

Eradication Program Reduces Measles Cases

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Measles cases this year are only 5 per cent of the number reported in 1969 as a result of a massive eradication program, officials reported today.

The Communicable Disease Control Center said the number of ordinary "red measles" were reported across the nation during the first six weeks this year compared to 54,000 in the same period in 1969.

Furthermore, the cases reported in 1970 were estimated to be only one-third the actual number, a spokesman said.

The impressive reduction was attributed to an extensive eradication program which was based on inoculating selected groups across the country.

Part of that program was crash immunization in the midst of epidemics—such as is now under way in Chicago, a spokesman said.

"We try to surround an epidemic with vaccination," he said, "and strike measles whenever it raises its ugly head."

"We're just not having mass outbreaks of measles any more, by-and-by," he said. "We're doing such a terrific job around the country. But where an outbreak does occur, we're capable of eradicating it and handling it."

In Chicago, where 32 doctors and advisers began mass immunizations Thursday, officials reported 20 measles cases during the first 45 days of the year. The CDC said 667 cases have been reported in Chicago since October 1967.

Officials in Chicago said they recorded 40 cases in all of last year.

CAVE CITY, Ky. (AP) — It is said that Mammoth Cave was discovered in 1780 by a hunter named Houchins who was chasing a wounded bear.

Members of the Future Farmers of America are students of vocational agriculture in high school. They may retain their membership for three years following graduation.

The CDC said it furnished some 40,000 doses of vaccine from its stockpiles for the Chicago program. These will supplement larger local supplies, a spokesman said.

In addition to the crash immunization program, the nationwide attack on red measles included immunizing all 1-year-olds, checking to see that all first and second graders had received inoculations and improving reporting of cases.

As a result, he said, the number of cases during the first six weeks this year was down 75 per cent from last year—11,000 in 1967 to 3,000 in 1970.

Other year to year breakdowns included: 1968, 23,022; 1969, 62,634; 1964, 24,000; 1965, 20,180; and 1962, 54,002.

Six-year-old Susan Maggard returned home from Lake Mary School yesterday afternoon and announced: "Our teacher told us she wouldn't walk out on us — she loves us too much."

A different kind of school walk-out is being discussed among parents of pupils. Dissatisfied with those teachers who struck, some parents are discussing the possibility of having their children "walk out" if when the news is set, they stress a teacher who was one of those who struck, and then returned to school, "I don't want my children taught by a striking teacher," one mother telephoned.

R. E. Porter hears that revolution took over at Lynn High yesterday. Such as boys smoking and drinking in the hallway, the boy suspended. It was reported, a bomb went off and caused a school walk-out. It is reliably reported but un-confirmed that a fifth grade class permitted penny-pitching in his classroom.

Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson handed the Dayton delegation its trophy as winner over 218 other cities and towns in the annual National Clean-Up Contest."

What's so wonderful about that? Dayton is R. E. Porter's home town!

Teacher-Leaders Enjoyed From Speaking

Seminole Schools Closed 2 Days

Seminole County schools are closed today and Wednesday for a pupil holiday. However, teachers are working during the two-day holiday.

Mason Wharton, chairman of the Seminole County School Board, announced the decision to close county schools at the board's meeting with teachers and the Seminole-Orange legislative delegation last night in the Civic Center.

"The board is unhappy about what has happened, Wharton said.

"There will be a two-day holiday to give the board time to see what is happening."

The board instructed its attorney, Douglas Stremton, to negotiate the strike's suit against the FEA.

"Our school board wants to join in that suit if it helps to bring the teachers back into the classroom," Stremton said.

The school board met yesterday to decide what could be done to bring the teachers back into the classrooms. These conclusions were reached: 1. The school board could enter into a management-employment contract with the FEA, the SEA and the National Education Association.

The school could enter suit against the individual teachers. Resignations that were turned into the Seminole County School Board would not be effective until the next regular meeting of the school board.

"This is an act of civil disobedience and a poor example for the children," said A. L. Keeth, school board member. Keeth was referring to breaking teaching contracts and ignoring the current court orders.

1,500 Meeting Here

Four school teacher officials attending the meeting of the Florida Education Association this morning at the Civic Center were served with injunctions to put them on "notice as to what they could and could not do under the injunction order Judge Ben Willis of Leon County," State Attorney Dominick Staff said today.

Served were James Bergstrom, president of the Orange County Classroom Teachers Association; William Laver, president of the Seminole Education Association; "Cindy" Crane, chairman of the Classroom Teachers Association of SEA; and Chris Columbus, president of the Classroom Teachers Association of Osceola County.

Staff said the injunction order prohibits any member of the FEA or the various classroom teacher associations from encouraging any teacher to break their contract with the county school board.

"This does not prevent individual action on the part of any teacher but does prevent any encouragement or coercion to force those teachers who are still on the job or still honoring their contracts to leave instructional areas to breach their contracts," Staff said.

"We are in contact with our attorney now," said Laver.

Past president of the Orange County teachers, Richard Sewell, said the restraining order was unfortunate.

"It is a form of intimidation which most of us are used to by now," Sewell said. "I think the people understand what we are doing and we will support us."

The meeting continued after the restraining orders were issued.

Doctor Hagman, president of the FEA, told the teachers that they were not striking due to salaries.

"The reason we have left the classrooms is that we want quality education for our students," Hagman said.

County 'Provided For' In School Bill

By MARJORIE GREEN

and Seminole County School Board members met in the Civic Center last night to discuss the school bill which was introduced in the legislature.

Primary study of bill 27 shows that Seminole County schools will receive:

- A $1,000 increase in teacher salaries per year.
- $125 added per teacher unit for additional material per year.
- A $1,000 increase in teacher salaries per year.
- $125 added per teacher unit for additional material per year.

The county will be given $1,750 per teaching unit to be used in the schools as the board deems necessary.

$125 million will be given to the county for schools.

The bill provides for additional funding for additional material per year.

Provides for free text books.

Provides $400 per student in ADA. This is a $600 increase over the previous year.

Provides for free text books.

The bill gives a 17.5 per cent increase over an approximately $7 million increase.

"We took a big step in funding the individual counties as it wants to be funded with the $1,750 which was given to the individual school boards," said Sen. Kenneth Plante.

"Teachers' salaries are not supposed to be an issue in the school board," he said. "But it's positive it is in the back of everyone's mind."

"Last year Seminole County teachers had a pay increase of $20 and this bill gives an additional $1,000 increase."

"A $1,200 salary increase has been given to the teachers in a year," Plante said.

FTU Access Road Needs Stressed By County

By STAFFORD DEBBY

Urgent need for access roads to Florida Technological University, opening in September, dominated the Seminole County commission meeting last night. The secondary road needs at the district meeting of the State Road Department in Deland today.

John Alexander, chairman of the county commission, gave a detailed account of such needs. Michael O'Neil, chairman of the State Road Board, listened and William Peobles, district representative, characterized the report as "realistic."

What Alexander outlined fell into two divisions—primary and secondary. Among the former was the alignment of roads, including the Lake Jessup causeway, which would open up a north-south route through the county now practically non-existent.

He also requested improvement of Red Bug Lake Road as essential to allow access to FTU from the southwest area.

SEA Cites Refusal Reasons

There were three main reasons that the Florida Education Association rejected Bill 77X, the current school bill, stated William Laver, president of the Seminole Education Association. "Only $180 million was allocated to the schools when the ad valorem tax roll back occurs," Laver said.

According to Laver, this cuts school spending to $97-million per year. Seminole County will receive a 2.75 mills tax roll back.

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese military headquarters reported today that several Communist aircraft were seen near the city of Saigon, and that they were menacing the city's air base.

Seeks Funds For Sub Teachers

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — State School Sup. Floyd Christian, saying he hopes teachers "come to their senses," asked the cabinet today to let him spend state money for the first time to hire substitute instructors.

Christian requested permission to dip into the Minimum Foundation Funds on the basis of a new bill that Gov. Claude Kirk dramatically signed into law Saturday. It gives the state independent power to waive minimum rules and regulations in time of emergency.

"It is my job, it is my responsibility to operate the schools," Christian said Monday as he announced his plan to use state money to hire substitute instructors.

Christian said some schools may have to shut down in some urban areas if the children's welfare is threatened by teacher shortage.

Answers Needed

Discipline questions have presented themselves in the form of education created to bring about in our youth. Florida is asking: "What is quality education?" and "How is it produced?"

Certainly not by stopping the educational process! Certainly not by closing public schools! Certainly not by allowing political motivations to override the public good! Certainly not with the Governor away in the "seminole" state of Mississippi in California!

Quality education can be defined as preparing the mind of students who can meet the increasingly complex challenges of the Space Age with benefits to himself and his community.

Florida is not exempt from the difficulties confronting many states where an archaic form of government is totally inadequate to take care of the demands of the 1960s. It is the beneficiary and the victim of industrial boom and fantastic increase in population.

Thus our schools have been called upon to teach more pupils more subjects in more places. The Florida Education Association has outlined the professional needs and sought recognition of the state legislature. And it had made progress.

What seems to have been lost sight of, however, is that the very special status which the professional teacher has enjoyed over the years is now furnished.

And not only the teachers are the losers, regardless of the outcome of the current impasse. Florida loses as our state gets behind in national publicity as a place where its government cannot handle such a basic need on the operation of the public schools.

What effect this will have on the drive by far-sighted business to attract industry will be a matter of time. This year and longer has become history. But it is obvious that it will not be helpful.

Lip-service has been paid to the cause of quality or excellence in education. It has been a matter of time before the state legislature. But now words have failed. Education is caught in the maelstrom of controversy and passion.

Makes no mistake about it—most parents are already, already handicapped in their bid for higher education as the colleges and universities get more selective, now threatened.

We are convinced that they have a real complaint. Above all we feel that the immediate educational needs of the student, the one in whom we place such hope, the one on whom we place the responsibility of the future.

We are not, of course, privy to the inner councils of any of the principals involved in the school crisis. But it seems logical, and the course to be followed, that all parties bend themselves to the immediate task of taking practical steps to bring about that "excellence" named as a basic objective by educators, legislators and the Governor.

Too Accurate?

A Virginia professor who lost a race for Congress by less than 100 votes has a theory about it. What they did, he says, is report him too accurately.

Had reporters been willing to "practise a little journalistic hypocrisy to gratify my foot from my mouth, I am convinced that I would have done a better job," he says.

The charge is not new, but the tone of it is definitely a switch.—Greenwood (S. C.) Index Journal.

Republicans After House

By CARL F. LEUBSDORF
(James Marlow is III.)

WASHINGTON (AP)—The desire of Republicans to control the House is a goal that has been in the minds of party leaders for some time. In 1945, a year after the end of World War II, the party began to plan for the future. The House of Representatives is the most important branch of the federal government, and it is the Republicans' goal to take control of it.

The party's best opportunity to do this is in the 1960 election. The House has 435 seats, and the Republicans need 218 to have a majority. The party is currently behind in the polls, but it has a strong chance of winning if it can focus its efforts on the House.

The party's strategy is to win the House by focusing on the needs of the people. The party has a strong record of accomplishment in the House, and it is confident that it can win the 1960 election.

Individual Treatment Is Policy Of Roye's

Free pick up and delivery is one of the many services provided in the county by Roye's Colonial Cleaners at its Longwood Plaza main plant. Great owner, Marion Roye, who bought the Longwood plant, a year ago, practices the policy of treating each individual customer not as a customer, but as a friend. "All our work is guaranteed," he said. Roye, a native of Indiana, after three years experience in the dry cleaning field, came to the area two years ago. He purchased and opened the Deltona branch to serve the Deltona-Deltona area in November, 1963. "Deltona Plaza Cleaners," located in Deltona Shopping Plaza, is managed by Mrs. Roye and offers free pick up and delivery service also.

The couple makes their home at 703 Normandy Boulevard, Deltona. In addition to their National Merchandise Corporation (N.M.C.) approved quality dry cleaning and laundry services, they offer shoe repair, alterations, fur storage and cleaning of rugs and draperies.

Foreign Tourist Hike Seen In Cut Rate Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government will attempt to lure more foreign tourists to the United States through cut-rate prices on travel and accommodations. A White House task force, in a report emphasizing tourist promotion and cost cutting, said Monday it has enlisted cooperation from the travel industry in seeking lower rates for foreign visitors in hotels and motels and in traveling around the country by air, train, bus and car. A 25 per cent discount on round trip air tickets purchased in Europe for the United States along with a 20 per cent discount on domestic air travel by foreigners also were recommended by the task force. The proposals are part of the Johnson administration's program to slice the international dollar drain this year by $3 billion. American travelers spent about $2 billion more in other countries last year than foreigners spent in the United States. The administration program on visitors a cut of $50 million in this aspect of the balance of payments.

Plants Must Keep 'Cool'
When indoor heat goes on plants must "keep their cool." If you can't adjust a room thermostat, or if you like indoor temperatures on the warm side, keep plants cool in clay pots. The red clay pot walls act as a natural insulation for plant roots since they are thicker than those of nonporous containers.

MRS. AL WISNIEWSKI pours for Carl Johnson and John Vileck, who accompanied their ladies to the recent Silver Tea in Deltona, sponsored by Deltona Woman's Club.

The tea table was centered with a beautiful arrangement of white chrysanthemums and gladioli and backed by a large red heart, carrying out the Valentine theme which was dominant in the decorations. Mrs. A. T. Schroeder was the silver tea service which was the gift of the C.P. Fund. Mrs. Fred Kirchner was the centerpiece. Creators were Mrs. E. Morgan Sellers, Norma Wagner, Edna Burman, Harold Koch, Ann Turner, George Burton, Guy Jackson, Walter Erickson, Herbert Noble, Harry Durand and Thomas Blanshard.

Geneva Personals

Mrs. Yerkes was her niece and nephew. Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Stein of College Park, Md. The Stein also visited with Mrs. Yerkes' mother, Mrs. John H. Steinhilber of Winter Park. Don't forget the fish fry to be sponsored by the Geneva Historical and Genealogical Society at the community hall on Saturday, Feb. 24th beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Did you know that there was an almost uncontrollable fire over in Snowhill, near the Baptist Church, and that thanks to our ever alert Geneva Volunteer Fire Department, it was soon under control and extinguished before too much damage could be done.

Guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Everett J. Kinnaird were Mrs. Roy Peterson of Bonaire, Va., and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Robert Cox of Ashburn, N.C.

The exhibit of rocks, arrowheads and metals played by the J. Lawrence Ward at the Geneva Historical and Genealogical Society Museum has been removed and in its place is an interesting Indian exhibit, closed there by Mr. and Mrs. E. Thomas Cain of Ocoosa and an authentic Seminole Indian costume on loan from Mr. and Mrs. H. Morgan Sellers.

Decorating problems in a dining area can often be solved by selecting a well-designed wrought iron furniture, according to style consultant June Woodard.

At least it didn't cost anything this time. The reason was that South simply bid for three no-trump, and North was smart enough to bid.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: The day before Valentine's Day my husband said, "Gee Honey, I just don't know what to do about getting you anything for Valentine's Day because I don't have enough money to buy my mother anything."

DEAR ABBY: My complaint is about checking children's teeth in the classroom.

Some forms of hand holding are almost congenial. Take the man who feels that he must bid his own card suit. He won't be wrong so much of the time but he will lose a great deal of partnership satisfaction.

As an example it didn't cost North anything at all to rebuild his five card diamond suit. At least it didn't cost anything this time. The reason was that South simply bid for three no-trump, and North was smart enough to bid.

Playing at three no-trump South won the heart lead with his nine and led a spade to dummy's queen. South's ace and led back a heart whereupon South made five diamonds and two tricks in each other suit. If South had bid four diamonds instead of three no-trump, North would have gone on to five diamonds. He might have made that contract, although good defense would hold him out on this time, and though he would have been struggling as declarer instead of relaxing as dummy. Why did we say that it didn't?

Polly's Pointers

By Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY—I usually enjoy the Pointers but not Ronald's. He is the fellow who suggested scrawling an old scissored blade to a five cent cane to knock off dandelion blooms.

DEAR POLLY—Thank you for your letter. We interviewed Ronald's Pointer differently. Not only did he have a cute idea but he said to cut the dandelion off, not just the bloom. Perhaps we should have gone a step further and explained that they should be immediately picked up and discarded as you suggest.

Beauty after Forty

By Edith Thornton McLeod

When I was invited recently to see the premiere of an exclusive collection of clothing for the "emancipated male" I was very curious.

Beauty after Forty

By Edith Thornton McLeod

This collection has made news. Naturally, these clothes appear odd but long ago men wore flowing robes and in many far-away places they still do. Our men presently wear clothes which have been part of our culture for a long time so, of course, they should look odd to many of us. We are accustomed to have our men wear bearded dinner coats and skirt-trousers. What should happen if John Doe should try?

Beauty after Forty

By Edith Thornton McLeod

I took a lot of planning to present such a controversial show and was significantly dramatic. The clothes were all fitted to an Italian male model and models had to be found here who could wear the clothes with a perfect fit.

Rocky Heads GOP Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who says he isn't a presidential candidate, will head a nationwide series of Republican party hearings arranged by his fellow GOP governors—many of whom want him to run.

The 26 Republican governors announced Monday Rockefeller would head a team of five governors, conducting hearings in late April and early May in Seattle, Wash., Albuquerque, N.M., an as-yet undesignated Midwestern city and Washington, D.C.

The stated aim is to secure grassroots sentiment on what form to be adopted at the Republican National Convention.

The hearings will end less than a month before the May 28 Oregon primary—a primary Rockefeller won in his unsuccessful bid for the 1964 nomination.

Gov. John H. Chafee of Rhode Island, head of the Republican Governors' Association, said Rockefeller would participate "not as a potential presidential candidate but as a member of the association's policy committee."

Rebel Demos Worry LBJ Forces

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Rebellious Democrats backing Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy for president are working to deal President Johnson an embarrassing political defeat on the Vice President's home ground two weeks from today. Administration loyalists frankly admit they're worried.

"The doves can conceivably take Minneapolis," said Richard Moe, state finance director of the Democratic Farmer Labor party. "It will be fairly close either way."

The vice president, said a pro-Humphrey leader, is "definitely concerned, for he considers Minneapolis to be home base." Humphrey began his political career as mayor of this city, McCarthy calls neighboring St. Paul home.

The confrontation will come March 5 at party precinct caucuses one week before McCarthy and the Johnson-Humphrey forces clash in the New Hampshire presidential primary.

In Minnesota, the precinct caucuses are the grass-roots starting point for selection of national convention delegates. From the precincts, delegates

Ag Station Office-Lab Dedication Wednesday

$125,000 Plant Open For View

Dedication ceremonies for the $125,000 office and laboratory building of the Central Florida Experiment Station will be held on Wednesday at 9:30 a.m. The new building is located on State Road 415 approximately 1.5 miles east of the city limits. After the dedication a tour of the building will be held.

A number of out-of-town guests and officials are expected to be present and the general public is invited to attend.

The new facility, the first of three buildings planned, will house all the staff and supporting personnel of the Central Florida Experiment Station. This station is a unit of the Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences of the University of Florida. It is a research unit serving vegetable growers in the Central Florida area. In addition to the Sanford facilities the station also operates a branch unit on the muck soil of Zellwood.

One of the two speakers scheduled to be on the program is Francis Branan, who was president of the Florida Agricultural Council when the Legislature approved construction of the facilities in 1965. The other speaker is Dr. John W. Sites, dean for research, Florida Agricultural Experiment Station, a division of the University of Florida's Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences.

After the dedication the Kwanza Club of Sanford will hold its regular luncheon meeting at the station and tour the building from 12:30 to 1 p.m. on the same date.

Field Day Scheduled Wednesday

Central Florida Agricultural Experiment Station will hold its annual Field Day on Wednesday at 1:30 p.m.

Growers and the general public are invited to attend. The Station is located on state road 415 approximately 1.5 miles east of the city limits of Sanford.

A resume will be presented of the research work conducted at the Station's Sanford and Zellwood farms, after which there will be a tour of the experimental plots on the Sanford farm.

Ball & Chain
DENVER, Colo. (AP) — By-standers immediately knew what Nancy Takata, 34, and Leonard Banks, 23, wanted when they walked into the office of the city clerk. Attached to Banks' ankle was a 40 pound ball and chain. Although it took only 20 minutes to get a marriage license it was more than an hour later before city employees succeeded in removing the binding chains which had been securely fastened by Banks' fellow workers.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — After being recommended by her parents, Letta Wilber announced she was running away from home.

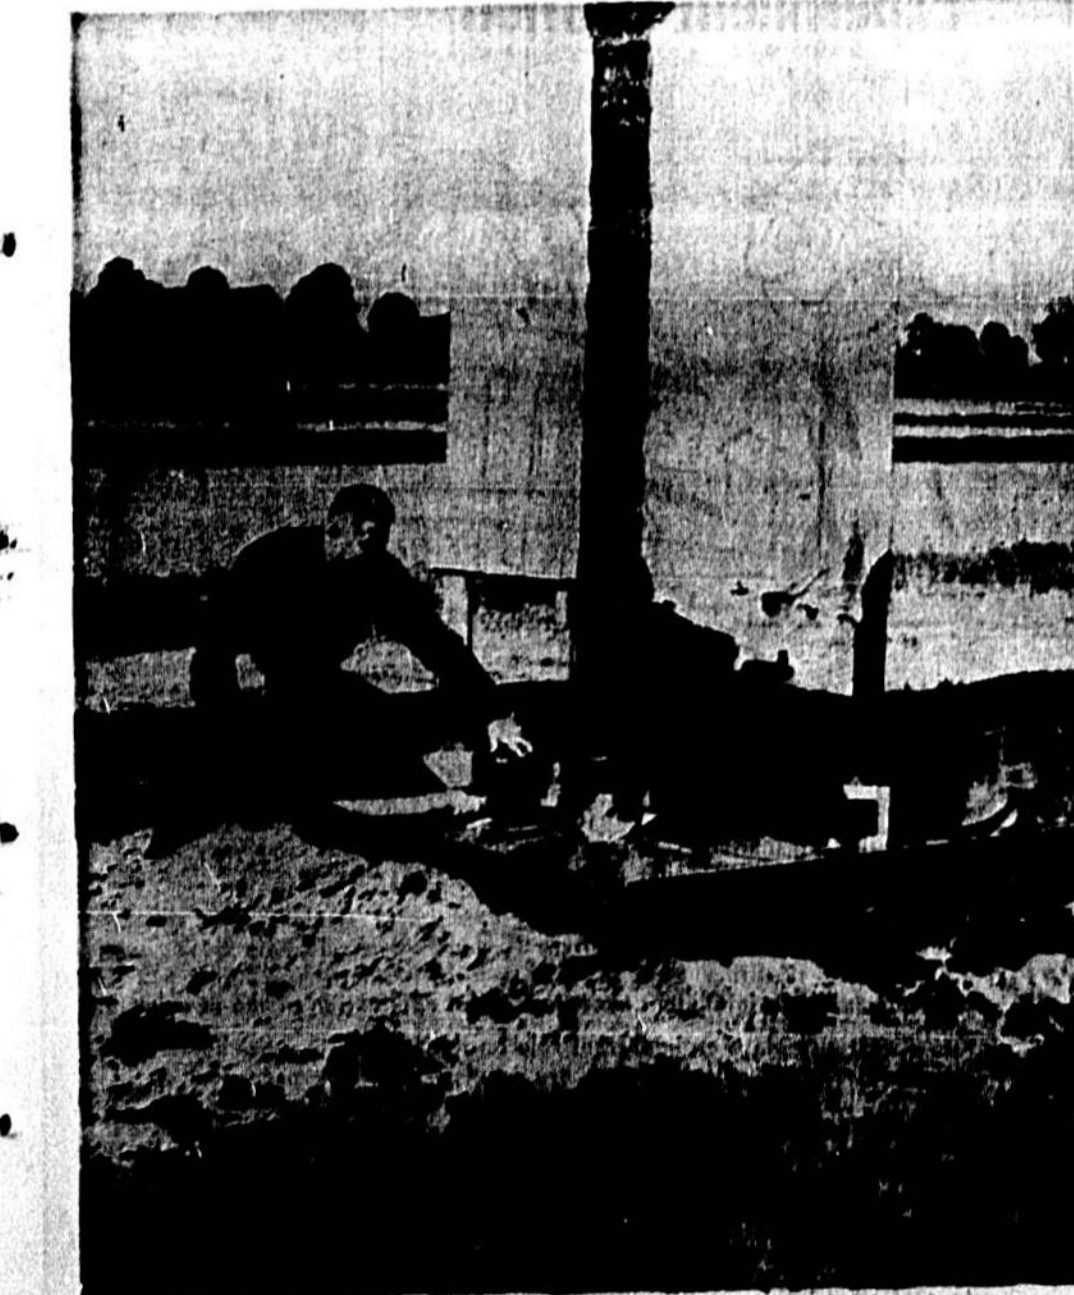

The four-year-old girl left but returned a few minutes later to answer a pertinent question.

Old makes fish thought but they are still hungry. Expressions of concern from some fish in water than in water.

Artesian Water Irrigates

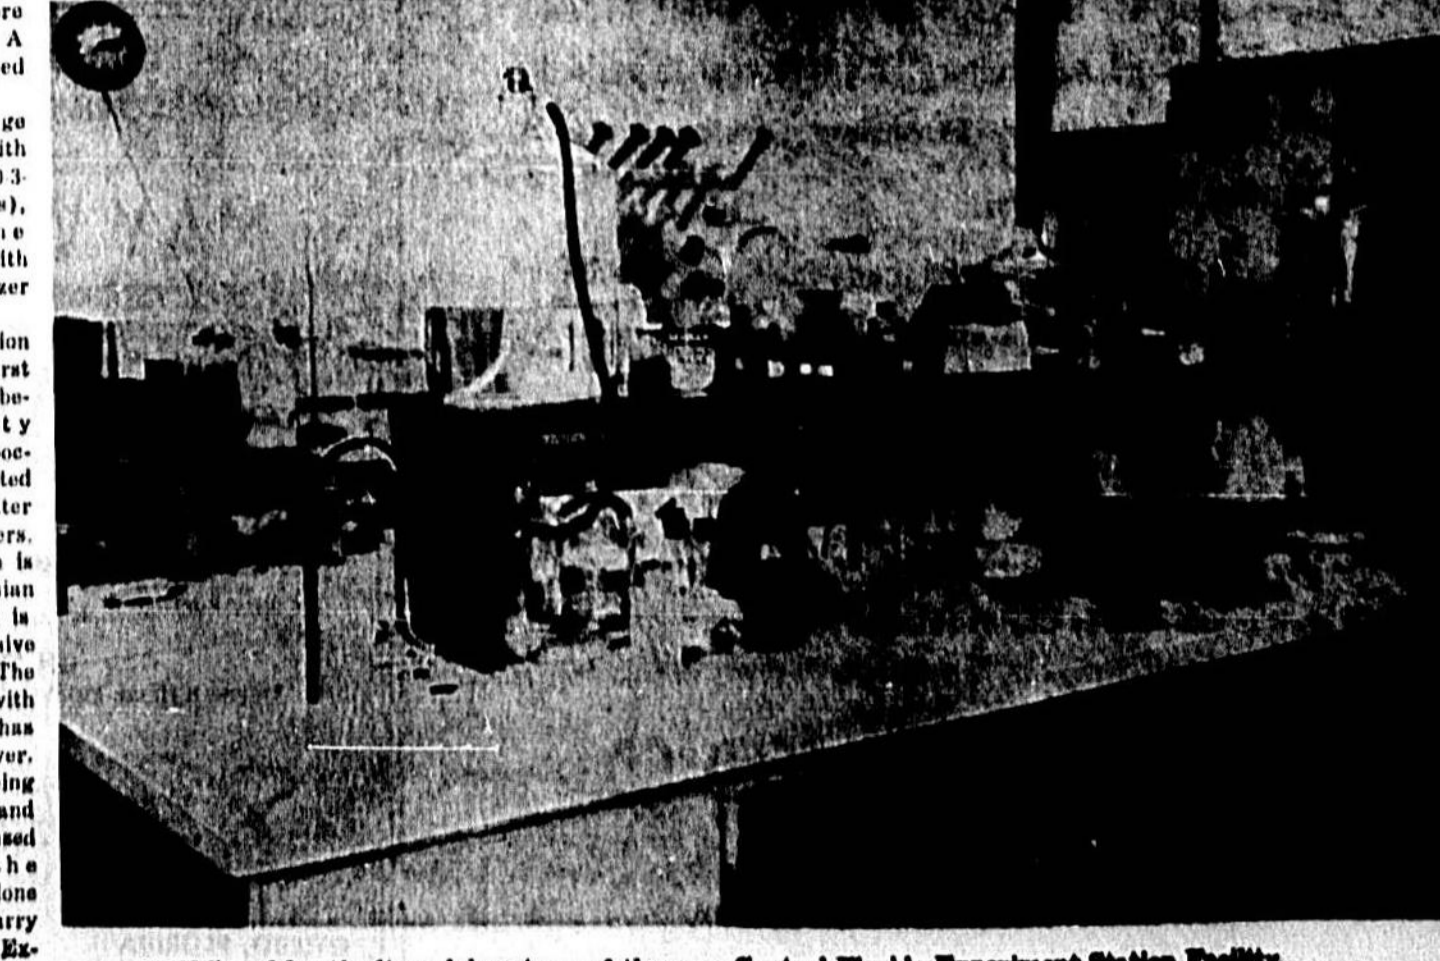

Sanford vegetable growers have long used artesian water for irrigating vegetable fields in the area. Artesian wells vary in their salinity and content. Artesian well waters contain various amounts of hydrogen sulphide, a toxic gas, which may be oxidized by aeration.

The 1965 Florida General Appropriation Bill gave Florida Agriculture its biggest financial boost in history.

It established the Institute of Food and Agricultural

School of Forestry.

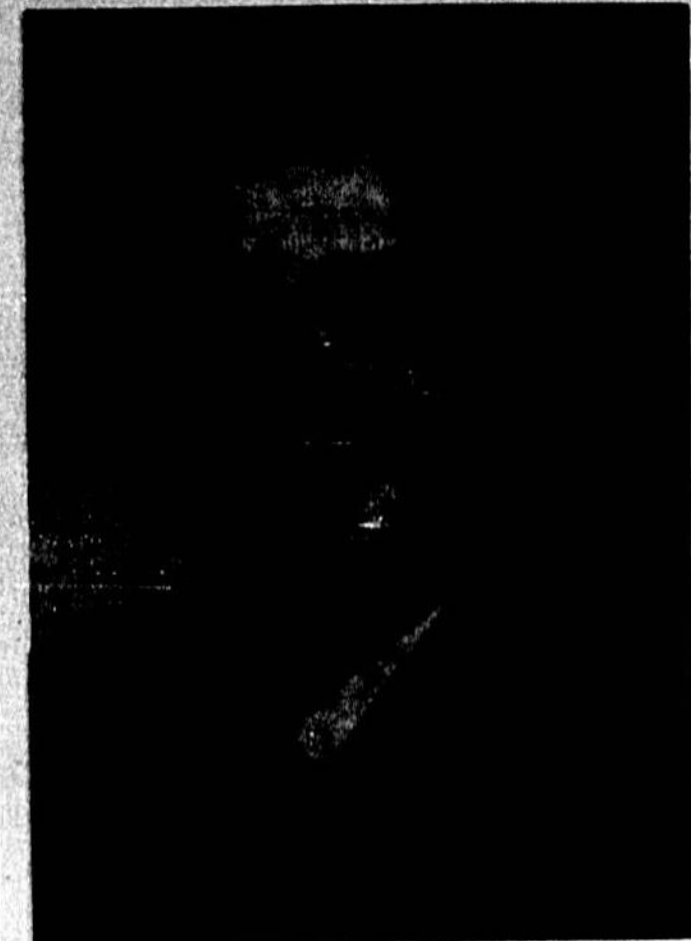

The appropriation provided funds for the expansion of

U of F Ag Gets $2.9 Million

GAINESVILLE (SPE) — A $2.9 million special supplemental appropriation for the University of Florida's Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences has become law with FRANCIS HRANAN, of Ocala, will take part in Wednesday's dedication program at Central Florida Experiment Station. As former president of the Florida Agricultural Council, he was instrumental in winning approval of the $2.94 million supplemental appropriation for the Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences, of the University of Florida.

out Governor Kirk's signature. The bill, passed last week by the special Legislative session, was the first higher education bill to clear all obstacles. Gov. Kirk was touring western stations at the time the appropriation became law at 11:01 A.M. Friday. He had previously vetoed a $1.7 million special appropriation for IFAS last fall.

The appropriation will supplement spending for agricultural research and extension programs of the University of Florida during the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1968. Included are research efforts at 21 branch Experiment Stations and all county Extension programs.

Senator Jerry Thomas (D-Palm Beach) introduced the IFAS bill and led the fight to its passage by a 41-8 vote in the Senate early last week. Senator Thomas also led previous successful efforts in the Legislature last year on the bill that was eventually vetoed at the time the appropriation became law at 11:01 A.M. Friday. He had previously vetoed a $1.7 million special appropriation for IFAS last fall.

"I am tremendously pleased," York said Friday morning when the news reached the University. "This constitutes a year of work by many, many people in efforts to get more adequate support for these programs which are essential for the further development of Florida's multi-billion dollar agricultural industry — the most important segment of the State's economy."

New Funds Alleviate Shortages

Dr. E. T. York Jr., provost for agriculture, University of Florida, who is in Sanford for the agriculture workshop today and the dedicatory program of the Central Florida Experiment Station in office and laboratory tomorrow, issued this statement today relative to the $2.94 million supplemental appropriation for the Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences, of the U of F:

We greatly appreciate the action by the Legislature in approving additional funds to alleviate a critical budgetary problem facing the Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences (IFAS) of the University of Florida. The supplemental appropriation, approved during the special session of the Legislature, will enable us to improve a competitive salary situation which has resulted in the loss of some of our top professional personnel in a two year period.

Machine Assists Weather

Sanford weather, south of Lake Monroe, tends to be mild with winter temperatures dropping below 32 degrees Fahrenheit only a few times during an average winter.

A combination of plastic mulches and a wind machine has been used in an attempt to grow cucumbers and tomatoes during mid-winter when prices are a box average.

On cold, still nights, ground temperatures may be several degrees colder than temperatures several feet above the ground.

The wind machine is an attempt to raise the ground temperatures by mixing the warm air of the upper layers with the cooler air nearer the ground.

The wind machine can do no good on a cold windy night when there is no inversion layer of warmer air.

This experiment is being done in cooperation with Chase and Company, and FMC Corporation.

As a member of Florida's Agricultural Industry, we share in your delight in dedicating this new building.

A salute and welcome to the new Central Florida Experiment Station

Florida agriculture is a big and growing business. Last year it passed the one billion dollar mark.

Thanks to the work of Florida's experiment stations, almost everything in the state's agriculture is done on a scientific basis. Farmers are profiting through their use of modern-day farming methods and their intelligent acceptance and application of the new.

Electricity plays an important role on the farm, as in your home and business. Successful farmers are moving from brown to black, from kerosene to kerosene. The one-knob electric switch is coming down on kerosene and helping to increase productivity.

WE are planning to make sure that now, and in the future, the Company's customers have all the best-priced electricity they will ever need.

P. S. By the way, Central Florida Experiment Station has 21 tons of electric air conditioning.

Mechanical Shakers Harvest On Commercial Basis

SANFORD, FLORIDA

By ED FISHER (In the Fasher)
LAKE ALFRED — Two tree shaker harvesters have now been used successfully in Florida to harvest citrus fruit on a commercial basis from tall or high yielding early and mid-season citrus trees. Since 1955 when the first prototype tree shaker was built, Florida agricultural engineers at the Citrus Experiment Station have been at work trying to develop a commercially acceptable machine to remove the fruit headed for the processing plants.

Up until now, though, the tree shaking tests have been on a limited scale and under controlled grove conditions. As a result, the citrus industry as a whole has been reluctant to accept the shaker approach without further tests. By the same token, machine manufacturers have not been interested in developing the necessary equipment.

All of this may change. Even though grove tests have been somewhat lousy of devices which shake a tree to remove its fruit, there's a growing feeling in some circles that the citrus people soon may not be able to afford to be too cautious.

One of the reasons is that bigger yields obviously are in the works. Only freezes, hurricanes and the like can change this and nobody's looking for a disaster to solve problems. Besides, the lower yields that would occur would only be temporary. Big yields will normally bring about lower prices too. Again growers are faced with the old supply and demand problem. However, growers are hopeful a chemical fruit loosener will be developed. Such a chemical would certainly speed the acceptance of mechanical harvest systems.

Some citrus people now are saying the growers, in order to be realistic, are going to have to get used to the idea of leaving some fruit on the trees if for no other reason than their inability to get it all off because of the lack of labor.

One of the systems being used by the engineers in research has two catching frames, each equipped with an individual tree shaker mechanism. The other harvester is a tractor-mounted shaker that is used along with a hand pick-up crew.

According to G. E. Coppock at the citrus research facility, the system using the catching frames to collect fruit harvests 10 trees an hour with a three-man crew. This figure is out at 1.5 acres per 10-hour day. With the same number of people following today's hand harvesting methods, only one-third of an acre can be handled. The tractor rig along with its pick-up crew of six men harvested 6.3 trees an hour. Fruit removal for both devices was 90 to 95 per cent, and just as important, the harvesting costs were below that of the hand harvesting methods now being employed, Coppock said.

Dear Dr. Darby:

For more than twenty six years I have had the privilege of serving the agricultural interests of Seminole and our neighboring counties.

During all this time some of my most profitable hours have been spent in consultation with you and the other staff members of the Central Florida Experiment Station.

These hours and years have been like post-graduate work for me because you have helped me keep up to date on the latest agricultural know-how.

May I take this opportunity to say "Thank You" to you, your staff and the entire station crew, for all the help you have given me, my company and, through us, the customers we serve.

May I also note that your new facilities stand as proof of the recognition, at the state level, of the excellent work you are doing to improve agriculture in Central Florida.

Congratulations and best wishes for your continued success in the years ahead.

'Cop' Halts Wrong Car

CHICAGO (AP) — Detective John Manley was driving an unmarked police car Sunday when an auto with flashing red lights and blaring siren pulled up behind him and signaled him to the curb.

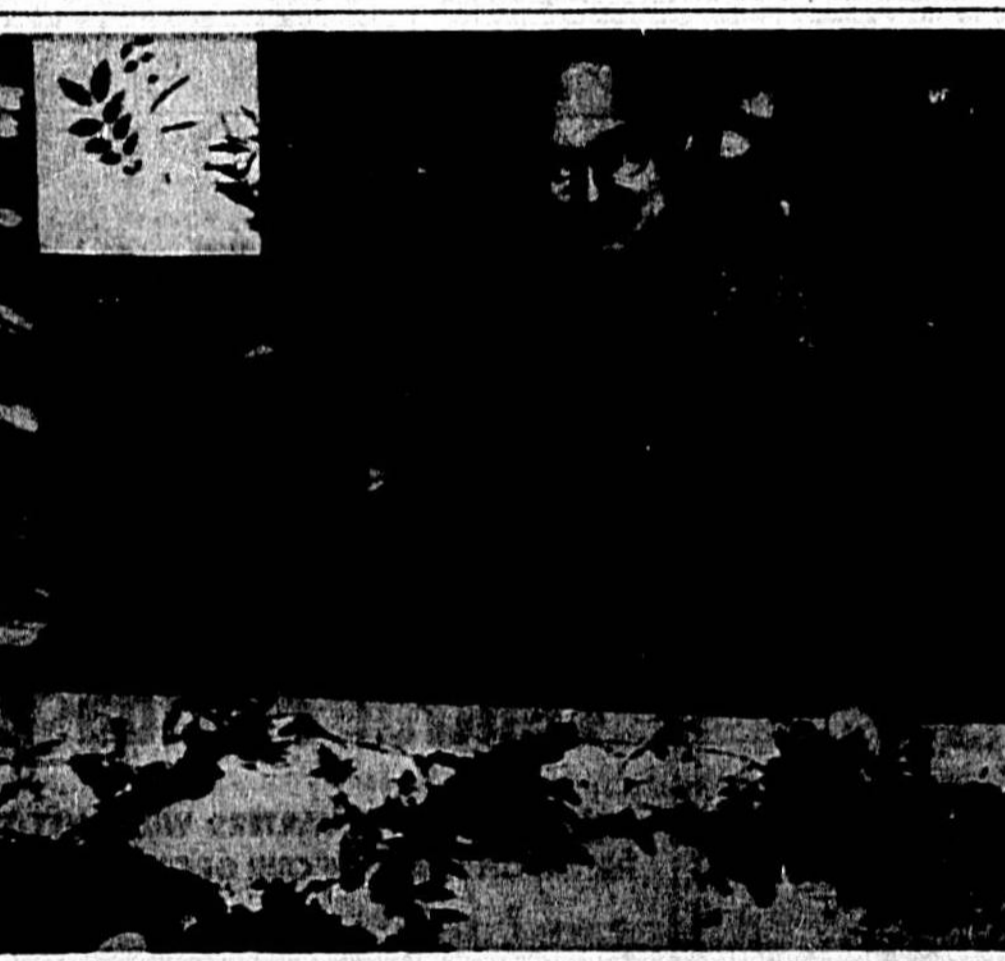

Manley said the driver of the car, Edward J. Cooper of Chicago, got out and approached him flashing a gold Tennessee state-issued badge.

"He told me he was a police officer," Manley said. "So I told him that's a coincidence, so am I."

Cooper, 35, was charged with impersonating an officer, simulating the legal process, driving a vehicle equipped with a siren and driving without Illinois license plates or a city sticker. He was released on $1,000 bond.

'Black Speck' Plagues Cabbage Growers

The disease of winter cabbage known as "Black Speck" continues to cause substantial losses to growers in Florida. The cause of Black Speck is not entirely known at this time. However, a thorough knowledge of the cause will be necessary if economical methods for disease control are to be found. For this reason, research to determine the factors which cause black specking remains a primary concern.

Black Speck appears as numerous, dark spots on the interior leaves of the cabbage head. The leaves look as though black pepper had been sprinkled on them. These symptoms have given rise to another popular name: "Pepper Spot". The spots may be present on the cabbage at harvest time but, upon cooking, become visible. Other than the cabbage, the spots have been found on lettuce, cauliflower, and Brussels sprouts. Each necrotic area is associated with one or more stomata, the tiny "breathing pores" present on the leaves and stems of plants. The two guard cells of the stomata which are directly responsible for the opening and closing of these pores, are killed first. Then the subsidiary or adjacent epidermal cells are killed. This is followed by the death of the mesophyll cells lining the sub-stomatal chamber, which is in the interior of the leaf directly beneath the stomata.

In addition to their role in gas exchange between the leaf and the atmosphere, stomata can secrete or guttate water. This guttation fluid may be seen on faller cabbage leaves under conditions of high humidity in the form of tiny droplets. They are much more abundant on leaves in the interior of the cabbage head and may be found there at any time during growth or post-harvest storage. Guttation fluid is not pure water but contains many salts, sugars, amino and organic acids in solution. Under conditions of low soil or atmospheric moisture, the plant may re-absorb part of this fluid via the stomata. It is proposed that the solutes become concentrated in the guttation fluid until levels are reached which are toxic to the plant cells. This phenomenon may be intensified by the large quantities of water taken up by plants as a direct result of their presence in large concentrations in many of our Florida soils and ground water. Copper has been implicated and we have produced Black Speck symptoms in the laboratory by placing solutions of sodium phosphate and other salts on pieces of cabbage leaves. It is probable that no single element or compound is entirely to blame. Further experiments at this station have shown that initial cell damage occurs in the field and that tissue darkening is brought about by storage of the cue heads, especially at cool temperatures. This may complicate disease control through regulation of storage conditions.

Other possibilities for disease control are through varietal resistance and soil management or amendments. Both are being explored at present. It is known that resistance to Black Speck is inherited. The genetics of resistance are being investigated in cooperation with Dr. F. C. Williams of the University of Wisconsin. Until the genetics of resistance are known and specific breeding programs are initiated, we must continue to evaluate available commercial varieties for tolerance to Black Speck.

Ninety-two lines of cabbage are being evaluated this season. Some lines showing tolerance last season were severely speckled this season. Preliminary results for those varieties in Trial No. 1 are included with this report. An estimated 23 million Americans now own stocks in one or more companies.

The dog came back to the home of James Goodwin after Goodwin had given his faithful companion to Archie Moore, both men live on Route 1, Poca. Goodwin started driving the dog back to Moore's home and, at the top of a hill, Goodwin's car met head on one carrying Moore and his nephew. Goodwin suffered a fractured skull. Food, Ag Institute Aids $4 Billion Agri-Industry

The Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences (IFAS) at the University of Florida in Gainesville was organized four years ago to provide better agricultural research to the state's $4 billion agricultural industry.

It includes all of the University's agricultural programs — the College of Agriculture, the Agricultural Experiment Station, the Agricultural Extension Service and the School of Forestry.

Part of the Station system is located here at Sanford and dedication ceremonies will be held Wednesday at 9:30 a. m. for a new building at the Central Florida Experiment Station on Celery Avenue.

Dr. E. T. York Jr., provost of the Institute, coordinates the function of the vast, statewide agricultural educational complex serving the state's multi-billion dollar agricultural industry. On-campus teaching and research are carried out on more than 1,100 acres of farm land next to the main campus; 1,170 acres in the Dairy Research Unit at Lake; 640 acres at the Beef Research Unit north of Gainesville; 200 acres in the Horticultural Unit west of the city; and the 2,053-acre Austin Cary Memorial Forest near Waldo.

As part of IFAS, county and home economics agents in 66 of the state's 67 counties work with residents of the counties. They are also leaders of both young and adult educational programs in practically every community in the state.

Because of the subtropical conditions of Florida, a Center for Tropical Agriculture has been created to fill a unique national and international role.

Persons everywhere have become aware of the growing problem of supplying food for the hungry people of the world. Because of this food problem, the agricultural industry in Florida and elsewhere faces a period of growth. This means increased demands for highly-skilled persons. As a result, IFAS student enrollment has increased about 100 per cent just since 1960.

A recent study of men and women graduated from the University of Florida in the College of Agriculture from 1959 to 1963 indicates average starting salaries of nearly $6,000 a year for those holding bachelor's degrees, while starting levels for those with doctorate degrees are as high as $12,000 annually.

While basic research programs are carried out in all major agricultural sciences, the Agricultural Experiment Station operates a unique system of off-campus branches to carry on applied research for the benefit of the particular area where the facility is located.

The Central Florida Experiment Station here at Sanford, formerly called the Celery Investigations Laboratory, was established by the Florida Legislature in 1933. Its job was to develop a control for cracked stem in celery, a serious threat to profitable celery production.

By 1935, research had found that a shortage of boron in Central Florida sandy soils caused cracked stem and that applications of 10 pounds of borax an acre would prevent the development of boron deficiency symptoms in celery. Other products of the fast-growing vegetable department include cabbage, sweet corn, lettuce and escarole — grown, packed and shipped utilizing new methods and equipment.

The Citrus Department of Chase controls over 2,000 acres of producing groves. The operation ranges from nursery growing of young trees to comprehensive marketing activities throughout the United States, Canada and Europe.

Since 1894 Chase & Company has helped Central Florida grow. No wonder we're called the growing company.

Farm Workers Face Competition

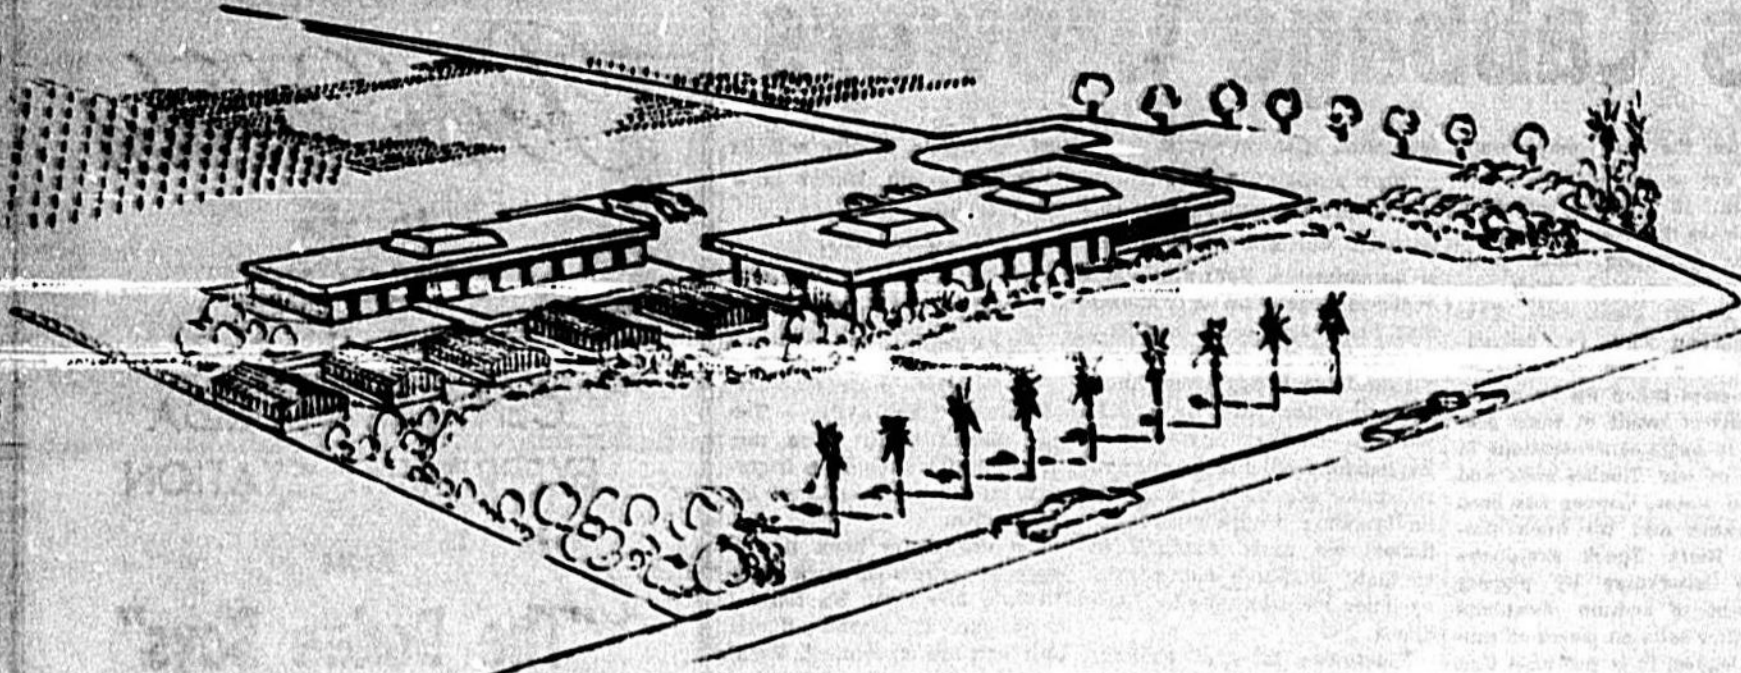

(From The Packer)
GAINESVILLE — Nearly a third of the farm workers employed under the federal minimum wage law are migrant, many of whom help in the production and harvest of Florida's $100-million dollar vegetable crop. Most of them can expect some stiff job competition in future years, not so much from other workers, but from the rapid increase in the mechanization of the production and harvesting operations.

Two points are clear from the start regarding mechanization: Growers are not able to create enough jobs to get their crops produced and packed and are at the mercy of a fading and more choosy labor force. Machines are one of the answers to this problem. Second, anyone wanting to be realistic about the situation must agree that higher wages are jolting growers toward greater mechanization and automated systems of one form or another in order to survive.

However, they also face some problems with the machines themselves. Even should a grower want to mechanize more completely, he may not be able to because of the lack of commercially available equipment that's tried and tested and ready to do the job.

Ag Zoning Board Created By Law

By CHAS. A. WICKER, II
County Agricultural Agent

Every farmer, grower and producer in Seminole County by now should have received from the Tax Assessor's office a copy of the new law which makes a zoning board a legal entity for the purpose of zoning agricultural or non-agricultural lands in the county. This was the law passed by the legislature and signed by the Governor on March 1, 1968.

The new law creates a County Agricultural Zoning Board which will be composed of the County Commissioner as voting members, and the County Tax Assessor and County Agricultural Agent as non-voting members.

The board shall be organized by the County Commissioner and shall hold its first meeting on or before the 30th day of March, 1968.

The board shall have the following powers and duties:

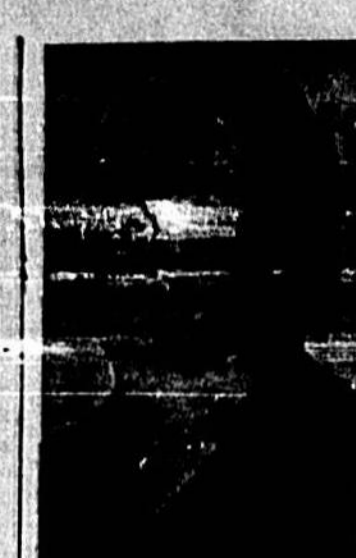

1. To receive and review all applications for zoning changes and to recommend to the County Commissioner whether or not such changes should be granted.
2. To receive and review all applications for zoning changes and to recommend to the County Commissioner whether or not such changes should be granted.

Parents Oppose Closing

By MARJORIE GREEN

Schools in Seminole County will be closed until Monday. The Seminole County School Board decided that more time was needed to work with substitute teachers to provide the best possible teaching program.

The decision was reached after a heated discussion between the board, parents and secondary school principals.

The principals presented the board with a resolution that the schools should be closed until qualified people could be found to teach. The principals stated that the decision by a unanimous vote.

"Government cannot step due to crisis," said John Evans, assistant school board chairman. "Part of our charge is to provide the best possible teaching program. The decision was reached after a heated discussion between the board, parents and secondary school principals."

Honor Contracts, Teachers Advised

State Attorney Domick Salft put to rest rumors which ran rampant today by declaring, "There is no indication at the present time that Gov. Claude Kirk intends to include the City of Sanford in his present itinerary."

Honor that the Governor intended to visit the FEA (Florida Education Association) meeting at the Civic Center had raced through the crowd of teachers without attending the event. "The Governor may come, but it is not expected," Salft stated.

The young state attorney issued "a plea to all of the teachers who are still on the job and honoring their contracts. In the event they are contacted and in any way influenced, enticed or intimidated to walk out or otherwise breach their contracts," Salft said, "I urge that they immediately contact my office and report such incidents. I want to make it clear that injunction order being served in no way prevents discussion but only prevents a calculating design on the part of the FEA members to bring whatever pressure they may have to bear upon those teachers who are faithfully performing their legal and moral obligations." Salft stated.

The mass teacher rally in Sanford on Wednesday afternoon, approximately 25 more restraining orders being issued by Judge Ben Willis of Leon County.

Peter Huker, Sanford Junior High School, received his restraining order at 10:05 a. m. from Deputies Ken Roberts and J. R. Jenkins of the Seminole County Sheriff's Department.

The Florida Education Association's field representative from Orlando, C. G. Corbett told the teachers things must be restrained from speaking.

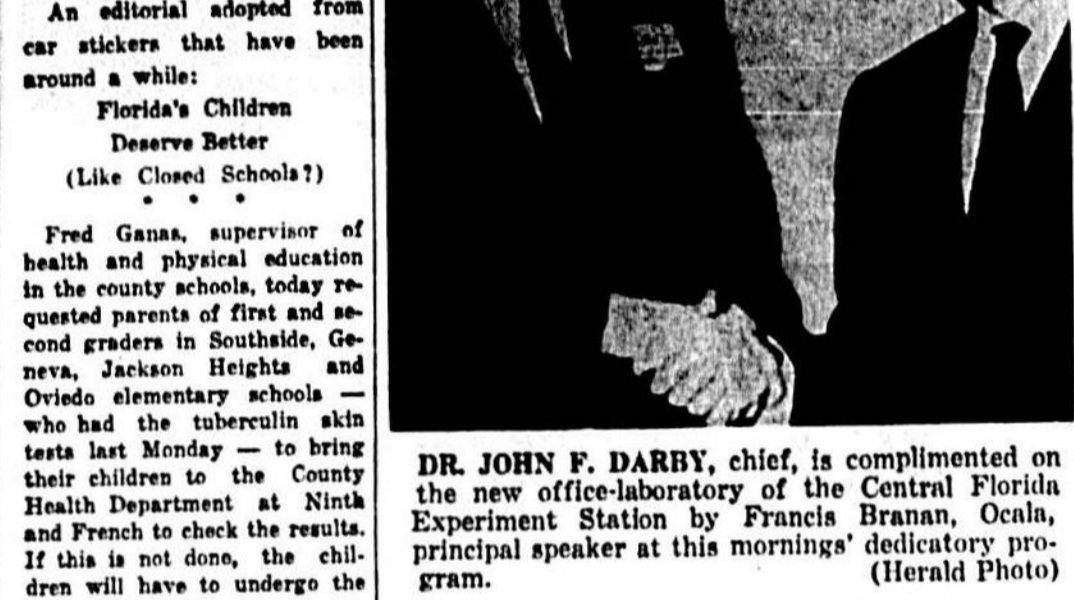

"We will be out until the unions are adequately funded," Corbett stated. "Others are with us—we're not alone."

The teachers were told that the FEA was concerned about the children and about the Legislature passing a bill that "anyone could go into the classroom and teach."

"They would have you believe that only a few of us have left the job," Corbett said. "The Legislature was for tax relief first and education second."

The teachers were told that the people in the 30 states were supporting them.

"Those here believe Florida's children deserve better," Corbett said. "We will win because right always triumphs."

'Will Go On' - Petree

Reports are untrue that striking teachers are being paid their salaries during this school year. School officials said teachers who have not resigned are being paid, it was said, but those who submitted resignations have been removed from the payroll. Question: Then why are extra funds needed to pay "fate" teachers?

Remember it was suggested here last week that a "Gray Flannel Auxiliary" could be formed to aid the Pink Ladies and Candy strippers at Seminole Memorial Hospital? That is, men with time on their hands could help out. Well — The Herald's Mrs. H. L. Johnson reports there was a "Gray Flannel" here at one time.

Rummage sale plans will be finalized by SISTERS at a meeting Thursday noon at the Hof Brauhaus.

Grand jury called for first week in March. Will probe two murder cases. B. E. Porter hearing nothing of a political nature will be taken up at this time.

A strong (smalling) point in favor of the teachers' demands for more pay — and that is the garbage men's strike in New York City. We have nothing against garbage men — they are necessary and here in Sanford do an excellent job. But the striking teachers are asking for LESS pay than the striking NYC garbage men received BEFORE their strike for higher pay. It takes a lot more training to be a teacher than a garbage man. But then — it takes a lot stronger back to be a garbage man than a teacher.

Andrew Nichols, president of Seminole County Future Farmers of America, was honored at the Florida State Fair. His year-old Guernsey cow won grand champion female in the FFA division and he placed fifth in the open show with the animal.

Seminole County mothers collected $14,431 for this year's March of Dimes. Goal report issued by Mrs. Arva Barnes, chairman states. Mrs. Barnes, in making her report, publicly expressed her appreciation to "each of the many ladies who gave of their time to help in the fight against birth defects."

Grand Jury Sits Mar. 4

By DONNA ESTES

Date for impaneling of the grand jury in Seminole County is March 4—only 12 days away—Circuit Judge Volle Williams told The Herald.

Persons selected to serve on the Grand Jury must be known to be law-abiding citizens of integrity, good character, sound judgment, and intelligence and not be physically or mentally infirm. Members of the jury may be either male or female, over 21 years of age, citizens of this state for one year, residents of the county for six months, qualified electors and have never been convicted of a felony.

The grand jury has the right to investigate activities within the county and to hear charges against individuals. It is a means not only of bringing to trial persons accused of public offenses on just grounds, but also of protecting citizens against unfounded accusations whether they come from the government or "are prompted by partisan passion or private enmity."

According to law, no person "shall be tried for a capital crime (murder, rape, etc.) unless on indictment brought by a grand jury." One of the few ways the citizens have of removing a corrupt official from office, other than at the ballot box, is by way of a grand jury. It has the power to investigate and to bring charges against public officials.

The research further revealed that any citizen, after following certain procedures, can appear before the grand jury to give information to aid the body. The grand jury does not try individuals and it cannot establish anyone's character. Absolute secrecy of the actions of the jury is maintained.

Teachers Will Go To Highest Court

Robert Petree, attorney for the Seminole County Education Association, today pledged to carry case of the resigned teachers to the United States Supreme Court, if necessary, to vindicate their rights, Petree concluded.

"As an officer of the court, I do not think it appropriate to comment on pending litigation," Petree said. "As an individual, however, my sympathies are 100 per cent behind the courageous teachers who are not in their classrooms."

"As a parent, I believe these are the real educators, the real persons concerned with better education in Florida," Petree declared.

"I deplore any efforts to restrict their rights of free speech as guaranteed by the first amendment to the Constitution of the United States."

"I sincerely hope that matters have not reached the state in this country in which involuntary servitude and lack of free speech can be enforced by any local government."

"Speaking as attorney for the local FEA, I have assured the affected parties that I will carry their case to the United States Supreme Court, if necessary, to vindicate their rights," Petree concluded.

'Action' Without Funds

Money of the organization had been expended with about $10 remaining in the bank and payroll tax of $22 remaining to be paid. He was instructed by the president to write no further checks and incur no further obligations.

Petree said the group faced several alternatives: To fold the program and quit; to solicit a loan from a local bank in anticipation of the administrative grant being funded again by the government; to determine which of the members of the administrative staff are financially able to remain without salary temporarily, or to aid staff members in obtaining personal loans to tide them over. The president discouraged obtaining a loan in anticipation of the grant.

Three Men Injured In Auto Accidents

Three men were injured in a series of accidents which occurred in Seminole County last evening and early this morning, police and sheriff's department reported.

Two men had been drag racing just before their car hit a utility pole at 25th Street and Park Avenue, police said. The accident occurred about 8:30 p.m.

Jimmy Henderson, 24, of 619 Palmtoe Avenue, was admitted to the Florida Sanitarium Hospital and placed in the intensive care unit. His condition is listed as "fair."

Robert Overbay, 25, of Rt. 2, Sanford, was admitted to Seminole Memorial Hospital and is listed in "good" condition.

A Sanford Naval Academy youth, Wayne Holloway, 16, of Geneva, was slightly injured in an accident on Highway 46 at 7:30 a.m. this morning. The Holloway car swerved to miss a car driven by Eddie Lewis Williams, of Sanford, and hit a pulpwood truck driven by Willie T. Wright, of Sanford. Williams was charged with failure to yield the right-of-way by Trooper Jerry Hawthorne, of the Highway Patrol.
