Field Day 2003 starts Saturday

An assortment of live Amateur Radio field communications, on-air demonstrations, satellite communications and more will be operational at Central Winds Park, lower field, off Highway 434 in Winter Springs. This event is open for public viewing and monitored hands-on participation. Members of (LMARS) Lake Monroe Amateur Radio Society, (ARES) Amateur Radio Emergency Service will test their emergency communication preparedness skills during non-stop operating hours from 2 p.m. Saturday to 2 p.m. Sunday.

This is a nation wide and surrounding country event. Thousands of organized HAM Radio Teams in all 50 States, Canada and South America will participate during the same operating hours and attempt two way radio contact with portable field radio equipment without the use of commercial electric power. In the aftermath of 9-11 and the formation of Home Land Security, this event plays a vital role for communication back up support of our County Emergency Management. To build nation-wide team competition, contact points are earned for two-way contacts using various modes of radio, satellite, digital and slow scan TV communication. Non-qualifying country contacts around the globe are also made. Area Boy Scout troops will be camping with us for hands-on experience and earn related Merit Badges. City / County Government, Emergency Management, Public Safety personnel and the media are encouraged to visit our site any time during the weekend. More than 36,000 Amateur Radio operators across the country and Canada participated in last year's event.

City seeks consistency in historic codes

By Jamie J. Anderson-Potter

When it comes to vinyl, city board has been on both sides of the fence

SANFORD — Vinyl fences or no vinyl fences? That has been the question in Sanford's downtown Historic District for the past 18 months. According to homeowners within the district, the inconsistent rulings of the Historic Preservation Board (HPB), the organization formed in 1986 to protect and preserve the historical look of the downtown Sanford Historic District, have left them confused as to whether vinyl material, specifically fences, is allowed. As a result, the city commission has seen an influx of appeals regarding the matter. "The series of appeals woke me up to review what exactly is happening with this board," said Commissioner Randy Jones. "In my opinion the board does a good job, but my concern is that it seems to be inconsistent and micro-managing people's lives in what they can and can not do." However, Scott R. Singeisen, chairman of the HPB, disagrees, saying, the board has ruled consistently on the vinyl fence issue, as well as all other issues related to the restoration of downtown homes. "We used a trial period to educate ourselves about vinyl fences," said Singeisen, who admits that during that time some vinyl fences were approved. "That time allowed our materials subcommittee to research the issue with other historic districts and state organizations." According to Singeisen, the board decided not to allow vinyl fences and has been moving in the direction of banning them since sometime last year. "You have to balance what works for the residents with what works for the ordinance and the board," he said. "That's what we were trying to do with the trial period. We didn't try to make a decision in a bubble, that's why we researched other organizations." Tony Daniels, a homeowner within the historic district, was turned down for a vinyl fence by the HPB during its April meeting. However, during the same April meeting, Danielle Trent, who originally received

City Hall employees moving up the block

By Michelle Jeris
Managing Editor

LAKE MARY — City Hall is moving — at least temporarily. Beginning in September, employees, who currently have offices in City Hall, will move down the street to the police department on Crystal Lake Avenue. The move is required to make room for renovations and construction on the 11-year-old building, which should take about seven months to complete.

"This has been in the planning for years," said City Manager John Litton. "I think, when the building was built, a 10-year window was planned. That's why it was built on a large piece of property — so City Hall could expand." The estimated $1.5 million renovation project will include much needed work to the building's infrastructure, including repairs to the roof and creating flexible office space for the city's growing staff. Although the project does not include a major increase in the building's size, the construction will allow for a more efficient use of existing space.

"City Hall's offices need to reflect today's office operations," Litton said. "Currently, we are just out of room. Our city hall is nice, but it is very inflexible."

In the remodeled version of the building, "portable" workstations will allow for a growing and changing staff. Mobile space dividers, or movable walls, will give city staff the resources to create new or larger space when needed.

Lake Mary building will be closed during seven-month renovation period

Renovation plans also include moving the building's main entrance. Currently, public parking is accessible from Country Club Road with the entryway to City Hall on the side of the building. Once construction is finished, public parking will be on Lakeview Avenue and a main entrance will be created.

"The Lakeview entrance ties in with the downtown plan," Litton said. "There will be on-street parking, and the building is going to have a rotunda. Basically, it will be a more user-friendly building." While construction is under way on City Hall, the amphitheater in front of the building will also undergo major renovations due to structural damage. City Commission however still needs to determine the type of construction and design for the facility.

"The amphitheater that we know today will not be there

Commission gives OK to townhouses near UCF

By Jamie J. Anderson-Potter
Staff Writer

Seminole County commissioners voted unanimously last week to rezone nearly 46 acres near the University of Central Florida, which will allow Centex Homes to build several two-story townhomes.

The 45.95 acres, located on the northwest corner of McCulloch and Old Lockwood roads, was originally zoned university community property. In order for the land to be developed, Commission approved the rezoning of the property to planned unit development.

"If they had built there 20 years ago, they could have put anything on the property," said Commissioner Grant Maloy. "Now the fellow can't put up a tool shed without getting it rezoned."

Neighboring homeowners fought the decision during a public hearing Tuesday night just as they had a year earlier when developer Philip Emmer proposed to build a 252-unit student apartment complex in the same location. Homeowners expressed concerns that the project would create traffic problems and increase crime in the area.

"This is different," said Commissioner Dick Van Der Weide. "This is not student housing. I don't know how to convince the public that is the case."

The medium density project, known as Hawthorn Glen, will consist of 225 two-story townhomes and several commercial businesses. As a stipulation of the project, Commission will not allow the developer to use the land for gas stations, bars, fast-food restaurants, dry cleaners or a host of other high-traffic businesses.

New Interstate 4 bridge over St. Johns River to open early Saturday morning

From Staff Reports

DELAND — Florida Department of Transportation officials say the new eastbound I-4/St. Johns River bridge will open to traffic early Saturday morning, June 28. Traffic will be shifted from the eastbound lanes of the old bridge to the new eastbound bridge sometime after midnight Friday, June 27.

Work on replacement of the four-lane St. Johns River Bridge with two bridges, featuring three travel lanes and ten-foot-wide inside and outside shoulders on each, began in March, 2001. Traffic was shifted to the new westbound bridge two months ago. The $110 million project includes widening I-4 from four to six lanes from the bridge to Saxon Boulevard in Volusia County, improvements to the U.S. 19/92 interchange in Seminole and Volusia Counties, and replacement of the Enterprise Road Bridge over I-4 in Volusia County. A separate $28 million project to widen I-4 to six lanes from Lake Mary Boulevard to U.S. 17/92 is also under construction. Both projects are scheduled for completion in the spring or early summer of next year.

Work continues on the widening of I-4 east and west of the new St. Johns River Bridges so traffic on the new eastbound bridge will be restricted to two lanes until widening of I-4 east of the bridge is completed.

Demolition of the old St. Johns River

Bridge will begin immediately after traffic has been shifted to the eastbound bridge. Volusia and Seminole County emergency service agencies will be conducting training on and near the old structure prior to and during the demolition process.

The ramps from U.S. 17/92 to eastbound I-4, which has been closed since September 2001 (21 months) due to the bridge construction project, will reopen to traffic approximately three weeks after traffic is shifted to the new eastbound bridge.

SEMINOLE SUMMARY

A GLANCE AROUND OUR COUNTY

Stop the pyrotechnics: Can you host a Fourth of July celebration without fireworks? It's happened before. In 1998 Sanford and most other cities in the region abstained from hosting large fireworks shows because of the wildfires raging through Central Florida. There are no wildfires this year, but Sanford's boomday faced a doomsday from a much more formidable obstacle: the Orlando Sentinel.

The Sentinel's Sanford bureau is in an office at the tip of the marina island in the "hot zone" where crews will launch the aerial explosives. The Sanford Fire Department notified the Sentinel and other businesses that no one would be able to occupy the buildings on the east side of the island between 4 and 10 p.m. for safety reasons.

The Sentinel objected. The daily paper has closed its Altamonte Springs bureau and told organizers of the July 4 event that its Sanford bureau must remain open 24 hours a day to file stories. Who knows, there might be an explosive housing authority story that breaks just as the bombs begin bursting in air.

Not to worry, though. The Sentinel has agreed to make other arrangements and the fireworks show will go ahead as planned.

Address unknown: Speaking of the housing authority, U.S. Rep. Corrine Brown (D-Jacksonville) is objecting to fellow Congressman John Mica's (R-Winter Park) request that the federal government take control of the Sanford Housing Authority.

Brown's campaign slogan is "Corrine delivers," but residents of the housing authority and the Sanford community at large have to wonder just what has been delivered. The housing authority has seen more than its share of troubles during Corrine's 12-year tenure, so if the Congresswoman has delivered it must have been lost in the third-class mail.

It appears Corrine is more upset that Mica's office didn't consult her regarding the request for a federal takeover. The Congresswoman likes to brag that she and her staff are in constant contact with the goings-on at the housing authority. If that's the case, I'd think she would welcome assistance from the top brass at the Department of Housing and Urban Development unless, of course, she's more concerned with who gets credit for delivering.

Red bull's-eye: Been out on the north end of Rinehart Road lately? Work is beginning on St. John's Parkway, an east-west road that will connect Rinehart with Airport Boulevard. Crews have also begun laying block for the new Super Wal-Mart on the east side of Rinehart.

Nothing has been made official, but the Walton family retail empire will have some competition on the west side of Rinehart. Word around The Clock is that either Target or Kohl's department store is interested in locating in a retail center just north of the GreeneWay on the largest remaining plot of undeveloped land. Preliminary plans call for a retail center of approximately 700,000 square feet with Target or Kohl's as the anchor. City officials are in the early stages of reviewing the project. Stay tuned.

Book 'em: They're here! If you haven't received a call or did not see Wednesday's Herald, the long-awaited books have arrived.

If you pre-ordered "Sanford: Our First 125 Years," you can pick it up at the Herald office Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. For those who did not order a book, you can purchase one for $39.95, but you have to hurry. We ordered about 150 extra and about one-third already have been sold.

If you have questions, call the Herald at 407-322-2611.

Correction

Because of a cut-and-paste error in the editing process, an article in the Wednesday, June 25, 2003, edition regarding the city of Sanford eliminating 17 jobs incorrectly attributed quotes to commissioners Art Woodruff and Randy Jones. Woodruff's quote should have read: "The new city manager should have an opportunity to look at this [the list of layoffs] and decide if these are the positions that he thinks should be cut. If we do this, I don't understand why we're not including the deputy city manager position on the list. I don't expect him to be handing off duties right away - he needs to be doing the entire job for the first year."

Jones' quote should have read: "I think that portion [the deputy city manager position] relates directly to the city manager and his personal feelings should be taken into account. I believe the new city manager should have the opportunity to look at whether or not to fill the position of deputy city manager."

Turning point

At 17-92 and Oak Driver, there is a new stop sign that the local residents are not quite sure how to properly obey. Since the new sign is smack dab in the middle of the road. Maybe if they wait a while, the road department will come back and strip the road so they can make the right decision about turning onto 17-92.

Volunteer Opportunities

Volunteers are needed to offer support to terminally ill patients and their loved ones, including running errands, administration duties, relieving weary caregivers and more. Training will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. July 21 at Vitas Innovative Hospice Care, 5151 Adanson St., Suite 200, in Orlando. Lunch will be served. For more information, call Linn Wheeler at 407-691-4541.

Thrift store volunteers are needed to assist customers, sort and hang clothing and display merchandise at The Christian Sharing Center in Longwood. Other volunteers are also needed, including cashiers, estate sales workers, jewelry coordinators, etc. For more information, call 407-260-9155, ext. 14.

Holding back

Parents need to be involved in their children's education

As the result of FCAT testing in our schools this year in Florida, we can expect to see the largest number of students in our history held back in third grade. Of course, many will be passed because of summer school or other tests that bring their averages higher, but there will be many disgruntled parents and upset youngsters. The children will be losing schoolmates who pass to the fourth grade and will have to go through school with others who are younger. For many, this will be an upsetting time.

Nick Pfeiffau

Of course, holding someone back because they hadn't learned sufficiently to qualify for an upgrading is nothing new. When I was in elementary school, (K-8) there was one young man with me in the eighth grade who had failed so many grades, he was old enough to join the Army when he finally got out of the eighth grade—which he did.

What is going to happen with the FCAT results from this point on is still anyone's guess, but there is a number of things we can do to help prevent such a hold-back situation in the future, in ANY school grade.

First of all, there are summer schools. Parents ought to be able to tell if a child can't read or do math. Summer school is one of the solutions. Another is one of those self-help audio or video courses being offered these days. Each of these suggestions would probably work well to help upgrade that youngster.

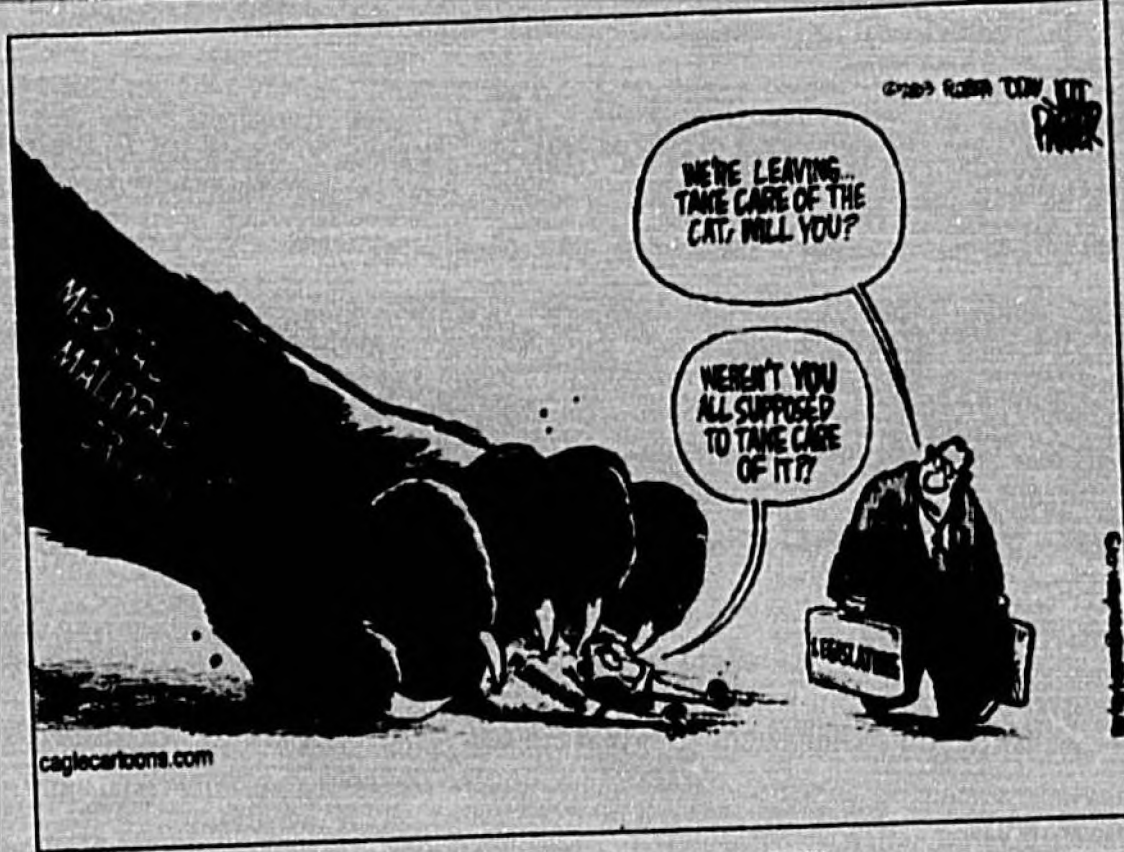

But the MOST important help is from the parents themselves. I don't mean just demanding they do their homework, but assisting or taking on a separate project—such as reading a book with them or giving them some in-home math project such as adding up the grocery receipt to see if it is correct.

Sure, taking time to work with your youngster may not be the best way to use some of that precious evening, but isn't it better than going through the tears and disappointment when your son or daughter is held back a grade in school.

We can probably bet that our educational leaders will do something to bring about changes in this system — changes that do not result in so many retentions.

Will they change curriculum? Will they change the testing procedures? I doubt at this point anyone can say what will happen.

But the fact remains. No parent wants his or her child to fail a grade—no matter the grade level. Therefore, I believe it's up to the parents (and even grandparents) to do whatever it takes.

Your Views

It's Monday — expect long lines at the post office

To the editor:
I must agree with the writer in the June 15 edition of the newspaper that parking at the new Sanford Post Office is indeed disappointing. Although the parking area seems larger, maneuvering is difficult, and it does not provide for a smooth flow for a high volume of cars.

However, I must disagree with her logic, or lack of, concerning the long lines on the day of her visit. April 14, the day in question, was a Monday, and Mondays are usually busy at banks post offices and other places of business. Most people who go to a Post Office on a Monday, especially the day before taxes are due, understand that a long line is to be expected...all day long! Those who procrastinate should not throw stones.

Thank you,
Jim Jones

Commission should try to save old canal

To the editor:
The Lockhart-Smith Canal is a historical drainage system located in northwest Seminole County. This winding snake-like water system was constructed in 1930 at the beginning of the Great Depression as a water relief reservoir. Its origin begins near the soggy wetlands of east Airport Boulevard, then majestically twists and disappears underneath 17/92 through undisturbed backwoods brooks, until it discovers its final route of destination, "The Mighty St. Johns River."

As a child I found solitude along the banks of this environmental paradise. It was here I learned to respect nature and become completely blinded by the golden glare of the evening sun, illuminating from the brown murky waters. Oh, how I stared with astonishment at attacking water moccasins as they gulped up silvery minnows fighting to escape their deadly jaws. Playful otters could also be often found darting back and forth like flashy pinballs but then suddenly vanishing once they laid eyes upon the little boy observing their game of tag. I learned to also respect the dangerous currents at certain locations and was warned daily about possible sinkholes and previous drowning of those who did not adhere to elderly advice.

An infinite number of broken seashells layered the hilly banks, reminding me of Florida's prehistoric underwater past. Long, creepy Tarzan-like vines fell from antebellum oaks, which brought life to our games of Jungle Jim as we swung from branch to branch. My grandparents James and Rossie Bradwell purchased several acres of wooded land after World War II and along with this purchase came the Eden-like environment of the Lockhart-Smith Canal, which divided property asymmetrically in the middle. Only a few families lived along the banks of the canal, therefore, the children of the community, especially little boys, found it to be as mysterious and compelling as a new Harry Potter novel. We caught cranky old crayfish and made hats from gargantuan-sized elephant ears. Our vast imaginations also allowed us to become the Lone Ranger, Zorro, Superman and all the superheroes of the 1960 era. This was my playground of dreams, hopes, solitude, adventure and finally my paradise. As for little girls, my aunt, how fifty-three years old, lived out her childhood fantasies along the banks of this enchanted canal. While the world's largest Chevrolet dealership, and the beautiful Lake Forest community are less than a mile away from our hidden paradise, it has remained one of the best-kept secrets in Seminole County until recently. It is truly the best of "Old Florida."

Now the few families who still live along the banks of this enchanted place are being faced with change. This change is being called a "Resolution of Necessity" which should reconstruct the channel, stabilize the banks reduce potential for flooding and provide access for regular maintenance to the canal. The Board of Seminole County Commissioners has authorized their staff to proceed with the project and purchase of the needed Drainage Easement. The elimination of flooding hazards and the improvement of water quality are matters of great concern to the people of Seminole County and are necessary to insure quality of life within the county.

Growth! Growth! And more Growth has brought us to this destructible resolution. We need more apartment complexes like I need another hole in my head, but developers keep building and wildlife keep losing their precious paradise. There is no monetary value that any organization can place upon my memories and joy that I discovered as a mere country boy growing up along the banks of the Lockhart-Smith Canal. My plea to the Seminole County Commissioners and their staff is to please adopt my paradise as theirs and respect this ecological paradise as their own. Replant the trees that must be destroyed and add new ones such as palms and weeping willows. Keep your promise of regular maintenance and replace the old wooded footbridge for my handicapped aunt to cross daily. With this promise, change could be good for all parties, and maybe someday I will be able to walk hand in hand with my little girls along the old banks of the new tropical haven that was made better by the Board of Seminole County Commissioners and their staff. My grandparents had a saying, "It's a poor frog that doesn't praise his own pond." Well, this frog's pond is leaving but the praises will forever be entrapped in my memory of the precious moments I spent upon the banks of the Lockhart-Smith Canal.

Sincerely,
Octavius "Ocky" Clark

Black professionals aren't limited by critic's prejudice

Occasionally, critics of affirmative action will try to persuade me to drop my support for affirmative-action programs, contending that such efforts taint me and other black professionals with assumptions of incompetence. No matter how talented or accomplished I may be, they say, some will always wonder whether I was given good jobs simply because I'm black.

With the Supreme Court's recent ruling backing affirmative action in college admissions, that argument is once again making the rounds. Indeed, Justice Clarence Thomas, who disagreed with the court's majority, holds the view that affirmative action taints its beneficiaries.

In his dissent, he quoted black abolitionist Frederick Douglass to make the point: "And if the negro (sic) cannot stand on his own legs, let him fall also. ... Let him alone! ... Your interference is doing him positive injury."

Thomas is a complicated man. He was admitted to Yale University's School of Law with a boost from affirmative action, yet he has fought having those same benefits extended to others. Perhaps Thomas knows that many people perceive his success as the result of preferential treatment — with scant judicial experience, would he have been appointed to the U.S. Supreme Court if he were white? — and he struggles with that burden.

Cynthia Tucker

I don't. There is no doubt that my career received an assist from affirmative-action efforts. To hire me right out of college, The Atlanta Journal (now merged with The Atlanta Constitution) suspended its usual rule of requiring a few years of solid experience at another daily newspaper. They did so as a remedy to years of legally sanctioned discrimination, which barred blacks from professional jobs at Southern newspapers, and years of restrictive social custom, which barred most women.

But they suspended no other rules for me. I was expected to write stories that were clear and concise, with names spelled correctly and numbers that added up. I was expected to stalk politicians trying to evade reporters, decipher budget documents and locate official records.

I had to work hard, since I lacked experience and didn't know what I was doing. But there were experienced reporters and editors around — white men, given the times — who were more than happy to help me when I came to them for advice. I learned the trade, and I like to think I'm pretty good at what I do.

Are there those who think I'm in my job only because I'm black? Are there critics who suspect I'm just filling the newspaper's political correctness quota? Of course there are. I hear from them frequently.

But I know better, so I'm not troubled by what they think. And I doubt that many other affirmative-action beneficiaries allow themselves to be limited by the prejudices of their critics.

Over the last two decades, the biggest group to benefit from corporate affirmative-action efforts has been white women, many of whom know what it's like to be highly competent but subject to old-fashioned stereotypes about their skills. However, no woman who has ever succeeded, whether in medicine, law, architecture, journalism or some other field, allows the prejudice of others to define her.

Nor do successful blacks, who have been subject to the slander of inferiority for the last 400 years — well before the term "affirmative action" became part of the political lexicon. Less than a decade ago, two whites, Richard Herrnstein and Charles Murray, wrote an 845-page screed, "The Bell Curve," arguing that blacks are intellectually inferior. I don't know a single black engineer, neurosurgeon or molecular biologist who lost sleep over it.

Black professionals who entered elite colleges through diversity efforts have not been defined by the misperceptions of others, either. According to "The Shape of the River," an exhaustive study published in 1998, those students have done well, many going on to graduate schools and prestigious careers.

I'll likely receive missives from my critics claiming this column is just more evidence of my incompetence, more proof that I'm in this job only because I'm black. They can believe what they like.

But I'll keep writing.

Cynthia Tucker is editorial page editor for The Atlanta Journal-Constitution. She can be reached by e-mail: cynthiat@ajc.com.

Locals teach at College Word Series

Special to the Herald

The University of Central Florida and Seminole County were well represented at this year's NCAA Division I Baseball College World Series in Omaha.

Catcher Drew Butera and relief pitcher Kyle Bono, both freshmen and residents of Lake Mary, along with head coach Jay Bergman, a longtime Seminole County resident who started the baseball program at Seminole Community College, took part in the NCAA's Youth Education through Sports (YES) clinic the weekend of June 14-15 at Creighton

Bergman, Butera, Bono take part in YES Clinic in Omaha

University in Omaha, Nebraska.

The clinic, which Bergman has served at before with former UCF standout pitcher and current pitching coach Craig Cozart, gives youngsters ages 10-18 an opportunity to learn from both NCAA Division I-A players and coaches on how to excel on the field and off.

The two-day event was held during the same time as the 2003 College World Series, held at Rosenblatt Stadium in Omaha.

"The best part of the clinic is that I get a chance to take two of our players, Drew Butera and Kyle Bono, and they will be able to experience the entire feel of the College World Series as a spectator while also working with youngsters at the YES Clinic," stated Bergman prior to the trip. "There will be about 500 kids at Creighton University running around and having fun and I really enjoy working clinics and events like this."

Butera and Bono had the unique opportunity to view the College World Series, college baseball's crown jewel.

"The tournament has improved so much over the years in Omaha and our two players will have a great time and a memorable experience for the rest of

Seven boys recognized by FSWA

By Dean Smith
Sports Editor

Only one player from Seminole County earned a spot on a 'team', but the county still had seven representatives when the Florida Sports Writers Association released its All-State Boys Basketball Teams recently.

Oviedo's 6-foot-7 senior forward/center Grant Herren made the Class 6A Third Team after leading the Lions to a 24-6 record and a spot in the Regional Semifinals in what could easily have been termed a rebuilding year.

Earning Honorable Mention honors in Class 6A was Lake Mary's sophomore sensation Darryl Merthie.

The 6-foot-2 guard has been recognized as one of the top players in Florida and easily in the Top 10 among state 10th graders.

He had a super year in leading Lake Mary to a more than respectable 15-11 season after a disastrous 2001-2002 season.

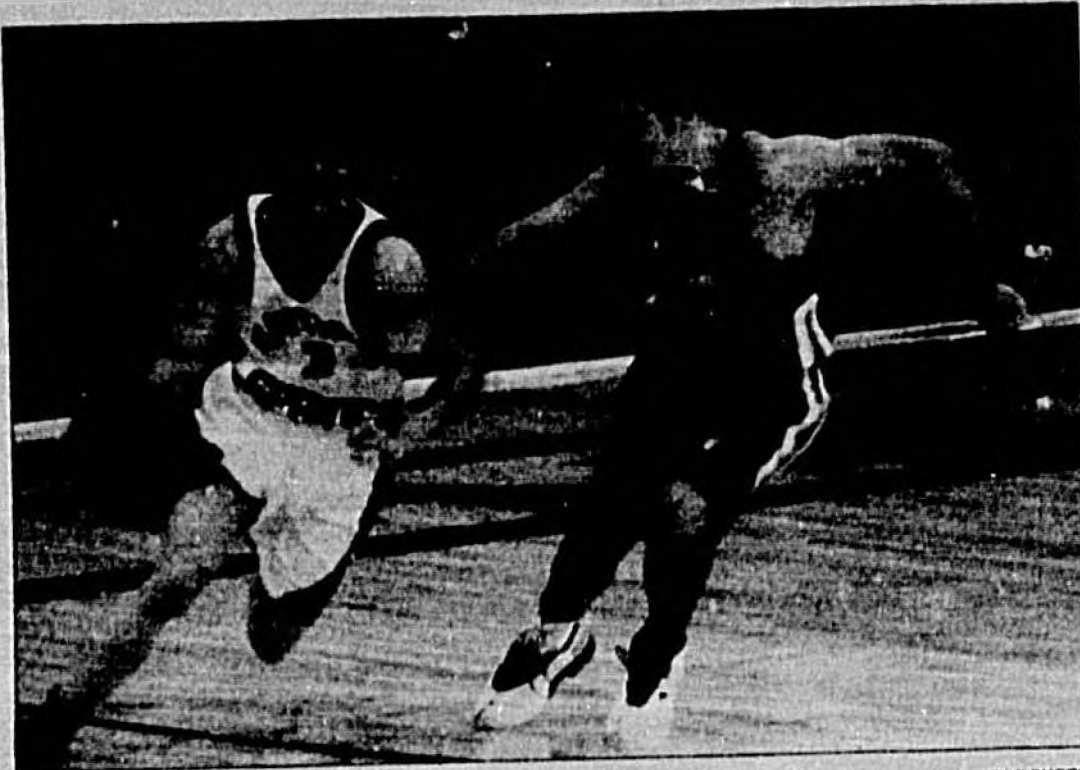

The Seminole Athletic Conference also had a pair of Honorable Mention athletes in Class 5A in guards Jared Laskey and Ryan Exter.

Both seniors played bigger than their sizes as they led their teams to outstanding seasons.

Laskey, 5-foot-9, was the floor general for coach Steve Kohn's Lake Howell Silver Hawks that went a school-record 29-7 and was ranked No. 6 in the State before falling in the semifinals of the Class 5A State Final Four in Lakeland. The first time a Lake Howell team had advanced to the state tournament.

Exter was without question the best shooter in Central Winter Springs senior Ryan Exter (above) set Seminole County records for points in a game (54) and three-point shots made in a game (11) this season and earned Honorable Mention in Class 5A by the Florida Sports Writers Association. The point guard will be headed to NAIA national power Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University in Daytona Beach this fall. Lake Mary star Darryl Merthie (left) was very close to Exter in the county scoring race and made Class 6A Honorable Mention. The 6-foot-2 sophomore guard is expected to emerge as a star on the state team over the next two years. Exter and Merthie, along with Oviedo's Grant Herren, Lake Howell's Jared Laskey, Lake Mary Prep's C.J. Marmon, Trinity Prep's Omar Qazi and Orangewood Christian's Taylor Meier were Seminole County high school performers, as well as Seminole Community College signees Kevin Thomas of Ft. Lauderdale-Dillard, William Graham of Cross City-Dixie County and Travis Jones of Olympia, to be mentioned in some form by the FSWA from Class 6A to Class A.

SCC to hold first Baseball Camp

By Dean Smith

SANFORD — With its first State Championship and initial national tournament appearance under its belt, the Seminole Community College baseball program will be offering its first Seminole Community College Baseball Camp in July.

"We see other summer camps going well and this gives us a chance to get some exposure for our program and let the public see what we offer here at SCC," said head coach Mike Nicholson.

The camp, which is for players ages 6-to-12, runs from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily at Raider Park on the Seminole Community College campus. With full use of College equipment and facilities, the Camp provides instruction in the fundamentals, techniques, and strategies of baseball.

Participants will be matched by age, experience, and skill level (Rookies - Ages 6-8; Juniors - Ages 9-10; Seniors - Ages 11-12) for small group instruction.

"Campers should dress in baseball gear or comfortable workout clothing. Each camper should bring a cap, glove, spikes or turf shoes, and sneakers. A change of clothing will come in handy," said Nicholson. "We'll be working hard and may get wet on sliding days."

"Baseball equipment (bats, helmets, catching gear, etc.) will be provided, but campers can choose to bring their own gear if they prefer. The Florida sun is hot — wear sun screen!

Campers can choose to bring lunch with a drink or buy pizza for $1 per slice. Plenty of water and sport drinks will be available all day to campers at no

GATOR trout fever in high gear

From Staff Reports

This is a great time of year to catch big GATOR trout.

The key to catching these mammoth trout is a stealthy approach and finding them early. Trout are basically low light feeders and they are very aware of their surroundings. It is very important to approach these fish properly. If you try to use a trolling motor target about it, the big GATOR will here you coming from 100 yards away.

The best way to approach these guys is by shutting down your motor at least 100 yards from where you think these beasts may be located. Use the push pole to work shallow areas where grass and sand holes are located.

Several baits can work on big trout such as a top water plug (Top Dog, She Dog, Skitterwalk or Chug Bug), soft jerk worms or the old reliable 1/8 ounce jig. The Rip Tide 5 inch Flats Chub in white, new penny or golden glow are my top colors in jerk worms. Blue and chrome is a great color choice for the top water plugs. When using the 1/8 ounce jig, the Rip Tide 3 inch mullet in sand perch/chartreuse tail is a hot bait. One other trick that can work is to take a weedless hook and a frozen mullet and work the mullet like a top water bait. A big trout has a hard time resisting this offering.

Usually it is better to downsize your line when fishing for GATORS. Use 6-pound or 8 pound test with a 20-pound fluorocarbon leader so that the line is invisible. These big fellas have great eyesight. Use a Daiichi 3/0 Copperhead Bleeding Butt Hook for the soft jerk bait. This will keep the bait weedless if you are in thicker grass.

When you use the plug or jig make sure to use a loop knot on the lure for maximum action.

One important thing to remember about GATOR trout is that it took a long time for them to reach this size. Take a good camera with you and release these big fish so that they can continue to make more trout.

Some of the big females have already laid their eggs, but many have not, so it is important to handle them with great care. Wet your hands before handling these fish so the slime stays on

GEOFFREY BODINE

Geoffrey Bodine's racing career will come full circle at Daytona International Speedway when he races in the Paul Revere 250 Rolex Sports Car Series race on Thursday, July 3.

Bodine, who first raced at Daytona 29 years ago on the road course, will share the driving duties on the No. 8 G&W Motorsports BMW Picchio Daytona Prototype with Darren Law.

In the 1974 Permatex 200, Bodine drove a modified Vega to a fifth-place finish on the DIS road course. The Chemung, N.Y., native raced in the modified race for four years before making his first Daytona 500 start in 1979.

He has won six races at the historic track, including the 1986 Daytona 500.

"I'm really looking forward to running the Paul Revere 250 at Daytona International Speedway," Bodine said. "When I get back to Daytona, just give me a few laps in the car on the road course and I'll be ready to go."

Bodine will be part of the driving team on the G&W Motorsports BMW Picchio Daytona Prototype for this weekend's Sahlen's Six Hours of The Glen at Watkins Glen International and hopes to get accustomed to the sleek and stylish Daytona Prototype.

"Racing a rear-engine car on a road course is a new situation for me, because it's a lot different than anything I've done before," Bodine said.

"Fortunately, I'll have the opportunity to race the car at Watkins Glen International in the Sahlen's Six Hours.

WINN-DIXIE, PEPSICO TO SPONSOR JULY BUSCH RACE

Daytona International Speedway officials have announced a multiyear agreement for the 250-mile NASCAR Busch Series race on Pepsi 400 weekend at the "World Center of Racing." In 2003, Winn-Dixie and PepsiCo will jointly sponsor the race, known as "The Winn-Dixie 250 Presented by PepsiCo," to be held under the lights on Friday, July 4 at 8 p.m.

"We are pleased and excited that Winn-Dixie and PepsiCo have teamed together as sponsors of one of the most exciting nighttime NASCAR Busch Series races of the season," said Speedway President Robin Braig. "Winn-Dixie joins Daytona International Speedway's team of strong corporate sponsors and we look forward to working with them and PepsiCo on future growth opportunities."

Winn-Dixie is building from its previous relationship with the Daytona International Speedway, as promotional partner of The Daytona 500 NASCAR event for the past three years. In order to share in the celebration of this new relationship with race fans and customers, Winn-Dixie is selling tickets to the race at select stores for a discounted price when customers use their Customer Reward Card.

"Winn-Dixie and PepsiCo are proud to partner together to bring the Winn-Dixie 250 race to the fans," said Frank Lazaran, Winn-Dixie Stores, Inc. President / CEO. "By offering our customers a chance to purchase discounted tickets at Winn-Dixie with their Customer Reward Card."

SOME FWC LICENSE FEES CHANGE JULY 1
Seven Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission permitting and licensing fees increased during the 2003 legislative session. The increases take effect July 1.

- The changes are:
- Non-resident Turkey Permit increases from $5 to $100.
- Non-resident 10-day hunting license increases from $25 to $45.
- Permit for exhibition or sale of Class I or II wildlife increases from $5 to $150 for up to 25 animals, or from $25 to $250 for more than 25 animals. All Class III wildlife, any number of animals, will be $50.
- Permit to keep Class II wildlife as a personal pet increases from $100 to $140.
- Permit to keep venomous reptiles increases from $5 to $100.
- License to operate a game farm increases from $5 to $50.
- License to operate a hunting preserve increases from $5 to $70.

The majority of Florida hunters and anglers will be unaffected, because the price of resident hunting and fishing licenses stay the same.

FWC OFFERS UNIQUE HUNTING OPPORTUNITIES

In addition to regular and special quota hunts, the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission (FWC) is offering sportmen some unique hunting opportunities for the upcoming season.

The FWC is providing sportmen mobility-impaired hunts, supervised youth hunts and track vehicle and airboat hunts on wildlife management areas (WMAs). Applications are available from FWC regional offices. The deadline period for getting applications in for the random drawing is July 9-25.

Mobility-impaired hunts are for persons who require special equipment. These hunts are not intended for hunters who have Florida Disabled Person Hunting and Fishing Certificates, but rather those who are permanently confined to a wheelchair, persons who require the use of mechanical aids (crutches and walkers) to walk or those with complete single-leg amputations. Applications can be found online at www.wildflorida.org/hunting/quota\_hunt/default.html beginning July 9.

Another unique hunt is for hunters 8-15 years old. Two WMAs in the North Central Region (Camp Blanding and Andrews) offer opportunities for adults to take young hunters on public hunting areas where the number of hunters and the hunting areas are rigidly controlled to provide an optimum learning experience and maximum safety. These hunts are popular, and the number of applicants exceeds the number of spaces available each year. Applications can be found online at www.wildflorida.org/hunting/quota\_hunt/default.html beginning July 9.

Wildlife management areas in the southern part of the state offer hunters an unusual challenge because of their open-marsh landscape. Hunting these areas requires special vehicles, and the FWC has established quotas on the number of vehicles allowed.

Permits to operate track vehicles on the Rotenberger, Everglades and Holy Land WMAs are issued in two random selections. Track vehicles that were included in the 2002-2003 random selection and did not receive a vehicle permit will be included in the first random selection. All other track vehicles will be included in the second random selection.

Applications for permits to operate airboats on the Everglades and Francis S. Taylor WMAs also are available from FWC regional offices. Like the track vehicle permits, airboat permits are issued in two random selections. Airboats that were included in the 2002-2003 random selection, but did not receive an airboat permit will be included in the first random selection. All other airboats will be included in the second random selection.

A quota hunt permit will be required to hunt quail on the Blackwater WMA Hutton Unit in the Northwest Region. There are seven two-day hunts available, and the quota is two groups per hunt. A group may consist of up to three hunters. Shooting hours end at 3 p.m., and the bag limit is 12 quail per group per day.

Hunters submitted approximately 50,000 requests for regular nine-day and special quota hunt permits during the June 1-11 application period. Data entry into the computer is in progress. The drawing will take place approximately July 29. Hunters will receive either a quota hunt permit or a rejection notice. Hunters who receive rejection notices also will receive instructions for reapplying for other areas that may still have permits available.

Fiddie White, FWC's quota hunt coordinator, said there appears to be some confusion about the choice numbers used on quota applications by hunters eligible for the preference drawing.

"If you used the choice numbers from your preference rejection notice instead of the choice numbers from the 2003-2004 quota application, contact the quota hunt office at (850) 488-8573," White said. "You may wind up with hunts other than those you thought you were applying for."

Hunters who have not submitted regular nine-day and special hunt applications should do so as soon as possible. Applications received after June 11 are processed in first-come, first-served order for permits for areas that do not reach their quotas during the random selection. Information about when hunts reach their quotas is available from FWC's Web site, www.floridacconservation.org. Click on "Hunting," then "WMA Quota Hunt Information."

Florida. The 5-foot-10 guard, who will be playing for NAIA national power Embury-Riddle

Aeronautical University in the fall, led Winter Springs to a 15-11 record this season, but that is far from the whole story.

Ester destroyed the County Record for points in a game when he poured in 54 against Deltona, a game in which he also broke his own school record by knocking down 11 three-pointers. And those were just the highlights.

Actually, he may have moved up in the eyes of state voters if he had not missed the district playoffs because of an injury suffered just before the postseason.

Another diminutive guard, Omar Qazi of Trinity Prep, was named on the Class 2A Honorable Mention list after an amazing run for the Saints.

Another high scoring "little man", 5-foot-6 junior C.J. Marimon from Lake Mary Prep, and two-sport star Taylor Meier of Orangewood Christian made Class A Honorable Mention.

Marimon proved night in and night out that he could score with anyone in the state, while Meier, a 6-foot-7 senior center, was also named the Class A First Team All-State Baseball Team and was drafted in the 21st round by the Milwaukee Brewers as a pitcher.

Also of local interest was that Seminole Community College signees Kevin Thomas, William Graham and Travis Jones were also honored.

Thomas, a 5-foot-11 point guard from four-time Class 6A State Champion Ft. Lauderdale-Dillard High School, was a Second Team All-State selection.

Graham, a 6-foot-7 forward from Dixie County High School in Cross City, was a Class 2A Honorable Mention.

Jones, a 6-foot-2 23-point per game scoring guard from Olympia High School in Orlando, was a Class 6A Honorable Mention.

their lives," added Bergman.

Cozart, who participated in the YES Clinic in 1995, still raves about the trip today. "It was my only trip to Omaha and there is nothing like the environment for college baseball the week of the College World Series," commented Cozart. "Having the chance to be around some of the best coaches in the NCAA including Coach Bergman and listen to their experiences at the clinic really made me want to pursue a career in coaching."

2002 UCF FOOTBALL REPLAYS ON SUNSHINE

Sunshine Network is replaying select games from the 2002 college football season for UCF and the first game on tap is the Golden Knights' first Mid-American Conference victory at Western Michigan last season.

Sunshine Network will replay the 31-27 UCF win in Kalamazoo, Mich. tomorrow (Sunday, June 29) at noon.

UCF rallied from an early 14-0 deficit by outscoring the Broncos 24-6 in the second half en route to the victory. The outcome of the game was still up in the air with seconds remaining before Asante Samuel saved the day with an interception on the UCF goal line with 31 seconds left in the contest.

Ryan Schneider had a monster day passing for the Golden Knights, ending the game 31-of-45 for 341 yards and three touchdowns. Two of Schneider's favorite targets, Jimmy Fryzel and Doug Gabriel, finished with 113 and 104 receiving yards, respectively.

UCF AND ISP ANNOUNCE SIX-STATION RADIO NETWORK

UCF football fans can follow the Golden

Knights in 2003 on a six-station radio network, the largest in the program's young history on the Division I-A level, according to a joint announcement today by the university and ISP Sports, the multimedia rights holder for UCF Athletics.

Bolstered by the 50,000-watt signal of flagship station WQTM 740 The Team in Orlando, the UCF ISP Sports Network will cover 14 counties in central Florida, extending from the Gulf Coast to the Atlantic.

Full-time affiliates on the network include WROD-AM 1340 (Daytona Beach), WMMB-AM 1350 (Melbourne) and WDCF-AM 1350 (Tampa). Two additional affiliates — WMMV-AM 1330 (Cocoa) and WZHR-AM 1400 (Tampa) — will carry live Golden Knight game broadcasts that do not conflict with previous commitments.

"This radio network will help us extend the exposure of our successful football program in areas where a lot of our alumni, current students, and future students live," said UCF athletics director Steve Orsini. "We already have a great flagship station and the addition of these affiliates will help us generate more interest in UCF from coast-to-coast in central Florida."

ISP Sports, now in its third year as the exclusive marketing representative of UCF Athletics, is also very pleased with the growth of the network.

"With thanks to the UCF Alumni Association and University Marketing for their support, we are excited to have UCF Football heard across central Florida," said ISP Sports Assistant Vice President, Dan Barrett. "This only further enhances UCF's image in the state and allows more fans to be exposed to the Golden Knights. The UCF ISP Sports Radio network is a great way to kickoff UCF's 25th year of football!"

UCF, entering its second year as a football member of the Mid-American Conference, opens the 2003 season August 31 at Virginia Tech.
