

Efforts Of OPA Officials Praised By District Head

JACKSONVILLE, Jan. 15. (Special)—Seminole Countians who began their fifth year of service on OPA Price Control Boards this month were lauded today by OPA District Director Roy M. Coffey for their work in the past year.

Board members who gave so untiringly of their time and energy to the rationing of scarce commodities are the people who made price and rationing programs a fine example of American Democracy," Coffey asserted.

OPA continues to need the assistance of unpaid volunteers on local boards to meet the tremendous inflationary threat that is many times greater now than it was after World War I, Coffey said.

Reviewing the history of the organization of local boards, he related that immediately following Pearl Harbor, each government was asked to set up an organization to ration tires in his state by January 6, 1942.

Less than one month after the war began, he continued, approximately 7,500 local rationing boards, manned by 20,000 volunteer workers, were receiving applications and issuing ration certificates for tires.

This original army of 20,000 volunteers soon increased to 76,000 and another 200,000 men and women volunteered to assist the local boards, regularly, he said.

These volunteers—merchants, bankers, factory workers, doctors, housewives, high school boys and girls, teachers, office workers, and farmers—gave a specified amount of their time on a regular weekly schedule.

With everything but sugar now off the rationing list, OPA has changed the official name of its local organizations to Area Price Control Boards, Coffey explained.

Coffey stressed that while goods are scarce and in great demand these Price Control Boards will need the support of the volunteers who worked so efficiently on price control during the war.

SURPLUS GOODS
To pass on the benefits of low priced sales of government surplus property to consumers, OPA officials from the national, regional, and district offices met in Jacksonville this week to map out a program of effective price control on these commodities.

Conferences are being held with government disposal and owners agencies to determine the most effective methods of maintaining price controls on sales of surplus goods, he added. Price Controls already exist on most surplus items.

Chinese Factions Claim Each Other Violating Truce

CHUNGKING, Jan. 15. (AP)—The Chinese Nationalists and Communists renewed charges yesterday that each was violating the truce in their undeclared civil war. Hostilities were supposed to have ceased last midnight.

A government spokesman asserted today that Communists today increased their operations instead of observing the "cease fire order."

The Communists were accused by the government spokesman of burning villages all along the eastern section of the Lunghai railway.

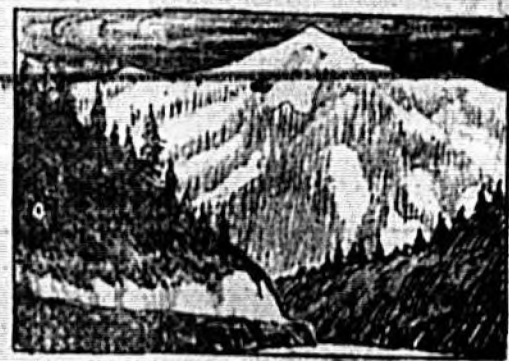

The Chinese Communists issued counter-charges and maintained Generalissimo Chiang Kai Shek's troops also were continuing operations.

However, there was hope the situation was not as serious as it appeared, Chungking observers said. It was likely some of the troops in the field might not have received truce instructions as yet.

Meanwhile, a dispatch from Associated Press correspondent Richard Cushing in Shanghai said Chinese students demonstrated in the streets today against the presence of American troops in China. The dispatch said the students shouted to American troops "Why don't you go home?" and voiced demands for the establishment of a democratic China and the withdrawal of all American forces.

Student leaders asserted the Shanghai demonstration was part of a nationwide movement.

Famed Indian Jim Thorpe Was Also Good Blacksmith

AP Newfeatures
CARLISLE, Pa.—Indian Jim Thorpe, whose athletic prowess is still a favorite topic of discussion where ever sports followers gather, was also a good blacksmith.

Authority is William C. Shambaugh, 72-year-old blacksmith at the Army's medical field service school at Carlisle.

Standing in his basement shop where he has pounded out his steel chorus for 39 years, Shambaugh told of his experiences as instructor at the one-time Carlisle Indian school.

The Indian school was closed in 1918 and many of its structures are now being used by the Army.

"I had 800 Indians under me while I was instructor at the school for eleven and a half years," says the wiry blacksmith. "They all did fine. I only had to send three to the guardhouse in all that time."

Shambaugh doesn't single Thorpe out as any wizard with blacksmith tools. He just mentions that Thorpe, like the other Indian students, was "a good blacksmith."

"I could look right out here and see the Indians—Thorpe, Mount Pleasant and Mike Balenti were among them—playing on their fields. These stands were just wooden seats then."

Shambaugh looks younger than his 72 years.

Fact-Finding Plan Used In Puerto Rico Since 1942

WASHINGTON—A plan like President Truman's proposal to appoint fact-finding boards in industrial strife is already operating under the American flag in Puerto Rico.

According to Rexford Tugwell, governor of the island, it works "very well."

The plan was put into practice in 1942 under the sponsorship of Tugwell and the Popular Democratic party as a means of checking wide-scale labor-management disputes over wages and working conditions. It is based on:

1. A Minimum Wage Board composed of five members—two representing labor, two management and one the public—to investigate labor troubles and establish minimum wages in accordance with industrial and regional requirements. Not all industries and all areas have the same type of wages.

2. A Labor Relations Board to negotiate on a voluntary basis between labor and management.

Board's Decree Final
This is how the set-up operates: Labor demands higher wages and sits down to negotiate with management. In the event bargaining fails, a strike is the next step.

The government, through its minimum wage board, offers its cooperation. The parties submit their case to investigation by the board.

A committee of experts including representatives of labor and management is appointed. It surveys the conditions of the industry involved and the workers' living standard, living cost etc.

If the fact-finding survey reveals that wages can be increased, the board so decrees. The order has the weight of law.

A clause in the act which created the board gives it power to make any wage increase retroactive to that day on which the union involved called off a strike to submit the case to investigation.

The Labor Relations Board has special jurisdiction over industries which are called public utilities—electric power, transportation, communications, hospitals etc. It is empowered on all questions including wages.

In the case of an industry which has not been investigated by the Minimum Wage Board, a survey is made and wage rates established. If this has been done previously, the Labor Relations Board arbitrates and issues an opinion.

A rejection of this opinion by labor or management is not possible because prior to arbitration both parties have agreed to accept the board's final decision.

Strike Tested Plan
The plan had its first real test during an island-wide sugar workers' strike in 1942. That strike threatened to ruin many small farmers just as they began their harvesting season.

The strike was called, and the matter was turned over to the Minimum Wage Board. After a six-month fact-finding survey, wages were increased by about half of what workers were demanding but retroactive to the day they called off their strike.

At the beginning labor unions opposed the government scheme and Tugwell, calling the chief executive a reactionary, now labor as well as management have praised the set-up and commended its sponsors.

At a recent conference with President Truman, Governor Tugwell told Mr. Truman briefly of the similarity between his proposal and what has been in operation in Puerto Rico for some time.

Emerging from the White House, Tugwell said: "If it has worked in Puerto Rico I do not see why it should not work here."

Kimmel Threatened Upon Return To U.S.

Asked Navy Department To Do Nothing Further To Inflammate Public Against Him

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Rear Admiral Husband Kimmel told the Pearl Harbor committee today that he was threatened with death when he returned to United States. The pre-Pearl Harbor Navy Commander testified he received threatening letters on his arrival after the Jap assault on Hawaii. Kimmel handed the committee the copy of a letter he wrote to Admiral Harold Stark when Stark was Chief of Naval Operations. Dated Feb. 22, 1942, the letter protested: "In all justice" the (Navy) department should do nothing further to inflame the public against me."

It goes on to declare: "My conviction before the public has not been reached. I am in daily receipt of letters from irresponsible people over the country taking me to task and even threatening to kill me." Kimmel's letter was produced as a committee counsel with Richardson questioned him about the circumstances surrounding his retirement.

Chatfield says he is convinced that no more victims will be found. One hundred and fifty-three miners escaped alive.

George Barr Is Main Speaker At Kiwanis Meeting

Says 97 Percent Of Decisions In Big Leagues Correct

At least 97 percent of the decisions of umpires in big league games are correct, George Barr, who for 15 years was a National League umpire, and who is now conducting for the third season in Orlando the only school for umpire training in the world, told Kiwanians at the Hotel Mayfair today. He was introduced by Dick McLaulin and Joel Field. Barr, who prior to being called to the umpire back of the Western Association and Texas Leagues, started his unique school for umpires about nine years ago, said Dick McLaulin, who himself is a former Florida State League umpire.

A judge in making a decision, can take two to three weeks, but an umpire in a great game must make his decision right now," said Barr and added that during a ball game an umpire back of the plate has to make between 300 and 350 decisions to a game. He stated that he had 47 men taking umpire training at the present time in his school, many of them ex-service men under provisions of the G. I. Bill of Rights. Many have their wives and families with them. He added that he had received inquiries about the school from China, Mexico, Japan, Cuba and other countries. An article in Collier's magazine recently described the school, and Life Magazine is sending writers and photographers to Orlando soon for an article, he added.

Voting Costs Kansas Woman Citizenship

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Casting a ballot has cost a former Leavenworth, Kan., woman her American citizenship. She voted in a British election last summer. Mrs. J. L. Fraser's attorney, F. C. Bannon of Leavenworth, has appealed to Representative Albert Cole for help restoring her citizenship. The Kansas answer was that nothing can be done by government agencies because of the loss of Nationality of the Act of 1940. The only thing possible apparently is for Congress to amend the law, and then perhaps the woman who married a Scotsman in Leavenworth and went to Scotland with him can have her American citizenship restored.

Suspect In Beer Garden Robbery Is Captured After Chase By Police

At 12:33 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Mary Alexander, proprietress of the Sanford Avenue Beer Garden, reported that her cash register had been robbed. One half hour later, William Hamilton, negro, was arrested by Police Chief Roy Williams and charged with the theft. The arrest followed a chase in which Chief Williams circled many blocks in his car in pursuit of the fleeing negro. According to Chief Williams, Hamilton, who has a convict record, was seen by Nathan Jackson, a negro boy of about 14 years of age, scoping handpuffs of cash out of the cash register at a time Mrs. Alexander's attention was diverted elsewhere. Chief Williams was summoned, arrived at the store and took the Jackson boy along with him in his car in order to identify Hamilton, who had been reported by the boy to have fled toward Fifth Street.

Sugar Producers Claim Production Could Be Hiked

CLEWISTON, Jan. 16, (FNS)—To aid a sugar-short nation, Everglades sugar producers could increase present production approximately five times if the threat of sugar quotas by the government were removed, Joseph Ferris, Jr., assistant to the president of the United States Sugar Corp., today told members of the Coral Gables Breakfast Club.

"If given the opportunity by the government, Everglades sugar producers would increase their output to half a million tons and provide employment, directly and indirectly, for 75,000 persons," he said.

"True, the quota section of the Sugar Act was temporarily suspended by decree of the late President Roosevelt," he said, "but by the same token, quotas could be reinstated at the will of the Chief Executive."

While domestic sugar producers and farmers generally have taken a new lease on life since the appointment of very capable and successful farmer Clinton P. Anderson, Secretary of Agriculture, Everglades cane growers believe it would be poor business to spend large sums of money for new cane plantings until the government gives definite assurance that never again will Florida farmers be forced to plow under growing sugar cane crops to avoid the drastic penalties of the existing Sugar Act, Ferris declared.

Ferris described the Everglades as Florida's most valuable natural resources, and pointed out that the Everglades are helping the nation to meet shortages of such items as sugar, starch, cattlefeed, and essential oils, all of which are being produced there by the United States Sugar Corp., along with the new wonder plant, ramie, of carpet grass seed for the plantings.

Kemp, commanding officer of the Regular Army Recruiting Station in Orlando. As of last December, the strength of the Regular Army stands at 334,223 voluntary enlistments. The Fourth Service Command at Atlanta, which includes Florida, Georgia, South Carolina, North Carolina, Alabama, Tennessee, and Mississippi, is leading all service commands in the United States as well as all overseas theaters in the number of Regular Army enlistments, having enlisted over 17 percent of the total figure.

Power Company Has 100 Percent Increase In Users

(Continued from Page One) West First Street had a capacity of 1950 KW and was completely overhauled to render improved service. Then in the Fall of 1926 the distribution system was interconnected with the present 66,000 volt transmission system and soon after that time the old plant was shut down and held in reserve for standby operations.

In 1926 the present ornamental white way system was installed by the City of Sanford and consisted of approximately 469 units. Six miles of 2300 volt single phase line was constructed in June, 1926 to serve Osteen, which now has 52 customers. In 1927 service was extended 10 miles to Geneva to serve 25 families, and today 70 customers are served. Chulivota's 11 customers were then served and now there are 26.

The company has had four managers in Sanford during the past 20 years. Clyde Byrd, served first as manager of Southern Utilities (1923) then of Florida Power and Light Company until 1932, when H. H. Coleman came to Sanford from Cocoa and he has remained as manager except for a two and a half year term of duty in the Navy. During that period Alan B. Wright, and Charles H. Cole served as managers here.

On Jan. 23, 1928, the citizens of Sanford granted the company a 20 year franchise.

Young Chileans Overdoing Physical Culture Program

By JOSE M. GODOY
SANTIAGO, Chile—Young Chileans are outdoing themselves these days in a sustained program of physical culture in search of the coveted government insignia procuring them "physical apt."

Things will soon reach the point, says the program's enthusiastic sponsors, where a young blade won't have a chance with his sweetie if he can't produce the badge across his sweater front or in the lapel of his Sunday coat denoting him a genuine government approved all-round Chilean athlete.

The other lads, says the Director of Information and Culture, just want to be in the running when it comes to getting a girl for the Plaza promenade.

It all started with the DIC's program of a "sound mind in a sound body" as it got about to prove that the progress of a people has always depended on the physical, intellectual and moral capacity of its members. History, says the DIC, shows decadence or growth in direct relation to these attributes.

The DIC hit upon the idea of an insignia to give government recognition to those demonstrating physical conditions compatible with a health worthy to be admired. It's patriotic, says the DIC, to keep your health in order so as to serve Chile.

The list of minimum requirements to win the insignia are guaranteed to start any youth on his way to decaathlon honors. Briefly he must: run 100 meters in 16 seconds, swim fifty meters in a minute or pedal a bicycle 1000 meters by bicycle in an hour, 8000 meter walk in fifty minutes or an 800 meter swim in half an hour.

If you're getting tired, don't go on as there's no rest in the next test. Clashed under the heading of "elasticity" it includes a 1.25 meter high jump, 4.50 meter high jump, or the 2.50 pole vault. After that the body muscles come in for some flexing as the candidate tries his "force" in throwing a 7.257 kilogram shot eight meters, a two kilo disc 27 meters or a javelin 33 meters.

As the clincher there's a competition listed simply as "various" demanding either 400 meters in 1:10, 1000 meters in a rowing 1000 meters in a minute, a 60 kilo weight lift, a score of sixty out of a 100 with rifle at 150 meters or an obstacle course on horseback clearing eight out of eight 1.20 meter high barriers.

Physical culture, says the DIC, "not only strengthens the body but enables greater efforts by the individual in his daily work, forming at the same time individual habits of discipline and companionship indispensable to one's social well-being." In short, says the DIC, it makes for a better race.

The DIC was established during the administration of the late President Pedro Aguirre Cerda and has been gaining impetus ever since. Chilean athletic societies

McCarthy To Face Many Problems At St. Petersburg

By FRANK POK
NEW YORK—When the New York Yankees reach their Florida spring training camp at St. Petersburg and Bradenton, Manager Joe McCarthy will face some perplexing problems that at any time in his career. His most difficult job will be to find the Yankee first baseman for 1946. Five first basemen will report.

The incumbent, Nick Etten will turn up at Bradenton, Fla. with the rest of the returning Yankees. Coach Johnny Sain or Bill Meyer, Kansas City manager, will be in charge of that group of Yankees—players who have been with the Yankees during the past few years and whose talents are known to Manager Joe.

The Yankee manager will be at St. Pete to look over service refusers and rookies. Four first basemen are included in the group that will work out under the big boss. They are Buddy Hassett of the 1942 team, Johnny Sturm, first baseman in 1941, and rookies Walter Nowak and Steve Souchock. Etten, of course, is the man they have to beat out for Nick after hitting only 271 in 1945. Come back with 229 the following year and led the American League in homers with 22. Last season he hit 265. He's a veteran of seven major league campaigns and is 34 years old.

Hassett, after a veteran of seven league seasons, is 31 but feels he has a couple of good seasons left. Buddy, it was rumored, turned down a chance to manage the Yankee farm team at Binghamton, N. Y., for another thing in the majors.

The popular Hassett last played with the Yankees in 1942, hitting 284 but bowing out when he broke a thumb in the World Series with the Cardinals. It was the chance he looked forward to since his Manhattan College days. Hassett's batting average of .292 is considered with Etten's .282.

Johnny Sturm, Yankee regular first baseman in 1941 when he hit manager 239, is back from the Army and will get the opportunity as prescribed by baseball law. McCarthy will scrutinize the holding and hitting of two other first basemen, both of whom he has never seen. They are Walter Nowak, 29-year-old star who batted .334 and drove home 80 runs in 116 games with Kansas City last season, and Steve Souchock, 27-year-old Army dischargee who last played organized ball in 1942 when his .315 batting average with Binghamton led the Eastern League in hitting. Nowak also played 22 games with Newark last year, hitting .287 during his short stay in the International League.

McCarthy admits his first big problem demands much attention, possibly more than the Joe Gordon-George Strinweis argument at second base.

By the first year of the 15th century there were more than two hundred presses at work in Venice.

Presbyterian Church Buys Health Bond

A $25 Health Bond has been purchased by the First Presbyterian Church as an expression of endorsement of the work of the Seminole County Health and Tuberculosis Association, according to Mrs. Edward Kircher, secretary.

She added that the Association is still receiving funds from the Christmas effort, and wishes to thank those who have donated, and urged all who had not donated to do so at once.

"The extent of our ability to serve depends on the amount of funds furnished by the community," she said.

have adopted the DIC's plan of training and are pointing their members toward proficiency in the events listed.

Plain citizens, moved by patriotic or other impulses, are also trying to become "physically apt" with the encouragement of the DIC. Several hundred have already won their badges and other hundreds are in training.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

IF WE ARE LIKE THE SHEEP OF HIS PASTURE GOD WILL LEAD US SAFELY. IT IS WHEN WE IMAGINE THAT WE KNOW MORE THAN GOD THAT WE GO ASTRAY. The Lord preserveth the simple. Psalm 116:6.

Moon-Trap

(From The Lyric) From sickle to full shield The gold moon goes As the planet turns, pleasuring My friends, my foes. My foe, if you should lift Your heart to this fire You should be my true friend, My soul's desire. My friend when moonflame Spills on you and me We are washed in heaven As we shall ever be. VERNE BRIGHT.

Dorothy Thompson is lecturing in Tampa today and will wander the town will never be the same again.

The trouble about trying to hold prices down while you raise wages up is that you get a depreciated product not worth owning.

Real estate activity is picking up in Sanford where people are beginning to realize that you can't build new houses without lots to build them on. Whose building any houses? Well, no body right now, but they will. The thinking man prepares for the future by buying his lot now.

"Let's see, who was it who first offered this communitarian suggestion? He that hath two coats, let him impart to him that hath none; and he that hath meat, let him do likewise." — Phil Barney.

Yeh, but he meant let him give it of his own free will and accord and not have it taken away from him. He said something about that too. It was "Thou shalt not covet."

One of the biggest faults with today's newspapers -- believe it or not -- is that in attempting to scoop competition, in trying to give you the latest news first they devote more columns of space to trying to predict what is going to happen than in simply telling the public what actually has happened, and in making such predictions they frequently go astray. Thus the public is inclined to say, "You simply can't believe a thing you see in the newspapers."

Sanford people wonder why Orlando has done a better job of selling itself to the northern lands than Sanford has, and Orlando people wonder why St. Petersburg has done a better job than Orlando. Martin Andersen says it's because Orlando spends $2,000 a year on advertising. St. Petersburg, $20,000. Sanford could learn from both towns. Orlando may have spent less on advertising, but it spent more on parks and beautification, making itself the most beautiful city in Florida.

What it costs to get a winning football team in these days of proselytizing and subsidizing is uppermost in the minds of some taxpayers. If not in the thoughts of those who say that Florida must have a winning team regardless of cost. President Tiger says the State University has been spending $25,000 a year while winning southern teams have had as much as $125,000 a year spent on them. If Florida pays $100,000 a year for better ballplayers, it must get the money out of the pockets of the taxpayers of the state. There is no secret here.

One question of whether the Army is wastefully buying surplus government property like leather coats, blankets and various pieces of military equipment was at least partly settled the other day when a group of U. S. Senators, including Senator McNamara, were in the city. It was heard that the Army is going to give the surplus property to the State University.

Mountaineering

He climbed safely over 28,000 feet up Mt. Everest, within a few hundred feet of the top of the world's highest peak, but lost his life on a 1,000-foot hill in North Wales. This was the recent fate of Dr. Edmund H.L. Wigram, the youngest member of the British Everest expedition in 1936. It is a good deal like the story of the returned soldier who survived every peril of Salerno or Okinawa, only to die in a traffic accident on his home street.

Wigram might have been keeping in trim for the next attempt on Everest, which may be undertaken this year, or he may just have been expressing the widely held view that mountaineering is the world's most thrilling sport, except perhaps automobile racing. The mountaineer has the advantage of far more opportunities, since the supply of challenging targets is nearly inexhaustible.

Kamet in the Himalayas, over 25,000 feet high, is the loftiest single peak yet conquered, though expeditions have gone higher on the unvanquished Everest. There are plenty of other Himalayas left. Most of the Andean peaks have been attained. So has 20,000-foot-high Mt. McKinley in Alaska, the highest mountain in North America. But the most chilling ascent may have been that of Mt. Erebus, the 13,000-foot volcano which towers above the Antarctic continent.

How Many Nazis?

How many Germans were active Nazis and how many worked against Hitler? The United States Army's Office of Military Government is able to answer these questions roughly. To date it has investigated 783,000 Germans, with 285,000 more to come. This is a large enough sample to justify some conclusions.

Of these 783,000 only 21 per cent were found so objectionable as to be barred from responsible jobs. On the other hand, only one per cent had any record of anti-Nazi activity. If such percentages held for all Germany's 80,000,000 population, this would show that about 16,000,000 to 17,000,000 were violent Nazis, and about 800,000 anti-Nazi.

Now these investigations have concentrated on Germans in governmental positions and in business. Labor and the peasants, which have not been examined as thoroughly, are expected to show a smaller percentage of Nazis, and more opponents.

The 16,000,000 is a lot, but is still a good deal less than the pessimistic estimate that all Germans were confirmed supporters of Hitler.

New Entertainment

Something new is coming into the entertainment field with the launching of television. According to Worthington Miney, Columbia Broadcasting System's television department manager, television will not be radio, theater or motion picture.

Writers and actors, as well as advertising sponsors, will be forced to evolve entirely different techniques, and programs unlike anything produced today. For example, constant repetition, so desirable now on the visual screen, would ruin a big game or a motion picture stage acceptability. A voice when "seen" in person is something else, and a successful stage portrayal will not carry over necessarily under the changed demands of television.

It's a new world a-coming all right. But thank heaven, every one doesn't have to worry over problems like the television ones. That's up to the producers, actors and advertisers. All that most people have to do is to wait until the experts get things ironed out, and then enjoy the results.

American As Ice Cream

The latest Cinderella story in the publishing field is that of Cleveland's "Jo Sinclair", Ruth Seld in real life, whose novel, "Wasteland" won Harper and Brothers' $10,000 award. Miss Seld, born of immigrant parents, was a Red Cross publicity worker with a small weekly subsidy from an anonymous philanthropist interested in gifted folk of limited finances.

This is a good old-fashioned real American tale, giving heart to those who momentarily lose courage and think the odds are stacked against success for them. Of course not every American has it in him to become a prize novelist. But this country still is the land of opportunity for those who do have something to offer—and the will to work everlastingly to produce it.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

Hold your hats boys here we go again. While 1946 is what the observers term an "off year" in politics this only applies to those who are not running for it. It is decidedly the "on" years for those who are candidates and with the holidays out of the way and Spring just around the corner those "who at the insistence of friends" or otherwise have been burning the midnight oil preparing "announcements" in vesting in photographs, cuts and mats and are looking about for convenient stumps. Public interest is far from "aroused". Even the prospect of selecting a United States Senator to succeed Andrews has awakened little interest with Spessard L. Holland a candidate and no opposition of consequence in evidence. Most folks have already begun calling the "Gentleman from Barstow" SENATOR and seem inclined to feel that no matter who might be courageous enough to oppose him it would still be too one-sided an event to term a "race". While there are plenty of individuals who for one reason or another derive little comfort at the thought of Holland in

"CARTAIN OF CASTLE"

Washington, they haven't been able to figure out a way to prevent it. It seems to be a difficult to smoke out candidates with "ability to fight and ability to win" as finding football players with similar qualities for the Governor election. And finding them isn't enough, they have to be backed up with great gobs of moola. While it is true, much the same situation existed when former Governor Carlton made his bid for the office and he was defeated, but Holland can be depended upon to profit by that experience. He has been running ever since he left the Governor's chair and he will keep right on running like a leaky hydrant until the votes are counted.

Nothing in the way of state races are apt to cause any undue excitement or arouse more than passing interest. Candidates for the State Supreme Court and Railroad Commission are not colorful enough to arouse much interest as far as the man on the street is concerned. While folks will argue and even engage in fistfuffs over the selection of a Sheriff or Governor, they don't as a rule give two hoots who sits on the Supreme Bench or directs the Railroad Commission. It isn't that these offices are not important and of vital concern to public interest and welfare, but rather they have never been sold to the public on the basis of their true relation to the average citizen. Because campaigns for the election of a Governor or a Sheriff are noisy, boisterous and colorful, conducted with dash and gusto, we have childishly accepted these offices as the only ones deserving of our thoughtful consideration. In view of this fact we can look for little public interest in the Supreme Court and Railroad Commission races that will occur this spring. The announcement of Commissioner Eugene Matthews that he will not be a candidate for re-election has thrown the field in his group open to all comers and in all probability several candidates will enter this race. Even before Matthews made his announcement, Fred W. Brown, Tampa attorney announced his candidacy. Before doing so Brown had made a swing around the state and developed considerable support. Because of his many years of actual experience in transportation and communications fields he enters the race better qualified than is the case with most office seekers and this Legislature he is in a position to command considerable support. As a previous candidate for the office he is in a position to cash in on his previous statewide campaign experience which should prove helpful. Other candidates will all probably enter this race which promises to develop into a real contest. Jerry Carter will have to run again for re-election and while competition may develop, the average candidate would rather enter a free for all than go up against a man as well entrenched and politically wise as Jerry Carter. Announcements of candidates for legislative posts are beginning to appear in local papers throughout the state, some of these announcements have statewide significance and I'll discuss this in a later column.

TERRACE TALK

Old Father Hubbard went to his cupboard to tickle his palate with all in forty-eight hours, a prayer and some flowers.

Next-door neighbors this spring are cutting pretty capers and in the romantic feminine mood our returning servicemen have asked for, according to a showing at the Commodore Hotel in New York City recently.

Mary Margaret McBride of radio fame, the original "Collar and Cuff" girl, pointed out in her commentary for the show that anything goes this spring when it comes around your throat or over your dresses or under your suits or when it's a combined diekey-blouse.

Marking 'Em Up

With JULIAN STENSTROM

Two of Sanford's most active tennis players, E. G. Kilpatrick of the Florida State Bank and Charlie Morrison of Frierason's, have been battling for the heavy-weight net championship of the city. Thus far, "Egg" Kilpatrick has a lead over Charlie by taking three of the four sets played. All Charlie could say was "Just wait!"

Lieut. Comdr. Red Sanders, on leave from his position as head coach at Vanderbilt University, expected to be released from the Navy today. The lieutenant declined to comment on his future plans or the possibility of his being appointed as head coach of the University of Florida Gators.

We've been pounding right along about creating more athletic activity at the Sanford Junior High School. We believe that if students participate in football, baseball and basketball at Junior High, by the time they get into high school they'll be seasoned and experienced men and will enable high school coaches to more powerful athletic teams at Seminole.

It seems as though we're not the only ones sold on this idea either. Here's what Stanley Kupa, editor of the DeLand Sun News has to say about the same subject:

Here's one for the books. There were 74 fouls in a game between the Pittsburgh (K.P.N.) Teachers and St. Benedict's the other night. Forty of these personal fouls were charged up to St. Benedict's and 34 to Pittsburgh. Only four Benedict athletes were eligible to be on the floor during the final four minutes of the contest. Just to make things even, Pittsburgh benched one of their players and still won by a score of 63 to 28.

MORE THAN HALF the 807,000 U. S. soldiers in the Pacific will be returned home within four months, declared Secretary of War Patterson during his trip through the demobilization demonstration epidemic centers. It has been estimated that 375,000 men will be required for future garrison purposes and figures on map indicate how these may be distributed. Arrows show where most of the men to be released are now stationed. Manila (1) has been the storm center of troop protests (International).

Entire Valleys Are Inhabited By Women, Children

By ADELAIDE KERR
There are whole valleys in Yugoslavia, where only women and children live today," said Nada Kraigher, 34, former underground worker and lieutenant in the Yugoslav Partisan Army. "People wonder what effect living like that without any man would have on a woman's emotional life. But they don't have any emotional life and they don't miss it. They are so overworked rebuilding those devastated valleys and working wood, gathering mud to make houses, trying to scrape together enough food to live—they don't have time to think of anything else."

"But they will go back to being women again eventually. I'll all 'id—even after all that time we fought in war. The young ones said they never would, but they did."

"Of course we all thought we would go crazy trying to get used to a skirt again after living so long in pants in the woods and mountains. I was unhappy in that skirt. I found me. I couldn't sit in a jeep or a chair. I thought everyone was looking at my legs. Finally I got an American uniform and after that I could bear it."

"Then my uncle said I must wear lipstick. But I couldn't hear all that woman stuff at once. I just said I wouldn't do it. After a while, though, we all got lipstick and cold cream and things again."

"There was one thing we could not change. Our feet had grown so big from marching barefoot or in those big army shoes, we could not wear little shoes again."

Kraigher—smartly coiffed, but without a sign of lipstick—glanced at her new number sevens and sighed. She is making her first trip to the United States as the Yugoslav Red Cross delegation here to study American Red Cross methods. She was born in Trieste in 1911 of Slovenian peasant parents, learned five languages, married a sculptor and mothered a son. After her divorce and the invasion of Yugoslavia, she worked in the underground for two years, then fought in the Partisan army with men under her command.

"The war has made a revolutionary change in the status of Yugoslav women," she said. "Back in the old days the men of the country were kings. When a peasant went to market, he rode the donkey and his wife trudged behind, carrying the load."

"But during the war women played a very strong part in the country's defense and men got used to taking orders from them. Today Yugoslav women have the vote, equal rights and equal pay for equal work. If their ability is superior to a man's, they get the job and men work under their direction."

"Lots of young women have married the men they fought with during the war and are going right on with their careers. Women are active in every phase of the country's economic and political life. They also have unity and strength through the Anti-Fascist Women's Union which was formed several years ago. They are even playing with the idea that Yugoslavia will have to go right from now on, because they have so much power."

Asked for the men's reaction, Kraigher said this young man who had fought side by side with women took it as a matter of course, but the old peasant was a different story. Not long ago, she said, the peasant was padding down a country road with a pack on his back and asked where he was going.

Said the peasant: "I'm leaving home. I don't like this new government. If they are going to make this kind of mistakes in the beginning, I might as well go now. What mistakes? Giving women the vote. There was a time when a man had some rights in his own home. But now the house is full of women running politics from morning till night. I'm clearing out."

FORT PIERCE, Fla., Jan. 16, (Special)—One hundred pounds of horse meat were recently canned at the St. Lucie County can-
