POLICE TRAINING SCHOOL BASED ON CAREFUL STUDIES

Inspector Noonan, Of N. Y. Department Spends Year In Europe Before Bluecoat "West Point" Is Started

NEW YORK, May 13.—A piece of detective work appropriately underlies the newly established Police Academy which Commissioner Enright has dedicated as the future West Point of the nation's bluecoats.

Last year police headquarters was agog over the mysterious and prolonged absence abroad of Inspector John J. Noonan, now the academy's first commandant. He had slipped away with no one knowing it, and the question was: Who was he after?

The question was never answered, for it developed that the inspector's secret mission was merely to do some quiet and correspondingly free sleuthing of the world over, in order to make the present Police Academy the sum of the latest international ideas in police training.

Inspector Noonan, it has been explained, was sent overseas by Commissioner Enright with credentials to Scotland Yard and the police chiefs of Paris, Vienna, Berlin, Rome and other capitals. He was ordered to keep lips sealed and eyes and ears open, and saturate himself with the best in training facilities and methods to the end that the "West Point" dream might be realized.

Commissioner Enright announces that the academy will open not only to New York police and police recruits, but also to those from other cities. A limited number will be accepted from outside New York who will be trained to serve as instructors at home.

The academy will have special departments devoted to training: men as police clerks to do the highly specialized police paper work; to prepare traffic experts to meet the growing complexity of motor transportation problems; to teaching the art of fingerprinting, Bertillon measurements and other phases of criminal identification, and to the special training of officers and instructors.

Big Difference Between Political Refugees And Ordinary Immigrants Is Opinion Of English Says Stewart

WASHINGTON, May 12.—A Spanish anarchist I once knew had been living in exile in Paris. The French decided to deport him. They shipped him across the Channel to Dover.

"Got any money?" asked the English port authorities, not caring whether he was an anarchist or not. "No, a sou," he confessed. "Then we can't admit you," the officials ruled. "Here I am," rejoined the anarchist, "with no way of getting anywhere else. What are you going to do?" "Well, wait here," came back the officials, locking him up. "We'll wire to immigration headquarters in London and find out."

Pretty quick back came a telegram from London: "Good gracious! Don't you know political refugees aren't in the same class with ordinary immigrants? Apologize, and let him right in." How does that compare with the immigration bureau of the Labor Department here in Washington?

Nobody is better fixed to broadcast smallpox than the conductor of a crowded street car. The health authorities have been pretty anxious ever since they discovered one engaged in doing it, on the Washington Railway and Electric line. He'd been at it for several days, too. Rounding up all his "contracts" is impossible, of course.

Right on top of this in came a big batch of New York papers with an anti-vaccination story on the front page. Newsboys immediately began yelling them, yelling, "Vaccination kills many!" as loud as they could. "Not as many as smallpox," said Health Officer Fowler, telephoning the police to shut off the yelling at least.

More than a third of Washington's present smallpox patients die. The popular idea is that there's no difference between Republicans and Democrats any more—that there are conservatives and liberals, but that a Republican is just as apt to be one as the other, and so is a Democrat—and so, while you can tell conservatives and liberals apart, you can't tell Republicans from Democrats—they wear party labels but the labels don't mean anything.

"Oh yes they do," says Senator Henrik Shipstead of Minnesota, the upper House's lone Farmer-Laborite. "A Republican believes a Republican administration ought to name all the federal appointees. A Democrat believes a Democrat ad-

A Muffler for the Freezer—

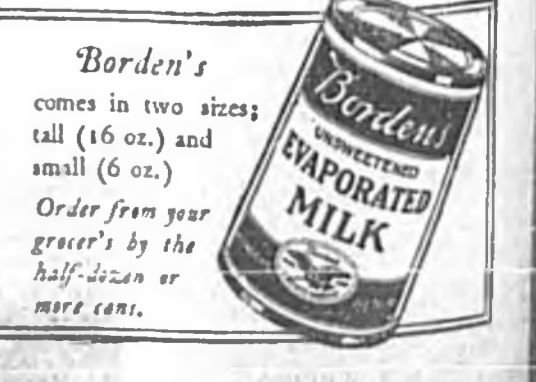

Oh for a way to make ice cream without cream! Don't you long for a big dish of it, in hot weather? But cream is so costly.

Here's a secret—lots of women make delicious ice cream—strawberry, orange, chocolate, peach—without buying a drop of cream.

And what is so popular! One youngster who had to turn the dasher, used to say—"Gee, I'd like to put a muller on this freezer."

For all the kids within ear-shot dropped over for a dish of cream—and got it too, his mother being kind. But

John Coolidge, President's Son, Is Regular Fellow But Respects Father's Wishes

AMHERST, Mass., May 13.—John Coolidge stood a little taller than his father, who hit in him the greatest man on earth. The fact crops out early in a visit to this 18-year-old Amherst freshman. He is telling that he respects his father's wishes. He is to his other studies, which include English, French, Greek and trigonometry. He would like to take more Greek but his father thinks that is not the best thing for him. The phrase recurs when the father says he is going during one of his vacations to a military training camp and will be glad to spend part of the summer time studying music—piano and violin—at the Boston conservatory, "if father consents." Then talk veers to a newspaper article which had told of John's French and receiving from the president an order from the president to spend more time on studies and spend more time on studies and spend more time on studies.

There's nothing of particular interest in the weekly magazine printed at his home, a copy of father's letter to him, he says. "It was not good imitation of his style. It was too rambling. If he had written it, it wouldn't have been much more than just 'Stay around Amherst and tend to business.' He is straight from the shoulder" accompanying this note of awe and his father is one affectionate comradship toward his mother. His peach blossom pink cheeks inherited, he says, "Mother is that way as a girl." "I am very fond of dancing," he says, "and mother likes to dance." "I'd like to play the piano." "The tall, sunburned, handsome youngster during his difficult first year in college has made a respectable place for himself as John Coolidge, and not as anyone's son, on the campus and in his classes. There are some things which he does not. He is not a young intellectual, nor a snob, nor a shiek. However, in passing it must be remembered that his wild bottomed pants are the equal of any snob's. He is an affable and modest youngster for whom life has been pretty easy but who is exacting no special consideration. He is Amherst they let him be himself. He likes their attitude, and they like him.

John is rooming with Steve Owen, son of the family doctor at Northampton, in a plain frame house near the campus which has sheltered students for a decade. Freshmen here do not live in fraternity houses, and John thinks that even next year he will remain here he is instead of moving to the Phi Gamma Delta house. They have a study and bedroom upstairs. There is a built-in lounge and a talking machine, books, bookcases and tables. On the walls there are a gaudy Chinese rug and a purple Amherst banner and a few photographs of girls. But there is no picture or suggestion connecting the room with the White House or the president's family. The ghost of Lord Jeffrey Amherst which colors the campus can find congenial haven in his room. John Coolidge always has forgotten Amherst for himself, and now he is glad to be here. He lives in the small college and particularly in Amherst. He is content that it is not a co-ed school.

were being disciplined by their brothers-to-be. John Coolidge had to make a campaign speech urging upon a sizeable audience the superlative statesmanship and merits as a presidential candidate of Senator La Follette. And it was counted a good speech.

If there's anything in that "the better the day the better the deed" saw, it is to be supposed that Germany would have elected William Hohenzollern president had her election been held any other day than Sunday.—Tampa Times.

It doesn't make any difference how much money you have, what political office you hold, what street you live on, what social position you occupy, which pillar of the church you are, or which drug store you trade at, there is always someone who will snub you.

"The way to keep in touch with the world is to read newspapers," said Chauncy M. Depew, who recently celebrated his ninety-first birthday in New York City. "When I first began reading newspapers, the European events were three days late. But now the heart of Africa is reached instantly by radio."

The amendment to cut the governor's salary to eight thousand is the kind of thing that is hurting politics today. If you want an eight thousand dollar a year man, the chances are you will get him, but if you want a ten thousand dollar a year man or a fifteen thousand dollar a year man, you can have him too.

Mr. Way Vibrates

Sanford people are much aroused today over the announcement of the New York World that that newspaper would print the story of an alleged attack made in this city on April 15th on the person of Benjamin Way, seventy-four year old New Hampshire man. The cause for this alleged attack is stated to be letters which Mr. Way had written to his son advising him not to eat Sanford celery because a poison spray was used on it.

Sanford people must not fail to realize the seriousness of such a story being broadcasted about this section. They must not fail to sense the harm that such a story might cause not only the celery industry but also the tourist trade, which Sanford is now endeavoring so earnestly to build up.

Northerners, reading in the World of mistreatment accorded Mr. Way, regardless of whether it may be true or not, will seriously wonder if we are not a community of barbarians. Certainly any northern man will hesitate to make his winter home in any place where octogenarians are taken to the woods and whipped. Whatever the offense might be, only the most cowardly of scoundrels would hit, much less beat to insensibility, a seventy-four year old man.

Further, northerners, reading that intimidation was used to prevent the circulation of the method of combatting the celery leaf tyer, will hesitate to put celery on their tables at dinner parties. Regardless of whether it is true that Paris Green is used in the spray, regardless of whether it is true that not enough of the poison is used to sicken a fly, northerners will think twice before eating celery, if they think that a man was beaten for having written his son concerning the method of treatment for the tyer.

But The Herald cannot bring itself to believe that intimidation was used in connection with Mr. Way. The Herald cannot believe that in an unusually law abiding community of this kind there could be ruffians who would so manhandle an aged visitor. Where lynchings have long since been forgotten, where murders and rape are practically unknown, where hold-ups, burglary and the lesser crimes are few and far between, it is almost inconceivable that this assault worse, with but one exception, than them all could have been committed almost under our very eyes.

No. It is the belief of The Herald that the World has gotten hold of the wrong dope. Mr. Way was offended because his introduction of a spray of his own invention was not received by local growers as a blessing sent from Heaven. Mr. Way thought he had something which would relieve us forever from the scourge of the celery leaf tyer. He expected great things from it. He expected to be hailed by the farmers of this section as a Savior and a Redeemer.

The only trouble was, as is frequently the case with inventions, it didn't work. His spray was tried for one entire season by one of the most successful celery growers in Florida. It didn't work. The little bugs simply thrived on it. They multiplied and grew fat. And it made Mr. Way sore.

But there was no reason why he should take his spite out on the local growers. They weren't to blame because his inventions were childish and worthless. They would have been glad to use his spray if it would help them against their ancient enemy. But Mr. Way was just old enough to have reached his second childhood. If he couldn't sell the growers anything he would see that they didn't sell anything either. He would tell stories out of school.

So Mr. Way wrote his friends telling them not to eat celery. The stuff, he said, was sprayed with Paris Green and we wouldn't be surprised if he didn't declare it was more dangerous than German gas.

As a matter of fact the celery leaf tyer is treated with a spray containing Paris Green, considerable water and other chemical ingredients. And we are informed that if a canary bird ate a crate of celery, which had been properly treated, he might suffer from indigestion for a short period of time. Incidentally, the treatment now in use by the growers was recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture.

As far as we have been able to find out through the sheriff's office, the office of the chief of police, the county judge's office, and every other source of information available, Mr. Way was not beaten as he alleges, but was quietly waited upon by a committee of three men and asked to leave town as his spray was not wanted here.

Mr. Way should have calmly gone home and said no more, but there is a certain lure about publicity.

WHEN ORDINARY MEN allow themselves to be worked up over common everyday difficulties into fever-fits of passion, we can give them nothing but a compassionate smile. But we look with a kind of awe on a spirit in which the seed of a great destiny had been sown, which must abide the unfolding of the germ, and neither dare nor can do anything to precipitate either the good or the ill, either the happiness or the misery which is to arise out of it.—Goethe.

MY FAVORITE STORIES

BY IRVIN S. COBB

The man who told me this one, as we stood together on the rim of the Grand Canyon, swore it was true. I believed him, for he had the reputation all over the Southwest of never telling an unnecessary lie.

He said a typical "mover", shiftless, restless and sockless, was spending a short time at an Arizona cow camp preparatory to moving on into the desert on a so-called prospecting tour. His chief earthly possessions consisted of a pair of slat-sided mules, a rickety prairie schooner, a wife, four children and six hound dogs.

The wife, who was a tired-out faded creature, complained to some of the ranch hands of the hardness of her lot; and the foreman took it upon himself to remonstrate with the husband for his indifference to his wife's welfare.

"The old woman ain't got no kick comin'," said the husband when he had heard the foreman's remarks. "She ain't got no kick at all. She's plum' pumpered—only she don't appreciate it none. Why, when we're fixin' to camp of a night many a time I've driven her half a mile out of the way, so's wood and water would be handy for the old woman t' fetch!"

ELI WAGNER'S NEWSPAPER WORK

HOLLYWOOD NEWS

Young men who have journalistic aspirations are reminded that Frederick Roy Martin, until recently general manager of the Associated Press was compelled to resign because his salary was too small. Perhaps that salary was not less than $20,000 annually. As salaries go in this day it was small for the big mind capable of solving difficult problems, but, after all, Martin's newspaper experiences equipped him for a bigger service, and he is glad he went to the reporting job when the lure of fame was in his youthful blood.

Newspaper men, as a rule, are poorly paid. Arthur Brisbane, the greatest of 'em all, says that a man who cannot earn $12,000 a year in newspaper work should look for another job. Brisbane probably earns $200,000 a year with his pen, and it is most natural for him to look upon anything under $12,000 as "poor pay"—an insufficient revenue for big brain efforts that must be put forth in newspaper production.

The American Press says the newspaper business makes high demands on those who pursue it; that its executive branches require highly developed intelligence, long experience, wide worldly knowledge, thorough education, exceptional initiative faculties, great tact, skilled diplomacy, and most painstaking industry; that too, that it offers in all too poor, and that in many instances the pay for laying bricks is greater than that offered for laying the foundation stones of sound Americanism and constructive citizenship. If your boy has newspaper bees buzzing in his millinery, do not try to persuade him to kill them, but rather encourage him to coax them to make honey beneath his small but he will have the satisfaction of knowing that he has contributed his mite toward making mankind better. Then, who knows but that he may, through his newspaper eyes, see an avenue that will lead him to greater fortunes—to gold-spouting fountains. Eli Wagner, who sold $1,300,000 of Hollywood property during the past six months, learned his first lesson in salesmanship buying good news staff with courtesy in Washington City.

Old Wall Street Days. Mother's Day. They Prayed, It Rained. By ARTHUR BRISBANE (Copyright 1925)

ARE THE good old Wall Street days that followed the Coolidge election coming back? One million shares of stock were bought and sold Saturday, and there is plenty of cheap money for speculation. Railroads give encouraging information about profits. Many are destined to imitate the lilies of the field, and to become rich and rare, without toiling or spinning.

Many more, alas, a bigger number by at least 100 to 1 are destined to lose all their gambling money, start all over again, and learn, as so many have done of yore, that profits on stock speculations are not for the little outsider. Where lambs and wolves play in the same pasture, the lambs do not last.

THE VOTE of Florida's legislators against ownership of land by Asiatics is based not upon prejudice or any arrogant sense of superiority.

To admit Asiatics, especially the intelligent and efficient Japanese, to land ownership and cultivation would increase enormously the value of Florida's land. The reason for a constitutional amendment concerning land ownership, far from being a selfish one, expresses unselfish desire to protect the welfare of the nation in the long run, even at a sacrifice of great immediate profit to the state of Florida.

JAMES CAVENDER, chief of police in Des Moines, has a new plan for bootleggers. He will round them up once a week and parade them through the city on trucks, their necks and hands in stock in old Puritan fashion. The idea is virtuous. Everything should be done to discourage vice. But in view of the public attitude toward the prohibition amendment, will the parade be a punishment or a good advertisement?

ON WEDNESDAY, led by the Rotary Club, the business men of Denver, standing in silence for two minutes, prayed for rain and next night, in almost every part of the state, rain fell in torrents, and the weather bureau announces more.

NOTHING COULD be more edifying, but farmers in Colorado are puzzled. They cannot understand why Providence should answer the prayers of business men that only deal in crops after ignoring the prayers and heavy losses of the farmers that raise the crops. However, the ways of Providence are beyond human understandings, and farmers ought to know it.

GRAND DUKE Nicholas of Russia, fighting for the throne of the Czars, requests the nations to unite and wipe out the Soviet government in Russia. This nation will not unite, although some American financiers, that foolishly bought bonds of the Russian Czars, at the last moment, would like the American army and navy to act as a collecting agency.

THE GRAND Duke Nicholas does his fighting for the throne in Paris. He will have to go nearer to Moscow and Leningrad to wipe out Bolsheviki rule. If any man takes the power from the Soviets, it will be someone used to hard knocks and hard work, probably some Mongolian gentleman marching westward in the old way.

LADIES, ASSEMBLED in national convention at the capital, bring gratifying information. Thanks to the women of America, men and women are coming nearer to the "simile" standard of morals, so long desired. More and more the human race begins to realize that what is wrong for one sex is wrong for both. You take for granted, and correctly, that the change means more morality among men, not less morality among women.

"THE CAT WITH UNLIMITED LIVES."

JUDGED BY YOUR NEWSPAPER

ST. PETERSBURG TIMES

Outsiders judge a community by its newspapers. National advertisers, other newspaper editors and workers and those subscribers who live in other parts of your state or in other states have no other way of knowing what sort of town you live in except as they get their impressions through the local newspaper. The copy of the paper they see and the occasional reference to your home in the telegraphic dispatches are the only information they have on which their estimation of your home town.

A newspaper is what its readers make it. There are few business institutions which are more easily swayed by public opinion than the newspaper. The old-fashioned editor liked to think he was more or less often swayed by the public opinion and the sentiments of the community when he thought he was lending his readers. If the newspaper editor or manager is keen enough to know his business, his newspaper contains the things the readers want to see in print, to the best of his ability to produce and publish those things. A newspaper cannot be successful and print the things that the readers do not want. Nor can it succeed and withhold from its readers the sort of reading they want.

So long as education is free in this land of liberty and people in all classes can read and enjoy reading, the successful newspaper publisher must try to please all classes of readers in the news he furnishes. A newspaper filled with stories of crime would be about as acceptable and successful in a community of average Americans as would a newspaper filled with Bible lessons. Yet there are countless readers who would rather read Bible stories than stories of modern crime. The news column of a successful newspaper cannot be used to force the people to read what they should. These columns should be a mirror of the day's affairs in this world and the reader can pick and choose such parts and incidents as please him and pass the others. The editor who pretends to give the people only such news as they should read is a hypocrite or inefficient and the world has no use for hypocrisy and will surely weed out inefficiency.

"SO BIG"

KEY WEST CITIZEN

The novel by that title written by Edna Ferber was given the $1,000 prize in the Pulitzer awards. It is interesting to consider the qualities that led to the award of this high honor.

The bookshelves contain that deal with sex questions in an unwholesome way. These are passed by in this competition, in favor of a novel that stands for clean conduct and high standards. This should be a suggestion to "advanced" writers who think that the American people are chiefly interested in exploring the morbid side of human nature.

A different point of view is coming over our people. They admire those, whether women or men, who go out into the world and do things that are needed, and render useful service, even if they get their hands and girl clothes dirty. The old time novelist tried to make his woman attractive, by putting their beauty with elaborate word pictures. In this prize winning novel, we may not have much idea how the heroine looked and much of the time she did not look at all well. But we knew that she had unselfish aims and was doing substantial work, and we liked her for her sincerity and service and courage.

The woman who was the heroine of this book, accomplished a rewarding career, by going into truck farming, in which she toiled with the hardest manual labor. That is quite a contrast from the typical heroine of former days, who used to sit around in parlors and seek to subdue and fascinate the men by her charm of face and manner.

Special Florida-New York Train To Be Operated By Atlantic Coast Line

The Atlantic Coast Line today announced that effective May 17 there will be inaugurated a new train service between Havana and New York with trains number 75 and 76 known as the "Havana Special" placed on this run. Trains number 85 and 86 now known as the Havana Special will be renamed the West Indian Limited, it is announced, and will continue to operate on the present schedule, serving the same territory that it has in the past except there will be no through car service to Florida East Coast points.

The railroad's announcement carries with it the statement that the Tampa Special on the territory serving Sanford, will also be continued, thus giving this city and others along the route a through service to New York year round. In addition to its decision to continue the Tampa Special, the railroad has made it possible to reduce the running time between Sanford and New York three and a half hours, it is declared.

It is now possible, says Howard G. Rainbo, district passenger agent, for persons going to New York from Sanford or from New York to Sanford to make the trip with only the loss of one business day. The train leaves New York at 11:45 a.

DODGE WIDOW TO BE WEDDED SOON TO DETROIT MAN

Common Interest in Church Affairs Is Bond Which Unites Happy Couple Whose Engagement Is Announced

DETROIT, Mich., May 13.—A common interest in church affairs, which led gradually to a personal interest in each other, was the bond that united Mrs. John F. Dodge, widow of the automobile manufacturer, and Alfred G. Wilson, business man of this city.

Engagement of the couple has been announced and the wedding will take place in the near future.

Work has been started on the new $4,000,000 Dodge home in Grosse Pointe, which was left unfinished when John F. Dodge died. The wedding ceremony, it is believed, will be held at the home.

Wilson is a deacon in the First Presbyterian church, where Mrs. Dodge is president of the Women's Foreign Missionary society.

Through church work the couple were often together and in time a romance began which will carry them to the altar.

Wilson is 42 years old and was born in Lawrenceburg, Ind. He was graduated from the literary department of Detroit college and engaged in the lumber business in Rhineland, Wis., until 1919, when he came to Detroit.

He was a partner in the lumber business with his brother, with offices in the General Motors Building.

Mrs. Dodge inherited the bulk of the vast estate left by her husband, sharing it with five of his six children, one son, John Duval Dodge being cut off with $150 a month for life.

The estate later made a settlement with the son for $1,500,000. When John Dodge died in 1920 his estate was valued at $38,942,727. This has vastly increased, however. The recent sale of the Dodge Brothers plant indicated the heirs of John Dodge would have approximately $75,000,000 to divide.

Mrs. Horace Dodge, sister-in-law of Mrs. John Dodge, who also lives here, is expected to figure prominently at the wedding ceremony.

IT DRIVES OUT THE WORMS

The surest signs of worms in children is paleness, lack of interest in play, fretfulness, variable appetite, picking at the nose and sudden starting in sleep. When these symptoms appear it is time to give White's Cream Vermifuge. A few doses drives out the worms and puts the little one on the road to health again. White's Cream Vermifuge has a record of fifty years of successful use. Price 35c. Sold by Laney's Drug Store.

Unbobbing A Bob
 HON. ED. WALTHAM, c/o. Seminole Hudson-Essex Co. Sanford, Fla.

I am not one of those men who take extreme positions on the way women wear their hair. I have seen women with long hair who were being suffocated by it. I have seen women with bobbed hair who had an irritating effect on the optic nerves.

When bobbed hair first began to be the rage and I detected the first evidence of the hair's reaching the optic nerve, I introduced an objection. I had sense enough to know it wouldn't have made any difference if I didn't. Every woman ought to pass a law requiring all women who are going through the unbobbing period to stay in seclusion, giving their husbands the opportunity to go to see them, but not imposing it upon them as a duty.

It would remove from view a lot of heads of hair that ought never to be seen in public, and it would give the women time to do some serious thinking about all the reasons they give for bobbing their hair, when the only reason in the wide, round world was because of the condition of the scalp, the hair falling out, the time and trouble of brushing and doing up, the expense of permanent waves, all that was mere folderl.

That's just like a man's going fishing or playing golf because the doctor tells him it's good for his health. The same doctor will tell the same man to quit smoking for the good of his health. Does he quit smoking? No. He gets himself another doctor.

The point is that all of us do pretty much what we want to do, what is pleasant and agreeable for us to do. That's why more and more people are driving Essex Coaches. It's such a pleasant satisfying thing to do.

Yours,
 H. A. SPEIR

BILIOUS ATTACKS

From Which Kentucky Man Suffered Two or Three Times a Month, Relieved by Black-Draught.

Lawrenceburg, Ky.—Mr. J. P. Nevins, a local coal dealer and farmer, about two years ago learned of the value of Theford's Black-Draught Liver medicine, and now he says:

"Until then I suffered with severe bilious attacks that came on two or three times each month. I would get nauseated. I would have dizziness and couldn't work. I would take pills until I was worn-out with them. I didn't seem to get relief. After taking the pills my bowels would act a couple or three times, then I would be very constipated.

"A neighbor told me of Black-Draught and I began its use. I never have found so much relief as it gave me. I would not be without it for anything. It seemed to cleanse my whole system and make me feel like new. I would take a few doses—get rid of the bile and have my usual clear head, feel full of pep and could do twice the work."

One cent a dose. NC-161
