Continuing Protest

Mary Spears, Winter Springs, with 2-year-old son Michael in stroller, participates in a two-person protest Monday against abortion practices. She and Joan Blinn of Casselberry, not shown, displayed their "adoption not abortion" message at the obstetrics and gynecology office of Dr. R. Monthree, 585 State Road 434 in Winter Springs. According to Ms. Blinn, the women are part of a group whose members regularly protest at the medical office and distribute anti-abortion literature. They began their activity in September.

'We Didn't Know'

O-Ring Concerns Caught Astronauts By Surprise

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — Four astronauts representing NASA's elite corps of shuttle fliers say they are withholding judgment on whether anyone was "truly at fault" for the decisions that led to the Challenger disaster.

"If there was, in fact, a flaw with the system, that's going to get fixed before we fly again, that and any mechanical problems," shuttle commander Joe Engle said in an interview Monday.

"We're going to have a much stronger and more reliable system and the decision-making system than we had before."

Breaking a month of silence Monday by meeting with reporters to discuss Challenger's demise, the astronauts said they would wait until the presidential commission investigating the accident issues its final report before reaching any conclusions about the cause of the disaster.

Veteran shuttle commander Henry Hartsfield said he did not know about long-running NASA concern about the safety of crucial O-ring seals in the shuttle's solid-fuel booster rockets until Challenger exploded. A seal failure on the right-side booster rocket is a prime suspect in the shuttle disaster.

"We didn't know of O-ring problems until after the accident," said Hartsfield. "I think there were a lot of us in the astronaut office who were caught by surprise."

During two of Hartsfield's three shuttle flights, booster O-rings suffered damage. "I guess that's what made me angry, the O-ring problem, somehow this didn't get to us and I don't know where the fault lies in that," Hartsfield said.

Public affairs officials had hoped to honor requests for interviews with other astronauts today, but sources said the commission expressed "displeasure" about the prospect of astronauts speculating about commission actions and the plans were put on hold.

Shuttle skipper Gordon Fullerton said some of the testimony heard so far by the disaster commission about the O-ring seals in the booster rockets "sounds pretty disturbing."

"However, the whole story's not in," he said in an interview. "The key is to find a

Wekiva Homes Back To P&Z

By Sarah Fischer
Herald Staff Writer

A 1,600-unit residential development along the Wekiva River, which has raised environmental and other concerns, is slated to go before the Seminole County Planning and Zoning Commission 7 p.m. Wednesday at 7 the county services building.

The P&Z will consider rezoning 573 acres to the west of Markham Woods Road from agriculture to planned unit development for The Plantation project. The board continued the case from its January meeting, giving backers of the project time to further study the effects of the development on traffic, sewage disposal and drainage in the area.

The Friends of the Wekiva River Inc., a citizen's group, said they are concerned with the project's plans for stormwater and wastewater management. The residents also fear the construction could set a precedent for future high density development in the area.

And, although the project's stormwater system has been redesigned, County Planning Director Tony Vanderworp said county staff is still opposing the plan.

Developer Hugh Harling of Harling, Locklin and Associates asked the P&Z for a 60-day continuance, saying that the drainage and other aspects of the plan could be revised, including lessening the density to maintain the area's rural character.

County records show that the land on which The Plantation is to be located has been purchased from Richmond American Homes Inc. by Amcor Investments Corporation.

In December, the East Central Florida Regional Planning Council voted to approve the project. Because it is a development of regional impact, the plan must go before the P&Z and the county commission for final approval.

County staff has recommended denial of the project because the proposed density is in conflict with the county's comprehensive plan policies, which only allow for one unit per acre in the area. Staff also said the sewage disposal method proposed for the project is only acceptable for a maximum of 182 dwelling units.

As of Monday, the county had not received any changes to the project's density or sewage system, Vanderworp said.

County staff has accepted a new design plan for stormwater management at the proposed site, the details of which Vanderworp said could be worked out during site plan review.

In other business Wednesday, the P&Z will consider the following requests:

- Ted Williams, rezoning from retail commercial (C-1) to agriculture (A-1) for a parcel located on the north side of Mullet Lake Park Road. Proposed use of the property is for a mobile home.

- Oma Hall, rezoning from single family dwelling district (R-1A) to country estates (RC-1) for 10 acres located on the southeast corner of Bear Lake

City Hall To Get Parking Lot Changes

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

Based on their own experiences, Sanford commissioners concluded that accessibility to city hall is being hampered by the overcrowding of its parking lot. Commissioners approved staff's recommendations for improving space availability at the city hall lot during their Monday workshop and also endorsed a new parking plan for the municipal lot at the Lake Monroe marina.

Commissioners also directed staff to work with the Scenic Improvement Board to determine the exact cost of revitalizing the Palmetto Avenue municipal lot. The board had developed a site plan and estimated it would cost $22,000 for the lot's aesthetic rehabilitation, although the price failed to consider lighting, paving and staff time for the project. Once these costs are determined, the plan will again be presented to the commission for approval.

Much of the congestion at the city hall lot is due to traffic generated by traffic court conventions held on the building's first floor, according to Planning and Engineering Director Bill Simmons. Citizens have complained they are unable to secure nearby parking when they wish to conduct business at city hall's second floor administrative offices, he said.

Present city hall lot designations allow vehicles to park 15 minutes at the two rows closest to the building, for two hours at the four outer rows and for an unlimited period along the lot's eastern border. City staff utilizes two smaller parking fields west of the city hall lot.

The new parking plan calls for a two hour limit for the city hall lot's eastern spaces and, due to their regularly scheduled daytime meetings, commissioners and citizen advisory board members will be issued windshield stickers for their vehicles. The tags will enable unlimited parking anywhere in the lot.

Also, signs will be placed at the city hall lot's two entrances to inform drivers that long-term parking is available at the nearby Palmetto Avenue municipal lot.

Located on the east side of the Seminole County Courthouse, this parking area is in for an ambitious remodeling if commissioners approve the cost of the scenic board's project.

The board's landscaping plan calls for a rehabilitation of irrigation and extensive plantings that include 35 Laurel Oaks for interior medians and 22 Drake Elms along the field's borders.

The project would be funded through the scenic board's allocation in the city budget, according to board chairman Sara Jacobson.

She also said the lot's location across from the Sanford Post Office and the Lake Monroe marina entrance "is a key focal point" for residents and visitors alike and the project "will create a very good visual impression of Sanford for everyone."

City engineers had considered recommending that the site plan's two rows of perpendicular parking be changed to diagonal to enable easier maneuverability for the Lake Monroe boaters who park their trailers there on weekends. On Monday, Simmons said he had reviewed the plan further and determined that the parking plan should remain as presented.

He said a loss of parking had dissuaded him from proposing that the striping be amended and suggested that by allowing boaters to use a more "randomized parking" pattern at the lot on weekends, the city could retain maximum parking on weekdays.

Panel Narrows Field For Police Chief

Six applicants, chosen from a field of 45, have been recommended for consideration as the new Lake Mary Chief of Police by the Central Florida Police Chief's selection committee.

The city must replace Mary Chief Harry S. Benson, who retired March 1 after 11 years as chief. Absent from the list of finalists is Lake Mary Lieutenant Samuel Belfiore, acting Lake Mary Police Chief, who has applied for the job.

Knowing commissioners have the option to choose from outside the recommended six, Lt. Belfiore said Monday he won't count himself out of the running "until the final vote is taken."

Those recommended are:
● Mark Bradford Lamprey, Casselberry, a Winter Park Police Department Lieutenant, who has been with that department since 1977; He is a former Altamonte Springs patrolman.

- Charles Willford Lauderdale III, Killeen, Texas, a 25-year U.S. Army veteran; He is a former patrolman and Chief of Police of Ft. Hood in Texas. He will retire from the Army in April. He is a graduate of the Federal Bureau of Investigation National Academy, where he studied Law Enforcement Management.

Smoke Scare

A "smoke scare" that turned out to be a false alarm sent occupants of the Department of Corrections and Parole office at 115 North Oak Avenue, Sanford, into the street at about 6 p.m. Monday. The firefighters' response also drew spectators before it was determined there was no fire. A caller had reported a smoke smell in the building, said Assistant Chief Ron Neel.

Economic Indicators Decline

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government's leading economic indicators declined by 0.6 percent in January, the biggest drop in eight months, the Commerce Department said today.

The composite index of leading indicators fell from a high of 174 in December to 173, the biggest month-to-month decline since April 1985, according to the department's Bureau of Economic Analysis.

The figures, which provide the broadest gauge of future economic activity, reflect the overall growth of the economy since the base year of 1967, which equals 100 on the index.

Revised data showed the index increased 1.5 percent in December, the largest month-to-month gain since June 1983.

The January decline was due in large part to a drop in plant equipment orders, analysts said. They said the decline was not surprising following a freak December boom precipitated by Japan's large-scale order of commercial aircraft to Boeing Corp. of Seattle.

The index, which is used to help forecast domestic economic activity three to six months in advance, reflected gains in five other areas: Manufacturers' orders for consumer goods and materials, average weekly claims for unemployment insurance, building permits, stock prices and sensitive materials prices.

Irresponsible Parents Dump Kids On State, HRS Says

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services has been forced to accept thousands of teenagers who do not need care but have been rejected by parents unwilling to keep them, a department said.

Parents' attempts to turn their problem children over to the state have left the Children, Youth and Families office running a projected $5.7 million deficit, Pete Kreis, the department's family care director, told a joint meeting of the committee on Children and Youth and an Appropriations subcommittee Monday.

Almost half the 17,000 people admitted to temporary shelters are teenagers, and about 3,000 more teenagers are in long-term foster care, Kreis said. Many of those are abused children who belong in state care, he said, but many others have simply been dumped on the state by irresponsible parents.

"We have brought into expensive care a lot of teenagers and absolved parents of their responsibility," Kreis said. "People have been trying to find a home for children with family conflicts — and they're finding it in temporary care."

"It was designed for abused children, not for parents who can't get along with their 15-year-olds," he said.

Kreis urged the legislators to adopt a bill requiring parents who turn their children over to the state be billed for the state's expenses. For short-term shelter, that comes to about $300 a month, for foster care, about $5,000 a year.

Judges already have the right to bill parents, Kreis said, but most are reluctant to do so because the law is somewhat vague. He endorsed a bill sponsored by Sen. Roberta Fox, D-Miami, which sets out a table of payments parents who turn their children over to the state would have to pay.

HRS would not turn away any genuinely needy child or reject children whose parents could not pay, Kreis said.

"I don't want the money. I want them to think twice about asking the state to take over care of their kids," he said.

His office has also been hurt by a recent court decision requiring HRS to pay employees overtime rather than letting them build up vacation time, Kreis said. Rather than compile an unpayable overtime bill, he said, his division has kept 9.2 percent of its usual positions vacant.

"The impact on service is significant," Kreis said. "I'm very sure it causes delay of service. It means less hands-on work for children and their parents, and there are some risk involved."

"Every day I get up and wish it was July 1 (when the new annual budget will begin) and we've made it through the year," Kreis said.

Kreis said his office would eliminate the projected deficit before June 30 by keeping the positions vacant, and by limiting travel and other expenses.

Presidential Panel Recommends Military Fight Drug Traffic

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A presidential panel says the military should help combat a $110 billion mob-run drug industry, and government contractors should test employees for drugs to eliminate a growing threat to national security.

The President's Commission on Organized Crime, in a lengthy report presented to President Reagan Monday, said $110 billion worth of drug trafficking accounts for about 38 percent of all organized crime activity and demands sweeping measures, including a "much bigger" military role and drug testing for all private and public employees.

The report stops "just short" of recommending the tests for all working Americans. Rodney Smith, deputy executive director of the commission, said. But it urges "every private employer to consider the suitability of such testing," despite a concession that the tests now are not 100 percent accurate.

"In more cases than not it is appropriate," he said. But critics promptly questioned the constitutionality of drug tests, and said military personnel should not be "acting like police."

Baby Food Pulled In N.Y., Ohio

By United Press International

The latest reports of baby food contamination prompted the removal of products from stores in Ohio and New York as well as the arrest of two Kentucky women accused of perpetrating a hoax, authorities say.

Since Feb. 21, the Food and Drug Administration has received 137 complaints of glass in baby food jars from 30 states, plus the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico, the agency said Monday. Only 21 of those reports have been confirmed, an FDA spokesman said.

On Monday, authorities in New York asked that Beech-Nut products be pulled from three stores because of a report of glass contamination, and a grocery store chain in Ohio removed a variety of Gerber baby food from its shelves after a consumer found a mysterious black speck in one jar.

Police in Louisville, Ky., Monday arrested Caroline Hagan and Donna Wells, both 22, and charged them with falsely reporting they found a straight pin in a jar of Gerber baby food while they fed Wells' daughter. Police determined the straight pin had not been inside the jar before it was opened.

Shuttle Delay Up To 18 Months

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With the Challenger investigation dragging on, NASA says it no longer is looking at just a six-month delay but is planning for a grounding lasting 12 to 18 months.

The agency also announced Monday that its special "replanning" task force has been instructed to consider commercial operation of one-use-only rockets as a possible way to help the nation meet a growing satellite launch crisis.

Assignment of payloads to specific launchers will be based on priorities given to various satellites "and the urgency of individual payloads," the agency said. Military satellites have top priority under long-standing agreements between the civilian space agency and the Department of Defense.

Sharp Drop In Crude Oil Prices

NEW YORK (UPI) — A sharp drop to $12.27 a barrel in crude oil prices could push gas pump prices down 25 to 35 cents a gallon from December's levels over the next few months, one analyst says.

West Texas intermediate, the benchmark U.S. crude, dropped 99 cents to $12.27 a barrel in the contract for current delivery on the New York Mercantile Exchange Monday. That is the lowest price it has traded at since the exchange began the contract in 1982.

Federal Government May Step In To Solve Liability Insurance Crisis

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If states don't solve the malpractice and liability insurance crisis soon, the federal government may be forced to step in, two congressmen are warning.

Reps. John Porter, R-Ill., and Pete Stark, D-Calif., told a press conference Monday they have introduced a resolution urging states to take action to reform the insurance industry, historically regulated by the states.

"This resolution is a shot across the bow, warning states to act or be acted upon," Porter said. "If the states fail to act, a role for the federal government is inevitable."

The two congressmen also released the first installment of a five-part General Accounting Office study of the problem — a report whose title suggests the difficulties facing lawmakers tackling the thorny issues.

The report is titled: "Medical Malpractice: No Agreement on Problems or Solutions."

It concludes that the four parties most affected by the malpractice crisis — doctors and health providers, lawyers, insurance companies and consumers — could not agree on limiting monetary damages for pain and suffering or on whether a federal

'Every unit of local government in America is facing a crisis in their coverage or ... premiums. They are watching their liability rates soar—or having their insurance policies canceled... even if there is no history of lawsuits.'

role is warranted, among other issues.

Porter said the only thing they agreed on is: "This problem is going to get worse in the next five years if nothing is done."

Among the reforms the two proposed are a cap on pain-and-suffering awards and a payment of large awards over time rather than all at once. Stark acknowledged that laws limiting pain-and-suffering awards will be tough to pass at the federal level, though some states have adopted limits.

Another recommended state reform is that parties bearing less than half the fault in medical malpractice cases should have to pay only a proportionate amount of the damages. That would prevent so-called "deep pocket" suits in which people sue whoever has the most money regardless of their degree of fault.

Doctors and other health providers are not the only ones being hit with skyrocketing insurance premiums, said Porter.

"Every unit of local government in America is facing a crisis in their coverage or in the premiums," he said. They are watching their liability rates soar — or having their insurance policies canceled — for the recreational facilities they operate, even when there is no history of lawsuits.

"The people are getting damn mad about their liability insurance," said Stark, chairman of the House Ways and Means subcommittee on health.

He criticized doctors for being too lax in punishing incompetents among themselves, calling the medical profession "an old boy or old girl fraternity or sorority that won't dump on its members."

Porter, a lawyer, said something must be done to "make the system more predictable" regarding cash awards for malpractice, but he cautioned it would be "unwise" to regulate the fees attorneys get in malpractice and liability cases.

Chemist Sues For Royalties

An Orlando man has sued a Seminole County business asking for back royalties on petroleum-related formulas he said he developed and an injunction against the company from using the formulas.

Chris Clausen III, Ph.D., filed suit Thursday against Bell Laboratory Inc., of Longwood. In addition to the royalties and injunction, Clausen is asking for unspecified damages in excess of $5,000.

According to the suit, Clausen developed several formulas in 1983 and 1984 for products which were marketed by Bell Laboratory. Clausen received 50 cents per gallon of the final products sold.

They included Klear Shield, a rain dispersant; Deezol Plus, a cold weather fuel additive; 83 G, a gasoline additive; 83 D, a diesel additive; MBL Concentrate, MBL oil, MBL grease, a carburetor cleaner and cleaner bath, and a crankcase flush, the suit asserts.

Clausen states that the agreement he had with the company was oral and in November, 1985, he wrote them and ended the agreement. He says the company has continued to use the products and has not paid him royalties since April, 1985.

The case has been assigned to Circuit Judge C. Vernon Mize Jr. No hearing date has been set.

Couple Sues U-Haul For Bike Injury

An Altamonte Springs man and his wife have sued a U-Haul business in that city for injuries the husband received near that business when he fell off his bicycle.

Angle and Margarita Alieca filed suit against U-Haul, 598 W. State Road 436. They are seeking an unspecified amount of damages in excess of $5,000.

Alieca states in the suit that on May 27 he was riding his bicycle on the sidewalk past the business when an employee operating a lawn mower ran onto the sidewalk, causing Alieca to take evasive action. In doing so, he states, he fell off of his bike and received injuries.

He states he has suffered pain, mental anguish and incurred medical expenses. His wife is suing for loss of companionship, services and consortium.

The case has been assigned to Circuit Judge S. Joseph Davis Jr. No hearing date has been set.

County To Receive Additional Sewerage Disposal Capacity

By Sarah Fischer Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County is slated to receive additional sewage treatment and disposal capacity under an agreement with the City of Orlando to participate in a $75 million expansion of the Iron Bridge plant.

Orlando is proposing a 16 million gallons per day expansion of the plant near Oviedo using wetlands as a method of effluent disposal, County Environmental Services Director Jim Bible said.

The county granted a special exception to permit Orlando to construct the regional sewer plant in Seminole County.

The Orlando-owned sewer plant serves southeast Seminole County and the cities of Casselberry and Winter Springs, as well as Orlando, Winter Park, Maitland and other parts of Orange County.

The county has formally amended its intergovernmental agreement with the city of Orlando to participate in the expansion of Iron Bridge, including construction of a 16-mile transmission pipeline and a 1,600-acre artificial wetlands disposal site.

The expansion would be available in two phases of eight million gallons per day each, bringing the plant's total capacity to 44 million gallons per day.

Seminole County is scheduled to receive 3½ million gallons per day capacity during each phase of the construction, or a total of seven million gallons per day, Bible said.

Orlando, Casselberry and Winter Park will also receive additional sewer capacity as a result of the expansion, he said.

Seminole County would pay some $30-$35 million to participate in the expansion, Bible said. He added that the county is undertaking a financial assessment to study how it could fund its share of the project, including connection fees, utility reserves and external financing.

Orlando is taking bids on project and hopes to begin construction within the next two to three months, Bible said.

The project will entail expansion of the Iron Bridge facility and construction of a wetlands on which the treated effluent would be disposed, Bible said.

The expansion is projected to service new connections in south central Seminole County over the next 20 years or more, he said.

Black Students Seek Cap On Future Tuition Hikes

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Black student leaders say proposals for up to four years of 15 percent tuition hikes — combined with federal cutbacks and rising admission standards — could mean the "virtual extinction" of black students.

Florida Black Student Union Vice President Stan Halbert said at a news conference Monday that the organization will lobby during the legislative session that begins next month to cap all future tuition increases at 5 percent annually.

The Legislature considered but rejected a similar proposal last year.

Gov. Bob Graham's proposed budget for next fiscal year includes a 12 percent tuition hike at state universities, and Chancellor Charlie Reed has proposed steadily increasing tuition until students pay 25 percent of the cost of their educations.

Graham and Reed have also proposed increases for financial aid programs.

But Florida Black Student Association Vice President Stan Halbert said Reed's proposal, which was developed by a special task force, could mean 15 percent tuition hikes for each of the next four years and 10 percent hikes every year thereafter.

Ex-Sheriff's Ethics Probed

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Former DeSoto County Sheriff Robert A. Thomas faces censure, reprimand and fines of up to $5,000 on charges he profited by the purchase of a patrol car two days after he lost a re-election bid in 1984.

Bonnie Williams, deputy director of the state Ethics Commission, said a public hearing will be scheduled on the charges. The commission formally agreed two weeks ago there was probable cause to believe the charges might be true.

Thomas has declined comment on the ethics complaint. Investigators charge that two days after Thomas was defeated in the September 1984 primary, he bought a new Chevrolet Citation cruiser for his department without going through the competitive bidding process, trading in three used vehicles.

They say Thomas then bought two of the trade-ins — a 1976 Chevrolet 4-wheel-drive pickup truck and a 1983 Honda all-terrain motorcycle — for his personal use.

Supreme Court Won't Hear Craft Appeal

By Andrea Neal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — TV anchorwoman Christine Craft won support from the only woman on the Supreme Court Monday, but lost an appeal for damages from the TV station she says demoted her because she was too unattractive.

The high court, over Justice Sandra Day O'Connor's objection, let stand a June ruling by the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, which threw out $325,000 in damages Craft won from a Kansas City, Mo., television station.

The appeals court said the jury award was not justified by the facts of the case, which arose 4½ years ago when Craft was removed from a job as anchorwoman for KMBC-TV in Kansas City, Mo.

O'Connor said in a brief statement that she would have heard the case, but it takes the votes of four justices to grant a hearing. Neither O'Connor nor any other justice had further comment.

Craft, 41, reached at her home in Sacramento, Calif., called the rejection a "great disappointment," but encouraged other women to follow her lead in fighting discrimination in the workplace.

"I'll have to take solace in the fact it's made a big difference for a lot of women in the industry," she said, adding, "I think we have won a moral victory."

"There have been cases after mine in which women have been able to settle for huge amounts," Craft said. "I know my case created a path for them."

Marsha Levick, lawyer for the National Organization for Women Legal Defense and Education Fund which backed the appeal, said Craft will get more than a footnote in the history books.

"The important thing about Christine's case is she really did open the doors for an awareness about sex discrimination in the media," Levick said. "Christine is a representative of discrimination within the industry. She will always be a representative of that."

In other actions Monday, the court:

—Agreed to decide whether offices of national banks that offer only discount stock brokerage services are bank branches and subject to federal banking rules.

Police Dogs Aid In Capture of Burglary Suspect

Longwood police used police dogs to help nab a 35-year-old Winter Park man caught in the garage of a home at 134 Shomate Drive, Longwood, at about 2 a.m. Sunday.

The man, who reportedly refused police orders to surrender after police were called and brought in dogs to search for a burglary suspect, also reportedly struggled with officers after being handcuffed.

A policeman's hand was injured and when the suspect was subdued he refused to identify himself and was booked into jail as "John Doe."

Jail officials said he has been identified as Gary W. Loeffler and was being held in lieu of $15,000 bond. He has been charged with burglary to an occupied dwelling, resisting arrest with violence, possession of burglary tools and battery to a police officer.

GIRL'S MOM JAILED

Gregory Jerome Drayton, 33, of P.O. Box Oviedo, who was treated for knife wounds at Florida Hospital—Altamonte, told Seminole County sheriff's deputies his girlfriend's mother attacked him when he drove up to her home at about 6 p.m. Saturday.

Drayton said his girlfriend was with him when her mother allegedly came outside and attacked him. The mother has told sheriff's deputies Drayton kicked her.

After Drayton was questioned by deputies at the hospital, Christine G. Watson, 48, of 618 Plum Lane, Altamonte Springs, was arrested at her home, charged with aggravated battery. She was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

ROBERT & PRAYER

A gunman who demanded cash and ordered a clerk to lie on the floor got away with about $65 in a 12:54 p.m. Sunday robbery of a convenience store at 3211 Hunt Club Blvd., Longwood, a sheriff's report said.

In another case at about 1:25 p.m. Saturday, a would-be bandit who showed a gun at Cumberland Farms, 219 Oxford Road, Fern Park, fled without taking cash. He first appeared to be dissuaded from the robbery attempt after he asked for cash and manager Lucille S. Rainey, 47, of Casselberry, began talking to him about religion.

The man left the store, but returned for a second robbery try. When Ms. Rainey began praying out loud the suspect fled, but vowed to return, a sheriff's report said.

BOTTLE BATTLE

A man who reportedly became disruptive and fought when asked to leave the Hotline Bottle Club, State Road 436, Altamonte Springs, at about 6 a.m. Saturday, has been charged with aggravated battery after allegedly hitting a club doorman in the head with a bottle.

Altamonte Springs police reported arresting Ernest Lee Alston, 31, of Orlando. He has been released on $2,500 bond and is scheduled to appear in court March 17.

27-year-old woman was charged with aggravated battery after allegedly hitting a bouncer at Fern Park Station, Fern Park, in the head with a beer bottle.

That woman, who reportedly tried to leave the scene in a car which reportedly hit another vehicle at the Fern Park Boulevard club, was also charged with aggravated assault and disorderly conduct.

Seminole County sheriff's deputies arrested Brenda Kay Scribner, 27, of 1530 Park Drive, at about 1 a.m., Sunday. She was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

—Donald C Haun, 30, of 323 Cherokee Court, Altamonte Springs, at 2:10 a.m. Monday in woods behind Shenandoah Apartments on U.S. Highway 17-92, south of Sanford. Haun allegedly abandoned his vehicle after hitting a dumpster while allegedly attempting to flee from a Seminole County sheriff's deputy who first reported seeing Haun as he drove his car out of a ditch in front of the apartments. The deputy chased Haun on foot into nearby woods where he was arrested and reportedly struggled while being handcuffed and placed into a patrol car. He has also been charged with driving with a revoked license, resisting arrest with violence and fleeing to elude. He was being held in lieu of $1,500 bond.

MAN REVIVED

A Sanford man, overcome by smoke from a stove fire, was revived by firemen who found him lying unconscious in his Park Avenue kitchen Sunday night, according to a Sanford fire report. After receiving oxygen from the firemen, the man declined hospital transport, the report said.

In addition to smoke damage throughout the apartment, the top of the stove was seared in the incident, the report said.

OUTDOOR FIRES

A brush fire behind East Valencia Court on Saturday and a dumpster fire on Palmetto Avenue on Sunday were extinguished by Sanford firemen, according to a Sanford fire report. Minimal damage was reported in both incidents.

AUTO ARSON?

Sanford firemen suspect arson in a fire to a 1976 Vega parked at Higgins Terrace on Saturday night, according to a Sanford fire report. The vehicle received an undetermined amount of damage after a fire ignited from a cigarette that had apparently been left on the front seat, the report said.

The incident is under investigation, the report said.

3-Year Sentence For Rape

A Longwood man, arrested on charges of kidnapping and rape, has been sentenced to 3 years in prison to be followed by 27 years of probation. It was one of four cases heard recently.

William Bruce "Rocky" Marshall, 20, of 258 Short St., was sentenced by Circuit Judge Robert B. McGregor who gave Marshall credit for 32 days already served.

McGregor also ordered Marshall to pay the Public Defender's office $500 and possess no gun during his probation.

According to court records, on Sept. 15 a 20-year-old woman was dragged at knifepoint from a Sanford home at about 11:30 p.m. Her stepfather was stabbed in the left side when he tried to rescue her and was also hit with the suspect's car as the suspect fled, taking the victim with him. Neither the woman or her father were seriously injured, according to police.

The accused rapist and the woman were found by police about eight hours later at her Winter Springs home. The woman told police the man had raped her twice. She reportedly knew the suspect. He could have received up to life.

In other court action:

—Ronald Scott Korb, 25, of Foothall Way, Casselberry, arrested nude in January at an apartment leasing office at 2400 Howell Branch Road. He was charged with performing a lewd and lascivious act. McGregor sentenced him to two years of community control, a form of in-house arrest. McGregor also ordered Korb to undergo mental health counseling and serve 3 years probation. He could have received up to a year in the county jail.

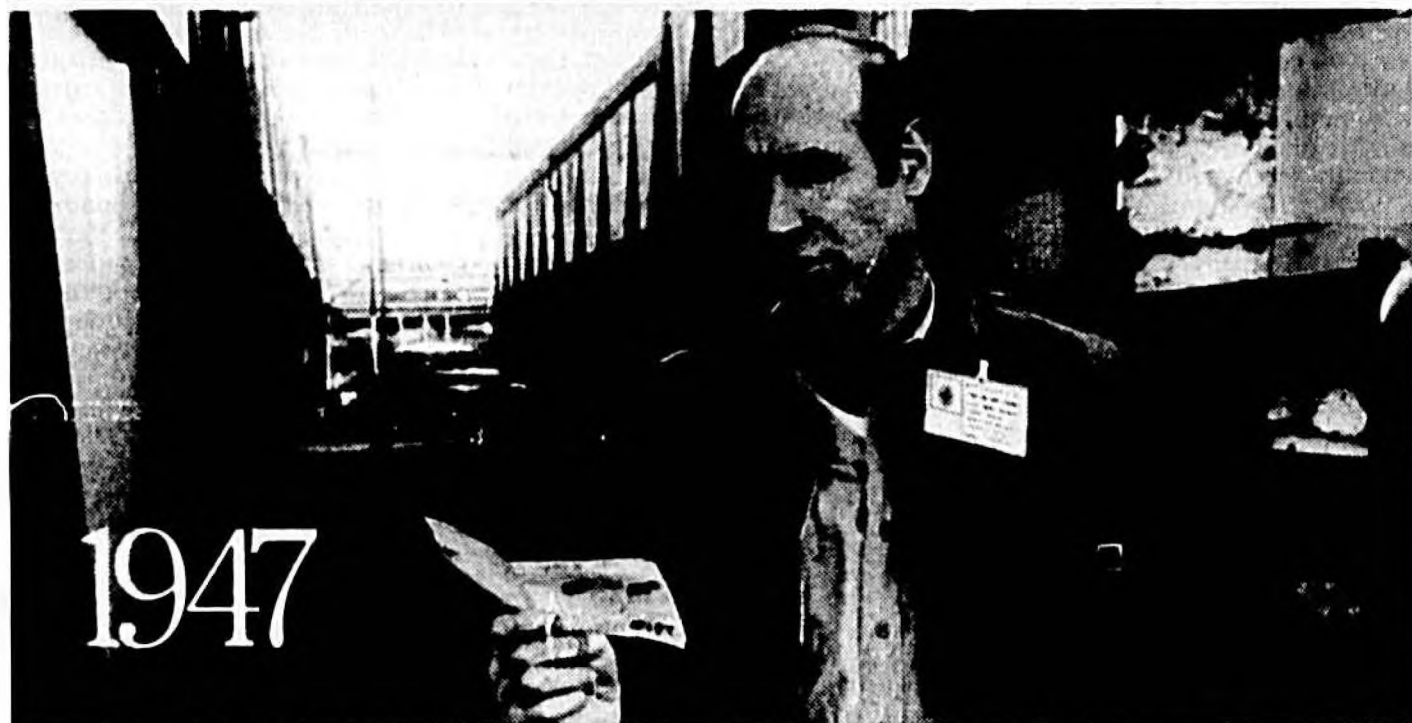

—Joel Balada, 36, of 3220 Chadwick Road, west Seminole County, arrested in October on a charge of aggravated assault. He was sentenced by McGregor to one year probation and ordered to consume no alcohol during that period or possess a weapon-type knife. He was also ordered to pay court costs and the Public Defender's office $150.

According to court records, a Apopka rooming house resident told Seminole County sheriff's deputies that he jumped out of his bedroom window to escape another resident who had allegedly threatened to kill him. He said the man was armed with a knife. When the deputies arrived at the address, they reported finding the suspect in the living room of the home. Deputies took a butcher knife from the man's pocket, a report said. Balada could have received up to a year in the county jail.

—Terry Dean Dillon, 22, of Apt. 98 at 605 Northlake Blvd., Altamonte Springs, arrested in October on a charge of selling marijuana to an undercover officer. He was sentenced by McGregor to 2 years probation with 10 days in the county jail.

Selling Of Conrail

For nearly a year since Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole accepted Norfolk Southern Corp's $1.2 billion bid for Conrail, the government-owned railroad whose tracks crisscross the Northeast, Congress has been hoping to find a better deal for taxpayers. Unfortunately, no such deal appears on the horizon. It's time, the Senate recently decided, to take the money and return Conrail to the private sector.

There's been good reason for hesitation. Norfolk Southern's bid is far below the $7 billion the government has spent on Conrail since the public corporation was created a decade ago to rescue the Penn Central and six other bankrupt rail lines, and it's less than Conrail would be worth as scrap. Moreover, its bid is approved, Norfolk Southern will be entitled under tax laws to depreciate Conrail's assets. That would cost the Treasury $400 million in revenue over four years, according to the Congressional Budget Office. Opponents of the deal think the taxpayers can do better. "We've looked this gift horse in the mouth, and we need a horse with better teeth," says Sen. John Heinz of Pennsylvania.

One alternative would be to accept a rival $1.4 billion bid by a group put together by the Wall Street banking firm of Morgan Stanley. The group proposes to preserve Conrail as an independent railroad that would eventually be sold off in a public offering.

This option appeals particularly to some Midwest and Northeast shippers who worry that merging Conrail into Norfolk Southern will diminish rail competition and force higher rates, but it doesn't much improve the return to taxpayers. For that reason, the Senate rejected it.

Another alternative is simply to do nothing. On paper, Conrail is operating profitably, which is another reason why nothing was lost by waiting; perhaps several years down the road, the company will command a higher price in the market.

But that is looking less and less likely. Conrail's base, the heavy industries of the Northeast, is rapidly eroding: between 1977 and 1984, Conrail's tonnage declined by a quarter and its carloads by more than a third.

As the auto and steel industries move toward Tennessee and other states of the Sun Belt, and as the deregulated trucking industry grabs more traffic, those totals are likely to decline even more.

As a stand-alone railroad, say independent analysts, Conrail remains a likely candidate for renewed government help, particularly if the economy sours.

It is a hazard that ought finally to swing the House now to accept Norfolk Southern's bid. Taxpayers who invested $7 billion to save Conrail are entitled to be disappointed with a $1.2 billion selling price.

But that's no reason to risk more money on Conrail when adequate rail service in the Northeast can be preserved by selling the company.

That's what Congress wanted when it ordered the sale in 1981: that's what the House can achieve by approving the Norfolk Southern bid.

What David Stockman's Book Will Say

WASHINGTON — Official Washington is nervously awaiting former Budget Director David Stockman's memoirs, in which, I have learned, he will blame Republicans, from President Reagan on down, for his failure to cut the deficit in Reagan's first term.

Stockman is being paid $2 million by Harper & Row for what is sure to be a publishing blockbuster. Said one book editor familiar with what Stockman's book will deal with: "There will be revelations that will embarrass people. The man has a sense of mission that overrides any sense of delicacy."

No one, outside of his publisher, has yet seen the closely guarded galleys to the book, which is due out in April.

But I have been privy to many of Stockman's privately held views and bitter frustrations on the budget, as a result of a candid interview held before he left his Office of Management and Budget job last July. Knowledgeable sources say that these same complaints will be in his forthcoming book.

Here's a sampling of what Stockman had to say during our extraordinary one-hour talk in his OMB office when he was preparing Reagan's fiscal 1986 budget proposals:

— On Reagan's opposition in his first term to eliminating nonessential programs like the Small Business Administration and urban development action grants (UDAGs): "The problem is that on a lot of these (programs), the president isn't against them."

Take, for example, the $4.5 billion revenue sharing program. "I tried to cut that out in 1981. We had a big fight in the Cabinet room in front of the president and the president decided we had to keep revenue sharing." Reagan finally called for its elimination last year. It is due to expire in 1987.

— On cutting the $750 million subsidies for military commissaries: "The Defense Department and the Joint Chiefs of Staff would bleed more over (saving) that than they would the MX missile. It doesn't have a snowball's chance. I'm serious. They would put more lobbying muscle into saving the commissaries than they would into saving the MX."

"I'm going to go after it in this budget, but you watch and see what happens. The Republicans, they're the worst. See, anybody who's got big military installations in their state will go bats, will just go crazy. Virginia Sens. Paul Trible, John Warner, even (Texas Sen.—) Phil Gramm — and Phil's as straight as they come. He's the only true conservative in Congress. (California Sen.) Pete Wilson will go crazy on it."

Reagan never proposed cutting the commissaries.

— On his early attempts to cut the UDAG program: "That got stopped internally. (Then-White House counselor) Ed Meese stopped that because a lot of people got to him and said this was a Republican program. Well, that's nonsense. Jimmy Carter came up with it. They used it as the biggest election boondoggle in history" in 1980.

— On reducing the military's 20-year-and-out retirement program: "Every time I try to cut that, the Joint Chiefs come in and tell the president that it's going to destroy the armed services. He won't cut it." Thus, military personnel are still allowed to retire at 50 percent of their basic pay as early as age 38.

Trigger Happy Senators

By Steve Gerstel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate may well be, as it often claims, the world's most deliberative body, a description ill-suited for many members. Some U.S. senators are positively trigger-happy.

Some of them are in such a rush to grab a headline or a spot on the evening news, they abandon all caution and fire away. And, truth be told, reporters don't mind a bit.

A most gross example occurred two weeks ago and, in this instance, the main culprit was Assistant Senate Democratic leader Alan Cranston, who just beat out Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass.

Just to make sure he and the House were not ignored in what promised to be a perfect situation, Rep. Stephen Solarz, D-N.Y., paused long enough in his many travels around the world to get in the act.

What happened was this. Oscar Salvaterra, the marketing director of the Los Angeles bureau of the Philippine News, was shot to death in his home. The News and its publisher, Alex Esclamado, were strong opponents of Ferdinand Marcos, who at the time was still president of the Philippines.

Within hours of Salvaterra's death, a threatening letter was found and Esclamado, on the basis of initial reports, justifiably felt, on the basis of what he knew, that his Los Angeles bureau manager had been shot by Marcos's "hit" men.

Esclamado relayed his fears to Cranston, who, properly, called FBI Director William Webster and asked for federal help in protecting Esclamado and his family as well as Salvaterra's survivors.

It was at this point, however, that Cranston went off the deep end — issuing a press release that announced Salvaterra's murder and placed the blame on Marcos.

Not to be outdone, Kennedy tried to slip a resolution through the Judiciary Committee and, failing that, introduced it in the Senate that very night. The resolution said the murder and threats "appear to be politically motivated" and called for a swift investigation of the "terrorist" act.

Cranston, Kennedy and Solarz had barely finished indicting and convicting Marcos when the Los Angeles police made an arrest. Taken into custody as suspects in the murder were Salvaterra's 17-year-old son and the youth's 18-year-old girl friend.

Conservatives' Dog Days

A Maryland reader has sent along a column by George McGovern in which the former senator notes that various conservative organizations have fallen upon evil times, financially speaking, and rejoices at the thought that his own 1980 defeat may have deprived his tormentors of a profitable target. My correspondent urges me to "set the record straight" by providing "a factual report."

Alas, dear reader, it is all too true. McGovern has, for once, stumbled into accuracy — much as a drunken driver will, from time to time, weave into the lane he is supposed to drive in.

"War," Randolph Bourne argued, "is the health of the state." However true that may be, the corollary is certainly true that conflict is the mother's milk of political activism. As publisher of National Review for the past 28 years, I have seen its circulation rise and fall in direct relation to the mood of the conservative movement that provides most of its readership. It rose steadily in the late 1950s and early '60s as conservatives became aware of each other and developed their issues and spokesmen. It peaked with Barry Goldwater's nomination for president in 1964, then slumped as the Nixon administration came along and knocked the wind out of the movement. Conservatives — can you blame them? — just didn't want to read about Spiro Agnew's troubles and the Watergate mess.

The 1980s have, of course, revived conservative spirits enormously, but now there is a new problem: With a conservative president in the White House and the liberals in disorderly retreat, the conservative tendency is to brood gloomily over those problems (and there are always plenty of them) that remain unsolved, or even unaddressed. National Review's circulation is relatively high these days, but the old spirit of embattled yet optimistic camaraderie is missing. Much has gone well, but not everything. We disagree among ourselves over the question of Reagan's successor. We are, in a real sense, the victims of our own success.

Certain conservative organizations — notably those heavily dependent on fund-raising by direct-mail solicitation — are in much deeper trouble for basically the same reason, and it is these that McGovern was chortling over. Direct-mail wizards like Richard Viguier devoted the 1970s to building huge mailing lists of conservatives by concentrating on specialized causes (anti-abortion, anti-gun control, etc.) and transient issues (e.g. the Panama Canal treaties). They then used these lists to zero in on the Senate's noisiest liberals, and quite a few of them, including McGovern, were carried, feet first, out of the chamber for good in 1980.

Now, in Ronald Reagan's second term, not even Viguier's loud and persistent criticisms of Reagan, George Bush and many aspects of their administration can flog the old lists into the usual prodigies of money-raising. Viguier has put his headquarters office building up for sale, sold his magazine, The Conservative Digest, and cut his staff from 200 to 70.

Genetic Studies Hit Snag

By Robert Strand

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Scientists searching for ways to cure genetic diseases by fixing the genes that cause them have hit a road-block.

They can get the technique to work in the test tube, and to work in mice, but they can't get it to work in monkeys, the closest relative of humans. Before gene therapy can be attempted with people, it first must be successful with monkeys.

The disappointing news emerged at a recent seminar at Stanford, sponsored by Scientists' Institute for Public Information, in which experts described their current efforts.

However, while the researchers might be frustrated for now, they have not lost their expectation that answers will be found.

"The question is not whether (the new techniques will be applied) but how and when," said Nancy Wexler of the Hereditary Disease Foundation of Los Angeles.

Paul Berg, a Stanford biochemist and a Nobel laureate, said every human disease is caused either by a genetic flaw or a genetic susceptibility to the ailment. Genes affect our ability to respond to any infection, even such common virus-induced ailments as colds or flu.

Genetic therapy involves implanting healthy genes in the cells of patients with defective genetic information.

Some diseases are caused by a flaw in a single gene, and because of this apparent simplicity, these are the diseases on which genetic researchers now concentrate.

An example is severe combined immunodeficiency, the disease that killed David, the famous "Bubble Boy," who lived in a sterile, plastic bubble for 12 years before his death in 1984.

The disease causes almost total inability to resist infection, and David died of a common virus and cancer after a bone marrow transplant failed to provide a functioning immune system. About 10 American children are born with the disease each year and typically die before their second birthdays.

Last year W. French Anderson of the National Institutes of Health said his work with mice was encouraging enough that he might propose early this year federally approved research on humans.

But Anderson said experiments with monkeys presented much more trouble.

Whistle Blower Gets Grudging Apology

By Jack Anderson
And Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON — As a retired Air Force officer, Myron M. Hnatto probably should have guessed what the outcome of his complaint to the government would be.

He asked the White House for an "independent inquiry" into the official harassment of his son, John, an Energy Department whistle blower. Instead, the White House turned the matter over to the same bureaucrats the younger Hnatto had exposed.

Not surprisingly, the reply the father got tended to gloss over the mistreatment his son had received from his bosses. Here's the story:

"I do not have faith that an explanation by officials of the Department of Energy would be fair and accurate," Myron Hnatto explained to President Reagan in his letter of Oct. 9, 1984. He, therefore, requested an independent inquiry into the harassment of his son, which we had reported in this column.

John Hnatto's offense was telling congressional investigators about security lapses at government nuclear weapons plants. Not only did his recommendations go unheeded, but Hnatto was slapped with an official reprimand and threatened with the loss of his security clearance, which would have cost him his job.

Belatedly, Hnatto received a grudging apology from the DOE for this response.

The bulk of the criticism, first from Hnatto and then from Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., was leveled against William Hoover, director of the Energy Department's Office of Military Applications; James W. Culpepper, former deputy assistant director for security affairs; and officials in the Office of Safeguards and Security.

Internal files of the White House Correspondence Unit, obtained by our associate Tony Capaccio, show that the elder Hnatto's letter to the president asking for an independent inquiry was sent to Hoover and company for action. In fact, the final version of the reply to Myron Hnatto, submitted to the White House for release, was signed by Hoover.

Hoover told us he bore "no malice" toward John Hnatto. "He said the letter to Hnatto's father was 'coordinated by my staff,' and added, 'I didn't provide any facts.'" Hoover commented, "I would have been just as happy if someone else had responded to the White House, frankly."

The White House reply, dated Jan. 14, 1985, contained no outright lies, but it hardly gave a complete version of some events.

For example, the letter said Hnatto's reprimand was "for what was thought at the time to be a violation of DOE regulations and procedures regarding proper handling of classified material." It failed to note that the reprimanding official had testified: "Both my initial inquiries and discussions with Mr. Hnatto indicated to me that his actions had not resulted in the compromise of classified material."

The letter did note that "due to Mr. Hnatto's belief that the OSS (Office of Safeguards and Security) actions were excessive, a letter of apology was issued for any misunderstanding or unwarranted actions directed to him." It did not mention that the apology was issued under the pressure of Dingell's investigation and an inspector general's report criticizing the actions taken against Hnatto.

Nor did the letter to the father disclose that one of those who had "coordinated" the response had once referred to the inspector general's report as a "piece of (excrement)," and that this official and a colleague had argued against giving John Hnatto the apology.

Seminole Is The Surprise Of State Meet

This past weekend at the 4A State Championships at Lyman High School some pretty outstanding feats were accomplished.

Even though the Seminole County area was not heard from in the winners' bracket, big strides were made toward leveling up with the powerful Miami and Tampa areas.

Seven grapplers made it to the semifinal round, which is believed to be the largest contingent to advance that far in county history.

Sheraton Mays, Troy and Tracy Turner of Seminole, Troy Jackson and Matt Broberg of Lake Mary along with Chad Dublin and Pat Perkins of Lyman all won their first two matches to qualify for Saturday morning's semifinal round.

Mays (109) and Troy Turner (159) finished second, Perkins (224) and Broberg (130) grabbed thirds while Tracy Turner (149), Dublin (116) and Jackson (unlimited) snared fifths. Mays, the Turners and Jackson are all underclassmen.

Seminole High School was the team that surprised the field the most. Only winning six regular season dual meets and not coming close to challenging anyone in the Seminole Athletic Conference, district or regional championships, the Seminoles finished seventh in the state tournament — their highest finish in the schools' history. Last year under coach Roger Beathard, the Seminoles finished 11th.

"We turned a few heads and shocked a few people this past weekend," Seminole coach Glenn Malolini said. "We did the job at the state meet. If I put the same team out now, we could probably go 10-5-1. We've improved that much."

Troy Turner had to have one of the more frustrating weekends of any wrestler in the complex.

Turner had an easy time of it in his first two rounds, pinning North East's Mark Ackett in 3:57 and whipping up on Coral Gables' Ryan Lilburn, 8-2. However, in the very next round against Tampa Leto's Ray Bolestia, Turner had a tournament-ending injury and one he will never forget.

Only 30 seconds into the round, Bolestia and Turner went tumbling to the mat and Turner's left thumb bent all the way back to his arm. Immediately, Turner rolled over on his side and started groaning in pain.

"When the trainer got there I knew something was wrong," Malolini said. "Sure enough the thing was broken. He kept on wrestling, though."

Turner's kind of drive and dedication is just a sign of things to come from this individual. He has this yearning to be the best in anything he does and will let nothing get in his way.

"That was one of the most courageous efforts I've ever seen," Seminole High School Principal Wayne Epps, who agonized through the match with the Turner family, said. "He beat that kid with one hand."

That drive is shared by his younger brother, Tracy Turner. The younger Turner has been suffering all year long from asthma and bronchitis. This weekend things got a little worse for Turner, according to Malolini.

"Tracy wrestled with a full-blown asthma attack for two solid days," Malolini said. "It took a real man to go out there and do that. It must be really scary to go out there and you can't catch your breath. That was a helluva effort on his part."

"I don't know what it is but I can't stop shaking," Tracy said after the semifinal round.

Tracy admitted earlier in the tournament that he was having problems catching his breath, and even in winning his first two matches he looked like he was struggling to get some oxygen into his lungs.

"The kid has been throwing up after every match for the past two months," Malolini said. "He still goes out there and does his Seminole's Rod Henderson and Andre Whitney, a pair of underclassmen who helped the 'Noles to the Seminole Athletic Conference championship, were named to the All-SAC First Team released Monday by the county coaches.

Henderson, a 6-3½ junior forward, and Whitney, a 5-9 sophomore guard, were joined on the first team by Oviedo senior forward Allen Unroe, Lyman senior guard T.J. Scaletta and Lake Mary sophomore forward Kelly McKinnon.

Bill Klein, on the basis of winning the first SAC title, was the SAC Coach of the Year. All six county coaches participated in the voting, according to chairman Dale "Digger" Phillips of Oviedo.

Henderson, considered the best all-around player in the county, was a repeater from last year's All-County team. He scored 14.2 points, grabbed 7.9 rebounds, handed out 4.0 assists, came up with 2.1 steals and blocked 1.5 shots per game. Coincidentally, Henderson ranked fourth in all five categories among the county leaders.

Whitney, a court-wise second-year player, led the county in assists with 7.6 per game. He also scored 11.3 per outing while orchestrating Seminole's 17-9 record. He also came up with 1.5 steals per game.

Unroe, a sharpshooting wing player, was a one-man gang for the Lions during the final two weeks. He blew open a tight scoring race by averaging 26 points over the last four games to finish with a county-leading 16.4 average. Unroe also pulled down 6.0 rebounds, handed out 3.1 assists and picked up 1.7 steals per game. The 6-3 swingman also blocked 1.7 shots an outing.

Scaletta, a 5-8 guard, was the catalyst for Lyman's 10-game winning streak and 20-8 season. Scaletta led the county in steals (3.4 per game) all year long. He was third in scoring (14.3) and assists (4.7) along with fifth in free throw prowess (73.4 percent).

McKinnon, a 6-4 soph, had a brilliant first varsity season for the Rams. He led the county in scoring before Unroe's rampage and finished sixth with 14.1 points per game. He was hampered the last two weeks with a sprained ankle. McKinnon was sixth in free throw shooting and also pulled down 4.3 rebounds per game.

The second team consisted of Oviedo junior forward Robb Hughes (13 ppg), Lyman senior center Ralph Philpott (13.6 ppg and 8.7 rpg), Seminole sophomore center Craig Walker (10.6 ppg, 9.8 rpg and 3.3 bpg), Lyman senior forward Brett Marshall (11.9 ppg and 6.1 rpg) and Lake Mary senior guard Ray Hartsfield (14.7 ppg, 3.9 rpg, 2.9 spg).

Walker, a 6-7½ inside player, led the county in rebounds and blocked shots.

Honorable Mention choices included Lake Brantley's Mark Moser (14.3 ppg), Wade Wittig (13 ppg) and Brent Bell (10.1 ppg). Lake Howell's Fred Hicks (10.3 ppg) and John Lowe (11.3 ppg) along with Lake Mary's Oscar Merthle (8.8 ppg and 8.0 rpg).

Moser, Wittig, Lowe and Hicks are seniors while Bell and Merthle are juniors.

Creek, Mainland Eye Rematch

Port Orange Spruce Creek and Daytona Beach Mainland, two teams which have met four times already, each need a win tonight in the semifinal round to meet again in the Class 4A-5 Region Basketball Tournament opens.

Spruce Creek, which has beaten Mainland all four times, handled the Bucs again Saturday for the District 4A-9 title. Spruce Creek also ousted Seminole in the semifinal round.

Tonight, the Hawks entertain Orlando Oak Ridge, the runner-up in the District 4A-10. Game time is 8 p.m. A victory tonight would pit the Hawks against the Mainland-Orlando Evans' survivor Thursday. The Bucs and Evans play at Orlando.

The Creek, 29-3 and ranked seventh in the 4A poll, has a potent inside attack built around 6-9 Jon Fedor along with forwards Kenny Southall and Johnnie Bennett. Levon Darthard and Victor Cook are the guards. Darthard led Central Florida in assists.

Mainland's main man is 6-7 junior Mike Polite, who is averaging 26 points and 17 rebounds a game. Terry Anthony, Al Williams, Kevin Morris and Derrick Henry complete the starting five.

Notre Dame Gears Mesh Minus Spark

The weeks leading to the NCAA Tournament reveal much about the contenders.

Friday night, No. 12 Notre Dame, a sportscar when driven by point guard David Rivers, proved it can change gears and win without its spark plug, and No. 13 Oklahoma, a Cadillac at home, has been exposed as a banged-up jalopy on the road.

At New Orleans, Ken Barlow scored 20 points and Mark Stevenson added 17 to power the Fighting Irish to a 75-67 victory over New Orleans. Notre Dame, 22-5, used an overpowering half-court game and a slowed pace to win with Rivers on the bench with a sprained ankle.

"There the best team we've played, even without Rivers," New Orleans coach Bennie Dees said. "They're better shooters and more physical than Memphis State."

At Stillwater, Okla., Terry Faggins scored 20 points, and 7-foot-4 freshman Alan Bannister produced 4 crucial points late in the game to lift Oklahoma State to an 87-84 Big Eight triumph over Oklahoma, the Sooners' fifth straight road loss.

"It was a tremendous night," Hansen said. "It makes a person humble because you know you can never do it yourself. A great ball club came in, a great crowd anticipated a win, and a great team of our own decided to have one."

"I was just fortunate to be a little part of it because you don't really know what all to do sitting on that bench. Everyone of them played a part, but the greatest part was played by the crowd at Oklahoma State University and that's what basketball is all about."

Oklahoma State snapped a 10-game losing streak to Oklahoma.

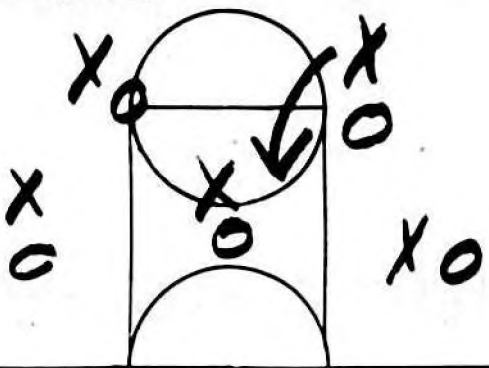

In conference tournament action, it was: No. 9 Bradley 61, West Texas State 55; Tulsa 68, Indiana State 50; Drake 82, Creighton 56; and Illinois State 78, Wichita State 70 in the Missouri Valley Conference quarterfinals; St. Joseph's (Pa.) 72, West Virginia 64 in the Atlantic 10 final; Fairfield 67, Holy Cross 64 in the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference final.

Also, Drexel 80, Hofstra 76 in the East Coast Conference final

Lebo Tops Rookies, Again

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI) — North Carolina's Jeff Lebo, starting the past two Tar Heel games in place of injured guard Steve Hale, has been named Atlantic Coast Conference rookie of the week for the third time this season.

A 6-foot-2 freshman from Carlisle, Pa., Lebo scored 17 points in an 85-79 win Wednesday over Virginia, and then tied his career high with 18 points in Sunday's 82-74 loss at No. 1-ranked Duke.

For the week, Lebo hit 14 of 20 shots from the floor and sank seven of nine free throws, handed out four assists and made three rebounds.

Wright Brothers Go Airborne For Oviedo

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

No one in their right mind would ever say that these Wright Brothers couldn't get off the ground.

Senior Bubba leaped to one first place and sophomore Carl soared to two firsts Monday as the Wrights combined to lead Oviedo's Lions to a second place finish in a four-way track meet at Bishop Moore High.

Host Bishop Moore won with a score of 60 followed by Oviedo at 52, Leesburg at 50 and Orlando Lake Highland at 41.

The Wrights combined for 31 of Oviedo's 52 points Monday. Carl led the way as he took first place in the 330 intermediate hurdles with a time of 43.4 and also blazed to first in the 220 dash at 23.1. Carl added a second place in the long jump with a 18-9.

"Carl (Wright) was ineligible last year and I was really pleased he did so well in his first meet," Oviedo coach Ken Kroog said. "We're going to concentrate him on the hurdles. He doesn't have the explosiveness out of the blocks to be a super sprinter but he has the speed to be a great hurdler. And he has three years to develop."

Bubba Wright, the most experienced performer on the team, took first place in long jump at 19-2 and second in the 220 at 23.7. He also ran a leg on the first place mile relay team that recorded a time of 3:45. Joining Wright on that team were Mark Stewart, Sandy Potts and Pete Lingard.

"Bubba's our team leader," Kroog said. "He's been with the team for four years and can do a lot of things well. We look forward to an outstanding senior year for him."

Other second places for the Lions Monday included Andy Palmer in the discus (108-0) and Sandy Potts in the 880 run (2:10.5). Third places included Stewart in the triple jump (36-7), James Walker in the high jump (5-7) and Shawn Dezege in the pole vault (8-6).

PRICE, JUMPERS EXCEL
Kelly Price continued to dominate her three events Monday while Oviedo's Lady Lions got a pleasant surprise from its high jumpers in the four-way meet at Bishop Moore.

Bishop Moore's Lady Hornets won with a score of 75 followed by Oviedo with 44, Leesburg with 43 and Lake Highland with 32.

Price, a junior, ran her season's best times in winning both the 110 high hurdles (15.6) and the 330 lows (47.3). Her time in the 110s is the best in the county and her 330s time is second by one tenth of a second.

Price also took first place in the long jump with a 15-7. In a dual meet against Lake Howell earlier in the season, Price broke the school record in the long jump with a leap of 17-¼.

While Price continued to excel, high jumpers Suzanne Hughes and Stephanie Nelson turned in excellent performances in their first meet of the year. Both Hughes, a freshman, and Nelson, a senior, cleared 5-0 and Hughes was the winner via fewer misses.

Hughes and Nelson also added to the logjam in the high jump in Seminole County. The county has six people who have cleared 4-10 or better this season and two more who did 4-10 or better last season who are expected to be competing in their first meets this week.

Second places for the Lady Lions Monday included Leah Rossow in the long jump (14-2) and the 440 relay team of Nelson, Hughes, Rossow and Kim Landeau which recorded a time of 55.2.

Nelson took third place in the long jump at 13-10 while Cathy Champ was fourth in the two mile (14:23) and fifth in the mile (6:18). Also taking fifths were Lily Boston in the shot put (21-11) and Landeau in the 220 dash (29.9).

"Almost all of our girls came off either basketball or soccer," Kroog said. "We couldn't even get started until those seasons were over with. We've got the potential to do real well in the Orange Belt Conference meet this season."

"We don't have the depth to be a factor in the Seminole Athletic Conference, but, if I can get a few more girls out, we'll give Bishop Moore and Jones a run for the OBC title."

Miller: Lady Lions Need Quick Turnabout

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

With eight of 11 starters returning from last year's Orange Belt Conference, district and regional champions, Oviedo's Lady Lions figure to be contenders, if not frontrunners, in both the OBC and the new Seminole Athletic Conference this season.

The Lady Lions, though, are going to have to shake off a slow start and do it soon because all of their regular-season games are important ones. The sluggishness continued for Oviedo Monday afternoon as it committed an uncharacteristic 10 errors in dropping a 9-5 Orange Belt decision to Osceola Kissimmee's Kowgirls at Kissimmee.

Oviedo, 1-1 overall, is 1-0 in the SAC and 0-1 in the OBC. The Lady Lions are at St. Cloud Wednesday (OBC) and at Lake Howell (SAC) Thursday.

"Before this season, we always started out play 4A nonconference schools," Oviedo coach Jackie Miller said. "We might have lost one here or there but those games didn't count in the conference and always loosened us up. Having all conference games this season definitely puts pressure on the kids because every game counts."

Oviedo outlived the Kowgirls, 7-5, but the 10 errors were too much for the offense to overcome. Oviedo took a 2-0 lead in the top of the first but Osceola then scored three in the second, four in the fourth and added two in the fifth for a 9-2 lead.

For Oviedo, Caroline Chavis was 2 for 3 at the plate while Bridget

Softball

Jenerette drilled a three-run, pinch-hit triple in the top of the sixth to make the final 9-5. Mikki Eby, who hit close to .500 last season, was 0 for 4 Monday.

"The girls aren't playing well as a team yet but it will come," Miller said. "Anything that could go wrong went wrong tonight. Jodie (Switzer) even walked in a run which she very rarely does."

BATES BEPUDDLES EDGEWATER
Most likely it's her high arch but Edgewater's Lady Eagles probably think it's some kind of mystic power. Whatever it is, Kristin Bates definitely has the Lady Eagles baffled.

Two days after tossing a no-hitter at the Lady Eagles in the Evans Tournament, Bates twirled a two-hitter Monday afternoon as Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots roared to a 17-0 victory at Lake Brantley High.

The Lady Patriots, 7-1 on the season, return to action today at 4:15 as they host Lake Howell in a nonconference game.

"Kristin (Bates) pitches a really high arch which is pretty hard to hit," Brantley assistant Debbie Frank said. "They (Edgewater) probably don't get anything like that in batting practice."

While Bates turned the Edgewater bats into Mazola No Sticks, the Lady Patriots exploded for eight runs in the second inning and nine runs in the third to put an end to the onslaught after five innings.

Both big innings were highlighted by grand slam home runs as Tracy Brandenburg cleared the bases in the second and Heather Meyer ripped a slam in the third.

Piniella Doesn't Mind The Long Nose Of Boss

FORT LAUDERDALE (UPI) — How would you like your boss casually strolling into your private office, pulling up a chair and having you right in his sights while watching you work?

Lou Piniella didn't mind it a bit. Or if he did, he certainly wasn't going to let George Steinbrenner know about it. Sweet Lou was playing it cool.

Why break out in a cold sweat? What was there for him to be really concerned about anyway? Monday had been set aside as picture-taking day, the day photographers would be able to take as many head shots as they wanted of the Yankee players. In their fresh clean pin-stripes instead of their navy blue sweats.

The lensmen could keep shooting until 11:30 a.m. and then they if they wanted they could get action pictures also during the regular workout.

Most of the Yankee players were aware Steinbrenner had come over from his Tampa shipbuilding office on the other side of the state and was somewhere on the premises. It didn't matter to them. Everybody in the clubhouse was loose because they knew it was the day for pictures.

Burt Burns, the big left-hander from the White Sox, was showing pitching coach Sammy Ellis how he always comes to a stop in his delivery with runners on. Dave Winfield, all smiles, was offering a couple of writers his reasons why he thought the club was stronger this year. And Al Holland, with more of the media around him than anyone, was telling them he was going along with Peter Ueberroth's decision, although he could feel the pain in his pocketbook already.

Steinbrenner uses a big glass windowed trailer as his office at the ballpark. When he enters the trailer for the clubhouse, he walks into Piniella's office as the Yankees' new manager was talking to several writers.

Seeing it was nearly 10:30 and the majority of the players were still in the clubhouse, Steinbrenner, a stickler about punctuality especially when it comes to workouts, was more than a little curious.

"What time are you starting the workout?" he asked his manager sitting completely relaxed at his desk with his uniform and blue windbreaker on but with no cap.

Piniella had no trouble sensing the thrust of Steinbrenner's question. He knows him well, 12 years. "Well, this is photo day," Piniella explained. "They're taking pictures out there. We'll start about 11:30 and be off the field at 12:05."

When Piniella is all finished in baseball, he has a future in Hollywood. He's the consummate actor. He was kidding Steinbrenner, putting him on, but he did it so well and so naturally, keeping a straight face all the time, that he has The Boss buying it.

"They've worked hard this week, so it'll be all right," Piniella put the cap on what he had said.

A protracted silence ensued. Some of the writers in the room realizing Piniella was pulling Steinbrenner's cord, good-naturedly, of course, began laughing at the response they were sure was coming.

By now, Steinbrenner realized he had been set up.

"You know," he said looking sternly at Piniella, "they're still looking for a coach at Jesuit High."

Everybody in the room laughed some more. Jesuit High is the school Piniella went to during his teens in Tampa and at last word, it wasn't looking for any coach.

Steinbrenner was only having some fun with his new manager, letting him know even kidding, he's easy to be replaced, but having seen 13 managerial changes since the end of 1973, which is when he first came to the Yankees, Piniella knows that for himself.

He's not letting it bother him, though. He doesn't see himself getting on the same managerial merry-go-round as Billy Martin, Bob Lemon, Gene Michael and Yogi Berra, all of whom were brought back by Steinbrenner for return engagements.

"Truthfully, you wanna know how I feel," Piniella says whenever he's reminded by the long procession of managers hired and fired by Steinbrenner. "I'm the one who's gonna break the mold and stay here until I get gray. Of course, I've got a few touches of gray already."

Piniella says with that with a smile, a roguish, infectious one that keeps him still looking like a college undergraduate at 42. He knows the score. He knows it's entirely within the realm of possibility Martin could be brought back a fifth time.

Why not? Steinbrenner has to pay Martin any way. Maybe he isn't particularly thrilled by the circumstance, but Martin has become the Rotor-rooter Man or the in-house plumber, the first guy Steinbrenner inevitably thinks of and continues calling when he feels it's time to get some of the sludge out or fix a leak.

Piniella looks at his first managerial opportunity in pretty much the same way he did his first regular big league playing chance with Kansas City.

"Once I got there, I also had to prove I could stay. I went 4-for-5 my first day. Three singles and a double against the Twins. You know who was managing 'em? Billy Martin."

Pete Incaviglia, the No. 1 draft pick of the Texas Rangers after a fine college career at Oklahoma State, works on his swing. Incaviglia, the College Player of the Year, hit 48 homers in just 60 games in his final year at OSU.

Canseco, Incaviglia Draw Early Notice

By Fred McMane
UPI Assistant Sports Editor

FORT LAUDERDALE (UPI) — One is a 21-year-old outfielder who is already drawing comparisons to Willie Mays and Roberto Clemente despite the fact he has played only 29 major league games.

Another is straight off the campus of Oklahoma State where his home run hitting prowess turned the heads of every major league scout. But he has yet to play his first professional game.

A third is considered so adept at both hitting and fielding that his club refused to resign a surefire Hall of Famer in order to make room for him in the lineup. However, he has never played a game in the major leagues.

Jose Canseco of the Oakland A's, Pete Incaviglia of the Texas Rangers and Wally Joyner of the California Angels are the rookies attracting the most attention in spring training camps this year. But there are a number of others who could make an impact on the pennant races in both leagues.

Canseco has the cameras clicking most often. Canseco is a 21-year-old outfielder who, according to A's minor league instructor Bob Watson, a former major leaguer, has the same kind of skills that Hall of Famers Mays and Clemente possessed. He was voted the Minor League Player of the Year by Baseball America last year and is considered by many scouts to be the best offensive weapon to come along in a decade.

A native of Havana, Cuba, who was raised in Miami, Fla., Canseco played on three different levels last year and was a raging success at all three stops. In 58 games at Huntsville, Ala., of the Class AA Southern League he hit .318 with 25 homers and 80 RBI in 58 games. Promoted to Tacoma of the Class AAA Pacific Coast League, he hit .348 with 11 homers and 47 RBI in 60 games.

The A's brought him up in September and he hit .302 with 5 homers and 13 RBI in 29 games. Putting it all together,

Baseball

Canseco batted .327 with 41 homers and 140 RBI.

Incaviglia, 21, has awesome power as evidenced by his 48 homers in only 60 games for Oklahoma State last season and Rangers' manager Bobby Valentine would like nothing better than to see the 6-foot-2, 220-pound slugger in the middle of his lineup.

The problem is Incaviglia's lack of experience. Hitting against collegiate pitching isn't remotely close to facing major league stuff and Incaviglia may not be ready. Still, he could follow in the footsteps of another collegiate slugger from several years ago, Bob Horner of the Atlanta Braves, who went right from the college playing fields to the major leagues and hit 23 home runs in a little over half a season.

Incaviglia has already excited the Rangers with his long ball prowess.

In his first day in the batting cage, he put on a hitting exhibition that has not been seen at the Rangers' spring training camp since Jeff Burroughs was in his prime. With Valentine pitching batting practice, Incaviglia hit a shot up the middle that knocked the Rangers' manager to the ground, even though it had been softened by first hitting the protective netting in front of the pitcher's mound.

Other rookies who bear close watching this spring are outfielder John Kruk of San Diego, the leading hitter in the Pacific Coast League last season; pitcher Jose Guzman and outfielder Ruben Sierra of Texas; pitcher Stan Clarke of Toronto; first baseman Will Clark of San Francisco; pitcher Kevin Hagen of Cleveland and infielder Steve Lombardozzi of Minnesota.

And let's not forget Todd Worrell of the St. Louis Cardinals. National League batters who had to face his 97-mile per hour fastball last September certainly can't.

Holland Accepts Ueberroth Demands

United Press International

At Holland, trying to win a bullpen job with the New York Yankees, said Monday he will agree to commissioner Peter Ueberroth's demands instead of facing a 60-day suspension for drug use.

"I accept the commissioner's ruling," the 32-year-old left-hander said. "I'm not going to appeal or file a grievance."

Holland, one of the National League's most effective relievers during past stints with the Giants and Phillies, must donate five percent of his 1986 base salary — approximately $30,000 — to a drug prevention center, contribute 50 hours in community service and agree to mandatory random drug testing.

"I had mixed emotions about it," Holland said of the commissioner's decision. "I thought the parts about the drug testing and community service were very fair. Anyone would accept that. The money thing is something different. That's bothering a lot of people."

At Miami, Baltimore Orioles owner Edward Bennett Williams announced his support of Ueberroth's penalties for players linked to illegal drug use.

Two Baltimore players effected by ruling were outfielder Lee Lacy and second baseman Alan Wiggins. The Orioles voted as a team last week to accept drug testing.

"I think you have to look at it from the perspective of whether its going to be a deterrent," Williams said of the commissioner's decision. "I think it is. I think he handled it well. He has been innovative and fair."

Meanwhile Manager Earl Weaver announced the pitchers for the Orioles exhibition opener Saturday against the Yankees. Scott McGregor will start and be followed by Mike Boddicker and Don Aase.

At St. Petersburg, All-Star shortstop Ozzie Smith will not play in the St. Louis Cardinals' intra-squad games Wednesday and Thursday. Manager Whitey Herzog said Smith was progressing well from his rotator cuff injury, but that he was merely tossing the ball and was not yet ready for full-scale throwing.

Herzog has named Rick Ownbey, non-roster pitcher Greg Matthews, John Tudor and Danny Cox as the starting pitchers for the first four exhibition games.

At St. Petersburg, New York Met pitchers Bruce Berenyi and Doug Sisk, who both underwent off-season surgery, will get their first game-situation tests Wednesday in an intra-squad game. Ron Darling will start the team's first exhibition game Friday against the White Sox in Sarasota.

At Winter Haven, Roger Clemens, who underwent arthroscopic surgery on his right shoulder last September, was named the starter of Boston's third exhibition game. Bruce Hurst and Al Nipper get the call in the first two games. "He threw yesterday and he's fine today," anager John McNamara said. "I checked with Dr. (Arthur) Pappas (the team physician) and there's no reason why he can't keep going."

At Kissimmee, Houston first baseman Glenn Davis, who led the Astros with 20 home runs last season, signed a one-year contract, officials said. Team officials did not announce the terms, but Davis, 24, said he signed for $120,000. Last season, Davis hit .271 and drove in 64 runs after being called up from the team's Triple A team in Tucson, Ariz.

At Arlington, Texas, four players, including third baseman Steve Buechele, signed one-year contracts with the Texas Rangers. The signings of Buechele and rookie pitchers Ed Correa, Jose Guzman and Dwayne Henry left the Rangers with six unsigned players on their 39-man roster. Buechele hit .219 with 6 homers and 21 RBI after being called up in mid-July last season.

No Pose For Vets Rankles Steinbrenner

FORT LAUDERDALE (UPI) — Phil Niekro, Tommy John and John Montefusco may not be with the New York Yankees this year, but Yankees owner George Steinbrenner saw to it Monday they will all appear in the official team picture.

Steinbrenner, standing in the dugout and observing the Yankees' annual spring photo day activities, was angered when he suddenly spotted John, Niekro and Montefusco standing on the sidelines with all the Yankee rookies and non-roster players as the rest of the team was posing.

"What is Tommy John doing over there with all the rookies?" Steinbrenner asked. "And what's Montefusco and Niekro doing?"

A couple of reporters told Steinbrenner the photos apparently were being taken with only the roster players included.

"That's ridiculous," Steinbrenner snapped. "Tell them to stop taking pictures. I want Tommy John in there and I certainly want Niekro and Montefusco in there too. They're as much a part of this team as anyone and they deserve to be in it."

With that, Steinbrenner marched across the field and summoned the three veteran pitchers to join the rest of the team, which was sitting in the left field bleachers posing for the picture.

John, in camp as an unsigned non-roster player, and Montefusco, who was released by the Yankees last year after suffering a hip injury, are not on the 40-man roster. The 47-year-old Niekro is signed to a non-guaranteed one-year contract.

When asked why he wasn't posing, he replied, "I didn't think I was supposed to."

Lady Hawks Are All-Americans

All eight members of the Lake Howell High girls varsity cross country team, which finished second in the state (4A) this past season, were recognized as All-America by Scholastic Magazine.

The awards were sponsored by the Bonne Bell Cosmetics Circle of Excellence and given in recognition for achievement in cross country, according to Lake Howell coach Tom Hammontree.

The eight members of the team, who received certificates and patches for being selected All-America, were seniors Rachel Barnes and Angie Smith, juniors Lisa Samockl, Martha Fonseca and Mary Fonseca, sophomore Bonnie Oliver and freshman Jenny Bolt.

To be eligible for the awards, Hammontree said the runners had to meet a qualifying time for either two miles, 3,000 meters or three miles. "And all of them were well below the qualifying time," Hammontree said. "Except for Lisa (Samockl) and Martha (Fonseca) who were the top two, the other girls all ran within 10 seconds of each other."

SEC Coaches Select Sanderson

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Wimp Sanderson, the sixth-year coach of the Alabama Crimson Tide, edged first-year Kentucky Coach Eddie Sutton for Southeastern Conference Coach of the Year honors in a ballot of the 10 league coaches.

Five SEC coaches voted for Sutton, four voted for Sanderson and one voted for Florida's Norm Sloan in a survey taken by The Knoxville News-Sentinel.

Sanderson tallied more total points in the survey to win the top honor. The Alabama coach received 24 points. Sutton scored 22 and Sloan tallied 10 points.

Coaches were asked to rank the best, second-best and third-best coaching jobs of the season. Three points were awarded for every first-place vote, two points for every second-place vote and one point for every third-place vote.

Sutton was named UPI Coach of the Year by a wide margin over Sanderson in a ballot of sportswriters and broadcasters who cover the SEC.

Blue Devils Remain Top Team

NEW YORK (UPI) — Before Duke focuses on the NCAA Tournament, it must contend with a tournament that will shape its assault on the Final Four in Dallas.

The Blue Devils, selected today as the nation's top team by the UPI Board of Coaches for the second straight week, are preparing for the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament, which starts Friday at Greensboro, N.C. This tournament, which traditionally produces an upset or two, could be dangerous for Duke.

A loss during the tournament could have a psychological effect on the players and will determine where and how high the Blue Devils are seeded in the NCAA's.

Duke, which closed the regular season at 29-2 with victories over Clemson and North Carolina, collected 39 of the 40 first-place votes today for 599 points. Kansas, which retained its No. 2 ranking, received the other first-place vote and 544 points.

Sears: I Want To Be A Gator

Sam Sears, the county's leading pass receiver and a first-team All-Evening Herald and All-SAC wide receiver, said Monday he would turn down an Ivy League football scholarship and walk on at the University of Florida.

"After growing up in Florida, I've always dreamed of playing for the Gators," the 3.8 honor student said.

Sears had 38 receptions for 482 yards and two touchdowns. Although the Patriots struggled last, coach Fred Almon said Sears was the team's biggest inspiration.

"Sammy was an inspiration to all of us. He was never negative and kept the team fired up," he said. "I wish I had 50 like him."

Novak Shuts Down Rollins, 13-3

Former Lake Brantley High standout Tommy Novak held Rollins to one hit over the first six innings as the Central Florida Knight avenged Sunday's setback to the Tars with a 13-3 romp Monday at Alford Stadium in Winter Park.

Coach Jay Bergman's Knights, 8-6, built an 11-0 lead with a five-run sixth inning before Rollins, 6-3, got to Novak for a three-spot in the seventh. Prior to that Novak retired 14 Tars in a row.

Marty Coffey, another ex-Brantley star, figured in the Knights' final run in the seventh when he reached on an error.

best. That is the true mark of a champion."

One of the other wrestlers who put his body to the test was Lyman's senior captain Chad Dublin. Dublin ripped some ligaments in his ankle and had to forfeit his third round match to Manatee's Thierry Chau who went on the claim the 116-pound state championship.

Dublin was battling Taravella's Jeff Purdy when he got tossed to the ground with his foot planted on the mat. Dublin's body went over, but his foot didn't move.

"I heard something in my ankle snap and I knew something was definitely wrong," Dublin said. "It was really a disappointing ending to my season, but I had a pretty good state tournament up until that point."

Dublin won his match with Purdy, but had the guts to go up against Chau even though the doctors told him not to wrestle. Determined to wrestle, Dublin chose the rougher path, but had to default by injury when he

Rogers, Hawthorne Outrun Cold

Budweiser Machines 'Head For The Mountains' With Victories

NEW SMYRNA BEACH — On Saturday night at New Smyrna Speedway, the weather was in the low 30s, but the Budweiser machines of David Rogers and Sanford's Casey Hawthorne were hot and "Heading for the Mountains."

Late model pilot Rogers, in the potent R and B-powered Firebird, turned fast time, then won the fast heat and the 25-lap feature.

Accomplishing the same feat in Ray Jones' Jack Tani-powered thundercar was former Florida state street stock champion Casey Hawthorne.

Following Rogers across the finish line was current point chase leader Lee Faulk, in the new Champion TV Rentals, Howe 8th design Firebird. Track tilist Joe Middleton, Roger Lund of Wisconsin and Drew Stollec rounded out the top five.

In thundercar action, Hawthorne and Harry Brazee started dead last, but after only three laps, they were up front battling for the lead. Brazee held on for second. He was followed by James Carter, Gary Patterson and Scott Teed.

Defending track champion Bobby Sears drove the Skip's Shoes and Western boots Pinto to victory in the four-cylinder feature.

Auto Racing

Coming up from last starting spot, heat winner Jerry Symons rapidly moved up thru the field to grab the runner-up spot at the finish. Jack Hyes was third followed by Billy George of West Palm Beach and Robert Mathias.

Roadrunner heat and feature winner was Gary Salvatore.

The monthly 100-lap Enduro turned into a spectacular duel between recently crowned Mr. Enduro USA National Champion Mike Fritts and David Snodgrass.

Late in the race, leader Fritts bounced off the backstretch wall, then tagged it again and almost went over. He lost the lead to Snodgrass at that point, but kept right on challenging and finished strong second, followed by Jerry Rhone, Kenny Burdine and Jerry Symons.

The hotly-disputed event, featuring a strong field of cars, many numbered and lettered like the Grand National cars of years past, was fully enjoyed by the crowd.

"It was the best race I've seen since I got here for Speed Weeks," one out-of-state fan told Snodgrass.

Fire Kills 15, Including Half Of Chilean Embassy Staff

CARACAS, Venezuela (UPI) — Fire swept the top floors of a 14-story office complex, gutting the Chilean Embassy and killing 15 people, including half the embassy staff. Ambassador Carlos de Costa-Nora was missing and presumed dead.

Jaime Pardo, a Chilean diplomat in Caracas, told United Press International early today that bodies removed from the embassy offices were burned beyond recognition and officials were still working to identify the dead.

Fifteen people died in the blaze Monday, 11 of them in the Chilean Embassy, which was housed in the office building, a police spokesman said. The cause of the fire was not immediately known, officials said.

Two embassy officials leaped to their deaths in a futile attempt to escape the flames.

Pardo said it had not been determined whether some of the bodies removed from the embassy offices were visitors, but he added it appeared certain at least half the embassy's 18-member staff had been killed.

Judge Freezes Marcos Assets

NEW YORK (UPI) — Attorneys seeking wealth that "belongs to the Philippine people" have obtained a court order freezing $350 million in real estate that they claim is part of Ferdinand Marcos's $7 billion in U.S. holdings.

The lawyers working for the Philippine government of President Corazon Aquino said Monday that State Supreme Court Justice Elliot Wilk had issued a temporary restraining order Sunday blocking the sale or transfer of the five New York properties pending a hearing Wednesday.

Lawyers at the Center for Constitutional Rights — which is representing Aquino without charge — claim Marcos has $7 billion in holdings in the United States, $350 million of which is in New York City and on Long Island.

Legal center attorneys had filed suit in Manhattan against Marcos, his wife Imelda and 20 other people and corporations to recover the New York holdings.

Protestant Rampage In N. Ireland

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Mobs of hooded and masked Protestants rampaged through Belfast, burning, looting and shooting at police in a violent display of opposition to a treaty giving Ireland a role in governing British-ruled Northern Ireland.

The unrest marked the worst Protestant street violence in Northern Ireland in 12 years and climaxed a 24-hour general strike called by radical Protestants. At least 31 people were injured — 30 of them police officers. Thirty-four people were arrested in Belfast alone.

The strike brought the province to a standstill Monday. Shortly before midnight, when the strike was to end, mobs — about 1,000 people in all — staged hit-and-run gasoline bomb attacks on police lines in northern, western and eastern Belfast, police said.

Police reported at least 30 shots were fired at police trying to stem the violence engulfing Protestant areas of the city and other towns in the British-ruled province, also known as Ulster.

Japan May Join SDI Research

TOKYO (UPI) — Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone has decided to participate in "Star Wars" defense research and will send a delegation to the United States to consider what role Japan should take, an authoritative newspaper said today.

The Nihon Keizai Shimbun newspaper said Nakasone planned to send a fact-finding team to the United States, "as early as the middle of this month." It said the team would include business and government officials as well as "technical experts."

Based on the group's findings, Foreign Minister Shintaro Abe will advise Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger what role Japan will take in the Strategic Defense Initiative, or "Star Wars" space-based missile defense program proposed by President Reagan, the newspaper said.

It said the next step would be negotiations leading to "some kind of governmental agreement" on SDI.

Final Arms Talks Session Held

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) — U.S. and Soviet negotiators held a final full plenary session today, concluding the latest round — and the first year — of the new arms talks between the two major powers.

Neither side had any immediate comment on what progress, if any, had been made during the seven-week round. The talks were to resume May 8 after a nine-week recess — the longest since the talks began.

Waldheim Accused Of Being Nazi

By United Press International

Former United Nations General Secretary Kurt Waldheim was a member of the Nazi party's paramilitary "brown shirts" and later served in a Wehrmacht unit that shipped more than 40,000 Jews to death camps during World War II, the World Jewish Congress said today.

Waldheim, a candidate for president in Austria, has repeatedly denied any association with the Nazis.

The scenic board's plantings cut the lot's spaces from 318 to 296 and with diagonal striping, another five percent of spaces would have been lost Simmons said.

Over at the Lake Monroc marina lot, parking will be increased from 158 to 173 spaces, including 96 diagonal double spaces for boaters. City engineers came up with the configuration at the direction of commissioners after their approval last week of the retail complex John Smith will develop on the lot's northern border.

The city will implement its new parking layout later this spring, when Smith begins his project. City Manager Frank Faison said.

Smith assisted the engineers' study by driving a boat rig around the lot to determine maneuverability in and out of the projected spaces. He said he is also willing to pay for the striping pattern the engineers developed.

The engineer's study gave "prime consideration" to boater's continued utilization of the lot, Simmons said.

"We wanted them to be accommodated, not tolerated at the lot," he said.

A study of parking and traffic throughout downtown Sanford may also be in the offing following a request by the Greater Sanford Development Corporation. The city is seeking proposals from traffic consultants to ascertain the effort's cost.

Robert Andrew O'Conner, Winter Park, who has been involved with private security firms since 1984. Prior to that, he was a Seminole County Sheriff's Deputy from October 1976 until December 1983.

Charles Emmett Olive, Richmond, Virginia, a 25-year veteran of the Virginia State Police. He is Director of Employee Relations, and holds the rank of Major.

Edward Joseph Overman, Altamonte Springs, a Lieutenant in the Altamonte Springs Police Department, and Bureau Commander of the Investigations Bureau. He has been with the department since 1973. Prior to that, he was an interim Chief of Police in the City of Edgewater. He was also a Walt Disney World Security employee for just over a year during 1972.

Frederick Justin Staly, Orlando, presently a Detective Sergeant with the Orange County Sheriff's Department. He has been a member of the force since 1977. Prior to that, he was a patrolman with the Altamonte Springs and Oviedo departments.

Bellflore, a seven-year veteran of Lake Mary's force, is the only applicant for Benson's old job from within the current department. He has pledged to remain on the force whomever is chosen chief and assist during the transitional period. Bellflore's wife, Linda, is also on the Lake Mary police force.

Members of the selection committee include chairman William A. Liquori, Altamonte Springs Police Department Chief; Raymond E. Beary, Winter Park Chief; and Seminole County Sheriff John E. Polk. The six were recommended Monday in a letter from the committee to Lake Mary City Manager Kathy Rice.

"We picked the best six in our opinion," said Liquori. "We spent a great deal of time reviewing, screening, and narrowing the field."

"It's their (Lake Mary City Commissioners) option to reject or add to our list," he said.

Lake Mary commissioners are to review the six recommended, make any additions or deletions, and then request further background checks on those candidates they wish to consider. They may decide to hold a work session to review the screening committee's recommendations, a police official speculated.

The recommendations are expected to be initially discussed at Thursday night's regularly scheduled city commission meeting.

cause, both technical and managerial if there is one, and the real thing the astronaut office wants to do is get them both fixed so we can start flying again."

Fullerton, Engle, Hartsfield and Vance Brand were selected by chief astronaut John Young to represent the astronaut corps and to answer questions about the Challenger accident and its impact on the shuttle program.

NASA officials in Washington said agency planners have stopped considering a six-month shuttle flight delay and are now looking at grounding the remaining three orbiters for 12 to 18 months. In addition, a "re-planning" task force has been instructed to consider supplementing future shuttle flights with commercial operation of unmanned expendable rockets.

All four astronauts who spoke Monday said they were unaware of long-running concern about the rocket booster seals and all four said they were withholding judgment on whether NASA's decision-making process was flawed.

Challenger was destroyed Jan. 28 just 73 seconds after blastoff when a rupture in the ship's right-hand solid-fuel booster rocket triggered an explosion of the shuttle's external fuel tank. All seven crew members were killed and Fullerton said, "My own hunch is they probably didn't know anything was really wrong until it blew."

The rupture appears to have happened at or near a joint connecting two fuel segments. Two-rubber O-ring seals in the joint may not have worked properly to contain hot gas and flame after a night of freezing temperature.

Fullerton emphasized the seal theory is just that, a theory, and that it was premature to speculate on where any fault might lie.

Engle and Brand also flew aboard shuttles that experienced booster seal erosion.

"The astronaut office, we have a lot of individuals, all have their own emotions and range of emotions," said Brand, a veteran of two shuttle missions and the joint U.S.-Soviet Apollo-Soyuz mission.

"Right now you may find some anger here or there, but I think basically everyone is pretty positive. Anger's not a real positive emotion."

He also said, "I haven't heard anyone say they want to get out of this business."

The rezoning would increase the minimum lot size from 9,000 square feet to one acre and would allow Hill to apply for a special exception to keep horses.

The board will also consider changes to the following planned unit development master plans:

Post Lake Apartments, located on the south side of State

Road 436, west of Forest Lake Drive on the east side of Mirror Lake, to allow a temporary construction access drive.

Brentwood, located at the northwest corner of the Red Bug Lake Road/Dodd Road intersection. The change would allow fences constructed on corner lots to maintain a minimum five-foot setback on the side yard adjacent to the street and would allow a temporary sewage treatment plant in the southwest portion of the project.

Hairpiece Not Always A Sign Of Male Vanity

DEAR ABBY: In response to the letter from the man who had gotten bald: It's not always vanity or the desire to look younger that makes a man buy a hairpiece. My husband is a minister who became bald. He's out in the cold without a hat, at funerals, visiting, etc. After preaching, his head is wet from perspiration. He'd get colds, sinus headaches and earaches, all because his bald head was exposed to the cold. He bought a hairpiece to keep his head warm, and he hasn't had a cold, a sinus headache or earache since.

The hairpiece is the same color as his own hair used to be and it looks nice. People compliment him on his new look, and he loves it. He's not trying to fool anybody. Once when it was hot outside, he took it off.

Dear Abby

only assault and battery, even though the officers know they raped my son.

Randy is a fine young man who never associated with people of questionable character. He had never seen these men before; they just forced him off the street and did this terrible thing to him. He was so upset he wasn't able to tell me about it; the chaplain at the hospital where he was treated told me.

Almost every city has a rape crisis facility where female rape victims can go for counseling, but there's no help in our town for male rape victims.

Please print this. The public needs to know.

CONCERNED MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: Because rape is as much a violation for a male as a female, male victims should be as entitled to care, treatment and counseling as female victims.

Unfortunately, because male rape victims are more reluctant to report the crime, the general public is not aware of their numbers.

Some, but not nearly enough, rape crisis centers are equipped to handle male victims. This is a plea to male rape victims: Report the crime. It is also a plea to rape crisis centers to provide services for males as well as females.

DEAR ABBY: The reason many older women are no longer interested in marrying is as follows: When eligible men in their early 60s and 70s are out there playing the field, having a great time, they rarely think of marrying and sharing those good years with a wife.

As soon as the doctor gives them the news that they have a serious health problem such as an enlarged prostate or a heart condition, they start shopping for a wife.

They aren't even subtle. I've had men suddenly ask me what my blood pressure is. If I have any health problems and what my approximate income is. Once they are assured of my health and finances, they ask if I have ever thought of getting married.

Some actually admit that they need someone to take care of them. I tell them to check into a retirement home.

NO WAY, JOSE

Video Pirates Hurt Industry

LONDON (UPI) — Film and video industry officials warned Monday of new threats to the industry by copyright pirates, who they said captured 15 percent of the home video rental market in 1985.

David Rozalla, managing director of Warner Home Video, said he estimated video pirates in Britain alone earned almost $1.45 million a week last year.

"At the moment, video piracy is at its lowest level for three years," said Peter Duffy, director general of the Federation Against Copyright Theft, formed in 1982 to protect film and television copyrights. He said the pirates' 15 percent of the market in 1985 compared with 60 percent in 1983.

The lack of a universal copyright law and the increasing expansion of cable and satellite transmission are the two biggest threats to film copyrights, Duffy said at a news conference.

Illegal copying often occurs in places like Beirut, Bahrain, Bangkok and Singapore, where it is difficult for the industry to stop copyright violators because "local authorities don't want to take action," Duffy said.

"During the last 12 months, we have seen a mass of top-class pirated films from the United States, the Middle East and the Far East. Virtually every major film officially released during that year has been found as an imported pirate," he said.

And while officials said there is little evidence of "consumer piracy," they said "back-to-back" copies are a large and elusive portion of the video pirates.

"These are the 'cottage industry' of the business: thousands of individuals up and down the country illegally copying video material in back rooms, and renting the pirated copies at low prices," Duffy said. He cited oil rigs and army bases as places where living conditions provided a strong market for videos.

Officials also see a threat from the expansion of satellite and cable transmission. "Both broadcasting systems traditionally show top class films and television programs — prime raw material for the pirates," Duffy said.

Now Is The Best Time To Buy At Blue Book Cars

Jim Lash Blue Book Cars, 4114 S. Orlando Ave. (Highway 17-92), Sanford introduces its two new salesmen — Charlie Lantry and Mike Ross III.

Charlie is an old-timer in this area and has been selling cars most of his life. Formerly with Town Garage, he is active in the community and is a member of Northland Community Church, the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, South Seminole Rotary Club, and Rolling Hills Country Club. An avid golfer, he invites all you other duffers as well as his old friends to drop by Blue Book Cars for a cup of coffee.

Mike moved here from Pennsylvania, where his dad was an auto dealer. Mike is experienced in all phases with real expertise in leasing. He extends a welcome to all you former Pennsylvania residents to come in and "talk turkey."

General Manager Steve Lash says now is the best time to buy a car from Jim Lash Blue Book Cars. Why Now? You can buy a used car for half the amount or less than a new car costs. New cars now average over $12,000.

Another reason to buy a good used car is that they lose very little depreciation at all and payments are cheaper. Blue Book Cars has financing available with Barnett Bank of Winter Park offers payments as low as any in the area for car financing. To save even more interest rates are down at this time.

Blue Book Cars also has credit union conversion rates for those who qualify.

Another good reason to shop Blue Book is the substantially increased inventory, which gives a wider price range to choose from. Whether you need a small $1,500-$2,000 car for transportation for your son or daughter or a luxury car up to the Cadillac Seville or late model Buick Riviera or a sporty model such as the Impulse you'll find the one to meet your needs and budget.

"The nice thing about buying from us," added Steve, "is we're an established dealer and you know we're not going to be gone tomorrow. Our used cars are checked over by the service department and are backed with a warranty. We take care of the cars we sell."

The service department at Blue Book also other car owners as well as their customers.

"We're established in the community and are members of Greater Sanford, Lake Mary and Greater Seminole chambers of commerce," said Steve. "We participate in community affairs. We want to do our business in the Sanford area as well as serve the community, which we have done since 1965 when my dad, Jim Lash, first came here."

Blue Book Cars has rentals available for as low as $79 a week and special rates while your car is in their shop for repair or servicing. "We work with most of the local insurance firms, such as All State and State Farm, with direct billing if a car is being repaired due to an accident or some other reason."

Jim Durs, the service manager, has many years of technical training and experience repairing autos. He advises customers on maintenance and will tell you things you are not doing properly. He also road tests cars to make sure they have been repaired properly.

Little Proof Cancer Caused By Formaldehyde

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A study designed with help from chemical companies has found "little evidence" formaldehyde causes cancer.

The four-year, $1 million study released Sunday by the government's National Cancer Institute, found a 32 percent "excess" of deaths due to lung cancer and a higher-than expected rate of upper-respiratory cancer among workers exposed to the substance for 20 years.

But the NCI concluded there was no link between formaldehyde.

UPI Investigative Report

Former Consultant Lashes Out At NutraSweet Studies

By Gregory Gordon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The G.D. Searle Co. misrepresented the progress of company-financed studies into possible links between epileptic seizures and the firm's artificial sweetener, NutraSweet, a university professor charges.

Dr. Richard Wurtman, a professor of neuroscience at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, said the firm has publicly created "the erroneous impression" that two seizure studies are under way, when they have yet to begin.

Wurtman also charged that a Searle official angrily vowed to do the studies that he invited Schomer, "billed as the best experimental epileptic person around," in the spring of 1985 to join him in a study.

The two requested funding from the 12-member aspartame committee of an industry group, the International Life Sciences Institute, consisting of Searle and 11 other users and manufacturers of NutraSweet, including PepsiCo Inc. and the Coca-Cola Co., Wurtman said.

They planned to admit seizure victims to MIT's clinical research center, which Wurtman directs, and give them aspartame "chronically, in the same doses they had been taking ... and see what happened," he told the FDA.

Wurtman, who was serving as a Searle consultant at the time, said that during a visit to his laboratory last June by Searle vice president Gerald Gaul, they informed him of their plans.

"He got very angry and said, 'We mean Searle, are active members of ILSI, and we will veto your study,'" Wurtman said.

"I was incredulous that he would say it to me, and I was dumbfounded that he would say it in front of witnesses," said Wurtman.

In his letter, Wurtman told Sanford Miller, director of the FDA's bureau of foods, that Searle vetoed the application "by telling ILSI that our application needn't even be evaluated, since Searle was already supporting two ongoing (2) studies on seizures in previously healthy young adults. The ILSI companies, for their own reasons, elected not to check this out."

Gaul declined to comment, but Smith denied that Searle exercised a veto.

to be more qualified to do the studies than people we are using. ... We went to the best seizure experts who know the most about seizure studies.

"We're taking the initiative to fund studies on seizures, period. We have every reason to believe that there is no link between the two — between seizures and the use of aspartame."

Smith termed Wurtman's criticism as a "political issue" but declined to elaborate.

Wurtman said in a recent letter to a Food and Drug Administration official that he was so concerned about the effects of aspartame on seizures that he invited Schomer, "billed as the best experimental epileptic person around," in the spring of 1985 to join him in a study.

The two requested funding from the 12-member aspartame committee of an industry group, the International Life Sciences Institute, consisting of Searle and 11 other users and manufacturers of NutraSweet, including PepsiCo Inc. and the Coca-Cola Co., Wurtman said.

They planned to admit seizure victims to MIT's clinical research center, which Wurtman directs, and give them aspartame "chronically, in the same doses they had been taking ... and see what happened," he told the FDA.

Wurtman, who was serving as a Searle consultant at the time, said that during a visit to his laboratory last June by Searle vice president Gerald Gaul, they informed him of their plans.

"He got very angry and said, 'We mean Searle, are active members of ILSI, and we will veto your study,'" Wurtman said.

"I was incredulous that he would say it to me, and I was dumbfounded that he would say it in front of witnesses," said Wurtman.

In his letter, Wurtman told Sanford Miller, director of the FDA's bureau of foods, that Searle vetoed the application "by telling ILSI that our application needn't even be evaluated, since Searle was already supporting two ongoing (2) studies on seizures in previously healthy young adults. The ILSI companies, for their own reasons, elected not to check this out."

Gaul declined to comment, but Smith denied that Searle exercised a veto.

Smith said Wurtman argues "that he seems chairman of the ILSI panel, said. "ILSI is not a lucky and tool of NutraSweet."

He said after receiving a letter from Wurtman in April 1985. "We went to our scientific advisers and they said it (the seizure issue) was a low-priority question. We said, 'If Searle is doing two studies, why do we need to sponsor a third study in the Northeast? I guess Dr. Wurtman didn't accept that.'"

"At no time has Dr. Gaul had veto power over the ILSI committee," he said. "Not Searle either. They're one vote in 12."

Molinary identified one of the group's scientific advisers as Dr. Jonathan Pincus, a Yale University neurologist who has found "no basis" for Wurtman's theory that aspartame can cause chemical changes in the brain that lower the seizure threshold.

Molinary, who was director of scientific affairs for Searle Food Resources Inc. before joining PepsiCo, also denied that ILSI had any role in Pincus's decision last fall to challenge an article by Wurtman detailing his seizure theory in the British medical journal Lancet.

"At no time did we ask Jonathan Pincus to respond to Dick Wurtman," Molinary said. He said Pincus "responded on his own, as a neurologist." He said Pincus was asked to give ILSI an opinion as to whether Wurtman's theory was correct.

"That's not true," Pincus told United Press International. He said that upon reviewing Wurtman's article, he advised Michael Goldblatt, an ILSI official who is director of consumer and nutrition affairs at General Foods Inc., that he questioned the validity of Wurtman's conclusions.

He said Goldblatt asked, "If that's my real opinion about it, would I be willing to write that to Lancet as an answer to the letter? I said of course I would."

Pincus said he "honestly did not think" of mentioning in his response letter to Lancet that he had been serving as a $300-a-day consultant to ILSI.

Pincus's response was never published, and Lancet suggested he get in touch with Wurtman, but Wurtman said he refused to share his data with Pincus after Pincus first denied any industry ties.

Molinary also said that ILSI became aware last year "that things weren't moving as quickly as they should have" on the Searle seizure studies "and we let that be known a long time ago."

In his letter in the Nov. 9, 1985, edition of Lancet, Wurtman said the cases of three adults who had seizures after consuming the sweetener "can only suggest an association between aspartame and seizures."

In a response

published Dec. 21, 1985, Gaul said that Searle "has provided funds to two seizure experts" for studies and that Wurtman had been invited to submit his patients to those researchers.

Wurtman said he did his own checks and "there were no such studies." He noted that the studies to be conducted by Dr. Bennett Shaywitz, director of child neurology at Yale University, and Dr. James Rowen, a professor of neurology at Mount Sinai Medical School in New York, had yet to receive final approval from those institutions. Neither study has begun.

But Smith said Gaul merely said the company was "committed to the studies." "We feel that there has been no misrepresentation by Dr. Gaul," he said. "We feel that we've played it straight all along."

Weavers Bottom Can Be Cured With Drugs

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — Could you please give me some information on arthritis called "tailor's seat"? It is in both cheeks of the buttocks. What can be done about it?

DEAR READER — Tailor's seat (or "weaver's bottom") is a form of irritation involving the bursae (joint coverings) of the hips. It is found in people who tend to sit for long periods in one position. Treatment consists of anti-inflammatory drugs and, obviously, avoidance of prolonged sitting.

DEAR DR. GOTT — How long after one's periods stop can one get pregnant? How long do hot flashes last?

DEAR READER — Most experts believe that a woman can no longer become pregnant after she has missed 12 consecutive menstrual periods. Unfortunately, hot flashes can last longer than a year and may require treatment long after the menses have stopped.

To give you more information, I'm sending you a free copy of my Health Report on MENOPAUSE. Other readers who would like a copy should send 75 cents plus a long self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2597, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am a woman who is 66. My blood pressure has been 200/100. I went to a doctor for it and he gave me samples of Maxide and Capoten. I've taken them for two months and am so dizzy that one would think I'm intoxicated. Who needs all these free samples? I feel the doctor doesn't care. Who can I go for help?

DEAR READER — I think the doctor was trying to be thoughtful and save you money by giving you free samples. However, he certainly should have insisted on frequent followup visits to make sure that your blood pressure was controlled and you were not having adverse reactions to the drugs. Your dizziness may mean that the medicine was too strong for you; your blood pressure may have fallen to an unacceptably low level. Look for a doctor who is both thoughtful about your needs and willing to check your blood pressure until it stabilizes.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My son (32) was told he has polycythemia and was advised to give blood. How does one get this and what is the treatment?

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

To play well, first analyze the play you have available to make your contract. Then look for some deceptive play to improve your chances. In the current deal, declarer ruffed the opening lead in dummy. His thoughts were that West probably held the heart king for his opening bid, but if not, perhaps East had the spade queen. Either way the defenders could not take two spade tricks plus the king of hearts.

Declarer therefore played a diamond to his ace and led the heart jack. East took the king and switched to a spade, and the contract was quickly set. Did declarer really do anything wrong? That depends. Declarer should have tried deception. If West does have the heart king, it does no harm to let him win it. But when East holds that card, it is best that he not get on lead. Therefore, let declarer play the king of diamonds from dummy at trick two, then follow with the ace of hearts and a low heart. Can East know that South holds the heart jack? Since West is supposed to give count, his play of the heart four should signify an original three-card holding, but in the heat of battle even expert partnerships can go wrong. If East does rise with the heart king and then plays a spade, declarer is no worse off than before, and he at least has given East an opportunity for error.

It won't help if declarer plays spades himself, since West should immediately shift to a heart upon winning the first spade. By looking at the dummy, the defenders can figure out where their tricks are coming from.
