Will Use City-Owned Property For Wastewater Disposal

Sanford Eyes $7.5 Million Savings

By Karen Talley Heraid Staff Writer

Sanford is now saying it will save at least $7.5 million by disposing treated wastewater on city-owned properties. rather than at the previously targeted Yankee Lake site.

The savings is attributed to a $1.5 million difference in project implementation costs, and the $6 million the city has said it will shave from wastewater management bond repayments for having floated a $16.98 million issue last week at a lower repayment rate than it acquire Yankee Lake from Seminole secured last winter for the Yankee Lake project.

Additional savings may result if the city can pursuade the state to relax the grant requirements it had execised in regard to the Yankee Lake-based project. If acquired, these monies, approximately $550,000, would be added to the $8.25 million in grants the state has already indicated it will transfer from the Yankee Lake project to the revised wastewater management program.

The litigation Sanford launched to would have had if a bond had been County last winter was ultimately unsuccessful, and also rendered the city unable to float a wastewater management bond until it turned toward a revised project. At a special city commisssion meeting Friday, a 30 year bond issue for $16.98 million was authorized, at a repayment rate 1.5 percent less than what Sanford anticipated paying based on rates available last winter.

The difference in repayment rates will equate to a $6 million cost savings for the city during the bond's 30 year life span. Sanford's financial consultants said.

The additional $1.5 million savings was tacked onto the revised project by the city's consulting engineers during a public hearing commissioners held Monday for discussion of the amended wastewater management program.

Although solicited, there was no public input during the session, which was chaired by Deputy Mayor Dave Farr. Farr was acting in the absence of Mayor Bettye Smith, who is attending a meeting of the International Platform Association in Washington, D.C.

City Rezoning Session Evokes Harsh Words

By Karen Talley Heraid Staff Writer

Charges of a promoting a "quick buck attitude," rather than proper land planning, were leveled at Sanford commissioners by a city resident when they approved a Planning and Zoning Board recommendation for industrial and commercial rezoning of 180 acres of agricultural land during a public hearing Monday night.

Commissioners approval of the rezoning did not, however, come without assurance to the residents that any development of the parcels would be preceded by stringent site plan reviews on the part of the city.

The rezonings, collectively presented to the city by seven property owners, were opposed by two of the areas' residents

Monday night. One of them, Joe Kalser, said commissioners were allowing property owners "to come to the city, have their site rezoned, sell it, make a fast buck and then get away before industry comes in." Kaiser also said the county's attitude toward rezoning was markably different. He said two of the parcels before the commissioners Monday night had been denied rezonings by the county last year and then annexed into Sanford, "Because in this town, I guess if you don't get It from the county, you can get it from the city." All seven parcels lie west of the city, in an area bounded by Airport Boulevard, Interstate-4, State Road 46 and the Seaboard Coastline Railroad right-of-way. Commissioners approval of the rezoning was unanimous, with the exception of Dave Farr who abstained from the vote because he represents one of the property owners.

The authorization came after commissioners heard the residents' opposition and the rationale for the P&Z endorsement, which had been coupled with city planning staffs' recommended approval.

Both Kaiser and Shirley Eberdine spoke against the rezoning due to impacts they feel the higher density land utilization will have in their area. including its eradication of natural attributes. The residents had first expressed their sentiments the P&Z, during the July 3 meeting at which the rezonings were endorsed. Reiterated Monday night were their concerns with devaluation of residential property surrounding the industrial/commercial land, the potential of hazardous waste contamination from industrial projects and the existing "rural atmosphere" of the area. including its poor drainage and unpaved roads, and how development would be viable under such conditions.

P&Z meeting, city staff on were premature. City planners rezoned area would be preceded by state and local agency reand viability.

Commissioner Milton Smith initially balked at the rezoning until staff brought up the points

$250.9 Million Passed During First Hearing

A $250.9 million budget, financed in part by a one cent miliage rate increase, was tentatively adopted by the School Board of Seminole County during its first budget public hearing Monday night.

The tentative budget and accompanying millage rate were approved after weeks of preby the board to fund an extra $2 million needed for two high school expansion projects from the bond reserve account, instead of additional millage assessment.

The board also eliminated three of four new jobs that were budgeted, and saved the $98,000 in salaries and benefits, which will remain in the operating budget as a cushion for future needs.

The total fiscal year 1986-87 county school budget of $250,962,734 will be funded in part by a school property tax rate of $7.445 per $1,000 of property valuation. The tax, which will generate $39,916,084, is based on $5.64 billion in taxable propery values. Other monies making up the balance of the budget will come from federal, state, and local

The new budget year starts Oct. 1, and the final budget public hearing is set for Sept. 10.

The board approved increased budget allocations of about $7.5 million each for expansion and renovation projects at Lake Brantley and Lake Howell high schools.

A 1984 state school plant survey estimated the jobs would cost about $5.5 million each, but the board learned recently that it would take at least $1 million more each to consolidate the science classes in one area in

60 Years For Sex Assault

The rape of a 12-year-old girl netted a 29-year-old Casselberry man 60 years in prison Monday to be followed by 60 years probation.

Sentenced was Marcus Edmund Karchesky, of 801 Gee Creek Court, Issuing the long-term sentence was Circuit Judge Kenneth M. Leffler.

Karchesky, who contends he is innocent but was convicted last month, was arrested in October and charged with four counts of sexual battery, aggravated child abuse and committing a lewd, lascivious or indecent assault or acts in the presence of a child. He was convicted of three counts of carnal intercourse with a child under 13 and seven counts of lewd and lascivious assault on a

His arrest came after the girl, her mother, and another witness reported the assaults to police. They said Karchesky had intercourse with the girl on four occasions between Oct. 13 and 20. The assaults began two days after she turned 12-years-old.

Although the mother reportedly knew of the first and last attacks, she did not report them to police until the witness who was also questioned in the case urged her to file a report.

Leffler ordered that Karchesky receive counseling and pay for the victim's counseling. He also ordered that after his prison term he have just one-time only casual contacts with girls and have no contact with the victim.

NATON IN BRIEF

U.S.-Soviets Hold Top-Level Meeting Leading To Summit

WASHINGTON, (UPI) - The United States and Soviet Union have held a top-level meeting as both sides inch toward a second superpower summit, but sharp disagreements continue over the Soviet occupation of Afghanistan.

Secretary of State George Shultz met Alexandr Bessmertnykh, Soviet deputy foreign minister, at the State Department Monday for a review of the many issues dividing the two countries before the still-unacheduled summit between President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

No agreements were announced, and both sides were tight-lipped.

The Shultz-Bessmertnykh meeting was the highest level U.S.-Soviet meeting in four months. The Soviet official met other department officials Friday and Saturday and returns

TV. Film Actors Warn Of Strike

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) - Vowing to call a strike if renewed talks break down, two actors unions returned to the negotiating table with producers and set a Thursday deadline to reach terms for a new contract.

"Nobody likes this kind of a fight," said Patty Duke, president of the Screen Actors Guild. "We want to work

But Duke warned that a breakdown in the talks that resumed Monday will result in a strike that would halt production on all feature films and prime-time television shows for the upcoming fall television season.

The current three-year contract, which does not affect daytime soap operas, news, commercials or radio shows, expired June 30.

Tax Reform: No Giant Leaps

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Congressional tax reform negotiators have failed to take any giant steps toward a compromise, but the leader of the Senate team is promising to give the process a new jolt that will start the horse-trading.

The House side of the conference committee that is trying to write a final tax reform plan Monday rejected almost all of a Senate proposal that was mostly structured to fix the Senate bill so it would not lose money.

The House members charged that at least half of the Senate's 16 suggestions in the offer came in areas the conference committee had no authority over.

The rejection left lawmakers unable to even begin making decisions on how to iron out the differences between the House and Senate tax reform measures. Until they agree on a plan to ensure the Senate bill will not add to the federal deficit, they cannot start molding a compromise product.

Osceola County Dentists To Offer Free Elderly Care

KISSIMMEE (UPI) - Osceola County dentists will provide free dental care next week to homebound senior citizens in what the county's council on aging calls the first such program in the country.

Volunteers and council staff will escort patients to the dentists' offices and remain through the checkup to help fill out any necessary forms. The program aims to involve dentists permanently in care for the elderly.

Each dentist has agreed to see at least three patients during the week, and follow-up visits may be scheduled.

The program was prompted by a survey of the county's seniors who are confined to their homes, which showed deteriorating dental conditions to be a major cause of inadequate nutrition.

Crack Session In Doubt

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) - Gov. Bob Graham said he may consider calling a special legislative session on the problem of "crack" cocaine, but two top Florida legislators said the problem needs even more attention.

Graham held a meeting of drug advisors Monday to brief himself and Sen. Lawton Chiles on crack, a highlyaddictive form of cocaine, after Chiles asked him to convene a special session on the problem.

Graham said he would consider the conference before deciding whether to call a special session.

The Legislature will meet in November to discuss organizational matters. The next full session is scheduled for April.

Senate President Harry Johnston, who attended the meeting, estimated the rehabilitation and criminal justice funding initiatives discussed there would cost at least $200 million. A special session would not be appropriate, he

Big Cypress Gets More Land

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The House has approved a measure calling for the 136,000 acre expansion of South Florida's Big Cypress National Preserve in conjunction with the construction of Interstate 75.

The bill, approved by voice vote Monday, is supported by Gov. Bob Graham and the state's entire congressional delegation. The legislation must still be passed by the Senate, which has yet to hold a hearing on it.

Rep. Tom Lewis, R-Fla., termed the legislation a "unique opportunity to acquire and protect land in southwest Florida of unquestioned importance and beauty."

The legislation - also sponsored by Sen. Lawton Chiles - would add 126,000 acres northeast of the existing 574,000-acre preserve, and another 10,000 acres to the

Surprise Witnesses Slated Today

FORT MYERS (UPI) - The defense is expected to put its surprise witnesses on the stand today in the first-degree murder trial of Steven Wayne Benson in an attempt to link his nephew's drug habit to pipe bombs that exploded in the family van last year.

Prosecutors have charged Benson, 35, planted the bombs that killed his mother, Margaret Benson, 63-year-old heiress to a $10 million tobacco fortune, and his nephew. Scott Benson, 21. OPEC Ministers Discuss Production Cut GENEVA (UPI) - OPEC oil ministers on the second day of their latest crisis meeting said today one possibility being discussed to try to reverse the crash in prices was a 15 percent cut in production.

"That's what we are discussing," Qutar oil minister Abdul Khalifa Al Thani told

OPEC delegation sources said earlier that an across-the-board output cut by the 13 member countries could be a fall-back formula because of disagreement over allocating new and lower Individual quotas.

They said bigger producers could cut back by 15 percent and smaller members by 10 percent, based on July production.

Several delegates said OPEC members may have to consider a summit conference among heads of state and government if the ministers again fail to achieve an agree-

Ministers met in full plenary session for only 90 minutes on the first day Monday.

They had been scheduled to resume at 10 a.m. today but it was 11.30 before all the ministers had assembled.

The Geneva conference, the fourth OPEC meeting this year, was called to apportion national quotas under the 17.6 million barrels a day output ceiling agreed upon by the cartel majority at the summer summit in Brioni, Yugoslavia.

The conference opened Monday with position statements and a discussion of the quotas that are at the heart of the OPEC plan to dry up the market surplus and stabilize striking petroleum prices.

The opening session was adjourned after only 90 minutes to let the ministers consult informally with each other and seek guidance from their governments before returning to the bargaining table today.

"It was a waste of time." Algerian Oil
Minister Belkacern Nabi said after Monday's session. He said all the differences that blocked accord at Brioni in June remained unresolved.

Mana Saced Otaiba, oil minister of the United Arab Emirates, told reporters OPEC faces "an impossible task."

Nigerian Oil Minister Rilwanu Lukman, the new OPEC president, said he had "high hopes" of agreement but Hossein Kazempour. deputy oil minister of Iran. said: "Everybody was disappointed."

Iraqi Oil Minister Quassim Taki Al-Oraivi told reporters his country would not accept a quota lower than that of Iran. its foe in the Persian Gulf War. But Kazempour said Iran was insisting on a quota double that of Iraq.

Kazempour blamed Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and the United Arab Emirates for overproducing and said his country also would boost its output should the meeting

He said one alternative proposal under discussion calls for those countries that are overproducing to cut their output 15 percent. At Brioni, a majority of the 13-member Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries endorsed the proposed cartel production ceiling of 17.6 million barrels a day for this year as a means of raising oil prices to a stable long-term level of $17-$19

But the cartel has been steadily increasing its output - currently almost 20 million barrels a day - and few members seem willing to cut back. By flooding the market, OPEC has managed to reclaim its share of the market from independent competitors but it also has driven prices down from $28 last December to current levels of $10 to $12 a barrel.

The price war policy, led by Saudi Arabia, is opposed by OPEC "hawks" — Algeria, Libya and Iran - that have held out for drastic production cuts to restore prices to Lake Mary's next city manager have been set and will be advertised nationally. The deadline for submitting an application for the job is Oct. 10.

City commissioners authorized the advertising during Thursday night's budget meeting. They are seeking a replacement for former City Manager Kathy Rice, who resigned July 15. She will become the city manager of Gulfport, Fla. Aug. 15.
The ad notes that the posi-

Gulfport Mayor Yvonne Johnson said Mrs. Rice was selected from a field of 179 applicants. She was hired after one interview. Lake Mary city commissioners agreed to act as their own screening committee, as did Gulfport in hiring Mrs. Rice.

No one in Lake Mary city government has expressed an interest in Mrs. Rice's former job. The commission appointed Public Works & tendent Jim Orioles as the interim city manager, but Ortoles said he will not apply for the job on a permanent basis.

Let's Go Get Them ...

The Reagan administration's campaign to stem the flow of illegal drugs from Latin America began in earnest as six U.S. Black Hawk helicopters swept into the jungles of eastern Bolivia. The aircraft, flown by U.S. pilots, carried Bolivian anti-drug forces that are raiding 50 of that nation's clandestine cocaine labs.

The bold joint operation, which is expected to last two months, is designed to destroy the facilities in Bolivia that produce most of the 100 tons of cocaine that are shipped abroad each year by Bolivian drug barons. This staggering figure accounts for 25 percent of the world supply and nearly 30 percent of the "cocaine coming into the United States each

Although cocaine is the largest single component of Bolivia's $3 billion economy. the new Bolivian government seems determined to put an end to this deadly trade. Last April, President Victor Paz Estenssoro requested U.S. assistance in the drug raids. That request, it should be noted, was prompted by a recent U.S. decision to cut off a large share of American aid to Bolivia so long as that government refused to eradicate a significant portion of the country's coca crop.

The timely strike is the first to be carried out under a directive signed April 8 by President Reagan that declared drug trafficking to be a national-security threat. But this is not the first time U.S.-manned helicopters have assisted an anti-drug effort by another country. Operation Bahamas has seen American pilots transport Bahamian troops throughout that Caribbean country during the last three years.

More encouraging still, U.S.-supported assaults against Cocaine facilities in Peru and Colombia are under consideration. These operations, which could begin as early as next month, would be more limited than the Bolivian strike. Agents from the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration would assist local troops and police in raids against cocaine-producing areas.

Taken together, these joint operations represent a dramatic step in the Reagan administration's campaign to staunch the flood of drugs that menace the United States. Granted, the use of U.S. personnel in these raids presumes the possibility of American casualties. Indeed, the soldiers have the green light to defend themselves if fired upon. But the attendant risk seems completely justified, agiven the grim toll of death and suffering that cocaine causes each year in this country.

That sentiment was generally reflected on "Capitol Hill, where the operation received strong bipartisan support. Such support began to surface six years ago, when it became apparent that the United States ought to use its military resources to supplement law-enforcement efforts in the war against international drug dealers.

This strategy has already paid dividends off the coast of South Florida, where the illicit drug traffic was dramatically reduced by the use of Navy patrol boats and surveillance aircraft. President Reagan's recent executive order allows the military freer rein to undertake drug-enforcement missions for their own sake without working them into existing missions.

Which isn't to suggest that American paratroopers will be dropping into Panama in the near future to disrupt Gen. Noriega's drug deals. Or that the U.S. Air Force will be conducting surgical strikes against Colombia's cocaine factories. But it does increase the risks to the international drug traffickers as they ply their deadly trade. And that bodes well for the United States to gain some ground in this dirty war.

How To Deal With Leaks: Fire The Leaker

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes says the way to deal with leaks is to fire the leaker.

A lot of people on the topside of government would be fired if that were the punishment. They're the ones in the know and privy to

Many leaks are inspired from inside the White . House as trial balloons. None has been too damaging of late. Embarrassing at times, but the nation survives.

White House officials speak all the time "on background," meaning the man - there are no women in top-level roles - doing the talking does so without attribution.

Reporters who are at the background sessions agree not to name the source. But when a reporter is not at a session and learns what is said and can confirm it, there are no holds barred under the journalistic rules of the game. This administration has made backgrounders a state of the art. The source in those cases must be identified as a "senior administration official." But there are so few top officials running the White House these days that it would not be difficult to guess who is doing the talking.

Sometimes it is refreshing when an official will go on the record, shedding the protective covering. Often, the diaguise is used so that a presidential statement will have no other administration name in it.

Leaks are often legitimate information that the public should have and is being suppressed. The harm is done when presidents and top officials seek to resort to lie detectors, to censorship and to establishing such units as "the plumbers" in the Watergate scandal to ferret out leaks with unwholesome and illegal methods.

Reagan is running out of farm jokes. He has used a different joke from time to time in addressing farmers, some of which have a familiar ring.

He told the Future Farmers: "There was an old Kansas famer. He had a piece of creekbottom land that had never been developed at all, it was all rocks and brush and all messed up. And he started in on it, clearing it - theunderbrush, and hauling away the rocks, then cultivating the soil there. "And he planted a garden - everything from vegetables on to corn and it really became a garden spot. And he was pretty proud of what he'd done. So one Sunday morning in church after the service he asked the preacher if he would stop by to have a look. "Well, the preacher arrived. And he took one look and he said. 'Oh, this is wonderful.'

"He said. 'These are the biggest tomatoes I've ever seen. Praise the Lord.' And he said, 'Those green beans, that squash, those melons - the Lord really has blessed this place. And look at the height of that corn.' He said. 'God has really been good."

"And the old boy was listening to all this and he was getting more and more fidgety and finally he blurted out. 'Reverend I wish you could have seen it when the Lord was doing it by himself."

ROBERT WALTERS

Now The First Primary

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. (NEA) -The first-in-the-nation presidential primary about to be conducted by Michigan Republicans was supposed to be a promotional bonanza for the state party. Instead, it has spawned grief and confusion.

Republicans generally are less inclined than Democrats to raise their voices in anger, but some GOP activists are unmistakably hostile toward the scheme that goes a long way toward institutionalizing the permanent, four-year, non-stop presidential campaign.

"I wish they had some other way to select precinct delegates." says Virginia Watson, Grand Traverse County's Republican chairman who notes that the maneuvering for the 1988 presidential nomination has distracted the party from the im-mediate task of picking a gubernatorial nominee for 1986.

"The emphasis this year should be on the gubernatorial election," agrees Jean Watkoski, Republican chairman in neighboring Leelanau money and energy being expended too early on the presidential contest. I don't think people are really comfortable with it." The absurdly early primary date of Aug. 5 is only one cause of that discomfort. There also are the mysteries of how many delegate slots are open, how many contenders have filed and which presidential candidates they support.

There are an estimated 13,500 to 14,500 precinct delegate positions to be filled. Nobody is sure of the

Following the May 27 filing deadline for the upcoming primary, state party officials estimated (again, they don't know) that 9,000 to 10,000 people had qualified for positions on the ballot. (Nobody filed in many heavily Democratic precincts. In some precincts, one Republican is running and in others more than one GOP candidate is on the ballot).

Supporters of Vice President George Bush insisted that 4,500 support his bid for the party's 1988 presidential nomination, while aides to the Rev. Pat Robertson claimed the loyalty of another 4.500. Finally, backers of Rep. Jack Kemp of New York said 3,400 are committed

That totals 12,400 - far more than any of the estimates of the number of candidates for precinct delegates - and the weeks since the filing deadline have been marked by squabbling among the presidential hopefuls over the figures.

Limiting Court Power

WASHINGTON (NEA) - New Right conservatives - especially those on the religious right remain furious about the Supreme Court's upholding of abortion and about its refusal to allow voluntary prayer in public schools.

So, they are now turning to a new strategy that is literally as old as this country. They are questioning the supremacy of the Supreme Court.

These conservatives argue: The founding fathers established a government with three co-equal branches - the executive, the legislative and the judicial. In Article I, Section 7 of the Constitution, the founders set up a system of checks and balances between the executive and legislative branches, which gave veto power to the president and the option to override to the legislative branch. Had they intended the judicial branch to have "veto power" over the legislative branch, they would have specified it as clearly as they did the presidential veto process.

In the absence of such clear enumeration, the argument continues, the Supreme Court has no power to nullify laws passed by the Congress or executive orders issued by the president. Thus, if Congress outlaws abortion or allows prayer in the schools, the Supreme Court has no power to overrule.

The subject of judicial review was a major source of debate during this nation's first 25 years. Then in 1803, in Marbury v. Madison, Chief Justice John Marshall, writing for a unanimous court, claimed that the right of judicial review is implicitly contained in Article III of the Constitution and in the Judiciary Act of 1789, which set up the U.S. court system.

Through the years those who have disagreed with the Supreme Court have argued that the Constitution does not give the court these powers. They have also argued that Marshall himself was only claiming a very limited power. which has since been extended out of all proportion.

The emerging leader in this new-old debate is Republican presidential prospect -School graduate - Rev. Marion G. "Pat" Robertson.

At a recent meeting with The Washington Post editorial board, Robertson asserted that "a Supreme Court ruling is not the law," stating that neither Congress nor the president has a duty to obey judicial rulings with which they disagree.

Robertson's argument was in response to a question about whether, if he were president, he would uphold the 1973 Roe v. Wade decision by the Supreme Court on abortion rights, which, as the ques-tioner put it, "is the law of the United States."

"I take issue with your premise," Robertson reportedly replied. "A Supreme Court ruling is not the law of the United States. The law of the United States is the Constitution, treaties made in accordance with the Constitution and laws duly enacted by the Congress and signed by the president. And any of those things I would uphold totally with all my strength, whether I agreed with them or not."

"But I think Roe v. Wade is based on very faulty law," he continued. "It had no precedent to it whatsoever. Abortion is a state matter."

He then went on to say that as president he would enforce those Supreme Court rulings he felt were "appropriate." He gave as an example the 1954 basic school desegregation ruling, Brown v. Board of Education. "No question they ruled correctly." Robertson

EDWARD J. WALSH Weapons Beneath The Waves

President Reagan's move in late May to depart from informal adherence to the terms of the 1979 strategic arms limitation treaty was linked for public relations purposes to the scrapping of two ballistic missile submarines. As was to be expected, the first part of the decision got far more attention than the second. But the priority now given to undersea weapons highlights the continuing evolution of the nature of strategic warfare. Defense technology now focuses on radically-new weapons and missile defenses based in space. In the same way, it leads in new directions in undersea warfare.

Advocates of a tolerant attitude towards Soviet weapons-building efforts have for years rested their hopes for reductions in U.S. military spending on the presumption that the considerable Soviet advantage in land-based nuclear missiles is neatly cancelled by the American fleet of missile-carrying submarines. Their audience clearly included the Soviets themselves, whose perspective on the potential of the submarine has changed dramatically in the past two years.

Currently, the Soviet fleet of 62 ballistic missile-armed subs is being enhanced by the deployment of a new strategic intercontinental missile, the SS-NX-23. It will replace the SS-N-18, a sea-launched version of the SS-18, the huge Soviet ICBM that carries up to 30 nuclear warheads. Just two years ago the SS-N-18 was considered new.

Gradually, the Soviet strategic submarine force is being totally rebuilt. THe new directions was first perceived by U.S. doves as "restraint" by the Soviets, since only one older Victory-class nuclearpowered boat was launched in 1985. In fact, Soviet sub yards are being retooled to produce faster and quiet Typhoon and Delta III- and IV-class strategic submarines. Coincidentally, the Soviets have dropped their long-time insistence on limiting sea-launched ballistic missiles in the current SALT talks.

American antisubmarine warfare (ASW) has a long and noble heritage. For years, the U.S. has deployed powerful air, surface and undersea weapons against submarines, using highly sophisticated surveillance technologies. The U.S. Navy is adding 16 TAGOS Surveillai ce Towed-Array Sonar Systems (SURTASS) ships to the five already affoat. A tactical towed-array ASW system is being installed aboard all U.S. Navy cruisers, destroyers and frigates.

U.S.: It's 'Our Way Or No Food'

By Jack Anderson And Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON - The State Department's messianic zeal for private enterprise has made it more difficult for needy Third World nations to get delivery of surplus American food crops. Some recipient countries are being pressured to "privatize" their distribution systems before food will be sent.

Foggy Bottom bureaucrats insist that no one has been starving as a result of the ideologically inspired red tape, but the effort to change the structure of the recipient regimes has left a sour taste in some far-off capitals.

It has also infuriated U.S. agricultural exporters and one member of the Senate.

"I do not believe in using food as a political weapon." Sen. John Melcher, D-Mont., told our associate Stewart Harris.

colleagues on the Agriculture Committee in the situation, so he hired a stenographer and conducted a solo hearing. He invited representatives of eight food-importing countries to tell their experiences with the State Department's armtwisting as practiced by the Agency for International Development in the Food for Peace program.

Here are some of the complaints he heard:

- Riots and revolutions were raging in other African countries after a devastating famine when AID officials held up food shipments to Kenya for three months until the Kenyan government reluctantly agreed to let the private sector distribute U.S. food. As the Kenyans explained to Melcher, there was no one outside their government agencies who had the necessary expertise to handle the millions of tons of food waiting to come in. Melcher was unable to interest his. They also pointed out that there was no guarantee the food would find its way from the private distribution firms to the people who needed it most.

- The same problem - no private sector capability - plagued the Marxist regime in Mozambique. AID officials tried to strong-arm the Mozambiquan government into privatizing food distribution, but eventually backed down when the government stood firm. Still, the pressure alone aroused resentment in Mozambique, where 100,000 had died of starvation in 1984. "When you drive down the road and you see the dead bodies, you cannot permit (that kind of agreement) even for the best of philosophical reasons," a food importer told Melcher.

- U.S. diplomats in Manila told the Philippine government it had to let private importers compete with the government food agency.

- In the Dominican Republic

where 80 people died in 1984 food riots. AID officials insisted that the government abolish its food purchasing agency before rice would be shipped under Food for Peace. "To me, it typifles basically an attitude of arrogance on the part of our bureaucrats, who sit here in Washington and feel they know better than these governments do what needs to be done." Steve Gabbert, executive vice president of the Rice Millers Association, told Melcher.

AlD officials say they're only enforcing "self-help" conditions mandated by Congress, and insist that emergency provisions in the program allow for immediate food deliveries regardless of agreement on privatization

But U.S. agribusinessmen are concerned that the pressure to privatize may cause foreign buyers to buy their grain from Canada and

The magic wands that carried the District 14 Nationals to three runaway victories in the Big League Section I Tournament didn't exactly vanish into thin air Monday, but the Nationals needed the right arm of Dave Westgate to pull them through.

Westgate tossed a five-hitter and the hits the Nationals did get were big ones as manager Howard Mable's team opened play in the Big League State Tournament with a 3-1 victory over Brevard at Dunedin.

The double elimination tournament continues today with the tournament champion advancing to the Southern Regional Tournament beginning Aug. 4 at Pembroke Pines.

Westgate, out of the Eustis Little League and Mount Dora High, pitched shutout ball until Brevard pushed across a run in the bottom of the seventh. The Seminole Community College bound Westgate scattered five hits, struck out seven and walked six.

District 14 National scored single runs in the first, third and fourth frames and was held to just five hits by Brevard's Kevin Neal. The Nationals had been averaging double figures in hits and runs in the Section 1 Tournament.

Baseball

Of the five hits Monday, though, three were for extra bases and that was the difference in the game.

Shane Letterio started off the State Tournament the same way he did the section as he blasted a solo home run in the first inning to give Westgate an early lead to work with.

In the third, catcher Mark Coffey drew a walk and later scored on a double off the bat of Mike Pinckes. District 14 picked up an unearned run in the fourth when Kevin Bass walked.

took second on a wild pitch, went to third on a passed ball and scored on Brevard's only error of the game.

Brevard finally got on the board in the bottom of the seventh when Andy Williams singled to drive in pinch runner Mike McIntosh. JUNIORS, SENIORS RAINED OUT

The Juniors will play tonight at 7:30 against Azalea Park while the first game, at 5, pits Martin County against North Fort Myers.

The Senior State Tournament will open tonight with 5 and 7:30 games at the Palma Ceia-Fair Oaks Complex.

Reid, Vogt Impressive At Festival

HOUSTON (UPI) - Budding basketball star J.R. Reid and swimmer Vickie Vogt each showed impressive moves down the lane Monday night at the U.S. Olympic Festival.

Vogt, a 14-year-old Ft. Lauderdale, native, won two more gold medals to give her five golds and a silver overall in three days of competition. Vogt won the 200-meter backstroke and swam the second leg for the South squad which won the 800-meter freestyle relay.

Reid, a 6-foot-9, 240-pound Virginia Beach, Va., resident headed for the University of North Carolina, bounced back from Sunday's subpar effort to score 14 points as the South beat the North 98-84 in second-round action. Earlier, Jerome Lane scored 24 points to pace the East to a 96-89 triumph over the West.

"Vickie is the non-freestyler that pulled our freestyle relays together," South coach David Storer said. "She had the fastest split on the 800 free relay and was the third-fastest split on our 400 free relay. She would have won the 100-meter backstroke with the time she did on our medley relay ... she really pulled our team together out there."

Vogt who will not race in today's final swimming events, had a time of 2:19.34 in the 200 backstroke, knocking more than two seconds off her best previous mark. Vogt tied Jeff Olsen, who won five swimming golds at last year's Festival. Seth Van Neerden, Wilmington, Del., won the men's 100-meter breastroke in 1:06.01 and swam the breastroke leg of the West's winning 400-meter medley re-

Dady Vincent of Gainesville, finished first in the women's 100-meter freestyle and also competed with Vogt on the winning relay team. Mike Johnson, Ankeny, Iowa, also carned two golds in the men's 200-meter butterfly and the fly leg of the West relay.

In basketball, the South evened its record at 1-1 as South Carolina's Terry Dozier supported Reid with 17 points and Kentucky's Rex Chapman added 12 points and five assists.

"I didn't shoot well (3-for-11) in my first game," said Reid, "and I wanted to prove to the people of Houston I can play. We gave 'em their money's worth

tonight." GORDON LEADS SOUTH

DeLand High graduate and University of Tennessee sophomore-to-be Bridgette Gordon pumped in a game-high 22 points Monday as the South downed the North, 74-71, in women's basketball action.

Gordon hit 8 of 13 from the floor and 6 of 11 from the free throw line as she paved the way for the South's second victory of the Olympic Festival.

In other sports, boxing finals will be held tonight and a good crowd is expected at the Astroarena for a dozen bouts, highlighted by a 139-pound matchup between Washington's exceptionally sharp in the semifinals and Payne will have to rate right hand. Zorn Out, Dickey In At Green Bay and in a surprise move an-

Coach Forrest Gregg said a tentative agreement has been reached with Dickey, who was released as a free agent this year after requesting a 10-percent increase that would have pushed his annual salary to more than $1 million.

Dickey, who turns 37 Oct. 19, has been the Packers' main quarterback for the last 10 years. But midway through the 1985 season, he asked Gregg to bench him as starter because he was unhappy with his perforalso led to thoughts of retire-

But Gregg said Dickey has assured him he wants to play football and is willing to earn his spot in the quarterback corps. With the release of Zorn, the Packers still have veteran Robbie Bosco.

Gregg sald when no other team expressed an interest in picking up Dickey as a free agent, he approached Dickey again about 10 days ago. A financial package is being worked out for a one-year contract. Gregg sald.

Gregg said the decision to waive Zorn early was to give him a chance to join another team and had nothing to do with the negotiations with Dickey.

"When we brought him in here last year, he had a great attitude and I thought he was good for the football team. I'm sorry it didn't work out for him." Gregg said.

Zorn played nine years for the Seattle Seahawks before he was waived in the final roster reduction last year. He signed with the Packers Sept. 24, 1985, and appeared in 13 games, starting five of them as quarterback. He completed 56 of 123 passes for 794 yards, throwing four touchdowns and six intercep-

Bias Case:Tribble Surrenders To Authorities

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (UPI) - Brian Tribble, the friend of Len Bias accused of giving the basketball star the cocaine that killed him, surrendered to authorities and his lawyer quickly sought a reduction of the $250,000 bond.

Tribble, 24, turned himself in Monday, after a publicized weekend search following his indictment by the grand jury investigating the death of the University of Maryland's all-time leading scorer.

Prince George's County Sheriff James Aluisi, asked at a news conference if he knew where Tribble had been over the weekend, replied: "I asked him that this morning, he just sort of smiled. I know where he is right now."

Tribble, who has eluded both police and reporters hoping to question him in the five weeks since Bias died, is charged Basketball with possession and distribution of cocaine and of the hallucinogenic drug PCP.

He and Blas's teammates, Terry Long, 22, and David Gregg, 19, who were all with Bias in the College Park, Md. dormitory room when he collapsed June 19, were indicted Friday in connection with the cocaine-induced death.

An attorney for Tribble Monday asked for a hearing in an attempt to get a lower bond, and the hearing would likely be held Tuesday, sheriff's office Lt. Col. Art Digennaro said. Tribble was being held at the county's adult detention center.

Tribble's arraignment was set for

In a related development, WUSA-TV in Washington reported Monday that a safe of Tribble's reportedly stolen from his girlfriend's Bladensburg apartment within hours of Bias' collapse, was found by police last week in a remote wooded

The safe was empty at the time. "Sources at the court house in Upper Marlboro say they've received information now that the safe had contained two to three kilos of cocaine and about $60,000 in cash. The coke, worth at least $100,000," the CBS affiliate reported.

Citing unnamed investigators, the television station also said the robbery, in which two female occupants of the apartment were tied up and the apart-Friday, sheriff's office spokesman Irv ment ransacked, may have been staged by associates of Tribble.

Long and Gregg were reportedly indicted on charges of cocaine possession and obstruction of justice. No warrant was issued for them, and their attorney. Alan Goldstein, said they will surrender this week.

Smith said the sheriff's department had been indirectly in touch with Tribble throughout the weekend.

We began discussions with Mr. Tribble's parents and his lawyer. Tom Morrow, on Friday," Smith said. "We told his lawyer we thought it would be better if his client turned himself in.'

Smith said Morrow agreed, but Tribble was missing all weekend.

"Lawyers often have good intentions. but that doesn't mean their clients feel the same way," Smith said.

Double-Header On Tap For Football, Baseball Hall Of Fames

SAN FRANCISCO (NEA) — "It's the ultimate," says Bart Starr with feeling. "Getting elected to the Hall of Fame."

The feeling will pervade the first weekend in August when both football and baseball induct the newest class of Hall of Famers in a rare double-header. Starr's exploits as the field general for the great Green Bay Packers of the 1980s won him selection to the pro football shrine at Canton, Ohio, in 1977 (his first year of eligibility).

"It's exciting and thrilling to win a championship." Starr says. "But it's something special to be put alongside the men who have built the sport."

On Saturday, Aug. 2, Fran Tarkenton, Paul Hornung (one of Starr's Packer running mates), Ken Houston, Willie Lanier and Dock

Walker will be honored in Canton during enshrinement ceremonies that will attract a crowd of 15,000.

The next day, Sunday, Aug. 3, in Cooperstown, N.Y., Willie McCovey, Bobby Doerr and the late Ernie Lombardi (represented by his daughter) will be added to the distinguished list of greats in the baseball Hall of

The sleepy village of Cooperstown in the scenic lake country of New York state bristles with excitement during the annual inductions. They're held on the steps of the Hall of Fame library facing Cooper Park, where on Monday. Aug. 4, the Texas Rangers and the Kansas City Royals play the 1986 exhibition game.

This is the 47th annual Baseball Hall of Fame celebration, and the selection of McCovey, who hit 521 home runs during his 22-year career in the majors, confirms the national scope of the game. The lanky left-handed slugger who joined the San Francisco Giants in 1959 is only the second man fully spawned after the westward expansion of baseball to merit selection to Cooperstown. The first was his old teammate, pitcher Juan Marichal. True, pitchers Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale gained their greatest fame as Los Angeles Dodgers. But they had already reached the majors before the 1958 migration of both the Dodgers and the Giants to the West Coast. McCovey and Marichal (who was elected in 1983) were entirely San Francisco-bred heroes.

This year McCovey was the only man who received a sufficient number of the votes from the Baseball Writers Association of America to qualify for enshrinement.

Doerr, the stellar second baseman of the Boston Red Sox (1937-51), and Lombardi, the lumbering Cincinnati Reds catcher (and NL MVP in 1938) who had a lifetime batting average of .306, were both singled out by a special Committee on Baseball Veterans, which designates old-timers previously overlooked by the writers.

The Canton festivities, meanwhile, include an opening NFL exhibition game (on ABC-TV) between the New England Patriots and the St. Louis Inclusion in the class of '86 is a belated tribute to Tarkenton, the scrambler deluxe who holds virtually every major passing record and led the Minnesota Vikings to three Super Bowl losses in the 1970s. Likewise for Hornung, the colorful "Golden Boy" who was a clutch performer in Green Bay on the first winning teams of the Lombardi era.

Lanier, a devastating linebacker for the Kansas City Chiefs, and Houstop, a fine safety who began his career with the Houston Ollers, were two products of the first combined AFL-NFL draft in

This Hall of Fame induction also acknowledges the career length isn't the only criterion for pro selection. Walker, one of the most versatile backs : in the history of the game, played only six seasons for the Detroit Lions.

Sunshine State Games Record Book Rewritten

The record book was rewritten in the 1986 edition of the Sunshine State Games as 178 athletes carned Valvoline "Record Breaker" awards in 196 events in the games which were completed July 20 at Tampa.

Seminole County had its share of record breakers led by gymnast Jay Caputo who obliterated the record book for his sport. Caputo, an Altamonte Springs resident, set new standards in the men's all-around competition as well as four individual apparatuses including the parallel bars, pommel horse, rings and high bar.

Six girls from Longwood dominated the synchronized swimming competition with Patty Ames, Tia Harding and Alice Reese setting the record in the 15-16 age group trio portion and Harding and Reese in the Coutu, Jennifer Jackson and Amy Micheal swimming competition. Marion's records were part of the record-breaking team champions.

In swimming, the Longwood foursome of Manda Davis, Lisa Moon, Kristen Pauley and Kelly Wise set the record in the 15-16 age division 200 freestyle relay. Sean Keenan set three records in the boys 11-12 age group including the 200 individual medley, 50 butterfly and 100 butterfly.

From Casselberry. Marquette Smith set the long jump record for 13-14 boys and Maurice Smith established the high jump record for 10 and under boys.

Boca Raton's Cindy Marion set the most duct. In the 11-12 age division, Margaret records with six in the 10 and under were in the 50 butterfly, 50 backstroke, 100 breaststroke, 100 backstroke, 100 butterfly and 200 individual medley.

After Caputo's five records. Lakeland's Wilbur Ott was next in line with four records in the men's 70 and over masters division in track and field. The Valvoline "Record Breakers" came from 58 Florida cities with Miami having 40 winners to lead the way.

Crenshaw Looks Ahead After Buick Win

GRAND BLANC, Mich. (UPI) - Ben Crenshaw is just happy to be playing good

"I'm going to play the next four in a row." Crenshaw said before heading for the Western Open this week and the PGA the next. "I want to play well. I feel I have some good golf in me the rest of the year."

turing the Buick Open by a stroke over Doug Austin, Texas, golfer said. Tewell and J.C. Snead.

"It feels so good to win," Crenshaw said. "I have not been in a position to win for some time. At the U.S. Open I was in contention going into the last day and through the seventh hole of the last round but I just didn't have it.

"I felt this past week I could keep most of it together. This win means a tremendous amount to me.

Crenshaw opened with a 69 at Warwick Hills and improved to 67 and 66 before closing with a 68 for an 18-under 270. No doubt about it, his comeback is for real.

There remains little to be accomplished in

On Sunday, the 35-year-old from Marco Island, Fla., became the first three-time winner of the Classic, having also won in 1982 and 1985, and the first to win back-to-back titles.

Earlier in the year the LPGA's all-time leading money winner became the tour's first player to earn more than $2 million. She added $52,500 to that total Sunday. bringing her season earnings to $379,469, tops on the circut.

This year Bradley has captured four tournaments, including three of the four majors - Dinah Shore, LPGA Champtonship and du Maurier. She just missed becoming the first woman to win the Grand Slam when she finished tied for fifth at the U.S. Open.

"I have a lot more tournaments left this year and I think my name will be at the top of one or two of them," Bradley said. "I'm also trying very hard to become Player of the Year.'

What won't escape Bradley much longer is her place in the LPGA Hall of Fame, which now houses only 10 members. Oddly, Bradley has yet to meet the requirements.

Jenco Flies To Rome Today For Audience With Pope

WIESBADEN, West Germany (UPI) - The Rev. Lawrence Jenco, reunited with his family after being held hostage in Lebanon for nearly 19 months, will fly to Rome for an audience with Pope John Paul II, a U.S. Air Force spokesman said today.

Jenco, accompanied by 10 relatives who flew from the United States Monday to meet him at a U.S. hospital in Wieshaden, was to leave today for Rome from the Rhein-Main Air Force Base near Frankfurt at 10 a.m. EDT, the spokesman said.

The pope telephoned Jenco, who was head of Catholic relief services in Lebanon, on Sunday after he arrived from Damascus, Syria, for a physical examination at the hospital in Wiesbaden, 12 miles southwest of Frankfurt.

Jenco, 51, was released in Lebanon Saturday by his captors, the pro-Iranian Islamic Jihad movement, and taken to the Damascus home of American Ambassador William Engleton.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) - British Foreign Secretary Sir Geoffrey Howe, preparing for a final round of talks today with President Pieter Botha, told reporters only courageous action by Pretoda can stave off Western sarcilons.

Howe said Monday Botha's government must acknowledge "just how far they have moved away from the rest of the world and how important it is for them to make the major move to engage in dialogue with the black leaders of South Africa."

He has urged the release of jailed African National Congress leader Nelson Mandela and other imprisoned political figures, and legalization of the outlawed ANC and Pan Africanist Congress. The government sees them as communist-led terrorist organizations.

Second Beirut Bombing Kills 13

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — A car bomb exploded today in a crowded market in mainly Moslem west Beirut killing at least 13 people and injuring more than 150, a day after a blast in east Beirut killed more than 30, police said.

In the Shouf mountains southeast of Beirut, Israeli warplanes broke the sound barrier in mock air strikes on suspected Palestinian targets, police sources said. Sources earlier had said the jets bombed the

The police sources said a Volkswagen car packed with 160 pounds of TNT exploded at 11 a.m. in west Beirut's Barbir market place, which was crowded with pedestrians, shoppers and taxi drivers.

At least 13 people were killed in the explosion that tore a crater 2 feet deep and 3 feet wide, police said. Eight mutilated bodies and 61 wounded people were transported to the nearby Makassed hospital, while some 80 dead or wounded were taken to the American University hospital of Beirut, police said.

The planes broke the sound barrier and flew mock air raids over suspected Palestinian targets in the hills, police and Druze sources said.

They said the planes had not bombarded the Palestinian guerrilla bases.

The car-bomb explosion came 24 hours after a similar explosion in Christian east Beirut killed more than 30 people and wounded 120.

The bomb, 440 pounds of TNT packed in a car, ripped through a residential street during the Monday morning rush hour as workers were traveling to their jobs and housewives were shopping.

Police said at least 32 people were killed and 120 wounded by the blast - the deadliest car-bomb attack in Lebanon in 14 months. One hundred of the injured were hospitalized. The others were released after treatment for slight injuries.

Firemen, civil defense units and ambulances removed victims trapped under the rubble of a six-story building and put out fires in at least seven buildings.

Christian and Moslem leaders condemned the bombing, expressing shock and disgust.

Smith focused his concerns on possible impacts from pollution and drainage, to which Commissioner John Mercer responded it was "the commission's responsibility to make sure the interests of adjacent property owners are protected at the time of development, through comprehensive review of construction proposals."

The statement was echoed by City Manager Frank Faison, who said "it would be premature to Williams immediately made a try and extract development city will make sure all requirements are met when proposed projects come before us for site

Boyfriend's Suicide Threats Make Breaking Up Hard To Do

DEAR ABBY: Please help me. I am a 16-year-old girl who has been dating a guy (my age) for two months. Last night we were talking on the phone, and I said I thought we'd better not see each other for a while, mostly because my parents are going through a painful divorce and I needed more time to myself. Well, he totally overreacted. He said, "Wait a minute," then he came back to the phone and said, "I have a handgun in my hand right now, and if you don't love me enough to keep on seeing me, I have nothing to live for. Goodbye." Then.I heard a shot, and a noise like a loud thud him falling.

I was so shocked, I fainted. When I came to, he was telling me he was OK, he didn't really kill himself, but he really would if I ever brought up the subject of breaking up with him again. Right now I am so mad at him for frightening me like that and making me faint, I really don't 17 and will be a senior in high want to keep going with him, but now I'm afraid he might go through with it and kill himself.

Abby, I want to get out of this relationship, but I don't want him to commit suicide, and I'm afraid he is crazy enough to do it. What should I do? NEEDING HELP

DEAR NEEDING: Tell him that you refuse to accept responsibility for his life - that he and he alone is responsible for his own actions. And if he is considering suicide, he should get professional help from the suicide prevention hotline or his local mental health facility. Let him know that you refuse to be emotionally blackmailed. If your parents don't know about this boy's behavior, tell them. They may want to advise his parents. He's bad news. Keep your dis-

Please, Dear Abby, write a two-page letter for me. I will gladly pay you for your time.

Please, please don't advise me to write the letter myself. I am never. not a very open person, and a letter writer I am not!

You may bill me for your time. Whatever the amount, it will be worth it. Thank you.

UNEXPRESSIVE MOTHER DEAR MOTHER: A single sentence written in your own words, straight from your heart, will be far more meaningful than two pages filled with fancy phrases composed by a stranger. Sincerity is eloquence at its best.

DEAR ABBY: Your reply to "Fat and Seesy" was unacceptable. She asked you what to say to a stranger who walks up to an overweight woman and says. "My but you have a pretty face."
You replied, "Say, 'Thank you.""

Thank an insensitive stranger for minding your own business by suggesting that although your face is pretty, the rest of you leaves a lot to be desired? Never

I can't tell you how many times friends, relatives — and strangers - have come up to me with a comment like this: "You would be beautiful if you'd just lose a little weight." They feel it's their job to startle me with this wonderful revelation. After having told me that they actually think I am ugly, they pause, obviously expecting thanks for the insult.

Well, the day I thank them for making me feel lousy about myself will be the day after

You may sign me with the reply I would like to make to such people.

The A-line skirt was caught to a bustle in the back which cascaded into a lace chapel train trimmed with lace ruffles and satin ribbons. Her headplece was a Victorian hat and three-quarter length veil adorned with Wedgewood lace, Venise lace, chiffonet and satin ribbon. O'Neill Indicates 3rd Rate Needed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With tax reform negotiators facing problems that could make it hard to keep the low tax rates demanded by President Reagan and the Senate, House Speaker Thomas O'Neill Monday said a final bill must include a third tax bracket.

Members of the House-Senate conference committee trying to write a compromise tax reform bill have said that, at least initially, they do not want to exceed the 15 percent and 27 percent individual tax rates included in the Senate bill.

However, new revenue estimates have shown that the Senate measure, instead of being "revenue-neutral," would add to the federal deficit.

In a closed session of the conference Saturday, House members insisted that before negotiations proceeded the Senate had to fix its bill.

Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-III., head of the House team, said that, since they had tentatively agreed to try not to exceed the Senate's tax rates. the Senate should swallow some of the tough business provisions in the House bill.

But the senators balked and instead developed a package of 16 items they said would drop about $25.9 billion of tax breaks in their plan. House members denounced the package as too easy on corporations.

As a result, there is new speculation that the conferees will not be able to keep within the low rate schedule established by the Senate bill.

O'Nelll, D-Mass., Monday added fuel to that fire. telling reporters another tax bracket should be added to the Senate measure. "I think we have to have a third rate," O'Neill said.

The House and Senate bills would limit tax deductions in exchange for lower rates. But the Senate plan is more sweeping, mostly because it would establish only two individual tax rates of 15 percent and 27 percent. The House measure has four tax brackets, with a top rate of 38

Lawmakers trying to mold a compromise bill have been predicting the conference will inevitably produce one acceptable to both chambers of Congress for submission to the president.

They said that is still the case but note a new problem has arisen because of recent projections that showed the Senate bill, endorsed by Reagan, is not "revenue neutral" as the president has demanded.

Rather, the Senate bill would worsen the deficit by $21.2 billion in the next five years.

At the same time, the senators also decided they needed to change their bill to raise about $5 billion and use that money to provide more help to the middle class.

The net result of the weekend's bargaining was that the two sides could not find an acceptable way to get back to the negotiating table to begin work on the major tax reform questions facing

It also became clear that there is very little room for the lawmakers to maneuver without raising tax rates beyond the Senate level or increasing business taxes more than the upper chamber wants.

Several senators said Saturday that the $25.9 billion package virtually dried up all sources of money outside of higher rates or greater business

The leader of the Senate team, Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., said he believed about $5 billion of that money could go in part to restoring individual retirement account deductions, which would largely be eliminated by the Senate bill.

Grace Found Responsible For Well Contaminations

By Ken Cafarell

BOSTON (UPI) - A federal jury Monday found W.R. Grace & Co. responsible for contaminating two public wells in Woburn, Mass., that may have caused the six leukemia deaths but dropped Beatrice Cos. from the suit.

The six-member jury, which had heard evidence for five months, found co-defendant Beatrice free of liability.

The jury had deliberated since July 15 in a suit filed on behalf of six people - five of them children - who died from leukemia in Woburn. which has been found to have an abnormally high incidence of cancer.

The plaintiffs also charged that "solvent poisoning" has caused heart and neurological disorders in other Woburn children.

The claimants argued the leukemia had been caused by toxic chemicals released from Grace's Cryovac packaging machinery division, located about a half-mile from two contaminated municipal wells. Chicago-based Beatrice was included in the suit because from 1979 to 1983 it owned a tannery that was also a suspected source of the well contamination.

A second phase of the trial will determine whether the chemicals actually caused the leukemia. If the leukemia were linked to the chemicals, a third phase would determine the amount of damages to be awarded. Judge Walter Jay Skinner set Sept. 1 as the date for the start of the second phase of the trial. The families made their case over the course of a five-month trial that pitted health and environmental experts against each other. If

Grace is found guilty, experts said it could set a precedent for hundreds of other similar cases nationwide. The jury of three men and three women unanimously agreed Grace was responsible for the release of trichloroethylene and tetrachloroethylene, both of which are suspected cancer causing agents, and that the company was negligent in causing the leaks after Oct. 1, 1964. Current and former employees at the Cryovac plant testified that they poured chemical solvents into a drainage ditch behind the plant and into a pit a half-mile from the wells.

The jurors said the earliest date at which a "substantial contribution" to the contamination of Wells G and H could have been made by the release of trichloroethylene was September 1973. But it could not determine a similar date for the release of tetrachloroethylene.

Grace was cleared of responsibility for the release of another suspected carcinogen, 1.2 transdichloroethylene.

The suit claimed that chemicals seeped onto the wells during the 1960s and 1970s. The wells, contaminated with trichloroethylene and other industrial solvents, were closed in 1979.

Taxbusting Is Habit Forming

By Rebecca LaVally

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Critics complain that Howard Jarvis and Paul Gann, aging crusaders who have made careers of putting controversial initiatives on the California ballot, are motivated at least partly by downright orneriness.

The brash Jarvis and the milder Gann became nationally known gadflies when they teamed up in 1978 to promote Proposition 13, the historic measure that slashed property taxes and forced governments to make wide service cuts.

Since then they have waged separate, and often successful, battles against the political establishment.

This year they're at it again — Gann with an initiative to cut the salaries of high-paid state workers, including the governor of the nation's largest state and the president of the prestigious University of California, and Jarvis with a measure to prevent cities from raising taxes without two-thirds voter approval.

Jarvis, 83, and Gann, 74, insist their chief motive is to protect the public from politicians and high-paid civil servants who otherwise would amass and dole out taxpayers' money unchecked.

They arguably have been responsible for more legal and state constitutional changes than any Californian since reformist Gov. Hiram Johnson helped enact the initiative process earlier this century. "Thank God for Hiram Johnson," said Gann, who has appeared somewhat frail since heart surgery four years ago. in an interview in the office of his People's Advocate organization. "I would have been his buddy.

"I have never claimed to be anything except what I am, and that is a person who loves this country and loves this state." he said. "I love people and that's why I work so hard for them. I put my whole soul and mind and body into it because I feel it's right."

Neither man has ever held elective office. Gann ran against Democratic Sen. Alan Cranston in 1980 and lost.

"I've been offered jobs in politics and government at all levels and I never took any of them. I don't like the air." Jarvis says.

Jarvis, known for his penchant for verbal combat, says he has not toned down his fighting style despite several hospital stays for spicen troubles.

"A lot of people can't stand the truth so they think I'm beiligerent. I'm tough as hell." he said.

Their measures on the November ballot represent the fourth initiative battle for each man since passage of Proposition 13, which rolled back property assessments, set the tax rate at 1 percent and clamped a 2 percent limit on assessment hikes until property is sold.

Proposition 13, its passage spurred by a multibillion-dollar state budget surplus, has saved taxpayers lots of money. But it also has taken $7 billion or more annually from schools and local government services, including police protection and libraries.

Jarvis lost efforts in 1980 to halve the state income tax and in 1984 to strengthen courtweakened provisions of Proposition 13, but he won a 1982 campaign to link income tax brackets

Gann won voter approval for a 1979 initiative to limit government spending. His crime-lighting "Victim's Bill of Rights" was approved in 1982 but is undergoing court refinements. Voters in 1984 passed his curb on legislative spending, but It was thrown out by the courts.

Republican Assemblyman Robert Naylor, former GOP leader of the lower house, says Gann and Jarvis have mastered the art of seizing popular political issues.

Although both Jarvis and Gann are folksy. down-home figures," he says, "they are very clever in finding issues that meet a perceived public need. They sense the public mood in concert with their own criticisms of state government." But critics charge that the Jarvis and Gann initiatives have been sloppily drafted nightmares that take a lot of time and money to fight and invariably wind up in the courts. "People have to waste resources campaigning against these poorly written and bad government proposals they keep putting on the ballot," says Steve Barrow, a lobbyist for California Common Cause. "It takes years for the courts to figure out what the heck they're talking about."

Others say the two men are most interested in parylaying their clout into organizations that generate publicity and revenue for themselves. and that they sometimes seem confused about the precise effects of their own proposal.

"Once they became national celebrities, all the factors that motivate celebrities certainly come into play," GOP political consultant Sal Russo says of the two men. "But to try to dismiss Jarvis and Gann as two publicity hounds out to make money would be wrong. "They've picked issues that will make the average guy, someone talking in a living room. hot around the collar."

Candy Business Sweeter Than Ever

ST. LOUIS (UPI) - Despite the current craze for fitness and health foods and all the warnings from dentists, doctors and mothers. Americans are consuming more candy and confections than ever

That's the word from candy manufacturers who attended a recent convention of the National Candy Wholesalers Assoc.

Government estimates indicate candy sales may reach 21 pounds per capita this year, compared with a previous high of 20.5 pounds in 1945. Per capita consumption in 1985 reached the 20-pound mark, a six percent increase over

"I think the confectionery business is healthier than it's been in a long time," said Whit Hill, trade relations director for M & M Mars Inc.

The industry's health reflects the consumer's changing perception of the nutritional value of its products, Hill said.

"People now are seeing confectioneries as a food item, as a snack item," he said. "The perception is that it is an item that is part of a good overall diet." Although candy has come in for a lot of criticism from the health profession in recent years. Hill said new evidence is changing the minds of many in the field.

Shuttle Probe Ends; Last Recorded Words Show Some Of Crew May Have Realized Trouble

By Jan Elegier UPI Beleace Writer WASHINGTON (UPI) -NASA has closed its investigation of the Challenger disaster with the startling disclosure that, although it remains uncertain exactly how the crew died, the astronauts may have been alive during the craft's fearsome drop to the ocean.

Evidence from the explosion Jan. 28 indicated at least some of the astronauts knew something had gone seriously wrong, and that three emergency air supplies were activated in a futile bid for life. the space agency said Monday.

"Uh oh..." were the ominous words heard at the moment of the explosion, NASA announced at a news conference six months to the day after Challenger's flaming demise.

The space agency, announcing results of its investigation, said the cause of death of the Challenger Seven cannot be positively determined and that, except for some remaining administrative details, the matter was closed.

"In all effects. I think it's over," said Rear Adm. Richard Truly, chief of the shuttle program.

The space agency released transcripts of intercom recordings made of crew conversations during launch and as expected, the conversations show the astronauts were unaware of their impending doom until the moment of the explosion, 73 seconds after blastoff, when co-pilot Michael Smith made the two-word exclamation. The recorder stopped at that point.

Truly revealed the results of an analysis conducted by Joseph Kerwin, a former astronaut and director of life sciences at the Johnson Space Center in Houston.

conclusive," Kerwin said. he said. The impact of the crew compartment with the ocean surface was so violent that evidence of damage occurring in the seconds which followed the explosion was masked. Our final conclusions are:

"The cause of death of the Challenger astronauts cannot be positively determined; the forces to which the crew were exposed during orbiter breakup were probably not sufficient to cause death or injury, and the crew possibly, but not certainly, lost consciousness in the seconds following orbiter breakup due to in-flight loss of crew module pressure."

But he said without an oxygen supply at such extreme altitudes, loss of cabin pressure would have caused quick loss of consciousness anyway and the activation of the emergency oxygen could have been an "instinctive" response to decompression.

Tracking cameras showed the nose of the shuttle, with the crew module inside. emerged relatively intact from the fireball, shooting up to about 65,000 feet during the next 25 seconds before arching back toward the Atlantic Ocean.

The debate over the fate of the crew hinges on the forces they experienced as the nose section ripped away in a supersonic tumble and how fast the cabin may have decompressed in the thin atmosphere 9 miles up. Determining the magnitude of that force depended on careful analysis of wreckage and photography of the conflagration. The cabin smashed into the water on its left side at about 207 mph, disintegrating on impact. 2 minutes and 45 seconds after the explosion. Kerwin said the separation of the crew compartment probably subjected the astronauts to a force ranging from 12 times to 20 times the force of gravity.
