450 Residents Bid For Park At Apple Valley

By ED PRICKETT Herald Staff Writer

The "not-so-silent majority" appeared at the Seminole County Commission today and presented a petition signed by 450 south Seminole residents who support locating the next county park at the highly contested 40-acre site near Apple Valley subdivision.

After the presentation, county commissioners voted 5-0 to instruct the county's parks department to re-enter negotiations with the Apple Valley Homeowners Association.

Bill Koll, president of the Woodlands PTA, presented the petition which demanded that a county park recreation area be situated in southwest Seminole County. Koll said Apple Valley is the first choice; however, he said if not Apple Valley, then the park must be located in southwest Seminole as mandated by a Nov. 3, 1970, referendum.

An Apple Valley spokesman, Barbara Edwards, said that as of Monday night the association's position is unchanged. She said she is still opposed to the park as proposed at this time.

Edwards said she was told by county commissioners to say that it was their intent to support a park in a south Seminole subdivision other than their own.

"Of course, they would like it in Apple Valley," she said. "We would like it over at the Woodlands."

Koll said his group reported that several south Seminole homeowners associations have become interested in the project after Commissioner Sid Vihlen last week suggested moving the park to Midway, a predominantly black area east of Sanford.

Koll said Vihlen's letter is "what set the ball rolling." Koll also said that other homeowners' associations will support Apple Valley in its demands that certain conditions be met, if and when a park is ever located on the site owned by Overstreet Investment Co. of Orlando.

Although Vihlen last week said he supported Commissioner John Kimbrough's contention to move the park to Midway, Vihlen said he today changed his mind.

"I think we ought to look at the Apple Valley site," Vihlen said. "I think we've got probably the appropriate site." Republican Commissioner Dick Williams said he was not opposed to beginning negotiations with Apple Valley. However, Williams said he also was in favor of "protecting the neighborhood."

Initially, Williams opposed placing the park site at Apple Valley if local homeowners didn't want it. Williams went on to say that certain conditions be met, if and when a park is ever located on the site owned by Overstreet Investment Co. of Orlando.

Where To Put New Sanford Park?

Sanford's plans for spending a $99,000 federal grant for a park in the Georgetown area may surprise members of the city's planning and zoning commission.

City Manager Warren Knowles Monday night detailed money on an athletic complex near Sanford Memorial Stadium.

But the members of the planning and zoning commission have recommended that the planned park be "centrally located" in the eastside neighborhood.

They agreed that the athletic complex, planned for a plot of land near the old Sanford Naval Academy junior school at Cately and Mulleville avenues, is too far from the center of the neighborhood to serve the younger children — who would have to cross Melleville Avenue, one of the city's main north-south thoroughfares.

The planning and zoning commission members also suggested that if a large enough plot of land were not available near the center of the Georgetown area, that two smaller parks — one with tennis and basketball courts and one "out lot" — be developed.

Knowles told the city commission Monday that negotiations with the school board to swap two adjacent plots of land are at "a very fine point." He said he expected a reply to his latest proposal today.

Getting 'Runaround,' Senior Citizen Says

Sanford city commissioners were surprised by a complaint from a representative of a senior citizens group Monday night.

A new city policy which allows senior citizens' groups free use of the civic center three afternoons each week apparently didn't satisfy Sam Kaminsky, treasurer of the Sanford Seniors, who held dances each Wednesday afternoon at the civic center.

"I think you're shunting senior citizens aside," Kaminsky said. "We're not getting a fair shake. All we're getting is a runaround."

Kaminsky's complaint centered on the city's policy of opening the civic center to senior citizens' groups on a space-available basis. A paid reservation is given priority.

Kaminsky said his group's dances had been canceled three times during the last year.

"Quite frankly, I resent the remark that was made," City Manager Warren Knowles said. "I know the commission hasn't given senior citizens a runaround. They've bent over backwards to help."

Mayor Lee Moore was also angered by the complaint.

"This commission feels like we've given you more than a fair shake," he said. "You can have the civic center anytime you want it if you pay."

"We're paying indirectly," Kaminsky began.

"So is every other citizen," Moore interrupted.

The discussion was ended when the commissioners agreed that the senior citizens groups should be notified at least one week ahead of a cancellation.

He Chose Sea Over An Office-- It Almost Killed Him

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—When he left the University of Southern California business school, Bruce Collins was faced with a choice: work for an accounting firm or sail yachts to tropical Pacific isles.

He chose sunshine and brisk winds on blue sea rather than fluorescent lights in some airconditioned office building. It was a decision which nearly cost him his life.

On Sept. 27, a storm splintered and sank the 42-foot ketch Spirit about 800 miles west of San Francisco. But Collins, hired as navigator and skipper, climbed into a canopied life raft with Camilla Arthur, 21, and Jim Abola, 25. They quickly became separated from another raft carrying Durely Miller, 28, and Nancy Perry, 21. Miller and Miss Perry were rescued 24 days later. But Collins was not.

At the whim of winds and currents, Collins' orange raft drifted for 28 days, until a Coast Guard search plane spotted it Sunday.

Collins was the only person on board. Malnourished, dehydrated and covered with sores, he told rescuers that his two companions were dead and buried at sea. But he refused to make any public statements about the ordeal until he could talk to his families.

He is scheduled to arrive here late today aboard a Coast Guard cutter.

Collins' 16-month mariner's adventure started as a long vacation. He kept his career options open. An accounting firm had agreed to hold a job for him for six months while he sailed to Hawaii and New Zealand.

Later, he talked the firm into an extension so he could touch more exotic ports, like Fiji and Bali, and get the miles under his belt to become a master seaman. He crewed for yacht owners on his island-hopping journey, but now and then found it necessary to hop a plane.

Meanwhile, he wrote his parents infrequently, but long letters, trying to convey his passion for sailing while easing their disappointment.

Sometimes he needed money from his savings, or would ask his parents in Walnut Creek, Calif., to cash some of his inherited stocks. It wasn't much, but enough to keep wind in his sails and a little meat on his lanky 6-foot-6 frame.

"Around September, we got a long six-page letter from him saying that he loved sailing so much and wanted to make a lifetime of it," his mother, Kathryn Collins, recalled in an interview. "His last letter, from Honolulu in September, said he wanted to decide where he wanted his life to go."

Collins was spotted after a search of some 30,000 square miles. The pilot of the Coast Guard search plane, Lt. James Skellan, said, "I want to find out what gave him the will to live."

"I knew if anybody would make it, Bruce would make it," said his friend and longtime sailing buddy, Henry Coles, 24, of Saratoga, Calif. "He always got the job done and was never one to quit. I sent a letter to his parents saying that he would be okay, and he was."

WORLD IN BRIEF

Pound Woes Bring Threat That UK May Cut NATO Role

LONDON (AP) — The sharp drop in the value of the pound Monday brought a threat from Prime Minister James Callaghan to reduce British commitments to NATO if the United States and other allies get tough about an International Monetary Fund loan Britain is seeking. The pound's nosedive to a record low of $1.57 was touched off by a report — later denied — in the Sunday Times that the IMF and the United States want the pound to drop to $1.50 before the fund grants the $9.9 billion loan Britain is seeking to help it in its gravest economic crisis since the great depression of the 1930s.

Rhodesia Talk Hopes Dim

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — New black demands and a claim by Prime Minister Ian Smith that the white minority in Rhodesia can hold onto power for years have widened the gulf between the two sides and dimmed the hopes for impending talks to arrange a major role for Rhodesia. Jonathan Moyo and Robert Mugabe, two of the four black leaders who will face Smith at the conference scheduled to open Thursday, demanded on Monday that the white government immediately release all imprisoned black nationalists and allow military operations against black guerrillas. Smith angered the blacks Monday by boasting his military forces are killing 12 or 13 blacks for every white victim in the four-year-old war.

Apartheid Under Fire In UN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United Nations General Assembly marks the birth of Transkei today with the start of its annual attack on the South African white government's apartheid racial policy and a condemnation of the first protest nation it has produced. The black African blueprint for the apartheid debate includes a condemnation of alleged "increasing collaboration" between Israel and South Africa, a charge certain to draw strong U.S. opposition.

Arabs To Okay Peace Plan

CAIRO (AP) — The Arab summit meeting was scheduled to give its formal approval today to the Riyadh peace plan for Lebanon despite Iraqi objections to Syrian troops forming the bulk of the Arab League force to enforce the peace. Spokesman Selim el-Yafi said all 21 members of the league except Iraq approved the cease-fire agreement at the first session of the summit meeting held Monday in the Saudi Arabian capital of Riyadh.

Sanford city commissioners and City Manager Warren Knowles exchanged views Monday night on the type of person who should be hired as the new assistant to the city manager.

Sam Ackley, who has held down the job for 3 1/2 years, resigned last week. He will work as city manager of Holly Hill Nov. 15.

Commissioners A.A. McClanahan and Julian Stenstrom suggested Knowles hire a mature and experienced person to replace Ackley.

Knowles disagreed. "I don't want someone who'll come and say, 'I'm happy as assistant to the city manager and that's where I want to remain,'" he said. "When Sam came here, I told him that I expected him to want a city of his own in three years or you're not his man for the job."

McClanahan objected to turning the assistant's job into a "45,000 training program for aspiring young city managers."

The trial of a Casseberry police detective charged with felony delivery of marijuana was postponed in circuit court at Sanford.

A new trial date for Bobby G. Bennett, 32, of Chuluota, was not immediately set. Circuit Judge J. William Woodson granted the continuance on Monday at the request of defense attorney Franklin T. Walden.

Field To Be Narrowed For Public Works Post

LONGWOOD—The field of eight applicants for the position of public works director in the city was narrowed Monday night when the City Council voted to re-interview Edgar Griffin and Donald Parnell, both presently employed by the city of Sanford.

The council voted to purchase the Grady hydraulic excavator from the Sanford Equipment Co. for $22,000, a figure negotiated by Council Chairman J. P. Grant with company representative W. J. Langford. The original price was $25,000 and the city had

Five May Qualify In Longwood Race

Before the day ends, five candidates will have qualified to run for the office of mayor in Longwood's Dec. 7 municipal election, according to City Clerk Orel R. Stenstrom.

Mrs. Shamate said Peter Plano of Devoishire, Charles Barnet of Longwood Circle South, Ethel Glasberg Goldberg of Sandalwood and Andrew Semnazzi of Sandalwood have filed qualifying papers for the office and Mrs. Lynette Dennis is expected to qualify later today.

For the District 1 seat on the city council, candidates are: Mayor James L. Stenstrom, who has qualified; No one has yet qualified against her.

Who'll Fill Spot Left By Ackley?

"I don't want to take some youngster out of college and send him to a job," Stenstrom said. "I'm sure I want a youngster out of college at all."

Knowles insisted that he wanted someone with "drive and initiative" to replace Ackley, who he praised highly.

Stenstrom also criticized Ackley's judgment in an investigation of a problem in the refuse department. During a discussion of the problem at the last city council meeting, Stenstrom was criticized for ignoring the city's established channels of dealing with employee grievances.

Knowles, who was on vacation when the situation arose, had promised the commissioners that "the problem had been solved and he had completed his own investigation and evaluation."

He also gently reminded the commissioners that "the assistant to the city manager is appointed by the city manager."

McClanahan objected to turning the assistant's job into a "45,000 training program for aspiring young city managers."

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

'Last Ditch Effort' Set In Battle Over Saunders

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Ethics Commission attorneys are planning a last-ditch attempt to lift a court order barring a hearing on removal of congressional candidate JoAnn Saunders from next Tuesday's ballot.

Deputy Atty. Gen. James Whisenand said he hoped a final hearing late today on the temporary restraining order that blocked the hearing just as Ethics Commission members assembled on Monday.

U.S. District Judge William Stafford halted the hearing, saying he was of the "tentative view" that it is unconstitutional for the state to impose financial disclosure requirements on federal candidates.

Warning Issued On Cuts

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — State officials have raised the specter of sharply reduced services to the mentally ill, the retarded, the elderly and juveniles in their latest round aimed at sinking a proposed limit on the number of state employees.

The Health and Rehabilitation Services department said in a Monday report that a constitutional amendment proposal to limit the workforce to one per cent of the state population could force a cutback in services to 143,000 Floridians.

Black Boycott Of Demos Hit

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Black activists urging black voters to boycott Democratic candidates next week are really Republicans "from their tongue sockets to their hip pockets," says a black who helps run Jimmy Carter's campaign in Florida.

Claud Anderson, an aide to Gov. Reubin Askew on leave to work as co-chairman of Carter's state campaign, said Monday that the GOP engineered the drive to try to deliver Florida to President Ford.

O'Malley Seeks Compensation

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — An attorney fighting for workmen's compensation for former insurance Commissioner Thomas O'Malley says the state's arguments were filed solely because of O'Malley's past troubles.

Attorney Stephen Slepian told the Industrial Relations Commission on Monday that the state's appeal of the benefits was without merit.

Askew Gets Sheriff Case

BARTOW (AP) — It's up to Gov. Reubin Askew whether Monroe Brannen will get to serve the last week of his term as Polk County Sheriff, a job he held for 16 years until his suspension this fall.

Brannen was suspended after being charged in an alleged plot to discredit a rival candidate in the September Democratic sheriff's primary. The last charge against him in the case was tossed out Monday.

Vote Procedures Challenged

JACKSONVILLE (AP) — Attorneys for Libertarian Party presidential candidate Roger MacBride hoped to convince a circuit judge that the state's procedures for write-in votes are unconstitutional.

The law prohibits the counting of write-in votes for a presidential candidate unless voters also write in all 17 of the candidates' electors.

Dr. Grady 'Desperate,' Claims Chiles

MIAMI (AP) — Sen. Lawton Chiles has labeled as an act of desperation a charge by his Republican opponent, Dr. Grady, that Chiles may be involved in influence peddling.

Grady made the first charge of Florida's senate campaign during the last of two debates between the candidates.

The Belle Glade physician raised the issue during his closing argument in the Monday night debate, asking Chiles if he had 1966. Ferencsik said Grady was not involved in influence peddling in the closing argument in the Monday night debate, asking Chiles if he had 1966. Only 1 Charge Left For Smiling Gurney

ORLANDO (AP) — Edward J. Gurney smiled broadly and his attorney said "that's more than half the case" when he was told of the dismissal of a portion of the government's perjury charge against the former senator.

Young agreed to introduction of all of the record relating to the perjury charge. But he stipulated that the jury would be instructed it was "only for the purpose of showing what was said and not to prove that it was true or not."

Dittmar indicated that after the reading of the transcript — expected to take several hours — he would introduce only two witnesses and then rest his case.

If so, the case could go to the jury on Thursday or Friday.

Gunter Raises 32X Foe's Funds

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Democrat Bill Gunter has raised $200,392 in his bid to become Florida's next insurance commissioner. This is 32 times the $6,343 his Republican opponent has raised.

Gunter raised $211,141 last week, more than twice what Betty Armistead has raised for the whole campaign. She reported Monday that she collected $991 last week.

Mrs. Armistead has tried to make Gunter's large contributions a campaign issue, saying he is being financed by special-interest groups and would spend the state's money just as lavishly as he has financed his campaign.

Gunter's largest was $1,000 from the Tampa law firm of Spicola and Larkin. One of the firm's members, Joseph G. Spicola Jr., also made a personal contribution of $500.

Reports show that Gunter has spent $279,846 of the $200,392 he raised. The expenditures include salaries for 15 campaign workers.

The Amendments You'll Be Voting On

Voters in next Tuesday's general election will approve or disapprove nine constitutional amendments ranging from a plan to limit the number of state employees to a provision to float $100 million in revenue bonds to finance housing.

AMENDMENT 1 has been authorized by the "Sunshine Amendment" by Gov. Reubin Askew who traveled statewide collecting signatures of voters requiring that it be placed on the ballot.

It would require public officials and candidates to file full and public disclosure of financial interests and campaign finances and forfeiture of pensions for those public officials convicted of a felony involving the public trust.

AMENDMENT 2 would change the method of selecting Florida Supreme Court Justices and Appellate Court Judges from the election process to appointment by that at the end of a six-year term the candidate would be asked to vote whether to retain or reject the appointed judge for additional time in office.

The amendment also provides that at least one Supreme Court Justice be appointed from each of the four

Don't Lose Sight Of What It Means

Advocates of government employment for the sake of providing jobs seem to have lost sight of the truth stated by Adam Smith 200 years ago. "Consumption is the sole end and purpose of all production."

If providing jobs for people were the purpose of employment, instead of satisfying the needs and wants of consumers, then it would be an easy task for government. About 40 years ago, government embarked on such a project. Some old-timers can remember seeing WPA projects where workers were put at such tasks as mowing lawns and filling tires; moving piles of earth from one place to another and back again; turning over bricks on sidewalks — just to provide jobs. They were the but of jokes with many persons.

It would be like giving employment at making pies, or handmaking of concrete instead of with a power mixer to provide more work for people. Hundreds of men have been seen engaged in filling a concrete street with only shovels, hoes and wheelbarrows in a less-developed country less than a dozen years ago. The workers were kept busy, at low wages. And that would be the end result of government employment at makework projects for which there is no real need for the money. The government would produce more money in order to pay off the workers and fool them into thinking they were getting paid with something of value.

Robert G. Anderson in Freeman magazine points out that advocates of government employment for the sake of employment "lost sight of the problem: We do seek to improve ourselves; we do seek to improve ourselves; we do seek to improve ourselves. Unless work will generate greater production of those goods individuals wish to consume, it is wasted effort and should be avoided. Work is a great consumer of resources (we wear out) and employment is beneficial only if it yields a return greater than the value of the resources expended."

And the only way we know to determine whether such a return is yielded is to allow individuals the freedom to make their own decisions in the market place. This means removal of artificial restriction on productive individuals to make their own decisions and to use their own resources as seems most profitable. It means getting government out of the business of restricting free and peaceable action by the citizenry. Government has no resources. It can take from one to hand to another (taking its own cut before distribution). But by doing so it inhibits the voluntary acts of individuals to use their resources in a way they believe will "yield a return greater than the value of the resources expended." That is what is meant by freedom of enterprise.

Remember What Fun Is

Many issues presented to the public cry for a show of indignation. They are not always war, poverty, segregation, degradation, mayhem and general riots of the citizenry. When a youngster should be able to obtain a baseball glove has become an issue today.

The San Francisco-based Consumers Union has filed legal action against a manufacturer claiming it is improper to allow school children to redeem breakfast cereal box tops for athletic equipment. The consumer group seeks programs such as these convert thousands of young, impressionable school children into company salesmen whose commission is based on peer approval.

Balderdash. There is nothing fraudulent or unimpeachable in an active child saving box tops to obtain a bat or glove and choosing sides for a neighborhood game. The exchange of the box tops can be a significant part of the educational process.

The Consumers Union is suffering from two problems. First, it takes itself too seriously. Second, a majority of its members apparently never learned the fun of playing catch in the back yard. Ddy.

BERRY'S WORLD

WASHINGTON — Internal Revenue Commissioner Donald Alexander violated his own orders last year by hampering a tax investigation that involved his former law firm. The commissioner, who was put in command of the tax agency by ex-President Richard Nixon, reacted to the Watergate scandal by forbidding his agents from making any decisions that might give even the appearance of a conflict.

Yet he hindered a major investigation of tax havens in the Bahamas, despite the fact that the name of his former law firm turned up in the probe. Through a spokesman, Alexander denied that he was aware of the firm's involvement. But he has uncovered facts that raise serious questions about the handling of the investigation.

The story goes back to 1965, when IRS intelligence agents concluded that underworld operations from Cuba to the Bahamas. But strict bank secrecy laws prevented the agents from proving their suspicions that the mobsters were hiding their illicit profits in Bahamian banks.

Around

By now, our eyes, ears and noses have had just about all they can take of political campaign speeches, promises, declarations, pledges, accusations, charges. And commercials.

At the political campaign season grounds it is inevitable that those latter commercials will be least missed. Some have become downright irritating and annoying.

One has been particularly grating. It has been sponsored by a candidate for a local office in the Orlando area. After presenting his qualifications, record, promises, etc., he signs off with the appellation: "family man."

This is supposed to engender immediate compassion, love, understanding, support — and, naturally, votes.

But just what does this mean? What does it add to the knowledge of the prospective voter? What does it prove? How does it bolster the presumed qualification of the candidate?

Answers: It means nothing. It adds nothing. It proves nothing. It bolsters nothing. There is an unfortunate tendency and inclination to equate "family" status with maturity, dependability, responsibility and quality. This is true not only in

DON OAKLEY Democracy Dying By Default

There is not much in arguing with people who say they aren't going to vote in the presidential election because neither candidate is deserving, or because it doesn't matter how you vote since nothing ever changes, etc., etc. This is the way people feel — 70 million of them, according to one survey — and there is little that can be done to crack through the rather self-righteous shell into which they have retreated. Certainly, much of what they say about politics and politicians is true.

But it is one thing to refuse to participate in selecting the man who will lead the nation, and the free world, for the next four years. It is another to throw away the right to vote entirely. Choosing the president is, after all, merely one decision Americans will be called upon to make on Nov. 2. There will be a host of other questions on every ballot in every community in the nation.

On the national level, of course, all 435 seats in the U.S. House of Representatives and 34 seats in the Senate will be in the balance.

But on the state level, voters will be faced with more than 340 issues of every description — taxes, judicial reform, terms of state officers and judges, bond issues, industrial development, sexual equality, law enforcement.

Georgians alone will be confronted with no less than 95 "ballots," ranging from a new state constitution to authorizing the General Assembly to create a small claims court in the Whitfield County, in Maryland, 18 amendments to the state constitution will be on the ballot.

In Massachusetts, citizens will decide whether or not to make part of their state's constitution an amendment guaranteeing equal rights regardless of sex, and in Colorado the question will be whether or not to amend the state's 1972 equal rights amendment.

Also in Colorado, voters will be asked, as they were in California earlier this year, to weigh a proposal — Proposition 3 — which could determine the future of nuclear energy in their state.

The same is true in five other states. In Ohio, it's Issue 6; in Oregon, Proposition 9; in Washington, Initiative 225; in Montana, Proposition 71; and in Arizona, Proposition 200.

All of these proposals are characterized by their opponents as "anticonsumer." By placing unrealistic restrictions on nuclear power plants, it is warned, they would foreclose the orderly development of this form of energy. And advocates, of course, argue just the opposite.

Surely, questions like this ought to arouse the intense concern of every citizen. They can hardly be dismissed as a matter of "twinedeed versus twinedeed."

Actually, however, therein may lie a clue as to why there is so much voter apathy. Bombarded by propaganda from all sides, not only on the question of nuclear energy but everything else, the average person is often unsure and bewildered.

Yet the Consumers Union is suffering from two problems. First, it takes itself too seriously. Second, a majority of its members apparently never learned the fun of playing catch in the back yard. Ddy.

Too Much Campaign Rhetoric...

WASHINGTON — If the federal government is falling to adequately and effectively deliver the goods and services it is supposed to — and it is — it is certainly not because Uncle Sam is getting too little advice from the experts.

According to the General Services Administration's report of the Federal Advisory Committee, as of Oct. 31, 1975, our national government had 1,267 advisory committees giving it advice at an annual cost of $1.78 billion for such things as salary, travel and per diem allowances for committee members; staff support costs; consultant fees; and printing and supplies.

It is impossible to think of a special interest group that is not represented by at least one federal advisory committee, panel, board, council or commission. Just to name a few, there is the:

Advisory Committee on Hog Cholera Eradication; Advisory Committee on Racial, Ethnic and Native American Participation in the Bicentennial; Advisory Panel for Anthropology; Advisory Panel on Folk Music and Jazz; Board of Tax Experts; Earthquake Studies Advisory Panel; Flu-Cured Tobacco Advisory Committee; Historic American Buildings Survey Advisory Board; Industry Sector Advisory Committee on Drugs, Soaps, Cleaners and Toilet Preparations; and The National Advisory Board for Wild Free-Roaming Horses and Burros.

Also, there is the: National Boating Safety Advisory Council; National Mobile Home Advisory Council; National Patent Advisory Committee; Panel on Review of Laxatives, Antidiarrheal, Antiemetic, and Emetic Drugs; and The National Advisory Committee on the Control of Prescription Drugs.

So, what do all of these advisory committees accomplish? Well, if it's the seventh and final meeting of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration's National Advisory Committee Task Force on Disorders and Terrorism meeting in Colorado Springs, Colorado, in typical, my educated guess is not a whole hell of a lot.

According to the LEAA's Deputy Director of Public Information, Joe Kowalski, the purpose of this get-together, involving 11 Task Force members and alternates and four LEAA staff members, is to "review this group's complete report on the subject of terrorism and to recommend to the National Advisory Committee and the Attorney General the text for changes the editor might suggest."

Nothing in the minutes of this meeting indicates that any business was transacted in the 40 minutes that reference is made that could not have been accomplished by mail.

Detective Bob Simmons said "Smith," who is being held without bond in county jail on an armed robbery charge, has been identified as William A. Sanford police today were investigating the theft of $500 in quarters and dimes from coin-operated washers and dryers at the laundry room at Lake Jenny Apartments, Sanford.

Patrolman Ray Brunson reported that a juvenile boy wearing a red striped shirt and dark-colored pants grabbed a 14-year-old Sanford woman's purse containing $20 Monday as the pedestrian neared the intersection of Second St. and Pine Ave. Police said the youth was last seen running south on Pine Ave. There were no reports of injuries to the purse-snatching victim.

NATION IN BRIEF

Washington Bribe Charges Center On Korean Merchant

WASHINGTON (AP) — Allegations that U.S. congressmen were paid large cash sums as part of a South Korean campaign to court U.S. favor are centering on rice dealer Tong-sun Park, a mystery man with reported links to the Korean CIA. Park, who also is a leading light in Washington case society, reportedly has told federal investigators about the payments. Park denies he has bribed anyone.

One of Park's reported allegations was corroborated Monday when Louisiana Gov. Edwin Edwards acknowledged that his wife, Elaine, took an envelope containing $10,000 as a "gift" from Park in 1971.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer advocate Ralph Nader is accusing the Nuclear Regulatory Commission of stepping beyond its charter and promoting use of nuclear power. The federal agency was created solely to regulate nuclear power. Nader based his allegations on documents obtained from the commission and its predecessor, the Atomic Energy Commission, concerning a directive issued by President Ford two years ago in an effort to cut oil consumption by electric utilities.

A spokesman for NRC said the agency's record "shows we adhere scrupulously to our regulatory character, and judging from industry criticisms, industry does not regard NRC as being promotional."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The only known surviving Scotsboro Boy — pardoned after 45 years of proclaiming his innocence — says he hopes his story teaches people that "a man should never give up hope. Even if it kills you, stand up for your rights."

And Clarence Norris, 84, who has lived here as a fugitive for 30 years, said he plans to visit Alabama, where until Monday he would have faced arrest as a parole violator.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A commuter ferry had "plenty of time" to avoid a Norwegian tanker which was estimated 100 passengers to their deaths in the Mississippi River, the pilot of the merchant ship told a Coast Guard court.

But the ferry failed to turn away, and forced a collision which "had no different than a Volkswagen running out in front of a train," pilot Nicholas J. Colombo said Monday.

Divers working around the clock have recovered the bodies of 84 of the passengers who were aboard the commuter ferry George B. Price when it capsized last Wednesday. Eighteen persons survived the sinking.

Gov. Edwin Edwards said the search would continue as long as there was a possibility of finding more victims. He also asked for the formation of a task force of marine law experts to look into the disaster and its legal problems.

The state and the Norwegian owners of the tanker Frosta both went into federal court Monday asking that they be relieved of any liability for the collision.

Colombo said at the hearing that he attempted to make radio contact with the ferry as soon as he spotted it, then sounded an emergency signal with the Frosta's whistle.

He said the ferry appeared to turn upside for an instant then came back on a course that would bring it beneath the Frosta's bow.

He said he again sounded the ship's whistle and ordered the engines into reverse.

But he said it takes more than a mile to stop a ship the size of a tanker — "You just don't stop a vessel that size like you're driving an automobile."

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's almost time again for that once-a-year ritual of falling to keep up with what Uncle Sam is doing to your time. Come 2 a.m. this Sunday, most Americans will set their clocks back one hour to signal the end of Daylight Saving Time.

The exceptions are residents of Arizona, Hawaii and parts of Indiana, who are on Standard Time 12 months a year.

Sanford police today were investigating the theft of $500 in quarters and dimes from coin-operated washers and dryers at the laundry room at Lake Jenny Apartments, Sanford.

Patrolman Ray Brunson reported that a juvenile boy wearing a red striped shirt and dark-colored pants grabbed a 14-year-old Sanford woman's purse containing $20 Monday as the pedestrian neared the intersection of Second St. and Pine Ave. Police said the youth was last seen running south on Pine Ave. There were no reports of injuries to the purse-snatching victim.

Scottsboro Boy Pardoned

NEW YORK (AP) — The only known surviving Scotsboro Boy — pardoned after 45 years of proclaiming his innocence — says he hopes his story teaches people that "a man should never give up hope. Even if it kills you, stand up for your rights."

And Clarence Norris, 84, who has lived here as a fugitive for 30 years, said he plans to visit Alabama, where until Monday he would have faced arrest as a parole violator.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer advocate Ralph Nader is accusing the Nuclear Regulatory Commission of stepping beyond its charter and promoting use of nuclear power. The federal agency was created solely to regulate nuclear power. Nader based his allegations on documents obtained from the commission and its predecessor, the Atomic Energy Commission, concerning a directive issued by President Ford two years ago in an effort to cut oil consumption by electric utilities.

A spokesman for NRC said the agency's record "shows we adhere scrupulously to our regulatory character, and judging from industry criticisms, industry does not regard NRC as being promotional."

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A commuter ferry had "plenty of time" to avoid a Norwegian tanker which was estimated 100 passengers to their deaths in the Mississippi River, the pilot of the merchant ship told a Coast Guard court.

But the ferry failed to turn away, and forced a collision which "had no different than a Volkswagen running out in front of a train," pilot Nicholas J. Colombo said Monday.

Divers working around the clock have recovered the bodies of 84 of the passengers who were aboard the commuter ferry George B. Price when it capsized last Wednesday. Eighteen persons survived the sinking.

Gov. Edwin Edwards said the search would continue as long as there was a possibility of finding more victims. He also asked for the formation of a task force of marine law experts to look into the disaster and its legal problems.

The state and the Norwegian owners of the tanker Frosta both went into federal court Monday asking that they be relieved of any liability for the collision.

Colombo said at the hearing that he attempted to make radio contact with the ferry as soon as he spotted it, then sounded an emergency signal with the Frosta's whistle.

Churruca, one of jai-alai's all-time greats, makes a few points in his return

One of the jai-alai gods passed through Seminole County today. Patxi Churruca — better known simply as Churruca to regions of aficionados who watched him almost a decade ago in Miami and Daytona Beach — visited friends at the Orlando-Seminole fronton Monday night. He flew to Miami this afternoon to wrap up his one-week vacation from the roster at Bradenton, Conn. where he and a contingent of superstars are putting the lid on some of the most distinguished careers the cancha has known.

Before leaving, Churruca had a few revelations: 1) He doesn't know where the players will come from to fill proposed rosters as jai-alai continues its sweep across the North American continent; 2) He has a sure-fire means for Americans to become good jai-alai players, a partial solution to the above; 3) This isn't jai-alai they are playing in the United States.

The last is the most startling. Why, if that isn't jai-alai, shouldn't someone be chased for false advertising? They use castas and pelotas. If it isn't jai-alai, what is it? "I don't know what to call it except crazy," says Churruca, now 40 and perhaps thinking about jai-alai the way it was when he came to Miami as a bright-eyed 19-year-old.

"Of course spectacular seven has changed everything. In Spain, we play partidos, most to 35 points. These quintela games are crazy. You can win and do nothing.

"Where do you see the player's endurance? His skill? The game is over before you start."

As to the advent of new frontons springing up in America, Churruca pictures only enough players without contracts in Spain to fill perhaps one 40-man roster.

"Where they are going to get players is the big question," he says. Americans are slowly but surely creeping into the pelotari picture. Only a few have survived the heavy artillery thrown by the Basque-dominated rosters so far. Mexico is just about out of prospects too, so Americans could well be the answer for the future.

"The way to be a good jai-alai player," points out Churruca, "is to go to Spain and play partidos. No partidos, no be good."

The question which pops up in the minds of American amateurs is what will it cost them to take six months on a year out of their life and play in Guernica or Durango?

"I think they can make enough from playing partidos to live well, eat well and be okay," Churruca goes on. "Now, saving money will be difficult. But they can pay from what they make. Then after a year, they will be ready to play here. This is if they are a true aficionado and are willing to watch, learn and practice. They can't play half an hour and learn. A good partido takes an hour, and an hour and a half. After a partido, you know what kind of player you are."

Churruca never played at the Fern Park fronton, but had visited it in the early sixties. "Before there was nothing around it," he said. "Now it is all built up."

Premature balding and a touch of gray belies Churruca's age. Eyes, glistening blue, dance with an awareness befitting the place he holds in jai-alai's mythical hall of fame. His 6-2 frame is lean and every week," he mused. He also noted his Seminoles had not been particularly sharp in practice. "We plan to correct that this week," said Posey, who is preparing for a Friday night game against Lake Howell.

Ucala Forest retained its solid lead in Class AAA, jumping 16 of 17 first place votes. Pahokee moved to one place to take the lead in Class AA and Greenboro retained its solid No. 1 ranking in small-school Class A.

Ortiz Gets Second Chance

Former Florida State heavyweight champion, Ponce Ortiz, is back in town and that spells excitement for local boxing fans and a hard night for Joyce Vincent tonight at the Orlando Sports Stadium.

Vincent and Ortiz are set to clash in a scheduled 10-rounder which is part of a double main event, with Southern lightweight champ Terrence and Leroy Walker handling the other end of the twin bill.

This is Ortiz' second trip to Central Florida. The first time he was the 167-pound champion, had shoulder length hair and was not in the best of shape.

"This time around he is the former title holder, has shaved his head and claims he is 'ready to fight all night.'" If he has to. Arriving from his home in Miami, the former Cuban refugee will be in his eyes when he talks about last June 22, the night he lost his title to Vincent.

"A lot of people might say 'big deal' and 'who cares' when it comes to the state title. I know it's not the world's championship and I doubt if anyone outside of Florida can even tell you who our state champs are. But it represented something to me. It said I was the best there is in Florida and I liked that."

"Now it says that I am not the best there is in Florida and I do like that. Because I still am the best."

"Joyce Vincent has never seen the day he can best me. The last time we fought I beat myself. I had no right taking the fight, but I did. I should have stopped him in the first and second rounds. I didn't. I can only blame myself."

"I made the mistake of fighting Vincent out of shape, and I paid for it. He made the mistake of giving me a return bout. Now he is going to pay for that."

"I go way back with Bruce Trampler (matchmaker at the Sports Stadium). He had Vincent set to fight (Bobby) Crawford but that fight fell through at the last minute."

"I had told Trampler that I would come in and fight here anytime he wanted me to. But I had also told him to give me some advice, so I could get into the ring in better shape."

"I just call from him, telling me he is stuck. He says that if I let him down, he is really in trouble, because I am his last hope. He says that Vincent is a good puncher but wide open for the straight right hand and he will never be able to stand up to my punches. He also says that Vincent is the most popular fighter in Florida and if I beat him, I can take over his place in this area."

"I had seen Joyce fight before and I was not impressed. I knew I could hit him with my right and there was no way he could stand up to it."

"So, I took the fight." "What happened in my history. Ortiz caught Vincent coming in with the first punch of the fight and floored him. Later on in the fight, he dropped him again in round two but he knocked him down for the third time and busted his eye wide open."

"But, Vincent went all out at the start of the third and smashed Ortiz to the floor three times in less than one minute, while splitting both his upper and lower lip. He was bleeding."

"I had Joyce and let him get off the hook," Ortiz maintains. "If I wasn't worried about pacing myself, I would have been all over him and ended it in the first or second round."

"Then, when Joyce came out looking at the start of the third, I just want a strong enough to hold him off."

"I have no excuses this time. I am ready. I am ready for the fight of my life. I know Vincent is a tough man to keep on the floor, he proved that last time out. But there is no way I will ever leave Central Florida again, without my fight."

"I am a better fighter than Vincent, and will prove it."

Along with the Vincent-Ortiz title fight, the Watkins-Walker bout is also for a crown, with the Southern lightweight belt on the line.

The pro undercard will consist of undefeated Milton Owens and Tyrone Johnson, Savage Turner against Sam Bowen and Slick Mitchell faces Kip Braden.

For Braden, who grew up in Sanford, it is his first time "back home" in several years.

"I only came up here to get a match with Taco Perez. I was told by Trampler that I need a fight to show the crowd who I really am, so that's why I am fighting Mitchell."

"Personally, I think I was given the Mitchell fight to get my shot at him."

Mitchell has fought both Perez and Braden twice each. He both instances, he split a pair of decisions. Since that time he seems to have gone backwards, but he is still a very dangerous fighter.

While Braden is fighting Tuesday night, Perez will be on his way to South Africa to meet Greg Steyn in an important international contest. The junior middleweight scrap is set for Nov. 1, Casabery's 18-year-old, Scott Clark, is accompanying Perez on his sparring partner and chief second.

Watkins, Vincent Head Card

ORLANDO — Terrence Watkins and Joyce Vincent have this year the 28-year-old from Houston, Texas, stopped Valente Ramos in the third round.

One week later, in Miami Beach, disaster struck when Watkins was used by Nani Marrero. It really shouldn't have been such a startling upset, because Marrero was ranked No. 9 at the time, but Watkins came into the fight undefeated and the hottest young prospect in the U.S.

Watkins is putting his Southern lightweight title on the line against the challenge of Miami's Leroy Walker, while Vincent is defending his Florida welterweight title against the former champ, Ponce Ortiz.

He has been seven months since Watkins was last at the Sports Stadium. On March 4 of this year the 28-year-old from Houston, Texas, stopped Valente Ramos in the third round.

One week later, in Miami Beach, disaster struck when Watkins was used by Nani Marrero. It really shouldn't have been such a startling upset, because Marrero was ranked No. 9 at the time, but Watkins came into the fight undefeated and the hottest young prospect in the U.S.

Merit Cigarette Sets New Taste Standard.

'Enriched Flavor' breakthrough brings unprecedented taste to low tar smoking.

Today there's a way to get real taste from a cigarette without high tar.

That's the report on a new taste discovery called 'Enriched Flavor.' A way to pack flavor—extra flavor—into tobacco without the usual corresponding increase in tar.

The cigarette packed with 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco is remarkable new MERIT. If you smoke, you'll be interested.

Tests Verify Taste

In tests involving thousands of smokers of filter cigarettes, the majority reported

9 mg. "tar," 0.7 mg. nicotine av. per cigarette by FTC Method.

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

MERIT and MERIT MENTHOL

MERIT delivered more taste than five current leading low tar cigarettes having all the way up to 60% more tar.

Repeat: delivered more taste. In similar tests against 11 mg. to 15 mg. menthol brands, MERIT MENTHOL was reported to deliver as much—or more—taste than the higher tar brands tested.

You've been smoking "low tar, good taste" claims long enough. Now smoke the cigarette. MERIT. Unprecedented flavor at 9 mg. tar.

One of the lowest tar levels in smoking today.

Tip Or Two On Tipping

DEAR ABBY: About motel maids who never get tipped: I've been a motel maid for more years than I care to remember. Would you believe a grown man writing a bed? (No tip.) Or a 10-year-old boy who is a night bed-wetter whose mother doesn't have enough sense to carry a rubber sheet? I'll bet she has one on her bed at home. (No tip.)

And how about those men who read dirty books that cost from $2 to $20 each, but are so tame about what they read that they stick it under the mattress or behind the ice machine on their way out? (No tip.) I'll take the polite Japanese people any time. They leave a dollar under their pillow daily, and their rooms are as clean when they leave as when they check in.

HAD IT AT HYATT
DEAR HAD IT: A registered nurse registers a complaint. Read on.

DEAR ABBY: A "motel maid" wrote you recently, begging for tips. She complained about changing bed linen, scrubbing bathrooms, picking up soiled towels and gathering trash thrown near but not in the trash can. She said an extra dollar would be appreciated for the dirty work she has to do.

I won't go into detail about what we hospital nurses have to do. I'll just say that we work up to our knees in the unappetizing byproducts of illness, infection and old age. And do we get tips? Of course not! We get a salary and do the job we're paid to do. A housekeeper and a nurse's aide are paid salaries comparable to a hotel maid's. I don't know one fellow employee who would not be insulted if a tip were offered. And that goes for the orderlies and the kitchen and cafeteria help, too.

How To Pick Perfect Plant

There are many beautiful plants available at garden centers, nurseries and super markets. But, just as the ripest tomato is not always the best, the handsomest plant is not necessarily the one to buy, according to members of the Jacaranda Circle, Sanford Garden Club.

WOMEN

Consider home plants first, and check these points: Is there too much plant for the pot? If so, remember it will not stop growing and will soon need repotting. Is the foliage healthy looking and plentiful? Is it marred with spray residue? If the leaves show signs of drooping or are brown around the edges, the plant has been mis-handled, kept in cold storage too long or has at some time been dried out. Are the roots coming through the drainage holes in the bottom of the pot? If so, chances are part of the root system was left behind when the plant was shipped. However, sometimes cuttings of blooming plants (mainly mums and poinsettias) are potted and sold before roots are established and this is worse than excessive roots as such plants are worthless after their blooms have faded.

Gardeners Meet, Hold Fall Programs

The circle presented six more spoons to the club. Mrs. Katie Willis and her committee made Halloween pumpkins for table decorations at the Sanford Nursing and Convalescent Home. Mrs. D. C. Spivey gave a report on garden insects and treatments to get rid of them.

The circle chose the home of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel A. Wallace, 2442 Grandview for October's Garden of the Month.

A book was donated to the Center's Library in memory of Mrs. Gertrude Gilbert, a Palm and Magnolia Circle member, who died this summer.

Mrs. Blanton Owen gave the second in a series of demonstrations on Flower Show arrangements. She discussed interpretation.

The MIMOSA CIRCLE met Oct. 7 at the Sanford home of Mrs. C. E. Chorpining with seven members attending the covered dish luncheon.

The ROSE CIRCLE held its monthly meeting at the Geneva home of Mrs. Ruth Simpson. Eight members and three guests attended the covered dish luncheon meeting.

Plans were made for the November Garden Olympics during which the club will display plants at the Garden Center.

The HIBISCUS CIRCLE met at the home of Mrs. John Fox, 1922 Palmetto to make plans for the bazaar. Miss Gertrude Fisher gave a resume of her recent trip to Alaska and Vancouver, B.C. She showed pictures of the flowers native to those areas.

Plans were made for the November Garden Olympics during which the club will display plants at the Garden Center.

Dear Abby
my 8-year-old daughter who has recently developed a crush on a boy in her class. He is nine years old and has flunked a grade. He walks her to and from school every day. All she talks about is kissing this boy and writing love notes. She carries these love notes wherever she goes. The boy is very mature for his age, but seems polite and nice. This boy calls her two and three times an evening. Last night she asked me if she could go to the movies with him (matinee). She wants me to drop them off there. Should I allow her to talk to him so often? And how long should an 8-year-old be allowed to talk to a boy on the phone? Should I try to discourage this relationship, or will it make her more eager to see him? I really need your advice, Abby. She is our only child, and I want to raise her right.

Fern Park Residents Want Hangout Shut

Smoking marijuana, occasional nighttime sex in campers and rowdy breaking beer bottles was how a Fern Park tavern owner Tuesday described actions of 12-to-14-year-olds who regularly attend a favorite county spot called The Hot Foots Teenage Center on U.S. 17-92.

On one occasion, says Ed Fletcher, one youth stabbed a second youngster with a broken beer bottle. Then, Fletcher told Seminole County Commissioners, the wounded youth staggered in front of his pub — the Fletcher House Tavern — and collapsed.

Fletcher presented commissioners with seven letters that claim more than $1,000 in damages resulting from rowdy teenagers.

After hours of rehearsal Tuesday, which Mrs. York termed "very productive," the choir seemed ready. But when Mrs. York informed Lake Howell Principal Richard Evans of her plans, it all fell apart.

"He said we couldn't do it," Mrs. York recalled, "because it would violate some county school policy."

Mrs. York said Evans told her the bad news Tuesday afternoon. "Everyone was very upset and disappointed," Mrs. York said, adding that she had spent much of Monday evening telephoning the student's parents about the event.

Did Bunny Beckon Ford, Or Did ...?

By The Associated Press

Although the White House once expressed interest in setting up a Playboy interview for President Ford, presidential aides say Ford never really intended to appear in the magazine and that Playboy executives were just being given the run-around.

Ford has been trying to stifle Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter to the wall for granting an interview to Playboy, but executives of the Chicago-based magazine say Ford at one time was eager for the magazine to interview him.

Both Ford and Carter spent Tuesday campaigning in the Chicago area, underlining their concern about the importance of the Illinois vote to the outcome of next Tuesday's balloting.

Ford spent the day criticizing Carter's foreign policy proposals. And he said in a broadcast political advertisement that his administration differs from that of Richard Nixon because "there's no dictatorial authority" under Ford.

Carter defended his foreign policy plans and expressed indignation at a pamphlet being distributed by the Ford campaign committee. The pamphlet, titled "Heartland," ridicules Carter, who said Ford "should be ashamed of himself" for allowing it to be distributed.

And Carter said if he is elected he will immediately start working "to restore a sense of cooperation between the president and the members of Congress."

Both the vice presidential candidates, Democratic Sen. Walter Mondale and Republican Sen. Bob Dole, were also on the campaign trail.

Mondale called on Ford to repudiate Dole's suggestion that World War II was fought because of the Democratic party. And Dole later backed away from his characterization of World War II as a "democrat war." An aide said Dole backed off because of widespread adverse reaction to his comments.

Some Republicans have been hoping to use Carter's Playboy interview against him. Playboy executives, obviously irritated at GOP bars being thrown at the magazine, issued a statement Tuesday saying the White House had first suggested that the publication do a Ford interview.

Politics Thwarts Choir

All Warmed Up, But...

By AUDIE MURPHY

It sounded like a dream-come-true for the Lake Howell High School choir.

According to Mrs. Mary York, Lake Howell choral director, she had learned Monday night that a group was needed to perform at a reception for Mrs. Robert Dole, wife of the Republican vice-presidential candidate.

The reception for Mrs. Dole is scheduled for tonight at the World Inn, in Orlando.

After hours of rehearsal Tuesday, which Mrs. York termed "very productive," the choir seemed ready. But when Mrs. York informed Lake Howell Principal Richard Evans of her plans, it all fell apart.

"He said we couldn't do it," Mrs. York recalled, "because it would violate some county school policy."

Mrs. York said Evans told her the bad news Tuesday afternoon. "Everyone was very upset and disappointed," Mrs. York said, adding that she had spent much of Monday evening telephoning the student's parents about the event.

Seeking County Franchise

Ambulance Applicant Sued

By BOB LLOYD
Herald Staff Writer

An applicant for an exclusive ambulance franchise in Seminole County said today that a lawsuit filed against him in circuit court by a New York state leasing firm has nothing to do with his local ambulance company.

Puumonack Leasing Services Inc., of Bethpage, N.Y., filed the lawsuit this week against Bernard Fidele seeking enforcement of a $55,706 civil judgment granted against Fidele, B and D Ambulance and Oxygen Service Corp. and Aida Ambulance Service Corp. by a Nassau County, N.Y., court in January.

Attorneys for Puumonack Leasing weren't available in New York to comment on the local civil action.

Fidele, contacted at his Cassaberry residence, said the New York lawsuit concerned equipment leased by B and D Ambulance, of which he was once treasurer. Fidele said the B and D firm "went out of business. When everybody left, I stood there because I lived there." He said the equipment was returned to the leasing firm.

Fidele said he hasn't been served with legal papers on the local lawsuit filed by the New York firm. "But I'm definitely not worried about it," he said. "I don't believe it has anything to do with the company here, Aida Enterprises Inc."

Fidele said he formed Aida in New York state but didn't license the firm there. "It was to start when I purchased an ambulance to bring it out here to start the operation." He said Aida Enterprises Inc. was incorporated in Florida in July.

Fidele's Sept. 9 application to Seminole County for the exclusive franchise for ambulance service was denied in July.

ONE KILLED, TWO INJURED

John Glenn Smith, 18, DeLand, died instantly early today when his auto drifted across the center line and collided head-on with an oncoming Greyhound bus on U.S. 17-92 west of Sanford near I-4, the Florida Highway Patrol reported. The crash sent the Jacksonville-to-West Palm Beach bus, driven by Earl L. Simmons, 32, of Pompano Beach, careening into a ditch, officers said, and two of the four passengers on the bus were treated for minor injuries and released from Seminole Memorial Hospital, Sanford. Seminole Sheriff's deputies assisted state troopers at the wreck scene as county fire department rescue crewmen cut the wrecked auto apart to free the body of the dead driver. Deputies said a truck driver, following the southbound bus, used his CB radio to alert the sheriff's office to the 3:30 a.m. collision.
