nap.

Frequent Stops

Stop at the side of the road every couple of hours and tell the youngsters to race to a certain point and back. Do this a few times and they will run off their excess energy.

However, be sure these impromptu races are staged in safe spots away from speeding cars.

Just one word about eating. Traveling is apt to be hard on a child's stomach, so don't make things even more difficult by filling him up on drinks and candy. Make sure his meals are at least adequate, even if they are only sandwiches and milk.

QUESTION AND ANSWER
D. N. C.: What is osteoporosis and how can it be treated?
Answer: Osteoporosis is the loss of vital minerals, particularly calcium, in bones.

It may occur with old age, with disease of a limb and in women passing through the menopause. Usually, prescribing a combination of male and female hormones, along with an adequate diet, and calcium and phosphorus preparations, will correct this disease.

Williams One Of Four Judges Named To 9th Circuit By Governor

In Medicine

TALLAHASSEE 27 — Gov. LeRoy Collins today appointed four new circuit judges for the 9th Judicial Circuit, including Angus G. McInnis of Sanford, outspoken former state legislator. Williams, who managed Brailley Odham's unsuccessful gubernatorial campaign in 1951, resigned as assistant state attorney to accept the new judgeship. Collins named Melbourne attorney Thomas R. Waddell Jr. to succeed him.

Collins named George E. Adams, Orlando, to succeed Barber as county attorney but did not immediately name a successor to Smith.

The 9th Circuit, comprising Brevard, Indian River, Martin, Oklawaha, Orange, Osceola, St. Lucie and Seminole counties, received the four additional judges as a result of a recent population count and enabling legislation.

Present judges in the circuit are Frank A. Smith, Orlando; Vassar B. Carlton, Titusville; A. O. Kanner, Stuart; and Terry Patterson, Winter Park.

Local Veterans Organizations Take Part In Observance

Memorial Services were held today to "commemorate those of the Armed Forces who have answered the last call."

The joint services, held at the bandshell at 11:30 today, were participated in by veterans organizations of the community.

Chester Mack of the Fleet Reserve Association, and general chairman for the Memorial Day observance presided after an introduction by Michael Thomas of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Other organizations taking part were the American Legion, the Disabled American Veterans, the Spanish American War Veterans, and the Ladies Auxiliary.

Prayers were said by the Rev. Richard Lyons of All Souls Catholic Church, the Rev. Milton Wyatt of the First Methodist Church and Chaplain Fuller of the Sanford Naval Air Station.

Also participating in the Memorial Day services was the National Guard which fired a salute at the closing of the ceremony. Taps was sounded immediately following the volley.

Children Make Field Trip Today

Nearly 50 children of the first grade of Mary Bryan School in Kissimmee arrived in Sanford today at noon for their annual field trip.

The group was in charge of Mrs. George Best, teacher. Also in the group were a number of mothers of the children.

It was the first train ride for the youngsters. They arrived by Atlantic Coast Line.

Graduation Is 'Family Affair' For Duda Family

Graduation might be termed a "family affair" for the John Duda family of Oviedo, as both of their sons will receive a degree from the University of Florida in June.

Edward, 24, and Walter, 21, will both be awarded a Bachelor's degree in agriculture at commencement ceremonies on June 3.

Edward entered the University in 1950, and during his freshman year, played on the "Gator" baseball team. His college career was interrupted in 1953 when he was called into the Army. After two years in the service he returned to the University to continue work toward a degree. During that time he married the former Nadie Fleming, of Oviedo. They have an eight-month-old son, Danny.

Walt began his studies at the University in 1953, and while in college became a member of Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity, the Society of Agricultural Engineers, the Agriculture Economics Club and Gamma Delta, Lutheran organization. He, too, played on the freshman baseball team and on the varsity team for two years.

After graduation plans for both of the boys are to join the family business. They are the third generation to join A. Duda and Sons.

UNIVERSITY OF FLORIDA COMMENCEMENT will be twice as much fun this year for Mr. and Mrs. John Duda, Oviedo, as both of their sons (pictured above) Walter and Edward will receive degrees.

Jackson Receives Appreciation Gift From Kiwanians

Captain Robert W. Jackson received a gift of a silver engraved bonbon tray yesterday—a gift of appreciation from members of the Sanford Kiwanis Club.

The Sanford Naval Air Station Commanding Officer, a member of the Sanford Kiwanis Club, was surprised at the gesture of his club members.

Presented by Ed Lane, chairman of the Kiwanis Club Social Events and Sunshine Committee, those attending the luncheon meeting affirmed the presentation with rounds of applause.

Lane said in his presentation "You have done more to cement the friendly relations between Navy personnel and the citizens" (Continued on Page 10)

Smathers: Serious Problem Facing Home Building

WASHINGTON — Senator George Smathers, (D-Fla.), in a speech on the Senate Floor supporting a proposal which would provide for a lower FHA down payment schedule, stated:

"I fear that we do not fully realize the very serious problems which face home building today. As a result of the credit conditions of the past 18 months, home building is very sharply down from the peak year of 1955."

He emphasized that in the first four months of this year—the very time during which builders normally start the bulk of their year's production, home building is off 19 per cent from last year and down 31 per cent from 1955.

"Not only are housing starts for 1957 at the lowest level in the post-war era," he continued, "but the present rate of home production per thousand of population has actually dropped below the ratio of production in 1924, 1925 and 1926."

Smathers further stated, "But perhaps even more important than the question of mere volume of new home production is the suitability of those homes which are produced for families of modest income. Following the collapse of real estate and home building in the early 1930's due to the unsound financing practices of the boom years of the 1920's, the Congress of the United States enacted one of the greatest and most significant pieces of legislation ever enacted by this Congress or by the legislature of any government. I refer to the National Housing Act which established the Federal Housing Administration. This was based upon the wise and far-seeing principle that the great masses of our people should be provided an opportunity to purchase their homes and to carry them on credit terms which they can afford. It expounded the idea that the soundest kind of financing was that which allowed a family to acquire its home with a low down payment at low interest rates and with a long-term mortgage repayable in modest monthly installments. Over the years this formula has been enormously successful."

"Examination of available data clearly shows that the demand for modest priced housing still continues high, there are still millions of families who want the opportunity to own a home." (Continued on Page 10)

Board Will Be Set Up

A strong countywide zoning bill incorporating powers to the Board of Seminole County Commissioners to zone the area adjacent to the Sanford Naval Air Station, passed the House and Senate yesterday afternoon, according to a joint announcement made by the Seminole County delegation in Tallahassee.

The bill empowers the Board of County Commissioners to set up a five-man zoning Commission to regulate and restrict within the territory of Seminole County, not included in any municipality, the zoning within the area.

It also empowers the Board of Commissioners to appropriate and pay out of the general fund of the county a sum for the purpose of defraying the expense of zoning and administering the provisions of the act.

The act also incorporates the powers of Chapter 333, Florida Statutes as well as providing such additional powers as set out in the bill.

The bill specifically states "All points of law relating to zoning in Seminole County in the interpretation of this act where any conflict develops shall be controlled by the provisions of this act."

The county may be divided into such districts, shape and area as deemed best suited to carry out the purpose of the zoning bill; and within such districts the Board of County Commissioners may regulate and restrict the erection, construction, reconstruction, alteration, repair or use of buildings and structures on land and water. It is set out in the bill that all regulations shall be uniform for each class or kind of building throughout such district but the regulations of one district may differ from those of other districts.

The bill, passed yesterday, points out that the Board of County Commissioners shall appoint a zoning commission to serve at the pleasure of the board which shall recommend to the commission the boundaries of the districts and appropriate regulations to be enforced.

It is also set out that the Board of County Commissioners may appoint a Board of Adjustment composed of five members to hear appeals.

Applications for permits are included in the zoning bill as well (Continued On Page Ten)

WASHINGTON 27 — American officials voiced "disappointment" today over Britain's decision to increase its trade with Red China. The British action, it was feared may lead to further weakening in allied trade controls with the Soviet Union, Red China and the eastern European Communist states. Officials also expected some anti-British reaction in Congress.

ARLINGTON, Va. 27 — Deputy Defense Secretary Donald A. Quarles said today this generation has an "unique" opportunity to eliminate war. Speaking at Memorial Day services in Arlington Cemetery, Quarles said he has never seen war so horrible that it no longer can serve the policies of any nation. He said the United States while maintaining a powerful peace-time military force, must devote its efforts to achieving "a better system of maintaining law and order in the world."

Civic Center 'Modern, Appealing'

Material evidence of the new Sanford Civic Center designed "mainly for our teenage children and the universal use by teenagers and adults" will be on hand in a short time, City Manager Warren E. Knowles told the Sanford Kiwanis Club yesterday at its noon luncheon meeting.

"It is quite modern and appealing to the eye—a product of Architect John Burton," Knowles said.

Seldom do you come up with something original—there is no other like it, the Sanford City Manager explained. He also said that the new Sanford Civic Center will be of less cost to the city than a conventional building—will be completely equipped within the budget—and will be aid conditioned.

Describing the building to the Kiwanis Club luncheon group, Knowles said that the auditorium will be of laminated wood beam construction, with a dome and large glassed area.

Praising the architect, Knowles said that by using an original design the city was saved much expense.

"The auditorium will be of level floor construction with seats not fixed so that 1,000 people can be seated by using a collapsible wall between the auditorium and the banquet room," said Knowles.

He explained that the kitchen will be equipped to serve up to 1,000 meals. "Teenage recreation will be in the wing where a snack bar, reading room, television, radio, billiards, pool, checkers, arts and crafts will form a part of the program," explained the City Manager.

The patio will be of glassed concrete where a skating rink can be placed, and outdoor dances be held under floodlights from the roof, he said. Outlining other service features including a parking area and service entrance, Knowles said "It is the best designed community center the City of Sanford can secure."

"We are now awaiting final approval of the plans and awarding of the contracts," Knowles told the Kiwanis luncheon group which is, as he described it "the main attraction—the feature that sold the Capital Improvement Program."

However, the City Manager outlined other features of the program as he named the second and new fire station, the colored swimming pool, two new fire pumps and two 20-yard garbage packers.

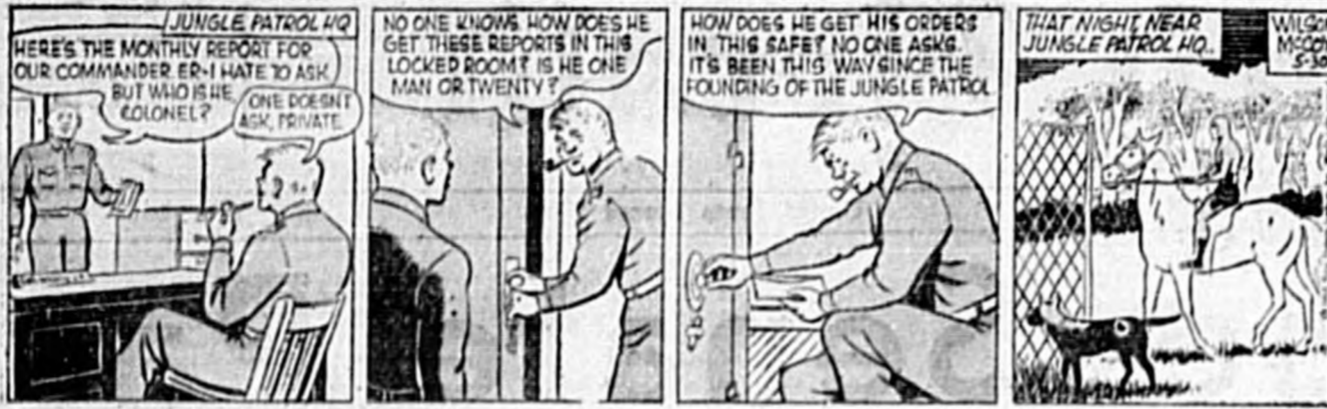

"The Sanford Civic Center is one of the biggest assets for the city to undertake which will later mean a year 'round recreation program with a year 'round recreation director."

Knowles told the Kiwanis club that it was expected that bids would be advertised by June 15 with bids in the architects office on July, 15.

HARD LUCK BOY - Dave Beck is in a mess. Like a fellow we know, his friends kept telling him, "Cheer up, things could be worse." So, he cheered up and sure enough, things did get worse. Dave Beck's troubles aren't over yet. Looks like he'll be ousted from his job. That means he'll be ousted from his fancy home—owned by the teamsters. If so, who will move him? The teamsters control just about every truck and truck driver in the country—Beck himself fixed that. If they all get mad at him, they might boycott anybody who backs a truck up to his front door. That would be the height of irony—the once mighty head of the teamsters having to rent a "haul-it-yourself" trailer to do his own moving.

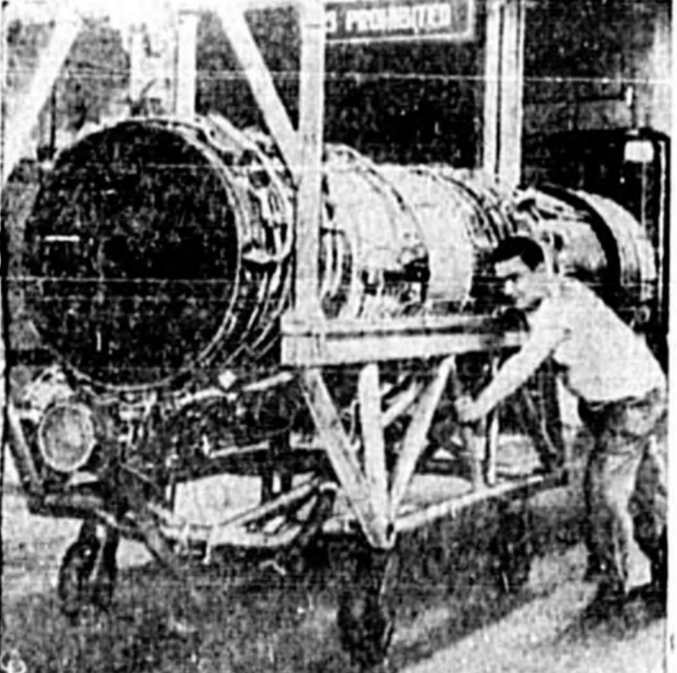

STOP THAT LEAK - Every newsmen will be interested in the latest report issued by the House Government Operations Committee on "Availability of Information from Federal Departments and Agencies." Congressman Dan Fawcett, of Miami, was a member of the three-man subcommittee that examined more than 50 government officials on how and why they withheld information from newsmen. The answers are sometimes pretty vague and the entire report makes interesting reading. Give you an idea of why the truth is so hard to dig out in this town. If you want a copy of the report (not final report—the committee is still working)—write to Fawcett's office, room 1216 House Office Building.

MORE TIME NEEDED - Congressman Bob Sikes has introduced a bill to slow down the Coast Guard's new regulations for the inspection of passenger boats. Some of the regulations would work hardship on the small fishermen and boat owners along Florida's east coast, according to Sikes. The new rules are supposed to go into effect January 1, 1958, but Sikes wants further study and more time for boat owners to comply. His bill would set a date of January 1, 1963 as the effective date. Here this week to confer with Sikes on his bill was Dave Palmer, of Destin, attorney for the Florida Boatman's Association.

NO "DEAL" - The Washington Alumni Club of the University of Florida has just elected new officers. The outgoing and incoming presidents were raised next door to each other when they were boys, but they say this had nothing to do with the election. Next president is Robert L. Woodcock, of Palm Beach, who works for the Senate Committee on Small Business. He succeeds Frank Wideman, Washington attorney, who calls West Palm Beach his home. When youngsters, these two lived in the El Cid area of Palm Beach—separated only by a vacant lot. The Alumni Club here is made up of more than 250 Florida Alumni who work in Washington. Others elected for the new year were: Vice-president, Brig. Gen. Chester H. Allen, Lakeland, assistant quartermaster general of the Marine Corps—only Marine General ever to come from the University. Secretary-Treasurer, Raymond Jacobson, of Miami, an attorney with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

EVERGLADES HEARING JUNE 1 - Senator Holland got quick action on his bill to exclude nearly 800,000 acres of land from the Everglades National Park. Hearing has been set for Tuesday, June 11. It will be held by Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-Wy.) chairman of the Public Lands Subcommittee on Interior and Insular Affairs. Holland wants to end the 23-year old argument over how much land the Federal Government is taking for the park. 45,000 acres of land in question is in the western part of Dade County. A bit of rest might be added to the hearing if certain land speculators show up as expected.

Beauty—Gardening Is The Answer!

Want the avelte figure of a glamorous model? What woman doesn't—but according to one of the most photographed young beauties in the United States wanting isn't enough. You have to dig for it!

"And apade, and sow, and weed—and, occasionally, even fertilize," says stunning Patricia Hutar, whose pretty face is probably as familiar to you as the girl's next door. You've seen Patricia on the pages of your favorite fashion magazine dozens of times and you've probably wondered, "where do they grow girls like that?"

Let Patricia now answer that question for you — "in a garden."

A trim 121 pounds, twenty-four-year-old Patricia has an even more pleasing reason than most women for being thin—she also has a healthy appetite and finds exercise for its own sake a bore.

"Because a misplaced pound shows up on a fashion model like a ton, this could all be a problem if I hadn't decided to 'cultivate' a slim figure," says Patricia, "and the pun's intentional."

A love of flowers led the brunette model into gardening and, paradoxically enough, a dislike of exercise kept her at it.

"I find gardening so much fun I never think of it as exercise," Patricia explains, "yet, I do more than enough swooping, stooping, and moving around to keep the pounds down."

Patricia thinks the secret of keeping thin through exercise is to do it constantly and, she says "that's one of the ways gardening makes it so painless."

If I were to set aside a half hour a day to touch my toes and do knee bends, I just wouldn't have the willpower and patience to keep at it, Patricia admits.

"Out in the garden I do the equivalent of all that exercise and never notice it. It's because gardening grows on one—if you'll excuse another pun—and it becomes so interesting that all you think of are the flowers and vegetables, not the exercise."

Another bonus of gardening is that it's a time saver, says Patricia. Because her busy modeling schedule gives her little free time, she wants any exercise she does to be recreational, as well as pound removing.

"Out in the garden, I get the kind of recreation that lets my tensions unwind," she explains, "and as any working girl knows, that's something to be desired."

"Besides, how else could I convert my exercise and excess pounds into flower bouquets?"

Why the article?

For a number of years it has been a burning question—why does Sanford, Central Florida, and all of Florida in fact, have so many lovely girls and beautiful women? Patricia furnished the answer. April, since the story came out, a casual glance around Sanford and its vicinity to see all of the lovely lawns, gardens and gardeners handiwork provides the solution.

Not that gardens and flowers will become more abundant in the very near future—but it is expected that bouquets will become a sort of everyday thing from now on—among the ladies!

Economy Is At Peek Speed

Most of us know that the federal debt is about $275 billion. But few have any conception of what that means—it's a figure, almost beyond human comprehension.

Senator Byrd, writing in National Review, gives a vivid picture of the debt. That $275 billion, he says, "is the equivalent of the assessed value of all the land, buildings, mines, machinery, factories, livestock—everything of tangible value in the United States."

Then he goes on to say something that must be far better understood than it is now in this country, as we know it, is to survive: "Public debt is not like private debt. If private debt is not paid off, it can be ended by bankruptcy proceedings, and maybe not so many people are hurt. If public debt is not paid off—with taxes—the result is disastrous inflation or repudiation. Either would destroy our form of government."

The proposed new budget is the largest in our peacetime history. According to the estimates, there will be a small surplus if this budget is approved. But it is evident that even a very moderate decline in the business boom, with the effect that would have on tax revenues, would eliminate such a surplus and put a deficit in its place.

Senator Byrd believes that the budget can be cut by more than $6 billion without harm to an essential federal function. If we cannot do that now, with the economy running at peak speed, when can we?

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

NEIL CLARK, of Cedar Crest, New Mexico, writes, "Are you old enough, Mr. Cerf, to recall the vaudeville gag about the man who peeled a banana and handed its skin to a friend, saying, 'I appeal to you.' The friend handed it back, saying, 'Your appeal is fruitless.' Or the one about the bride cooking her first breakfast who called to the bridegroom, 'Darling, I dropped an egg. What shall I do?' The heartless bridegroom answered, 'Cackle!'"

No, Mr. Clark, I'm not.

An English author, dashed by the amount of advertising accorded her new book by an American publisher, told him she meant to detail his efforts to her old London publisher. "I will do it in a nice, polite way," she added. "I simply will quote to him what the cock said to the hens when he saw the ostrich egg: 'I'm not complaining. I merely draw your attention to what is going on elsewhere!'"

Smokey Says:

IT'S THERE... BUT WE CAN'T SEE IT ANOTHER BEAR... WHEN WE SEE IT... WE KNOW WE'VE LOST!

TWO UNKNOWN SOLDIERS, OF WAR II AND KOREA, TO JOIN HERO OF WAR I

The tomb of the Unknown Soldier as it appears today. Superimposed are World War II soldiers in action.

By GROVER BRINKMAN

THIS MAY 30 will be the last time that Americans will gather at Arlington National Cemetery to honor the Unknown Soldier of World War I, resting beneath the stately, marble tomb we know so well.

By Memorial Day of 1954, Congress plans to remodel this famous monument so it will accommodate two more unknown soldiers, one from World War II and one from the Korean conflict. Their bodies will be moved from U. S. military cemeteries abroad, and reinterred at Arlington with special ceremonies set for next May 30.

Some have objected to Congress's plan for opening the beautiful tomb and changing its design. However, in a way, it is fitting and proper that the unidentified dead of World War II and Korea have a monument.

For besides the Arlington memorial to the Unknown Soldier of World War I, America has several other tombs of unknown heroes who fell in other conflicts.

These other monuments, in scattered locations, are almost as unknown as the men to whom they were erected!

Closest to Arlington is the nation's first tomb of the unknown soldier, known to few of us today, but sacred to the memory of one who died to attain the country's independence. This is the monument to the Unknown Soldier of the American Revolution, situated in a lonely churchyard in Alexandria, Va.

THIS MONUMENT was erected in a quiet corner of the churchyard of Alexandria's Old (Presbyterian) Meeting house, where funeral services were conducted for the unknown hero's commander, Gen. George Washington.

As the years passed, the old Colonial meeting house deteriorated, and in 1865 it had to be closed. However, recently, public contributions enabled the building to be repaired and opened again.

In the little town of Avon, N. Y., stands a seldom-noticed, rough stone monument erected to the memory of the Unknown Soldier of the War of 1812. On it is this inscription:

My brave lad he sleeps
In his faded coat of blue,
In his lonely grave unknown
Lies the heart that beat so true.

Incidentally, a marble plaque at the United States Military Academy at West Point, N. Y., honors an American soldier who has been purposely made "unknown."

This plaque was put in the Old Chapel at the Academy in honor of Benedict Arnold, the Revolutionary war officer who turned traitor. Later Arnold's name was gouged out of the plaque because of his disloyalty. Today the stone bears only the words:

"Major General" and "Born 1740."

Though Benedict Arnold lived for another 20 years, in the heart of America he died in 1780, the year in which he betrayed West Point to the British.

METEORS which star gazers thought were four billion years old are now believed to be less than one-third of that age, declares a Maryland physicist.

That's about 3,100,000,000 years difference—an error truly astronomical!

A survey shows California's 40 state senators average 6 feet 103 pounds. Texas, are you listening?

Temperatures of 120 below zero are expected in Antarctica this year. There really are places that have worse weather than this town!

We note that Arnold-Roland comet, now swinging around the sun, has shed part of its tail—some millions of miles of it. Guess it does get kind of stuffy in the vicinity of Old Sol.

After watching spring practice many a football coach must be happy the grid season is still five full months away.

All this talk about "inflationary spirals," says Grandpappy Jenkins, has got him going around in circles.

Virginia cops nabbed a trucker who was driving while holding a big meat sandwich in one hand and a bottle of pop in the other. Wonder where he finished his lunch—in the hoodlum?

Foreign News Commentary

By CHARLES M. McCANN

United Press Staff Correspondent

SOVIET Russia's relations with Yugoslavia and Poland, the two rebel Communist countries, are showing signs of improvement.

President Tito of Yugoslavia, who won complete independence of Russia nine years ago, has just restated his desire for friendship with Soviet leaders.

He has announced that Ivan Goshjak, his defense minister, will visit Moscow next month at the invitation of Soviet Defense Minister Georgi K. Zhukov.

Wladyslaw Gomulka, the Polish Communist leader who won a great measure of independence by his successful leadership of the revolt of last October, has just returned home from a visit to Moscow.

A lot of people undoubtedly will read a lot of significance into these developments.

But actually there is no reason to believe that either Tito or Gomulka has any illusions as to his status in Moscow.

Both defied Russia

Both of them openly and successfully defied the right of the Soviet government to dominate their countries' policies.

Their rebellion has weakened the grip of Russia on all of the Communist-ruled countries of Eastern Europe.

Tito's decision to send his defense minister to Moscow, and Gomulka's visit there, are both connected with the policies of the United States toward them.

President Eisenhower suspended military aid to Yugoslavia last October. It was announced on May 14 that he had decided to re-evaluate it. As the result, four F-86 Sabre jet fighter planes were delivered.

But the State Department at the same time announced that the military aid would be given on a "more modest" basis than had been planned originally. The Yugoslav defense minister's proposed visit to Moscow stems partly from that.

The United States decided last January to extend economic aid to Poland to help it keep its independence of Russia.

A Polish delegation of economic and finance experts arrived in Washington in February, seeking credits of 300 million dollars.

Talks Dragged On

Negotiations dragged on for weeks. It was decided finally that Poland should get about 95 million dollars. Significance of an aid agreement is still hanging, awaiting congressional action on a bill to increase the authority of the government to dispose of farm surpluses to foreign countries.

That appears to be the reason for Gomulka's visit to Moscow. He took two of his chief economic experts with him. A United Press dispatch from Warsaw said that he went there to plead with the Russians for immediate aid to prevent an economic crisis.

The question of American aid to any Communist country is controversial. There are many, including leaders in Congress, who oppose aid on the ground that help to any Communist country helps Russia.

The fact seems to be, however, that refusal of help to countries like Yugoslavia and Poland—both of which are now habitually in Russian domination of Eastern Europe—compels them to seek help from the Soviet government.

It Pays To Slow Down

By HERMAN M. BUNDESIN, M.D.

SLOW down, ladies, slow down morning stiffness, pain and swelling of the joints, persistent muscular aches and pains, fever and weakness and unexplained loss of weight.

The Foundation lists five rules to follow which will help greatly to check the effects of arthritis:

1. Relax your housekeeping standards as much as possible. Do your major housecleaning in installments. Do not do all your ironing in one batch.
2. Try to take it easier with the children. Under-achievement does not pay.
3. Get as much rest as possible and keep well nourished without becoming overweight.
4. Avoid strain and tensions as much as you possibly can. Try not to let domestic and financial problems get you down.
5. Protect yourself against dampness, cold and sudden chills.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q. V. M.: Will contact lenses injure my eyes?

A. Answer: If properly fitted, there is no evidence that contact lenses can cause injury to the eyes. However, it seems that many people who try to use contact lenses cannot wear them because of discomfort.

With eye diseases in which the cornea, which is the transparent covering of the opening into the eyeball, is deformed, contact lenses are particularly helpful.

Contributing Factor

But possibly an even more important contributing factor is fatigue from overwork.

All of you women should be on the alert for these symptoms:

Local Lions Hear Report On Club Sponsored Junior Baseball League

Jack Morrison, who has kept some 275-300 boys on the baseball diamonds every afternoon for the past six weeks, made his report to the Lions Club on their sponsorship of the Junior Baseball League at the weekly meeting of the club.

This year the Lions Club made an outlay of approximately $2,000 per youngster for the baseball program that fielded 14 teams that comprised three leagues. The main item of expense for the Junior Baseball League was the acquisition of jerseys for the boys who participate.

Each of the boys was issued a jersey with the color and insignia of his team on it, and the 275 youngsters took a new pride in their team.

13 of the 14 team captains were present for the report to the Lions Club. Roy Wright, winner of the best league player, was present for the occasion as was Buddy Carter, named the best sportman of the league.

Morrison praised City officials Jim Dunn and Sid Richards for the fine job they had done in keeping the diamonds in good condition and presented each of them with a baseball autographed by captains of the 14 teams.

It was announced that the Cardinals, who had accumulated a 11-3 season record captured the senior title while the Senators, with only one defeat in eight wins, won the middle-age league title and the Indians with a 6-3 mark won the nine-year-old league title.

The captains of the teams that were the guests of the Lions Club were: Tommy Brooks, Senators; Roy Wright, Cardinals; Ronnie Hinson, Indians; Garry Loyd, Yankees; Bernie Barlowe, Pirates; Randy Dean, Red Legs; James Guy, Seminoles; John Boniface, Red Sox; Johnny Jansen, Giants; Buddy Carter, Cubs; Jerry Johnson, Phillies; Barry Johnson, Tigers; and Clark Murray, White Sox.

American Legion Baseball To Swing Into Action Monday

American Legion Junior Baseball swings into action Monday afternoon at 3:30 on practice field 2 behind Memorial Stadium. Al McMillan, coaching the team representing Sanford, said all boys representing the ages of 14 and 17 are eligible.

The district season will open July 10 and will run through August 3, with at least one game a week being played in Sanford during this period, it was announced.

From among the group trying out Monday and working with the team for a brief conditioning and training period 16 players will be chosen to represent the local team during the regular season and the area playoffs that are scheduled to be held August 5 through August 10.

Legion Baseball has been attributed by many educators as being an excellent builder of player potential and continuing the stimulation of baseball playing desire during the period when a youngster is too old to play in other leagues but not quite seasoned enough to make the regular high school teams, and for that reason much emphasis is placed upon the State Tournament to be played this year between August 11 and 17, by professional ball teams.

W. C. "Red" Hires is 6th District American Legion Junior Baseball chairman and H. Z. Johnson is baseball chairman for Campbell-Losing Post 51 American Legion.

Little League Baseball Club Goes Camping

ALAMONTE SPRINGS—Coach Martin Barwick and his assistant, Charles Fitts and Larry Chaudoin of the Alamoonte Springs Little League Baseball Club, went with members of the team on an overnight camping trip Saturday following the game between the Alamoonte Senators and the South Seminole Indians.

Club Manager Clifford Gilbert Jr. and his assistants, Carl Stiles and Howard Van Pelt, also accompanied the group. Campsite was in southwest, Seminole County. The boys went swimming in the nearby lake before cooking and eating their supper, after which games were played and tall tales exchanged while sitting around the campfire. Some boys were reported to have been up doing an Indian war dance at midnight. A gay time was had by all and parents of Little Leaguers wish to thank Coach Barwick and all those assisting for giving the boys this wonderful treat.

Dream Of Long Hunting Season Reality In South

The sportsman's dream of a long hunting season is becoming a reality in the South. New state laws, making it possible for shooting preserves to open, have been passed in nearly all the Southern States.

On shooting preserves pen-raised game is stocked during a customary five or six months season. The preserves are operated by private owners for a profit. Fees are paid by the hunters to compensate the owners for raising birds, planning cover, training dogs and managing the areas.

According to the Sportsman's Service Bureau, a trade association of American arms and ammunition manufacturers, shooting preserves are primarily places of convenience where hunters can enjoy an extended season.

The areas are usually located near population centers, within easy driving distance for hunters without much time.

A city hunter can leave his office at 2 p.m. and still get in plenty of relaxation. He doesn't have to worry about "No Hunting" signs. Since many city hunters do use preserves, the pressure is partially taken off land which is not posted.

As the Southern population has grown, it has been increasingly difficult for sportsmen to find places to hunt. One reason is that much of the former hunting area has been taken over by beef and dairy cattle and pine plantations. Modern agriculture has destroyed the natural habitat for wildlife in many areas.

Shooting preserve operators, on licensed areas, are improving hunting by stocking pen-raised pheasants, chukars, and quail during the extended hunting season. As birds in the field are bagged, they are quickly replaced from the pens.

To help sportsmen understand this type of hunting, a free book on how to own and manage a preserve is now available from the Sportsman's Service Bureau, 220 E. 43rd St., New York 17, N. Y.

For dog owners, shooting preserves make ideal training and hunting areas. Game is always present and it doesn't take long to work a dog. A dog on a preserve will normally find more game in an hour than he would in the wild in a day.

Nearly all preserves provide dogs for the hunters. The operators realize that most city dwellers do not have room to kennel dogs. And some state-wide seasons do not make it economical for a hunter to have his own dog.

Sportsmen find preserves ideal for a boy's first hunting trip. The youngsters are sure of getting shots. Although they may miss a lot at first, they finally connect and their confidence soars.

Many preserves cater to the sportsman. The wives learn to shoot hand-thrown clay "pigeons" and soon accompany their husbands into the field.

The established game-farmers dress the birds for the hunters. Some even freeze and ship the game. The farmer's wives frequently serve hot luncheons and provide coffee breaks.

What about the cost to the hunters? Prices naturally vary but generally per bird bagged on a commercial area doesn't cost any more than each bird taken in the wild. That is, if the hunters would sit down and figure out what every bird they had ever shot had cost them.

But, as every hunter and fisherman knows, only interested in meat they could always buy their fish and fowl cheaper at the market.

With record participation this year, the All-Stars and the Tigers will put their newly acquired uniforms proudly on display under the lights for the first time.

Managers George Touhy and Sonny Powell, who aided Summersill in racking up a 14 won, three loss season record in regular play will chart the course for the Rotary League Champs in the hopes of bringing home the victory that will highlight the season.

Because this is deemed a part of the city recreational program, city officials and the park department employees are making the stadium available. Officials hope the stands will be full of proud parents and relatives as well as the rabid sports fans who enjoy baseball—especially for free.

SAVE TIME! LET WANT ADS DO IT!

President Eisenhower's television campaign against budget reductions has resulted in a considerable increase in my mail. I have received hundreds of letters which were spurred by the President's talk. Up to this time those who favored continuation of the economy drive are still in the lead by a margin of better than two to one. Some people have indicated, however, that they have changed their minds after hearing the President's speech.

The President pitched his appeal on the argument that if the budget were reduced it would impair our national security. He mentioned particularly foreign aid. The authorization for this foreign aid is not even before the Congress yet, and even after the authorization is passed an appropriation bill will have to be passed, so it will be some weeks before this appropriation is up. As you know, I am a strong advocate of economy in government and have been since I came to Congress. However, I have never voted nor will I ever vote for any cuts in our budget which I feel will have the effect of weakening our country's defense.

Just as a chain is no stronger than its weakest link no nation's defense is stronger than its national economy. For that reason we have to look at this picture from all sides. We must be most cautious in dealing with such matters as military appropriations and military assistance to our allies. I do not believe that you know, however that it is traditional that the various department heads ask for more money than they expect to receive. Of course they are not going to tell the President that they asked for more than they needed.

We have not been cutting these budget requests just for the sake of cutting. To date, the reductions that have been made have been carefully screened and the only cuts that have been made have been where the department heads have not been able to justify the expenditures that they requested. These various appropriation bills are studied meticulously by men who have been living with the problem for many years. They know their job. They go at it objectively, and I am proud to say that they are the type of people who put their country ahead of any political party. They must again justify the budget cuts that they make in the recommended appropriations. This is one area in which I can say with all confidence that you may rest assured that the Congress will do a good job. You also may be sure that every Member of Congress will look at this and all other appropriation bills with the security of our country in mind.

Earlier this year the President at the suggestion of Secretary State Dulles, asked Congress to separate the military assistance program from the economic and technical assistance programs. I have been urging that for some time. Military assistance should be under the military budget rather than under the foreign aid budget. The way it has been put up to this time, we have had to vote for the whole program or none. It is sound economics to support military assistance for the reason that our allies can outfit a half dozen of their soldiers for what it costs to outfit one American soldier. In this way one of our armed allies takes the place of an American boy who would have to be in service were it not for this armed ally.

In connection with the battle of the budget, I have written many constituents that I feel strongly that it is not only possible to reduce the budget while maintaining a fully adequate national defense, but that it must be done.

Try These Exercises To Relax Tired Eyes
By HERMAN H. BUNDESEN, M.D.
IT feels good to sit down and measure of relief from strain relax after a busy day at the office or factory, doesn't it? But the next time you do, try mentioned exercising your eyes instead of your gaze on some distant object. If you have been using your eyes for close work at a desk or machine, hour after hour, it might be a good idea to relax these strained muscles every once in a while.
Relax Muscles
One way you can do it is simply by rolling your eyes. Not only will this help relax muscles that have been over-used, it will stimulate other eye muscles which haven't been given much use. If any at all.
Rolling your eyes won't help improve your vision, nor will it make your eyes any healthier. But it doesn't cause any harm, either. And I think you'll find that it definitely helps to relax them.
There's another exercise, too, that may help provide a certain measure of relief from strain caused by close work. It's just as simple as the one I've already mentioned.
All you have to do is to fasten your gaze on some distant object briefly and then transfer it abruptly to something nearby. Do this several times alternating between the distant object and the one nearby.
Orthoptic Training
I don't want you to confuse these relaxing exercises with those used in orthoptic training. Exercises advised by ophthalmologists help to correct cases of crossed-eyes, squint and the like. The two exercises I have cited above won't help cure any such trouble.

If we are going to support an equally full strength national economy. Our replies have been numerous and varied. Here are some of them:
"I have waited to hear the President's speech in defense of the proposed budget I am still not convinced."
"Please vote to approve without changing the budget submitted by President Eisenhower. I believe this amount of money is necessary for defense, welfare, and other essential services."
"We don't care what the President says about his budget. We are being eaten alive by income taxes and inflation."
"Well, it was a good speech as a speech. All the ingredients well mixed and in proper order of presentation to lead up to the point where the flag waves, the alarms and excursions are on parade with the villain in hot pursuit, so that my budget must be saved especially my military budget. The ghost writers did themselves proud on that one."
"I am asking you to vote for President Eisenhower's budget. We want no cut in defense spending. This is cheap protection."
"As Florida Democrats we urge you to support the President in his budget demands."
"As a normally Republican voter who has supported Eisenhower, I was completely unimpressed with his speech as it seems to me that it was the same old approach of a never-ending crisis making it necessary to surrender everything to Washington, D.C."

You see, our job is not an easy one. There is no way to satisfy everyone on a matter so controversial. We just do the very best we can on the basis of the information we have.

Nautilus Claims New Underwater Cruising Record

SAN DIEGO, Calif. — America's atomic submarine, the USS Nautilus, today claimed a new underwater cruising record of 3,049 miles. The atomic age sub arrived here from Panama Wednesday and its skipper wired the Pacific submarine force command in Honolulu: "Submerged off Panama 22nd at 2237 GMT, surfaced San Diego at 2201 1400 GMT having completed 3,049 miles transit submerged all the way." Capt. Eugene P. Wilkinson, Nautilus commander, said that after leaving New London, Conn., the submarine surfaced only for the Panama Canal and was "submerged 4,956 miles out of a total of 5,229." The nuclear-powered sub cruised at between 18 and 20 knots during the run. Vice Adm. Robert L. Dennison greeted the crew of the Nautilus as thousands of spectators lined the shores of San Diego Bay. Dennison, commander of the Navy's 1st Fleet, will be in charge of war games in which the Nautilus will take part. "This will be an historic occasion since it will be the first time a Pacific Fleet exercise will include a nuclear-driven vessel," he said.

On Farm Front

By GAYLORD P. GOLDWIN United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON — The Agriculture Department reports the combined carryover of the four major feed grains into 1957-58 will total about 50 million tons. This is about 40 per cent of average production in recent years. The record carryover of corn, oats, barley and sorghum grains would be about 6 million tons more than at the beginning of the current season. The carryover of corn on Oct. 1 now is expected to total around 1,450,000,000 bushels, substantially above the 1,350,000,000 bushels carried over last year. Oats Carryover The carryover of oats on July 1 probably will be around one-third smaller than last year's record—some 225 million bushels, compared with the 1936 record of 347 million bushels. The barley carryover on July 1 probably will be 125 million bushels, compared with 117 million bushels a year ago. The sorghum grains carryover on Oct. 1 may be nearly as large as the 81 million bushels recorded a year ago. Economists writing in the department's publication, "The Food Situation," estimated the total supply crop plus carryover of feed grains and other concentrates available for the 1946-57 feeding year at slightly more than 200 million tons, about 4 million tons more than in 1955-56. The total consumption of feed concentrates from this big supply is expected to be slightly smaller than in 1955-56, mainly the result of reduced exports. Tonnage fed to livestock in 1957-58, the economists reported, should be about as large as in 1954-55. While the number of grain-consuming animal units to be fed is estimated to be about 2,500,000 fewer than the 165,600,000 in 1955-56, the rate of feeding per animal unit has been a little heavier than a year earlier during the first half of the feeding year. Total Tonnage If the rate of feeding per animal continues at a high level during the remainder of 1957-58, the total tonnage fed will equal the 131,700,000 tons fed last year. Use of feed grains for food, seed, and industrial purposes is expected to total about 12,500,000 tons, about the same as last year. The total tonnage exported—may be around 1,500,000 tons below the record export of 8,100,000 tons in 1955-56. The department said prospects for 1957 feed crops in early May were more promising than a year ago as a result of generally ample soil and hay crops were much better than a year ago on May 1 and a little above average. Wet weather has interfered with the seeding of oats in the Midwest and reduced the chance of the crop maturing before mid-summer heat. April rains also delayed the plantings of corn.

WASHINGTON — West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer on his talks with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles: "We discussed an extremely important question, especially for us Germans, namely the link between general disarmament and German unification." PITTSBURGH — Sen. John F. (Continued From Page One) opportunity to purchase their own homes. The American home building industry is conscious of this demand and is anxious to produce homes for these families. "There are two factors which are preventing the meeting of this need. First, credit conditions—so-called "tight money." The question to which I want to address myself is the terms at which that money will be made available to the purchaser. "There remains for this purpose," he stated, "only the Federal Housing Administration system of mortgage insurance and the down payment terms under that system—which were well adapted to the early years of its operation—but which are now out of date. "It is absolutely vital," the Senator continued, "that the down payment requirements for FHA mortgage insurance be revised to recognize the realities of today's economy. "Some advocates of 'tight money,' he stated, "argued that any reduction in FHA down payments is 'inflationary.' I believe their arguments are not sound because there has already been a drastic fall-off in housing starts under the FHA-VA programs. Whatever reduction Congress approves, FHA requirements will still be more demanding than have been the terms available under the GI program. "Existing law which provides a down payment schedule of five per cent on the first $2,000 and 25 per cent on all in excess of that amount is not practical in today's economy," he emphasized. "If we are to provide for the needs of the home buying public a realistic revision in the FHA down payment schedule is vitally essential. The substitute proposal is a substantial improvement over that in existing law and I shall support it. I sincerely trust it will be adopted by an overwhelming vote. "Unless," he continued, "we want to leave unsatisfied the demand of the American people for housing—unless we want to see American home building revert to the chaos from which the Federal Housing Administration rescued it 20-odd years ago—unless we want to run the grave risk that, with the deterioration of the home building industry, the entire American economy may be seriously affected—I say to you, we must incorporate into this legislation a lower down payment schedule for the FHA."

Myers Gets High School Diploma Aboard Battleship

LYMAN L. MYERS, fireman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elgin Myers, of Route 2, Box 519, Sanford, received his high school diploma (Saturday May 25) aboard the giant battleship USS WISCONSIN. Myers, presented the diploma by Captain John O. Minor, USN, commanding officer of the ship. At present, Myers and other members of WISCONSIN'S crew, are preparing for the International Naval Review to be held on June 12 at Hampton Roads, Va. The ship will also participate in Midshipman Cruise Bravo, which will take some 2,500 midshipmen from various colleges and universities throughout the United States to ports of Valparaiso, Chile and Balboa, Canal Zone.

"Mrs. Jackson and I will need no reminder of our many friends here but this gift will serve as a constant memento of the wonderful people we know here," he said.

With the outdoor season upon us, compare your broom with those pictured above. If yours looks like the broom on the left, you are sweeping four or five times harder than necessary when you sweep. Only a lively, resilient broom, like the one on the right, will sweep clean with little effort. The broom is a good summer cleaning implement outdoors, since it gets into the cracks of concrete and brick patios, porches, and sidewalks. In the house, a well-stapled broom in seconds will sweep away sand and dust tracked in from beach and sand-baths. In preparing for summer, check your broom to see if these things are torn and if the strands are uneven at the bottom, worn too smooth, or curled at the end. If so, it won't sweep clean. Recent motivation research pointed out that women lag on to their brooms too long. The average efficient life of a broom is six to twelve years.

POLICEMEN INTERRUPT 'TRACKMAN'

MADISON, Wis. — Bernard Crompton, 41 was hauled into court on a drunkenness charge Monday when police caught him running around Capitol Square in his shorts. Crompton told the judge he "was trying to run a four-minute mile" but didn't make it because he kept "getting stopped by policemen." He forfeited $10 bail.

WITNESS TAKES JUROR OUT OF TRIAL

OLUMBUS, Ohio — A judge let a witness take a juror out of a trial Monday. The juror, Robert Davis, 60 became ill during the trial and the witness, Dr. George Heer, took Davis to a hospital to remove his appendix.

Health Hints

By DR. A. W. WOODALL THE WAY TO LIFT THINGS — WITHOUT STRAINING When a professional weight-lifter raises a heavy weight with apparent ease, it isn't just a display of muscle—it's the technique which counts. Lifting things correctly isn't a secret, but millions of painful accidents occur every year in industry and home because people don't use the knack. The result is strains and injuries—millions of them. Most people bend at the waist with backs horizontal, or lower, with arms outstretched to lift, like a derrick. The weight to be lifted is thus situated from the center of gravity of the body. Sprained back muscles, pulled ligaments, and sacroiliac strains often result. The lifting secret is to use the large, heavy muscles of the buttocks, thighs and legs. These are strongly attached to the skeleton. The lifter should get close to the object, with feet on each side of the load, bend the knees, and squat down in front of it, with back held in a vertical length, upright and relaxed, one may rise easily to an erect position. DEAD LETTER OFFICE UNION, N. J. — Mail carrier Albert Mueller is in trouble with postal officials because he turned a cemetery into a dead letter office. Postal inspectors investigating complaints that residents failed to receive expected letters found quantities of mail in a found cemetery. Authorities said Mueller confessed dumping the mail but "only on days when it was too heavy."

Challenge For Dr. Mays

A new novel by ELIZABETH SEIFERT.
© 1937 by Elizabeth Seifert. Reprinted by permission of the publisher, Dodd, Mead & Co., Inc. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

CHAPTER 23

THAT NOON, looking entirely as usual in striped T-shirt, blue slacks, hair tousled, Chad Mays walked into the clinic. Charles Mays had disappeared, and Newell McCall had easily returned to the anonymity of all responses.

Dr. Mays seemed to think his unexplained absence was no matter for comment, and only shrugged when asked for an explanation of it.

He pushed the neatly stacked mail to one side, opened a drawer, got out a mashed candy bar and a handful of marbles. When Miss Barry came in he was eating the candy and making designs with the marbles on his desk blotter. Then he drew a length of what looked like adding machine paper out of his pants pocket, looked at it, smiled.

"What's that?" she asked.

"List of incoming and outgoing calls from this office."

He didn't look at Hazel; he could feel her shock, sense the way she stiffened and then expected her to control her expression. "I didn't know the board kept a record," she said faintly.

"Oh, sure." He tore the thing into little bits, across and across again. "What did Mrs. Van Horn want?"

Hazel blushed her lips. "What everybody wants," she said sulkily. "To know where you were."

Chad tipped back in his chair, grinned at his secretary and watched dull color seep painfully into her cheeks.

"A good memory," he said sulkily. "Is worth so much!"

Then: "I've set up a lot of operations here in the clinic," he said thoughtfully, "all designed to dovetail, to function interdependently. They let me check, and recheck. I came here to get this thing in running order, to mesh its operations to as near perfect operation as possible."

Still watching her, he saw that she was recovering her poise. "You've done a wonderful job," she purred.

"It's not bad for ten weeks." He tipped way back in his chair. "We've screened about fifteen hundred people. Of that number, five hundred were found to have symptoms of various diseases. Sixty-nine were found to have heart and blood vessel disorders needing care. Three had chest disorders, and one needed surgery for a growth in his chest. He'll be all right."

from the first. She knew the kind of women he liked, too. She hadn't therefore believed any of the gossip linking his name with Lacey Van Horn's.

The red head seemed triumphant, the red lips pouted, invited. . . . And upon the glass-topped desk the telephone rasped loudly, insistently.

Hazel pressed closer, and Chad looked around at the offending instrument with a frown. Then he reached for the phone; he was whistling softly.

"Mays here," he said. Listened. "Of course. Send her in."

He put the phone back, tenderly drew Hazel roughly against him, kissed her cheek roughly, husily and roughly pushed her away.

"Mrs. Milburn," he said sulkily. "Get that smirk off, but quick!"

"And you . . ." she said sulkily. She walked into the outer office. Chad sat down again at the desk, the back of his hand rubbing at his jaw where the woman had nuzzled him.

Alice Milburn came in, all leads and ruffles and French perfume. Hazel's eyes were primly respectful as she entered the rich woman's name, and gently closed the door behind her.

Chad got to his feet, seated his caller, resumed his chair. He let Mrs. Milburn do the talking. She asked where on earth he had been, no one could seem to locate him—and how was the clinic going? John Handin had told her that it was better for everyone to keep hands off with Dr. Mays, and she had tried—but really? What did he think about that lawsuit? Did he know about the Directors' meeting at four? What makes you men hire women like Miss Barry? No, no, he'd better not tell her. She guessed she knew . . . She did hope that Chad was smart enough to watch the girls' oh?

Chad waited. Obviously Mrs. Milburn had other things on her mind than the clinic, and Chad's red-haired secretary. She'd get around to them, just as she'd stop adjusting her bracelets, tucking a stray curl back beneath the web of her white veil, using her store of smiles and glances. Alice's chatter fell into a slower rhythm; the ringed hands moved ever less—and less.

"I came," then said Mrs. Milburn, softly, plaintively, "to tell you that Lacey is planning to go away. To leave."

Conning The News

Friends of Mary Libbey's were invited to an open house in her honor on Tuesday afternoon. Hostesses were Lou Johnson and Olivia Simmons, and it was held in Lou's beautiful home on Palermo Ave. Pink candles in silver candelabra banked the pink burst of spring flowers on the dining room table. Punch bowls filled with cooling juice were placed on both the porch and the dining room. The tables were most enticing, covered as they were with dainty pink, green and white sandwiches, tiny tarts and a colorful and delicious assortment of cookies. The catering was done by Mrs. Leonard.

Mary wore a lovely carnation corsage given her by the hostesses. She was fresh, cool and gracious in spite of the heat, as she bade farewell to her many friends. The Libbys have meant a great deal to Sanford, especially through church and Girl Scout work.

Attending were Jane Prudden, Connie Yount, Jane Miller, Ruth Norvell, Dottie King, Gretchen Hall, Betty Guy, Betty Lemos, Betty Haslett, Kip Horrell, Millie Thomas, Gene Frits, Claire Lynch, Jean Stetson, Corrie Stribling, Anne Bear, Jean Tegfeldt, Mike Stone, Hazel Rowell, Katie Jackson, Katie Cummins, Louise Parker, Lil Gray, Rosemary Duncan, Kay Dwyer, Joan Welgole, Rita Bauer, Doris Francison, Rusty Liljeborg, Dot Mann, Thelma McMuray, Marty Williams, Audrey Brownlee and Ginny Conn.

Claire and Hank Lynch will be leaving Sanford this coming Sunday. Hank is leaving the navy, and after a visit to Claire's home in Cincinnati, they will go on to Chicago. Lil and O. B. Gray are leaving for Washington next Tuesday, the Grays have brought a house and O. B. is spending all his free time fertilizing and trimming the lawn.

The D. O. Q. was the scene of the last meeting of the present board of the Officers' Wife Club. They met with the members of the new board, to explain their duties and the functions of the club. Donnell Kilcline brought a magnificent arrangement of mixed gladioli and her silver coffee service. Katie Jackson poured the coffee. Katie was presented with a silver tray for her part as

Baby's Looks Usually Change For The Better

By HERMAN H. BUNZEL, M.D.

DON'T worry about the way your brand-new baby looks. Even if he looks like one of your in-laws, don't worry. He'll probably change.

One of the most noticeable features—and probably one of the most alarming—of most newborn babies is the nose. Frequently it is misshapen and somewhat flattened after birth.

Usually, however, it will assume a more shapely appearance within a short time.

Baby's Skin

The skin of a newborn baby may take on a yellowish hue during the first few days of life. The color ranges from a scarcely visible shade to an intense jaundice. Again, the condition usually clears up within a few days.

The eyes of a newborn infant are very sensitive. He frowns, blinks or closes his eyes when confronted by a light. He will be unable to focus his eyes for several weeks.

Eyes Are Blue

All babies have blue eyes when born. Some may be dark and others may be light, but all are

A change in the color won't be noted until the babe is about three months old.

Then brown pigment or color-matter makes a gradual appearance. By the time the infant is from six to eight months old, you'll be able to tell whether his eyes are blue, brown, gray or maybe green.

Length of Hair

Most babies are born with rather long hair. Yet by the time they are three months old, their hair may be sparse. Don't worry.

A newborn infant has hair of a very fine texture which he gradually loses. As he grows new hair to replace the baby hair, it often changes color.

So give that new lot a few months. You'll hardly recognize him.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

I.T.: Are stomach ulcers caused from nerves or from what a person eats?

Answer: The exact cause of ulcers of the stomach is not known. It is thought by many that nervous or emotional disturbances may be responsible in some cases.

WHEN PRESIDENT EISENHOWER next visits his Gettysburg, Pa., farm, he'll find a new registered Holstein calf awaiting him. It is a gift from the Minnesota dairy industry. Since he hasn't seen it yet, Barbara Jean Boettz, Brainerd, Minn., who is "Princess of the Milky Way," brings to the White House a photo showing her with the calf. Here, the President thanks her. Florida Citrus Ripe Though Green Basking in the Florida sun is everyone's dream, but Valencia oranges really have the life. They spend about a year maturing on a tree in a sunny grove, longer than any other variety. They ripen early in the Spring and become sweeter as the season progresses, although they retain the firmness and juiciness which makes them the favorite all-purpose orange.

This spring Valencias and late-season grapefruit are having a complexion problem. A combination of weather conditions has speeded up the tree's output of green chlorophyll for next year's crop. The ripe fruit on the tree starts to re-green on the surface, although the fruit remains golden inside.

No unripe citrus ever leaves Florida, thanks to strict regulations, so any green oranges or grapefruit you may see are wearing their Spring tog. Remember that the green is only skin deep and does not affect flavor, quality, or vitamin C content.

Jaycee Installation Awards Barbecue Scheduled Tonight

Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce President George Speer will turn the reins of the local organization to the newly elected president, M. L. Roberson Jr., at an Awards and Installation Barbecue to be held tonight at the Elk's Club.

An elaborate barbecue has been planned, said George Andrew Speer as his one-year term as top officer of the young business men's organization comes to a close.

Following a report of the year's activities, highlighted by the Atlantic Navy Appreciation Day staged by the group, awards will be presented at tonight's affair and the 1957-58 officers will be installed.

The barbecue also brings to a climax the membership drive, headed by Bill Gramkow. It is expected that reports at tonight's affair will reveal that a goal of 100 active Jaycees and 100 associate Jaycees has been reached.

Those participating in the membership drive are afforded an opportunity to win an all expense paid trip to Havana or Nassau for two. Arrangements for the trip was made through the cooperation of Florida Sightseeing, Inc. of Orlando.

Winner of the membership drive contest will be announced tonight midway of a dance scheduled to follow the barbecue.

Top officials of the state Jaycee organization are expected in Sanford for tonight's installation ceremonies.

Navy Appreciation Day Begins To Show Some Real Results

Navy Appreciation Day is beginning to show some real results as word of Sanford's hospitality and friendliness continues to spread.

Two ladies appeared at the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce office yesterday to "get some information about housing in Sanford and where to look for a nice home."

Mrs. Georgia Ball, waiting on the ladies, began to mark city maps and point out the various subdivisions and locations around the city.

"Yet, this year," he said, "I planted peppers with phenomenal results even for Seminole County which is accustomed to better than other state averages."

HERBERT BEHRENS EXAMINES peppers harvested from 25 acres and the fifth picking that have averaged 75 count per bushel. "The yield through this picking," said Behrens, "has been 600 bushels per acre." (Photo by Bergstrom)

Phenomenal Record In Pepper Growing Reported At Farm

A Seminole County farm has made a phenomenal record in growing peppers according to a recent report received at The Sanford Herald.

According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, which each year publishes crop averages throughout the country, the largest 10 year average for peppers is approximately 300 bushels per acre.

However, Behrens said that the average yield through the fifth picking from 25 acres planted in peppers has been 600 bushels per acre.

Growers and shippers learning of the unusual yield of fancy peppers said that "this was phenomenal."

Behrens said "This 35 acre plot has been cultivated to my knowledge for 31 years and has been planted in celery and it has always been believed that it is impossible to grow peppers behind celery."

"Yet, this year," he said, "I planted peppers with phenomenal results even for Seminole County which is accustomed to better than other state averages."

Senate Passes Resolution

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — The Senate voted 27-9 to extend the current legislative session an extra week to vote new taxes and revise the Constitution.

The vote came swiftly and with little opposition. Senate President W. A. Shands of Gainesville urged the extension and Sen. Verla A. Pope of St. Augustine, the governor's floor leader, opposed it, but only briefly.

The House has already adopted the resolution. Thus, the 1957 Legislature will stay in session at least until June 8.

As soon as the resolution was adopted, the Senate adjourned until Monday at 4 p.m. The House continued in session, trying desperately to pass a tax program.

Gov. LeRoy Collins was opposed to an extended session, but he did not put up much of a fight. Even the senators who generally vote down the line for him went with the majority.

On the final roll call, the only senators voting against extension of the session were J. A. Boyd of Leesburg, Doyle Carlton of Wausatchula, Fred Dickinson of West Palm Beach, Joe Eaton of Miami, Scott Kelly of Lakeland, Pope, J. B. Rogers of Winter Garden, Joe Bill Rood of Bradenton, and Douglas Stenstrom of Sanford.

The Senate sent every bill on its calendar back to committee. In an extended session, any bills hanging at the time of the new extension can be acted on. New bills can be introduced only by a two-thirds vote of the house in which they are offered.

The House of Representatives, surely and irritably after scrapping a 123 million dollar tax package in a marathon session, scrapped up $21,500,000 in new taxes today.

Resuming its session at 9 a.m. after a wild meeting that lasted until 1:30 a.m. and resulted in defeat for the program proposed by the House Finance and Taxation Committee, the House in three hours voted a $9,500,000 sales tax on beer and a 5 per cent tax on cigarettes.

Mental Health Fund Reaches $1,433

The active solicitation campaign for funds for the Seminole County Mental Health Assn. ends on May 31. However, funds are still being received by the Campaign Director. Any one who has not donated may still do so.

While funds so far have fallen below the amount the local Association would like to have collected, the amount received shows a "decided awareness" on the part of local residents the need for such an organization in this county.

"It is hoped that this campaign will be the beginning of a definite Mental Health Unit in the county with a full paid worker," a spokesman said.

Total amount collected to date amounts to $1433.
