Britain and Germany today closely scanned the speeches of one another's leaders for hints as to the future course of world events.

The German reaction to Prime Minister Chamberlain's speech yesterday in the House of Commons, cautiously proposing a world armaments limitation, was unfavorable though guarded. Berlin was pleased particularly that Chamberlain pictured Adolf Hitler as a man of peace.

The German economic ministry concentrated on the problem of increasing exports—a problem Hitler termed urgent.

Reichstag speaker Monday night, a German representative departed for Moscow to the accompaniment of the President.

Testimony To Be Heard In Death Of DeLand Girls

Subpoenas were served by the Sheriff's office in Volusia County on 15 witnesses who will appear before the State's attorney Murray Sams in the grand jury room in DeLand Friday for questioning in connection with the fatal crash from the bridge west of here into the St. Johns River on Dec. 23, according to information received today.

J. E. Weathered, former manager of the Woolworth Five and Ten Cent Store here, was an occupant of the car at the time of the mishap which claimed the lives of two prominent DeLand co-eds.

The probe, termed "an investigation by the state attorney" is designed to investigate charges of manslaughter against the two youths, W. C. Touchton, Jr., of Avon Park and Weathered who were riding with the two girls, Miss Myra Mochen and Miss Mildred Mercer.

Manslaughter charges were filed against the two as result of an initial inquest conducted here by Volusia County Judge J. E. Peacock.

A coroner's jury recommended that Touchton and Weathered be held for manslaughter, indicating that their negligence was the cause of the girls' death. Having a preliminary hearing in county court, the pair have been free under bonds of $2,500.

Should sufficient evidence be uncovered to substantiate present charges, it is possible that Sams may file informations or refer the case to the grand jury for investigation.

Commission Asked To Favor Sale Of Citrus By Pound

LAKELAND, Feb. 1.—Dr. P. Phillips, Orlando fruit grower and shipper, told the Florida Citrus Commission today he believed it would be better trade practice to sell oranges, grapefruit and tangerines by the pound instead of by the car, box or dozen.

He said he was giving the idea a test in several fruit stores he has opened in northern cities.

The commission took no action on the proposal but several members said the argument sounded "very reasonable."

There was every indication last night that the commission would receive a fervent plea from canners to cut the minimum prices to 28 cents or possibly to 30 cents on the plea that grapefruit canners cannot pay such a figure as 32 cents.

But regardless of what plea is made to the Citrus Commission there will be strong opposition to a reduction below 32 cents and there is apt to be at least a slight display of verbal pyrotechnics. Word was circulated last night to the effect that there was an organized reduction move on foot.

Certain letters and questionnaires have gone out in recent days. But no one would talk about it to the point of allowing published quotations. "Just sit tight and wait until the meeting," was the only word that could be obtained from those who are generally credited with "being in the know" on such things.

Broader Social Security Plan Is Advocated

Congress Told Millions More Could Be Under Program At No Additional Cost

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Congress was told today by Chairman Arthur J. Altmeyer that millions more Americans could be brought under the Social Security program without increasing the ultimate cost of the program.

He said the Social Security Board believed it feasible to bring into the system large numbers of non profit organizations and national banks, seamstresses, domestic workers, and agricultural laborers.

"All told, these groups include some 6,000,000 men and women," he declared.

With reference to old age insurance, Altmeyer contended the government was obligated to build "more adequate protection as rapidly as possible and in extending it to more of the nation's people."

More Than 250 Woodmen Attend District Meet

More than 250 members of the Woodmen of the World, District No. 2, held addresses by the State's leading Woodmen at a district meeting held here last night, according to C. C. Collins, secretary of the local camp.

Mr. Collins declared that last night's meeting was the best attended and the most enthusiastic meeting of the district held in some time. The next district meeting will be held in Ocala in July.

W. C. Berry of Ocala, president of the district, presided over the business session last night during which reports were made on the progress of each camp.

The invocation was led by James G. Sharon while O. P. Herring gave the welcome address in behalf of the local Woodmen. The response was made by G. W. Pitt of Tampa.

Miss Abbie Holden, of Jacksonville, state manager for the Woodmen, Circle outlined the program being followed by the circles over the state while V. P. Miller of Lakeland gave an outline of the progress and activities in the camps over the state.

Flem C. Dene of Fort Pierce was the principal speaker and delivered what was termed a most interesting address on fraternalism. Refreshments were served at the close of the business meeting, which was followed by a parade to the City Hall. The parade was led by the State Woodman of the World Drum and Bugle Corps and the uniformed ranks of the local lodge and the Ocala lodge.

An interesting floor show featuring Miss Ann Benson and Miss Doris Jackson was held at the City Hall in connection with the dance.

Grapefruit Plant Is Closed Indefinitely

BRADENTON, Feb. 1.—Fred G. Elder, president of the Florida Grapefruit Canning company, said yesterday that his company's Manatee plant, employing more than 400 persons was closed Monday night and would remain indefinitely as long as canners were obliged to pay 32 cents a box for grapefruit. Elder said he had written Nathan Mayo, commissioner of agriculture, that his company would abandon its contracts of fruit at a lower price rather than go to court. He did this, he said, after Mayo had notified him that his previous contracts were void.

"We will mark time for the present," Elder said, adding "this is all we can do since the jobbers will not contract for our product at the increased price." He said 800,000 boxes ordinarily would have been sold at last week's Chicago canners convention but that no sales were made.

The company, Elder said, cannot keep up all the fruit it had on hand before closing down and notified employees that the plant would be inactive until further notice. He said they were using about 2,500 boxes of fruit daily.

City Takes Over Maintenance Of Municipal Links

Course Is Placed In Parks Department In Economy Move

The municipal golf course which for the past few years has been operated by the Sanford Country Club, will be taken over by the City for its maintenance, to be day placed in the Parks Department of the City under the general supervision of Supervisor James Moughtin, Mayor Edward Higgins said.

Since the City already has in charge of the equipment necessary for maintenance of the course, it should be more economical to maintain the link through the department than through the club, the Mayor said, adding that the City will soon find whether it can afford to maintain an 18-hole course.

The action of the Council followed a request from members of the club at the last regular meeting for additional funds to supplement the WPA project which is now underway for improvement of the back nine holes.

Bert Fort, for several years manager of the course, will continue his duties at the country club but he will be on the City payroll under the superintendent of parks, Mr. Higgins said.

Members of the club, who have been vitally interested in improvement of the course, are in favor of the economy move of the City and have agreed to take over the task of securing memberships in the club.

The club has declared that memberships as well as the rounds of play could be increased with improvement of the course and opening the remaining nine holes.

All revenues from the memberships and the green fees will be turned over to the City in the future instead of to the Country Club of which Otto Caldwell is president.

Seminole Voting Light On Citrus Marketing Pact

Dawson Is Doubtful Whether Majority Signed Ballots

The voting of Seminole County citrus growers was very light in the referendum held on the proposed marketing agreement for the Florida citrus industry which was given the final approval of the State of Florida in an inter-state commission, according to County Agent C. K. Dawson.

"Seminole's farm agents expressed a feeling that the majority of the growers were in favor of the proposed marketing agreement," Dawson said, "but the actual vote was very light."

The fender of the Dodge was damaged by the collision while a front wheel of the Ford was smashed.

John K. Berg, owner of the Dodge, accompanied the driver, occupants of the Warren car were Valmore Ward, Roy Donnell and John Sinclair. All were of Orlando.

Mussolini Pays Tribute To Fascists Warriors In Spain

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(AP)—A member of the Senate Military Committee said today that President Roosevelt had indicated that the United States was prepared to sell war materials not only to England and France but to other "independent states" in Europe which oppose the threat of aggression by the dictators.

"Account of some in conflict with others of what the President said to the committee yesterday continued to dribble out to press and public, causing jubilation in the Democratic nations and condemnation in Germany and Italy."

Military committee members, who speak anonymously, said Roosevelt, in discussing the U. S. policy in permitting airplane purchases by France, had made it plain the Administration was committed to a course of allowing other nations to obtain war supplies in the country as long as they could pay for them.

Advocating that the President should have the United States' military assistance in France were banned, a good news in London of Feb. 1, 1939.

For nearly a week, the committee had been investigating the sale of military supplies of privately manufactured aircraft to France. It had received testimony that Government officials had conspired with a French agent to sell to the French from American factories.

In the same connection some recalled that Prime Minister Chamberlain of Great Britain last week that British aid to France had the support of the United States, and that the United States, under the leadership of the Chamberlain, had received the best airplanes and all of the best trade goods that were available in France and Britain.

The other two negroes, Russell Golden, the driver, and Luther Evans, were admitted for treatment and later discharged. The only other passenger, Washington Johnson, escaped unharmed.

The jury yesterday, headed by Coroner Maurice Foster, in whose office the jurors will convene today, visited the scene of the accident and later viewed the body which has been taken to an Orlando undertaking establishment.

Bird Homes Attract Attention

The bird houses displayed in a Magnolia Avenue store window are attracting much attention this week. They represent some hard work on the part of those entering them in the Garden Club contest.

The judges last Saturday emphasized the necessity for having bird houses the right size for the birds for which they are intended. A house may be most ornamental but unless the floor space is right, the entrance the correct size, ventilation and drainage provided, and sufficient space below the entrance for normal nest building, the house is likely to remain vacant.

Mr. Hines, in re-roofing his garage, removed from the peak of the roof a bird house that had evidently been intended for Martins. The house showed no evidence of occupancy though it had been placed for several years.

Encourage The Martins Wayne Falz of Paola and Thomas Hanson of Sanford must have given considerable time to the building of their apartment houses for Purple Martins. Wayne took first prize too, and Thomas judge was so well built that the judges gave it special mention.

When Dr. Joseph H. Dodson of Kankakee, Ill. was visiting in St. Petersburg, he came across a dead martin lying by the roadside. He took the bird home, dissected it, put the stomach in alcohol, and forwarded it to the Biological Survey in Washington, D. C. for microscopic examination.

Though many folks in Sanford are interested in attracting birds about their homes through feeding stations, few of them wanted to tell about it; so Lammela Dalton of the Junior High School walked off with the prize for her essay entered in the Adult class.

POTATO ACREAGE LESS

HOMESTEAD—Dade County's potato acreage this season is approximately 2,000 below that of last season, according to County Agent Charles Steffani.

Who cut their potato acreage this season have planted beans and corn in place of the "spuds". To prevent bacterial soft rot in transit, some potato packing houses have installed new drying equipment, Mr. Steffani says.

LONDON BRIDGE NOT FALLING DOWN

NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE

Sir Samuel Hoare, British Home Secretary, in his speech on Thursday to a meeting at Swanscombe, sounded a note of confidence in the future of Great Britain and in the power and determination of the empire to defend itself against all aggression, which needed to be uttered. Coming as it did shortly before an important address expected from the Prime Minister, which will precede a speech by Hitler—perhaps even more momentous—it may mark the beginning of a more resolute attitude toward dictators.

These heads of states, made desperate by economic and financial straits, invite their people to further encroachments on other nations by telling them that England is done, and no longer to be feared. Their sources of information being better, than those of the public, from whom all pleasant facts are withheld, themselves are not deceived, but they find the spreading of reports of Britain's decline serves their purposes. In this they are helped by some leaders of opinion in this and other countries, who cheerfully and even gleefully proclaim the setting of England's sun, unmindful of the fact that similar prophecies have failed since the day of Napoleon.

Sir Samuel, defending the reluctance of democracies to plunge the world into a war, in which they would have, vastly more to lose than those who provoked it, remarked that it had led many to mistake forbearance for weakness. After telling his hearers that the opinion of the well informed on the Continent regarded Mr. Chamberlain not as a glib old man, always outwitted by his adversaries, but as the chief safeguard of the peace of Europe, he declared that both German and British peoples were averse to war and added:

"I come now to the second fact: the invincibility of Great Britain and of the British Empire. When I say that this great country and this great empire can never be defeated, I am not playing with phrases or using rhetoric for effect." He said that "blind and foolish people" are saying that the decline of the British Empire has already begun; that the British have lost the will to govern, and the nerve to resist. This is a complete misunderstanding of the facts, Sir Samuel said, which would result, if put to the test, in as tragic an awakening as that of 1914. "Let us face the future, whatever it may bring, with courage and resolution, believing that reason and good sense will prevail, but determined nevertheless to be ready for every emergency."

These words, we believe, more truly represent the spirit of the British people than the quaverings of those who belong to what Lloyd George used to call the "God-sakers", and who are sure other nations are stronger, wiser, more resourceful and better led than their own. May they not be lost on those abroad, for whom they have special significance.
