Michael David Bixler, 19, of Orlando, faces two counts of battery on a law enforcement officer and obstruction by resisting. Hightower had received a report of a careless boater on Lake Monroe, and confronted Kane at the port. Wiwi had been called to assist Hightower and as they tried to handcuff Kane, Helen Ruth Bixler stepped between the lawmen and Kane and said, "You're not going to take my dad to jail," according to reports. She was ordered back. At that point, Michael Bixler allegedly punched Wiwi in the head, knocked him back and grabbed his neck in an effort to shove him down. When Hightower tried to aid Wiwi, Bixler allegedly elbowed him in the face. The fight continued until the officers handcuffed Bixler and both men were taken into custody. # Longwood man arrested after hostage incident

LONGWOOD — A 41-year-old Longwood man who allegedly held a woman hostage in his home, remains free on $8,000 bond but faces charges of battery and false imprisonment.

Seminole County Sheriff's deputies reported arresting Dacri Roberto Buxeda, of 112 Woodmill Drive, at his home at 2:56 p.m. Sunday shortly after Wilma J. Diaz Montes ran, screaming for help, from the man's house.

Montes, who called officers from a nearby home, said she had been in a domestic dispute with Buxeda when he dragged her into a bedroom, gagged her with a piece of clothing and tried to tie her up.

Sheriff's deputies report Montes was hit and suffered a cut lip and a bump on her head prior to being locked in a room for about an hour. The report indicated the woman was locked inside the room after the suspect failed in his attempt to tie her up.

The phone had been disconnected, allegedly by Buxeda, to prevent Montes from summoning help, according to reports. The woman escaped when Buxeda opened the bedroom door and she was able to push past him and leave the house.

After meeting Montes on Raintree Drive, deputies went to Buxeda's home and arrested him. —Susan Loden

Want more rain? wait till weekend

By Fred H. Cooper
Herald Staff Writer

You were promised scattered thunderstorms on Saturday, and you got them. But the word "scattered" was really the operative word. The scattering produced showers in Seminole County ranging from up to 3 inches in some of the southern sectors, to .02 in Sanford. Everywhere else was "twixt and between." If you didn't get as much rain as you wished for, blame it on your lack of scattering.

If you want more rain, don't hold your breath. It'll probably be the weekend again. It's the National Weather Service's way of saying phooey on all of us for criticizing them at times. Talk about brilliant—the NWS gets the coveted crown for profundity. The 90-day forecast for our area states that the weather will be "normal." Now what in the world is normal for our weather. It's kinda like "average." Is it mean or median. Let's assume that average weather means mean. At any rate, you read it here first. Let it be known far and near, in Seminole and unto the uttermost: Weather will be normal for the next three months.

Normal for the next couple of days means temperatures ranging from about 60 degrees at night to about 80 degrees during the day—give or take a couple of degrees either way. Humidity will be normal, ranging from here to there. Rain will be nonexistent.

The sun will be out daily adding a grain of truth to the name "The Sunshine State." Taking a cue from Florida, Alaskan Airlines has long painted its symbol's picture on the tail of its aircraft—an eskimo. Now they've added an artistic touch. They've put sunglasses on the eskimo.

Maybe they're planning flights into the mainland. Check it out, neighbors. This may be a possibility for the Sanford Inter-galactic Airport.

Average weather doesn't abound out west. In fact, it's abounding.

High winds that stranded hundreds of tourists and were blamed for five deaths abated today to allow the world's oldest balloon race to get off the ground in California, while a May storm brought out the snowplows in the Rockies.

Passenger service was restored Sunday to Santa Catalina Island off Los Angeles, where about 1,300 people were stranded overnight by high winds that whipped up seas that destroyed 150 feet of the Redondo Beach pier.

Avalon Harbor on the island was closed Saturday night as winds gusted to 60 mph. Emergency shelters were set up in the Avalon casino and a high school gymnasium to accommodate nearly 1,300 people stranded on the popular tourist spot 26 miles west of the Los Angeles Harbor.

High winds also hit eastern Colorado, where two people were killed and 18 were injured Sunday afternoon in a 15-car pileup along an interstate where blowing dirt cut visibility to near zero.

"There were extremely high winds in the area at the time, creating the dirt and the poor visibility," said Colorado State Patrol communications officer Janon Roussel. "At that time (the wind) was gusting between 30 and 60 mph."

(Reports by United Press International and data provided by the National Weather Service were used in compiling this report.)

Big Cypress bill signed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan signed the "Big Cypress National Preserve Addition Act" Friday with the understanding legislation will be passed later this year to provide for the acquisition of more private land.

Under the arrangement to avoid spending $40 million to $65 million for the south Florida preserve, the private land will be added to the preserve through a land exchange.

In a written statement, Reagan said the Act adds 148,000 acres of private land to the 575,000 acre preserve just north of the Everglades National Park. It requires acquisition of the surface rights to these lands through a joint federal-state effort in connection with the planned construction of Interstate 75 through the area.

"South Florida can breathe easier today," said Gov. Bob Martinez. "The Big Cypress, home of the Florida panther and a precious water resource, will now be protected from misuse on a permanent basis."

"The President has left a magnificent legacy for all Floridians," Martinez said.

Reagan said to avoid purchasing costs for surface rights by the Interior Department, the administration "has consistently advised the Congress that this cost is excessive and will oppose any appropriations for this purpose."

"To avoid this cost, and in recognition of the important role of the Big Cypress National Preserve in conserving nationally significant fish, wildlife, and other natural resources in southern Florida, the Department of Interior has entered negotiations to acquire private land to be added to the preserve through an exchange with private owners."

He said such an exchange would require additional legislation since the lands are in different states.

"I have been assured by the congressional delegation from Florida ... the administration's exchange proposal will soon be considered by Congress."

Report: Police botched probe

By RUSSELL SNYDER
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — It may be weeks before researchers can draw firm conclusions about the assassination of Robert F. Kennedy from the 50,000 documents, 2,900 photos and other pieces of evidence made public last week.

But already, the newly opened police files at the state archives in Sacramento have spotlighted oversights and blunders by the Los Angeles Police Department in its investigation of the assassination 20 years ago.

The revelations include proof that police only 2 1/2 months after the shooting inexplicably burned 2,410 photographs collected by detectives.

People Who Want To Borrow Money Should Get Counseling.

Loan officers at NCNB National Bank are qualified to give a lot more than loan approvals.

They're also qualified to give some very smart counseling which can relieve the anxiety of borrowing money, and turn it into something it's never really been:

Comfortable.

Like most things in life, there are rules for lending money. And most banks, as you've probably noticed, are very good at following them to the letter.

However, weeks of intensive training teach our loan officers how to put those rules to good use.

In other words, they learn to make them work in your favor.

They can also counsel you on the best loan for your needs.

But don't think all our counseling means you'll have to lie on a couch and talk about your past.

Instead, we'll invite you to sit down and talk about your dreams.

Whether it's something as simple as a new deck or patio. Or as grand as a trip around the world.

And if you don't enjoy the hassle of going to the bank, you can do this:

Use the simplest loan application form in town—your telephone.

Just call NCNB, give the loan officer your information, and we'll call you back with an answer on your loan.

If the news isn't so good, we will still make every attempt to find a way to meet your special needs.

Or, maybe now that interest rates are low, you want to buy a new car or boat.

To give yourself time to make a sound decision, call us for a pre-approved loan. Not only will you know exactly what you can borrow, but we'll also lock in the interest rate. For a full 90 days.*

NCNB has lots of helpful advice on borrowing money. And we'd consider it a privilege to pass it on. Any time you can call or come in.

Besides, after all the tough training our loan officers have been through, the chance to use it with their customers is always—if you'll pardon the expression—very, very good therapy.

AN EDITORIAL

Endless strife divides Israel

Forty years after the founding of Israel, its inspiring triumphs and singular achievements have been diminished by the bitter anguish of an endless, escalating strife that has sharply divided the Jewish state and simultaneously ostracized it from much of the world.

During its brief history, Israel has fought valiantly and prevailed in four wars against its larger Arab foes. The present crisis, however, emanates not from Israel's neighbors but rather from within, an irrevocable struggle between Jews and Palestinians for a home on the same parcel of ancient land.

At this momentous juncture in the ageless history of the Middle East, the fate of both Jews and Palestinians is intertwined as never before. The ultimate price for endless intransigence is mutual destruction.

Israel today confronts a threat as grave as any during the last four decades. Its impressive military might, including nuclear armaments, is utterly useless in its current battle for survival.

The four-month-old uprising by rock-hurling Arab youths living under Israeli military occupation in the West Bank and Gaza is the inevitable consequence of two decades of futile efforts by Israel to disregard Palestinian nationalism. The issue can be deferred no longer.

Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin's proclaimed policy of beating the Palestinians into submission is destined to fail. Thus far, its outcome has been to spawn worldwide moral outrage and alienate the government of Israel from the United States and, most importantly, the American Jewish community.

Since Israel extended its rule over the Arab territories during the 1967 Six Day War, its character as a Jewish nation has changed in profound ways.

On its 40th anniversary, Israel comprises not only 3.6 million Jews but also 2 million Arabs, including 1.3 million disenfranchised Palestinians in the occupied lands. Because the Arab birthrate is double that of the Jews, Palestinians will constitute a majority within the next 20 years. How can Israel perpetuate its historic dream under such circumstances?

Already, Israel has compromised its democratic principles and forfeited its moral claim by resorting to repressive measures against Palestinians in the West Bank and Gaza. Shutting down Arab printing presses, deporting Palestinians from areas where they have lived for generations, breaking the arms of teen-age protesters and shooting to death scores of others, ordering soldiers to blow up Palestinian homes, confiscating Arab properties, and encouraging vengeance by Jewish settlers against their Arab neighbors are all symptomatic of a society that is fraying at the seams.

As the supplier of $3 billion a year in military and economic aid to Israel, the United States has a moral as well as strategic obligation to foster a resolution to the Arab-Israeli conflict. This means Secretary of State George Shultz must do more than shuttle between Mideast capitals with an empty briefcase; Washington must exert its full weight in Jerusalem and throughout the Arab world to forge a lasting settlement.

The only escape from this desperate dilemma lies in the formula established 20 years ago by United Nations resolutions 242 and 338, and the subsequent peace with Egypt—once the Jewish state's greatest enemy—built on the Camp David accords. Progress is premised on Israel's giving up occupied territory for a Palestinian homeland in exchange for Arab recognition of Israel's right to exist within secure borders.

This long-standing deadlock, which threatens the future of Zionism and Palestinian aspirations alike, cannot be broken without genuine compromises by both sides.

Exit loser-wins-nothing nominating process

By Arnold Sawicki
UPI Senior Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — When the Democrats set out to make the selection of their presidential candidate more democratic, one of the first reforms they adopted was to outlaw the "winner-take-all" primary.

The idea was to make it more difficult for any candidate to snap a lock on the nomination by getting a bare majority of votes and all of the delegates in a few big states such as California.

That was supposed to help keep the party open to the views of all candidates and factions and end domination of the nominating process by established party leaders, who were called "bosses" when they used their clout to get their way.

The Democrats did encourage internal debate and crush boss rule, but they did not get rid of one important winner-take-all test — the vote on the nomination at their national convention.

No matter how many candidates have benefited from the reform rules in the selection of delegates at the state level, the one who gets one more than half of the votes at the national convention gets the nomination.

Candidates who finish second or worse at the national convention are expected to endorse the winner and campaign for the ticket if asked. They seldom get any reward, such as a place on the ticket or a major voice in platform writing.

Morris Udall in 1978, Edward Kennedy in 1980 and Gary Hart in 1984 got nothing from the winning nominees in those years because the primaries and caucuses revealed they really had very little to offer in the way of voting blocs they alone could deliver to the ticket.

That may be about to end. It looks like Gov. Michael Dukakis of Massachusetts is going to win the 1988 Democratic presidential nomination, but his first order of business may be to find an acceptable reward for Jesse Jackson.

Jackson will be in a better position than the previous losers for several reasons.

First, he doesn't owe the Democratic Party anything. He built his political support without its help and in fact leads the nucleus of a separate party in his Rainbow Coalition. The party can't take anything away from Jackson, but he probably can take something away from it.

Second, he leads people the Democrats need. Blacks are clearly the biggest part of the bloc, but on the basis of 1986 primary returns, Jackson also appears to have gained support in a varied mix of groups including low income, blue collar and some ethnic whites and ideological populists and liberals ranging from New Deal survivors to 1960s rebels.

Finally, Jackson is by far the most charismatic 1988 candidate. Not since John F. Kennedy have the mainline Democrats had such a crowd-pleasing campaigner. With Dukakis leading the ticket, the party will be crying for someone to raise the blood pressure of the voters.

No one knows what it will take to get Jackson to throw his unqualified support to Dukakis. It could range from the vice presidential nomination for himself to a voice in both policy-making and appointments in a Dukakis administration.

America's decline and fall

Yale historian Paul Kennedy's book "The Rise and Fall of the Great Powers" has been on the best-seller lists for three months despite the fact that it is a huge tome with 1,296 footnotes and has a complex and problematical thesis that has been given short intellectual shrift by many other professional historians. The book, in a word, is fashionable. And it is fashionable because it resonates with a widespread popular mood.

Professor Kennedy tells a cautionary tale, brings to us the ghostly voices of empires past. He believes that societies that are militarily "top heavy" suddenly decline in their relative global power. He cites the Spain of Phillip II, the Russia of Nicholas II, Victoria's England, and Hitler's Germany.

He, along with an aspect of the national mood, believes that a similar fate awaits the U.S. His moral is that current U.S. global commitments and military expenditures should be sharply cut back.

Maybe so, but wait a minute. Are we "militarily top heavy"? Despite President Reagan's military buildup, our current Pentagon funding amounts to 6.5 percent of the Gross National Product. Both Presidents Eisenhower and Kennedy spent 10 percent of the GNP.

In the Defense Department's spending for fiscal year 1989, the total has been cut by $33 billion below the level deemed prudent just one year ago.

Meanwhile, spending on transfer payments—"social spending"—is now projected to be $140 billion more over the next five years than was projected one year ago. Professor Kennedy's book would not be nearly so fashionable if he had found historical examples to support the thesis that a bloated welfare system at all levels, not just food stamps, leads to national decline. The Department of Health and Human Services has a bigger budget than the Pentagon.

The military, in fact, is also an important component of the welfare system. A recent study found that military pensions are six times those characteristic of the private sector.

U.S. special forces fight terrorism

By Jack Anderson and Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — The Central Intelligence Agency has been under the congressional microscope for its cowboy tactics during the Reagan administration. But, almost unnoticed, the elite special forces of the military have flourished during the Reagan years with Congress approving more money and more people for more ultra-secret missions.

After the special forces bungled President Jimmy Carter's mission to rescue hostages in Iran in 1980, Congress decided it was time to spend the money to shape up the units. For the most part, the buildup has been justified. The special forces have a long history of responsible and even courageous operations.

But their story remains untold, buried under layers of classification and muzzled behind the cloaked-mouthed men who don't like to leave a paper trail.

Part of the lid has been pulled back by journalist Steven Emerson of U.S. News & World Report. In his new book "Secret Warriors: Inside the Covert Military Operations of the Reagan Era," he focuses primarily on Army special operations during the last eight years. In that time,

ROBERT WALTERS

Infrastructure furor

WASHINGTON (NEA) — "Infrastructure" first became a fashionable buzzword more than 20 years ago, following the 1967 collapse of the Silver Bridge spanning the Ohio River between West Virginia and Ohio.

When a corroded suspension chain collapsed, 33 vehicles plunged into the river. In one of the worst bridge disasters in the nation's history, 48 people died and nine others were injured.

Congress responded in 1971 by enacting a law that required states to inspect their bridges every two years or lose their eligibility for federal financial assistance for highway and bridge construction.

That didn't work. Governing magazine's May issue discloses that in three states — South Carolina, Missouri and Massachusetts — 20 percent or more of all bridges have not been inspected during the past two years.

In another seven states — Texas, Utah, Oklahoma, Rhode Island, Hawaii, Michigan and Illinois — Department of Transportation statistics show that 10 to 20 percent of all bridges have not met the federally mandated inspection requirements.

Only Georgia and New Hampshire are in full compliance with the law, although in 14 other states fewer than 1 percent of all bridges have not been inspected in a timely manner.

But prompt inspections don't ensure safety. According to the Center for Auto Safety, a public interest group, 19 states have no written lists of criteria for their inspectors to check and 12 states maintain no lists of which bridges require underwater inspections.

The subject again became a hot topic of conversation in Washington in 1981, when the Council of State Planning Agencies published a book by widely respected policy analyst Pat Choate titled "America in Ruins: The Decaying Infrastructure."

Again, Congress responded, this time by enacting a 1982 law that increased the federal tax on gasoline by 5 cents per gallon and earmarked the proceeds for the repair of deteriorating roads, bridges and other public structures.

That didn't work either. Of the country's 575,607 highway bridges, 131,562 are structurally deficient and 112,084 are functionally obsolete. More than 4,100 are closed because they are in danger of collapsing.

Now the subject is back in vogue again, for two reasons: The heavily used Williamsburg Bridge in New York has been ordered shut because of serious structural flaws and a new report — "Fragile Foundations" by the National Council on Public Works Improvement — has been published.

Great jojoba dries up

By Elizabeth Fennell

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Jojoba oil. Pronounced like Santa's chuckle, jojoba is a desert evergreen that a decade ago was going to help save the sperm whale and make a generation of entrepreneurial farmers rich.

So much for big dreams. It's made it into shampoos, but the biology of this bush and the economics of industry crops have stumped all but the most dedicated jojoba supporters.

"I'm broke," said Carole Whittaker, president of Hyder Jojoba Inc. in Phoenix, Ariz., who after 10 years still struggles to meet production and harvesting costs. "No one has ever made money from the production of jojoba."

Many jojoba investors didn't know what they were in for. From a peak of 45,000 acres, there are now 25,000 acres of active jojoba plantations in the United States, said Whittaker. The shake-out may continue, now that tax advantages have been eliminated.

A lot was said about jojoba that wasn't true," said David A. Palzkill, assistant professor of plant science at the University of Arizona in Tucson. "There's still a lot not known about jojoba."

Promoters boasted that this new-found crop didn't need water or fertilizer and would bring in $10,000 an acre. That attracted many people who lacked agricultural experience and who found out too late that, without water and fertilizer, the amount of seed produced is unpredictable, said Palzkill.

Instead of getting at least 1,500 pounds of seed per acre as some predicted, jojoba growers get about 900 — in good years. In 1987, the yields fell so short that about half the 400 tons of oil produced came from seeds collected from wild plants.

Jojoba is an oddity, both as a crop and as a desert plant. It is native to California, Arizona and Mexico. It keeps its small, oval grey-green leaves year-round, even in the worst weather. The bush grows three to 12 feet tall.

according to Emerson, the Army spawned a menagerie of special units with names such as Delta, Seaspray, Task Force 160, Quick Reaction Team and Yellowfruit.

Their operations have ranged far afield — from Central America to Saudi Arabia. They were the front line in the Grenada invasion. In most cases, counterterrorism has been the top priority, taking them to Israel, Lebanon, even Iraq. They await orders at every hostage taking.

Emerson calls his book "the story of two groups of men. One group recognized the limitations of its power; the other decided that it alone knew what was best for the country." (The latter school might be called the Ollie North school — damn the consequences, full speed ahead.)

Though Emerson has more than scratched the surface, the Special Forces units of the Army, Air Force and Navy have seen plenty of action that has yet to be reported, including firefights in the Middle East and even the assassination of at least one anti-American terrorist. Our sources in the special forces boast that the reason the missions were successful is because they have been kept secret.

All the while, the Pentagon leadership has been uncomfortable with these unconventional forces and has made its disdain obvious. Even when it comes to the overall operating strategy for the forces, the top leadership still paints the special forces' role as an anti-Soviet one.

We have obtained a copy of the Pentagon's operating strategy for special-operations forces, classified "Secret."

It effectively ignores the anti-terrorism operations of the special forces that have had little if anything to do with the Soviet Union and instead envisions the special forces as the front line of defense in skirmishes between the super powers.

The Pentagon's report says the United States has to be ready to stop "low-level aggression" and "step-by-step expansion" by the Soviets and their allies and to prevent skirmishes from escalating into full-scale war.

"The United States must be able to achieve these objectives when it is to its advantage, without direct confrontation," the operating strategy says. But if the hit-and-run method doesn't do the job, the special forces have to be big enough and strong enough to handle direct conflict, too.

"To these ends, we must revitalize and enhance special-operations forces capability to project U.S. power where the use of conventional forces would be premature, inappropriate or infeasible. In a war with the Soviet Union, special-operations forces will be capable of conducting the full spectrum of special operations on a worldwide basis," the secret operating strategy says.

While the buildup of special forces has been laudable, the Pentagon's reasoning is woefully ignorant of the many different ways in which American special forces have been and will be used around the world. The operating strategy was written for a world that is always black-and-white, us-vs.-them, the United States-vs.-the Soviets.

It ignores the host of Third World countries, particularly in the Middle East, with their own agendas. Those countries are already engaged in, or will be engaged in, conflicts that are America's business, too.

Congress has understood this in nurturing the buildup of special forces, recognizing that we are far more likely to use front-line elite military forces in the coming years than nuclear weapons, tanks, Star Wars and many of the other budget-breaking items in the Pentagon arsenal. The Pentagon is slowly coming around. Too slowly.

Japanese tourist killed in New York helicopter crash

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rescue teams saved four people aboard a helicopter that crashed into the chilly East River on a sightseeing tour but failed to free a Japanese tourist from the wreckage in time to prevent his death.

Oyama Takaashi, who became entangled in his seatbelt in the helicopter and lost all signs of life while submerged for 100 minutes, finally was cut free by a police frogman and revived by paramedics. He died Sunday night at Bellevue Hospital nearly nine hours after the accident.

The pilot of the Bell Jet Ranger 208B and his three other passengers clung to inflated pontoons after the helicopter hit the river, flipped upside down and broke apart in 38 feet of murky water. Police rescued them within 10 minutes.

The pilot, Rob Marshall, 23, sustained a back injury. Passengers Yuichiro Suguri, 30, of Columbus, Ohio; Furman Alexander, 34, of Australia, and Christian Pelikau, 54, of Munich, West Germany, were treated for hypothermia. All were hospitalized in good condition.

Crew relates harrowing tale

KAHULUI, Hawaii (UPI) — With one engine out, the landing gear perhaps not working and the wind shrieking through a missing section of the fuselage, the crew of Aloha Airlines Flight 243 had to communicate by hand signals as they brought the crippled jetliner in for a safe landing, investigators said.

The terrified passengers were not even sure there were any pilots. From their angle, it appeared the whole front of the plane had come off.

The harrowing account of the 15-minute flight without an 18-foot section of cabin roof was related by members of the flight crew to investigators from the National Transportation Safety Board in interviews during the weekend, officials said.

Search planes and boats were scouring the ocean for the missing piece and for the body of Clarabelle B. Lansing of Honolulu, the flight attendant sucked out of the plane as she handed a glass of wine to a passenger. A second flight attendant was saved from a similar fate when passengers held her down until the plane landed.

Curb on Klan searches survives

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court let stand a ruling Monday that police in Connecticut may not conduct indiscriminate searches of people attending Ku Klux Klan rallies.

The court refused to disturb a ruling by the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals that the searches violated the constitutional rights of those attending the rallies.

The case arose when the Klan began holding rallies in Connecticut in September 1980. In all, the Klan held 16 rallies in the state on public and private property ending in April 1984.

At the first rallies, which occurred about a year after the killing of seven people during a confrontation between Klan and anti-Klan forces in Greensboro, N.C., there were a number of confrontations involving rock and bottle throwing and fist fights.

House seeks weaponry resolution

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House members, set to begin work today on resolving major weaponry and foreign policy issues left in the 1980 defense bill, could further rearrange spending for "Star Wars" and competing missile defense systems.

The House is also likely to back a proposal ordering the administration not to deploy Coast Guard ships to the Persian Gulf, a vote that can be used to both express displeasure at the administration's policy in the gulf and as a pro-drug war vote because of the Coast Guard's role in catching smugglers.

Iran threatens U.S. with more terrorism

MANAMA, Bahrain (UPI) — Iran, responding to President Reagan's decision to extend U.S. naval protection to neutral shipping in the Persian Gulf, issued a veiled threat to expand terrorist activities beyond the gulf region, Western diplomats said.

Parliament Speaker Akbar Hashemi Rafsanjani told an opening session of the newly elected body Sunday that "the U.S. administration is taking Americans toward another Vietnam."

"It is not the U.S. which decides the zone (of confrontation), and if from now on incidents occur in the Persian Gulf, the region will not be limited to the Persian Gulf," Iran's official news agency, IRNA, quoted Rafsanjanisaying.

Western diplomats said Rafsanjani's remarks constituted a thinly veiled threat to extend terrorist activities against U.S. and other Western targets outside the Persian Gulf region.

"The U.S. decision to extend protection to neutral shipping makes it extremely difficult now for Iran to risk attacks" against merchant vessels in the Persian Gulf, said one diplomat who requested anonymity. "One way they can respond is to use surrogates around the world to attack U.S. targets."

Rafsanjani said Reagan's decision to extend protection to neutral shipping would sink the United States deeper into the Persian Gulf "swamp."

The Iranian Parliament speaker, who is also spiritual leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's personal representative on Iran's Supreme Defense Council, accused Reagan of making "a hasty and dangerous decision" because of "the approaching end of his political life."

The Reagan administration began reflagging Kuwaiti tankers last summer after a series of attacks on merchant shipping in the gulf. The 27th convoy of U.S.-escorted Kuwaiti tankers this year passed safely out of the gulf through the Strait of Hormuz early today, a U.S. Central Command spokesman said.

The spokesman said the destroyer Merrill and the guided missile frigate Sides successfully escorted the 47,000-ton reflagged Kuwaiti tanker Gas King through the Strait at 7 a.m. (midnight Sunday EDT). He said the U.S. military sealift ship MV Rover and the U.S.-owned and flagged tanker MV Monarch also were members of the convoy.

Trade veto could become '88 election issue

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The politics of a huge trade deficit on the one hand and a robust economy on the other come to the forefront this week as President Reagan flexes his veto power in a way that could hand Democrats a campaign issue for the fall elections.

Later this week, a 1,000-page trade bill — the first major piece of trade legislation in more than a decade — will arrive at the White House, where Reagan fully intends to make good on his repeated threats of a veto.

What will follow is not yet clear. Although the administration wants Congress to turn around and pass a second bill, stripped of the provisions to which Reagan has objected, Democratic leaders have been non-committal.

"I think we'll have to cross that bridge when we come to it," House Democratic leader Thomas Foley said Sunday.

Just as the Democrats view trade as an area of GOP vulnerability, Republicans will try to take full advantage of an economic expansion that has surpassed its fifth year.

Reagan today hoped to make the most politically of his trade bill veto and the state of the economy in a speech to the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Treasury Secretary James Baker signaled Sunday at what might be required for Reagan to sign a scaled-back version of the trade bill.

Interviewed with Foley on the NBC News program "Meet the Press," Baker identified only two must-go provisions: a requirement that many businesses give a 60-day notice of plant closings or massive layoffs and restrictions on exports of Alaskan oil.

Beyond those objections, he said, "there are several other things and the president will speak to what has to come out in his veto message." He did not, however, say those other concerns would stand in the way of compromise.

The Senate gave 63-36 final approval to the trade bill Wednesday.

At least 5 Dead, 50 injured as children's hospital roof falls

JAMMU, India (UPI) — The newly built top floor of a state-owned children's hospital in northern India collapsed today, killing at least five youngsters, injuring about 50 people and leaving an unknown number missing, police said.

Abdul Rashid Khan, deputy inspector of police in Jammu, 340 miles north of New Delhi, said about 800 people — mostly children and their parents — were in the medical facility at the time of the 6 a.m. (8:30 p.m. EDT Sunday) collapse.

Khan said most of the people were quickly rescued by the hospital staff. He added that doctors and nurses began evacuating the hospital when they saw cracks appear in the walls of the second floor of the three-story building.

Khan said the unoccupied top floor, which had been completed six days ago as an extension to the 30-year-old building, then collapsed, causing sections of the roof to cave in onto the second floor. The first floor was unaffected, he said.

Protesters support Polish workers

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — In the most widespread protests since the early days of the Solidarity trade union, thousands of people across Poland turned out for a series of May Day demonstrations in support of 20,000 striking steelworkers.

Dissident sources said more than 180 people were detained and police crushed nine of the 20 demonstrations held in Polish cities Sunday.

Government spokesman Jerry Urban said authorities detained 33 people and estimated that 12,000 took part in 12 demonstrations across the country.

At Solidarity's birthplace in the northern seaport of Gdansk, trade union founder Lech Walesa attended mass at St. Brigida's church and later urged a nearby May Day rally of about 2,000 demonstrators to support a strike now in its seventh day by 20,000 steelworkers in the southwestern city of Nowa Huta.

British warned of more attacks

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (UPI) — Security was tightened at British installations in Western Europe after two separate attacks by the Irish Republican Army that left three British soldiers dead and three others seriously wounded.

In a warning to Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, an IRA statement issued in Belfast and Dublin after Sunday's attacks said as long as Britain remains in Northern Ireland, "there will be no haven for your military personnel, and you will be regularly at airports awaiting your death."

Three members of the Royal Air Force Regiment, which guards air bases and other installations, were attacked with machine-gun fire about 1 a.m. Sunday as they sat in their car in the Dutch border city of Roermond, about 170 miles southeast of The Hague. One was killed and the others seriously wounded, police said.

Thirty minutes later, two other British soldiers were killed and a third was wounded when a bomb blew apart their car in the village of Nieuw Bergen, 25 miles north of Roermond and a few miles from the West German frontier.

Officer suspended for slaying

JERUSALEM (UPI) — The army suspended a deputy company commander after a preliminary investigation found that the fatal shooting of a Palestinian man in a remote West Bank village was unjustified, military sources said.

Protesters and Israeli troops clashed in at least 11 other West Bank and Gaza Strip towns and refugee camps Sunday. At least five Palestinians were wounded by army gunfire in the protests, Palestinian and hospital sources said.

In Faqu'a, 50 miles north of Jerusalem, Israeli troops entered the town in the morning to make arrests, clear away roadblocks and remove outlawed Palestine Liberation Organization flags, the military sources said.

Casual drug users targets of new government campaign

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — A new Reagan administration drug policy aimed at casual users aboard ships and boats, is an effort to expand existing enforcement efforts to control demand as well as supply, a top official says.

Transportation Secretary Jim Burnley said Saturday previous efforts directed at drug suppliers failed to address the consumer demand, which continues to fuel drug trade.

Under the new policy, in place since April 13, Coast Guard officers have orders to arrest boaters and seize their vessels when even small amounts of narcotics are found during routine safety inspections.

Burnley said the new measure, called "zero tolerance," represented the administration's policy originating from a conference in March to encourage a drug-free America.

Sebring sinkhole stabilizes

SEBRING (UPI) — Steady rainfall caused the ground around a 210-foot wide sinkhole to settle, pushing a second home closer to the gorge that swallowed up a doctor's home during the weekend.

Highlands County Sheriff's Lt. Jerry Fennell said Sunday the second home was about 15 yards from the edge and probably could not be saved because its foundation had already shifted.

The sinkhole, estimated to be 30 feet to 40 feet deep, may have grown slightly deeper Sunday, but was otherwise unchanged, Fennell said.

Bar seeks to limit solicitations

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — A proposal by the Florida Bar which is expected to go before the state Supreme Court today would require lawyers who solicit personal injury and probate cases by mail to forfeit their fees.

The proposed ban comes amid concern that some lawyers in Florida have intruded upon private grief by directing mail advertising to individuals or families of individuals involved in accidents and misfortune.

The Florida Supreme Court establishes all lawyer conduct regulations in the state.

If adopted, the bar proposal would impose some of the toughest controls in the nation on lawyers who solicit business by mail.

Riots mark May Day marches around world

By United Press International

The Soviet Union's imminent withdrawal from Afghanistan brought a honeymoon with Western diplomats in Red Square for May Day celebrations Sunday, but elsewhere the annual holiday honoring working people was often marked by government tear gas and clubs.

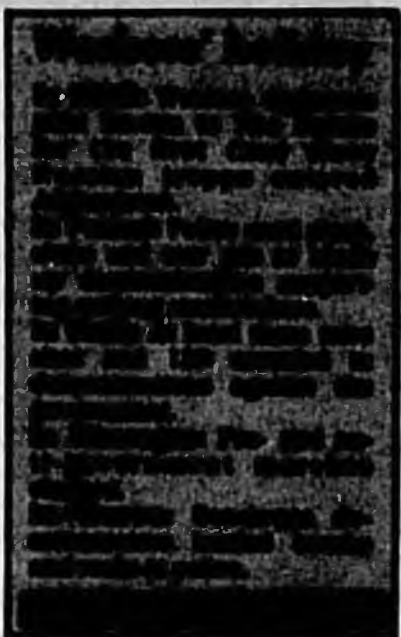

Violence broke out during workers demonstrations in Poland, El Salvador, Chile, Turkey and South Korea. Celebrations in Italy and Spain were quieter with festive picnics and rallies calling for better pay and shorter work weeks.

In Moscow, Western diplomats viewed the annual May Day parade for the first time since the 1979 Soviet intervention in Afghanistan, which is scheduled to end this month.

In Poland, police used aluminum pipes, clubs and tear gas to crush protests called by the outlawed Solidarity trade union to support 20,000 striking steelworkers. Authorities said at least 33 people were arrested, but dissident sources said the number could be five times that.

In Chile, at least three people were shot and 130 arrested in violent clashes that broke out during May Day protests against President Augusto Pinochet's military government in Chile's three main cities.

Police fired birdshot and tear gas at an estimated 20,000 protesters in Santiago, who called for a general strike May 11 to demand higher wages.

Hundreds of youths carrying red flags set fire to tires in the streets and hurled stones at police vehicles after the rally. They eventually were dispersed with water cannons.

A 16-year-old demonstrator, Nelson Barahona, was wounded in the chest when an unidentified civilian in a pickup truck opened fire on the crowd with a pistol, eyewitnesses said. Hospital sources said two other demonstrators were shot and wounded.

"Chile is and will continue to be a country of proprietors and not proletarians," Pinochet said in a May Day speech broadcast nationwide from Iquique, 1,142 miles north of Santiago.

In Korea, violent clashes with police broke out after a campus rally called to demand an eight-day work week and collective bargaining. Demonstrators hurled hundreds of firebombs and rocks at riot police who blocked some 2,000 protesters from marching off the Yonsei campus in western Seoul.

Police countered with tear-gas grenades and bombs during a two-hour pitched battle, but there were no immediate reports of arrests or injuries.

May Day violence also erupted in Istanbul and other Turkish cities during the largest left-wing demonstrations since the 1980 military coup, police said.

Two suspected leftists were shot dead during an early morning gun battle with police who raided a suspected leftist hideout in the Istanbul district of Ekmeydan.

Hundreds of riot police, backed by armored personnel carriers, charged a crowd of about 1,000 trade unionists in Istanbul when they refused to disperse, witnesses said.

Troubled Central America also witnessed tense May Day events as Nicaraguan workers demonstrated both for and against the government and club-wielding Salvadoran workers staged a militant anti-government march in the capital.

Congressman's aide jumps to his death

NEW YORK (UPI) — The top aide to a Maryland congressman jumped to his death Sunday in an apparent suicide at the Helmsley Palace Hotel after a newspaper reported he made unorthodox demands of male staffers, including forcing them to accompany him socially.

Tom Pappas, 46, chief of staff for Rep. Roy Dyson, D-Md., jumped from his room on the 25th floor of the mid-town Manhattan luxury hotel and landed on a ledge near the eighth floor about 12:25 p.m., said Sgt. Diane Kubler, a police spokeswoman.

Police, who called the death an apparent suicide, said Pappas left a note but they would not release its contents. He was pronounced dead at the scene and his body was to be taken to the morgue.

Pappas had checked in Friday afternoon along with Dyson and press secretary Todd Skipper, said police, who added they believed the three were in New York on business. The men had separate rooms.

Police said they were questioning Dyson about Pappas's death. Calls to Dyson's and Skipper's rooms were not answered.

Pappas's death came on the same day The Washington Post reported that Pappas made demands on the social lives of young male staff subordinates that had little, if anything, to do with work duties.

The Post reported that when Pappas hired Scott Ourth to be Dyson's press secretary Pappas insisted that Ourth not date for the first year he was on the job.

Other staffers for Dyson told the Post that they either quit or were fired because they refused to attend social functions with Pappas, who they said exercised complete control over Dyson's office.

Some staff members were shocked when Pappas told one male employee he would have to perform a striptease at a 1987 office retreat at Fort A.P. Hill in Virginia, the newspaper said.

Ourth's relationship with Pappas started to sour, the Post said, once Ourth began dating.

Doctors Invent 'Lazy Way' to Lose Weight

BEVERLY HILLS, CA (Special) — An amazing new weight loss pill called "fat-magnet" has recently been developed and perfected by two prominent doctors at a world famous hospital in Los Angeles that reportedly "guarantees" to help you steadily lose dietary fat and reduce calories every time you eat by simply taking their tested and proven new pill.

Best of all, "you can continue to eat all of your favorite foods as long as you don't increase your normal eating habits. You can start losing dietary fat and reduce calories from the very first day, until you achieve the ideal weight you desire."

There has never been anything like it before. It is a totally new major scientific breakthrough for weight loss (worldwide patents pending).

Flashes Fat Out of Body
The new pill is appropriately called the "fat-magnet" pill because it breaks into thousands of particles, each acting like a tiny magnet, "attracting" and trapping many times its size in undigested fat particles from food that you have just eaten. Then, the trapped fat is naturally "flushed" right out of your body "before" it has a chance to become ugly bulging body fat.

Within 2 days you should notice a change in the color of your stool, caused by the fat particles being eliminated.

Pills Go To Work

According to the doctors, to achieve fast, dramatic or easy weight loss you must reduce calories. The fat-magnet pills alone, "automatically" help reduce calories by eliminating fat, with no special diet menus to follow, no rigid calorie counting, and no exercising. You simply take the pills with a glass of water before meals. However, you can lose weight "faster" if you choose to follow the special fat-magnet recommended calorie reduction plan along with the pills.

The fat-magnet pills have recently been offered to the American public and are already sweeping the country with record sales and glowing reports of weight loss. It's a "lazy way" to lose weight for people who enjoy eating.

Now Available to Public

If you need to lose a large or small amount of weight, you can order your supply of these new highly successful fat-magnet pills and recommended diet plan (now available from the doctor's exclusive manufacturer by mail or phone order only) by sending $20 for a 90 pill supply (+$2 handling), or $35 for a 180 pill supply (+$3 handling), cash, check or money order to: Fat-Magnet, 906 Wilshire Blvd., Dept. W246, Beverly Hills, CA 90211. (Unconditional money-back guarantee if not 100% satisfied.) Visa, MasterCard and American Express OK. (Send card number, expire date, and signature.) ### Jai alai strike raises questions

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (UPI) — The current strike by jai alai players, a seemingly ordinary fight for union recognition, has involved three states, several foreigners, charges of racism and questions about legal gambling.

The roughly 500 players in Connecticut, Rhode Island and Florida are striking, in part, for recognition of their newly formed union, the International Jai Alai Players Association.

Most of the players are foreigners, coming from Mexico and the Basque region of Spain and France, and the players compete in a sport that gains most of its popularity from the legalized gambling that accompanies it.

All of these factors, plus the millions of dollars in state revenues that come from jai alai, have created an unusual labor dispute.

"If you look at all those elements, I think it is a unique situation and quite a serious one," Connecticut AFL-CIO president John Olsen said Friday. "It's a unique type of bargaining. It's not your typical blue-collar industrial negotiations."

Jai alai is similar to racquetball, but is played using wicker baskets called cestas which are strapped to players' arms and used to catch balls that are thrown at speeds exceeding 200 mph. The arenas where jai alai is played are called frontons.

The players went on strike April 14 after the jai alai frontons refused to recognize the union and improve working conditions.

The two active Connecticut frontons were open for several days before violence on the picket lines led the state to close them down.

Rhode Island's one fronton was closed and out of Florida's 10 frontons, five were open as of Friday, one was re-opening Monday and two were closed because of the strike. Two were closed for the season.

The strike has been marked by charges of racism and union busting, attacks on fans and replacement players, vandalism, claims of unfair labor practices and other accusations.

Parsons takes Winston 500

TALLADEGA, Ala. (UPI) — Phil Parsons held off a last-lap challenge by Bobby Allison for his first Winston Cup victory, capturing the Winston 500 Sunday at the Alabama International Motor Speedway.

Parsons' Oldsmobile beat Allison's Buick by 21-hundredths of a second for his first Winston Cup victory in 110 starts.

"It's been about six years since I won a race," Parsons said. "I just can't say enough for Oldsmobile. The pit did a great job."

Finishing behind the first two were Geoff Bodine, Terry Labonte and Ken Schrader.

Parsons took the lead for good with 15 laps to go when he drove by leader Bodine. They had the two strongest cars in the field.

"Words can't really explain how I feel right now," Parsons said. "It's very special to me. I've been looking forward to this since I was 5 years old."

"I really didn't think that Geoff and I would be able to hook up together like we did. There is no doubt we had the two best cars in the field. I felt confident here all week. I knew when we came here we had a shot at the pole and a good chance to win the race."

LPGA: Rizzo downs Turner in playoff

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Patti Rizzo sank a 10-foot birdie putt on the fifth playoff hole Sunday to edge Sherri Turner and win the $335,000 Sara Lee Classic.

Rizzo, Turner, Kim Williams and Tammie Green finished the three-day tournament in regulation at 9-under-par 207. They moved to No. 18 at Hermitage Golf Course for the first playoff hole and Williams and Green were eliminated with bogeys.

Is this county impressive or what?

Seminole teams claim 7 district crowns; now vie for regional, sectional titles

Last Thursday and Friday was proof positive of how competition in Seminole County is as fierce as anywhere around.

There were nine district championships to be had in those two days with teams from Seminole, Orange, Volusia and Osceola counties competing. In the end, it was Seminole County with seven district titles, Orange one and Volusia one. Is that impressive or what?

The first two district crowns came on Thursday night in the District 3A-6 track meet at Showalter Field in Winter Park. There were two Seminole County teams in the nine-team district — Seminole and Oviedo. Seminole's girls roared to the district title while the boys also won in impressive fashion.

In track action on Friday at Lyman, Lake Mary's girls blazed to first place with Lake Brantley a distant second. The boys meet ended with Spruce Creek (Volusia) winning by three points over Lyman. But, a technicality cost Lyman the meet so it easily could have been the eighth district title for Seminole County.

In baseball on Friday, Lyman High showed just how tough the county is. The Greyhounds, who finished in the middle of the pack in the Seminole Athletic Conference, downed SAC champion Lake Mary, 3-0, one day after dispatching powerful Lake Brantley. In Class 3A District 6, Oviedo's Lions roared past Orlando Edgewater for their third consecutive championship.

Chris Fister

In softball, Seminole County won 2 of 3 titles. In 3A-6, Oviedo ripped Osceola, 8-1. In 4A-5, Lake Mary knocked off SAC champion Lake Brantley, 6-3. The only county loss came in 4A-6 where Lake Howell lost to Apopka (Orange County), 8-6.

The Seminole Athletic Conference has become so competitive and rivalries grown so fierce that it is often easier when the county goes against opponents from other areas. It's not that the other foes are pushovers, it's just that SAC action prepares the teams so well that they are ready for anything.

A year ago, Lake Brantley's softball team finished second in the SAC and went on to second in the state. This year, Brantley was considered a legitimate state contender, only to be ousted by Lake Mary, which finished third in the SAC.

Oviedo finished fourth in the SAC in softball and was never threatened in its three district games. The Lady Lions now have a solid shot of advancing far in the playoffs.

After playing 4A foes such as Lake Mary, Lake Brantley, Lake Howell and Lyman all year, Oviedo's baseball team went into the 3A-6 tourney and had little trouble in winning it all. The Lions did well in the SAC and have the potential to earn a second trip to the state tourney (the Lions went to state in '86).

The Lyman baseball team finished 6-6 in conference play, then knocked off a pair of teams, Lake Brantley and Lake Mary, it lost to twice during the regular season.

In track, Seminole, which beats most 4A competition, totally dominated its district foes. With the Tribe gone from 4A, that left Lake Mary's girls to take charge. Lyman's boys also looked strong and would have won had two shot putters not been disqualified.

This week, the county will try to extend its dominance over opponents from outside the county. With the way things are going, there's a good chance of having quite a few regional champions and sectional champions. And, once again, Seminole County could be in the spotlight come state time.

Rose on melee: Suspend the umpire, too

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Cincinnati Reds manager Pete Rose says if he is suspended for a confrontation with umpire Dave Pallone that turned a crowd into a debris-throwing mob, then Pallone also should be suspended.

After Pallone ejected Rose from Saturday night's 6-5 loss to the New York Mets, hundreds of unruly fans among a crowd of 41,032 forced Pallone himself out of the game by hurling baseballs, golf balls and radios from the stands onto the field.

The game was delayed 14 minutes while litter was cleared from the field and security guards tried to quiet fans. The final four outs of the game were played with Pallone taking refuge in the umpires' room and only three umpires on the field.

Fans had been angered by a Pallone call at first base that permitted the winning Mets' run to score and by Pallone's ejection of Rose.

BASEBALL

Rose pushed Pallone, but contended he had been provoked by Pallone's finger jabbing his left cheek. Rose pointed to a small cut on his cheek to make his case.

"I pushed him and I was wrong," Rose said Sunday. "But if he doesn't touch me, I don't touch him. I'm just glad I didn't react the way I was taught."

Asked what that reaction would have been, Rose just shook his head and said, "I hate to think about it."

Asked if he expected to be suspended, Rose answered, "I'd say it would be fair to suspend both of us," meaning he and Pallone.

"But I have no idea what the odds are of Pallone being suspended," added Rose. "I just hope Mr. Giamatti (National League President Bart Giamatti) asks for my side of the story. There are two sides to every story and I'm the only one who knows for sure that Pallone hit me in the face."

Reds' general manager Murray Cook said he talked by telephone with Giamatti late Saturday night and gave Giamatti a preliminary report on what happened.

"I expect Mr. Giamatti will make a thorough investigation before doing anything," Cook said. "It was pretty volatile for 14 minutes last night and I was surprised so much debris came on the field."

Cook said ballpark security was beefed up for Sunday's Mets-Reds game "for the protection of umpires, players and fans." There were no incidents other than sporadic booing and chanting.

Before the game, Riverfront Stadium public address announcer Jon Braude reminded the crowd that "Cincinnati fans have a reputation for being the best behaved in baseball" and urged spectators to uphold that reputation.

Three uniformed police officers guarded the umpires' entrance to the field and Pallone, who umpired behind the plate, was roundly booed as he came onto the field. Groups of fans sometimes chanted, "Pallone, Go Home" during the game.

Umpire crew chief John Kibler said he had been "afraid" of Saturday night's rowdy crowd.

"It was as unruly a crowd as I've ever seen," said Kibler. "We thought it was best for Pallone's protection that we keep him off the field. In my 24 years of umpiring, I've never seen a game have to end that way."

"People wouldn't stop throwing stuff," said Kibler. "I saw baseballs, lighters and coins thrown onto the field."

Added Mets second baseman Tim Lincecum, "You name it, it was thrown — golf balls, radios, ice, beer. Those fans were mad."

Groos first at marathon trials

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — In four months, Margaret Groos has converted herself from a good 10,000-meter runner to America's top women's marathoner.

Groos earned that distinction Sunday when she ran the fastest American time in more than two years while winning the U.S. Olympic Women's Marathon Trials in 2 hours, 29 minutes, 50 seconds.

Competing in only her third marathon, Groos, 28, broke the Pittsburgh Marathon course record of 2:31:53. Her time also was the first sub-2:30 run by an American woman since 1984 Olympic champion Joan Benoit Samuelson clocked her U.S. record of 2:21:21 in the 1985 Chicago Marathon.

Groos owes her effort to the hard work she has put in since relocating to Tallahassee, Fla., from Nashville, Tenn., in January.

"I haven't missed a hard workout in the last three months," said Groos, who last ran a marathon at the '84 Trials but qualified for the race by posting a sub-33:00 at 10,000 meters. "I haven't missed one day. I've been concentrating on long runs. I worked on starting steady and ending strong."

Her dedication has rewarded her with a trip to September's Seoul Olympics. Joining Groos on the Olympic team will be Nancy Ditz of Woodside, Calif., and Cathy O'Brien of Boston, the second and third finishers.

Strange outlasts Norman in playoff

THE WOODLANDS, Texas (UPI) — Curtis Strange won his third PGA Houston-area event the same way he won twice before — in a playoff.

Strange needed an excellent final round Sunday to beat Greg Norman in the $700,000 Independent Insurance Agent Open. When the two golfers finished regulation play of the PGA event tied for first place, the odds were very much in favor of Strange.

The 33-year-old Strange sank a 25-foot birdie putt on the third playoff hole, beating Norman.

"I feel like I beat the best player in the world," Strange said after becoming the first three-time winner of the event. "I don't guess I'm chopped liver, but I did, as far as I was concerned, beat the best player in the world as well as Tom Kite. I knew I had to go out there and shoot a good round."

Strange and Norman, co-leaders entering the final round, each shot a 67 and completed regulation play tied with a tournament-record 18-under-par 270 to force a playoff for the third straight year.

Strange, coming off a year in which he finished as the PGA's top money winner, won his first event of 1988 in familiar fashion.

Three times he has won in Houston, each time in a playoff. In 1986, he defeated Calvin Peete after three holes and on the same No. 18 that he beat Norman on Sunday. In 1980, Strange defeated Lee Trevino on the first playoff hole of the Houston event.

"You don't lose by backing off," Strange said. "I felt if I would've backed off if I had lost.

Jordan pours in 55, Bulls edge Cavaliers

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Bulls have a perfectly balanced scoring attack in the playoffs, with Michael Jordan getting one half of the points and the rest of the team contributing the other half.

Jordan, who had 50 points in Chicago's 104-83 playoff victory Thursday against Cleveland, added 55 Sunday as the Bulls edged the Cavaliers 108-101 to take a 2-0 lead in their best-of-five first round playoff series.

That's 105 points for Jordan out of the 210 Chicago has scored in the first two games.

"We've got other options, but I was open and guys were getting me the ball," said Jordan, who played 44 minutes Sunday. Jordan became the first player in NBA history to score 50 or more points in consecutive games and set seven Bulls' records, five of them his own.

"I told the coaches on the bench 'We've got to find somebody else to score, we've got to find somebody else to score,'" Chicago Coach Doug Collins said. "But Michael was just in a groove."

"I haven't seen anybody else stop him so why do you think we will?" Cleveland Coach Lenny Wilkens asked. "Anybody that shoots as much as he does is going to score."

BASKETBALL

Wilkens did not mention that Jordan is also making more than 50 percent of his shots in the two games. He is 43 of 80 from the field (54 percent) and is 19 of 19 from the free throw line.

Going home for at least one game Tuesday, the Cavaliers say it doesn't matter how many points Jordan scores as long as the Bulls do not run away from their opponent.

"We were in these two games without stopping him," said Larry Nance, who scored 27 for Cleveland. "If he gets 50 or 60 points and we win, I'll take it."

The Cavaliers were in position to win Sunday until they failed to score on consecutive trips to their end of the floor. With Chicago leading 102-101, Ron Harper missed a short jumper then the Cavaliers missed two shots on the next trip down before Jordan made two free throws, his final 2 points of the game.

"To win, we have to make good decisions. We have to learn when we don't see it, to call timeout," Wilkens said. "We have to play a little smarter. But I liked our attitude. For a young team that's real important. They know the were in both games."

Cleveland had much more balance in its offense, with Brad Daugherty getting 21 points (and 13 rebounds), Mark Price getting 19 (including three 3-point shots) and Mike Sanders getting 15.

Chicago got 17 points from Charles Oakley and 13 points and 14 rebounds from rookie Horace Grant, who is still nursing a sore ankle but played 33 minutes.

Harper, who missed the first playoff game Thursday because of a sprained ankle, scored 10 points in 34 minutes, making just 4 of 15 field goal attempts. He also was on the spot as the man assigned to guard Jordan, who said Craig Ehlo was a better defender against him than Harper.

"Michael will do whatever is necessary to win for his team," Harper said. "We're not having any war of words because we both respect each other too much."

CELTICS DRUB BUCKS

BOSTON (UPI) — Even if New York cannot beat Boston in the playoffs, Knicks Coach Rick Pitino expects his team to study the Celtics' winning ways.

After Sunday's 128-102 drubbing, Pitino said, "We've got to learn our lessons from the Boston Celtics, take what they do well and put it in our repertoire a little bit and keep on battling."

But the fight is nearly over: Boston leads 2-0 in the best-of-five affair and can clinch the Eastern Conference first-round playoff with a victory Wednesday night at Madison Square Garden.

"We've just got to keep swimming," New York's Gerald Wilkins said. "Right now it's an uphill battle and we're at the bottom."

Larry Bird scored 38 points to lead Boston in Game 2 and, as in the series opener, the Celtics used a key surge to take control of the game.

Magic, Lakers dispatch Spurs

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Magic Johnson scored 26 points and triggered a 17-3 third-quarter burst Sunday night, helping the Los Angeles Lakers move within one victory of their fifth straight opening-round playoff sweep with a 130-112 triumph over the San Antonio Spurs.

Michael Thompson, a former Spur, contributed a season-high 29 points off the bench and rallied the defending NBA champions from a 14-point first-period deficit to their seventh victory without a loss against the Spurs this season.

Game 3 of the best-of-five series is scheduled for Tuesday night at San Antonio with Game 4, if necessary, Thursday night at the HemisFair.

Trailing 74-71 with 8:58 left in the third period, Los Angeles ran off 7 straight points, with Johnson concluding the run with a 3-point play that sent Frank Brickowski to the bench with his fifth foul.

After Alvin Robertson, who had 28 points, responded with a 3-point basket for the Spurs, the Lakers recied off a 10-0 burst for an 88-77 edge. Thompson, Michael Cooper and James Worthy finished the spurt with easy layups and the Lakers led 93-81 entering the final period. The Spurs did not come closer than 9 points again.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, playing in an unprecedented 200th playoff game, added 20 points for the Lakers while Worthy had 18. Brickowski had 19 points for San Antonio.

Los Angeles has won 14 opening-round playoff contests without a loss since 1984, sweeping the Kings, Suns, Spurs and Nuggets during that span. The Lakers are seeking to become the first team since the 1968-69 Celtics to win consecutive titles.

Los Angeles committed 12 turnovers in the first quarter of Friday's 122-110 victory and got off slowly again in Game 2. The Lakers missed 11 of their first 17 shots and trailed 30-16 with 1:57 left in the opening period when Walter Berry scored off a rebound.

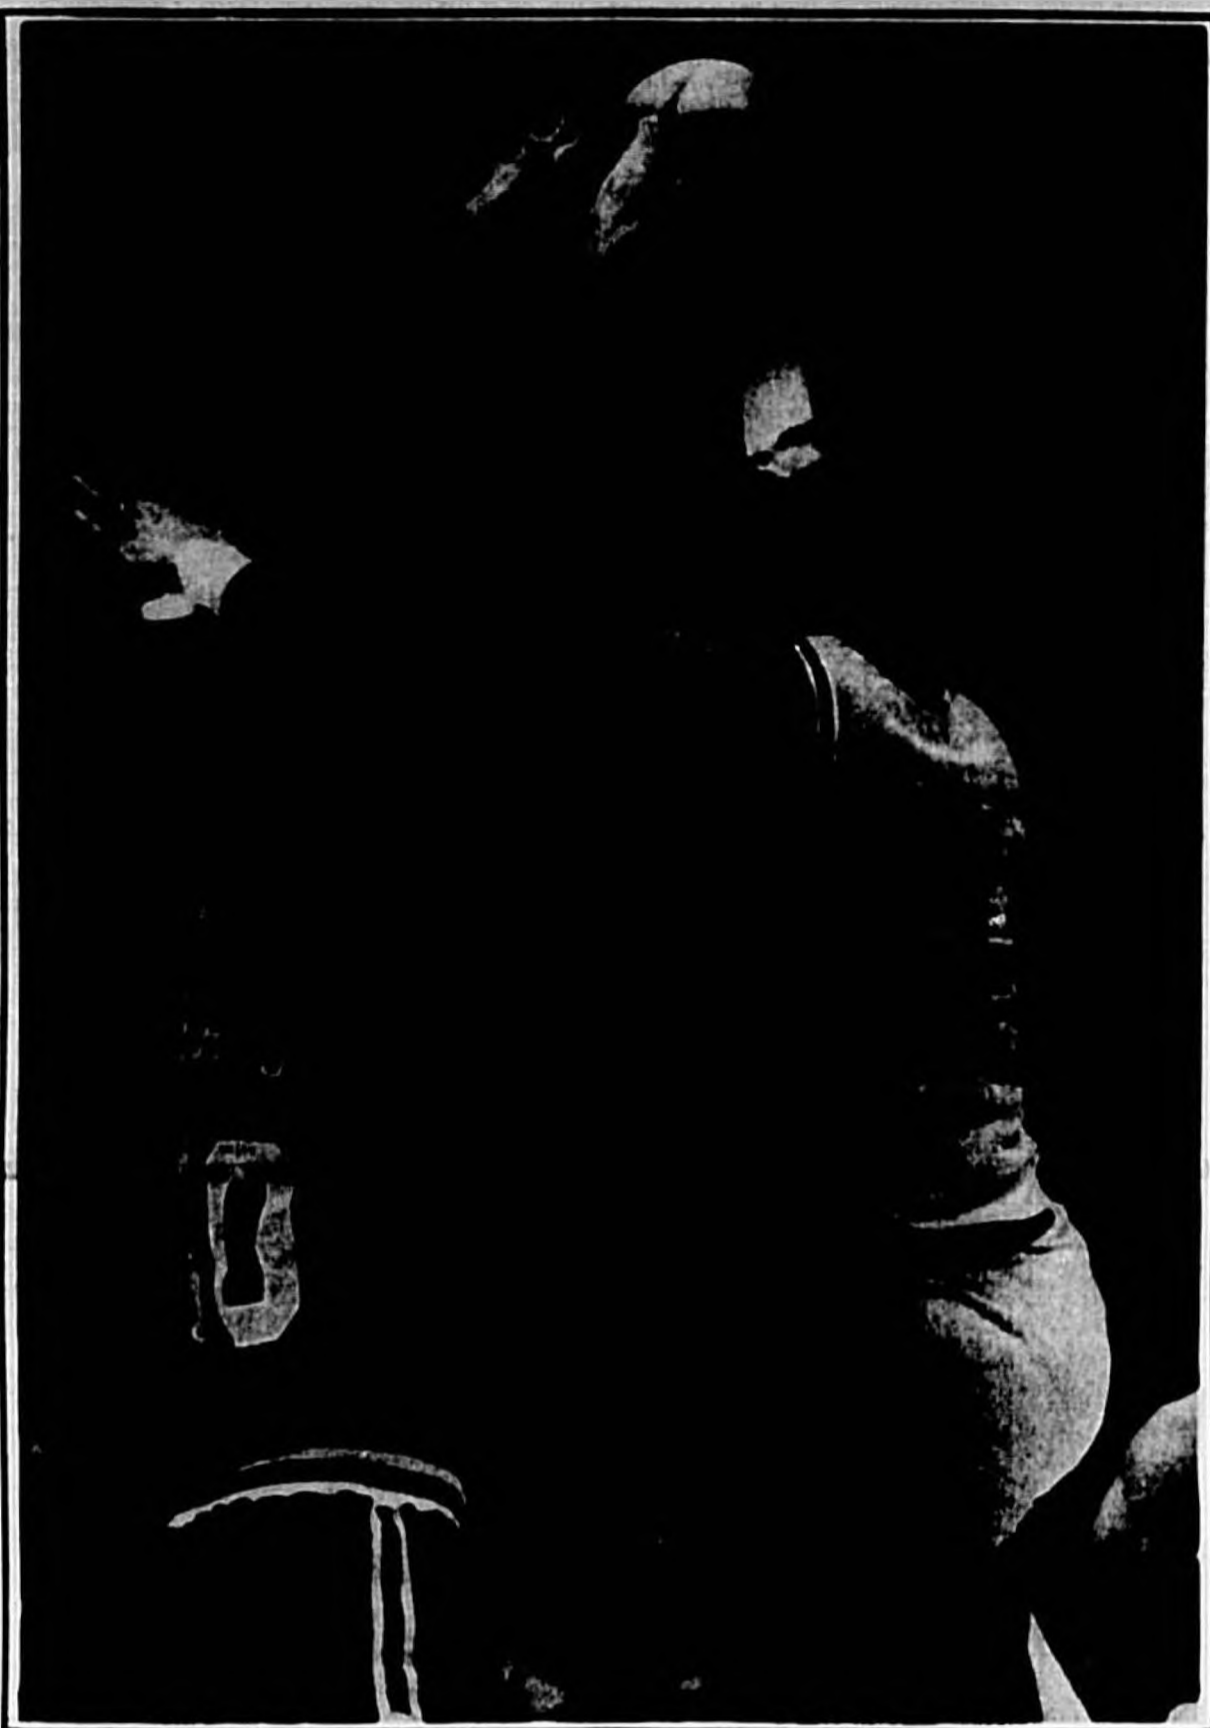

The Spurs got back on defense to thwart Los Angeles' fastbreak, and Robertson had 9 of the Spurs' first 17 points.

However, Los Angeles, which shot just 34 percent in the first quarter, used a 9-2 run to get to within 32-25 after 12 minutes, then began the second period with a 13-5 burst for a 38-37 edge. Neither team led by more than 4 points the rest of the half, with the Lakers taking a 60-58 lead into intermission. Thompson lifted Los Angeles with 13 points and 9 rebounds in the first half.

SONICS RIP NUGGETS

DENVER (UPI) — After pulling out a gritty victory in Game 1 of their Western Conference playoff series, the Denver Nuggets were justified in thinking they had seen the best of the Seattle SuperSonics.

The Midwest Division champions had a change of heart Sunday as the Sonics rolled to a 111-81 victory that evened the best-of-five series at one game apiece.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar goes up for a sky hook over Steve Hayes. The Lakers claimed a 130-112 victory over San Antonio Sunday to take a 2-0 lead in the series.

Wilkins' 43 boosts Hawks

ATLANTA (UPI) — Dominique Wilkins says the main thing the Atlanta Hawks now have to concentrate on in their NBA playoff series with the Milwaukee Bucks is not becoming overconfident.

"Our chances are very good," Wilkins understated after scoring 43 points Sunday night and leading the Hawks to a 104-97 win over the Bucks that gives them a 2-0 edge in their best-of-5 series.

"I think what we have to do now is not underestimate them going into Milwaukee," said Wilkins, looking ahead to Game 3 Wednesday night on the Bucks' home court. "We've got to go in there with the attitude that we're going to win the first game (there)."

"It (being 2-0) takes the pressure off us," Wilkins said. "It adds a little more on them because they have to win one to stay in it."

Despite having their backs to the wall, the Bucks have no intention of throwing in the towel.

"It's very nice to know that we are going back to the Mecca," said Milwaukee center Jack Sikma. "We are down to must wins — and we feel we can do it. The home crowd will definitely help us."

Wilkins, a 6-8 forward who was the No. 2 scorer in the NBA with a 30.7 average but who had some problems scoring over the big Milwaukee defense during the regular season, connected on 15 of 26 field goal attempts and 13 of 17 free throws Sunday night.

"I got my rhythm early," he said. "I felt I could have hit anything I wanted once I got the ball in my territory."

Bucks Coach Del Harris just shook his head when asked about Wilkins' performance. "Dominique Wilkins, what can you say?" Harris asked. "He didn't hit an easy shot all night. He had 43 points and he got them all the hard way."

BULLETS DOWN 2-0

LANDOVER, Md. (UPI) — Against new defenders and a new head coach, Isiah Thomas and the Detroit Pistons are on the verge of making history repeat itself.

Last season, Thomas led the Pistons to a three-game sweep of the Washington Bullets. While the Bullets have added some new guards and hired Wes Unseld as coach in midseason, little else appears to have changed in the intervening 12 months as the Pistons are again poised to sweep the Bullets behind Thomas' spectacular play.

The Bullets hope to prolong their season in Game 3 of the best-of-five Eastern Conference first round series Monday night at the Capital Centre. Only two teams in NBA history have won a best-of-five series after trailing 2-0.

Thomas scored 34 points in a 96-87 victory in Game 1 Thursday and 30 points, including an acrobatic bank shot with 9 seconds remaining, in a 102-101 victory in Game 2 Saturday, the All-Star's 27th birthday.

19 LOBs doom Astros, Expos triumph in 14

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Houston Astros failed to sweep the Montreal Expos because of an inability to capitalize on opportunities.

The Astros stranded 19 runners, left a man at third base seven times and left the bases loaded four times Sunday in losing 7-3 in 14 innings to Montreal.

The Astros played without two infielders and lost a third when second baseman Jim Pankovits was hit in the head by a pitch in the fourth inning.

"It's tough to go that many innings when you're short-handed," Houston Manager Hal Lanier said. "We had people in scoring position. We just didn't do the job. We should have won the game in nine innings."

The Astros' last strong chance dissolved because of lack of bench support. Reliever Jeff Heathcock had to bat with the bases loaded in the 13th inning and Jeff Parrett, 2-0, struck him out.

"We knew they had to keep Heathcock in the game," Rodgers said. "We were going to stay away from (Glenn) Davis. Right now, he's hot. We didn't want him to have the chance to beat us."

Tom Foley delivered a tie-breaking triple and Johnny Paredes hit his first career home run to highlight a four-run 14th inning that enabled Montreal to halt Houston's four-game winning streak.

"This is my best day in the big leagues," said Paredes, who had three hits in six at-bats in the 4-hour, 38-minute marathon. "I hope I can keep doing my job and keep hitting like I did today."

Mitch Webster reached on an error by Heathcock, O-1, to open the 14th and Jeff Reed sacrificed. Foley tripled to right-center field for his third game-winning hit this season.

One out later, Tim Lincecum was walked intentionally before Paredes, playing in his third major-league game, homered to left field.

"He's (Paredes) not going to hit many homers," Expos Manager Buck Rodgers said. "His value is that he's a fine second baseman and a line-drive hitter. He's got the capabilities to play in this league for a long time."

The Astros, who fell behind 3-1 in the top of the 10th, tied

Tudor gives up no-hit bid to save arm

United Press International John Tudor was working on a "no-no" when his arm told him "no way."

The Cardinals' left-hander had pitched no-hit ball against the Dodgers for six innings Sunday when his arm began to stiffen.

Tudor, making his second start since coming off the disabled list, was working on a 75-pitch limit. Manager Whitey Herzog was going to waive it, but Tudor chose to leave after 66 pitches.

"I told him he had a no-no going and he said, 'The heck with the no-no,'" Herzog said after St. Louis' 9-0 romp over Los Angeles. "But the decision was up to him. We would have let him go if he had a no-hitter. We just didn't want to force it any more."

"I would have loved to have thrown a no-hitter but it was only the sixth inning and my arm was tightening up," Tudor said. "I just wasn't going to get there."

After Tudor left for a pinch-hitter in the seventh, reliever Scott Terry allowed the Dodgers' only hit — a line single by

BASEBALL

Kirk Gibson leading off the seventh. No Los Angeles runner reached second base. Terry recorded his first major-league save.

Tudor, 1-0, gave up only two walks and struck out four in his six-inning effort. The St. Louis ace has pitched 12 scoreless innings, allowing only four hits, since being activated April 25.

He worked only one inning in spring training before suffering a stiff shoulder and recurring pain in his right knee injured last year in a dugout collision with Mets catcher Barry Lyons.

"I'm surprised at how well I've been doing since I've had so little work," Tudor said. "I felt pretty good but I felt like this before and gotten hammered for five innings."

"He's an All-Star, a quality pitcher," said Dodgers second baseman Steve Sax. "He's gonna have days like that. We're just not hitting right now, but the worm will turn." While the Tudor-Terry tandem was nearly unhittable, four Dodger pitchers were quite the opposite, allowing 15 hits, including four by Willie McGee. The center fielder has an eight-game hitting streak, going 16 for 34 in that span.

St. Louis sent 11 batters to the plate in the first inning, chasing Tim Lincecum after two-thirds of an inning. Leary, 2-2, allowed four hits, three walks and a balk while being pelted for six runs.

Luis Alcega and Vince Coleman each had a two-run single in the six-run inning.

At Philadelphia, Ozzie Virgil broke an 0 for 20 slump with three hits, adding four RBI to help Atlanta snap a three-game losing skid. Virgil's three-run homer in the fourth off Shane Rawley, O-5, put Atlanta ahead to stay. The Phillies' left-hander has lost his last 10 decisions.

At Cincinnati, Dwight Gooden, 6-0, allowed only four hits in pitching his second shutout and fourth complete game, becoming the National League's first six-game winner. Tim Lincecum, Keith Hernandez and Darryl Strawberry hit consecutive homers in the fifth and Howard Johnson added a three-run blast an inning later.

At San Diego, Al Pedrique had three hits and two RBI after entering the game with a .116 average and one RBI. Pedrique knocked in the Pirates' first two runs with a bases-loaded single off Eric Show. 1-4, John Smiley, 2-2, was the winner and Jim Gott notched his fourth save.

At San Francisco, Kevin Mitchell had a single, double, triple, and two RBI to pace the Giants, who survived a four-run ninth by the Cubs. Altee Hammaker needed just one pitch to get out of a second-and-third jam and earn his third save. Rick Reuschel, 4-1, improved to 7-2 lifetime against his former club.

Athletics rout Indians, run record to 17-7

United Press International The Oakland Athletics are rolling up big numbers this year, the most telling statistic being a major leagues-leading 12-3 record.

"Playing well on the road definitely has boosted our confidence, although you really can't pinpoint any one reason," Oakland's first baseman Mark McGwire said. "You can talk about trends, but the feeling in the clubhouse is the key. And we really believe in ourselves, in this team."

If Oakland doesn't believe in themselves now, they probably never will.

With an overall 17-7 record, the first place A's bombed the Cleveland Indians Sunday 8-4, extending their winning streak to seven games.

By no means do the impressive statistics stop there. Rightfielder Jose Canseco is tied for the league lead in home runs with seven and is second to Dave Winfield with 21 RBI.

On the mound, righthander Dave Stewart has won all six of his starts, while reliever Dennis Eckersley leads the major leagues with nine saves.

With the win Sunday, Oakland completed a two-game sweep of the Indians. However, it wasn't the pressure any better. White Sox 7, Orioles 3 At Chicago, Ivan Calderon's three-run homer keyed a four-run first inning to pace the White Sox. Melido Perez, 2-0, hurled five innings, permitting one run, five hits, three walks and striking out one.

BASEBALL

Twins 2, Red Sox 0 At Boston, Gary Gaetti homered for the third straight day to support Frank Viola's five-hitter. Viola, 3-1, struck out six and walked one en route to his first complete game this season and the eighth shutout of his career.

Tigers 3, Mariners 2 At Detroit, Matt Nokes hit two homers while Jeff Robinson and Guillermo Hernandez combined on a seven-hitter leading the Tigers. Robinson, 3-2, struck out a career-high 11 while Hernandez escaped a bases-load jam in the ninth for his first save since Sept. 9, 1987.

Rangers 6, Yankees 1 At New York, Paul Kilgus scattered six hits over six innings while Al Leiter, 3-1, bailed in a run to lift the Rangers. Kilgus, 3-2, struck out four and walked three. Dale Mohorovic pitched three innings for his first save.

Blue Jays 6, Angels 4 At Toronto, Lloyd Moseby hit a two-run homer while Fred McGriff and Rick Leach each drove in a run which enabled the Blue Jays to snap a six-game losing streak. Dave Steb, 2-3, worked 5 1-3 innings, yielding three runs on nine hits while Tom Henke pitched 1 2-3 innings for his sixth save.

Brewers 10, Royals 6 At Milwaukee, Rob Deer hit a 410-foot grand slam to lead the Brewers. Chris Bost, 4-2, entered the ninth with a five-hitter and gave way for Dan Plesac to record his fifth save.

Market active, prices mixed

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened mixed today in active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which rose 17.24 last week, was up 1.50 to 2033.83 shortly after the market opened.

Declines, however, led advances 431-298 among the 1,142 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Early turnover amounted to about 7,940,000 shares.

The stock market stumbled in the final two days of last week but managed to close the book on April showing a modest gain for the month.

The Dow, which fell 8.95 Friday, finished the week at 2032.33.

For the month, which included a new post-collapse closing high — 2110.08, set April 12 — the blue-chip indicator advanced 44.27 points.

Despite a flood of favorable corporate earnings, the number of investors willing to participate fell sharply last week. On Thursday volume totaled a pathetic 128.7 million shares, the slowest session so far this year.

Dollar drifts higher; gold, silver both drop

by United Press International

The dollar drifted higher in light trading today on major foreign currency markets. Gold fell.

Markets in London and Brussels were closed for a one-day national bank holiday to mark the beginning of May.

In the Far East, the dollar closed at 125.33 yen, up 0.51 from last Thursday's close of 124.82 yen. The Tokyo market was closed Friday for Emperor Hirohito's birthday.

All financial markets in Tokyo will be closed Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday for national holidays. Trading on the Tokyo Foreign Exchange market will resume on Friday, May 6.

In Europe, the dollar opened in Frankfurt at 1.68 West German marks, up from Friday's close of 1.6683.

The dollar began the week in Zurich at 1.397 Swiss francs, up from 1.391, and in Paris at 5.71 French francs, up from 5.671.

In Amsterdam, the dollar opened at 1.885 Dutch guilders, up from 1.875. In Milan it started the week at 1,250.50 lire, up from 1,241.75 on Friday.

In early New York trading, the dollar was higher against most key foreign currencies in light trading.

Traders in New York attributed the dollar's relative strength to expectations of a prime rate increase by major U.S. banks and the lack of trading overseas.

On the bullion markets, gold opened $150 an ounce higher in Zurich at $449.50 an ounce. Silver opened 5 cents higher in Zurich at $6.50 an ounce.

In earlier trading in the Far East, gold closed at $448.75 on the Hong Kong Bullion Exchange, off $1 from Friday's close.

Orders last month increased $3.4 billion to $216.1 billion, compared with $212.6 billion in February and January.

The March gain in factory orders was the largest since a 2 percent increase in December.

All figures were adjusted for seasonal variations.

children will always go to the wood."

Yancey will not go as far as to say, it's wood or nothing at all. However, she does make the position of the SIB clear.

"We are hoping that the commission will see the importance of having wooden playground equipment," she said. "I do know that the Rotary Club, Junior Women's Club, the Sunrise Rotary Club, the Kiwanis Club and the Lions Club, along with the nine members of the SIB, support the wood. That was voted on at our last meeting."

In addition, Yancey said, "We have $9,500 already donated for the beautification of the park from Sister's Inc., the Sanford Women's Club, the Chamber of Commerce, the Garden Club and the Ixora Garden Club. Plus money contributions from community residents."

Yancey said the SIB will not be ready to meet with the commission at its Monday workshop session, but has instead invited the Mayor Bettye Smith, City Manager Frank A. Falson and the city commissioners to meet with the board at its 5 p.m. Wednesday meeting at City Hall.

This will not be a confrontation Yancey said. "We want harmony between the City Commission and the SIB; and I hope whatever we work out, it will be in the best interest of the community."

The playground equipment issue comes on the heels of a recent confrontation between the SIB and Mayor Smith. The ramifications are still being felt, according to Yancey.

"She (Mayor Smith) thought we were overstepping our bounds by pulling (public works) workers off one thing and on to another that we thought was important," said Yancey.

According to Yancey, Mayor Smith threatened to disband the board if the practice continued. It would take a majority vote (three) by the City Commission to disband the board.

While Yancey admits that the SIB was a little overzealous in its approach, in order to get things done, she said the board will remain a viable entity.

"I think the SIB is here to stay," said Yancey. "There are too many people in Sanford who love beautification. We have come a far ways in the last four years in Sanford."

Is Yancey and the SIB discouraged by all the recent happenings?

"No, I think there is a future," she said. "There are a lot of things that haven't been touched yet in Sanford."

"Heck, there was a time when you felt you couldn't get anything done."

square feet of space at the site so that septic tank and parking limitations won't be exceeded.

The commission is also scheduled to vote on accepting a subdivision plat for East Lake Village, a 2.59 acre development on First Place and 14th Avenue, submitted in 1985. According to Nagle, the developer was in the process of completing the replat of an earlier subdivision two years ago and was issued building permits by a former building inspector prior to recording the plat. The homes were sold to individuals, causing a delay in finalizing and recording the plat. Each new property owner and lienholder had to sign the plat in order to dedicate drainage and utility easements.

This has now been done, and Nagle recommends the plat be accepted and the finance director be authorized to release the $5,000 being held in escrow to Braxton Green, president of TNT Financial Corporation, after he reimburses the city for recording costs.

Up for tentative approval is an ordinance revising the city's purchasing ordinance to decrease the amount of bond required for the purchasing director from $500,000 to $20,000. The insurance company has concurred that $20,000 is sufficient and would cost less to maintain.

The ordinance would also give the purchasing director authority to award bids, contracts, and sign purchase orders up to $2,500 and the authority to dispose of surplus supplies, surplus equipment or other property after approval by the city commission and in accordance with state law, and to create regulations against unauthorized purchases.

In other business, the commission will consider site plan approval for the AAA Business Center on Bennett Drive requested by Georglan Construction Company, Inc. and take tentative action on the proposed comprehensive landscape ordinance.

type of training."

She noted the program is continuing to grow so more businesses are needed to sponsor jobs for the youth.

The program came about because Donald P. Ricci, director of Exceptional Student Education in the district, saw the need for exceptional youth to develop skills that would bring them entry level jobs in the work force when they graduated, according to Pierce. "We realized that in the classroom we couldn't duplicate what they'd get at a job site," she said.

Ricci observed a program similar to JET while in Wisconsin. Pierce, said and brought the idea back to Seminole county.

He shared it with other educators and members of the business community who were, in turn, receptive to the idea.

JET has received recognition from other districts in the state. Pierce said. Educators from Polk County observed the program in Seminole County, then set up a similar program there.

JET is not funded by the Seminole county school system alone. The $90,000 for training costs and salaries come from the Developmental Services Division of the state Health and Rehabilitative Services, the Vocational Rehabilitation Division of the Department of Labor and Employment Security, the Private Industry Council of Seminole County, and the State Vocational Educational Department.

Newspaper wins in wiretap case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court handed the Providence Journal-Bulletin a victory today in its battle with a federal judge who tried to stop publication of an article based on government wiretaps of the headquarters of a reputed mob boss.

In a 6-2 decision, the court dismissed the case brought by the federal judge's representative on procedural grounds, leaving intact a ruling by the 1st U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals that overturned contempt citations against the paper.

Justice Harry Blackmun said only the federal government has the authority to bring such an action to enforce a court order and not the federal judge.

"Among the reasons for reserving litigation in this court to the attorney general and the solicitor general, is the concern that the United States usually should speak with one voice before this court, and with a voice that reflects not the parochial interests of a particular agency, but the common interests of the government and therefore of all the people," Blackmun said.

He added that without the "centralization of the decision" to seek hearings before the Supreme Court, the court "might well be deluged with petitions from every federal prosecutor, agency, or instrumentality."

Justice John Paul Stevens and Chief Justice William Rehnquist dissented. The court newest member, Justice Anthony Kennedy, did not participate.

The case began when a federal judge found the Providence Journal-Bulletin in contempt in the spring of 1986 for publishing an article in November 1985 about reputed New England crime boss Raymond "Junior" Patriarca while a temporary restraining order was in effect.

U.S. District Chief Judge Francis Boyle fined Rhode Island's largest newspaper $100,000 and gave its editor, Charles McCorkle Hauser, an 18-month suspended sentence.

The appeals court, in overturning the contempt ruling, noted that in its two centuries of existence, "the Supreme Court has never upheld a prior restraint on pure speech."

City commissioners will also discuss the current problems facing parking at the Sanford Marina. Which has gotten "out of hand" especially on weekends, according to Commissioner Herbert Eckstein. Commissioners have previously discussed charging for parking in the marina area on weekends.

Also on the agenda are:

- A review of municipal parking lot plans.
- Proposed contract for services updating impact fees is to be considered.
- Request for reduction of impact fees by the Gables Hotel.
- Request for reduction of impact fees by Central Baptist Church.
- A consideration of changing traffic lanes on Palmetto Avenue near the post office.

Multiple myeloma can be treated

DEAR DR. GOTT: The clinic finally gave up on me and told me to go back to the doctor who did the bone-marrow business. I'm told I have multiple myeloma and I'm immunoproliferative neoplasms. Is there a cure?

DEAR READER: I am concerned by the almost offhand manner in which you ask your question. You do have a blood-cell abnormality, and this abnormality is serious. However, it is treatable. I cannot believe that the doctors "gave up" on you. Could your misperception reflect the perfectly normal anger and fear you have upon being given such a diagnosis? Get to your doctor right away for a followup.

Multiple myeloma is a form of malignancy involving the plasma cells of the blood and bone marrow. Actually, this disease is made up of two elements. In one, called plasma cell myeloma, the cells form tumors that invade bone. In the other (typical multiple myeloma), the diseased plasma cells make inappropriate amounts of immunoglobulin, a disease-fighting protein. From the body's standpoint, this is too much of a good thing. Therefore, patients with myeloma experience weakness, anemia, kidney failure and immune deficiency.

Two major types of treatment are useful. Radiation therapy will shrink the tumor masses and relieve pain. Chemotherapy is of help in almost all patients and can lead to cures or remissions lasting several years.

I think that it's important for you not to give up on yourself and not to assume that others are going to give up on you. Myeloma is treatable. You can be helped.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report, VIRUSES AND CANCER. Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: A while ago, a reader asked you about support groups for her son who suffers from the type of hearing loss that hearing aids can't help. There is such an organization: Self-Help for Hard of Hearing People (SHHH), 7800 Wisconsin Ave, Bethesda, MD 20814. DEAR READER: Thank you for writing and mentioning this resource.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

I don't sympathize with East's failure to open the bidding. Although much of his strength is in overvalued queens and jacks, and the value of the Q-J doubleton is questionable, he still has 12 high-card points and a six-card suit. I would bid in first position.

South is probably right to bid only three spades after partner's takeout double, and North is wise not to barge into game, but the play for 10 tricks in spades is not that bad. All that is needed is a reasonable diamond division and the club queen with West. In today's deal, correct defense should defeat even three spades, but West foolishly ignored his partner's signal.

After leading his singleton diamond, West was pleased to see East get in with his spade ace and return the diamond three. West ruffed and without a thought banged down ace and a heart. After all, East might have only one heart. Declarer took the king of hearts and shed a club. He ruffed a heart, drew trumps ending in his hand and played a club. When West played low, he rose with the king and lost only one club trick. How did South know to go up with the club king? Since East had passed in first seat and had already shown the ace of spades, Q-J of hearts and Q-J of diamonds, it was impossible for him to hold the club ace and not have opened the bidding. But if West follows his partner's suit preference signal of the diamond three and plays a club before cashing the heart ace, declarer will have to lose five tricks and his contract.

Bridge hand diagram showing North, South, East, and West hands with cards and suits. Includes a vulnerable dealer note and opening lead information.

Dukakis hits back on drug issue

By Anne Baker

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Democratic front-runner Michael Dukakis, with polls predicting a big Ohio primary win, is fighting his rival's charges that he is not tough enough on the drug issue by citing his experience as governor.

After two weeks of almost chummy calls for party unity, the Massachusetts governor now is countering attacks by Democratic presidential candidate Jesse Jackson that he has not explained how he would battle drugs in the United States.

With less than a day before slightly more than 2 million voters in Ohio — and voters in Indiana and the District of Columbia — cast primary ballots, the two Democrats were hopping around the Buckeye State today with last-minute appeals.

Vice President George Bush, who can sew up the nomination with wins today, was scheduled to visit the Ohio cities of Vandalia and Canton but he planned to be back in Washington tonight for a victory party celebrating his reaching the "magic number" of 1,139 delegates needed to win the GOP nomination.

According to the latest United Press International count, Bush now has 1,092 delegates to the Republican National Convention in New Orleans Aug. 15-18 and was expected to go over the top early Tuesday.

Dukakis leads the Democratic delegate race by UPI's count with 1,137.15 delegates to the Democratic National Convention in Atlanta in July, and Jackson has 784.20.

With victories today, Dukakis could pad that lead. Ohio has 159 delegates at stake today and Indiana and the District of Columbia together have 95 delegates at stake.

The Democrats, by a quirk of scheduling, were to visit the same high school near heavily Democratic Cleveland inside eight hours of each other.

The civil rights leader was to rally with students at Parma High School outside Cleveland, and Dukakis planned a stop later in the day.

Jackson also was scheduled to have lunch at the Cleveland City Club, visit Cleveland Heights High School and lead a rally at Cuyahoga Community College. In the evening, he was to lead a rally at St. John Arena in Columbus, home to the Ohio State University basketball team.

Dukakis planned to begin his day at Hughes High School in Cincinnati, followed by a Columbus rally. After the Parma High School stop he was scheduled to go to Boston for the night.

Polls Sunday showed Dukakis could win Ohio by as much as 3-1. The Akron Beacon-Journal and The Columbus Dispatch gave Dukakis 62 percent of the vote and found he increased support from about 40 percent from March polls. The Beacon-Journal poll of 926 registered Ohio voters — conducted between April 20 and 30 with WCMH-TV in Columbus and WKYC-TV in Cleveland — gave Jackson 22 percent of the vote, an increase of about 18 percent from March. The poll had a margin of error of 4 percent.

The Dispatch poll of 1,974 registered Ohioans, taken between April 25 and 29 with a margin of error of 3 percent, put Jackson at 24 percent.

The Beacon Journal poll also sampled voters on the general election and found Dukakis would defeat Bush 44 percent to 34 percent, but the vice president would beat Jackson 49 percent to 32 percent.

In campaigning Sunday, Dukakis hit hard on an anti-drug theme — apparently to counter Jackson's accusation that the governor has not been tough enough on that matter.

Addressing law enforcement officers and later about 300 people in Akron, Dukakis drew on his experience in Massachusetts to call for a better national education program against drugs.

"(We have) a governor's alliance against drugs that I hope we can transform into a national alliance against drugs that brings drug education into the early elementary grades in every school in the country. That's where it has to begin," he said.

Speaking Sunday night to a crowd at Tony Pach's Cafe, a popular tavern in a Hungarian neighborhood of Toledo, Dukakis reiterated his anti-drug stance, saying he would appoint a "drug czar" to oversee operations.
