$724,000,000 Fund To Be Spent In 1931 For Public Works

Nation's Jobless Will Be Aided By Biggest Construction Plan
In History Of U. S.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24— (AP)—Moving to the aid of its jobless the American Government will spend $724,000,000 on public works during the calendar year 1931, the largest peace time construction program in its history.

The amount compares with a average fiscal expenditure of approximately $275,000,000. Figures announced by President Hoover Tuesday showed the largest amount for any purpose was $219,922,000 for Federal aid to highways.

Rising a close second was public buildings construction with $173,862,000 available. Rivers and harbors will receive $169,867,000 and ship construction $129,920,000.

Fifth on the list was an item which 20 years ago would have been considered an impossible dream. A total of $30,882,000 will be used for building aircraft.

Of the $724,000,000, a total of $116,000,000 was made available last week by Congress as an emergency unemployment relief measure.

In addition to the appropriations for public works the government will expend $170,000,000 for agriculture relief, $45,000,000 of which will be used for seed and fertilizer loans to farmers stricken by last summer's unprecedented drought.

In order to arrive at the expenditures for the calendar year 1931 President Hoover took half of the 1931 budget figures and added to them emergency and acceleration appropriations to the amount.

At the same time the President announced the government intended to see that its contractors maintained the wage levels existing before the business depression set in. He said that through conferences a year ago industry and labor had reached an agreement whereby the wage level would be maintained wherever possible and that certainly the government could not consistently do otherwise.

Difficulties with a number of minor contractors have been experienced, the President said, but they have been adjusted.

After the President made his announcement the agriculture department announced the allocation to the States of emergency funds for highways and the War Department allocated money for seaports and harbors improvements.

A total of $30,000,000 was added to the public buildings fund by the application of accumulated and unexpended balances from previous appropriations which can now be applied through the expedition gained from authority to employ outside architects.

Government construction experts estimated that of the total about one-half will go for the payment of labor and the other half to the purchase of sites and materials.

Most of the projects for which appropriations have been made have passed through the technical stages and the actual work can begin in the very near future. In many cases sites already have been obtained and architectural plans completed or nearly so.

2 Small Fires Cause Slight Damage Today

Two small fires which resulted in but little damage were reported by Fire Chief M. N. Cleveland today. One occurred early this morning in the Chase and Co. building on Oak Avenue when an oil burner used for heating the offices became inflamed. The automatic sprinkling system in the building went into effective play and the fire was quenched with but little assistance from Chief Cleveland and firemen Tatius, Johnson and Bridges who answered the alarm.

At about noon today, a gasoline motor in a filling station at the corner of Sanford and Geneva avenues exploded causing damages totalling about $10. Chief Cleveland and firemen Vernon, Johnson and others went to the scene.

SUNNY WEATHER IS EXPECTED FOR CHRISTMAS DAY

Local Observance Of Holiday Begins At Midnight Services

With the weather bureau proclaiming a return of sunny skies and clear, cool weather, and practically every merchant in the city reporting larger sales during the past few days, indications are that Sanford residents and visitors here are going to enjoy a gay and cheerful Christmas Day.

Because of the energetic activities of members of the Seminole County Welfare Board and the co-operation of some of the civic clubs and many individuals, it is believed that every case of distress and poverty will be taken care of, and of officials of the board extend hearty thanks to all who contributed in behalf of the needy.

The observance of Christmas Day will begin at midnight as the members of the Holy Cross Episcopal Church and All Souls' Catholic Church attend services at the two churches. Special music will be heard at the candle-light services beginning at 11:30 o'clock tonight at the Episcopal Church.

A solemn high mass, sung by an augmented choir, and the annual Christmas sermon by the pastor will be heard at the Catholic church, starting at midnight tonight.

Later in the day, the Episcopal church will have services at 10:30 o'clock in the morning while masses will be said at the Catholic church at 8:00 o'clock and 10:00 o'clock. The Upsala Lutheran church will hold a children's festival at 7:00 o'clock tomorrow night, while the Salvation Army will conduct short services at the City Hall at 7:30 o'clock at which time Christmas gifts will be presented to members, friends, and the needy.

Business activities will be at a standstill tomorrow, only filling stations, restaurants, and drug stores being open for business the latter until noon. City offices will be shut throughout the day, and practically every employee will be given a holiday. As has been the custom for the past three years, no business will be transacted at the post-office. Incoming mail will not be distributed either on the carrier routes or in boxes, and all the windows will be closed. Special delivery packages will be handled as usual however.

The general delivery window will be open tonight until about 8:30 o'clock in order that every patron who expects a gift through the mails may have it in time for Christmas.

The Sanford Herald will be closed all day, and no paper will be published, allowing the entire staff a holiday.

White Christmas Is Not To Be General Throughout Nation

NEW YORK, Dec. 24—(AP)—Only in spots will the Christmas landscape be blanched by snow. Scranton, Pa., had nine inches of it today, and Portland, Me., four. The south had no snow, but temperatures were Christmas-like in Atlanta where a reading of 27 was reported by mid-afternoon. Some parts of the mid-West and Great Lakes region had snow but it was scattered. In Chicago, the ground was white. Metropolitan New York had a fairly heavy fall, but it melted as fast as it hit the ground. Moderate temperatures prevailed in the far West which was covered by last week's snow blanket, and the Pacific coast was sunny, warm, and snowless except on mountain tops. Juneau, Alaska had a temperature of 44.

SANTA GETS FEW MORE LETTERS FROM CHILDREN

Christmas Editor Gets Word That He Will Leave North Early

Eleven Sanford children wrote letters to Santa Claus this morning, and the Christmas Editor immediately got in touch with the old gentleman, just in time to receive his assurance that he will begin his long tour, early tonight, provided he had been a model youngster during the year, he visited before morning.

California Hard Hit By Damaging Frost

BRAWLEY, Cal., Dec. 24.—(AP)—With leaves falling in great drifts from large numbers of grapefruit trees, evidence that the extreme cold weather which struck sections of the Imperial Valley citrus belt last night bringing temperatures as low as 23° has wrought great damage. The estimated loss to the citrus industry in California was not known at an early hour today, but practically all of the groves and orchards felt the sting of the coldest weather of the year.

CARLTON OFFERS BEST WISHES TO PEOPLE IN STATE

Governor's Message Is Hopeful In Content And Full Of Cheer

A plea for gifts of patience, sacrifice, courage and good will, in addition to material expression of the holiday spirit was made by Governor Carlton Monday in his annual Christmas message to Florida. The message follows:

"We are approaching another Christmas season. It carries us back some 19 centuries when the star of Bethlehem led the wise men of the east to the world's greatest symbol of peace and good will, of brotherhood and love.

"Let us hope that the glory of that event has lost nothing in the years that lie between; and that its spirit will not perish with this day, but lead us throughout the coming year with greater faith in ourselves, our fellowmen, our country and our God; with renewed hope for the future and a noble effort for charity toward all men everywhere.

"It is essentially a season of giving, not of material gifts alone, but of the more priceless spirit which prompts the gift. We may well serve the day by supplementing the concrete expressions of our affection by giving from ourselves to the world more of patience and sacrifice, courage and good will.

"The program for the day, under the leadership of President B. L. Maltbie, was entirely of a social nature, and Christmas spirit was the predominant feature of a number of talks. S. O. Shisholier and Leon LeRoy were the principal speakers, and their remarks were enthusiastically received, according to W. M. Hayner, secretary of the club.

MRS. SPEER WINS PAPWORTH GOLF CUP IN TOURNAY

Low Score Average Of 49.6 Handicap Of 25 Is Best Turned In

Because her qualifying card showed a low score average of slightly more than 49 to give her a handicap of 25, Mrs. Vivian A. Speer was yesterday afternoon officially declared the winner of the Harry Papworth cup offered in the Ladies' Open tournament. The cup will be presented at a special trophy dinner later in the season.

Mrs. Roy Symes finished a close second with a handicap of 26, while Mrs. A. F. Rawlings had a handicap of 27, to finish third. A number of local women golfers were entered in the tournament which began some weeks ago, according to Allen Stewart, professional at the Sanford Country Club.

Tomorrow has been declared as the official opening of the winter season at the club. Special events are planned for the day, and the new greens, said to be the finest ever constructed locally, will be dedicated. Mr. Stewart is so proud of the condition of the greens that he challenges any club in the state to match them.

A large number of activities are scheduled at the club during the winter season, the feature affair being the pro-amateur tournament which will be held on Sunday, Jan. 18. Entries from all parts of the state, including the pros of every club within a 100 mile radius, are expected.

Other tournaments scheduled include the city championship for men; match play, no handicap, to be held in February; the city championship for women; match play, no handicap, to follow the men's tournament in February; and the Junior City Championship, match play for boys under 18.

SENATE ASKED TO RECONSIDER LATEST ORDER

Discharge Of 2 Power Commission Clerks By New Appointees Raises Big Protest

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24—(AP)—Demands for a reconsideration of the Senate's confirmation of three members of the power commission arose Tuesday close behind the dismissal of three commission employees.

In their first day of operations the only three members of the commission who yet have taken the oath of office—Chairman George Otis Smith, Marcel Garsaud and Claude L. Draper—discharged E. E. Bonner, executive secretary of the commission; Charles A. Russell, its solicitor, and William V. King, the chief accountant.

Bonner announced he had resigned from the government service shortly before Dr. Smith announced that the three had been removed from office. Dr. Smith said he had accepted his resignation from Bonner, and that so far as he was concerned, each was in the same class.

An immediate protest arose on Capitol Hill against the discharge of Russell and King.

Hurried conferences in the Senate resulted in half a dozen demands for reconsideration of the nominations of the three members of the commission who participated in the action.

Senators and members of the House, both Republican and Democratic, condemned the commission for dismissing the two employees they considered "able public servants, friendly to the public's interests."

Under Senate rules the votes by which the commissioners were confirmed last week can be reconsidered. If the motions to reconsider are entered the first day Congress meets after the Christmas recess by Senators who voted for the confirmations who voted for the confirmation.

Senator Brookhart, (R Iowa) announced he would move to reconsider the vote by which Dr. Draper was confirmed. He voted against Smith and Garsaud, and therefore cannot move to reconsider their confirmation, but he expressed confidence there were a number of Senators who would.

Brookhart's move was soon sponsored by Senators Borah, (R Idaho); Norris, (R Neb.); Nye (D. N. Dak.); Wheeler (D Mont.), and Bill, (D Wash.).

Senator Walsh, (D. Mont.) suggested if the nominations were reconsidered they should be recommended to the interstate commerce and that committee should demand an explanation from the commissioners why they dismissed the two employees. Walsh also wrote Smith a letter of protest.

The commission chairman, in announcing the action, said the employees had been dismissed because of "internal strife of the past few months." He denied any influence had been exerted on the commission.

King pointed out he was a civil service employee and indicated he would challenge the commission's authority to dismiss him.

Russell declared the commission's action was "a signal to all men who are trying to protect the public interests they had better be careful."

House-Warming Party Is Planned By Elks

According to the committee in charge of arrangements, plans are rapidly being completed for the gala house-warming party which members of the Sanford Lodge B. P. O. E., No. 1241 will stage next Monday afternoon from 2:00 o'clock until 8:00 o'clock.

The general public is cordially invited to inspect the new lounge rooms on the second floor of the Bishop Block on First Street during that time, and officials of the lodge are planning a royal welcome for every visitor.

ARMY OFFICER SETS LIFE IN WIFE MURDER

but so he might marry Miss Brandon, who was a prosecution witness.

It provided witnesses who said examination of the viscera of Mrs. Shepard, at an autopsy ordered to be made by the major, had shown death was caused by mercury poisoning. It brought forth others, it was said, that the major had withdrawn from the dispensary at Fort Riley, Kan., where he was stationed, when Mrs. Shepard died in June 15, 1929, large quantities of the drug.

It produced more, including Grace Brandon herself to show that the attachment for Miss Brandon had flowered before the illness of Mrs. Shepard, and the major had wanted a divorce.

To this accumulation of evidence were added letters written by Mrs. Shepard in relatives and the statement of a nurse that Mrs. Shepard herself had said her husband was poisoning her.

In opposition to this the defense painted a picture of Major Shepard as a long-suffering husband with a wife who was both an alcoholic and a drug addict. It attempted to show his wife had no love for him and that craving sympathy, he had fallen easily for the interest shown him by an "army post flapper."

It introduced testimony to indicate that his interest in Miss Brandon did not turn to love until after the death of a wife for whom he obtained all possible medical care. It attempted to show that natural illness, alcoholism, mercury absorbed from a mouth wash mercury pilfered from Dr. Shepard's medicine case by mistake or mercury taken with suicidal intent might have explained the death.

Testimony was introduced to show that, in objecting to the autopsy, Major Shepard was carrying out the wishes of a wife who had insisted no knife touch her after death. In drawing out quantities of mercury from the dispensary, he was arming himself to fight an epidemic of measles at the army post; others testified. In its arguments the defense characterized the major as a loving servant of humanity whom government investigators were attempting to "punish" because he accidentally fell in love.

A jury of 12 family men, took the case at 2:58 p.m., Saturday and argued it Saturday night, Sunday and Monday.

Banned by the verdict Major Shepard Monday night was showered with offers of sympathy and monetary aid.

An hour after the verdict was ready Harry S. Class, Denver defense attorney, reported a dozen offers of financial assistance to carry on a new trial, if granted, or to further an appeal.

A man who said he knew personally neither the 59-year-old army medical officer nor any of his quartet of counsel, came to the hotel and offered $500 to carry on the efforts for vindication.

Shepard was surrounded by acquaintances in his hotel as he checked out preparatory to return to Denver, at liberty on his previous bond.

Perhaps the most prized messages of sympathy were those from the 85 officers at Fitzsimmons Hospital, where the major is stationed, and one signed "the 1100 patients in Fitzsimmons' general hospital at Denver."

Attorney Class called the verdict "a gross miscarriage of justice" and expressed the belief it would not be difficult to raise another fund to carry on the defense. He estimated $5000 was raised by friends to defend the major during the current trial.

The Birth Of Christ

From the Gospel of St. Matthew: I, 18-25; II, 1-12.
18. Now the birth of Jesus Christ was on this wise: When as his mother Mary was espoused to Joseph, before they came together, she was found with child of the Holy Ghost.

19. Then Joseph her husband, being a just man, and not willing to make her a publick example, was minded to put her away privily.

20. But while he thought on these things, behold, the angel of the Lord appeared unto him in a dream, saying, Joseph, thou son of David, fear not to take unto thee Mary thy wife: for that which is conceived in her is of the Holy Ghost.

21. And she shall bring forth a son, and thou shalt call his name Jesus: for he shall save his people from their sins.

22. Now all this was done, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken of the Lord by the prophet, saying,

23. Behold, a virgin shall be with child, and shall bring forth a son and they shall call his name Emmanuel, which being interpreted is, God with us.

24. Then Joseph being raised from sleep did as the angel of the Lord had bidden him, and took unto him his wife:

25. And knew her not till she had brought forth her firstborn son: and he called his name Jesus.

1. Now when Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judaea in the days of Herod the King, behold, there came wise men from the east to Jerusalem;

2. Saying, Where is he that is born King of the Jews? for we have seen his star in the east, and are come to worship him.

3. When Herod the king had heard these things, he was troubled, and all Jerusalem with him.

4. And when he had gathered all the chief priests and scribes together, he demanded of them where Christ should be born.

5. And they said unto him, In Bethlehem of Judaea: for thus it is written by the prophet.

6. And thou Bethlehem, in the land of Juda, art not the least among the princes of Juda: for out of thee shall come a Governor, that shall rule my people Israel.

7. Then Herod, when he had privately called the wise men, enquired of them diligently what time the star appeared.

8. And he sent them to Bethlehem, and said, Go and search diligently for the young child; and when ye have found him, bring me word again, that I may come and worship him also.

9. When they had heard the king, they departed; and lo, the star, which they saw in the east, went before them, till it came and stood over where the young child was.

10. When they saw the star, they rejoiced with exceeding great joy.

11. And when they were come into the house, they saw the young child with Mary his mother, and fell down, and worshipped him: and when they had opened their treasures, they presented unto him gifts; gold, and frankincense, and myrrh.

Merry Christmas!

Those words, "Merry Christmas," typifying for generations the scene of cheer, goodwill, gaiety, frivolity, generosity, and plenty, have a hollow sound this year as if some gaunt, hollow-faced, hollow-eyed consumptive had spoken Merry Christmas! Will it be merry for hundreds of thousands of unemployed walking the streets looking for jobs and ready to turn an ear to the first communistic soap boxer they see? Will it be merry for hordes of starving Chinese coolies, for millions of Russian peasants who groan from hunger as they watch boat loads of wheat dumped on foreign markets in order to gratify the industrial greed of Stalin, or for Spanish peasants now in the midst of revolt?

But perhaps because we cannot say it lightly, these words will mean more. Because we cannot go to the nearest store and carelessly purchase every article which strikes our fancy, perhaps the things we do buy, and the gifts we make will carry with them an added significance. When from a mountain of wealth we give costly presents, we have been conventional; but when from a "widow's mite" we give anything at all, we have mastered the Christmas spirit. To be gay, cheerful and joyous, and to shout "Merry Christmas!" from a lofty perch on top of the world is to do only what might well be expected, but to have merry Christmas and to scatter seeds of Yuletide happiness in the midst of adversity, hard times, and want, is to rise above mere earthly things and to be as Christ intended us to be, something of the soul and spirit.

When you awake tomorrow and greet your friends with the customary salutation of "Merry Christmas", it is too much to hope that their Christmas will be made merry by any possession or contribution of worldly goods. But it is not preposterous to assume that the joy of living itself, the comforting thought of loving friends and relatives, the knowledge of their own innate honesty, courage, and independence, and the love which they bear others and which others bear toward them, will make their Christmas merry. If that intangible something called the "Christmas spirit" means anything, there is no reason why tomorrow's Christman should not be the merriest in a hundred years.

We should remind ourselves that one hundred years ago, and two hundred years ago, when our forefathers were laying the foundations of this country, adversity was the staff of life, the food on which they thrived. Whether building cities from rough-hewn logs amid the cries of warlike Indians, or pushing westward by wagon train, clearing the ground, till the soil, then blazing a new trail farther to the west, there was a life of toil, ever fighting against the elements of Nature and the foes of the wilderness, ever struggling against hunger, disease, and death. And yet it was through these people that the custom of celebrating Christmas came to us.

Today the business world may be sick, but the Christmas spirit is in the heart. The heart of man is warm, and its beats are strong. It will be a merry Christmas in Sanford and in all this country tomorrow. And it will be a merry Christmas devoid of shame and pretense, of vain and extravagant giving, but loaded with deep and sincere goodwill toward our fellowmen.

THERE IS A SANTA CLAUS

NEW YORK SUN

Published in 1867

We take pleasure in answering at once and thus prominently the communication below, expressing at the same time our great gratification that its faithful author is numbered among the friends of The Sun.

"Dear Editor—I am 8 years old. Some of my little friends say there is no Santa Claus."

"None says, 'If you see it in The Sun it is.'

"Please tell me the truth, is there Santa Claus?"

VIRGINIA O'HANLON."

Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's, are little. In this great universe of ours there is a mere instant, as you say, in the life of man, and we know that this instant would go higher than we can ever hope to go.

WORLD'S WINDOW

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

The bookshop windows are full of appealing volumes for Christmas gifts these days. Extraordinary is the number of historical romances, episodes, events and circumstances in these collections. The past is having a vogue as never before. From the majority of those books seems to come one nostalgic sigh: "Ah, those good old days. Those happy days of yore. Will they ever come back?" Then romance flourished, then knighthood was in flower! All this is true enough. But this also is true. The houses were badly lighted and smoky. People ate with their overcoats on. Voltaire tells us this. Some went to bed with an extra pair of pants, and a piece of fur around their necks. And lucky ones to have that extra pair or the piece of fur. In those good old days people lived in a mean, coarse, gaillard way. Most of the tables were handled with the fingers. One wiped his greasy hands on one's clothes. A courtly pell-mell at the court of Louis XIV was to stuff the pockets of the ladies with ragout or Irish stew. Nobody objected to spilling on the floors in the most modish salons, provided the exasperated stepped on it. Ladies carried perfume-infiltrated sponges under the arm-pits to attenuate the natural odors of unashed bodies. For nobody washed in those days, neither slave nor aristocrat. Everybody was constantly perspiring. There were bugs and fleas at Versailles, even in the King's bed. Our present day magnates never tell us what their predecessors, sons like St. Simon and others frequently enlarged upon. This, for instance, that the aristocracy was so covered with vermin that they pulled the beasties from their hairs and squashed them on walls of the chateaux and palaces. On bathroom and toilet rooms, a trace. The grand parks of Versailles and St. Germain were simply huge field cloacae. The grandson of Henri IV was covered with acres, but was no exception to this rule. While the household slumbers, it is between the magic hours of 8.30 and 9 A. M. that this portent transacts his chief work. He will slink away then at his speeches and slave at his books and be able to descend by 10 o'clock, having achieved most men's full circle of daily drudgery. He will be free to grapple with the one hobby and exhilaration which he permits himself."

An intimate account of the home life of Winston Churchill is given by Commander Oliver Lockyer-Lampson in the Christian Magazine. "Mr. Churchill," says the writer, "is an emperor among hosts. From the moment that he runs forth to receive you out of doors with outstretched hand to the moment when he runs out again to bid you God speed he spares no pains to make you happy and at home. Quite apart from every care to meet these blizzanders of what vulgarists call taste at the table, he concentrates on your comfort. You can rise or walk out or vanish as you will. You can play tennis or join him at mahjong or bridge. You can read... He will sit back in his chair gripping a long cigar, his brows frozen into a frown but the corners of his mouth regularly drooping, and he will float off into conjecture and fancy. At one compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole of truth and knowledge.

Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. And how weary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus. It could be as dreary as it there were no Virgins. There would be no childhood faith then, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable this existence.

We should have no enjoyment, except in sense and sight. The external light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

Not believe in Santa Claus. You might as well not believe in fairies!

You might get your papa to hire men to watch in all the chimneys on Christmas eve to catch Santa Claus, but even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down, what would that prove? Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign that there is no Santa Claus.

And there is no Santa Claus.

The Christ child now, as then

"No room! No room!" they seem to say.

"Our crowded hearts can spare."

They turn the King of Kings away.

As did the landlord there.

Ring happy bells this Christmas eve.

We sing the doorway wide

And hurry gladly to receive

The King who waits outside!

CAN YOU BEAT IT?

THE BIRTH OF CHRIST

BY REV. J. G. ANDERSON

In The Tampa Times

minute he is the prince of pleasure and fun, at another the doting spectator in statecraft, the next an oracle of the ages.

Chateaubriand is an early riser; the other he is awake before anyone in the house. Once roused he becomes furiously busy. He will remain upstairs and toll with his pen until the household slumbers. It is between the magic hours of 8.30 and 9 A. M. that this portent transacts his chief work. He will slink away then at his speeches and slave at his books and be able to descend by 10 o'clock, having achieved most men's full circle of daily drudgery. Critics in Paris, it appears, are not to be allowed to criticize. In future they may only praise, and one of them, who had said that a male dancer was not so slim as he was, has had to pay damages.

It was admitted that the dancer really had grown stouter, but the critic was not entitled to say so.

As for the ordinary spectators, he must also be very careful as to how he expresses his disapproval.

In Marseilles there is an ancient tradition that if you do not like an actor or a singer you throw small copper coins—they would now be nickel—at him. An artist who objected to this form of intriguing his salary has succeeded in destroying this old-established custom. What rights has the dissatisfied spectator then? The right to get his money back—not what he has thrown, but what he has paid for his seat. The right to whale is even questioned in modern Paris today.

Very grave doubts may be entertained about December 25 being the day. Recall that the day was not observed until about 500 years after His birth. It began then to be observed not in what was known as the Eastern church, which was nearest Jerusalem, but in the Western church, the one further off and the one that would be the least familiar with any inciments of the life of Christ. Their date was not historic. It was instituted to head off the Feast of Saturnalia amongst the Romans;

which was in honor of their god

Saturn and was celebrated with great splendor, extravagance and debauchery. It was a season of great freedom and equality. Order was suppressed and there was a reign of universal strife. Their temples were lighted with candles and hung with laurel and evergreen. The influence was morally bad. It affected the membership, of the church, and the church cast about for some expedient to correct it. A festival in honor of the birth of Christ, as many features of the other as could be reasoned with religion being retained, to curry popular favor, was appointed. None of these have lingered in the present. It is known to many, of course, that the European church, the Greek Orthodox church,</

LARGE RAILROAD LINE IS IN HANDS OF 2 RECEIVERS

Bethlehem Steel Company Files Bill Of Complaint Tuesday

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—(AP)—The Seaboard Air Line Railway company Tuesday night announced that receivers in equity for its property had been appointed Tuesday by Judge Groner of the United States district court for the eastern district of Virginia.

The company issued the following statement:

"Messrs. L. R. Powell, Jr., and E. W. Smith were Tuesday afternoon appointed receivers in equity of the property of Seaboard Air Line Railway company by Judge Groner of the United States district court for the eastern district of Virginia."

"Since the designation on Nov. 7 of committees representing the various classes of the company securities, and of Messrs. Dillon, Reed & Co., and Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co., as readjustment managers, constant negotiations have been going on between the company, the managers and the committee looking toward a readjustment plan.

"Years, Coverdale & Colpitts and C. N. Brown, under the direction of the managers, have also been making an intensive study of the property and its financial requirements and these studies will fail to earn its fixed charges in 1930 by approximately $4,250,000, and that a drastic reorganization, involving the foreclosure of mortgages, will be necessary.

"In view of this necessity and of the inability of the company to meet its large approaching maturities, the company deemed it in the interests of all its security holders that it should consent to the appointment of receivers at this time.

"The negotiations between the companies, the managers and the committees, have advanced sufficiently to justify the hope that a definite plan of reorganization can be announced in the very near future.

"Mr. Powell has been president of the company since 1927. His co-receiver, E. W. Smith, has been vice president of the Pennsylvania Railway company, in charge of operation, central region. He has resigned his position with the Pennsylvania and devote his entire time to the Seaboard."

This announcement was given out by Hornblower, Miller & Garrison, attorneys for the railway, 15 Broad street, New York.

NORFOLK, Va., Dec. 24.—(AP)—Receivers in equity for the property of the Seaboard Air Line railway were appointed Tuesday in the United States district court for the eastern district of Virginia.

Judge Groner named as receivers L. R. Powell, Jr., of the Seaboard, and Ethelbert Smith, vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad.

The bill of complaint asking for the receivership was filed by the Bethlehem Steel company, represented by Capt. Tazewell Taylor, Norfolk attorney; James G. Martin of Norfolk represented the Seaboard and filed an answer admitting the propriety of the receivership.

Gen. W. R. C. Cocke, general counsel of the Seaboard, and James P. Wright, general solicitor, also were present at the proceedings in chambers this afternoon.

CHIEF CLEVELAND EDISON PREDICTS GIVES RULES FOR GREAT ACTIVITY IN FIRE PREVENTION FIELD

Tells Of Precautions To Be Taken To Make Christmas Fireless

While Christmas is declared by many as one of the most "colorful and joyous" days in the year, yet this day of happiness is sometimes said to have been destroyed by disastrous fires occurring from both accidents and carelessness. M. Cleveland, chief of the Sanford Fire Department, in a statement made to The Herald this morning said that he wished to make this a "fireless" Christmas in Sanford and that his wish could only be fulfilled with the entire cooperation of every man, woman and child of this community."

As a precautionary measure, Mr. Cleveland issued a list of "do's and don'ts" for the protection of the people of this city. He urges everyone to read them carefully and "do all in their power to enforce each."

In his decree, the Chief said that business houses selling fireworks should keep them in an enclosed box or show case and that those "explosive toys" should never be fired near public buildings, theaters, churches, palm shops, garages, or filling stations, and that large fireworks should only be used in the residential section under the supervision of an older person, and under no condition should anyone use them in the business section.

The lists of "Do's and Don'ts" are as follows:

"If you must have a candle in the window on Christmas Eve, make it an electric one—that is safe."

"If a Christmas tree is used, make sure that it is securely set up so that it will not topple over and keep it away from heating and lighting fixtures."

"Use metal tinsel, flake asbestos, and powdered mica for snow effects instead of the highly dangerous paper-clippings and cotton."

"Do not illuminate the tree with candles. Colored electric light assemblies are more ornamental and if used with care, are safer. A spot light focused upon the tree, however, the safest method of all, and gives a pleasing effect."

"Smokers should exercise great care with their matches and smoking materials while near trees and decorations. Keep matches out of the reach of small children."

"Toys requiring alcohol, gasoline, or kerosene should be avoided as should the flimsy toy motion picture machines using inflammable film."

"Cheap electrical playthings should be forbidden, as they are often defectively wired and have insecure, dangerous connections. Such electrical apparatus have caused serious burns and fires."

"If it is felt that Santa Claus must be present at the celebration, he should be persuaded to avoid long cotton whiskers, and should keep away from open lights and fires. As an additional caution, his costume should be made partially fireproof by spraying upon it a solution of water glass, obtainable at any drug store."

"If anyone's clothing does catch on fire, the victim should be promptly rolled in a rug or woolen cloth in order to smother the flames."

"Merchants should keep their places of business free from rubber and paper accumulations, and should insist that employees keep clean and clear all exits."

"A most important safeguard is to remove all evergreens immediately after Christmas. Aside from the tradition of bad luck attached to the keeping of ever-

Inventors Of Future Will Be Biologists Chemists, He Thinks

NEW YORK, Dec. 24—(AP)—Thomas A. Edison said Tuesday the outstanding inventions of the future will be in the field of health and that inventors will be biologists and chemists.

Mr. Edison replied to a questionnaire from the Review of Reviews. Mr. Edison himself is famous for his questionnaires.

"Sickness is partly hard on the workman now," said the 81-year-old wizard of Menlo Park. "It's hard for them to get a good doctor, and proper care is expensive. There is too much sickness. Something will have to be done about it, and that is where biology and chemistry come in."

Here are some of the other questions and answers:

Q. Do you think your work would be easier if you were beginning now—with business ready to give money and facilities for research? A. Yes. I was for 15 years hustling for payrolls.

Q. Do inventions come from necessity—"the mother of invention"—or from scientific curiosity? A. Most inventors work to earn money to get a modest living for their families. All they want is enough money to experiment with.

Q. Will science tell us to eat less, as it has told us to drink less? A. Eighty percent of our deaths are due to over-eating. At the age of 21 a large variety and quantity of food is unnecessary. All those things crowd the stomach and cause poisons. I find that my weight keeps up on a glass of milk alone; every two hours.

Q. Is there danger that life will grow too complicated, too speedy, with so many new inventions? A. No. People will live up to it. The brain, if used, has enormous capacity. People don't begin to suspect what the mind is capable of.

Q. Is there any inherent difficulty in making television as common as the telephone? A. Yes, cost and complexity. Locomotives are pretty well developed, but you wouldn't want to buy one and have it in your house, would you?

Television is like that.

Q. Do you think the auto-gyro is the coming thing in aviation—the best principle so far developed? A. Yes, and it came from Spain. They say that Spain is dead. But that man (the inventor) has the egg of Columbus.

Q. Is it your opinion that poison gas in warfare is efficient and merciful, or a horror to be banished? A. I think it less deadly than bullets and bombs.

On the wall of Mr. Edison's office in West Orange, N. J., where the questionnaire was presented, hangs a quotation from Sir Joshua Reynolds: "There is no expedient to which man will not resort to avoid the real labor of thinking." Pointing to it, Mr. Edison said to his interviewers, "that is what's the matter with us."

greens in the house after New Year's Day, they represent, as they die out, an increasingly dangerous fire hazard.

"Never leave an electric iron connected to a light socket or resting on any inflammable material or object. Always disconnect and place on some fire-proof article for that purpose."

"Above all things, keep a cool head when trouble arises," the chief concluded.

Veteran Colorado Representative Is Married To Widow

Rediscount Rate Is Cut To 2 Percent By New York Banks

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24—(AP)—White-haired, wealthy Representative Charles B.挺木比基 of Colorado and Mrs. Robert Wood Elliott, a youthful widowed former waitress, were married Tuesday night in a simple ceremony.

The Rev. Dr. James Sherman Montgomery, house chaplain, had to wait for them while the 32-year-old bride gave vacuous repartee to wise-cracking newspaper photographers, but she remained cool and collected.

"We want to be late," the bride explained. "We wouldn't be fashionable if we went in."

The bridal party included Mrs. Louise Hill, sister of Mrs. Elliott; Glenn O. Holt, the representative's secretary, and many women who had worked with Mrs. Elliott at the census bureau where she had been most lately employed.

The honeymoon train led to North Carolina, the bride's home, for a visit with her parents before a cruise in southern waters during the holidays. They will return about Jan. 6. Her 8-year-old daughter will live with them later, at an exclusive hotel.

SANFORD PEOPLE LIKE CHRISTMAS TELEGRAM IDEA

Local Western Union Handles Increasing Number Every Year

Although more than 2,000,000 Christmas greeting telegrams, of one to each fifty of the nation's population are now sent over Western Union wires each year, Sanford's abrupt of the popular trend toward telegraphic Yuletide greetings, it was revealed today by L. Sharp, manager of the local Western Union office.

Use of Christmas greeting telegrams by Sanford residents has grown about 100 per cent in the past ten years, and last Christmas showed an increase of 25 per cent over the record established during the Christmas holidays in 1925.

When the total of Christmas greeting messages ran above 2,000,000 last year, the record established was nearly twenty per cent above the 1928 figure of 1,800,000 messages.

The 1928 figure, itself, was an increase of twenty per cent over 1927. In addition Christmas cables ages, already above the 190,000 mark, showed an increase of thirty-six per cent in 1929 over 1928, influenced in part by reduced cable rates.

The local office has made all necessary preparations for handling the volume of Christmas messages without delay. Mr. L. Sharp said, "The entire Western Union network is ready for the task. The number of decorative telegram and cablegram blanks used by the American public, laid end to end, would form a path of paper extending hundreds of miles. Santa Claus who is supposed to be everywhere at once, has nothing on the army of Western Union messengers, who will ring bells throughout the country Christmas morning and hand in the messages of loved ones who cannot be there in person. An outpouring of Christmas spirit, as great as in any other year, is expected on the part of the American public."

While it took the financial district by surprise, it was received as further evidence that the federal reserve bank plans to continue into 1931 its easy money policy upon which it embarked after the stock crash in the fall of 1929. The rate has fallen from 6 percent in little more than a year.

It was regarded in financial circles as a favor that might stimulate bond buying, especially by banks, and might later on lift in the mortgage market also.

WORLD PEACE IS STILL IN DOUBT AS 1930 CLOSES

Past Year To Go Down In History As One Of Much Uncertainty

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Unparalleled in activity and turbulence since the World War, the year-end finds the field of international relations facing every prospect of being written into history as an unusually hectic and uncertain period.

Lacking a serious threat of international war, 1930 has been marked with civil strife, internal discontent and political changes which have mainly as their basis the economic depression of virtually the entire world.

Most important of the diplomatic developments since the Washington armistice conference of 1929 was the London naval conference—the crowning event of the year. After three months of tedious negotiations, clouded many times with the threat of a breakdown, the London party succeeded in limiting the naval armaments of the three principal naval powers, the United States, Great Britain and Japan.

Following closely was the measure of success met at Geneva in the final session of the preparatory disarmament commission in laying the ground-work for a more general disarmament on land, sea and in the air.

Sporadic revolts, following upon one another with surprising speed occurred in Bolivia, Argentina, Brazil, Peru and Guatemala. Administrations were changed by force in those countries, and the State Department promptly recognized all of the new governments except that in Guatemala, where a study of the political status of the new regime is being made. Abortive revolts took place in Spain and Chile and there were rumblings of possible upheavals in Ecuador, Cuba and Venezuela.

While far removed from the United States, the discontent and bloodshed in India was watched closely by American diplomats in view of its possible effect upon the British empire.

Important in the changes in China was the gain by the Nationalist Government of Nanking of supremacy over the Northern coalition which for a time threatened the most stable government China has had for many years. This success of the Nanking administration was countered, however, by a bandit menace, involving the capture of American missionaries and thefts and destruction of property.

For the State Department, one of the most important developments during this the first full year in office of Secretary Stimson, was the increasing participation of the United States in affairs abroad. The department under the policy of President Hoover with regard to international conferences, accepted invitations for American participation in more than 75 such meetings.

Linked with the economic depression throughout the world were the flood of rumors and counter-rumors involving the

London Fog Swept Away By Draughts Of Clean, Fresh Air

LONDON, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Old Man Weather grumbled copious draughts of fresh air down upon London Tuesday, dissipating the fog which has caused 13 deaths and played havoc with business and people generally throughout southern England for a week.

The climax of the dense, oil-smelling pall that mixed itself with swirling smoke and soot was reached Monday at noon, and Monday night it began swishing away. By noon Tuesday transportation systems had snapped back on schedules twisted and halted by the fog.

Four persons were drowned when they walked off the banks of streams hidden by the cloud.

Along the fog area many wrecked autos and trucks, abandoned temporarily by their owners, stood where they had stopped after ramming other conveyances, poles or falling into ditches.

The most telling blow delivered by the haze to the Christmas life of London was the almost complete paralysis of thousands of tons of overseas mail for Americans and others who are spending the holidays in England.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23—(AP)—

As a constructive step to help the recovery of business and industry, the New York federal reserve Tuesday reduced its rediscount rate to 2 percent, the lowest in the history of the system.

The action, cutting the loaning rate to member banks from 2½ percent, which has been in effect since June 19, was taken at a prolonged session of the board of governors Tuesday afternoon.

While it took the financial district by surprise, it was received as further evidence that the federal reserve bank plans to continue into 1931 its easy money policy upon which it embarked after the stock crash in the fall of 1929. The rate has fallen from 6 percent in little more than a year.

Local Western Union Handles Increasing Number Every Year

Although more than 2,000,000 Christmas greeting telegrams, or one to each fifth of the nation's population are now sent over Western Union wires each year, Sanford's abreast of the popular trend toward telegraphic Yuletide greetings, it was revealed today by L. Sharp, manager of the local Western Union office.

Use of Christmas greeting telegrams by Sanford residents has grown about 100 per cent in the past ten years, and last Christmas showed an increase of 20 per cent over the record established during the Christmas holidays in 1928.

When the total of Christmas greeting messages ran above 2,000,000 last year, the record established was nearly twenty per cent above the 1928 figure of 1,800,000 messages.

The 1928 figure, itself, was an increase of twenty per cent over 1927. In addition Christmas cables, already above the 100,000 mark, showed an increase of thirty-six per cent in 1929 over 1928, influenced in part by reduced cable rates.

The local office has made all necessary preparations for handling the volume of Christmas messages without delay, Mr. Sharp said. The entire Western Union network is ready for the task. The number of decorative telegram and cablegram blanks used by the American public, laid end to end, would form a path of paper extending hundreds of miles.

"Santa Claus, who is supposed to go everywhere at once, has nothing on the army of Western Union messengers, who will ring doorbells throughout the country Christmas morning 'till hard in the messages of loved ones who cannot be there in person. An outpouring of Christmas spirit, as great as in any other year, is expected on the part of the American public."

The Season's Greetings---

At this joyful season it gives me great pleasure to wish each and everyone a Christmas complete with happiness and a New Year bright with prosperity and the good things of life.

SENATOR NORRIS SSAILS HOOVER IN BITTER TALK

Challenges Men Who Are Demanding His Ouster From Party

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—(AP)—In an assault upon the Republicanism of President Hoover, Senator Norris of Nebraska, Tuesday challenged the control of the national party by those who are demanding his own ouster.

The Nebraskan spoke out in blunt terms after Representative Wood of Indiana left a conference with President Hoover to urge support for the "eradication" of Norris which was advocated by Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the Republican national committee.

Wood's denunciation of Norris from the White House steps as a "consummate demagogue" stirred Norris to question the Republicanism of Mr. Hoover and called into action Senator Borah of Idaho, another Republican Independent, who answered "let them get out those who have disgraced the party."

"The Republican Party belongs to the rank and file," said Norris, "I am talking to newspapermen who gave him the news of Representative Wood's attack. 'Mr. Wood and Mr. Lucas, even though backed by Mr. Hoover, do not constitute the Republican Party. I was fighting for the Republican Party when Mr. Hoover himself was a resident and voter of Great Britain.'

"Mr. Hoover is most liable to be a Democrat any day. When he came to this country from Great Britain he was a Democrat, accepting office as a Democrat. He remained a Democrat until the Republicans came in power and when he accepted office under the Republicans he automatically became a Republican."

"I have never found fault with that. I concede his right to change his political affiliation every time he changes office if he wants to but I haven't found it necessary to do so."

Wood, the first of the Republican regulars in Congress to speak out in the party quarrel, was just as severe.

"We have been palliating and petting these fellows like Norris entirely too long," he told newspapermen, "and if there is to be a Republican Party we must have Republicans in it. The Senate is no longer Republican as people think. It has reached the point where its political makeup is entirely nondescript. And Senator Norris, one of its members is not a Republican. He's not even a Democrat—he is a consummate demagogue."

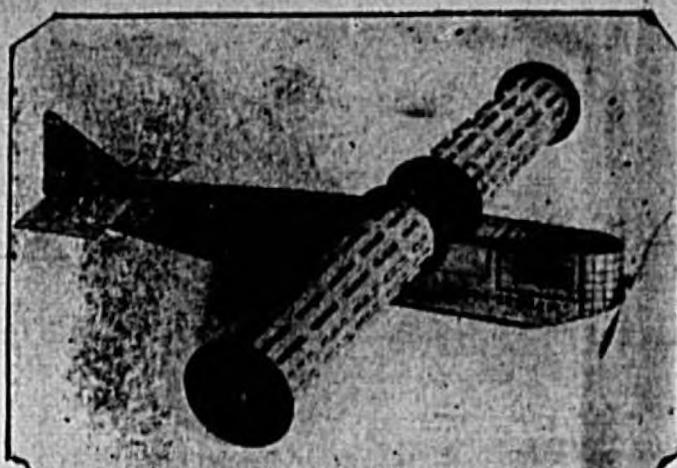

Wood is chairman of the House appropriations committee and chairman of the Republican Congressional committee. His statement, after he had discussed the Norris row with the President, was regarded in some quarters as notice that the administration does not care for control of the next Congress if it depends on Republican independent votes. Both the Senate and House of the new Congress are now Republican by just one vote.

The Senate Republicans regularly keep their silence, insisting that the issue is not before them and that one between the national organization and Norris.

Norris again denounced the campaign made by Lucas against him in the recent Nebraska election which Norris won as a Republican.

Traffic Watchman Is Found Dead At Post

Sailor At Pensacola Shot Dead In Fight

WOONSOCKET, R. I., Dec. 24.—(AP)—A stream of motor cars flowed calmly across the Hamlet avenue crossing Tuesday, the drivers unmindful of the onrushing Providence-Worcester freight train down the track.

James Fay, 65-year-old crossing watchman, sat quietly in his chair beside the open crossing gates and made no move to avert the impending catastrophe.

The locomotive whistle screamed as the train neared the crossing.

Alfred Miller, a pedestrian shouted to Fay to lower the gates but got no response. Leaping into the street, Miller halted traffic and lowered the gates a split second before the freight rolled by.

Turning to route the watchman still in his chair, Miller found Fay dead. A heart attack had taken the old crossing tender's life.

17 Airplanes Burned In Blaze At Chicago

CHICAGO, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Fire destroyed the main hangar at the Pal-Wauke airport Tuesday, burning 17 airplanes.

The cost of the planes, three of them belonging to the field and the rest to private individuals, was estimated by Pal-Wauke officials at between $100,000 and $125,000.

The hangar was valued at $20,000.
