

Meeting Between Graham, Local Officials Delayed

The Thursday conference between Gov. Bob Graham and a contingent of Sanford and Lake Mary officials led by millionaire entrepreneur Jeno Paulucci has been delayed.

Mayor Lee Moore said today he has received notification from Paulucci's Sanford office that the governor will not be in the state capital Thursday and the conference is to be rescheduled for next week on either Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday.

The local officials, at Paulucci's behest, agreed to meet with Gov. Graham to discuss possible state funding and other assistance the state might give to aid projects planned by the two cities.

The projects, according to a "shopping list" approved by the Sanford City Commission at a workshop meeting last Thursday, include: acquisition and development of a 28-to-35-acre park and the construction and equipment for a fire station in the southwest section of the city.

In addition, a project Paulucci plans for Lake Mary at Raintail Lane and State Road 46A is a 200-unit townhouse community on a 25-acre site. Paulucci is seeking inclusion of the project under Sanford's eligibility for possible state and federal funding in the form of subsidies. Sanford has agreed to provide sewer service for the project.

Sanford To Review Library Lease

A special meeting of the Sanford City Commission has been called by Mayor Lee Moore for 11 a.m. Wednesday at city hall for the purpose of reviewing the county's proposed lease of the city-owned old post office building on First Street. The building is used by the county for a branch library.

The county has been leasing the building from the city for more than a year.

The city acquired the building from the U.S. General Services Administration in the 1960s. The acquisition was made contingent on the city's agreement that the facility would continue to be used for a public library.

Sanford also plans to unveil to the governor tentative plans for construction of a "Golden Age" conference and social center downtown to house senior citizen meetings, the Golden Age Olympics, social services and rental space sufficient to generate enough income to pay off a bond issue. The bond issue would finance the construction.

Paulucci, Sanford and Duluth, Minn. industrialist, is also to inform the governor of his family's plan to construct three high rises in the downtown area, two of which are to be condominiums or apartments for senior citizens while the third is to house a theater, swimming pool, meeting rooms, and a conference center and nursing staff.

The three buildings are to be joined by an overhead crosswalk to Seminole Memorial Hospital, which Paulucci plans to buy and convert into a nursing home when the new hospital is built.

Bani-Sadr Coos; Khomeini Snarls

By United Press International
President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr said today that if the United States promises not to threaten Iran, the Revolutionary Council will take custody of the American hostages. But Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini accused President Carter of trying "to pull the wool over our eyes" in a "satanic conspiracy."

Bani-Sadr's pledge to remove the Americans from control of militants at the occupied U.S. Embassy at least until the new Iranian Parliament decides their fate caused some confusion because it came immediately after a speech by Khomeini critical of Carter.

Khomeini said Carter "has now embarked on a political plot, a satanic conspiracy. By using words of moderation and flattery he is trying to pull the wool over our eyes and to win his political game against his rivals by playing a trick on our nation."

The ayatollah said Carter was "on the wrong road" and "he must realize that his support of the deposed shah, after so many crimes, great treachery and plundering, does not leave room for a so-called honorable solution."

The White House responded to Bani-Sadr's remarks by saying the United States "will defer imposing further sanctions at this time" against Iran.

Carter had been said to be ready to announce retaliatory measures against Iran unless it made some decision on a transfer of the hostages, in their 150th day of captivity.

White House press secretary Jody Powell said the announcement was "a positive step," but he did not indicate if there would be any statement to comply with Bani-Sadr's demand.

Carter Applauds 'Positive Step'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter said today the decision of the Iranian government to take custody of the American hostages is "a positive step" and "we do not intend to impose additional sanctions" against Iran.

Carter met personally with a group of reporters in the Oval Office and said, however, the United States will continue the present "restraints" it imposed on Iran when the hostages were taken 150 days ago.

Carter expressed confidence Iranian President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr would be able to keep his word that "control of the hostages would be transferred to the government of Iran."

But under questioning, Carter was unable to say when the hostages would actually be released and returned home.

"In the light of that action, we do not consider it appropriate now to impose additional sanctions," Carter said.

But he made it clear the freeing of Iranian assets and monitoring of Iranian students would continue. "We will continue to monitor the situation very closely," Carter said.

He sidestepped questions on whether the United States would abide by the conditions laid down by Bani-Sadr in his speech at a rally in Tehran — that the United States must refrain from any interference or conspiracy against Iran.

Asked if he were certain the transfer of hostages would take place, Carter said, "We have no assurance this will be done except the president of Iran has announced it will be done."

Before Carter spoke with reporters shortly after 7 a.m. EST, press secretary Jody Powell issued a statement also describing the Iranian move as "a positive step."

"The U.S. must declare publicly that they will not attack Iran, that they are not conspiring against us, and that they will not undertake any further actions against us," Bani-Sadr was quoted by Western news reports as saying.

"Then," he added, "we will transfer the hostages from the U.S. Embassy to the Revolutionary Council."

Bani-Sadr, as quoted by Tehran Radio, said the council "decided the night before last" that should Washington meet its conditions, the government would take custody of the hostages until the parliament makes "the proper decision" about their fate.

He said the council discussed a letter from Carter, in which the U.S. president said Washington would take tougher steps against Iran unless the hostages were transferred as of Monday, reported Tehran Radio, monitored by the BBC in London.

Carter's letter, one of at least two reportedly sent over the weekend, also promised there could be cooperation between the countries if the crisis was resolved, Bani-Sadr said.

In Washington, sources said Carter had postponed announcing any retaliatory measures for 24 hours pending Bani-Sadr's speech.

Reached by telephone from London, a spokesman for the militants holding the embassy said, "We have not decided about the hostages. We have nothing to say."

Khomeni's and Bani-Sadr's statements were made in speeches to a cheering crowd gathered in Tehran's Freedom Square to mark the first anniversary of the Islamic Republic, Western news reports said.

The frail and ailing Khomeini, whose speech was delivered by his son Ahmad, disavowed any involvement in reaching a solution to the crisis.

"A solution to the question of the spy nest (U.S. Embassy), does not lie in my hands," he was quoted as saying, by Western news reports.

"The solution of this problem cannot be dealt with by anyone but from the noble Iranian nation and the Islamic Majlis (parliament), elected by the nation," Khomeini said in a message carried by Tehran Radio.

"He (Carter) must realize that his support for the ousted shah after so many crimes and great betrayals as well as so much plundering do not leave room for an honorable solution of the issue."

Khomeni said Carter "must realize that by sending the ousted shah to Egypt, apologizing for past mistakes and confessing to America's treacheries against the oppressed nations, including Iran, and then asking me to find a solution for the espionage den — me, a member of this great nation — he is following the wrong path."

Britain, France, West Germany, Denmark and Japan all reported sending messages to Iran seeking an end to the hostage ordeal.

Prime Rate Hits 19 3/4%
NEW YORK (UPI) — Chase Manhattan, the nation's third largest bank, Tuesday raised its prime lending rate to a record 19 3/4 percent from 19 1/2 percent. The prevailing rate is 19 1/2 percent.

Earlier in the day Citibank of New York, normally a trendsetter, boosted the rate it charges its most creditworthy corporate customers to 19 1/2 percent from 19 1/4 percent. First National Bank of Chicago took a similar step Monday.

CENSUS NUMBERS BEGIN TO MOUNT

Sanford postal clerk Steve May packages completed census forms today to be returned to the Census Bureau in Daytona Beach. Westinghouse Moving On Airport Project

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer
The plan of the Westinghouse Electric Corp. to locate a national cargo warehousing and Caribbean shuttle service at the Sanford Airport is firm and on schedule, according to J.S. "Red" Cleveland, executive director of the airport authority.

Cleveland said today bids for construction of a 10,000-square-foot warehouse for the corporation, 4,000 feet of which are to be at dock height, are to be opened and a contract awarded on April 10. Estimated construction cost of the warehouse is in excess of $100,000.

He said the contract provides for a construction period of 90 days.

At the same time, he said, the Federal Aviation Authority has awarded a contract to the Shuford Construction Corp. of Atlanta for installation of an improvement landing system (ILS) at the airport. Construction is expected to begin within the next week and a 90-day construction period is provided for in the contract. The installation is expected to be completed by mid-June, Cleveland said.

The ILS is a necessity for the Westinghouse operation to be conducted from the airport.

Cleveland said a flight engineer already has been hired by Westinghouse to run the airport maintenance facility. He said Westinghouse is renovating some fuel tanks at the airport to house the fuel it will need for the project.

Aircraft for the operation are scheduled to be flown in from Brussels by a British crew later this week or early next week. "Once here, the British flight crew will train the Westinghouse crew," Cleveland said.

Westinghouse Corp. plans to transport cargo by truck from its many plants around the nation to the Sanford Airport facility. In Sanford, the cargo will be transferred to C-47 Conquestair, four-engine, turbo-prop planes for transport four times weekly to the Caribbean. Ultimately, 16 flights weekly will be involved.

Two Westinghouse-owned planes are to be kept at the airport and the 18 crews necessary to operate the planes will be moved with their families into the Sanford area.

Judge Gives Mills Life Term

Sanford Assistant State Attorney General Gregory Mills was sentenced today to life in prison for the slaying of Clerk James Tom Wickett Jr. in the May 3 robbery of a Sanford grocery store.

Mills, 34, was sentenced to a minimum of 10 years in prison for slaying Wickett, 35, who was shot in the chest during the May 25 slaying spree. Mills was arrested on the slaying of Wickett, Sanford businessman James Wickett, Clerk Judge J. William Wickett and the slaying of Wickett Jr. on April 10. Assistant state attorneys say they will be asking Mills be executed for that crime.

Today, Mills was sentenced to serve life for the armed robbery at the L.F. Champ food store at 1110 E. 24th St., Sanford, plus five years for abducting Clerk Leamy Lockett. The two sentences are to run concurrently with his present order of imprisonment.

Mills has been convicted of a total of seven felonies since the start of the murder trial last August.

Three-year-old Jonathan Durrin of Lake Mary was one of 18 preschoolers who took part in an Easter egg hunt at the Sanford Public Library today. The youngsters participated in the library's story-time program, in which they meet every week for a six-week period and have stories read to them by library staff members.

High U.S. Interest Rates Boost Dollar On Markets

LONDON (UPI) — The U.S. dollar hit its highest level in years on several markets today as the strength gained from high American interest rates. The price of gold held steady.

An ounce of gold was up $7 at the start of trade in Zurich to $303.50, but the price in London was $301.50, down $5 from Monday's close.

In Milan, the dollar opened at 907.50 lire, up from Monday's close of 898.20, which had been the highest in four years.

The dollar also reached its highest level in 30 months on the Hong Kong market when it soared to 253.70 yen, before finishing the day at 250.50 yen — up from Monday's close of 249.70 yen.

And in London, the dollar had its best opening since Nov. 15, 1975 with the pound starting the day at $2.1475. Monday's close had been $2.1640.

Shah To Get Chemotherapy

CAIRO, Egypt (UPI) — Doctors treating Mohammed Reza Pahlavi say they will renew chemotherapy treatment for the deposed shah to control the cancer that has spread to his liver.

A medical bulletin issued Monday by the Madiid Armed Forces Hospital referred to a "lymphatic swelling" of the liver.

The bulletin carefully avoided the word "cancer," but Egyptian doctors attending the ousted Iranian leader said this is what was meant.

The shah was recovering so well from surgery to remove his cancerous spleen four days ago, he has been moved from the intensive care unit to his 15-room suite at the Nile-side hospital, the bulletin said.

Bombs Rock El Salvador

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — Gunfire and bomb blasts rocked San Salvador's fashionable Escalón district today just hours before the strife-torn nation's most active leftist guerrilla group marked its 10th anniversary.

Authorities said they did not know the sources of the explosions and gunfire.

Ten foreign bishops, including San Francisco Archbishop James Quinn, and 18 other clergymen Monday challenged government allegations that they were responsible for violence that left 40 dead and hundreds injured at the funeral of slain Archbishop Oscar A. Romero.

Peace Opens Religious Doors

CAIRO, Egypt (UPI) — A handful of Jews marked Passover with a traditional Seder in the home of the pharmacist to celebrate the holiday in the Arab nation for the first time since the state of war between Cairo and Jerusalem.

Israeli Ambassador Eliahu Ben-Eliazar led his 48 embassy personnel Monday evening in hosting 112 Egyptian Jews to the traditional Passover eve meal, the seder, which featured kosher chicken, wine and matzah slugged in from Israel.

"This gathering tonight has been made possible by a peace treaty signed a year ago, and we hope it will be everlasting," Ben-Eliazar told his seated dinner audience in Hebrew and French. Egyptian Jews speak French with each other and Arabic otherwise.

Argentina Head Defends Role

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI) — President Jorge Videla has said Argentina does not have anything "to clarify or hide" in international human rights forums, where it has been questioned about an estimated 6,000 to 15,000 missing people.

Videla, speaking to the nation Monday to mark his fourth anniversary as president, said the military government has breached the question of human rights with "absolute deceptiveness and responsibility."

"On doing so, we recognize an unchangeable truth: a dramatic light that we had been forced into by terrorist aggression, had come to an end," Videla said.

GIANT SEEN IN SANFORD

A giant was reportedly seen in downtown Sanford this morning lurking in back alleys and lounging on rooftops. From time to time it would reach out into the streets and play with passing automobiles much in the manner a child would play with its toys. This report from Herald photographer Tom Netsel was unconfirmed since no one else reported seeing the towering figure.

Netsel said it bore an amazing resemblance to Herald photographer Tom Vincent, but since this is April Fool's Day, no credence should be given this report.

Donald Martin, owner of Mailand Tractor Equipment, 812 N. Orlando Ave., Fern Park, told deputies he came to work Monday morning to discover between 100 and 150 gallons of gas missing from his company's pump, activated by thieves who broke a large padlock securing it.

Infant Mortality Rate Rises Near Nuke Plant

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — The infant mortality rate near Three Mile Island rose drastically in the six months following the 1979 nuclear plant accident. Health officials are investigating to see if there is a possible connection.

Dr. Donald Reid, deputy secretary of the state Health Department, released new infant mortality statistics showing the increase Monday, but warned the preliminary data was inconclusive.

The infant mortality data, compiled by the department's Bureau of Vital Statistics, showed that within 10 miles of the nuclear plant, 31 infants died within six months of the accident. For the same periods of 1977 and 1978, 20 and 14 infant deaths were reported respectively in the same area, Reid said.

Lance Defense Gets Ready

ATLANTA (UPI) — U.S. District Judge Charles A. Moyer Jr. says defense attorneys in the bank fraud trial of Bert Lance and three others will be allowed a maximum of eight court witnesses each to vouch for the defendants.

Prosecutor Edwin Tomko says he expects to complete the government's case of bank fraud and conspiracy by the end of this week, clearing the way for the defense to present its side of the story.

Lance attorney Nick Civino said late Monday he planned to begin the defense of the former federal budget director before the other defendants, and he has indicated in the past he would ask Lance to testify.

Graham, Law Officials Meet To Slow Drugs In Key West

MIAMI (UPI) — Gov. Bob Graham held a two-hour weekend "strategy session" with top state and federal law enforcement officials in Miami to plan an investigation against drug smuggling and public corruption in Key West.

News of the private meeting Saturday was disclosed Monday by FBI officials. Those attending included officials of the FBI, U.S. attorney's office, the federal Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) and the Florida Department of Law Enforcement (FDLE).

Arthur Neibrhaus, special agent in charge of the Miami FBI district, described the meeting as "a strategy session."

PSC Backs Energy Plan

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Most have been doing it anyway, but the Public Service Commission has approved a plan requiring electric companies to inspect customers' homes and look for ways to save energy.

The energy audit program was approved 4-1 Monday, with Chairman Bob Mann dissenting, saying it was "90 percent eyewash."

Commissioner Joe Cresce argued that the program can lead to millions of dollars in savings for power companies and their customers if aggressively promoted by the utilities.

Governor's Budget Zooms

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Gov. Bob Graham promised to limit the size and cost of state government, but he has three times the personal staff of his predecessor and a significantly bigger office budget.

Graham's current office budget is $4,853,000, compared to $1,897,000 in the last year of Gov. Reubin Askew's administration, the Tallahassee Democrat reported Sunday.

Askew and Graham had added 39 employees to the 88-member staff he inherited from Askew. That's a 44 percent increase.

Graham aides strongly defended the larger staff and pointed out that many of the new positions are being paid for with federal money.

Firestone Defends Travel

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Freshman Secretary of State George Shultz Monday defended spending nearly half of the first year of his term away from his Tallahassee office, including 149 days in his Miami hometown.

He traveled more days than any of the other five Cabinet officials in 1979, but made only two trips out of the state, both to Washington, D.C.

Many of his trips to Miami coincided with weekends or week days off. He did not bill the state for Miami or travel expenses for the 70 days of his term in Miami. But he billed the state for his transportation there and back.

Horoscope Defense Not In The Stars For Upset Attorney

PORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — A judge's ruling that a defense attorney could not plead his client insane by reason of his horoscope, left the attorney so distraught that he withdrew from the case and threatened to resign from the bar.

Broward County Circuit Judge Joseph Price refused Monday to accept the unusual insanity defense offered by attorney Jack Nagley on behalf of Mark Quinn Denton, a 23-year-old convict charged with rape and robbery.

Nagley then announced he was withdrawing from the case, saying the judicial system is "putting me out of business."

Denton and Thomas A. Sheridan are accused of breaking into a couple's townhouse in suburban Plantation last Sept. 22, robbing them, slashing the man's wrists, raping the 56-year-old woman and writing obscenities on the walls.

Denton, who was paroled last March after serving 18 months of kidnapping and battery, was arrested as he walked out of the townhouse with a baton on his head. Sheridan, who will be tried separately, was arrested while ransacking the home.

During the hearing on a prosecution motion to strike Denton's plea of innocent by reason of insanity, Nagley said Denton's unlucky fate was written in the stars from his birth on Aug. 8, 1956.

He said "unconscious forces" were responsible for Denton's violent history, which includes his becoming a drug addict at age 12 and a homosexual rape victim at the age of five.

"I think that is romanticizing. I think that sounds like some Greenwich Village nut," the judge responded.

Nagley told Price the case and his astrology defense would be the "conditio for us all into the age of Aquarius."

The judge said he would not consider an astrological defense because the rights of criminal law and those of the citizens of Florida superseded Denton's.

Wisconsin Shootout 'Unpredictable' State Votes Today

By ARNOLD SAWISLAK

It was unpredictable Wisconsin's turnout today and snowbound Kansas also will try to vote in the sixth hectic week of 1980 presidential primaries. Again, President Carter and Ronald Reagan are supposed to win, and again an upset could be in the wind.

Wisconsin, famous for shooting down favorites and favoring underdogs in the 75 years it has held presidential primaries, votes in cool, clear weather. It was estimated as many as 1.5 million of the state's 3.4 million voting age citizens would turn out.

Kansas was another story. By late Monday, more than a foot of snow had fallen over seven northwestern counties and more was forecast. Steve Carr, an assistant attorney general, said local judges and election officials might have to postpone some balloting in the state's first presidential primary.

Although Kansas offered 37 Democratic and 32 Republican delegates, candidates in both parties concentrated in the final days of the campaign on Wisconsin, where 75 Democratic and 34 Republican delegates were on the block.

Before today's voting, Carter had 778 of the 1,666 delegates needed to win the Democratic nomination — 55 short of the halfway mark. Sen. Edward Kennedy held a 404-5, California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. had none.

Reagan held 350 delegates, George Bush 88 and Rep. John Anderson 45 in the GOP race for the 698 needed to win.

On paper, Carter and Reagan were favored in both states, but the president's campaign and his challengers worked right up to poll opening time as if the contest was down to the last vote.

Reagan's opponents battled down to the wire as well.

Privately, Carter campaign aides said the president had nothing like the 60-1 lead the last published polls showed two weeks ago. Kennedy, also working the Milwaukee area, told a radio talk show audience, "I'm looking forward to Tuesday."

Brown, who made Wisconsin his personal testing ground after flopping in the early eastern primaries, staged a whirlwind "fly-around" of state cities and planned another strenuous round of stumping today.

Reagan campaigned like a man with a safe cushion, but expressed only his traditional "cautious optimism."

Bush's campaign manager pronounced the primary "winnable," but the candidate declined to comment on the prospects.

Anderson, who spent Monday flying around the state, said Wisconsin's primary would replicate those who say Reagan's Carter campaign aides said the president had nothing like the

Carter Inks Balanced Budget Proposal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter's effort at producing the first balanced budget in 12 years is supposed to set a good example for Americans who have had much the same trouble as the federal government — overspending income.

Whether Carter's proposals will survive the congressional tug-of-war won't be known until next fall when the budget is scheduled for passage.

Not to there any certainty the American public will reduce the spending presidential advisers and other economists misjudged in January, forcing the administration to revise its budget estimates in just six weeks.

The president's advisers also revised their inflation estimates upward Monday, predicting consumer prices will rise 12.8 percent this year, and 9 percent in 1981. In January, the administration forecast inflation at 10.7 percent this year and 8.7 percent next year.

"We are now forecasting a somewhat milder and somewhat later recession and somewhat slower recovery in 1981," said Charles Scholtz, the government's economic adviser.

Carter sent Congress his new balanced budget Monday. He also sent a warning he would veto any spending bills that would throw his budget into deficit.

Carter cut $15 billion from his January budget to give the government a $61.5 billion surplus, said a White House spokesman.

Carter delivered his original budget message Jan. 28, then announced March 14 he would cut $13 billion from his first plan because inflation rates had soared higher than expected and raised the cost of the January budget by $13 billion.

Richard Rubin, vice president and chief economist of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, said a "realistic appraisal" of economic conditions would show at least $25 billion would have to be cut to balance the budget.

Carter also added $500 million to the budget

The Poison Gang... ...Has Supermarket In Deadly Pickle

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Shoppers and store employees today carefully eyed food at Safeway markets in a deadly lottery set by "the poison gang."

"Safes, customers are talking about it, but I'd say things are back to normal," said Easter, whose store closed Sunday while employees checked all but canned goods for evidence of tampering.

One store employee was worried, however. "With some things, it's easy to see if it's been messed with, but if it's pickles? You can screw the top back on real tight and who's going to know?"

The extortionists first hit the La Jolla store.

A male telephone caller told an assistant manager to look for a certain jar of Polish-style pickles. Taped to the jar was a note in which the chain was told to prepare a ransom payment of 50 loose diamonds — "one carat or larger, of good quality."

"Otherwise, we will poison the food in every Safeway store in the area."

The note said there were "five other food items loaded with cyanide" on the shelves of the La Jolla store, but employees did not find any in an item-by-item scrutiny of shelf goods while the store was closed Sunday.

As they hunted, an anonymous caller told a clerk at Safeway's Pacific Beach store, several miles south, that bottles of teriyaki sauce had been poisoned. Laboratory tests confirmed one bottle did contain a lethal dose of cyanide.

"You will be contacted," it concluded.

"The Poison Gang."

The pickle jar — which employees noticed appeared "cloudy" — was found to contain 1,400 milligrams of cyanide, about six times the fatal dose for a grown man, said Reaser.

The note said there were "five other food items loaded with cyanide" on the shelves of the La Jolla store, but employees did not find any in an item-by-item scrutiny of shelf goods while the store was closed Sunday.

As they hunted, an anonymous caller told a clerk at Safeway's Pacific Beach store, several miles south, that bottles of teriyaki sauce had been poisoned. Laboratory tests confirmed one bottle did contain a lethal dose of cyanide.

NATIONAL REPORT; Foot-deep snow threatened to cancel presidential primary balloting today in seven Kansas counties and closed roads in Colorado and New Mexico. Farther south, dust storms scoured the Texas Panhandle and rains swelled Louisiana rivers to record levels. The Kansas snows — more than a foot in some areas in the last week — caused poor travel conditions that threatened to cancel voting in seven counties where 17,000 of the state's 11 million registered voters live. In the South, weather forecasters today predicted more rain to swell the Pearl River, already overflowing its banks at record levels in southeast Louisiana and headed for a Wednesday crest — expected to be its highest in history.

County Looks To Widen 2 Roads

The biggest task facing Seminole County officials in the effort to see Howell Branch Road and Mailand Avenue widened is acquiring the necessary right-of-way, County Engineer Bill Bush said today.

Although a set of state-prepared widening plans for Howell Branch Road were discovered by the county eight months ago and will speed up that project considerably, Bush said, right-of-way acquisition will take the most time.

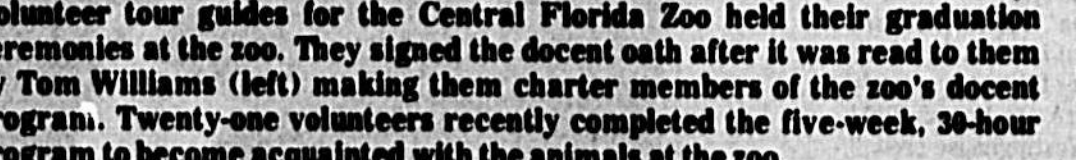

"This could take spring, summer and part of the fall to accomplish," Bush said.

Right-of-way acquisition, he explained, involves identifying parcels of land needed for widening, preparing a list of owners, obtaining independent appraisal of the property and negotiating with the owners to purchase the property at the appraised value.

"Usually this can be done if the appraisal is fair," Bush said. "If the owners

New York Strike Forces Transportation Nightmare

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bus and subway workers shut down the nation's busiest transit system today in a strike for better wages, stranding more than 5 million daily riders and plunging the metropolitan area into a transportation nightmare.

Strikes temporarily were averted on the Long Island Rail Road and suburban bus lines, but slow workdowns were

Volcano Ash Dusts Areas

COUGAR, Wash. (UPI) — "Very abrasive" volcanic ash from the fallout from erupting Mount St. Helens — dusted out-of-west Washington communities and people with respiratory problems were told to stay indoors today.

The mid-colored, clay-like ash began falling shortly after noon Monday in the Keato-Longview area, a community of about 75,000 lying 60 miles west of the volcano which erupted to life last Thursday after 135 years of dormancy.

The mountain blasted pumice and steam irregularly and the fallout continued through the night. Alarmed citizens, complaining of eye irritation and ash-splattered automobiles, besieged radio stations and law enforcement officials with calls asking what to do about the material.

"It looks like all the cars went through the same flour mill," said Charlene Longview "or as if someone took a paint brush, soaked it in gray paint, and splattered everything in sight."

The Forest Service warned the mildly acidic ash particles might irritate skin and nasal passages and could corrode metals and damage textiles if not brushed off with dry cloths. People with respiratory problems were advised to stay indoors.

At Cougar, just 10 miles south of the volcano, Pacific Power and Electric crews at three dams reported heavy settling of ash as the moving southeast toward Portland, and residents reported the ash became increasingly caustic when it came into contact with water.

Mayor Edward Koch, who was at the Sheraton Center Hotel during the last hours of the bargaining, immediately ordered the city's emergency plan put into effect, but conceded: "It is obviously going to be very painful. There will be great inconvenience."

City planners predicted the strike would delay Manhattan with auto traffic. One official said 600,000 cars were expected to clog the island below 60th Street, triple the normal amount.

It was the first walkout against the transit system since Jan. 1, 1966.

U.S., Mexico Trade Pact

The decision of Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo not to join the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) was a surrender to protectionism which poses but is unlikely to halt Mexico's entrance into the main stream of world commerce.

Lopez Portillo was personally in favor of taking the short-term risks of GATT membership in return for long-term gains. He was pushed into rejection by politicians of both the left and right allied with small and medium manufacturers who have long enjoyed high profits within a wall of tariffs and quotas erected against foreign competition.

The United States can do little more immediately to improve its trade relationship with Mexico, a strong and growing relationship that generated $13.7 billion in 1978 and will probably show a 30 percent increase when the 1979 figures are in.

The two nations signed a bilateral trade agreement last Dec. 26, but the Carter administration decided not to implement it unless Mexico joined GATT.

With this hope gone, the agreement is dead and the Department of Commerce says Mexico will have to initiate any effort to negotiate a new one.

President Lopez Portillo's decision has, perhaps, bought his country's industry a breathing space at considerable price. It is a stated Mexican national policy to use its oil wealth to build an industrial base which can compete in the world market and give employment to its growing population.

ROBERT WALTERS Primaries Primarily Positive

WASHINGTON — When politicians and pundits recently were deprived of their favorite topic of conversation by the temporary collapse of both major parties' contests for the presidential nomination, they found a new subject for ceaseless discussion.

Those who thrived upon trading speculation and scenarios on the fates of the various Democratic and Republican contenders were understandably disturbed by the arrival of the denouement after fewer than one-third of the primaries have been held.

Westerners were upset because more than a half-dozen major candidates appeared to have been effectively eliminated from the race before any state in their region had an opportunity to conduct a primary election.

There are countless variations on that theme, with those who unsuccessfully complained that the reforms that opened up the nominating process during the past decade continuing to grip about democracy running amok under the new system.

It should be noted, however, that many of the same voices now being raised in favor of improved geographical balance throughout the primary season were calling only a few years ago for a far different change — a series of regional primaries.

'Sparky' Making Sure Young Tigers Chow Down

LAKELAND, Fla. (UPI) — From all they say, the ballplayers are ready to call a strike.

The executive board of the Players Association meets in Dallas Tuesday to decide on a strike date, and should the players go out as they've been telling everybody they intend to, that'll hurt both sides, including people on the periphery like Sparky Anderson.

As manager of the Detroit Tigers, he represents management and understands its point of view completely. More than most other managers, however, he relates strongly to ballplayers, especially his own, and hopes they don't strike.

If the players do so immediately, that will be the end of spring training and the vast majority will go their separate ways. Anderson wouldn't like to see that because he has worked himself and them equally hard this spring preparing for the American League pennant race.

He was extra watchful of Alan Trammell, his 22-year-old shortstop, and Lou Whitaker, his second baseman, also 22. "From now on," he told them early in spring training, "I want you to meet me in the hotel lobby every morning at the quarter to eight so we can go to a breakfast together. I want to make sure you both eat a decent breakfast."

That wasn't all Anderson did. He left specific instructions with the Tigers clubhouse man that Trammell and Whitaker both should be given a sandwich after they took batting practice and again after a game every day.

"In that way, I knew they were getting wholesome food, not some of that other junk ballplayers go for so much," Anderson said.

It was somewhat amusing to see the white-haired Detroit pilot Trammell aside privately and ask him quietly: "Did you have your milk shakes today?"

"Yes, I did," the 5-foot, 170-pound shortstop would answer solemnly, and Anderson would go away satisfied.

Looking out for his players is nothing new for Anderson. He did the same thing when he managed the Cincinnati Reds, notably with Dave Concepcion and Tony Perez, and neither has ever forgotten his solitude of their welfare.

"If anybody ever asked me what is one of the most important things I've learned as a manager, I'd say it was watching out to see that they get the very maximum out of their bodies," Anderson said. "Most older players know that without having to be told, but you have to stay after some of the younger players because they've got so much natural energy sometimes they neglect to make proper use of it."

Like Whitaker, Trammell, who hit .276 in his second full season with the Tigers last year, went to arbitration over the winter. Both infielders won their cases. Trammell was paid $55,000 last year and was given an additional $5,000 bonus. He was offered slightly more than $100,000 this year and awarded $130,000 at arbitration.

The arbitration proceedings took approximately four hours during which Trammell's agent, Rick Brode, offered his client's side while Vice President Bill Lajoie and two of his associates spoke for the Tigers.

"They talked about the errors I made last season," said Trammell, who committed 26, the highest total among all the shortstops in the league. "I didn't enjoy that, but I knew it was going to be brought up."

Trammell still is in the process of learning his craft, and Anderson, a former infielder, is helping him do it.

"Sparky is a super individual," Trammell said. "He has the ability to make you feel good if you do something good. If you get a kick in the butt, he'll let you have it. He's a fair man."

If there is a strike, Trammell or Whitaker will get paid since they won't be playing. Anderson, who has a five-year contract, will get his money. He's hoping everything will be settled so that all the Tigers, Trammell and Whitaker included, will keep receiving their salaries also.

State Says Crime Web Nationwide

By PETER J. SAMPSON
FRESHOLD, N.J. (UPI)—The state says it has proof of a crime web that through its own laws, protocol, loyalty and secrecy systems controls underworld members throughout the country.
In opening statements in the extortion-murder trial of five reputed mobsters Monday, the state described its evidence of La Cosa Nostra as "of almost nationwide significance..."

Wilson Unclear About Bribes?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House ethics committee witnesses have testified before a subcommittee that Wilson, D-Calif., and transfers of campaign funds could have been made without his knowledge.

Legers, a Los Angeles multi-millionaire who heads a mail order firm, the American Holiday Association, told the committee's opening hearing Monday he gave Wilson $15,500 in loans in 1971, 1972 and 1973 but he did not intend to influence legislation.

Rogers testified he had an interest in several types of postal legislation he had discussed with Wilson, a member of the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee, but he denied trying to buy Wilson's influence.

Walter Bonner, Wilson's chief attorney, said Rogers testified under a grant of immunity and his committee appearance could not jeopardize him unless he lied.

"Did you make any move to influence legislation?" Bonner asked Rogers.

"Absolutely not."

"Is that your testimony before Almighty God?" Rogers said it was.

Wilson also is alleged to have placed Rogers on his congressional payroll at a salary that "not commensurate with the duties performed" and converted $20,000 in campaign funds to his personal use.

Rogers testified he gave Wilson a salary of $12,000 a year plus an "automatic cost of living raise" — from August 1971 to June 1974 and again for the year 1976.

Rogers said he helped prepare news letters and set up meetings with business leaders and city officials, working part time for Wilson in his own office.

"How would anybody know you were a congressional employee?" Rep. Fowler Foye, Jr., D-Ga., asked.

"I had congressional staff license plates on my car," Rogers said.

Rogers testified he made the personal loans to Wilson, set up asking why he needed the money, charged no interest, set no time for repayment and never was repaid.

"Would you lend him any more?" Rogers was asked.

"I don't believe I would," Rogers said.

It was brought out that Rogers, as an officer of a Wilson campaign committee, bank checks and sent them to Wilson's staff, with some of the transactions occurring while Rogers also was Wilson's employee.

Bonner noted Wilson's signature did not appear on the front or back of any checks involved in the allegations.

A General Accounting Office auditor conceded there was no evidence Wilson knew about those transfers.

Mother Back In Custody In Killings Of 2 Infants

VIFFA BEACH, Va. (UPI) — Two weeks ago Annette Spelman pleaded guilty to killing her 15-month-old child, but she was freed pending sentencing to care for her newborn infant. Today she's back in jail charged with the death of her 21-month-old son.

Ms. Spelman, 19, was ordered held without bond Monday by General District Judge Charles D. Jarnell, who also revoked a $5,000 bond imposed when the high school dropout pleaded guilty in the death of her first child.

"I didn't think there was any possibility of this happening again," said prosecutor Linda Dugan, who had agreed with Circuit Judge Kenneth N. Whitehurst's March 20 decision to free the woman so she could care for her infant daughter.

"With 20-30 hindsight, I should have asked that she be kept in custody," Dugan said.

Whitehurst said he was unaware Miss Spelman had a second child when he released her on bond after the woman pleaded guilty to the death of the first child.

"At the time of her previous hearing, she was allowed to remain on bond as part of an agreement with the Commonwealth's attorney," Whitehurst said. "There was no knowledge or inclination before the court there was a second child."

Miss Spelman, to be sentenced May 6 for killing daughter, Tonya Spelman, in October, was charged Saturday with killing her second daughter, Janelle Elizabeth Penn, earlier in the same year.

Poultry, Fish Items Give You Protein

DEAR DR. LAMB—How many grams of protein are necessary every day for an adult of 60 years of age with gout and arthritis?

I'm overweight and cannot afford to purchase meat and I would like to eliminate eggs and still get sufficient protein from the better protein foods if possible. I'd appreciate any suggestions.

DEAR READER—I'm distressed when someone writes and says he can't afford to buy the kind of food he needs to eat. Fortunately there are good quality proteins in a variety of foods that are not quite as expensive as meat. Poultry is just as good a source of protein as the red meats. Fish is also a good source but is relatively expensive.

Milk contains good quality protein as do most of the products made from milk. If you're trying to lose weight, of course, you might use fortified skim milk and uncreamed cottage cheese.

You don't need as much protein as you might think. For adults, 56 grams of protein a day is adequate except for pregnant or lactating women and I guess you're not worried about that.

To give you more complete information about proteins I am sending you two issues of The Health Letter, numbers 3-5 and 34. Proteins, Part I and Part II. Other readers who want these two issues can send 75 cents for EACH with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

You'll get close to 50 grams of protein in a half pound of the raw flesh weight only of poultry or fish or red meat, and you'll get about 40 grams of good protein in a quart of low-fat milk with 2 percent non-fat milk solids added. You'll get the same amount in fortified skim milk.

There are many factors that affect regularly one being recurrently unwell. Young girls often do this to lose weight and it can affect their normal endocrine system and cause irregularity or even total absence of menstrual periods. Why don't you relax about it and if you don't return to normal cycles within a few months, you might want to talk to your doctor about it.

DEAR READER—It's not particularly uncommon for a young girl to be irregular when she first starts having menstrual periods. The whole system is so complex that the amazing thing is the degree of regularity that does occur.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I'm 15 years old and have had my last period 10 weeks ago. Can something be wrong? My sisters didn't have any troubles with their periods when they first got theirs. I'm not pregnant.

DEAR READER—It's not particularly uncommon for a young girl to be irregular when she first starts having menstrual periods. The whole system is so complex that the amazing thing is the degree of regularity that does occur.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDEOSOL

For Wednesday, April 2, 1980

YOUR BIRTHDAY
 April 1, 1980
 Changes that will afford you greater material security are likely this coming year. Circumstances you may not be able to control might inaugurate the transition, but you'll guide it to fruition.
ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're very good today at helping others sort out their affairs. You get to the bottom of things because you take nothing at face value. Getting along with other signs is one of the sections you'll enjoy in your Astro-Graph Letter which begins anew with your appearance today. You'll be noticed wherever you go and you'll want to make a good impression.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be on your best behavior and be extra-conscious of your appearance today. You'll be noticed wherever you go and you'll want to make a good impression.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're not likely to rush your self too much today, yet you will get a surprisingly large amount accomplished. What you do, you'll do well.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) The persistency with which you pursue your goals makes their attainment extremely possible. It's not likely anyone will sidetrack you today.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Be firm regarding your position on an important issue today. If you believe your view to be right, don't let another elbow you aside.
PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Methods that have proven successful should be followed again today. Your objective will be realized easily.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sostag

We are indebted to Summer Cotzain and the American Bridge Teacher's Quarterly for today's hand.

Summer was the unfortunate South and since he tells the story on himself, we are repeating it on this April Fool's Day.

The game was duplicate and West an average or sub-average player.

He opened a jack of diamonds. Summer was with his queen and promptly ran off four spades and three hearts. His discard on the fourth spade was a club. West's three discards were the 5, 8 and 7 of clubs in that order.

Then Summer led a diamond to dummy's king. East chucked a heart and Summer had to decide between a club finesse or a drop of an unguarded king of clubs from West.

If West had been an expert Summer might well have rushed him for blanking his king, but West had made all his discards with no apparent strain, so Summer decided that West could not hold the king. He took the finesse and was down one.

He congratulated West on his fine play and West replied, "The light was bad. I thought my high club was the jack."

Note that if West had kept his king of clubs guarded he would have had to check a diamond. Whereupon South discarded. When Summer high diamond and throw West in with the little one and be sure of the end play winning for him.

Amtrak Train Via Sanford Crashes In North Carolina

LAKEVIEW, N.C. (UPI) — A Florida-to-New York Amtrak passenger train jammed with Easter holiday travelers ignored a stop signal today and slammed head-on with a "big old thud" into a southbound Seaboard Coastline freight train.

The Silver Star, which made stops at Orlando, Winter Park, Sanford and DeLand, leaving Sanford at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday, collided with the Seaboard Coast Line freight at 7:35 a.m., 35 miles from Raleigh, N.C.

A Moore Memorial Hospital spokesman said no fatalities have been reported so far, although there are some serious injuries among the 73 injured, all of whom were taken to the one emergency room.

"We know the accident results from the Amtrak train passing a signal in a stop position," said Ray Bullard of Seaboard Coastline in Jacksonville, Fla. "We are investigating to determine the reason." Both trains had slowed before the collision.

The passenger train, the "Silver Star", was carrying about 330 people, many heading north for the Easter holiday weekend.

A spokesman for the Moore County emergency dispatch office said rescue workers transported about 73 people to Moore Memorial Hospital.

Moore County Administrator Larry Moubry said helicopters from nearby Fort Bragg transported Army personnel to the scene to assist and transport the injured. The Highway Patrol rushed blood from Raleigh, 55 miles away, to local hospitals.

Elliott Henson, spokeswoman for Moore Memorial Hospital, said some of the people taken to the hospital apparently were not injured.

"We have a few serious injuries, some minor injuries and some with none at all," she said.

Amtrak station records show one person boarded the train in Sanford Tuesday night, but the ticketholder's name was unavailable. The names of the injured had not yet been released late this morning.

Rescue workers carried the injured in stretchers across a field to vehicles parked on a dirt road near U.S. 1, which runs parallel to the tracks.

The passenger train collided with the Seaboard Coastline freight around 7:35 a.m. EST near Lakeview. Bullard said the stop signal was about three-fourths of a mile from the point the trains collided.

"The southbound freight train was preparing to enter a passing track and the northbound Amtrak train was supposed to stop at the signal to permit the freight to enter the siding," Bullard said.

Bullard said both trains had slowed down prior to the collision.

Moubry said engines of both trains were knocked off the track.

"We just know both trains partially derailed so it had to have been a pretty good impact," Moubry said.

Dora Cooper, who lives about a mile from the scene of the collision, said she heard a "big old thud" when the trains collided.

Vass volunteer fireman Randy Cameron said "there's three engines totally demolished. I mean they are just torn up."

River Board To Meet In Sanford

The St. Johns Water Management District will hold its official board meeting this month in Sanford in response to an invitation by the Seminole County Commission.

A local group, Friends of the St. Johns, has criticized the district water board for not living up to the purpose for which it was created.

The district board has done nothing to help restore water quality and natural conditions in the upper St. Johns river basin, according to Hugh Pain, a director of Friends of the St. Johns.

"We've been sold down the river," he said.

"Sanford is a city with the most beautiful lakefront in Central Florida," Pain told county commissioners at a work session Tuesday. "But it has the greatest pollution."

"And not necessarily of our own making," said Commission Chairman Bill Kirchhoff.

"Most of it comes from other counties," Pain agreed.

The board will hold a public workshop and its monthly meeting at 2 p.m. Tuesday in Room 201 at the Courthouse. The workshop will be held there at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday, April 16.

Pain said his group's effort must be making an impression on the district board.

"They hired a PR person at $14,000 a year, so obviously we're making waves," he said.

"Make a few more and they'll hire some assistants," Commissioner Bob French said.

Pain said he is pleased the county commission has taken an interest in the fate of the St. Johns. The commissioners are scheduled to meet with members of the district board when they are in town, but no specific time has been set.

"We're so glad you are taking this step," Pain told the commissioners.

"The river is important for so many reasons."

"Senator Brown, another 'Friends' director, also thanked the commission.

"When you're up the well-known estuary with no other means of pollution, you've got to do something," he said.

Seminole County Principal Planner Joyce Bellan, who attended the work session, said the planning department has applied to the district board for a study to study how much water is available to the Geneva area and how much water is expected to be available there in the future with the intent of drawing up water-use regulations.

Shoring Up

A 500-foot strip of the shore of West Lake has been sodded by the developer of The Landings in Longwood to prevent soil from washing into the lake.

Developer Completes Restoration Land Bordering Longwood Lake

By JANE CASSELLBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

Restoration work ordered by the Department of Environmental Regulation (DER) on 500 feet of barren shoreline on West Lake in Longwood has been completed and is awaiting DER inspection, Howard Lefkowitz, vice president of Florida Residential Communities (FRC), said today.

"If you go out there now you will find a fresh bank of sod and aquatic growth respired," he said, "and a half built bicycle and jogging path."

FRC's problems with DER received publicity recently after being brought to the attention of the Longwood City Commission by Commissioner William Mitchell, who wanted the city to help DER to force FRC to restore the lakefront at the firm's planned development, "The Landings."

Lefkowitz thinks the whole thing has been blown out of proportion unfairly damaging the developer's reputation.

"Had the city commissioner not stood up and said what he did at the meeting there would not have been all this fuss and in two or three weeks we would have done the restoration anyway by putting in sod and replacing the aquatic growth," Lefkowitz said. "There was no reason for it. It has nothing to do with the city, but it between me and DER."

Lefkowitz said the damage would have already been corrected if work on the project had not been behind schedule.

"I've got a pretty good reputation with DER and we perform a necessary service," Lefkowitz said. "We pride our selves on our projects. Tiboron and The Landings are designed with so much protection for the lakes it is phenomenal. It was very expensive, but we did it because it is the right way to develop."

FRC's problem began in November when the site development contractor Orange Paving and Construction of Altamonte Springs was laying a major drain pipe that had been approved by the city, Lefkowitz explained. He said it was not a dredging operation and the tractor operator had accidentally scooped up some aquatic weeds when filling in the trench for the pipe.

"It was wrong, he wasn't supposed to do this," Lefkowitz said. "Residents across the lake apparently saw the equipment working and yelled 'dredge and fill' and called the DER," said Lefkowitz.

"Representatives of Orange Paving went in with us to talk to DER and we were sorry we had goofed and would be happy to do whatever was necessary to correct any damage done," said Lefkowitz.

"We asked them to give us until March 15 based on our construction schedule. We were supposed to have the work completed by then on the jogging and bike path and finish resodding."

"March 15 came and we were running behind schedule and I simply forgot about it. If we had been on schedule this would never have happened."

Glenn Vause, DER's field biologist for Seminole County, said on March 25 that FRC had been told in a Dec. 13, 1979 letter to restore the area to its original elevation, revegetate with native vegetation and restore the bulldozed area that was washing into the lake. However, the March 15 deadline had passed without FRC making any effort to correct the situation.

Vause pointed out a timely restoration was of the utmost importance to avoid permanent damage to the lake.

Lefkowitz said since they were forced to resod the area before the asphalt was completed it would now be necessary to go back and replenish the sod when the project is finished.

Firm Takes Hard Look At Sanford

By DIANE PETRYK

A national distributor of small household items has proposed a $2 million warehouse for the Port of Sanford which could add more than 200 jobs to the local economy.

The new 200,000-square foot warehouse would be built by the Seminole County Port Authority (SCOPA) and leased to the firm, said Jim Daniel, SCOPA executive director. It could open as early as October, he added.

A special meeting of the SCOPA board has been called for 4 p.m. Thursday to prepare a proposal concerning the type of building and the lease price.

Port Administrator Dennis Dolgner said the firm is also looking at locations in Orange County and the west coast. Daniel said Orlando's Central Park, an industrial park in south Orlando, and a Tampa area location are also being considered.

But both Dolgner and Daniel said the Sanford location has many advantages for the firm.

"We've got the interstate highway outside our front door," Dolgner said. "The Seaboard Coastline Railroad is right here. An airport is eight miles away and we're on a large canal. You can't get much better than that."

Daniel said SCOPA's proposal will be for a metal building, which is cheaper than other types of construction.

The special SCOPA meeting Thursday will also be to discuss building lease terms with Dade City Tire, a coal-process tire recapping firm.

The warehouse, he added, will be comprised of 185,000 square feet of storage space and 15,000 square feet of office space.

The 200 employees, he speculated, will be involved in inventory control, telephone sales, order-taking, trucking and unloading.

Although the firm will probably bring in its own top management people, Daniel said a larger percentage of the employees will be hired locally.

Daniel said he estimates the building will cost about $10 per square foot to build.

"Two million is a good estimate. The larger buildings come in cheaper sometimes," he said.

If the firm, which does not wish to be named at this time, takes about a month to evaluate proposals, Daniel guesses that the building could be completed by October or November.

"Their (the firm's) schedule is to have it opened no later than the first of next year," he said. "But it could be sooner."

Daniel added that the firm has a warehouse in Miami and one in Georgia. It may be looking at the possibility of combining these, he said, or it may keep the others open in addition to the new facility.

The firm, he said, distributes small appliances to retail outlets, but does no manufacturing.

The special SCOPA meeting Thursday will also be to discuss building lease terms with Dade City Tire, a coal-process tire recapping firm.

TV Show To Kill Off Edith Bunker

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Good old Edith Bunker Archie's long-suffering dingbat wife in the "All In The Family" TV series, will be killed off this summer for the good of the highly rated series.

Carroll O'Connor, who stars as Archie Bunker in the show said Edith's demise would give the weekly show new opportunities and dimensions.

Edith made only four appearances on the series during the past season. Jean Stapleton announced a year ago that she was tired of playing the role and wanted to go on to other activities.

After her departure, at the conclusion of the series' ninth year on CBS, the situation comedy was retitled "Archie Bunker's Place."

O'Connor said, "You can't go on with a leading character in a show who never appears because you're stultified in the kind of stories you can do."

"Edith will die off-camera sometime during the summer and when the show starts up again in the fall it will be a fait accompli. It will open up the show, allowing Archie to meet other women which should provide fresh comedy."

Sanford Threatens To Cancel County's Library Lease

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

The city of Sanford began preparations today to go back into the library business on Oct. 1, 1980 if the county is not willing to compromise on a demand for ownership of the downtown facility.

The city commission at a special meeting this morning voted unanimously to notify the county that the city's lease of the old population building, used as a library by the county, will be cancelled on Oct. 1. City Commissioner Eddie Keith, who is in the hospital, was not able to attend the meeting.

Under an agreement between the city and the U.S. General Services Administration (GSA), the building must be used as a library or its ownership will revert back to the federal government.

The move was necessary, according to Mayor Lee P. Moore, to safeguard the city's ownership of the 40,000 volume library leased to the county along with the building in 1965.

A lease the county is proposing calls for the books to become county property on Oct. 1, 1981.

City Manager Warren Knowles noted it would be virtually impossible for the city to stand by its agreement with GSA if it does not have any books.

Knowles criticized county officials for "stonewalling" during the past four months since a December meeting when the city made its position clear that it wished the downtown library to remain in operation. At that time downtown business leaders and members of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce said they wanted the facility to continue a library, whether under the control of the city or the county.

Knowles said he has made a number of telephone calls to county staff during the past four months attempting to get a signed lease for the period after Oct. 1, 1980 to assure continued operation of the library in the city building.

He noted a lease offered by the city would have permitted the county to use the city building for library purposes practically indefinitely.

Moore pointed out that the city commission, under the current lease arrangement faces a Thursday deadline for See SANFORD Page 2A

Militants Pledge Cooperation With Iran

By United Press International

A spokesman for militants holding 50 American hostages in the occupied U.S. Embassy in Tehran said today the captives will be turned over to the Revolutionary Council "without any problems" if and when the time comes.

"If the government order us to turn over the hostages, it will be done without any problems," the spokesman said in telephone call to London. "It is up to the Revolutionary Council. We are not trying to take power from the Revolutionary Council, so whatever the Revolutionary Council says will be fine with us."

Asked if the militants had any idea what the council would make a decision, he said, "We don't know what they are going to do."

President Abolhasan Bani-Sadr has asked for new assurances from the United States as a condition for the transfer of the hostages to government custody. But a White House official said the administration is not quite sure "what it is they're looking for."

The statements from Bani-Sadr Tuesday injected a new note of uncertainty about the fate of the hostages, now in their 151st day of captivity.

Hope had been raised by his earlier announcement the Iranian government would take custody of the 50 hostages from the militants — believed a first step toward their release — if the United States promised not to threaten Iran.

"We want to be helpful," the White House official said, but "there are obviously limits to how far this president or any president can go."

CAIRO, Egypt (UPI) — A personal physician to the shah of Iran said today the ousted monarch's lymph cancer is "systemic disease" that can spread even beyond the liver.

Dr. George Flandrin of Paris said Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, 60, was recovering well from Friday's surgery to remove his cancerous spleen. He is recuperating at Maadi military hospital, just south of Cairo.

"He's in very good condition," Flandrin said. "His recuperation is normal, he is recovering very nicely and he's now feeling fine."

The shah underwent surgery for removal of a cancerous tumor in his neck at New York Hospital in November.
