DOUBLE DATE

Love and marriage—one of the thresholds of life. Approaching it are the happy strides of youth. Beyond it, joy for tears, sorrow for others.

And how long the world has searched for a formula that would test the quality of love . . . a standard that would assure happiness in marriage.

Until finally, with remarkable wisdom, we've begun to realize that it all depends on the individuals themselves.

But, of course, there are no individuals! How can we provide both with the qualities of character that will enrich their marriage?

The Church believes the answer lies in continuous religious training and wholesome boy and girl activities. With deep concern for the individual, the couple, and the community, it is building the character of America's youth . . . safeguarding for tomorrow as well as today the sanctity of marriage, home and family.

Have you a son or daughter? Have they a church?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Science Today

By DELOS SMITH United Press Science Editor NEW YORK—A "VD" expert has addressed himself with startling bluntness to his fellow physicians. He said: "Gonorrhoea continues to be a major communicable disease for the age group 15 to 19. Surprised, anyone?"

For this, doctors are mainly to blame, said Dr. Abraham Gelpin, in senior staff physician of the Veteran's Administration Hospital in Chicago. Now that this "VD" can be cured easily, doctors make light of it and many don't report their cases to public health authorities.

Monthly Contacts This cripples the science of epidemiology, he continued. That science traces the patterns by which communicable diseases spread among people in order to interpose blocks to prevent spread. In VD, this involves identifying the "contacts" of infected persons so they can be located and treated before they become spreaders themselves.

Goldwyn predicted the nation was going to have pay TV—"and nothing is going to stop it, not FCC, nor Congress, or anyone else, because the people want it."

Sanford-Titusville Canal Prospects Appear Optimistic

A heartening and optimistic stage in the plans for the Sanford-Titusville Canal has been reached.

Only yesterday the Corps of Engineers, Rivers and Harbors Board announced that "more time is needed to study the evidence presented before the Board of Engineers at a recent hearing."

This announcement has caused officials to become a bit more optimistic toward the probable outcome of the recent hearing. They are now looking forward to the announcement approving the proposed canal extending from Sanford to the Indian River from the St. Johns River.

Data and evidence was submitted at last Monday's hearing before the Board of Engineers supporting the approval of the canal.

To estimate the number of words and the amount of evidence submitted would hardly be possible. Rather, one could say that there were "stacks" of information placed on the desk of the board's secretary to be weighed in evidence and taken into consideration in the possible approval.

The hearing was described by some as of "tremendous proportions" and even described by some who had attended other hearings of similar nature as being "unprecedented." This is the first step toward realizing a favorable approval of the Sanford-Titusville Canal.

The next step, we expect, will be the approval of a dream that has existed over 60 years—and as evidenced at the recent hearing—was once approved for construction in 1859 by the State of Florida.

People Make Economic Salvation

Are the people of the United States smart enough to learn by experience?

Samuel Lubell, an analyst of the state of mind in the United States, says that "the public's strongest single desire is for a halt in the upward spiral of prices, wages, and profits"—that people are strongly opposed to another nation-wide round of wage boosts because they would mean price boosts.

In a statement before the Senate Finance Committee, Bernard M. Baruch said: "We are now suffering a hangover after a long inflationary binge. As in always the case with hangovers, we have only ourselves to blame. More of the 'hair of the dog' is no remedy. It only increases suffering and delays recovery."

"If industry and labor continue to push up wage, price, and profit levels they will price themselves out of the market. Consumer resistance will grow, further depressing economic activity and adding to unemployment."

"Nothing would be more effective in turning the tide than to halt the never ending spiral of wages and prices. The best stimulant to our economy would come from price reductions. The consumer, who has no lobby or bargaining agent, is belatedly rebelling against having every wage and cost increase passed on to him."

"In the last analysis, we face a test of character and common sense. Nothing is more dangerous than this notion that economic salvation lies through Government intercession. Let us not turn always to the Government for succor, but remember rather that a free government depends upon the people for sustenance."

"If industry and labor continue to push up wage, price, and profit levels they will price themselves out of the market. Consumer resistance will grow, further depressing economic activity and adding to unemployment."

What! Business Is Down?

"Yes, sir," said the highway motel owner, "business is down, 'way down! And I mean down. This recession is sure putting the skids under things."

"But, every time I drive by I see a 'No Vacancy' sign on your motel," said the tourist.

"Oh, sure," said the motel owner. "We're turning 'em away all the time—10 to 15 a night. But, heck, we used to turn away 15 to 20 a night. It's a lucky night these days if I get to turn away 15 or 20. Yes, sir, I mean business is DOWN." (Shreveport Times)

"The latter establishment is presided over by curly-haired Jack Langan, the bartender—master of ceremonies—and janitor. He also is working on a novel and a TV series.

A tall bearded youth in his middle 20s shuffles across the saw-dust covered floor in thick-soled boots, sits down at a table and opens a paperback book of Shelley's works and sips six per cent.

Passport Office Methods Changed

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—There isn't much good news going these days, so how would it be to hear a word of cheer from Miss Frances G. Knight?

Miss Knight is the director of the Passport Office of the Department of State.

The good word from Miss Knight is that she has revamped the methods and modernized the equipment of the passport office during the next two years.

The government's general Service Administration estimated that these savings last year amounted to $200,000, which is not a great sum when piled against the multi-billion dollar spending which appears now to have been added on the taxpayers until the end of time.

Neither is it hay, however, and the conserved sum looks even more attractive by reason of Miss Knight's informal explanation that additional savings were obtained because the passport office averaged an increase of 5.5 per cent in work productivity per employee in 1957. Moreover, Miss Knight expects her employees to absorb a 5 per cent additional increase in their workload during the next two years.

News of such administrative economies is scarce in Washington despite assurances from the top executive officials that waste shall be wrung from the operations of the government. The top brass either does not mean it or appears now to have been added the comparatively small leaks as Miss Knight plugged that one in her office.

While she was about it, Miss Knight modernized and improved the conditions under which the citizens can obtain a passport. For example, the citizen applying for a passport no longer need be accompanied by a witness to testify to his identity. And, if he desired, the citizen may pay his passport fee by personal check.

Miss Knight's methods have reduced from many weeks to 4½ days the time necessary to issue a passport.

Miss Knight's reforms and modernization of the passport office make a lot of sense. A taxpayer might think it a good idea to expose other agencies of government to Miss Knight, especially any in which the productivity per employee has diminished instead of increased.

Open Door Policy Spreads In U. S.

PROVO, Utah. Many staffers at Utah State Hospital drew a deep breath when they took 26 patients of Ward 5 on a picnic. Ward 5's patients, all men, had never been beyond locked doors since their admission. Some had been there for 20 years. One man had spent 18 years in a steel cell.

Accompanied by a party of psychology students from Brigham Young University, off-duty attendants, volunteers and others, the patients spent the day at a nearby canyon—without incident. The veterans of the steel cell talked more than he had for years.

The picnic marked the final step in a new process of mental healing in Utah—the "open door" policy, wherein mental patients have the same freedom as patients in any hospital.

The "open door" widely adopted in Britain, is coming into use in the U. S. in some areas where the plan is considered feasible. Such a plan requires integrated and co-ordinated psychiatric services in the hospital and a tolerance toward the mentally sick.

Wherever it has been put into practice, patients showed considerable lessening of tension, better response to treatment, and a larger percentage of recoveries. To make the open door policy effective, however, psychiatrists

HOLLYWOOD—The Hollywood partygiver isn't passing out gems with the desert these days and it must be pretty disappointing to the die-hard movie fan who remembers the old days.

Taxes aren't the only reason the movie kings and queens have cut down on the splashy, "help-yourself-to-a-diamond-there" type of parties which were the vogue a few years ago.

The explanation? "Celebrities have become more attuned to the world around them and their taste has improved," says forist party consultant Stanley Medeiros, whose customers include Joan Crawford, Cary Grant, Loretta Young and scores of other personalities.

"The stars have learned they don't have to float a barge down the Nile to have a party or arrive at Ciro's on an elephant to set the proper 'party' tone," he said.

No Time For Watches
"It was nothing to pass platters of wrist watches at the dinner table as a favor for the evening a few years back.

"Fifteen years ago with the easy emphasis the need for wider treatment, supervision and some 'purposeful activity' such as light work around the hospital, occupational therapy, games and other recreations designed to maintain the patients' interest.

Beat Behavior

Novelist Henry Miller calls these non-conformist young men a "more potent, stimulating force than the most eloquent and vociferous artists."

"Beat little bums" is what San Francisco columnist Art Cohn called them before he was killed in a plane crash.

"Occasionally a writer of talent, or a musician of note, might climb out of the clutter, but largely what they create is garbage," wrote columnist Robert Ruark.

Jack Kerouac, one of the main spokesmen for this atomic age "Lost Generation," wrote in what he called his philosophical final statement:

"I don't know and I don't care and it doesn't make any difference!"

Michael McClure, poet, put it this way: "Being beat means putting down rejecting possessions for their own sake. It's a re-acceptance of feelings. If I can't set it, or sit on it, or sit on it, I don't want it."

Most of San Francisco's "Beats" live in North Beach, a thickly populated valley running between Telegraph and Russian Hills northward to Fisherman's Wharf. It's traditionally the home of San Francisco's big Italian population and Bohemian set.

The Beats, or hipsters as they call themselves, migrate back and forth between Vesuvius, which offers "booths for psychiatrists," the Coastline Bagel Shop, where only squares order bagels, and a little bar on upper Grant Ave. known simply as "The Place."

The latter establishment is presided over by curly-haired Jack Langan, the bartender—master of ceremonies—and janitor. He also is working on a novel and a TV series.

A tall bearded youth in his middle 20s shuffles across the saw-dust covered floor in thick-soled boots, sits down at a table and opens a paperback book of Shelley's works and sips six per cent.

When a wealthy man—about Hollywood wanted to surprise his lady friend with a milk coat, Medeiros delivered her the pellets intricately tied to a dancing white orchid tree.

At actor Dan Dailey's birthday party for his wife, guests were presented coronas in which they found golf balls and folding money for greens fees.

Medeiros made up a special order for the 19th Humphrey Bogart when he was hospitalized with cancer—a tree of red carnations and cigarettes perched on an antique chessboard set for a game.

Some 200 in a party... are... and if asked what it means, he replies irritably, "It means what it says."

A youth wearing a short jacket with large elbow patches enters with a pair of beanie drums and begins tapping out a jungle beat at a table. He was formerly in advertising.

Tried on Jim Crow
A slender brunette who appears like, and is, a former society girl at a Midwest university comes in with a good-looking Negro man. Later, two other white girls enter with Negroes for escorts and they are warmly welcomed by the others. This is another aspect of "Beat" known as "Crow-Jumping."

A youth in a corduroy jacket converses at the bar with a well-dressed couple, obviously unbeat tourists. "Do you write?" they ask. He answers "Yes." And the next question is whether he has had anything published.

Again he answers yes and it so happens the young poet has a copy of his latest work with him. A sale is made for $5 or so. He sells only enough to keep him in funds for a day or two. As a poet and he would be vulnerable to a "touch" by his fellow Bohemians.

Sometimes at closing time a half-dozen members of the group buy a gallon jug of Burgundy and have an impromptu party. This may be held in somebody's room, or "pad," on the steps of Col. Tower stop Telegraph Hill, or on the roof of an apartment building where they can yell as loud as they want—as long as they don't stamp their feet.

Stamps their feet.

Today's Sports Parade

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK — Saturday will be a bad day for the Irish — as well as the Fifth Avenue beauty salon set and the breed improvers along Kentucky's Versailles Pike.

These three contingents are horse happy over a trio of favorites in the Kentucky Derby. Their chargers are Silky Sullivan, choice of every Celt from Cork to California; Jewel's Reward, Cosmetic Queen Elizabeth Arden Graham's Mudpack Beauty, and Tim Tam, mighty Calumet's bluegrass bet.

So you can imagine their consternation, financial and otherwise, when an outsider named Belleau Chief gallops off with the American Beauties and the boodie.

Worst Show

It figures to be the worst blow to the Irish in 113 years, or since the potato famine of 1848. Fuses will blow in every beauty salon from coast to coast and Calumet may go back to raising trotters.

Because from my reserved seat in the "knock down the favorites club" it looks from here like Belleau Chief might be able to get the job done. The biggest knock against him is that he'll be losing seven pounds more than he ever carried before but, after all, he's as strong as a horse.

The Chief has one big item in his favor in that he is a late-running colt and by this it isn't meant that he runs late. That's a phrase us horse park experts use when we mean a hayburner has late foot, or comes on strong at the finish, to use unaccustomed English.

His last three races prove this point. In the Florida Derby, at a mile and an eighth (us experts would say a mile and a furlong) he was 11 1/2 lengths back at one stage and still finished fourth. In his next start, at a mile and a sixteenth, he was ninth and dead last at the quarter and came on to beat Lincoln Road by a neck.

Then, last Saturday in a seven-eighths of a mile race (us experts say seven furlongs or seven panels) the Chief was six lengths back at the finish and out-galoned Silky Sullivan. He beat Gene Fishin', who might as well have been, with Lincoln Road third and the great Silky fourth.

Some critics will argue that in another three-eighths of a mile, the Derby being a mile and a quarter, Silky would have come on and beaten the Chief or, as us experts say, put him away in the stretch drive.

Fast Selections

Others will point out that Fearless Fraley's past selections in what our set refers to as the run for the roses were such recent plus factory candidates as Countermarch, who ran 17th in the Derby, weren't 18 horses in the field; Sea O Erin, a neat 18th by beating two colts; Correspondent, who ran fifth and kept getting fiftier, and Cold Command, who beat all but eight horses.

I must confess there is another factor in this selection. Belleau Chief is owned by Mrs. Lora Birr of Indianapolis. Mrs. Birr is the mother of my old Indianapolis 800 pal, Jim Birr, a former Indiana football and basketball star. Confidentially, I hope the Chief can run better than him, who once stood for mayor out there.

That's not the reason old Fearless is picking Belleau Chief, of course. Even after Silky Sullivan, Tim Tam and Jewel's Reward run one-two-three in some order or other I'll still like the Chief. The reason should be obvious.

ONE OF THE STARS of the Cypress Gardens Water Ski Show that will be featured at Indian Lake Estates on May 4 is Nansie Rideout, 14 World's Women's Jumping Champion. Indian Lake Estates is the new country-club development near Lake Wales on Highway 60.

ARE HIGH PRICES STRANGLING THE PAINT INDUSTRY?

In the inflationary trend of paint prices necessary? Not based on material cost versus sales price! According to the U. S. Department of Labor, paint prices increased 18 times as much as the material used in making it from September, 1947 to 1951. Linseed and egg oil, primary paint ingredients, are actually down 44% and 29%.

Is labor responsible? No! Automation and new equipment advances make it possible to achieve even lower unit production cost than in 1947, even with increased hourly wages?

My company eliminates or reduces 18 profit and costs that amount to more than cost of the paint itself. Then I share all these savings with my huge family of friends!

Yes, at any branch of mine I give you a free can of fine paint with every one you buy — gallon or quart — at no extra charge. $4.99 gallon up.

Will Rebel 300 Rival Famed Southern 500?

DARLINGTON, S. C. — With a bulging advance ticket sale for Saturday's May 16 Rebel 300 mile convertible stock car race already in the air, Bob (Curly) Colvin, Darlington's general manager for whom the word "optimist" was coined, turned negative when asked to compare the Rebel 300 with the Famous Labor Day Southern 500 at Darlington.

"With the demonstrated interest in the 300," Colvin answered, "I know it is easy to feel that the Rebel 300 will come day out-draw the 500 and much as I'd like to see it, there's too many drawbacks," the man who has made a trade-mark out of a bald head continued. True to his optimistic reputation the racing poo pah listed the "assets" first. "People like the 300 because it is shorter and faster than the 500, and they can see the driver in the open all the time. Fans can leave home, see the race and get back all in the same day.

"We're getting ticket orders from across the mountains, too," Colvin explained, "Ohio, Maryland, Alabama and such places and we're snowed under with added features, such as the Festival and beauty contest are on Labor Day. This Miss Dixie twirling contest is bringing entrants and people from even Texas and Arkansas."

Still smiling and nodding his head "yes" Colvin's voice dropped as he took the negative side. "To all this place you need a holiday at the end of a week-end and Saturday is not the day," still optimistic the planner added, "May 16 is Confederate Memorial Day but would you know it isn't a legal holiday in South Carolina and we're the only people in the South commemorating the day and we'll keep the date in place of a dozen other legal holidays," Colvin stated. "That knocks out everyone work-

Crooms Track Team Takes Eight Firsts In Meet At Daytona

The Crooms Academy Track Team, the first fielded in the history of the school, took eight first place honors and one third place honor, in a meet held at Bethune-Cookman College, Daytona Beach.

Despite the lack of experience in this type of athletic event, the Crooms Academy team gave a superior performance, according to Head Track Coach H. Meadows and his assistant C. B. Franklin.

The team returned to Sanford with two trophies and a record established for future eidermen and women of the school.

In the final results of the meet Columbus Burke took first place in the 75-yard dash; Willie James Davis took first place in the 100-yard dash event; Eugene Sutton was first in the shot-put event; Roosevelt Collins was first in the baseball throw competition; Jeannette Bacon, one of the girls team members, won first place in the 80-yard dash; Emma Wilson, another of the girls' team, was first in the baseball throw; John L. Bacon took first place honors in the broad jump; and Malverne Dunwoody took third place honors in the 50-yard dash.

Hall-Of-Famer Walsh Honored By Admirers

FORT LAUDERDALE — Baseball Hall-of-Famer Ed Walsh, gray-haired and crippled with cancer, broke into tears Wednesday when 14 admiring young Connecticut Pony Leaguers visited him at his suburban home.

The youngsters, aged 13 and 16, voluntarily paid most of their own expenses down from Walsh's former home town, Meriden, Conn., to play a special game honoring the ex-Chicago White Sox star pitcher.

Later, Walsh will be honored on his 77th birthday with a testimonial dinner May 14th. Some of the nation's top sports figures will be present.

Walsh, known as the "Moose" during his heyday when he won 41 games one year, was unable to meet the Connecticut team at the airport. He is confined to a bed or wheel chair. Once a strapping 210 pounder, he now weighs a mere 120.

Among those expected for the dinner May 14th are Rocky Marciano, who met the Connecticut team's plane Wednesday, Darry Vance, Red Grange, Ty Cobb, Paul Winter and J. G. Spink of the Sporting News.

Losing That Tired Feeling
Some people always feel tired and all "beat up". Besides being unpleasant, this interferes with work and even happiness. People overwork by personal initiative blame is on overwork, but this isn't always the answer. Many people work hard, and yet do not seem to be easily fatigued. The answer is that these people are "fit". The human body's energy has to be continually restored. If such restoration does not take place, there is lack of power and vitality. The principal means of re-energizing the body is through the eating of a well-balanced diet and sufficient sleep and relaxation. The human body requires many food components, and these cannot come from any one particular source. A well-balanced diet is one which includes fruits, vegetables, eggs, cheese, milk, meat, and whole wheat products. Sleep affects overnight repair, and 8 to 9 hours are necessary, depending upon the individual. The brain and nervous system are impaired if there is an undue amount of worry or nervous tension. Good diet and sleep cannot bring full vitality if the nerves, which branch from the spinal cord through openings between the vertebrae, are irritated by pressure. Interference with the flow of the nerve force can bring a feeling of tiredness. Chiropractic treatment, by restoring normal nerve function, enables the body to readily adjust to the hurry and worry of this high pressure age. A relaxation routine, a good night's sleep is followed by keen appetite and body restoration takes place which enables one to meet the problems of each day as a new challenge for enjoyable living.

Investigation Shows Women Not Good Solving Problems

By DELOS SMITH
United Press Science Editor
NEW YORK — A scientific investigation has verified something long suspected of women. When it comes to solving problems, they're not very good and they're not nearly as good as men. But the investigation showed this wasn't because their reasoning powers are weaker than men's, as many authorities have asserted. Women aren't much good at solving problems because they don't much care whether problems are solved or not, the investigation found. When persuaded to buckle down to working on problems, women did quite well solving them. Keeps Her Out
All this information emerged from elaborate experimentation with living specimens and with living men, too designed by a female psychologist. Naturally since she is a scientist, Dr. Gloria L. Carey of Swathmore College, kept her "sex bias" out of it. Dr. Carey experimented with 12 women and 12 men. Both groups had been found to be equal in matter of intelligence, aptitudes for mathematical thinking and for expressing themselves, and in abilities to comprehend what they heard and were told. Her first picking from testing their minds comparatively was a clear demonstration that the men really wanted to solve problems and the women, in general, didn't. Stimulate Interest
Then followed an experimental step which involved a well concealed effort to increase the interest of both men and women in problem solving. After that, both were given more problems to solve. The women improved a great deal, the men hardly at all. Dr. Carey thought this showed that all women needed in order to solve problems as effectively as men was the desire to do so. Reporting to the American Psychological Assn., she pointed out that women often say they're not up to it when asked to solve a problem.

Economic Situation Of Man-in-Street In Indonesia Bad

SETOYO'S NOTE: The worsening economic situation of the Indonesian man-in-the-street is shown in some instances in Setoyo's account of the revolt in Sumatra. The following dispatch shows the situation in detail.
By ARNOLD BEBELS
United Press Staff Correspondent
JAKARTA — Times are tough for Mohammed, an elementary school teacher, and his family of four.
Mohammed makes 1,200 rupiahs a month which is worth $10 on the black market. But the rate is the dollar makes very little difference to Mohammed. It's what the rupiah will buy that counts and that's where things are really beginning to bind.

As with most West Javanees, the staple of Mohammed and his family is rice. It takes about four pounds of rice to feed them each day and the cheapest he can get that amount of rice for is 15 rupias, about a third of his daily earnings. Last year he could get it for half that much.

Inflation a Problem
Inflation in Mohammed's country rose at a slow rate until late last year when it started sharply. Then came the anti-Dutch campaign, followed by the revolt in Sumatra.
With the anti-Dutch moves came the takeover of the vast Dutch colonies in the East Indies, which Setoyo says is a source of the "evil" economic situation.

Setoyo, if all comes to a stop, better trade has been replacing currency operations and has caused an influx of 25 per cent which previously paid export and import duties to the central government, only 15 are now operating.
Buying power has all but dried up. Unemployment is at a dangerous point, but as in most Asian countries, reliable figures are hard to get. There is a good deal of unemployment in the East Indies, but Setoyo says it is a source of the "evil" economic situation.

Military expenditures are skyrocketing and to make up for rising deficits, the government has resorted to the expedient of printing more money.
It is traditional at the end of the Ramadan fasting month April 31 for the Mohammedans to buy new clothes for their families, just as Westerners buy linen for Easter.
But this year Mohammed and his family will have to go without.
