Lake Mary Approves Budget With Tax Cut

By Paul C. Schaefer
Herald Staff Writer

A property tax rate cut and the accompanying $1.99 million budget for the new fiscal year was adopted by Lake Mary's city commission Thursday night. Residents attending the meeting greeted the official adoption with a sprinkle of applause.

The new tax rate and budget become effective at the start of the fiscal year Oct. 1.

Although the new tax rate is 17.88 percent higher than the "rollback" rate, the amount that would be needed to generate the same tax revenues as the previous year, increased property assessments and new property on the tax rolls offers a rate cut for city residents.

The tax rate is $3.89 per $1,000 of assessed property valuation, ten-cents per $1,000 below the 1985-86 rate of $3.99. The rollback rate is $3.30 per $1,000.

The new tax rate is expected to yield $635,646 of the nearly $2 million budget. The balance of revenues comes from city franchise fees, utility taxes, and state funds.

The city's tax base is $163 million, according to city treasurer Madeline Minns.

The adopted rate is well below the original tax rate suggest by Mayor Dick Fess in June. His recommendation then included a tax rate increase to $4.33 per $1,000 of property valuation. However, the commission made spending cuts during budget work sessions since, to effect the rate cut.

In July, commissioners made a $40,000 cut to spending allocations for the city's computer system, and added a projected income figure of $68,000 for voluntary contributions expected to come from three major construction projects in the city.

Commissioner Charlie Webster was the first of the panel to voice an objection to the proposed tax increase earlier this summer. Webster's original goal was to not raise taxes, and lobbied fellow commissioners for the computer system funding cuts in July. He indicated Thursday that he is pleased with the rate cut.

The new tax rate and budget was the subject of little discussion, and was unanimously approved for adoption.

2 Tractor-Trailer Rigs In Highway Mishaps

Truckers' luck ran out in the Sanford area Thursday with two big-rig drivers having accidents about the same time.

In the city, a northbound tractor-trail rig owned by First Coast Trucking of Jacksonville left the road while driving on U.S. Highway 17-92 just south of Park Avenue. The vehicle rumbled across the median and came to rest with its

The incident occurred around 9:50 a.m. Identity of the driver and whether charges were filed was not available early today.

In the other incident, a truck carrying a load of roof trusses tipped over on an Interstate 4 entrance ramp to Lake Mary Boulevard after the load shifted (photo left).

The truck, sporting a "How Is My Driving?" tag, blocked the Orlando-bound Lake Mary entrance of I-4 around 9:50 a.m.

Driver of the vehicle, Walter Sebastian, 29, of Sanford was not injured. No charges were filed.

According to a Lake Mary Police report, the shifting load pulled the trailer onto its side while lifting the rear of the tractor off the ground. The trailer and tractor were not damaged, police said.

The trusses were made in Sanford.

2nd American Kidnapped In Beirut In 72 Hours

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — An American employee at the American University of Beirut was kidnapped at gunpoint today from inside the campus in Moselem west Beirut, police sources and witnesses said.

Cicipio's kidnapping followed the abduction of American Frank Reed by about 72 hours and brought to five the number of Americans abducted and missing in Lebanon.

No group immediately claimed responsibility for the abduction.

Joseph Cicipio, 51, deputy controller of the university, was kidnapped shortly before 7 a.m. after leaving his seventh-floor apartment in the school's faculty building, they said.

A witness, who declined to be named, told United Press International five gunmen had sneaked inside the campus and one of them locked up the guard on duty inside the building's lobby.

When Cicipio came down from the seventh floor, he was hit on the head and carried to a car waiting outside the campus gate, the witness said.

A janitor who saw Cicipio being carried away thought the American had suffered a heart attack and approached to help without realizing Cicipio was being kidnapped.

The gunmen took the janitor inside the lobby and locked him with the guard, the witness said. They were both taken later to the Hobeish police station for questioning.

Police Lt. Youssef Medlej said Cicipio was kidnapped by unidentified gunmen but gave no further information.

A friend said Cicipio is married to a Lebanese woman, Elham Ghandour, and is a close friend of American hostage David Jacobean.

A relative of the family told reporters who tried to interview the victim's wife that "Mrs. Cicipio is sick in bed; she cannot see nor talk to anybody." She refused to let anyone inside the apartment house.

Reed, 53, of Medford, Mass., director of the Lebanese International School, was kidnapped Tuesday in west Beirut.

The pro-Iranian Islamic Jihad organization has said it is holding three of the missing Americans: Jacobean, 55, of Huntington Beach, Calif., administrator of American University Hospital; Terry Anderson, 38, chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press; and Thomas Sutherland, 54, a Scottish-born American from Colorado

Brains Behind Cockroach Control

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Development of an insecticide from the chemicals inside the brain of a cockroach may someday doom the nation's No. 1 pest to self-destruction, a researcher says.

The Agriculture Department said Thursday that cockroaches produce chemicals in their brains that could eventually lead to self-natural pestilence.

Controlling cockroaches has been hampered by their ability to develop resistance to conventional insecticides.

In a scientific interview, Dr. James J. Oehl, an entomologist at the department's Entomology and Plant Quarantine Laboratory in College Station, Texas, said researchers are studying the brain chemistry of cockroaches to find a way to control them.

Oehl's research group has identified a chemical in the brain of cockroaches that is essential for their survival. The chemical is called GABA and is found in the brain of many other insects.

carry more than 30 types of harmful bacteria and more than a dozen parasites. An estimated 7 percent of the U.S. population is allergic to the body fragments that molting cockroaches shed.

Oehl said they have isolated and copied in the laboratory a number of different chemicals known as neurotransmitters that control normal cockroach behavior. The chemicals are being tested to see if they can be used as insecticides.

SEA Endorses Neiswender For Board

The Seminole County Teachers' organization has made a new endorsement in the county school board race, following the defeat of their first choice candidate in the three-way Sept. 2 primary.

The Seminole Education Association's political action committee has endorsed former county schools personnel director Ann Neiswender, 42, Paola, for the District 5 seat held by incumbent three-term board member Jean Bryant, 60, Sanford.

Mrs. Neiswender quit her personnel director's job last spring to run.

The endorsement comes after the defeat of Seminole High School teacher Whitely Eckstein in the primary race. The SEA had originally endorsed Eckstein.

Since neither Mrs. Neiswender or Mrs. Bryant collected 50 percent of the vote in the primary, they square off in a general election run-off for the seat.

Marshall Ogletree, SEA executive director, said a financial contribution to Neiswender's campaign did not accompany the endorsement. District 1 candidate Larry Betsinger, 43, Longwood, got $1,000 for his race against incumbent Bill Kroll, 44, Longwood, and Eckstein, 41, Sanford, was given $800.

Ogletree said the SEA is attempting to raise funds to make additional contributions, "but right now the coffers are depleted."

41 Hurt In Paris Bomb Blast

PARIS (UPI) — A bomb blast tore through a department store cafeteria crowded with shoppers at lunchtime today in a Paris suburb, injuring 41 people, two of them seriously, officials said.

There was no immediate claim of responsibility but police said the bomb appeared to be the same type bomb that exploded at the Paris City Hall Monday, killing one person and injuring 18. An Arab group took credit for that bombing.

Police said Friday's bomb appeared to have been in an iron box placed under a bench in the third-floor cafeteria of the Casino department store. The store is part of the sprawling Quatre Temps shopping center in the commercial Defense suburb 2 miles west of Paris.

The bomb exploded at about 12:30 p.m., devastating a 60-square-foot area and sending debris flying through the crowded cafeteria as shoppers were eating lunch.

Police said 39 people suffered minor injuries and two people were seriously hurt. Interior Minister Charles Pasqua rushed to the scene and said police were "actively searching" for a young man who witnesses said fled the scene.

Stocks Plummet Record Loss For Dow

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stock prices nose-dived Thursday with investors adopting a drab outlook on interest rates and corporate profits. The Dow Jones industrial average racked up a record loss in Wall Street's heaviest trading ever.

"The party's over, and the hangover's going to last for the rest of the year," said Alfred Goldman, stock market strategist for A.G. Edwards & Sons.

Traders said investors had given up hopes for lower interest rates or for an economy healthy enough to foster strong corporate profits.

The Dow plummeted 86.61 points to 1792.89, amounting to a 4.61 percent loss in value for the blue-chip average. The plunge surpassed the largest previous single-day slide of 81.87 points, set July 7.

Both losses fell just days after the Dow set new highs. The July 7 drop came after the Dow finished at 1909.03 on July 2. The dive Thursday followed one week after the Dow ended at a record peak of 1919.71.

The Dow's 4.61 percent loss Thursday, while dramatic, did not approach the crushing 12.8 percent drop on Oct. 29, 1929, or its 11.7 percent slide the following day.

Losing stocks battered gainers 1,688-167 among the 2,034 issues traded.

The Dow transportation index also suffered a record one-day point loss, derailing 33.63 to 749.00.

Broader market indexes, which reached new peaks Sept. 4, dropped sharply. The New York Stock Exchange index recoiled 6.37 to 135.25. The price of an average share shrank $1.76. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index fell 11.88 to 235.18.

A record 237,570,000 shares changed hands on the Big Board, compared with 140,300,000 Wednesday. The previous record volume day was Aug. 3, 1984, when 236,570,000 shares exchanged hands and the Dow advanced 36 points.

Composite volume of stocks traded on all U.S. exchanges and over the counter was 271,921,620 shares, compared with 166,787,510 in the previous session.

Analysts said the market tumbled because investors have lost faith that the Federal Reserve will again cut its discount rate, the key rate charged on loans to banks. Investors are disheartened by the refusal of Japan and West Germany to cut interest rates, they said.

Investors also decided stocks were too expensive, given the uncertain outlook for corporate profits, traders said. Futures-related program selling exacerbated the losses, they said.

Goldman said after four years of a bull market, there is no longer reason to expect the economy to produce the corporate earnings needed to

'Star Wars' Space Test Scores 'Storybook' Success

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The development of a "Star Wars" killer rocket appears to be on course with the successful test of two satellites, one carrying the first laser radar in space, the Pentagon says.

"I just think we done real good," said Air Force Lt. Col. Michael Rendine, the program manager for the $150 million experiment that was launched aboard a Delta rocket from Cape Canaveral last Friday.

The benchmark experiment turned the Delta rocket's second and third stages into orbiting vehicles crammed with high-tech equipment. They orbited Earth twice at a distance of 120 miles and tracked an Arias rocket launched from White Sands, N.M.

It was the first test of its kind involving future weapons technology conducted wholly in space.

"It was the most complex command and control mission the United States ever conducted," said Lt. Gen. James Abrahamson, director of the Strategic Defense Initiative, as "Star Wars" is known officially.

At the same time, Abrahamson announced that a laser 20 times bigger than any of its predecessors had been test fired at White Sands Aug. 19, giving the United States an "experimental tool" for destroying objects.

Sanctions, Contras Deadlines Near

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Democrats abandoned their proposal for a U.S. trade embargo against South Africa in agreeing to vote, probably today, on a weaker Senate-passed bill to avert the risk of President Reagan killing the effort.

"It is not as strong as we would have liked, but it has real bite," Rep. Howard Wolpe, D-Mich., told the House Rules Committee Thursday as the panel adopted rules allowing the softer Senate bill to reach a full House vote.

Wolpe said the vote probably would be held today to put the bill on Reagan's desk as soon as possible. A delay could allow Reagan to let the bill languish until Congress adjourns next month, thus killing the measure altogether.

The Senate measure, which passed Aug. 15, expresses opposition to racial segregation in South Africa by halting new U.S. investment in firms that do business there.

The House version provided for a total trade embargo, but supporters acknowledged Reagan was not likely to accept such strong action.

Corn Harvest Estimate Declines

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dry weather that trimmed yields in key Midwest states is being blamed for a slight decline in the nation's projected corn harvest, but it isn't enough to dent a bin-busting expectation of 8.27 billion bushels.

The Agriculture Department issued its second official assessment of the 1986 corn crop Thursday, predicting a harvest less than 1 percent below last month's estimate and second only to the record 8.87 bushels of 1985.

The report, based on conditions as of Sept. 1, said record-breaking drought in the Southeast had little impact on the overall harvest, which has been nourished by nearly perfect crop weather in most of the nation.

During the last month, however, crop development in parts of Illinois and Indiana was "hindered by dry weather and their yields are down 4 bushels and 3 bushels, respectively," the department said.

Gucci Sentenced For Tax Scam

NEW YORK (UPI) — The 61-year-old former head of the exclusive Gucci Shops Inc. begged a judge for mercy, then received a sentence for his role in a $7.4 million tax scam that could leave him a free man in just four months.

Under the sentence imposed Thursday by U.S. District Judge Vincent Broderick, Gucci will have to spend a year and a day in jail as well as pay a $30,000 fine and pay back the $7.4 million in tax.

He will be eligible for parole in four months but will have to spend the following five years on parole.

The native of Italy, who stepped down as chairman of the trend-setting shops in 1984, also was sentenced to a three-year suspended sentence for conspiring to defraud the government.

Oviedo Stadium Set, Restrooms Not

Oviedo High School may be able to host home football games in October. The final inspection of the newly remodeled stadium is set for September 22, architect Graden Howe of Prime Designs told the school board Wednesday night.

The stadium was reconstructed as part of the school's $13 million renovation program, but one stadium problem still hasn't been resolved: the restrooms.

Benny Arnold, the district's superintendent for facilities, said the county health department will allow septic tanks to be used, but the state Department of Environmental Regulations so far has said no.

He said a septic tank and drain field can be installed for between $7,500 and $9,200. Howe said a lift station to pump the waste would cost about $22,000, and another $25,900 for pipe. The board wants to use the most economical treatment system, the septic tank and drain field.

"Using Porta-Pots in the new stadium would be a disgrace," Oviedo High Athletic Booster President Hal King said. He added that requirements for the restroom facilities to seating capacity ratio could mean "more seats in the restroom than on the field."

"Would that be considered reserved seating?" one board member asked.

Superintendent of Schools Robert Hughes said, "We've had it up to our ears with this subject."

Arnold said the DER may waive their decision to object to the septic tank if the lift station cost is considered prohibitive, and that Howe's estimates will be sent to the DER.

Arnold also suggested the board consider using a portable classroom sized restroom facility in place of the Porta-pots this season, if a septic tank is approved. Permanent facilities could come later.

'The Short-Term Equivalent Of Crack'

House Passes Tough Drug Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In what some called a fit of anti-drug frenzy, the House has passed landmark legislation that would unleash the military, punish pushers with death and give the president 45 days to halt smuggling.

After more than 16 hours of debate during two days, the House voted 392-16 late Thursday to approve the amendment-laden, multibillion-dollar measure that faces an uncertain fate in the Senate, which is considering its own bills.

While supporters claimed the amended measure would put some backbone into the nation's drug laws, opponents questioned the constitutionality of several successful amendments.

"We started off with a war against drugs," said House Judiciary Chairman Peter Rodino, D-N.J. "Now it seems to me the attack is on the Constitution."

"This bill is becoming the short-term equivalent of crack," added Rep. Barney Frank, D-Mass., referring to the powerful, popular and cheap cocaine derivative. "It's going to give people a short-term high but it's going to be dangerous in the long run to the (criminal justice) system."

"It is not true that by the legislative equivalent of a tantrum we can make drugs go away," he said.

But the House paid scant attention to such warnings and passed most of the 44 amendments, including those that would add billions of dollars to drug treatment, prevention or enforcement programs. The total bill is expected to cost $3 billion over three years.

"I really wonder whether any remarks made today on this matter or any other matter are going to make any difference, given the mood of the House," Rodino conceded as amendment after amendment sailed through.

On a 298-112 vote, the House approved the death penalty for individuals such as drug pushers who intentionally cause the death of another person while engaged in a continuing criminal enterprise.

"The death penalty is a deterrent," said Rep. Tommy Robinson, D-Ark. "When you 'fry' that drug dealer that caused the death of someone, that person is never going to come back and kill anyone else."

Rep. George Gekas, R-Pa., who offered the death penalty amendment for "killer drug dealers," said, "There can be no ultimate war on drugs if we do not pass our ultimate weapon."

The only federal crime that currently carries the death penalty is skyjacking that results in the death of a victim.

Lawmakers also approved an amendment to the exclusionary rule, which would allow some illegally obtained evidence to be admitted at drug trials if the police officer acted "in good faith." Opponents charged the proposal violated the Fourth Amendment's protection against illegal searches and seizures.

In perhaps the most unusual move, the House voted 237-177 to give President Reagan a 45-day deadline after the bill becomes law to "substantially halt" all drug trafficking by using the nation's military forces to intercept smugglers' vessels crossing the nation's borders.

"We're telling the president of the United States, 'You can't think about it. You can't have a jelly bean. You must deploy the military forces of the United States,'" said Robinson, who co-sponsored the amendment with Rep. Duncan Hunter, R-Calif.

The White House said it would "reserve judgment" on the 45-day deadline, but the Pentagon balked, claiming it would be too costly, would harm military readiness and blur the line between military and civilian authority.

Senators Heated In Chief Justice Debate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democrats, fighting a losing battle against William Rehnquist's nomination to lead the Supreme Court, contend his confirmation as chief justice would affect American life for a generation.

Democrats mounted their final attack Thursday against Rehnquist as the Senate began debating his nomination but acknowledged they had only about 25 votes against confirmation.

A Senate Republican aide said there is little threat of a filibuster and a vote is likely Tuesday.

But despite charges of partisan politics from Senate Republican leader Robert Dole of Kansas, Democrats began a painstaking review of Rehnquist's record, including charges he was racially insensitive, did not testify truthfully at his confirmation hearing and violated basic judicial ethics in 1972.

"Imagine what America would be like if Justice Rehnquist had been chief justice and his cramped and narrow view of the Constitution view had prevailed in the critical years since World War II," said Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass.

"The schools of America would still be segregated. Millions of citizens would be denied the right to vote ... Women would be condemned to second-class status ... Government would embrace religion, and the wall of separation between church and state would be in ruins," Kennedy told his colleagues.

Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., said the position of chief justice is a "metaphor for justice — for my daughter, for your daughter ... for black Americans."

"His answers to our legitimate questions were at best incomplete, in some cases misleading, in some cases very difficult to believe," Biden said.

Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, called the Rehnquist vote the most important of his Senate career and told his colleagues, "You owe it to yourselves, your children and your grandchildren (to vote against him)."

Supreme Court justices are nominated for life, and Democrats said Rehnquist's elevation to chief justice would affect the nation well into the 21st century.

But Sen. Alan Simpson, R-Wyo., said Rehnquist's critics came up with "ancient and flimsy accusations" after going back 20 to 30 years to "dig up old bones."

"Who could face that inquisition?" Simpson asked rhetorically.

Dole called the last-ditch effort to derail President Reagan's nomination "another attempt to deface a brilliant career with spray-paint graffiti."

"The people voted for Ronald Reagan by landslide proportions in 1980 and 1984, and they expect the president to carry their mandate all the way to the Supreme Court," Dole said.

Rehnquist, 61, a Supreme Court justice since 1972, has been under fire since Reagan nominated him in June to replace retiring Chief Justice Warren Burger.

Conservative federal appeals court Judge Antonin Scalia, 50, was tapped to replace Rehnquist as an associate justice, and the Senate will take up his nomination after it votes on Rehnquist.

Rehnquist Kin Files Ethics Charges Against Him

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The handicapped brother-in-law of Supreme Court Justice William Rehnquist filed formal charges with the State Bar of Arizona, alleging the chief justice nominee acted unethically in handling a family fund, it was reported today.

Meanwhile Democrats mounted their final attack Thursday against Rehnquist as the Senate began debating his nomination but acknowledged they had only about 25 votes against confirmation.

The family member's complaint, filed as the Senate debates Rehnquist's nomination, charges Rehnquist with conflict of interest and failure to meet his legal duties to the bedridden relative, the Los Angeles Times said.

Harold Dickerson Cornell, 73, a former San Diego prosecutor disabled by multiple sclerosis, said in his complaint that Rehnquist's conduct raises "serious questions of ethics and integrity."

Cornell claims Rehnquist and other family members joined together to conceal from him for 20 years the existence of a $25,000 trust fund established for him by his father shortly before his father's death in 1961, the Times said.

Cornell contends Rehnquist's conflict arose because he is married to Cornell's sister, Natalie, who would have shared in the trust proceeds if Cornell had died before receiving the money.

Cornell said Rehnquist and other relatives did not inform him of the trust until 1981, after he had lived in poverty for 20 years. He said the terms of the trust require payments to him as soon as his standard of living fell below the level he maintained before his illness forced him to retire.

Rehnquist has refused to comment on the allegations since their disclosure by the Times last month, the newspaper said. The complaint was filed in Arizona because Rehnquist was practicing there as a private attorney when he handled the trust.

If Cornell's complaint is upheld after an investigation, it could lead to Rehnquist's censure, suspension or disbarment by the Arizona bar, the Times said.

WEATHER

LOCAL REPORT: Thursday's high temperature in Sanford was 90 degrees and the 8 a.m. reading today was 70 degrees, according to University of Florida Agricultural Research and Education Center on Celery Avenue. No rain was recorded. Today's temperatures forecast in the 90s with a slight chance of afternoon thundershowers.

NATIONAL REPORT: Floods fed by more than a foot of rain in Michigan and Wisconsin swelled rivers and smashed dams today, forcing hundreds of people to flee from their sodden homes, washing away roads and causing millions of dollars in damage. At least four people — three in Michigan and one in Texas — had been killed and 14 injured by storms that have hurled heavy rains and high winds since Wednesday from the Great Lakes to the southern Plains.

Officials reported nearly $3 million in damage in Fond du Lac and Sheboygan counties in Wisconsin, and damage to roads and property was estimated in the millions of dollars in Michigan, where floods reached roofs. Seven counties and one city declared emergencies because of the up to 13 inches of rain in western Michigan — including a record 6 inches in 24 hours in Muskegon. The state was expected to issue a disaster declaration today. Three Michigan dams — earthen ones at Rainbow Lake and Heart Lake and the concrete Childsdale — had collapsed, and officials said three more — the Hardy, the Croton and the White River — were threatened today. A seventh dam — one on the Hersey River in Osceola County — was saved from collapse today when workers "took the top off a road near the dam," creating an auxiliary spillway, state police said.

Despondent Mother Kills Kids, Jumps To Her Death

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — A despondent mother who had recently been evicted from her apartment, stabbed her three young children to death as they slept, then calmly talked to police on the phone before leaping to her death from a 13-story building, officers said.

Laura Bellzire, 30, jumped from the top of a high-rise housing complex across the street from the hospital where doctors were trying in vain to save her children, Lt. Jim Reed said.

Before she jumped, Bellzire telephoned the hospital and, during a half-hour conversation, calmly told a homicide detective she had problems and was going to kill herself, police said.

"She refused to tell him where she was or why she stabbed her children," Sgt. Gary Whinery said. "She did say she was extremely upset and had a lot of problems."

Detective Logan Wren, who talked to Bellzire on the telephone, said she was very calm.

"She did not scream," Wren said. "She did not cry. She spoke very clearly and calmly. She was definitely very educated and she was very articulate in describing what she did."

Police were unable to trace the call, and 15 minutes after Bellzire hung up, they received a report that a woman had jumped from the building across the street from the hospital.

Bellzire left a handwritten note in the one-room apartment where she and her children had been staying with a friend, but its contents were not immediately released.

Neighbors said Bellzire was evicted Wednesday and had moved into the apartment of a woman who lived across the hall.

Mildred Bellzire, a sister of the dead woman, told reporters she thought her sister was worried about being evicted.

"She loved her kids," she said. "I don't care what anybody says. She loved those kids ... I knew she was going to do something. I didn't think she was going to kill her kids. She always said when she died she wanted her kids to be with her."

A neighbor said Bellzire was "strange," but said she was "a good Christian" who often listened to religious music on the radio.

Paramedics rushed Bellzire to the emergency room at St. Mary Medical Center where family members were gathered as doctors tried to save her children, Whinery said.

Suspect Jailed In Kidnapping, Attempted Sexual Battery Case

A woman, who reported to Sanford police that she was kidnapped and robbed by a man who tried to rape her but couldn't get her pants off on Aug. 28, reportedly identified a suspect in a Sanford police photo lineup Wednesday.

That brought the arrest of a 19-year-old Sanford man.

The suspect allegedly approached the victim in a parking lot near 1160 Second St., Sanford, at about 11 a.m. on Aug. 28. The man, who was armed with a knife, forced the woman into the passenger seat and drove her car to the 1000 block of Orange Avenue while holding the victim by the arm to keep her from escaping. There he took $480 worth of jewelry from her and then ripped her shirt off, a police report said.

The man fondled her and himself and tried to remove her pants, but couldn't. A car approached and the man left, the report said.

Arrested Wednesday and charged with kidnapping, armed robbery, aggravated battery and attempted sexual battery was Raymond O'Neil Curry Jr., of 89 Lake Monroe Terrace. He was being held without bond.

RAPE SUSPECT NAMED
Seminole County sheriff's deputies are investigating the rape of a 25-year-old Altamonte Springs woman who was abducted at knifepoint when she walked on North Street near Altamonte Springs at about 5 p.m. Wednesday.

The woman told deputies the man, whom she knows, approached her and began verbally abusing her. He pulled a knife and wouldn't let her leave. He beat her and forced her into Winwood Park off Morris Street, where the woman was raped, a sheriff's report said.

The man allegedly threatened to kill the woman if she reported the attack to police or to his probation officer, the report said. The investigation continued Thursday.

GIVES RIDE, GETS RAPED
A 22-year-old Sanford woman told Seminole County sheriff's deputies she was driving from the Midway area at about 12 a.m. Wednesday when she stopped and gave a ride to a man she knows.

The man said he needed to go to a friend's house to pick up his video recorder and he directed her to a dirt path off Beardall Avenue, east of Sanford, where the woman said she was raped.

The man allegedly grabbed her by the throat and told her to make it easy on herself. But she said she struggled with the suspect and a sheriff's deputy noted that she had facial injuries.

Deputies have the name of a suspect.

BAD MOVE
A man, who reportedly explained that he was moving after he let Sanford police see the contents of the trunk of his car, has been arrested. The police had been called to a vacant home at 2218 S. Palmetto Ave., where a witness reportedly had seen someone taking items from the home and putting them in a car's trunk.

The arrest came at 10:32 a.m. Wednesday after the suspect reportedly told police he had stopped to look at the vacant house and then had car trouble. He explained that he was moving and that was why he had household items in his car, the report said.

Police reported determining that items in the man's car were from that home and he didn't have permission to be there.

Joseph William Vautier, 24, of 606 S. Park Ave. #8, Sanford, has been charged with burglary and grand theft. He has been released on $1,000 bond to appear in court Sept. 29.

DUI ARRESTS
The following persons have been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence:

—David Alan Johnson, 25, of Deltona, at 2:08 a.m. Thursday after Sanford police pursued his speeding car, which was being driven erratically from shopping center parking lots and along U.S. Highway 17-92 to Lake Mary Boulevard. He was also charged with fleeing to elude and careless driving.

—Nancy Raye Stone 30, of 1490 Holiday Drive, Casselberry, at 2:25 a.m. Friday, on State Road 434 at Fairfax Ave., Winter Springs, after her car failed to maintain a single lane. She was also charged with driving with a suspended license.

JAIL BATTERY
A Seminole County jail inmate reported to sheriff's deputies that he was battered by his cellmate while he was talking on the phone at about 11 p.m. Wednesday.

Andra Larf Williams, 19, of Sanford, has told deputies he wants to file charges against the man who allegedly hit him twice, then told him to move out of their cell, a sheriff's report said.

BURGLARIES & THEFTS
Emma Jane Elliott of 1057 Banana Lake Road, Paola, reported to sheriff's deputies that on Wednesday a man came to her home selling magazine subscriptions and apparently stole $360 from her purse.

Ms. Elliott told deputies she was unable to get her purse to pay the man, so he got it for her. Before he left her home he went to the bathroom. About eight hours later Ms. Elliott found her billfold hidden in a cabinet in her bathroom and her cash was missing.

Daniel R. Gunderman, 23, of 661 Moss Drive, Altamonte Springs, reported to sheriff's deputies that a $130 shotgun was stolen from his home between August and Wednesday.

Judge's Attorney Asks Court To Stop Impeachment Report

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The lawyer for a U.S. district judge in Miami asked a federal court Thursday to temporarily stop a report that would call for the impeachment of the judge from being sent to the House of Representatives.

Terence Anderson, representing Judge Alcee Hastings of Altamonte Springs, asked the report be held up until the courts address the constitutionality of the law that has allowed a judicial investigation of Hastings for a crime he was acquitted of in 1983.

A judicial investigating panel has charged the judge conspired to take a bribe and fabricated his defense during the 1983 trial and calls for his impeachment, according to Hastings, who Thursday termed the probe "double jeopardy."

The panel's report, still not released publicly, was accepted by the Judicial Council of the 11th Circuit Court of Appeals and will be discussed by the 26-member Judicial Conference of the United States at its meeting next week.

If that group accepts the report — and it remains unclear if it will act — it would be sent to the House. Impeachment by the House and conviction before the Senate is the only way to remove a federal judge, who is appointed for life.

It was uncertain when Judge Gerhard Gesell would act on the request for a temporary injunction but Anderson said he believed it would be soon to allow either side to appeal the decision before the conference meets Sept. 18-19.

Lawyers for the Judicial Council and Judicial Conference argued against the request for the preliminary injunction in a 90-minute hearing. Another federal judge denied a similar request for a temporary restraining order last month.

Anderson said he was willing to let the proceedings of the Judicial Conference "play out" but urged Gesell not to "let the apple fall from the tree" by allowing a report calling for impeachment, if approved by the conference, to go to the House before the constitutionality of the law is settled.

Hastings believes the 1980 law that has empowered the current investigation limits judicial independence and said Thursday that it is "disruptive of collegiality among judges."

The judge, appointed by President Carter in 1979, was acquitted by a jury of charges he conspired with a Washington lawyer to solicit a $150,000 bribe from two convicted racketeers in Florida in exchange for a reduction in prison terms.

He called the judges who have reviewed his case a "group of people who've decided they don't believe what a jury believes."

"The essence of what the (judicial) council has done is jury tampering," Hastings, Florida's first black federal judge, said Thursday after the court hearing. "If it isn't double jeopardy ... it damn sure feels like double jeopardy."

Hastings had tried once before to have the 1980 law struck down but a three-judge panel in Washington last year ruled the request premature.

The Senate is preparing for the impeachment trial of Judge Harry Calborne of Nevada, who is in prison for tax evasion. Calborne's impeachment trial will be the first of a federal judge in half a century.

FIRE CALLS

The Sanford Fire Department has responded to the following calls, details based on fire reports:

THURSDAY
—9:07 a.m., Park Drive and Sixth Street, truck accident. A flat bed truck hit a tree. No injuries reported; no action required.

—10:40 a.m., Third Street and Laurel Avenue, car accident. Minor bruises received by Jamie Watt, 19, and Teri Watt, 25, both of Marion, N.C.. Both declined hospital transport.

Commission Sets N. Carolina As Nuclear Waste Dump Site

ATLANTA (UPI) — Representatives from eight Southeast states voted Thursday to send their low-level radioactive wastes to North Carolina — but officials there said they are reluctant to provide a site for a new nuclear dump.

The Southeast Compact Commission voted 14-2 to locate the site in North Carolina — with the negative votes coming from the two commission members from that state.

"We will not waver out of this," said Dr. Earl Mac Cormac, Gov. Jim Martin's science adviser. Mac Cormac telephoned Martin immediately after the vote.

"I'm disappointed. The governor is disappointed. But I think it (whether North Carolina provides a site for the dump) depends entirely on the people, on the Legislature and on the governor," he said.

"The governor is going to spend the next several days sifting through this data to determine if we were chosen fairly," said Mac Cormac.

The commission, established by congressional legislation in 1983, was charged with choosing one of its member states in which to locate a waste site to replace the one in Barnwell, S.C.

A spokesman for the Conservation Council of North Carolina said the organization's board of directors will consider at its Sept. 21 meeting whether to file a lawsuit seeking to prevent the location of the dump site in that state.

"We're greatly disappointed in the way things came out," said John Runkle. "North Carolina has made great strides in the last few years to greatly reduce the amount of such wastes it produces and some of the other states have not."

William Briner and state Rep. George Miller, appointees to the commission from North Carolina, contended the group failed to place enough consideration on the amount of wastes produced by each of the states.

Some members of the North Carolina Legislature introduced a bill in this year's lawmaking session calling for the state to withdraw from the compact but the measure was placed on hold this summer. That action came after North Carolina came out ranked first on a priority list for locating the site.

"We'll give the Legislature a report and I'm sure it will be the subject of much debate," said Miller. "I'm sure the Legislature will make the last decision on this."

He and Briner voted against making their state the host for the dump.

Low-level nuclear wastes are generated at nuclear power plants and by certain medical, research and industrial activities. Unlike high-level wastes, they emit little heat and seldom require remote handling.

Dames and Moore, a New York-based consulting firm, did a two-year study using 10 criteria to rank the member-states — Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia.

Among the criteria were listings of suitable sites, population near the sites, amount of low-level nuclear waste generated by the states and transportation systems.

Mac Cormac, Briner and Miller said the commission failed to place enough attention on the reduction of low-level nuclear wastes by North Carolina in data prepared by the consultants.

"If you look at the data from 1983, then yes, North Carolina would be ranked first," said Mac Cormac. "But if you look at 1984 then Alabama would be first and in 1985 Georgia would be ranked first. We just don't think enough attention was given this data."

Jay Hakes, a Florida representative on the commission, said the selection process was a very difficult one and he urged North Carolina officials not to consider the choice a booby prize.

"There is technology there that does not offer a threat to its people," Hakes said of efforts to reduce potential dangers from low-level nuclear wastes.

It will be up to North Carolina officials to choose a site within its boundaries. The Barnwell, S.C., dump site is scheduled to close Dec. 31, 1992 and a new, 20-year site must be in operation by 1991.

South Africa's Official Picture

The white regime ruling predominantly black South Africa has imposed new press restrictions on reporters trying to cover the racial violence tearing apart black townships. Pretoria has long been angry about reports of violence and repression that have come out of the country. Why, for heaven's sake, doesn't any good news about South Africa ever reach American readers?

The South African government has been so kind as to send us the Official Yearbook of 1985.

The Coloureds: "The Coloured people are a singing community, with a natural feeling for rhythm and a strong love of music to which they give expression freely and frequently," says the yearbook. "Coloured 'coon' carnivals, Christmas choirs and string bands are highlights of the Christmas and New Year holiday season in Cape Town. The 'coons' ... dance and prance and make the streets resound with song and music."

Are the coloureds singing now, we wonder? Apartheid: "Traditional economics among the black peoples of South Africa is based on subsistence rather than profit philosophy ... Whites are traditionally 'overproductive,'" says the almanac. "Conclusion: The white and black segments of the South African population have different cultures."

Therefore, they must have different rights. Whites, who believe in overproduction, should be rich. Blacks, who believe in subsistence, should starve.

The government has banned television cameras from the townships. But south African Handbook provides color pictures.

"Flower sellers in Capetown" depicts a black woman smiling in a white bandana, such as Aunt Jemima once wore, happily selling flowers.

The pictures don't show the latest fashions for blacks: the rags children wear to school, if there is a school, the bloodstained clothing of mourners shot by army troops firing indiscriminately into funeral crowds.

Foreign trade: "Among Western countries, South Africa occupied 22nd position in the value of imports and exports of merchandise in 1983," the almanac boasts. "There are 35 foreign trade offices around the world, touting investment. South Africa has 'an abundant supply of unskilled labor.'"

The unskilled labor, of course, works at slave wages in slave conditions and lives in slave housing. Is this what American firms relocating plants abroad want?

Education: South Africa has a "system of differentiated education."

We call it segregation, the same system that doomed generations of blacks in America to suffering before the Supreme Court ruled that separate is not equal.

In South Africa today, blacks are being shot in funerals and reporters are being banned. But, next year, we will undoubtedly receive an updated "South Africa 1986" with more photos of flower sellers and stories about "coons" singing to their hearts delight in the "differentiated" land of apartheid. South African can ban reporters, but it can't blind the world.

Soviet Slip-Of-Pen

The U.S. Information Agency has uncovered a letter forged by the Soviets — on USIA stationery — purporting to be an appeal by the agency's chief "disinformation" specialist to turn the Chernobyl holocaust into a propaganda bonus.

The problem evidently was that the Soviets didn't understand the difference between our disinformation specialists and theirs:

Theirs write disinformation; ours expose it.

Toothy Tales Told In History Of Dentistry

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dr. Malvin Ring's new book, an illustrated history of dentistry, does little to advance the cause of the tooth fairy.

I recall that when I was a lad those of us who left a tooth under a pillow likely would awaken the next morning to find it had been supplanted by a dental bill.

But Ring's book, at least in the excerpts I read, doesn't deal with that issue. The identity of the first dentist to send out a bill may be lost in the mists of antiquity.

I was aware that George Washington never had false teeth made of wood. His dentures, as Ring's research confirms, were made primarily of gold, ivory, rivets, screws and steel springs.

I am referring to the first president, of course. An early civil rights advocate in America was a writer named George Washington Cable, but Ring doesn't mention him. His teeth presumably were OK.

Ring does mention the Atlantic cable. He credits Queen Victoria's dentist with suggesting a coating that kept the wire from corroding in sea water. Turns out he had been using the material as a tooth filling.

Does this mean Queen Victoria's saliva was unusually saline?

Maybe so. But much credit for success of the trans-Atlantic project has been heaped on the British subject who invented the galvanometer. There is no evidence that he filled any teeth.

Incidentally, the first porcelain false teeth, as opposed to galvanized dentures, appeared in 1806, several years before the cable was laid.

Long before that, the doctrine of an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth was spelled out.

Rule says "It is interesting to note" that a "substantial sum was placed on teeth."

Well, what interests him doesn't necessarily interest me. I found more intriguing the early remedy for grinding one's teeth while asleep. This involved kissing a human skull 49 times before retiring.

As to what might have happened had a nocturnal tooth-grinder kissed a skull 80 times, the book does not say.

I also learned that Paul Revere, who had been practicing dentistry before he made his famous ride, first identified a body by dental remains.

But then Revere never had to work with blackened teeth.

Ring reports that Japanese married women used to paint their teeth black as a symbol of marital constancy.

"They applied the black paint every day with a brush during their morning ablutions," he discovered.

When Ring isn't editing a bulletin for the American Academy of the History of Dentistry, he serves as a consultant to Listerine, a mouthwash purported to reduce plaque.

Teeth-blackening might have been good dentistry but it could have ruined Listerine commercials.

"Why are your teeth so pearly white this morning?" a televised husband might inquire after she had finished her ablutions.

To which his wife could reply, "Because I'm rinsing with Constant mouthwash."

Doctors Discover 'Old Age'

By Larry Doyle
UPI Science Writer

Dr. Joseph DiFranza, his hands "arthritic" in thick rubber gloves, his eyesight diminished by dark and blurred glasses, his hearing cotton-impaired, had something of a revelation.

"It was almost impossible to button anything," he says. "It was so frustrating."

DiFranza, 31, was finding out what it feels like to be old.

"I'm much more patient with my elderly patients and elderly people in general now," DiFranza says. "It's easy to be patient when you know what it's like."

Offered at Burbank Hospital in Fitchburg, Mass., the program, and many like it across the United States, are attempts by the medical community to deal with a unique and growing population of elderly.

In one audiovisual presentation, an elderly man in a hospital bed is seen talking to his daughter. He is obviously alert and communicative. A physician enters the room to discuss the man's case. He speaks only to the daughter.

"That one really brings the point home," said one expert.

Other sensitivity programs vary in methods and complexity, but few are more compelling than the "Empathic Model" developed three years ago at the Burbank Hospital.

"I thought a fun thing to do would be to make them all old," says Denise Sevigny, clinical director of gerontology services at the small Massachusetts hospital.

Toward that end, Sevigny developed an old person kit: two layers of rubber gloves filled with rubberized caulking to simulate arthritis and loss of sensation; sunglasses covered with a plastic sheet to create the dark, blurry world many older people see; cotton wadding to reduce hearing; leg weights to make walking difficult.

"They had us play bingo," DiFranza recalls. "They gave us these thin poker chips we couldn't pick up, and then they rattled off numbers we couldn't hear, and we couldn't even read the cards."

"We always try to hurry them along," Sevigny explains, "because a lot of people who work with the elderly do that and don't realize that older people can do most of the things we can, they just sometimes need more time."

"We have them sign a consent form with a lot of small print. We tell them to just read it very quickly and sign it," Sevigny says.

"A lot of the people are surprised to find out," DiFranza said, "that they just signed over all of their belongings to Sevigny."

Donations At Work

By Jack Anderson and
Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — A tipster on Capitol Hill telephoned the other day with a real shocker: Secretary of State George Shultz had spent $2 million on a rug for his office. It wasn't true.

But in checking out the astonishing allegation, we turned up some fascinating information on life at the top — the top two floors of the State Department building, that is.

A lot of money has indeed been spent recently for improvements and fancy furnishings in 10 suites on the seventh floor — including Shultz's office — and on the eighth floor, which is used for diplomatic receptions, banquets, tea parties and other high-toned affairs. Another $2 million will be spent on antique furniture.

But the money is being donated, and the only really valuable rug in Shultz's private office is an Oriental worth about $20,000 — a pittance by Washington carpeting standards.

How did Foggy Bottom acquire all this for nothing? It was accomplished by Clement Conger, 73, a smooth-talking, arm-twisting Virginia gentleman. A newspaperman in his youth, he turned to a higher calling as a Foreign Service officer and then curator of the State Department's diplomatic reception rooms (and later of the White House).

"The Grand Acquisitor" specializes in persuading millionaires, corporations and assorted patriotic patrons of the arts to donate Federal Period antiques or ante up the money he needs to buy them. Among the donors is Shultz himself, who has kicked in $10,000 a year ever since he became secretary ("I didn't ask him, either," said Conger), and Shultz's deputy, John C. Whitehead.

Though he derides the original decor of the top floors as Airport Lounge Modern, Conger is both a pragmatist and an eclectic. As a result, Shultz's office is a mixture of old and new. Mahogany floors (and the Oriental rug) replaced the institutional wall-to-wall carpeting. Cherry paneling covers the walls and the rec-room acoustical-tile ceiling has been redone.

In Shultz's study, family pictures share space with portraits of James Madison and John Quincy Adams. The leather-covered phone (with direct line to the White House) sits on an 18th century Pembroke table. A personal computer is hidden in an antique desk.

But the rug, you say: What about the rug and the $2 million? Was it all a figment of imagination?

Not exactly. Conger's redecoration of the enormous Ben Franklin Dining Room on the eighth floor cost $2.5 million, and it did include a huge, expensive rug.

"Nobody's ever had a rug this big," Conger proudly told our reporter David Davis. It's 90 feet long and 36 feet wide and cost $253,000, plus $25,000 to lay it. There are 50 stars woven into the background, American eagles at each end and part of the Great Seal of the Republic in the center, exactly beneath the Great Seal in the ceiling.

One of the biggest problems with the rug was getting rid of the pinkish stand-in rug that it replaced. Despite the celebrity feet that had trod upon the old rug, Conger's assistant, Gail Serfaty, found there were no takers. She couldn't even give it away to the Salvation Army, Goodwill or Mitch Schneider's homeless shelter. Finally, a group in Virginia that cares for the homeless took it off her hands.

WILLIAM RUSHER

Hotheads Must Be Patient

At the time of the hijacking of TWA 847 back in June 1985, the cry of the hotheads was for instant retaliation. Against what or whom wasn't entirely clear — apparently just about any convenient Arab would do. President Reagan, however, insisted that responsibility for terrorist outrages must be personal and provable.

Some terrorist acts take longer to avenge than others. The names of the TWA hijackers who coolly murdered Robert Stethem aboard that jet for the crime of belonging to the U.S. Navy are known, and I am in a position to assure anyone who is interested that they most definitely have not been forgotten.

Meanwhile, on April 5 this year, an American soldier and several others died when a bomb went off in a West Berlin nightclub. Responsibility for this outrage was traced directly to Libya by means of sophisticated electronic eavesdropping on its embassy in East Berlin.

True to his pledge, President Reagan ordered the Navy and Air Force to carry out on April 14 — just nine days later — a measured retaliation against Libya. The hotheads were, of course, delighted. They neither understood nor cared that the bombing was specifically in retaliation for the West Berlin bombing.

Then, as the spring and summer passed without further terrorist attacks, the hotheads made their next mistake. "Ha, ha," they said. "You see! What did we tell you? Give these geeks a whiff of grape-shot and they crawl back into their holes."

But now come the Pan Am hijacking in Karachi and the carnage in that synagogue in Istanbul. Presumably the hotheads will promptly yell for retaliation, never mind against whom.

Once again they are wrong. President Reagan is on exactly the right course with respect to terrorism. But it is not a course from which we can expect either instant gratification or immediate results.

Meanwhile, we can take comfort from the reflection that the Reagan policy is going to be applied with considerable precision in the case of the Karachi airport outrage. All four would-be hijackers were captured alive — a circumstance I predict they are going to regret as General Zia's interrogators get down to business. We can, I think, feel confident that they will, in due course, reveal all they know about the origins of their plot.

Then, when they have been squeezed dry, they will be tried and executed, as they most certainly deserve to be.

RUSTY BROWN

Would We Marry Same Spouse Again?

Everyone probably wonders, at some time or other, if they married the right person. As the line in the song goes: "If we had the chance to do it all again; tell me, would we? could we?"

I suspect the answer varies depending on what's currently happening in the marriage. If it's the day your stepson trashes the family room or the day your mother-in-law calls five times, you might give one answer. As opposed to the day your spouse surprises you with plane tickets to Hawaii.

The if-I-had-to-do-it-all-over-again question was posed recently in two separate surveys, with surprisingly different results.

Women's Day magazine quizzed 60,000 women and discovered that only five out of 10 said they would marry their husbands if they were making the decision today. This suggests that half the wives are discontent in their marriages — or, at least, that a lot of women answered the question on the wrong day.

The Chicago Sun-Times surveyed 2,300 men with the same question and got a much more upbeat answer. Seventy-seven percent of men in first marriages said they would remarry their wives. And an even higher number of men in second marriages (82 percent) said they also would.

These surveys indicate that men, for the most part, are more content with wives than women are with husbands. Why?

Is that because men are "better pickers," as one male friend of mine asserts? Or, is it because men are just easier to please, as psychologists told Chicago Sun-Times columnist Judy Markey? "Give 'em clean folded socks, a home-cooked meal and not too much lip and (husbands) are happy as a clam," she wrote.

Women, on the other hand, tend to gripe more. Suggests Markey: "Women do love to complain. We're comfortable complaining. Some of us were born to complain. We're spreading ourselves so thin these days, there's plenty to complain about."

I guess it's probably true that women have higher expectations in marriage. They want intimacy, communication and sensitivity. They also want husbands who share parental and household chores, understand income-tax forms and think of saying "I love you" at least once a week.

Speaking for myself, I like all of the above, plus a husband who puts on the weed killer and does a good job washing storm windows.

That may be a lot to ask, but certainly not more than W. Ruskon Chatsworth III (is that really his name?) insists upon in a recent issue of M magazine. Chatsworth lists 40 prerequisites for The Perfect Wife, including:

- Knows how to drive a stick shift.
- Swears effectively and appropriately.
- Can get on and off a boat without assistance.
- Knows when to push you and when to catch you.

- Has good family jewelry.
- Wears interesting and sometimes naughty underwear (whose appeal she understands).

- Knows she occasionally has to indulge her husband's inflated view of himself; also knows when not to.

While I fall short on Chatsworth's mostly macho list, I was sure I'd get a vote of confidence from my husband. So I asked him the would-you-again question.

"No," he replied.

"Why?" I asked in astonishment. "Because I've had enough chicken divan to last me a lifetime," he said. "And besides, when we're tennis partners and you blow a shot, you never say you're sorry."

With broken heart, I pointed out that three out of four husbands had said they would marry the same woman again. He replied with a shrug. "I guess that makes me exceptional."

Which I suppose could be a prerequisite for the perfect husband.

IN BRIEF

Discrimination Lawsuit Is AIDS Victim's Final Battle

FORT LAUDERDALE (UPI) — AIDS victim Todd Shuttleworth, bedridden with meningitis and cancer, hopes to set a precedent even if he does not live to see the end of his lawsuit against the county that fired him because of his disease.

Broward County fired him from his $20,000-a-year job as a budget analyst because his bosses said his co-workers could catch AIDS. Shuttleworth, 33, is suing the county for $15 million, claiming his constitutional rights were violated.

His lawsuit is scheduled to go to court Dec. 8 before U.S. District Judge Jose Gonzalez in Fort Lauderdale. Civil libertarians expect the case will set a precedent for the rights of AIDS victims, who have hailed Shuttleworth as a hero.

"Maybe I can educate people through my case," Shuttleworth said.

Shuttleworth's lawyers say the county has ignored prevailing research, which has shown the disease is transmitted sexually, through dirty hypodermic needles or through blood transfusions, but not by casual contact.

The county said there was no "100 percent guarantee" that AIDS could not be transmitted.

In a preliminary victory for Shuttleworth, the Florida Commission on Human Relations has ruled that AIDS is a handicap and discrimination against victims is improper.

High Court Rejects Gilbert Appeal

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The Florida Supreme Court has rejected an appeal by Roswell Gilbert, the 76-year-old retiree sentenced to life in prison for killing his ailing wife as "an act of love."

In a terse ruling published Wednesday, the justices said unanimously that Florida's strict jurisdictional rules barred them from considering Gilbert's appeal. They said they would not reconsider their ruling.

The decision means Gilbert must remain in the Avon Park Correctional Institution, where he is serving a minimum-mandatory term of 25 years for the first-degree murder of Emily Gilbert, 73, his wife of 51 years. The 4th District Court of Appeal has upheld the conviction and sentence.

Gilbert said he killed his wife in May 1985 as "an act of love" after she begged him repeatedly to end her suffering from Alzheimer's Disease and osteoporosis. The state argued he acted because his wife had become a burden to him.

Harry Gulkin, Gilbert's Fort Lauderdale lawyer, said he will consider appealing to the federal courts. He could also ask Governor Bob Graham and the Cabinet to grant clemency.

"He's trying to grasp the reality of the long, tedious appeal process," Gulkin said of Gilbert. "Every time another door slams in his face he grows more despondent. Every day that goes by he has that much less to live."

School Board Ratifies Labor Contracts

By Paul C. Schaefer
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County's largest employer, the Seminole County School Board, has ratified contracts with all four unions in its labor force. Each segment won nine percent pay hikes in recently completed contract negotiations.

The school board, which has a labor force of about 4,300, ratified three of the four contracts by a unanimous vote Wednesday night. The fourth was previously board approved. All have also been approved by the memberships of each union.

Approved Wednesday night were 1986-87 school year contracts with the county teachers union, the Seminole Education Association (SEA); the clerical worker's Seminole Educational Clerical Association (SECA); and NIPSCO, the Non-Instructional Personnel of Seminole County. Already ratified was the bus drivers contract.

The SEA membership ratified the contract in August on a vote of 1,577-77. SECA approved their contract by a 569-15 vote; and the NIPSCO membership approved their contract by a 509-30 vote. The Seminole County School Bus Drivers' Association approved their contract by a similar margin.

"We're extremely pleased" by the ratification Superintendent of Schools Robert Hughes said.

Under terms of the teacher's contract, a first year teacher last year who earned $15,116, will earn $16,476 this year. A new teacher this year will be paid $16,200. Veteran teachers will also get increases. A 20-year teacher with a bachelor's degree goes from a salary of $24,888 last year to $27,128 this year. A 20-year teacher with a master's degree will earn $29,614 this year, following last year's salary of $27,169.

The 1985-86 contract was not finalized until December last year, after difficult negotiations, which resulted in a four percent pay raise.

SEA Executive Director Marshall Ogletree commended the board for their commitment to securing higher teacher pay. He said the union would continue to seek similar pay raises in coming years.

Unsuccessful Land Suit Cost Sanford $169,650

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford commissioners' unsuccessful Yankee Lake suit cost city taxpayers $169,650 in attorneys fees.

The fees are $79,362.45 city commissioners agreed to pay counsel for the prevailing side Monday night and $90,287.55 commissioners previously approved in payments to city attorneys for their efforts to wrest the land from Seminole County.

Both Sanford and Seminole County wanted to buy the 2,867-acre parcel from Jeno Paulucci for their respective wastewater management programs. Sanford wanted the site to comply with a state edict to cease treated wastewater disposal in Lake Monroe. The county eyed the site for a wastewater system to accommodate development in its north-western quadrant.

Sanford filed for condemnation Nov. 8, two days after Paulucci agreed to sell to the county.

Today, City Attorney William Colbert said the suit, although dismissed in April, has succeeded in opening lines of communication between the city and Seminole County that may lead to an out of court settlement of the county's suits against Sanford annexations.

Colbert's statements came after Monday's city commission meeting, where he presented the defendants' attorney billings to commissioners for payment.

Sanford, as petitioner in the suit, was required to pay defendants' attorneys fees. The four private counsel who represented Seminole County and Paulucci submitted their billings to Colbert, who said he had been able to pare these fees by $33,000 through discussion with two of the attorneys Monday afternoon.

The resulting bill, $79,362.45, was "reluctantly" approved by city commissioners for payment Monday night.

The fees are $44,898.12 for two Paulucci counsel and $34,864.33 for the two private attorneys Seminole County retained for the litigation.

"I don't think we have any choice but to approve this," Commissioner John Mercer said of the billing, "but I make the motion reluctantly."

"This is a great embarrassment to me," Mercer said. "It's a ridiculous amount of money. I think they knew they were on the gravy train and they stuck it to us."

"You passed this out to us and we passed out," he said to Colbert.

"Let's take our licks and keep ticking," Commissioner Dave Farr said. "I think maybe we'll learn from this not to make hasty decisions again."

Fee reductions were negotiated with Paulucci counsel Jim Spoonhour, who submitted a $60,912.15 bill, but agreed to take $29,290.95, and county attorney Howard Marsee, who submitted a bill for $18,361.22, but agreed to accept $17,022.22, Colbert said.

The two other counsels' fees were not challenged by Colbert. They are $17,642.11 for county attorney Ross Stanton and $15,407.17 for Paulucci attorney Mack Cleveland.

Colbert followed the billing presentation with comments to commissioners that, for the most part, reiterated statements city representatives made last month about the condemnation suit's resulting in a multi-million dollar savings for the Sanford wastewater management program.

Colbert pointed to the suit's delaying the city's wastewater project bond, which led to a lower repayment rate when the issue was floated. He also discussed the suit's dismissal in terms of its necessitating development of a new disposal project which, according to city engineers, will be less expensive than construction of the Yankee Lake system.

Colbert had also recommended in April that commissioners appeal the condemnation suit's dismissal. They declined the proposal.

Colbert said he felt the appeal would have been a "tactical and practical" way of "keeping the city's options open" in light of a state mandate to cease lake disposal and a lack of firm ground and financing upon which to do so.

He also said he was "very pleased" with the successful turn the wastewater management project took after commissioners declined continued litigation.

He added that Sanford's new project, which targets city owned properties for treated wastewater disposal, will also receive the $8.6 million in state and federal grants originally earmarked for the Yankee Lake effort.

Colbert also said an "attitude of cooperation" to amiably settle land disputes between the county and Sanford began earlier this summer when county commissioners agreed to absorb staff attorneys' fees in the Yankee Lake suit.

County commissioners paid staff counsels' $6,000 billing for Yankee Lake litigation.

Colbert said today there now exists a strong possibility he and County Attorney Bob McMillan will be able to come in with an out of court settlement proposal for dismissal of the county annexation suits. Colbert said he and McMillan hope to present the proposal to their respective commissions within a month.

Although declining to discuss settlement details, Colbert did say the proposal "would be something both sides would get something out of."

The county's suits are efforts to win back land Sanford annexed into its western boundary through ordinance.

The county contends three of these land acquisitions are illegal because they form irregular land patterns in violation of annexation statutes.

Annexations expand both the city's boundaries and its tax base, while the county incurs a commensurate loss.

Sanford-Seminole County relations were severely strained last fall when the county filed two annexation suits and the city followed soon after with its Yankee Lake condemnation effort.

The project developed after the suit's loss is expected to come in at $36.5 million, or $1.5 million less than was estimated for the Yankee Lake program.

The state has also agreed to extend its compliance deadline for disposal project completion by six months, from April, 1989, to October of that year. The city asked for the extension due to delays prompted by the condemnation litigation.

Sanford also floated a bond for the new effort last month at a $8 million savings from repayment rates that would have accompanied the Yankee Lake issue. It was unable to secure in December because of condemnation litigation, city financial representatives said.

According to vouchers submitted by Colbert, his firm was paid $60,873.25 for the condemnation attempt. Another $31,570.41 was paid to two additional counsel city commissioners retained for the litigation. These charges were $16,345.68 to attorney Thomas Julin, paid $115 an hour, and $15,224.73 to attorney Marcia Lippincott, paid $100 an hour.

All $169,650 in litigants' Yankee Lake attorney fees covers hourly billings and suit related costs.

Seminole County retained Marsee for $75 an hour and Stanton for $110 an hour. Paulucci retained Cleveland for $110 an hour and Spoonhour for $125 an hour.

Natural Immune-Cell Cancer Therapy Looks Promising In Mouse Studies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A scientist reported Thursday development of a cancer treatment using natural "killer cells" 50 to 100 times more effective than a therapy he announced last year — but cautioned the new method has only been tested in mice.

Dr. Steven Rosenberg, chief of surgery at the National Cancer Institute, and colleagues found the cells inside mouse tumors.

When separated out, made to multiply and reintroduced into the mice along with an immune system booster and cancer drug, they drastically boosted survival rates.

"We do not know whether this will work in patients," Rosenberg said in a telephone interview. "I've seen a lot of treatments that work in mice and not in people."

"In mice, it looks good," he said. "It represents the next scientific step in developing immunotherapies that try to take advantage of the body's immune system."

The surgeon said his team, who reported the findings in the journal Science, hoped to begin clinical trials in humans in the next one to two months upon receiving Food and Drug Administration approval.

Rosenberg, who led the team of surgeons that successfully removed a cancerous growth from President Reagan's colon last year, made a splash in December when the NCI announced he had developed a new kind of cancer treatment: using the body's own defenses against tumors.

The team mixed white blood cells, important components of the body's disease-fighting immune system, with interleukin-2, a natural immune-system booster. This turned them into tumor-killers called lymphokine-activated killer cells, or LAK.

Fifty-five patients whose cancers were so advanced they failed to respond to conventional treatment were given LAK. Twenty-one showed substantial improvement and five went into complete remission.

The announcement set off a stampede. About 2,600 cancer patients called the NCI seeking treatment, even though it was not available. Since then, six medical centers have begun trials that will enroll as many as 500 patients.

Rosenberg's team had been searching for more potent cells the body might produce specifically against cancer and decided the logical place to search would be inside tumors.

On finding such cells in mouse tumors, the researchers grew them in lab dishes and combined them with interleukin-2, necessary to keep the cells alive and growing, plus cyclophosphamide, a chemotherapy drug.

They injected the mixture into mice that had large tumors and found half of them survived more than 100 days, the duration often used to determine effectiveness of mouse treatment. In humans, treatment is considered successful if remission lasts five years.

Of the uninjected mice, all were dead within 20 to 30 days.

"When you compare these cells to LAK cells, at least in the mouse models, these cells are 50 to 100 times more potent on a per-cell basis," Rosenberg said.

A problem with LAK was side effects, the most common of which was fluid retention.

The researchers were uncertain what role the chemotherapy drug played except that it appeared to work synergistically with the other ingredients to boost the treatment's effectiveness. By itself, the drug had little effect in the mice.

Human Parts Found in Crocodile

DARWIN, Australia (UPI) — Wildlife rangers harpooned a crocodile Thursday and found in its stomach the head and torso of a man who police said might be a camper killed this week.

Police said, Lee McLeod, 39, a camper from the state of Queensland in northeastern Australia, apparently was attacked by a crocodile Sunday night as he slept with a companion on the banks the McArthur River near the fishing village of Borroloola.

The man's legs were found floating in the river 100 yards upstream, and a search was launched for the crocodile by police and townspeople in the remote region on the Gulf of Carpentaria.

Rangers of the Northern Territory Conservation Commission, flown in from Darwin, spotted a 14-foot crocodile before dawn today while patrolling the same stretch of river.

They harpooned the reptile, then killed it with a single rifle shot to the head.

The croc's stomach was opened, yielding a man's head, fingers and a large part of a decomposed human torso, a commission spokesman said. The remains were flown late Thursday to Darwin for identification.

It was the third fatal crocodile attack in the north of Australia since December.

On Dec. 21, Berry Wruck, 31, a rural postmistress, was killed by a crocodile while standing in knee-deep water of the Daintree River in north Queensland.

Catherine Anne McQuarrie, was taken by a crocodile in early February while swimming in the Staaten River in northwestern Queensland.

The attacks have prompted outcries for a wholesale slaughter of salt water crocodiles.

Chopper Shopper Concerns Chief

CRESTVIEW (UPI) — A man who uses a helicopter to run to the store and to grab a bite to eat worries the fire chief, but the pilot says he is being careful with his "incredibly fun" mode of travel.

Larry Littlefield, 37, of Crestview, who has been flying since he was a teenager, uses a whirlybird rather than a vehicle to get around his northwest Florida town. He lands where ever there is a wide open space.

"I land at Hardee's all the time," Littlefield told a Fort Walton Beach newspaper. "If I get hungry and I'm out flying around, I just stop and get something to eat. It's incredibly fun. You don't have to worry about traffic in anything."

But his flying does worry Fire Chief Dalton Brannon, who said Thursday that he had been unaware Littlefield was used a helicopter to run errands until his men were called out Monday to a Wal-Mart department store where Littlefield had landed.

Brannon said he was at home eating supper when he heard about it. "The guy just landed there to go in the store."

That "kind of disturbed me. I don't think it's the safest practice," he said.

Brannon said he called the Federal Aviation Administration and was told there was nothing that could be done as long as property owners don't object to Littlefield landing on their property.

"How can a man run around landing a helicopter in a populated area? He can have his linker toy, but he doesn't need to be endangering people's lives," Brannon said.

At 75, 'Libby' Has New Cause

By John M. Leighty
UPI Feature Writer

KENTFIELD, Calif. (UPI) — Elizabeth "Libby" Smith Gatov, the former Treasurer of the United States, says she was thrown into an embarrassing world of financial confusion when her husband died, a fate she's now trying to help other women avoid.

Relaxed at her Northern California home, "Libby" as she's called by practically everyone, talks straightforwardly about how she learned to come to grips with personal money management in a period of extreme grief.

Gatov, who has been involved in financial circles all her life, says some 14 million women, mostly in their older ages, have had similar experiences by outliving their husbands. To help them, she's written a book, "Widows in the Dark," recently published in paperback by Warner Books.

"I was reduced to a state of shock and utter helplessness," says Gatov of the 1978 death of her businessman husband, Albert W. Gatov. She adds that it was nearly impossible to cope with the family investments, which seemed like a foreign language to her despite her treasury background.

"It was a financially-oriented jargon with which I was totally unfamiliar," said Gatov. "I soon learned that my plight was not unlike that of thousands of women who find themselves in similar situations."

A longtime Democrat born April 27, 1911 to American parents in Montreal, Canada, Gatov was the first woman appointed in the administration of President John F. Kennedy Administration, a job she held two years before quitting to get married.

Gatov, who said her Treasury job was mostly a public relations position, easily slid into the role of running her family's modest estate in the posh Marin County town of Kentfield, virtually ignoring bigger financial decisions. When her husband died of cancer in November of 1978, she said, a secure and happy world crumbled around her.

"More than most women, I might have been expected to know about money," said Gatov, who spent two years with the Kennedy administration and has been vice president of First Federal Savings and Loan of San Rafael, Calif. since 1982.

"All these experiences taught me how to understand financial statements and something about economics but not a thing about personal money management. I was ignorant and worse, self-conscious about my ignorance, when dealing with professionals in the field."

Now, she says proudly, she can plow through the highs, lows and composites of business figures with the best of the stockbrokers. She understands bond issues, interest rate fluctuations and price to earnings ratios. And, she watches her checkbook.

Being a woman of positive action, Gatov began meeting with attorneys, money consultants, insurance agents and tax experts in order to take charge of her financial future. She also took an investments course and one of her early decisions was to sell a farm equipment stock just before it plummeted in price, a move that prevented a

'In my generation, husbands made the financial decisions. This is changing, but I thought there must be millions of women in the same shape I was.'

—'Libby' Gatov

heavy blow to her assets.

"In my generation, husbands made the financial decisions," said Gatov. "This is changing, but I thought there must be millions of women in the same shape as I was."

To help these women, Gatov has spoken about her experience at civic meetings and outlines the steps she discovered were necessary to competently deal with a personal crisis and family finances in her book, which was picked up by Warner paperbacks after first being published by a small press in Bolinas, Calif., a coastal town where the Gatovs used to spend their weekends.

"Writing the book was a learning experience," said Gatov, who has always been active in politics, having been Democratic National Committee woman for California before being invited to be the first woman appointee in the Kennedy administration in 1961.

Having firsthand experience with the emotional and economic distress of widowhood, Gatov shows how to get on track toward peace of mind and the sense of security gained by learning the basics of personal money management.

She says women must learn how to read and understand the financial pages of their newspaper; carefully choose professionals to help manage investments; understand the execution of the husband's will; anticipate where money is coming from, when and in what amounts; maintain good financial records; plan for tax, mortgage, insurance and other fixed payments; create a personal net worth statement; achieve financial independence by grasping the fundamentals of investing and make sound decisions with confidence.

Gatov said she interviewed 47 widows who, like herself, were at the stage of "nearly zero comprehension" of even the simplest financial matters after their spouses died. From the experiences, she was able to develop techniques for dealing with practical money matters.

One tip, said Gatov, is to tape-record any conversations with the attorney handling the will or with bankers, financial advisors or stockbrokers. Under the stress of grief, she said, most women forget or have little comprehension of what is being discussed. A tape will give the opportunity to review important discussions in private and without pressures.

She said most widows are made executrix of their husband's will, which can be a positive learning experience and a form of "work therapy." It is necessary to deal immediately with insurance coverage and to gather all documents relating to the estate's assets.

The primary steps are to gather the assets, pay the estate's debts; pay the death taxes, if any; and distribute the assets according to the will. You must close bank accounts and reopen them under your own name and reregister all securities into your name alone. Start a filing system for important papers and buy a calculator to figure out the assets and deficits.

In the Kennedy administration, Gatov admits, her main job was to stay out of Washington and give speeches. "I was encouraged to leave town as often as possible to talk about the wonders of the Kennedy administration."

However, she did make the controversial suggestion to change the size and colors of the nation's currency so the denominations would be more easily distinguished. She took around samples of money from other industrialized countries that had such a system.

Her idea had only lukewarm response and was shelved, presumably until Kennedy was re-elected for a second term. Kennedy, however, was assassinated in 1963 and the money change never occurred.

"I still think it's a good idea, but nobody's ever followed up on it," said Gatov, who was off to attend another financial seminar. This time it was one on helping young people to manage money.

"Who knows," she said. "I might even write a book about it."

Study: Citizens Want Deficit Down

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Americans would like Congress to raise some taxes, reduce retirement cost-of-living raises and cut military spending in its effort to trim the deficit, according to "Debtbusters" results released Thursday.

Debtbusters, a game designed to guide Congress on trimming the deficit, was set up by the Roosevelt Center, a non-profit public policy group based in Washington, and was played by a 16-member team in each state.

More than 40 states favored limiting federal retirees' COLAs, charging user fees for government services and increasing taxes on beer, wine and tobacco. More than 30 states favored cancellation of the Midgetman missile and reductions in the strategic defense initiative, nicknamed "Star Wars."

There was nearly no support for cuts in Medicare or Medicaid.

"I would not have expected such a large majority of the American people to be in favor of cutting COLAs," said Senate Budget Committee Chairman Pete Domenici, R-N.M., who received the report.

Domenici said the exercise shows Americans are willing to cut the deficit and "are slightly ahead of the political leadership."

"Grassroots America has fashioned its own version of this grand compromise," said Bill Galston, who coordinated the game for the Roosevelt Center.

House Budget Committee Chairman William Gray, D-Pa., called the exercise "amazing," and said it will be helpful as Congress tries to meet the Gramm-Rudman law's goal of a balanced budget by 1991.

British Archeological Treasures Uncovered

By Gregory Jensen
UPI Senior Editor

LONDON (UPI) — In a temporary case at the British Museum is a section of wooden bridge so cunningly made that its whole

1.2-mile length "could have been fitted together in a single day." It is 6,000 years old.

Nearby is an ordinary-looking piece of string, older than the pyramids of Egypt.

Both were excavated only recently, part of a drastic post-war explosion of archeology which is revolutionizing knowledge about 10,000 years of Britain's past.

"The last 40 years have seen a tremendous expansion of archeological activity in Britain," said museum executive Simon James beside an extremely rare chariot burial of about 300 B.C., excavated only last year.

Now there's an attempt to sum up this expansion, compressing its mountain of discoveries into a single display.

It is a new show called "British Archeology — New Views of the Past." So sweeping are the revelations of these four decades that it's the biggest exhibition ever mounted at the British Museum.

Its most dramatic inhabitant is "Pete Marsh," nicknamed for the peat marsh where he was found. His more proper name is Lindow Man, and most likely he was ritually slaughtered in some bizarre human sacrifice.

"Apart from an armband of fox fur he was naked when they killed him," wrote archeological writer Brendan Lehane. "The last he ate was from a loaf of unleavened bread. Possibly the last thing he saw was a hammer rushing at his head."

"Unconscious but not dead, he was hit again. Then he was strangled or garrotted. That finished him, but still a blade was forced into the front of his neck, piercing the jugular vein. His body was dumped in a shallow pool and left."

That was 2,000 years ago. Yet when Lindow Man was found accidentally two years ago, his head and torso were so well preserved by the peat that his moustache and short beard are still distinct.

Few corpses have been studied with the intensity of this 25-year-old man, probably a nobleman since his manicured hands show he did no manual work. Experts used exotic scientific techniques — electron spin resonance spectroscopy, terrestrial photogrammetry, endoscopy, radiocarbon dating — to wrest every secret possible from the late Pete Marsh.

New techniques like these are a unifying thread through the show. The most crucial new tool is pictures from the air.

"Aerial photography was the key development," James said. "It helped us find not one or a few sites, but thousands."

From the air, variations in grasses or crops invisible from the ground dramatically show the presence of buried remains. Shadows unnoticed at ground level show in aerial pictures as — to take one example from the show — furrows made by Stone Age plows, still marking the earth.

Thus instead of a handful of deserted medieval villages, experts now have located more than 3,000 Iron Age sites in one English county mushroomed from six known in 1962 to more than 200 by 1980.

"By means of new excavation techniques and ... scientific methods, archeologists have not only been able to refine dates but to study such problems as diet, disease, climatic change and technology," said museum director David M. Wilson.

"The revelations in this exhibition expose the popular myth of a mysterious mist-shrouded prehistoric Britain inhabited by superstitious savages," said a museum spokesman.

In 1200 B.C., people were sophisticated enough and organized enough to build an artificial island made of an estimated 1 million timbers, just discovered near Peterborough. Excavation is only beginning.

Elsewhere, recent study "has begun to reveal just how complex were the lives of the first farmers (about 4000 B.C.) and how great was the scale on which many of their undertakings were conceived," the show guidebook says.

Archeology's explosion has unveiled unexpected treasure in entire new regions.

"The enormous archeological potential of Britain's wetlands is a relatively recent discovery," the guidebook says. Among hundreds of discoveries from once-flooded areas is the "Sweet Track," a low bridge of X-shaped timbers holding up spans of shaped planks.

"The Sweet Track was 2 kilometers long, but so neatly do all the components fit together that, once the wood had been prepared, it could have been fitted together in a single day," James said.

Archeologists now know of more than 900 stone circles built 5,200 to 4,200 years ago. They've counted the castles built between William the Conqueror's invasion in 1066 and the year 1215 and found more than 900 of them.

Four years in the making, "British Archeology" is a huge show. It runs at the museum until Feb. 15.

Seminole Test No. 3 Astronaut Willis Moves Back To QB; Mosure Banks On Stellar Linebacking

(AIRWAVES: Sanford's WUEZ-AM (1400) will broadcast tonight's prep football opener between Seminole and Astronaut from Titusville at 7:50 p.m. Play-by-play announcer Steve Luba and color analyst Stan Lee will be mikeside.)

"You've got to improvise. You can't just throw up your hands and say, 'We don't have this and we don't have that.' You take where you are and try to make the most of it." — Lou Holtz.

Lou Holtz and Dave Mosure share a common problem. Holtz, chosen to be the saviour of Notre Dame's once powerful football program, sends his Irish against No. 2 Michigan Saturday. Mosure, trying to rebuild Seminole's once-flourishing program, sends his Tribe against No. 3 Titusville Astronaut tonight.

Both face formidable foes. Holtz, however, can take care of himself. The present task at hand is

Football

Mosure's Seminole has opened the season with Astronaut six times. The 'Noles have lost all six.

Seminole is not just opening with a good Class 3A school. It's opening against a coach — Jay Donnelly — whose won 113 games and lost just 34 in 14 seasons. Donnelly said Astronaut has the best winning percentage of any football program in the state.

"This is the last year of a two-year contract," Mosure laughed Wednesday at a luncheon with the Sanford Optimist Club. "I'll let you know after Friday if we'll open with them again."

The laughter stops tonight, however. Mosure, like Holtz, became an improviser after a May 4 motorcycle-automobile accident took his returning quarterback Jeff Blake, an All-SAC selection last year as a sophomore.

With his leadership position was in limbo, the second-year Seminole head coach tossed the job up between Dwayne Willis and Jerry (formerly Blankenship) Governall. Willis, an explosive halfback, won but then Governall had a good fall jamboree.

Mosure, who was 4-6 last year, decided to start Governall in tonight's 8 o'clock season opener at Draa Field in Titusville. Earlier this week, though, Governall came down with strep throat. Mosure then switched back to Willis for the start, but said Governall will play.

Willis said it doesn't matter to him where he plays. "I've been dropping back deeper when I'm throwing the ball and coming over the top more," he said. "I've throwing better. On the rollouts, I just have to be more patient and wait for the opening." Running backs Curtis Rudolph and Eric Williams complete the backfield while Herb Hillery, Walter Hopson, Terrence Eaddy and Eugene Byam are the wideouts. Sonny Osborn, a tight end, has been Willis' favorite target.

With Willis, Seminole has a legitimate threat on

Jerry Governall

the option, but loses the 5-9 165-pound senior's explosiveness off tackle. "Dwayne has come a long way in mastering the offense and ballhandling," Mosure said. "With the exception of certain type of passes, we pretty much have an open book with Dwayne."

And Mosure would like the book to have a different ending for the seventh verse. He said his team has to believe it can beat Astronaut. In previous years, Seminole has fallen behind early and has not been able to make it up. Mosure said a quick score more build confidence in his young club.

Kickoff Classic: Fired-Up Rams Tackle Apopka

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

In college football's Kickoff Classic, two of the top teams in the nation square off in the college season opener. The high school version of the Kickoff Classic could very well be tonight's matchup between the Lake Mary Rams and Apopka Blue Darters.

The Rams and No. 5-ranked Blue Darters, both district champions a year ago, collide tonight at 8 at Lake Mary High in what has the potential to be a spectacular season opener.

A year ago, in the season opener, Apopka rolled to a 21-0 victory en route to a 10-0 regular season. The Darters, ranked number one in the state for most of the year, were then shocked by Merritt Island in the regional playoffs.

Lake Mary, which was without leading rusher John Curry in last year's opener, went on to an 8-2 regular season and went one step further than Apopka by winning the regional against Lake City, Columbia. The Rams fell one win short of the state playoffs with a sectional loss to Pensacola Woodham.

Nelson said his Rams are anxious to go at it with the Darters.

"We had a good week of

practice," Nelson said. "The last two days, the kids looked really excellent. They looked so good it gave me goose bumps. The kids are ready to go and let the chips, not Gierke, fall where they may."

For the first time in a regular season game, Nelson will unveil his new offensive scheme, the "No-huddle Rambone." The offense is a version of the wishbone run without a huddle. And the fourth-year Lake Mary coach said he doesn't mind opening it up against a team like Apopka.

"There are two schools of thought for season openers," Nelson said. "One is to play a weaker team to get the kinks out. Two is to get a test right off the bat. And where are you going to get a more exciting opener than this one?"

Leading the Rams' offense is senior quarterback Shane Letterio who passed for over 1,000 and ran for more than 300 yards a year ago. Joining Letterio in the backfield is Curry, last year's 1,000 yard rusher, along with Anthony Harrisfield (235 pounds)

Lyman Seeks Quicker Start Against Boone

By Scott Sander
Herald Sports Writer

LONGWOOD — Season openers and Orlando Boone have been taboo for coach Bill Scott's Lyman Greyhounds the last years. When that first Friday rolls around in September and the Braves tackle the Greyhounds, traditionally slow starters, have not gotten out of the box.

"We have not played well against them for the past couple of years," Scott said. "Hopefully this year will be different."

This year begins tonight with an 8 o'clock kickoff at newly lighted Lyman field. The game is a non-conference encounter, but Scott said Lyman would like to get off on the right foot since the schedule — Mainland, Lake Brantley, DeLand and Oviedo — favors a quick Greyhound escape from the starting gate.

Scott said Lyman will be counting on the running of tailback Robert Thomas and the throwing of quarterback John Burton offensively.

Thomas, who was fourth in the Seminole Athletic Conference in rushing last season with 911 yards, said that the Greyhounds are anxious to take on the Braves. "If we would have beaten them last year we would have had a winning record," Thomas said about his team's 5-5 record. "We have had a good week of practice and our really ready to play."

Thomas said that he really doesn't have a personal goal this year. "My goal is for us to win," the modest tailback said. "I would like to rush for 1,000 yards, though."

Burton, who beat out Darren Boyeson for the starting job, said that this year's team is stronger than last year's team. "I think that we are a lot better this year," Burton said. "I think that conference will come down to us and Lake Mary."

Scott King, who is the defensive leader at the inside linebacking spot, said that the team's success or failure depends on its effort. "If we want to win badly enough there is no telling how good we can be," King said. "We have quite a few seniors on our team and the experience and maturity will hopefully pay off for us."

Boone has a new head coach this season in Chris Bonnell. Bonnell is replacing Larry McBryde who Bonnell said retired in order to spend more time with his family. McBryde is a former Lake Brantley assistant.

Bonnell, who has been an assistant coach at Boone for the past two years, said that he thinks the game will be close. "We have got our work cut out for us," Bonnell said. "They have some good athletes over

Dunkel Index Draws Nelson's Wrath

The Dunkel Index has the Lake Mary Rams as a 21-point underdog against Apopka tonight — which understandably doesn't sit too well with Lake Mary coach Harry Nelson.

"Where were those guys when we were beating everybody last year?" Nelson, his voice rising, said Thursday. "They've got my Norwegian blood boiling. The Viking will strike Friday night."

The DI, which is based on power points (margin of victory) and program strength, has Apopka ranked 13th in the state with a 70.8 rating. Lake Mary is 134th with a 49.6. DeLand, quizzically, which is not expected to be a powerhouse this year, is 37th at 62.2.

The Bulldogs open with Eau Gallie before coming to Lake Mary next Friday. Nelson said he is already fired up about coach Dave Hiss and his Bulldogs coming to town.

"Dave Hiss doesn't wear any socks on the sideline. That gives him 10 points right there," Nelson said. "Then he dresses in battle fatigues and leads calisthenics. That's 21 more. I wonder if he'll come down here in a fire engine."

Hiss is famous for some of his unorthodox entries to the playing field. On one occasion he came into Spec Martin Field on a hayrack. Another time, he loaded his players into Army personnel carriers.

Whatever, Nelson will have to wait a week. Seminole, meanwhile, was the highest ranked county team (111th, 51.4). After Lake Mary, it's Lake Howell (162, 45.8), Lyman (201, 42.2), Lake Brantley (205, 41.7) and Oviedo (208, 41.5).

Dick Dunkel, originator of the DI, said it doesn't really get rolling into the prep season until after a couple games. "It's just too hard to gauge what a team has coming back and what over teams have coming up," Dunkel said last year.

Apopka holds the No. 1 ranking among teams in Seminole, Orange and Volusia counties. Orlando Evans and Winter Park, two more District 5A-5 powerhouses, are second and third. DeLand is fourth and Orlando Jones fifth. Jones and Evans meet tonight which should shed some light on the poll.

Seminole High's game with Titusville High will be played on Thursday next week instead of Friday, according to Tribe athletic director Jerry Posey. Posey said a scheduling conflict arose between Titusville and Astronaut for Draa Field on Sept. 19.

Coaches: Lake Mary Course To Offer Severe Test

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

The new Greenwood Lakes Middle School has cut into it. Cars have driven over it and football teams and bands have practiced on it. Although it's been used for a multitude of other purposes, the Lake Mary High cross country course is still intact.

Saturday morning, the Lake Mary course will be the sight of the first meet of the 1986 season — the Lake Mary Opener. The meet begins at 8:30 a.m. with girls junior varsity followed by boys JV at 9, girls varsity at 9:30 and boys varsity at 10.

Lake Mary girls coach Mike Gibson, also the meet director, said the course is in the best condition ever. "It's already been mowed but I'm going to go over it one more time with the Bush Hog," Gibson said. "And I packed in the hill so that it shouldn't be as difficult to run on."

The Lake Mary meet will have all six of Seminole County's schools competing along with

Cross Country

Boone, Evans, West Orange and Bishop Moore from Orange County and Daytona Beach Father Lopez. A lot of coaches believe the Lake Mary course is one of the most challenging in the area.

"It's a true cross country course," Seminole High boys coach Sid Blackwell said. "There are a lot of turns and it has that hill. It's a real gutty course."

At Seminole High, Blackwell said he doesn't have a number-one calibre runner the likes of graduate Billy Penick, but the 'Noles have a good top five.

Running for the Seminole varsity Saturday will be Rufaro Matipano, Alan Seward, David Johnson, John Skees, John Herberger and Jason Kaiser. All but Kaiser ran either varsity or junior varsity for Seminole last season.

"I'm using this meet to see where the guys are as far as conditioning," Blackwell said.

"We haven't done a lot of distance work because it's been too hot."

Blackwell may not have a number one runner like Penick, but he believes his team can be more competitive than a year ago.

"We've got a lot of guys who are so much better than last year," Blackwell said. "It's just a matter if they can apply it in a race. We have a more solid team this year and they have good

Holtz Calls On Humor, Instincts For Michigan

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI) — Lou Holtz possesses a wry sense of humor and solid coaching instincts. He'll probably need both qualities to handle Saturday's Michigan-Notre Dame opener.

The charismatic new coach of the Fighting Irish will make his South Bend debut in grand style at 3:30 p.m. EDT on Orlando's WFTV-9 — facing the No. 3 team in the country on national television. The threat of surprise and innovation may be Holtz's major asset as he leads his undersized team against a Big Ten titan.

What Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler doesn't know could hurt him considerably Saturday. The Wolverines aren't sure what to expect from an Irish defense coordinated by ex-Pittsburgh coach Foge Fazio. The Irish, coming off a 5-8 season that cost Gerry Faust his job, are expected to line up in a variety of defensive formations in an effort to confuse a powerful

Michigan attack.

"We have to be ready for everything Lou's done in the past," says Schembechler, who has a 16-1 record with Michigan in openers. "We're not exactly sure how they will line up defensively, with Coach Fazio coming over from Pittsburgh. I'm concerned with what to expect from a new staff. There are a lot of unknowns: Is it gonna be a Pittsburgh defense, a Minnesota defense, an Arkansas defense? We've got to be ready to make adjustments."

Holtz owns a 116-65-5 record in coaching stops at William & Mary, North Carolina State, Arkansas and Minnesota. Notre Dame quarterback Steve Beuerlein has a decent arm and a superb target in junior flanker Tim Brown, but he lacks the mobility Holtz craves. The key move on offense is the switch of sophomore Mark Green from wide receiver to tailback.

"Mark Green is going to start," says Holtz, "and our offense simply has to keep our defense out of poor field position. I'm glad we have the athletes we do have and we're gonna play eight or nine freshmen at critical times. We have enough talent here to win and be a good team. To win an opening game is very important because it sets the tone for the rest of the season. This game will be a great asset to this Notre Dame team no matter what happens Saturday — it will give us a great indication where we are as a program."

MIAMI MEETS TEXAS TECH
MIAMI (UPI) — When Texas Tech Coach David McWilliams looks at the University of Miami football program, he sees the future.

McWilliams' goal is to bring the Red Raiders program up to the national prominence enjoyed by schools such as Oklahoma, Penn State, Miami and Alabama. But when his Red Raiders take the field against the No. 2 Hurricanes Saturday night in the Orange Bowl, McWilliams must concentrate on the present.

In 1986, the Red Raiders, 1-0, are three-touchdown underdogs to the Hurricanes, 2-0.

"The one good thing about athletics is that you have to go out and earn it (national respect) and nobody is going to give it to you," McWilliams said. "We're fighting and hoping that we can be the same way, but we've got to do it and they've already done it."

Texas Tech is coming off a 41-7 rout in McWilliams' debut. Quarterback Billy Joe Tolliver passed for 204 yards and a touchdown, and split end Tim Tannehill caught eight passes for 82 yards. Tolliver threw for 422 yards last year against Texas Christian.

Pats, Lions Set To Atone For Poor '85

By Scott Sander
Herald Sports Writer

Lake Brantley, which finished 1-8 last year, and Oviedo, which posted a slightly better 3-7 mark, have been waiting a long time to make amends. The wait ends tonight when the Patriots and Lions tee it up in the first Seminole Athletic Conference football game of the year at Lake Brantley High School.

Perhaps Brantley fullback Mark Sepe summed up the Patriots feelings best when he said, "I was really embarrassed last year. "It was a horrible feeling and I don't ever want to have it again."

If Brantley is going to turn things around, it will have to get off on the right foot tonight. The Pats face a tough District 5A-5 slate (Orlando Evans, Winter Park and Apopka), so SAC and nonconference games are a must.

Brantley coach Fred Almon said that this game will either make or break the Patriots. "If we lose this one, things will be very tough for us. We lost the opener to them last year and we never recovered," he said.

Blanton also agrees that the opener is important. "It sets the stage for the rest of the season," Blanton said. "It is a very important game to both teams."

Originally scheduled for Oviedo, the game was moved due to the renovation not being completed at Oviedo. Blanton said the site doesn't make that much difference. "All of the schools in Seminole County are so close that it's not that big of a deal," Blanton said. "I'm sure that we will have some fans on our side."

Players from both teams are very excited about the game. "We have been looking forward to playing Brantley all summer long," Oviedo tailback Willie Gainey said. "It should be a lot of fun."

"They have got something coming to them," Brantley defensive tackle Randy Green said. "Our entire team is really looking forward to playing them."

Offensively, both teams will be depending heavily on their tailbacks.

Oviedo tailback Willie Gainey looked very good in the Lions 7-6 jamboree win over Lyman. Gainey could be one of the top rushers in the county this season as he will be reading the blocks of center Gordon King and tackle Andy Palmer.

"If we stop Gainey," Almon said, "We will stop their offense."

Mike McCurdy and John Pettit will be the Lions quarterbacks.

Brantley, meanwhile will be counting on tailback Johnnie Griffin to give them a good ground game. "Johnny has been working hard so far," Almon said. "He is a heck of a player."

Griffin said that this year's team is much better than last year's team. "We are really ready to go," Griffin said. "We are going to come out and play this year."

At quarterback, Jason Lanham will be handling the duties. "Jason is a real competitor," Almon said. "He is improving every day."

Defensively, Oviedo will be depending on linebackers Willie Pauldo and Jeff Joyce to make the big plays. "They are both good players," Blanton said. "They will have to play well if our defense is to be a success."

At Brantley, the Pats are counting on defensive tackle Chris Mull, Green, and linebacker Bucky Chambers.

Patriots Turn Loose Collins, Topple Jets

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (UPI) — The New England Patriots, underachievers for so long, have rallied around their coach to perform with unity and cohesion under a nationwide microscope.

After months of reported trouble and chaos, New England has used its first two games to prove it is a team of talent and character on the field.

Tony Collins grabbed two touchdown passes, one from fellow running back Craig James on a fourth-down option play Thursday night, to push New England to a 20-8 triumph over the New York Jets.

New England has jumped to a 2-0 start this season thanks to a defense that has not allowed a touchdown, an offense that produces big plays while staying away from mistakes, and because Coach Raymond Berry has regrouped his team from an off-season that belonged in a prime-time soap opera.

New England has won its first two games by a combined 53-9 score, allowing three field goals over eight quarters. Tony Eason has completed 32 of 51 passes with three touchdowns and no interceptions.

"We never had any doubt on this team that we're a great ballclub," James said. "The fans may expect us to fold, but we're not that type of team. We've got too many leaders."

One of the Patriots' great fears was that they would have a lack of leaders this season with the retirement of respected veterans John Hannah and Julius Adams. But a number of players have taken charge.

Following the most one-sided Super Bowl loss in history, 46-10 to Chicago last January, the Patriots were rocked by the revelation that six players had used drugs. The story was kept alive throughout the off-season as other problems surfaced; notably allegations that receiver Irving Fryar had bet on games.

Morris Shuts Out Brewers; Says Tigers Need Overhaul

United Press International

Jack Morris says management must make personnel improvements if it expects the Tigers to recapture their World Series championship form of 1984. If the Tigers are smart, that will include re-signing Morris.

Morris, in the final year of his contract, must decide after the season whether to remain with the Tigers or sign with another team. The right-hander, who beat Milwaukee 8-0 on a three-hitter Thursday night, says he would like to remain with the Tigers.

That decision, however, will hinge on whether the club makes him a solid enough offer and what kind of improvements the Tigers make.

"I will definitely review the situation," Morris said. "Definitely, I've waited this long. I can wait a little longer. I will patiently wait and see what they're going to do."

"But also, I don't care to sit around and wait five years. I want to see where this club is going to be. I don't say any of this as a threat. I love Detroit. I want to stay."

Morris, 17-8 this season, has been the most consistent winner in the majors this decade.

Yankees 3-7, Blue Jays 1-5
At Toronto, pinch hitter Dan Pasqua drilled a three-run double to highlight a four-run ninth inning uprising in the second game to lift New York. In the opener, Ron Kittle belted a two-run homer and Doug Drabek and Dave Righetti combined on a seven-hitter to lead the Yankees.

A's 3, White Sox 1
At Chicago, Joaquin Andujar pitched a six-hitter and Jose Canseco belted his 30th homer for Oakland. Andujar, 10-6, pitched his third straight complete-game victory. Richard Dotson, 10-14, took the loss.

Valenzuela Closes In On 20

United Press International

Fernando Valenzuela, who has won a Cy Young Award and an ERA title, is one victory away from a pitching milestone he has never reached — 20 triumphs in a season.

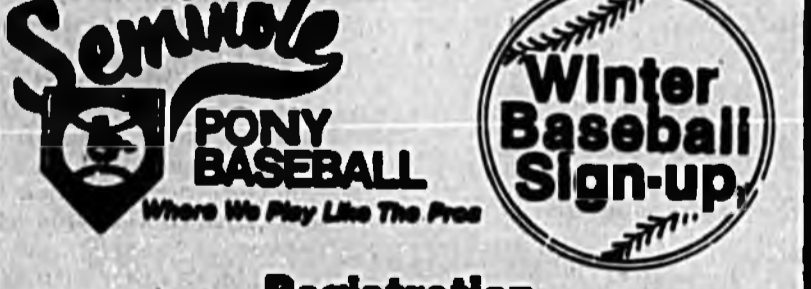

Valenzuela picked up his 19th victory Thursday night to lead the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 14-8 rout of the Houston Astros. The Dodgers ace didn't need to be at his best, as Pedro Guerrero and Reggie Williams each hit three-run homers and the Dodgers posted their highest scoring total of the year.

"I had 13 (runs) last year in Philadelphia," said Valenzuela, who won 19 games in 1982. "It feels good, real good."

Giants 3, Reds 1
At San Francisco, Chili Davis belted a two-run homer, and Kelly Downs, 2-4, and Scott Garrelta combined on a five-hitter to defeat Cincinnati. Garrelta pitched the ninth for his ninth save. Reds starter Bill Gullickson, 13-10, took the loss.

Padres 9, Braves 1
At San Diego, Ed Wojna fired a three-hitter and the Padres scored four times in the first inning off Atlanta starter Dave Palmer, 11-9. The only hits off Wojna, 2-0, were a pair of singles by Ken Griffey and a single by Rafael Ramirez.

Homecoming Comes Early For Weir, Howell

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

It's too early for homecoming, isn't it? Sam Weir doesn't think so. Neither does Mike Bisceglia. Weir, Lake Howell's former coach, and Bisceglia, Lake Howell's present coach, will get together tonight when Orlando Edgewater invades Lake Howell for the opening football game of the season at 8 p.m. It's also a District 5A-5 battle.

The pairing is a natural rivalry despite its Orange County vs. Seminole County billing. In 1981, Weir coached Lake Howell to its greatest football success. Utilizing the skills of Chuck (Los Angeles Rams) Scott and Bob Capobianco, Lake Howell marched into the district championship and won a three-way playoff with Spruce Creek and Apopka. The Hawks narrowly lost in the regional to Vero Beach.

Bisceglia followed that success. "People remind of what Weir did here," Bisceglia said Thursday. "And there pressure on me to win."

"We beat them over there last year (23-13), but I guess nobody saw that one," he laughed. Weir, who coached at Howell two years, said he is looking forward to the matchup, but didn't really want to expound on it. "It will be my first time back to Lake Howell since I left," he said. "But I don't want to talk about that. I don't need Lake Howell getting all fired up."

Weir, though, did want to talk about the '86 Hawks. "Boy, Lake Howell has grown," he said. "I saw films and we had a scout at the jamboree. They're tough. They're huge. We're quick but we won't stack up to them at all. "But I think they're bigger on offense than defense. That may help us."

Bisceglia, who has had some good teams but never a championship for the Hawks, hopes his offense controls the ball well enough that he doesn't have to worry about Edgewater's quickness on defense. "Defense is their strong point," he said. "They have a lot of quickness with six men up front. They really put a lot pressure on you, sending linebackers all of the time."

Weir, beginning his second year as head coach, uses a full-house backfield along with his favorite Delaware Wing-T. Travis Mack, a 5-8 165-pound junior is the man who makes Edgewater go. "Travis has come of age quickly," Weir said. "He's a very exciting player, especially in the open field."

Weir said he had a better player than Mack — senior Mark Franklin — but lost him to academic problems. Mack is joined by halfback Shawn Beauford, fullback Chris Peter and halfback Leroy Martin.

Lake Howell, unlike the Eagles, uses bulk to make its ground game go. Tackles Mike Schaefer (6-4, 273) and Jack Benedict (6-4, 287) join center Jason Kotar (6-0, 193) along with guards Kevin Hunnewell (6-1, 217) and Ken Joseph (6-0, 226) to form an imposing quintet. Steve Vadala (6-1, 215), normally a starter, will miss the game with an injury.

"We looked good on both sides of the ball in the jamboree," Bisceglia said about his team's 14-7 loss to highly regarded Lake Mary. Due to the wet and sandy conditions, Bisceglia didn't take the wraps off quarterback Mark Wainwright last week. Wainwright, a senior, tossed seven TD passes last year, four to slotback Bill Wasson. Bisceglia said Wainwright will throw more tonight.

"Of course it depends on what the game dictates, but I think we'll throw the ball 20 times a game," he said. "Mark has looked good in practice. And we have guys who can catch the ball."

Those guys include Wasson, tight end Greg Hill, David Yapo and Craig Derington. The running backs are Cornel Rigby and Nate Hoskins. Bisceglia said he would also make extensive use of Terry Gammons and Marty Golloher, two guys who didn't suit up for the jamboree.

"Gammons had a great week of practice," Bisceglia said. "We hope he stays injury-free this year. Terry has a lot of talent, no doubt about it, but it's still unproven talent."

Bisceglia said Gammons would be used in both backfields (running back and safety) along with both kick return teams.

Golloher will be used at defensive tackle and spotted at fullback. "Marty has great speed for his size," Bisceglia said. "He can run with Gammons. He's as fast as anybody."

Sam Weir

Mike Bisceglia

Defensively, linebackers Jeff Harris and Steve Trier take care of business. Harris was ninth in the county last year with 98 tackles. Trier, a starting center for two years, decided he wanted to play linebacker this fall.

"Steve is a great center, maybe an all-state center," Bisceglia said. "But he wanted to play linebacker. We let him and he won the job but he's still our backup center."

Bisceglia said this year's edition is one of the best as he enters his sixth year. "As far as well balanced team in every area, personality, character, spirit and attitude, this has to be one of the better I've been with," he said. "They have a good time together. They sing after practice regardless of what kind of practice we have."

Bisceglia wouldn't mind hearing a Don Meredith version of "Turn Out The Lights" for Weir about 10 p.m. and Tom Kothera (250), Dennis Barnes (225) will also see plenty of action at running back.

Letterio's receiving targets will be junior Sheldon Richards, sophomore Carlos Hartsfield and junior Terry "The Cat" Miller. Those three players also form Lake Mary's defensive secondary.

"Those guys are a lot like (Ray) Hartsfield and (Byron) Washington last year," Nelson said. "They have good speed, good hands and aren't afraid to hit on defense."

The offensive line has size and experience led by returning starters Sean Flaherty and John Kolbjornsen at tackle and Larry Stankovits at center. The guards are Eric Birle and Chad Gay, Troy Jackson, at 400 pounds, is the man Nelson will call on at guard in short yardage and goal line situations.

The defense is where the Rams lost the most to graduation but Lake Mary still has talent led by linebacker Matt Beck and middle guard Robb Reddington who Nelson is looking to for leadership on defense.

Joining Beck at linebacker will be Doug Bandy and Mike Smith. The ends are Scott Keller and Dan Ferris while the tackles are Steve Arthur and Rodney Nelson.

The kicking game is also experienced as placekicker Mike Renaud and punter Bobby Culpepper both saw action a year ago. Carlos Hartsfield is the punt-return specialist.

Apopka lost 16 of its starting unit of a year ago to graduation but coach Chip Gierke always seems to be able to come up with talent to fill in the gaps.

On offense, the Darters lost fleet-footed running back Mike Lowman to graduation but they have a number of good backs this season led by Jerome Orr, Stanley Thomas, Cedric Robinson and hulking fullback Steve Scoggins (265). Gierke has another in a long line of big quarterbacks in junior Dan LaForest (6-4, 210) who follows Rodney Brewer and Keith Ussrey.

Defensively, Scoggins anchors from his linebacker spot while linebackers Robert Hardwick, Stephone Mack and cornerback Anthony Guice are other defensive leaders for the Darters.

"They have good size," Nelson said of the Darters. "They have a Troy Jackson on the offensive line and one on defense. Our backs are bigger but overall Apopka has more size. They run good, they can throw and they play solid defense. They're a good sound ballclub."

While Gierke feels his team may not be as talented as a year ago, he hopes the Apopka tradition will inspire his team in tonight's opener.

"The tradition helps a lot," Nelson said. "They're not going to be scared of us, that's for sure. Even when we beat them two years ago (3-0) they were really cocky on the field."

there. But we are still going to show up."

Boone's quarterback is junior Troy Layton. Layton has had a good fall, according to Bonnell. "Troy is throwing the ball very well," Bonnell said. "This is the first year that he has played quarterback and is improving every day."

The Boone ground attack consists of fullback Scott Monroe and fullback Larry Cunningham. Monroe broke loose for a 62 yard touchdown run in last week's jamboree against West Orange. "Scott is a really good back," Bonnell said. "We have got a few offensive linemen that are hurt but their replacements should do a good job."

The key to this game is the Lyman offensive line. If the line can give Thomas room to run, then it will open up the

King

Boyesen

Greyhound passing game.

Defensive coach Jack Bloomindale said that the kids are ready to play Boone. "The kids are hungry," Bloomindale said. "You can see it in their eyes."

Bloomindale said that the key to the Lyman defense is the four linebackers. "Our linebackers have to play well for us," Bloomindale said about King, Bert Nousekhanian, Mike Whitaker and Benny Glenn.

Bloomindale said lack of size shouldn't hurt the 'Hounds. "They will stick their helmets on you," he said. "They may be small, but they like to hit."

"They've got real good team speed, are very aggressive and don't make many mistakes," Mosure said. "They've got a lot of talent and they're well coached."

Which sums up Astronaut every year. Donnelly, the only coach the program has ever had, said the War Eagles lost just seven seniors. Scott Boyd, a major-college prospect, made it eight when he decided not to play after suffering a serious injury last year.

"Our senior class wasn't big last year and our juniors carried us," Donnelly said about the 7-4 '85 campaign. "This year we have 20 seniors and they went through hell last year."

Astronaut plays an aggressive, challenging defensive scheme. Donnelly said he has two major-college prospects on the defensive line. Bobby Brown, who also plays guard, is 6-3 and 235 pounds. Cary Jones is 6-2 and 285. Brian Waters (6-0, 205) is the "big-play man" at quick tackle.

"Bobby is big, strong and very, very aggressive," Donnelly said. "He gets off the ball very well. Jones didn't start until the third game last year. He has good movement and intelligence."

Offensively, Huble Williams, who caught two long scoring tosses against the 'Noles last year, moves to quarterback. "Huble's an excellent athlete," Donnelly said. "He runs well and has improved his passing."

Derrick George (6-0, 195) is a hard-running fullback. Joe Britt (5-9, 170) is an elusive halfback with 4.5 40-yard dash speed.

Mosure said he plans to counter the War Eagles' speed with his linebacking trio of Earnie Lewis, Rick Kelley and Steve Warren. "Our linebackers are strong and extremely intense," Mosure said. "They could start at any school in Central Florida."

Upfront, ex-fullback Ed Banks has moved into an end spot along with Arline Daniels. Derrick Butler (235) and John Sharkey are the tackles. The rebuilt secondary includes Nick Casello, Willie Campbell, Ron Blake and Bernard Burke.

"The defense, no doubt, is our strong point," Mosure said. "Astronaut is a heckuva challenge for the opener, but that's the only way to go. We'll get after them."

Brantley's Frantic Rally Falls Short, JV Rams Hold On, 13-12

Lake Brantley's Patriots put on a frantic fourth-quarter comeback but ran out of time as Lake Mary's Rams claimed a 13-12 victory in junior varsity football action Thursday night at Lake Mary High.

"We built up a lead and the defense was playing well," Lake Mary coach Bill McDaniel said. "But, all of a sudden Lake Brantley started passing and got two fast touchdowns in the fourth quarter and made a game of it."

After scoring their second TD of the fourth quarter with about 25 seconds remaining, the Patriots went for the two-point conversion that would have given them the lead but the attempt failed. Brantley though had one last chance when it recovered an onside kick with 20 seconds left. The Patriots got as far as the Lake Mary 35 before time ran out.

After a scoreless first quarter, Lake Mary took a 7-0 lead with four minutes remaining in the second quarter when Lyman transfer Ray Williams, who ran for 119 yards on 11 carries for the game, broke loose for a 21-yard touchdown run. The conversion kick was good.

Midway through the third period, Lake Mary extended its lead to 13-0 when Art Bradford scored from eight yards out. Along with his TD run, McDaniel said Bradford was also the defensive leader from his middle linebacker spot. McDaniel said nose guard Ori Kantor also had an excellent game for the Rams.

SBA: Cager Signup Is Saturday

The Sunshine Basketball Association, which stepped in when the Seminole Youth Sports Association discontinued its basketball program, will hold an early registration Saturday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Seminole, Lake Howell and Lake Brantley high schools, SBA spokesman John Smith said Thursday.

Smith said boys and girls in elementary school can register for $25 and middle school players can register for $30. After Sept. 16, the elementary school fee goes up to $30 and the middle school fee is $40. Cagers should bring a birth certificate.

For further information, call the SBA office at 740-8986.

DRUGS: No Robinson Dismissal

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — A request by former Tennessee quarterback Tony Robinson to have multiple cocaine-selling charges dismissed was refused by a Knox County judge, and the athlete faces a Nov. 11 trial.

Judge Ray Lee Jenkins Thursday denied four motions from defense attorneys for Robinson and co-defendant Kenneth "B.B." Cooper to drop all or some of the charges against the athletes.

Jenkins did dismiss a single count accusing only Cooper. The judge said the charge, which accused Cooper of selling cocaine on Dec. 16, 1985, was identical to a charge listed earlier in the indictment.

LPGA: Monaghan Leads Safeco

KENT, Wash. (UPI) — Kris Monaghan, a Spokane, Wash., native, shot a 5-under-par 67 Thursday to take the first-round lead in the $200,000 Safeco Classic at Meridian Valley Country Club.

Monaghan, 26, playing her second season on the LPGA tour, smashed her previous career-low round of 69, scoring six birdies and an eagle on her first round. She also had three bogeys.

Three players — 1983 Safeco champion Juli Inkster, Hollis Stacy and Amy Benz — finished at 4-under 68 to sit one stroke back going into Friday's second round.

PGA: Clear, Grady Lead Classic

SUTTON, Mass. (UPI) — A pair of relative unknowns, one trying to remember his good play and the other trying to forget his mistakes, shared the first-round lead at a $450,000 PGA event.

Brian Clear and Wayne Grady overcame gusty winds Thursday to fire 5-under par 68s at the Bank of Boston Golf Classic.

Defending champion George Burns III struggled to a 3-over 74 as did Lee Trevino and U.S. Open champion Ray Floyd finished at 5-over 76.

Guy Lingo: Un-sponsored Success

"If I get a sponsor, I want one that really wants to help."

That is the feeling of Oviedo racer Guy Lingo. Lingo would like to have a good sponsor to help with tires, motors and other race related expenses, but just won't take one that's interested in just giving a few dollars to put its name on the car.

In his totally un-sponsored 1973 Pinto, Lingo has won three four-cylinder features this year. In the very highly competitive four-cylinder class at New Smyrna Speedway, Lingo is a constant threat to take the checkered flag in his home-built racer. The motors are built the same way.

At the track he has a small pit crew, with Walter Bealy and his wife Sandy helping to keep the car on the track. Lingo, who works for Davey Tree Service, also said that sons Nichols and Jeffery usually pitch in while daughters Shannon and Michelle also cheer him on to victory.

Earlier in the year, Lingo ran some strong races at Orlando Speedway as he took the runner-up spot two weeks in a row.

"I really enjoyed running there, as it was a busy track with the shorter distance than I am used to running," he said. "I had my hands full in every turn."

Lingo also said that on the shorter track that there was a lot more contact and it was too easy to tear up a car. For that reason he is now back and running New Smyrna Speedway only.

gates opening at 8. The night is being sponsored by Sun Country Wine Coolers and Kodak.

The Sun Country Cooler Bear will be on hand for photo sessions. There will also be an autograph and photo session with the track's favorite drivers.

The track has also scheduled a bicycle race and young and old alike can compete in a one-lap sprint around the half-mile oval. The winner will receive his choice of a new bike or a $100 savings bond. WHOO-FM (98) will also be on hand with bumper stickers and plenty of giveaway prizes.

attitudes. Once we get everybody going, we'll have a good team by about the beginning of October."

Seminole High first-year girls coach Cindy Branum said the 1986 team has the potential to be one of Seminole's best ever. The team has just two returning runners but a number of up and coming young performers.

"The girls are shaping up real well," Branum said. "They're up to four to four and a half miles a day when the most they ever ran before at Seminole was three miles. We've got five really strong runners right now. I'd like to see some competitive times out of the girls Saturday."

Leading the way is junior Shownda Martin, the number one runner the past two seasons. Also returning is junior Viola Pooley. The top newcomers are sophomores Sherry Burgess and Tasha Wynn, both of whom were members of the Seminole High girls track state championship team, and Branum said freshman Ginger Skees put in a lot of miles over the summer and looks good. Also running on the varsity Saturday are Nadrienne McGill and Debbie Dupree.

"I'd like to see the girls go out and run a good race and be able to believe in themselves," Branum said. "Most of them haven't run cross country before so they have to prove to themselves they can do it."

As head coach of Bishop Moore a year ago, Branum took the Lady Hornets to the 3A State Meet where they finished 13th but could have done better if not for some nagging injuries.

At Lake Mary, Gibson is not only serving as meet director

Saturday but he will be coaching both the boys and girls teams. Boys coach Mark McGee has been out of town all week due to a family crisis and Gibson has been working with both squads.

Top returning runners for the boys team include Eric Petersen and Brad Smith. The Rams, ranked ninth in the state (4A) preseason poll, will also look for strong performances from Paul Evans, Chad Driscoll, Scott Plyler, Dominick Rundle and Peter Schoemann.

Lake Mary's Lady Rams have a solid top two in senior Sue Kingsbury and junior Heather Heikkila and Gibson said his other five runners are also improving with more practice. They include returning runners Tabatha Gano, Lisa Shelby and Debi Smith, who is just coming off a twisted ankle, along with newcomers Allison Snell and Kim Blackadar. Heidi Hostnick may also run if Smith is not ready.

The meet favorite in the girls meet is Lake Howell's Lady Silver Hawks, second in the state (4A) a year ago and ranked third in this season's poll. Lake Howell has two of the top 10 returning runners in the state in seniors Lisa Samocki and Martha Fonseca. Also returning from last season are Mary Fonseca, Jenny Bolt and Kim Hammontrone while Tammy Bolt, Jenny's twin sister, is a promising newcomer.

There probably is no clear cut favorite in the boys meet although Lyman High probably has the top group of returning runners in Robin Rogers, Nick Radkewich and Mike Mohler although Radkewich may not run because he is also on the swim team which has a meet Saturday. Lake Mary and Lake Howell, with Phillip Buster, could also challenge along with Orlando Boone.

DeLand Waits Out Delay, Hands Pats Another Loss

By Chris Pieter
Herald Sports Writer

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — "Catch The Wave" is one of Lake Brantley High's mottos this season. Thursday night, it was more like "catch some z's" as there was nearly a two-hour wait before the start of the Lady Patriots' volleyball match against DeLand.

The originally scheduled officials failed to show but DeLand chose to stick it out until substitute refs Cindy Henry and Joe Mills came to the rescue. And the visiting Lady Bulldogs were glad they stayed around as they claimed a 15-13, 15-3 victory before 51 fans at Lake Brantley High.

It was the second loss in two days for Lake Brantley while DeLand upped its record to 2-0. The Lady Patriots, 0-2, return to action Tuesday at home against Eustis.

"Skill-wise, we had more than DeLand," Lake Brantley coach

Volleyball

Stephanie Glance said. "They set up their offense very few times. What we didn't have enough of was desire. After we lost the first game, the girls had no comeback in them."

After the long wait, the Lady Patriots came out fired up and stormed to a 7-0 lead as Shelly Wittig served seven straight points to open the match. Two of Wittig's serves were aces while Renee Upton's play at the net also highlighted the rally.

DeLand came back within 7-4 but Brantley eventually took a 12-5 lead behind the strong back row play of Dawn Gebhart and Upton and the front row play of Pam Wittig and Jeanne Seidel.

Brantley was two points away from victory in the first game, leading 13-8, when DeLand grabbed the momentum.

Gardening

Proper Spacing Is The Key To A Beautiful And Natural Landscape

A good-looking landscape adds quite a bit of value to your home. But, to get there usually requires a sizable amount of money, time, and a lot of sweat — if you want to do the job right. And, this means a little book work and careful planning.

One of the most important lessons is correctly spacing plants. Don't depend on your builder or developer to do the job right. In fact, you may be better off digging up your existing plants and moving them. To achieve a nice landscape, plants must be properly placed in relation to each other and to your home. You must understand each plant's growth rate, how tall it will get, and how wide. Unfortunately, the number of available plant sizes and shapes can complicate this for the amateur gardener.

The eventual size of a plant will be determined, to a large extent, on how you plan to use it. If a plant is to become part of a hedge, it should be placed close to other plants in a row so that eventually all of them will grow together. But, if you want to keep a plant's natural shape, it should be kept far enough away from its neighbors to allow it to grow as nature intended.

Trees are the largest and most permanent of all landscape plants and careful attention must be paid to spacing. Tall pines can produce a very good background screen for your home. Used in this manner, trees should be planted on 8 to 12 foot centers, depending on the natural mature size of the trees you choose.

Mass plants of smaller trees, such as dogwood, redbuds and crape myrtles, can be a real asset. If you space them about 12 to 18 feet apart, the top foliage should meet in a few years.

An oak tree planted on the west side of your home will eventually provide some shade. But, to ensure that the mature limbs will not crowd the house, young trees should be planted about 20 to 30 feet from the foundation.

A good rule of thumb is that landscape trees should be set a minimum of one-half their canopy spread away from neighboring trees, the walls of your home, and other structures — even walks and drives that might be cracked by surface roots. Check with your favorite nursery or garden center for specific recommendations. As you can see, plant spacing is a very important, but often overlooked, aspect of landscape design. To achieve the desired effect, you must do your homework — and plan carefully before you plant.

Shrubs vary so much in form and the way you use them that you may have a real problem choosing the right kinds for a specific purpose and location. Shrubs can be used for hedges, informal borders, foundation plantings, and as single specimen plants. Some have narrow, upright growth, some are round and compact. Others have loose, spreading branches, and many have colorful flowers. All of these things should be considered to create the balance necessary to have a beautiful landscape.

As with trees, the specific spacing of the shrubs depends on the one you select, and the way you want to use it. The most common mistake in planting shrubs is setting them too close together or close to a wall or foundation. When plants are small, it's hard to judge the spacing. A small one purchased in a gallon container at the nursery may eventually reach 15 feet. If it's crowded in with other plants, much of the natural beauty will be lost.

The growth rate of shrubs depends a lot on how you take care of it. If planted properly, watered and fed as needed, and insects and diseases controlled, it probably will need more space than shrubs growing under less favorable conditions.

Keep in mind, too, that shrubs planted directly under the drip line of a roof will grow poorly. Be sure there is some distance between the plants and the water that will run off the roof. Air space between your foundation plants and your home will certainly improve air circulation and help prevent mildew problems.

Consider pruning, too. Properly spaced shrubs usually need only minimal pruning. Drastic pruning or shearing with a hedge clipper destroys the natural form of shrubs. Most look better if they're allowed to mature into their natural shape. Select plants that won't outgrow the locations where they're to be planted.

For recommendations on specific plant choices for particular locations in your landscape, check with your favorite garden center or nursery. Remember, plan before you buy. You must decide where plants are needed and how much space is available. Choose appropriate varieties that will not become too large at maturity and avoid planting too close together or near your home. Proper spacing really is the key to beautiful and natural landscaping.

Happy gardening!

ABWA To Recognize All Working Women Of America

The Central Florida Area Council of The American Business Women's Association will observe American Business Women's Day on Sept. 27 at the Omni International Hotel at the Centroplex in downtown Orlando with a delightful luncheon from noon till 2:30 p.m. The theme for this second annual celebration is A Commitment to Excellence.

Featured speaker is Pamela Bratton, 1985-86 Secretary-Treasurer of the American Business Women's Association from Austin, Texas. She is branch manager of Victor Temporary Services. Pamela is a dynamic person and an articulate speaker whom you will enjoy.

The observance provides a special occasion to recognize the many contributions that the nearly 46 million working women in the United States have made to the private and public sectors. Once again Governor Graham has signed a Proclamation declaring Sept. 27 as American Business Women's Day in Florida.

The concept for such an observance grew out of a belief that the United States needed a national day which would recognize the achievement of not only ABWA's more than 120,000 members, but all employed women. A U.S. Senate and House Joint resolution recognizing American Business Women's Day was passed in 1983 with a designated proclamation signed by President Reagan the following year.

The mission of the American Business Women's Association is to bring together business women of diverse backgrounds and to provide opportunities for them to help themselves and others grow personally and professionally through leadership, education, networking support and national recognition.

Your reservation, accompanied by a check made payable to Central Florida ABWA Council in the amount of $14.50 should be mailed no later than Sept. 20 to Emily Butler, P.O. Box 2863, Kissimmee, Florida 32742.

Allen Chapel AME Church, Olive Avenue and 12th Street, will celebrate its annual Women's Day Services on Sept. 14 at 11 a.m. The theme is Christian Women Working in a Changing World. Guest speaker for the morning will be Mrs. Ella Jean Gilmore, department manager of the Orange County Rehabilitation Services Department. Mrs. Gilmore is an active member of New Bethel AME Church, Sanford. At 5 p.m., a musical concert by the choirs of Allen and The Chordettes, Ma. Laura Williams, chairman, and the Rev. J.H. Woodard, pastor.

The Sanford Alumnae Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority will sponsor tutoring sessions for high school juniors and seniors to help them increase their Scholastic Aptitude Test scores. The free sessions will be held at Allen Chapel AME Church, Olive Avenue and 12th Street, New Bethel AME Church, Midway area, and St. James AME Church, Cypress Avenue and Ninth Street on Sept. 17 and 24 and Oct. 1 and 8. Interested persons are invited to participate. Shirley Allen, sorority president.

Dedication and memorial service will be held for the late Deacon Gerald S. Cassanova at 3 p.m. on Sept. 21 at the Providence Missionary Baptist Church, Lake Monroe. The special service of songs and praises will be in his honor and the Memorial Building will be dedicated by the Cassanova and Providence Church family. The Rev. James D. Hagin, Pastor.

Happy birthday to Krystle Martin, Allen Sonny Boy Mitchell, Debra LaKisha Perkins, Beverly Mitchell, Rebecca Albertshart, Carling Kelti, Debra Williams, Raymond Gaines and Roosevelt Cummings.

Woman Becomes Wife In Exile

DEAR ABBY: My world is about to fall apart. I'm 88 and "George" is 70. We both lost our mates, and found love again with each other. It was like a dream. Then this came to light: George has a 38-year-old twice-divorced daughter who is self-supporting but has moved back "home" with a girlfriend to look after her father and run his house. "Stella" is spoiled rotten and bosses her father around as though he were a child. He's a kind, gentle man who had been bossed by his deceased wife for 43 years, and now this daughter

George will not stand up for himself, hoping this situation will solve itself. He doesn't want Stella to know that he bought me a new car and a lovely piece of jewelry as a wedding gift. He told her I already had them. I don't like all this deceit.

We have been married for seven months, and we are not even living together because his daughter is there and he says it will be too crowded with me there, too. Abby, I am his wife!

I didn't know all this was going to happen. George says neither did he, but Stella is his daughter, and he can't say no to her. So where does that leave me?

HUMILIATED

DEAR HUMILIATED: That leaves you outside looking in, which is where you will remain unless George sends Stella packing and moves you into his home where you belong.

Unfortunately, this is hardly a realistic expectation from what you've told me. Face it, you married a kind and gentle man — but a weak one — who can't stand up to his daughter. Don't waste any more time waiting for the problem to solve itself. Give George a deadline. You're not his wife. You're his lady-in-waiting.

Contraceptive Pills And Women Over 40

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — What is the best contraception for a woman over 40?

DEAR READER — As a general rule, women over 40 tend to develop more complications from contraceptive pills than do younger women. Therefore, barrier methods of birth control are less risky and more appropriate for older women. Permanent contraception, such as vasectomy and tubal ligation, are even better options for couples over 40 to consider. I usually suggest vasectomy, rather than tubal ligation, because the procedure is safe, relatively inexpensive and easily performed in the doctor's office.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I used a home permanent, and when I started to style my hair, it came out in wads. What on earth is happening and what can I do about it?

DEAR READER — Women sometimes develop hair damage from the compounds in home-perm solutions. This can result in hair brittleness or hair loss that is usually temporary. Ask a beautician or cosmetologist to give you advice when you are ready for your next permanent — and, by all means, avoid the product that gave you trouble.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I've recently had a colostomy because of a sigmoid tumor. I had a major infection in the incision and now have a sizable abdominal hernia. My surgeon passes it off lightly. I've always prided myself on my appearance (I'm 62), and the scar and hernia are affecting that. Is there anything I can do?

DEAR READER — Once the infection has cleared up, the abdominal hernia can be repaired. Your surgeon may have been grateful to have been able to remove the sigmoid tumor; the resulting weakness in the abdominal wall may have been an unavoidable consequence of the operation. Nonetheless, the defect can be repaired, either by the original doctor or by a surgeon who is familiar with such a procedure.

DEAR DR. GOTT — After checkups, my husband's physician mails us a letter that gives the results of all tests and the normal ranges. My husband's SGPT was 86, with normal being 0-39. What does this mean? The letter says he doesn't need to come in.

DEAR READER — SGPT (serum glutamic pyruvic transaminase) is an enzyme manufactured by the liver. Ordinarily, a small amount is present in the blood stream and can be measured by the routine chemical analyses that are often part of the annual physical examination. If the liver is damaged, abnormal amounts of the enzyme may leak into the bloodstream and cause an elevated reading. For example, hepatitis (liver inflammation) can cause the release of large quantities of SGPT — much more than your husband showed in his blood test.

Evidently, the other measures of liver performance were normal in your husband's case. I think he should ask his doctor about the significance of his elevated SGPT. In my experience, a slight increase in the compound can be seen as a result of certain medicines. Also, the consumption of alcohol can elevate the blood SGPT.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

If you want to be a good bridge player, don't let euphoria set in. Today's declarer, for example, won the opening lead and berated his partner: "Didn't you know that my five no-trump bid asked you to bid a grand slam if your clubs were solid and you also had all those extra kings?" "But partner," North pleaded, "are these clubs solid?" Meanwhile declarer led a club from his hand. When West showed-out, the table became quiet as the berating stopped. In his rush to criticize North, South had neglected to guarantee his contract. What should he have done? Declarer's only danger is if all five opposing clubs are bunched in the same hand. There is a way to guard against this one out of 25 possibility. After winning the first trick, he should reach dummy with one of the red kings to lead a low club. Either opponent is now welcome to hold five clubs, but will not be able to take more than one trick. Lesson: Don't become so engrossed in what you think you should have bid that you forget to play safe for the actual contract.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY

SEPTEMBER 13, 1986

Your material and organizational skills will be extremely pronounced in the year ahead. It's likely that you'll direct some type of operation, either for fun or profit.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're still in a strong up-cycle where your popularity is concerned, and you have the ability to win new friends of either gender. Keep on being a "good guy." Your finances and resources in the year ahead are predicted in your Virgo Astro-Graph. Get yours by mailing $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, PO Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Things have a way of working out to your ultimate advantage today, even in situations controlled by others.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If your instincts urge you to get in touch with a special party today, don't put it off. Something fortunate is trying to get through to you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're still on a roll financially, so if you didn't get the type of returns you hoped for yesterday, try again today. Profit is in the picture.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Usually it's rather unwise to mix business with pleasure, but today could be an exception. When socializing with pals, it's OK to talk shop.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Information that could benefit you financially may come your way today through the least-expected sources. Listen carefully to what everyone has to say.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Things should work out well for you today in arrangements where your friends are directly involved. People who like you want to provide you with opportunities.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Place your most ambitious objectives at the top of your list of things to do today. Get an early start and don't be afraid to aim high.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Activities that present some form of fun challenge will be the ones you'll find the most enjoyable today. Don't take yourself or the events seriously.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If there is something you want to change in order to benefit yourself or your family, today is a better day to do it than tomorrow.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) This is the right day to implement a carefully thought-out arrangement or contract. If it's fair to all concerned, it will stand the test of time.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You'll be amply compensated today for work that you personally perform, even though there will be help of sorts in the background.

Sauter Resigns In CBS Shake-Up

By Donald Gallagher UPI Business Writer NEW YORK (UPI) — CBS Inc., still reeling from the management shakeup that brought about the ouster of its chairman, announced Thursday the resignation of Van Gordon Sauter, president of CBS News and executive vice president of the CBS Broadcast Group.

CBS, in a power struggle worthy of a television mini-series, also began a search for a permanent new chairman who will be asked to restore the gleam to a company once considered the "Tiffany Network."

William S. Paley, 84, the company's founder and leader for half a century, Wednesday returned temporarily to the position of chairman following a daylong board meeting that ended with the resignation of Thomas H. Wyman, who replaced Paley three years ago.

Laurence Tisch, who owns nearly 25 percent of the communications company's stock, and Paley, the company's second-largest stockholder with an 8.1 percent stake, won a power struggle for corporate control after Wyman tried in vain to convince the CBS board he had a program to turn the company around.

The departure of the embattled Sauter — who had aligned himself with Wyman during the network's troubles, which included a near-mutinious news division — was the first major development in what analysts said they believe will be a series of management changes following Wyman's departure.

"My 18 years at CBS were joyful and rewarding and while the difficulties of the past 10 months constituted an irreversible end game, I leave with pride in my work and respect and fondness for my former colleagues," Sauter said.

"CBS is a glorious place for creative people to work and I feel honored to have been part of that organization."

Gene Jankowski, president of the CBS Broadcast Group, said in a memo to CBS News employees that he accepted "with deep regret" Sauter's decision to step down.

Jankowski said Howard Stringer will continue as executive vice president of CBS News and will handle the day-to-day operations of the division.

"In his 18-year career at CBS, Van Sauter made a remarkable range of contributions to the company in a wide variety of roles," Jankowski said. "He is a man of unusual talents, and we wish him the best in whatever role he chooses."

The well-publicized discontent within CBS News under Sauter's tenure — openly discussed by many of the network's leading correspondents — included staff cuts and suggestions that the division had sullied its standards by succumbing to pressures to "entertain."

The return of Paley to the chairman's seat was welcomed by members of the news division, including Walter Cronkite, the former evening news anchor and now special correspondent for CBS News, who told Cable News Network he was "very optimistic" the company could return to its "proper road."

In a statement issued Wednesday, the CBS board said it had accepted Wyman's resignation as chairman, president and chief executive officer with "great reluctance."

Wyman, 56, a former Pillsbury Co. executive who became CBS chairman in 1983, leaves behind a company shaken by unfriendly takeover bids, reduced revenues brought on by a decline in advertising and the rise of NBC to the No. 1 position among prime-time viewers.

Paley, who in 1928 bought the founding Columbia Phonograph Broadcasting System for $400,000 and turned it into the dominant U.S. broadcaster, will serve as temporary chairman during the company's transition period. Tisch, chairman of Loew's Corp., will serve as temporary president and chief executive.

Both said they would serve until an executive search committee, led by board member and former Defense Secretary Harold Brown, finds replacements.

The company said candidates for chairman "both inside and outside CBS will be considered" and it is the company's hope that the position will be filled within the next few months.

Tisch said in a statement Wednesday: "I intend to maintain the traditions and spirit of this company as established and nurtured by William S. Paley."

Paley said he was "delighted" Tisch had been named acting chief executive officer.

"Larry has not only proven his extraordinary ability as a businessman and leader in the success of his own company Loew's," Paley said, "but, most important, he shares in the values and principles which have guided CBS throughout the period of its growth."

Trade Meetings Seek New Rules For New Realities

By Mary Beth Franklin WASHINGTON (UPI) — Increasing public awareness of the record American trade deficit and the nation's patriotic mood have prompted a wave of "made in the USA" promotions on everything from blue jeans to beer.

But all the "buy American" sentiment does not reverse the fact that over the last 15 years, the United States has significantly increased its dependence on international trade as a source of jobs and money.

Last year, U.S. exports and imports of goods and services accounted for about 21 percent of gross national product, or output of goods and services, compared to only 13 percent in 1970.

This week, the United States steps into the international arena in hopes of working with other countries to revise and improve the set of rules governing international commerce, known as the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, or GATT.

In the first international trade meeting in seven years, 92 GATT member countries meeting in the resort city of Punta Del Este, Uruguay, will try to agree on a timetable and agenda for a new round of talks that could last four or five years.

Critics of the slow and sometimes arcane process joke that the initials for the multilateral trade negotiations really stand for the "Gentleman's Agreement to Talk and Talk."

Even with the snail's pace of such negotiations, one U.S. trade official said its importance should not be underestimated in a time of worldwide agricultural surpluses, trade imbalances and huge domestic and international debts.

"If we don't launch a new round now, pieces will be so far spread out on the floor that it would take a long time to pick them up," said the official, who asked not to be named. "Left on their own, countries would delve into protectionism."

The United States has been the driving force behind overhauling the legal framework of international trade rules, arguing that the world trade picture has changed drastically since 1979 when the last round of talks ended.

Along with other industrialized nations, the United States wants to expand GATT rules to cover new areas of trade in services and investments and to provide international protection for copyrights, patents and trademarks. They also want to improve the system's dispute settlement process, increase discipline over import restraints and reduce the use of export subsidies.

Some developing nations are not as anxious to negotiate new rules. They feel the United States and others will gobble up all the trade opportunities in new fields, such as services, leaving little for them in the future.

But the United States is adamant about the need for new trade talks, realizing that in recent years it has become increasingly dependent on world markets for its products and painfully aware of foreign competition at home.

For example, the international trade implications weren't considered when Congress and the courts authorized the deregulation of AT&T a few years ago. It meant that foreign suppliers would have unrestricted access to the U.S. market, while foreign markets, often controlled by government-run postal and telecommunication authorities, remained largely closed to U.S. products.

As a result, the United States went from a $1.1 billion surplus in telecommunications equipment exports in 1981 to a $1 billion deficit in 1984.

It is such market-access issues that the United States wants to address.

The robust growth in imports in recent years has given American consumers greater choice and lower prices, but foreign competition has also seriously threatened some domestic manufacturing industries such as textiles, shoes and steel.

Part of the problem was the strong U.S. dollar, which made other countries' goods cheaper. But there were other factors: cheap foreign labor, higher American manufacturing costs, aggressive marketing by foreign competitors, government subsidies and, in some cases, unfair trade practices.

The record U.S. trade deficit, which hit $148 billion last year, and rising unemployment in import-sensitive industries focused attention on the problem and prompted calls for action from the public and Congress. Despite a decline in the value of the dollar, the trade deficit is still rising and could set another record this year.

The administration responded with a flurry of get-tough trade actions against specific products and countries, but a stern warning to Congress that protectionist legislation should be avoided at all costs. U.S. negotiators hope that international expansion of trade for everyone, rather than restricting measures, will be the long-term answer to the problem.

Trade Talks Of Vital Interest To Farmers

By Mary Beth Franklin WASHINGTON (UPI) — An oversupply of commodities, low prices and protective government practices make agriculture one of the most troublesome issues to be debated this week during a new round of international trade talks.

Representatives of 92 nations will meet in Punta Del Este, Uruguay, Monday to set an agenda and timetable for revising the international trade rules outlined in the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, known as GATT. The last changes were made in 1979.

The majority of GATT member nations agree on the serious need to reduce tariffs and other trade restrictions around the globe in the name of freer trade and expanding world economies.

But there are sharp differences on how agriculture should be treated.

In preliminary discussions earlier this year, more than half the member nations agreed to a draft agenda that calls for "greater liberalization of trade in agriculture," including a reduction of import barriers and subsidies.

The European Community supported the thrust of the document, which also called for liberalized trade in services and investment and better protection for copyrights, patents and trademarks — but it did not endorse the agriculture provision.

Fearful that such an agenda would conflict with their own Common Agricultural Policy, which is heavily dependent on subsidies, Europeans proposed that GATT members "pause for further reflection" before considering fast elimination of agricultural subsidies. Some nations feel such action could undermine the entire European economy.

At the other extreme are the agriculturally dependent nations, mostly in Asia and South America, that believe import restrictions should be dramatically reduced to allow their farm products easier access to export markets.

Trade ministers from 14 countries, calling themselves the "Fair Traders in Agriculture", met in Cairns, Australia, in late August to develop a strong coalition to reduce agricultural protectionism. The participants included Argentina, Australia, Brazil, Canada, Chile, Colombia, Fiji, Hungary, Indonesia, Malaysia, Philippines, New Zealand, Thailand and Uruguay.

The "Fair Traders" gave a strong signal they would not participate in new GATT negotiations unless there was commitment to a swift reduction in agricultural trade restrictions, including subsidies.

"The ministers seriously question the value of a new round which fails to solve the longstanding problems in agricultural trade," they said in a communique issued after the meeting.

The United States, the European Community and Japan — the objects of the "Fair Traders" criticism — were invited as observers to the August deliberations.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Chile Expels French Priests; Returned Exiles Under Watch

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — Stepping up its campaign against opposition, the military government expelled three French missionaries and announced it will carry out a census of returned political exiles to control their activities inside the country.

The announcement came during a crackdown against opponents and was made by President Augusto Pinochet in a speech to the nation on the 13th anniversary of the coup, that brought him to power.

Meanwhile, police said the bullet-riddled body of a man was found in a field south of the Chilean capital, but had not been identified.

Human-rights workers feared the dead man could be a former communist youth leader, Abraham Muskabl, missing since he was seized three nights ago from his home by a group of men.

The grand rabbi of Chile, Dr. Angel Kreitman, asked the Roman Catholic Church's human-rights office to help find the Jewish community member.

Three government opponents, including the editor of a leftist weekly, have disappeared and been found shot to death since a state of siege was declared Sunday.

Reorientation Camps Alleged

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — The government is running secret reorientation camps for youths recently released from political detention, the opposition Progressive Federal Party said.

"There are major question marks over the establishment of these secret camps and the air needs to be cleared," party organizer Neil Ross said in a statement released Thursday.

Ross is the director of the Progressive Federal Party's Unrest Monitoring Committee, a group of lawmakers and aides who gather information on police action under the nationwide state of emergency, which includes severe restrictions on the news media.

He said members of the committee heard a number of reports about secret camps in at least two locations. The reports indicated children released from political detention under terms of the emergency were "coerced into signing" documents admitting themselves to the camps.

He said officials in areas where two camps were known to have been established denied all knowledge of them.

"However, the public relations offices of the Department of Education in Pretoria admitted that former detainees were attending youth centers in certain places," Ross said.

He urged the government to release full details about the camps and "tell us where they are."

Bristol Police Raids Spark Riot

BRISTOL, England (UPI) — Police raids on a dozen locations in one of Bristol's poorest neighborhoods sparked six hours of rioting that left at least 15 people — including 10 police officers — injured.

About 70 youths were arrested in the raids and resulting disorders Thursday night in the St. Paul's neighborhood of Bristol, about 100 miles west of London, police said.

Police maintained a tense vigil early today in the neighborhood — where Britain's first inner city riots broke out six years ago. Authorities said some 600 police and riot officers were deployed in the area.

Thursday night's riots were sparked by Operation Delivery — the police code name for a crackdown aimed at curbing drug dealing, gambling and violent crime.

Police hidden in garbage trucks carried out surprise raids at 12 locations in St. Paul's Thursday. On signal, officers leaped from the trucks to nab offenders. In the first hour, 60 people were arrested, police said.

Bands of angry youths took to the streets following the raids, apparently looking for revenge.

Poland To Free Political Prisoners

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Polish authorities said they will free all political prisoners — including top leaders of the outlawed Solidarity underground — by Monday in the broadest amnesty in 41 years of communist rule.

The unexpected decision was announced Thursday by the interior minister, Gen. Czeslaw Kiszczak, in a dispatch by the official PAP news agency.

"Kiszczak, guided by the fact that the security of the state has stabilized, forwarded a motion to the prosecutor general to free by Sept. 15 all persons sentenced and arrested for political crimes against the state," PAP reported.

The only exceptions are those accused of spying, sabotage, the betrayal of state secrets or terrorism — categories that do not include well-known Solidarity figures believed to be held by authorities.

A U.S. diplomat described the amnesty as a "very good sign."

August Wholesale Prices Up, Barely

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wholesale prices increased 0.3 percent in August following a 0.4 percent decline in July, the Labor Department said today.

Analysts with the Bureau of Labor Statistics, which prepared the monthly statistical report, said that even with the August advance, the Producer Price Index declined 1.8 percent during the past 12 months.

All figures were seasonally adjusted.

Wholesale food prices in August were up 1.3 percent in the third monthly increase in four months.

Although energy prices continued to decline, they did so at a much slower pace than in earlier months. Energy prices were down 1.5 percent in August following an 11.9 percent drop in July.

After falling 17.2 percent in July, home heating oil prices climbed 15.2 percent in August. Gasoline prices fell 1.5 percent, following a drop of 19.3 percent a month earlier.

The index for finished goods other than foods and energy moved up marginally.

In wholesale food, prices for eggs were up 12.5 percent, pork up 11.5 percent and processed poultry up 11.2 percent in August. Prices for beef and veal rose 5.8 percent. Fish prices were up 2.6 percent.

Israeli-Egyptian Summit Ends With Peace Vow

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (UPI) — The first Egyptian-Israeli summit in half a decade ended Friday with a vow by President Hosni Mubarak and Prime Minister Shimon Peres to make 1987 a "year for negotiations for peace."

"We made great progress and will continue until peace prevails in the whole area," Mubarak said at a news conference after concluding his second round of talks with Peres at the presidential palace.

A joint communique read by Egyptian Foreign Minister Esmat Abdel-Meguid said: "Both leaders view 1987 as the year for negotiations for peace. They plan to dedicate this year to reach a just, lasting and comprehensive peace."

Abdel-Meguid said Egypt was promoting its charge d'affaires in Tel Aviv. Mahmoud Bassiouni, said ambassador, a sign of the warming of ties Peres had sought on his visit.

Mubarak said Israel and Egypt had agreed to an international Middle East peace conference "but there are issues that still need discussion."

"We have both agreed on an international conference. We discussed a preparatory committee and agreed on it," Mubarak said.

An Israeli delegation member, former Foreign Minister Abba Eban, said no agreement had been reached on finding a solution to Palestinian aspirations for self-determination. "We accept the obligations of Camp David as very useful but we can also discuss new ideas," he said.

Mubarak and Peres met privately for three hours Thursday at the presidential palace in the ancient Mediterranean resort of Alexandria. The meeting was the first between Israeli and Egyptian leaders since President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin met in 1981.

Martinez Calls Gallagher Endorsement A Boost

By Paul C. Schaefer
Herald Staff Writer

A campaign spokesman for former Tampa mayor Bob Martinez's bid for the Republican nomination for governor said the endorsement of former candidate State Rep. Tom Gallagher is a big boost to Martinez' run-off election race against Lou Frey, Winter Park.

Gallagher's endorsement, announced at mid-week, followed talks which began after primary election night and continued until Wednesday's announcement, the spokesman said.

Martinez' communications secretary Virginia Newman, Tampa, said Martinez and Gallagher "talked late election night, and had continuous conversations that led to the endorsement."

She said Gallagher will play a key roll in Martinez' effort to defeat Frey, in the Sept. 30 run-off.

"He (Gallagher) has been named general chairman of our campaign, and is taking a very active roll. He's been campaigning very hard all over the state, and developing campaign strategy in all areas," Ms.

Newman said.

"We see this as a unification move," she continued. "Bob Martinez has called from the very beginning (for Republicans) to pull together in spirit if unity to elect a Republican governor."

She added that the Martinez group will continue to seek endorsements "from across the state, in addition to support we already have."

"It's a building of momentum that we think gives a winning edge," Ms. Newman said.

Mike Storms, a campaign spokesman for Frey in Orlando, said Gallagher's endorsement of Martinez "is not going to effect us at all," although he added "we were surprised that he did it."

Storms said Gallagher and

Frey "had met just prior to primary and had agreed to support each other in the event one of them lost in the primary."

"As soon as (the primary) results were known, Lou got on a plane to Miami to meet with Tom (to seek his endorsement)." But Gallagher refused to give Frey the nod, Storms said.

"We've had Gallagher supporters calling us since the primary offering support on both a financial and volunteer basis," he said.

Storms added optimistically. "When Lou wins in the Sept. 30 run-off, we expect Martinez endorsement wholeheartedly. The Republicans are going to stick together to beat either (Democratic run-off opponents) Jim Smith or Steve Pajic."

of SEA-PAC, said "Ann will provide the positive progressive leadership that this board is in need of."

Louella Rahming, SEA President added, "Ann's intimate working knowledge of the school system gained through her employment as both teacher and administrator will help her function effectively an add an important dimension to the five-member board."

Mrs. Nelawender received 10,834 votes in the primary for 46.9 percent of the ballots cast, to Mrs. Bryant's 8,142 votes, for 35.4 percent. Eckstein got 4,083 votes for 17.7 percent.

Kroll topped the District 1 race by only nine-tenths of one percent over Betsinger. Kroll won with 8,142 votes or 37.2 percent, while Betsinger collected 7,955 votes for 36.3 percent. Rudy Sloan, 65, Sanford, was eliminated in the race after getting 5,790 votes for 26.5 percent.

"Replacing Mr. Kroll is our highest priority," Ogletree said. "He has shown a more negative attitude towards employees than other members of the board, including his attitude toward school food service employees."

Ogletree was referring to Kroll's position on the school food service division. The incumbent lobbied hard for an outside management firm study of the school food service division, which the board approved earlier this year. The study is to cost about $31,000. Food service employees, and division director Eldon Chambers, were credited by some earlier this year with turning the food service division around financially. The division was not subsidized by the school board last year, and went from being a big money loser to being self-sustaining.

Food service employees saw Kroll's push for an outside management firm study as a slap at their efforts to improve the program, and a threat to the school board controlled management of the division.

"The school board hired an excellent professional (Chambers) to run food service, yet Mr. Kroll wants to spend money for a management study. To spend that money on a study is ludicrous," Ogletree said.

Ogletree said Kroll has taken controversial stands on issues to generate publicity for name recognition at the polls. And while Kroll considers himself to be the "conscience of the school board," Ogletree says the SEA is "the conscience of the school system."

"The bottom line is the students," Kroll has said of his desire to improve the food service division internally, as well as cafeteria food quality. Kroll said his top priority is with the more than 41,000 county students who eat the food, ahead of the several hundred who prepare it.

Ogletree said both Nelawender and Betsinger would get equal efforts by SEA to help in their election bids.

Sanford Warehouse Fire Under Investigation

The state fire marshals office is investigating a fire that caused extensive smoke and soot damage to a hospital supply warehouse at the Sanford Airport Thursday evening.

The warehouse is located at the intersections of 29th Street and Navigator Avenue and is owned by Future Health Concepts, which operates from a main office on Airport grounds at 2481 Mellonville Ave., said company spokesman Terry Karleski.

Eleven Sanford firemen donned airpicks to extinguish the blaze, which started in an area of the warehouse that contained plastic soap dispensers. The fire was under control within a half hour, and firemen remained on the scene for another three hours periodically spraying down the interior of the 3,900-square-foot structure, said Sanford Fire Chief Tom Hickson.

The fire was reported at 7:05 p.m., and had apparently smoldered for a couple of hours before igniting, Hickson said.

Cause of the fire has yet to be determined, he said.

Lt. Hugh Bethea of the state fire marshals office said this morning an investigation of the incident is under way.

Karleski estimated the fire caused damage in excess of $2,000. He said two of 35 hospital beds stored in the building were singed and the burning plastic had left a thick film of soot over all stored materials. The materials are primarily metal and include hospital lab supplies, ovens, chairs and desks, he said.

The fire also burned through a skylight, Hickson said, although structural loss to the all-cement building was minimal.

The building served as a bomb shelter when the Navy operated at the Airport, and Future Health Concepts has used it to store hospital supplies since 1979, Karleski said.

Hospitals and nursing homes in the central Florida area and Puerto Rico are among the company's clients, he said.

"I was eating next door," said another witness, one of many people gathered outside the shopping center after the blast.

"The explosion was very strong. It was crazy. I didn't believe there could be so much damage. I'm still afraid. I'm trembling."

More than 1,000 people were evacuated from the shopping center as police established a security zone around the Casino store.

The injured people were evacuated within an hour and a half, many of them wearing bandages for superficial wounds and appearing shocked.

"It has become darn hard to pick winners,"

Goldman said.

Trude Lattmer, market analyst at Josephthal & Co., said discouraging remarks by Stan Weinstein, writer of a Hollywood, Fla.-based investment newsletter, hit a market already skittish and confused.

Weinstein said Wednesday that the market had already begun its retreat with declines in the prices of smaller companies listed on the New York and American Stock Exchanges and of the more speculative companies listed on the over-the-counter market.

A man claiming to represent the Islamic Jihad telephoned Western news agencies in Beirut to claim responsibility for Reed's abduction Tuesday. But the fundamentalist group Thursday issued a statement denying any involvement in Reed's abduction and called on Reed's real abductors to divulge their identity.

The statement was accompanied by a photograph of Jacobsen, whose photo has accompanied a number of recent statements distributed by Islamic Jihad, or Holy War. It said any future statement will be accompanied by a photograph of one of the captives to authenticate it.

The Shiite Moslem fundamentalist group has demanded that — in exchange for the hostages' release — the United States pressure Kuwait to free 17 of their comrades imprisoned there for a series of bombings.

Islamic Jihad also has said it is holding three French hostages — a journalist and three diplomats — and claimed responsibility for the abduction of William Buckley, 56, of Medford, Mass., political officer at the U.S. Embassy in Beirut.

'An art learned at the feet of a master'

Luthier Loves The Legendary Lore

Some make music. Some make musical instruments. A few do both.

As a luthier, a maker of violins, Saul Cornell of Altamonte Springs falls into the latter category because for 13 years he was a flute player for the Florida Symphony Orchestra.

Now Cornell devotes his time mainly to repairing and restoring violins, but occasionally he makes one, in a time consuming, painstaking process.

"I started about 10 years ago. It was a natural outlet for my love for tools and wood and little things and restoration," as well as his love of music, he said.

Luthier Saul Cornell is one of the few who is both a musical performer and an instrument craftsman, creating and rebuilding violins.

Saul Cornell has the necessary tools for building or restoring.

It's an art, which he said has to be "learned at the feet of a master." Luthier skills are taught by private instructors at some American universities, and also in European schools, Cornell said.

The ultimate master, he said, was Italy's Antonius Stradivarius, whose name remains synonymous with fine violins. Although he died in 1737 at the age of 93, Stradivarius produced violins from his teenage years until the final year of his life.

Because of bad repairs and alterations, Cornell said, not all Stradivarius violins live up to the name.

"If truth be told," Cornell said, "of the 550 or so surviving Strads only about 50 are accorded the status of great concert instruments. The rest are in the hands of private persons and dealers.

"They hardly get played and many have been badly altered down through the years and not much of the original wood of Stradivarius is left. They've been so tampered with, or maybe they just did not sound so well and never will sound so well, but he's got a great reputation. It's quite justified.

"There have been other makers around who have been just as good though less lauded, but not as consistent as he was.

"When I think that back then there weren't electric lights. They didn't have modern sharpening stones and modern steel to cut with. I don't know how he did it. He must have had a drove of assistants, but yet, his unmistakable hand is on them. He must have been a workaholic to the extreme.

"I still don't understand it. Getting up at the crack of dawn and knocking off every day when light failed. I marvel at that. I have to stand in awe. There's nothing comparable in modern times."

A modern luthier, completely handcrafting his violins, can make about six a year, if he devotes all his energy to the task. Such a violin, by one of the better American craftsmen, Cornell said, would be valued between $5,000 and $15,000, while a prime violin by one of the old masters might be worth more than $1 million.

When shopping for a non-custom made violin, with prices starting around $300, Cornell said, it's a case of buyer beware.

Violin makers don't get wealthy, he said, but dealers do. Some dealers, he said, have "greedy eyes." They drive prices up.

"The field is full of every manner of hokum artist, charlatan and snake oil salesman and they can say anything they want. They can photocopy labels and get away with it. A label means nothing, but a way to make money. There are no regulations, no minimum standards."

In his workshop filled with tools, aged exotic woods, dyes, varnishes, and violins, Cornell maintains his own high standards as he repairs and alters violins and restores their horsehair bows.

There have been few changes in the basic design of the violin since about 1580, he said. However, most old violins have to be altered, to up their power and range, so their music can fill a modern concert hall instead of a small private salon, which is where they would have been played for royalty and the privileged in the old days.

Since the violin evolved, Cornell said, the neck has been lengthened. "All violins, usually a century or more old, they take the scroll and they graft it to a new block. They increase this angle, because it gives it much more downbearing on the strings and it gives it greater power and greater length on the neck, so they can get the modern necessities of range that the music of today requires."

Such changes, "Unless they are made by the utmost skilled hands detract from the value. However, very few old instruments exist in a pristine state," he said.

There are very few luthiers, Cornell said, and those interested in developing that skill should be forewarned. Unless they are content as he is to repair and restore violins, rather than make them, "You should be set up a little bit differently and you should be willing to not eat for a long time."

She's The Divine Miss O; She's Oprah Winfrey

By Mark Schwed
UPI TV Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — She has stood by helplessly while two grown men got into a flatfight on her stage, she once invited Ku Klux Klan members on a lunch date and she would like nothing better than to have a priest confess on national TV that he has sex with women.

She is Oprah Winfrey, the divine Miss O, the Oscar nominee whose talk show knocked the socks off Phil Donahue in Chicago and Tom Snyder in New York even before it went nationwide. "The Oprah Winfrey Show" debuts nationally this month. Check local listings.

Rapping with Winfrey is different than jawing with Donahue, Johnny Carson, David Letterman, Dick Cavett, Joan Rivers, Jimmy Breslin, David Brenner and Robert Klein, all of whom will have day or night talk shows this season.

For starters, Winfrey looks

"What I love most (about myself) is my spirit. What I hate most are my thighs."

—Oprah Winfrey

different. But when you're a brassy 190-pound Mississippi-raised black woman, you will not find many role models on talk show television.

Her interviews are peppy, probing and revealing. She is earthy, candid and frequently discusses her private life. And she is very funny.

"I think Mr. Right is coming," she tells the audience, "only he must be in India and is walking to get here."

Another confession: "What I love most (about myself) is my spirit. What I hate most are my thighs."

During a show about victims of child sexual abuse, Winfrey, 32, confessed to being a victim herself and later broke down and cried with another victim who had not yet recovered.

Born in Kosciusko, Miss., Winfrey was reared by her grandmother on a farm and later lived with her mother from age six to 13 before running away from home. When she was turned away from a juvenile detention center because there was no room, she moved to Nashville to live with her father, a barber and a strict disciplinarian.

Winfrey's broadcasting career began six years later when she was hired by WVOL Radio in Nashville. Two years after she graduated from Tennessee State University, Winfrey signed on with WTVF-TV in Nashville as a reporter-anchor. She continued to live at home — and still had to honor her father's midnight curfew.

After a stint in Baltimore, Winfrey moved to the Windy City to host "A.M. Chicago." She was an immediate hit, wresting first place away from Donahue himself. The show was quickly expanded from a half-hour to an hour and given her name. Before this season, a New York station dropped Snyder in favor of Winfrey.

In the meantime, Winfrey received an Academy Award nomination for her role as Sofia in Steven Spielberg's "The Color Purple."

When Winfrey is on a roll, she takes on qualities of a television evangelist, peppering the audience with philosophical "Oprah-isms" and charging them up with her passion for life.

Winfrey says her life is "good, getting better and will continue to get better. The main reason is because I believe it will."

She intends to keep acting and has formed her own production company with an eye toward a prime-time series. But right now the focus is on talk.

What's Happening In The Soaps?

By Nancy M. Reichardt

GUIDING LIGHT:
 Alex, who was injured when her plane crashed on the way to San Rios, is being cared for by a mystery person. Reva rejected Kyle's marriage proposal and reminded him that he still hasn't given Maeve a divorce. Mindy spied on Billy and Roxie. Simon refused to let Jesse accompany him to San Rios, where he's going to search for a missing Alex. Vanessa told Henry that Jesse might be the daughter Vanessa gave up for adoption. Phillip's in the dark about Alex's plight. Jesse lied to Calla that she was going to visit her father, then Jesse stowed away on the plane that Johnny is using to pilot Simon to San Rios. India saw Dorie's birthmark which proves that Dorie is Dinah's little sister. Phillip collapsed while arguing with Alan, who said he's continuing his search for a missing Beth. Kurt wrote Mindy that he wants her to leave Springfield to be with him. Reva learned that Kyle's been harassing Maeve.

LOVING:
 Lottie told her long-time friend Sunny that she's starting a new life in Corinth. Gwyneth goaded Ann about her love affair with Harry. Lottie agreed to let Cecilia teach her how to read. Jane lied to Kelly that Lorna is trying to oust Kelly from Zach's life. Ava apologized to French businesswoman, Simone, who then agreed to a business deal with Judd. Shana told Jim that she loves him, but doesn't think they have a future together. Isabelle is concerned about Curtis, who is recklessly driving his race car to victories on the track.

SEARCH FOR TOMORROW:
 Stu slipped when Wilma said she wants to marry him after she gets a divorce from David, who is her estranged husband. Patti is worried about Quinn, who thinks he's receiving "messages" from his deceased father. Matt. Lisa is determined to win Hogan, back. Jerry is smitten with Evie. Suzi searched for the identity of the mysterious owner of Liberty House. Judge Henderson was upset with Jerry, who told Quinn that Matt committed suicide. Hogan asked Patti for another chance at love. Bela was jealous to see Sunny with another man.

THE YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS:
 While on a European business trip, Ashley learned that she's pregnant with Victor's child. Leo remembered that one of Jill's male escorts had been at the bar the night Leo lent his gun to Jack. Jack became a hero when he rescued Ellen and the other people at the shelter from a couple of motorcycle gang members. In Europe, Ashley met with Victor's first wife, Julia, who said she has no lingering feelings of love for Victor. JoAnna told John that she's keeping a close eye on Jill's work at Jabot. Cricket misses Danny, who went to California without her to iron out a recording deal. Jill is sure that Sven tried to kill her because only Sven — and the police — knew that Jack had borrowed the gun used to shoot Jill. Phillip agreed to change his surname from Foster to Chancellor. Michael invited Jill on an out-of-town business trip. Nikki overheard Victor arrange for Matt to make a second trip to Venezuela.

ONE LIFE TO LIVE:
 Chip left town after Connie recognized him as one of the men who had robbed the charity ball attendees. A returned Viki fainted in Thomas's arms when she thought he was her deceased husband. Joe. Richard moved to France after giving Tina a piece of his mind. Warden McFadden and prison matron, Miss Spitz, are "lending" women prisoners to Jamie, who is the head of a cocaine crack factory secretly located at the Backstreet Bar. Dorian's sending Cassie to live with Jenny and David so that Dorian's enemies can't harm Cassie. Rob insisted that he wants to leave with Cassie, even though she admitted she no longer loves him. Judith was shocked to see Jonathan working as a guard in the women's prison. Jonathan is trying to protect Dorian. Dan dated Allison. Dorian urged her fellow prisoners to fight for prison reform. Didi worried about Joy, who's depressed. Dorian learned that Susan has one of Mitch's audiotapes.

ALL MY CHILDREN:
 Stuart was taken prisoner by a motorcycle gang. Nina and Cliff separately went to Martha's Vineyard to vacation. Robin and Tad learned that Shelley kept them in the dark about her trysts with Wade. Skye searched for a runaway Stuart. Palmer was very interested to learn that Skye is Adam's daughter. At Wade's urging, Phoebe merged their bank accounts. Roy stuck up for Hillary when she botched a report to the mayor. Shelley gave Wade poison pills which he began putting in Phoebe's drinks. Jeremy, who is back in Pine Valley, is worried that Erica's life is in danger. Erica, who lied that she's headed for Seattle, called Jeremy from a tropical location to tell him that she's alive and well. Cliff and Amy talked about getting married. Brooke and Tom are still romantically drawn to each other. Nina denied Matt's accusation that she still loves Cliff. Matt was intrigued to meet Shelley.

ANOTHER WORLD:
 Mitch freaked out when Rachel sent Matthew to boarding school without letting Mitch see the boy. Mariana secretly vowed to learn the facts about Reginald's past, which she doesn't remember because she's had amnesia for several years. Cass urged Kathleen to let the police help her research the death of her mother, Mary, who Kathleen believes was murdered. Rachel decided to make some changes in her life after Mitch accused her of being a bored housewife. Reginald's thugs set fire to the Brava Magazine press room, delaying the release of Felicia's expose on Reginald. Mariana was puzzled that Reginald didn't tell her that their son Scott is living in Bay City. Mariana likes Cheryl, who is spending time with Scott. Cass and Kathleen moved in together. Donna and Michael shared a romantic romp in Hawaii. Peter prevented Brittany from telling Reginald that Peter didn't father Brittany's son.

AS THE WORLD TURNS:
 As soon as Henry arrived in town, Emma told him that his son Josh had raped Iva. Henry promised to keep mum that Iva had a child by Josh. Betsy is running Craig's business while he's in jail. Hensley didn't approve when Duncan called Brian in to calm Beatrice, who's afraid of the past. Meg fumed that her pregnancy tests were negative, then vowed to make her dream of marrying Dusty come true. Shannon, who's establishing a residency in Nevada so that she can divorce Duncan, fretted that Brian's feelings for her have cooled. Nancy accompanied Frankie on a trip to London. John arranged for Henry to go to London to get treatment for his illness. Brian received another warning from "The Falcon," telling him to drop his drug investigation. A mysterious raspy voiced man is telling Shannon. Lisa showed Margo a woman's shoe that could be a clue to Tad's murder. Craig insisted he's being framed.

DAYS OF OUR LIVES:
 Poman panicked when a mystery phone caller said that he'd just kidnapped Mariena. Roman told Britta that he knows she's looking for the missing treasury plates, then warned that if she continues the search her life will be in danger. The mystery man who's been talking Roman reported to his unseen boss that Roman doesn't want anything to do with the I.S.A. or the spy business anymore. Frankie has eyes for Jennifer, who's intrigued by him too. Max is beginning to come out of his shell, thanks to Patch's friendship. During their belated honeymoon on a magical isle, Hope forgave Bo for not being there for her when she had her miscarriage. Melissa is in a dither over her budding feelings for Lars and her marital commitment to Pete. Kimberly asked Eugene to use his psychic powers to find Andrew. Savannah's trying to charm Neil right out of Liz's arms. Mike was jealous to see Robin on a date with Mitch.

GENERAL HOSPITAL:
 Felicia and Frisco fled the scene after Edna killed Tracie in a beach-front shootout in Atlantic City, N.J. Damon pressured Duke, who doesn't want to launder any more money through Port Charles. Anna arrested Sean on fraud charges and said that he could be charged with murdering Alan. Bert moved ahead with his plans to build a fisherman's village on the waterfront and to take over the Purity Water Company. After Dan was run down by a hit-and-run driver, Bert told Damon that Dan is no longer a threat to their plans for the future. Damon ordered Edna not to kill Felicia and Frisco until after she get the computer printout that Felicia stole from Duke's office. Lucy is counting on getting rich off her sleazy book about Kevin. Bert told Damon to find out if Sean has a Swiss bank account. Lucy wants to destroy Terry. Det. Lewis asked Sean if he stole the Quartermain fortune.

Exit Merv, Enter Dick

By Guy MacMillin

It was a fitting coincidence, I thought, that Merv Griffin's cancellation and Dick Cavett's resurrection were announced during the same week last month.

"The Merv Griffin Show" has left the air — either because Griffin got sick of doing it or we got sick of watching it, depending upon whom you believe. "The Dick Cavett Show" is returning to network TV because someone at ABC thinks we're now ready for it. At the very least, Griffin's retirement signals a changing of the guard for trivial talk shows. It may even be evidence of an encouraging improvement in viewing interests.

Don't worry about Griffin, though. He recently sold his production company to Coca-Cola for a sum that rivals the gross national product of Liechtenstein. There was a time when you couldn't spin the dial without finding Griffin or Mike Douglas or David ("Welcome back, welcome back") Frost or Dinah Shore or John Davidson chatting aimlessly with somebody. One by one they have left the air, as each apparently ran out of things to ask Dr. Joyce Brothers.

Now only Joan Rivers, David Brenner, Johnny Carson, David Letterman and the folks at "Hour Magazine" are left to ask Wayne Rogers how he and his wife are getting along, or to make fun of Charo's accent, or to ask Julio Iglesias what it feels like to have a hit record.

Not that Griffin, Douglas and the others didn't have serious guests on their shows. They sometimes did, usually right at the end when, golly, they were almost out of time.

My absolute favorite talk-show moment came almost two decades ago, when Mike Douglas interviewed philosopher Eric Fromm, who was promoting an extraordinary book called "A Revolution of Hope."

Fromm said that 20th-century people were all ill at ease because, although they were being exposed to a great deal of amusement and titillation, they had very little real joy in their lives.

"What about Bob Hope?" Douglas asked. Fromm rested his case.

Today, the Douglasses and Griffins have largely been replaced by topical interviewers such as Phil Donahue, Sally Jesse Raphael and Dick Cavett — people who at least sometimes explore serious subjects. And a lot of people are watching.

That hasn't always been the case. Cavett started with a morning show at ABC in 1968. Ratings were low. He moved to late night in 1969. He was cut back to one week a month in 1972, to two nights a month in 1974 and to no nights a month in 1975. Later he had brief series on CBS, PBS and HBO. This year he has been doing a talk show on cable's USA Network.

From the outset, Cavett interviewed people you don't often see on TV: gadfly journalist I.F. Stone, theater critic John Simon, New Yorker columnist Janet Flanner, flamboyant segregationist Lester Maddox, the reclusive Marlon Brando. But the shows never had mass appeal. Maybe they were too controversial.

Merv Griffin's last show aired Sept. 5. Dick Cavett's new series premieres Sept. 23. This could be a significant month in the history of talk shows.

Bets A Breakfast On 'Newhart' Co-Star

Dear Debra — My father and I have a bet of breakfast on a person who stars on the CBS series "Newhart." Tom Poston plays George but I say that he also played a patient in "The Bob Newhart Show." Could you please settle this family bet? — P.M., Grand Rapids, Mich.

Poston is not listed as one of the regular patients Bob saw as a psychiatrist on "The Bob Newhart Show." But you may be remembering him from some of his other TV roles. How about as the nasty Bickley on "Mork and Mindy"? He was also Damon Jerome in "We've Got Each Other" and Mr. Sullivan in "On the Rocks."

Dear Debra — After seeing "The Sound of Music," with Julie Andrews and Christopher Plummer, we are wondering about Christopher Plummer. Can you give us some information as to his nationality and what he's doing? — M.B., Goshen, Ind.

Christopher Plummer, who was born in Toronto on Dec. 13, 1927, as Arthur Christopher Orme Plummer, has been in numerous films and TV movies since his performance in "The Sound of Music" in 1965 as Baron von Trapp. Some of these include "Inside Daisy Clover," "The Return of the Pink Panther," "The Man Who Would Be King,"

Celebrity Corner

Debra Katz

"Hanover Street," and "International Velvet." He's also frequently been seen in television miniseries like "Little Gloria ... Happy at Last" and "The Moneychangers."

Dear Debra — I would like very much to know if the Robot from the series "Lost in Space" had a name. — C.B., Fraser, Mich.

He is listed in the cast credits only as The Robot. He was played, by the way, by Bob May and his voice was done by Dick Tufeld. "Lost in Space" ran from 1965-68 on CBS.

Dear Debra — I've been trying to jog my memory and some of the actors I just can't get. Can you tell me who played the following people on "As the World Turns": Don Hughes, Grant Coleman, Sgt. McCloskey, Duncan McCagney and Tad Channing; and from "The Dukes of Hazzard": Enos, Cletus, Roscoe and Cooter. When the credits run, it's so fast I can't get more than one! — A fan, Amarillo, Texas.

I know just what you mean! Those credits do fly by when they're run at all. Here are your answers: From "As the World Turns," Don Hughes was played by Conrad Fowkes and Grant Colman was played by James Douglas (those were the last actors to play in those roles). Dan Frazer plays the recurring role of Sgt. McCloskey. Michael Swan plays Duncan McCagney and Larry Pine played the just-murdered Tad Channing. As for your friends from "The Dukes of Hazzard": Sonny Shroyer played Enos, Rick Hurst was Cletus, James Best was Roscoe and Ben Jones played Cooter.

Dear Debra — I recently watched the movie "Hans Christian Anderson." I wondering if Joey Walsh, who played Peter, is the same Joey Walsh who played Mark on "The Rifleman"? The voices sound very much alike. — R.M., Angleton, Texas.

The car can be deceiving. The role of Mark McCahn in "The Rifleman," which ran from 1958 to 1963, was played by Johnny Crawford.

From 'WKRP' To 'Easy Street'

By Mark Schwed
UPI TV Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fans of Loni Anderson will be pleased to note that in her brand new network situation comedy, "Easy Street," her hair actually moves.

Moving hair is not such a spectacle for many actresses, although there are some, specifically those perfect looking women on "Dynasty" and "Dallas," whose hair has never moved and never will. If you could smell TV it would reek of hair spray.

But after years of plastered platinum hair on "WKRP in Cincinnati" and immobile locks on "Partners in Crime," Anderson's hair is moving, and without the use of wind machines.

Maybe that has something to do with why "Easy Street" is so good.

In the show, which makes its debut on NBC Sept. 13 at 9:30 p.m. EDT (WESH-TV, Channel 2) Anderson plays L.K. McGuire, a former Las Vegas showgirl who becomes a filthy rich widow living in a Beverly Hills mansion. When her rich husband dies, she embarks on a search for her long lost Uncle Bully.

She finds him just as he is about to end his scruffy old life by drowning himself in his bathtub in a hilarious scene with his buddy Ricardo. Bully is played beautifully by Jack Elam and Lee Weaver is marvelous as Ricardo.

The rich widow invites her uncle and his friend to her mansion, where they meet up with a priggish sister-in-law Eleanor (Dana Ivey) and her wimp husband Quentin (James Cromwell).

When the snobs and slob sit down to dinner together, it's great fun.

The show combines a little of everything. It has the starpower of Anderson, the acting genius of Elam, Weaver and Ivey and the interaction between the rich and poor, the young and old, is a perfect comedy vehicle in these days of Reaganomics.

And to think Anderson almost quit doing television series for good.

After "WKRP in Cincinnati," Anderson tried the hour format with "Partners in Crime," co-starring Lynda Carter. It was a disaster, both in ratings and in the fun factor. Anderson hated it.

"It was awful," she said. "It was probably the worst working experience I've ever had. After that was over I said I never want to do another television series again. Then I kept thinking how happy I was on 'WKRP in Cincinnati.'"

Anderson was mulling over different concepts for a sitcom when her secretary, Jeanne Jensen, came to her with an idea. Put Anderson and two guys in an old folks home together and see what happens.

They refined it and then Anderson took the idea to NBC Entertainment President Brandon Tartikoff, who suggested putting the old guys in the mansion instead of the old folks home.

Then Hugh Wilson, who wrote the pilot and served as executive producer-director, defined the characters, making one an uncle and the other his buddy.

A new network show was born, and a new character for Anderson.

It is only fitting that NBC give "Easy Street" its sneak preview Saturday Sept. 13, right before the Miss America pageant, where hairdressers work overtime to make sure hair does not flinch.

It will not be so easy for viewers to find "Easy Street" because of the new network practice of giving sneak previews at strange times and days before airing the show in its regular time slot.

After its Sept. 13 "sneak preview," "Easy Street" will have another "sneak preview" on Friday Sept. 20 at 9:30 p.m. before moving to its regular time slot for the "premier" Sunday Sept. 28 at 8 p.m. against ABC's new "Life with Lucy," starring Lucille Ball and CBS's popular "Murder, She Wrote."

But even though it's not the easiest street to find, give it a try. And check out that hair.

Walter Cronkite returns to CBS for two hour-long prime-time specials this season. The first airs Sept. 21 on WCPX-TV, Channel 6 (10-11 p.m. EDT). "Something every reporter wants to have is the ability to pick his own stories and go anywhere in the world to cover them," he says. "CBS News has let me do just that." Cronkite examines communism as an economic system, profiles the captain of a tall ship and looks at plans to build the "Orient Express," a plane that can fly anywhere in the world in under three hours.
