Holland, home at last

SANFORD - U.S. Navy enlisted man John Holland, is returning to the United States from duty in the Persian Gulf. His ship, the aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt, is due to arrive at Norfolk, Va., on Friday.

He has been serving in the gulf zone since

Holland, who was born and raised in Sanford, presently lives with his parents in Sparta, Tenn. He is expected to visit his grandparents. Wilfred and Virginia Holland, 1066 Wynn Street, Sanford, in the near future.

New board members named

SANFORD - Three new appointments and three reappointments were made to various city boards and committees last night.

Brad Gonzalez was named to replace James R. Dyeus on the city's Code Enforcement Board. Dyeus' term will expire on June 30.

Leon Brooks, Thomas A. Speer and John W. Leroy, whose terms also expire on June 30, were all renominated to the Planning and Zoning Commission.

Two vacancies were filled on the city's Scenic Improvement Board. The openings occured with the resignations of Ray Sage, who had served as Chairperson, effective May 20, and Winnifred "Bill" Gielow, who had been excused from the board. Sanford residents Bill Wilkins and David Bach were named to fill the vacancies.

Each of the nominations received unanimous approval from the City Commissioners.

Lost letter sidetracked career

FORT WAYNE, Ind. - But for a lost letter. Richard Cline might have realized a childhood

Nineteen years ago, Cline took an aptitude test to see if he was qualified to become a firefighter. The fire department wrote back saying he'd cleared the first hurdle - its form letter arrived tast week.

The letter, postmarked April 25, 1972, and signed by Fire Chief Walter G. Roemke, told him to report to the fire academy eight days later for more testing. Cline didn't know, so he didn't

"I called the chief's office about a month after I took the aptitude test, but they told me to just wait and they'd get in touch with me." Cline said. "After some time went by and I didn't hear anything. I just figured I didn't pass it."

Deed to Detroit sells in auction

DETROIT - A city deed bought in 1780 for beads, trinkets and a lot of rum was sold for $5,500 — granting no authority but bestowing ultimate bragging rights to Detroit.

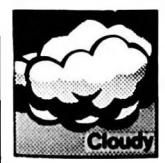

"Wouldn't it be cool to sit in your office and have someone say. You act like you own the city," and you could point to the deed on your wall and say, 'I do own this town," said Joseph Walker, auctioneer at DuMouchelle Art Galleries

Longwood vote heavy

By NICK PFEIFAUF Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD - Citizens turned out in larger than expected numbers at the Longwood City hall this morning as balloting began to select a new City Commissioner for District 3. The seat was vacated earlier this year by the resignation of

J. Russell Grant, 76, is facing opposition from Carolyn "Clanci" Keith, 43. Grant has previously served on the Longwood City Commission and as mayor, from 1975 to 1985. Keith is seeking election for the first time although she presently serves on the City of Longwood Code Enforcement Board. Both candidates approached today hoping for a large turnout.

Longwood City Clerk Geri Zambri said there were over 160 ballots cast during the first two hours this morning.

"While that is usually the peak time with folks voting before they go to work, it could be an indication that we will have a good turnout today." She added, "We already have 80 absentee ballots east which is more than normal. another indication that this coult be a large turnout.

During the last election in Longwood, a citizen referendum in January, less than 500 of the city's almost 5,300 voters turned out to east their ballots. Previously, during a similar single city commission election in 1989, the turnout was only 9.2 percent.

Both candidates have spent many hours going house-to-house seeking support during the campaign. Grant however, reported spending the largest amount of money. Campaign Treasurer's Reports filed last Friday showed Grant had received $5,000 in contributions and spent $4,281.86. Keith reported receiving $1,185 and spending $663.01.

Polk will be laid to rest tomorrow

By J. MARK BARFIELD Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - In what is epected to be one of the area's largest and most elaborate funerals, John E. Polk, Seminole County's most esteemed public official and longest-serving sheriff, will be laid to rest at Oaklawn Cemetery in Lake Mary.

In a request made by Polk before his death last Friday, his coffin and immediate family will travel through the city visiting places important to him. including the jail he built and the Disabled American Veterans Chapter 30 hall on U.S. Highway 17-92 where he called bingo for several

A procession of several hundred cars including law officers from throughout the state are expected to join the family procession at the Sheriff's Department at Central Florida Regional Airport and follow it to Oaklawn Cemetery.

Polk, who died Friday after a long battle with heart disease, was the county's longest serving sheriff. He retired in December after serving 22 years. He was remembered by colleagues and friends as kind to all, including down-on-their-luck prisoners in the county fall. He was also remembered as a state leader for law enforcement causes.

A viewing is scheduled to continue today until 9 p.m. at the Baldwin-Fairchild Funeral Home. Oaklawn Chapel, 600 County Road 46-A. Lake Mary. Sheriff's spokesman George Proechel said a line of people continued throughout the day Monday to pay respects.

The funeral day will begin at 10 a.m. with services at Central Baptist Church, 3101 W. First St., Sanford. The services are open to the public. A viewing will precede the services, beginning at 9

After the services, people attending the service who want to attend the graveside services have two options. They may go directly to the cemetery at the corner of County Road 46-A and Rinebart Road or they may go to the sheriff's department. located in the airport at the corner of Carrier Avenue and 28th Street to join the procession.

Lake Mary High School parents want school board to drop anti-drug policy

By VICKI DeSORMIER Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - A group of Lake Mary High School parents wants the Seminole County School Board to just say no to an anti-drug program that is only enforced at their school.

Lake Mary High School requires that all students involved in extra-curricular activities be drug and alcohol free 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

While the parents have no problem with their children not using drugs or alcohol, they believe the policy violates their youngsters' constitutional rights. And they believe that it is wrong that one school should be allowed to have such a program while other schools

Tonight, the parents will ask the school board to force the Lake Mary High School administration to do away with the policy and to implement a policy which does not violate the First Amendment rights of their chttdren.

The Lake Mary policy requires the students who participate in athletics or other after-school activities to sign an agreement which states that they will "avoid private parties or social gatherings where alcohol and illegal drugs are being used and I will encourage my triends to do the same

Students who violate the Lake Mary drug policy must quit their activity or submit to drug testing

Boy drowns trying to swim for help

FLORAL CITY — A 15-year-old boy drowned while trying to swim to shore for help after a boat carrying him and four other youths overturned in a lake, officials said.

It took divers three hours searching the murky bottom of the lake Monday to find the body of Paul Wayne Schrengost.

The youths apparently were jumping out of the 14-foot boat and climbing back in when it capaised, said Gall Tierney, a spokeswoman for the Citrus County Sheriff's Department.

Schrengost and his 15-year-old friend, Michael Pendleton of Tampa, attempted to swim ashere to get help while the remaining three youths stayed with the overturned boat, Tierney said.

She said they swam about 50 yards toward the grassy shoreline when Schrengost "got into trouble."

Francis, 46, was under his third death warrant for the 1975 slaying of Florida Department of Law Enforcement drug informant Titus R. Walters in Key West.

Francis' attorney, Billy Noise, said early this morning that he had been informed his appeals had been rejected by the Supreme Court. He said he held out little hope the execution would be put off by Chiles.

'The povernor has many, many valid issues before him warranting a reprieve or a stay," Holes, contacted at his home, told The Associated Press. "In this case, there are probably more valid and legitimate reasons that should warrant a reprieve probably than in many cases in the last few bly than in many cases in the last few

"But the governor has seen fit to go through with the execution," Noise said. The Supreme Court ruling, the panel's second on the case in less than 24 hours, closed out a day of hectic legal efforts to halt Francis' execution.

In the final requests for a stay, Noiss cited testimony at Prancis' sentencing that he was a model prisoner who prevented gang fights at the Dade County Jail and saved the lives of prison guards.

"In virtually every other case, such mitigating factors have shown that an override is improper," Noiss said. "Mr. Francis' case sticks out like a sore thumb."

Shellfishing ban proposed

TAMPA - Fiorida officials have proposed banning shellfelting in seven areas along the state's west coast, part of an effort to get into compliance with federal shellflahing standards.

Floride has failed to meet federal standards for shelifishing the last two years for not submitting required pollution monitoring surveys for some shelifish beds, officials said.

State officials want to hire more people to test the state's oyster and clam beds for pollution and train Florida Marine Patrol officers to do routine water sampling in an effort to comply with the federal requirements.

Areas targeted by the DNR proposal are Cockroach Bay in Hillsborough County, Palma Sola Bay in Manatee County, the northern portion of the Citrus County coastline, Passage Key in Manatee Key, Alligator Harbor in Franklin County, Santa Rosa Sound in Santa Rosa County, and the western portion of Choctawhatchee Bay near Fort Walton Beach and Destin.

State's that don't comply with federal stan-dards risk not being able to export shellfish.

Stolen vehicle caught, returned

As a Seminole County Sheriff's deputy was parked on east S.R. 46 near Sanford last Priday, two 20-year-old men approached him and reportedly told him a car that had just passed was stolen from their mother.

The deputy managed to stop the 1985 Ford Thunderbird outside the Wiskey River Bar, 3730, S.R. 46.

The driver, identified as Derrick Louis Ames, 26, of Port Orange, was arrested and charged with grand theft of an automobile. The incident reportedly occurred in Winter Park. The officer reported finding a burglary tool on the rear floor of the car, and also charged Ames with passesion ob a burglary tool. Ames was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Pacility.

Aggravated assault incident

Robert John Kinnee, 46, 1720 Sunget Drive, Longwood, was arrested Sunday and charged with aggrivated assault. According to a police report, two witnesses said Kinnee attacked another person with a steak knife following an argument at the residence. The injured party was not identified, nor was the nature of the person's wounds. Kinnee was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility.

Don't give your credit card number

The Seminole County Sheriff's office is checking into what was referred to as a suspicious incident.

According to a report, an unidentified woman from Lake Mary received a phone call Sunday afternoon from a man claiming to be C.L. Bracklin or the Orlando Police Department.

He reportedly said he was involved in an investigation of recovered credit cards, and asked the woman to give her card number for verification. The woman refused, and saked for the name and phone number of the man's commander. The man claiming to be Bracklin gave his superior's name as George Anderson, and a phone number which proved to be a private residence in Sanford.

A subsequent check made with the Orlando Police Department indicated there was no such person as C.L. Bracklin. An investigation into the incident is continuing.

City to collect commercial garbage

By MCK PPEIPAU Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - The Sanford City Commission agreed on two separate items dealing with solid waste management last night. The City chose to take over garbage collection in the commercial areas and purchase needed the equipment.

The first of the two measures was designed to establish the city as the unified solid waste management and recycling provider for commercial businesses. The city already handles residential areas, but the commercial and apartment collections have been handled by private companies.

Representatives of two private waste disposal operations were on hand to urge the city to consider leaving the matter in the hands of private industry. Carrie Bassinet of Industrial Waste Services told the commissioners. "Many cities are getting out of the waste business. Rather than spending money, they found they could actually earn money by putting it out to bid.

Kyle Adams of Waste Management Inc., and he agreed with his competitor. He recommended the city examine the various advantages of obtaining a private company for waste disposal, before they voted on the matter.

Sanford resident Harry Robson spoke of the other side of the matter. He told the commission, "As a merchant since 1938 and having been served by the city garbage department for over 35 years, I have always been satisfied." He suggested the city handle the operation rather than turn it over to a commercial establishment. "I think the city would do it more efficiently and be able to cooperate with the people more."

The vote to approve the operation was approved unanimously by the members of the commission.

The related item was a request from the Public Works Department to purchase equipment necessary to undertake the commercial area collection, recycling and residential operation equipment. The total bill for the entire amount of equipment is $1.164 million.

The city is to take over the operation of the commercial collection and recycling as of October 1, 1991.

Community grant decisions due today

Dy J. MARK BARFIELD Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - Seminole County commissioners today will make their final decision on spending a $2 million federal community development block grant this

A total of 15 projects were recommended by a citizens committee comprised of residents of the low-income neighborhoods in the county. The committee recommended spending a total of about $1.5 million on the projects. The balance of the $1.8 million grant will be reserved for administration and contingencies. Among the recommended pro-

• Midway: $115,000 for sidewalks on 21st Street, portions of Sipes Avenue and Midway Road leading to Midway Elementary and $50,000 for a economic development study.

* Lockhart: $120,000 for paving and drainage of Tangerine Avenue and $40,000 for economic development study.

• Lordland: $155,000 for paving and drainage of Bailey and Ross Streets.

Roseland Park: $135,000 for paving and drainage of Second and Third Drives.

•Bookertown: $190,000 paving and drainage of Gilbert

Sanford: $100,000 for city owner-occupied housing rehabilitation program and $50,000 for city-operated program of emergency housing repair in unincorporated areas.

Countywide: $50,000 for demolition of dilapidated structures and $7,000 for neighborhood cleanups in each low-income "target" area.

In addition, commissioners will consider spending nearly $44,000 from 1989 CDBG

Dramatic change

NATO's decision recently to cut its forces in Europe by 50 percent is dramatic. Forty-two years after its founding as an anti-Soviet alliance, the alliance is starting to recognize alliance, the alliance is starting to recognize that the Soviet threat is over.

Under NATO's decisions, U.S. forces in Europe are likely to be reduced by more than half, perhaps to well under 100,000. With the Cold War over, Christian under 100,000. With the Cold War over, Christian under 100,000. With the Europe swiftly moving usward frequenties democracy. NATO's military structure will change radically.

Above all, Americans should calebrate these changes. The founding of NATO in 1949, coming on the bods of the Marshall Plan in 1947, représents the fluest hour of American diplomacy. Turning its back on 150 years of pracetime indutionism, the United States rescued Western Europe from poverty, wartime devastation and the threat of communium.

Now, it's time to adapt. Decisions taken at Brussels are a clear attempt to keep the United States engaged in Europe's future, but at lower levels of responsibility, in a key decision, the 16-nation alliance approved plans for a multinational Rapid Reaction Corps.

Key issues still must be sattled. With peace in Europe, the RRC should have authority to operate beyond the European theater, whenever NATO security interests are involved. The Persian Gulf, source of Western oll supplies is such an area. We also would like to see an all-European force created, to act independently of the United States, as required.

The end of the Cold War imposes its logic on NATO's members. For the Europeans, it means looking forward to the day when U.S. forces are not stationed in Europe in large numbers, and to when strategic arms reductions have made meaningless the doctrine of extended deterrence, under which Europe was protected by the U.S. nuclear umbrella.

For the United States, it means adjusting to a peacetime economy for the first time since pre-World War II. If the adjustment is properly managed, as these NATO decisions indicate, the armed forces and the arms industry will have time to adapt successfully.

Both East and West (already such terms have lost their meaning) should welcome these moves. The end of the Cold War frees these moves. The end of the Cold War frees up billions of dollars. Any attempt to maintain a Cold War force structure and arms industry in the new environment would be bad politics and worse economics.

China's day of death

Two years ago, tens of thousands of Chinese troops, backed by tanks and armored personnel carriers, rumbled into Tiananmen Square to quell the pro-democracy campaign led by university students. By the time the nighttime assault had ended, the 100-acre plaza at the symbolic heart of China was strewn with the bodies of demonstrators trampled under the army's tank treads.

The merciless crackdown by China's moldering Communiat Party leadership succeeded in driving the democracy movement underground. But it assuredly did not shull it

Students marked the anniversary of the massacre by taunting the reinforced police presence in Beijing and by defiantly amashing bottles. In the aftermath of the uprising, breaking bottles became a sign of protest because the Chinese words for "little bottle" resemble the name of Deng Xiaoping, the country's aging communist leader.

To prevent a revival of the democracy protests, paramilitary units have sealed off Tiananmen Square and police armed with rifles and bayonets have patrolled the streets outside Beijing University and other campuses. Yet, despite the totalitarian repression, the flame of democratic aspirations ignited by the 1989 demonstrations continues to flicker throughout China.

It is kept alive in part by the democratic world's refusal to acquiesce in the communist regime's harsh campaign to suppress dissent. Because of the continuing crackdown, Congress now appears likely for the first time to condition renewal of China's most-favorednation trade status with the United States on improvements in its human rights record. Amnesty International, the London-based human-rights organization, recently released a report asserting that Beijing's repressive tactics only have grown worse during the last

Since the bloodstained tragedy in Tiananmen Square, democratic ideals have made dramatic progress in Eastern Europe and elsewhere around the globe, while communism has been in steady retreat. China's discredited leaders cannot hold back the flood tide of democracy forever.

Debate is basis of academia

The controversy over PC (politically correct) has become PS (plain silly) when not DO (deliberately demagogic) and needs to be DS idesp-sixed).

PC began as a semi-facetious label for a way and debating contemporary of thinking about and debating contemporary issues on college campuses. Wry, often selfapplied. "politically correct" was shorthand for the effort by some left-wing academics to construct an alternative set of norms for everything from literary criticism to cultural pluralism to the bounds of free speech. It became more serious in the wake of disturbing reports about the abuse of power by a relative handful of the PC vanguard. And it entered the public arena largely because American right-wingers decided to exploit it as a polarizing leave with which to advance their own explicitly PC goals.

Polemicists and propagandists dominate the headlines, and therefore the public's perception of the issue. That's too had, because the debate and most of the other debaters are serious people. Important questions are at stake, among them:

is there some permanent body of knowledge within an immutable philosophical framework, loosely referred to as "the canen." which care be challenged or altered only at the risk of mortal peril for Western civilization? Should defense of our contemporary un-derstanding of the West's values, which itself is substantially different from the understanding of our ancestors, be the central point of the university's enterprise?

In this increasingly diverse society that exists in an increasingly interdependent world. ahould the Academy continue largely to reflect the precepts and literature of that shrinking minority of the Earth's people that is white?
On the other hand, does not education have a responsibility to the values of the culture and civilization that created it? If higher education tries to be all things to all people, will it not surely become of little value to everyone?

These are a handful of questions pulled from a long list. They are not trivial. As women. minorities and inheritors of non-Western cultural traditions rise to positions of influence - or at least visibility - in colleges and universities, those questions are posed with mounting urgency. To try to fashion a PC approach to "PC" is to trivialize the creative tension between old and new which is the secret of education's enduring vitality.

Were it not for such tension and the intellectual ferment that it produces, we would still be teaching that the Earth is both flat and the center of the universe. Greek, Latin, philosophy and the Bible would be the sum total of the educational enterprise today, just as they were at Harvard, Yale and Princeton 200 years ago. Science would still be "proving" that European-derived whites are racially superior to blacks and Jews, as was commonly taught in America's anthropology departments into the opening decades of this century. If there is nothing immutable about the canon, there is also nothing irresistibly compelling about higher education's current fashions. To say the words "deconstruc

But many of those who question the canon. in whatever form, raise valid questions and offer facinating counterpoints to conventional perspectives. They are not "barbarians in tweed," as one facile propagandist of the hard right has termed them. However unsettling their views and unpalatable their objectives, their skepticism and cultural atheism, rather than being anathema, are central to the educational enterprise. At the core of the Western tradition as it has evolved are free inquiry, respect for individual human dignity and an openness of mind rooted in a willingness to change in the face of evidence. All will survive PC the bogeyman.

Fortunately, they also continue to survive those who spend their time sniffing out heretics. That, finally, is what the great PC scare is actually all about — yet another attempt by those with real power to extirpate those who challenge their comfortable world view and currently dominant domestic agenda. Knowing the power of ideas, they seek total victory in the universities in order to guarantee political hegemony in the larger society.

It's a lost cause, as was learned as long ago as the inquisition and as recently as the communist empire.

The IRS apparently believes that hay rides, bonfires, water volleyball and body toning—all of which were included in the itineraries for the trip — are not distractions.

The most recent outing at the Poconos involved managers at the IRS' Philadelphia Service Center, who were there to learn about managing a culturally diverse workforce. Over two weeks in early June, the Philadelphia managers spent nearly three days on a rotating basis in the program, held at the Pocono Manor Inn and Golf Resort.

According to its own promotional material, Pocono Manor includes two 18-hole championship golf courses, outdoor tennis courts, volleyball, indoor and outdoor swimming, a sauna, a trap shosting range, a Nautilus fitness center, bicycle rentals, horseback riding and racketball.

Each of the 380 attendees was charged a government rate of $74.54 per night, coating the government about $88,000 excluding travel expenses. It's the fourth year in a row the IRS has held the program in the Poconos.

Last month, 100 internal suditors from the IRS's Washington office attended an educational outing at the Princess Royale All Suite Resort in the beachfront town of Ocean City, Md. The IRS said the participants were briefed on the agency's new modernized computer system.

The training ran May 20 through May 24, ending just in time to kick off the Memorial Day weekend. The government covered the $50 fee for each auditor plus meal expenses at a total cost of $34,800.

The IRS seems to enjoy luring its employees to cozy mountain or ocean-side retreats. We reported in April that the IRS put on an employee ethics seminar at a coay resort in the eastern panhandle of West Virginia costing at least $124,500.

If the nation's tax collectors are supposed to be watchdogs for tax fraud and abuse, maybe they should realize that virtue starts at home. Federal funds are being needlessly spent on activities that could be conducted without views of green fairways and sandy beaches.

These expenditures were made at the very time that Congress kept many federal health officials from attending a recent AIDS conference in Italy. Lawmakers threatened to cut off federal funding for AIDS programs unless the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services slashed the number of scientists it planned to send to the conference from 300 to 100. Irate health officials argued it would hinder the exchange of vital information on how to combat the deadly plague.

At the same time thousands of Cubans, as they climbed the economic ladder, have left the neighborhood for more spacious homes in Kendall and other middle-class areas.

Ten years ago, at least four of every five Hispanic residents in most of East Little Havana were Cuban. New census figures show that Nicaraguans and other Central Americans now outnumber Cubans in large sections of the neighborhood.

In one 70-block area, the number of Hispanic residents of Cuban descent fell more than 35 percentage points during the 1980s, the steepest drop for any neighborhood in Dade County.

"East Little Havana is a reception center for newly arriving immigrants," said Thomas Boswell, a geography professor at the University of Miami. "The poorest Cubans, wave after wave, went into East Little Havana. Now their place has been taken by the next wave of poorest immigrants, and they happen to come largely from Nicaragus."

The same trend, to a lesser degree, swept over Little Havana as a whole. In most neighborhoods, the percentage of Hispanics of Cuban ancestry dropped by at least 20 points over the last decade.

In Little Havana, the signs outside businesses still cater to Cubans. But in East Little Havana the signs beckon in-creasingly to Central Americans.

Hispanic immigrants are drawn to the neighborhood because it is one of the cheapest places to live in Miami — and one of the most densely populated. It teems with rooming houses and apartment buildings, many illegally divided to hold more tenants, said Pablo Canton, head of code enforcement for the city.

Tests show satellite antenna working fine on space shuttle

CAPE CANAVERAL - Tests show an antenna motor on a communications satellite to be carried into space by the shuttle Atlantis next month is fine. NASA said today.

Preliminary analysis on Friday indicated one of two motors for the satellite's space-to-ground antenna might, under certain conditions, prevent the antenna from extending properly in orbit.

Additional tests over the weekend, however, determined the antenna hinge "was more flexible than we had assumed." said Nicholas Chrissotimos. manager of the Tracking Data and Relay Satellite project. "The motor has enough torque to drive the hinge in the worst-case

Cosmonauts fix their antenna, too

MOSCOW (AP) — Two Soviet cosmonauts spent nearly five hours outside the orbiting Mir space station today to repair a damaged antenna, the official Tass news agency reported.

Anatoly Artsebarsky and Sergei Krikalev replaced part of a broken antenna used in docking space capsules and cargo ships to an astrophysics labora-tory attached to Mir. The two cosmonauts arrived at Mir in May with Britain's first astronaut, Helen Sharman. She spent a week on board, helping with medical and scientific experiments, before returning to Earth.

Doctors debate testing for AIDS

By ERICFIDLER

CHICAGO - The American Medical Association has taken up the question of whether doctors and patients should be routinely tested for AIDS, opening a debate in which one physician said the credibility of medicine is at stake.

The proposal was debated Monday at a meeting of the AMA's health committee. It is to be voted on this week by the 438 delegates who set policy for the 300,000-member AMA, the nation's largest organization of

High court passes on reporters

WASHINGTON - A new preme Court decision leaves it up to the states to decide whether a reporter's promise of onfidentiality to a source is a inding contract, lawyers say. In a 5-4 decision blonday, the court said the Constitution's free-press protections do not shield the news media from being sued over broken pro-mises.

The ruling sends a Minnesota dispute back to that state's highest court, which had thrown out a $200,000 award against two newspapers won by a source whose identity they did not keep confidential.

"This will touch off a battle state by state," said Rex Heinke, a Los Angeles lawyer who repre-sented numerous news organi-sations that had urged the justices to ban such suits. "The court is saying to reporters.

'Hey, this (promise of confidentiality) is a contract. You better start acting like it's a contract."

Jane Kirtley, executive director of the Reporters Committee for Freedom of the Press, agreed with Heinke. "This will mean more litigation as states must decide whether they will recognize this kind of contract," she said.

As the court moved toward a Thursday conclusion of its 1990-91 term, the justices also took these actions:

• Placed new hurdles in the path of convicted criminals, particularly death row inmates, who claim their rights have been violated and seek help from federal judges. The court split 6-3 in a pair of decisions from Virginia and California. Upheld in cases from Pennsylvania and West Virginia federal regulations that make it easier for coal mining companies to deny benefits to miners who claim to have contracted black lung disease. The ruling could affect $650 million in claims.

• Agreed to decide, sometime next year, in a case from Minnesota whether juvenile delinquenta sometimes may be given

Sex discrimination filed against Scouts

By MICHAEL WARREN
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI — Margo Mankes is a proud member of a Scouting family. Her older brothers are Cub Scouts, her parents are scout leaders, and until judges ruled otherwise, she planned to attend a Scout camp today.

But while the 8-year-old girl stays home with friends, her lawyers are plotting an all-out assault against the Boy Scouts of America in an effort to persuade the 81-year-old institution to admit girls.

"Boys and girls, men and women compete on the same level — we're going to continue to bring our fight to the Boy Scouts, either through the courts or within their ranks. until they change." said attorney Mark

Rubin filed a sex discrimination suit on behalf of the third-grader in Dade Circuit Court Monday, and said he would lobby Congress and financial supporters of the Boy Scouts to change the organization's Blake Lewis, a spokesman for the Irving. Texas-based Boy Scouts, said the organization would oppose the lawsuit and any other efforts to let girls join the 4.3 million boys and young men in its ranks.

"Our program is designed to recognize the very unique emotional, psychological and physiological needs of boys of Cub Scout and Boy Scout age," Lewis said Monday.

Aside from the ban on girls, the Mankes family said they believe in everything the Scouts stand for. They don't support other legal efforts to open the ranks, waged by a homosexuals and by children who refuse to nay a pledge that includes a statement of belief in God.

Margo, a third-grader, was upset to be left at home while her mother. Cecile, and brothers attended the five-day scout camp that began Monday, said her father, Barry Mankes.

"She was very disappointed, very sad that the Boy Scouts wouldn't let her do this," said Mankes.

Highways may be on road to ruin

By Accordated Proce

TALLAHASSEE - Florida highways could be prematurely on the road to ruin because of damage by heavy trucks that are not penalized enough when violating weight laws, a new state audit found.

Among the problems found by the auditor general's office:

—The state's weight limits for single and double-axle trucks. the number that best reflects damage to pavement, is higher than what the federal government permits.

-The state's fine for overweight loads - a nickel a pound - has not been increased since 1963. The state collected $7.6 million in fines last year.

-To calculate the price of a temporary permit for trucks to run overweight loads legally, the state figures in the resurfacing cost of a mile of one-lane highway. But the state has not updated that price since 1982, when 1 mile cost $50,000. Today, it costs the Department of Transportation about $78,000 to resurface a mile of highway.

Ken Morefield, the DOT highway engineer who oversees construction and maintenance design, said work is under way to change what the department controls and to propose changing what the Legislature con-

"I thought this was a fairly good, constructive audit." Morefield told the Palm Beach Post in a story published Mon-

Not surprisingly, the trucking industry doesn't share the auditor's findings.

"Baloney," said Tom Webb, president of the Florida Truck-ing Association. "Every road in the state has either been built or rebuilt to meet those weight requirements."
Though trucks comprise 19 percent of vehicles registered in the state, truck owners pay 37 percent of highway user taxes, according to the American Trucking Association.

Florida's weight limits were created in 1953 at 22,000 pounds for a single-axle truck and 44,000 pounds for a double-axle truck. The federal standards of 20,000 and 36,000 pounds were established with the Interstate Highway Act of Florida was allowed to keep its higher weight limits because they were in place before the federal rules were created.

The audit also noted that DOT's Office of Motor Carrier Compliance has only 60 truck inspectors, less than one for each county.

CASSELBERRY - The Advanced Quality Water Systems "Mice" women's softball team from Oviedo won its sixth consecutive game with a 5-0 victory over Aqua Turf in a Class C game at Red Bug Park Monday night.

But the ICP men again came up on the short end of a 5-2 score to the Wildcats.

Theresa Walburger was the winning pitcher tossing a three-hitter as the Mice improved to 9-4 on the season. She also helped herself at the plate with two hits and two RBI.

Other hitters for the Mice were: Mary Shelton (two hits, run scored). Karen Kohs (triple, sacrifice fly, run scored, two RBI) and Denise Levinson, Abby Cardona and April Lawrence (one run scored each).

Walburger also recieved excellent help from her infield of Shelton at third base, Cardona at second base, Jackie Janowiak at shortstop and Phyllis Baynes at first base. Each one took a turn, at least one, to make an outstanding defensive play.

The women will play a make-up doubleheader this Saturday. At 10 a.m. they will face Brand X and at noon will take on the Seminole County Tax Collectors

The men only had four hits in their loss to the Wildcats. Doing the hiting were Mike Rix, Eddie Norton, Gary Lamberta and Paul Greer.

The men, now 1-12, will also play Saturday at 9 a.m. against Foskitt.

First Baptist Tournament

SANFORD - Sanford First Baptist Church will offer a men's softball tournament June 28 and 29 at Chase and Pinchurst parks.

It will be a 12 team, double-elimination event playing under ASA "C" Church rules.

SANFORD — The City of Sanford Little Major League Baseball All-Stars will open their attempt to earn a trip to the State Tournament in West Palm Beach tonight when they play host to the 1991 Florida Little Major League District IV Sub-District 2 Tournament at Roy Holler Field in Fort Meilon Park.

Sanford will play the opening same of the tournament at 6 p.m. this evening against the Oak Hill All-Stars. It will be Oak Hill's first appearance in the Sub-District.

In the nightcap, defending Sub-District Champion Orlando S.A.Y. will take on the Leesburg All-Stars at 7:30 p.m.

This is the second year in a row that Sanford has hosted the Sub-District. But there has been a major change in the format from last year. Last year's round-robin schedule has been scrapped in favor of a double-elimination set-up. Last year Sanford placed second in the tournament despite a 2-1 record.

The tournament will run through at least Friday, with a game scheduled for Saturday if it becomes

All four team will be in action again Wednesday with the winners meeting at 6 p.m. and the losers meeting at 7:30 p.m.

The winner of the tournament will advance to next week's District IV Tournament at New Smyrna Beach for another double-elimination event. The winner of that tournament will advance to West Palm Beach in late July as the District IV representative.

This year's Sanford team is led by five players from the City Champion K-n-D Trailer Sales Red Sox and three players from city runner-up Marshall USA Expos.

From the Red Sox are the Counts twins, Bartt and Brett, Terrance Perkins, Antonio White and Robert Randall. The Counts', Perkins and Randall each added at least one home run to the nine that the Red Sox hit in the three-game city championship.

Respresenting the Expos are Chaz Lytle, Ned Raines and Aaron Thomas. Thomas was forced to miss the city championships because of an

Good leving is a senior's secret for good marriage

Why not? That's right up my alley. I'm age 85, with a 71-year-old third wife, and we make love frequently. I lost my first two wives to cancer after almost 20 years with each.

i met my present wife when i was 79 and she was 64. She had been with the only man in her life — her husband of 37 years — so I should not have been surprised at her obvious lack of experience. Being "made love to" was need to been as connecd. to" was new to her, as opposed to being an outlet for a man's desires. Once we got in tune with each other, we made love 10 times in nine days — once every day, and twice on Sunday, I kid you not.

We have slowed down somewhat since I was hospitalized for a month after surgery to remove a cancerous colon. It was a month after that before we could resume our lovemaking. Notice, I said "lovernaking," not having sex. There is a difference.

By the way. I met my third wife in church. After our relationship became serious, we toured Europe together. Different names on passports don't bother hotel clerks or anyone else when two people travel as a couple. After living out of a suitcase for six weeks, we knew we'd either love each other or wat hate each other's guts. We sales were completed.

My secret for a successful marriage? Take your time. Sex is a quick roll in the hay. Making love is like an ocean voyage; half the fun is getting there.

OLDER BUT NOT TOO OLD

DEAR OLDER: You could write a book...you certainly know what to do between the covers. Hooray for you!

DEAR ABBY: Could you please tell me if there is anything a man can do to color the gray hair on his chest? Are there any products on the market that can handle this problem?

The hair on my head is mostly dark brown with only a few gray hairs, but I am getting a whole flock of gray hairs on my chest. Hurry your answer, please, I don't want to look like an old guy on the beach.

DEAR MALIBU: Ask your barber. He should know. If he can't help you, head for the nearest store that carries beauty supplies. Its shelves will be lined with "rinses" and "tints" that will solve your difference.

DEAR ABBY: Please say something about the widespread use of pacifiers. They are used mostly to pacify the parents who stick it in the child's mouth to keep it quiet.

Putting a plug in a child's mouth, whether it's a genuine plug or a bottle (when used as a pacifier), causes the child to associate comfort and relief of stress with oral satisfaction, which may lead later in life to smoking, overeating or alcoholism.

The child's instinct to suck is usually satisfied by breast or bottle when the child is hungry. And don't you hate to see a child who is old enough to walk still sucking on a bottle?

BARBARA SHADER DEAR BARRAMA: Yes. But married as soon as our property the people who most love to see sales were completed. a child who is old enough to walk still sucking on a bottle are the orthodontists.

DEAR ABBY: I have just been informed of a very delicate situation, and I am not sure how to handle it. My husband and I separated for a short time in September 1988. While separat-ed, I started seeing another man. It was a very brief encounter. needless to say. Since then, my husband and I are together again - and I have given birth to a

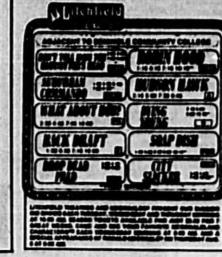

I recently ran into some friends who knew of this other man and also live near him. My friend told me some very disturbing news about this man. He has been diagnosed HIV-positive. Needless to say, I was floored hearing this. I plan to be tested very soon.

The problem is: Should I discuss this with my husband? If I tell him. it could destroy what is left of our marriage, especially if the test is negative. On the other hand, he has a right to know that the risk is there.

I cannot even comprehend the fact of AIDS. The thing that gets to me more than anything is my son. I had him after the fact. Is he infected? I could not live with myself knowing that my lack of self-control could possibly kill both of us. Please help me any way you can.

DEAR DEVASTATED: You must be tested immediately to determine whether you have been infected, and have your questions answered first-hand. Call the government AIDS hotline, 1 (800) 342-AIDS, to find the location of a center near you for anonymous testing. If you are positive, then you must discuss this with your husband, and both your husband and your child should be tested.

If you are negative - it's 'our' secret.

Longwood teen is model semifinalist

LONGWOOD — On her way to success in the glamorous world of modeling, Jennifer Hale, 16, Longwood, appears in 'TEEN Magazine's June issue as a 1991 great Model Search Super Semifinalist.

Hale was chosen as one of 96 Super Semifi-nalists from the 480 regional semifinalists that appeared in TEEN and the 20,000 entries received. The year-long process culminates with the selection of 12 finalists who will receive an all expense paid trip to National Pinals Week in Los Angeles.

The 1991 Great Model Search winner will receive a $5,000 cash award from Maybelline and will appear in a national Maybelline ad. Also, she will receive a trip for two to a resort area from Tropical Blend.

The winner will appear on the cover of the October issue of TEEN. She, along with the finalists, will also be modeling the latest fashion in the October issue. If Hale wirs, she will be in a long line of successful models who have launched their careers on 'TEEN's cover. Past discoveries include Cheryl Tiegs, Cristina Ferrare and Kelly Harmon.

"TEEN Magazine serves 4.4 million readers, one-third of all high school girls.

diagnosis, they often revert to reassuring patients that the trouble is caused by a "virus" or an "allergy." This puts a name on the condition, which is com-forting to patient and physician alike, and permits the healer to avoid saying: "I don't know." Admitting defeat is, to many So here I am, replying "I don't know" to your question.

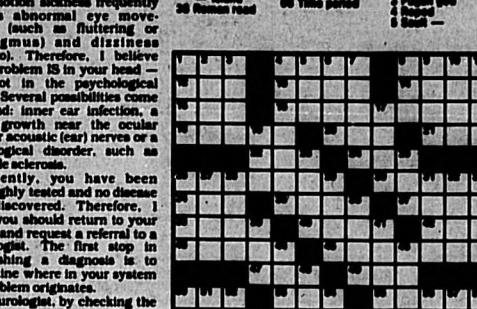

The eyes and the ears are neurologically related. This is why motion sickness frequently causes abnormal eye move-ments (such as fluttering or nystagmus) and dizziness (vertigo). Therefore, I believe your problem IS in your head — but not in the psychological sense. Several possibilities come to mind: inner ear infection, a small growth near the ocular (eye) or acoustic (ear) nerves or a neurological disorder, such as multiple sclerosis.

Evidently, you have been thoroughly tested and no disease was discovered. Therefore, 1 think you should return to your doctor and request a referral to a neurologist. The first stop in establishing a diagnosis is to determine where in your system the problem originates.

A neurologist, by checking the nerves to your eyes and ears, should be able to pinpoint the location of the irritation or inflammation causing your symptoms. Then further tests, such as a CT scan (X-ray study)

The opponents, who are not sacrificing, are in their final contract, and you are sure they cannot make it. Do you double?

Sensible players will normally double when they expect at least their opponents cannot run to another, more successful, con-

Doubling for one down is rarely a good idea. When de-clarers are warned about bad breaks, they will often play the cards a trick better. Note the debacle that befell East in today's deal.

Why did South run from four spades doubled when he had three trumps? Because East doubled with a thunderous voice. It was clear four spades wasn't going to make; maybe five clubs would.

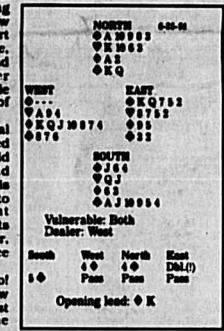

Study the diagram and decide whether you would prefer to declare or defend.

West led the diamond king, which declarer won with dummy's ace. East signaling with his nine. Declarer drew trumps and then led the heart queen. West won with the ace. a two-trick set and they are sure cashed his diamond trick and returned a heart. Declarer claimed, discarding his spade losers on dummy's K-10 of hearts.

The play contained several errors. If only East had retained the diamond nine, West could have underled his diamond honors at trick six to put his partner on lead. Then a switch to the spade king drives out dummy's entry before the hearts have been unblocked. However. South avoids this consequence by ducking the opening lead.

So you should declare? Not Suppose West leads a low diamond at trick one. Now East must get on play with the diamond nine for the killing spade switch.

Alliances you form for purely social purposes should work out rather well in the year ahead. In fact, the same might be true for commercial partnership. CANCER (June 21-July 22) In your one-to-one relationships today, don't treat companions in a condescending manner, even if you secretly feel a bit superior. It could work against you. Cancer, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for Cancer's Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O.
