Judge Leonard Wood retires

SANPORD — Circuit Judge Leonard Wood retired Priday, one week after being charged with a misdemeanor accusing him of battery against his wife, Julie, during a fight in July. In July, Wood denied harming his wife. He wrote in his retirement letter that he is stepping down because the battery charge "embarrasses the entire judiciary."

Friday's retirement announcement ends an 11-year career on the bench.

Wood appeared Friday in Tampa before an investigative panel in the Judicial Qualifications Commission, a body that investigates allegations of misconduct by judges

It had been investigating the domestic violence complaint against Wood. Last October, Wood was publicly reprimanded by the Florida Supreme Court follow-ing a commission investigation that concluded he had repeat-edly insulted and bullied attor-neys and the public who appeared before him.

Four years earlier, Wood was admonished in private by the commission for similar food's resignation action the come Under its terms, Wood will remain on the state payroll until Dec. 31.

Thursday was Wood's last day on the bench.

Wood's attorney, Chandler Muller, said that Wood will fight the miedemeanor charge.

Unity is the key to Sanford's future

At Millennium Summit, community leaders voice need to end citywide bickering

By Joe DeSentis

Staff Writer

SANFORD — Leaders representing virtually every aspect of Sanford's public and private sector expressed a unified voice Friday afternoon at the Sanford/Seminole County Chamber of Commerce's "Sanford Millennium Summit."

Those in attendance said Sanford stands on the brink of unparalleled prosperity if factions within the city can cast aside often bitter and personal battles, the kind of disagreements that mayor Larry Dale characterized as sometimes "hateful."

Panelists included voices from the business sector, public education, local government, law enforcement, and non-profit interests. The 16 representatives were asked to respond to a series of questions ranging from long-term concerns and opportunities facing Sanford, to what proactive steps the city can take in anticipation of the new millennium and the city's future.

Thelma Mike, director of Sanford's Good Samaritan home prompted the most enthusiastic response from the 105 in attendance.

"All the questions before this panel come together rather simply," Mike said. "We call Sanford the Friendly City, but I've seen seeds and roots of bitterness come to Sanford. I've seen people attacked instead of issues."

Mike said Sanford can capitalize on the future growth explosion if Sanford returns to its concept of friendliness and

"One of our greatest assets is our diversity," she said. "But how can we say we should get together on the issues when we don't even talk to each other?" Mike said she believes the growth of the city depends on its greatest natural "The greatest thing that can happen for Sanford will come from the lakefront," she said. "I've said that for years before others talked about it."

Fellow businessman Bob Parsell said regardless of where individuals stand on certain issues, there is no escaping the change the new millennium will bring.

"We need to decide, collectively, which way we want Sanford to go," Parsell said. "Running the city is like running a See Sanford, Page 11A

Sanford project draws national interest

At least four development companies plan to bid on hotel/conference center project

By Bill Kerns Staff Writer

SANFORD - Four out-ofdevelopers announced their intent to bid on the proposed hotel and conference center project along Sanford's waterfront.

Sanford City Manager Tony VanDerworp said Friday he has received calls from the companies expressing interest in the project after the City Commission voided a 50-year lease with PRA Management and Development Inc. to develop the project.

The City Commission on Monday will discuss the inquiries and will consider whether the city should perform a feasibility study for the project or request that a developer perform the work. VanDerworp estimates the study would cost the city approximately $20,000 to $35,000 to perform and could to $35,000 to perform and could be completed in 45 days.

The commission voided the lease with PRA Development two weeks ago because the feasibility study had not been performed within a deadline established in the lease agreement. Furthermore, PRA Development President Joe Pacitti failed to

Longwood celebrates city's history

LONGWOOD - Members of the Seminole County Historical Commission joined Lorgwood city officials and county officials Thursday for the formal dedication of one of Longwood's two official historical markers.

Located just behind

Longwood City Hall at the intersection of Warren Avenue and Wilms, the marker commemo-rates the founding of one of Seminole County's oldest cities. "The Historical Commission works hard to find significant historical locations that need to be preserved and recognized," said Linda Batman.

In 1883 Longwood became incorporated, with Henck serving as its first mayor. By 1887 the population of Longwood boomed to more than 1,000 and the town had three hotels, five churches, eight stores and a weekly newspaper. Eight years later back-to-back freezes devas-

Thelma Mike: 'We're not talking to each other'

Theima Mike, "nonprofit," That's how Mrs. Mike was identified on the flyer for the Senford Millennium Summit held Priday afternoon at the Marina Hotel. Theima Mike, "nonprofit," Mrs. Mike, we all know, is a woman who long ago opened her arms to embrace the poor of Sanford seeking neither profit nor notoriety.

"Hoboes knew where we lived," Mike said. "Hoboes loved Senford."

Today, Mike says it is time for Sanford to love Sanford. "We're not talking to each other," Mike told more than a hundred city leaders who attended what was called the Millennium Summit, which was sponsored the > Senford/Seminole Chamber of Commerce and the Seminole Herald.

"A spirit of fear," she said, has left Seniora in gridiocic "We're afraid to say enything or do enything for fear of being attacked. There's so much diversity but too much division. We say we want to get together but how can we when we're not talking to each other?" As this kind, "nonprofit" sage spoke to us, many began to feel better about taking time to attend the summit. Judge Carmine Bravo marveled at Mike's eloquence.

"We really should be listening to her," he said.

Mrs. Mike, like many of the other good people of Sanford, have set a wonderful example for everyone — the rich, the poor, the black, the white. The same spirit that prompts some to be Good Samaritans, is needed to heal mean-spiritedness and Me-ism.

Develop the Lake Monroe waterfront. Mike sald.

"That's where everything has to happen - on the lakefront. It's coming. It's surely coming. So why not talk about it?"

A county commissioner, the city's mayor, the police chief, an economic director, the college president and business leaders had profound things to say at Priday's Summit. But it took a simple "nonprofit" woman to put it all together. To make sense of it. To penetrate hardened hearts.

When it was time to go, a number of people waited so they could thank and embrace Mrs. Mike.

What we need to do, of course, is to listen to and embrace one another.

That's what Thelma Mike has requested of us.

Our picks in Longwood

Electors in Longwood face critical decisions on November 2 when they cast their votes in two District seat races, and decide 21 ballot questions.

The two incumbents, Rusty Miles in District 1 and Annamarie Vacca in District 4 deserve praise for representing Longwood well. Challengers Butch Bundy and John Maingot deserve equal praise for their willingness to become citizen-legislators.

All four expressed genuine concern about issues such as road paving, sewage capacity for growth, more attention to parks and recreations facilities, and the city's bruised and battered image due primarily to hypersensitive political egos and outright defiant hostility by some commissioners who have yet to comprehend others have different views and standpoints on significant issues.

It is an unfortunate reality that in this particular election, the four candidates are being viewed not only on the merits of their qualifications, but on the perceived relationship to political factions responsible for much of the chaos and discontent in the city.

In District 1 Rusty Miles has been a consistently strong voice with the tax payer in mind. Even his best attempts to be civil while advancing an argument or viewpoint are often met with a rude gavel and disdain. Miles' voice and representation needs to remain on the board of city commission-

His challenger, Mr. Maingot represented himself well before our editorial board. While expressing similar concerns about the city's image and growth problems we were not totally convinced that major elements of his campaign support would not exert undo influence. Miles has a proven track record of independent thinking and a reasonable and balanced approach to city affairs. In District 1 the Seminole Herald endorses Rusty Miles.

The District 4 race provides a similar dilemma for Longwood voters. Incumbent Annamarie Vacca, like Miles, has served her district well and in a less vocal fashion has attempted to bring some level-headedness to the often rancorous dais rhetoric.

Challenger Butch Bundy too brings good ideas and theories about the future direction of the city on paper. In Vacca, voters have a track record to go on. The Seminole Herald endorses Vacca in District 4.

Our endorsements come in part due to our consistent weekly coverage of Longwood and observations each Monday night of much of what transpires on the dais. The consistent outcome of votes on critical issues also bears scrutiny. Voters were likewise guaranteed independent vot-

Who reached the 'Summit' and who came up short? Sanford leaders sound like they're serious about providing unity in the community. If so. The Meter applauds it. Other news drawing The Meter's attention:

AT THE SUMMIT: One of Sanford's shining hours. The city's government and business leaders, as well as concerned citizens break bread at Sanlord Millennium Summit. Thelma Mike's message was the best. So was the cheese cake. Summit Low Point: rubber chicken.

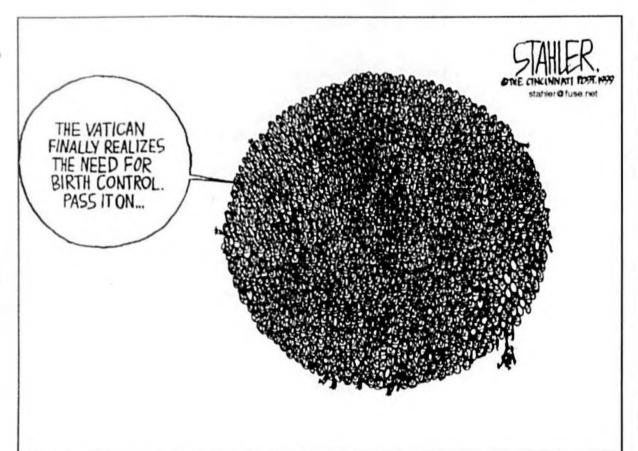

... THE SHIRT OFF HER BACK: The Legacy Soccer Foundation is giving the Seminole County Board of Commissioners Brandi Chastain's World Cup Soccer jersey at Tuesday's board meeting. Brandi tore off her jersey when she scored the shoot-out goal winner against China. She wants the county to have her jersey. She's keeping her sports bra.

OFF CENTER: The Seminole County Tourist Development Council (TDC) to request the Board of County Commissioners rescind their action designating Sanford as the preferred site for a center. County Manager Kevin Grace will ask for board action on Tuesday. Sanford officials insist waterfront remains best site.

LET'S MAKE A DEAL: Now that Peter Warrick will be allowed to don the Gamet and Gold rather than the orange jumpsuits issued by Jail officials, FSU should bestow a new title on Warrick's attorney John Kenny ... Defensive Coordinator. Just think, with an attorney as talented as Kenny on the coaching staff, the Criminoles could lead the nation in discounted merchandise. ### City park needs enhancements, not hotel complex

To the editor:

This view is obviously direct-Hotel/Conference Center in Fort Mellon Park.

Now let me get this straight. We presently have a beautiful park which is already in place, it has a gorgeous, expansive view of Lake Monroe, many mature trees, a large pond which is home to many ducks, blue herons, etc. The pond is enjoyed by people of all ages who come to feed the ducks, enjoy their presence, and have a picnic pond-side. There is presently "plenty of space" for every age group to enjoy different areas of the park without disturbing each other.

Basketball courts, tennis ed at those who favor a court (which should be upgraded), playground, and covered picnic area for large groups can all be very noisy. However this is not a problem because we are presently blessed with enough space for everyone to enjoy the park in their own special ways.

Why would anyone want to transform a good portion of the park to erect a tall, sprawling ever growing community onto the limited space you suggest trucks. does not make good sense to many of us.

Sanford already has its park in place. My suggestion would be to "enhance" what is already there - not remove all of the above (pond, mature trees, tennis court, space) to (as the song goes), "put up a parking lot."

Some enhancements might include closing the present waterfront road from the Civic Center to the corner of the New Tribes Mission, allowing people to roller-blade, walk, jog, stroll with baby carriages, etc. and concrete building? To pack an not have to share the roadway with fast moving cars and

Build a large round bandstand and invite different school bands, jazz groups, etc. to perform free concerts, add more "pretty" park benches, nostalgic lamp posts, fountains, and walkways that meander throughout the park, and from the parking areas on First Street down to the water's edge.

These enhancements will draw many people, even from nearby communities, to enjoy something their city/town does not have — a show-place park with a gorgeous waterfront

Homophobia among African-Americans

Coretta Scott King is not known as a prophet. She rarely uses her powerful pulpit to champion an unpopular cause or a lesserknown crusade. Instead, she usually sticks to the denunciation of well-identified evils such as racism, careful not to move outside the conventional wisdom of the civil rights establishment.

Last week, however, Mrs. King, the widow of Martin Luther King Ir., veered away from the party line. She took on homophobia in black America, linking it to the AIDS epidemic among blacks.

"I have no doubt that homophobia has worsened and prolonged the AIDS crisis. It is particularly sad to me when I hear black people, including some in leadership positions, making homophobic comments and attacking the human rights of gay and lesbian people. African-Americans have suffered for too long because of prejudice and bigotry to be parroting the rhetoric of the Ku Klux Klan and other hate groups who bash people because of their sexual orientation."

With those well-chosen - even brave words in a speech at the Atlanta University Center, a cluster of historically black colleges, Mrs. King brought the ugly truth about black America's AIDS epidemic out of the closet. It is a crisis aided and abetted by black America's bigotry against gays, a bigotry that lives in the hearts of preachers, of politicians, of well-educated professionals.

This was not the first time Mrs. King had spoken about the devastation of AIDS among black Americans, but it may have been her most prominent forum. She launched a national tour of the AIDS Memorial Quilt among historically black colleges and universities, a project designed to ..... increase awareness of the risks of HIV among African-American students.

They desperately need to see the names of the dead, stitched so hauntingly into the patchwork of quilts. Still oblivious to the risks of unprotected sex, still dismissing AIDS as a "gay disease," young African-Americans are among those most at risk of contracting the deadly virus. AIDS is now the leading cause of death among black men between the ages of 25 and 44, and the second-leading cause of death among black women in that age group.

Even as the overall death rate from AIDS is falling — largely because of newer drugs that do not cure the disease but can suppress the virus — the rate of infection among blacks is growing. Although blacks make up only 13 percent of the nation's population, we accounted for 49 percent of the AIDS deaths last year and 48 percent of the new AIDS cases reported.

Yet, silenced by their discomfort, their ignorance, and, yes, their prejudices, few prominent blacks have spoken publicly about the disease. Mrs. King's own son, Martin Luther King III, who now heads his father's organization, the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, said he would be uncomfortable discussing condom use and the perils of unprotected sex.

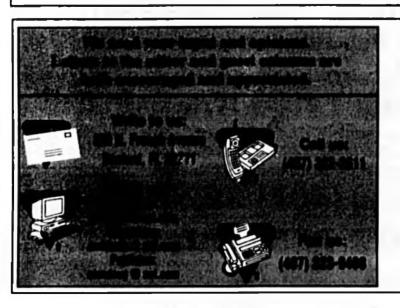

That reticence in the black community has left black America without the highly visible public-education campaigns that have helped gay white men curb HIV infection in their communities.

Worse yet, some researchers believe that the homophobia that persists in black America has led to higher rates of bisexuality. Rather than settle into monogamous gay relationships, many gay black men give in to community pressure to also have sex with women, to disguise their true orientation. Such behavior spreads the risk of infection.

Mrs. King's speech is one sign that a few African-American activists may finally be willing to speak out about the AIDS epidemic and the bigotry that feeds it. Earlier this month, a New York-based AIDS education organization, Balm in Gilead, conducted a three-day conference for black Atlanta ministers. Billed the "First National Black Church HIV/AIDS Institute," the conference was the "first time that the African-American church is actually coming to ... learn how they can address" AIDS, said Pernessa Seele, founder and executive director of Balm in Gilead.

Let's hope those black ministers will soon join Mrs. King in a public crusade against AIDS and the homophobia which fosters it. This is a matter of life and death.

Our View

Continued from Page 4A ing and thinking in April when a special election was necessary to fill the seat now occupied by commissioner Dan Anderson, supported by the same factions now supporting Bundy and Maingot. Since that time Anderson has consistently voted in a 3-2 block with mayor Paul Lovestrand and commissioner Steve Miller.

It is critical for the residents of Longwood that those commission votes reflect the best interest of all city residents and tax payers, and not the best interest of individual commissioners for whatever reason or personal agenda

Many ballot questions voters will face are administrative house cleaning in nature. Three, however deserve the particular attention of voters

The Seminole Herald endorses a "yes" vote on ballot question 12-which would require a four-fifths vote to hire or fire the city clerk and city attorney. While that decision should be based solely on the performance-versus-objectives of the positions, these employees are subject to potential pressure from individual commissioner members in areas unrelated to their performance. A merepersonality conflict with a particular commission member could cause a simple majority ouster.

The Seminole Herald also endorses a "yes" vote on ballot question 14-requiring a fourth-fifths majority for the removal of the city administrator. Politics has certainly played a role in the turnover in that position. Again, the effectiveness of this position should be based on performance. It is our feeling the board needs to be overwhelmingly convinced a city administrator should be removed on that criteria.

The Seminole Herald also endorses a "yes" vote on ballot question 18-deleting a requirement that the commission confirm department

There is much to explore: the cafes, the restored Ritz Theater, Historic Downtown with shops full of hidden treasures, the museum and the Zoo, as well as many restored historic homes. (By the way, we need a good, old-fashioned ice cream parlor.)

All of these amenities will prove Sanford to be a charming place worthy of many return visits. Citizens who oppose the Hotel/Conference Center "in Fort Mellon Park" are not "whiners" as Russ White refers to us in his October 13 column. We simply want to keep what so many other communities would love to have - a huge park.

Hotel/Conference The Center could be built next to City Hall, straight up. Parking at ground level sheltered by the hotel lobby, restaurant, shops, conference center on second and third levels, and guest rooms above, all with a panoramic view of Lake Monroe.

We can "all" enjoy a win-win situation.

have China testing. You'll have India testing. You'll have Pakistan testing."

Someone, in their partisan souls, deeper even than their visceral hatred of Clinton, Republicans like Trent Lott, must know the time bomb they have set with this vote. Why else didthey offer to put off the humiliating vote if the president wouldpromise to bring the treaty vote back next year on the eve of the election?

But if they envisioned the popularity of Clinton's position come the year 2000, why did they take the position they did last week? Is there some weakness in the test ban only Republican senators can appreciate, but which cannot be shared and understood by the rest of us? For if it can be shared, why do they fear so much to duke it out in a full-fledged public debate?

By killing the treaty, they have given Clinton's party a powerful issue in the next election. Remember how much damage Newt Gingrich inflicted on his House majority when he said the reason he'd closed down the government four years ago was because Bill Clinton made him sit in the back of Air Force One?

Imagine how voters will react to the knowledge that the Republicans killed a nuclear test ban to spite the man who signed it? To the belief that the loyal opposition has done damage to the country simply to hurt the lame duck Bill Clinton?

By their own politics, the Republicans of the U.S. Senate may have given us their worst hour of leadership, and President Clinton his finest.

Maingot challenges Miles for Longwood's District 1 seat

By Joe DeSantis Staff Writer

LONGWOOD - The vision for Longwood seen by the incumbent District 1 city commissioner and his challenger in the Nov. 2 city election is almost identical. The path to realizing that vision pits experience against a political first-timer.

District I Commissioner Randy Miles to a 3-2 voting and challenger John Maingot both see block on most the need for long-term planning and polishing the city's image as two key issues for voters to decide. Both are of the mind that the political bickering and often outright hostilities displayed on the commission dais do little to serve the interest of Longwood residents.

Miles, 47, is the regional sales manager for an adhesives company. He holds a Bachelor's degree in political science from Michigan State University. He has served on the Longwood city commission since 1996 and has previously held the gavel as mayor. Miles is also a member of the Seminole Government Television Committee and Seminole Republican Executive Committee.

Maingot, 63, graduated from Fatima College in Trinidad in 1954 and took additional course work primarily in business administration at the University of the West Indies. The owner of a landscaping business, Maingot is proud of his recently acquired U.S. citizenship.

Both candidates agree that better long-range planning, primarily with sewage and paving projects is a key element in addressing growth issues in the city. Miles says that money set aside and taxes collected should be used to start projects, some on the back burner for as long as five years, instead of spending money for continued analysis by consultants.

Maingot says if the city's five-year plan has dust on it, it should be re-evaluated and brought up to speed with present variables factored in such as the and let him do his job, state of the economy and the need for laying the infrastructure for continued trator but there are a few commissioners commercial development.

major issues.

"If Longwood were a horse race, it would often be investigated by the Horse Racing Commission," said

"It's disgusting that the city maintains the nickname 'Wrongwood,' but if you attend a couple of meetings, its evident why," Miles added. "1 hope as a commissioner I bring some integrity to the the public and not cut off their participation in the process."

Miles favors one of the most controversial ballot questions that will go before voters on Nov. 2. Longwood electors will decide if it should take a four-fifths majority instead of a simple 3-2 majority to hire or fire the city administrator.

"I'm absolutely for the super majority," said Miles. "It serves as a way to help keep politics and interference out of the duties and responsibilities of the city administrator. The key to a good city administrator is the selection process. When this board hired our current city administrator we were process because I'm willing to listen to another $79,000 on two additional police is a perfect example of last minute items added to a budget by certain commissioners that were not requested in the city administrator's spending plan.

An issue regarding $170,000 spent on a failed clean-up project at Mud Lake has failed to get off the launch pad during the race. Miles voted in favor of the project. He labeled the outcome as a bad decision based on bad information from the St. Johns River Water Management District and the lead business on the project, Aquatic Biologists.

Miles said he does not personally know his challenger John Maingot, who the incumbent says was personally adamant that we would leave him alone picked by mayor Paul Lovestrand.

Longwood is not complicated. People decent homes, decent neighborhoods, decent lives, and they don't want their participation voice cut off."

Maingot, whose previous government experience includes being a former member of the Longwood comprehensive plan committee, and a current stint on the city's Codes Enforcement Board, agrees with Miles that Longwood suffers from a bruised and battered image.

"When I hear that term 'Wrongwood' it doesn't make me happy," Maingot said. "There's a lack of communication that plays a big role in the lack of pride in the city.

"Fixing that image is a tall order. It will take leadership and involvement. From a political standpoint I'm seen as the new kid on the block. I thrive on that challenge."

Miles and Lovestrand have bitterly ty to enhance commercial development, and to dedicate more resources to improving and expanding the city's parks and recreation services. He said he sees a need for each city employee, at majority issue off the ballot while Miles all levels, to be more responsible for building pride and getting the job done.

"The city administrator serves as a "I'm willing to stand up to some of channel for communication," Maingot said. "The commissioners should be the eyes and ears of the community, we are the political appointees of the people."

Maingot said he does not favor the for the people of ballot question dealing with a super majority to hire or fire the city adminis-

Maingot expressed concern that the average citizen is not adequately informed on the numerous ballot questions that will go before voters on Nov.

Maingot said he realizes some voters will view him with a degree of skepticism because of the campaign support he is receiving from Lovestrand.

"I'm my own person, I'm not the mayor's candidate," he said. "I reserve the right to agree or disagree with Lovestrand. Lovestrand's supporters are not writing script for me. I'm relatively new, I'm unbiased and I come with no political baggage."

When asked about the last-minute budget additions of ambulance and police and fire personnel advanced by a Lovestrand motion, Maingot promised that a new ambulance would not operate at a loss.

"We will not operate that ambulance Maingot said his priorities would be on the backs of the tax payers, you can

cumbent Vacca battles Bundy for District 4

LONGWOOD - The city commission race in District 4 likewise pits an incumbent against a political newcomer.

Commissioner Annamarie Vacca is seeking her third term on the board, while challenger Butch Bundy is looking for voter support for the first time. Both offer similar views about the city's future and its problems.

Vacca, 34, is a financial services advisor and has a high school education. She has served on the Longwood city commission since 1993. She is a member of the Florida League of Cities, the National League of Cities, the Northern Alignment Study Group and sat on the 17-92 Redevelopment Task Force. She is also a member of the Republican Mayors and Elected Officials.

Vacca sees the key issues in this campaign as road improvements, public parks and recreation, and honest communication with the public.

She said the recent political maneuvering the commission performed when dealing with the responsibility of code enforcement is a perfect example of why the city has earned the nickname "Wrongwood"

"Nine times out of 10 this commission could easily rubber stamp resolutions and ordinances with a 5-0 vote if it acted on what city staff, the citizens and the city administrator brings before it," said Vacca. "But the current budget is a perfect example of the politics that go on. We didn't need to add a thing, and at the last minute certain commission members go on a shopping spree with a new ambulance and city personnel."

Vacca said the public has become disenfranchised with certain factions of the commission because if something in the city isn't legal, they'll vote to change to make it legal. "My opponents are trying to make my vote on Mud Lake out to be the biggest boondoggle in the history of Longwood," she said. "At the time of the vote, with the information given and Vacca said she finds it irritatquently called for issues she feels should be done at regular meetings with public participation more accessible.

"The most recent special meeting on the alleged confusion over pay raises for city personnel is a perfect example," she said. "That was all part of another back-room deal."

Vacca said she supports the weather conditions, I thought it ballot question concerning a was the proper vote. The biggest super majority necessary to hire or fire the city administrator.

Rusty Miles

"Some of the amendment questions I don't agree with. But that one is key, especially with the current political make-up of the commission."

Vacca said she and her challenger Bundy discussed this year's race as early as two vears ago.

> "I asked Butch if he would consider running two years ago," Vacca said. "At that time I had already served two terms. Unfortunately his political philosophy has changed drastically since then, and his position on our former city administrator flip-flopped. First he was Shelton Smith's biggest critic, then he's upset with me for voting to remove Smith from his position at a special meeting. Mr. Bundy spearheaded a petition to recali me around September of 1998."

Vacca said that experience leads her to strongly support the need for a four-fifths vote to remove such a key city employee.

"It's unfortunate, but the campaign in the last two weeks will turn from issues to personal attacks," she said. "I absolutely expect them and I expect them to come from

Bundy's chief supporters Paul Lovestrand and Lynette Dennis and their Political Action Committee. In this election, the candidates are not running the Bundy, 47, owns a tile and marble business based in Longwood. He has a high school education and attended Wake Forest University on a football scholarship before an injury prompted his move into the business world. He served last year on Longwood's Charter Review Committee, served as chairman of the city's Codes Enforcement Board, and is a member of the Greater Seminole County Chamber of Commerce.

Bundy said he too is tired of Longwood being the butt of many a political joke because of its lack of cohesiveness and political polarization. "It always seems to come down to an us-versus-them perception," said Bundy, referring to a typical voting block that includes Paul Lovestrand, Steve Miller, and Dan Anderson in one camp with Rusty Miles and Vacca in the other.

"I've walked a lot of neighborkoods in the past few weeks," he said. "I've talked to more than 1,200 people, and a lot of them are so disgusted they don't want to get involved in the city. Those voters are telling me that enough is enough. This political fighting at the commis- small sion level has got to change See District 4, Page 8A

Strickler opens drive for Florida House seat

By Russ White Staff Writer

LONGWOOD Strickler has opened a campaign account to run as a Republican for the District 37 Florida House of Representatives seat being vacated by Lee Constantine, himself a candidate for the Unites States Senate. Strickler, a Longwood resident since 1979 and regional manager for BellSouth, served on the Seminole County School Board from 1992 to 1996. He's served as Chairman of the Seminole Port Authority and the Sanford Waterfront Development Steering

He said on Wednesday that after two decades in Central Florida serving as a community volunteer and elected official, he wants to take his experience to the state level.

"I'm asking voters of District 37 to place their trust in me to represent them well," he said.

Strickler is opposing attorney David Simmons in the District 37 race, saying that with term limits opening up about half of the Executive House seats in the 2001 legislative session, "I feel now is the perfect time for me to take my fresh leadership approach of business experience, community service and elective service to a new level."

Larry and JoAnn Strickler have been married 32 years and have two children. He is a graduate of Carson-Newman College the University of Tennessee's Management Development Program. He served in the Army and has been with BellSouth for 27 years.

Strickler lagged behind Simmons in a straw vote recently at the Seminole County HobNob but had not begun to campaign or start a campaign account at the time.

"Larry wasn't ready to work it then — the leaflets and banners," his wife said. "Now's the ed of not honoring survivors' insurance policies. Additionally, companies would be required to pay millions more during the years Holocaust survivors need the care.

Tess Wise, executive director of the Holocaust Memorial Center in Maitland, said that there are several dozen survivors of the Holocaust living in Seminole and Orange counties.

"I haven't had a chance to study the plan yet," Wise said. "But, the concept is very good. Most of our survivors are advanced in age, and many have no income. This certainly is needed."

At a meeting in Tallahassee of the International Commission on Thursday, Nelson said he intends to seek immediate relief to survivors in the form of free home health care while working to get insurance companies to honor any unpaid claims.

Nelson first announced the idea for home health-care coverage in July at a meeting of the International Holocaust Commission. The head of the panel, former U.S. Secretary of State Lawrence Eagleburger, then asked Nelson to put together a proposal for Florida.

If the commission approves Nelson's plan, it could become a pilot program worldwide.

Under the plan, a nurse or health-care assistant could come to a survivor's home to provide medical services as prescribed by a doctor. The service would be available to Holocaust survivors free of charge for the remainder of their lives.

Eligibility for the plan would be based solely on being a Holocaust survivor. Nelson said there would be no underwriting standards to pass.

i,The International Commission looking into the plight of Holocaust victims was created last year to settle outstanding life and property insurance claims of the survivors and their heirs.

Uglione named Employee of the Month

Sanford Fire Chief Tom Hickson, left, and City Manger Tony VanDerworp, right, congratulate fire fighter Michael Uglione on being named Sanford City Employee of the Month. Uglione was chosen for the honor because of his quick thinking during a recent emergency. At a house lire, two individuals attempted to enter the rear of the house. Uglione stopped them, then discovered a woman was still inside. He went into the house and assisted the woman to safety. Battalion Chief Terry Henry said Uglione's quick thinking prevented the woman from receiving serious injuries or death

Although he didn't mention it specifically, Dale referred to the recent battle over the development of Ft. Mellon Park as an example of the divisiveness that has held Sanford back from real-

County municipalities plan Halloween events

By Bill Kerns Staff Writer

SANFORD:- Cities throughout Seminole County are hosting Halloween parties this coming week.

Sanford, like Oviedo, is leaving the choice up to residents as to when Halloween festivities will be sanction. Traditionally, Halloween is celebrated Oct. 31, which is Sunday.

"We haven't made any designation," said Mike Kirby, director of recreation for the city. "I assume people will celebrate it on Sunday."

Lake Mary, Winter Springs and Altamonte Springs are sanctioning Sunday for Halloween celebrations. Sanford and Oviedo have not declared an official day to celebrate Halloween. Longwood is celebrate Halloween on Saturday, Oct. 30.

Sanford will host a Halloween Spooktacular on Friday, Oct. 29 from 6:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. on the first floor of City Hall in the Recreation Department.

Children age 12 and younger will participate in carnival games, a costume contest, prizes, food, and surprises. Admission is a donated canned good.

Lake Mary will host a Halloween Party on Friday, Oct. 29 from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the Lake Mary Community Center. There will be a Haunted House, and costume contests for children 12 and under.

Winter Springs will host the Third Annual Halloween Dance on Friday, Oct. 29 from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. at the Indian Trails Middle School Cafeteria for Indian Trials Middle School students. There will be a DJ, contests and food.

Tickets for the dance are $2 prior to Oct. 22, $3 until Oct. 29 and $4 at the door. Pizza and soda will be served for 50 cents. Students must have a signed parent permission slip before purchasing a ticket.

Oviedo will host its annual Halloween Festival on Priday, Ovisdo will host its annual Halloween Festival on Friday, Oct. 29 at Riverside Park, with activities for children ages five and under from 1 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. Activities for children in Kindergarten through the fourth grade will be held from 5:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. Children at both events must be accompanied by an adult.

The city recommends that children come dressed in their costumes and participate in a costume contest. The fee for the program is a bag of individually wrapped candy per person. Children need to bring a bag or bucket to collect candy.

Casselberry will host a Halloween Spooktacular for children 12 and under from 6-9 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 30 at Secret Lake Park. Activities will include Haunted Hayrides on the Rail of Terror, haunted rooms, a DJ, dancing, face-painting, balloons, candy and costume contests.

Altamonte Springs is hosting Halloween festivities for children on Sunday, Oct. 31 at Cranes Roost.

As part of the Longwood Fall Carnival, the Public Safety Building at 235 West Church Avenue will be utilized for Halloween activities on Friday and Saturday. From 6-9 p.m. on Friday, the Haunted House will be open. On Saturday from 1 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. the city will celebrate with games, prizes, food, drinks, and a bake sale.

The Haunted House will be open on Saturday from 3:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m., with a costume contest scheduled for 6:30 p.m.

Longwood to meet with residents regarding Fall Festival lawsuit

By Joe DeSentie

LONGWOOD — Longwood city commissioners will gather at 7 p.m. in a special meeting Monday with five Warren Avenue residents in an effort to reach a compromise regarding the city's Annual Fall Arts Festival.

The resident have filed a lawsuit against the city and are scheduled to return to court Nov. 5 in an attempt to seek a temporary injunction barring the city from closing off Warren Avenue and Wilma for the twoday event the weekend before Thanksgiving.

In a complaint filed two months ago by Winter Springs attorney Mike Jones, the Warren Avenue residents claim the city illegally entered into an agreement with a private organization, the Central Florida Society for Historical Preservation, to conduct the festival.

They contend their civil rights are being denied because the city blocks the streets off for festival purposes, denying them access to their property. They contend the festival causes littering problems and fails to compensate them for their inconvenience. The suit seeks $15,000 in damages, plus attorneys fees.

The Society contends that changing the logistical layout of the festival and opening the two streets would ruin the event. The festival has grown each year and attracts more than 30,000 visitors to Longwood's Historic District.

The city has discussed the issue with the residents in one previous meeting, but the two sides were unable to come to a compromise.

Immediately following the special meeting, the commission will meet in a workshop to continue discussion and review of proposed Ordinance 99-1441, designed to repeal and replace Article VI in its entirety. The ordinance deals with sign regulations governing billboard locations, numbers, and size within city limits. The ordinance also addresses store front window use and the display of banners and flags.

DELTONA - Lyman High School defeated Pine Ridge High School Friday night at Pine Ridge Stadium in a Class 5A-District 4 game, 26-21, keeping its slim playoff hopes

The victory improved the Greyhounds' district record to 3-2, good for third place behind undefeated Spruce Creek and once-beaten Seminole.

Just three plays into the sec-ond quarter, Pine Ridge got on the board first, a passing play from Markie May to Wayne Bil-lups, that covered 26 yards scored the touchdown. Josh Fitzgerald stepped up and kicked the extra point. Shortly before halftime, Lyman answered back, with quarterback Asa Cleveland Picase see Lyman, Page 28

What's Up In The NFL...Week No. 7

SANFORD - Welcome to Week Seven football fans, it seems the dust is beginning to settle.

The League is starting to take form as contenders pull away and pretenders wish they could go away. The Rammies, a team I've had a soft spot for since the Youngblood brothers played, are the surprise story of the year. It's great that their fans are finally being rewarded after years of

The Crystal Ball of Football would like to add a word from the wise however. Don't put them in the Super Bowl yet, I think they'll be "coming back down to earth" in the next few weeks.

Let's take a quick look around Florida before we get to this week's schedule.

The Dolphins have done exactly what I predicted they would. Jimmy's Felons came out of the gate strong and talk of a Super Bowl started. Then, as predicted, Grandpa Marino got hurt. Now, as predicted, the Dolphins will play just good enough to make the playoffs and LOSE in the first round. Go back to sleep Fin fans, this will be another season of disappointment after will be another season of disappointment after

At least the Bucs are more predictable. Great defense and.......Dilfer. I'm proud to be a fan of the Bucs, but realize that I probably won't live to see them win the Super Bowl unless the Y2K deal really hits hard.

I told you a few weeks ago that the Jaguars had earned my respect, but they need to straighten up! The offense doesn't scare anyone although they have the talent to. The defense has done an admirable Job, but remember the Titans. Tennessee is actually leading the Division, and with my main man from high school Lorenzo Neal on the job, they're for real.

Let's get to the schedule and find some win-

TAMPA BAY (-8) VS. CHICAGO

The Bucs desperately need a win here. At 2-3 and dropping they are jeopardizing any hopes of post-senson play. They'll benefit from the Bears' ailing passing game and should be able to domi-nate on defense. Can Dilfer get us any points?

INDIANAPOLIS (-10) VS. CINCINNATI The Colts are up for a huge game and the Bengals provide the perfect opportunity.

Manning will pass for a million yards in this one and the defense should be able to stop League leading rusher Corey Dillon. Bengal Charlie may shed tears during this one. Colts 53. Bungals 5.

NEW ENGLAND (-S) VB. DENVER

The bookies must be confused here.
The Patriots are going to stomp Denver in this game. I give the Broncos no respect and neither will Bledsoc. Patriots 28, Broncos 10.

DALLAS (-2) VS. WASHINGTON
Payday! Payday! All Redskin fans that have been stabbing me in the back will eat crow!in this one.

I've said for a few weeks that the Redskins haven't played anybody and when they did they'd lose. Like a brilliant scientist, I've set up a controlled experiment. Cowgir's 27, Doctor 10.

SEATTLE (-2) VS. EUFFALO

Two short quarterbacks will do battle here and I'm afraid my beloved Bills will come up on the short end. Holmgren finally has his team performing, and Buffalo just doesn't have the talent yet. Seahawks 23, Bills 17.

MIAMI (NO LINE) VS. PHILADELPHIA
The bookies are afraid to set a line in this one because of Marino's status.

The Eagles couldn't win if Russ White was quarterbacking the Dolphins so it doesn't matter. Skip this game and watch something on PBS. 1 don't have enough interest to post a score. EVE-

District 2 championship with a win over Lake Brantley (6-1 overall, 4-0 in the district) next Friday at Tom Story Field.

What you want is for the team to peak at the right mo-ment," said Lake Mary head coach Greg Stanton. "I hope we haven't peaked yet." Lake Mary clinched at least second place in the district and a playoff berth with the win over Apopka (5-2 overall, 2-2 in district play). The Blue Darters were eliminated from playoff contention.

Number one, this ensures us of a winning season, and that was one of our goals." Stanton said. "Number two, we've clinched at least second place, and that's the second of our three goals. Now, we want to win the district next week."

Lake Mary used 315 rushing yards, including 73 yards from Dwayne Lowery and 58 yards from Anthony Ballerino, to control the line of scrimmage. Ballerino had a rushing touchdown and a touchdown reception from quarterback Jason Hadley.

Meanwhile, Hadley guided the Rams with perhaps his best game of the season, completing six out of 10 passes for 68 yards and no interceptions.
I think Jason Hadley really came into his own tonight." Stanton said. "He threw the ball

The Rams scored two touchdowns and a field goal on their first three possessions to set the tone for the game.

Lake Mary's opening drive almost stalled, but on fourth down Ballerino ran 32 yards to Apopka's 27 on a fake punt. Harris ran 27 yards on the next play for the touchdown.

On Lake Mary's next posses-sion, Harris broke free for a 56 yard touchdown run.

"I saw Corey Jackson cut the (defender) off, and I saw the open space," Harris said. "After that, I just ran to the end zone. The offensive line did a great job of blocking all night."

Haven Perkins scored on a one-yard touchdown run as Lake Mary took a 22-8 lead into the locker room at halftime.

Perkins is also one of the Rams' key linebackers. Eric Schmook set up the touchdown with a diving 14-yard reception at Apopha's one-yard line. Ballerino gave the Rams a 29-8 lead with a five-yard touchdown run on the opening drive of the third quarter. Hadley then accred on a one-yard touchdown run, capping a 12 play drive to give Lake Mary a 36-8 lead.

in the fourth quarter, Hadley demonstrated his atrength by tossing a 19-yard touchdown to Ballerino while in the grip of an Apopka defender. Since a lop-sided loss to Seminole in the opening game of the season, Lake Mary has used a bone-jarring defense and ball-control offense to content for the district title.

"We have a no-name de-fense," Stanton said, "They have nothing but heart. We're just playing fundamentally sound, squaring away and whacking people."

Lake Mary sacked elusive Apopka quarterback Chaz Wil-liams twice and applied a consistent pass rush, as Williams completed just three out of 12 passes for two interceptions and 37 yards.

Williams did rush for a team high 119 yards, including fourth quarter touchdown runs of 15 and 24 yards after the game was in Lake Mary's con-

The first big play of the foulth quarter belonged to Starr Davis. as he intercepted one of Cleveland's passes. On the next play, Isaac Chavers ran 20 yards for a touchdown. Pitzgerald capitalized on the extra point, which put Pine Ridge up by one.

Cleveland fumbled the ball on Lyman's next possession and Pine Ridge capitalized with Chavers accorning from S6 yards out. Pitzgerald kicked the extra point, which pushed the score to 21-13 in favor of Pine Ridge.

Lyman answered back fear plays later with Cleveland redeeming himself after his fustbell by running 49 yards for a touchdown the had a total of 134 yards for the game). The attempted two-point conversion resulted in a fumble, and was no good, leaving the accretat 21-18 in favor of the Panthers.

The Lyman defense, led by Haritan and Matt Pickelsimer, and forced Pine Ridge to punt.

The Greyhounds' Terry Crobs received the punt and proceeded to run 40 yards for a touchdown that put Lyman; in the lead. Rothstein kicked the extra point.

ter Springs in two weeks."

Worthington also reminded the Tribe that second place in the district is not all that bad. "Since they started this thing (taking two teams from each district) five or six runner-up teams thave got to the title game," said Worthington.

While the loss does not end Seminole's hopes ाद्ध a district championship, they would need a lot of help to take the title.

Spruce Creek still has district games left with the winless Lake Howell and twice-beaten Mainland, but the Hawks would have to lose both games. and Seminole would have to beat suddenly hot Winter Springs to get the 5A-4 trophy and homefield advantage in the playoffs.

A victory would have locked up the district crown for the Tribe, but they are still all but assured of making the playoffs, as only a loss to the Bears and a possible three-way tie with Mainland and the winner of next Friday's Winter Springs-Lyman game could throw a monkey wrench into the plans.

The Fighting Seminole face a good tune-up for their remaining games next Friday as they host one of the best football programs in the state, the one of the best football programs in the state, the Merritt Island Mustangs, at Thomas E. Whigham Stadium starting at 7:30 p.m.

Things started well for Seminole as they took the opening kickoff and held the ball for six—minutes. But the drive ended on the Spruce—Theek 33 when a fourth-and-five play came up

The Hawks then lost five yards on three plays after the turnover and the Tribe started again from their own 28.

Seminole kept the ball for the rest of the first quarter and finally scored on a 37-yard field goal by Matt Nixon three plays into the second quar-play basic, hard-nosed football.

"On defense, they stayed with the same basic scheme, so we kept going with the same se-quence of plays that were working for us. We were going to keep to the basics until they forced us to do something else."

The contrast between the actyles of the two teams was striking. While the Cougars relied largely on the legs of Arturio Huntley (24 carries for 173 yards and a 27-yard pass reception), the Lions had six different people carry the ball and five players register a reception.

ception.
Clarence Walker, Steve Asby, and Brian Lorensetti led the Lion attack with one touchdown apiece.

Spruce Creek again went nowhere but backwards after the kickoff as the Tribe nailed Green for a loss of nine yards on his first two carries.

But after punting the ball back to the Hawks, Green took a pitch and ran around right end untouched for a 60-yard touchdown run and the home team was ahead to stay.

The two biggest plays of the game for the Tribe probably came after the next kickoff. Starting at their own 25 the Fighting Seminoles drove 47 yards on six plays down to the Spruce Creek 25 where it stood third down and one.

But the Hawks held Seminole short of the first down on two straight plays and the acore stood 7-2 Spruce Creek at halftime.

The Hawks took the opening kickoff of the second half and drove 58 yards on 10 plays, with quarterback Eddic Lucas plowing in from the two after hitting three passes for 14-, 18-and 10-yards during the drive.

Seminole answered with a 67-yard scoring drive of its own with quarterback Carrett Cold-smith scoring on a seven-yard keeper early in the fourth quarter. But the two-point conversion failed and the Tribe trailed 14-9 with 11:55 left on the clock.

Oreen then broke the Fighting Seminoles' backs, scoring on a 29-yard run with 8:19 left to make the score 21-9.

Seminole tried to answer, but Centry Jackson came up with an interception and Oreen scored his final touchdown on a three-yard run with 3:34 to play.

Coldsmith was picked off again by Steven Kennedy moments later and the Hawks were able to run out the clock.

The Fighting Seminoles outrushed Spruce Creek 245-to-184 and outpassed the Hawks 47 yards to 40, but Green's 153 yards on 20 carries and three touchdowns was too much for Seminole to handle.

Clarence Latimer led the Tribe in rushing with 91 yards on 25 carries, while Willie Bennett, seeing his first extended action since injuring his ankle against Mainland, carried nine times for 67 yards and also caught two passes for 43

Q: What are some challenges that students faced? A: The biggest challenge for boys was getting drafted and going to Viet Nam. For girls, the challenge was whether to get married or go to college. But, we had a lot of fun with events. Everything of course revolved around sports.

Q: What did you and your friends do for fun?
As Oviedo used to roll up its sidewalks at 6 o'clock. So, kids would go through the Steak & Shake in Winter Park. There would be these long lines. Or we would go to drive-ins, on Colonial Drive, Prairie Lake on (State Road) 436, or Movieland in Sanford. We called these Passio es or shifting.

Richard Taylor explained that the sport is anything but reckless.

"Safety is paramount," said Spencer's dad. "Cars are equipped with seat belts, roll cages, and each driver wears arm restraints, gloves, helmet, and padding. In 50 years of midget racing there has never been a death and very few serious injuries," said Taylor, who served as the track's safety director last year.

Richard said statistically speaking, midget racing is a safer sport than most youth football or baseball leagues.

"There's no tolerance for dangerous driving or dirty driving," Taylor said. "There are yellow flags and red flags for spin-outs and wrecks. Judges will pull a driver out of a race if there's inappropriate or dangerous behavior behind the wheel.

Spencer has had his share of spin-outs and a few end-over-end flips.

"One race I flipped end-overend and I didn't even cry," he said proudly. "I didn't know what happened."

His racing jaunts have taken him all over the Southeast, to New York, Colorado, and as far as Canada.

"We just returned from a major race in Canada," said Taylor. "Some family friends loaded up the race cars on a trailer behind a Winnebago and drove 60-hours straight from Longwood to Seattle. Spencer and I flew, he raced for a week, then we flew home."

Spencer said that physically the toughest part of racing is on the forearms and hands.

"Especially in long races," he explained. Although the age-group racers don't approach the speeds race fans see in NASCAR and Formula One events, the strategy for the midgets, where NASCAR star Jeff Gordon honed his skills between the ages of five and 13 years-old, is much the same.

"I like to be a front runner," said Spencer. "I like to have that killer instinct. If you are in the middle or the back of the pack when a caution flag comes out, it's hard to make a move, especially near the end of the race. "S" Tatal Annual Tatal

Spencer said he also likes to stick to the inside track positions on starts because much like NASCAR, "You can get freight-trained trying to come inside from an outside position."

"He's a typical seven-year old," commented dad. "Some days he drives like Mario Andretti, and some days he drives like Elmer Fudd."

Spencer says he's sure that NASCAR is in his future. Dad's "Sponsorship, even at this stage, is a big part of success."

Taylor said Spencer is close to a sponsorship agreement with Quick Shine 99, makers of automotive cleaning and polishing solutions, and a major homeimprovement chain store.

When there were a bunch of kids crowded into a dark car, and they were from the city, an owl could hoot and it would probably scare them. We would just say, "Aw, here come some kids from Winter Park again to see those lights."

Q: What are some of the most notable changes you have seen in Seminole County since 1965?

A: We have lost our basic agriculture, and we are losing our ranch lands. We are seeing more development, and it is harder for people in the agriculture industry to hang on because of taxes, and the cost of ture industry to hang on because of taxes, and the cost of fertilizer and feed, and so forth. We were the celery capital of the world, and we're not anymore.

There is more traffic, and more schools. Back then, we only had Seminole, Lyman and Oviedo high schools. Now we have seven public high schools. Seminole County has just grown by leaps and bounds, but we need to preserve our heritage.

Q: What lessons can we learn from the past as we look into Seminole County's future?

A: As we look back at towns and cities all over the nation that have grown so rapidly and so quickly, we need to look at how these cities prepared for their future. Some of these cities now have smog-filled air, the waterways are too clogged, and people move away just so they can breathe. We need to learn from what other cities have done, right and wrong.

Q: What is Seminole County's greatest asset?

A: The people is the county's greatest asset. Their friendliness, and willingness to help when you are in need, is amazing. For instance after last year's tornadoes, look at the way people gave their time, food and money for those in need that they didn't even know.

It's the people that make the county. The young at heart are probably my favorites, and I think many go unappreciated. If we just take the time to listen to their stories, we can learn so much. These are the builders of what we have today.

We still have some farm lands and ranch lands left. The bald eagles are around, and there are alligators in Lake Monroe and Lake Jesup. The lakes are important.

Don't always blame parents

DEAR ABBY: Regarding your advice to the physician whose girlfriend has poor table manners, you advised him to tell her that "her parents shortchanged her in one area — her table manners."

Her parents? Always the parents! No where in his letter did the physician refer to her parents. I am overweight and love good food. However, I eat too fast. My parents always told us to take our time while eating, to enjoy our food and not to eat the meat first. Is it my parents' fault that I did not listen? I think not!

This lady may have developed her bad habits in school or in work cafeterias. Perhaps her schedule forces her to eat "on the run." Please, Abby, don't blame the parents. You can do better.

WILLIAM S., TORONTO, CANADA

DEAR WILLIAM S.: The physician did not complain that his girlfriend ate her food too quickly; he said her table manners were poor. He asked if I had any suggestions on how to give her pointers on manners without embarrassing her.

She's jumping with excitement higher than ever in her tights, tutu and pointe shoes over being accepted in nationwide competition for the prestiglous role. And her parents, Sharon and Randy Roberts are wild with Joy over their talented daughter's accomplishment and the signing of her first professional contract.

Rehearsals have begun at the Grand Palace In Branson, Mo., and the show runs from Nov. 4 through Dec. 12. Private tutoring in Branson will keep Courtney on her toes and in pace with her sixth grade classmates at All Souls Catholic School in Sanford with Mom Sharon in the shadows silently supervising as only a momcan do.

Mother and daughter are growing accustomed to team work in dance adventures. They were among the Sanford delegation traveling to the People's Republic of China last summer when Courtney's dance group SODA (School of Dance Arts) Pops took part in a cultural exchange tour, doing shows in four different cities while seeing the sights and sharing stage honors and ideas with Chinese performers.

According to Valerie Weld, co-owner, co-instructor of Miriam and Valerie's School of Dance, Courtney has been studying dance at the school for eight years, concentrating on ballet.

while also studying tap. jazz and musical theatre. Valerie said, "Courtney's ambition to be a professtonal dancer seems to be coming true much sooner than she ever dreamed possible.

Courtney is also in her third year as a dancer with Ballet Guild of Sanford-Seminole, the Sanfordbased cultural endeavor that has beautifully survived for 32 years. In Ballet Guild's last season's Christmas extravaganza, Courtney appeared as Clara in an excerpt from "The Nutcracker." This season she is playing the part on a grander scale.

Although she is thrilled at being a star in far-away Branson, the petite ballerina left a part of her heart in Sanford. "I'll miss the Ballet Guild Christmas show and my friends at SODA," Courtney said. "Maybe they'll come to see me in a weekend show."

Courtney Roberts is on her toes for forthcoming holiday extravaganza.

Steve and Lubertha Lowery at golden wedding anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Steve (Lubertha) Lowery were honored at a dinner party on their 50th wedding anniversary. The Lowerys were married Oct. 12, 1949, in Sanford.

Family and friends toined in the celebration, held Saturday, Oct. 16, at 6 p.m. at the Midway Community Center. Natasha Bradley presided over the evening's celebration.

Ashley Lawrence welcomed the honorees and guests. Minister John Knight gave the prayer of thankfulness for the 50th year celebration of the couple. Musical renditions sang by Minister Robert Bradley were: "Flesh Of My Flesh" and "We Can Make It Together."

Happy anniversary poem was dedicated to the honorees by Tamika Williams.

The grandchildren entertained with a praise pantomine to the tune Don't Take My Joy Away."

A Special day of love was shown by the Lowery's eight children: Brenda L. Knight, Steve Jr., Charles, of Sanford, Sam. Deltona, Michal of Cocoa, Gerogry, Deltona, Dorothy, Sanford and Robin of Orlando. The Lowerys are proud of their 27 grandchildren and 16 great grandchildren.

KING, QUEEN CROWNED

Allen Chapel A.M.E. Church has crowned its new king and queen. King Alexander Wynn Jr. and Queen Katte Griffen will reign during the 1999-2000 conference year.

King Wynn has been an ardent member of Allen Chapel for over 50 years. He has served as superintendent of the church school for over 40 years and he serves as a steward.

Even with health problems Wynn is still active. He attends church services and the five o'clock Bible Study group. In July Mr. Wynn celebrated 58 years of marital bliss with his lovely wife Ella Rembert Wynn. He is often seen giving all he greets with a strong handshake.

Queen Katte Griffin says she became a Christian at the early age of 12. She has been an ardent member of Allen Chapel for 64 years and has served on the stewardness Board No. 2. Mrs. Griffin suffered a stroke several years ago, she says that hasn't taken away her faith and trust in God. She often witnesses to others on the phone about Jesus. After speaking or visiting with Mrs. Griffin, you will walk away feeling encouraged and uplifted.

Lake Mary AARP members show their 'true colors'

Everyone knows the expression "Now he's showing his true colors". It means that someone is showing his true self. Personalities can be categorized as colors. That's what Lake Mary AARP members learned at their October meeting.

The guest speaker for the meeting was Cora Rice, owner and founder of Rice Communications. She blends education and entertainment for training programs. Her program "True Colors" teaches people how to recognize the four basic personality types. What is the point in recognizing what personality you or someone else is? If you know what kind of personality someone has, then you begin to understand why they act and react the way they do. It helps you see their strengths and weaknesses and it helps you see your own. And in the business world, it can be the key to improving communications.

Cora started off by giving the AARP members a simple little exercise to do. She told them to clasp their hands together and see which thumb came out on top. Then she told them to change their hands so that the other thumb came out on top. One way feels right, the other doesn't. We are like that with our personalities. We do what feels comfortable, what feels right, in our dealings with

True Colors breaks personalities down into four basic types. Cora gave the AARP members papers to help them discover what type of personality they had. Most readily recognized themselves as one personality or another, although many had traits that strayed over into another color. Children, Cora said, would show up exclusively in one column or the other. As we get older, we grow and learn to balance our personalities by taking on other traits.

The four basic personalities are Gold, Orange, Blue and Green. The percentage of the population by personality is 38% Gold, 38% Orange, 12%

Correspondent

Blue and 12% Green. That's true, not just in the United States, but anywhere in the world. When Cora asked AARP members to raise their hands for their type, that's about the percentage it broke down to there. That doesn't mean you will find that same breakdown on the job. Certain jobs attract certain personalities. If you checked a school faculty, you would discover 56% Gold, 32% Blue, 6 to 7% Green and 2 to 3% Orange. The administrators will typically be Gold, the science teachers Green and the coaches Orange.

coaches Orange.

Gold personalities like order, tradition. They like conserving and preserving things. Blues go anywhere there's people. They like to work with all types of people. Many non-profit organizations are peopled with Blues. Greens are very independent. They like to design things and solve problems. Orange personalities are the adventurers, the natural risk takers.

The best way to understand someone's personality is to see it. And the easiest way to see it is if it's exaggerated, just a little. That's what Cora did. She portrayed the personalities for the members to see.

The first character to come out was Ms. Orange. Wearing her leather jacket and running shoes. Orange came out and introduced herself as the new District President of AARP. "I'm going to change things", she told the audience. "I'm going to shake things up." AARP would be doing a lot more sports, she said. We're really going to get physical and get moving.

Dr. Gold was the second character to emerge. As the new District President of the AARP, Dr. Gold said she would be very responsible. She then urged all the members to sit up straight. Dr. Gold chided members for arriving late and leaving early. You have to work long hard hours. Life is serious. We're going to do things the right way, Dr. Gold said, we're going to do them my way.

Dr. Green came to visit from the AARP National Headquarters on Research and Development. Green showed members the new products that are coming out on the market. Glasses that prevent cataracts and can also be used to disguise you as an alien. Green has also written an article for Modern Maturity that will be coming out very soon. It details all the things you can do with duct tape. Green is a pioneer who likes the future and wants to lead AARP into the future, while staying behind the members and supporting them all the way. "Never be caught with your competency down," Green told the members.

Fancy Blue introduced herself as the new District President of the AARP. She told the members that she wanted to help them and to get to know each one of them personally. She'll make sure that there are a lot of social activities for everyone and her door is always open for a chat. How does Blue handle stress? She ignores it and hopes it will go away. Blue wants AARP to be an organization with a heart. She recommended members read one of her favorite books, "Being a Lunar Type in a Solar World". Blues motte? "If your mind wanders, follow iti" After the four "True Colors" had left, Cora returned. She asked if anyone recognized themselves or someone they knew. Everyone nodded yes. Golds feel comfortable when everything is running on time and organized, Cora said. Greens prefer working alone. Blues like cooperation and communication. Oranges like energetic people. All four types can be described as cannons. The Gold cannon says Ready, Ready, Ready, Ready, Ready, Aim, Fire. The Green cannon, Ready, Aim, Aim, Aim, Aim, Aim, Fire. The Blue cannon, Ready - I love to get ready, Aim - Is this right?, Fire - Are you okay? And, finally, the Orange cannon, Ready, Pire, Aim, Ready, What?

Rice Communications client list includes American Express, Six Plags, NIKE, Walt Disney World, UCF, the Orlando Magic and many others in the U.S. and overseas. So how did AARP manage to swing her as a guest speaker? At the end of Cora's program, AARP President Cynthia Pitcock explained that she used her powers of persuasion. After all, Cynthia has known Cora all her life. Cora is Cynthia's daughter.

Cynthia's daughter.
In other news, AARP reminded members that November was the time to pick their Medicare options for the year 2000. Read all the options before you choose and make sure you're looking at the 2000 rates, not the '90. Also, the Christmas luncheon is scheduled for Dec. 14 at Timacuan Country Club. The cost is just $18, due at the November needing. For more information, call the Benier Center at $24-5060.

ck? Well, Valerie was not always so quiet. Heading up her own accounting firm in downtown Sanford, the born Sanford booster had her fingers in many pies. She was a civic activist from the word go.

When necessary, Val carried the causes she championed before the proper governmental officials, and what Val wanted, for the most part, Val got,

She was one of the founders of SISTER (Sanford's Interested Sarahs to Encourage Rejuvenation), the organization that got things done. These women went all out on the project "Save Our Zoo", when the soo was located in downtown Sanford.

Val was also a member of Sanford's Business and Professional Women's Club when she inaugurated a "Little Miss Sanford BPW" pageant. Little darlings and their overbearing moms came out of the woodwork to compete and the pageant was a standing room only gala at the civic center for several years.

For all her volunteer efforts, vivacious Val was honored by the Sanford Kiwanis Club one year as the club's "Woman of the Year."

Those were the good old days when businesswomen and others invaded Nora Gordon's downtown boutique during their lunch breaks to browse and try on Nora's modes. It was like a fashion parade and was indeed an exceptional source of "gathering information" for the Herald society editor (not that all of it was published by a long shot).

These days, if you should pass the country home of Val and her husband, John, you are apt to see her perched atop a riding lawn mower cutting the grass. She is the picture of health, is as fit as a fiddle and looks terrific.

By the way, what ever happened to Nora Gordon?
